MILLION DOLLAR, COUNTY-WIDE PAVING PROGRAM

PETITIONS PREPARED; DATE AND DETAILS NOT ENTIRELY DETERMINED

The most momentous step for basic development ever attempted in Deaf Smith county was taken at Monday's luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce, held at the Stockman's Cafe, when President E. B. Black filed a petition to be circulated and presented to the Commissioners' court, probably in December, asking that an election be called to vote in the issuance of the county's bonds in the sum of one million dollars for a ten-year, county-wide road improvement program.

Prior to reading the fateful document, President Black stated that he felt the occasion to be so historical and so full of meaning that it should be begun with prayer, and he called upon the Rev. J. O. Haynes to ask Divine blessings upon the success of this gigantic undertaking. The diners stood while Mr. Haynes spoke earnestly and feelingly of the importance of the subject in hand and prayed for a triumphant outcome of the venture.

Church Offers Building Lots Public Auction

An unusual auction sale is announced in this issue of the paper. The Christian church of Hereford will sell sixteen building lots on Saturday afternoon, November 20, to the highest bidders, the proceeds to be used in meeting necessary church obligations.

These lots are part of the old high school campus, being the southeast corner of this tract of land, and are situated in one of the best residential sections of the city. All of the lots are desirable from a home standpoint, and can be obtained at the buyers own price and on terms that should make them sell quickly.

Red Cross to Start Drive In 1926 Campaign

Prior to the opening on Armistice Day, of the Tenth Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross, Ralph Barnett, chairman of the local membership campaign, in an interview, explained the different types of membership and told how membership dues are expended.

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE OBSERVED

According to agreements made, all Hereford stores will close for Armistice Day, Thursday, and give their owners and employees a day of rest and recreation. No special program has been prepared so far as has been announced, but many of the local people will take advantage of the holiday to go visiting, hunting and in social intercourse. An effort was made to transfer the Canyon-Hereford football game from Friday to Thursday, but without avail.

Best Football Game This Year Set for Friday

The outstanding football game of the 1926 season is billed for the high school campus Friday afternoon of this week at 3:30 o'clock. The game will bring together the Hereford and Canyon eleven, and there will be blood on the moon for an hour or so. The two teams met in Canyon earlier in the season and Canyon took the decision. But the Hereford eleven has vastly improved since that time and shows much better team and individual work. In addition the boys have gained confidence from experience. The hard battle they won from Tucuman was a revelation to everybody and gave the gridsters a new idea of what can be done if they make up their minds to do it.

Ramey's Goose Was Killed By Man In Canada

Castro county is receiving some national advertising as a result of the experiments that Edwin Ramey has been carrying on for the past fifteen years with Canadian Ring Neck wild geese. Mr. Ramey has just received a letter from J. H. Dowdell, president of the Penn Mines Limited, of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, stating that he had just killed the leader of a flock of geese near Lake Manitoba, and that the goose wore a tag bearing Mr. Ramey's address. The goose had formerly been a pet on the Ramey ranch near Dimmitt, Texas, and had left there months ago with some of his wild brothers for the Canadian country and had evidently assumed the leadership of a large flock of Canadian ring neck wild geese.

First Spudding In Party Held By Gulf's Test

News from the various oil tests now beginning in this immediate territory indicate that all are busy completing details of arrangements for actual drilling and several of them will be digging a hole just as soon as the multitudinous details incident to such an operation are cleared away.

Cemetery Lots To Be Planted In Tulip Bulbs

The drive by the Mothers Club for the sale of their tulip bulbs was announced week before last, is well under way. Tuesday committees started a house to house canvass and disposed of many bulbs. The drive will be prosecuted steadily until the bulbs are all placed.

METHODIST CHURCH IS DEDICATED

Last Sunday was a red letter day for Hereford Methodists. The church was dedicated. The sermon was preached and the ceremonies conducted by Bishop Jno. M. Moore. Taking part in the program were the pastor, Rev. J. O. Haynes, the Presiding Elder, Rev. W. M. Lane, and visiting preachers—Revs. Wm. A. Coughlan and I. E. Walker.

Seventeen years ago the building site was purchased, and from that day to this the Methodist people have had it in their minds and hearts to build a church for the glory of God and the good of humanity.

The dedication of the church was held on Sunday night, November 10, at 8 o'clock. The program was as follows: Piano Prelude, Chopin—Mrs. G. A. F. Parker. Voluntary, "Christ Is Made the Sure Foundation"—The Choir—Hymn No. 46, "I Love Thy Kingdom—Lord"—Congregation. The Apostles' Creed. Evening Prayer, led by Rev. W. M. Lane. Hymn No. 47, "Faith of Our Fathers"—Congregation. Scripture Reading—E. E. Walker. W. A. Coughlan. Offertory—Ave Maria—Miss Maurine Beyer. Anthem, "Thy Way is in the Sanctuary"—Willson Choir. Sermon—Bishop Moore. Presentation of the Church for Dedication—D. F. Ashbrook. Dedication—Bishop Moore. Doxology. Benediction. —Contributed.

Twenty-eight Per Cent Paying Own Expenses

CANYON, Nov. 8.—Thirty-one and two tenths per cent of the students of the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon are paying all or part of their own expenses. Of this number of ambitious young men and women, 294 or 28 per cent of the entire student body are paying all of their own expenses, depending on parents or other sources for no help whatever.

Even in high school departments of the college where most of the boys and girls are well under their majority, 16.6 per cent of the youngsters are on their own, and an additional six more report that they are earning part of their expenses.

In the four classes of the college are found a large number of men and women who have taught school and are now pursuing their higher education on money which they have saved.

Many others are earning their money as they go, helping others as well. Everett Dison ran two paper routes last year, thereby earning his own expenses. He managed that business so well that the present year sees him as business manager of the Prairie the college paper, while his paper route is established and enabling a younger brother to attend college.

Lawns, cafes, small dairies, print shops, tailor shops, home kitchens and children that have to be cared for enable a large number of Canyon college students to earn and learn at the same time.

A large number of other students who are unable to find places for themselves in odd jobs in Canyon have borrowed money from the student loan funds and will repay it as soon as they begin making money for themselves. The administrators of the loan funds turn away students of high ability almost every day because there is not sufficient money available to pay them. If the funds could be enlarged to $10,000 more than their present amount it would not more than take care of the students who are seeking help.

Students who work their way through college, depending upon their own efforts, usually make good and are generally found to help others after they get upon their feet and have paid their college debts.

There are exceptions, however. The young men and women who go through college on so little money they cannot afford to take part in college or church activities and who do not have normal contacts with their fellow students frequently fall when they get out in the field because they do not know how to get along with people. Their manners are not the best and they sometimes have lost the sense of the value of good grooming. When this happens it is a tragedy for the person who has to sacrifice everything else to get part of an education is often convinced that it was not worth while.

It is to avoid such tragedies that the loan funds have been established at the West Texas State Teachers College, where it is desired that every student who leaves the institution may have not just a certificate or degree, but a real education. It is for this purpose that the loan funds are constantly seeking enlargement.

Hereford Teacher Joins
The State Association

FORT WORTH, Nov. 8.—Miss Lois Parker of the Hereford school, is one of the latest to become a life member of the Texas State Teachers' Association. She is one of the 20 who have so enrolled since January 1, this year, bringing the total in the group to 938. The names of the first 1000 life members will be engraved on a bronze tablet and be placed in the permanent headquarters of the Association.

The gain in life members is paralleled by a gain in regular memberships, the total being far ahead of what it has ever been at this time of year. A large percentage of teachers in and near Hereford are members.

As he spoke he was walking toward the door that led into the hall, and now he confidently put out his hand and turned the knob. His expression changed. He gave the knob a violent twist, then, setting his shoulder against the jamb, tried to wrench the door open. Doris, watching him wide-eyed, was the first to speak.

"Locked!" she whispered.
"Locked," corroborated Laurie. He nodded thoughtfully. Several things, small in themselves, which had puzzled him, were clearing up. Among others, the housekeeper's persistent efforts to gain time were now explained. Shaw had not been so careless as he seemed. The meek blond secretary with the pursuing eyes and the chloroforming habit was certainly in the house.

LAURIE shook his head.
"That was rather stupid of him," he remarked mildly. "It's almost as easy to force open a locked door from the inside as from the outside."

"I know," Doris was again breathless. "But in the meantime he's telephoning to Shaw."
"I don't think so," Laurie, his hands in his pockets, was making a characteristic turn around the room. "What has he to gain by telephoning? Shaw's coming back, anyway in a few hours; and in the meantime the secretary has got me safely pocketed, or thinks he has. I have an idea he'll stand yet. You see, he doesn't know about my talent for opening locked doors."

He strolled back to the door as he spoke and examined the lock. Then, appreciatively, he drew from his pocket the screw-driver he had thoughtfully brought from the garage.

"I fancied this might be useful. It will take me just about four minutes to open that door," he announced. "So get on your things and be ready to start in a hurry."
"Do you imagine that we can get away now, in broad daylight?" She seemed dazed by the suggestion.

"Why not? You want to get out of here, don't you?"
"Yes—I—of course I do!"
"You don't seem very sure of it," Laurie was smiling down at her with his hands still in his pockets, but there was an expression keen, cold, almost, but not quite suspicious.

"Yes, but—you don't understand. Shaw has other men to watch, two of them."
"Where?"
"In the grounds. One in the front and the other in the back." The newcomer mentally digested this unwelcome information.

"If we wait till it's dark," said the girl, "we'll have a better chance."
"Unless Shaw gets back in the meantime." He was still watching her with that new look in his eyes. Then, briskly, he returned to his interest in the door lock.

"In any case," he casually remarked, "we don't want to be jailed here."
She said no more, but sat watching him as he worked, deftly and silently. In little more than the time he had predicted he opened the door and held it wide.

"Any time you would like to pass out," he invited, then checked himself and vanished in the dimness of the hall. The girl left behind heard the sound of running feet, of a heavy door, of a few words spoken in a high, excited voice. Then Laurie re-entered the room, pushing the secretary before him. At present the youth looked anything but meek. His blond hair was on end, his tie was under one ear, his pale eyes were bright with anger, and he moved quickly.

The REASON FOR SO MUCH BUILDING HERE

—During the past few months is undoubtedly explained through the faith the people have in the future of this Great Plains Section.
—The reason why we have had such a good business during this period, so soon after the establishment of our yard here, is, we hope, explained by the faith our costumers have had in our business integrity and good name.

—If we have not yet had the pleasure of serving you, we will greatly appreciate an opportunity to do so.

What's Doing In West Texas.

Graham—The Chamber of Commerce of this city recently sponsored the building of a new road on State 1111 about six miles north of here, raising over $250 to apply to its improvement.

Bowie—Brick work on the new municipal auditorium of Bowie was completed more than a week ago and roofing is under way which will finish exterior work of the auditorium. The new civic building is one of the handsomest and most commodious structures ever erected in Bowie.

Stamford—Manager Homer D. Wade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has written to various chambers of commerce in West Texas and has appealed to federal and state authorities to resist flagrant violations reported against the rules and regulations of the Livestock Sanitary Board in regard to movement of hogs. Reports have come to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce offices here telling of this new form of "bootlegging" in which hogs are imported from border towns of Oklahoma and New Mexico and introduced to Texas farms without dipping, vaccination, inspection and proper certification required to be done under the supervision of the Livestock Sanitary Board. Infractions of these regulations will be resisted to the extent of serving injunctions against hog importations made in violation of regulations.

Decatur—Farm diversification in poultry and the dairy industry of Wise county were shown and explained here recently to a delegation of Collin county citizens who desire to introduce similar diversify methods in their section.

Brady—Brady's third annual Turkey Trot day, announced to be the greatest and most unique celebration undertaken in the Heart of Texas section, was staged here on November 6. Co-operation of traveling men who united in the entertainment with the Peddlers' Jubilee made possible a number of stunts and features. The purpose of the day was to advertise Turkey as King in the Heart of Texas. Motion pictures of the parade was taken during the day.

San Saba—Number 5, Volume 5 of the Pioneer Pecan Press, the only magazine in the world devoted exclusively to pecan culture and questions related to the industry, has been released from the press here. The issue contains 24 pages of reading and advertising matter, 21 pages being devoted exclusively to discussion of Texas' native nut. Celebration of "Pecan Coronation, King of Nuts" was held in San Saba November 8. Officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and prominent men of the state were invited to attend.

Stamford—As a part of their program in the reduction of cotton acreage the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is advocating more wheat and oats and other grains for West Texas farmers. Reports to headquarters office here indicate that conditions are ideal and that a mammoth grain crop can be harvested in 1927. Forage and feed crops and grain sorghums are also advocated.

Decatur—More dairy and poultry produce of this place will be handled by Dallas consumers upon construction of the Northwest Highway from Dallas to Rhame according to word of John Boswell, executive manager of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce development bureau who visited here recently.

Paducah—The Cook Hotel, Paducah's new home for traveling men, has thrown open its doors here. The new hotel is rated as one of the prettiest buildings in this part of the country and is equipped with all modern fixtures.

seized her hands and tried to pull them away from her face. "Look at me," she urged. "I've got all sorts of things to say to you, but I won't say them now. This isn't the time or the place. least, I want you to know. I do trust you. I trust you absolutely. And whatever happens, whatever all this incredible tangle may mean, I shall always trust you." She wiped her eyes and looked into his, more serious in that moment than she had ever seen them. "I will stop," she promised, with a little catch in her voice. "But please don't think I'm a hysterical girl. I'm not crying because I'm frightened, but because—because—Laurie, you're so splendid!"

"I'm afraid," observed Laurie repressively, "he has an ungrateful nature." He locked the door on the infuriated youth, pocketed the key, and faced Doris, who had followed the first procession. The little enigma had restored his poise.

"What next?" he asked, placidly. Her reply was in the nature of a cough. "I'd like to have you wash up." He raised his eyebrows. "And spoil my admirable disguise?" However, if you insist, I suppose I can get most of the effect again with ashes, if I have to. There's the bathroom!"

"Doris," He Begged Brokenly, "Don't Cry!"

"I know, I've watched the process, and I won't have another word." He lit a second cigarette, drew in a mouthful of smoke, and sent it forth again in a series of widening rings. "Your conversation is extremely uninteresting," he explained; "and look at the setting we've got for something romantic and worth while. This cozy room, this roaring fire—" he interrupted himself to glance through the nearest window—"a ripping old snow-storm outside, that's getting worse every minute, and the exhilarating sense that though we're prisoners, we've already taken two perfectly good prisoners of our own; what more could one ask to make an afternoon in the country really pleasant?"

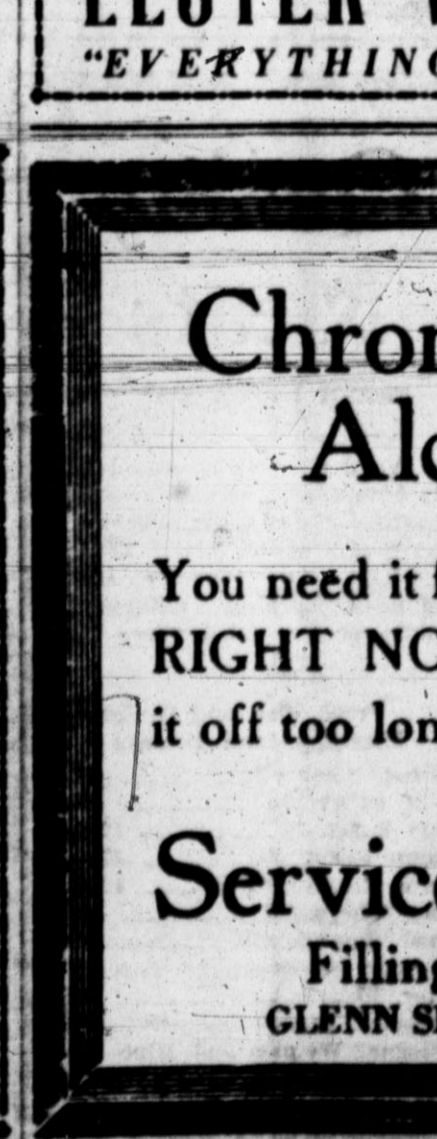

"Doris," He Begged Brokenly, "Don't Cry!"

He stopped, for she was crying again, and the sight, which had taxed his strength an hour earlier, overtaxed it now. She overwhelmed

He strode to the bedroom door. On a chair facing it the woman sat and gazed at him with her fierce eyes. "Would you like a little exercise?" he politely inquired. There was no change of expression in the hostile face. "Because if you would," he went on, "and if you'll give me your word not to cry out, or start anything whatever, I'll take that bandage off your mouth and let you cook lunch for us and for yourself."

"I can't stand it," she said suddenly. "I can't stand it!" He repeated her words almost absently. His eyes were on a stocky figure moving among the trees below. It kept in constant motion and, he observed with pleasure, it occasionally stamped its feet and swung its arms as if suffering from the cold.

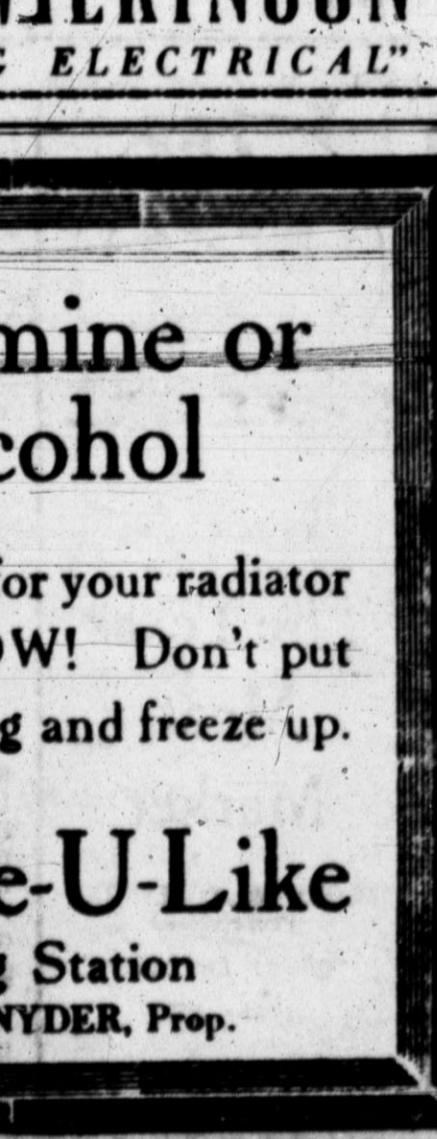

"Doris," He Begged Brokenly, "Don't Cry!"

THE GIRL IN THE MIRROR

"By G-d, I'm sick of you and of your d-d interference!"

Shaw was standing just inside the door. But he was not the sleek, familiar, topid figure of recent encounters. He seemed dead, his eyes were set, his head was heavy, about him were thrust forward as if he were ready to spring, and his protuberant eyes had lost their haze and held a new and unpleasant light.

But, angry though he appeared, Herbert Ramsome Shaw was taking no chances in this encounter with his undesired guest. Behind him shone the now smug countenance of the blond secretary, and on each side he was flanked by another man. Powerful fellows these two seemed, evidently Italian laborers, gazing at the scene uncomprehendingly, but ready for any work their master set them. In stupefaction, Laurie stared at the tableau, while eight eyes unwinkingly stared back at him. Then he nodded.

"Well, Bertie," he said pleasantly, "you're outdoing yourself in the case of this delegation. Four to one. Quite some odds." His voice changed. "You contemptible coward! Why don't you take me on alone? Have you got your chloroform cone?"

The complexion of Shaw, red with cold, darkened to an apple-purple.

"You'll soon find out what we've got," he barked, "and what's coming to you. Now, are you going to put up a fight against four, or will you go quietly?"

"I think," said Laurie thoughtfully, "I'd rather go quietly. But just where is it I'm going?"

"You'll soon know," Shaw was carrying a coil of rope, light but strong, and now he tossed it to one of the Italians.

"Tie him up," he curtly ordered. "Oh, no," said Laurie, backing a step. "Tut, tut! I wouldn't advise that. I really wouldn't. It would be one of those rash acts you read about."

Something in his voice checked the forward stride of the Italian with the rope. He hesitated, glancing at Shaw. With a gesture, the latter ordered the two men through the door.

"Wait just outside," he directed. He turned to Laurie. "Out you go!" he ordered brusquely.

Dr. F. D. Porter, of Ft. Worth, Here Monday

Dr. T. D. Porter of Fort Worth, with the Bureau of Animal Industry, a branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was here on Monday and Tuesday investigating the hog cholera situation in this county. Dr. Porter reported Deaf Smith county free of cholera, but found a few cases in another county near. He advises hogs that are shipped in and vaccinated be kept isolated for at least thirty days and that in the event of sickness of any kind to report at once to a veterinarian or the county agent.

The foundation work on the two new brick buildings being erected by B. F. Guthrie, next door north of The Brand office, has been completed and actual brick laying began bright and early Wednesday morning. The work is to be rushed as rapidly as possible.

The old planing mill building on East Third street, owned by T. M. Palmer, is being razed and Buckner & Lambert, contractors, have a crew at work on the new brick garage building which will be occupied by Beams & Marris, machinists. This building should be ready for occupancy by the first of the year.

The Ford agency, Ernest Handley, owner, hopes to make their move to the Renfro building on West Third, by the first of the year or possibly sooner. Renfro Bros. plan extensive improvements in the front and interior of the building and this will require some time.

An old-time "norther," full of shivers, arrived early Monday morning and ruffled the dispositions of the citizens of this community during the day. The wind was cold, the thermometer dropped as low as eighteen about daylight, but warmed up some during the day. The wind was so strong that it was difficult to make headway against it during the morning hours. Quiet descended upon the sorely tried community about dusk. Tuesday and Wednesday were ideal days, with little wind, plenty of sunshine and crisp, snappy temperature.

Preliminary announcement of the big registered Hereford cattle sale, to be held by Henry Wilkinson on November 24, is carried in this issue. Rat Jowell is managing the sale for Mr. Wilkinson and has charge of all details. The famous Col. Fred Reppert will act as auctioneer and the big event will be pulled off in the Sales Pavilion at Hereford. The catalogues are now being printed and next week Mr. Jowell will give some of the outstanding features of the animals that will be offered on this occasion.

He said Dawn had the best country school in the county, best farmers, a good elevator and a fighting spirit. He told a humorous story about a tourist who mistook Dawn for Hereford, who arrived after nightfall, looked at the hotel building and exclaimed: "Why, they told me in Canyon that Hereford had no hotel!" He invited all Hereford folks to come out to Dawn Monday night to a community meeting.

T. E. Siegler said he was for the paved roads first, last and all the time. "We pay for paved roads every time we run our cars," said Mr. Siegler. "We can pay for them and not have them if we want to. But why not have them?"

Rev. Haymes said paved roads would do more in five years to double property values than any other one thing.

Rev. Hill said he believed the question to be a religious one; that the question of decent roads really affected church attendance.

G. A. F. Parker said he favored the bond issue, provided it was a program to be scattered over a period of years. Henry Wilkinson said he had not given the matter any thought and would express himself later. It was announced that Mayor Ireland is preparing figures on the proposed bond issue, to be submitted to the voters later.

Mr. Black stated that details concerning when the petition would be presented and when the election would be asked for had not yet been worked out, but would be announced as soon as possible. Meanwhile he asked for close study of the matter on the part of all good citizens, with any questions to be asked to be offered at the luncheon held next Monday, at the Hereford Hotel.

PATING PUNCHES

"I am just 'plumb stout' on this proposition."—E. B. Black.

"We pay every day for paved roads, whether we have them or not. Every time we make a trip to Amarillo or back in the mud we are paying for pavement we do not possess. As long as we are compelled to pay for it why not have it?"—T. E. Siegler.

"Paved roads will do more to double the property values in Deaf Smith county in five years than any other single thing that could be put over here."—Rev. J. O. Haymes.

"We don't need another railroad—we need paved roads so that we can get to the railroad we now have and patronize it. I was opposed to the first proposition of paving only along the Santa Fe railroad, but I heartily favor a bond issue that will provide good roads for every section of this county."—County Judge Earl W. Wilson.

"If people of this county will vote this bond issue, covering a ten year program, it will be simply an account put in escrow in the bank, to be drawn upon by the county as need may arise."—L. Wright, Portland Cement Expert.

"We are practically 100 per cent in favor of the proposed paved roads."—A. T. Frye, of Dawn.

"If this issue is voted so that it will not all be used at once, but can be drawn upon as needed, I am in favor of it."—G. A. F. Parker.

"I have had no time to give the matter any thought, and will not commit myself until after I have been able to study the proposition."—Henry Wilkinson.

"If the people of this county don't want paved roads then we might as well bank the fire, see that the doors are all safely locked, and put out the cat. Because we will be in for a nice long, comfortable snooze, without a soul to disturb our slumber."—E. W. Harrison.

A hunting party, consisting of S. P. Rossow and Jack Rawlings, of the International Harvester forces, left Hereford Saturday for New Mexico's mountains on a hunting trip. The deer season opens Wednesday of this week and the party left so as to be ready for the opening day. They will be away ten days or more.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

TO THE PEOPLE OF HEREFORDS

➤ "The American Red Cross has been called 'the Nation's Badge of Mercy.' Its charter from Congress designated it the official agent for extending relief in disasters both in this country and in foreign lands. To all who suffer in fires, floods, hurricanes and other calamities it offers help and consolation. At all times the Red Cross carries on a program of public health which alone would merit support of the American people.

"I therefore call upon all citizens to seek to share in its humanitarian activities by answering the Roll Call for members which opens Armistice Day and close on Thanksgiving.

E. S. IRELAND,
Mayor of Hereford.

Fine Road Meeting At Dawn Monday

The road meeting at Dawn school house Tuesday night was well attended. The meeting was called to order by A. T. Frye. The Hereford high school band played several selections. Mr. Frye made several announcements and stated the purpose of the meeting.

E. B. Black, president of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, made the first talk, explaining in detail every phase of the road campaign and the bond issue.

Miss Margaret Bengé gave a delightful reading.

E. W. Harrison followed Mr. Black's discussion on the subject and asked for co-operation and a close study for every citizen of the county of the real saving in good roads. He says we are too poor to ride on dirt roads any longer.

Herbert Miller, a new man in Deaf Smith county, said he was in favor of paving and would sign the road petition.

A reading, "I Wish I Was a Boy," by Miss Marie Straub was enjoyed by the crowd.

G. W. Brumley gave his experience on riding the dirt roads and the contrast between the California paved roads and the ordinary road. Mr. Brumley said it costs nearly ten times as much for the general upkeep of a car on a dirt road than on a paved road.

L. J. Bennett, manager of the Great West Elevator at Dawn, said the time is ripe for paved roads and the good roads movement should go forward without delay.

W. T. (Red) Smith told his experience in driving a service car between Hereford and Amarillo and gave actual cost per mile on a dry and on a muddy road. "I'll help in every way I can to get better roads," Mr. Smith said.

The Dawn Chorus, led by Mr. Smith, sang the Driving Song at the close of the meeting.

It looked like a 100 per cent in favor of good roads meeting.

Members of the class and their families attended the annual dinner of the Good Fellowship Class of the Presbyterian church, at the church building last Sunday. The occasion is celebrated yearly. There was a splendid attendance and a fine spirit of christian fellowship and unity.

wheat fields so common in the Panhandle. Tourists come from various parts of the United States and Canada each year to hunt wild geese, and it has become one of the major sports of the Plains country. Mr. Ramey says that he has entertained sportsmen from nearly every state in the Union within the last few years.

Mr. Ramey still talks of his trip to Canada in search of his prodigal goose, and his stay with H. D. Neely, retired capitalist and owner of a large ranch in Castro county. Mr. Ramey is looking forward to a visit from Mr. Neely to the Panhandle country within the near future, and no doubt baked goose will be served at the Ramey ranch when this Canadian visitor arrives in Castro county.

Cotton Clothing Style Show.

Ennis citizen has conceived the idea of giving cotton clothing style shows as a means of turning the women to return to use of cotton goods. Fifty-four women gave a style show and it is said by those who attended that, dressed in Texas cotton goods they looked as stylish as they were wearing Japanese. The Ennis show was a success that the ladies were invited to go to Dallas and give one there. Doubtless this will result in other invitations. Here is a list of local merchants who can help in town a cotton goods style show would attract attention to cotton goods. Plenty of women would assist if only there is leadership. Along with the show, cotton goods of all kinds could be displayed to advantage. Why not organize and have a goods week, featured by style shows and cotton goods sales. The motto "Wear more cotton," adopted by Ennis women, is a good one for any town.

The big Galvez cotton mill will formally open December 1. The Marble Falls mill is placing machinery and getting ready to open. There are now 25 cotton mills in Texas, there is room for about 500. The number is increasing at the rate of about two a year. It is estimated that about 250 years ago were required for Texas cotton manufacturing to catch up with producing, even if no more cotton is grown than is now being produced. The towns that get busy organizing cotton factories now are contributing a large share to the right kind of consumption and adding to their own prosperity and that of the cotton industry.

Bringing Up Bad Feelings.

Shapiro, of California, general attorney for most of the farm-operative organizations, is talking about the cotton industry and especially about the cooperative marketing organization's ability to handle the cotton to the best advantage. While doing so, he is making vigorous attacks according to newspaper reports on the banks of the country and the efforts of the Federal Government and the bank association to aid the farmers in holding and acreage reduction, as mere gestures. To an astute watcher of the cotton industry, it seems that bankers and merchants, in Texas at least, are doing all they can to remedy a bad situation. They are forced to collect what is due them if they continue in business, and they also have to demand interest on loans and overdue accounts. Otherwise they would not long be in position to extend credit. Mr. Shapiro will do well to seek co-operation of all classes, if he really wishes to help the cotton growers.

Blaming the Other Fellow.

It is unfortunate that whenever trouble of any kind overtakes a people they are inclined to place the blame on somebody else than themselves. At first, the slump in cotton prices was charged to the Government reports, but the country has since learned that these reports have not been very far wrong. Now, we are trying to find some other class to blame, and some are saying that if the bankers and merchants would only let the cotton growers carry over their debts to another year the country would be all right. The truth is that too much cotton has been grown, or too little is being consumed, and so much more is being thrown on the market than the market can buy, that prices have tumbled. If the cotton growers were not in debt they would be in position to carry their own cotton for better prices. If merchants and bankers were not operating largely on capital of others, they might be able to carry the load, or a great part of it, for the cotton producers. There is nobody especially to blame for existing conditions unless it be those who have had a part in growing more cotton than the world wants to use, or those who are responsible for the credit system on which practically all business is largely conducted.

Business-Like Philanthropy.

Law Wentz, of Ponca City, Oklahoma, is a philanthropist of the right kind—that is, he believes in helping people to help themselves. He has set aside $1,000,000 to assist worthy Oklahoma farmers in carrying over their cotton crops another year. He stipulates that no interest shall be received. He says he has made his money in Oklahoma, has been fortunate and wishes his fortune used in a way to benefit the people. Wentz is noted for the unselfish assistance he has rendered Oklahoma. May his kind increase, not only in that state but throughout the country.

M. Sessums during a mob fight in a football game between Texas A. & M. College and Baylor University at Waco is one of the deplorable results of over-emphasis being placed on inter-collegiate contests of a kind that develops the brutal fighting spirit in men. There was an exciting fight, due to the tense spirit caused by the game, and in some way young Sessums received a blow from which he died. He is described as a bright young student in his senior year at A. & M. College. It is to be regretted that college authorities practically everywhere have come to regard such contests as football essential to student life. Unquestionably the emphasis now placed on football is encouraging the fighting spirit in youth, although it would seem that well-directed education should have an opposite influence. Alfred Dashiell in the Forum says, "Football is a barbaric spectacle for a degenerate Roman mob." The Waco incident makes us wonder if he is not right.

The Humble Peanut.
O. S. Robbins, a farmer near De Leon, has this year marketed four times the value of the land from six acres of peanuts, and he has not had to hold his crop for satisfactory prices. His neighbors who have been growing cotton have not made the expenses of cultivation and gathering the crop. Which is better, peanuts or cotton?

Railroads Extends North.
The Cisco and Northwestern railroad has received permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to extend its line from Breckenridge to Throckmorton. Gradually, but with painful slowness, Texas railroad development is being permitted.

Abilene Shows Growth.
Arrangements have been completed to erect a nine-story, $600,000 hotel, in Abilene, which is splendid evidence that Abilene is a prosperous city that is expecting still further growth.

son of Jephunneh the Kenizite said unto him, Thou knowest the thing that Jehovah spake unto Moses the man of God concerning me and concerning thee in Kadesh-barnea. 7 Forty years old was I when Moses the servant of Jehovah sent me from Kadesh-barnea to spy out the land: and I brought his word again as it was in my heart. 8 Nevertheless my brethren that went up with me made the heart of the people melt; but I wholly followed Jehovah my God. 9 And Moses sware on that day saying, Surely the land whereon thy foot hath trodden shall be an inheritance to thee and to thy children for ever, because thou hast wholly followed Jehovah my God. 10 And now, behold, Jehovah hath kept me alive, as he spake, these forty and five years, from the time that Jehovah spake this word unto Moses, while Israel walked in the wilderness; and now lo, I am this day fourscore and five years old. 11 As yet I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me; as my strength was then, even so is my strength now, for war, and to go out and to come in. 12 Now therefore give me this hill country, whereof Jehovah spake in that day; for thou hearest in that day how the Acanakim were there, and cities great and fortified. It may be that Jehovah will be with me and I shall drive them out, as Jehovah spake.

13 And Jehovah blessed him; and he came Hebron unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh for an inheritance. 14 Therefore Hebron became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenizite unto this day; because that he wholly followed Jehovah, the God of Israel. 15 Now the name of Hebron beforetime was Kirjatharba; which Arba was the greatest man among the Acanakim. And the land had rest from war.

In Preparation.

Our lesson today carries us back to the story of the spies, which we studied October 10. Read Numbers 13 and 14. In Numbers 14:24 you will find the promise of Moses to Caleb, Joshua and Caleb were the only two of the twelve spies sent out by Moses to spy out the land of Canaan that made favorable report. Now after these many years we find in our lesson today where Caleb is reminding Joshua of the promise Moses had made him when he had returned with his report.

In this narrative Caleb is 85 years old. Kadesh-barnea, about 50 miles south of Beersheba, is the name of the neighborhood of which the Hebrews stayed for a period of about 40 years, before they entered the Land of Promise. It was from this place that the spies had been sent out. Ten of the spies said the land could not be taken. Joshua and Caleb said that it could. But because of the report of the ten, God held the people forty years in this country, near Kadesh-barnea. We know this period of time as the "wandering in the wilderness." Forty years is the usual time given for this. But in Deut. 2:14 it seems that 38 years is more nearly correct. Caleb was then 78 or 80 years old when the end of these "wanderings" came. He was forty years of age when he went as a spy. If he is now 85 then we conclude that Joshua and his people had been either 5 or 7 years in conquering the new land. All the conquering was not yet completed. And the occupation of all the land was many years later—in some districts the conquest was never effected.

But the conquest was sufficient for a division of the land to have been made. Each tribe had received its portion of the land of Canaan. The tribes were to live in the portions allotted them and to finish the conquest. Some tribes received more favorable sections than others. But Joshua in making the division did not discriminate. He divided it without fear or favor.

Study carefully this division of the land. It was given to the people. Each family had its own little farm. And the Jubilee year was to restore all land back to the original owners. No feudal aristocracy could thus develop. The theory in this system of land division and owning as set up by Joshua is that God is the great and only landlord, no one else has more than a life interest in the land. Poverty and extreme wealth were guarded against. And equality of conditions was given to all.

Caleb.

Caleb is a man of boundless hope and faith in God, a man who "wholly followed the Lord." As to his patience we may put him in the class with Job.

Forty-five years ago Moses had promised him a portion of land as an inheritance. He waited through all the years of "wanderings" and the years of warfare. Not a complaining word had he uttered. He was trusting in the promise and purpose of Jehovah. He had stood by and seen all the land divided without offering a protest. He had never pressed his claim. And now when he comes to Joshua with his request we must not feel that he is demanding, but that it is simply a request. He feels that it is the time and place to ask for the long delayed promise.

He is now 85 years old and he claims to be as strong and as well as when he was forty. Through the hardships he had cared for his body. He had kept young in body and mind through activity of them both. Body and mind can grow only by exercise. And then his faith and trust in God lifted him above the vexations and cares and kept his mind and heart at peace.

Look at the courage of this man if you want proof of his vitality and youthfulness. He is not ready for the retired list. He still wants to do his part. It is a mistake to "lay a man on the shelf" and call him old when he should be in the thick of the battle.

His request was not a subdued one. He asked for the "land of giants." He was a good soldier and asked for the difficult job. His request was for Hebron. It was in this hill country that lived the great sturdy race of people who frightened the spies. But Caleb was not frightened 45 years ago and he is not afraid now.

Verse 12 "It may be that the Lord will be with me and I shall drive them out, as the Lord spake." Yes, it was faith in God that led Caleb to make such a request. It was by faith that the Children of Israel had conquered the land of Palestine. Caleb had been the results of faith. He had "wholly followed Jehovah." So now he had faith enough to try anything. As long as God was on his side it mattered little who the enemy was.

Joshua granted the request and blessed him. It had been a long wait, 45 years, but now he is rewarded. "Joshua gave Hebron to him for an inheritance." This was his reward for wholly following the Lord. No one has ever been faithful unto God without receiving a just reward.

Two Men of God.

A new generation of people had arisen since Joshua and Caleb had acted as spies for Israel. These two heroes now stand as a monument of the days gone by. There was no one to establish or dispute the claim of Caleb, save Joshua. Therefore Caleb had to rest his case on the sense of justice of the leader to whom he made it. Joshua did not fail him. These two men stood face to face in the rough and primitive days, and they did the honest thing because of their sense of right and justice based on God's law.

The building up of the sense of honor is the slowest achievement of man. It is true that we cannot exceed the sense of honor here shown by Joshua, but we can have more people as living testimonies of the example of Joshua.

Opposing Forces.

"When the sons of Caleb have turned the stony hills into olive orchards and the arid fields into blooming gardens, they have not only changed the landscape but they have cultivated their lives." Character building is not found in ease and selfish pleasure but in the thorny path and where self is forgotten in the battle. The hot-house variety of character does not make the hero.

We do not have to live the hard and hazardous life as those of the earlier days. But we lack not for enemies and obstacles. There are evils to overcome, hard tasks to tackle and enemies to fight. The reward of Caleb was not so much an opportunity for rest as for further work and warfare. It is the business of us all, with the help of God, to drive out the Anakim, to rid our land of every evil influence.

Lesson Thought.

The heroes of Israel "wholly followed Jehovah."

Faithfulness to God produces integrity.

Faith is courageous.

Faithfulness is always rewarded.

The reward is on a merit —And today in our economic battles there is most satisfaction where common sense prevails.

—Whittier said:
"But dream not helm and harness the sign of valor true; Peace hath higher tests of manhood than battle ever knew."

Stamford—Manager Homer D. Wade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has written to various Chambers of Commerce in West Texas and has appealed to federal and state authorities to resist flagrant violations reported against the rules and regulations of the Livestock Sanitary Board in regard to movement of hogs. Reports have come to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce offices here telling of this new form of "bootlegging" in which hogs are imported from border towns of Oklahoma and New Mexico and introduced to Texas farms without dipping, vaccination, inspection and proper certification required to be done under the supervision of the Livestock Sanitary Board. Infractions of these regulations will be resisted to the extent of serving injunctions against hog importations made in violation of regulations.
