Iran-Contra report reveals picture, leaves questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Senate report portrays a U.S.-Iranian arms deal largely plotted by foreign weapons merchants, carried out by Israel and kept alive by a White House aide's zealous support for Nicaragua's Contra rebels and by President Reagan's concern for U.S. hostages.

Despite the breadth of its accounting, the Senate Intelligence Committee admits in a 65-page report issued Thursday that it cannot answer 14 crucial questions that go to the heart of the Iran-Contra scandal. One of them is to what extent was the conduct of American foreign policy turned over to private individuals, accountable to no one. Other questions involve the role of the White House staff, the CIA and other nations in the affair, the extent to which actions taken were authorized and legal, whether all activities have been disclosed, and whether private individuals profited from the arms deals.

While the report raises serious question about Reagan's control over his foreign policy apparatus, the White House welcomed its release. David Abshire, the president's special counselor on the Iran-Contra issue, called it "an important step toward getting to the bottom of this matter, as the president has promised."

Its authors cautioned that the report, the result of three weeks of intensive secret hearings with 36 witnesses and examination of thousands of documents, still was preliminary and incomplete, and pointed the way for future inquiries by two special congressional investigating panels.

In another development, the FBI has opened a criminal investigation to determine what happened to most of the $27 million approved by Congress in 1985 for non-lethal aid to the Contras, the New York Times reported today, quoting congressional sources.

A General Accounting Office report published earlier said most of the money could not be traced.

In its report Thursday, the Intelligence Committee said Attorney General Edwin Meese III, when he informed Reagan and Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan about the diversion of arms-sale proceeds to the Contras last November, said "the president looked shocked and very surprised, as did Regan, who uttered an expletive."

While there was no direct evidence Reagan knew about the diversion of money to the Contras, he did have at least 17 meetings at which then-National Security Council aide Lt. Col. Oliver North was present in 1985 and 1986, the report found. It also found that at one point the president met with North and a lower-echelon CIA official stationed in a Central American country.

While much of the basic chronology laid out by the report has been reported previously, it offers new detail about meetings and other contacts that went into the arms deal and reveals that the Contras probably set up a Cayman Islands bank account to receive money diverted from the arms sales.

According to evidence compiled by the committee, the decision to begin shipping arms to Iran — in contradiction of U.S. policy not to sell arms to terrorist nations — was made by President Reagan as early as August 1985, although there was conflicting information about the precise date.

The first shipment of 508 TOW anti-tank missiles by Israel was made Aug. 30.

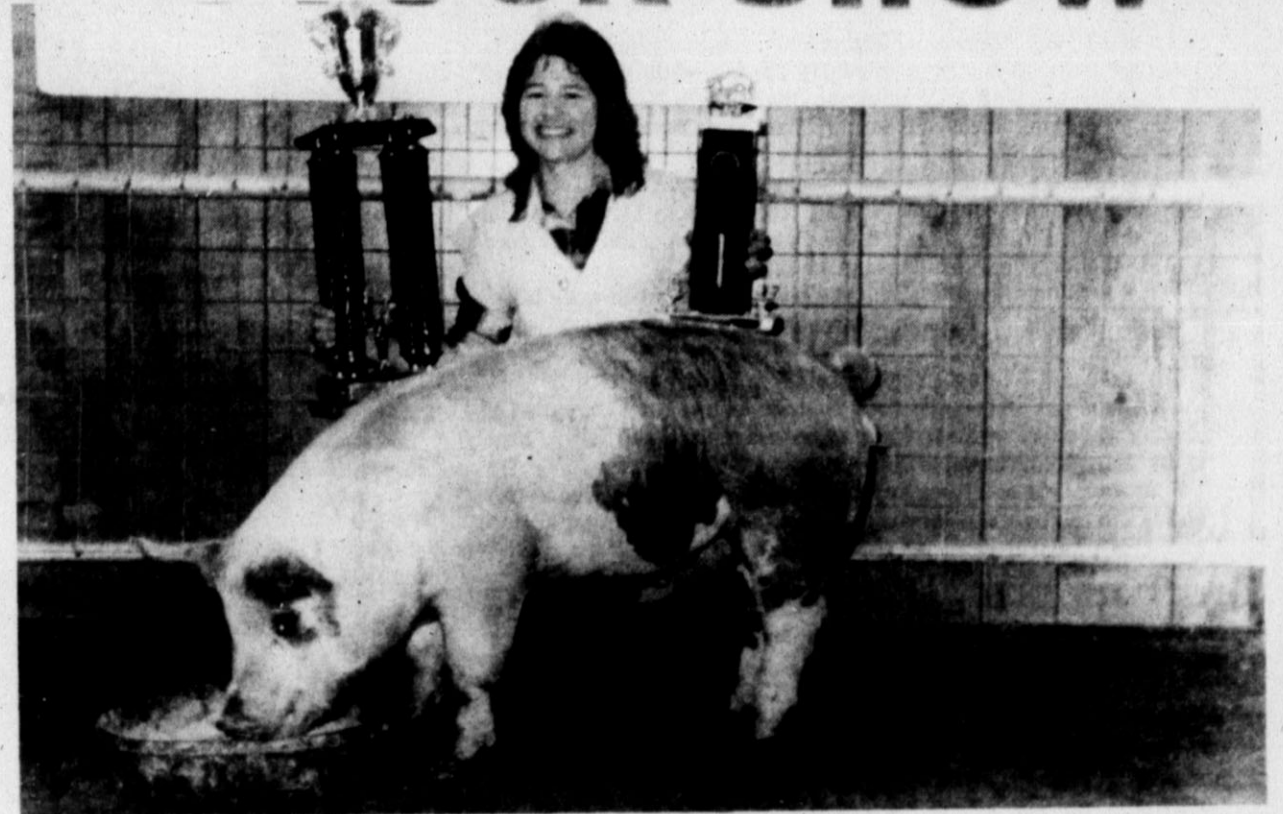

The deal evolved after an intelligence assessment found Iran might be ripe for a diplomatic opening that could help counter what was seen as growing Soviet influence, and initial contacts brought forth the idea that Iran could help win the release of U.S. hostages. Israeli officials figured prominently in the deal's early stages, the report said.

The key Iranian contact during the early stages was Manucher Ghorbanifar, an arms dealer described by the CIA as a "talented fabricator" who later failed a CIA-administered lie-detector test. But despite the misgivings, Ghorbanifar was kept involved by North, according to one committee witness.

One of the earliest links between the sale of arms to Iran and the effort to provide aid to the Contras came in January 1986 during talks between North and Amiram Nir, an anti-terrorism adviser to then-Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres, the report stated.

Holder's contract not renewed

Following executive session, Hereford Schools trustees voted 6-1 Thursday night not to renew the contract of superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder.

Holder's contract will expire June 30, 1988.

The motion was made by Bud Patterson not to extend the contract based on the 1987 board evaluation of the superintendent.

Jo Garcia cast the single vote against the motion. Voting against the contract renewal were Patterson, John Fuston, Steve Coneway, Shirley Wilson, Kathy Moore and Bill Townsend.

Holder joined Hereford Schools in September of 1976. He was in a meeting with architects this morning and was unavailable for comment.

Board president John Fuston declined any elaboration on the matter.

Marcos still wants to return home despite U.S. ban

HONOLULU (AP) — Deposed Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos made an open plea to the U.S. government to allow him to return to his homeland to rescue the Philippine people from "the yoke and tyranny of communism."

The U.S. State Department on Thursday barred Marcos from returning amid reports from the Philippine consulate here that a Boeing 707 that arrived from Miami on Monday night was ready to fly him to the Philippines to rally his supporters.

"What can I do, poor little me, who was your ally for so many years, who fought with you in Bataan, Corregidor and in the underground (during World War II)?" the exiled former president said Thursday night in his plea to the U.S. government. "I can only take whatever you tell me to do."

Marcos, while denying any knowledge of the jetliner, told reporters at his hillside home that he feels he is "being treated like a prisoner" and that he wants to stop bloodshed in his homeland and "help our people avoid the yoke and the tyranny of communism."

"I have said this before and I will continue saying it," he said. "I'll try to get there as soon as I can, at the risk of my life to reach the Philippines to help my people."

On Thursday, dissident soldiers the government said were Marcos loyalists abandoned an apparent coup attempt by ending a two-day occupation of a Manila television station.

Marcos has lived in Honolulu since he fled last February after a popular uprising that made Corazon Aquino president.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Thursday the State Department had reminded Marcos that he agreed when he went into exile in the United States that he could return only with the approval of the government in Manila.

Farm groups feel betrayed by trade agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although last-minute negotiations averted a costly agricultural trade war between the United States and the 12-nation European Economic Community, some farm groups say American corn producers were betrayed.

The settlement came on Thursday, just as the United States prepared to establish duties of as much as 200 percent on European gin, cognac, cheeses and vegetables.

U.S. Trade Representative Clayton K. Yeutter said President Reagan would rescind his order levying the import duties, which were to go into effect today.

Yeutter, in a statement, said that as part of the agreement, the EEC, also known as the Common Market, promised "full and fair compensation" to the United States for an estimated $400 million in lost U.S. grain sales to Spain. The sales were lost when Spain joined the EEC last year and adopted its tariff system.

U.S. farm groups said the compromise does not go far enough because part of that compensation will be in the form of reduced tariffs on non-agricultural products.

Michael Hall, executive vice president of the National Corn Growers Association, called the settlement "inadequate, insufficient and not anywhere near the market compensation" needed by American feed grains producers.

"They've got to get some backbone and walk away from these cockeyed things that restrict our ability to sell into export markets, and not tell farmers this is the best we could do," Hall said in an interview. "If that's the best they can do, they shouldn't have done it. They should have walked away."

Dean Kleckner, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said the agreement "may represent the best deal that's possible, but it's not everything corn farmers had hoped for."

While the agreement appeared to signal at least a temporary halt in an escalating trade war with Europe, deep frictions remained.

Deputy Trade Representative Alan Woods told a news conference that the compromise would have no effect on other ongoing trade disputes, including possible U.S. retaliation to protest European commercial aircraft subsidies.

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng said the agreement would help avoid "a trade war with our major trading partner" while clearing the way for an upcoming round of global trade liberalization talks in Geneva.

Under the four-year agreement, the EEC promised to ensure annual imports of 2 million metric tons of corn and 300,000 metric tons of sorghum into Spain from the United States and other nations, U.S. officials said.

They estimated that of these shipments, about 2 million tons would come from the United States.

The EEC also promised to drop a requirement that Portugal purchase 15 percent of its feed grain imports from other EEC members, worth an estimated additional 400,000 metric tons of sales. That would have the effect of raising the annual feed grains import total for Spain and Portugal to 2.7 million tons.

A metric ton is 2,205 pounds — equal to 39.4 bushels of corn.

According to Yeutter, the EEC also will provide compensation in the form of lower tariffs for 26 products, including dried onions, avocados, roasted nuts, plywood, sheet aluminum and some chemicals.

Hall, representing the National Corn Growers Association, said the whole point of U.S. negotiations with the EEC was to gain market access for American farmers.

"They are wanting us to be market-oriented, and all the while they agreed to an insufficient settlement," Hall said, referring to the Reagan administration push for less government in farm programs and more reliance on the marketplace.

Hall said the administration keeps pushing for lower crop price supports and cuts in "target prices" for setting subsidy levels in hopes of making U.S. commodities cheaper and more attractive to foreign buyers.

"Then these negotiators are out here saying it's a good agreement, that we at least got an inch when we needed a yard," he said. "That doesn't fly in Iowa, it doesn't fly in Kansas, it's not good for agriculture."

GAO says $9 billion package flopped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly four years after President Reagan and Congress agreed on a $9 billion package to create jobs during the nation's worst recession since the early 1930s, the General Accounting Office says the effort was pretty much a failure.

"Most funds made available were not spent quickly, and relatively few jobs were provided when they were most needed in the economy," the congressional watchdog agency said in a report released this week.

At the lowest point in the job market in January 1983, more than 12.5 million Americans — or 11.4 percent of the labor force — were out of work.

The most vocal advocates of the 1983 Emergency Jobs Act claimed that priming the public works pump with billions of dollars for dams, highways, airports, libraries, housing and hospitals would provide jobs for up to 500,000.

But, according to the GAO, the number of new jobs that can be attributed to the program peaked at 35,000 in June 1984 — 15 months after the act was passed and a full three years after the beginning of the 1981-82 recession.

That is less than 1 percent of the 5.8 million new jobs created by the recovering private economy during that same 15-month period, when the unemployment rate fell back down to 7.4 percent. With $3.1 billion of the money spent during that interim, the cost of those 35,000 new jobs figures out to $86,571 each.

By a year later, June 1985, when about $4.5 billion of the funds had been spent, the number of jobs attributable to the program had declined to 8,000, the GAO said. That works out to $562,500 each.

"Compared to an estimated 4 million increase in the aggregate number of persons unemployed during the recession, the number of jobs created with Emergency Jobs Act funds was modest," the congressional auditors said.

Had all $9 billion been spent within a year after the law was enacted, they said, the program would have created 131,000 new jobs "when they were most needed."

The Reagan administration, commenting through the Office of Management and Budget, said the GAO report suggests that "countercyclical job creation programs ... are inevitably too late and too small to have an effect on a recession" and should not be undertaken in the future.

Echoing remarks by some congressional critics when the act was being debated, the GAO said too much of the $9 billion — 86 percent — went to public works projects that historically are slower in getting money into the job market because of the time required to select and plan them.

For example, $40 million of the emergency jobs money was appropriated to the Department of Education for removing barriers to the handicapped in school buildings.

But none of that money had been spent by July 1985 because the Education Department had not developed the rules, criteria and formulas for distributing it — even though Congress had said in 1974 it wanted those barriers to start coming down.

An exception was the Pentagon, where the four armed services managed to spend $164 million of the $180 appropriated to them under the program for building and improving family housing on military bases.

The congressional auditors also found that some of the states with the biggest unemployment problems got the least amount of money while those with less severe joblessness got more.

For example, West Virginia, which had the highest unemployment rate in the country — 20.5 percent — when the law was passed in March 1983, had received only $301 per jobless person under the program by June 1985.

News Roundup

State DWI charge made in accident

ANAHUAC, Texas (AP) — An Anahuac man was charged with driving while intoxicated in connection with a fog-related 25-car pileup that claimed its fifth victim a day after the accident, officials said.

Justice of the Peace H.J. Guillory said he arraigned Samuel L. Hargraves Jr. on a charge of felony driving while intoxicated on Wednesday, hours after the pileup on Interstate 10.

Hargraves was released from the Chambers County Jail on $2,000 bond, Guillory said.

Hargraves was driving a Pinto station wagon that stalled on a fog-shrouded, two-mile-long bridge, state trooper Ricky Davis said. His auto, shrouded by fog, led to a fatal chain-reaction crash that closed I-10 for about six hours Wednesday, he said.

"There was no breathalyzer test, but blood samples were taken from Hargraves at Bayside Community Hospital for analysis," Davis said.

Test results will be available in about a week, he said.

Court and prison records show Hargraves had been convicted of driving while intoxicated in previous incidents and had served time in the Texas Department of Corrections for the offenses.

Four members of a Rockport family died at the scene Wednesday and a fifth relative, 51-year-old Bich Nguen, died a day later at Hermann Hospital with head and chest injuries.

Teachers protest prison funding plan

AUSTIN (AP) — As the state scrambles to find millions of dollars to pay for court-ordered prison reforms, teachers are warning the Legislature to leave their retirement fund alone.

John Cole, president of the Texas Federation of Teachers, on Thursday called "shameful" a proposal to temporarily divert to prisons some $83 million in payments to the Teacher Retirement System.

"This is not the state's money, and the state ought to keep its hands off," Cole said.

Top lawmakers said they don't know where they will get the millions needed to make improvements ordered by a federal judge who has threatened to fine Texas $24 million a month beginning April 1.

"We need several million dollars to try to take care of the prison system, (and) I still don't know where the money's going to come from," House Speaker Gib Lewis said.

"We were working on it at midnight last night and we're going to be working on it at midnight tonight," he added.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said Republican Gov. Bill Clements is studying the plan that would temporarily lower the state's contributions to the Teacher Retirement System and generate additional money for prisons.

"Whether that's a good idea or a bad idea, I don't know. We'll just have to look and see what type of proposals come forward," the House leader said.

National AIDS may kill millions worldwide

WASHINGTON (AP) — For all that has been said and written about AIDS, most Americans still underestimate the scope of the medical disaster facing the world from the incurable ailment, says the nation's health chief.

With 50 million to 100 million people worldwide expected to contract the AIDS virus in the next two decades, the death tolls from earlier epidemics such as the Black Plague, smallpox and typhoid would "pale by comparison," Health and Human Services Secretary Otis R. Bowen said Thursday.

"You haven't heard or read anything yet," he told a National Press Club audience. "If we can't make progress, we face the dreadful prospect of a worldwide death toll in the tens of millions a decade from now."

With no vaccine or cure on the horizon, Bowen defended the government's emerging emphasis on education in the schools and elsewhere as the best defense against AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

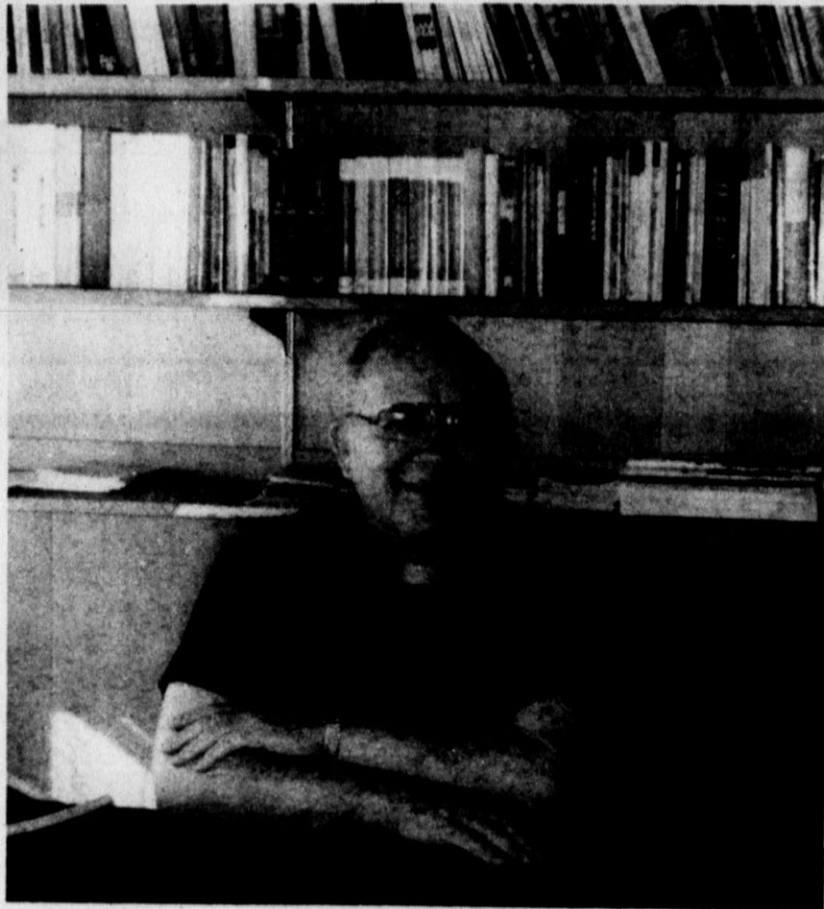

Acknowledging that the effort has "provoked its share of controversy," Bowen said, "The situation is not unlike the dilemma we once faced in this country over how to educate young people about syphilis. We overcame that dilemma with common sense and I think we can overcome this one, too."

FATHER CLETUS MCGORRY

Priest returns for the 4th time

By DEBE GRAVES
Feature Writer

He has lived in several states and in British Columbia but he is happy about returning to Hereford.

"It's like coming home, I have spent a total of 14 years in Hereford and it feels like home because I know the majority of the people and they know me," says Father Cletus McGorry regarding his Jan. 10 assignment as pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

McGorry first came to Hereford in 1955 and served as associate pastor until 1959. His second assignment in Hereford was from 1962 until 1966. He served as pastor of St. Anthony's from 1973 to 1979 and was assigned to the Bovina and Friona churches in October of 1985.

Between pastorates in Hereford he has been assigned to St. Joseph's church in Richmond, British Columbia; Our Lady of Perpetual Help in Kamloops, B.C.; and Sacred Heart Church in Rossland, B.C. His other assignments include churches in North Carolina, New York and Massachusetts.

Having tasted life in a variety of places, Father Cletus states, "I like Texas. I like the flatlands. I like to be able to see. In Canada I only could see mountains, I hate mountains. This is beautiful country full of beautiful people."

Father Cletus' order is the Society of Friars of The Atonement. He was ordained in June of 1951. A secondary joy on returning to Hereford was his reunion with former classmate Father Joseph Egan. Known as "Father Joe", Egan serves St. Anthony's as associate pastor. McGorry comments, "We have known each other since way back. We went through the seminary together and we know each other well."

Parishioners of St. Anthony's will gather this Sunday to worship and to welcome Father Cletus home again.

REPORT

November, said it was Nir who proposed using money from the arms deal to help the Contras.

At the time, North was dividing his activities between the Iran project and generating private aid for the Nicaraguan rebels during a period when U.S. military aid was forbidden by Congress.

The report says documents obtained by the committee indicate that at the time of the meeting between North and Nir, the Israelis may already have been holding money from a November 1985 weapons shipment to Iran to make it available to the Contras.

North is portrayed in the report as a zealous supporter of the Contras who saw an opportunity to combine his two missions while using Israeli intermediaries and money that did not come from U.S. sources.

In addition to North, others who played key roles in both the Iran arms shipments and the Contra aid effort were retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord and his business associate, Albert Hakim, the panel found.

ROOF PROOF

ATLANTA (AP) — How do you tell if your roof is in good condition?

Experts agree that an annual inspection is the best way to determine if reroofing is required. A trip to the attic to examine the underside of the roof for leaks can help spot small problems before they become big ones.

Other warning signs are cupped, curled or brittle shingles, especially those which have lost their protective granules. The best time to reroof, according to Georgia-Pacific, is before water seepage can cause severe structural damage which requires costly repairs.

Religion history topic of program

"Faith of Our Fathers" was the program given by Marcella Bradley when members of Valeda Study Club met Monday in the home of Marjorie Lasiter.

Mrs. Bradley told of early settlers bringing not only tangible possessions to early Texas but also the intangible possession of faith. She gave a brief history of religions that came to Deaf Smith County in its beginning.

The first church in this county was the Cumberland Presbyterian Church located at La Plata. It moved to Hereford in 1905 and became the First Presbyterian Church. The First Christian Church was founded by pioneers in February of 1899. In March of 1899, the First Methodist Church was organized followed in October of 1899, by the First Baptist Church.

The Church of Christ first began by meeting in homes and the first church was built in 1909. The first Catholic meeting was in 1911, in the old county courthouse which had served as meeting places for many of the other earlier religions.

In 1917, the first nuns came and opened a school and in 1920, the first church was built at the present site of the Deaf Smith County Library and Deaf Smith County Historical Museum parking lot.

The Lutheran Church had its first meeting in 1914, in the county courthouse and the St. Thomas Episcopal Church met for the first time in 1947, also in the courthouse. The speaker gave other informative details of all the various denominations. She then asked everyone to answer roll call with their favorite hymn.

The business meeting was called to order by President Lasiter and the group recited the club collect followed by the reading of the minutes from the previous meeting.

There were no reports from standing committees and there was no unfinished or new business.

The hostess served sausage balls, chocolate fondue, apple cake, coffee and spiced tea to Norma Walden, Francis Crume, Norma Martin, Donna Lindeman, Audry Martin, Margaret Zinser, Joyce Ritter, Betty Gilbert and Bradley.

POLLY'S POINTERS Fresh herbs make better vinegar

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — Can herb vinegars be made with dried herbs? — A.N.

DEAR A.N. — Yes, but they won't have the same fresh flavor as vinegars prepared from fresh herbs.

Put several tablespoons of dried herbs in a quart mason jar, fill the jar with hot white cider vinegar or wine vinegar, and let steep for two to three weeks before using.

You may strain out the herbs and rebottle the finished vinegar in a clean jar, or just leave the herbs in the jar, straining a bit of vinegar each time you need some.

I don't think these dried-herb vinegars are as good for using plain (just sprinkled over a salad, for example) as vinegars made from fresh herbs, but they are fine for mixing into salad dressing and flavoring sauces and prepared dishes.

The inclusion of fresh ingredients, such as a little fresh minced garlic or parsley, helps to brighten and freshen the flavor.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Grow Your Own Herb Garden," which includes recipes for making fresh-herb vinegars and other herbal preparations, directions for growing your own herbs (even indoors, so you can make fresh-herb vinegars all year round) and instructions for drying, freezing and otherwise preserving fresh herbs.

Others who would like a copy of this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When my son started eating baby food and I needed to send a baby spoon along to the sitters, I put the spoon inside a travel toothbrush case. This kept the spoon clean and easy to find. — PAM

DEAR POLLY — We recently remodeled our house. I kept small samples of the Formica, wallpaper, drapery fabric, flooring, carpeting and woodwork, and put them together into a kit to take shopping so new furnishings would match. — RUTH

DEAR POLLY — Can you tell me if there is a way to soften granulated sugar that is hard as a rock? I tried putting it in the oven; no good. — H.S.

DEAR H.S. — It sounds too simple to be true, but this remedy often works.

Put the entire package of sugar in the freezer for several hours. It should break up and become free-flowing easily.

You can keep the sugar in the freezer and use it just as it comes, with no thawing needed.

However, when combining the sugar with ingredients that are supposed to be at room temperature — such as egg whites for meringue — you may want to let the sugar warm up before using.

Hope this solves your little dilemma. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — For fruit salads that taste extra good, try grating a little lemon rind into the salad dressing.

Break up a square of baking chocolate by leaving it in the wrapper and pounding it with the textured side of a meat-tenderizing mallet. Easy and no mess.

My garlic cloves last longer since I started storing them in a jar of oil in the refrigerator. An added bonus: You can use the seasoned oil for frying.

When I bake a cake and the layers come out lopsided, I insert marshmallows between the bottom layer and the cake plate (under the low side).

The cake looks straight and the marshmallows are a nice surprise.

When making a spice cake, add half a cup of strained fruit. Baby fruit may also be used. This adds flavor and keeps the cake moist for days.

A package of pudding mix added to cake batters gives cakes extra moisture and lightness plus a delicious taste. — BOBBIE

DEAR POLLY — When I'm hand-sewing, my thread often catches on itself and knots up for no reason. Is there any way to prevent this? — G.W.

DEAR G.W. — Run your thread over a block of beeswax before using it for stitching. This will keep the thread snag-free so your sewing will go more smoothly, and you won't be bothered with those nasty knots.

Beeswax is also useful as a pin-and-needle cushion. The wax protects the pins and needles and keeps them slick and sharp. The waxed pins and needles will slip through fabrics more smoothly.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Sewing and Needlework Tips and Timesavers," which has more Pointers for easier, more trouble-free sewing, ways to organize and preserve patterns, tips for crocheting, knitting and other needle crafts, ways to achieve a professional look when finishing and blocking, tips for quilters and some ideas for special sewing projects to try.

Others who would like a copy of this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When you're ready to dispose of your potpourri spice mixture, put it through your garbage disposal followed by a hot-water rinse. This will freshen the disposal. — LEOLA

DEAR POLLY — Before rolling pastry on my smooth ceramic pastry sheet, I spray the sheet with cooking spray, then sprinkle it with flour. The flour will adhere to the sheet and stay evenly distributed while I am rolling the pastry out. This makes pie-making much easier. — DARLENE

Injuries down when seat belts are used

Making sure that all members of the family wear seat belts could save their lives, prevent injuries and reduce family medical costs.

The number of deaths and injuries have dropped since passage of the Texas seat belt law, says Dr. Mary Ann Heussner, a health education specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program.

Preliminary figures from the Texas Department of Public Safety show an eight percent reduction in the number of people killed in the driver's and front passenger's seats of cars and light trucks during the first 12 months under the law, she explains.

Incapacitating injuries were down about 3 percent and non-incapacitating injuries down more than 15 percent, the specialist adds.

"Reducing the occurrence of injuries and the severity of injuries by wearing a seat belt also reduces the family's medical expenses, not to mention the pain and other problems that result from accident injuries," Heussner says.

The specialist notes that because medical insurance rarely covers the full cost of treatment needed, automobile injuries can be a severe financial problem for many families.

Seat belt use in Texas is highest in the nation, according to surveys conducted by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, she reports. But usage varies from 43 percent to 69 percent throughout the state.

She emphasizes that Texans who fail to use seatbelts may be taking risks with their family's financial health as well as their lives.

Distinguish between being lonely, alone

Family and friends sometimes confuse an elderly person's desire to be alone with loneliness.

"If grandma has always enjoyed solitary pursuits, there's no reason to expect her to become more social now that grandpa has died," says gerontologist Dr. Judith Warren. "The fact that she spends her time alone doing needlework or gardening may not necessarily mean she is lonely."

Family members should be aware of those things that can cause loneliness for the elderly, says the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics specialist.

Risk factors include the loss of a spouse, sibling, child or friend; homebound status; a change in access to transportation; illness and disability; low income; and a change in living arrangements.

But one or more of these risk factors may not result in loneliness for every elderly person.

So the specialist advises family members to also listen to elder relatives for time-oriented complaints, such as "I'm just putting in my time until I die." Expressions of abandonment, such as "Nobody cares about old people, they're just put on the shelf," are another sign of loneliness.

Further indicators that loneliness is a problem may include changes in behavior, such as increased irritability, withdrawal, increased talkativeness, restlessness or an inability to concentrate.

She notes that psychosomatic symptoms or real health problems can also be linked to loneliness.

"When elders experience loneliness, it may be a chronic or a situational problem," the gerontologist says.

Warren explains that loneliness is often rooted in long-term problems with social relations that existed before the person became elderly, and may require professional counseling.

"Situational loneliness is more common among the elderly and usually results from one of the risk factors," she adds.

To help elders through periods of situational loneliness and adaptation to life changes, there are a number of options including grief counseling and support groups such as the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) Widow-to-Widow program. Increased social opportunities can be found through a senior center, eating lunch at a nutrition site, or a friendly visitor or telephone assurance program.

Other services, such as low-cost handicap-assist transportation, a homemaker/home health aide for help with activities of daily living, nursing care or an emergency alert system may also help deal with problems that keep the elder isolated and lonely, says Warren.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 74 and single, have no children or siblings, and I recently decided to place over 5,000 utilities shares in a trust for the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children, retaining the income from the shares for the duration of my life.

Last week I read an article that said only 30 percent of the funds received actually go to the hospitals. The rest goes for travel, entertainment, etc.

Who can one trust to use contributions for the purpose intended? Any suggestions?—Florida Cracker

DEAR F.C.: I contacted Gene Bracewell, Past Imperial Potentate and President and Chairman, Board of Trustees of The Shriners Hospitals. This was his response.

"The newspaper articles 'Florida Cracker' refers to may have been misleading in that the articles concerned fund-raising events and the expenses incurred in sponsoring such events.

"However, in the case of direct donations to Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children, you can rest assured that 100 percent of the money received goes to Shriners Hospitals, for use in the care and treatment of crippled and burned children, at no cost to the patients, their parents or any third party.

"The Shrine of North America and Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children are proud of our record. For 64 years, we have been providing excellent medical care to the children of North America at no charge. We have spent over $1 billion operating and building our 19 orthopedic hospitals and three burn institutes, and our operating budget for 1986 alone is $138 million. We have cured or substantially helped hundreds of thousands of children over the years, and we are currently rebuilding or remodeling many of our hospitals as we look to the future. All this is possible only through the generous donations and bequests of so many caring individuals across the country, and we believe we have used all contributions to Shriners Hospitals wisely and prudently, and exactly as our donors would wish."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Regarding "F.C.," who suggested as a solution to the shortage of eligible males that men have a wife and a mistress under the same roof: He stated that "men have enough stamina, passion, and emotional stability to take care of two women." It has been my experience (and you have heard the same from your readers) that the majority of men don't have enough of the aforementioned to take care of one woman, much less two.

Your correspondent went on to say, "The man would alternate bed partners without risking jealousy, complaints, or retribution."

Isn't it just like a man to think he's so terrific between the sheets that a woman would look forward to her nights "on" rather than (if the truth were known) her nights "Off!"—Not Fooled In Maryland Heights, Mo.

DEAR MARYLAND: Your letter was my laugh for the day. I'll bet a lot of your sorority sisters applauded your comments.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious - lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Thank You

We wish to thank all the friends that showed such affection during our time of sorrow. Also thank you for your prayers, cards, flowers & food, also the ladies of The Central Church of Christ for preparing the wonderful food for all of us. We appreciated it very much.

Safari nets $6,000 for neglected children

Seventeen of the 19 African wildlife enthusiasts just back from Kenya, East Africa gathered in the American Cancer Society meeting room at Harrington Cancer Center recently to see themselves on a one and one-half hour videotape made in Kenya by a professional television photographer, to view hundreds of still color prints made by another professional photographer, and to swap stories about their recent experiences during a photographic safari to East Africa.

The 19 safari members packed their cameras and left for a photographic tour of Kenya, on Nov. 28. The 10-day luxury safari was sponsored by the Amarillo-based Palo Duro Chapter of the American Business Clubs (AMBUCS) for the benefit of Texas Tech Parenting Clinic at Amarillo, serving neglected and abused children.

The wildlife adventure was the brainchild of Jeff Edmond, vice president of the local AMBUCS chapter and chairman of the safari project, and Dr. Mary A. Slater, assistant professor of the Amarillo medical school's department of pediatrics. The money-raising tour was born, Edmond said, because of the drastic effects state budget cuts had on Texas Tech's programs.

Edmond said $250 from each tour sold was donated to the Tech clinic. "This came to a total of $4,000," he said.

An additional $2,000 was raised by the sale of the 90-minute videotape made by Brett Ship from KVII-TV. The tape included safari members engaged in activities of the trip, Kenya's lush foliage, native tribesmen, and the country's abundant wildlife.

Another professional photographer, Ernie Farino, took almost 900 still shots of the countryside and its wildlife. Color prints were made available to safari members, with some of these profits also designated for the clinic.

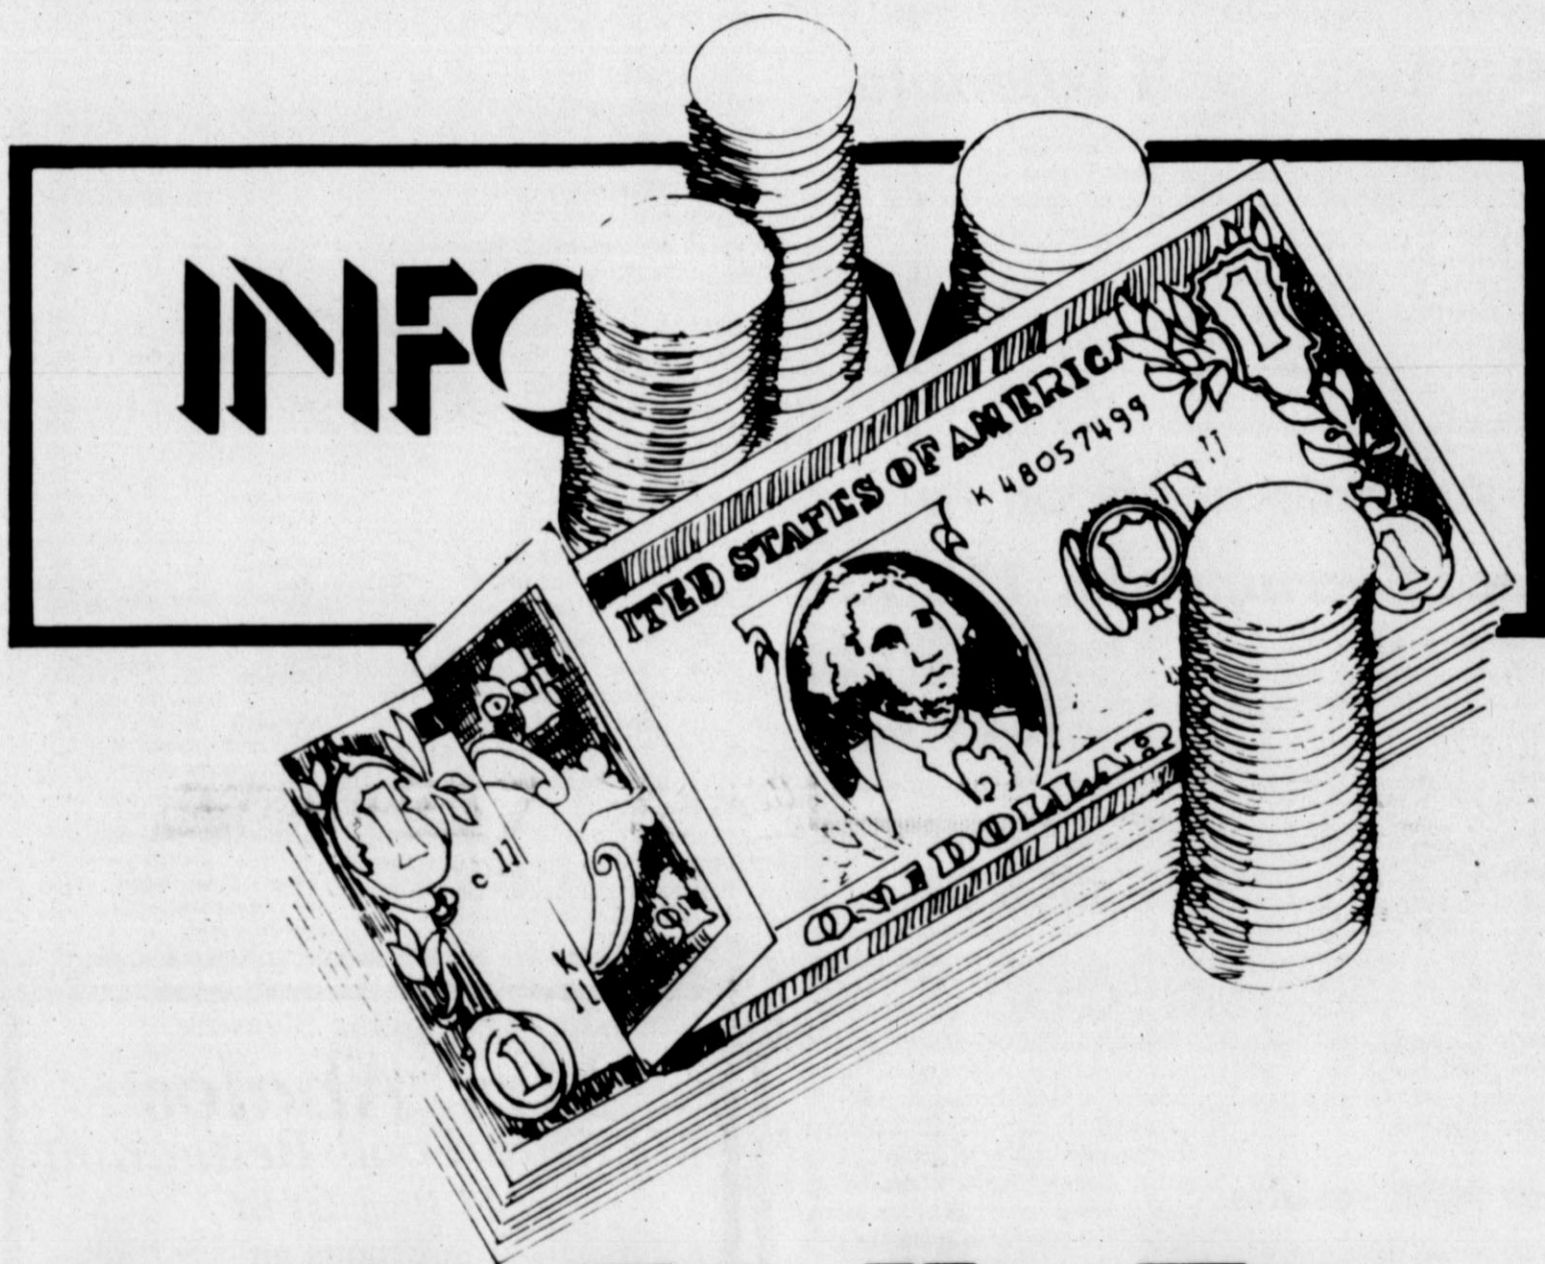

Dr. Slater said the funds raised will provide auxiliary services to children seen in the clinic.

"These are services not provided by our clinic," she said. "They include such things as speech therapy, physical therapy, and other services for those children who need them."

She said some of the money raised by the trip will help build a lending library of developmental toys.

"We have toys designed to help the slowly developing child develop more quickly," she said. "But we have only toys for the children to play with while they are at the clinic. Now we can purchase toys to check out to parents for them to take home for a specified time so the child can have them there."

In 1492, Spain's King Ferdinand commissioned Christopher Columbus to find a westward route to the Indies.

Milwaukee gets the breaks

Rockets fall to Bucks, 99-93

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson needed John Lucas, Jack Sikma, Terry Cummings and a couple of lucky shots to beat the Houston Rockets.

"I haven't had a lot of breaks this season so I deserved that one," Bucks center Jack Sikma said of his jumper with 47 seconds left in the game that put the Bucks ahead for good and gave them a 99-93 NBA victory over the Rockets Thursday night.

Moments later, Lucas, a former Rocket, snatched the ball from Rockets guard Allen Leavall, drove the length of the court and scored a decisive layup that put the game out of Houston's reach with 25 seconds left.

"A lucky shot by Jack and a steal by Luke and the game is over after that," Nelson said. "They have to score twice to win and I knew we wouldn't turn it over."

Lucas scored the final two points of the game with a pair of free throws with 13 seconds to go, finishing his "homecoming" performance with 17 points.

"It's a good day at the office," said Lucas, waived by the Rockets last March after tests showed he had used cocaine. "It was more than just another game. I got to see a lot of friends."

Cummings scored 20 first half points and finished with 25 and Sikma hit 20 of his season high 22 points in the second half.

Sikma scored only two points in the first half but helped the Bucks turn the game around in the second half.

"We called Jack's number a lot in the second half," Nelson said. "It didn't always pay dividends but it was a starting point for our offense. We had a couple of lucky shots by Jack that really made the difference."

Milwaukee built a 12-point lead in the second quarter and took a 55-49 lead at the half.

But Houston kept coming back. The Rockets rallied from an 81-71 deficit early in the fourth quarter to tie the game at 91-91 and 93-93 with 1:09 left in the game.

Mistakes cost the Rockets. Houston finished with 21 turnovers to nine for the Bucks.

"Turnovers and 'no-brainers' have really hurt us the last two games," Rockets Coach Bill Fitch said. "We lost the basketball five times tonight by not coming down with the ball and holding on to it."

Nelson gave Lucas much of the credit for Milwaukee's victory.

"I think Luke has a lot to do with it," Nelson said. "He has a feel for when to get it to the big guys. The confidence factor for Sikma is there. He just keeps going."

"John Lucas doesn't surprise me. I've never had a point guard like him. His fight against drugs is more important than any game. He's going to win it with the support of a lot of people that love him."

Akeem Olajuwon led Houston with 29 points. His final shot gave Houston its final tie at 93-93 with 1:09 left in the game.

San Antonio holds on to defeat Sacramento, 113-107

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — San Antonio Spurs guard Jon Sundvold doesn't mind how the Spurs win, just as long as they win.

The Spurs let the Sacramento Kings chip away at a 16-point lead in the final four minutes Thursday night but held on for a 113-107 victory in NBA action.

"It wasn't the way we want to win but a win is a win," Sundvold said. "We haven't won many games on the road this season so we'll take them anyway we can."

The victory snapped the Spurs' three-game road losing streak and improved their road mark to 2-11 and overall record to 14-29.

The Spurs are still in the cellar of the Western Conference's Midwest Division but they trail Sacramento by just half a game. The Kings are now 14-28.

"This game was one of our best defensive thinking games for at least the first three quarters," San Antonio coach Bob Weiss said.

The Spurs never trailed after the first minute of play, Sundvold hit the second of two three-point baskets with 4:53 left in the first half to give San Antonio an 18-point lead, 72-54.

Forward Walter Berry topped Spurs scorers with 24 points. Reserve forward Mychal Thompson added 18.

Guard Derek Smith topped Sacramento with 21 while point guard Reggie Theus managed 20 points. Theus scored 16 of his points in the final quarter to spark the late Kings surge.

Sundvold and Weiss blamed poor defense and sloppy passes for letting Sacramento pull within two, 109-107, with 17 seconds left.

Sundvold called his ball handling in the final few minutes "the worst in my life."

Weiss compared the loss of a comfortable lead in the final four minutes to "a nightmare you have as a kid." "Those things can happen," Weiss said. "You just don't want to let them get total control."

Weiss made liberal use of his timeouts in the first three quarters to cut short six different Kings attempts to reduce their deficit to under 10 points.

"I wanted to stop their momentum. That was the main reason they (the timeouts) were called," Weiss said.

Aguirre scores 36 points

Mavs whip Nuggets 132-102

DENVER (AP) — Mark Aguirre scored 36 points in the Dallas Mavericks' 132-102 victory over the Denver Nuggets, but he said scoring wasn't really his main concern during the game.

"It just came to me," Aguirre said. "I'm sick and coach (Dick Motta) knew that. All he wanted for me was to play defense against (Nugget Alex) English."

But Aguirre said everybody on the Maverick team played well Thursday night, and the result was control of Denver's fast break — and a win.

Aguirre held English, the NBA's No. 2 scorer, to just 16 points.

Derek Harper dished out 12 assists in the rout, which left Dallas, the Midwest Division leader, with a 26-15 overall record and an 11-11 record on the road.

The Nuggets, who had won three of their previous four games, dropped to 19-25. But the game also continued the season's custom of road victories in the series between the rivals. Dallas now has won both games in Denver and Denver has won the only game in Dallas between the clubs.

The Mavericks wasted little time getting started Thursday night. They wiped out a 12-10 Denver lead on a three-point basket by Harper and never looked back.

By the end of the first period, Aguirre had 12 points and the Mavericks a 29-22 lead.

Dallas turned the game into a rout in the second period, outscoring Denver 44-26. The Mavericks missed only five of 22 shots in the period to finish the half with a 68.2 percent shooting rate.

Dallas also played great defense and forced 11 first-half turnovers by the Nuggets, which the Mavericks converted into 16 points.

Denver made only mild attempts at cutting into the big Dallas lead in the second half. After trailing by as many as 30 points the Nuggets pulled to within 23, but could get no closer.

Detlef Schrempf and Rolando Blackman each had 18 points for the Mavericks.

The only bright spot for Denver was guard Fat Lever, who had 24 points, 14 rebounds and 10 assists in compiling a triple-double for the ninth time this season.

Motta gave credit to the momentum his team held.

"We really got rolling and when we roll we are very hard to beat," he said. "Denver is a team that never will quit and I would hate to play them in a seven-game series."

Denver coach Doug Moe was typically succinct.

"They played great and we forgot to show up."

He also said he knew the Nuggets were in trouble when "we dropped the ball with no one guarding us."

"They knew they were playing against a team that didn't come ready to play and that just made them more aggressive," Moe said.

Hurdlers' rivalry to resume

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Track Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — High hurdlers Greg Foster, ranked No. 1 in the world, and Renaldo Nehemiah, formerly ranked No. 1, renew their heated rivalry tonight at Madison Square Garden in the Millrose Games.

The antagonism between the two was bitter before Nehemiah left track and field in 1982 to play for the San Francisco 49ers of the NFL and it was rekindled two weeks ago when Nehemiah returned to indoor racing.

In that meet, the Sunkist Invitational at Los Angeles Jan. 16, Foster won the 60-meter hurdles in 7.36 seconds, a time faster than the listed world indoor best of 7.47 held by Mark McKoy of Canada, but it

PRO FOOTBALL

NEW YORK (AP) — The Super Bowl champions will continue to be known as the New York Giants, the name they have carried since they were founded in 1925, a published report said.

Giants co-owner Wellington Mara told the New York Daily News he rejected the request of Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., that the team change its name to the New Jersey Giants.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The college football future of University of Pittsburgh running back Brian Davis was left in doubt when he was academically suspended by the university for a year.

Davis cannot re-enroll in Pitt until next January and would not be eligible to play again until 1988, when he would have two seasons of eligibility remaining.

Davis, the 1984 Parade Magazine high school football player of the year, ran for 100 yards in his first college game in 1985 but sat out the 1986 season because of academic problems.

BASEBALL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The wife of outfielder Darryl Strawberry of the New York Mets filed a Superior Court petition for a legal separation, accusing Strawberry of violent behavior and breaking her nose after a game last October.

Lisa Strawberry also obtained a Superior Court order forbidding her husband from coming within 100 yards of her mother's home in Altadena, Calif., where she is staying. The couple's home is in La Vene, according to her petition.

became a record in dispute because of an apparent false start.

Nehemiah finished third and tried to congratulate Foster, but the winner shrugged him off. Foster contended that because of all the clamor, he was not aware that Nehemiah was trying to shake his hand.

He later apologized, but added that if he wanted to intentionally snub Nehemiah, "I had the right to do it" because of several disparaging and belittling remarks his rival had made about him.

Foster also said after his time was disputed for record consideration, "I feel if I did it once, I can do it again."

Tonight, the distance will be 60 yards, and Nehemiah, the Millrose winner in 1978-79 and 1981-82, owns the world indoor best of 6.82 and the meet record of 6.84. Foster also holds four Millrose titles, having won in 1980 and 1983-85. He also finished second last year, behind McKoy.

McKoy again will be in the field, along with 1984 Olympic champion Roger Kingdom and NCAA champion Keith Talley of Alabama.

In addition to the eagerly awaited rematch between Foster and Nehemiah, who won last week at Portland, Ore., in Foster's absence for his first indoor victory in five years, there will be two major confrontations — Carl Lewis against Lee McRae in the 60-yard dash and Eamonn Coghlan of Ireland against Steve Overt of Britain in the Wanamaker Mile.

Lewis, winner of four gold medals in the 1984 Olympics, held the world indoor best of 6.02 in the 60 until last year, when McRae lowered it to 6.00.

Lewis, who underwent arthroscopic surgery on his left knee in September, made his 1987 indoor debut two weeks, winning a 60-meter dash at Indianapolis. He was pleased with his time of 6.68, but said he made some mistakes.

He will not be able to afford any mistakes against a field that includes McRae, Olympic 200-meter silver medalist Kirk Baptiste, two-time Olympian Harvey Gance, NCAA and national 200 champion Floyd Heard of Texas A&M, former NCAA champion Emmitt King, and Mike Morris, brother of the New York Giants' Joe Morris.

The matchup between Coghlan, the fastest indoor miler in history with a clocking of 3:49.78, and Overt, the 1980 800-meter Olympic champion and 1,500-meter bronze medalist, will be their eighth.

Overt, the former world record holder in the 1,500 and the mile, has won the first seven — all outdoors.

Leading women's entries include Evelyn Ashford in the 60, Stephanie Hightower and Jackie Joyner-Kersey in the 60 hurdles, Diane Dixon in the 400, Wendy Sly of Britain and Lynn Williams of Canada in the mile, and Louise Ritter and Debbie Brill of Canada in the high jump.

Howie Long says Raiders better get act together

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — Howie Long figures the Los Angeles Raiders, who have slipped from Super Bowl champions in 1984 to being a .500 team this past season, better get their act together.

"I know Al Davis and I know he's not going to put up with this," the Los Angeles defensive end said of the Raiders' managing general partner. "We've just changed defensive coordinators, and everyone's job could be in trouble if it keeps up; everyone's, including mine."

"We should be hungry next season. An 8-8 record better make us hungry. Hungry teams win championships."

After they lost their final four games, the Raiders fired linebacker coach Bob Zeman and brought back former assistant Charlie Sumner to fill the post.

Sumner had left to coach the United States Football League Oakland Invaders.

The Raiders' most visible problem has been weakness at quarterback, with Marc Wilson struggling and the venerable Jim Plunkett apparently having used up his last comeback.

Rusty Hilger, a seldom-used second-year pro, may get his chance next season.

The Raiders also have an aging offensive line, which has cut down on the effectiveness of running back Marcus Allen.

Long, in Hawaii for Sunday's Pro Bowl, would not talk about the Raiders' quarterback woes, saying, "I'm on the defensive side of the line."

He did say, however, "I think we'll probably go after an offensive lineman in the draft."

"And we've got two wide receivers, Mervyn Fernandez and Chris Woods, coming down from Canada (the Canadian Football

About Red Sox' chances in 1987 season

Jim Rice has serious doubts

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Boston's Jim Rice says he has serious doubts about the Red Sox' chances in 1987.

Citing off-season departures, the Boston slugger fears that the Red Sox may have problems repeating as American League champions — his first pennant since his rookie season in 1975.

The Sox lost the World Series in seven games to the Mets, after coming within an out of the championship in Game 6.

"In order to win, you have to improve," Rice said Thursday night before the Boston Baseball Writers' 48th annual dinner at the Sheraton Boston Hotel. "I'm certainly not going to tell management how to run the team, but we certainly haven't improved since last season."

Instead of the club improving itself, Rice feels that things are more like 1976 when "we didn't have about half the players we won with in 1975 and never were in contention."

In 1976, Boston finished third 1 1/2 games behind the first-place New York Yankees.

"The same thing seems to be happening this year," Rice said. "We've released players such as Tony Armas and Dave Stapleton. Richie Gedman probably is gone through free agency. And now Dave Henderson, our center fielder to replace Armas, just had a knee operation. All that doesn't sound good."

With Gedman ineligible to re-sign with the Red Sox until May 1 and negotiating with other clubs as a free agent after rejecting an offer of $2.6 million for three years, Rice said he doesn't think Boston can repeat without a top-flight catcher.

"And, without knowing too much about Henderson, we'd be in trouble without a center fielder, too," Rice said. "You also have to be concerned about your bench. You have to have players who can fill in when things go bad."

"I just don't think we can win with what we have here right now. Maybe things will change. I just don't know."

Rice batted .324 with 200 hits and drove in 110 runs last year, but critics noted that his home run production slipped to 20, about 10 below his yearly average.

"Sure, I heard the talk, but any time you win you're satisfied," Rice said. "If I hit 30 or 40 homers and we didn't win, it wouldn't mean much."

"I've also learned over the years that everything has to be perfect to hit a home run. You can get a base hit without perfect conditions and that's what gets things started — base hits."

Falcons interested in Giants' Bill Parcells

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons, who have made the playoffs only three times in their 21-year history, are casting an eye on Bill Parcells, who coached the Super Bowl champion New York Giants to their first NFL title since 1956, according to published reports.

The Falcons have sought permission to talk with Parcells, but the Giants denied the request. The Atlanta Constitution and the Boston Globe reported in today's editions.

Though Parcells angrily denied he is interested in the Atlanta job, the newspapers said he privately is upset that the Giants would not allow the Falcons to talk to him.

Parcells is making $300,000 a year with the Giants and has two years remaining on his contract. But his lawyer contends that NFL rules would allow him to leave the Giants if he could better his position with another team, the Constitution said.

The Falcons have been looking for a new head coach since firing Dan Henning at the end of the 1986 season. Henning posted four straight losing seasons with Atlanta.

The newspapers said Atlanta is prepared to offer Parcells a five-year pact as head coach and general manager at $900,000 a year.

A look at the NFL rosters at the midway mark of the 1986 season disclosed that the most common names in the league were Johnson and Williams, tied at 22 each.

A spokesman for the Falcons declined to comment on the newspaper reports.

But attorney Robert Fraley of Orlando, Fla., who represents Parcells, told the Constitution: "Bill Parcells is a wonderful guy. If the Falcons want Bill Parcells, I'd say they are sure headed in the right direction."

The Falcons have talked so far only with Fraley, the newspapers said.

Parcells, contacted by the Constitution, denied the newspaper reports.

"I don't want to see my name in the paper in connection with this," Parcells said. "It's a bunch of bull."

DR. GOTT Calcium loss affects spine

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 68, female and was recently hospitalized for a compression fracture of the thoracic spine. What could have caused this and how long does it take to heal? I'm still in pain.

DEAR READER — Compression fractures of the spinal bones are common in women past the menopause. A negative calcium balance occurs as the levels of female hormone fall in women after menopause. This means that calcium leaves the bones, making them more brittle and fragile, so that fractures can occur more readily. This condition is known as osteoporosis ("porous bones").

The spinal column seems particularly prone to calcium loss, which, over time, makes the vertebral bones wedge-shaped instead of doughnut-shaped. This causes pain and loss of height.

Calcium supplements, regular exercise and the use of hormone pills can help retard the rate of bone loss in most women. However, this loss can't be reversed: Once the vertebral bones have lost their normal shape, they will not return to their previous fullness.

Most women with compression fractures from osteoporosis can be helped by physical therapy, exercise and the use of certain medicines, such as calcium/fluoride supplements and hormones.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My doctor says my feet are hot because of poor circulation. I would think that would make them feel colder, if anything. He says I shouldn't worry about it, but I'm the one whose feet are burning up.

DEAR READER — When poor circulation affects the skin of the feet, coldness and blanching may occur. However, other tissues also are affected. When nerves are deprived of blood and oxygen, symptoms of tingling and heat will occur. Usually, the nerve symptoms are more prominent than the skin symptoms. Therefore, circulatory insufficiency often causes the feet to burn and feel hot.

See a vascular specialist, since your symptoms may be treatable with medicine (to improve circulation) or surgery (to bypass or remove arterial obstruction).

DEAR DR. GOTT — A good dermatologist gave me cortisone shots for my keloids. They turned purple and enlarged, and after a few weeks, only faint silver marks remained. This treatment seems superior to surgical removal. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Some, but not all, patients with keloids (abnormally prominent scar tissue in the skin) can be helped by the treatment you describe. Keloids also can be frozen or surgically removed. Because each case of keloids differs, your doctor is the best judge of which treatment is suitable.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 32 and female, and my doctor says that a rip in the anal area is causing my rectal bleeding. What causes this and what is the appropriate treatment?

DEAR READER — The delicate lining of the anus and rectum can tear if it is overly stretched by a large bowel movement or a hard object. Ordinarily, the tear will heal by itself, but bleeding can occur until the raw area has returned to normal. If bleeding persists and healing does not take place, the tear might have to be surgically repaired.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband has a red, itchy scalp. The hair falls out and he gets a dry, scaly buildup. He won't see a doctor. Can you suggest a non-prescription treatment?

DEAR READER — Your husband may have one of many skin diseases, including psoriasis or an allergic reaction. Seborrhea is a common skin condition that produces flaking and scaling. This can be treated with a selenium-containing dandruff shampoo.

If that doesn't work, your husband should see a doctor for a precise diagnosis.

DEAR READER — I take diuretics, which cause a potassium deficiency. Would this make my skin itch and get red spots?

DEAR READER — Possibly. Ask your doctor to check your level of blood potassium to make sure that you do not have a deficiency. In addition, many diuretics (kidney stimulants) can cause skin reactions in patients who become allergic to the medicine. Your doctor is a reasonable source of advice.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My last period was five years ago (I'm 55). Recently I started to take Premarin and Medroxyprogesterone and have started menstruating again. Is this normal? Can I get pregnant?

DEAR READER — When used properly, the estrogen/progestin combination of female hormones will cause periodic bleeding, which is a normal effect of these drugs. Before menopause, when you were still ovulating, you could get pregnant. Now you cannot, because your bleeding is the result of synthetic hormones, not your natural menstrual cycle.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 60, 5-foot-10, 185 pounds, diabetic and have high blood pressure, both of which are under control. I get dizzy spells and my legs get weak. Could my medication (Diabinese and Blocadren) cause this?

DEAR READER — Both Diabinese and Blocadren can cause dizziness and weakness — but so can diabetes and hypertension. Therefore, you should ask your doctor to investigate your symptoms.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My doctor says that I have hyperlipoproteinemia. My blood tests showed a triglyceride level of 355 and a cholesterol level of 72. He's put me on a special diet. Will these levels improve or should I just hope to maintain current values?

DEAR READER — You can expect improvement because, with less fat in your diet, your triglyceride level should fall toward the normal range of 100-150. Your cholesterol is low, so it should not be a problem. Remember that alcohol will raise the triglyceride portion of your blood fats; therefore you will want to stop drinking alcoholic beverages. To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on CHOLESTEROL. Others who would like a copy can send for Dr. Gott's new Health Report, UNDERSTANDING CHOLESTEROL. Send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

HIGHWAY HISTORY

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — In the early days of automobile travel, numbers were the easiest way to mark highway routes on maps, according to the editors of the Rand McNally Road Atlas.

In those days, the company's field representatives had to post numbered signs along the highways which corresponded to the numbers used on their maps. So accurate were those early maps that the Rand McNally editors would actually stop the presses when a field person called in with a change such as a bridge washed out or a new road built.

The first road atlas was published in 1924.

Some of the rooms are adjacent to the rose garden containing a gazebo to be enjoyed on sunny days. Our nursing staff benefits from a good training program equipping it to give good physical care in a cheerful, compassionate manner. Both private pay and Title XIX (Medicaid) residents are accepted. Sixty-one percent of women maintaining families in 1985 were in the labor force—that is, working or looking for work—compared with 54 percent in 1975, according to a fact sheet on working women published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Internal Revenue Service will get a piece of barter arrangement

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you lost your job last year, hit the state lottery, sold your home for a big profit or tutored the plumber's kids in exchange for a new bathroom, chances are the IRS wants to hear from you. Your lottery winnings are taxable. Part of your employment compensation and home-sale profits may be. And the Internal Revenue Service gets a piece of any barter arrangement — you pay tax on what your new bathroom is worth and the plumber is taxed on the value of your tutoring services. Those are just some of the many types of income that must be reported when tax returns are filed. When the income tax was enacted in 1913, it was fairly simple, applying to "income from whatever source derived." Innumerable exceptions, clarifications and special cases have been added over the last three-quarters of a century, so that for a person of even average means, the most difficult part of filing a tax return can be determining what income is taxable. It might be easier to list what is NOT taxable. According to the IRS, that includes: welfare benefits, Veterans Administration benefits, workers' compensation benefits, child support, gifts and inheritances, death benefits from a life insurance policy, and interest on certain state and local government bonds.

Also, you are not taxed on employer-paid health insurance premiums, group legal services or (with limitations) child-care assistance; refunds of federal income taxes; a limited amount of life insurance premiums paid by your employer, and (within limits) scholarships to degree candidates.

That leaves hundreds of types of income that must be reported on your 1040, 1040A or 1040EZ. These are included:

— Wages, fees, salaries and tips. Your employer should report these to your on a Form W-2. — Interest earned on bank accounts, bonds, mortgages, personal loans. A premium given as an incentive for making a long-term deposit is taxable. Interest on U.S. Savings Bonds (Series E or EE) may be reported either annually or when they mature or are cashed, whichever is earlier. — Dividends, but the first $100 each year ($200 for a couple filing a joint return) is tax-exempt. — State and local tax refunds received last year if they resulted from itemizing deductions. If the refund arose from your 1985 return, the taxable part is limited to the refund or your 1985 excess itemized deductions (Schedule A, line 26), whichever is less. — Alimony or separate maintenance payments received. See IRS Publication 504 for some new rules affecting the definition of alimony paid under post-1984 agreements. — Income from a business that is not a partnership or corporation. Report your income and business expenses on Schedule C. Some net losses from your business can be used to reduce the amount of other income subject to tax. You'll probably need help from Publication 334. Farmers report their self-employment earnings on Schedule F; see Publication 225.

— Capital gains (profits from the sale of assets) are reported on Schedule D. If you had no gains in 1986 but did have some capital-gains dividends (from mutual funds), 40 percent of the total is reported on Line 14 of Form 1040 and Schedule D is not necessary. In either case, see Publication 544 for an explanation of this most complex part of the tax law. — Withdrawals from Individual Retirement Accounts usually are fully taxable but if such a distribution significantly raises your income, you may be able to reduce the tax bite by income averaging. Get IRS Publication 506. A pension is fully taxable if you did not pay part of the cost or if you recovered your entire contribution before 1986. — Unemployment compensation: Some or all is taxable if your total income minus selected adjustments exceeds $12,000 for a single person or $18,000 for a couple filing jointly. — Social Security benefits may be taxable. You must count as income the smaller of half your benefits OR half the amount by which total income (including tax-exempt interest) exceeds $25,000 if single or $32,000 if a couple filing jointly. — Miscellaneous income, including interest the IRS paid because your refund check was late; gambling winnings (if you remain you may deduct all or part of your losses on Schedule A); fees for jury duty; reimbursed medical expenses that you deducted in an earlier year, and the value of services
