The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center will have an opportunity to draw national attention to the museum and the community of Hereford on Thanksgiving Day during the 65th annual Macy's Parade.

The Cowgirl Hall of Fame announced Thursday morning at the C of C Fun Breakfast that Macy's has accepted CHOF's entry in the huge parade.

Country western singing star Holly Dunn and CHOF honorees will be featured in the float entry. This year's entry will be simple, according to Margaret Formby, CHOF executive director. It will consist of a flatbed trailer with Christmas decorations, pulled by a team of horses. Six honorees will ride the float and five honorees and Mrs. Formby will serve as outriders. Two honoree trick ropers will alternately perform during the parade.

Roger Eades, CHOF president, said the board views the venture as an opportunity to gain national media attention to the Hall of Fame and to Hereford and Deaf Smith County. "We would like to see a large number of people from Hereford travel to New York to participate in this event." He added that fund-raising activities will be held to help defray expenses for the entry. Equipment and horses will be rented.

Mrs. Formby also announced that the Cowgirl Restaurant will host all Hereford and area people who make the trip to a Thanksgiving dinner at the restaurant. The restaurant has a licensing agreement with the CHOF for use of its trademark and copyrights for the restaurant's decor and promotions. A Hereford delegation was on hand for the restaurant's opening in 1989.

Local citizens interested in making the trip can check with the Hall of Fame or Hereford Travel Center. Special airline rates are available and more information on hotel reservations are forthcoming.

Earl Stagner wins Bull Chip

Long-time Hereford car dealer Earl Stagner received the Bull Chip Award at this morning's Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast at the Hereford Community Center.

The breakfast was sponsored by Hereford's new car dealers: Hereford Buick-Pontiac-GMC, Stevens Chevrolet-Oldsmobile, and Whiteface Ford-Lincoln-Mercury. John Stagner of Hereford Buick announced the dealership has purchased the Chrysler-Plymouth-Dodge dealership from Whiteface, and will be adding Jeep-Eagle to the line.

Earl Stagner, who was raised in the Easter and Sunnyside communities, was honored for his many years of service to projects in Hereford. Hereford Brand Publisher Speedy Nieman, who presented the Bull Chip Award, said that Stagner has been active in helping with many chamber projects, especially with industrial and new business prospects that visit Hereford.

"He was hustling for Hereford long before we adopted the 'Hustle Hereford' slogan," Nieman said.

Also honored this morning was Tracy Minson of Park Avenue Bowl. Minson was given a Business Achievement Award by Hereford Mayor Tom LeGate, honoring Minson and his wife, Glenda, for bringing the bowling and entertainment center to Hereford two years ago.

"I've never met two people who have worked any harder to bring a business to Hereford," LeGate said of the Minsons. "We appreciate the many hard hours you and Glenda have spent to bring a family entertainment center to Hereford."

Another highlight of the breakfast was the announcement by the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, assisted by the Brand and KPAN, that the CHOF would have a float in this year's Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City. (See separate story on the announcement.)

Also honored this morning was Rick McCracken of Hereford, who won the first Steak Eating Contest sponsored by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce during Old West Days in Amarillo.

Jerry Stevens of Stevens Chevrolet, J.L. Marcum of Hereford Buick and Gary Hinkle of Whiteface introduced their staff members that attended the breakfast. The dealers also had displays of new cars outside the Community Center for breakfast-goers to see, and provided brochures and gave away money and merchandise to persons whose names were drawn. Several meals from McDonalds were also given away at the breakfast.

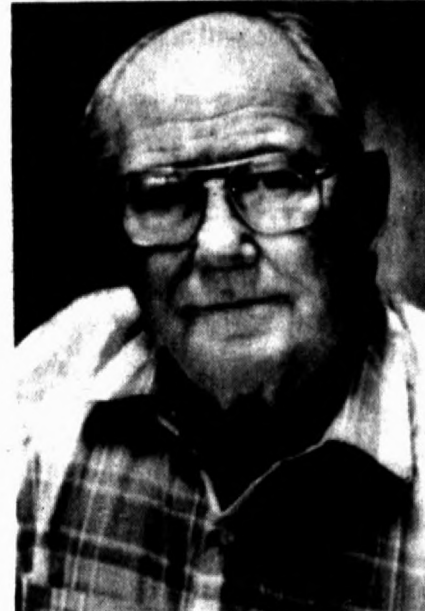

Special entertainment for the breakfast was provided by "Flashback," which includes James Maclasky, Don Summersgill, Mike Bryant and Joe D. Rogers.

Several announcements were made at the breakfast, including:

--The annual Hereford Lions Club Garage Sale will be held Saturday, beginning at 7 a.m., at the old service station at the corner of Park and 25 Mile Ave.

--The Women's Division's quarterly meeting will be held Oct. 17 at 7 p.m., with a program on fitness by Kim Buckley.

--A special seminar on compliance with the new Americans With Disabilities Act will be held at 7 p.m.

EARL STAGNER

...Bull Chip Award winner on Oct. 15 at the Community Center.

--The Junior Class will sponsor a soft taco supper on Oct. 4, 5-7 p.m., at the Hereford Junior High School cafeteria, with tickets available for $3.50 per person.

--The Hereford Key Club will host its annual golf tournament, benefiting the Hereford Senior Citizens Association and Big Brothers/Big Sisters, on Oct. 12. The Key Club will be holding a car wash the same day at the golf course, and will also sponsor a car wash this Saturday.

Mike Carr, executive vice president of the chamber, introduced new chamber members and several out-of-town visitors.

Allen Parson's name was drawn for a $200 giveaway, but he was not present at the breakfast. The chamber will give away $250 at the annual Christmas fun breakfast on Nov. 21.

Rives gives DSGH update

Ron Rives, interim administrator at Deaf Smith General Hospital, gave an update Wednesday to the Hereford Lions Club on the hospital's transition into the Lubbock Methodist Hospital regional system.

DSGH is one of 15 hospitals in the Methodist system, which was started two years ago when LMH took over management of the Floydada hospital.

"We came to Hereford for two reasons," Rives said. "We want to secure a portion of the market share, if we can, but that is not important. What is more important is to give back to rural communities and hospitals what they have given to Lubbock Methodist Hospital."

"Our priority is to let you keep your hospital. We are not here to fix things up and leave. We hope we can build a relationship with the community, the board and physicians so we can be here 10 years from now. We would like to guide the hospital into the year 2000 and beyond. We want to enhance the services that are here, add services and stabilize the overall operation of the hospital."

Rives urged the Lions to support DSGH and not take the hospital for granted. "If we take the hospital for granted, we could wake up one day and it will be closed."

Also a part of the program was Bill Holland, executive director of Aero Care, which is also affiliated with LMH.

2 ruled as adults

Two teenaged youths, accused of breaking into Hereford High School and causing damages estimated at $4,000, have been certified as adults and charged with felony criminal mischief.

The case will be presented to the session of the Deaf Smith County grand jury, scheduled Oct. 17, for action.

The juveniles, ages 16 and 17, were arrested on Aug. 31 by Hereford police officers.

In action Tuesday, the Deaf Smith County Juvenile Court waived jurisdiction over the youths, ruling on a motion filed Sept. 6 by the Deaf Smith County criminal district attorney.

After their arrest, the two were detained at Lubbock County Youth Center until they were returned to Hereford to appear in Juvenile Court.

The youths are free, pending grand jury action.

Iraq offers deal to UN

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - Facing increasing pressure from the United States and its Persian Gulf War allies, Baghdad has offered to free U.N. arms inspectors if they catalogue documents they took from the files of Iraq's nuclear program.

As of this afternoon Baghdad time, however, there was no official announcement of an end to the 3-day-old siege of the 44-member U.N. team by scores of President Saddam Hussein's soldiers. "Nothing has changed," the team leader, David Kay, told The Associated Press.

The Iraqi offer came in a letter Wednesday from Iraqi Ambassador Abdul Amir al-Anbari to Security Council President Jean-Bernard Merimec, the French ambassador.

British Ambassador Sir David Hannay told reporters that based on the letter "it appears as if a settlement has been reached on the release of the U.N. inspectors."

A U.N. translation of Iraq's letter concerning the inspectors asked the chief U.N. weapons official, Rolf Ekeus, to go to Baghdad to work out the details "of remedying the current situation."

If Ekeus does not go to Baghdad in 48 hours, "the Iraqi authorities insist that the Iraqi side and the inspection team jointly draw up a record of all the documents and photographs taken by the team before the team is authorized to remove anything from the site."

Kay said today that he could not comment on the Iraqi letter, but that he remained optimistic. "I would be more than happy to go back into the building and finish the inventory," he said in a satellite-telephone interview early this afternoon.

Earlier today, he said the team's morale was good. "Everyone's up, moving around," he said. "Sleeping on pavement isn't exactly normal for most of us," but he added: "We have adequate food and water being delivered" by other members of the U.N. team who were not detained.

The inspectors have been camped in a bus and six cars outside the Iraqi Atomic Energy Commission building

"Everyone's up, moving around. Sleeping on pavement isn't exactly normal for most of us. We have adequate food and water."

--David Kay, team leader

since Tuesday, when Iraqi authorities demanded they surrender documents detailing the country's secret nuclear weapons program.

Kay said the documents were secured in one of the cars "in the center of our little circle."

The siege has been the most serious in a series of conflicts between Iraq and U.N. inspectors trying to determine the extent of Iraq's weapons programs.

The Security Council is attempting to force Iraq to comply with the Gulf War cease-fire resolution, which orders Baghdad to destroy its weapons of mass destruction and desist from building or acquiring new ones. The council has insisted that the inspectors be released and warned Iraq of the consequences, as have U.S. officials.

The United States on Wednesday began moving Patriot anti-missile units to the Persian Gulf in case the Security Council orders military escorts for U.N. teams searching Iraq.

Washington says it already has authority "to do whatever needs to be done" to protect the U.N. inspectors, both those detained in Baghdad and on future helicopter surveillance tours.

Iraq gave the Security Council written assurance Tuesday that it would no longer interfere with search flights by U.N. helicopters - another demand of the United Nations that Iraq bowed to after much obstruction.

Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the documents discovered by the inspectors contain "gold mines" of data proving Iraq lied in its repeated denials that it has a nuclear weapons program.

Kay said the documents gave "a very complete description of their nuclear program."

Sandies ban Homecoming mums

AMARILLO (AP) - A controversial decision to ban the wearing of homecoming mums to school has brought an end to a tradition at Amarillo High School.

Amarillo High School Principal David Cargill says he made the decision because in years past girls who did not receive mums from their dates called in sick instead of attending school the Friday before homecoming.

Although mums will be banned during school Oct. 4, girls can still wear their mums to homecoming festivities that evening and to the homecoming game Saturday.

Amarillo High School is the only high school in Amarillo that banned mums from the classroom, Cargill said Wednesday.

In several Texas schools, mums are a homecoming dating ritual. The flowers are often sold to students as a fund-raising project. Amarillo florists said the cost of mums ranges from $8 to $10. The more decorations on a mum, the more the flowers cost.

Cargill said the mum ruling was also made because the flowers worn to school created classroom distractions.

He said he has the support of both the school's student council and the Parent Teacher Student Association board.

"The decision impacted a lot of people," Cargill said. "But the main thing I have in my mind is that it is truly special to receive a mum, but it is very depressing for the girls who don't."

Senior Jill Blakley supports Cargill's decision.

"I think it's stupid that school officials had to enforce the rule and that girls didn't come to school just because they didn't have a mum," said Ms. Blakley. "I mean, if you don't have a date, you just should deal with it. I didn't have a date my freshman year, and it didn't bother me."

"It is ridiculous that parents in the past would let their daughters stay home from school just because they didn't have a date," she said. "None of my friends ever stayed home. We didn't care about it if we didn't have dates. But I do know people that stayed home because they didn't have a date and a mum to wear."

Darlene Warr Verble, a parent, disagreed with Cargill's ban.

"I don't feel that you should take away from one because another doesn't have a mum," Ms. Verble said. "Other schools can wear their mums all day and wearing the mums is a school tradition - a way to show team support and school spirit as well as display the colors."

Committee plans public session Senators question 'doctoring' by Gates

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Intelligence Committee plans a public session next week to explore whether Robert Gates, President Bush's nominee to head the CIA, doctored intelligence reports to suit the policies of his political bosses.

The unexpected decision to extend Gates' hearings into a third week came late Wednesday, after the panel heard from the first of a series of current and former CIA analysts who differ on whether Gates "cooked the books" to suit administration aims.

The first witness, Melvin Goodman, a professor at the National War College and a former CIA Soviet analyst, testified that the nominee regularly doctored intelligence estimates, according to sources familiar with his testimony.

Goodman, a persistent critic of Gates, also said the nominee suppressed dissenting views among his CIA colleagues, said the sources, who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

The panel's chairman, Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., and its senior Republican, Frank Murkowski of Alaska, then abruptly announced that the panel would hear the rest of the testimony in open session, beginning Tuesday.

"All of us on the committee feel that the objectivity of intelligence analysis is absolutely essential," Boren said. "This is a serious issue."

Critics have alleged that the nominee, currently Bush's deputy national security adviser, has risen rapidly through the CIA's ranks in part because of his ability to judge the political winds.

But defenders counter that Gates has been scrupulously honest in his analyses, even to the point of angering superiors.

In its opening days of testimony, the panel heard allegations that Gates:

-Helped overstate the threat of increased Soviet influence in Iran to justify U.S. aid to Iraq during the war between those two countries in the 1980s.

-Wrote a hard-line paper on Nicaragua, even advocating U.S. air strikes, to please the hawkish William Casey, the CIA director in the early 1980s.

-Misrepresented as objective analysis a paper making the case for Soviet involvement in the 1981 plot to kill Pope John Paul II.

-Selectively used alarmist data about the development of Soviet missile defenses in a 1986 speech touting the need for President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative.

The committee had planned to hear from five current and former CIA analysts who worked with Gates in a closed session, believing that the discussion would lead into specific areas of still-classified intelligence assessments.

But after starting the session Wednesday afternoon, the panel realized that "most of what we have heard could be said in open session," Boren said.

Besides, he said, opening the process will allow Gates to hear any criticisms being made of him and respond to them when he comes back before the panel for a final appearance next week.

The change in plans, while not affecting Gates' likely confirmation, will mean that the committee will not be able to vote on the nomination until it returns from Columbus Day recess the week of Oct. 15.

Wives lining up for share of estate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Richard Ernest Jenkins liked getting married so much that he did it over and over again. Unfortunately, court officials say, he never cared much for getting divorced.

After the 53-year-old repair shop operator died of a heart attack four months ago, three women stepped forward to say they were his legal widows.

Two more wives and two ex-wives, one with a divorce judgment claim against Jenkins, were located a short time later, as well as a former girlfriend who has demanded child support from Jenkins' $1 million estate.

And, court officials said Wednesday, they are tracking another woman whose name has surfaced on a bank account connected to Jenkins. They aren't sure what her connection was to the man who they say had at least three sons named Richard Jr.

"It just keeps going," said Deputy County Counsel Porter Goltz.

For the wives, who discovered each other through funeral arrangements, "It's been a traumatic experience," said Edward Martins, attorney for Laura Jenkins, the most recent bride.

For the lawyers, it has been a nuptial nightmare.

Attorneys for five women gathered Tuesday in San Mateo County Superior Court to start untangling the legal snarl of dividing Jenkins' estate. A trial is scheduled for Nov. 21.

"Maybe he thought it was less expensive not to get divorced," Martins said.

"Everything he seemed to do, he did it very aggressively, not only in his relationship with all these ladies, but in business," Martins added.

Lawrence Vergun, representing Barbara Odom, a former girlfriend who is seeking child support, said the story astonished his client, too.

"I would say that she was surprised at the extent of Mr. Jenkins' adventures," he said.

California law makes it a felony to have more than one spouse.

Jenkins evidently spent much of the last year alternating between wives Laura Jenkins and Paulina Jenkins.

"I don't know how he managed it, but he managed it," Paulina Jenkins' attorney, Albert Polonsky, said.

Martins said that when Jenkins was away from Laura Jenkins, he gave her the number of a phone connected to an answering machine kept in a locked room of the home he shared with Paulina Jenkins. He said Paulina Jenkins knew nothing of the arrangement.

Court records indicate that Jenkins' married life began in 1955 in Louisiana with Nerva Jenkins, who is not part of the battle over the estate. The couple had one child and separated later that year. They divorced in 1983, court documents show.

In the 1960s, Jenkins moved to the San Francisco Bay area, marrying Kili Jenkins in 1971. Eight years later, she filed for divorce, but the proceeding was never completed.

Then, from 1967 to 1971 Jenkins lived with Odom. Her lawyer said Jenkins never paid the child support judgment she won against him in 1971.

Jenkins married Paulina Jenkins in 1979 in Reno, Nev. The couple, who had a son, lived in the same Foster City home he had previously shared with Kili Jenkins and which is still in her name.

Petrona Fontenosa married Jenkins in 1980 and divorced him in 1984. She has filed a $3,000 claim against the state for a divorce settlement she said was never paid.

Jenkins married Laura Jenkins last year.

Two more apparent marriages also have surfaced, one to a woman Jenkins is believed to have wed in 1982 and the other to a woman who was named with him on a deed to property in Oakland in 1987. Those women have not lodged claims against the estate, Goltz said.

Attorney general has backing of officials to sign jail proposal

AUSTIN (AP) - Attorney General Dan Morales is confident of the backing of state leaders and will sign a proposal to settle county jail crowding lawsuits, probably on Friday, a spokesman said.

Lawyers for the 14 counties involved in the suits also were reviewing the settlement proposal. The deadline for signing it is Sunday.

Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis said Wednesday they would not comply with Morales' request that they also sign the proposal. Their spokesmen said they believe signing such settlements on behalf of the state is Morales' job.

Ron Dusek, a spokesman for the attorney general, said that Morales would not insist on the other state officials' signatures.

"The attorney general is satisfied that the governor and the state leadership is in support of it (the settlement)," Dusek said.

Dusek said that the attorney general wanted to be certain that leaders knew the advantages and drawbacks of a settlement. Morales has warned that settling could cost the state $650 million more than previously estimated over the next four years.

Counties successfully sued the state for the cost of housing thousands of state inmates backed up in their jails. The state appealed the ruling.

But lawmakers this summer approved a law that provides for settling the lawsuits. The state would repay counties some costs for holding the state prisoners. And by September 1995, the state would take responsibility for accepting all felons within 45 days of conviction.

When the law was passed, legislators said it would provide $150 million for county settlements, with about half the money going to Harris County.

The law also would spend $672 million for 25,300 new prison beds, including 12,000 beds for drug treatment. The money would come from a $1.1 billion bond sale, if approved by voters on Nov. 5.

Sen. Ted Lyon, a Rockwall Democrat who sponsored the new law, expressed concern about several provisions in the settlement proposal.

For example, he said, the proposal provides that if the state does not meet its obligations, the counties could have the court judgment extended to cover a longer period of time. Lyon said that could mean significantly more expense to the state, compared with the payments provided for under the law.

Ann Clarke Snell, a lawyer for most of the counties, said she was concerned about some wording in the settlement proposal.

Counties involved in lawsuits against the state include Bexar, Collin, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Harris, Hidalgo, Hunt, Lubbock, Montgomery, Nueces, Tarrant, Travis and Victoria.

Herd puts 3-0 on line

The Hereford Whitefaces will try to continue their undefeated string to start the season when they meet the winless Frenship Tigers at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Wollforth.

The Tigers will be a slightly different team from the one which won last year's meeting at Whiteface Stadium by a score of 14-7. That team had considerable success passing against the Herd, but all-star quarterback Brad Cade has moved on, leaving a running game featuring a pair of big backs.

Herd coach Danny Haney said the Frenship running game is powered by 202-pound fullback Brad Douglas and 196-pound tailback Duane Young. The Tigers also have a pair of fine receivers—Chris Matthews and Danny Romo—and they get the ball through a three-step passing game from sophomore QB Kendrick Hollie.

"The key to this offense is handling the two big backs and the play-action pass," Haney said.

On the other side of the ball, the Tigers employ a multiple defense, Haney said.

"They'll line up any way you can think of. Their defense is spearheaded by Chris Matthews and Michael Denson. On the line of scrimmage, they're anchored by Shawn Casali, a 234-pound defensive tackle."

"Our offensive line is going to have to do a job this week picking up all those fronts," he said.

Though Frenship has not won a game, Haney said that can be misleading.

"You've got to be careful how you handle this team. They haven't won a game, but they're as good a 0-3 team as I've seen. They've kind of self-destructed over the year, with 13 turnovers in three games."

Injury report: OL Andy Kalka (knee), DT Chad Burns (neck) and Coming right at you

Hereford fullback Kyle Hansen, shown here rushing in Thursday's win over Coronado, was named the varsity player of the week on offense. Linebacker Eric Sims got the defensive honor.

LB Will Jones (knee) return this week. OL Ramiro Garza injured his finger in an accident with a trailer hitch and is doubtful. DT Jason Cochran and TE John McBride (ill) are out.

The varsity players of the week were Kyle Hansen on offense and Eric Sims on defense, Haney announced.

For the sophomore team, Jeremy Blair was honored on offense and Larry Jimenez got the award on defense. From the ninth grade teams, Ashley Noland was the pick for the Maroon team, and Johnny Rodriguez was the White pick.

The junior varsity team did not play.

Aggie place-kicker dies before practice

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Brazos County medical examiners are trying to determine what caused Texas A&M place kicker James Glenn to collapse on the practice field and die.

Glenn, 19, a walk-on freshman from League City, was "just loosening up" about 3:45 p.m. Wednesday before the Aggies' scheduled practice at Kyle Field when he suddenly collapsed on the field. Trainers administered cardiopulmonary resuscitation and he was rushed by ambulance to Humana Hospital-Brazos Valley. He was pronounced dead at 4:20 p.m.

"He mentioned that he was feeling bad and sat down," Dr. Jesse Parr, an A&M team physician, told the Bryan-College Station Eagle. "When he got back up, he collapsed. The trainers are all trained and qualified in CPR. The resuscitation just was not successful. The heart did not beat on its own anymore."

"The main thing I want to emphasize is that this is not a football death," Parr said. "This is the death of a football player that happened to occur on the football field. You dread something like this happening. You do everything you can to prevent it. We just don't know the reason at present."

An autopsy was to be conducted today at St. Joseph Hospital, said Ken Stein, public relations director at Humana. Doctors are checking the possibility that a congenital defect could have sparked the collapse.

"Usually, in the sudden unexpected death of an otherwise young, healthy adult, what you find is a virus infection of the heart with no more warning than a cold," Parr said. "I'm not saying that's what happened in this case. We'll just have to see."

The 5-11, 167-pound Glenn was an All-District 23-5A selection as a junior and senior at Clear Creek High School, contributing 83 points and also was the team's punter.

He was an invited walk-on for the Aggies and had three kickoffs in his first collegiate appearance in Saturday's 35-34 loss at Tulsa.

"James was a super young man," kicking coach John Pearce said. "His high school coach called us and told us he was an outstanding person, as well as an outstanding athlete. He was correct. James was a dedicated young man who set his goals and worked hard to achieve those goals. One of those goals was to kick for Texas A&M."

"He was a good kicker," head coach R.C. Slocum said. "I thought he'd end up being a great kicker."

Clear Creek head coach Aubrey Schulz admired Glenn as a player, and as a person.

"My wife and I talked about, a long time before today, if we wanted our son to be like anybody, it was him," Schulz said. "There's not anything that he's done that's been bad as far as I know of. He was everything you'd want a kid to be."

Slocum canceled practice Wednesday and fellow players had a Fellowship of Christian Athletes meeting.

Slocum said no decision had been made about the Aggies' scheduled game with Southwestern Louisiana Saturday. Texas A&M is 1-1.

"I haven't thought anything about the game at all," Slocum said.

Necessary Roughness received well at home

DENTON, Texas (AP) - The comedy movie "Necessary Roughness" has scored a rout on its home field. But the real test begins Friday when it opens in theaters across the country.

Hundreds of people, many of whom played bit parts in the film, packed a theater here Wednesday to give the movie a rousing "thumbs up" during its world premier.

The movie about a team of football misfits and amateurs assembled in the wake of a cheating scandal was filmed last spring on the University of North Texas campus.

"It was really great to see the campus and see a lot of familiar scenes and people," said Amy Childress, a 20-year-old junior at UNT. "It was great, very entertaining."

"There were some scenes that weren't as funny as I thought they were going to be," said Audra Sneed, who said she enjoyed herself nonetheless because she recognized people and places. "What was really interesting is that I've never clapped in a movie before and I clapped in this movie. I was proud of it."

Hundreds of UNT students and staffers and other Denton residents, who appear in the movie as extras, paid up to $80 to get an early look at themselves.

"It was great. It was just hard to watch as a normal movie-goer. I knew what was going to happen because I was involved in it," said Traci DeBies, 22, a UNT junior who worked as an extra.

Scott Bakula of "Quantum Leap" stars, and a roster of football greats including former Houston Oilers running back Earl Campbell and former Dallas Cowboys Tony Dorsett, Ed "Too Tall" Jones and Randy White are among inmates who scrimmage against the fighting "Texas State University Armadillos."

Public Notice

On June 28, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Southwestern Bell) filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) to add a new optional service offering for business Private Branch Exchange (PBX) Trunk customers called Digital Loop Service. The application has been assigned Docket No. 10461.

Digital Loop Service provides digital transmission of circuit switched voice and data communications between the customer's premises and the central office. This service allows the customer to use a 1.544 Mbps facility capable of delivering up to 24 line terminations. Southwestern Bell will provide Digital Loop Service within the customer's serving central office where facilities are available.

If approved by the Commission, the rates for the Digital Loop Service facilities will be $445 per month for each digital transmission loop arrangement which provides a capacity of up to 24 line terminations, plus $5 per month for each line termination and $9 per month for each channel termination. The proposed rate for the unlimited use of the central office varies from $12.25 up to $18.90 per month for each line termination depending on the rate group classification, determined by the customer's location. Southwestern Bell estimates revenue of $2.1 million from this offering during the first year.

As proposed by Southwestern Bell, customers who currently receive digital loop compatibility through facilities installed under a special construction agreement will have the option to receive their current digital loop arrangements pursuant to the Digital Loop Service Tariff or continue to pay their current charges until they make a change of location or account. Any increase in the number of line terminations to a customer's current digital transmission loop arrangement will be provided pursuant to the proposed Digital Loop Service Tariff; however, the customer will continue to have the option of paying current charges for the existing digital transmission loop capacity. Southwestern Bell's proposal to "grandfather" existing digital loop facility arrangements is subject to review and approval by the Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible, but not later than October 15, 1991. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78737. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256. Braves split twin-bill; Dodgers lose

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

All the commotion the Atlanta Braves are creating on the field still might not match the circus they're causing off it.

In yet another weird and wacky day, the Braves wound up splitting a doubleheader at home with Cincinnati on Wednesday, pulling them within 1 1/2 games of NL West-leading Los Angeles.

The morning began with Braves rookies Brian Hunter and Keith Mitchell being arrested on drunken driving charges in separate incidents. In the afternoon, Deion Sanders returned to the Braves aboard a helicopter that took him from an Atlanta Falcons' practice. Later in the evening, the Braves played a pair of 10-inning games, winning the opener 2-1 before falling 10-9.

"It's been exciting," Sanders said between games.

Sanders rushed to the Braves' rescue after his good friend, leadoff hitter Otis Nixon, was suspended for 60 days earlier this month for using cocaine. Nixon was leading the majors in stolen bases, and Sanders is expected to be used mainly as a pinch-runner. He got into both games in the ninth inning in that role, and stole a base in the opener.

Sanders was left stranded at second base, but the Braves won in the 10th when Terry Pendleton doubled and scored on Ron Gant's one-out single off Ted Power (4-3).

Alejandro Pena (8-1) pitched one inning for the victory after John Smoltz shut down the Reds for nine innings.

In San Diego, the Dodgers were aware of what the Braves were doing - at least on the scoreboard. But Los Angeles failed to take advantage, losing 8-2 to the Padres.

"After the Braves won the first game, I thought the momentum kind of changed a little bit and we got a little flat," said Lenny Harris, who committed one of the Dodgers' three infield errors.

Another Sanders, Reggie of the Reds, helped prevent Atlanta from sweeping. His RBI single put Cincinnati ahead 8-7 in the 10th and Billy Hatcher followed with a two-run triple off Mike Stanton (3-5).

The Braves bounced back in the bottom of the 10th against Rob Dibble. Gant tripled for his sixth hit of the doubleheader and one-out doubles by Hunter and Greg Olson made it 10-9. But Dibble got his 31st save by retiring Mark Lemke on a pop and striking out pinch hitter Francisco Cabrera.

Milt Hill (1-1) pitched two innings for the victory.

Pittsburgh at New York was rained out.

Padres 8, Dodgers 2
Andy Benes won his 10th straight decision, the longest streak in the NL since 1989, and Fred McGriff and Benito Santiago homered.

Benes (14-10) gave up one run on seven hits in seven innings, striking out seven and walking two.

McGriff's solo shot in the fourth came off Bob Ojeda (11-9). Santiago hit a three-run homer, capping a four-run seventh inning.

Giants 2, Astros 1
John Burkett worked six strong innings and Matt Williams drove in the go-ahead run in the seventh inning.

Burkett (11-11) allowed one run on five hits, struck out eight and walked none. Jeff Brantley closed with three innings of one-hit relief.

With the score tied at 1, the Giants loaded the bases in the seventh against Darryl Kile (7-10) and Williams had an RBI grounder.

Expos 7, Cardinals 2
Rookie Brian Barnes pitched his first complete game of the season, giving up 10 hits.

Barnes (5-6) lost a chance at his first career shutout when St. Louis scored twice in the ninth. He struck out seven and walked none.

Tim Wallach and Bret Barberie each hit two-run doubles for the Expos. Rhee Cormier (3-5) was the loser.

Phillies 5, Cubs 4
John Kruk hit a grand slam and a solo home run.

Kruk hit his solo shot in the third inning and added his third lifetime slam in the fourth, both off Shawn Boskie (4-9).

Tommy Greene (13-7) won his fourth straight start and Mitch Williams set a team record with his 30th save.

Andre Dawson hit his 29th home run, Hector Villanueva hit his 12th and Rick Wilkins hit his sixth for Chicago.

Jays win; Red Sox rained out

By The Associated Press

Boston's biggest problem this week isn't Toronto - it's the rain.

Toronto increased its AL East lead to 2 1/2 games Wednesday, beating California 7-2 as John Olerud hit a three-run homer to cap a six-run fifth inning. The Blue Jays began the day with a two-game lead in the AL East over the Red Sox, who were rained out of a two-night doubleheader at Baltimore.

Boston's doubleheader was rescheduled for Thursday, an off-day for the Blue Jays. The Red Sox and Orioles also were washed out on Tuesday.

"If they continue to win, there's nothing we can do," Wade Boggs said. "We just have to put together a modest little 12-game winning streak and see what happens. But if Toronto doesn't lose, then we can go 12-0 and it won't matter."

At Anaheim, Mark Langston (17-8) couldn't hold a 2-1 lead and was rocked for seven runs and eight hits in five innings. Roberto Alomar hit a two-run double for a 3-2 lead, Joe Carter followed with an RBI single and Olerud hit his 17th homer.

The Blue Jays finished their nine-game West Coast trip 4-5, and headed home to play a three-game weekend series against Minnesota.

"The four wins are good, but I would've liked to have a couple more," Toronto interim manager Gene Tenace said. "I get greedy. Still, I'll take the trip just the way it ended today. We left in first place and came back in first place, but I would have liked to see us improve."

Jimmy Key (16-11) allowed six hits in seven innings, struck out two and walked one for the victory.

Weather permitting, the Red Sox and Orioles were scheduled to start their doubleheader at 12:15 p.m.

"It can make you stale," Boggs said of the consecutive off-nights. "I hate to say it, but you don't gain any momentum with rainouts."

White Sox 6, Twins 1
Scott Fletcher drove in two runs with a double and a sacrifice fly, leading an early onslaught from the bottom of Chicago's order as the White Sox kept Minnesota from clinching a tie for the AL West. Things still look bleak for the White Sox, who trail the Twins by eight games with 10 to play. Minnesota's magic number remains three.

Indians 6, Tigers 4
Doug Jones remained perfect as a starting pitcher for Cleveland. Jones (4-7), the Indians' career saves leader, was making his third major-league start. He gave up 10 hits, walked one and struck out five in seven-plus innings.

Yankees 8, Brewers 6
Roberto Kelly's three-run homer in the 11th inning lifted New York. The Brewers tied the score with two runs in the bottom of the ninth, including Greg Vaughn's 25th homer.

Rangers 7, Mariners 1
Nolan Ryan (12-6) gave up one run and three hits in eight innings for his 314th victory, tying Gaylord Perry for 13th on the career list, four behind Phil Niekro.

Athletics 8, Royals 4
A day after the A's were eliminated from the AL West race, Rickey Henderson and Mike Gallego homered and Bob Welch (12-12) allowed five hits in 6 2-3 innings to beat Kansas City.

Less furor surrounds 1991's Odessa game

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer
ODESSA, Texas (AP) - A year after the furor over high school football nearly ripped this West Texas city in half, Odessa has learned that football is still just a game, although a pretty important one.

Hollingshead, as he prepared for this year's duel with Odessa High on Friday night. "We want to remember it, but also put it behind us. These days we are trying to conduct business as usual."

But Permian's problems continued after five players were charged earlier this month in the beating of another Permian student. The players were suspended from school, and Hollingshead imposed a one-game suspension.

Four of the five players will be back in the lineup for the Panthers' game against Odessa High, Hollingshead said.

One player has been suspended from the team indefinitely, he said. "An undisciplined act such as fighting will not be tolerated," Hollingshead said. "We are in the business of trying to develop responsible citizens."

Permian is undefeated after three games this season. Permian players admit they are more determined this year after being denied a chance at post-season play in 1990. But they contend there are no ill feelings toward Odessa High.

"We are on a mission," said D.J. Perry said on Ditka's television show on Sunday. "The most fun is making the sack."

Ditka said Perry has a lot of competition for the sacks from the other members of the front four - Richard Dent, Steve McMichael and Trace Armstrong, now on injured reserve for four weeks.

"They get real jealous when he makes a sack," Ditka said. "He gets to razz McMichael, Armstrong and Dent."

Nobody is saying how much Perry weighs now, but a good guess probably would be around 350.

"I work on my weight every day. I get up at 4 or 5 o'clock and go over to Halas Hall and work out an hour or two before anybody gets over there, just trying to get it on down," Perry said.

Ditka said he's impressed with Perry's effort in the weight and fitness room in suburban Lake Forest.

After alternating last season with McMichael and Dan Hampton, Perry has been playing almost full-time this year.

Pardue, a backup linebacker and tailback for Permian. "It hurt being denied a chance for the playoffs. But it doesn't matter if it's OHS or Amarillo, we want to win every one because this is our territory."

City officials say they expect no problems at Friday night's game, a sentiment they didn't share last year. The accusations by Taylor and subsequent penalties against Permian came on the heels of the release of "Friday Night Lights" by Pulitzer Prize-winning author H.G. "Buzz" Bissinger.

The book depicts this once-booming oil town as a city where racism is rampant, football gets more attention than English class and school district lines are drawn to guarantee the best athletes play for Permian.

Book-signing appearances by Bissinger in Odessa were canceled by bookstore owners after they received threats on the author's life.

Tension increased the week before the game as Permian faithful accused Odessa High of using tattle-tale tactics as the only means to edge Taylor, which has won five state titles and finished second four times.

Permian has not lost to Odessa High in more than two decades.

Police officers were doubled at 20,000-seat Ratliffe Stadium amidst rumors that a riot would break out. Odessa Mayor Lorraine Bonner even appeared in a television commercial shortly before the game with a player from each high school and asked for calm.

But with gobs of media attention on Odessa and the Permian-Odessa High battle, the city made amends as players from both teams hugged each other after the game, won by Permian 24-6.

A year later, city officials, the schools' coaches and students say this year's matchup between the two rivals will be simply another district game.

"We love our football. There is no doubt about that," said Odessa City Secretary Jeni Sullivan, a spokeswoman for Mayor Bonner. "And there's always going to be a rivalry between the two schools. It's a natural part of any community. But as far as the Friday Night Lights part of it, that's behind Odessa."

Where last year's game was marked by threats of violence, the city is using Friday's game for a canned-food drive to help the Permian Basin Food Bank.

After losing to Permian last year, Odessa High went on to win the District 4-5A title. But Permian is favored to beat Odessa (2-1) Friday.

"We haven't mentioned anything about last year as a way to pump up the team," Hollingshead said. "The players already look forward to this game because it's an inner-city rivalry and there's a lot of pride and tradition at stake."

Taylor left Odessa High after last season to coach Breckenridge, but he says he did not leave because of the conflict with Permian.

"I think we handled it correctly," Taylor told the Amarillo Daily News earlier this month. "... I guess I'm dumb enough I'd do it again if I thought it would help."

Odessa's first-year coach Bill Barron, who spent last year coaching Houston Waltrip, says he recalls the tension building in Odessa.

"The situation became so big," Barron said. "I wondered if there would be murders or if they would cancel the game. I remember trying to find a TV set to see what happened, not knowing three months later I would be coach at Odessa High."

Barron says he hasn't heard any talk about last year's conflict since his arrival.

"Our kids haven't brought it up," Barron said. "It was just such a dead horse in the head. I think everyone is just sick of hearing about it."

As for Friday night's game, Barron said Permian doesn't need a conflict to get pumped up.

"Permian has always had great teams," he said. "This year is no different. Their natural talent ought to be enough to get them excited."

'Fridge just playing football

CHICAGO (AP) - William Perry is keeping as low a profile as possible for a refrigerator.

"I just want to be left alone," the Chicago Bears' defensive lineman says in explaining why he has been ducking reporters this year.

Perry weighed in at 370 pounds for training camp in July, about 50 pounds heavier than coach Mike Ditka would have liked. But the Fridge is playing well again, with 23 tackles, one sack and a blocked field goal in the first four games.

"I'm having a lot of fun this year," Perry said on Ditka's television show on Sunday. "The most fun is making the sack."

Ditka said Perry has a lot of competition for the sacks from the other members of the front four - Richard Dent, Steve McMichael and Trace Armstrong, now on injured reserve for four weeks.

"They get real jealous when he makes a sack," Ditka said. "He gets to razz McMichael, Armstrong and Dent."

Nobody is saying how much Perry weighs now, but a good guess probably would be around 350.

"I work on my weight every day. I get up at 4 or 5 o'clock and go over to Halas Hall and work out an hour or two before anybody gets over there, just trying to get it on down," Perry said.

Ditka said he's impressed with Perry's effort in the weight and fitness room in suburban Lake Forest.

After alternating last season with McMichael and Dan Hampton, Perry has been playing almost full-time this year.

FmHA offers low income home loans

Sing along with Mike

John Stagner, right, sings along with Mike Bryant of Flashback as they perform "The Great Pretender" at this morning's fun breakfast. Also joining with Flashback were Steve Stevens and John Sublett. They represented Hereford's new car dealers, the breakfast's sponsors.

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has numerous rural housing programs available according to Deaf Smith-Oldham Counties Supervisor, Ross W. James.

Programs available are in new construction, purchase of existing dwellings, and home repair and improvement assistance. The main concern is to meet the housing needs of the low and very low income people.

While FmHA can make loans for new construction (either manufactured or stick built), there has been very little activity in Deaf Smith-Oldham Counties in this area over the past few years. James said it was mainly due to the over supply of existing dwellings for current demand. James said that they would be happy to discuss new construction with anyone who is interested.

FmHA has two programs under which repairs and-or improvements to existing dwellings can be made. The 502 housing program is FmHA's most commonly used program. Under this program they can do anything from replacing a storm door to financing new construction.

Normally, loans are scheduled for repayment over a period of 33 years with appraisals and title work required. However, a loan of $2,500 or less scheduled for repayment within 10 years of the date of the note can be made on a signature only basis.

Loans of $7,500 or less scheduled for repayment within 15 years must be secured by a mortgage but title work and opinions are not necessary. James said most of the loan activity would be through this program.

The 504 loan-grant program is a need based program directed at removing health and safety hazards. In order to be eligible for a grant on any portion of the assistance under this program you must be 62 years of age or older and unable to repay a loan.

FmHA's programs are designed to provide modest, safe and adequate housing to low and very low income families. The annual income guidelines for eligibility have recently been increased. The current guidelines are as follows: one person household, $15,250; two person, $17,400; three person $19,600; four person, $21,750; five person, $23,500; six person, $25,250; seven, $27,000; and eight, $28,700.

To determine your adjusted annual income take your gross income less: $480, per child or dependent; babysitting expense necessary for employment; $400 if one or more of the expense necessary for employment; $400 if one or more of the household is age 62 or older. There are other minor deductions which are allowable in some cases.

It should be noted that farmers are allowed to deduct their farm operating expenses from their gross income for this eligibility determination. However, they are not allowed to deduct capital expenditures or principals payments. Because of this, most farmers will not exceed the above guidelines and thus not be eligible for assistance under FmHA's direct housing programs.

Loans for the above purposes can be obtained at an interest rate of as low as one person depending on your income and repayment ability. Contact your Farmers Home Administration office in Hereford at (806) 364-2802 for further information.

Kitchen renovation reduces crowding

By BARBARA MAYER
For AP Special Features

Today's kitchen is busy - and crowded - making renovation more desirable, according to a cross section of kitchen designers polled by the Maytag Co.

Adult children returning home to live with parents, grandparents caring for young children, and the need and wish to recycle kitchen waste are crowding the kitchens, the poll says.

Today's average kitchen measures 9 feet by 15 feet, about the same as five years ago. Not surprisingly, inconvenient layout, inadequate storage and countertop space are among the major factors leading to a decision to renovate.

Maytag polled 100 kitchen designers and found that one way consumers are coping with a busier and more crowded kitchen is by choosing appliances that cook faster.

Microwave ovens are now placed in 92.5 percent of the kitchens remodeled by those polled, compared with 79.8 percent five years ago, and the demand for convection ovens, which bake faster than conventional ovens, is growing.

The dishwasher, formerly an optional convenience for many consumers, now is included in almost 98 percent of the kitchens designed by survey respondents.

The kitchen designers say more people are asking for recycling facilities in their kitchens so items can be separated as they are used. This can be as simple as leaving space for several containers or as complicated as setting up a series of vertical chutes from countertop to basement.

Designers asked to add a spot for a quick meal often comply by building it into the kitchen's work island.

Another trend: more kitchens are being designed for two cooks (33 percent compared with 24 percent five years ago). Almost 70 percent of the clients have two adults working full-time outside the home, the kitchen designers say.

Though they want all the high-tech, labor-saving appliances they can afford, most people want old-fashioned styling. Traditional and country-style cabinetry and surfacing were selected by about 60 percent, and modern styles were chosen by about 40 percent.

The kitchen designers report that 64 percent of their clients select white appliances, instead of the gold, green and copper colors once favored, although black appliances are also finding growing favor.

For the past four years, white has been the most frequently chosen color for major appliances, according to the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM). White trim on a white background is interpreted by the general public to convey upscale sophistication of a designer kitchen, AHAM says.

Electronic touch pads, a feature made popular by microwave ovens, are now favored on a wide variety of major appliances, such as ranges, refrigerators, dishwashers and laundry equipment. Until recently, touch pad controls were an option only on top-of-the-line models.

"Overall, appliance profiles are sleek and uncluttered, free of embellishment and overbearing graphics. Metallic trim is used sparingly and tends to be brushed instead of shiny. Edges are rounded instead of squared," according to the trade association.

The growing popularity of an open kitchen that is part of or flows into the living room is a major factor influencing the design of kitchen appliances.

"With more of the kitchen on view, consumers want their appliances to visually blend with the surroundings and to form a seamless line with the kitchen cabinetry," says AHAM.

AIM holds fall rush fiesta

Alpha Iota Mu chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held their fall rush party recently at the SPS Reddy Room. The theme for the evening was Mexican Fiesta.

Members and guest were treated to a Mexican Fiesta meal served and prepared by the membership committee. Games of Bingo, seek and find puzzles and a pinata bust were enjoyed.

Glenna Calaway presided over the business meeting. Mary Beth Messer was chosen as the 1991-92 sweetheart. The city council representative reported on the Sept. 9 City Commission meeting.

Those attending were Janice Betzen, Jamie Broman, Glenna Calaway, Patty Frerich, Teresa Hopping, Wanda Huseman, Marrie Leverett, Jane Meiwes, Mary Beth Messer, Mary Bob Ward and Donna Weaver.

Guests include Sheila Straugh, Jill Alexander, transfer from Wheeler, Patty Urbanczyk and Cruz Salinas.

The next meeting is set for Hereford Senior Citizen Center with hostesses Mary Beth Messer and Patty Frerich. The program will be "Your Significant Other and You Game" by Wanda Huseman.

DETROIT (AP) - Basketball star Earvin "Magic" Johnson says a Lansing school board member who referred to him during his school days as "a big, dumb black kid" isn't fit to hold office and should quit or be recalled.

William Carter, who has apologized for making the statement during a Sept. 12 meeting in which he argued for spending more money on athletic programs, says he won't resign. "I feel it is inappropriate and dangerous for a man with his ideas and feelings to be in such a powerful and influential public position," said Johnson, the Los Angeles Lakers' star guard. "Should Mr. Carter choose not to resign, I would ask that the Lansing school board seek a recall election against him immediately."

Carter said he was trying to make the point that athletics help keep a lot of kids in school. "I tried to make my point in a disgustingly offensive way," he said. "Not only were his comments hurtful to myself and my family, but especially to the children of Lansing, Michigan, if not everywhere," said Johnson, who was a high school basketball star in Lansing.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDEKS: I have noted with interest the continuing emphasis in your column on cancer prevention and early detection.

Strang Cancer Prevention Center, founded over 50 years ago, is affiliated with The New York Hospital-Cornell University Medical Center. Because we are dedicated to the early detection and prevention of cancer, we are now recruiting women nationwide who are at very high risk for breast cancer because of their family history. This means they have two or more close relatives (mother, sister, daughter or maternal grandmother) who have had breast cancer, or one first-degree relative (mother, sister or daughter) who developed breast cancer before age 50. We believe that these women have a predisposition to breast cancer and if we could contact them, the information we would discover might help us to prevent or delay the onset of this disease for all women.

Recruiting volunteers for the registry is an arduous and expensive task. A mention in your column would be a tremendous help. Potential participants will receive a family cancer questionnaire, followed by a genetic risk factor evaluation letter. The statistics and other information provided by their responses will help our research efforts. This is part of a large research project on genetics and cancer, and there is no charge for participation in this program.

We believe there is no reason for a woman to die of breast cancer. The key is early detection. Thanks for your help.--Daniel G. Miller, M.D., president, Strang Cancer Prevention Center

DEAR DR. MILLER: I believe in what you aim to do and I want to help. For women who have a family history of breast cancer and are willing to spend a few minutes on this terrific effort, please write: Strang's National High Risk Registry, 428 E. 72nd St., New York, N.Y. 10021. The life you save could be your own.

DEAR ANN LANDEKS: Those letters regarding the hazards of loaning money to relatives were so interesting they prompted my first letter to you.

The gentleman in Rockville Centre, N.Y., who loaned his ungrateful son the money to go to graduate school, provoked mixed emotions. Without knowing exactly how he made the money his son never repaid, I'm not sure how much sympathy he's entitled to. One part of me says his loss was poetic justice for having inflicted yet another MBA on the world.

I have loaned money over the years to my children and even to my ex-wife, but I don't lie awake nights thinking about it. The need was there, I had some money at the time, and that was enough. If they wanted to call it a loan and promise that it would be repaid in order to salvage some self-esteem, that was OK with me.

What matters is that it seemed to be the right thing to do at the time and I did it. If people do things because they expect undying gratitude, some sort of profit or a place in heaven, the value of the gift is greatly diminished.

My reward is the feeling that I may have made a difference in the life of someone I care about. Or that I have helped a friend or relative survive in a demanding world. I've been around long enough to know that a lot of deserving people will make it if someone will toss them a rope when they are going down for the third time. Just sign me--More to Life Than Money in California

DEAR CALIFORNIA: You sound like a beautiful guy. I hope those friends and relatives appreciate you, but I wouldn't bet the rent. Remember the old adage, "No good deed will go unpunished."

What can you give the person who has everything? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Gems," is ideal for a nightstand or coffee table. "Gems" is a collection of Ann Landers' most requested poems and essays. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.87 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 70-year-old woman who had a stroke 13 months ago. I was doing quite well until I started to void every 35 minutes day and night, which I am still doing.

I go to an M.D., and I also went to a kidney specialist, who said that nothing can be done for the condition except to insert a catheter. I am afraid of catheters since I have known so many people who have had very bad infections caused by them. My M.D. said the stroke struck my bladder and killed all of the nerve endings. Do you know of a treatment to cure this condition?

DEAR READER: I would not be so rash as to guarantee a treatment would solve the problem, but there are a number of things that are used in similar situations. Certainly, your concern about a catheter is quite justified.

Incontinence may follow a stroke in either males or females. It is not the nerves in the bladder, but the areas of the brain that allow you to have voluntary control over your bladder. When that area of the brain is damaged, your bladder returns to the simple reflex emptying that occurs in an infant.

The simple bladder reflex occurs when the bladder fills a small amount and that triggers the contraction of the bladder. In the child, wet diapers follow. As the brain develops with maturity, it is able to inhibit the natural bladder reflex. Wet pants and a wet bed in children does not mean a psychological problem or willful intent not to go to the bathroom. Rather, it is the result of a delay in development of nerve tracts in the brain to establish voluntary control.

The area involved is in the frontal lobes of the cerebral cortex. Any damage to this area, or to areas between the cortex and the level of the spinal cord responsible for the bladder reflex, can result in loss of voluntary control. Gradual brain damage from poor circulation or damage from various neurological diseases may have the same effect. This includes Parkinson's disease and Alzheimer's disease.

A number of medicines prescribed for older people can be the underlying cause -- particularly sedatives and medications that depress brain function.

Surgery is usually not helpful in such cases because it is not a mechanical problem involving the muscles supporting the bladder and urethra. However, there is a new operation to put an inflatable cuff around the urethra which can be deflated to empty the bladder.

Many specialists have reported very good results with training and medical programs. I have discussed these in my new Special Report 105, When a Woman's Bladder Leaks. I'm sending you a free copy. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped ($2 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/105, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Give your doctor a copy, as he may want to try some of the suggestions that have been made.

Tofranil (imipramine), which is an antidepressant, has been successful in some cases. Janimine and SK-Pramine are other brand names for imipramine. In one study, the use of imipramine along with training enabled 42 percent of patients to become completely dry.

Antispasmodics that allow the bladder to fill more before needing to empty have also been used along with training.

I would urge people who have incontinence to not accept a negative approach that nothing can be done. Perhaps not in some cases, but there are measures that should be tried.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

BOSTON (AP) - Grateful Dead singer and guitarist Bob Weir is plugging two new cereals he says will make "eating breakfast an environmentally responsible act."

Rainforest Crisp and Rainforest Granola are made with nuts that are grown in the Amazon rain forests, and some of the profits are donated to environmental groups.

Environmentalists are trying to encourage the people of the Amazon to harvest the indigenous products of their dwindling forests instead of cutting the trees down for timber and cattle grazing.

The Grateful Dead, the rock band born in San Francisco in the 1960s, has long been a supporter of rain-forest preservation projects.

"I would like to see life continue on Earth," Weir said at a news conference Wednesday. "Once we destroy the forests and the oceans, life won't be possible here, at least not as we know it."

Sat Santokh Singh Khalsa, founder and president of the Mill Valley, Calif.-based Rainforest Products, said he hopes the conservation message reaches a wide audience through his cereal.

"If we really want people to read our message, we should put it on a cereal box, because everyone reads cereal boxes at breakfast," he said.

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) - Actors Tom Hanks and Geena Davis went on local TV to recruit 5,000 extras to watch them play baseball in a movie they're filming here.

Hanks, Davis and Madonna star in "A League of Their Own," a movie about an all-woman professional baseball league in the 1940s and '50s.

The movie company needs extras Saturday for an overhead shot depicting the crowd at the final World Series of the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League.

Air Force Association to give scholarship

The Panhandle Chapter #181-Air Force Association announces that all high school seniors in Texas, in both public and private schools, have an opportunity to compete for cash awards to be given the winners of a statewide essay contest sponsored by the Air Force Association of Texas.

Three awards, $3,000 for first, $2,000 for second and $1,000 for third will be presented to the authors of the top three essays on the topic, "Should Women in the American Military Assume an Unrestricted Combat Role?"

Guy W. Leach, president of the Air Force Association Panhandle Chapter #181, said the AFA-Texas Earle North Parker Awards are made annually. He explained that any senior student wishing to enter the contest should complete the contest entry form, obtainable from their high school counselors, or from the local essay chairperson, Wanda Jones, 4117 Tucson, Amarillo, Tx. 79108, (806) 352-2036.

The completed contest entry form, along with an original short essay on the above subject of 500-600 words, should be returned to Ms. Jones at the Panhandle chapter #181, P.O. Box 15065, Amarillo, Tx., 79105.

All entries must be submitted by Dec. 7, 1991. Each essay will be evaluated by a local committee and the chapter winner will be announced.

The Panhandle chapter winner will receive a $300 bond and the winning essay will be forwarded to the state office where it will represent the Panhandle Chapter in the statewide competition. Nineteen other AFA chapter winners will compete for the state awards.

Hints from Heloise

Q. I would like to know how to color rice. My daughter is having a bridal shower and I want to use the rice wrapped in netting for table decorations.

A. Sure can! First of all, you'll need regular uncooked rice, not instant rice.

Put 1/2 cup of cold water into a bowl and add a few drops of food coloring one at a time until you get the desired color. Add 2 cups of rice to the dye water and stir. Continue stirring until the rice is the shade you want (if the rice becomes too dark, just add more rice to even out the color).

When the rice is colored to perfection, use a slotted spoon to scoop it out, drain against inside of bowl, then place on folded newspaper to dry. Be sure and spread it out so it will dry quicker and stir the rice around so that it dries evenly. When dry, enclose in netting.

Don't use it on rainy days because the color may bleed. — Heloise

PET WATER BOTTLES

Dear Heloise: Here's an easy way to clean small animal water bottles.

Mix 1 cup of cold water and 3 tablespoons of salt. Pour into pet water bottle and shake well. All the algae comes right off the inside of the bottle.

Rinse very well before filling them and putting them back in the cage. I've also found that this works on small bud vases. — Cathy-Jean Faerber, Hillsborough, N.J.

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, P.O. Box 795000, San Antonio TX 78279 or fax it to 512-HELOISE. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

how-to tip

When using sealants such as silicone caulk to make your home more weather-tight, it's simple to create a smooth, finished appearance. An ordinary kitchen spoon, wetted with water, glides easily over the surface allowing you to tool the sealant to the desired finish.
