Tax cost low for development funding

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Tax rates in the county would rise very slightly if government entities fund the effort decided to raise taxes to cover the cost of their contributions, the advisory committee of Economic Development Strategy Council learned Thursday night.

The committee also reviewed the goals, strategies and tasks that are identified in the draft of the Strategic Plan for Economic Development and the plan's vision statement for the community.

To fund economic development efforts, an annual budget of $120,000 is planned to cover the costs of needed staff, office space, travel, and marketing expenses. Those costs would be shared by the City of Hereford ($48,000 a year), Deaf Smith County ($48,000 a year), and the Hereford Independent School District ($24,000 a year).

If all three of those entities decided to raise taxes to cover the cost of that investment, the combined tax rate for a City of Hereford resident would rise on 3.5 cents. For a person living outside the city limits of Hereford, the tax rate would climb 1.5 cents.

More specifically, according to EDSC staff figures: a homeowner, with a house valued at $50,000, in the city limits would pay $8.85 a year; a homeowner, with a house valued at $50,000, in the county would pay $3.75 a year. A landowner with a section of land valued at $500 an acre would pay $48.06 a year.

Those figures are far below the investment county residents said, in a recent survey conducted by Texas A&M University's Rural Sociology Department for the EDSC, they would make for economic development. 60 percent of the county residents surveyed said they would be willing to donate one day's pay to make the effort work.

"Even at minimum wage, this is far below one day's wages," said EDSC Executive Director Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner. "None of these dollar amounts come close to a day's worth of wages."

The amount invested by the entities (or, if you want to get technical, out of individual tax-paying pockets) could be returned several times over according to Eichner's "very conservative" projections.

The city and county would break even in 10 years if they invest a total of $240,000 each over the next five years if the tax base in Hereford and Deaf Smith County grows by an extremely realistic $10 million.

Projecting returns over 20 years, the city would receive $330,300 if the tax base grows by only $5 million, a 138 percent return. If the tax base grows by $10 million, it would receive $660,600—a 275 percent return.

The county's growth would be even more dramatic. If the county's tax base grows by $5 million, it would get $351,300 in return for its $240,000 investment. If the county's tax base grows by $10 million, the county would get $702,600—a 293 percent return.

The school district would reap even greater benefits. For a $120,000 investment over five years, the district would receive $208,560 if the tax base grows by $5 million. If the tax base grows by $10 million, the return in twenty years would be $1,042 million—a staggering 869 percent return on its money. The school district would break even in just seven years with a $10 growth in the tax base.

"That doesn't take jobs and payroll into account," Eichner said. "A $10 million growth in the tax base would translate into about 100 new jobs for the community."

Eichner explained the various functions of each of the committees involved in the process to design a Strategic Plan for Economic Development, and the advisory group reviewed the goals, strategies and tasks included in the draft SPED.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says your last mistake is your best teacher.

Human nature is what makes a man prefer to give advice rather than taking it.

During World War II a bright young farmer in the army overseas received a letter from his wife. She wanted to know how she was going to plant the potatoes in the east 40 without his help.

The soldier wrote back, "Whatever you do, dear, don't dig up the east 40. That's where the guns are buried." As is customary in wartime, his letter was read by the censor. Not long after he received a reply form his upset young wife saying, "A company of soldiers overran the east 40 and dug it all up. What shall I do now?"

"Plant the potatoes!" came the reply.

Hereford's Chamber Singers will present a concert for Hereford and area residents on June 5, and it will be a preview of the show they will stage at World Expo '88 in Brisbane, Australia in June. The group leaves June 11 for Australia. The concert will be free, but residents will have an opportunity to make donations to aid the Singers' trip.

We were happy to learn that T.R. Sartor, baseball coach and assistant football mentor, has decided to stay at Hereford High. Sartor announced his resignation in March to take a head football job at Nevada, Tex., but later changed his mind. Sartor and his Herd baseball team are in Lubbock today for the bi-district play day.

In a recent Bull column, we listed some words that Texans pronounce a little different than folks in other parts of the nation. A day or two later, we picked up a column from The Snyder Daily News that pointed out the colloquialisms which many West Texans use in their conversations. We doubt that West Texans are any more addicted to "sayings" than other folks across the country, but here are a few that come to mind:

"All in the same boat...as easy as falling off a log...barking up the wrong tree...beats anything I ever saw...bent out of shape...bleeding like a stuck hog...blind as a bat...breathing down somebody's neck...called on the carpet...he can't cut the mustard...can't win for losing...cool as a cucumber...clean as a whistle...crazy as a bedbug...dirt cheap...don't put all your eggs in one basket...down in the dumps...let's get down to brass tacks...down to the nitty gritty...he's driving me up the wall.

Also: "drunk as a skunk...he's eating crow...use some elbow grease...his eyes were bigger than his stomach...fair to muddin'...tolerably well...fixin' to fly off the handle...get the show on the road...get it while the getting's good...got him behind the eight-ball...got him over the barrel...jumpy as a cat on a hot tin roof...high as a kite...let's hit the hay...madder than an old wet hen...making a mountain out of a mole hill...wheelin' and dealin'...

You probably know and use many more.

Confused? Here's an EDSC overview

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

"We're confused!"

More than one person—from interested citizen to very-involved board member—has said they are confused about the goings-on of the Economic Development Strategy Council, the progress it has made, the processes it has gone through, and just exactly what the goals and strategies are for Hereford and Deaf Smith County at this point.

We have some explaining to do for you. Here is a look at some of the committees, their purposes, and the goals and strategies that have come out of the process.

Economic Development Strategy Council: This is the board which evolved from the old Waste Deposit Impact Committee. The WDIC had six members—one appointed by each taxing entity in Deaf Smith County. The WDIC appointed nine other members, each representing an identified special interest group, to become the 15-member EDSC.

The EDSC has final responsibility for the makeup of the Strategic Plan for Economic Development.

Once the Strategic Plan is in place, the EDSC will no longer exist. Its role will be shared by the Economic Development Council and the Community Development Council.

Advisory Council: 70 persons from throughout the city and the county were selected by the EDSC to serve as an advisory group. This group is called upon to look at each aspect of the Strategic Plan, make changes it feels necessary, and add more community-wide input into the plan.

The ad hoc committee: The ad hoc committee was formed because the EDSC and its executive director, Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner, felt that the entities that would eventually provide funding for the Strategic Plan—the city, county, school district, and chamber of commerce—needed to meet immediately to devise an implementation mechanism.

Interest groups: Specific persons representing specific interests (Hispanics, high school students, retailers, and many others) were called upon to help identify specific goals, strategies for reaching those goals, and tasks that would complete those strategies. The interest groups are expected to meet at least once more before the process is complete.

Strategy design team: This team will be called upon to help strengthen each strategy. The team is made up of the top official of each local governmental entity, the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, and several state agencies. PRPC and the agencies are involved because of their work in similar efforts elsewhere, and because they may be able to help secure funding for at least some of the strategies.

Goals: There are 13 goals—six for economic development, seven for community development and quality of life.

The economic development goals are:

1. Diversify the agricultural economic base.
2. Assist current businesses, from cattle to manufacturing, to stay strong and grow.
3. Broaden the industrial base by diversifying into compatible non-agricultural manufacturing industries.
4. Revitalize the retail sector.
5. Increase available financing for business expansion and new ventures.

6. Develop and market the community as a retirement center with the focus on the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

The community development and quality of life goals are:

1. Establish initiatives that promote a progressive, optimistic, and unified community with positive relations between all residents, including Anglos and Hispanics, townspeople and farmers.
2. Establish programs that promote strong community and parental commitment to excellence in youth education.

3. Implement a comprehensive program for adult learning.

4. Improve the appearance of the community's entrances, downtown, public facilities, business zones, and residential neighborhoods.

5. Provide increased public and commercial recreation and entertainment opportunities for the whole community.

6. Establish the programs, social environment, and work opportunities that will help ensure that the youth become the community's key to a bright future.

7. Strengthen and promote the community's awareness of, and commitment to, the preservation of its natural resource and environmental quality through proper stewardship and soil and water conservation practices.

Each of the goals has several specific strategies, and tasks have been developed for many of the strategies to make them more easily achievable.

Faculty senate president

asks for Roach's resignation

Fed-up faculty pack meeting

By WENDY E. LANE
Associated Press Writer

CANYON, Texas (AP) — Almost 100 West Texas State University faculty and staff crowded into a year-end regents' meeting stood and cheered as the faculty senate president called for President Ed Roach's dismissal.

"The time for debate about who's right and who's wrong is over," said Gary Byrd, a psychology professor. "We have reached the point where we must ask if the current president is capable of leading the university out of its current crisis."

"We faculty think he is not." The audience, predominantly faculty members, stood and applauded loudly in a hostile confrontation with regents that capped a year of strife-between Roach and faculty. Thursday's meeting ended with regents deciding to gather more information.

During Roach's four-year tenure, the faculty has issued a no-confidence vote in his leadership, and calls for his resignation have grown louder this semester following a lawsuit filed by Roach against the anonymous publishers of an underground newspaper.

The suit was later withdrawn, after Byrd and Spanish professor Mary Gill said they had published "The Rest of the Prairie."

A review panel of outside academics was brought in earlier to hear faculty grievances and the board retired into executive session to discuss the panel's report for more than three hours.

After the session, board of regents chairman T. Boone Pickens said the report made no recommendations for action on resolving problems between Roach and the faculty.

Regents would not divulge contents of the report, and Pickens characterized it as confirming "poor relations at West Texas State between the administration and some of the faculty."

The regents then voted to create a committee to meet with the review panel to gather more information and possible recommendations.

Before the session, Byrd said that reconciliation between Roach and the faculty was no longer possible.

Regent Ed Scott asked Byrd, "Well, what can Ed do?"

The crowd responded with shouts of "Leave, leave, resign." Regent Leo Forrest, one of two regents voting against forming the committee, said he didn't see a need for the delay, but "there were some things in there we didn't understand."

Byrd said he was disappointed. "In my opinion, WT does not have a whole lot of time to get this resolved," he said.

Lions offer 12 life-time memberships

Twelve members of the Hereford Lions Club were honored Wednesday for years of service and dedication to the civic club's activities as they received life memberships to Lion organizations.

Dr. Milton Adams was awarded a life membership in Lions International after 42 years in Lionism. Receiving life memberships in the Crippled Children's Camp were Cawthon Bryant, W.H. Andrews, B.F. Cain, L.J. Clark, Virgil Walker and Bernard Roberson. Five life memberships in the Hi-Plains Eye Bank were awarded to Robert Thompson, Jimmy Allred, Charlie Bell, Charles Watson and Alton Farr.

The Lions' board voted to increase the annual donation to Kings Manor from $100 to $500, it was announced at the meeting Wednesday. K. Don Spurgin, who presided at the weekly meeting, also recognized scholarship winners Stacy Bronlow and Misty Stokes. They received the club's $750 scholarship awards at the Senior Assembly.

Spurgin reminded members that the annual carnival, a major fund-raising project, has been scheduled July 11-16.

Savings and loan merger angers private stockholders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stockholders of Lamar Savings Association, merged into an association owned by a member of the wealthy Hunt family of Dallas, charge federal regulators snubbed their private recapitalization proposal.

But federal officials say the decision was the best choice.

Austin-based Lamar Savings Association, the 11th-largest thrift in Texas, was merged into Southwest Savings Association of Dallas, owned by the Hunts, under a plan announced by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board this week.

"Texas is a political pie being carved up by those with the big political connections. Lamar had some of the choicest real estate in the state — the cream of the cream ... and they just stole it," said Laurie Paxson, the president of Signature Communications of Austin and a spokeswoman for the Lamar majority stockholders, who proposed a private recapitalization plan.

Ms. Paxson said the Lamar majority stockholders — Stan Adams III and his sisters, Hazel and Naomi Adams, had pulled together a deal to pump $1.6 billion in private capital into the troubled thrift, but that the bank board officials ignored their plan and wouldn't meet with them.

She said the Adams siblings, whose father, Stanley E. Adams Jr., bought Lamar 19 years ago and who is majority stockholder of City Savings in San Angelo, had spent considerable money on a Chicago consultant, The Whitehall Group, and an outside auditor to put together the private recapitalization plan.

"We feel it was not even considered. It never got an audience," she said.

But bank board spokesman Karl Hoyle said the plan was not ignored. "It was reviewed," he said.

Officials described the merger as perhaps the biggest thrift restructuring under the Southwest Plan designed to shore up the crippled industry in Texas.

The Caroline Hunt Trust Estate owns 90 percent of Southwest, although Ms. Hunt, the 64-year-old daughter of the late billionaire wildcatter H.L. Hunt, has no active involvement in the association and does not sit on its board of directors, a company spokesman said.

"The Federal Home Loan Bank Board made a business decision as to what was the best way to go. We reviewed all the plans, including theirs. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board made the best business decision in the interest of FSLIC, the surviving institutions and Southwest," Hoyle said.

A Southwest thrift spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said it asked to be part of the Southwest Plan and regulators presented various institutions for acquisition.

"It was not like a kid in a candy store," he said.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. will spend a record $2 billion on the deal, in which City Savings and Loan Association of San Angelo, Stockton Savings Association of Dallas, and Briarcroft Savings Association of Austin were also merged into Southwest. Their combined assets are now more than $6 billion.

The merger is the second under the bank board's Southwest Plan to consolidate unhealthy thrifts with healthy institutions. Texas now has 101 insolvent thrifts, down from 109 before the first merger went through last week.

According to the bank board, Lamar committed numerous regulatory violations that included "reckless and imprudent underwriting and lending practices," lending too much to one borrower, and violating conflict of interest and loan documentation rules.

"As a result of these actions, Lamar became insolvent in October 1986 and the institution was put in the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's management conservatorship program the same month. Lamar's negative net worth has continued to grow."

As of March 31, the bank board said Lamar had a negative net worth of $331.9 million, with assets of $1.9 million and liabilities of $2.2 billion.

Voice of Yogi Bear and other cartoon creatures dies at 71

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The voice of Yogi Bear, Huckleberry Hound, Quick Draw McGraw and dozens of other cartoon characters loved by a generation of Americans has fallen silent. Charles Dawson Butler is dead at age 71.

Daws Butler, as he was professionally known at Hanna-Barbera Productions, died of a heart attack Wednesday at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, the studio announced Thursday. Butler had suffered a stroke and had been battling pneumonia in the past few months, the studio said.

"I just don't know how the industry will get along without him. There are a lot of people who can imitate Daws but he was the original," said Janet Waldo, who was the voice of Judy Jetson on "The Jetsons" series.

"He was one of the most talented artists we've ever been associated with," Hanna-Barbera president Joe Barbera said. "He was a little man, but a giant. ... Here's a man that walked into a studio in 1967 and helped us launch this whole company."

Ms. Waldo met Butler on her first cartoon assignment as Mrs. Jetson. Butler played her son, Elroy.

"I watched Daws work, and I thought this is impossible that this one little man can come forward with all these voices," she said of the 5-foot-2 Butler.

Butler was the voice of 42 cartoon series regular characters, among them Snagglepuss, Wally Gator, Baba Looey, Augie Doggie, Mr. Jinks, Lippy the Lion, Snooper and Blabber, as well as hundreds of other incidental characters.

Among Butler's well-known lines were Yogi Bear's "I'm smarter than the average bear"; Snagglepuss' "Exit, stage left"; and Quick Draw McGraw's "Hold on there! I'm the sheriff around here."

Butler also was the voice of Cap'n Crunch for the Quaker Oats cereal company, and of many characters in Jay Ward's "Fractured Fairy Tales" and "Aesop and Son." Kellogg's used his voice for Snap, one of the Rice Krispies characters.

"He will be terribly missed by everyone at our studio," said Hanna-Barbera co-founder Bill Hanna.

Barbera said there will be a search to replace Butler. Candidates will practice characters' lines, then give the studio an interpretation.

Butler was born in Toledo, Ohio, and grew up in Oak Park, Ill.

During World War II he served in the U.S. Naval Reserve and was married. His wife, Myrtis, was from North Carolina, and Butler maintained that Huckleberry Hound's Southern accent came from listening to her family and neighbors.

Butler moved his family to California in 1945, and by 1948 was starring in "Time For Beany," the West Coast's first TV puppet show. The show ran for five years. In 1967 he went to work for Hanna-Barbera.

Butler is survived by his wife and sons David, Donald, Paul and Charles. A funeral was scheduled for Saturday at Good Shepherd Church in Beverly Hills.

ADVISORY

A major suggestion from the advisory group's meeting was that the advisors should remain intact throughout the economic development process, including meetings in future years with committees charged with overseeing economic and community development efforts.

"That advisory committee should stay intact because we have been involved in the entire process," said committee member Kerrie Steiert, who added that the advisors could help make sure the committees are accountable for their actions.

"It's not just for accountability's sake, but the community as a whole will have to put its efforts behind whatever we do to make this work," Eichner replied. "The professional that is eventually hired will need the community's resources—not necessarily its dollar resources but its people resources. The other side is that it will take time for people to understand why things have happened and why they haven't happened."

"Economic development is a community-based process that takes a great deal of time. You don't wait the resources of a professional directed totally to community involvement. The kind of process we have been through to develop this plan would be overtaxing for a professional if we want that person to solicit new business and industry."

Today and Saturday, local residents will be receiving a newsletter from the EDSC explaining the entire process. The EDSC also plans a meeting for the general public at 7 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

Business incubators cutting costs

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Some entrepreneurs are using business incubators that provide them with facilities to work together in an inexpensive space and to share support services and consulting expertise.

The Metropolitan Economic Development Council has opened the Richmond Technology & Enterprise Center to support small business. Council director A.J. Christopher Wood says, "Business incubators often help new businesses achieve a 90 percent success rate instead of the 50 percent failure rate typical among start-up companies."

Wood says metropolitan areas benefit by providing the incubators, by getting more jobs, more tax revenue and greater central vitality. He says there now are more than 275 incubators in the country, compared with 110 in early 1986.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read a letter in your column describing how the media intrudes into the lives of people who have suffered a tragedy.

Your answer was good, Ann, but it failed to address the rights of survivors. Mothers Against Drunk Driving believe that family members of victims in drunk driving crashes (and, by inference, all tragedies) have certain rights. Here they are:

1. You have the right to say no to an interview.
2. You have the right to select the time and place for an interview.
3. You have the right to ask for a specific reporter, although editors can rarely comply with this request because of conflicting assignments.
4. You have the right to release a written statement through a spokesperson instead of giving an interview.
5. You have the right to keep your minor children from being interviewed.
6. You have the right to refrain from answering questions that make you uncomfortable.
7. You have the right to ask to check the story prior to publication. Editors almost never grant such requests, but asking may make sure they remind the reporter to double- and triple-check the facts.
8. You have the right to ask that offensive photographs or visuals not be used.
9. You have the right to conduct a television interview behind a screen in order to conceal your identity.
10. You have the right to ask that your photograph not appear in the paper.
11. You have the right to file a formal complaint against a reporter.
12. You have the right to file a formal complaint against a reporter.

As a lifelong journalist, I am aware that catastrophic news sells papers and gets high TV ratings. For most media, "bad news is good news." Something in human nature makes this so, and nothing can be done to change it. But we must, at the same time, be sensitive to the feelings of the survivors. It is for them that these guidelines have been drawn up. I hope they are helpful.—Reginald E. Ausmus III, administrative assistant, San Diego County MADD

DEAR MR. AUSMUS: On behalf of all my readers I thank you for an excellent contribution to this space.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have never seen this issue raised in your column, but it is something that every prospective bride and groom should think about, especially those who love birds.

I am getting married in September and I'd like to have birdseed thrown instead of rice. Hard, dry rice is harmful to birds. According to ecologists, it absorbs the moisture in their stomachs and kills them.

How can I get this message across to my guests, without sounding like some kind of a nut? My fiancé is a bird-lover, too, and says it's OK with him if I say this in the invitation.—K.M.M., Long Island

DEAR K.M.M.: A Connecticut lawyer has introduced a bill banning instant rice from weddings because it can indeed be lethal to wildlife. But to state this on the invitation would be in poor taste. Ask your bridesmaids and ushers to pass the word to as many guests as possible.

My laugh for the day: The longest wait in the world is when the nurse says, "Take off all your clothes, the doctor will be with you in a minute."

Do you have questions about sex, but nobody you can talk to about them? Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," will give you the answers you need. To receive a copy, send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped No. 10 envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0662.

Concert planned tonight

"Restoration" will be the theme of a concert of contemporary Christian music at 7:30 p.m. today in the First Church of the Nazarene. The public is invited to attend the event.

There will be no charge for the event but a love offering will be collected to benefit the Nazarene Christian Academy.

Dawn Music Club hears Hawaiian tunes

Dawn Music Club met Tuesday afternoon at Dawn Community Center.

The meeting was opened as members recited the club collect of Federated Music Clubs of Texas.

Helmi Caraway gave a short resume of plans for the District one meeting to be hosted by Stratford this fall and the state meeting set in Amarillo in March, 1989.

Mrs. Ruby Wimberly presided at the regular business session. Mrs.

Jeanie Galley was elected president to fill the unexpired term of the late Mrs. Alfred Smith.

The program consisted of Hawaiian melodies including "I'me Au la Oe", by King, "Hua Lil" (Tiny Bubbles by Leon Porter), and "Piper O Ewa (Pearly Shells by Leon Prober). Wimberly played these selections on the piano.

Group singing of "Aloha Oe" and "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling" by Beecher, the hymn of the month, concluded the program.

Caraway served as hostess to Wimberly, Galley, Lula McCabe, Sowell, and Susie Curtsinger.

Amos Alonzo Stagg coached football at Yale University for 71 years.

Mavs in NBA 'Final Four' for first time

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks are in the NBA Final Four for the first time, and Sam Perkins said it takes him back to North Carolina.

"I still have goose pimples," Perkins said. "It's the best feeling since the Tar Heels won the national championship when I was on the team. We're in the Final Four."

Rolando Blackman scored nine straight points in the fourth period Thursday night to carry the Mavs to a 108-95 victory over the Denver Nuggets before a capacity crowd of 17,007 in Reunion Arena.

Dallas won the best-of-seven semifinal series 4 games to 2. It clinched Dallas' first visit to the Western Conference championship series.

"It's absolute fantasy," said Dallas owner Donald Carter. "It's like a fairytale. We've come a long, long way. I feel like a daddy-sized Jolly Green giant."

Denver's Alex English scored 34 points, but couldn't make up for the loss of LaFayette Lever and Jay Vincent, who missed the last three games with injuries.

"We had to change our lineup and play with what we had," said NBA Coach of the Year Doug Moe. "We had to scramble to find some scoring. You just have to accept what fate deals you. Some things you have no control over."

Blackman and Perkins each had 23 points and Roy Tarpley, the NBA's best sixth man, had 18 points and 19 rebounds.

"It's a great feeling to be part of history," Tarpley said. "We can always say we were the first ones to get to the Western Conference finals."

Dallas had lost the Midwest Division title to the Nuggets, who won 16 of their last 18 games.

Blackman is Dallas' best clutch player and relished the role of getting the ball in the clutch.

"I wanted the ball in my hands," Blackman said. "I live for those situations. The plays down the stretch were designed to get me the ball and try to make chances to score."

"I'm glad he is in a Mavericks' uniform," Dallas Coach John MacLeod said. "When I was at Phoenix, we would try and figure out ways to defend against him and we weren't successful."

Moe agreed that Blackman was the difference.

"Blackman had the hot hand. He is just a great clutch player. Dallas played good enough to win," Moe said. The Mavs are certainly one of the darkhorses to get to the NBA Finals, Moe said.

"It's tough to say how they will do, and I think they will have to play a

EXPANSION DRAFT

NEW YORK (AP) — The Charlotte Hornets and the Miami Heat, two of the four expansion teams in the NBA, will be able to select players this year in the expansion or "stocking" draft.

The other two new clubs, the Minnesota Timberwolves and Orlando Magic, will have to wait until 1989.

Under the rules of the expansion draft, each NBA club will be able to protect eight men from its roster. No team will be required to give up more than one player in the stocking draft over the next two years.

bit better than they did against us tonight," Moe said. "They are a tougher team this year."

Carter said MacLeod's biggest contribution to Dallas was getting the team mentally tough.

"This team would have folded under all the adversity last year, but you can see John has made great inroads with mental toughness," Carter said.

Mark Aguirre, the Mavs' highest scorer, only made 4 points as Dallas went to Blackman in the stretch.

"We're going to a place we've never been before," he said. "We're going to do some celebrating then get ready to go to the finals."

Dallas Center James Donaldson added, "We're getting stronger as the playoffs go on."

The Western Conference finals will begin Monday night in either Los Angeles or Dallas.

If Utah wins its series against the Lakers, the Mavericks will have the home court advantage and host the Jazz in the first game. A Los Angeles win in Saturday's seventh game of the series means would give the Lakers the home court advantage against Dallas.

Jazz 108, Lakers 80

The Boston Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers were heavy favorites to battle for the NBA title for the fourth time in the last five years.

Atlanta and Utah have other ideas.

The Utah Jazz handed the Lakers the sixth worst playoff defeat in the franchise's history Thursday night, 108-80, to send their series into a decisive seventh game Saturday afternoon at Inglewood, Calif.

Tonight in Atlanta, the Hawks can end the Celtics' season. Atlanta leads the series 3-2, and Game 7, if necessary, will be played Sunday at Boston.

Prior to the game, Utah coach Frank Layden was upset with Karl Malone for predicting the Jazz would win Game 6. Malone made sure by scoring 27 points and grabbing 11 rebounds.

"He shouldn't say that," Layden said. "When you walk by the lion, it's better to do it softly. You don't want to wake him up."

The Jazz didn't have to wake up the Lakers. They just ran past them. It was the worst playoff defeat suffered by the defending champion Lakers since they fell to the Celtics 148-114 in Game 1 of the finals on May 27, 1985.

"We came out with an attitude to come out running," Malone said. "We didn't back down."

Bi-district baseball playoff begins today in Lubbock

After a week and a half without a game, the Hereford High School varsity baseball team plays Pecos today at 7 p.m. in Lubbock in the first game of a best-of-three series.

Game two is scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday, and a third game, if necessary, will be played immediately after game two. The games will be played at Chaparral Field at Lubbock Christian University.

Hereford enters today's game with a 21-2 season record and Pecos is 18-8. Hereford won the District 1-4A title with a 14-2 record, and Pecos finished second in District 2-4A with an 11-3 record, defeating Monahans in a second place tiebreaker game.

Bobby Hansen scored 25 points on 10-for-11 shooting, while John Stockton had 14 points and 17 assists for the Jazz. Stockton, the NBA assist leader with 13.8 per game, is averaging 14.3 in the playoffs and has had at least 12 in each of the six games against the Lakers.

Los Angeles, meanwhile, combined for only 16 assists Thursday night, with Magic Johnson's nine leading the way.

The Jazz never trailed after Malone gave them an 8-7 lead and Los Angeles scored just 13 points in the opening quarter.

Five Lakers scored in double figures, led by Byron Scott's 16.

Junior high golf round is rained out

The final junior high school golf round of the season was rained out Thursday at Southwest Golf Course in Amarillo.

Hereford Coach Stacy Bixler reported that the storm hit that part of Amarillo after about six holes had been played in the scheduled 9-hole round.

Other schools that were playing in the round were Canyon and Valleyview. Bixler said the round will not be made up or rescheduled.

Johnson, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Michael Cooper were held to just 10 points apiece, with all of Johnson's coming in the first half.

Celtics-Hawks
Boston will be trying to avoid its earliest exit from the NBA playoffs in five years when the Celtics tangle with Atlanta tonight.

"Game 6 will be tougher than tonight, but I think we're tough enough to come back," Larry Bird said after the Hawks upset the Celtics 112-104 Wednesday night to snap Atlanta's 13-game losing streak at Boston Garden.

"They did a big job winning here (Boston)," Celtics coach K.C. Jones said. "That was monumental. We've got to go down there and try to pull it out."

A Celtics victory would send the series back to Boston, something Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins doesn't want.

"We've just got to win," Wilkins said.

On TV, you can see the candidates running. In the newspaper, they have to take a stand.

In-depth, hard-hitting information on the candidates makes for better informed, more responsible voters. That, in turn, makes for better, more responsible elected officials. And that's good for everybody. Unfortunately, too often these days we're asked to vote on images rather than issues. Information is being replaced by slick video production techniques and meaningless phrases. In this age of the 30-second candidate, newspapers are more important than ever.

Not just because of what newspapers have to say about the candidates, but because of the opportunity candidates have to say something about themselves. Pay close attention to the political advertisements which appear in these pages over the coming months. Candidates who advertise in the paper are taking advantage of an opportunity to discuss the issues... without a 30-second time limit. After all, a candidate who won't come to the point on the issues just doesn't get the point of the campaign. Use the newspaper for all its worth. Our issues can help you decide where to stand on a whole lot of other issues. Study up. There will be a short quiz on November 8th.

Information about the event may be obtained at the church office, 364-9770.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The 11 a.m. Sunday worship will feature Senior Recognition as youth from the class of '88 will be honored.

McKinsey Parlor of the church will be the site of a reception celebrating the retirement of Marie Stringer. The event is set for Sunday from 2-4 p.m.

There will be no Sunday night service so members may attend Baccalaureate services set for 8 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

Today, May 20, First Baptist Kindergarten will hold graduation services at 7:30 p.m. K-5 students will graduate.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. Bruce Kochsmeier's sermon for Sunday morning worship service is titled "Growing Up". The scripture is found in Acts 2:1-21.

The Ephesians Circle, a women's Bible study, will meet Monday at 9:30 a.m. in the small fellowship hall. Youth group will not meet Sunday night so that all may attend the Baccalaureate service.

Scripture for Lunch Bunch, set for Wednesday at noon, features scripture for the coming Sunday. Everyone is invited to bring their lunch and join in this informal gathering. Scripture for this week will be Romans 8:31-39.

Mission Yearbook: Today we are asked to pray for a Presbyterian church in Atlanta that has come back to life because layperson Bob Lupton found a way to help low income people help themselves without taking away their dignity. In 1971 he began Family Consultation Service, which by 1987 had built 30 homes in Atlanta and provided no interest loans for new owners. Bob Lupton's small start has become a tangible extension of the Gospel that involves 20 full-time employees. Please pray for this relevant Doing of the Gospel, today.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

Susie Merrick and Jim Haile will be in concert today, Friday, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the church. "Restoration" will serve as a benefit for the Nazarene Christian Academy as a love offering will be taken.

A bus will leave at 10:30 a.m. Saturday for Lubbock so fans can watch the Herd play Pecos for the bi-district title.

Deadline to register for the National Christian Youth Congress set for June 23-26 is Sunday. This Wednesday's L.I.F.E. will come to order with a mock trial as Kevin and Cathy Bunch serve as interim youth pastors. 1988-89 seventh graders are invited to attend.

"We are Ministers", a musical presentation of the Garlow Concepts of Lay Ministry training, will be presented by the Clovis Nazarene Choir Sunday at 6 p.m.

NCA teachers will be feted with a dinner Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the church. A graduates' hamburger fry will be held at the parsonage May 26.

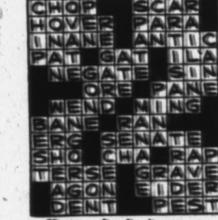

A lock-in of fifth and sixth graders will occur May 27 from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m.
