Ortega worried over U.S. forces

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega said Sandinista troops had forced 2,000 Contras into Honduran territory, and he warned the nation that U.S. forces may invade Nicaragua to save the rebels.

"The United States, disrespectful of international law and disrespectful of the principles of the American constitution, is threatening today (Wednesday) to directly employ its military forces to save the mercenaries," Ortega said, referring to the U.S.-supported Contra rebels.

Ortega was reacting to an initial report by the White House that the United States was considering "everything ... short of invasion" after President Jose Azcona Hoyo of Honduras accused Nicaragua of sending troops across the border into his country and asked President Reagan for help.

Late Wednesday, the White House announced about 3,200 U.S. troops would be sent to Honduras today, but would not be deployed "to any area of ongoing hostilities," namely the Honduras-Nicaragua border, where fighting raged Wednesday between Nicaraguan soldiers and the Contras.

There was no official reaction Wednesday night from the leftist Sandinista government to the announced deployment of U.S. troops.

However, soon after the announcement was made, the government took control of all radio stations and broadcast that Nicaraguan troops were being mobilized throughout the country. The stations also broadcast revolutionary music.

Ortega neither confirmed nor denied on Wednesday that Nicaraguan soldiers had crossed into Honduran territory, but Defense Ministry spokeswoman Maj. Rosa Pasos denied that Sandinista troops had done so.

Ortega told reporters: "We are calling on the Nicaraguan public to be alert, to be in combat readiness, ready to repel, resist, defeat whatever aggression from the United States."

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater in Washington said the U.S. soldiers were to carry out training exercises and be "a signal to the governments and the people of Central America."

In a letter to Reagan released by the White House, Azcona Hoyo said his government had ordered its armed forces "to repulse" the Sandinista troops and asked for U.S. military assistance.

Honduran military intelligence sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press late Wednesday that Honduran troops had surrounded about 2,000 Nicaraguan soldiers three miles inside the Honduran border.

The Honduran foreign minister, Carlos Lopez Contreras, said the Honduran military command was reviewing battle plans in case Sandinista forces remained in Honduran territory. He also said Azcona Hoyo contacted Ortega to demand the withdrawal of the Nicaraguan troops.

Fitzwater said the U.S. troops would be sent to Palmerola Air Force Base, about 125 miles west of the border and 40 miles northwest of the Honduran capital, Tegucigalpa.

The Contras have maintained secret bases along the Honduras-Nicaragua border from which they have staged attacks on Nicaragua in their 6-year-old war to overthrow the Sandinistas.

Ortega said on Wednesday that Sandinista troops had pushed about 2,000 Contra soldiers across the Rio Coco into Honduras in a major offensive the began March 6, the largest this year.

Ortega described the ongoing offensive as a success, adding that the 2,000 Contras "have been totally expelled from Nicaraguan territory and are located in Honduras territory, opening fire against our positions in Nicaragua."

Ortega said the rebels have suffered 400 casualties, including 92 dead. He said 34 soldiers of the Sandinista army, which is supplied and trained by Cuba and the Soviet Union, were killed and 68 wounded.

back and wait for good things to happen. What it does indicate, hopefully, is that community leadership is rising to meet the challenges and we've made a start on the road to recovery. It won't be easy and it can't be accomplished without involvement by a lot of concerned citizens.

If members of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District are right, things may be on the upswing for our medical facility. Hospital trustees have faced some tough decisions in keeping our hospital in a viable and credible position. Although there has been some controversy over the issue of whether Gerry Hollinger, director of nursing, stays or leaves, the overriding issue for the board has been to keep the hospital in operation.

The board hired a new administrator to solve some problems and make sure the hospital is managed in the most efficient manner possible. Some changes and adjustments are necessary when a new boss takes over, and apparently the board feels the new administrator is on the right course.

We do not envy the board's task. Their job is made more difficult because the public does not have all the facts surrounding the problems at the hospital. There are far too many stories, rumors and speculation as to what has gone wrong.

St. Patrick special to Irish

By ANDREA O'LAMB
Staff Writer

For some, March 17 means little more than a day when people scour their closets for that rumpled article of lime green clothing used to ward off pinch-happy, obnoxious co-workers.

For others, it's that chance to sneak in one more time of revelry before Easter hops into view.

Finding someone in Hereford who thinks otherwise is close to impossible.

So, traveling 45 miles to Nazareth, the Rev. Brendan Sharry was the closest person available who still adheres to the true meaning of St. Patrick's Day.

"We in Ireland find that St. Patrick's Day in the United States is a chance to make fun of what Ireland considers a religious holiday," said Sharry, who lived in Ireland before coming to the United States in 1983. "You have to remember who and what St. Patrick was and is to know the holiday's true meaning."

St. Patrick is considered the patron saint of Ireland because he was chiefly responsible for converting the Irish to Christianity in the early fifth century.

"St. Patrick's Day is the principle celebration in Ireland. We start the day out with mass and then participate in football or horling (game similar to hockey). We also have parades, Irish story telling, singing and dancing," said Sharry in a soft Irish brogue. Sharry said the Irish don't necessarily don green clothing on March 17, but a green shamrock peeking from the breast pocket is imperative.

"The shamrock was what St. Patrick used to explain the trinity to the Irish people. Each leaf represented the Father, Son and the Holy Spirit attached to one stem," said Sharry.

He added that shamrocks are flown from Ireland every St. Patrick's Day to the Irish embassy in New York because the plant isn't found in the United States.

"But we never sent the shamrock with the roots attached," Sharry said indignantly. "In Ireland, it's regarded as a sacred thing. Over here, it would probably just be considered a weed."

Each St. Patrick's Day, many Irishmen make a pilgrimage to a hill on which St. Patrick spent 40 days and nights.

"A majority of the people are teens," said Sharry. "It's a wonderful thing to see such young people take an interest in paying homage to St. Patrick."

Legend says that this hill marked the spot where St. Patrick charmed all of Ireland's snakes into the sea.

Sharry considers himself an Irishman in the purest sense of the word, and he's not ashamed to admit it.

"There are other priests in the area and we often get together. But besides them, the only other true Irishman around is the reflection I see in the mirror," Sharry stated.

Another man also claims he's a true Irishman, but only because his last name has a 'Mc' attached to the front.

Neil McNutt of Hereford said he doesn't remember who his ancestors were or when they came to the United States, but his ties to Ireland mysteriously strengthen when St. Patty's Day rolls along.

"I'm gonna wear some green and drink some green beer if I can find it," said McNutt, who tends to celebrate St. Patrick's Day in the "Americanized" way Sharry described.

"I guess you could say I am the tallest leprechaun in Hereford. But the trouble is, all the girls are always chasing after me for my pot of gold," McNutt said with a toothy smile.

McNutt's pot of gold, as he describes it, is his flying business in which he sprays crops.

"Every St. Patrick's Day I take a ride in my airplane. I guess that's why I like the shamrock so much—the leaves flutter in the wind which reminds me of wings which reminds me of flying," said McNutt.

McNutt will have to find some other way to celebrate besides flying now that a deep freeze has settled on the Panhandle.

As for Sharry, he'll most likely be recognizing St. Patrick for his contribution to Christianity more than 1,500 years ago.

What about McNutt? You'll probably find him with friends, wearing a 98-cent green hat and looking for a green beer.

It's a McNutt-y day

St. Patrick's Day is the ideal holiday for Neil McNutt of Hereford—and for millions of Americans of Irish heritage. It's a day for remembering, and a day for celebrating.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says egotism is that certain something which causes a man who is in a rut to think he's in the groove.

A good supervisor is someone who can step on your toes without messing up your shine.

Things are looking up in Hereford. It appears the Valley View project is finally going to get underway; the chamber is considering locating a research facility here that would support a food processing industry; the chamber is also talking to a couple of prospects on the possibility of locating an industry in the old Swift plant; construction has started on a new lumber yard; several retail businesses are looking at our community—including a super-market; remodeling is underway for a mini-mall at Main and 5th streets; and group discussions are underway for the new Economic Development Strategy Council.

With the nuclear waste repository issue behind us, there is also a new feeling of togetherness building in the community's search for economic progress. While some of the factors mentioned are "iffy", there is a positive outlook that, once again, reflects the hustlin' Hereford spirit that helped make this a great community.

Philip Niedzielski-Eichner told the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday that decisions made during the process to develop a Strategic Plan for Economic Development could have long-term implications for the community no matter the direction the process takes.

Eichner, executive director of the Waste Deposit Impact Committee and Economic Development Strategy Council, explained the process EDSC will use to develop goals and strategies for the community for its future.

"We want to develop a vision of where we want to be when the 21st Century arrives," Eichner said. "It's kind of shocking that it's only 12 years away. We must establish what we want Hereford to be, establish visions, then establish the strategy for achieving those visions. The made and not made will have long-term implications. The community is at a turning point, and is at a crossroads."

Eichner explained the process for establishing a consensus for community goals and strategies to achieve those goals.

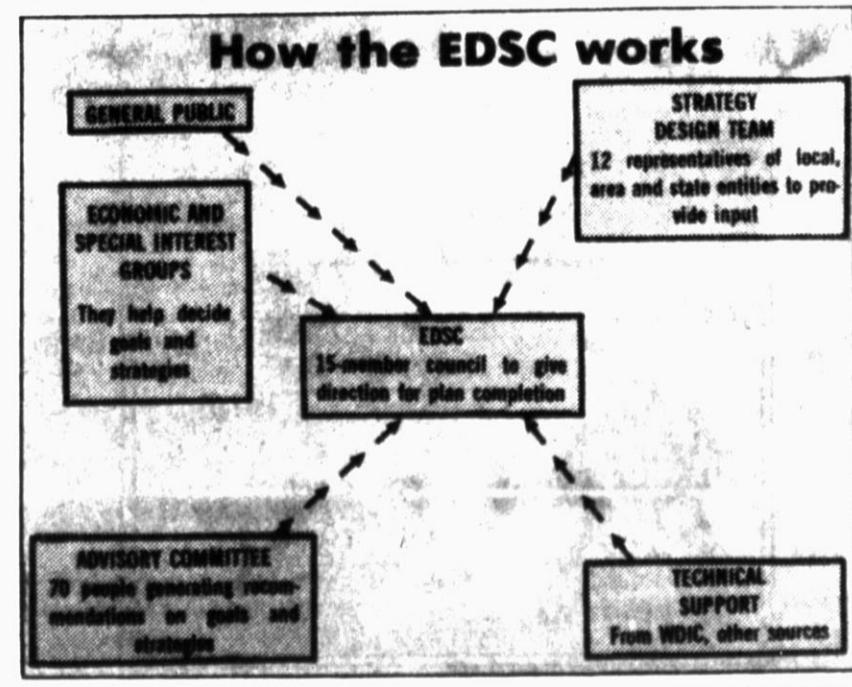

The effort is headed by the 15-member EDSC which includes members from all taxing entities in the county and a variety of interest groups. The EDSC receives input from a 70-member advisory group (which will hold its first meeting at 7 p.m. today at the Deaf Smith County Library), several special interest groups, WDIC-EDSC technical support and the general public to reach final conclusions on what the community determines its goals are, and how to achieve those goals.

Eichner said he has more confidence in the community than he held just a month ago.

"I'm sensing a shift in the community," Eichner said. He pointed to Sunday's Brand, which carried front-page stories about a possible food-processing operation, Valley View Energy Corporation, a meeting to discuss and explain tax abatement and about (See EDSC, Page 2)

Babbling Brooks

I hereby declare the debate on whether or not Gerry Hollinger should be rehired closed.

It has been closed by our hospital board, which has backed Administrator Gary Moore in his decision that he had a lack of confidence in Hollinger's abilities as director of nursing.

It must also be pointed out that Gary said the next day that he had nothing but praise for Gerry's ability as a nurse. That ability as a nurse, for the finely-honed, highly-educated skills needed for someone to become a registered nurse, has never been questioned.

Now we're all making our hospital suffer. Let's quit bickering about it and get on with the business of making Deaf Smith General Hospital a hospital of which we can all be proud.

How can we do this? It's really simple.

First and foremost we cannot continue to live in the past. We can't sit around remembering how things were back when... Let's look to the future.

Second, let's use our hospital. Granted there are some things our hospital can't provide; however, if you live in Deaf Smith County and pay taxes to support the hospital, you are throwing YOUR tax money away. You would be better off flushing it down the toilet. If you need to use a hospital, use Deaf Smith General.

Third, there have been vehicles created for extra help for Deaf Smith General. A special fund has been established by Dr. Nadir Khuri at both banks to meet special needs our hospital faces. Another way to help in this regard is through a special memorial or honorarium. You could buy a door, a piece of equipment (they'd probably name a toilet after me), and have your name on it.

Fourth, boost the hospital. For goodness sake, this is not the nuclear dump or MX missiles—Deaf Smith General Hospital is something we all want. It's probably something we'll all need, sooner or later. We need to find out what we can do to help. Maybe your way is to say thank you to a nurse (have you hugged a nurse lately? It's FUN) or a housekeeper or a technician. Maybe your way is to go to Deaf Smith General instead of WXYZ in Amarillo or ABCD in Lubbock or KLMN in Canyon. Maybe your way is to just say something good about our hospital to someone. Maybe you think your best way is to offer to run for the board. The pay is terrible and the hours aren't good, but if you want to have a definite say, get your election Adidas on and run.

Dan Rather, in his autobiography The Camera Never Blinks, tells of his original broadcasting nightmare in Huntsville.

No, Dan wasn't in prison. He was going to school there and working at KSAM. The station was owned by a preacher, who had a more-famous preaching brother who had a 30-minute syndicated sermon every-day.

In those days, the programs came on one side of a 33-1/3 record album. Dan would start the album, jump in the station pickup, go hit on the waitress down at the Dairy Queen for about 20 minutes, then jump back in the pickup and be back at the station just as the last strains of Victory In Jesus hit the air.

Well, Dan put the record on, started it and headed for the Dairy Queen.

He had been there for about 10 minutes when the phone rang. It was the station owner.

"Heard my station lately, boy?" the owner asked.

"No, sir," Dan replied.

"Well go fix it. And your fired."

So, Dan hopped into the pickup and turned the radio on. He discovered the needle had stuck on the record.

The sermon had started: "If you don't repent of your sins today and claim Jesus Christ as your Lord and Savior, you will die and go to Hell!"

The needle had stuck just after the exclamation point on the previous sentence, and went back, every time, to just before the "go."

Many of us are starting to sound just exactly like that record. We have become stuck, in some instances, right before that "go" and ended up at the exclamation point.

If nothing else, we are sounding like a broken record.

Lasten, Gerry had become a friend of mine. If I were in bad shape in an emergency, I'd probably want him around. I've seen him in action. Plus, he's a heckuva nurse, and I really do wish him the best in his chosen field.

But a decision has been made, and its time we started in a new, fresh direction. Let's go forward with our hospital and make it the absolutely best it can be.

Analysts: storm not over for Texas banking industry

DALLAS (AP) — Bankruptcies, bank failures and a criminal investigation of Texas' savings and loan industry continue to bash the state's financial image as the nation's biggest and the best, and analysts say the worst isn't over.

Banking analyst Herb Jones of the investment firm Eppler, Guerin & Turner says Texans used to brag that everything in the state was bigger, better, the best.

"We can't say that now. We look at the Northeast and see their growth is far superior to ours. That was never supposed to happen," Jones said Wednesday.

As the state's largest bank-holding company seeks federal rescue, the nation's perception of Texas has become more negative, analysts say.

Dallas-based First RepublicBank Corp., with $33.2 billion in deposits and 134 banking facilities statewide, acknowledged Tuesday it was seeking federal help because of a deteriorating loan portfolio and difficulty in raising deposits.

Gerald W. Fronterhouse, chairman and chief executive officer, said a loss of $1 billion in deposits since the beginning of February contributed to the bank's decision.

There are signs the state's battered economy is rebounding and that the energy industry is revitalizing, but analysts say the banking industry still lags, coping with mistakes made one to three years ago and the continuing troubles in real estate.

Perhaps, because of potential litigation, we will never know the whole story.

No single person is indispensable, but the hospital is. It's time to put an end to controversy, whatever that takes, and get on with the business of providing this community with the best possible hospital facilities. We support the hospital board in that goal.

Husbands and zippers are explained by Walter Buckel of the Lamesa Press Reporter:

Husbands can relate to this: Just about the time you're in the middle of tying your tie on a Sunday morning, the wife backs up to you and asks you to zip up the zipper on back of her dress.

Brusquely you'll zip up and down in a moment of impatience. The zipper might break or get stuck—and the wife may have to change a dress at the last minute.

It happened to a young couple one morning while they were hurriedly getting ready for work. They both went their separate ways boiling mad. The wife did a slow burn all day thinking of that broken zipper on her new dress.

Coming home that evening she walked through the garage and saw her husband under the car, fixing something, with his legs sticking out. The moment of revenge had come!

Walsh says he's expecting extra charges for North and three others

WASHINGTON (AP) — Independent Counsel Lawrence E. Walsh is leaving the door open for further criminal charges in the Iran-Contra affair following the indictment of Lt. Col. Oliver North and three others on charge of "deceitfully exploiting" U.S. weapons sales to Iran.

The 23-count indictment charging that North, former national security adviser John Poindexter and two weapons dealers engaged in a criminal conspiracy "is simply an interim report" of the grand jury's 14-month investigation. Walsh told reporters.

"The grand jury is not finished," Walsh said Wednesday after the panel returned the 101-page indictment against North. Poindexter and arms dealers Albert Hakim and retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard V. Secord.

Grand jurors will continue to meet because "they have uncompleted investigations," Walsh said, refusing to say if more criminal charges would be brought.

The indictment charges that the defendants circumvented a statutory ban on U.S. military aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels "by deceitfully and without legal authorization" setting up a clandestine private arms supply network.

It also says the four conspired to defraud the government "by deceitfully exploiting for their own purposes and corrupting" the U.S. arms sales to Iran that were approved by President Reagan in an attempt to win release of American hostages in Lebanon.

The U.S. government was cheated out of its rightful proceeds from the sale of $30 million worth of weaponry to Iran, the indictment said. The government received only $12.2 million.

All four defendants were charged with conspiracy, theft of government property and wire fraud, stemming from the diversion of arms-sale profits to the Contras to Swiss bank accounts controlled by Hakim and Secord.

Together, these charges carry a maximum 25-year sentence and each of the three counts has a potential fine of $250,000.

The indictment raises the question of whether Reagan will issue pardons to those charged or convicted as a result of the Iran-Contra affair. Reagan, who has refused to rule out pardons for his former aids, "had no response" to the latest development in the scandal, said spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

North, who was fired from his White House post in November 1986, was named in 16 counts. He also was charged with obstructing Attorney General Edwin Meese III's Nov. 21-23, 1986, investigation by making false statements and destroying National Security Council documents.

Secord and Hakim were additionally charged with conspiring to set up a $200,000 Swiss bank account for the Marine officer's family and to pay for the installation of a security system at North's home in Great Falls, Va.

North was accused of accepting the security system and pocketing $4,500 of $90,000 in travelers checks he received from a Contra leader to cover expenses of helping the rebels.

The gratuities were offered to "encourage North to continue in his position" at the White House so Secord and Hakim "would continue to receive opportunities for substantial revenues and profits" from the arms sales, the indictment said.

Secord and North agreed the "Enterprise" would keep most of the proceeds from the sale of TOW missiles to Iran in February 1986, the indictment said.

Poindexter, a retired Navy rear admiral, also was charged with four counts of obstructing congressional inquiries and deleting National Security Council computer records shortly after the Iran-Contra affair unraveled in November 1986.

Last week, another of Reagan's former national security advisers, Robert C. McFarlane, pleaded guilty to four misdemeanor charges of withholding information from Congress about the covert aid efforts.

North also was charged with illegally using a tax-exempt foundation, the National Endowment for the Preservation of Liberty, to raise $3.2 million for the Contras.

North, who was fired from the NSC staff in November 1986, told reporters: "I did not commit any crime. I intend to fight the allegations of wrongdoing for as long as necessary."

The case was assigned to U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gessell, 77, an appointee of President Johnson who presided at one of the Watergate trials and ruled in favor of The Washington Post's publication of the Pentagon papers.

Secord said on ABC-TV's "Nightline" that the charges were "crazy."

"We're going to defend this case successfully," he said.

FDIC may help First RepublicBank offset losses with $1 billion boost

DALLAS (AP) — The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. is planning to pump about $1 billion of capital into First RepublicBank Corp. to offset a two-day drain of deposits, sources say.

The Dallas Morning News quoting banking sources as saying the run on funds forced the FDIC to transfer about $1 billion in interim assistance, perhaps as early as today.

Sources also said such interim assistance is likely to include a blanket guarantee of all deposits by the FDIC.

"Without a blanket guarantee from the FDIC, the deposits are going to leave," a banking analyst who asked to remain unidentified said. "You have to stabilize the patient before you can do the surgery."

Officials of the bank and the FDIC declined comment late Wednesday on the report.

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said Wednesday it could cost up to $5 billion to prop up First RepublicBank Corp., but he said federal regulators are prepared to help the bank holding company avoid a financial collapse.

Separately, the First RepublicBank said it suffered an unspecified runoff of deposits Tuesday, the day it announced it was seeking federal aid, but added the situation had stabilized on Wednesday.

Bentsen said Wednesday he spoke with Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, Robert L. Clarke, the comptroller of the currency, and L. William Seidman, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

"I've been assured that all of those financial institutions are standing by to help," Bentsen said. "They're going to do all they can to see that this situation is stabilized."

"I feel now that people sense the need to change," Eichner said, "that we need to do something. I wasn't optimistic a month ago that the community was willing to do something. . . Now, we need to decide to make changes work for us or let it change us."

Eichner also pointed out that a positive attitude in the community is important if the community is going to sell itself to potential investors, whether they are already residents or outside groups or businesses.

"If we want to have investors willing to put dollars down, they must have confidence that a return will be there next year, 10 years from now, 20 years from now," Eichner said. "If the community doesn't believe in itself, an outside investor won't believe in us. If they don't believe Hereford is a great place to be, then they won't be willing to invest. However, we have to believe in ourselves."

Over $2,800 raised at benefit jamboree

CAROLYN HUTCHESON

INMAN LARSON

Rockers and rollers were in fine form when they participated in the annual benefit Senior Citizens' Rock 'n' Roll Jamboree Tuesday at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Over 50 people helped raise $2,804.22 within 1½ hours with pledges to be added later. The money will be donated to the American Heart Association to be used in research and education to fight heart disease, according to jamboree chairman, Ruth Knox.

This year's total is $258.21 less than the total amount raised during the 1987 local jamboree which placed Hereford in the number one spot in Texas for the most money collected during the annual benefit.

After rocking 10 hours, Stan Knox conceded to Inman Larson who rocked a winning 10½ hours to receive the first place prize of $15 in Hereford bucks for rocking the longest. Carolyn Hutcheson, who rocked 5½ hours, also received $15 in Hereford bucks for collecting the most pledge money, $430.50. The business making the most contributions and also sending the most rockers was First National Bank who donated $405 to the jamboree. Don Graham, bank president, was presented a plaque Wednesday during the noon meal at the Senior Citizens Center by Ruth Knox, board member serving with the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Heart Association.

Runners-up for collecting the most pledge monies included Helen Stark, Merle Boozer and Stella Hershey.

Among the rockers and rollers were Hereford dignitaries, Mayor Wes Fisher, Darwin McGill, Sheriff Joe Brown, Jeff Brown, Judge Johnnie Turrentine, Judge Tom Simons, Chip Formby and local ministers.

Also, participating were five rollers in wheelchairs from Westgate Nursing Home; four rollers from Golden Plains Care Center; and two rockers from Golden Plains. The First National Bank sent a relay team of 15 employees, each rocking for 30 minutes, and Golden K-Kiwanis Club was represented by a relay team of nine club members.

Special recognition was given to participant Helen Stark, a 90-year-old resident of King's Manor Retirement Home, and to La Plata Beauty School who set-up a beauty shop for the day offering haircuts, manicures and pedicures. All proceeds were donated to the AHA.

Entertainment was provided by the Senior Citizens exercise class, the Golden Dancers, George Kemerer, Leta Kaul, and the Yount at Heart Choir.

Refreshments for the rock 'n' rollers were furnished by McDonald's, Pizza Hut, American Heart Association board members and other individuals.

Serving on the jamboree committee were publicity chairman, Helen Spinks, Ruth Knox, Alby Cockrell, Addie Cunningham, Margie Daniels, Jean Patton, Rosie Wall, Nila Cockrell, Mildred Garrison and Hope Loerwald.

DEAR READERS: The National Council on Alcoholism does a superb job of educating the public. Recently something came in the mail that I feel should be seen by every teenager, their parents and teachers. Here it is:

NOTHING BUT THE FACTS

1. Alcohol is America's No. 1 drug problem among youth. (In 1985, an estimated 4.6 million adolescents, ages 14 through 17, experienced negative consequences of alcohol use—arrest, involvement in an accident, impairment of health or job performance.)

2. Alcohol is twice as popular among college students as the next leading drug, marijuana, and more than five times as popular as cocaine.

3. Only 42 percent of fourth graders know that alcohol is a drug, compared to 81 percent who consider marijuana a drug.

4. The earlier in life a child starts using any dependence-producing drug, the more likely he or she is to experience health problems, and go on to use other drugs.

5. About 10,000 young people aged 16 to 24 are killed each year in alcohol-related accidents, including drowning, suicides, violence injuries, homicides and injuries from fire.

6. Alcohol-related highway deaths are the No. 1 killer of 15- to 24-year-olds.

7. Nearly 100,000 10- and 11-year-olds reported getting drunk at least once a week in 1985.

8. Children of alcoholics have a four times greater risk of developing alcoholism than children of nonalcoholics. (There are 28.6 million children of alcoholics in the U.S. today, 6.6 million of whom are under the age of 18).

9. Many surveys suggest that the best predictor of the drinking habits of adolescents is the attitude and behavior of their parents regarding the use of alcohol. (Adolescent heavy drinkers tend to come from homes where one or both parents are heavy drinkers, or from homes where both are abstainers.)

10. A child will see alcohol consumed an average of 75,000 times on TV before he or she is of legal drinking age.

11. Drinking differences between boys and girls are diminishing. (The number of young female drinkers has been increasing more rapidly than the number of young male drinkers. Girls also tend now to experiment with a wider variety of substances.)

12. It is estimated that increasing federal excise taxes on beer, the favorite alcohol beverage among youth, would reduce alcohol-related motor vehicle fatalities by 55 percent among 18- to 20-year-old young men and by 45 percent among 18- to 20-year-old young women.

13. Alcoholism is a chronic, progressive and potentially fatal disease. It is sure to lead to psychological and physical

14. Alcoholism is one of the most serious public health problems in the United States today. The same is true in Russia, France and Italy.

15. One out of three American adults—56 million Americans—say that alcohol abuse has brought trouble to their families.

Plainview Pioneer Round-Up planned May 21

The Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club has announced Saturday, May 21 as the date for the 1988 Pioneer Round-Up. This will be the 60th year the Club has sponsored this annual event, according to Pat Ray, president of the sponsoring club.

The Pioneer Round-Up was started as a method of honoring pioneers of this area. This continues to be one of the purposes of the event, but in addition, it has become an entertainment feature for people of all ages in Plainview, Hale County and surrounding areas.

"60th Round-Up/Hale County Centennial" has been chosen for this year's Round-Up theme to recognize the long running pioneer event and the 100th organization of Hale County. Activities will be held in the Ollie Liner Center on the south edge of Plainview. The reception will be held in the meeting room at the Center and pioneers will gather for this at 10 a.m. on Saturday morning.

The traditional Pioneer Round-Up parade will roll at 2:30 p.m.

Saturday evening's program will begin at 6 when the chuck wagon supper will be served until 8 p.m. in the large assembly room at the Ollie Liner Center with the program to follow.

A square dance will conclude the day's activities.

All local and area people are invited to this Pioneer Round-Up for a day of entertainment and to honor those pioneers who came to this country many years ago. The Plainview Downtown Association has scheduled their third annual Balloon Festival to coincide with the Pioneer Round-Up to make even more activities available to people of this area.

Susie Curtsinger will attend the annual meeting of Rebekah Assembly of Texas March 18-22 in San Antonio. Wilma Wise of Friona will accompany the women.

Those in attendance included Pearson, Curtsinger, Anna Conklin, Verna Sowell, Erma Loving, Faye Brownlow, Shirley Brown, Jo Irlbeck, Leona Sowell, Peggy Lemons, Anthony Irlbeck and Jim Loving.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. What's the best way to store cocoa that comes in a can? Mrs. L. McM., Chicago, Ill.

A. Store cocoa at room temperature for up to 24 months.

Q. What is a polyunsaturated fat and why is it recommended for a low-cholesterol diet? P.S. Houston, Tx.

A. Polyunsaturated fats, commonly found in cooking oils and some soft margarines, are liquid at room temperature. These fats are made from corn, soybeans, safflowers and sunflowers. Research show that polyunsaturated fats tend to reduce blood cholesterol levels. Professional health organizations strongly recommend reducing total fat in the diet, and replacing some saturated fats with polyunsaturated fats.

Q. What are the proportions for Fines Herbes? A.M.L., Point Pleasant, NJ

A. Make your own mixture of this seasoning from fresh or dried herbs by mixing equal parts of parsley, tarragon, chives and chervil. Add other mild herbs, if you like.

Do you have a question? Write Dear Betty Crocker, Box 1113, Dept. Betty, Minneapolis, MN 55440.

TIP OF THE WEEK: One pound of butter or margarine equals two cups. One stick of butter or margarine equals ½ cup or 8 tablespoons.

Now You're Cooking

BY GAYE B. REILY
Staff Writer

Once actively involved in various clubs and organizations, Kathy Paetzold of 207 Sunset now prefers to be a stay-at-home wife and mother.

"I enjoy staying home. I think it's important to be around when your kids are young if possible," said the petite mother of three.

Kathy and her husband, Joe, are the parents of Jason, a seventh grader at La Plata Junior High School; Jill, a second grader at the Nazarene Christian Academy; and Luke, 10 weeks old.

The Paetzolds' love of children is evident through their church involvement and Kathy's former profession. The couple are involved as 'Lifeguards' for the youthgroup at their church home, the Church of the Nazarene, and Kathy has taught at Northwest School intermittently for five years.

Caring for her own children takes up a great deal of Kathy's time, as Jason is involved in various sports and band while Jill takes piano lessons. Husband Joe has farmed and now owns and operates LifeSprouts, where commercially growing alfalfa and bean sprouts.

An Easter community native, Kathy has lived in Hereford since her marriage. She graduated from Dimmitt High School and received her teaching degree from West Texas State University, where she majored in elementary education.

Despite the rigors of motherhood, Kathy manages to find some time for herself. She likes to sew, do country cross stitch, read, and is a member of a women's Bible study group. She enjoys walking for exercise and confesses to possessing a passion for desserts.

"I love anything sweet. I always keep cookies or a cake around because the kids are hungry when they come home from school. Jill usually helps me mix cookie dough, which we sometimes eat before there is a chance to bake it!" she laughed.

In addition to desserts, which the entire family likes, finding a menu that pleases each family member can be a challenge.

"Jason likes hamburgers and French fries while I eat more vegetables. We like various types of food, and breakfast is our big meal. We enjoy pancakes and waffles for breakfast and I use my Master Mix for a quick breakfast."

Kathy noted that the family also drinks hot chocolate year around, so she keeps her own mix in a large, airtight container. Recipes for both mixes follow, as do recipes for such sweets as peanut butter ice cream, Grandma's molasses cookies, and Susie's chocolate oatmeal cake. "This cake is my family's favorite chocolate cake and it was given to me by a very special friend," she noted.

Headache causes, types of relief suggested

Nearly everyone has experienced a headache at one time or another. As common as they are, though, many people do not know what causes them or how to relieve them. According to the Texas Medical Association, there are two main types of headaches, tension and vascular.

Tension headaches, also called muscle contraction headaches, are caused by tension in the face, neck, and scalp muscles. But because the pain is felt in the forehead, temples, or eyesockets rather than the muscles, many people do not link the headaches to the muscle tension.

Stress is an underlying cause of tension headaches. Frowning, teeth clenching, and poor posture—things we do under stress and often are unaware of—are typical causes. Other factors include too little or too much sleep, and overeating or drinking.

You can relieve your tension headaches with over-the-counter pain relievers, by applying heat or ice on the back of the neck, massaging the tense muscles, and resting.

Vascular headaches are caused by narrowing and swelling blood vessels in the head. This type of headache is more commonly known as migraine.

The warning symptoms of migraine include nausea, vomiting, and disturbed vision, such as seeing spots or flashing lights, and are followed by severe headaches usually on one side of the head.

Unlike tension headaches, migraine tends to run in families. In fact, even young children can have migraine. An increase or decrease in stress level, various foods, alcohol, caffeine, and tobacco also cause these headaches in some people.

If you suffer from severe migraine, TMA suggests see your doctor. Although there is no cure for migraine, he or she may be able to prescribe medication to relieve your headaches.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization with more than 28,000 physician and medical student members. It is located in Austin and has 116 component county medical societies around the state.

A VILLA FOR THE FAMILY

NEW YORK (AP) — If thoughts of family vacations bring visions of overcrowded hotel rooms, consider renting a villa.

Villas are available in vacation spots through the world. They offer more space and privacy than most hotel rooms and enable parents to plan meals the children will eat.

Here are some tips from Child magazine to help find that getaway spot:

— Request pictures of both the building's interior and exterior.

— Ask about the villa's proximity to local sights, the beach, etc.

— Find out if there is an on-site, English-speaking manager and ask what services he supplies.

— Arrange babysitting in advance.

Some teams desire to prove something in NCAA tourney

By KEN KUSMER
Associated Press Writer
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Some teams show up just happy to be here, others come in feeling a great desire to prove something to the basketball world.
Ironically, it's the third-ranked Purdue squad, the top seed in the Midwest Regional of the NCAA basketball tournament and a team snake-bitten in recent tourney history, that entered today's first-round action feeling no need to prove its greatness. Or so says Coach Gene Keady.
But 13th-seeded La Salle, in the NCAA field for the first time in five years after winning the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference tournament, saw a clear goal in its matchup against Kansas State, ranked 20th in the nation and seeded fourth in the regional.
"I think we gained a lot of respect last year going to the NIT finals," said senior guard Tim Legler. "If we can beat a team of that caliber, it'll make people recognize where our program is headed."
The winner of tonight's game faces the victor of the DePaul-Wichita State game on Saturday. The other second-round game at South Bend will pit the winners of the Purdue-Fairleigh Dickinson and Baylor-Memphis State games. The remaining eight teams in the Midwest Regional compete at Lincoln, Neb., beginning Friday.
LaSalle, 24-9 and riding a 15-game winning streak, saw its season end last year with an 84-80 loss to Southern Mississippi in the championship game of the National Invitation Tournament. The Explorers depended this year on the 23.4 points and 11.4 rebounds per game of sophomore forward Lionel Simmons, the MAAC player of the year, and Legler's 18.9 points.

Kansas State, which lost to Nevada-Las Vegas in the second round last year, earned its high seed after a 22-8 season. Senior swing man Mitch Richmond leads the Wildcats with 22.7 points per game.
"It's my second year around and I'm more calm and I have better control of my nerves," said Richmond.
"The fourth seed is a real honor," Coach Lon Kruger said. "But I told them it doesn't mean anything now."
DePaul Coach Joey Meyer echoed the warning against overconfidence.
"This is a one-game elimination, and it really doesn't matter what you've done before as it matters what you do (tonight)," said Meyer.
The Blue Demons, one of only two independent squads to make the 64-team field (Notre Dame was the other), finished regular-season play 21-7 and led by the backcourt of Rod Strickland and Kevin Edwards, averaging 20.1 and 18.6 points.
The Blue Demons are making their 10th NCAA appearance in 11 years and 20-9 Wichita State its third in four years.

Blue Devils not taking any opponent lightly

Duke enters NCAA tourney cautious

By TIM LIOTTA
AP Sports Writer
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Mississippi Valley State had an 8-20 record this season and is absent from this year's NCAA postseason basketball tournament.

And yet, the Southwestern Conference school has been repeatedly referred to in questions asked of Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski.
Two years ago, Duke met a lightly regarded Mississippi Valley State and trailed until late in the second half before finally prevailing.

This year, the fifth-ranked Blue Devils open their NCAA Tournament against a lightly regarded Boston University and comparisons have been made to Duke's struggle two years ago.

"That team was a veteran team and I think it took them (Mississippi Valley State) lightly. They tried to ease into the tournament," Krzyzewski said before Duke's final pre-tournament practice Thursday. "This team is a young team. It thinks it can lose to anybody, and it can."
"Two years ago, I don't think they thought they could lose to anybody. I'll be very disappointed if we don't play well (against Boston University)."

Duke will meet Boston University in the last of four games scheduled today at the Dean Smith Center.

Boston University, 23-7, earned its bid by winning the ECAC North Atlantic Conference tournament. Led by guard Drederick Irving, who averaged 20.3 points per game during the regular season, the Terriers are making their first NCAA appearance since 1983.

Guard Larry Jones added 18.1 points per game to Boston University's three-guard offense.

"We obviously don't have the ammunition that Duke has, so we could go out and play a great game and not come out on top," Boston University Coach Mike Jarvis said. "We are going to learn a lot here."

When asked about Duke's main weapon, junior Danny Ferry, Jarvis said, "Ten years from now, I'm going to tell my grandchildren that I coached against Danny Ferry. That's how good I think he is."

In the other night game in the East Regional, Southern Methodist goes against Notre Dame.

Southern Methodist, 27-6, is a good outside shooting team, making 50.5 of its shots, 40.7 percent on three-pointers. The Southwest Conference champions were led by Carlton McKinney (16.1 points per game) and 5-11 Kato Armstrong (15.8).

The Mustangs will have to contain Notre Dame's David Rivers, who averaged 22.4 points per game this year. "When you think about SMU you think jump shooters. When you think about Notre Dame, you think about David Rivers," Mustangs Coach Dave Bliss said.

"We feel we can pressure him and get him tired and cause him to make some mistakes and work it to our advantage," McKinney said. "We are going to concentrate mainly on him."

The Fighting Irish, 20-8, reached the regional finals a year ago before losing to North Carolina.

Kentucky coach believes his Wildcats are on an upbeat

By The Associated Press
Eddie Sutton likes where his Kentucky Wildcats are going and where they are at.

The sixth-ranked Wildcats have won seven straight games, including three in the Southeastern Conference tournament. Kentucky also won the SEC regular-season crown and carries a 25-5 record into Friday's Southeast Regional game with Southern University.

"For the past three-week period, our team has been more consistent as far as playing quality basketball," Sutton said. "I believe we're on an upbeat."

Not having to journey too far for the first round also is beneficial. The Wildcats, who are seeded second behind Oklahoma in the regional — Southern is 15th — have to go only 70 miles, from Lexington to Cincinnati.

Just as important is not taking Southern lightly. The Jaguars, 24-6, won the Southwestern Athletic tour-namment after going 12-2 for the regular-season crown.

"Southern is a dangerous basketball team from the standpoint that they shoot the ball extremely well," Sutton said. "Anytime you see a ballclub that has seven guys averaging in double figures ... I've never seen a ballclub in my coaching career where the other team had seven players in double figures. They're averaging 96 points a game."

Names in the News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael J. Fox's acrobatic quest for a soft drink to satisfy an attractive apartment neighbor won three awards in an international competition for television and radio commercials.

The TV commercial for Diet Pepsi was named sweepstakes winner, world's best live action 60-second English-language commercial and best humorous commercial at Tuesday's 28th International Broadcasting Awards dinner.

A series of three commercials for Wine World was the radio sweepstakes winner. It also won the series trophy.

The annual competition sponsored by the Hollywood Radio and Television Society attracted more than 5,000 entries from 60 countries.

Radio personalities Casey Kasem and Gary Owens were masters of ceremonies at the black-tie presentations at the Century Plaza Hotel attended by an estimated 1,500 advertising and broadcasting executives from around the world.

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Actress Lillian Gish has donated $10,000 to Bowling Green State University to enhance the film theater that bears her family's name.

The gift is designated for the Dorothy and Lillian Gish Film Theater endowment fund, which supports activities in the building that commemorates the Gish sisters' contributions to the performing arts.

The theater is undergoing a $250,000 renovation scheduled to be completed in May 1989.

Ms. Gish, 91, was born in Ohio and made her acting debut at the turn of the century in the village of Rising Sun, about 20 miles from Bowling Green.

MOSCOW (AP) — Musicians from 10 Western countries including David Bowie, Jennifer Rush and Irish rockers U-2 have agreed to perform along with Soviet musicians in benefit concerts next month to fight drug addiction.

The official Novosti Press Agency said other foreign performers scheduled are Level 42, Supertramp, Foreigner, Tangerine Dream and Bon Jovi.

Participating Soviet groups are Aquarium, Bravo, Brigade S, Black Coffee and others whose music ranges from heavy metal to traditional rock 'n' roll, Novosti said.

The press agency did not give a date, but said the three six-hour concerts will be held in late April at the 30,000-seat Olympic Stadium in Moscow.

Sources close to the organizers said the concerts were postponed from this month because of bureaucratic red tape.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Laryngitis caused Nancy Reagan to cancel a trip today to a Nashville, Tenn., school that a snowstorm had prevented her from visiting once before.

"She can't talk. It's a bad case of laryngitis," spokeswoman Wendy Weber Toler said Tuesday. "She started losing her voice last night."

It was the second time the first lady had been forced to cancel the visit to Warner Elementary School and a drug and alcohol abuse prevention program; a snowstorm had prevented Mrs. Reagan from visiting the city the first time.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder, a former White House aide who served seven months in prison for his role in the Watergate coverup, says he's well prepared to head the mayor's commission on values and ethics.

"I talk about these issues to the Kiwanis and the Rotaries around here, as well as deal with these issues through the church, so I would hope that my background would be helpful," Magruder said Tuesday.

After his release from prison in 1976, Magruder entered a seminary and was ordained in 1981 as a Presbyterian minister.

Magruder, President Nixon's deputy director of communications at the time of the 1972 Watergate break-in, pleaded guilty to perjury and conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Two nationally ranked teams selected

Women's NIT set March 24-26

AMARILLO — Five teams with 20 or more victories, including two nationally ranked teams overlooked for the NCAA women's tournament, are among the eight teams selected for 20th annual Women's National Invitational Tournament.

The Women's NIT is scheduled March 24-26 at the Amarillo Civic Center.

The University of Nevada at Las Vegas, 24-7, and the University of New Orleans, 23-6, have been ranked in national polls throughout the season. Nevada-Las Vegas is the No. 1 seed in the Women's NIT, and New Orleans is the No. 2 seed.

The rest of the tournament teams are: No. 3 seed De Paul, 24-4; No. 4 seed South Alabama, 20-8; No. 5 seed

Purdue, 19-9; No. 6 seed Mississippi State, 18-11; No. 7 Montana State, 24-3; and No. 8 seed Illinois State, 19-9.

Four games mark the opening of the three-day tournament on March 24: game one, Purdue vs. South Alabama, 2 p.m.; game two, Mississippi State vs. De Paul, 4 p.m.; game three, Montana State vs. New Orleans, 7 p.m.; and game four, Illinois State vs. Nevada-Las Vegas, 9 p.m.

On March 25, the losers of games two and four will play and the losers of games one and three play, in the afternoon. Winner's bracket games are scheduled in the evening, between the winners of games two and four, and the winners of games one and three. The seventh place, fifth place, third place and championship games are set for March 26.

Nevada-Las Vegas has won 20 games six consecutive seasons. The Lady Rebels are led by sophomore Pauline Jordan with 16.9 points and 8.7 rebounds per game.

Jordan's twin sister Geannine is also a starter for Las Vegas, averaging 11.7 points and 7.3 rebounds. Junior guard DeNise Ballenger, from Nacogdoches, Texas, averages 14.5 points per game.

Las Vegas has co-coaches, husband and wife — Jim Bolla and Sheila Strike-Bolla.

New Orleans has had eight straight seasons of at least 17 wins under coach Joey Favaloro, including six 20-win seasons. The Buckettes had a 25-7 record in the 1986-87 season when they made the first ever appearance for the school in the NCAA tournament.

Center Carvis Upshaw averages 12.8 points and 8.6 rebounds. Pam Cox, a senior from San Antonio, is New Orleans' leading scorer with 13.0 points per game.

The Lady Blue Demons of De Paul have averaged 21.6 wins per year in coach Jim Izard's four seasons at the school. They won their second straight North Star championship with a 9-1 record.

De Paul set a school record this year with 17 consecutive wins. Diana Vines leads the Lady Blue Demons with 22.9 points per game, 19th in individual scoring in the nation.

Vines is also 17th in the nation in rebounding with an 11.3 average.

The South Alabama Lady Jaguars have had 20-win seasons four times in seven years under coach Charles Branum. South Alabama beat the University of New Orleans 83-76 in the second game of this season.

Ella Williams leads South Alabama with 18.8 points per game, and also averages 8.2 rebounds and 5.3 assists. Adrian Vickers is the leading rebounder with 12.1 per game, ranked 11th in the nation.

Vickers had the highest scoring game of the season for South Alabama with 37 points.

The Purdue Boilermakers placed third in the Big Ten this year with a 12-5 record, behind Iowa and Ohio State which were selected for the NCAA tournament. Purdue's leading scorer is Christa Lacroix with an 18.3 average.

Lacroix led the Big Ten in blocks last season. Sharon Versyp, a third team All America selection last year, is shooting 82.5 percent from the free throw line and is averaging 15.7 points.

Purdue, with seven players six feet or taller, is making its first postseason tournament appearance in women's basketball history.

Mississippi State's Lady Bulldogs, with their 18 wins, have set a school record for victories. They finished seventh in the Southeast Conference, considered the strongest women's basketball conference in the nation; the top six teams were selected for the NCAA tournament.

Kunshinge Sorrell leads the Lady Bulldogs with a 21.3 scoring average, and attempts nearly all of her team's three-point shots. Senior Ann Lashley is the school's all-time rebound leader, and sophomore Sophie Ratliff set a school record with 26 rebounds in one game this year.

The Lady Bobcats of Montana State opened the season with 17 consecutive victories, and beat NCAA tournament team Montana 58-56. Lynn Andrew, with a 21.2 scoring average, set a school record this year for the most points in one season.

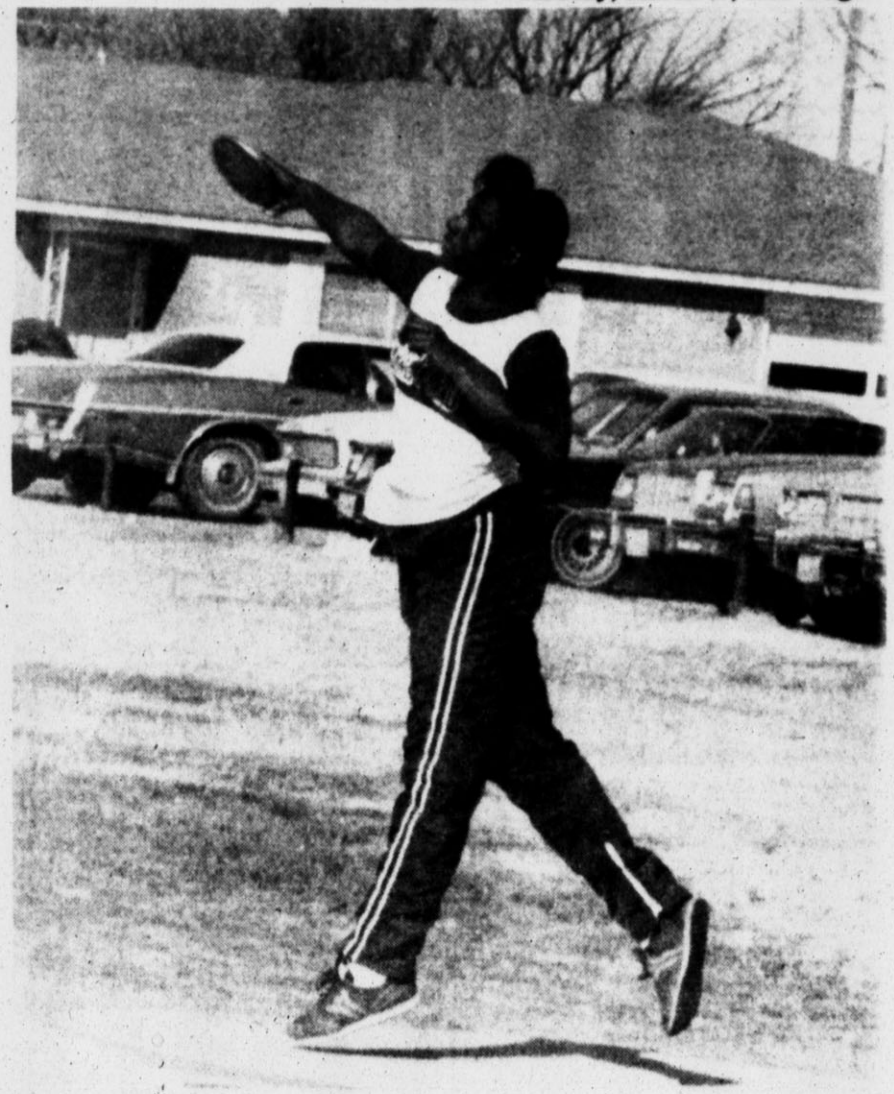

Andrew, who is shooting 80 percent from the free throw line, leads Montana State in rebounding with 8.2 per game.

Illinois State coach Jill Hutchison achieved her 300th career victory this season. The Lady Redbirds tied for the Gateway Conference championship with Indiana State and Eastern Illinois, all with 14-4 league records.

Illinois State lost to Eastern Illinois 80-79 in the finals of the conference tournament, and Eastern Illinois received an NCAA tournament invitation.

Susan Wellman leads Illinois State with averages of 17.4 points and 6.7 rebounds per game. Her high game was 30 points this season.

Three other Lady Redbird players are also averaging in double figures — Char Govan, 12.2; LuAnn Robinson, 10.5; and Pam Tanner, 10.0. One win in the Women's NIT would give the Illinois State coach her seventh straight 20-win season.

ASK DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have hypoglycemia. I have been on a diet for many years and am better than I was. It does help me. Now I have been diagnosed as having a high cholesterol. The count was 256. The doctor put me on a diet. My problem is how do I go on a diet for hypoglycemia and a high cholesterol at the same time? One diet says I can have one thing and the other diet says I can't have it. What can I do?

I'm 57 years old and weigh 120 pounds. The lowest my glucose count has been was 32. This last year it has been better. I never realized a person could be so sick from it. Many doctors said it was my nerves.

DEAR READER: The thrust of a diet to prevent hypoglycemia is to eat foods that do not raise your blood glucose level and trigger the release of excess insulin. A diet to control high cholesterol is one that is low in fat, particularly saturated fat, and low in cholesterol. You can achieve both rather easily. The thinking about foods that raise the blood glucose level is undergoing change because of research that has measured the actual response to specific foods.

For the meat group, you can use very lean meat, such as round steak with all the visible fat removed, or lean fish or poultry, such as the roasted breast of chicken after the skin has been removed. The vegetable, fruit, cereals and bread should not be a great problem. You might need to be careful to use whole wheat bread to include bulk. The bulk slows emptying of the stomach and helps to prevent a rise in blood glucose.

Eat whole raw fruit and not juice. Milk, used in modest amounts at different intervals of the day, does not cause a major rise in glucose, particularly if taken with a meal. And you can use protein-fortified skim milk to avoid the fat and cholesterol. By avoiding fats and concentrated sweets along with using bulk, you should be able to meet your needs. Your doctor may wish to refer you to a registered dietician to help you with planning your diet to meet these goals.

Many people who have low blood glucose levels do not actually have hypoglycemia as a medical disorder. You need to be informed about the current thinking so I'm sending you a copy of my new Special Report 88, "Your Blood Glucose Level and Hypoglycemia." Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE HEALTH LETTER/88, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am one of those women who gains weight by looking at food. I'm trying to convince my doctor that I am different from other women who do not have a weight problem, and I cannot keep my weight off unless I stay on a low-calorie diet. He doesn't believe me and thinks I eat more than I admit to. Do you have any information that would help me convince him that I'm telling the truth?

DEAR READER: You are in luck. The Department of Nutrition, Kings College, University of London, compared the formerly obese women with the women of equal weight, age and other characteristics. They found that the formerly obese women consumed an average of 1,298 calories a day, while the women who had never had a weight problem consumed 1,945 calories a day. The formerly obese women used 15 percent fewer calories than their never obese counterparts. Some obese women gain weight until the calorie requirement to support their heavier body equals their calorie intake. Your doctor can find the scientific article on this point in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, volume 45, page 914, 1987.

DEAR DR. LAMB: A year ago I had a bad cold and cough. Every time I coughed I felt like my ears were going to burst. I started having ringing in my ears and I could hear echoes when watching TV or when someone spoke to me. I got over the cough and the cold and the echoes, but the ringing remained in my left ear.

I went to see an ear specialist and he gave me a hearing test and said my hearing was good in my right ear, but my hearing was slightly bad in my left ear. He also said there was nothing he could do about the ringing sound in my left ear. Is there anything that can be done? The ringing is very annoying and I wish it could be stopped. I'm 58 years old.

DEAR READER: There are many causes for ear noises. A person with this problem does need a complete evaluation to find the cause. The causes include noise damage, ear wax and tumor of the acoustic nerve. But the most common cause is a decrease in hearing. The noises are much more apparent when there is no competition from background sound present with normal hearing. It is no accident that the ringing is in your left ear.

One of the earliest successful treatments for ear noises (tinnitus) was to use a hearing aid. Any measure that improves hearing often suppresses noise. A person may not be aware of a hearing loss because it involves sound frequencies that are not in the range of normal conversation. These usually involve loss of high frequency hearing. The ear noise may be in those same frequencies. In such cases the hearing aid is not so much to improve your hearing as to stop the ear noise.

DEAR DR. LAMB: For many years I have wet my fingers on my tongue before dealing cards. I have also noticed that numerous others have the same filthy habit. I am retired and play pinocle and gin rummy several times a month. Two players I play cards with lick their fingers. Today I found that one was operated on for lung cancer and the other has cancer of the throat. I have stopped playing cards with them and they will wonder why. Would you please inform me what the consequences might be?

DEAR READER: It is not a very nice habit. But there are not many diseases you could spread this way. Even lung diseases such as tuberculosis are spread by sputum from the lungs, not saliva from the mouth. Certainly you cannot get cancer from your friends in this manner. I wouldn't let their history of cancer be a reason for not playing cards with them.
