

Wheat Harvest Slow; Tests 46 To 60; No Guess On Average

Around Town

Hereford banks, county office, the selective service office, the city office, the light and gas offices and the Charm-Aid and Beauty Mart beauty shops will be closed tomorrow for the July holiday.

Campaigning on the same principle as the Red Cross, representatives of the United Service Organizations will canvas the town tomorrow in an effort to raise Hereford's quota of $350, to help provide wholesome out-of-camp recreation for men in our armed forces.

Glenn Smith is new fountain pen at Halle Drug.

Leo Rogers made no statement about his eagerness to get into the army, but he was the number one registrant at the selective service board on Tuesday morning.

Mary Turrentine, who has been working for Miss Sadie Lee live, is working in the county clerk's office. She is taking the place of Mrs. Bessie Smith, who is now in Deaf Smith County hospital for an operation.

County Judge A. J. Schroeter, who commutes between Hereford and Austin—all in the line duty—is taking his vacation home this week.

Band Concert On July 4th Is Plan of Youth Council

Pointing with satisfaction to a good attendance and enthusiasm which greeted the community picnic last Friday night, the youth council this week announced plans for an open air band concert to be given at eight o'clock Friday night at the court house.

Band music and the Fourth of July just naturally go together. The youth council member Richard Petersen, who adds that the band concert is the only official program scheduled for Hereford's July 4 Celebration, and suggests that citizens forget the harvest so long enough to come out and hear the program, which will be under the direction of Donald McCullough.

A crowd of more than 200 persons gathered last week for the picnic, and sponsors were grateful for the splendid co-operation they received in putting over the entertainment, which was announced "tops" by those who attended.

Stanger Potato Processing Plant To Open

Opening of the A. G. Stanger potato processing plants in Hereford was this week announced by H. E. Young, manager, who said that two plants will be operated here, according to present plans.

Construction has already started on a warehouse to be built adjoining the Santa Fe freight depot and Mr. Young announced leasing of the Broadwell building on East Third Street; both places will be used for processing and storage of onions and potatoes.

Assisting Mr. Young is Alvin Jones; both men are from Idaho Falls, Idaho, and both are prominent in packing and marketing of potatoes. Mr. Young served for several years as manager of the Idaho Falls Potato Growers Assn.

They said that they will be ready to start processing when producers begin gathering the 1941 crop within a few days.

Total Defense Saving Securities Sales Are $1275.30 For June

Sales of defense savings securities took a sharp upward curve in June, according to figures released at the post office and banks this week.

Sales of bonds at the banks were $918.75 with bonds in the amount of $281.25 being sold at the post office, which also lists $75.30 for the sale of defense savings stamps. Total bond sales in Hereford for the month were $1200, which more than triples the figure for May sales.

Postmaster J. R. Lipscomb and members of the defense savings committee expressed gratification at the upward turn of public interest in the defense securities and expressed the belief that after harvest sales will improve still more.

Potato Growers Will Study Labor Needs At Monday Meeting

All potato growers are asked to meet Monday night, July 7, at the courthouse to make plans for securing needed labor for the potato harvest which will probably be underway in the county in two or three weeks.

The meeting is called to get spud growers to make an estimate on the number of men they will need and the time when harvest will start on the various farms. As soon as an accurate estimate on the needs of the county is prepared, the representative of the state employment service can start calling labor from other sections where work is slow.

It is urged that potato growers attend this meeting and make the report on labor needs as accurate as possible. An accurate statement now will probably save loss of time when harvest starts.

Black-Out Gets Backing of Citizens or G. J. Paddock has co-operated by asking that citizens observe the voluntary lights-out signal. Merchants will turn out lights in their stores. And in anticipation of the crowd which is expected in Hereford Saturday to witness the first black-out in the Panhandle, special "black-out" values are being offered in all lines to the Saturday shoppers.

Anti-Aircraft Protection Anti-aircraft protection for the city will be furnished by the American Legion, and air raid wardens will be members of the local fire department. The co-

Continued rains this week brought wheat reports from all Hereford Elevators which would be summed up as "Very little and very wet." Tests were running from 46 to 60 with an average of perhaps 58 pounds on most wheat harvested.

Elevator men agreed that no estimate could yet be made on any possible total yield or an average yields for the territory, but some yields here seemed to be much higher than those reported over much of the Panhandle.

Wheat on Jim Bob Allison's farm, eight miles north of town, was reported to be making 45 bushels an acre with a test of 60; but in most places so little had been cut that farmers were unable to guess how much they might make.

Harvest had started in all communities with binders in greater use than at any time in recent years because of the wet ground and falling wheat making combining impossible in many places.

An optimistic report on barley and oat prospects came from most communities. From Frisco came information that some barley was making as high as 87 bushels, and Hardy Benson at Ford was making 75 bushels.

Binding of barley and oats was in full swing and with good prices for both grains, it was thought that a good income from the small grain crops would be received.

Commissioners Warn Farmers To Keep Water Out Of Bar Ditches

Pointing out that several warnings have been issued to farmers who run water into bar ditches along the road, members of the commissioners' court today said that fines will in the future be imposed upon all persons who violate the regulation. "No additional warning will be given," they said. "In the future all violators will be brought to town and fined. The roads are county property and all violations are subject to fine of from $25.00 to $500.00."

They also said the same law applies to dumping rubbish in the city park.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. What is a U. S. Defense Savings Bond?

A. This Bond is proof that you have loaned money to the United States Government for national defense. Your Bond bears interest at the rate of 2.9 percent a year if held to maturity (ten) years.

Q. Why should I buy Defense Bonds?

A. Because money talks. To dictators it speaks defiance. To friends of freedom, it says, "Here's my hand!"

NOTE:—To purchase Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

operation of the state department of public safety is being asked to prevent any traffic mishaps during the few minutes of darkness. The practice black-out idea is not fantastic. It has already been tried in parts of New Mexico, and the United Service Organizations sponsored a black-out in Dallas last week, where a city defense council, along plans outlined by civilian defense administrator F. H. LaGuardia, is being organized with trained rescue units and volunteer squads for cleaning up debris and removing time-bombs.

Two years ago this would have been a fantastic idea in Hereford England, but now huge air monsters, nose down over the business district; the streak of a missile shrieks down and stone walls crumple like paper. Little silver flashes whiny down onto the roofs and houses blow up in a white hot flare. "I hope," you will say, "it never happens here." And the best way to prevent it is to be ready when it comes—so citizens of this territory will work together to make the Hereford black-out as realistic as possible.

Forty Youths Sign With Selective Service Board In 2nd Registration

Forty young men who had reached the age of 21 since the draft registration in October last year, signed up with the local selective service board on Tuesday of this week.

Red Cross Group Hears Division Representative

A meeting in the county court room Tuesday afternoon brought together about twenty possible Red Cross workers to hear G. D. Montag, field representative of the Red Cross in this area, discuss Red Cross work, and saw tentative plans made for organization of a senior chapter to engage in relief work.

Opened by Mr. Montag with a description of Red Cross procedure in the foreign relief field, the meeting went on to discuss definite steps in organization procedure and to analyze reasons for Hereford's failure to organize a senior red cross. It was pointed out by John Olson, county chairman that this town is far ahead of most cities in its Junior Red Cross work.

Mrs. W. E. Dameron reminded the group of the splendid relief work done by the Hereford Chapter during World War 1, and expressed the belief that only a leader and a definite plan will be needed to start work now.

Possibilities of delegating responsibilities to various clubs of the town and county were brought out, and a representative of the Child Study Club told of the work of that organization in making twelve garments last year.

Discussing Plainview's as an active and efficient Red Cross Chapter, Mr. Montag suggested (Continued on Page 8, Sec. 1)

Drowning Claims Third Victim of Season Here

Funeral services were to be held today for Kenneth Ray Evans, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Evans of Sims Community, who was drowned yesterday afternoon at about 12:30 o'clock, in a watering tank on his father's farm.

The child was dead when rescued from the water. The Evans baby is the third drowning victim here within the past month, previous victims being Joyce Burnett, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Burnett, and last week, Ralph Benjamin Buse, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Buse.

Rev. W. E. Barnes will conduct the funeral services.

Girls Get Idea; Will Beat The Heat With Union

"Heaven will protect the working girl," Marie Dresler used to sing. Which is maybe quite true, according to Ruby Carmichael, one of the Hereford white collar fraternity, but in the meantime the working girl may get pretty hot and uncomfortable.

Ruby is unofficial sponsor of a union unofficially known as the O. F. F. C. C. W. G.—in other words, removed from the New Deal Soup—the order for the protection, coolness and comfort of the working girl.

To get down to cases, Mrs. Carmichael's idea is anklets for wear to work. "It's cool, comfortable and sensible," says Ruby of her brain-child. "And," she adds, "there's nothing except fear to keep it from becoming standard (Continued on Page 8, Sec. 1)

O'Daniel Wrests Last-Minute Victory In Senate Race; Noses Out Johnson With 1095 Votes

W. Lee O'Daniel, wonder-man of Texas politics, who was chosen senator in a hotly contested race, getting the decision after Lyndon Johnson had been generally conceded winner. O'Daniel plans are said to include a trip to Washington with his sound truck and hillbilly band.

W. Lee O'Daniel, Texas' professional amateur politician, was Wednesday conceded victory in the dramatic finish of a campaign for the job of Junior U. S. senator.

O'Daniel seized victory after Congressman Lyndon Johnson had led the field for two days following Saturday's voting; and election bureau officials had stated that only a miracle could pull the governor through. The victory—and the miracle—came in the form of delayed votes from the "forks of the creek," admittedly the governor's strong-hold.

Congressman Johnson, blessed by the New Deal, had carried all the large cities in Texas. Final tabulations of the Texas Election Bureau gave O'Daniel a margin of 1,095 votes, with total figures showing: O'Daniel, 175,368; Johnson, 174,273; Attorney General Gerald C. Mann, 140,853; U. S. Rep. Martin Dies, 80,601.

July 4 Will See Nation-Wide Program Celebrate Rededication To Liberty

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT The approach of Independence Day this year will kindle in all American hearts an appreciation of the dark days that preceded and followed July 4, 1776. Those were the times that tried men's souls even as are these times in another crisis in American life.

But these days are also days of hope and as the birthday of American Independence draws near it is altogether fitting that we should rededicate ourselves to defend and perpetuate those inalienable rights which found true expression in the immortal Declaration. Those words never had a deeper or more solemn meaning for America than they have in this hour of anxiety and peril.

The Fourth of July has always been a happy festival, a day of joy and exaltation in which all Americans have sought something of the spirit of liberty which the Fathers of the Republic proclaimed to all the world on that midsummer day in Philadelphia in 1776. It has been essentially a home festival.

I am glad, therefore, to learn that the Office of Civilian Defense is to lead the Nation this year in a grand rededication to liberty on the Fourth of July. I commend this celebration to Americans everywhere to the end that in this solemn commemoration we may find renewed faith in the blessings which are ours because of the struggle and sacrifice, the courage and fortitude and vision of those who made this Nation a reality.

THE PLAN The Fourth of July rededication is to take place simultaneously throughout the nation at 1:00 p. m., Pacific Coast Time; 2:00 p. m., Mountain Time; 3:00 p. m., Central Time; 4:00 p. m., Eastern Standard Time; and 5:00 p. m., Eastern Daylight Time.

The rededication will begin with a five-minute radio speech by President Roosevelt. This will be followed by the playing of national anthem started by the U. S. Marine Band in Washington, and picked up by bands all over the country. Following national anthem, all citizens led by the President will repeat the Oath of Allegiance to the United States.

The total time for the rededication ceremony will be about ten minutes.

YOUR PART As an American you have a part in the rededication wherever you may be. At home, at the beach, in the mountains, on a picnic, at the theatre, at the ball game, have a radio turned on, listen to the President, join in singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and repeat the Oath of Allegiance. This rededication ceremony need not interfere with any other patriotic Fourth of July effort you may wish to undertake. However, under any circumstances, join with the President at 3:00 p. m., July 4, in personally renewing your oath of allegiance to the United States of America.

Oil Is Country's No. 1 Strategic Mineral; Texas Is No. 1 Producer

AUSTIN—Recognition of oil as the country's No. 1 strategic mineral is indicated by the recent appointment of Harold L. Ickes as national coordinator of the petroleum industry during the present crisis.

With Texas producing 40 per cent of the nation's oil, the economic importance of oil to the state and the nation cannot be overestimated, nor can too much attention be paid to the problem of its conservation.

The job of fitting the oil industry into its proper place in the state's industrial picture, of educating the people of the state to recognize its significance and its role in the future development of the state is being done by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, directed by Dr. A. B. Cox.

Basic statistics are regularly and promptly collected which reveal the size of the oil industry—(a) value of production, shown in income and studies, (b) payrolls in production and refining ends of the industry as well as thousands upon thousands of small industries which depend on or help service the oil industry, and (c) movement of crude oil to refinery stills, reflecting market demands for Texas oil.

Approaching the economic structure of the industry from the income point of view, Dr. F. A. Bnechel, bureau statistician, not only arrives at state-wide date on production and payrolls, but also tabulates income from the industry by counties, thus showing its significance to the various communities of the state.

Land owner's oil income, he points out, is derived from rentals, bonuses and royalties on production, thereby prevailing almost every community in Texas. Farmers and ranches obtain income from the leasing of their land, whether production is actually obtained or not; in proven areas, they receive royalties on production. For example, in south and West Texas during the depression, ranchers gathering in hotels stopped talking about cattle and sheep and instead exchanged words about leases, wildcats and barrels-per-well.

The bureau is trying to give the people of Texas a more realistic idea of the benefits of oil to this state, of the diffusion of its income throughout the state," he said. "During the economic depression when the bottom dropped out of agricultural markets, income from oil and gas had a very salutary effect on the economic structure of Texas—and still does.

Last year, for example, the total income of Texas amounted to about $2,675,000,000, or 7 per cent higher than in 1929. Income from minerals—chiefly oil—amounted to $800,000,000, or about double what it was in 1929. Agriculture—formerly the state's biggest industry accounted for $575,000,000 of the state's income last year, the highest figure since 1929 but still $50,000,000 less than in 1929.

Statistics Published
These statistics are published monthly in the Texas Business Review, issued by the bureau. In addition, the bureau upon request supplies to any firm, large or small, special data which are useful in establishing any particular trade territory of the state. Many firms use the statistical data about the oil industry as the basis for expansion or contraction of operations in a particular area. The oil industry itself uses the data as a composite reflection of conditions within the industry and to point to the necessity for expansion or retrenchment.

The bureau's statistical services show the dollar-and-cents value of the oil industry to the people of Texas.

On the other hand, the analysis and interpretation of the oil industry against the background of the whole economic development of Texas and the Southwest is essential to future progress along sound lines.

The analysis is being made by Elmer H. Johnson, bureau regional economist.

He is studying first, the economic importance of oil to the state and country from an industrial and commercial viewpoint, and second, the use of its components as chemical raw materials.

He is interpreting both these factors—in monthly Review articles as well as in other publications and in personal conferences—from the angle of regional significance.

Actual Potential Studied
Attacking the problem of oil production from the regional viewpoint, he is studying actual production of each district to date, its probable potential production based on the region's geology, and the length of time the state can depend on that district to continue to produce oil in substantial quantities.

Considering the refining end of the industry, he is concerned with new products, such as toluol, the essential material of high explosive, and butadiene, a basic ingredient of artificial rubber; and with markets open to Texas-produced gasoline, lubricants, fuel oil and other products.

His analyses of production deal with the regional sources of oil income, past, present and potential; his studies of refining are concerned with the marketing problems of Texas-surplus products.

"One of Texas' most crucial problems is how to dispose of its surplus products," he pointed out. "The oil producer, the farmer, the worker in the oil fields, educators and the man-on-the-street must come to appreciate the unbelievable importance to Texas of this fact.

"We must have an intelligent understanding of why certain industries spring up in areas where raw materials are available, why manufacturing plants are localized in certain areas, why refining plants are concentrated where water transportation is available, why markets in other states and other countries are essential for our surplus products.

"We must come to understand that industrial development is founded on utilization—not exploitation—of our natural resources. This whole thing leads up to conservation—not just prevention of waste, but the most effective utilization of these resources—whether oil or gas or some other product—for all the people of Texas."

HEREFORD

BULL

By Jimmie Gillentine

Last Monday, when Lyndon Johnson was around 5,000 votes ahead, it seemed almost impossible to find anyone who had voted for O'Daniel; however, when he came up from behind to win in a story book finish, O'Daniel men were thicker than 40-bushel wheat.

I had a letter from Roy V. Smith, but I don't think it's the same Roy Smith we knew. Roy is in the engineering corps in the army, you know, and is now stationed at Fort Leonard, Missouri. He says he gets up at 5:30 o'clock every morning, eats breakfast at 6:00, takes physical exercise for 30 minutes, then drills for one hour. The balance of the day is spent in building roads, bridges, trenches, tunnels, barbed wire fences, etc. He continues: "Our barracks are very convenient; two story buildings—30 men upstairs and 30 down; hot and cold water, air conditioned and showers. Our food is above the average with fried chicken and ice cream on Sundays.

This is a very beautiful camp up in the Ozarks, about 100 miles west of St. Louis. There are buses going to the city every weekend, but I have not gone yet. Very glad to hear about all the rain in the Panhandle. See you after the war."

Rufus Sewell says he has a lot of Certified Weed Seed, which he will sell cheap.

It's surprising what people expect of filling stations these days. Form letters from the State Comptroller were received here this week demanding a 2 percent tax on cosmetics and other luxuries, and one was sent to Emmett Milburn's Service Station. Incidentally, taxes are going to get rougher and rougher. Estimates are that income taxes alone will take a national average of one out of each four dollars paid in the United States in the form of salaries and profits; in addition, people will pay ad valorem, special and hidden taxes as usual.

Cheney Hailes is my nomination for the fellow with the largest feet in town. He says he wears the same size shoe as John Pitman and Lee Cocanougher, but I am sure they must hurt Cheney's feet a little bit.

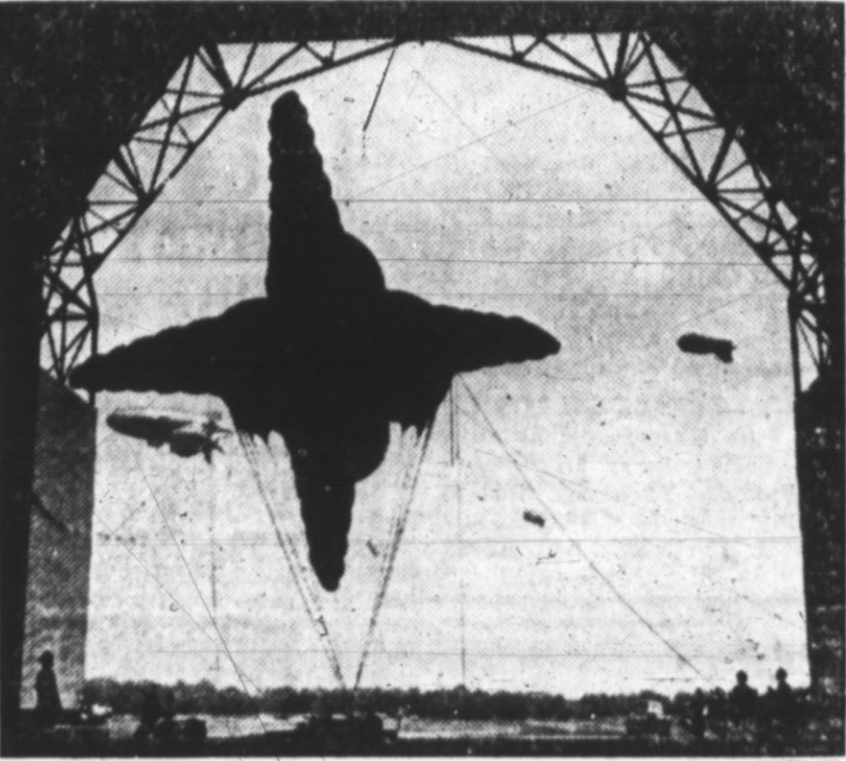

This lawn mower business is awful. It is becoming a demoralizing influence on Roger Corbett, Alton Miller, Bob Thompson and I are willing to admit that we got gyped, but not Roger. He actually tells people that the thing we cut grass; he says his wife, Zenda, mowed three or four feet of grass with it. That's really the reason we bought it, because it weighs only seven pounds—just the right weight for a woman to push conveniently. We even got Mrs. Kinard to try the thing one afternoon and Knox says that's something.

In the July issue of Reader's Digest is an interesting article by Helena Huntington Smith. It is introduced by the quotation: "Where men are men and women are governors and oysters come in cans"; the title is "SO THIS IS TEXAS." The article was most interesting because it points out many of the things which we Texans do from time to time; things which are ordinary to us, yet which appear as strange to other people in other sections of the nation.

Miss Smith says she visited the Texas Panhandle last June. She had heard about our Texas weather, and expected the worst. Instead she found the climate quite agreeable. When she said so, at least six people look pains to assure her that the weather was very unusual.

Texas is probably the only state where this might occur. While the Californian boasts about sunshine and orange trees, the Texas does his blowing in reverse. She says all Texans love to repeat the remark Gen. Phil Sheridan made while military governor of Texas after the Civil War, that if he owned Texas and hell, he would rent out Texas and live in hell. She also tells a popular Texas story about northern. A man was driving a team of oxen; one of them

Texas Out Doors

"Planting" Guadalupe River

Austin.—Many years ago it was believed that just any old body of water would support fish life. No one gave the matter much thought, but things are different today. Now it is known that fish, like human beings, must have proper food and cover if they are to thrive and provide sport for anglers.

The Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission is giving increasing attention to lake and stream management within the means of the limited funds of the Department. The latest development is the planting of several species of plants by the thousands in six miles of one of the parts of the Guadalupe River near Kerrville which is open to public fishing. Incidentally, the Guadalupe is an excellent example of how overgrazing can affect fishing.

A few years ago the wildlife school of A. & M. College made a study of the Guadalupe River in co-operation with the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce and the Kerr County Wildlife Association. It was found that floods, caused by overgrazing of the water shed, were partially responsible for the decrease in the fish population of the Guadalupe. Later tests made by the aquatic biologists of the Game Department disclosed the fact that there was much more food around the plant life in the river than there was in the barren portions of the stream.

Last year a heavier than usual rainfall made the grass and other vegetation grow more abundantly on the range along the river and thus decreased the problem of overgrazing. This year's rains were equally dropped dead of the heat. Before the man could skin it, a norther blew up and froze the other one to death.

She tells about the sandstorm story they were pulling around here this spring in which a prairie dog was seen digging a hole 40 feet in the air; also about the barometer salesman in the Panhandle. The first rancher the salesman met said he had a barometer, pointing to a big rock hanging by a wire to a fence post. "When that blows straight out," he said, "we don't send the boys out to work."

Suppose a tourist drives into a filling station and complains about the wind, says Miss Smith. Anywhere else in the world the attendant would tell him it's unusual. In Texas he says: You call this a wind? You should have been here last week. You could hang your hat on the wall without a nail.

Miss Smith is right. It shows a decided difference of character from California and Florida citizens, yet we are just as proud of our country as those folks ever thought of being. It proves that we are a great bunch of "kidders" out here in Texas; our country is good enough that we can call a spade a spade, grin—and still get the job done. It shows a broad minded attitude. I like it.

Among other things, Miss Smith mentions politics. She says some men were arguing in San Antonio about the election last year and someone said: "If it rains in Texas in June and July, it don't matter a damn who's President of the United

Also mentioned is the fact that Texas was first in 1940 in the number of army volunteers. The Canadian Air Force received so many boys from Texas that it was referred to in a dispatch as the Royal Canadian Texas Air Force.

Miss Smith recalls the Alamo and the pride which we Texans attach to the historic structure. Constitutionally, Texas may divide into five states; a man from New York asked why this didn't occur and after some discussion, J. Frank Doble explained: "But don't you see, Texas couldn't split up. If we did—who'd get the Alamo?"

All in all, it was an excellent article. Every Texan will enjoy it, because it presents a fairly accurate picture of how we live and think.

as hard, or harder, than those last year, but there was no big flooding of the Guadalupe. The vegetation on the range held back the water to an appreciable extent.

Because of the decreasing floods there was more vegetation in the river to provide suitable forage pastures for aquatic insects, microscopic food and forage fish for the more desirable game fishes. The vegetation grew rapidly. Fishing has been better in the Guadalupe this spring than it has been since 1932, when a big flood destroyed much of the vegetation in this clear, cool stream of Hill County.

Kerr County is a member of the small group of counties which have a universal fishing license law in effect. Consequently, part of the Game Department funds are earmarked by law to be spent in that county. A portion of that fund is being used to plant tens of thousands of plants in the river. Barring more floods, the plant life already in the river would probably spread and aid in the rebuilding of the fish population. However, the Game Department's biologists hope to bring about as much increase in the plant life in a year as would be produced normally in five or six years. They have high hopes that fishing will be much better in the Guadalupe next year.

CRAYFISH DESTROY STRAWBERRIES

Rabbits got the blame for destroying strawberry beds owned by Mr. A. Monjot who resides near Angleton, Texas, but to his amazement he rediscovered crayfish, or crawdads, were the villains in the play.

Mr. Monjot reported to Game Department biologists that he suspected rabbits; but when he went to his berry patches recently armed with a shotgun there were no rabbits in sight. However, the ground appeared to be literally crawling with strawberries. Closer investigation revealed crayfish were taking the luscious berries into

CALDWELL, Idaho.—C. Ben Ross finds farming much more remunerative than serving as governor.

Dogs And Airplanes Just Don't Mix

A Missouri flying cadet at Randolph Field with a love for pets, has sworn off giving rides to stray puppy dogs.

While resting between flights at an auxiliary landing spot for the "West Point of the Air," the cadet petted a stray terrier which came sniffing up to the plane.

When the student pilot prepared to take off, the dog whined so loudly that the cadet's heart melted. Fearing the dog would become entangled in the controls in the rear cockpit, the cadet took him into the same cockpit with himself.

The landing at the home field was horrible, to say the least.

The cadet somewhat embarrassedly recounted his experience with the dog:

"Was he trying to get out?" officers asked.

"No," answered the cadet. "But when I strated to land he took a notion he wanted to lick me in the face."

What happened to the dog?

It's staying with a friend of the cadet in San Antonio until he finishes flight training in the U. S. Army Air corps.

"He'll have to learn to cut out the affection when we're in the air, though," the cadet commented.

Garden Club Members Meet At Barnard Country Home

Members of the Garden Club were reminded of the need to know how and how not to use vines in order to get the best results from them in an introduction to the lesson on "Vines" given by Mrs. E. Ramey at the meeting held at the home of Mrs. Dennis Barnard, Friday afternoon. Mrs. Ramey as leader of the program listed the following vines for use in this locality: cypress, cardinal climber, scarlet runner bean or Japanese Morning Glory, for color, the hyacinth bean, heavenly blue morning glory, balloon vine, and for night bloom the white flowered moonvine. She recommended the Canary Nasturtium for a dainty vine. It has finely cut leaves and sprays of small yellow blossoms. For the lack of blooms in the Wisteria Vine, correct planting and pruning were two suggested remedies.

Mrs. L. R. Borge discussed hardy vines, bringing out the thought that the type of vine depends on the type of house, wall or trellis that forms the background. Most vines are of easy culture and given the right kind of soil and exposure, any one can grow them. Gardeners should be concerned with "not whether to plant vines but what kind of vines to plant," Mrs. Borge said.

Reminder for July is "Cosmos, Poinsettias and Castor Beans make excellent background for quick growth."

Mrs. Ted Houston of Boise, Idaho told of the Boise Garden Club activities and Mrs. Timothy Tinsley of New York City told of some interesting combinations of colors in flowers in the East.

During the business session members voted to cooperate with the community recreation project now being sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs.

Those present were Mesdames Clyde Cocanougher, R. L. Borge, Homer Brumley, F. M. Kester, Ralph McCullough, C. H. Dyar, Liston Wilson, Jim Lipscomb, D. H. Alexander, W. N. Lemmon, L. H. Shore, W. A. Drama of the New Air Force

Ry Milland and Wayne Morris are two of the stars of "I Want to Keep 'Em Flying," a sensational film dealing with Uncle Sam's program to "Keep 'Em Flying." Other stars of the picture are Brian Donlevy, William Holden and Veronica Lake, new oomph girl being boosted for the position of the late Jean Harlow.

Most of the picture was filmed in Texas at Randolph Field, and critics have given it four star notices as the best action drama yet built around the national defense effort.

Defense Booms Bring Sanitation Problems

Austin.—"Expansion of the national defense program in Texas has transformed normal population areas into 'boom towns' faced with a multitude of public health problems never before witnessed in this state" declares Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Local government agencies, hard pressed to provide minimum public health protection to this increased population, have been faced with problems of inadequate housing, insufficient water and sewerage supplies, and lack of environmental sanitation to offset the possibility of communicable disease epidemics.

Requests for immediate assistance to provide public health protection to these areas deluge the State Health Department day after day. Fortunately a number of counties, in which defense and military projects were located, had, for some time, maintained standard city and county health departments in cooperation with the State Health Department. Using these existing departments as a nucleus, additional personnel were added to adequately care for pressing needs in the matters of public health protection. El Paso, Dallas, Tarrant, Nueces, and Cameron were among the counties whose public health problems were solved in this manner.

Brownsville, Harlingen, Midland, and Texarkana, where new defense projects, totaling millions of dollars, have recently been located, were equally fortunate in already maintaining city-county health units.

The location of military camps in other areas duplicated problems of the above cities. In setting up public health protection to serve both civilian and military population, sanitation zones were set up in a fifteen mile radius adjacent to the military reservations. County health departments were established at Brownwood, Victoria, Palacios, Mineral Wells and Abilene. Personnel of these health departments devote special attention to the problems of the military camps.

Hummingbirds, especially brave during the nesting season, will rob spider webs and will attack birds much larger than themselves, including hawks and crows and are practically always victorious, due to their speed.

An enjoyable program was presented with piano music given by Bonnie Lou Cooper and vocal selections given by Juanita Wiseman. Mrs. E. Ramey read an appropriate poem which introduced the shower of gifts.

The Patterson home was decorated throughout with pink roses and pink and white larkspur for the party which was in the form of a farewell courtesy to Mrs. Harrington who left the early part of this week for Sprink Lake to make her home.

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

CATCHES "PREHISTORIC MONSTER"

Austin.—Catching of a twenty-five pound paddle fish, commonly but erroneously called a shovellbill catfish, by H. F. Sims, an interior decorator of Electra, Texas, in Diversion Lake near Wichita Falls, not only created much comment in that part of the state, but caused considerable interesting data to be unearthed concerning this strange looking fish.

The paddle, or snout, of the paddlefish is shaped exactly like a duck's bill. The snout on the fish caught by Mr. Sims was 14 inches long. The mouth was about six inches in diameter and the hooded gills made the head appear almost a foot wide.

Paddlefish formerly were common, but due to the fact that their eggs are used as domestic caviar and that their flesh brings the highest premium on the eastern market the species is becoming more rare each year, the executive secretary of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission points out. The flesh of the paddlefish, when smoked, tastes much like sturgeon. Too, the fish have no bones in their bodies, cartilage replacing bones.

Paddlefish, along with gar, sturgeon and grindie, have survived all stages of evolution. Each is still shaped exactly as it was during prehistoric days, when mastodons and saber-toothed tigers roamed the world.

The unusual-appearing fish have been recorded as weighing as much as 162 pounds. One that size was caught in Indiana. It was six feet, two inches long and had a circumference of four feet.

Unusual Nest Site
A pair of ruby-throated hummingbirds picked an unusual place in which to nest, according to The Dallas News. The nest is suspended upon a loop of wire three floors above a concrete patio between The News office and an adjoining building. Workers in the surrounding offices are gravely concerned over the birds.

Apparently oblivious to their surroundings, the birds are going about their business of hatching babies in a nest the size of a golf ball. No mistakes must be made by the tiny birds when they try their first flights. Un-

Sims 4-H Club Studies Ice Cream Making

Sims 4-H Club met in the home of Patsy Jean and Mary Evelyn Hammock on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Oliver demonstrated the making of soft and baked custards, and gave the recipes for Philadelphia Ice Cream and condensed milk ice cream.

The meeting also included a study of the bed room from the point of view of decoration principles and practical arrangement.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Patsy Jean and Mary Evelyn Hammock, Eva Smith, Betty Jo Thuet, Norma Hetzler, Zell Dean Harris, Alpha Phillips and Anna Kate Fortenberry.

Visitors were Wayne Thomas, Billy Thomas, Bonita Harris, Chloe Dell Fortenberry, Mrs. Glenn Hetzler, Mrs. Cord Hammock, and Miss Fortenberry.

For the information of many club girls who do not have the ice cream and custard recipes, Miss Oliver is giving these two basic recipes. They are, she adds, especially good with the many fresh fruits now in season.

George Millard and Joe Green face this week. In fact, they still are beautiful despite the paint can in which they are displayed.

seen in deep conversation on Main Street. No proof, but we'll bet the topic was Indian relics and prehistoric bones. Millard and Green are two of Hereford's most enthusiastic collectors of such items.

Carl Gilliland is the best guesser on the selective service board. He picked 38 as the number of boys who would sign up in the Tuesday registration, and 40 boys actually registered.

At the court house they are saying that Bob Thompson came back from New York with an accent. He denies it, but admits it would be easy to get the eastern habit of saying "That's right" in answer to all questions.

 After wheat has been in storage for 30 days, the inspector will call to measure the bin and take samples in preparation of loan documents. The wheat must be level in the bin and means for inspection must be provided above the top line of the stored wheat. The producer will provide the inspector with a key to the lock for the granary when the

 It is again brought to the attention of producers that in order to be eligible for loan, wheat must not have a moisture content higher than 14%.

Food Supply Of U. S. Ample For Peace Or War

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard this week assured the Nation that American farmers can produce enough food to give the United States an adequate diet and still have enough left over to meet Great Britain's needs. "If we have just ordinary growing weather," Secretary Wickard said, "I think we can avoid the meatless days and milkless days of the First World War. There may be a time when we may wish we had more of certain foods. It is conceivable, of course that we might even have to cut down on consumption of one or two commodities for brief periods. But, generally speaking, unless we have a drought of some unforeseen emergency, we'll have enough for ourselves and Britain too."

Ever-normal Granary Helps

"One reason we will be able to produce enough is that we have the ever-normal granary—with an abundant supply of feed grains—sufficient to meet almost any situation that may arise. Another reason is that, under the national farm programs, the American farmers have conserved and protected their soil resources, and this soil fertility can now be used for added production."

"Of course, where export markets have been lost, we need to cut down on production. Wheat is an example. We have more wheat than we are likely to need for ourselves or anyone else. So a sensible thing to do is to grow less wheat. On May 31 wheat growers voted 4 to 1 in favor of marketing quotas for wheat. Similar quotas already are in effect on two other principal export crops, cotton and tobacco."

Food Crops Being Increased

"Simultaneously with the reduction of crops for which we have lost our export markets, we are increasing the production of needed food crops. We are expanding the production of foodstuffs such as tomatoes, dried beans, eggs, poultry, pork, and dairy products. We need these farm products in greater abundance—for better nutrition in the United States—and for our friends abroad."

"The thing I would like to emphasize is that American agriculture can make the adjustments that are necessary to meet changing conditions. This is something that we could not do in the period of the First World War. Then we had a brief spree of seeming prosperity and after that a long hangover of farm depression."

Adjusting Production Upward

"Today, farmers have had 8 years' experience in working together to achieve production adjustment on a national scale. The same machinery that has been used in the past to adjust production downward can be used just as effectively in adjusting production upward, according to need. This is true of acreage adjustments and storage."

"As I have said, we are using this flexible agricultural plant right now to increase production of some products, in line with our policy to furnish food for Great Britain and to safeguard our own domestic needs."

"Egg production is to be increased sufficiently to supply British needs, and in addition to furnish the United States with as many eggs as we ever used in the year of greatest egg consumption in the past. We hope to increase milk production enough to supply Britain's needs for milk products, and, in addition maintain our own average consumption at the level of the past 4 years. The production of canned tomatoes is to be increased substantially over that of last year, and the production of all types of dried beans by 35 per cent. Pork production is to be as high as possible; the spring farrowings this year are smaller than last, but the hogs are being marketed at weights above the average, and the total supply should be larger than the average of recent years."

Working Together

"If our farmers were not organized in voluntary coordinated national farm programs, we

Younger M. P.'s Is Cry Of Army

Henry McLemore

New York.—The proposal by Brigadier General Hershey that 27 be made the top draft age is nothing more than a recognition of the old politico-medical truth that a man keeps his patriotism long after he loses his muscles.

When a man hits 30 and up the fact that he salutes the flag doesn't necessarily mean that he is the best one to defend it. As yet no one has ever developed the proper set of muscles for driving a tank by singing The Star-Spangled Banner.

Since the first draftee reported, one of the biggest defense bottlenecks has been the effort of the Army to make efficient fighters out of men whose athletic medals are covered with rust or are in the pawnshop.

Congress set the draft ages as 21 to 35, inclusive, either out or ignorance (perish the thought!) or because it yielded to pressure to protect the country's youth. But it is now fairly obvious that youth isn't safe behind a bay window and can't relax when its defender creaks in every joint.

The Army has figures showing that men drawn from the age group ranging from 18 to 25 are much more fit for military service than those drawn from the 26-to-35 bracket. These figures are on paper, but the Army could back them up by living figures in the active ranks.

If you happen to live in New York you don't have to go outside of view of the sky line to study the Army's frustration in trying to make top-class soldiers out of men who had to drop out of the last class reunion because their feet hurt. You can go to Governor's Island, where military police for the First Army are being trained.

Sergeant Has Tough Job

I ferried there yesterday and talked to a sergeant who has the task of converting as unusual an assortment of draftees as you'll find anywhere into military police. In the space of a few weeks he must make cops out of brokers, lawyers, playwrights, brush salesmen, pet store proprietors and the like.

A great many of them are between 30 and 35 and they give the sergeant a headache worthy of one of Gutzon Borglum's mountainside heads. In a voice as plaintive as the cry of the sea gulls which wheel above this New York Harbor fort, he explained some of the drawbacks in training them.

"They're pretty soft," the sergeant said, "and it keeps you awake at night wondering what might happen to them if they tried to arrest a really tough soldier, but that's not the worst of it. It's the way they are mentally, see? They've lived their own lives too long to become policemen suddenly. They don't like policemen in general, to begin with. The only cops they admired when they were civilians were the good fellows who let 'em off when they were caught for speeding or going through a red light."

"So when they become policemen and go out with the MP band on their arms, they try to be just like the cops they liked. I swear they won't arrest anybody. If a soldier's tight and raising too much hell they remember the times they were the same way, and just pass him by with a chuckle. They're too damned tolerant."

Nobody Likes an MP

The sergeant went on to explain that, after all, you couldn't expect much else.

"Nobody likes an MP, you know," the sergeant sighed, a bit wistfully, I thought. "While our main job is to keep soldiers out of trouble, not get 'em into it, they always yell, 'Here comes a lousy MP' whenever they see one of us. Now men 30 and 35 don't like that. They have spent ten years or more in business making friends and trying to be popular."

"Young fellows don't mind not being liked. They like the authority an MP has and that makes up for it. You don't want 'em too young, of course. Then they'll want to arrest a guy if they see him take a glass of beer or walk around with his blouse (Continued on page 4)

Dive Bomber Will Attack Hereford In Sham Battle!

For the first time in history, Hereford will be "Blacked-Out" Saturday night, July 5, at around 10 o'clock. The "black-out" will continue from 8 to 12 minutes, during which time a dive-bomber will swoop over the city and attack the business district. Searchlights will flash into the skies and anti-aircraft fire will be conducted under sponsorship of the American Legion.

The Hereford "Black-Out" is the first to be held in this area and is sponsored in cooperation with merchants, the City of Hereford and civic organizations in an effort to familiarize residents of this area with the fundamentals of "black-outs" as they occur each night in war-torn Europe.

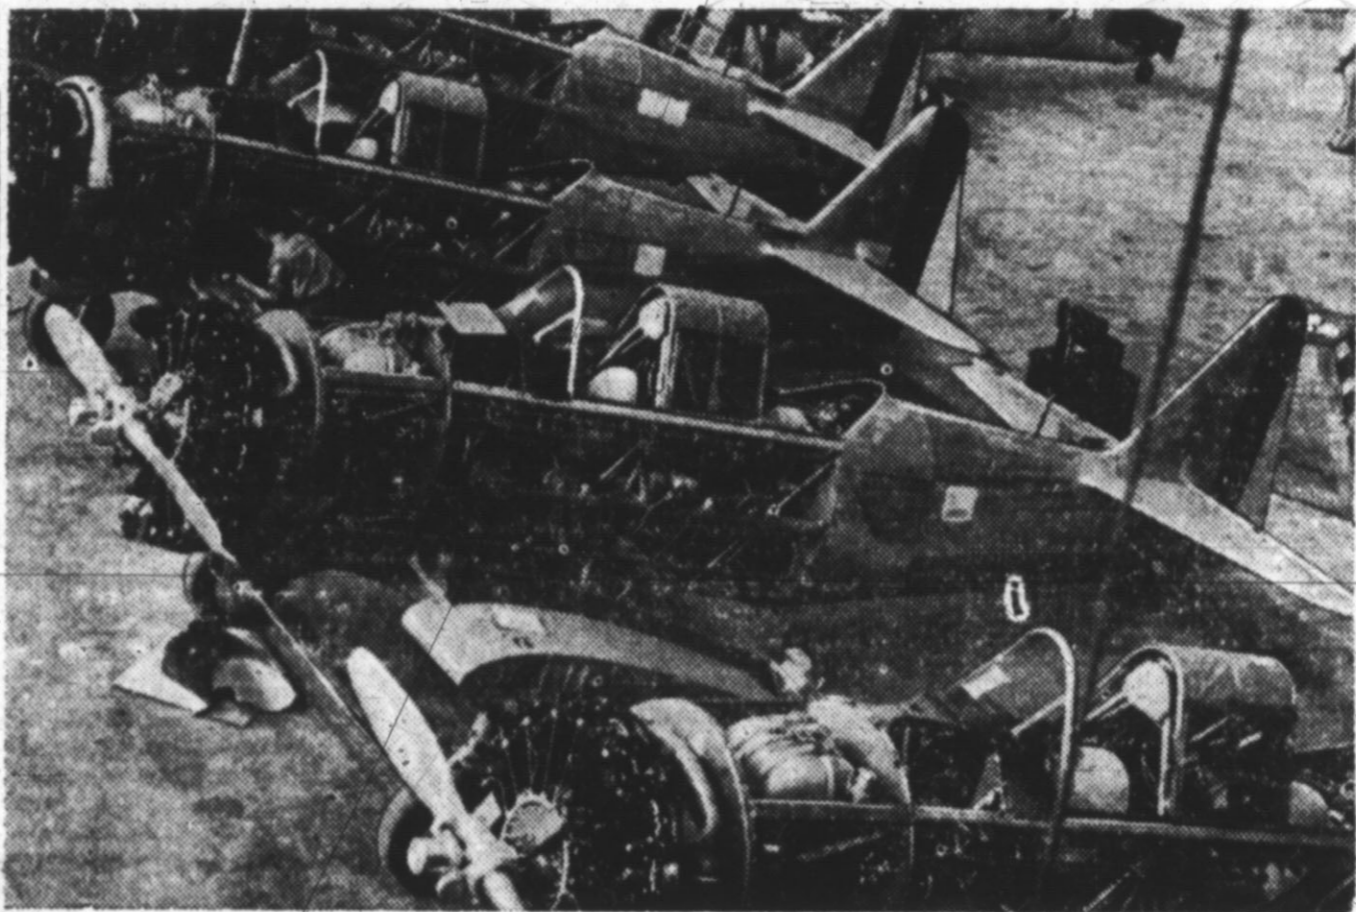

Merchants have already pledged cooperation in turning out their lights and all residents of Hereford were asked to cooperate by turning out all lights for the event. The idea was advanced by Speck Lunsford, Star Theatre manager, who said today that such whole-hearted support on the part of merchants indicated an interest that will sweep over West Texas.

"As soon as the hum of the attacking airplane is heard, the fire siren will start," Mayor C. J. Paddock said. "As soon as persons hear the siren they are asked to turn out all lights and carry on just as if the town were under actual attack."

Plans were also announced for the halting of all traffic during the time Hereford is "blacked-out" and an effort will be made to secure services of the State Highway Patrol in order to eliminate possibility of any accidents.

Persons from over the entire Panhandle are expected to be in Hereford for the air-raid and merchants of the city will offer "Black-Out" Specials on items in every line during the day.

How Does It Feel To Live In a "Black-Out" City?

What would you think about—what would you do, if you could hear the steady whine of the dive bombers, the shriek of the air raid sirens—and never know from one minute until the next which particular dive bomber was going to turn loose a missile which would have the number of your own home, which would destroy in one moment the things that you had worked for years to build up?

That's the situation in England; and Saturday night in Hereford, the situation is going to be brought to life as realistically as possible. We can hear the air-raid sirens, the dive bomber zooming toward the city, carrying its load of death and destruction. We can hear the bark of the anti-aircraft guns as they try to bring the death dealing monster to earth; and officers and air raid wardens can experience the job of trying to bring back "business as usual" after a night of havoc from the skies.

How does it feel to live in a blacked out world?

Does the darkness close in oppressively, deepening the fears of a chaotic night? Or do people learn to accept the blackout philosophically.

We can find out next Saturday night in Hereford.

It may sound fantastic, but military men say that trial blackouts are good practice for a situation which may become altogether too real in parts of the United States—and in the meantime trial black-outs is an idea which is sweeping the nation—and Hereford will be the first town in the Texas Panhandle to make the experiment.

In Hereford, Saturday night, you can see for yourself what life in a black-out is like. If the worst points of realism are spared, the situation will still give Panhandle citizens a chance to use their imaginations with help from the props of darkness, noise, swooping planes and the spit of guns to bring the drama to life on our own local stage.

Cowboy Reunion Brings Back Mythical Days

STAMFORD.—Those almost mythical days of the open range, of boots and spurs and six guns and large herds of cattle on the trail, will be relived here on July 3, 4 and 5, during the twelfth annual Texas Cowboy Reunion, when veteran cowhands of the Southwest will gather for their annual meeting.

Each year, old-time cow-punchers, some 800 of them, assemble here during the Reunion, elect new officers for their association, renew acquaintances, swap yarns and recall stirring events which occurred when the West was young. Membership is limited to men who were actively employed as cowboys on ranches at least 35 years ago, and the roster now includes more than 1,800. Members who have paid their annual dues are issued badges which entitle them to a chuck wagon dinner at noon each day of the Reunion, and free admission to each performance of the rodeo.

Officers of the association include J. Ellison Carroll, Big Lake, president; E. M. Cowden, Midland, and Kid Jeffers, Brady, vice-presidents; Chas. E. Coombes, Stamford, secretary-treasurer; Glenn Coffee, Amarillo, range boss; Charles L. Mays, Munday, wagon boss; Bob Weatherly, Clarendon, wagon cook and Pete Holcombe Goldwaite, horse wrangler.

The old-timers hold meetings in their own home, the Will Rogers Memorial Bunkhouse, on the grounds of the Texas Cowboy Reunion. The building, constructed of natural stone, is very picturesque and has brands of many of the most famous Texas ranches hewn into the walls. They also have another building, the Coombes Roundup, where square dances are held each night during the Reunion.

The annual old fiddlers contest, held in connection with the Cowboy Reunion, will be staged in the Roundup on the morning of July 4. More than 25 contestants usually take part and compete for the $32.50 in cash prizes, as follows: First, $15; second, $10; third, $5, and fourth, $2.50. The contest is free to the public, and always attracts a large crowd.

Other interesting attractions at the Reunion this year, besides the three rodeo performances each day, will be the quarter horse show, the chuck wagon, two square dances each night, and performances by the famous Stamford Square Dance Team in the arena at each night performance.

Texas Banks Fifth As Shorthorn State

Fifth in the nation last year and seventh for the first 6 of this year is the record of Texas as a shorthorn state as determined by the number of new members in the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association, Chicago, Ill., according to word from the Association office.

Though the same states as last year are represented in the high 10, only the first three—Iowa, Illinois and Indiana—repeated their last year's winnings. Pointed out is the even distribution of new business among the leading states, there being a difference of but 13 new members between fourth and tenth position.

The top 10 states in new memberships are: (1) Iowa, 58; (2) Illinois, 57; (3) Indiana, 50; (4) Oklahoma, 33; (5 and 6) Missouri and North Dakota, 31 each; (7) Minnesota, 28; (8) Texas, 26; (9) Kansas, 25; (10 and 11) Michigan and Ohio, 20 each.

Says shorthorn secretary H. J. Gramlich, this year is seeing the most new members, the most sales and the most pedigree recordings for the breed in over a decade. Up to May 1, 539 new memberships have been received, which is a 7 per cent increase over last year's sensational 74 1-2 per cent increase over the year before.

Pedigree recordings for the first half of the year are coming in at a 123 per cent greater clip, and transfers, which are the index of business being done by breeders, are up a substantial 19 per cent over the very good 1940.

Even more significant of trends in the livestock industry, thinks Gramlich, is the fact that the total 1940 income from shorthorn public auctions exceeded by 43 per cent the figure for 1939. Last year those stockmen who held auction sales gained a total of $200,000 more than in the previous year, yet prices remain on a soundly profitable basis for both buyer and seller.

Let's Cook Something

Jellied chicken salad is a delightful dish to anticipate on a hot day. It is a tempting dish to set before the family and an easy dish to prepare for guests. Mrs. Colby Conkright likes to have this salad prepared when unexpected guests appear and it is one of her party favorites. Place it on your "must list" for some summer day.

Jellied Chicken Salad

- 2 cups of cooked chicken (cut small)
- 1 cup of celery
- 2 cups small green peas
- 1-2 cup blanched almonds or pecan meats
- 2 tablespoons chowchow, pickle or 1-2 cup chopped olives
- 3 hard boiled eggs (chopped)
- 8 tablespoons gelatin
- 3 tablespoons cold water

Soak the gelatin in the cold water a few minutes and add 1 1-4 cups hot chicken stock. Pour the gelatin mixture into one cup mayonnaise. Mix in other ingredients and mold. This will serve 14. Unmold onto crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with quartered hard boiled eggs and quartered tomatoes; this makes a plate as colorful as a whole row of bright red poppies along a garden fence.

Remember that when you want cold chicken meat for salads or sandwiches, always cook the fowl whole, as the meat will slice to much better advantage.

Hereford Girls Enjoy Varied Camp Program

In a news-letter received from Camp Waldemar, near Kerrville, this week, there was a description of camp activities engaged in by Cecilia Guseman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Guseman, and Helen Ann Pitman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pitman of Hereford.

Camp life features competitive games between the Comanche and Tejas "tribes", horseback riding, swimming, archery, golf, fencing and canoeing.

Plans are being completed for a trip to Monterrey, Mexico, for the early part of July. The girls and counselors will visit points of interest around the city, including Horsetail Falls, will travel to San Antonio by bus and from there will take a special train to Monterrey.

Pierre Laval says both he and Hitler speak the language of the new Europe. It is double talk or double-cross talk.

New army fatigue uniforms, correct attire for cleaning up the camp, peeling potatoes, and other KP duties, will be stylish olive drab herring bone twill with full cut trousers and a pleated-back jacket. The boys will be all dressed up with no place to go, except the kitchen.

NEW OIL BEATS five other big-name brands in TORTURE-TEST
Endures Sizzling Death Valley heat for 13,398 MILES ON ONE 5-QUART FILL

How this Certified Record can spell new Oil-Savings—new Engine Safety—for You

You get the oil that outlasted 5 other highly reputed brands by 74% to 161% in Certified Competition, when you change to this proved-in-advance new oil named CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL — Popular-Priced

Your own engine can be fortified by new Conoco Nth motor oil right today, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. But before going on sale this new oil proved that a regular 5-quart fill could establish startling extremes of endurance, engine protection and miser-economy.

Fantastic Death Valley brings Your Evidence

Death Valley seems to shimmy—like heat at your furnace door. And down on this desert impartial observers watched 6 identical stock cars, at 57-mile speed, torture-testing 6 quality oils, including new Conoco Nth oil. No let-up, day on day, till each oil gave out and junked its engine.

Even the best competitive oil in the test was outlasted 5,683 miles by Conoco Nth oil. And one "rival" was outlasted all of 8,268 miles by new Conoco Nth oil. Certified.

All this New Economy how?

America has long known Conoco best for making it possible to give any engine OIL-PLATING... lubricant that can't all quickly drain down, but must stay PLATED UP—alert against wear in advance—not waiting till oil-flow starts. OIL-PLATING comes from a rare synthetic... man-made under the Conoco Germ Processed oil patent. And Conoco Nth motor oil still brings OIL-PLATING—but not only that!...

In addition this new oil brings Conoco's latest synthetic—Thialkene inhibitor. It inhibits—controls—the effect of foul "leftovers" produced by every engine's normal firing. Otherwise uncontrolled oil spoilage could easily start. In oils that let this spoilage start, it spreads like a rumor—gets worse, faster and faster. But now that's nipped in the bud by Thialkene inhibitor, in new Conoco Nth oil... U. S. Patent 2,218,132. This oil stays more like its own good self. Then your engine will, and that saves oil... as demonstrated by the long life of Conoco Nth in pitiless Death Valley.

You'll never give your own engine such a "trial by torture." You wouldn't pass up your regular time for draining. Authorities say, "Don't!" But you can know that Conoco Nth outlasted other big-name oils by as much as 161%... Certified. So you can see your chance of big Summer savings in changing now to new Conoco Nth at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Co.—Pioneers in Bettering America's oil with Synthetics

CERTIFIED I hereby certify that the Death Valley Test and related work were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.

Sixteen women from eight of the nine organized Home Demonstration Clubs were present for the regular meeting of Council on the fourth Saturday, June 28. CHDA NOTES

By Sadie Lee Oliver

J. F. Rosborough, extension service horticulturist, advises that late plantings of tomatoes should not be staked as is commonly done in the East Texas section. Where plants are tied upright, the fruit is likely to suffer sun-blistering. The suckers should be allowed to grow on the plants to provide shade for the tomatoes which will be growing during July and August.

A garden dinner, consisting of peas, tomatoes, potatoes, carrots, beans, onions and chicken pie, was served by Mrs. Mary Ott at her home on June 27. These products were all grown on her farm in this county.

Mrs. Ott has also canned baby beets which she thinned from her plantings of beets in her garden.

The lake on the Matador ranch, directly north of Adrian is spread out over a large territory since the recent rains—probably having more water in it than most of the old timers remember seeing.

The hard rain averaging from four and one-half to seven inches that fell in the Adrian community last Tuesday afternoon did considerable damage, assisted by the wind, hail and lightning. The Southwestern Public Service Company was kept busy for several days repairing transformers, replacing burned-out meters and other materials. Several radios were burned out, and the wind damaged the heavy-headed barley and other grains, blowing them down, making harvest difficult, and causing much of the grain to be lost by shattering. Many people who saw the cloud at a distance noted that it looked extremely bad. The rain fell in a little over an hour—causing a flood on the roads and low places for several hours—E. A. McAdoo reported a total loss of 300 acres of wheat three miles east of Adrian because of heavy hail that fell there. The wheat was estimated to make 30 bushels to the acre and was not covered by insurance.

Friday The 13th Offers No Fears

Hendersonville, N. C. —Here is the Friday the 13th story to end all Friday the 13th stories. It concerns a distinguished-looking gentleman, Bert A. Boyd, who claims the title of the world's greatest disbeliever in superstition.

He makes it a point to locate ladders to walk under, or black cats to walk in front of.

He resides in an apartment number 13.

He gets his mail from box 13. Want to call him up? No need to look in the phone directory. Just call number 13.

He never loses any laundry because he has the number 13 monogrammed on his personal effects. It's his laundry number. And why is all this? You ask.

Well, Boyd years ago began to work at the age of 13 for the Western Union Telegraph Company. He was assigned badge 13.

Then he started to work for the Indianapolis Board of Trade back in '85—8 plus 5, you know, equals 13. He joined the Rotary Club in 1913.

He served on the board of trade and as treasurer of the grain association for 26 years—twice 13, you see. Then, he was elected president of the board of trade on June 13, 1903 (add those last numbers.)

That, you say, should be enough 13's? Well, here're some more:

He has dog license No. 13. His locker at the country club is 13.

Always, when traveling, he tries to get berth 13 on a Pullman. He says he sleeps better that way.

Coyote Seen To Eat Five-Foot Rattlesnake

It's unbelievable, I know," said Francis Henry, young farmer of the Coldwater area, 30 miles north of Dalhart, this weekend, "but the other day I saw a coyote eat a rattlesnake."

Henry said he ran over the five-foot snake and cut off its rattles while disking with a tractor. He then killed it and cut off its head. Not long afterward, as he moved from one end of the field to the other, he saw a coyote loping along and stop where the snake lay. He picked up its body, trotted off about 100 yards, laid down and ate it. Henry later closely examined where the coyote had laid down and said all of the snake was gone.

There is an unusual number of snakes in the country this year, according to farmers and ranchers, and big ones can kill quickly. The Texas Game Department passes along this frightening story.

A Texas game warden, patrolling near Pearsall, recently saw a large calf reach down for a bite of grass, jump and then run toward him. It dropped after 72 yards and was dead within five minutes. It had been struck by a six and a half foot black diamond back rattlesnake with 14 rattles. The game warden said evidently this snake had not struck anything in a long while and its venom sacks were packed.

John Coleman, Hartley county agent at Channing, knows of two unusual rattlesnake stories. Some months ago a cowboy on the "Chunky" Bowling ranch near Nara Visa, N. M., 45 miles southwest of Dalhart, was repairing a fence. He was walking, leading his saddle horse, when a snake struck him in the leg from a concealed position near a post.

The cowboy leaped back, frightening his horse, which jerked loose and ran off. The cowboy had to chase the horse a mile. He then had to ride two miles back to the camp where Mr. and Mrs. Bowling were. He was so sick he couldn't get into the house. Bowling administered first aid. On the way to a hospital the cowboy was so sick that he begged repeatedly to be shot.

But eventually he recovered. Coleman said if the cowboy had had first aid right after he was bitten he might not have been so sick.

The other case had an amazing twist. A 50-year-old man who had been an employee on the farm of Coleman's father for 20 years, was bitten. He was given immediate first aid and taken to a hospital. But his leg swelled and pained severely. Prior to being bitten he was almost incapacitated by rheumatism. Some of his toes drew so badly that they were crossed over adjacent ones. When he recovered from the snakebite the rheumatism was gone and never returned so far as Coleman knows.

A minute after the U. S. S. South Dakota was launched, workmen began laying the keel for the 10,000-ton cruiser Santa Fe. In the background, the South Dakota, 35,000-ton battleship, sails the waters of the Delaware river. When she is commissioned, in less than a year, the Navy will have 18 of the 32 battleships needed for the two-ocean fleet.
