County considering noxious weed plan

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

With the bindweed and Canadian thistle squeezing out land in Deaf Smith County, 78 landowners have signed a petition asking for an election to create a noxious weed district for the county.

The proposed district, which must pass a public hearing and an election in January, could include a 6 cents per acre tax on 517,761 acres of cropland outside Hereford but in the county.

This money would be used to pay an inspector who would verify that all landowners, the county, the State Department of Highways and railroads were controlling weeds.

"I think the landowners would be willing to work on their land (to control weeds) if the county right-of-ways were taken care of," stated Ernest Flood, a landowner helping create the district in conjunction with the Texas Farm Bureau.

"The district itself is just a policing agency and it would give authority to the state, county, railroads and landowners to control their weeds. But the real expense wouldn't be the tax. The cost is going to be through the county and state who must spray their weeds."

Precinct 3 Commissioner Troy Don Moore said when he sprayed for bindweed and other noxious weeds along 240 miles of county roads, it cost him about $30 per mile. This means the county might have to pay $36,000 per year to spray all 1,200 miles of county roads, but Moore said the figure could be misleading.

"You're going to have some stretches of miles where there's just pasture and no weeds to control really," Moore said. "Then again, we could go through and spray all our county right-of-ways just once and it wouldn't kill the Johnson grass, so we might be looking at two applications of herbicide."

Moore said he thought the district would be beneficial. Everyone would be forced to control their weeds and prevent them from returning, but he added that the cost might be steep for the county to spray all barnditches.

County Judge Tom Simons agreed that the initial cost would be high, "but it seems to me that if we got the weed control in place, it would be less expensive in the long run."

Commissioner Austin Rose Jr. said that he attempted to create a noxious weed control district 12 years ago, but the reaction was so negative that it never left the ground.

"I think it would go off a lot better now because the weeds are a lot worse. If we hold off this time, the county will be total bindweeds in a few years," Rose said.

Flood said that he thought the negative reaction would be based on having another governmental agency.

"People just don't want to mess with more red tape," said Flood.

If the district were approved after the January election and Deaf Smith County joined Swisher and Hale counties in having noxious weed control districts, the commissioners would appoint a five-member board to hire the inspector.

If a landowner doesn't comply with the inspector's order to control the weeds, the board may file suit in district court for an injunction ordering the landowner to spray.

Flood said another means of forcing compliance is for the county to spray the land, bill the landowner and take a lien on the property.

In other action Monday at the commissioner's court meeting, the commissioners voted to award a bid to the low bidder — Gerhardt & (See COUNTY, Page 2)

Ag chemicals meet Wednesday

An educational program to acquaint employers and laborers with provisions of the new Agricultural Hazard Communication Act will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the banquet room of the Hereford Community Center.

Sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the program will be conducted in both English and Spanish.

The law, better known as the "Right-To-Know Act," was enacted by the 1987 Texas Legislature to promote the safe use of pesticides and protect the health of farm workers, farmers and farming communities.

County Agent Dennis Newton said the meeting will detail responsibilities of employers and inform workers of the safety and health hazards of working in fields and other areas where pesticides are used to produce commodities.

The law applies to employers who hire migrant or seasonal workers with a gross annual payroll of $15,000 or more and who use or store 55 gallons or 500 pounds of any pesticide in a year's time, or employers who hire permanent ag workers with a gross annual payroll of $50,000 or more and who annually use or store 55 gallons or 500 pounds of any pesticide.

Generally, the law requires affected employers to provide "crop sheets" for the product being grown, ensure the sheets are read aloud to each farm laborer "in the most understood language" at least once each growing season.

The law says employers must maintain a workplace chemical list which records information about pesticides used or stored in the workplace, and material safety data sheets for each pesticide purchased. The documents must be available to workers or their representatives upon request.

Bush picks up poll support

By ROBERT GREENE
Associated Press Writer

George Bush basked in the warmth of a post-convention poll showing him ahead of Democrat Michael Dukakis but continued to feel the heat over running mate Dan Quayle and his military record.

Dukakis, meanwhile, met Monday at his home with CIA Director William Webster and other lawmakers and officials involved in intelligence for a briefing on national security and foreign affairs.

Bush and Dukakis carried out long-distance attacks on foreign policy and defense, but the debate was drowned out by the noise over Bush's vice presidential choice.

In the first survey done entirely after the end of last week's Republican National Convention, Bush and Quayle led Dukakis and his running mate, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, by 46 percent to 40 percent.

The CBS News poll of 1,221 registered voters across the country had a margin of error of 3 percentage points. Candidates typically receive a boost in the polls after their party's convention.

But half the respondents did not believe Quayle, 41, has the experience to be a good president, and 28 percent were unsure. Thirty-nine percent wished Bush had chosen someone else.

Quayle, facing questions about whether he used his wealthy family's connections to enter the National Guard and avoid being drafted into combat in Vietnam, found a split jury in the poll.

Forty percent said phone calls made to the guard on his behalf represented "an unfair attempt" to ease his admission; 40 percent said such calls were acceptable and 20 percent were unsure.

Reservations about Quayle were also expressed Monday by Bush supporters, although they rejected suggestions he be dropped from the ticket.

"I think Quayle should assess and if he feels like he's hurting the ticket, he ought to be man enough to step aside," Tommy Thomas, chairman of the Bush steering committee in Florida, said Monday.

"I want to get to know a lot more about him," said New Jersey Gov. Thomas Kean, who delivered the keynote at last week's convention in New Orleans.

But Bush went all out to defend Quayle at a convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, telling the audience of about 4,500 in Chicago that the Indiana senator "did not go to no one can say I've never faced combat," he joked.

In his speech, Bush again hit Dukakis as weak on defense.

"I plan to negotiate strategic arms reductions with the Soviets," Bush said. But, he added, "I will not do what my opponent has suggested — get rid of the MX, the Midgetman, the B-1 bomber and two carrier battle groups. I will not make such unilateral cuts in our defense."

Dukakis countered at a news conference. "How anyone who sat there and did nothing while we sold arms to the ayatollah can seriously talk

"He did not go to Canada, he did not burn his draft card, and he didn't burn the American flag."

—George Bush on Dan Quayle

to Canada and he did not burn his draft card and he damn sure didn't burn the American flag."

Bush was scheduled to tour a steel plant in Seattle, Wash., today before flying to Portland, Ore., and Sacramento, Calif.

Quayle, in a hastily arranged appearance before the VFW, said no influence was used to get him into the National Guard and none was needed because there were vacancies at the time.

"My National Guard unit was never called up to active duty, but let me say that after these last 72 hours about leadership in the Persian Gulf is beyond me."

Dukakis also answered allegations by a Republican congressman that he obtained a deferment until he finished Swarthmore College during the Korean War.

Dukakis said he asked to be drafted immediately after graduation, and he spent 16 months in the demilitarized zone in Korea after the fighting had stopped.

"I'm very proud of that service and very proud of the opportunity it gave me to serve my country," said Dukakis.

Reagan signs trade legislation

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan today signed landmark trade legislation and told an audience at this bustling West Coast port the new law will keep America riding on a "global wave" of prosperity.

He said he was signing the bill despite misgivings over some of its provisions.

"We're here to sign a piece of legislation that will help our economy continue to grow and compete," Reagan said in remarks prepared for a signing ceremony at the Port of Long Beach, one of the world's 10 busiest computerized cargo ports.

Port officials say 60.6 million metric tons of cargo crossed Long Beach piers last year, the most ever recorded at a West Coast port.

The legislation authorizes U.S. participation in current world trade talks, streamlines procedures for retaliatory import curbs against unfair trade practices and makes many other changes in trade laws.

"Our administration and Congress have come together in an effort to ensure open markets around the world," Reagan said. "It hasn't been easy, but I have never doubted our ultimate victory, because we're riding a global wave."

"Country after country is recognizing that free trade is the key to a more prosperous future and that protectionism protects no one, not even the special interests that want it so much."

Reagan, who had objected to what he said were protectionist features in earlier versions of the legislation, said there are still "some things in this bill I don't like."

He said the law could lead to an import fee that would be illegal under international law and "inconsistent with our goal of moving toward free world trade."

He said the bill also appears to require executive branch officers to negotiate with foreign countries on specified trade topics, which he argued is "inconsistent with our constitutional principles."

He also objected that the bill purports to require the International Trade Commission to conduct investigations in response to a resolution passed by just one House or Senate committee.

"And so, in signing this bill I am specifically noting that it will be implemented in a constitutional manner," the president said.

The signing climaxes months of negotiation between the administration and Congress over the bill.

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

There are two basic things wrong with vacations.

There are never enough vacation days, whether you take off for a week, a month, or a year.

There is also Brooks' Vacation Corollary to Murphy's Law: The number of things you would like to do but don't have time for is equal to the number of items you forgot to pack when you left to come home.

I went to Arizona for my vacation. Middle of August. The low in Phoenix on Thursday morning was 89 degrees. Thursday's high in Hereford was 88. Yes, it was hot in Arizona.

Last Sunday's sunset was worth the trip. Out on the desert south of Phoenix there was a dust storm, followed by a desert deluge that dumped .03 inch, then another dust storm. It happened just right for a beautiful sunset.

The best way to describe the colors: Look up "red" in your thesaurus. Every color was there. Throw in a few mountains, some saguaro cactus, and a couple of rainbows, and you have the picture.

There are no "small" players in an NFL training camp. Even the guys you know they are going to cut are huge. The feed bill must be tremendous: It's no wonder the tickets are $25 for a Phoenix Cardinals football game, because it takes a couple of million to feed these guys.

Arizona has gone wild over the Cardinals, a transplant from St. Louis. In almost any store you enter in Arizona, you can purchase Cardinal wares. Need a gallon of milk? Go to Safeway. And while you're there, buy a hat, bumper sticker, pennant and three-, four-, or five-inch button to let everyone know you're a Cardinal fan.

The Cardinals were hot during their pre-season game with the New Orleans Saints. Not only did they score four touchdowns, but the temperature was 101 degrees at game time.

Some of the fans were hot. The Cardinals thought all of their p's and q's were in the right place, but they forgot one of the main reasons for increased attendance across the NFL: Cheerleaders. People are even writing letters to the editor about the lack of girls shaking their, uh, pom-poms on the sidelines. That problem has since been corrected.

bb

The white man did not always speak with forked tongue when dealing with the Indians.

If you want some of the best trout fishing in America, go about 100 miles north of Phoenix, up around Taylor, Arizona.

There's a creek up there that looks more like a raging river. It's fortunate that the trout will bite almost anything, because the Apaches have decided that you must use an unbarbed hook.

Using an unbarbed hook (an unbarbed hook is little more than a piece of bent wire) on a trout makes it more like hooking a tuna out of the Gulf.

The scenery is also out of this world. Did you ever read any Zane Grey books. This place is up on the Mogollon Rim he wrote about.

The white man might have gyped the Indian on places like New York City (although from what I know about New York, maybe it was the other way around), but the Indian got even on this creek with all of the trout up on the Mogollon.

New members installed

The Hereford Rotary Club officially welcomed three new members at its noon meeting Monday. President Dennis Hicks (right) welcomes Leroy Williamson, a farmer; Gene King, assistant office manager at Geroge Warner Seed; and Richard Souter, administrator of finance at Hereford Independent School District.

Miracles probed by clergy

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — One week after reports of miracles came from worshippers at St. John Neumann Catholic Church, people again flocked to a rosary service, despite a bishop's admonition to church officials against promoting reported "messages" from the Virgin Mary.

Almost 1,000 people attended Monday night's Mass and rosary at the charismatic church, where an Aug. 15 outdoor service drew an estimated 12,000 people, hundreds of whom claimed to see Jesus and Mary in the sky during the service.

"This lowly church has been chosen to bring many to see the glories of God, many to know my son," parishioner Mary Constancio reported Mary as saying. The messages reported by Mrs. Constancio and two other parishioners, which they say come to them during Monday night rosary services, have drawn nationwide attention.

But Lubbock Bishop Michael Sheehan wants some of the spotlight on St. John Neumann to fade as he begins investigating claims of miracles made by worshippers at last week's Mass.

He has asked that St. John Neumann pastor Monsignor Joseph James not promote or continue to publish the messages until the investigation is complete.

During Monday night's service, James said he would no longer preach on the reported messages at Sunday Mass, but would continue to speak about them on Monday nights.

Puckett, P.C. — for the county's outside audit.

Gerhardt & Puckett bid an audit not to exceed $10,500 plus $200 in out-of-pocket expenses for postage for 300 to 350 hours of labor.

Brown, Graham & Company (the only other bidder) bid an audit for $10,000 to $12,000 with work to be completed in 12 days.

The commissioners also voted to allow the County Agriculture Extension Office to purchase a computer and software for $1,040.

Dennis Newton, extension agent, said that the computer and software normally would cost about $4,000, but if the county pays for $1,040 of that cost, the state has agreed to pay the rest.

The sheriff's office also received authorization to advertise for bids on a patrol car.

Space flight overshadows all risks, says astronaut

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The dangers in returning Americans to space flight are overshadowed by the rewards, says one of five astronauts scheduled to fly on the first shuttle mission since the Challenger disaster.

"There are certain things in life that the importance really transcends any danger that's involved or risk that's involved," Marine Lt. Col. Dave Hilmers said Monday at the last news conference he and fellow Discovery crew members will hold before their flight.

"The sense of privilege that I have in being a part of this and the purpose very much overshadows any fear that I have."

The launch of Discovery, scheduled for late September or early October, will mark the nation's return to manned space flight. On Jan. 28, 1986, Challenger exploded 73 seconds after liftoff, killing its crew of seven.

Navy Capt. Rick Hauck, who will command the veteran crew on Discovery's four-day mission, said the flight is important to establish confidence in the space program.

Although safety is important, Hauck said he was concerned about people who believe all risks should be avoided.

If the United States becomes afraid to take any risks then "we need to find out who's going to lead the world and follow them," he said.

The mission will be a test flight, Hauck said, noting that the shuttle has undergone 210 modifications since the Challenger tragedy. Although mechanical failures could occur, he doesn't believe any will be life-threatening.

"We clearly could not afford to lose another vehicle, much less another crew," Hauck said. "I don't think the manned space flight program could withstand another Challenger on STS-26 (his flight)."

"That's high stakes, but I'm not concerned that that's going to happen. In the last year and a half, I've seen how we've modified that machine and how we've done business. So I feel very comfortable with the flight."

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have been hesitant to set a date for the often postponed launch because engineers still are grappling with two problems that developed during a test firing of Discovery's engines on the launch pad at Cape Canaveral on Aug. 10, Hauck said. One is a small leak of hydrogen gas detected in an area where the orbiter is joined to the external fuel tank. The other is the apparent sluggishness of three gaseous oxygen valves in the fueling system.

Although NASA officials have said they don't think either problem is serious, they still wanted to test both systems. They hope they can announce resolutions and a launch date this week.

The astronauts' main goal will be to deploy a communications satellite. They also will conduct 11 science and technology experiments.

The other crew members are Air Force Col. Richard Covey, the pilot, and mission specialists George Nelson and Mike Lounge.

In addition to the changes in the orbiter, there were 50 modifications to the shuttle booster rockets. The Challenger disaster was blamed on a faulty joint in one of two solid-fuel booster rockets.

On Monday, a tentative, undisclosed settlement was reached in Richmond, Va., in a lawsuit filed by Jane Smith, widow of Challenger pilot Michael J. Smith, against Morton Thiokol Inc., manufacturer of the faulty booster rocket. The case was the last of the Morton Thiokol lawsuits to be settled.

spective bridegroom, and Lisa Bardach, sister of the prospective bridegroom. The honorees will exchange wedding vows Sept. 10 in Memorial Drive Baptist Church of Houston.

Doodeheefver, Lyles honored

Ingrid Doodeheefver of College Station and Keith Lyles of Fort Worth were honored with a wedding shower Saturday morning in Ward Parlor of First United Methodist Church.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Bobby Boyd, hostess; Mrs. Bill Lyles, mother of the prospective groom; and the honorees.

Ann Rettenmaier of Amarillo, a college roommate of Miss Doodeheefver, served refreshments from silver and crystal appointments. Pink punch, coffee, fresh fruit, sausage balls and a variety of sweets were served from the refreshment table, which was topped with a white lace cloth. Decorating the table was a large centerpiece of fresh flowers. The white spider mums, baby's breath, and greenery were highlighted with pink carnations and pink napkins completed the color scheme.

Mrs. Andy Bardach of Coppell, sister of the prospective groom, registered guests. The registry table was decorated with a bud vase of pink carnations. Corsages of pink carnations were presented to Miss Doodeheefver, Mrs. Barach and Mrs. Lyles.

Hostesses included Mesdames Joe Kerr, Bobby Boyd, Wilbur Gibson, Greg Hazelwood, Charles Hoover, Gene King, Lewis McCustian, Eldon Owens, O.G. Nieman, Homer Rudd, Eugene Sparks, John Stribling, and Leona Miller.

The couple will wed Sept. 10 in Memorial Drive Baptist church in Houston.

Hints from Heloise

LEFTOVER YARN

Dear Heloise: I like to knit and do quite a bit of it. Since with any project, yarn is left over and most of the time it isn't enough for a major or minor project.

I take the leftover yarn, mix colors and types and knit caps for the children at the local cancer clinic and the babies in neo-natal intensive care.

A cap can be made in less than an hour. They are really appreciated in both places. — A Reader, Columbia, S.C.

WASHING MACHINE

Dear Heloise: When washing clothes in the washing machine is it possible for me to use less washing detergent than the label states? — C.N., Big Clifty, Ky.

Detergent manufacturers have carefully designed their products to allow the consumer the best possible results and therefore you should follow the label.

Sometimes a little less detergent can be used if it's very light soil, a small load of clothes, reduced water volume or soft water, but to achieve the best results you should follow the label directions. — Heloise

Between the Covers

By REBECCA WALLS

A Thief of Time continues Tony Hillerman's long-standing tradition of unique and finely crafted mysteries.

A well known anthropologist arrives at an ancient Anasazi Indian ruin and begins her excavation process. She soon becomes angry when she discovers the pre-Navajo burial site has been disturbed. Anger soon gives way to fear and terror she feels toward what looms out in the darkness.

Lieutenant Joe Leaphorn of the Navajo Tribal Police begins his investigation into a report of an anthropologist stealing precious artifacts and discovers that she has also been reported missing. Officer Jim Chee, on a routine search for missing excavating equipment, finds more than he expected near a similar dig sight. Leaphorn and Chee join forces to solve a bizarre and mystifying series of murders that seem to have only the valuable Anasazi pots in common.

Till We Meet Again by Judith Krantz is the story of three unusual women who never fail to accept a risk joyously. Eve brings endless scandal upon herself when she dares to run away from her conventional home to live "in sin." She wins stardom singing at a leading Paris Music Hall, risks her life at the front lines during World War I, and marries Vicomte Paul de Lancel, a high-ranking French diplomat.

Freddy defies her parents and secretly learns to fly at the age of 16. In the 1930's, Freddy competes in the air races against the greatest pilots. She later flies for England during World War II and builds a great aviation company in California after the war.

Delphine lives a secret life of nightclubbing and illegal gambling. On a whim she makes a screen test and becomes a famous star before her 18th birthday. This is the world of Eve de Lancel and her daughters, Freddy and Delphine, who live with reckless courage, humor, exuberant hearts, and very few regrets.

The Duchess of Windsor: The Secret Life by Charles Higham is another fascinating and enchanting story of a life that captivated the world. How was a plain, middle-class, divorced Baltimore woman able to enchant and capture Prince Charming? How could the golden-haired Prince of Wales, later to be King Edward VIII, be so much in love that he would give up his throne?

Few have known the truth about the personal life of the Duchess of Windsor. The biography is the first written since her death in 1986, and newly declassified documents allowed Charles Higham access to information and materials never before seen by the public.

"This material has enabled the author to write an electrifying saga of a woman's intrigues, schemes, and ambitions, played out in a glittering world of the most fabulous wealth and luxury." This is a love story that the romantic novel reader will not want to pass up.

Senatorial Privilege: The Chappaquiddick Cover-up by Leo Demore is a title many of you will find interesting. On Friday, July 18, 1969, sometime between 11:30 p.m. and 1 a.m., a car drove off a bridge on an obscure New England island into a tidal pond. The driver, 37-year-old U.S. Senator Edward Moore Kennedy, survived. Passenger Mary Jo Kopechne died. Why was a married U.S. Senator with Kopechne in the remote area? Why did he leave the scene?

How was he able to leave the accident scene? Why was the accident not reported to the police until 10 a.m. the following morning? Chappaquiddick shook the Kennedy dynasty to the very foundation and came to symbolize cover-up, incompetence, and ruthless raw power of the elite.

Here are the candid recollections of Joe Gargan, Kennedy's cousin, of the night of the Chappaquiddick party, and other personal notes and files that reveal the truth of what happened that night.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: What are the dangers and side effects of taking ibuprofen as in Advil and Nuprin? It relieves my aches and pains of old age and arthritis with only one or two a day.

DEAR READER: For most people that amount is rather harmless, and it is a good medicine for arthritic and muscular pains. It has a lot in common with aspirin. Some claim it is less irritating to the stomach, but it can irritate the stomach and even cause bleeding.

There are also studies that show kidney damage in animals who have been given ibuprofen for a long period of time. And some forms of kidney damage have also been observed in humans, again after prolonged use of larger amounts. Incidentally, patients who have kidney damage already may not have ibuprofen from the body as readily and that can cause an excessive buildup of the medication.

There are rare cases of liver damage. It may also cause fluid retention and should be used with caution under a doctor's supervision by those who have high blood pressure or congestive heart failure.

And it should not be used by those who have a sensitivity to aspirin because there can be a cross reaction even though ibuprofen contains no aspirin.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Astros score 9-7 win over Cubs in 10 innings

By JOE MOOSHIL

AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The second night game at Wrigley Field was a wild one that included rain, overtime and heroics by a rookie catcher.

"Everything that could happen, happened," said Houston starter Mike Scott after the Houston Astros' 9-7 victory over the Chicago Cubs in 10 innings Monday night.

"And then there was the rain," he said, recalling that the first night game at Wrigley was cancelled by rain. "Maybe someone, somewhere, doesn't want night games at Wrigley Field."

Rookie catcher Damon Berryhill hit two home runs and drove in five runs for the Cubs, but it wasn't enough although his three-run homer in the eighth inning gave them a 6-4 lead.

The Astros rallied for two runs against Goose Gossage in the ninth to tie the game and rookie catcher Craig Biggio's first major league home run triggered a three-run 10th to give Houston a 9-6 lead.

An error by shortstop Rafael Ramirez, who had singled in the tying runs in the ninth, and a single by Berryhill in the bottom of the 10th gave the Cubs new life. But Shawn Dunston flied out to end the game. No, it wasn't over.

A balk was called on Juan Agosto as one run scored and Dunston was given new life. This time he grounded out to Ramirez and this time it was over.

Agosto, 10-0, was the winner. His 10-game winning streak is an Astro record.

"Crazy game," said Agosto.

Rick Sutcliffe started for the Cubs and pitched perfect ball in six of the seven innings he worked. However, he gave up five hits and four runs and they all came in the third inning with Scott delivering the key hit, a two-run double.

"Worst game I've pitched since the All-Star break," said Sutcliffe, who retired 13 in a row before giving way to a pinch batter in the seventh.

Scott, touched for three runs in the first three innings, got a dressing down in the third inning when Vance Law asked umpire Terry Tata to check the ball. Tata then checked Scott's glove.

"He (Tata) found nothing," said Astros manager Hal Lanier. "That's all there's to it."

"There were some grass stains on it," said Scott, who apparently wasn't bothered by the incident since he allowed only an infield single after the incident before departing for a pinch batter in the eighth.

Scott was in line for the victory but Joaquin Andujar got into trouble in the eighth, not all of his own making. Andre Dawson opened the eighth with a single and was forced by Rafael Palmeiro.

Law then hit what should have been an inning-ending double play to third but Buddy Bell booted the ball and Berryhill followed with his second homer of the game and fourth of the season for a 6-4 lead.

In came Gossage, who has been ineffective of late. He gave up a pinch single to Kevin Bass but got the next two men out. Then Billy Hatcher doubled and Ramirez singled to tie it up.

Biggio's homer came off Gossage who was booed off the field by the crowd of 30,417.

Hatcher wasn't surprised by Gossage's struggling performance.

"He doesn't have the great fast ball anymore," said Hatcher. "He's trying to get you out with the slider. I hit a slider. I stayed back on the pitch. Sure it was a big game. Every game is a big game when you're four or five games out of first place."

HHS volleyball varsity places fourth in tourney

The Hereford High School varsity volleyball team placed fourth in the Lubbock Invitational Tournament last Friday and Saturday, winning two matches and losing two.

Hereford won its first two matches of the tournament on Friday, defeating El Paso Bowie 15-8, 15-11 in the first round and beating Perryton 15-13, 15-10 in the quarterfinals.

In the semifinals Saturday, Lamesa defeated Hereford 15-8, 15-7, and in the third place match, Andrews won over Hereford, 15-13, 15-17, 16-14.

"We were our own worst enemy at times. Most of our mistakes were mental mistakes," Hereford Coach Brenda Reeh said.

"We realized, however, that we can be very competitive with some strong teams who have longstanding volleyball traditions.

"Overall, I'm pleased with our showing this weekend. We ended up higher than anyone else in our district and that's encouraging," Reeh said.

Lubbock Coronado defeated Mesa in the championship match. The rest of the placings in the tournament were: 5. Lubbock Monterey; 6. Perryton; 7. Pampa; 8. Lubbock High; 9. El Paso Bowie; 10. Lubbock Estacado; 11. Dumas; 12. Borger; 13. El Paso Irvin; 14. Levelland; 15. Lubbock Dunbar; 16. Randall.

On Monday, the Hereford junior varsity played in the Dunbar Junior Varsity Tournament. Hereford beat Plains 15-6, 15-6, and lost to Monterey 15-4, 17-15.

On Thursday, Hereford plays at Brownfield, with the junior varsity match at 2 p.m. and the varsity match at 3 p.m.

The varsity team will compete in the Pecos Varsity Tournament on Friday and Saturday, and the junior varsity will play in the Borger Junior Varsity Tournament on Saturday.

The home opener for both HHS teams will be on Aug. 30 vs. Clovis, with match times of 6:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Kunkel, McDowell lead Texas over Royals

Rangers' offense comes to life, 9-5

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers haven't had to look far to uncover the reason behind their dismal showing in the American League West.

While their pitching has far exceeded expectations, their offense, which set a club record for runs in 1987, has stalled, lagging nearly 180 runs behind last year's pace.

Monday night the Rangers, buried 21½ games behind the pace-setting Oakland A's, downed the Kansas City Royals, 9-5, behind Jeff Kunkel's two-run fifth inning single for the go-ahead run and Oddibe McDowell's three hits.

"We played good and when you play good you're supposed to hit in those situations," Rangers manager Bobby Valentine said. "We hit well even though we left 13 on and we got just enough pitching."

The Rangers took advantage of eight walks yielded by four Royals pitchers and unleashed a 13-hit attack for their fifth win over their last seven games.

"We're buried in the standings, sure, but we can shoot for the teams ahead of us," Kunkel said. "Over the last week and a half we've been putting the pitching and hitting together and winning some games."

"That's what we've been emphasizing lately, just worrying about each individual game instead of how far we are behind."

Texas starter Jose Guzman, 11-10, struggled through six innings, allowing four runs and seven hits, but took advantage of his teammates' offensive barrage.

Ed Vande Berg pitched the final three innings for his first save of the season and first as a Ranger. Vande Berg's last save came on June 15, 1985 against the Royals as a member of the Seattle Mariners. Vande Berg had made 175 big league relief appearances between the two saves.

"I'm not a save man and I've never been save man," Vande Berg said. "I came close a few times last year but it's been a long while. Tonight was my 400th career appearance so that meant something special too."

"I wanted Guzie to get the victory and I wanted Ed to get the save," said Valentine. "It was important for both of them. Guzie earned it but it wasn't easy."

Guzman had thrown 42 pitches in the sixth so he knew he would not be starting the seventh inning.

"It was hot out there," said Guzman of the temperatures in the high 90s. "I didn't think the sixth inning would ever get over. I didn't pitch great but it was important for the team to get the win."

The Rangers shelled Royals starter Floyd Bannister, 9-11, 3-9 over 16 starts dating back to May 21, for four runs and nine hits in 4-1-3 innings.

Kunkel highlighted the four-run Texas fifth with his two-run bloop single as the Rangers sent 10 to the plate. Mike Stanley added a run-scoring double and Scott Fletcher drove in another run with a bases-loaded walk off reliever Jeff Montgomery.

The Royals cut the Rangers lead to 5-4 with two in the sixth on Danny Tartabull's RBI double and Jamie Quirk's sacrifice fly but Texas bumped its advantage to 8-4 in the sixth on pinch hitter Geno Petralli's two-run single and McDowell's run-scoring double.

"We didn't pitch very well tonight, especially in the middle innings," said Royals manager John Wathan. "That's just like Bannister looked the last time against these guys in Kansas City."

Wathan said that under normal circumstances, five runs and 10 hits would be enough to stay in a game considering the Royals' usually efficient pitching staff.

"We did hit well enough to win on most nights," Wathan said. "But you can't make bad pitches like we made and expect to win."

Despite falling 14 games behind the A's, Wathan is not giving up on his third-place club.

"I'm still holding out hope," Wathan said. "Stranger things have happened."

The three-game series continues Tuesday night with Luis Aquino (1-0) starting for the Royals against Jeff Russell (10-5).

Little League World Series qualifier

Saudi team is quite American

By DAVID S. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Dhahran is a lot closer to Mecca than the United States, but Little League coach Cornell Seymour says his team is as American as apple pie.

"We love Saudi Arabia ... but our blood is red, white and blue," said Seymour, a Brunswick, Ga., native whose team is the European entry in the Little League World Series for the second consecutive year.

Of the 14 players on the team, 13 are American and one is British. All are sons of Arabian American Oil Co. employees.

Seymour is a chemical engineer for the company, known as Aramco, and Manager Mark Tucker is a land surveyor for the firm.

Coming from a town in the Middle East causes some confusion for American fans, though, Tucker said.

During a consolation game in last year's Little League World Series, fans for the South Region started chanting, "U-S-A, U-S-A."

"We thought they were rooting for us," Tucker said.

Little League does have to make some concessions to the Saudi Arabian climate. Fields in the Middle Eastern country have hard clay in fields instead of grass, and practice is often held in temperatures over 100 degrees, said Tucker, from Grand Rapids, Mich.

Saudi Arabia has made the Little League World Series four times, but never won it. Last year, eventual champion Hua Lian, Taiwan, defeated Dhahran 7-0 in the opening round.

Dhahran opens Wednesday against Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, the only other team repeating from last year's Series.

Tucker thinks his team is the sleeper of the eight-team, single-elimination tournament.

"I'm confident we're going to go all the way. You can quote me on that. We're going to take this place by surprise," said Tucker, 31, who has coached for only two years.

If Dhahran does win the Series, it would overcome some tall odds.

The Far East has won 17 of the last 21 Series, while the European entry has never won it. And this Saudi Arabian team draws its players primarily from the 2,000 American families living in three Aramco-built towns.

Tucker said he and Seymour culled Dhahran's 14 all-stars from five teams with only about 50 players.

"It's just like a small town in America," Tucker said. But, he added, "Players we have come from a winning tradition."

Only one Saudi has even played on a Dhahran's all-star team, which is the town's entry in the European tournament.

Last year, Wassim Baswari was a substitute outfielder on the team, but he didn't play in Dhahran's loss to Taiwan.

Other foreigners play in the Little League in Dhahran, though, including Pakistanis, Indians, Filipinos, Jordanians and Egyptians, said Juan Ortiz, a Laredo, Texas, native who is commissioner of the Saudi league.

"...being in business for yourself isn't easy."

"We've worked with many of our local farmers through the years, helping them get their crops started...and then helping them carry out their longer term plans for growth.

"And if there's one thing we've learned from all of our experience, it's simply that farming isn't easy. Farmers have a thousand things to worry about...from the economy...to weather...to decisions on increasing their acreage...to decisions in equipment purchases.

"It takes hard work, self-discipline, and a lot of good judgment...plus the determination to succeed...qualities we've come to appreciate.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AUSTIN — Texans everywhere are relieved to learn Gov. Bill Clements, who last month suffered a stroke, has resumed a full work schedule as the state's chief executive.

In Clements' case, the stroke was mild and the governor fortunately was left with no permanent disabilities or scars. And, since the Legislature was not in session and Clements' recovery time was relatively brief, the day-to-day governing of the state was not affected.

But, what if Clements' stroke had been more serious? What if his capacity to serve had been impaired for a long period of time, or even permanently? Does the state have a constitutional mechanism in place to handle such a crisis?

The governor's brief illness has forced state leaders to confront these issues, and the answers aren't very encouraging.

Art. 4, Sec. 3a of the Texas Constitution provides that the lieutenant governor will assume the governor's duties if the governor dies or is unable to perform his duties as governor. This provision last was invoked in 1949, when Gov. Buford T. Jester died, and Lt. Gov. Allan Shivers succeeded him as governor.

That case obviously did not bring into play the constitutional subtleties as would a case of long-term incapacitation. The Clements' case, had it been more serious would have. You see, the Texas Constitution says only that the lieutenant governor takes over when a governor is incapacitated. It doesn't define incapacitation, say whether the lieutenant governor would be in charge temporarily or permanently or describe how such a transition should take place.

The potential hazards are obvious. Even in the best of times, governors and lieutenant governors are rivals to an extent for power in the state. In the worst of times, a governor and lieutenant governor can become downright enemies.

Imagine for a moment a seriously incapacitated governor surrounded by aides determined not to surrender power to a lieutenant governor considered an enemy. Or, imagine a situation where a lieutenant governor attempted to seize power from a governor who is gravely ill, even though all medical experts agreed the governor would recover soon and be able to resume his duties.

The scenarios may sound far-fetched — neither would occur among any of the existing personalities in state government — but no one can predict what type of people will occupy the top two offices during the future. And, there is some precedent for this problem at the national level.

In 1919 and 1920, President Woodrow Wilson was incapacitated by a stroke. His illness was serious, much more so than was Clements'. Wilson simply was not able to discharge the duties of the presidency, and his doctors advised him to resign.

Neither Wilson nor his family really wanted to give up power permanently to the vice president. So, secretly, Wilson's wife and his closest aides ran the country for several months until Wilson was able to return to work.

By all accounts, they did a good job, but they were not being honest with the American people. As a result, the 25th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution was approved, setting a clear line of succession to the presidency and providing for a temporary transition of power in cases like Wilson's.

That amendment never has been invoked, though President Reagan came very close to doing so a couple of years ago when he underwent cancer surgery. Nonetheless, the interests of the nation are better protected because the amendment is in place. There is no chance of presidential power being usurped.

We all can be thankful Governor Clements' illness wasn't more serious. And, maybe it has made us all realize the gray areas surrounding gubernatorial succession should be cleared.

If you have any questions about this or other issues, please write us at P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas, 78711.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You're being called upon to settle another argument.

My husband things I'm crazy and I say that what I'm doing hurts no one and helps me feel better. Please decide who is right.

Whenever I feel tense, especially after a long, hard day, I enjoy curling up with my tank vacuum sweeper.

Please understand, Ann, there is nothing kinky about this. I just happen to enjoy the feeling of warm air blowing on my face and the soothing hum of the motor. It is perfect for relieving stress when anxieties build.

Ann, I'm a responsible mother of four. I don't drink and I don't do drugs, nor do I have affairs or indulge in any far-out, crazy or destructive behavior. My husband is sure that your comment to me will be, "You need professional help, lady." But I think you are broad-minded and nonjudgmental and that my confession will turn up other women who also get comfort from their vacuum cleaners.

Thanks for having the courage to print this letter.—A Utah Woman

DEAR WOMAN: I'll admit that this is a first, but if you enjoy getting cozy with your vacuum sweeper it's perfectly OK with me.

Since you find heat therapeutic and the quiet hum of a motor soothing, may I suggest washing your hair in a nice warm shower and then using a hair dryer?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The enclosed piece appeared in the newspaper in Hobart, Okla. I live in Oklahoma City and my mother saw it and sent it to me. Ann, if you can find room for it in your column, it will surely save some lives. After I read

Names in the News

ROME (AP) — Martin Scorsese's film "The Last Temptation of Christ" will appear in the Venice Film Festival, despite being branded by some church leaders as blasphemous and condemned by Italy's leading political party.

"Why not show it?" asked Genny Fiorin, head of the Cinema Office, in a telephone interview Monday from Venice.

The Christian Democrats denounced the movie in which Jesus must endure the "last temptation" — making love to Mary Magdalene.

The Italian Roman Catholic organization Reagire (React) also sent the festival's director a telegram criticizing the film as blasphemous. The festival begins Aug. 28.

Fundamentalist church groups also have protested the movie in the United States. The movie, which stars Willem Dafoe as Jesus and Barbara Hershey as Mary, is to be released next month.

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Jeana Yeager, who flew to fame as the copilot of Voyager, is experimenting with a more down-to-earth craft that uses only one horse power.

Ms. Yeager has taken up amateur harness racing.

"I like trying things that are new, and this is very exciting," said the 36-year-old woman, who went from the cockpit to the sulky after her record-breaking round-the-world flight with Voyager co-pilot Dick Rutan.

Ms. Yeager, who at 5-foot-4 and 100 pounds is about the right size for harness racing, said recently that the sport enables her to indulge her passion for horses and her fiercely competitive spirit.

She first participated in a celebrity harness race in April, and has since competed in a number of races as part of the Billings Amateur Trot Series.

Ms. Yeager and Rutan piloted the Voyager 25,012 miles in nine days and four minutes for the first unrefueled non-stop flight around the world.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Award-winning director Bille August will make the movie version of Isabel Allende's book "House of Spirits," the Chilean author says.

August expects to begin shooting the film early next year, Ms. Allende said at a news conference Monday in the southern Swedish city of Malmo.

At the Cannes Film Festival last spring, the Danish director's 1987 movie "Pelle the Conqueror" won the Golden Palm award.

Ms. Allende, 46, has written three books, including "House of Spirits."

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Academy Award-winning actress Helen Hayes, who was hospitalized last weekend for an irregular heartbeat, plans to go home soon, her son says.

The 87-year-old actress planned to return to Nyack, N.Y., today, her son, actor James MacArthur, said Monday.

Miss Hayes became ill Sunday while visiting MacArthur in Crested Butte. She was flown 100 miles from the Rocky Mountain town to St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Junction.

"I guess I am getting older," MacArthur quoted his mother as saying.

Doctors initially suspected the elevation was bothering Miss Hayes. She had attended the Republican National Conventin in New Orleans last week and "had gone from a lower elevation to a higher elevation and her body wouldn't tolerate it," said nursing supervisor Karen Bennett.

Crested Butte is around 10,000 feet above sea level. Grand Junction is 6,000 feet above.

Alzheimers meeting Wednesday

The meeting for the Support Group for Alzheimers Disease and Related Disorders will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

The next meeting has been scheduled from 3-5 p.m. Sept. 4 at the Senior Citizens Center. Dr. Mary Birdsong will be presenting the program.

Satisfying beef

Beef tenderloin with oven-roasted potatoes and onions cuts fat without cutting flavor. It's one of many satisfying lean beef dishes that diet-conscious beef lovers will enjoy.

The oldest Olympic winner was Oscar G. Swahn of Sweden who won the gold in the 1912 Running Deer team shooting competition at 64 years, 258 days. He won a silver medal for shooting in the 1920 Olympics.

Beef takes on svelte, leaner new image

(AUSTIN)—With the cattle industry working to produce leaner beef and the meat processor trimming more external fat from individual cuts, beef is taking on a new image that should assure beef and potato lovers that they can still enjoy their favorite meal without feeling guilty.

To be sure, yesterday's steak and today's are not identical. Lean beef has little or no marbling, and its outside fat has been trimmed to one-fourth inch. Consumers who insist that well-marbled beef with a half-inch edging of fat is more tender and flavorful can still buy their old favorite. But they most likely will get it at a supermarket's specialty meat case or from a butcher shop that sells USDA Prime. And, they will pay more for it.

Most supermarket beef today is USDA Choice and Good from animals bred for less fat and more lean. "The change has been in response to consumer demand for meat that contains less fat and is, therefore, considered healthier," said Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) home economist Carol Ware.

Six cuts of beef, termed the "skinniest six" by the beef industry, range from a low of 5.3 grams of total fat to a high of 7.9 grams, most of it unsaturated. "We're used to hearing that all the fat in beef is saturated when actually over half of it is mono- or polyunsaturated," said Merry Klonower of the Texas Beef Industry Council (BIC). Saturated fats tend to raise cholesterol levels in the blood while mono- and polyunsaturated tend to lower it or have no effect.

Three ounces of top round steak, for example, provide 5.3 grams of fat, 1.8 of which is saturated, and 162 calories. Other lean cuts are top loin, round tip, eye of round, sirloin and tenderloin.

While a three-ounce serving may be unrealistic for big eaters, the BIC uses it to keep in line with dietary recommendations of the American Dietetic Association and the American Heart Association. Hungry diners may actually eat five to seven ounces at one meal without straying from official health guidelines if they abstain from meat at the other two, Klonower said.

Either way, beef is a nutritious food, an excellent source of iron, zinc and vitamin B-12. Three ounces provide 45 percent of the daily recommended protein needs of an adult.

When cooked with skill and attention, lean beef is as satisfying as its well-marbled counterpart. Ware tested two recipes, each a reminder that beef doesn't have to be marbled to taste good. Both dishes team potatoes with the beef.

Fresh market potatoes from the High Plains are at their peak of flavor, so now is a good time to buy them. Around 12,000 acres of Red Lasoda and Norgold Russet potatoes will be harvested through fall. Growers say quality this season is excellent.

Red potatoes have reddish-pink skins and a firm texture that makes them excellent boiled and in potato salads. When mature they are big enough to bake. Russets are all-purpose potatoes that can be baked, fried or mashed.

Potatoes by themselves contain virtually no fat. Nutrient dense, they are a good source of vitamin C, vitamin B-6, iodine, copper and iron. Be sure to cook them the next time you serve beef for dinner.

BEEF TENDERLOIN AND POTATO ROAST

- 1/2 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/4 C. chopped parsley, divided
- 1 T. Worcestershire sauce
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 1/4 lb. beef tenderloin roast, trimmed of fat and cut into 8 slices
- 1 lb. potatoes, scrubbed and cut into 1/4-in. slices
- 2 med. sliced onions
- 1/2 C. beef broth
- 1 C. water

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Mix garlic, 2 tablespoons parsley, Worcestershire, salt and pepper in a small bowl. With your fingers, rub this mixture into the beef pieces and place them in a shallow dish. Let the meat marinate at room temperature while you prepare the potatoes. In a large saucepan, bring the potatoes, onions, beef broth and 1 cup water to a boil. Transfer mixture to a baking dish and bake in oven until vegetables are tender and browned, about 45 minutes. When potatoes are cooked, remove dish from the oven and increase temperature to 450 degrees F. Heat a nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Pat the beef slices dry with a paper towel and sear them for 30-60 seconds on each side. Set beef on top of potatoes and return dish to oven. Bake 6-10 minutes or until desired doneness, turning the meat once during cooking. Sprinkle remaining 2 tablespoons of parsley over the top before serving. Makes 4 servings.

STIR-FRIED BEEF-STUFFED POTATOES

- 2 lg. potatoes
- 1 1/4 lb. beef top round steak, 1-in. thick

- 3 T. soy sauce, divided
- 1 T. cornstarch
- 1 tsp. packed brown sugar
- 1/4 tsp. ground ginger
- 1/8 tsp. crushed red pepper pods
- 2 T. vegetable oil, divided
- 1 (16 oz.) pkg. frozen mixed vegetable combination

Scrub potatoes and pierce several times with a fork. Bake at 400 degrees F. 50-60 minutes or until tender. Partially freeze steak to firm. Slice diagonally across grain into strips 1/8-inch thick. Combine 2 tablespoons soy sauce, cornstarch, brown sugar, ginger and red pepper pods. Pour mixture over strips, turning to coat. Marinate at least 5 minutes. Heat 1 tablespoon oil in wok or large frying pan over medium-high heat. Add vegetables and stir-fry 3-4 minutes. Remove from pan and keep warm. Add remaining tablespoon oil and stir-fry half of beef strips 2-3 minutes. Repeat with remaining beef. Return vegetables to pan. Add remaining tablespoon soy sauce. Cook and stir until sauce is slightly thickened, about 1 minute. Divide each potato into 2 portions. Spoon meat and vegetables over each half. Makes 4 servings. NOTE: Scrubbed, pierced potatoes may be microwaved on high in a 600 to 700 watt microwave oven, 10-12 minutes, turning once halfway through cooking time.

On the average, a person takes in about 16,000 gallons of water during his or her life.
