Winds, rains gush in county

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Tornadic and straight-line winds that included gusts estimated at over 100 mph ripped through Hereford and Deaf Smith County on Thursday afternoon, causing scattered damage, while rains up to 6 inches flooded fields north and east of Hereford.

The storm blew into Hereford at about 4 p.m. Thursday, dumping a half-inch of rain in less than an hour. Winds were clocked at a steady 40 mph with gusts to 60 mph at KPAN, the official National Weather Service recording station for the county.

There were scattered damage reports, with limbs broken off trees, whole trees felled by the winds, and roof damage.

"I had a cottonwood that was about six years old that was uprooted," said David Hutcherson, 424 Paloma Lane. "It was about 30 feet tall, and it just broke it. I guess we're lucky that it wasn't 20 or 30 years old, because it probably would have come right through the house."

Some tenants at Quality Motel, at Park Ave. and U.S. Highway 60, were forced to move to other rooms after sections of the roof on some units were blown off. The winds also scattered sheet metal and snapped a triangular television antenna in two.

Hereford was apparently not in the direct path of the storm as it moved from northwest to southeast. The largest rainfall amounts were to the east of Hereford, where there was also an unconfirmed tornado.

"It was blowing so hard it wouldn't go in the rain gauge," said Cal Mitts at Northwest Grain at Milo Center. "It blew a bunch of corn down."

About 30 minutes later, the storm apparently gained strength, and moisture, as it passed over the

Surveying damage

Tenants at the Quality Motel in Hereford look out of their rooms into the parking lot, which was strewn with sheet metal and downed power lines after Thursday afternoon's storms. Some of the tenants were forced to move to new rooms after portions of the roof blew off the building. No damage estimates were available.

Horizon Seed facility about six miles east of Hereford.

"We got 5-6 inches of rain," said a spokesman at Horizon Seed, six miles east of Hereford. "The brunt of the storm came right through here. We had water over the highway, running down through the fields. Things are a mess down here."

A resident of the same area said he felt there was a tornado in the storm, but that report was unconfirmed.

Crop damage estimates probably won't be complete until harvest, but crops — especially corn — were knocked almost completely to the ground by the wash-out from the heavy rains and the high winds.

Crews from Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative were busy during the storm, as six poles were sheared in two by the winds.

"We lost six poles," said production superintendent Loran Nixon. "They were scattered — a couple north, a couple west, a couple south.

They just sheared off in the wind. If you get gusts of 100 mph hour or so you are going to lose a few poles. From the looks of the poles, I wouldn't doubt that it didn't get up that high."

There were scattered highway problems in the county, but FM 1412 from U.S. 385 west closed at Farmers Corner. Water also created problems on U.S. 385 and on FM 2943 to the north of U.S. 60 east of Hereford.

Berry pushes zone concept to new board

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

Camille Berry, manager of the Enterprise Zone Program for the Texas Department of Commerce, said Thursday night that the first thing prospective businesses seek in a location is an Enterprise Zone.

"This is usually the first thing on their list because companies are used to getting these enterprise zones in other states such as Connecticut and Kentucky," Berry told members of the newly-formed Tax Abatement Board and representatives from the city, county, school, hospital, chamber of commerce and the Economic Development Council.

The Enterprise Zone is a fairly new concept for Texas even though the rest of the country has had it for years, said Berry. The Texas Legislature finally enacted the Texas Enterprise Zone Act in 1987 to promote economic development throughout the state and left it to the Texas Department of Commerce to administer it.

"All an enterprise zone is, is an area of high distress that's targeted for unique investments to create economic development," said Berry.

"You have to have an unemployment level 1 1/2 times the local, state or national unemployment level to get one and you must have substantial deterioration or abandoned buildings. Hereford is a little low on unemployment because the state level is 7.4 percent and you would need right under 11 percent unemployment to qualify. (Hereford's current unemployment rate is 8 percent). So you'd have to draw out an area that would qualify you in these two areas."

The Enterprise Zone may be up to 20 square miles and is limited to a seven-year designation period, according to Berry. After the zone is established, Enterprise Projects (pursuit of companies that would build in the zone) may be sought.

"Each jurisdiction, meaning a municipality or a county, is allowed up to three zones each. Then a maximum of two projects per zone are allowed. These projects must include a business with a base employment of 25 percent of the zone residents or economically disadvantaged located within the zone," she stated.

Besides the many benefits of locating in an Enterprise Zone, its biggest selling factor is its allowance of refunds on state sales taxes on certain equipment and building material purchases if a company builds in the zone.

These refunds are $2,000 per new permanent job created with a maximum of $250,000 per year for the life of the zone.

"It's imperative that you set it up if you're really interested in this," said Berry. "Creating an Enterprise Zone could bring already existing businesses out of the woodwork to expand because they can afford it now. Before you had the Enterprise Zone, a businessman who was a civic leader might have been too embarrassed to ask for any kind of cuts. But with the Enterprise Zone, it would offer the cuts across the board."

Berry described the perfect Enterprise Zone as including a residential area, a commercial area and raw land with easy access.

"I think we could make our zone 20 miles long and one mile wide, encompassing the railroad and the (San Jose) labor camp," stated County Judge Tom Simons, who also serves on the Tax Abatement Board.

Larry Malaman, president of the Chamber of Commerce, suggested the zone include the abandoned Swift plant.

Four Enterprise Zones have already been designated in Texas with one in Willacy County-City of Raymondville and three others in Austin. Berry said 24 applications for Enterprise Zones are on her desk and the number of Enterprise Zones can be many. However, the amount of Enterprise Projects (actual construction inside these zones) is limited to 10 this year and 15 in 1989.

When the Tax Abatement Board completes its application for an Enterprise Zone, Berry said it may take 60-120 days for the Texas Department of Commerce to approve it.

"The key to all of this is when identifying the area you want as your Enterprise Zone, look at it from an economic development standpoint. What do you want to happen and what will happen when you bring in these incentives? You have to be able to get some benefit from having this zone so careful planning is essential," Berry said.

At its July 11 meeting, the Tax Abatement Board will discuss outlining an Enterprise Zone and also will begin work on a tax abatement plan to cover the entire county.

Nine dead in Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — One of the four people trapped alive in the collapse of a department store roof that killed nine people and injured 42 others was pulled from the wreckage early today as about 300 spectators cheered from behind police barricades.

Authorities said another woman and two children remained trapped in the wreckage.

The woman was carried from the huge pile of rubble and taken to an emergency first aid station set up in an empty store across the street.

Authorities were unable to immediately identify her or give details about her physical condition.

Authorities had used sniffer dogs and sensitive electronic equipment to hunt for survivors.

Brownsville Police spokesman Dean Poos said the death toll climbed to nine by early today. Authorities earlier believed that there were five people trapped alive.

Fireman William Briggs from nearby McAllen said he located the trapped survivors by climbing through a makeshift tunnel in the debris for about 17 feet. He said he crawled nine feet down and eight feet across to reach the trapped survivors.

"The little boy kept crying that he wanted to come out. He was scared and he wanted a little ball and he wanted some refreshments," Briggs said. "He was also a little scared which is natural and he's also afraid of dying."

Jose Carrera of Matamoros identified three of those trapped alive as his wife, Leticia, 36, their son, Israel, 9, and daughter, Terese, 4.

"I feel very happy that they are alive and I hope they can get them out soon," he said.

But authorities said it would likely take several hours to remove them from the rubble.

John Economedes, one of rescue workers, said doctors were able to check the victim's vital signs and they were responding.

"It's very hard for them. They are in terrible pain, both emotional and physical," he said.

Poos said rescuers have been able to get close enough to the victims to help them endure the long wait.

"They were able to get close enough to touch them (the survivors), give them some fluids ... but they were not able to pull them out," he said.

Laboring gingerly, rescuers worked through the night fearful of disturbing heaps of broken cinderblocks, glass and twisted steel that might ensnare or crush anyone left in the debris of the downtown Amigo Store.

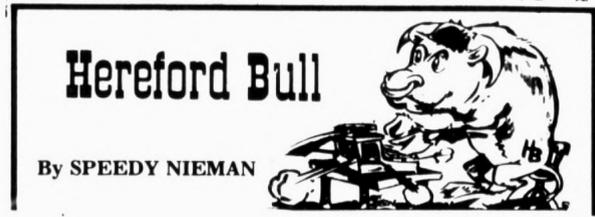

More than 300 volunteers working in teams took turns removing debris from the three-story structure that collapsed Thursday afternoon under torrential rains, killing nine and injuring 42 others, Poos said.

Aided by several flood lights, workers used tractors, a crane, dogs, sensitive microphones and sheer muscle power to remove concrete, steel beams and merchandise from the fallen downtown structure, located about a block from the Mexican border.

"I think that by late morning the workers ought to be through to the first floor and we will find out how many more are there or not," Poos said. "We don't really think there are going to be any more live people coming out of there."

The exact number of people who might have been in or around the store when the cave-in occurred wasn't immediately known, authorities said.

Poos said about 50 people apparently were in the store at the time of the collapse.

He's young; he's bright; he's black; he's a dropout from the 11th grade; he's functionally illiterate and he is a prison inmate. He's going to cost you a bundle before it's over.

These words come from Charles Terrell, new chairman of the Texas Department of Corrections. Terrell gave an overview of the prison problems at a recent newspaper convention in Austin. He hopes the prison system will implement a pilot program within a year for all inmates within one year of release. It covers literacy, job training, substance abuse, and social values.

If you think Texans and Texas taxpayers are not facing a problem, read some of his facts:

A total of 91 percent of all inmates are dropouts. More than 75 percent have 8th grade or less educations. Almost a majority are illiterate. About 65 percent of crimes are drug related, and 90 percent of our violent offenses are in some way related to either drugs or alcohol or both.

Currently our prisons house slightly more than 38,000 inmates; we have 300,000 probated felons and about 55,000 parolees on our streets in Texas—far more than any other state.

Bill Glass, the former All American and All-pro football player, who takes his ministries into prisons across America, says that all prisoners hate their fathers, that 45 percent of them are children of prisoners, and that we would have 95 percent less habitual criminals if we could keep the family unit together.

Terrell points out that it costs $3,900 a year to educate a student, but it costs $11,000 per year to keep a prisoner locked up. Add to that the fact that 65 percent of the heads of households receiving aid to dependent children in Texas are dropouts and you can see the correlation between education and our prison population.

According to Terrell, we can't build enough prisons in this state, now or in the future, to hold all our criminals. The only real longterm solution is to slash the crime rate by reducing the number of criminals—through education.

Snapped by winds

This tree at the residence of Nelson Kendall at 309 Centre in Hereford was snapped into three pieces by high winds Thursday afternoon. Winds were steady at 40 mph for over an hour, with some gusts well in excess of 50 mph. Branches and leaves were strewn across most city streets in the storm that swept into Hereford at about 4 p.m. Thursday.

Opposition party plans pay back if election rigged

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — The city's main opposition party says it won't stop at just blocking bridges and highways in protest if it becomes convinced that the government steals congressional elections.

National Action Party leaders in Juarez said Thursday that preliminary results from Wednesday's elections showed the opposition party winning the city's three congressional districts over candidates from the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI.

The right-of-center opposition party, known as PAN, is strong in Juarez and its state of Chihuahua. PAN officials said Thursday the situation was similar to that after the 1986 mayoral and gubernatorial elections in Juarez and Chihuahua. At the time, PAN claimed it was winning in unofficial vote totals, but the PRI-controlled electoral commission later certified the PRI candidates as winners.

PAN leaders then claimed massive vote fraud and for several days blockaded highways and international bridges linking Juarez with El Paso, Texas.

PAN senatorial candidate Gustavo Elizondo said Thursday that the party is stronger in numbers and commitment this year, and that it will again resort to civil disobedience if it looks like the government is preparing to steal the election.

"I said from the first that we would start where we finished in '86," Elizondo said. "If, with the blockades of highways and the blockades of international bridges, we don't make the government straighten out, we're going to force them desist."

But Elizondo did not specify what further actions of civil resistance are being considered. PRI officials continued to deny accusations of vote fraud, and said the PAN resorts to such complaints because it can't win.

With about half the nearly 400 precincts in Juarez counted, PAN said Thursday it had garnered 73,592 votes for presidential candidate Manuel J. Clouthier. PAN officials said PRI presidential candidate Carlos Salinas de Gortari — who is almost certain to be declared the winner when the nationwide results are reported Sunday — had 53,953 votes with about half the precincts reporting.

Jose Antonio Badia, president of PAN in Juarez, said PAN candidates were winning the city's three congressional seats by similar margins. It was not known who was winning Chihuahua state's two senatorial seats.

The PRI said it would not release preliminary vote totals and would wait until official vote tallies are released Sunday.

The PAN said some ballot boxes were stuffed by PRI operatives, that thousands of PAN sympathizers were selectively omitted from voters' rolls and that PAN vote-watchers were expelled from polls where they were allowed to be legal.

The Civic Democracy Group, an association of mostly college students who said they weren't affiliated with any party, reported that the voting in Juarez was generally peaceful. They reported at least 30 fights at the polls, and police and soldiers had to be called in to at least 14 precincts, the group reported.

US preparing to offer reparations to plane victims

'America's moral responsibility as humane nation'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is moving closer to a decision on offering reparations for the destruction of Iran Air flight 655, saying the United States will not shirk its "moral responsibility" in the wake of the Persian Gulf tragedy.

"I suspect that doing what we think is right will be the deciding factor," White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

Fitzwater's comments Thursday marked a significant change in the tone of administration pronouncements after several days of noncommittal responses on the issue of reparations for families of the 290 victims.

"One of the driving forces behind our consideration is simply the moral responsibility of America and the fact that we've always been a humane nation that takes these kinds of problems very seriously and assumes personal responsibilities," he said. The Defense Department acknowledged Thursday that the Iranian A300 Airbus shot down by the U.S. warship was within a commercial airline corridor, but said that alone did not guarantee its safety.

"An airway is not a safety zone," said Pentagon spokesman Dan Howard. "All this means is that within that zone, within that area, the air traffic control authorities have agreed to track aircraft."

Fitzwater stressed that no decision on reparations has been made either by senior staff or President Reagan. But in contrast to his suggestion earlier this week that the decision will await the outcome of the Navy's investigation of the incident, Fitzwater said he wanted to emphasize that "we're moving along through the consideration process."

"We don't have final decisions yet, but it clearly is an issue that is under active discussion," Fitzwater said.

On Capitol Hill, House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said Congress would likely support a request for compensation if it came from the president.

"It should come from the president," Wright said.

The Pentagon spokesman, in a briefing with reporters, said that even though the airliner was in a civilian air corridor, Vincennes skipper Capt. Will C. Rogers III still could not rule out the chance he was facing an attacking F-14 fighter.

Howard said Iran must share some responsibility for the deaths because the Airbus took off from a military-civilian airport at Bandar Abbas during an exchange of fire between the Vincennes and Iranian gunboats.

"The Iranians are the ones who bear the responsibility for ensuring that if they are the ones who provoke the hostilities, they are the ones who began the shooting in this incident, that they ensure the safety of their civilian aircraft by not sending them into harm's way," Howard said.

Howard discounted speculation on Capitol Hill that an Iranian warplane might have been flying behind the commercial flight in an attempt to use it as a cover to sneak up on the USS Vincennes.

He repeated that U.S. warships had broadcast 12 warnings to the Iranian aircraft, seven from the Vincennes and five from the USS John H. Sides.

Drought inflicting trickle-down effect

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — The drought is having a stairstep effect on the nation's farmers, inflicting severe damage on one crop, then another, then another, a high-ranking U.S. Department of Agriculture official said.

"Wheat already has been hurt," Peter Myers, deputy secretary of agriculture, said of the crop now being harvested.

"Corn will be next because it is entering the pollination stage. And the next 30-40 days will tell on soybeans. It's very discouraging if you're a farmer and see this happening to the crop."

In a news conference Thursday, Myers noted that certain parts of the nation — including Northwest Texas through parts of Kansas — have healthy crops that have benefited from reasonable rainfall.

Myers, head of the agriculture department's special task force seeking resolutions to the drought, is in Texas to campaign for U.S. Senate candidate Beau Boulter of Amarillo, a Republican who is challenging incumbent Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

Although damage is being done to the current crops, Myers said, large carryover stocks of grain should ward off a food price increase for consumers.

"There are adequate stocks, so consumers should not feel the impact," Myers said.

"Surpluses, our production capacity, always is our saving grace. The magnitude (of agriculture) and the fact that 50 percent of our arable land is productive — compared to only 10 percent in other countries — is the balance God gave us," Myers said.

The task force headed by Myers is seeking ways to lessen the burden for farmers in the drought-stricken areas, but he stressed that, "The government can't solve natural weather disasters with the stroke of a pen."

Although the drought is causing severe problems for many of the nation's farmers and ranchers, consumers should float unscathed through the crisis unless food retailers take unfair advantage, Myers said.

"Food prices should not go more than 1 percent above normal inflation over the next year," Myers said.

"It will be felt by the producers in the drought areas, not the consumer unless retailers and wholesalers use it as an excuse," Myers said.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Speedy,
I spent Monday being on call just as I was on July 4th, 1988, my first weekend on call in my new home. I spent a portion of Monday thinking how fortunate I am to call Hereford home. Hereford has given me family, friends, people who love me and pray for me, a kindly place to be nurtured and ministered to. A place where growth is allowed and I can fulfill my childhood dream of being a physician and all in a most salubrious climate.

Thank you one and all who make Hereford a good and special place to live. Thank you for taking me to your bosom and allowing me to be your neighbor.

Love,

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I hardly use my iron anymore with the age of permanent press upon us. It is wonderful!

Although the iron is somewhat retired, my ironing board is still very much in use. I use it as a typing table adjusted to a comfortable level. There is plenty of area for all my papers, and the padded ironing-board cover acts as an absorber for the typewriter vibrations. — Paula Levits, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A great hint for non-ironers! An adjustable ironing board can substitute for an extra buffet table when covered, or a good extra bedside table for someone confined to bed. — Heloise

STEEP BANKS

Dear Heloise: This past summer my husband solved a problem he had with mowing the steep banks of our yard.

One day while mowing he was wearing his golf shoes to break them in. He had no trouble mowing the banks because the spikes on the shoes kept him from slipping and falling.

He now wears his gulf shoes whenever he mows the grass. — Gail Quinn, Bradford, Pa.

NO MORE FORGOTTEN FOOD
Dear Heloise: When giving a dinner party, I have devised a way to never forget to serve each and every dish.

I do things a little differently. Several days in advance of the party or dinner, I set my table and buffet complete with all of the serving trays and bowls that I will use. I then write on small slips of paper what I will serve and if it has to be prepared on the same day as the party or beforehand. Also, I write the temperature of length of time for cooking the item on each slip of paper. I then put these slips in the serving dishes accordingly.

At the last minute before the guests arrive, I don't have to think about what goes where. I just read what is on each slip of paper.

My family (or early guest) can help put things out too, because everything is labeled. The panic time is eliminated and I never find anything that didn't get served. — Ann G. Beeker, Kennett Square, Pa.

Accent on Health

Fluoridation Is Boon To Dental Health

More children are smiling now when they go for dental checkups, thanks to the success of a program that provides funds to enable local communities to add fluoride to their water systems.

"Fluoride is one of the most common naturally occurring mineral elements and is found in varying concentrations in almost all water supplies and foods," said Linda S. Crossett, who is with the Texas Fluoridation Project of the Texas Department of Health (TDH). "But many water systems do not have enough naturally occurring fluoride in them to prevent tooth decay," she added.

Crossett said that health professionals agree the best way to prevent tooth decay is to adjust the fluoride in a community's water supply to the optimum level for Texas of 0.8 parts per million gallons of water. The Texas Fluoridation Project helps eligible communities by distributing federal block grant funds to non-profit water systems for buying and installing fluoridation equipment.

"Fluoride bonds with the enamel and makes the tooth stronger. The stronger enamel is more resistant to the acids in the mouth that break down teeth and cause decay," Crossett explained.

She said everyone, especially children, still need to brush their teeth properly, avoid sweets, and have regular check-ups to ensure their dental health. But when children drink optimally fluoridated water from birth to age 12, tooth decay is reduced by 65 percent.

Adults reared in fluoridated areas and who continue to drink fluoridated water have 40-50 percent fewer decayed, missing, and filled teeth. Consequently, the U.S. Surgeon General calls fluoridation one of the most cost-effective public health measures in the world.

"Dental decay may afflict 98 percent of the world's population. For every dollar spent on fluoridation, the community can save families about $50 in dental bills," Crossett said.

The Fluoridation Project has financially, and technically assisted 194 Texas communities in beginning fluoridation since December of 1979, which means that 72 percent of Texans are drinking fluoridated water. Thirty more communities are in the process of installing fluoridation equipment, and 19 communities are on a TDH waiting list for 1988 grant funds.

Any community or private water system serving a population of 1,000 or more is eligible to apply for grants. An application can be obtained by calling Linda Crossett at 512/458-7323.

STRANGE APPETITE

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Hawksbill sea turtles have one of the strangest palates known.

The turtles live almost exclusively on sponges that are unpopular with other animals because the sub-tropical sponges have glass spines and they excrete poisons.

No one knows how the sea turtles digest the glass needles, which are a form of silica similar to opal.

Ideas on all-star voting

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

It's time for the major league baseball all-star game again, and as usual, we read and hear a great deal about the faults in the method to select all-stars.

The selection process in the history of the game has been either the players themselves voting or the fans voting. The argument for the players voting is that they are better judges than the fans on who should play in the all-star game.

The argument against the fans voting is that it is only a popularity contest, but the argument in favor of the fans is that this game is for the fans.

Voting by both the players and the fans each year would be interesting. We could compare the final tallies and see if the selections are vastly different or not.

All the reserves or substitutes for the game are picked by the managers. But if we had voting by both players and fans, we would alternate between the fans' team and the players' team in the starting positions, with the first substitutes coming from the voting that did not determine the starters.

Let's say the major leaguers selected the players to start the game one year. Any players chosen by the fans, who are not among the first choices in the players' voting, would be "second stringers" - that is, they would be the first substitutes in the game.

Let's also suppose that the fans and players agreed on several all-stars. Then the fans' second place selections would be the second stringers behind those mutually agreed upon all-stars.

All this, of course, would be the other way around during a season when the fans' selections are the starters and the players' selections are the second stringers.

This is one man's idea on getting some input from the minds of the baseball players as well as the fans. When we consider all the controversy in the past concerning fans stuffing the ballot boxes, this idea may be worth trying.

No doubt we will hear much said this week about the fact that the fans voted three members of the Oakland Athletics to start for the American League.

Speaking of one man's opinion, I got some ideas from a baseball mind in Herford - Herford High School head baseball Coach T.R. Sartor - on who he would choose for one all-star team made up of players from both the National and American leagues.

I found that this season is one of the hardest ever for me to choose all-stars. But here is the Sartor all-star team:

Starting pitcher: Dwight Gooden, New York Mets.

Relief pitcher: Dennis Eckersley, Oakland Athletics.

Catcher: Gary Carter, New York Mets.

First baseman: Will Clark, San Francisco Giants.

Second baseman: Juan Samuel, Philadelphia Phillies.

Shortstop: Ozzie Smith, St. Louis Cardinals.

Third baseman: Wade Boggs, Boston Red Sox.

Outfielders: Dave Winfield, New York Yankees; Darryl Strawberry, New York Mets, and Rickey Henderson, New York Yankees.

Designated hitter: Andres Galaraga, Montreal Expos.

Manager: Sparky Anderson, Detroit Tigers.

Sartor selected Galaraga as the designated hitter, even through he plays for a National League team.

SPORTS SHOT: The baseball game of the school of experience is known for its law of averages.

Orioles start to show signs of life

Baltimore shuts out Rangers, 6-0

By TIM LIOTTA
AP Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) - At the expense of the Texas Rangers, signs of life are emanating from the Baltimore Orioles.

Another solid pitching performance and three Baltimore home runs gave the Orioles a 6-0 victory over the Rangers Thursday night. Baltimore has beaten Texas in three of four meetings in the last week.

Rookie Oswaldo Peraza held the Rangers to six hits over seven innings for his second major league victory. He struck out seven and retired 11 in a row at one point, raising his record to 2-3.

Peraza's performance gave the Orioles pitching staff a 3.12 ERA over its last 10 games.

"I'm very encouraged," said Oriole manager Frank Robinson when asked about the club's recent improvement in its pitching. "We're very happy with four of our five guys. The young are pitching well, but the old guys are, too."

"You have to feel good. I do," Robinson said. "Not just about the rest of this year, but the future. If these guys continue to improve we have the makings of a good pitching staff."

Peraza earned his second victory in four starts since being called up from the minors on June 20.

"The first four innings were a struggle, but he settled down into a groove after that and really pitched well," Orioles manager Frank Robinson said of Peraza. "Since he's been back (from the minors), he's pitched the way we thought he could after watching him in spring training."

The Orioles have suddenly found a way to beat left-handed pitching. They have won four of their last five against left-handed starters after losing 22 of their first 25 against lefties this season.

Baltimore roughed up Texas starter Paul Kilgus for six runs, five earned, and knocked the left-hander out two batters into the eighth inning. Kilgus, 7-8, lost to the Orioles for the second time in five nights and has a 1-5 record over his last nine starts.

The Orioles also continued their recent home run binge with three more Thursday night - a two-run homer by Ken Gerhart and solo homers by Mickey Tettleton and Cal Ripken. Baltimore has outscored its opponents, 18-8, in its last 15 games.

All three were first-pitch home runs.

"He's a guy you know is going to be around the plate so you can be aggressive," Tettleton said.

For the Rangers all this spelled a continuation of hard times, as they lost for the eighth time in 12 games.

Texas came into the game having Ranger hitters go 2-for-14 with runners in scoring position over its previous three games and the Rangers went 0-for-4 Thursday night as they were shut out for the fifth time this season.

"We're just not getting hits," said Valentine. "If I knew what the problem was we wouldn't be doing it. ... They got seven hits and we got seven hits. Theirs were just more productive."

After the game, Valentine said that pitcher DeWayne Vaughn has been optioned to Oklahoma City and that left-hander Bobby Witt has been recalled from the Rangers' AAA franchise. Witt will pitch Sunday against Baltimore.

"It seems as if he's regained his confidence in his fastball," Valentine said of Witt, who had a 2.45 ERA over his last five starts with the 89ers. "He's pitched good enough to come up."

Elsewhere, it was Detroit 8, Oakland 1; Boston 4, Minnesota 3; California 7, Cleveland 1; and Kansas City 7, Milwaukee 3.

Tigers 8, Athletics 1

For the Oakland Athletics, the heat is on.

Detroit hit five home runs and Jeff Robinson and Paul Gibson combined on a four-hitter as the Tigers beat the Athletics 8-1 Thursday night in a battle of American League division leaders.

It was the Athletics' fourth straight loss, but they maintained their 3 1/2-game lead over Minnesota in the AL West as Boston beat the Twins 4-3. On June 5, the Athletics led the Twins by 10 games and now hold only a two-game edge in the loss column.

The Tigers, meanwhile, increased their lead to three games over New York in the East.

Chet Lemon, Larry Herndon and Mike Heath hit home runs in the second inning off Curt Young, 6-6, to get the Tigers going.

"It was the heat," Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said of the home runs. "The balls were just flying out of here."

Luis Salazar hit a three-run homer, his 10th, in the third and Ray Knight added a two-run shot later in the inning to make it 8-0.

"I've never seen the ball jump like it did today," Salazar said. "The reason the ball was not carrying so much the first two months was because of the cold weather. The last two weeks it's been carrying more and it's going to carry the rest of the season."

Robinson, 10-3, allowed a leadoff single to Luis Polonia in the first inning and then retired the next 17 batters before Polonia singled to start the seventh. Polonia scored the A's only run in the seventh on Jose Canseco's RBI single.

Robinson, who allowed three hits, left the game with one on and two out in the seventh with a jammed right ankle and Gibson relieved. Robinson struck out three and walked none en route to his seventh straight victory at Tiger Stadium.

Young lasted 2 2/3 innings before giving way to Jim Corsi. Young gave up seven hits and eight earned runs.

Red Sox 4, Twins 3

With the score tied 2-2 in the sixth, Jim Rice scored the go-ahead run on Charlie Lea's sixth-inning wild pitch and Jody Reed followed with a suicide squeeze to drive in what proved to be the winning run as Boston beat Minnesota at the Metrodome. Dennis Boyd won for only the second time in his last 10 starts, allowing nine hits and two earned runs in six innings. Bob Stanley pitched the last three innings for his first save since Sept. 29, 1986.

Lea, 5-4, who was 4-0 with a 0.98 ERA in his previous four starts, had his personal five-game winning streak snapped.

Angels 7, Indians 1

Terry Clark made his major-league debut with five strong innings and Greg Minton pitched four scoreless innings in relief as visiting California beat Cleveland.

Clark allowed one run and five hits for the victory. Minton came on to start the sixth inning and allowed only one hit for his second save.

Wally Joyner drove in three runs with a two-run homer and an RBI single.

Royals 7, Brewers 3

Kansas City beat Milwaukee for the first time in eight games at Royals Stadium as Mike Macfarlane hit a three-run homer and George Brett drove in two runs.

Charlie Leibrandt, 5-10, shut out Milwaukee for five innings before yielding a run-scoring single to Jeffrey Leonard with two out in the sixth.

Irvin wants $1.9 million for four years

Cowboys closer to signing No. 1 choice

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys could sign their No. 1 draft choice, University of Miami wide receiver Michael Irvin, by the time preseason drills begin next week in Thousand Oaks, Calif., Irvin's agent says.

Agent Mel Levine said Thursday he will come to Dallas on Saturday to meet with Cowboys vice president Joe Bailey in hopes of reaching an agreement.

"We're getting closer," Levine said. "I'm coming in with the intent that we're going to be able to make a deal."

The Cowboys reportedly have offered Irvin slightly more than $1.8

million for four years. Levine reportedly has come down from his original request of $2 million for four years and is seeking around $1.9 million.

Levine declined Thursday to disclose the numbers but said, "They have showed movement. The gap has been closed - not enough to make the deal, but it's closer."

The Cowboys signed their No. 10 draft choice, University of Pittsburgh safety Billy Owens, on Thursday. Still unsigned, besides Irvin, are linebacker Ken Norton (No. 2), guard Mark Hutson (No. 3), tackle Dave Widell (No. 4), and quarterback Scott Secules (No. 6).

At a news conference Thursday, Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said he is faced with a difficult six-week decision process in training camp, trying to decide whom to keep and whom to cull.

"It's time to forget the Super Bowls of the past and look toward building a team that can again make it into the playoffs," Landry said.

"This is a completely new era," Landry said. "There is no doubt about that."

Landry hopes to find new leaders for the team. Ed Jones is 37, Danny White 36 and Randy White 35.

"Look at Randy White," Landry said. "He has been a great leader for us, but now we are not even sure if he can get on the field. So it will be leadership that will be very important for the emergence of the team. Most of our players are so young that they don't know how to be leaders."

Landry added: "I think the challenge is great when you are coach in a situation like this. Sure, you enjoy going to a Super Bowl. It makes you feel good. But everyone has to know that they will have to pay a price to compete with the big guys."

Landry said his "reasonable goal" is a 9-7 record, which could leave the Cowboys third or fourth in the division.

"I don't think anyone would be happy with a third- or fourth-place finish," Landry said. "But it is something that you have to look at as a possibility. I think with our schedule this year, we will have to beat some good football teams if we are going to be up there."

Landry said he would like Cowboys fans also to stop pondering the past and to view the team from a new perspective. They should forget the Super Bowl years and, at least for now, be content with a two-game winning streak, he said.

"We could make a giant step this year if we could get up into that competitive level and be 9-7," Landry said. "Once you get there, then you are on the verge of doing it. Then, all you need is one key player and you are off and running."

"If we had a healthy (Mike) Sherrard right now we would have a pretty good look out there. We could offset the way that teams will zero in on Herschel Walker."

Sherrard, a fleet wide receiver, will miss his second consecutive season after breaking his right leg again.

Consequently, Landry said, his blueprint for 1988 will be conservative. He anticipates calling about 25 running plays a game for running back Herschel Walker.

Jackson, Reds prevail over Phillies, 5-2

By JOE KAY
AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — The third time against Danny Jackson was no charm for the Philadelphia Phillies. The fourth time wasn't much better, either.

The Phillies got a few more hits off the Cincinnati Reds' left-hander Thursday night, the fourth time they faced him this season. They even managed to knock him out of the game — something they hadn't accomplished the first three times.

But Jackson prevailed again, going 6 1-3 innings for a 5-2 victory that left him with four wins in four starts this season against Philadelphia.

The first three victories were complete games — a couple of two-hitters and a three-hitter. The Phillies got seven hits and both runs Thursday night off Jackson, but their hobbled lineup couldn't break through when they had the chances.

"He was probably more vulnerable tonight than the other three times," Phillies manager Lee Elia said. "I wish we could have gotten ahead of him."

They did, briefly. Bob Dernier led off the game with his first homer on a weak breaking pitch. But Jackson didn't sweat it.

"I didn't worry about that," said Jackson, 10-4. "I knew it was a hanging slider. The hitter he is, he should put it where it landed."

In the only other game Thursday, Pittsburgh beat San Diego 2-0.

Jackson started sweating in the Reds' third, when his hustle fueled the decisive four-run rally off Kevin Gross, 8-5.

Junior high volleyball camp begins Monday

Athletes who will be in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades next school year are invited to attend a volleyball mini-camp July 11-15 at the Hereford High School gym.

The daily schedule will be: eighth graders, 10 a.m. to noon; seventh graders, 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.; and ninth graders, 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

For more information on the volleyball camp, call Hereford High School head volleyball coach Brenda Reeh at 364-7433.

Jeff Treadway led off with his second homer, tying the game. Jackson then hit a grounder that third baseman Luis Aguayo misplayed for his second error of the game, as Jackson hustled to beat the throw. One out later, Jackson sprinted to third on Kal Daniels' single.

Daniels stole second with Chris Sabo at bat. The rookie then worked Gross to a 3-0 count and got the go-ahead to swing.

"There was no hesitation," Manager Pete Rose said. "He's our leading hitter. He's tough with men on base."

Sabo hit the next pitch up the middle hard for a single scoring both runs. He later scored on Nick Esasky's triple to center.

"He (Gross) got behind in the count and had to come in with some pitches, and it hurt him," Elia said.

The running on a hot summer night hurt Jackson. The temperature at game time was 95 degrees, and the running around the bases in the third inning drained him.

"That's obviously going to take a little bit out of you there, for anyone, when it's as hot as it was," Jackson said.

He started struggling in the seventh, when he walked Aguayo, got Darren Daulton to hit into a force at second, and then allowed the third single by Steve Jeltz. Rob Dibble came on and got pinch-hitter Mike Schmidt to fly out on the first pitch. Following an infield single by Phil Bradley that loaded the bases, Dibble got Tommy Barrett to hit into a force at second and end the inning.

John Franco pitched the final 1 1-3 innings for his 12th save. Pirates 2, Padres 0

John Smiley won his sixth consecutive game and combined with two relievers on an eight-hitter as visiting Pittsburgh beat San Diego.

Smiley, 9-4, allowed five hits in 6 1-3 innings and struck out a career-high nine. He is the first Pirate to win more than five straight decisions since John Candelaria won eight in a row in 1963.

Jeff Robinson pitched 1 2-3 innings and Jim Gott finished for his 10th save.

The Pirates scored two runs in the sixth off Andy Hawkins, 8-7, on Andy Van Slyke's RBI single and a bases-loaded walk to Mike LaValliere.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I read your column on the treatment of prostate cancer. A patient said his doctor did not recommend treatment because that would not be what would kill him. You replied you would recommend more aggressive treatment.

I would like to add my two cents for what it is worth. Eleven years ago, my father was found to have cancer of the prostate. His physician placed him on Diethylstilbestrol and said, "This will not be what kills you." He was in perfect health otherwise. Two years later he died of metastasis to the bones. He suffered excruciating pain. I feel if the prostate cancer had been treated, it might have been stopped. It is too late for my father, but please continue to strongly encourage men to have their cancer treated. Our family has known of several men since then who have had treatment, and the cancer was stopped in the prostate.

DEAR READER: Family members always look back and wonder if something else had been done, could the outcome have been otherwise. The choice of treatment for cancer of the prostate is rather complicated. The fact that your father's cancer spread at such an early date suggests that his cancer had already advanced at the time it was detected. That limits the options available for treatment.

The controversy that has originated recently is about early, relatively benign cancers. Since these do progress slowly, there is a good chance that an elderly male will die from something else before the cancer spreads. But more recent studies show that some men with these early cancers will have progression and, in five or more years, may face serious consequences of their prostate cancer. So there is a new interest in treating these early, relatively benign cancers, particularly in young men who have a potentially long remaining life span.

You will appreciate this point more after reading my newly revised Special Report 71, The Prostate Gland, which I am sending you. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/71, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

The type of treatment also depends on how advanced the cancer is. But it is certainly true that a great improvement in the outlook for cancer of the prostate has occurred in recent years because of improved understanding and treatment.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I often read where a particular drug will cause weight gain. If a person taking this drug doesn't eat or drink any more than normal and still gets exercise, just what is gained? It can't be fat. Is it fluid retention? What actually happens to cause the weight gain and is there any way to prevent it, short of not taking the drug?

DEAR READER: It certainly can be fat. Some medicines, such as some antidepressants, stimulate the appetite and a person does consume a lot more calories.

But the other side of weight gain is how many calories the body uses. We lose most of our calories through our skin and that loss is controlled through the brain — which can be affected by medicines. Your brain can slow down loss of heat through the skin and slow down the loss of calories from the body.

Regardless of the mechanism, the only way to try to control the problem is through limiting calorie intake and increasing calorie loss through exercise. Exercise causes the brain to stimulate heat loss through the skin — as with sweating.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I broke a hip eight months ago. I am doing very well, but I have had several periods of night sweats. They last from a few nights to weeks. I've had this last episode for three months now. They wake me up about 2:00 a.m. I have to change sheets and night gown. By morning I am wet again. The doctor doesn't seem to know what to do for me. What do you think I should do? I'm 84 and live alone.

DEAR READER: The body temperature does decrease during the night, reaching its lowest point in the early morning. That means the body must lose heat and one way is to sweat. If you use too many bed clothes and interfere with loss of body heat, you will sweat.

Certain medicines will contribute to the problem, such as aspirin or other medicines for arthritis. Alcohol before going to bed makes it worse, and so does a fairly large meal. Some people do better if they eat a very early light meal and nothing else except water until the next morning. If you continue to have problems, your doctor may want to search further to see if you have an unrecognized medical problem.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I read your column on the treatment of prostate cancer. A patient said his doctor did not recommend treatment because that would not be what would kill him. You replied you would recommend more aggressive treatment.

I would like to add my two cents for what it is worth. Eleven years ago, my father was found to have cancer of the prostate. His physician placed him on Diethylstilbestrol and said, "This will not be what kills you." He was in perfect health otherwise. Two years later he died of metastasis to the bones. He suffered excruciating pain. I feel if the prostate cancer had been treated, it might have been stopped. It is too late for my father, but please continue to strongly encourage men to have their cancer treated. Our family has known of several men since then who have had treatment, and the cancer was stopped in the prostate.

DEAR READER: Family members always look back and wonder if something else had been done, could the outcome have been otherwise. The choice of treatment for cancer of the prostate is rather complicated. The fact that your father's cancer spread at such an early date suggests that his cancer had already advanced at the time it was detected. That limits the options available for treatment.

The controversy that has originated recently is about early, relatively benign cancers. Since these do progress slowly, there is a good chance that an elderly male will die from something else before the cancer spreads. But more recent studies show that some men with these early cancers will have progression and, in five or more years, may face serious consequences of their prostate cancer. So there is a new interest in treating these early, relatively benign cancers, particularly in young men who have a potentially long remaining life span.

You will appreciate this point more after reading my newly revised Special Report 71, The Prostate Gland, which I am sending you. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/71, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

The type of treatment also depends on how advanced the cancer is. But it is certainly true that a great improvement in the outlook for cancer of the prostate has occurred in recent years because of improved understanding and treatment.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I often read where a particular drug will cause weight gain. If a person taking this drug doesn't eat or drink any more than normal and still gets exercise, just what is gained? It can't be fat. Is it fluid retention? What actually happens to cause the weight gain and is there any way to prevent it, short of not taking the drug?

DEAR READER: It certainly can be fat. Some medicines, such as some antidepressants, stimulate the appetite and a person does consume a lot more calories.

But the other side of weight gain is how many calories the body uses. We lose most of our calories through our skin and that loss is controlled through the brain - which can be affected by medicines. Your brain can slow down loss of heat through the skin and slow down the loss of calories from the body.

Regardless of the mechanism, the only way to try to control the problem is through limiting calorie intake and increasing calorie loss through exercise. Exercise causes the brain to stimulate heat loss through the skin - as with sweating.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I broke a hip eight months ago. I am doing very well, but I have had several periods of night sweats. They last from a few nights to weeks. I've had this last episode for three months now. They wake me up about 2:00 a.m. I have to change sheets and night gown. By morning I am wet again. The doctor doesn't seem to know what to do for me. What do you think I should do? I'm 84 and live alone.

DEAR READER: The body temperature does decrease during the night, reaching its lowest point in the early morning. That means the body must lose heat and one way is to sweat. If you use too many bed clothes and interfere with loss of body heat, you will sweat.

Certain medicines will contribute to the problem, such as aspirin or other medicines for arthritis. Alcohol before going to bed makes it worse, and so does a fairly large meal. Some people do better if they eat a very early light meal and nothing else except water until the next morning. If you continue to have problems, your doctor may want to search further to see if you have an unrecognized medical problem.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you stand one more account of dealing with grief? A few years ago my fighter-pilot husband was killed in a midair collision. I stoically endured a funeral at the Air Force Academy and then set about renting an apartment and starting a new life.

I felt I was doing just fine, except that I would wake up in the middle of most nights shaking from the Colorado cold. At least that's what I told myself. Finally, one night, I got up and located the box I hadn't yet unpacked. It was marked "Personal Items" and I had set it aside waiting for Goodwill to come and pick it up.

But that night I opened it and located the article I was looking for. It was the ratty old terry-cloth robe my husband always wore. I reasoned that it would keep me warm.

I wrapped up in it and got back into bed. Even after two months, the robe still retained my husband's essence and I immediately felt as if he was with me.

I stopped shaking and started to weep, for the first time. I cried all night and finally faced reality. In the morning, I was able to tell my daughter that her daddy wasn't away on a long trip, but that he had been killed.

That daughter graduated from college this spring. I have gone on to a happy, productive life with a loving man who knows that in the back of my closet hangs a tattered terry-cloth robe that I still wear from time to time.—K.M.K. Aurora, Colo.

DEAR FRIEND: Grief is a healing process for which there is no standard timetable. I am happy that the old terry-cloth robe was the turning point for you. Thanks for telling us about it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please settle an argument between my mother, who is 92, and my brother, who is 65.

A few weeks ago, my brother brought his new lady friend to the house to meet Mama. In the course of the conversation, Mama asked the lady if it was true that she was born with a silver spoon in her mouth. (The lady is known to come from a family of considerable wealth.)

My brother is furious. He says Mama insulted the woman. Mama says she meant it as a compliment. Both have agreed that they will accept whatever you say as the final word.—In the Middle in Miss.

DEAR MIDDLE IN MISS.: While the question was not a very tactful one (it is the same as asking a person, "Where you born rich"), I would not consider it an insult. I'm sure your mother meant no harm and hope that your brother will forget about this lapse of judgment. When he is 92 he will probably appreciate a little extra consideration.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in regard to "Heartache in Jacksonville", whose husband has Alzheimer's disease and talks of nothing but World War II.

When I was young, my grandfather bored us all to tears with World War II stories. I'm sorry to say I don't remember one word he said.

Now Grandpa is gone and I don't know a blamed thing about World War II. I wish I had listened. Instead of being ignorant, I'd be informed.

Bring your husband on down (or up) to Dallas, honey. We've got a big house. Stay a few days and let him ramble. I'd love it.—B.W., Carrollton, Tex.

DEAR B.W.: Sorry I don't put my readers in touch with one another, but you sound like a sweetie-pie. Thanks for the day-brightener.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send $3 plus a No. 10, self-addressed, stamped envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Names in the News

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — What do you do when the company you founded is bought by foreigners for $310 million?

If you're Mary Tyler Moore, you keep working. And you make some charities very happy.

Miss Moore said Wednesday the sale of MTM Entertainment Inc., the production company she co-founded, will free her to boost contributions to the arts and to the fight against diabetes. A diabetic, Miss Moore is international chairman of the Juvenile Diabetes foundation.

Just how much money does the 50-year-old actress get from the sale of the company that bears her initials to Television South PLC of Britain?

"Enough so I don't have to learn to type, after all," was all she'd say.

Sale or no, Miss Moore is set to appear in a new MTM series slated to make its debut on CBS this fall, assuming the scriptwriters strike is settled.

The as-yet unnamed romantic comedy will feature Miss Moore as a divorced mother working for a New York politician. In the series, she marries a blue-collar worker from New Jersey with children of his own.

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — Joan Kennedy, former wife of U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy, faces a hearing Aug. 5 on charges of drunken driving, a court official says.

Attorney Patrick Butler entered a plea of innocent on behalf of Mrs. Kennedy in Barnstable District Court on Wednesday, said Clerk-Magistrate Omer Chartrand. Mrs. Kennedy, 51, did not appear in court.

A hearing was scheduled for Aug. 5, Chartrand said.

Centerville police arrested Mrs. Kennedy Tuesday night after she drove into a chain-link fence along a road near the Cape Cod beach, according to Lt. William Arthur.

Mrs. Kennedy was not injured in the accident, he said. Police towed and impounded the car.

Mrs. Kennedy, who joined Alcoholics Anonymous, was divorced in late 1983. She lives mostly in Boston.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Oliver P. Morton, Indiana's first dog, may be headed for stardom in New York after finding himself at the center of a feud between talk show host David Letterman and Josie Orr, the wife of Gov. Robert D. Orr.

The Orrs' Welsh Corgi may be offered an appearance on the "Stupid Pet Tricks" segment of "Late Night with David Letterman" as part of settling the feud, which the Indianapolis-born comedian has mentioned on the air, said Becky Weiland, an aide to Mrs. Orr.

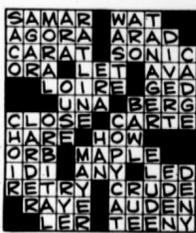

About six percent of all American households now have computers.
