

Branding Time

by Speedy Nieman

"I KNOW you're going to like Hereford!"

As the new publisher of The Brand, we have had many fine first impressions of the city, and one of the most noticeable has been the statement above. Not, "I think you will like Hereford", but the positive statement, "I know".

As one means of getting acquainted, this is the first in what we hope to be a long series of columns. Through this column we will attempt to present some constructive thoughts, some sidelights of the news, and to recognize people who are helping make Hereford a better place to live, work and play. Some nonsense may appear from time to time, so if you don't find a constructive thought in this column, please read the ads carefully!

By way of introduction, we should report to you that we are not planning to completely remodel this publication. The Brand—under the guiding hands of Jimmy Gillentine and Melvin Young—has made big strides and posted an enviable record among the newspapers in this state. The Brand has consistently been an award-winning newspaper and recognized as one of the best semi-weekly publications in the state.

Each man has his own ideas, however, and we step into this job with the hope of preserving the best of Gillentine and Young touch while adding other good points. The transition of management has been smooth, thanks to the help and cooperation of these fine gentlemen.

Our first week in Hereford has been eventful and hectic. The task of moving is never pleasant, but our welcome to the city has offset the difficulties. We've met a host of citizens at several club meetings, and at a C of C coffee for this writer—now comes the test of trying to remember names and faces.

We've already discovered some things about the friendly people of Hereford—including the fact that Mrs. Bud [name obscured] whips up a delicious pound cake! In the middle of moving into our house last week, she appeared with a cake and sandwiches.

What with attending the big Chamber banquet this week, the Board of Realtors installation dinner, and eating out with other friends, my wife has enjoyed the vacation from the kitchen range.

We are looking forward to becoming involved in community life and in striving for one of the principal concepts of newspaper publishing—to serve the community and its individuals at all times. We believe that a newspaper should inform, educate, interpret, serve, stimulate thinking, and entertain. And, it should strive for these goals with objective reporting.

We believe that newspapers should strive to present the truth, and this includes the good and the bad. Many newspapers are criticized for "taking sides" on controversial subjects—or for not taking sides, or for being neutral. Our goal will be to try to present both sides of controversial matters, saving opinion. See BRANDING Page Two

Vegetables confab scheduled Feb. 3

The annual West Texas Vegetable Conference for vegetable shippers, processors and producers will be held Thursday, Feb. 3 at the Bull Barn in Hereford.

Sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the West Texas Vegetable Council and the Panhandle Economic Program, the all-day conference will be directed at subjects vital to the continued success of the vegetable industry.

The theme of the conference centers on processing crops and attention will be focused on cultural and management decisions which producers must consider in planning successful ventures.

The keynote speaker is Dr. William Sistrunk from the horticultural food science department at the University of Arkansas. Dr. Sistrunk is a leading scientist in the development techniques to improve the food value and flavor of processed vegeta-

BY MARSHALL DAY
News Editor

Two of the three men charged in the Dec. 30, 1970 grain theft from Farmers Corner elevator were found guilty and given probation terms Thursday by a jury of 10 men and two women.

Donald Gene Mixon, 40, and Ronald Stewart, 31, both of Littlefield, were convicted of stealing more than 100,000 pounds of grain from the elevator belonging to Hereford Grain Corporation. Mixon received 10 years probation and Stewart received four years probation.

The probation terms were the second such terms handed down by a jury last week. The other case involved a theft by bailee charge against Charles Allen, former vice president of a local bank.

Allen was convicted of converting another party's money to his private use and was given five years probation.

One of the state's chief witnesses in the grain theft case was Wayne Richard Vaughn, 22, who was an accomplice in the theft. Vaughn was granted immunity from prosecution by the state.

Vaughn told the court Mixon had approached him and Stewart in Littlefield one day and asked if they wanted to make some more money. Vaughn said Mixon told them he wanted them to bring two large grain trucks to Hereford and to meet him at a local all-night truck stop. "We got to the truck stop approximately midnight," Vaughn said, "and Mixon was there. He told us to go out and get in the trucks and go to sleep until they woke us up."

Vaughn said he and Stewart returned to their trucks and went to sleep and about 2:30 a. m. Mixon and Robert Hughes came and got them up.

Hughes, also indicted in the grain theft case, still is at large and officers are continuing the search for him.

Vaughn said all four men drove about seven or eight miles north of Hereford on US 385 where they stopped.

"Mixon told me to pull over and shut the lights out and stay there until he came back," Vaughn said. He said all three of the other men left in one truck and came back in about 20 minutes with a load of grain.

He said Mixon told him to get out of his truck and help Stewart tarp the other truck while he and Hughes left again in the second truck.

They returned a short time later, Vaughn said, with the second truck also loaded with grain.

According to Vaughn, a leak developed in the back of Stewart's truck and about 800 pounds of the grain leaked out onto the side of the road. He said Hughes and Mixon left and returned a short time later with shovels and brooms and loaded the spilled grain into the back of Mixon's pickup truck.

It was while they were loading the spilled grain that a passing motorist saw them and came on into Hereford and notified the police department. Officers started out to check the report out and met the two trucks coming into town.

The officers pulled the trucks over to the side of the road and, after questioning the drivers and asking them to tarp the second truck, let them continue.

The actual theft of the grain was not noticed until near the end of January when the grain bins at Farmers Corner were emptied and an estimated 180,000 pounds was discovered missing.

It was between the time of Dec. 30 and when the bins were emptied that another attempt with made to take some more grain from the same location.

On Tuesday, Jan. 12, 1971, someone apparently attempted to steal another truck load of grain from the elevator. But, See 2 GUILTY Page Two

Rev. Wingert-Outstanding Citizen

Record crowd attends annual Chamber of Commerce banquet

The Rev. Russell Wingert gave the invocation at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday night and returned to his seat at the head table.

He sat silently through the usual pre-speaker activities of the introduction of guests and presentation of awards.

Then Lynton Allred, president of the Hereford Lions Club, came to the microphone to make the "Outstanding Citizen of the Year" presentation. As Allred began the unraveling of facts about the then-unknown recipient, the Rev. Wingert remained silent and calm, never once stirring.

As the details of the recipient's life unfolded the Rev. Wingert began to fidget slightly. He leaned back in his chair and raised his hand to his forehead, resting his elbow on the back of his chair. He became slightly flushed.

At this point Allred said, "It is with great pride that we present the 'Outstanding Citizen of the Year' award to Russell Wingert."

The near-capacity crowd, one of the largest ever to attend a function of this type, rose to its feet for a standing ovation for the 61-year-old Presbyterian minister.

The Rev. Wingert, in accepting the engraved plaque, was his usual quiet self.

"I came here to pray and got a fringe benefit," he said.

Rev. Wingert has been a resident of Hereford for 26 years. He was born in Chicago, Ill. in 1910 and graduated from Walla High School in Chicago. He graduated from Carrol College in Waukesha, Wis. in 1932 and attended Princeton Seminary in New Jersey.

He pastored five churches in New Orleans then served as a chaplain in World War II. He came out of the war with the nickname of "Chappy" then came to Hereford in 1945.

"His service rendered to the people here has been personal," Allred said. "He has devoted his life to this." Rev. Wingert became the 26th person to be honored as the "Outstanding Citizen of the Year" by the Hereford Lions Club.

Others who have received the award are Wayne Evans, 1946; Duane Reeves, 1947; W. J. Dameron, 1948; L. B. Barnett, 1949; Lyle Blanton, 1950; Henry Sears, 1951; Father Raymond Gillis, 1952; S. O. Wilson, 1953; Earl Phillips, 1954; D. C. Kinsey, 1955; Della Stagner, 1956; Argen Draper, 1957; Don Zimmerman, 1958; Wayne Lawrence, 1959; Faye Plank, 1960; James W. Witherspoon, 1961; Dr. Lena Edwards, 1962; Ester Springer, 1963; Clint Formby, 1964; Rev. Don Davidson, 1965; Ed Skypala, 1966; John D. Pitman, 1967; Ray Cowser, 1968; Earnest Langley, 1969; and Hugh Clearman, 1970.

The record crowd heard East Texas humorist Bob Murphy spin through an hour of wit and also saw outgoing directors and the outgoing president, Charles Hoover, honored.

"The banquet was fantastic. It was real nice and everything went real good," chamber executive vice president Jim Lindsey said Friday. "We had the banquet set up for about 900 people and there weren't many seats left vacant. It was really one of the best."

Annual stock show to begin this week

Between 400 and 500 animals are expected in Hereford Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the annual Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show to be held at the Bull Barn.

Jess Robinson, vocational agriculture teacher at the high school and an advisor to the Young Farmers, said the over-400 figures expected is about normal for the event.

"This is about average in the number of heads concerned, but there probably will be few less calves and a few more barrows," Robinson said.

The decrease in the number of calves is expected because of the increasing demand for top quality animals and the cost of feeding them. The increase in the number of barrows is probably because it is easier and cheaper to feed several pigs, Robinson said.

Saturday was the deadline for entering animals in the show.

The hogs will be judged beginning at 2 p.m. Thursday. Lamb judging will begin at 9 a.m. Friday and the steer judging will be at 2 p.m. Friday.

On Saturday, the 4-H and FFA livestock judging will take place and the sale will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The number of animals sold will be determined on a present-age basis from each class. Deaf Smith County exhibitors will be allowed to sell no more than two animals in each division.

The champion lamb of each class will be sold as will the grand and reserve champion hog. The top 30 steers in the Four-County Show will sell along with the top 40 lambs and the top 60 hogs.

Ewe lambs and gilts can be shown this year for the first time.

General superintendents for this year's show are Layton Sawyer and Don Howard.

Tommy Sparkman, Lewis Block and George Muse are the steer superintendents, Jimmy Christie, Jack Andrews and Bill Check—the barrow superintendents, and Robert Higgins and Ronnie Andrews—the lamb superintendents.

Judges for this year's show will be John McNeil of West Texas State, steers; Joe Wise of Crosby County, lambs; and Joe Stockton of Frenship, market hogs.

Volunteers needed for March of Dimes drive

Volunteers still are needed for the Jan. 30 annual March of Dimes Mother's March.

Bob Emery, drive chairman, said this week any high school club, women's club, men's club or church group that would like to help with the drive can contact him or any member of Beta Sigma Phi, the sponsoring organization. The drive will be from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Jan. 30. The city has been divided up into several areas and some 28 team "captains" already have been assigned work areas.

Workers to help the "captains" still are needed, however, Emery said. "We need a number of volunteers and assistants. There will be no way in which we could have too many," he said.

"The drive will last only for a period of two hours and it won't take very much of anybody's personal time."

The goal of the drive this year is to surpass last year's total of $3,500. The March of Dimes, associated mainly with polio in the past, has, in recent years, taken in other areas as well. The drive no longer is concerned only with polio, but with all birth defects. Birth defects are the nation's second greatest destroyer of life claiming almost 500,000 unborn babies and 62,000 children and adults each year. Each year some 250,000 babies are born with birth defects.

The money collected from the local drive will be used in fighting polio, but with all birth defects. See VOLUNTEERS Page Two

Lost plane found

News reports Thursday of a lost plane containing a Hereford man, his wife and daughter and an Amarillo police officer turned out to be unfounded when the plane was discovered at a Houston airport.

Early reports Thursday said the light aircraft was missing and had not been heard from since checking in with the Abilene airport enroute to Hereford.

The Federal Aviation Administration flight service station in Amarillo, when contacted early Thursday morning, said it was "putting out quite a communications search" but nothing had been heard.

The plane was not on a flight plan according to officials at the flight service station.

Efforts to go out and look for the plane were in the making when the flight service station received word that the plane was at the Houston airport.

A second check with the Amarillo, flight service station revealed word from the pilot, Steve Kinson of Amarillo, was received about 10 a.m. Thursday.

"Where they actually departed we are not sure," one flight service station official said. "He was on his way to Houston and is on the ground."

The official said Kinson and a "Mr. Miller," also of Amarillo went to Houston to pick up Kinson's wife.

READYING FOR MOTHERS' MARCH — Beta Sigma Phi Sorority chapters in Hereford will conduct this year's March of Dimes Mothers' March Jan. 30. Bob Emery, left, Deaf Smith County drive chairman, met last week with the presidents of the chapters to make plans for the one-day

Aphid-hunting wasp film to be presented

A film and discussion on the newly discovered aphid-hunting wasp will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Hospitality Room of the Hereford State Bank.

The public is invited to attend. The aphid-hunting wasp is hatched commercially and is being sold to farmers in their fight against insects that live off crops. The cost of using the wasp is reported to be less than $1 per acre as compared to other methods that cost anywhere from $5 and up.

Each chapter sends 25 percent of its campaign proceeds to the National Headquarters to make up a fund which finances grants for research institutions, the operation of Birth Defects Research Centers, and contributions to research and operating costs of the Salk Institute.

The remainder of the chapter campaign proceeds is divided evenly between National Headquarters and the individual chapter to be spent on patient service programs, professional health education, public health education and other community services.

Game warden Chuck Cosper brought home a grim point at the Kiwanis Club meeting this week. Pointing to the fact that "low kills" were reported all over the state during hunting seasons this year, he added that the kills were up in one category—hunters. Three more hunters died in accidents the past year than in the previous season.

Bud To Blossom Garden Club members discussed how their club might uphold Arbor Day in Hereford April 28, agreeing to make definite plans later in the season. Mrs. Wayne Porter presided in business and Mrs. Bill Gentry was hostess for the Friday morning meeting.

Mrs. Ray Polan, chairman of a committee to decorate tables for the Jan. 29 Deaf Smith County Federated Women's Club luncheon, appointed Mrs. Bruce Brown and Mrs. Bill Wayne Sisson to her committee.

Mrs. Sisson, in providing a portion of the program, lectured on Basic Japanese Design while Mrs. Gentry displayed and explained several floral arrangements made in Japanese manner or so-called "adaptations of Japanese design."

Mrs. Pat Malone concluded the program by reviewing the article, Zodiac's Garden, taken from National Gardeners Magazine.

A special program on How To Select and Plant Roses Suitable For Growth in the Hereford Area will be presented at the Feb. 4 meeting in the home of Mrs. Steve Coneway.

Other members present, along with honorary member Mrs. A.L. Manjeot, were Mmes. Roy Bell and Pete Caviness.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor,

The fashions in this country are changing everyday and Hereford High School seems to be lagging behind. Most of the young men and some older men are starting to wear their hair long. This is happening all over the country and in many towns smaller than we are.

The boys' hair and the girls' dresses are the main things that need changing. It seems that some people feel that long hair on boys would distort from other peoples' learning. This is just as ridiculous as a girl wearing pants would be distracting. As much as young people have been exposed to long hair and casual dressing, I don't see any way it could be distracting.

At the first of school a petition with about one thousand signatures. Many of these were students, but some were adults' signatures. This should show that there is both a need and a want to change the dress code, but nothing has happened yet. There is a lot of talk around school of a walkout. Maybe some people will open up their eyes if this happens, Monday, Jan. 24, this walkout is to occur.

In the attempts to get the truck away from the bin, the driver twisted the drive shaft and the truck could not be moved by its own power.

After finally getting the truck away from the bin and down the highway about 100 yards, the driver left the vehicle.

Local officers discovered the attempted theft and put a surveillance on the vehicle. A check with Littlefield showed the truck was leased from a trucking firm there in the name of Stewart and Vaughn.

After no one returned to get the truck, officers here went to Littlefield where they arrested the two men.

Mixon and Hughes were later implicated in the theft and arrested.

Along the Frio

BY MRS. OWEN ANDREWS

Word was received here Monday of the death of Mrs. Lillian Redus, sister of Billy and Elza Warrick, at Tyler. Lloyd James Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Redus lived in this community about 20 years ago as the wife of Oscar Splinger, who passed away when the couple lived near the Elza-Warricks. Also after she and Elmer Redus were married they lived awhile in the community. Burial was Wednesday in Wheelock Cemetery, near Millerton, Okla.

Mrs. Redus had suffered a long illness.

Mrs. Sam Ogan remained in very serious condition Friday in High Plains Hospital, Amarillo from the burns received on Jan. 12 when the Frio Baptist Parsonage burned. She was holding her own in the battle with pneumonia, which had been diagnosed during this week. On Friday she was some better than the past three or four days.

Sammie, son of Rev. and Mrs. Ogan, who is an exchange student in Italy, was due to be home by Friday night. A daughter, Debbie Pitman, also burned in the fire, was released from the Hereford hospital Thursday.

The men of the church cleaned the site of the debris from the burned building last Saturday having most of it away. The church voted, at the Wednesday evening business meeting to replace the parsonage and a committee was elected to begin getting a study of plans and costs to be considered.

Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson returned home Sunday, from a weeks visit at Wellington with their daughter, Mrs. Leon Roberts, and family and Mr. Simpson's brother, Joe, his wife and other relatives.

Mrs. Ruth Tisdale of Texas City came this week to be with her sister, Mrs. Sam Ogan, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Rodriguez are parents of a son, born Jan. 18. The baby, who has been named Juan Jose Luis Jr., has three sisters.

Here visiting the Harlan Barbers is their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jimmy Barber and Jason of Hutchinson, Kansas. Jimmy is spending a month in his work with U.S. Agricultural Experiment Service work in Puerto Rico and Sharon and Jason are visiting the Barbers and her parents, the R.C. Howards, near Lubbock. A friend, Mary Ann Nobbs, of Hutchinson, came with them but will return home in a day or so.

CLIP IT OUT — The West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative has established a new central office -- the Summerfield exchange -- this week and for Hereford residents has furnished the above list of subscribers that are connected to the new exchange. This can be cut from the newspaper and pasted or placed in the Hereford directory.

Supplement to directory

The West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative, Inc. turned up its new central office at Summerfield this week.

Some of the subscribers on the old Frio and Westway Exchange over to the Summerfield office as a result of the new central office.

The new office will be able to handle calls to Hereford and will have toll circuits and Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) trunks for the subscribers.

Vernon Inmon, manager of the rural cooperative, said the total conversion of the new office will be completed immediately.

The office code for the new exchange is 357 and the cooperative has presented a list of those numbers on the exchange. The list can be cut from the newspaper and put into the Hereford directory for quick reference.

Small talk

BY SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

OUR SPRING-IN-JANUARY weather lately has been conducive to Sunday afternoon drives; maybe it isn't safe to trust West Texas weather far enough to plan a weekend trip with assurance of it staying pretty, but half-day predictions can be made with fair certainty.

Last Sunday we took a road that has been on our list for some time, and drove from Bellview, N.M. north to reach Highway 66 a little bit west of Glenrio. It is N.M. State Road 93 and it goes through the ghost town of Endee.

It was Mrs. Vern Witherspoon who told me about that road, when she lived here; one of her brothers was a rancher in that area on the Texas-New Mexico border and she knew the country well. Somehow, there had never been the right opportunity to drive over it.

IT ISN'T PAVED as you leave Bellview, but is a good dry-weather route. From Endee on to the highway there is old pavement, apparently put down when Endee was a flourishing little town with a depot, postoffice and several houses—all empty now. All I know about Endee is that its name came from the ND ranch and I'd like to find out more of its history.

Most interesting spot on the road to me, as in all the routes in that area, is the drop off the caprock. As usual this one is scenic, with views for miles and miles, but unlike some unpaved roads it descends gradually so it doesn't scare a flatland driver like me.

Just at its foot is a ranch house with a spectacular background of sheer canyon wall and rugged valley floor. It looks like a fairly old house, but well kept up, and we couldn't decide whether it is empty or just had nobody at home that afternoon.

Wouldn't be a bad place to live, at all. I'll bet never an insurance salesman would come knocking at the door, and at night you could probably go to sleep listening to the coyotes howl, a sound I haven't heard in years but would like to again.

KATIE MCGEEHEE and her daughter, Helen Stark, also the Myron Morgan family, were in Quitaque last weekend as guests at the golden wedding celebration of the R.O. Starks. The Quitaque resident is a brother of the late Ross Stark, Helen's husband, and an uncle of Morgan.

RETURNING THE FIRST of the week to Camp Pendleton, Calif., Marine Cpl. Mark Woodward had spent several days with relatives here. He was a guest in the home of his sister, Mrs. Don Spearman, and family. His grandmother is Thelma Chisum, a resident of Kings Manor.

His mother, Ann Martin, came up from Sherman to complete the family party while he was here. He has a brother also stationed at Camp Pendleton who expects to have time off for a visit here later this month, Mrs. Chisum says.

Laura Gilliland of Chicago, relative of a number of Hereford residents and a frequent visitor here in the past, has lately been awarded a fellowship in special education to the graduate school of North Eastern University. She will work on a masters degree while she teaches special education classes in Chicago.

Her great-aunt, Gladys Manjot, is quite proud of the award to Laura, who is the daughter of the Bob Stuart Gillilands of Ventura, Calif., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pink H. Gilliland of Amarillo, former Hereford residents.

Other relatives here are Mrs. Matt Gilliland and Mrs. Reed Williams and their families.

Edwin C. Buxbaum, 67, of Wilmington, Del., has more than 50,000 copies of the National Geographic.

Here's how we beat the system.

For years, the competition has looked at Gifford-Hill's 360 pivot sprinkler system as the one to beat. They've done their best to build a system that looks as sophisticated and acts as sophisticated.

But now, just about the time they think they're getting close, we beat our own system.

For 1972, we've added new features that still make the 360 the most dependable, the most versatile and safest system you can buy.

The 360's new direct gear drive has bearings completely immersed in oil and fewer moving parts which mean less chance for malfunction.

The new collector ring eliminates rewinding cable.

The new alignment control linkage has positive control that reacts instantly to any misalignment. If there is a malfunction, the entire system shuts off automatically.

The new intermediate control panel is moisture-proof. The base is aluminum. The cover is Kydex plastic. It's non-corrosive, non-conductive, chemically inert, ultraviolet resistant and constructed to prevent the collection of condensation.

The new automatic end gun control option is located at the pivot panel. This solid state control allows you to turn the end gun on or off as desired.

The new weather-proof coating is designed to give maximum protection from severe exposures.

The primer is fine zinc particles dispersed in a high strength plastic binder. The top coat is a non-oxidizable, corrosive and chemically inert, vinyl acrylic material.

Together the two coats provide protection similar to galvanized materials, but superior when exposed to highly corrosive, high humidity atmospheres.

The only thing we haven't improved lately is the water pattern. Not even we can figure out a way to do that. Yet.

You can't beat our system. So, join us. For a demonstration.

Missionary teacher spends furlough here

BY SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

A CHILDHOOD dream of serving as a missionary nurse in foreign countries was partly fulfilled for Naomi Hare of Hereford, who has completed 21 years in missionary duty in Peru and Mexico, but as a teacher instead of a nurse. Now on a six-month furlough, Miss Hare is visiting her mother, Mrs. A.A. Hare, 600 Plains, other relatives and friends here, and has traveled to other states for visits also. She has been director of Centro Cristiano in Chihuahua for a number of years and has taught English in that Methodist missionary school 17 years in all. Previously, she was primary supervisor in a large school for girls in Lima, Peru, four years. During the entire time she has taught English, except for one year spent as a dormitory mother in a school at Monterey. TEACHING WAS HER profession before she became a missionary. Her family lived at Quanah and she graduated from high school there before they moved to Hereford. After receiving a degree from McMurry College she taught in Brisco County, at Ketterville, Friona and Amberst.

One summer she went to Scarritt Bible College, a Methodist school, "just to see what missionaries were like." She found that many of them were teachers and that others were needed in that field, so she saw her opportunity to serve in her own career. When she first went to Mexico there was a great need for teachers and the Mexican government encouraged churches to send them. Mexican natives as teachers in the mission schools were very rare then. NOW ALMOST all teachers in Centro Cristiano are Mexicans and Miss Hare's place as director is being filled while she is gone by a Mexican national, fulfilling an aim of the missionaries to train residents of the country to carry on the work. She does not know whether she will continue to work there after her furlough; in keeping with Methodist church policy, her next assignment will be made by the bishop of this area. Just recovering from surgery when her furlough began, Miss Hare says she has "been very lazy" until this month, when she began to accept requests to speak to church groups about the mission program in Chihuahua. Now feeling well again, the silver-haired teacher with the gracious manner says she is becoming eager to return to her duties. THE SCHOOL where she has worked so long was at first principally a social center for Methodist missionary work in Mexico; it was established for that purpose in 1919. With a clinic, day care nursery and clubs for girls and boys it carried on social services until depression years, when classes were begun and tuition charged. The classes proved so successful that the school eventually became the principal interest of the center. The school itself is a form of social work, Miss Hare says. Tuition is low so poor students may attend; almost all are poor, and almost all have problems, she adds. They receive a commercial education so they can find jobs and help their families. There are 360 students, most of them junior high age although 80 are young adults who attend night classes. A DAY CARE NURSERY is still in operation and an extension program is carried out including a primary school in a suburb of the city, girls clubs and clinics in two villages. Working with doctors from the United States who volunteer their services and fly in regularly to hold clinics in mountain

Funeral is held for ex-resident

Funeral services for Thomas Dee Owen, a former resident of Hereford, were held Wednesday in First Baptist Church in Duncan, Okla. Mr. Owen attended school in Hereford and enlisted in World War I while living here. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A.H. Owen and a brother of Mrs. Jack Roberson of this city. He is survived by his wife; three sons, Stewart, of Miami, Okla., James of Alvin, and Alton Hale of Vietnam, and six grandchildren. Other survivors include a brother, Dr. A. Hope Owen of Lubbock, three sisters, Mrs. Dot Hunter of Shawnee, Okla., Mrs. O.R. Tipps of Wichita Falls and Mrs. Roberson of Hereford.

Attending services from Hereford were Mrs. Roberson, two nieces, Mrs. Tom Hargrave and Mrs. Gerald Wilson, and a nephew, Bobbie Owen.

A SOLDIERS' ISLE

INVERNESS, Scotland (AP) —The romantic and peaceful looking little Scottish island of Skye has provided the British army with 23 generals, 48 lieutenant-colonels, 600 other officers, 120 pipers and more than 10,000 ordinary soldiers or enlisted men in the 46-year period up to 1815, according to a new booklet, "Highland Regiments," by an Inverness writer, Iain Cameron Taylor.

INVOLVED IN SPECIAL DAY—The Rev. Gene Brink, minister of First Christian Church, points to an engraving of the church sanctuary which will be the scene of homecoming services Sunday, designated as Celebration Sunday to mark completion within a decade of payments on the building. Delmo Williams, left, is chairman of the church board which is in charge of plans for the day. Robert Veigel, right, headed the building committee for the sanctuary, which was completed in 1963.

Ex-pastor to conduct homecoming services

A former minister and former chairman of the board of First Christian Church here will be leaders in a homecoming program Sunday, as members observe Celebration Day to mark final payment for their $225,000 sanctuary. The Rev. Eugene Brink, minister, and the entire congregation will be hosts.

Dr. Gilbert Davis, minister when the building program was begun and now director of church relations for Texas Christian University, will be in the pulpit for the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday.

Bill Dameron of Salida, Colo., board chairman at the time the sanctuary was built, will narrate a program with the theme, This is Your (the church's) Life, beginning at 1:30 p.m. after a covered dish lunch in the fellowship hall.

Incidentally, Dameron's father, the late W.E. Dameron, was master of ceremonies for a special program when the church observed its 50th anniversary in 1949.

Efforts have been made to contact as many former members as possible and invite them for the special services and lunch. Friends of the church here are also invited. The church sanctuary, dedicated in July of 1963, was built after a chapel and educational building

Unrest in native land brings woman to city

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bethune and family
Gordon, Frank and Tahrih (Terri)

BY JANIE BANNER
Staff Writer

IN 1961 WHEN British Guiana came under Communist rule, the people of that area sought new homes in other parts of the world, one finding her new home in Texas, and finally, Hereford. An interesting story led the way. Sylvia Bethune knew her husband-to-be when they lived in separate towns in South America. Sylvia's father made a request to Frank Bethune's father that arrangements be made with Bethune, who was already living in the United States, to sponsor his daughter's citizenship. Bethune became a U.S. citizen in 1957 and therefore agreed to sign papers so Sylvia joined him in Austin where she immediately enrolled in a six-month cosmetology course. The year was 1962.

SYLVIA EARNED her beauty operator's license, became Mrs. Bethune, and went to work in a Wichita Falls hospital as technician and in inhalation therapy. At the same time Bethune attended Midwestern University at Wichita, receiving training at Wichita General Hospital. He commuted to the Harris Hospital school of anesthesia at Ft. Worth. Bethune brought his wife and family to Hereford in August of 1971 and has since been employed as nurse anesthetist at Deaf Smith General Hospital. ON CALL 24 hours a day, five days a week and the only practicing anesthetist in the city, Bethune holds many responsibilities which he accepts willingly and with concern for the welfare of the community and its people. Frank and Sylvia have three children, Tahrih (Teri) eight, Frank Alfred, seven, both students at Northwest Elementary, and Gordon Alan, six, in St Anthony's kindergarten. Nellie Bethune makes her home with her son's family at 115 Nueces. Mrs. Bethune and her children have made advance preparations to spend six weeks this summer with her family, who now reside in London. "THE KIDS WILL get to see their grandparents for the first time," said their mother. Mr. and Mrs. Bethune correspond with relatives in England, Canada and South America, enjoying a weekly treat of Chinese fare and foods of India which members of their family mail them regularly. The elder Mrs. Bethune helps Sylvia prepare the foods. Because of the children's desires for sweets, Sylvia says she bakes various cakes and cookies and enjoys cooking as well. Even though swimming activities fill summer months, and football season takes the upper hand during winter months, Mrs. Bethune and daughter Terri began needlecraft lessons last week in an attempt to get a joint hobby started. WITH MANY MILES and hours between, Sylvia says, "It seems like the short while we've lived in Hereford we've met more people and made more friends than in the six years at Wichita. We're hoping Hereford will be our permanent home." Sylvia's birthplace, no longer of British rule, is now referred to as Guyana, South America.

Film on space program viewed

Loaned by the U.S. space center at Houston, a film titled Space in the 70's was shown to Bay View Study Club members Thursday afternoon on a program arranged by Mrs. Jack Wilcox. Mrs. Howard Gault was hostess to the club in Hereford Country Club. A resume of the space program with emphasis on moon landings was presented first in the informative film, then a projection of developments expected during this decade. These included space shuttles which can take passengers into space and back and can also serve as rescue vehicles; skylabs and orbiting stations for research. Also projected were ways the space exploration program can benefit residents of "space ship Earth," R.G. Montgomery showed the film the club. In a business period with Mrs. R.W. Eades presiding, Mmes W. J. Gilliland, Homer Garrison and H.L. Benefield were appointed by Mrs. Juston McBride, chairman of the museum committee, as a group to direct educational tours of Deaf Smith County Museum. A cash gift to the fund for patients' recreation at Wichita Falls State Hospital was reported. Mrs. D.N. Garner was welcomed as a new member others present were Mmes. Bruce Burney, W.S. Kerr, Pat Malone, J. R. Allison, Keith Simmer Tom Sawyer, Colby Conkright, Ansel McDowell, Herman Ford, and Homer Powell.

Economic Stabilization

Questions and Answers

Q. Are there controls on how much my landlord can raise my rent?
A. Yes. New Price Commission regulations provide that a 2½ per cent annual rent increment may be added to the base rent to cover the landlord's operating costs, such as labor, electricity, gas, fuel, interest, etc. The increment must not be higher than 2½ percent even if these costs are greater. This increment may be applied to month-to-month, week-to-week, and yearly leases. In addition, if there are increases in state or local real estate taxes, state and local fees and levies, or increases in charges for municipal services (exclusive of gas and electricity), these may be added on to the base rent and the increment increase.

Q. What information must a landlord include in a letter sent to a tenant notifying him of a proposed increase?

A. The letter must contain following information: (1) the amount of monthly rent before and after the proposed increase; (2) the percentage increase and dollar amount of the proposed increase; (3) the effective date of the proposed increase; (4) the amount of the proposed increase which is attributable to capital improvements, state and local real estate taxes, and state and local fees, levies and charges for municipal services and any increase allowed under the 2½ per cent rule; (5) the base rent and an explanation of the manner in which it was determined, including identification of units involved and dates and amounts of transactions where applicable; and (6) the method of computation of the proposed increase.

In addition, the letter must include statements approved by the Price Commission on the right of the tenant to examine the landlord's records documenting the increase and to meet with the landlord to discuss it, as well as a declaration by the lessor that the facts in the letter are true and that the increase is not in violation of Economic Stabilization regulations. The exact contents of these statements appear in the rent regulations.

Q. Does a landlord have to justify a rent increase of 2½ per cent?
A. No. However, he must notify a tenant in writing at least 30 days before a rent increase goes into effect.

Q. Can a retailer satisfy the base price posting requirement if a shopper can obtain access to base price information only by asking the retailer for it?

A. No. Prices are not considered to be displayed "prominently" if a shopper can obtain access only through requesting base price information from the retailer or one of his employees.

Q. I'm taking out a new life insurance policy. Will my insurance premiums be subject to price controls?

A. No. Fees charged for all new life insurance and annuities, with the exception of credit-life insurance, are exempt from Phase II price controls.

Q. Rent controls do not apply to commercial, nonresidential property, but in general they do apply to existing residential property. How is property which is used both for commercial and residential purposes treated—for example, a building which is rented for office space and a partments?

A. The portion used for commercial purposes is exempt, but the portion used for residential purposes is subject to rent control.
Q. Can an auto dealer try to charge for equipment on a car that was previously handled as standard?
A. No. This would be a violation of the price controls.

Futures seminar draws big crowd

A panel of distinguished marketing specialists from across the nation were in Hereford Thursday for day-long seminar on "Futures Trading—A Marketing Tool."

About 100 persons attended the seminar held at the Community Center.

Russ Haaland, research assistant for the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, John Womack of New York and John J. Seibert of College Station, shared the morning session of the program.

Haaland, who took the place of Dr. Mark Powers, vice-president of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, discussed the function and operation of the futures markets, pointing out that the Chicago Board of Trades handled 75 percent of all U.S. futures trade last year. That amounted to $130 billion, he said.

The research assistant said only 2 per cent of all contracts sold are actually delivered.

"Some people have said the market is nothing more than legalized gambling," Haaland said. "But, gambling is creating a risk for enjoyment or profit where in futures trading the risk is already there, where a person changes this risk to someone else on the chance he can make a profit."

Sharing the afternoon program were Dr. Donald E. Farris and Seibert, Jim Lepine of St. Louis, Pat Malone of the First National Bank, Bill McCarty of Stratford, and Kenneth Allen of Perryton.

The seminar was sponsored by the Panhandle Economic Program (PEP) and administered through the local county agent.

SEMINAR SPEAKER — John Womack, with Merrill Lynch-Pierce-Fenner & Smith, Inc., discusses futures trading mechanics and techniques with a group of about 100 persons. Womack was one of a large number of speakers at Thursday's Futures Trading seminar.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

"What can I do to get out of this contract? This guy outfit came by and talked me into signing up with them, and I am really unhappy with the deal."

The Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office hears this plaintive plea all too often, but the sad truth of the matter is that there is not much anyone can do about a situation like this. When you put your signature on that dotted line, in the eyes of the law, you've had it. It is almost impossible to "get out" of the contract as the many consumers contacting our office desire, and if consumers want to try to break the contract, they need to get their own private attorney. This is no something which the Attorney General's Office can do for them.

If the above seems to put the consumer in hot water, remember we are talking about his plight after he has signed the contract. Happily, he does have options prior to signing on the dotted line. The informed consumer will, of course, always be wary when entering into a contract. This is the first rule of survival in the world of legal contracts and red tape. Anytime you are asked to sign an instrument in a business deal, you can be pretty sure that there is a reason and that the person asking you to sign is not just an autograph collector in the sense that that term is normally used. Any instrument may be a contract, so read it thoroughly. . . . read every single word, even the small ones. Many times the small ones are the ones that cause you the most trouble later on. The second rule for survival then is to read every instrument carefully before you sign.

The third rule is that if you don't understand something you have been asked to sign, refuse to sign it. Don't take chances. Don't take the word of the person with whom you are dealing unless you know personally of his honesty and reliability. Even then take what he says with a grain of salt. You will be far better off if you get help from your own lawyer, from a legal aid agency, or from someone upon whom you can rely before you jump into any legal deal.

The next rule for survival would be to refuse to be rushed. Take your time and determine that the contract you are entering into is one by which you wish to be bound. If you have any doubt, do not sign the contract until you have fully resolved it.

Remember, after you sign the contract you are bound. It is too late to back out of it then. You should also remember that it is what is written in the contract that counts and not what the salesman tells you. Often times the salesman will advise you to go ahead and sign the contract and if you decide to back out that he will tear it up. Many times the salesman "forgets" that he has said this and you are bound by the contract.

Be firm and don't be the victim of a fast talking salesman. Our office receives many letters informing us of contracts that were signed as a result of a "rush job" by the salesman much to the consumer's regret. If the purpose of the contract is legitimate and valid and the person with whom you are dealing is reliable, in nearly all cases the opportunity will be available in the morning the same as it is tonight. It is a good policy to refuse to enter into a contract which must be signed then or never.

Another rule to follow is never sign a contract just to get rid of a persistent salesman. Many times we get letters from people who sign a contract "just to get rid of that salesman" only to find out that they have obligated themselves to a legal and binding contract. You should never sign a contract until you know the total cost of the goods you are buying. Demand an itemized account of all charges. If the salesman refuses to give you one refuse to sign the contract.

A cardinal rule in the area of contracts is never sign a contract which contains blank spaces "to be filled in later". Remember, the dishonest salesman can fill the blanks in any way he wants to after he has gone, and you have no way of proving that you did not agree to the terms that the salesman inserted. If a business deal is important enough to require a contract, it is important enough to fill out the contract completely before signing it. Under no circumstances should you be rushed into signing a contract with blank spaces.

A contract that reads "as is" means that there is no guarantee of any type given with the sale of the merchandise. If you believe you are getting a guarantee, be sure to get a copy of the guarantee in writing. Read and understand the guarantee. Know what is covered by the guarantee, who is to make the necessary repairs or replacement, the period for which the guarantee runs and other salient points.

Another rule to follow is don't be fooled or confused by legal double-talk. As pointed out above, it's what's on the paper that counts regardless of what the salesman says or promises. Even if he intends to keep his promises, his boss may not let

For healthier Texas

Regional concept is aim of TSDH

A healthier Texas is the aim of the Texas State Department of Health, and to carry out that goal Texas health authorities have moved to carry state health programs closer to Texas residents by instituting a regional concept of public health.

The first of the proposed 10 public health regions opened in 1970 in Tyler in East Texas. Two more State Health Department regions became operational on January 1, 1972. Region 3 has headquarters in El Paso and covers six counties in Far West Texas. Region 10 covers 20 counties in South Texas from headquarters in Harlingen.

"The Texas State Department of Health has made available better health services to over two and a quarter million Texas residents with creation of the two new regions," said Dr. James E. Peavy, Texas Commissioner of Health. "And the goal is to eventually provide these services to all Texans, particularly those not now reached by state health services."

Eventually, the State will have 10 public health regions providing services to the State's entire population. All regional offices will have staff representing the major public health disciplines.

"The regional health system will allow state health programs to be brought closer to the people who need them, and will provide better administration of health services," said Dr. Peavy. "It will also provide more efficient use of the limited public health resources, and at the same time provide public health services to all residents throughout the region."

The huge West Texas region covers 21,778 square miles, with a population in excess of 379,000. Dr. John Bradley, former regional director of the State Health Department's TB control program, is now Regional Director of Public Health Region 3.

Region 10 covers a wide area of South Texas in which more than 870,000 persons reside. Regional director of Public Health Region 10 is Dr. Victor Palma, a former Epidemic Intelligence Officer who served the TSDH Communicable Disease Services Section on assignment from the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta.

Officials said the West Texas and South Texas regions were selected for activation at this time because of their needs for public health services.

New program in AARP presented

AIM, a new program for active members of American Association for Retired Persons, was presented to members of the local organization, Thursday night.

Ed Druik, Sr., new president, conducted a business session and members elected chairmen for committees.

After the meeting card games were played. 22 members were present.

Officially said the West Texas and South Texas regions were selected for activation at this time because of their needs for public health services.

Whitefaces open district play Tuesday against Coronado

The Hereford Whitefaces make their first bid for the district title Tuesday when they travel to Lubbock to meet the Coronado Mustangs in the district opener for the Herd.

Varsity tip-off time is 8 p.m. Coronado, along with the other four teams in the district, began district play Friday while Hereford was on the road in Muleshoe taking a 59-57 win.

If Friday night's district play, Plainview defeated Coronado, 48-29 and Monterey clipped Lubbock High, 38-22.

"We start playing for it all," said Hereford coach Ron Mayberry about the Coronado game. "This is probably the biggest game we have had this year because it means so much to us."

The Mustangs are led by two of the league's outstanding players, Howell Wallace, 5-10 is averaging 18.5 points per game and is closely followed by Mark Curry, 6-3, at 16 points per game. "For us to beat them we must shut these two boys off. We must contain them."

Although the Mustangs sport a 9-13 record, they have played a number of well-balanced teams this year. They defeated Wichita Falls Rider-a team strong Pampa had to go three overtimes to beat and Lubbock Monterey edged by only two points.

"I have a lot of respect for them," Mayberry said. "They move the ball real well and they shoot real well."

David Hicks was the high point maker for the Whitefaces in Friday's game with Muleshoe, scoring 20 points and pulling down 13 rebounds.

Although the score would indicate a close contest, Hereford led the entire game and at one time held a 10 point lead. It was in the final five minutes of the game that Muleshoe pulled to within striking distance of the Herd.

At the end of the third quarter the score was tied 41-41 and with just five minutes to go in the game the Mules tied it up again after Hereford had taken over the lead again.

Hereford built up an eight point lead with just 1:50 left to play, but the players got careless and Muleshoe scored four quick points to narrow the gap to only four points.

It remained that way until a Muleshoe player hit a bucket just as the game ended.

"I was real pleased with the ball club the last three of four minutes because Muleshoe had the momentum going for them and our boys kept their poise," Mayberry said.

"We kind of slacked off with a minute and 50 seconds to go and Muleshoe came back strong and nearly won it. I think we may have learned a lesson from that."

New Rainbow head installed

Formal installation of officers, with Kathy Smith as worthy advisor, was conducted for the Order of Rainbow for Girls Saturday evening in Masonic Hall. A reception was held afterward for members, parents and adult advisors of the Hereford Rainbow Assembly.

Miss Smith succeeded Kay Hagar as worthy advisor, and Cindy McWhorter took office as worthy associate advisor. Chosen as colors for the new administration are purple and gold, with violets and yellow roses as flowers; Miss Smith selected Bible verses from the first chapter of Genesis.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd N. Smith, 201 Star. Her brother, Neil, and a nephew Russell Brownlow, presented flowers to her in the installation ceremony.

Installing officers were Charlie Brown and Patty Roach, assisted by Janice Brownlow as marshal; Judy Gore, musician; Kathy Roberts, recorder, and Miss Hazar, chaplain.

Those installed included Denise Strange as charity, Melissa Johnson hope, Linda Collins, faith, Sue Roberts love, Lynda Rojek religion, Joan Josseland nature, Elizabeth Sawyer immortality, Teresa Locke fidelity Lynette Cawthon patriotism and Patsy Browlow service.

Lana Clark became the new outer observer, Michele Moore confidential observer, Carmela Burges chaplain, Myrna Monical musician, Barbara Poindexter treasurer, Janet McWhorter recorder, Pamela Smith drill leader and Jana Ray choir director.

New members of the adult board, Mrs. J.B. Noland and Audrey Powell, were introduced. For the reception, Karen Scott registered guests. Marlena Kelley and Julie Owens served refreshments from a table decorated in the worthy advisor's flowers.

Tickets on sale for clinic fund

Tickets go on sale this week for a musical review of the Broadway hit, Promises, Promises, to be presented Feb. 17 by Mary Allen Vincent of Dallas and sponsored by L'Allegra Study Club to benefit the "We Care" fund at Deaf Smith County Public Health Clinic.

Returning at the request of many residents who applauded her unique musical review last year, Mrs. Vincent will give her one-woman performance assisted by pianist Ray Plagens, of another recent stage success in words and music.

The vivacious entertainer tells the story and sings the songs, leaving her audience with the impression they have seen the entire show. L'Allegra Club brought her to Hereford for the first time last year, with a response that inspired a return invitation to a larger hall. She gave the previous program, a review of "I Do, I Do," in First Baptist Fellowship hall, but will be heard next month in the high school auditorium. Tickets are priced at $2 each.

All members of the club are selling tickets under direction of the project-finance committee, Mmes. Hazen Woods, Jim Carnahan, J.H. McCrary, Rudy Metz and Dennis Farley. The "We Care" fund at the clinic, beneficiary of the review, was started by L'Allegra Club last year and later adopted also as a project of the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Its purpose is to help with medical care of local indigent children under 18 years of age.

Funds are granted by the federal government for care of indigent persons classified as migrants, but these funds do not cover care of local residents. Indigent residents share in the services given by Hereford doctors, but payment is often needed for medical tests, x-rays and medicine.

Club makes quilt for Ogan family

Ten members of Mothers Needle Club gathered Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. A.H. Cook for a covered dish luncheon and to make a quilt for the Rev. Sam Ogan family who lost their home and belongings in a fire last week.

Miss Mary Brady provided the quilt top and Mr. Joe Deavenport donated the batts with all other materials being furnished by the club.

One guest, Mrs. Harley Ward, was welcomed.

Members present for the quilting session were - Mmes. Adam Flowers, Haskel Benson, W.T. Gunstenson, Ralph Paul, H.E. Lindley, Annie Springer, Jewel Awrety, Roy Boyd and L. J. Shirley.

Mrs. C.N. McClure will be hostess in her home for the Feb. 17 meeting, it was announced.

L'Allegra Club and the Women's Division specify of "We Care" monies that "every penny be spent to help needy children," and ask that clinic administrators distribute the money to "children who would not otherwise have the benefit of needed tests, x-rays or medicine."

Contributions from other organizations and from individuals are sought for the fund, and a speakers' committee has been set up to visit meetings and give information about it. Members are Mrs. Hilton Higgins, who has been president of the Clinic Service Auxiliary, Mrs. J.A. McWhorter and Mrs. McCrary. Mrs. Danny Martin is this year's president of L'Allegra and Mrs. Lynn Kester of the Women's Division.

BENEFIT PROJECT LEADERS — Mrs. Hazen Woods, right, and Mrs. Jim Carnahan are co-chairmen of project-finance committee of L'Allegra Study Club, which is sponsoring the return of Mary Allen Vincent of Dallas in a musical show review Feb. 17 to benefit the county health clinic's "We Care" fund. A stack of the tickets which go on sale this week, is on the table beside the two members, who look over a leaflet advertising the review.

Home study course is set

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

A HOME STUDY COURSE! What is it? It's an opportunity to learn more about young children while you are at home with them!

There's no need to search for babysitters in order to participate in this program being offered to area families by the Extension Service. You read each lesson at home—at your own convenience.

After you've read the lesson, complete the short response form and mail it in the enclosed envelope. That's all there is to it.

There are four lessons in the home study course called "Your Preschool Child." Each lesson deals with something different: babies and toddlers, the importance of play for young children, food and preschoolers, early childhood.

ARE YOU INTERESTED?

The first lesson will be mailed on Feb. 1st. Call us for information on how to enroll.

Extension Service has effectively used the home study course as a teaching tool in various subject matter areas. Year before last we had a home study course in home management. There were 54 women who enrolled, finished the six lessons and reported learning a lot to help them in managing their work. They liked the idea of studying the lessons and filling in the lessons at home.

AT THE PRESENT TIME the Family Living Committee is offering this course on Your Preschool Child. There are four lessons:

- 1) Moving Toward Maturity (Infants and babies)
- 2) Growing Up (toddlers and preschoolers)
- 3) The Importance of Play

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

On Thursday afternoon, January 20, 1972, a huge black column of smoke boiled up north of Hereford. I don't know whose fire of maize stalks it was and I don't want to know. I would like for every citizen of Deaf Smith County to give some thought to the consequences of this destruction of our resources, however.

Probably more air pollution was created by the burning of that one field than is created in a year's time by our city incinerator. As evening fell, the acrid haze of smoke settled over Hereford, burning the lungs of children trying to enjoy some basketball or bike riding and possibly creating a real health hazard for older people.

Prominent scientists are predicting that the world faces a new ice age as the result of increasing air pollution and dropping average temperatures as the ever thickening haze blocks out the sun's rays from the earth. This may be alarmist talk, but if it is, any pilot can tell us that air pollution is rapidly increasing and is bad enough.

What about the soil? Do we have any farmers in this county who want to consciously kill the life in their soil? The organic matter in the few inches of the earth's crust, with the nitrogen forming bacteria and earthworms which go with live soil, is the delicate strand on which the health and even survival of mankind depends.

How about our water table? This is an inter-dependent thing which transcends private property lines and which is dropping badly as the soil is robbed of its capability to absorb and hold either rain or irrigation water. Farmer's costs are skyrocketing as it costs more and more to produce less and less in both quality and quantity. Is this the heritage we want to leave our children? I really don't think so. We have good farmers here who can do better.

We have a wonderful opportunity before us in this area to utilize feedyard manure and crop residues to leave our soil better than we found it. If we can do that, the health of the cattle in the feedyards will be better due to better quality crops, our water will last a lot longer, the air will be purer, and we will be able to take pride in our farming.

Sincerely,
J. Frank Ford Jr.

A party with members' husbands as guests was scheduled at 7 p.m. Feb. 22 in Mrs. Strain's home. Planning began also for a spring program open to the public, to be given early in May. It will be arranged by a committee comprising Mmes. Wimberley, Parker and Stewart.

Veteran's affairs

Q—Is it too late for a veteran over 65 years of age to apply for a waiver of government insurance premiums?

A—No. If a veteran becomes totally disabled before his 65th birthday and meets other requirements, he is entitled to the waiver even though he does not apply for it until he is over 65.

Q—If a veteran's widow who draws death pension benefits is a patient in a nursing home and is in need of regular aid and attendance, is she eligible for additional pension?

A—Yes, she is entitled to an additional special monthly pension of $55 under the current law. Widows requiring regular aid and attendance are entitled to an additional $50 monthly pension under the "old" law.

Q—As the widow of a veteran who died 14 months ago, can I collect a Veterans Administration burial allowance.

A—Yes, provided your husband was a wartime, Korean Conflict or Vietnam veteran; with an other than dishonorable discharge; or if he was drawing service-connected compensation at time of death or discharge, or retired for disability incurred in line of duty. Application for a maximum $250 burial allowance may be filed within two years of burial or cremation.

"All tied up" usually suggests that one's movements are restricted.

But to us, "all tied up" means good things. For example, this year we'll complete building a transmission line that will enable us to move electric power to the Public Service Company of Oklahoma... maybe even as far away as the East Coast. Or, to bring electric power into our system from far-away places.

Either way, it's a good deal for you — our customer. It means efficiency in the distribution of electric power and it means firming up dependability.

Yes, "all tied up" means we'll be — so you won't be!

State of the Union

President Nixon's State of the Union address was bereft of either soaring rhetoric or sweeping new proposals. In other words, as such things go it was a pretty good job.

If we're being perverse, it is to stress a quite real point. In recent years there have been a few things more damaging to the state of this union than rhetorical and political overkill. Politicians have repeatedly promised that they had the answers to mankind's ancient afflictions, only to find that the afflictions grind on much as before. The lesson ought to be that our union is not dramatically better than it has been before, but in so many cases aroused expectations have led so many Americans instead to the "lesson" that it is growing steadily worse.

Overpromising is by now fairly widely recognized as characteristic of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, but Mr. Nixon has more than once had his fling at it as well. The worst, in fact, was last year's State of the Union address, with its "new American revolution." We have started to worry that overpromising is endemic to democratic government, a necessary means to generate enough political support even for the most modest goals, and that therefore democracy is trapped in a losing race—with even reasonably rapid progress being quickly outpaced by astronomically increasing expectations.

Mr. Nixon's more matter-of-fact tone this year does not quench those fears, but at least it does not add to them. His message yesterday was scarcely without its promises, of course: that inflation will be broken in 1972, that great progress toward peace will be made in the year, that with congressional support it can be a "year of action" on the administration's propoals already before Congress. Yet even his "generation of peace"—after all not pace for all eternity—seems fairly restrained against the normal run of political rhetoric.

What results is not a stirring oration, but a reasonably honest accounting of the union's state. The President's injunctions against partisanship are always appropriate in an election year, if no less needed in Congress than in his own administration. He is quite right that the climate of affairs has improved since the horrible times in which he took office, a fact for which he has not received due credit.

The President is also quite right that Congress already has received at least enough proposals to occupy it for the next year, if not more than that. Some areas he cited for special attention, the improvement of technology and reorganization of school financing, are certainly deserving of it.

Finally, we are encouraged to see the President address himself to the question of "spirit and purpose." It is of course questionable whether any given speech can much affect these intangibles, and they are difficult to talk about without sounding trite. But even at the expense of that danger, we think the President was quite right to direct our attention to them; they are far more crucial to the actual state of the union than the more typical list of government initiatives.

Whether such an address can do the President any political good we do not pretend to know; so much of the nation still habitually expects the sweeping proposal and the glittering promise. But at least this year Mr. Nixon is not conspicuously feeding the habit, and that at least gives hope that it can be changed.

Promoting technology

President Nixon's State of the Union message announced the administration's plan to launch a federal program to further promote the nation's technological advancement, particularly in fields that affect everyone's daily life.

The President's stress on technology is well placed. Perhaps more than anything else, technological advances have been responsible for expanding this nation's economic wealth in the post-World War II era. There can be little doubt that if there is to be further expansion in wealth—or even maintenance of the present level—there will have to be further technological advances.

But it should be kept in mind that there will be a great deal more required for the achievement of new technological advances than new infusions of federal spending. This is particularly true in the fields the President's program will stress, which are other than the space and defense fields where spending has been heavily concentrated in the past. He referred to mass transit and systems of emergency health care as examples of fields that have direct impact on the public.

The federal government already supplies some $15 billion of the $27 billion this nation spends annually on research and development. Certainly some redirection of the federal effort towards new objectives is being demanded by public discontent with such things as the quality of urban services and pollution of the environment.

It is probably inevitable also that redirection will require an expansion of federal spending, despite the nation's very serious federal budget deficit. But specially compared to so much of the other spending that contributes to that deficit, money wisely spent on research and development can yield large dividends to the national economy.

It becomes increasingly obvious, however, that the newer frontiers of technological exploration involve much more than the mere development of ingenious hardware that can carry a man to the moon or solve massive questions. They also heavily involve so-called "software" or "know-how" for solving problems that are only partly reducible to scientific equations. The new problems include sociological and political considerations as well. Mass transit could be more easily supported, for example, if there could be less urban sprawl (a sociological development) and less of a public affinity towards the automobile (a psychological matter). Thus mass transit problems are only partly susceptible to technical solutions.

Still another question is how inventiveness can best be stimulated. Federal grants can be only part of the answer. A larger part is having an economic system that creates incentives for innovation. By that we mean freedom from antiquated rules and practices in labor contracts that inhibit efficiency improvements and government recognition that profits are vital as an economic motivator.

The difficulty of redirecting the nation's research and development efforts towards the solution of new problems should not be underestimated. But it can be done if there is a clear awareness in the administration of the complexities of the task and of the need to enlist the full support of private industry. If there is not that awareness, the new drive could reap frustration and disappointment.

'Subsidies' cost U.S. $63 million during '70

BY BERT MILLS

Washington, D.C.—At least $1 out of every $4 spent by the Federal government goes for a subsidy to somebody, according to Congressional investigators who have made a study showing that in fiscal year 1970 subsidies cost the U.S. at least $63 billion.

By dictionary definition, a subsidy is "pecuniary aid directly granted by government to an individual or private commercial enterprise deemed beneficial to the public." However, in Washington the work is defined more broadly, especially by critics.

The Joint Economic Committee of Congress, which is now studying subsidies, has identified six types of subsidies and put a price tag on four. There are cash subsidies, tax subsidies, credit subsidies, and benefit-in-kind subsidies, all of which can be priced. In addition there are purchase subsidies and regulatory subsidies, which have defied measurement.

Cash subsidies are the best known but not the most expensive. They cost $10-$13 billion annually, including payments to build and operate ships, to encourage farmers to produce or to produce, to induce students to attend college, to build fish ponds and irrigation systems, to persuade business firms to hire certain kinds of workers, to fly airplanes, and even to compensate beekeepers for dead bees.

Tax Subsidies Cost $38 Billion

Most expensive of all are the tax subsidies, which cost $38 billion annually. Their purpose is sometimes obscure. This device is used to encourage military service, accelerate the use of natural resources, by railroad cars, encourage home ownership, spur business to buy machinery, induce individuals to locate abroad, encourage absentee farm ownership, and to aid small business, credit unions, banks, and life insurance companies.

Credit subsidies cost $4-$5 billion, according to the committee which contradicts the accepted view that government loans don't cost anything. Examples are assistance in buying or operating farms, low-cost rural electric and telephone service, financing higher education, building hospitals, aiding small business, and encouraging the construction or rehabilitation of housing.

Benefit-in-kind subsidies, pegged at $10 billion, provide goods or services at reduced prices. Examples include postal service airport and airway facilities, public housing, surplus property, public lands, trees, etc.

Purchase subsidies are those in which the U.S. deliberately pays a premium price, for instance buying farm commodities in order to hold up the price. Regulatory subsidies, a new discovery by the joint committee staff, involve such practices as setting oil import quotas which subsidize producers at the expense of consumers.

Subsidies May Be Good or Bad

While the word "subsidy" has a somewhat invidious connotation, there are both good and bad subsidies. Senator William Proxmire (D., Wis.), Chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, has pointed this out:

"If the public supports the objective of the subsidy, such as increased housing assistance, and subsidy achieves that objective efficiently and equitably, it is a good subsidy. If it does not meet those tests, it is a bad subsidy. Only informed debate can separate the good from the bad."

Senator Proxmire has charged that the mammoth subsidy system "represents a mindless means of spending taxpayers' money," and that the system "seems to be out of control in the sense that it continues to grow despite the fact that we know so little about it."

Subsidies are great when you are on the receiving end but maybe there is a better way of achieving the same objective. That's what the current hearings are all about. If the debate succeeds in spotlighting subsidies that are outmoded or overgrown the taxpayers would be the beneficiaries of any reforms that result.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm may be getting in over his depth this week, but it's probably not the last time.

Dear editor:

A book-reading friend of mine has spent considerable time lately trying to figure out the great Howard Hughes mystery, whether the biography coming out about him is authentic and whether that was Hughes on the telephone with all those reporters denying he'd ever heard of the man who wrote the book.

What this friend doesn't understand is that the selling of snake oil cuts across all levels of society. Whether you're selling patent medicine from the back of a covered wagon or in front of a T.V. color camera via satellite, the ingredients remain about the same and the percentage of suckers remains unchanged. If you're selling books, the vocabulary of the audience widens but the gullibility percentage remains constant. This is known as the first law of human nature.

According to an article I remember reading in a newspaper a few weeks ago, there were 35,000 different books published in the United States last year, or nearly 100 a day. Since this is many times more than any one person could read in a lifetime even if he didn't watch television, slept very little, and didn't even subscribe to the Hereford Brand, naturally the few books that do get bought in the thousands require some of the selling techniques inherited from the men who sold from the backs of covered wagons.

If the writer who said he interviewed Mr. Hughes in cars all around the country really did, it looks like some fingerprints would have been left somewhere. If Mr. Hughes really wanted to remove all doubt about his denying the interviews took place, all he'd have had to do was speak via television or in person instead of by telephone.

I don't usually get off on such literary topics as this, and for all I know everything may be on the up-and-up in this matter, but it is well to remember that flim-flammy is an ancient art not limited to politics and international affairs, and the more advanced man becomes the better it works.

Where can I get hold of a copy of this Hughes book?

Yours faithfully,

J.A.

Talk of Texas

BY JACK MAGUIRE

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY—Clay County, tired of continual raids by the Comanches, once literally gave itself "back to the Indians."

The county was born December 24, 1867, when the Legislature carved it and Montague County out of the western side of Cooke County. It was three years before anybody got around to trying to establish a county government, and by 1862, the residents decided to give up. The Civil War had started, the county was almost denuded of white residents and the few who were left sighed with relief when the legislature recalled its bill organizing Clay.

By 1873, however, the war was over, the Comanches had all but cleared out and the county had some permanent residents again. On November 24, 1873, the Legislature re-created Clay County and Cambridge was selected as the county seat the following year. Later Henrietta was named the county capital. It still is.

SERVICE WITH A GROWL—At Jake Marshall's gas station in Pilot Point, Denton County, a mongrel dog named "Fritz" surprises customers by handing them their credit card slip and the pen with which to sign it.

Fritz, who is half German shepherd and half Dobermanpinscher, also delivers change, totes cans of oil for the attendants to put in the crankcase and does other errands. When he isn't busy helping service cars, he trundles deposits to the bank.

FARMER'S FRIEND—Texas had the first county agricultural agent in the U. S.

He was W.C. Stallings. He was employed on November 12, 1906, as a joint effort of the U.S. Agriculture Department and the Tyler Commercial Club, and was the first agricultural agent in the country to serve only one county.

Stallings served only three years as Smith County agent, but he enlisted 500 farmers in his work. He raised corn yields in the county from 30 to 60 bushels per acre and saw cotton production increase 50 per cent after his modern farming methods were adopted.

SWEETHEART—Josephine Cavasos was beautiful, and Charles E. Barnard thought she was as sweet as sugar. At least, he traded a tribe of wild Indians several pounds of sugar in exchange for her hand.

Barnard operated a Hood County trading post in the middle of the last century. One day a party of Comanches came along with a beautiful girl of Mexican and Italian parentage. It seems that they had captured her during a foray into Mexico. Barnard saw her, was smitten and swapped the sugar for her freedom. They were married and lived happily ever after.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Pressure is increasing for stepped-up benefits for the nation's drone population—the reliefers who live on welfare, food stamps and other allowances. This pressure amounts to a war on productive Americans. Last month, the National Welfare Rights Organization joined with the City of New York—John Lindsey's administration, that is—in filing suit to force the federal government to augment the food stamp program. U.S. Department of Agriculture officials estimate that the augmented program might double the present annual cost.

The taxpayers already are stuck with a bigger bill for the food stamp program. Under new regulations drafted by the USDA, an additional 1 1/4 million persons will start receiving the food stamp handouts this year. Ironically, the taxpayers also are paying for the law suit filed against the government. The lawyer who filed the suit for the welfare organization is a Legal Service attorney.

Legal actions of this sort should arouse the ire of the producing majority in this country. There seems no limit to the number of subsidized lawyers, lobbyists and special pleaders for non-working people. Food stamp recipients aren't satisfied with a basic diet. For many of them, luxuries have become necessities. Anyone who has seen food stamp recipients in supermarket check-out lanes understands what's happened. Moreover, the standard of poverty is constantly being revised upward to include more and more people.

Now and then productive, working people win a battle. For example, in December the Congress approved a measure—sponsored by Sen. Herman Talmadge of Georgia—that required welfare recipients to sign up for jobs or job training. Liberal politicians raged and stormed. One would have thought Congress had insisted that six-year-olds be made to work in local mines. One thing liberals insist upon is that collectors of welfare checks never be required to work. That's against a liberal's principles.

The food stamp struggle and the work requirement hassle are skirmishes compared to the major conflict involving the Nixon administration's Family Assistance Plan. A bipartisan block of liberals will endeavor to pry the welfare expansion plan out of the Senate Finance Committee and get the bill approved by the full Senate before spring. It is terribly important, therefore, that taxpaying citizens organize powerful counter pressures. These pressures are needed because the White House is working hand in glove with liberal forces in Congress to obtain passage of the welfare scheme. It is interesting to note, in this connection, that Joseph Iershaw, former (1965-68) director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, has praised Mr. Nixon's FAP giveaway plan, "The Washington Post" also is backing the administration's plan that would double the number of people on welfare.

Taxpaying citizens haven't realized that the principal purpose of the welfare and food stamp advocates is to transfer the taxpayers' money to the indolent and unproductive. The effort isn't humanitarian, for its effect will be to impoverish the working people who are capable of energizing the economy.

Handout projects come in every shape and form. This year, for example, the Department of Housing and Urban Development will start a pilot project of "housing allowances." Ten million dollars will be made available so that the federal government can pay the difference between 25 per cent of a family's monthly income and the going rate for housing. These family allowances also can be used for home purchases under Section 235 of the 196 Housing Act. Many productive citizens won't be able to buy a home this year or rent the type housing they want. But a new privileged class of dependent citizens will be given "housing allowances" so that they can have what they desire.

Moonshine history is adventure saga

A history of moonshining makes for an interesting book. Moonshine: Its History and Folklore, by Esther Kellner, new in Deaf Smith County Library. The discovery of distillation and its advance into America demanded revenue men to enforce the law, one of whom was Big Six Henderson.

Lorene Newman, librarian, and her assistants are ready to help you find this or any book you may want. The library is open from 9 to 12 noon and 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday.

MOONSHINE: ITS HISTORY AND FOLKLORE

By Esther Kellner
Tucked away in the hills of Kentucky and the wooded parts of southern Indiana, in the recessed areas of a country's history and folk-ways, is the story of moonshine: how it grew, why it grew and how it survived. With a history that stretches across the Atlantic, moonshine grew out of the ancient discovery of distillation brought to Spain by the Moors of North Africa throughout Europe and finally to America. The process filtered blossomed in Ireland.

From the first day of a tax on Irish spirits in the early seventeenth century, moonshining became a life-style that found its roots in America with the arrival of the earliest pioneers.

This seldom explored subculture reveals much about the determination and spirit that came to represent the American character. Moonshining survived wars, insurrections, depressions, temperance movements, prohibition and the Internal Revenue Service.

This is also the saga of the revenue men who stalked through the rugged booby-trapped terrain, warding off rattlesnakes and stray rifle fire to enforce the federal law. Giant among them was Big Six Henderson, who looked and worked like a cross between Matt Dillon and John Wayne.

In his years as a revenue man he sent more than 500 violators to federal prison, located and destroyed stills, poured out millions of gallons of mash and white lightning, and became a legend in his own time. Big Six was later made a United States marshal.

This colorful book, which represents more than two years of research, is filled with moonshiners past and present, many of whom gave the author their trust, their recipes, and their most uncanny stories of stills, raids, wily snares set for the revenue men and adventures never published until now.

FOXWAY

By Richard Jessup

Even before Terry Foxway lunged at the guard's throat, he had been found guilty.

Guilty of surviving—gracefully, flawlessly—in a world which had not been generous to those around him. Guilty of being both young and certain of himself. Guilty of being loved by a warm and beautiful woman. Guilty, most of all, of having learned to live without fear.

Foxway: the chilling story of a youthful Vietnam hero who returns to America and finds the war zone still around him. Of his girl, Nina, whose love shields them both—at least for a time—from the new and threatening enemy. Of the tired and bitter and disappointed people who find in this couple a focus for their confused and painful emotions.

Foxway's drama is powerful, relentless—its conclusion, shattering and inevitable. This is a book about America today, about the way we live now, and die now, and what has happened to our country.

Local families are buying better homes

With incomes such as they are locally, many local families are in the market for new homes.

They have been house hunting for a long time but have been unable to get what they wanted. The selection was small and the prices high. More recently, however, the situation has improved.

Some guidelines on home buying for families in various income brackets come from the Federal Housing Administration, the American Bankers Association and others.

In general, they say that the cost should not be much greater than twice the family's annual income. Those with small incomes sometimes have to go as high as 2.5 times their earnings. On the other hand, those in the upper brackets may spend only 1.5 times their income to obtain suitable homes.

On that basis, Deaf Smith County families whose incomes are close to the local average are in a position to buy more expensive housing than families in many other communities.

That is because the local average is relatively high, amounting approximately $11,200 gross per family, according to the latest figures.

Applying the recommended rule of thumb, those in the area with average income could therefore safely buy homes costing up to $23,000.

Many Deaf Smith County families have earnings that are well above the norm and others have less. Those in the upper ranges can afford more expensive homes, at the same time using a smaller proportion of income in doing so.

As a guide to carrying costs, including mortgage payments, taxes, insurance, maintenance and utilities, the latest report shows that the average purchasers of homes bought with mortgages insured by the FHA took on monthly payments equal to nearly one-fifth of their income.

Because of the tight market in recent years, houses have gone up steeply in price. In Deaf Smith County, the median price rose 30 percent in the past 10 years.

An important message for people who prepare their own income tax returns.

Maybe you've been cheating yourself all these years.

Every year, between January and April, millions of people sit down to do battle with Uncle Sam. Some are "self styled" accountants. Others think they can save a few dollars doing it themselves—so why not?

The sad truth is, however, no matter what their reason was for starting, many of them end the same. On the short end. You see, when it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H&R Block. We have all the facilities to help you make "income tax time" a pleasant experience. To begin with, H&R Block now has over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained personnel who are anxious to help you. They'll sit you down over a free cup of coffee and show you some things about your income tax that you might never have known existed. For example, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? And maybe you aren't aware that if your income increased last year, you may be able to save tax dollars by "income averaging."

Well, when it comes to income taxes, H&R Block is aware of just about everything because we're a company that eats, sleeps, and drinks tax returns 365 days a year.

Yes, maybe you can save a couple of bucks by doing your own return but it really may be costing you a lot more by not having your return done by H&R Block.

By the Garden Gate with Glad

By Mrs. Art Manjeot

Have just returned from seeing a nature picture, North Country. It is truly a great show. To all those who love nature, and are interested in the great outdoors it is most interesting and inspiring. I understand that it has been shown in Hereford (I saw it while in Amarillo). Hope that many of our gardeners, fishermen, hunters and those who enjoy hiking saw it.

After all, nature is one of God's greatest gifts to us, and perhaps has been more abused than most any of the other riches of the world. It behooves all of us to be well aware of the abundant life of the woodlands, the waters, the air, mountains, and our great land in general. In truth it all should be well preserved and every measure of conservation that we know should be practiced.

The past week I have been reading and studying along the lines mentioned. A book that is very revealing of the soil, and its assets is "The Stubborn Soil," by William A. Owens. It is good reading for the horticulturist, during the long winter nights. The changes which have been wrought, and the battles fought, won and lost while working with the soil is good reading.

Our dependence upon the soil for our sustenance is much more than most of us realize. There are countless plants, trees, vegetables, field crops, etc. on which our very life depends.

While in Hawaii, I was much impressed by the various food plants which are grown there, and how very much the economy of the islands is dependant upon these. Every meal we ate, we shared some of the foods produced on the Islands. For example coffee, Taro (similar to a potato, tough and fibrous) and banana (many varieties). I learned that the purple banana is the tastiest and perhaps the most nutritious of any of those produced there.

The papaya family produces a valuable fruit. The growth of the fruit is similar to the coconut; however, it is not as large in size and the tree which produces the fruit does not reach the height of the coconut. The inside of the fruit is lined with small black seeds like b-b shot. It is eaten raw, or cooked, and makes delicious jam and nectar. I liked the raw very much; it was very tasty, and when served on a fruit plate, really a delicious morsel. The fresh fruit is a good source of calcium, sugar and other vitamins. It is also used with the preparation of other foods to tenderize them.

Pineapples (hala kahiki) was perhaps my favorite fruit or food of the Islands. It is a native of Brazil, and when first introduced to Hawaii, it was known as pina (Spanish name). Perhaps the first crops were grown in 1850, and soon thereafter shipments were attempted to California, but spoilage was one of the factors which discouraged the natives. There are many varieties, and later it was learned that Hilo was the best for shipping. As early as 1892, Dole started his plantations in Wahiawa. The Hilo is chiefly grown on the Island of Kauai. It was on this island that we saw the fields of pineapple, in large acreages. I was thrilled to be able to see the harvesters in the fields. This was most interesting, and one could write pages of informative items relative to it. Not only is the pineapple known for the delicious fruit, but other bi-products are made from the pineapple, such as syrup, alcohol, citric acid, fertilizer, pineapple bran and candied tid-bits. The economy of Hawaii is certainly dependant in a great measure on the pineapple, the annual crop if the Dole corporation is estimated at $120,000,000, and they exceed all other canning companies of the world combined. A most fascinating food plant of our 50th state is sugar cane. While touring the islands, it was our pleasure to see the harvesting of the cane, also to enjoy eating some of the raw cane as it comes fresh from the field. To me it was very interesting and informative to hear and learn how it is propagated.

The history of this great food crop is fascinating. It is a perennial grass, only one known in cultivation, probably originated in pre-historic times. The crop is produced from cuttings, five crops from each planting. The seed, which appear like feathery plumes of pinkish lavender then fades to white, is twelve to 24 inches long. However, even though the maturity is marked by the seed stages, it is not used to propagate the cane. It grows best at near sea-level, ripening time takes twelve to thirty months, and in many fields we noted that they were irrigated.

Growing of sugar cane first was grown in 1935, and today it is one of the chief money crops of the Islands, and is estimated to be worth, (each annual crop) approximately $150,000,000. It is a most efficient industry and is highly mechanized. The cane sugar produces more sugar per man-hour and pays higher wages than any other sugar. By-products are molasses, alcohol, bagasse (fuel, wall-board and plastics) and fertilizer. The cane tops are used for feed for the cattle. The yield per acre averages sixteen tons.

One of the things I noted other than those mentioned was the fact that great fields are being destroyed, and in their place people from other states are coming in and erecting large motels, places of entertainment, recreational areas, etc. The question that came to my mind, how would this effect their economy? The tourists business is probably the one great factor in their economy, but if this should be turned to other islands or countries, what then??

Other popular fruit foods were the mangoes and passion from these were both tasty, and their growth patterns and uses were amazing to us Texans.

Since one of my very favorite foods is coconut, I want to mention this great tree, perhaps best known to the Islanders as the Coco-Palm. While touring on the Island of Gardens we saw and visited in the world's largest coconut grove. The height of the massive trees is magnificent and amazing. However there are some varieties that have short trunk trees, but in all varieties the fruit grows in the cluster of verdant leaves at the trunk's top. The leaves are sometimes 18 feet long, and the spread of the cluster is massive. The coconuts ripen in nine to ten months. A smooth husk surrounds a thin-hard-shelled nut with an inside lining of white, oily and edible pulp filled with sweet water. The outer husk serves as a preservative to the enclosed nut, and will protect it for months in water and on land. The coconut also has many bi-products, one of my very favorites is the coconut syrup. The most delectable breakfast one can have is hot waffles, (with nuts) served with butter and coconut syrup. I brought two small jugs home with me, and it is certainly used sparingly... just for special treats, when I need a lift.

Another unusual tree grown in Hawaii which adds to its economy is the monkeypod... (rain tree—'ohai).

It is one of the loveliest shade trees that I have ever seen, and its spread and coloring along with textural qualities makes it a lovely tree to look at, and to have on ones property. The leaves form an umbrella over the tree, closing at night and sometimes on overcast days. The pods are about 8 inches in length and resemble a monkey's ear. The flowers grow in tufted heads and are of a nice pink color. The pods are very tough with light and dark streaks. Wood products such as bowls, ornaments, and many other carved products are made from the wood of the Monkey Pod tree. I venture to say that perhaps every tourist that visits the Islands brings back one or more of the beautiful pieces of carved wood. (Come to see me and I will serve you sweets or other tid-bits from one of mine.)

Beautiful flowering trees such as the African Tulip, Kassod Tree, Royal Poinciana, Pink and White Shower, and Golden Shower all add beauty and intrigue to the landscape, whether public parks, homes, or ranch lands. They are so very colorful, as are also the gorgeous poinsettias, and bougainvillea (these are large flowering shrubs) but they were at their height of beauty when we were there. Great masses of vivid color in many places. The beauty was so great that it was almost breathtaking... especially to Glad, who really does thrill at good landscaping and beauty created by flowering and or other plants and trees.

BEWARE: Of the ground while frozen, check for damages. Perennial beds should be mulched after a hard freeze, but do not pack the mulch too tightly. Spread a generous layer of your favorite mulch after the soil is frozen. Also watch carefully the shrubs and other plants and water if the ground seems to be dried out, or the plants wind-burned.

Don't forget the birds. The other morning I saw a beautiful robin in the backyard, and I busied myself in preparing a place for him to feed and water.

A $10 million 100-bed hospital to be known as the Children's Medical Center of New York will be built at New Hyde Park in Nassau County. Completion is expected in 1975.

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: PRINCE ARN SEES VERY LITTLE OF HIS FRIEND GIAN DURING THE FIRST DAYS OF HIS VISIT TO DONDARIS, BECAUSE THE FUNERAL OF GIAN'S FATHER, THE KING, IS REPLETE WITH TRADITIONAL CEREMONY. BUT IN WANDERING ABOUT THE LUXURIOUS CITY ARN HAS THE SAME FEELING GIAN EXPRESSED: THERE SEEMS TO BE AN UNDERCURRENT OF FEAR.

"TOMORROW IS THE DAY OF MY CORONATION, BUT I AM UNEASY. THE COUNCIL PUTS ME OFF WHEN I SEEK INFORMATION, ASSURING ME THAT EVERYTHING IS FINE," SAYS A WORRIED GIAN. "YET THERE IS A DEFINITE FEELING OF APPREHENSION AMONG THEM."
"PERHAPS," OBSERVES ARN, "THE RULING NOBLES WISH YOU TO BE A MERE FIGUREHEAD."

THE CORONATION OF KING GIAN. IN THE GREAT HALL, UNDER THE TATTERED BANNERS OF DEFEATED ARMIES, GATHER THE NOBLES OF DONDARIS IN ALL THEIR SPLENDOR OF SILKEN ROBES AND FLASHING JEWELS. AND ARN, LOOKING DOWN FROM A BALCONY ON ALL THIS SHOW OF OPULENCE, THINKS: 'DONDARIS IS LIKE A FLOWER THAT HAS REACHED ITS FULL BLOOM AND THE TIME HAS COME FOR IT TO WITHER.'

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Yesterday my little boy came home from school with the cutest class project you have ever seen.

It was a little fish made of thin foam rubber and filled with a small bar of soap, like the ones you get at hotels and motels. On the back was attached a little note which read:

I'm just a little fish
With nothing much to do
So I filled myself with soap
And swam right up to you.
A Proud Mother

I'm sure there isn't a child around that would not enjoy taking a bath with this adorable little fish. And so easy to make.

Just cut two egg-shaped pieces of foam rubber for the body, a quarter-moon shape for the tail, and a little fin. Put the soap in between the two layers of the body and stitch along the edges.
Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:
Please tell your pregnant lady readers that there's great comfort to be had at the beach if they want to take a winter vacation.

Buy a child's sand shovel, and dig a nice round hole in the sand. Then spread your towel or beach blanket over this hole, and you can lie down on your tummy, nicely cradled by soft sand.

Marvelous for those of us who are saying, "How I'd love to be able to stretch out on my tummy and relax!"
Ellen Maloney

IT'S YOUR MOVE

DEAR HELOISE:
When I'm packing to move, I make it easier to identify what is in each box, by coding the boxes with numbers such as 5-0-3, 6-0-7, etc.

Then as I fill each box, I make a list of contents under each code number. When I need to find a certain article after I reach my destination, all I have to do is look on my coded list.

Sure saves time and temper.
Ethel Ivey

"A" IS FOR "ATE"

DEAR HELOISE:
For my son's first birthday, I made him an A.B.C. cake just like his alphabet blocks. Just cut a large rectangular cake into two equal parts and ice with chocolate icing. Then place one half on top of the other.

Decorate with edging and letters of pink and blue frosting or whipped cream applied with a cake decorator. It is just adorable.
Mary Cummings

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

A FLOWER ARRANGEMENT

DEAR HELOISE:
To make cemetery flower arrangements that won't blow away, arrange artificial flowers in a small soup can and fill the can three-fourths full of melted paraffin and let cool.

This fits nicely in those embedded cemetery vases and the weight of the wax keeps the wind from blowing them away.
Dorothy Young

NO SOAP!

DEAR HELOISE:
Here is another solution for what to do with the last inch or so of a bar of soap. I put mine in a plastic sandwich bag, which can be conveniently carried in a purse or pocket when we take a trip.

We travel a lot by auto and often find public restrooms (including those in many restaurants) out of soap. These slivers are most welcome then, and I always leave mine for the next traveler.
Steady Reader

If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share... write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper.

FOLLOW SUIT!

DEAR HELOISE:
I baby-sit my grandchildren a great deal and have discovered that when play-suit straps, jumper suit straps and swim suit straps won't stay on little shoulders, an old sweater guard does a good job.

The little girls think they are wearing jewelry. And they are so inexpensive to buy at the dime store if you need to invest in one.
Alice Kinney

EGGS-CELLENT!

DEAR HELOISE:
Next time eggs are on the breakfast menu, try slipping them into small fluted metal molds and put into the top of your poacher pan.

You'll have daisy-shaped eggs.
Be sure to oil the molds first. Then when you go around them with a knife after they are cooked, the eggs will slip out easily.
Bev

WIG AND PIN

DEAR HELOISE:
I just recently took a cross-country trip with my college-age son in his small foreign convertible.

I had never owned a wig, but after spending one day on the road I took the plunge. But one thing calls for another and I found after buying the wig that I needed a wig case too.

Well, I bet you can't guess what I came up with? We planned to do some fishing along the way and I happened to spy my son's minnow bucket. It is one of those tall, skinny plastic foam types with a nylon rope handle.

That little wig stand and wig just fitted in it perfectly. I secured the lid with a couple of the wig pins and we were on our way.

He just "thinks" he's going to get his minnow bucket back when we get home.

WHO'S HAMPERS?

DEAR HELOISE:
We recently acquired two heavy "feed" barrels made of pasteboard which I promptly made into hampers.
I covered each with adhesive-backed paper and cut a circle of this paper for the lids. Then, as I had two leftover drawer pulls, I put one on each barrel lid by punching holes through the lid to match those on the pull.

Now I've two good hampers and corner fillers -

DIET DESSERT

DEAR HELOISE:
Anyone who has ever been on a diet knows how difficult it is to pass up dessert. A delicious dessert for dieters is frozen yogurt. Be sure to pick up the pre-mixed low-calorie yogurt and put it in the freezer overnight.
Some of the fruit flavors taste just like sherbet.
