Football Season Is Officially Opened At Whiteface Field Friday When Vega Hi Plays

Six Home Games for Local Fans Offer Best Schedule Hereford Has Enjoyed In Several Years. Team Ready for Good Season Against Stiff Competition.

The referee's whistle, enthusiastic yelling of the crowds, thud of the kick-off, rush of flying feet, stunning impact of hard tackles, expectant spectators and opposing lines in tense formation will bring to Hereford tomorrow its favorite sport, high school football, when Vega comes down for the first game of the season.

The game will be called at 3:30 at Whiteface Field. Cliff Acker, H. P. Sindt and John Patton will be back at the old positions as referee, umpire and linesman.

Season tickets for the home games were placed on sale by the athletic management this week at each of the three drug stores. These season tickets sell for $2.25 and are admission to all six of the games to be played in Hereford this season for the southwest corner of district one, class B football. Some of these six will not be conference games, but they will be better, some of them, than the ones in the district race. Tulla, Happy, Clovis, Portales and Canyon games will be played as part of the season's ticket program, the best array the local management has ever been able to bring here.

Coach McCollum made the first definite statement of his opinion of the 1931 Whitefaces at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday noon when he said the team was going to be able to give their opponents a good account of themselves. A strong, experienced backfield will be in evidence, while a new line will appear before the spectators. The starting players will be selected from Clond, center; E. Hartman, McCollough and Orr, guards; E. Holland and Cartwright, tackles; Wilson and Climer, ends, with Stone, F. Collins, Russell and Habermacher in the backfield.

The sale of season tickets is used each year to bring in money to meet early football training expenses. Single admissions would mean more but would not be received until the end of the season. Single admissions for the six home games will cost $3.25. Each game admission will be 25 cents to children and 50 cents to adults, except the Canyon game, which is usually at a higher price.

A new color scheme will be in evidence this year, for the team as well as the pep squad, the latter using the new colors of maroon and white for their suits last year, which will show up for the first time on the team tomorrow.

HEREFORD BOYS ENTERED IN TRI-STATE COMPETITION

B. H. Hopkins, vocational agricultural teacher of Hereford high school, who is superintendent of the newly organized department dealing with vocational agriculture, will have 38 boys from here working on the exhibit from this school in competition with boys' classes from 12 other Panhandle towns at the Tri-State fair in Amarillo.

One-half of the booth space used by the class from Hereford will be devoted to the exhibition of field crops produced this year by members of the class, and the other half will be given over to a demonstration of the feeding of cotton seed meal to hogs, the major activity the boys here will show at the fair.

AMARILLO AND LUBBOCK TELEPHONE RATES DOWN

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has announced a reduction in telephone rates from Amarillo and Lubbock exchanges amounting to from 25 to 75 cents per month on residence and business telephones.

Hereford Schools Reach Highest Enrollment Mark

On Tuesday, the second day of school, a total of 900 had been enrolled in all departments of the Hereford schools. Last year about the same time there were 800 on the roll. The children are distributed this year as follows: Eleventh grade, 49; tenth, 85; ninth, 76; eighth, 77; mixed seventh and eighth, 34; total regular high school, 287; total in high school department including mixed group, 321. Departmental grades had enrolled 163 in five sections as follows: Seventh grade, 57; sixth, 76; high fifth, 30. In Central school there were a total of 376, divided as follows: Low Fifth, 37; high fourth, 29; low fourth, 42; high and low third, 71; second, 83; high first, 28; beginners, 84. The total last year were: high school, 250; departmental grades, 170; Central school, 389. Last year the high seventh grade was in the departmental grades and if this number be added to the total in the grades a slight increase will be shown in the grades.

The number of teachers this year is the same as at the beginning of last year. There were a few more children in Central last year, but the half-day sessions were used, leaving the teaching load about the same as it is this year. In the high school building the same number of teachers are attempting to take care of an additional load of 37 regular high school students and 30 in high fifth grade people who were not in that building last year. Practically all of this burden is placed on the high school teachers since the departmental teachers had charge of children each period of the day.

If the original plans had been carried out, the high school teachers would have had only the increase in the high school to add to their teaching load, but it was hoped to save one teacher's salary. This may not be possible as high school classes are overflowing and teachers are carrying heavier loads than the standards of the State Department and the Southern Association will permit, to say nothing about the effect on the work. All English teachers have more than the number of students permitted and three other high school teachers have more than the maximum load of 150 pupil recitations per day permitted to any high school teacher. One teacher has six classes with five the usual minimum. One class contains 27 students or seven more than is usually considered a reasonable number.

In addition to the overload in the high school, there is also a crowded condition in the low first grade that may force half day sessions again this year. It was hoped that such would not be necessary, but with 86 beginners it seems that something will have to be done about it. There are two teachers for these people, leaving 43 to the teacher. That many beginners cannot be successfully looked after by one teacher. Since there is no room, even if there were another teacher, for further division of the group, half day sessions appear to be about the only solution of the problem.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hicks returned Tuesday evening from a two weeks visit with relatives and friends in several points in Kansas.

Workers Doing Much Canning For Charity

Over 150 cans of fruits and vegetables canned to care for the charity work of feeding the hungry this winter is the result of Friday's and Tuesday's meetings to save what food that would not otherwise be conserved.

The charity committee of Hereford has asked that those who have surplus vegetables they will not use themselves and are willing to donate to charity, to bring them to these meetings which were so successful last week that they are being continued each Friday and Tuesday during the season of growing fruits and vegetables. Those who do not have materials to can but do have containers to spare and will donate them, are asked to do so, and others who are able to give physical labor are asked to be on hand and lend all the aid they can.

Friday's meeting will again be at the First Baptist church. Mrs. Bob Wilson, who is doing such valorous work in assisting all who wish help with canning problems, has promised to be there to direct the work.

Sincere appreciation of the response given is expressed by the committee.

LOUIE LEGRAND LOSES FORD COUPE IN FIRE

Fire destroyed a 1929 model Ford coupe belonging to L. L. LeGrand at 2:30 a. m. this morning in the Clark service station, Second and Miles, where it had been left for repairs. It is probable that the fire was started by a short in the wiring system of the car, according to Mr. LeGrand.

Rafters above the car were charred and several windows were broken by the flames, but no serious damage resulted to the building.

Loss of the car was covered by insurance.

Mrs. Jewell Murchison and little son are visiting home folks in Dallas.

Dr. O. H. Loyd of Vega was a visitor in our city Monday, attending the chamber of commerce luncheon.

Oscar Mills and Charles Brown of Dumas visited in the J. F. Ward home this week.

Lester Galley's Rural Home Shows Modern Farm Methods

A visit Monday morning to the Lester Galley farm northeast of Hereford in connection with the judging of the dairy there as a competitor for a prize in the Amarillo News-Globe master dairyman's contest, was a revelation of what is possible by a modern farmer in the Panhandle country. Those who contend that this region is only cow country to be used for range purposes had better stay away from Lester Galley's as they must change their opinions.

The Brand editor accompanied B. O. Dunkle, county agent; L. S. Keene, cow tester and health inspector; John Olson of the Rockwell Lumber Co. and Joe L. Pope to the Galley farm, and as the judges had not arrived, occasion was taken to look around and see what could be seen.

It isn't possible to tell everything about Lester Galley's as out there, for the writer is confident he did not get to see everything that must be there worthy of mentioning. Tall poplar trees surrounding a dirt tank first catch the visitor's eye, then a glistening row of windows in the dairy barn. What appears to be a large concrete chicken brooder stands before those who enter the premises, and investigation reveals it to be a stock drinking tank built of ret-

WHEAT SHIPMENTS NEAR 2,000 CARLOADS FOR 1931

A hurried check-up this morning for Hereford's shipping district shows that 1,958 carloads of wheat have been billed out from here this season. Estimates indicate there will still be several hundred more cars to go out before the 1931 crop is moved.

So far as it has been able to determine, the Santa Fe has had cars here ready for loading whenever called upon for them, which is a considerable achievement, taking into consideration the fact that all other towns were in as urgent need as Hereford.

Reports further show in the individual elevator shipments the McLean & Pitman elevator here has received nearly 1,000,000 bushels of the wheat. In an interview relative to this fact, J. M. Erwin, manager, said this morning they expected to pass the 1,000,000 mark this week.

Row crop conditions over Deaf Smith county continue excellent, as a whole, and indications point to a good harvest, although somewhat affected in places by recent dry weather.

H. A. Close Buys Rice Drug Store

H. A. Close, for the past year and a half manager of the Wanser Drug Stores in Dalhart, has purchased the Rice Drug Store which he will operate as the Close Drug Company.

Although Mr. Close took over the management of the drug store Wednesday, the formal opening will not be held until additional stock and new lines of drug supplies have been added. A "gift day" will be held when preparations are completed, by which the new management hopes to become better acquainted with the people of Hereford and Deaf Smith county.

Mr. Close, who is a registered pharmacist, was connected with the City Drug Stores of Amarillo before moving to Dalhart.

CLAY RIDGWAY RECEIVES LADY AMHERST PHEASANTS

Poultry fanciers and those who delight in beautifully plumaged birds will get much pleasure from seeing the pair of Lady Amherst pheasants Clay Ridgway of the C. F. Kerr hardware is exhibiting in the store windows this week, while pens and a runway are being built at his home.

Aggie Teachers Join Hands In Planning Work

Plans for more careful location of new vocational agriculture departments, raising the number of evening schools to two per teacher, the adoption of a rating card for teachers, and the use of publications of the U. S. department of agriculture as teaching material, were decided on during the two-day district conference of the Panhandle-Plains teachers of vocational agriculture, closing recently.

This was the second of 14 district conferences conducted by C. L. Davis, Austin, state supervisor of vocational agriculture, assisted by J. B. Rutland, assistant supervisor; E. B. Alread and J. C. Dykes, teacher trainers, A. & M. College.

Teachers present were J. L. Lester, Pampa; R. C. Lind, Dalhart; B. H. Hopkins, Hereford; O. F. Jones, Silverton; G. P. Grout, Panhandle; L. H. Young, Farwell; D. H. Taylor, Tulla; C. E. Bairfield, Miami; H. D. Maxwell, Stratford; J. W. Hulsey, Olton; O. O. Miller, Booker; J. M. Hill, Claude; H. C. White, Wellington; T. V. Weaver, Dimmitt; J. R. Hewie, White Deer; A. A. Tampe, McLean.

"SONNY BOY" MAJOR RECOVERS FROM OPERATION

Teddy Bill (Sonny Boy) Major, little son of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Major, who live north on 25-Mile Avenue, is recovering nicely from an appendicitis operation performed in Deaf Smith county hospital Tuesday afternoon. This was the second recent attack for him and threatened to be very serious.

Mr. and Mrs. Major had gone near Claude to visit his mother, who is critically ill, when Sonny Roy was stricken. He was brought home for the operation, and at last report this morning is getting along fine.

Louie LeGrand and F. F. White returned Monday from a week's vacation trip spent in the mountains of Colorado and New Mexico.

Rev. J. L. Sharp, former Presbyterian minister here and now of Canyon, was visiting Hereford friends Monday.

C. J. Stillwell of the general office of the R. H. Kemp Lumber Company at Roswell was a business visitor with J. L. Shorman, in their Hereford yard Tuesday.

New Officials Direct C. of C. Weekly Program

Elmer Dameron, newly elected president of the chamber of commerce, directed last Monday's luncheon at the Club cafe. Many visitors were present, several of them old-timers and prime favorites with Hereford folks and it was a delight to see and hear them again.

Seth B. Holman, former owner and editor of the Brand, and now farm editor of the Amarillo News-Globe, was present with the three judges of the Master Dairyman's contest being conducted by that paper, who inspected the dairy farm of Lester Galley, northeast of town, that morning. In his modest way, Mr. Holman had little to say about himself except to express a warm greeting to old friends and tell of his appreciation on meeting with them again. He introduced his party in turn and each made a short talk.

"It's great to be out here again," said B. N. Shepherdson, dairy husbandman of A. & M. College, "where the air is stirring, folks are aggressive—there is something doing all the time, and people are going somewhere to do things instead of trying to figure out other folks' business for them. Everywhere I have gone I see the wonderful results of the work of your agricultural agent, planned farm programs, balanced to get things done with the least effort; for the greatest results. Some of the finest gardens I have seen this year are right here in your county. Through the instruction of your county agent the farmers are operating businesses instead of hopping and waiting for things to happen, they are planned in advance and accomplish results, your farmers are making homes and not just places to live."

"Due to the encouragement and instruction of your county agent, which is in evidence everywhere we go," said A. L. Darnell, secretary of advanced registry work in Texas and professor at A. & M., "greater progress has been made on the Plains than in any other part of Texas. The training your county agent has given the farmers and their boys and girls will surely produce far greater results than ever before, if continued. The dairy industry alone, in which we are especially interested on this trip, would warrant that statement, yet there are all the other phases of the county agent's work to consider and the great good he has done and can do."

"I see no indications of 'repression' here," said D. T. Simons, secretary of the American Jersey cattle club. "You folks haven't anything in the world to be afraid of. As long as you go along as you do now, nothing harmful can happen to you. Through the guidance of your county agent, agricultural work will keep on growing and growing and growing. We who visit your region at intervals can quickly see each time what has been accomplished. We hope you will keep it up. Leadership is needed in agricultural work just as well as in business."

President Dameron read a letter from Wilbur C. Hawk of Amarillo, asking Hereford to cooperate with the Tri-State Fair in attending on a specified day as Hereford Day with an appropriate program to be broadcast over WIDAG radio station, and the

The commissioners court of Deaf Smith county announced this week a cut of taxes for next year from 95-cents-on-each-$100 valuation to 80 cents, which will amount to a saving of a little over 15 per cent in county taxes. This decision was reached after an all-day session Tuesday, acting as a board of equalization.

"The move," said County Judge Earl W. Wilson, "is designed to lessen the burden for the taxpayer in keeping with the times. What adjustment the court has made in changing tax values from the renditions made by property owners, has been made with the sole object of getting property values on a uniform basis. It took the court, working at intervals, two weeks to arrive at an equitable basis of adjustment of values, and more time and pains were taken with individual taxpayers' renditions than at any year heretofore."

"If any citizens were called officially to show why their taxes should not be raised, it was because other property of apparently equivalent value was assessed and paying higher taxes than the one called, and we wanted to show the owners of all the renditions involved that we were doing our best to put all property on an even basis of tax-paying. Our purpose was not to raise valuations over the county, but to equalize them. No discrimination was practiced against anyone."

The total real estate and personal property of the county grew from $8,707,310 this last year, 1930, to about $10,000,000 more this year, 1931. This was occasioned, Judge Wilson thought, by added personal property, and the discovery of some assets that have not been taxed before, the greater part being livestock, new machinery, etc.

The amount of taxes to be collected this year were $82,719 and of that amount something over $61,000 has been collected, leaving about 24 per cent still to come. A considerable bit of this may be paid before October 15, when the final half of taxes is due since the tax split authorized by the legislature last spring.

Next year's tax paying times differ from all previous ones in Texas, for the legislature has divided the payments into two parts, one-half to be paid before November 30, and the last one-half before June 30, 1932. There will be no penalty or additional interest if payment is made at those times. Should the first one-half not be paid before December 1, the whole amount of all taxes may be

ODD FELLOWS FEEL THE LIONS CAN THROW THE LIONS

The Odd Fellows baseball team thinks they did not get the right kind of break against the Lions club several weeks ago and deserved to win by a larger score, and have challenged the Lions to trot out their best talent and see just how much the Odd Fellows can do to them. The Lions have said they would be waiting with claws sharp, manes ruffled and teeth bared, but would not be responsible for what happened to any who dared oppose them.

The game is called for 5:00 o'clock at Midget's field. There was not even a hat passed for a collection the last game, so there is no reason for Hereford folks not coming out and enjoying the fun. A report by the Lion's club this week shows that a little over $196 has been realized this summer from the benefit ball games. These proceeds have been or will be used to further the play grounds equipment and work at Lake Park.

I would like to see a bond issue voted in Deaf Smith county for some public enterprise that would provide work for our people here this winter. There are several worth while things that could be done, and it would mean a great deal to our community.

First, it would put a considerable bit of money in circulation here while providing labor for local people who are going to have to be helped in some way this winter. We all know, and those who are most affected by the situation appreciate it more than any others, that men would rather earn a living than to have it given them. Money will need to be raised to feed lots of folks right here at home this winter. If a bond issue for public improvement is voted and those folks given labor, it will save having to "dig up" to feed them, they will be better satisfied, and the community will be benefited by securing public accommodations for the least money it is possible to build them.

Deaf Smith county needs good roads—lots of them. A bond issue voted now to construct a paved highway from Hereford to the Randal county line and to the Farmer county line, a hard-surfaced highway from the south to the north side of Deaf Smith county along 25-Mile Avenue and an east-and-west hard surfaced highway going west from 25-Mile Avenue to the New Mexico state line would provide labor a plenty. The material is available right here at home, and every bit of the net bond issue would be spent locally.

Hereford is so crowded in its school rooms that something is going to have to be done about it whether we want to or not. That condition has existed for two years, and is so acute this term that it could very easily have serious results. Why not build additional school facilities right now while materials and labor are cheap? It will provide work for those who are going to need it and keep many in food and clothing that will have to be supported by charity unless work is provided for them.

A bond issue voted now will be paid off when times are on the upward swing again, and be completely out of the picture when the next cycle of hard times comes again. Bond issues voted when times are good are hard to pay off when times get bad. Isn't it logical to vote them now? The first payment will fall due one

Nineteen Years Ago In Hereford

(From Files of The Brand, September 13, 1912.)

Andy Godwin, about whose fine garden the Brand published a story three weeks ago, had brought in 19 years ago a yellow onion he had raised, that weighed an even pound.

Being the last Sunday before the opening of school, the pastors of the city, at the invitation of the school board, had conducted a joint educational service at the district court room to which the entire population of the city had been invited. Rev. S. T. Shore delivered the principal address. Rev. W. M. Baker and Rev. G. T. Bailey assisted in holding the services.

The real estate firms of the city had united in issuing a finely printed piece of advertising matter boosting Deaf Smith county air, water and sunshine. The pamphlet had such a strong appeal that the Amarillo News had reprinted it in full, and not to be outdone, Editor Elliott of the Brand, again set it up and ran it in his columns.

Editor Harris of the Friona Sentinel had been in Hereford and reported he had raised 115 tons of dry land feed, which was good enough story for reprinting.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Estes of Dimmitt had been up to Hereford shopping the first of that week.

year after the issue is voted. A considerable number of Texas counties are working on just such plans—many of them 'out into operation some time ago.

Let's get this idea straight, though: There will be plenty of workers here already to do what work will be done, and let's stop others from coming from elsewhere to crowd out our own folks who own homes here and are trying to pay for them.

I surely had a good time out at Dawn last week when I attended the school clean-up day program. It was a treat to meet still more of those folks than I had known before, and we had such a good time together I want to go back and get still better acquainted. I appreciate the invitation and still more the opportunity to be there. I was sorry I had to leave before the program was over, I didn't leave to keep from helping work, and I'll prove it the next time I go out there.

I'm having lots of trouble with folks who turn in stories for publication without using the initials, names and towns of residence of the ones they write about. That isn't news unless the information is more complete.

Social events are not complete to say that Mrs. Smith did so-and-so. Those who were present already know which Mrs. Smith it was and what she did, and there isn't a bit of information to anyone else in the story unless we know which Mrs. Smith it was. We have been compelled to leave out several good stories recently because of the lack of complete information—we don't like to do it for we need all the items for publicity we can get, but it is useless to try to tell something of

Will Bomar, a cowboy of the J-A Ranch had stepped off a train at Clarendon into a ditch full of water at the side of the track and drowned before he could be pulled out.

Miss Alta Renfro had been visiting relatives in Trenton, Missouri.

The editor said his idea of a good husband was one who stayed at home, did his own cooking and washed up the dishes while his wife was away visiting.

Profs. J. W. Reid and L. G. Allen of the Canyon Normal had come over with Bart Cousins and D. A. Parkes to show Hereford racket welders how the game was played, but had been obliged to go back home defeated. The home town victors were not named by the Brand.

In their published statements that week, the three Hereford banks had combined deposits of less than $275,000.

Miss Calla Lambert and Carl Mounts were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Lambert, on Thursday of the week before. The promising young man had been employed by the Santa Fe railroad for more than two years before. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple had left for a wedding tour through the Grand Canyon, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and other Pacific Coast points of interest.

Miss Nellie Black had gone to Miami where she would be one of the public school teachers that winter.

Eagle Henderson, who had been a Brand employee for six years, had left the paper to go home to Portales. The editor was worried what to do about it, but sent his best wishes.

Fred Oberthier had left for Amarillo with Lester Wilkinson to enter Phillips-Lowery academy.

Mrs. C. E. Tice had returned from a visit with old home folks in Iowa.

Misses Hazel Wilson, and Edna and Ethel Fuqua, graduates of the Hereford high school, had passed examinations of entrance to the Canyon Normal and were enrolled for the regular term.

Mrs. G. A. F. Parker and Mrs. A. C. Elliott had entertained a group of their friends with an afternoon "sewing party". Little Miss Ann Fitzhugh Parker had greeted each guest as she arrived, by serving fruit nectar.

The rural schools of the county had opened the Monday before. Among the names of some of the communities now extinct were Rice, Coker, Berve, Files, Corral Lake, and Day. Others that are now schools were Ward, Ford, Summerfield, Walcott, Messenger and Wyche.

DUNKLE GIVES REASONS FOR USING TRENCH SILOS

R. O. Dunkle, county agent, is advocating the use of trench silos to save the vast amount of green feeds on farms this year. One is being dug this week on the Lester Galley farm northeast of Hereford that has been laid out according to the model Mr. Dunkle thinks best. A rather lengthy article on the inside pages of the Brand this week gives dimensions and instructions for building trench silos, and Mr. Dunkle will give further help in other particulars should the printed plans not be understood. It has long been known that ensilage has about twice the food value of dry fodder fed to stock during the winter, but the expense of upkeep on a silo and the inconvenience of getting the ensilage out of the silo have worked against its general use. The trench silo answers most of the questions against feeding ensilage, according to Mr. Dunkle, who gives the following reasons for feeding crops that way:

Ten Reasons why a farmer should have a silo:
1. It is a constant source of succulent feed.
2. It stimulates milk production.
3. It helps in years of short feed crops.
4. It gives you confidence in your dairy herd.
5. It helps hold a steady milk flow when pasture is short.
6. It is a good insurance against dry years.
7. It will increase your butterfat production, also your bank account.

8. It is the nearest and most economical substitute for grass.
9. It enables the farmer to keep one third more stock on the same acres.
10. It makes one bundle of roughage worth two in the form of dry fodder.
Miss Willie Allen, former bookkeeper at Brumley Chevrolet Co., and who has recently been employed at Dimmitt in a similar capacity, returned to Brumley's again Monday morning.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

C. F. Redlich, Minneapolis, Minn., will demonstrate without charge his unequalled method in Amarillo, Friday, Sept. 25, at the Herring Hotel, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Please come early.

Mr. C. F. Redlich says:

"The 'Perfect Retention Shields' hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time.

The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncontrollable.

Stomach troubles, backache and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear.

Bring your children. According to statistics 95 per cent recover by our method.

ATTENTION: You cannot fit yourself successfully with appliances sent by mail. It requires personal attention by an expert to obtain lasting results.

HOME OFFICE: 535 Boston Block, Minneapolis, Minn. Adv.

A FAIR PRICE A FAIR PROFIT

We have been asked so many times during the past two weeks: "How can you sell food at these prices?", that we feel an explanation is due the people of Hereford and Deaf Smith county.

FIRST: We eliminate the jobber's profits by acting as our own jobber. In other words, we save a few dollars on every item in our stock by ordering it in car-load lots and half-car-load lots, receiving a discount for volume, which we pass on to you.

SECOND: The price of each item is reduced a little more because we can accept small profits on an item that sells in larger quantities. This forms a happy circle, because folks will drive from distant parts of the county to realize these savings, making it possible for us to continue offering them at the lower price.

THIRD: We believe that we help ourselves by helping the community. The new customers we bring to Hereford will see other merchandise they need, and buy it. We want to see more sales made by all the merchants of Hereford, because it helps us as well as them.

MISSIONARY TO LEAVE FOR DUTY IN CHINA SOON

W. C. Voth, who for the past several years has been farming about 20 miles northwest of Hereford was a most appreciated visitor to the Brand office Monday. Beginning with a conversation about crops and general farm tendencies, Mr. Voth said he expected to leave soon. Further inquiry brought the information that his health, for which he originally came to Deaf Smith county, was much improved, and after a month's visit with homefolks in Kansas the family expected to return to China where he had previously served for seven years as a missionary of the Menonite church, and he would again enter active work.

The group of missionaries captured by bandits near Taming-Fu in northern China on August 23, were the friends, former school mates and co-workers of Mr. Voth. No word has ever come from them since the press notice of their capture.

Going to College?

If you've been away to school before, you know this: if not, here's a tip we pass on to you from a junior who came in to renew his subscription: "Tell them that as soon as rush week is over, the novelty of the new environment has worn out, and the old grind of lectures, reports and exams begins, things may be a little monotonous. That's when the Hereford Brand, with news of home, is a big event in each week."

B. H. Hopkins' Idea Results In Vocational Agriculture Department At Tri-State Fair; $215 In Prizes

As the vocational agriculture department makes its bow this year at the Tri-State exposition, September 21 to 26, a new record for first-year competition and attention is probable.

Originated last spring as a result of a conversation at the Panhandle Plains Dairy Show at Plainview, last April, and quickly adopted by Wilbur C. Hawk, president of the fair, this department already has more than 20 vocational agriculture high school entries listed, with a prospect of a number more to be entered before the opening of the fair.

To B. H. Hopkins, Hereford, and L. J. Young, Farwell, vocational agriculture teachers in their respective school systems, goes the credit of this new department, for it was at their instigation that the fair management decided to offer space and cash prizes to the future farmers of the Panhandle for exhibits displaying the results being obtained by these departments of public school systems over the Plains country.

Superintendents Named. Hopkins and Young, since they originated the idea, have been named superintendents for this division of the fair.

Realizing the importance of this phase of training to high school students, John E. Hill, general manager of the Panhandle Lumber Company, with headquarters in Amarillo, and yards in many Panhandle and New Mexico cities, offered 14 cash prizes, ranging from $10 to $50 each, for the best 14 exhibits. The premium list in this department totals $215.

Mr. Hills company has retail stores and yards at Adrian, Amarillo, Booker, Borger, Briscoe, Canadian, Darrousett, Dimmitt, Olton, Farnsworth, Gruver, Hart, Hereford Kings Mill, Mobeetie, Morse, Muleshoe, Pampa, Panhandle, Perryton, Plainview, Seagraves, Shamrock, Slaton, Southland, Spearman, Stratford, Vega and White Deer, Texas; Carlsbad, Clovis, Lovington, Melrose and Texico, N. M.

Introducing this new department, the Tri-State fair catalog reads: "A future farmer chapter collective exhibit is a combination of an exhibit of project products and an instructional booth. The back half of the booth and the back half of the floor space shall be used in showing results of improved practices and the front half of booth shall be used in exhibiting project products."

Regulations Given. Rules and regulations for this department are:

- All material shown must be produced by bona fide members of the Future Farmer Chapter placing the exhibit.
- Exactly 20 entries of project products shall be shown in the exhibit.
- The 20 entries shall be selected from a maximum of 4 of the 10 divisions of project products named in the score card.
- The standard score card used in judging agricultural products will be used in scoring the project products.
- Each of the 20 project products shall be scored on a basis of 20 points as perfect.
- Local advisers of the Future Farmers Chapters in the section shall select one of the major Farm Problems, for example, "Feeding Livestock and Poultry," "Controlling Pests of Livestock and Poultry," etc. as the basis of the instructional booths. This gives a coordinated group of booths.
- To avoid duplication, the advisers shall then agree on the particular improved practice, related to the major farm problem, that each will show. If the advisers are unable to agree, they shall draw for the improved practice that will be featured in the instructional booth part of their exhibit.
- Project products may also be used in the instructional booth part of the exhibit. If the improved practice features is directly related to the products shown and in decorating the booth.
- Signs used in the booths may be prepared by chapter members or by commercial sign painters.
- Chapters in good standing with the state organization in 1930-31 and new chapters organized in the fall of 1931 are in good standing and are eligible to enter booths.
- Size of booth, floor space 9 feet wide, 10 feet deep. Back board 9 feet wide, 9 feet high.
- Anyone intending to enter exhibits in this section must make his entry at least two weeks prior to the fair, to P. C. Bennett, superintendent of agricultural department.

Health Hints

BY MISS NELL HALL

All the children who have had the first shots of toxoid should not forget to report for their second shots within a month after the first was given. We have plenty of material on hand for each one to have the complete immunization.

We do not have any more free toxoid or vaccine. If there are others who want either smallpox vaccination or diphtheria toxoid the serums may be obtained from the drug stores. We only have immunizing material enough to finish the ones who have already started.

The records on the immunization work during August are incomplete. We have used about 100 vaccine points, started approximately 200 diphtheria immunizations, given three typhoid and three scarlet fever immunizations. We hope the immunization mark will not stop now, but that all children in the county will be immunized against contagious diseases. Help up to keep down epidemics.

Are you having trouble with the school lunches now that school has started? Many children do not like to take time to eat or they do not like what they have in the lunches. Try to get them to eat something at noon, and take milk or a milk drink with them. Children should not be permitted to go off to school without eating breakfast. They need a good wholesome breakfast if they are to keep their bodies in good condition after using all the energy they do in school. Urge them to eat three good meals each day and to get plenty of sleep.

Use plenty of fruits with the lunch. Apples, tomatoes, bananas, pears, and the many cooked fruits and vegetables are all excellent for lunches. Insist on the children taking a lunch. Many of them do not.

FOR SALE—Section 8-3-4 in Deaf Smith county, Texas, near new railroad survey, $35.00 per acre. Address Box 102, Denton, Kansas. 2017p

Oh, Lord, I am thankful for one thing—that Hoover has been able to make the jack rabbit taste good in the summer time. I pray that thou wilt keep the rabbits replenished so that I shall not go hungry; that I may use the hides for clothing.

I am glad, O Lord, that thou hast prospered the great trucking systems and that they and the railroads have been able to keep their high freight rates and my wheat will not pay the expense of cutting it.

I pray that Thou wilt continue to uphold Wall Street, that the big business will be able to collect the year's interest on the funds of my own bank, for it is a righteous cause. Teach me to pray.

Our father who art in Washington, Hoover be thou name, his kingdom come, his will be done, even to denying drought sufferers relief, and beating the soldier boys out of their bonus. Give each our daily corn bread that Hoover tried to make us eat for two years and that Harding had us eating in three months. Lead us not into temptation to vote for a Democrat president. For Hoover has all the power, Wall Street all the money, Rockefeller the oil, the manufacturers all the protection, and I have patched overalls, forever and ever. Amen.—Exchange.

There will not be funds this year to purchase the latest books as we did last year, but we are establishing a "pay shelf" as is done in most public libraries, and if it is a success we will be able to get the most worth while new books, at least. We have put in five new books, Aldrich, A White Bird Flying (sequel to A Lantern in Her Hand); Hill, The Chance of a Lifetime; Norris, Belle Meere; Reynolds, Brothers in the West; Seltzer, Son of Arizona. If these are read, as the present indications are that they will be, we will order others as rapidly as these are paid for. The charge is three cents a day, 15 cents a week, which is cheaper than buying for those who wish to read the latest books, than buying them, as most of them are $2 and $2.50 books. When they are paid for they will go on the free shelves. This is merely a trial order and if the folks do not want them we will discontinue the pay shelf.

Friends of the library have been very generous at all times since the library started, but it seems they are being especially thoughtful now when we face a greater demand with less funds than before. Many are bringing books that have been read by the family and friends and which they do not care to keep, thus giving others the chance to enjoy them. We surely appreciate this and believe those who are thus served will also greatly appreciate these gifts.

REPORT OF COMMUNITY MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

The Community Bible class met last Sunday at 9:30 with 21 present. The subject for the morning's lesson was selected by Steve Sanders, who asked the leader to discuss, "Ye must be born again."—John 3:3.

The fellow whose temperature did not rise higher with enthusiasm during this discussion is too hard to be born again. One man from 30 miles out said to count on him being present again next Sunday. Another has said this week that he has six new ones promised to come with him next Sunday.

At that time we have arranged for a union meeting of all men's classes of the various Sunday schools to meet at the Star theatre at 9:30. Col. Guy W. Green has promised to lead the class.

FARMERS' DAILY PRAYER; MODEL USED IN 1931.

Lord, I am only a farmer. Thou knowest that when wheat was $2 per bushel and I had flour and sugar in the house and cakes and pies and everything, I voted for Hoover. Thou knowest that I wore a Hoover badge and was faithful in all things to the G. O. P. Even so! Thou knowest that I believed in the dawn of a new day.

That wool would advance in price—that I would get $3 for wheat, and 20c for pork.

Lord, two years have passed, never to return. Farm is too poor to buy necessities and I still wear the Hoover badge, on the seat of my overalls.

The tables were placed upon the floor and each player readily enjoyed seeing others sit in Japanese fashion upon pillows instead of chairs.

R. O. Dunkle Gives Deaf Smith County Farmers Instructions On Building Trench Silos for Winter

Only a few trench silos have been used in Texas up to this time. They have some advantages which will tend to increase their use, and no disadvantages that will bar their use in most sections of the state. Some of the advantages of a trench silo are: Low cost of construction; they may be constructed in a short time, it is convenient to place and pack, they are less expensive to fill, wind-proof, fire-proof and frost proof, it is easy to remove silage, and easy to apply water to silage. Some disadvantages: More silage is wasted from spoilage, it is more expensive to cover silage, walls must be smoothed each year unless lined, they cannot be used where the water table is high, laborers are exposed to weather in removing silage, they are unsightly in the farmstead, and trouble may be encountered from rain water in the empty portion of the trench unless drainage is provided or roof built over trench. Advantages outweigh disadvantages when one wishes to construct a cheap silo quickly and will take the necessary precautions in filling and covering. Construction. To dig a trench silo economically a Fresno and plow should be used. The plow to loosen dirt and Fresno to remove it. Picks, spades, shovels must be used to cut the walls smooth. The ends of the trench should be sloped so that a team may be driven down them. As the work proceeds one end of the trench may be made as steep as practicable to drive a team down, while the other end is not made so steep. Dirt is pulled out the end that is not steep. This end should be placed so that it will be most convenient to the barn or feed troughs, so that the silage may be taken out at the end that is not steep. If a low bluff is convenient, the end of the trench where the dirt is drawn out may be made at the brow of the bluff. In this way much of the dirt may be removed without pulling it up grade. Arrangements should be made to remove the silage without pulling it up grade, if the trench is in a hillside. Another advantage of having the trench run back into a hill side is the ease with which any rainfall that comes while the silage is being used may be drained out. Where this natural drainage of the trench cannot be had farmers have in some instances found it necessary to pump the water out of the trench so they could get at the silage to feed it.

Size of Trench Silo. Trenches are usually dug from 7 to 10 feet deep. In most soils the sides should be sloped so that the top of the trench will be about 4 feet wider than the bottom, giving a wall slope of about 1 foot to each 4 feet of depth. Experience indicates that the trench should not be made too wide. A width of 7 or 8 feet at the bottom is suggested. This will be increased slightly from year to year as the walls are smoothed down, if the trench is not walled. The length may be whatever is necessary to get the required capacity. In figuring the capacity of a trench, experience shows that a cubic foot of silage weighs about 20 pounds as it is packed in a trench.

It is a common practice to put sideboards around the trench, made of logs, boards or woven wire. These are made from 1 to 3 feet high. When the higher fence mentioned is used, straw or fodder is used as a top covering rather than dirt. If the covering is to be of dirt, then the side boards should not be so high as to interfere with pulling a Fresno of dirt over the silage. Dirt is banked on the outside of any side boards used. Filling the Trench. The silage is sometimes cut up with an ensilage cutter and is some times put in the silo without cutting. The advantage of putting in the feed without cutting is the saving of the cost of cutting. It takes a little more labor to get uncut silage out of the silo. There is little difference in the amount of spoilage with cut and uncut silage, according to reports. There will likely be some waste by the livestock in feeding uncut silage. If feed is not cut up the bands should be cut so stalks will pack well. Since there will likely be some spoilage at the walls, some suggest that butts be placed against walls. This will give a loss of the poorest portions only. Other farmers say that if stalks are laid lengthwise there will be less spoilage at the walls. Silage may be packed as it is put in by driving horses or cattle about over it, running a tractor or car over it, or some other method. It should at least have some packing or scattering by hand, especially at walls. An abundance of water should be used in filling a trench silo. Plenty of water should be put on silage next to wall, especially if dirt is dry. Each layer should be wetted down. More water must be used if feed is dry or partly dry than if dry and juicy. Covering Silage. Silage should be covered with straw wetted down or with a layer of straw with dirt over it. If plenty of straw or waste forage or weeds are available the covering may be made of such material. If no other material is available the covering may be made of unchopped feed with grain removed. Excellent results have been obtained by packing a layer of grain sorghum stalks that have had heads removed, to a depth of about two feet over silage, using no dirt at all. When dirt is used it is well to put a thin layer of straw or other cheap forage over the silage first, to keep dirt out. Dirt should be at least 5 or 6 inches thick and may be put on with Fresno and team. This covering should be wetted as soon as put on and kept wet several days. Heat from silage may dry out a dirt covering and unless it is kept wet is likely to crack and permit spoilage. The greatest losses from spoilage generally occur at the walls near the ground surface. This loss may be largely prevented by using plenty of covering, carefully packed along sides of trench. Small levees and ditches should be constructed, if necessary, around the trench silo after it is filled so that water from rainfall cannot flow into the trench. Removing Silage. To feed out the silage, trench should be opened at one end by scraping off a strip of the covering to go down. Care should be taken to keep the dirt out of the silage to be fed as an excess of dirt will injure livestock. If the feed was not cut up when put in, a hay knife or axe may be used in removing it. No more of the silage should be uncovered at a time than is necessary to get out what is being fed. Walls on Sides of Trench. If a trench silo is to be used year after year it will pay to wall sides, which will serve two purposes, loss from spoilage at walls, and caving of dirt will be prevented. An economical concrete wall is suggested herewith. To avoid expense of forms, give sides slope and plaster concrete on with a trowel. Trench sides are first covered with two layers of wire hog fencing, one way run one way, the other layer the other way. A layer of concrete 3 or 4 inches thick is then applied, starting from bottom. Pkice with shovel, work smooth with trowel. Wire is pulled out from dirt as concrete is spilled from shovel and worked with trowel. Plaster strip a foot high along bottom, then another strip above in same manner. Make concrete roll at top extending back

Teachers Pass Resolutions At Canyon Meeting

Teachers of Deaf Smith county attended the Panhandle-Plains institute in Canyon last week. The institute was attended by about 1000 teachers from 14 Panhandle counties, and was directed by Prof. F. E. Savage of the faculty of W. T. S. T. C.

Those who conducted sessions and addressed the general assembly meetings were Josh Lee, University of Oklahoma; Dr. J. L. Henderson, Mrs. Cora M. Martin, University of Texas; Mrs. J. E. Griggs, Amarillo; Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner, Claude; Dr. A. L. Grubb, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.; J. A. Hill, president W. T. S. T. C., and Miss Gene Alford, primary supervisor of Dallas public schools.

The final act of the institute was adoption of the report of the resolutions committee headed by Supt. G. C. Boswell, McLean. Others on the committee were Supts. W. H. Younger, Tulla; M. V. Williams, Miami, and R. B. Fisher, Pampa.

The resolutions which are of interest to all citizens as well as to the teachers, follow: That we endorse the constitution of the Consolidated Institute and that we believe this institute to be the best ever held at W. T. S. T. C.

That we approve the movement to make Panhandle teachers membership in the Texas State Teachers Association 100 per cent for the coming year.

That we endorse the branch of T. S. T. A., known as the Northwest Texas Teachers Association, which is to meet in Pampa in the spring.

That we, as a body of Panhandle teachers, offer our services to Superintendent McIntosh in his efforts to make the S. T. A. meeting in Amarillo the best that has ever been held in Texas.

That we express our appreciation to Mr. F. E. Savage, conductor, and Mr. W. E. Lockhart, secretary and treasurer, and the executive committee for their efficient management of this institute, and for the selection of the most competent talent for instructors and lecturers; to the W. T. S. T. C. and President Hill, the Canyon chamber of commerce and Panhandle-Plains Historical Society for courtesies shown us during our stay; to Messrs. Henderson, Crabb and Lee, and Mrs. Cora M. Martin and Miss Gene Alford for their excellent services as instructors and lecturers.

That we are in need for the coming two years of a man of outstanding educational qualifications to head our State Teachers Association. That Dr. J. A. Hill, due to his long and excellent service in the field of education, to his outstanding ability as a writer and educator is the man Texas needs most for the place, and that we endorse wholeheartedly Dr. Hill's candidacy for the presidency of the State Teachers Association.

That we endorse a change of control in issuing teachers certificates from the legislature to the state board of education, and urge that certification standards be raised in an effort to protect the legitimate teacher.

That we endorse a change in the basis of allotting state moneys to the schools from the present system to the more progressive allotment-based on a per capita average daily attendance teacher basis.

That we go on record as endorsing the schools from the present system following the program laid out by the U. S. Civil Service. That we realize the burden on the public in the present economic distress, and in view of the unprecedented crisis that confronts our state and nation, we unanimously and wholeheartedly rededicate ourselves to the welfare of the children and schools of Northwest Texas, and pledge the public the best service which we are capable of rendering.

That copies of these resolutions be offered the papers for publication.

SINGER AND WIFE ASSIST IN PRESBYTERIAN MEETING

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Thomas of Huntsville are in Herford this week and next assisting with the music of the Presbyterian revival. Mr. Thomas is an experienced soloist and choir leader, and Mrs. Thomas is a pianist of rare ability. Mr. Thomas, who has a beautiful lyric tenor voice, gives a foot to strengthen wall and prevent water from running in behind wall. Mix Portland cement one part, two parts sand, four parts gravel. Concrete should be stiff as can be worked easily. Pebbles in gravel should be of various sizes but none of them more than 1 1/2 inches in diameter. The usual method of curing concrete by keeping damp a day or two should be used.

solo each evening, and beginning today, also each morning at the 9:00 o'clock services. Mrs. Thomas has organized a junior choir of the boys and girls as well as a senior choir of the older singers. All children between 10 and 14 years old are invited to join the junior choir which meets for rehearsal each evening at 7:00 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas have been engaged in evangelistic musical work for the past ten years, during which time they have worked in 23 different states. He has also been instructor of music in Sam Houston State Teachers College at Huntsville.

Dawn Farmer Practices Year-Around Program

L. A. Smith, dairy farmer living two miles west of Dawn, attended the master dairy contest judging at Lester Galley's Monday morning and was busy as anyone else asking questions and getting new ideas.

Among other things Mr. Smith gave some original thoughts on dairying problems as he solves them in his own way, and they were interesting in the extreme. It goes to show that more ways than one can be used to meet a desired end, if thought and energy are put to work to bring it about.

Mr. Smith works his dairying along with other farm problems and tries to make each take its respective place, profitably, in the year-around program he practices. Milk and cream are worth more in winter than in spring and summer, according to Mr. Smith, and all dairymen will agree with him. Therefore, he plans for his cows to freshen during the fall so the heaviest milk production will be at the highest price period of the year. Winter wheat is used for pasture and he thus has green feed for his cows through the winter.

When the busiest farm season of the year, wheat harvest, comes, the price of milk and cream is at its lowest, the cows have reached their lowest production of the year and need a rest period before freshening again. Accordingly Mr. Smith turns most of them dry. After wheat harvest and wheat sowing is over the cows are ready to repeat the year's program.

Mr. Smith has for several years been a member of the cow testing association and says it is one of the most helpful things a dairyman can use. His herd during the winter of 1929-30 averaged a production of 410 pounds of butterfat per cow, five of them making better than 500 pounds each.

SOME MISSIONARY EXPERIENCES

Acts 14:8-23.

Acts 14:8. And at Lystra there sat a certain man, impotent in his feet, a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked.

9. The same heard Paul speaking: who, fastening his eyes upon him, and seeing that he had faith to be made whole.

10. Said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet. And he leaped up and walked.

11. And when the multitude saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voices, saying in the speech of Lystronia. The gods are come down to us in the likeness of man.

12. And they called Barnabas, Jupiter; and Paul, Mercury, because he was the chief speaker.

13. And the priest of Jupiter whose temple was before the city, brought oxen and garlands unto the gates, and would have done sacrifice with the multitudes.

14. But when the apostles, Barnabas and Paul, heard of it, they rent their garments, and sprang forth among the multitude, crying out

15. And saying, Sirs, why do ye these things? We also are men of like passions with you, and bring you good tidings, that ye should turn from these vain things unto a living God, who made the heaven and the earth and the sea, and all that in them is:

16. Who in the generations gone by suffered all the nations to walk in their own ways.

17. And yet he left not himself without witness, in that he did good and gave you from heaven rains and fruitful seasons, filling your hearts with food and gladness.

18. And with these sayings scarce restrained they the multitudes from doing sacrifice unto them.

19. But there came Jews thither from Antioch and Iconium; and having persuaded the multitudes, they stoned Paul, and dragged him out of the city, supposing that he was dead.

20. But as the disciples stood round about him, he rose up, and entered into the city; and on the morrow he went forth with Barnabas to Derbe.

21. And when they had preached the gospel to that city, and had made many disciples, they returned to Lystra, and to Iconium, and to Antioch.

22. Confirming the souls of the disciples, exhorting them to continue in the faith, and that thru many tribulations we must enter into the kingdom of God.

23. And when they had appointed for them elders in every church and had prayed with fasting, they commended them to the Lord, on whom they had believed.

Golden Text: Blessed are they that have been persecuted for righteousness' sake; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.—Matt 5:10.

Time: A. D. 48 and 49.
Place: Iconium, Lystra and Derbe, going eastward. The return thru the same cities, then to Antioch of Pisidia, south to Pamphylia, and back by sea to Antioch of Syria.

Introduction.

That the gods visit the earth in human form is one of the oldest and commonest beliefs of the ethnic religions. Greek poetry and legend are full of it. Homer's Iliad, for example. Inscriptions recently discovered in the vicinity of Lystra show that Zeus (Jupiter) and Hermes (Mercury) were preeminent gods of the place. A myth also was current that these two divinities had once visited the Lystrians in disguise. Such a miracle and such speech must surely be of gods! And they prepare to worship Paul and Barnabas.

That they identified the latter with Jupiter and Paul with Mercury interests us exceedingly, for it gives us a hint as to the personal appearance of the two missionaries. We visualize Barnabas therefore, as a large, handsome, benign, quiet man—like the king of the gods; Paul as small, slight, nervous, talkative—like Mercury, the errand boy and spokesman of the Greco-Roman pantheon. "But when the apostles head of it," of these preparations to do them divine honors, they naturally were horrified.

Paul and Barnabas in Iconium.

"The authentic records give us few clear facts concerning the sojourn of Paul and Barnabas at Iconium. They remained here for some time. Their testimony was confirmed by miracles and signs. They converted numerous Jews and Greeks. But the Jews who had remained unbelievers incited the mass of the pagans against the 'brethren'. The people were divided into two factions, the one siding with the Jews, the other supporting the new church. A tumult broke out; armed with clubs and stones, the crowd marched to the house where the apostles were teaching. They were in danger of being flogged and stoned to death, but were able to escape. They took refuge five leagues to the southeast, in the little town of Lystra in Lycaonia. Here they were sure of finding few Jews and a semi-barbarous country, which they would open to the gospel."—Emile Bautmann.

Paul's Supposed Personal Appearance.

"And early apocryphal book, The Acts of Paul and Thekla, tells the story of a young woman who was converted by Paul in Iconium. Its historical value is slight, but it illustrates the way in which Christianity incurred hatred through the inevitable rupture of family ties. Also, it gives the earliest and most trustworthy description of Paul's person as follows: 'Small in size, bald-headed, bow-legged, strongly built, with eyebrows meeting, full of grace, sometimes seeming, full of grace, sometimes seeming the countenance of an angel.'—Prof. William Baneroff Hill.

Lystra—Ancient and Modern.

"The thousands in the populous Lystra of old have dwindled to a bare 300, counting men, women and little children. Of the temples and monuments and theatres of old scarcely a trace can be seen. Every house in modern Lystra, with the exception of the mosque, which is a poor little affair without even a minaret, is a one-story hovel of mud or stone, in which an American would scarcely think it fit to stable his horses. . . All that one sees today of the site of ancient Lystra is a hillside covered with fragments of broken marble and a few larger stones, scarcely one of them in the position where it was originally placed, for Lystra, like most of these ancient cities, has served as a quarry for the neighboring villages.

An Eager Listener Blessed.

"The same heard Paul speaking." The Greek verb implies by its tense that the lame man heard Paul preach repeatedly. "Who fastening his eyes upon him." "The verb is common with St. Luke, and is used several times of St. Paul, as in Acts 13:9, where he fixes his gaze on Elymas, and Acts 23:1 where he attentively beholds the council.

"And seeing that he had faith to be made whole." He would judge from the cripple's eager attention and the lighting up of his face when Paul spoke of the Saviour and his healing of the sick. "Said with a loud voice." Paul shouted the command, both to arouse the cripple to the fullest exertion of his faith, and to draw to the miracle the attention of all in the crowd. "Stand upright on thy feet." Note the nervous energy of the command: "Stand up on your feet! Stand straight!" "And he leaped up and walked." Compare the cripple whom Peter healed at the Beautiful Gate of the temple: "Leaping up, he stood, and began to walk."—Acts 3:8.

Gods in Human Form.

"The gods are come down to us in the likeness of men." The appearance of gods in human form was not altogether unexpected in heathen antiquity. Twice had Zeus (Jupiter) and Hermes (Mercury) been supposed to visit in Lycaonia. The healing of the lame man convinced the people of Lystra that these gods had again vouchsafed to come among them."—Prof. F. J. Foakes-Jackson.

"And they called Barnabas, Jupiter; and Paul, Mercury, because he was the chief speaker." Barnabas was probably taller than Paul and more majestic, conforming to their idea of the "father of the gods".

Mercury, the herald of the gods, was the god of oratory and also the god of medicine. Paul's evident oratorical power and the cure of the cripple which he "as just accomplished likened him to Mercury on two counts.

God in Nature.

"And yet he left not himself without witness." God would not have been a loving Father if he had not given to all men, Jews and Gentiles alike, as much knowledge of God and of God's ways as each was prepared to receive. "In that he did good." The natural world is full of proof of God's goodness. "And he gave you from heaven rains and fruitful seasons, filling your hearts with food and gladness." Jupiter Pluvius was the heathen god of rain; Paul pointed them to the true Jupiter Pluvius. Paul's plea to this heathen audience is much like his reasoning before a very different heathen assembly, that on Mar's Hill in Athens: compare Acts 17:23-31.

"The world is full of God. He is immanent in the universe. Lift up your eyes, stretch out your hands. He is near you, on every side of you. He is here as really and truly as the light, the gravity, the electricity which fill this room though you cannot see them."—Rev. Henry van Dyke, D. D.

The Stoning of Paul.

The mode of attempted execution was Jewish, and shows that those who instigated the attack led also in the final outrage. Barnabas may have been absent from the city or in another part of it, or he may not have been so aggressive as Paul and so have escaped the enmity of the Jews. "And dragged him out of the city." If Lystra had been a Jewish city, it would have been illegal to stone any one inside the city limits. How all this must have recalled to Paul the tragedy of Stephen (see Acts 7:57-58, something of the evil he had done before he became a Christian. "Supposing that he was dead." The apostle was left by the very men who worshipped him but yesterday as a god—left to die as a villain outside the city gates."—C. H. Spurgeon.

The Return Journey.

"They returned to Lystra, and to Iconium, and to Antioch." They returned over their course, going westward, and taking the cities in reverse order. On the return journey the missionaries were able to spend some time preaching in Perga, where they do not seem to have labored on their first visit. From Perga they went to Attalia, a seaport of Pamphylia, where they found a ship for Antioch, from which they had set out on this glorious pioneer missionary tour. There they called the church together and made their report. They had much to relate. Cyprus had been evangelized and Christianity had been planted in the distant inland regions of Asia Minor. Churches of great promise had been soundly established. Many converts among the Jews had been made, and especially the Gentiles had proved warmly receptive of the gospel. They had endured many hardships, but we may be sure that there were lightly touched upon, if they were mentioned at all. This first missionary report was one long paean of praise to God and to his Son, Jesus Christ.

YOUR GAS RANGE
May Need Attention!

Many a housewife gives little attention to the gas burners of her cook stove. Many never see the gas meter at all. Few realize how much one affects the other.

Neglected, dirty and poorly adjusted burners always cause inefficient combustion and extravagant use of gas. Inefficient combustion means that a large percentage of heat value of the gas burned is LOST COMPLETELY.

It is indicated by the yellow flame that is usually long and flickering, and slow in bringing the kettle to the boiling point. It also means that, although the cook stove is not doing its part satisfactorily, the meter is registering every foot of wasted gas.

Housewives are not fair either to themselves or the gas company in not becoming fully acquainted with the mechanism of their stoves.

Pepper Hash.
Twelve large sweet green peppers, 12 large sweet red peppers, 12 large onions, 2 or 3 hot peppers (red) 16 cups sugar, 16 pints vinegar, 2t salt. Chop fine the peppers and onions separately, put in separate vessels, cover with boiling water, let stand 20 minutes. Add onions to peppers, then add vinegar, sugar and salt. Cook until tender and seal while hot.

Chili Sauce.
Twelve medium ripe tomatoes, 1 large pepper, sliced, 1 large onion, sliced, 2 cups vinegar, 1-3 cup sugar, 1T salt, 2t cloves, 2t cinnamon, 2t allspice, 2t grated nutmeg. Peel tomatoes and slice. Put in a preserving kettle with remaining ingredients; heat gradually to boiling point and cook slowly until well done and thick. Fill sterilized jars and seal.

Dixie Relish.
One quart chopped onion, 1 pint chopped white onion, 1 pint chopped sweet red pepper, 1 pint chopped green pepper, 3T salt, 4T mustard seed, 2T crushed celery seed, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 quart cider vinegar.

Soak peppers in brine 1c salt to 1 gal water for 24 hours, freshen in clear, cold water for one or two hours; drain well, remove all seeds and coarse white sections, chop separately and measure chopped cabbage, peppers and onions before mixing. Add spices, sugar and vinegar. Let stand over night covered in a crock or enameled vessel. Pack into small hot jars that have been sterilized. When ready to pack, drain vinegar off the relish in order that the jars may be well packed. Pack relish in jars, pressing it carefully, then pour over it the vinegar which was drained off. Paddle the jar thoroughly to get every bubble out and allow the vinegar to displace all air space. Garnish each jar with two slender strips of red pepper. Place these strips vertically on seams in jar on opposite sides, seal and process in a water bath for 15 minutes at 180 degrees (simmering).

Kraut.
Kraut making is practical. Canned kraut if properly made and kept in a cool place will keep thru the winter. Select only mature, sound heads of cabbage. Remove outside leaves and hard core. Shred the rest finely. The use of 2 1/2 lbs salt to each 100 pounds shredded cabbage or 2 ounces to each 5 lbs will give a good flavor to the resulting kraut.

Make kraut in stone jar or wooden keg. Put in layer of cabbage, then sprinkle with salt and tamp firmly. Add layer by layer until jar is filled. Let stand a few hours. The tamping of the cabbage plus the action of the salt will form enough brine to cover the cabbage. Weight down cabbage to keep in under brine.

Kraut-making organisms work at temperatures ranging from 65 to 85 degrees. If kept near the higher temperature the kraut will make rapidly, but it is flabby and sometimes slimy and lacks flavor. If made at a temperature of 60 to 70 degrees the kraut is crisp, firm and of good flavor. Occasionally skim off scum which forms on top of brine while kraut is making. Too little salt results in slimy kraut; too much salt makes a pinkish kraut. As soon as fermentation has progressed far enough the kraut may be canned.

Do not attempt to can kraut unless it is crisp and firm and well matured, but not too acid. Pack in plain cans. Do not pack too tight. See that the kraut is not matted so that heat will penetrate easily. Fill cans full with the kraut brine or with a weak brine made by adding 2T salt to 1 quart water. Seal and process No. 2 cans or pint jars 10 minutes at 5 lbs pressure; No. 3 cans or quart jars 20 minutes at 5 lbs.

Many people like to make the kraut in the jars and avoid the fermentation process and later packing the jars. Pack cabbage in sterilized jars, add 1t salt to the quart and cover with boiling water. Seal tight and set away to cure. This method of kraut making does not require any processing.

Galley Dairy Farm

the trench while the feed is being put into it.

Mr. Galley has run his dairy stock on sudan pasture this summer, it being cross fenced so each half could be pastured on alternate weeks. A field of soy beans is growing nicely to make hay for winter roughness. The farm usually has about 16 head of cows milking.

One of the finest gardens, truck patches and orchards imaginable is watered from Mr. Galley's well. A continuous stream of water gushes up from a pipe like a fountain, but a check valve keeps a part of the water running into the dirt tank for irrigation, storage, and still another part goes to flow through the concrete stock tank. Every kind of vegetable for table use or canning was growing in the garden. The editor found the grape vines and sampled their fruit, also.

A concrete cellar with a flat top of reinforced concrete to be used this fall as the floor of a garage, was getting filled with canned vegetables in preparation for cold weather. This cellar was the newest piece of work on the farm, having been put recently completed. It was large, clean and neat as a new pin, with broad steps leading down to the shelves of fruit and vegetables below.

The arrival of the judges took the party back over the most attractive features of the farm, and truly they were more appreciated the second visit than the first.

The judging party was led by Seth B. Holman, former Brand owner and editor, and now farm editor of the Amarillo News-Globe, which is conducting the master dairymen's contest for the third consecutive year. Those accompanying Mr. Holman and who judged the Galley farm as the 'Deaf Smith county entry in the contest were B. M. Shepherdson, dairy husbandman of A. & M. College; D. T. Simons, secretary of the American Jersey cattle club, and A. L. Darnell, secretary of advanced register work in Texas and also of A. & M. These men took notes on the equipment and processes used by Mr. Galley in dairying as well as the arrangement, cleanliness, uses of by-products, etc. In passing, it occurs to the writer that he forgot to a barrel of water within the dirt tank through which fresh water from the well was continuously flowing and within which Mr. Galley kept his can of cream.

The fresh water keeps the cream sweet for several days and the Farmers Creamery Association of Hereford pays him three cents a pound extra for butterfat because of this one feature. Many other Deaf Smith county dairymen avail themselves of this saving, also, by keeping their cream sweet until delivery, or delivering often enough to get the sweet cream premium.

The judges left Mr. Galley's farm about 11 o'clock on their way to Amherst for further judging and from there they went to Plainview. Other judging will be done at Lockney, Tulla, Canyon and several counties on the North Plains. Winners in the contest will be announced at the Globe-News dairymen's banquet during the Tri-State fair. Two farmers in the Panhandle will receive gold medals and eight others will receive silver ones. S. O. Wilson and Fred Pittner, local dairymen, have received medals in previous years.

membership voted to approve the idea.

Guy W. Green, layman evangelist of the Presbyterian church, was the first speaker of the day, and choosing as a subject, "Get on the Other Side of the Counter." Mr. Green delighted those present in his charming way with a 20-minute talk. "Successful folks who progress in their chosen fields," said Mr. Green, "always try to see both sides of any question. The best parents look at children's problems as children see them, as well as adults. Teachers who get results see how their pupils look at their work, as well as taking their own attitude. Writers who try to understand their stories as their readers will see them, write successful stories. The business man who tries to understand what his customer wants is the business man who will enjoy that customer's patronage. All through life, everywhere, those who succeed 'get on the other side of the counter.'" paid before February 1 without any penalty or interest, as has been the Texas custom for many years, but all taxes will become delinquent after February 1 if one-half has not been paid before November 30, or all taxes before February 1. If one-half was paid before December 1, however, the taxpayer has until June 30 of next year to pay the last one-half, without penalty or interest.

Lower Taxes

The above tax paying rules do not apply to poll taxes, they are not divided, but must be paid before February 1, as heretofore, if the person expects to vote in elections next year.

"The commissioners court feels keenly," said Judge Wilson, "its responsibility to the county for the safe, sound administration of all the people's affairs, and are duty-bound to serve everybody in all the phases of county business."

"The court wishes at all times to invite citizens to attend its meetings and ask for information relative to county affairs, or inquire of any individual member of the court or other Deaf Smith officials, and county records will be shown in explanation of any of the court's actions or the county's finances."

"All decisions of the court have been made after sincere and deliberate consideration of all questions for or against each proposition, looking ahead as well as caring for immediate needs."

"The county's finances are only in fair condition, and with no knowledge of future tendencies the court feels it should always act for the best interests of all concerned, and should consider all phases of present and future needs as they appear before the court."

"We, as representatives of the people, have sincerely tried to take a long and broad view of all finances and questions coming up. We ask all citizens to cooperate with the court, in its program of economizing, and if possible to take advantage of the new tax law and pay the first half of their taxes before December 1, so the work of the county can the better be carried on. The court hopes that better times are ahead, but feels that all will be better off for a program of economy now. We promise to do all in our power to cut unnecessary expenses and economize to the limit."

HAND BAGS TAKEN FROM W. C. RUSSELL FARM HOME

Two hand-bags were taken from the farm home of W. C. Russell, ten miles north of Hereford on Progressive Avenue, a week ago last Sunday, and a drum containing 15 gallons of gasoline was taken from a truck parked in the yard. One of the bags, from which $1.60 in cash and a check of small denomination were taken, was found two miles west of the Russell home by Mrs. C. L. Conklyn. Mr. Russell believes the house was entered between 10:00 o'clock in the morning, when the family went away, and 12:00 o'clock noon, when one of the bags was found.
