Jailers fired after 'joke' Relatives testify in Owens trial

Three Deaf Smith County jailers were arrested Monday on charges of violating the civil rights of a prisoner in connection with an incident last Friday evening in the Deaf Smith County Jail in Hereford.

The three men, Lyle Vanbuskirk, Tommy Gallagher and Ralph Gallegos, have been fired, and their case has been referred to the Deaf Smith County Grand Jury.

The three men were fired by Sheriff Joe Brown on Sunday afternoon.

"They were terminated as soon as I found out about it," Brown said Monday.

According to statements given by persons involved, the incident was intended as a joke on a trusty at the jail. The joke, according to the victim's statement, got out of hand.

The incident occurred early Friday evening, after the trusty had eaten supper. He was taken to a secluded area where his legs were shackled and his arms were cuffed behind his back. The jailers are alleged to have taken down the trusty's pants and wrote obscenities on the trusty's buttocks.

In a voluntary statement by one of the jailers involved, the incident was intended as a "going away" joke between the jailers and the trusty. Two of the jailers had announced their resignations to take other jobs. Gallagher had accepted a job with the Hereford Police Department, and Vanbuskirk had taken a position with the Potter County Corrections Department.

One of the jailers, in a voluntary statement, said they had kidded with the trusty that they were going to "get him" before they left, but the incident was intended as a joke.

The three jailers are also accused of holding another inmate under false pretenses and ordering a "shake down" of the jail under false pretenses.

"We hate that it happened," Brown said Monday. "We do not like it one bit. As soon as I found out about on Sunday afternoon I investigated it, found out what happened, and they were terminated immediately." Brown also said he contacted the special agent in charge at the Federal Bureau of Investigation office in Amarillo.

"We just want to bring everything out in the open and whatever happens, happens. I really hate that it happened."

The case will be presented to the Deaf Smith County Grand Jury, probably on Thursday.

Warrants for the arrest of the three men were issued Monday afternoon. They were arraigned by Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine on a $2,500 bond.

The violation of the civil rights of a prisoner is a third degree felony, punishable by two to 10 years imprisonment. The law is violated when a jailer or other person "subjects a person in custody to bodily injury while knowing that the custody was unlawful."

Relatives testify in Owens trial

Two brothers, a sister and a niece of murder defendant Helen Owens testified in her defense on Monday in 222nd District Court in Hereford.

Defense attorney Jerry Smith was expected to wrap up his case today. The six-man, six-woman jury, which has now spent five days in the courtroom, may get to begin deliberations this afternoon.

Those witnesses and others painted a black-and-blue picture of Mrs. Owens, who had bruises on her face, arms, buttocks and legs regularly for several years. To most of her family members, she made simple excuses: she said she was constantly running into cabinets, cabinet doors, walls, garage doors, or having car doors close on her regularly. For many years, they said, they did not know that her husband had been beating her.

Most of the witnesses were aware of the medications Mrs. Owens was abusing. She was often so incapacitated by the medications that she had slurred speech, blurred vision and emotions that would go from extremely happy to extremely sad, likely because of taking so many medications.

Kenneth Kelley, who had been living with his sister and her husband, Charlie, for about a year before Mrs. Owens allegedly shot her husband on July 5, 1989, testified about what he saw and heard while living there. He also admitted to providing Mrs. Owens with the gun believed to have been used to kill Mr. Owens.

He said there "wasn't any relationship" between the Owensens during the time he lived with the couple. He said he would hear Mr. Owens call his wife names, curse her and hit her "at least three times a week."

He said the name-calling and hitting would usually occur when Mrs. Owens would go into her husband's bedroom to get clothes from a closet in that room.

After he had lived there for a few weeks and had heard the confrontations, Mr. Kelley gave Mrs. Owens the .38-caliber handgun. "I let her borrow it, I loaned it to her around July 1988," Mr. Kelley said. "It had five rounds in it when I gave it to her. I told her not to cock it or pull the trigger."

When asked by Smith why he gave her the gun, Kelley said, "I guess more for her protection than anything else."

Under cross-examination by District Attorney Roland Saul, Mr. Kelley said he had consumed three or four cans of beer during the evening of July 4, 1989, finally admitting he was drunk when the shooting took place at about 1 a.m. on July 5.

Mr. Kelley said he heard Charlie Owens cursing his wife, call her names and hit her. "He said he was going to kill her, then there was more slapping and hitting going on," Mr. Kelley said. Then, Mr. Kelley said he heard Mrs. Owens go to her bedroom, then the bathroom, then to the den where she watched television for "30 to 45 minutes, maybe an hour" before he heard shots from the bedroom next to his.

Mr. Kelley said he sat up on the side of his bed when he heard the shots, then went back to sleep. He said the next thing he remembered, he was talking to police officers. He told Saul he didn't get up because "I was drunk." "You weren't concerned about who got shot?" Saul asked. Mr. Kelley shrugged his shoulders. "She had the gun."

"Weren't you concerned Charlie Owens might have had the gun?" Saul asked. "No," Mr. Kelley said. "But I heard him tell her he'd kill her, I really heard that."

"Then why didn't you get up to see who got shot?" Saul asked.

"I'd cleaned his room often enough," Mr. Kelley said. "If he'd had the gun I'd have found it."

Karen White of Amarillo, Mrs. Owens' niece, said that she was very close to her aunt and uncle. Mrs. White, a registered nurse, is the director of medical services at Panhandle Addiction Recovery Center in Amarillo.

She said Charlie and Helen Owens were "in a state of holy deadlock" for many years, and she was concerned for her aunt because of all of the medicines she was taking.

According to Ms. White, her aunt was taking Valium, a major tranquilizer, four times or more a day; Darvoset, a pain reliever, five or more times a day; Lasix, a diuretic, three to four times a day; Potassium; Elovil, an antidepressant, three 75 milligram tablets at bedtime; Enephedrine, an antidepressant, one or two 50 milligram tablets during the day; and Noctel, a sleeping pill, two tablets at bedtime. She said she had spent the night several times with her aunt and uncle because of her problems with overmedication, including one night a week before Charlie Owens was killed.

Virgil Kelley and Juanita Owen, brother and sister of Mrs. Owens, said they had seen the bruises on their sister for several years, but accepted her excuses as reasons for the bruising. Persons with whom Mrs. Owens worked also testified about the bruising.

County covers light agenda

Deaf Smith county commissioners will let each elected official and the manager of offices without elected officials be the records maintenance officer for each office, instead of appointing someone to be the records maintenance officer for all county offices, they decided Monday.

An ambiguous state law passed in 1989 called for each governmental entity to appoint someone to be the records maintenance officer, but the law proscribes no penalties for failure to appoint an officer.

Commissioners, in a light session Monday, also agreed to advertise for bids for office space for County Surveyor Kenny Hagar. The space he is using in the courthouse is needed for additional staff for the adult probation office. The probation office will be adding more staff in the near future, and more space is needed in the courthouse.

Commissioners received no bids for painting the courthouse and postponed the project for later. Commissioner John Strubling asked County Judge Tom Simons if there were any way the sale of fireworks could be banned in the county, and County Judge Tom Simons said he would try to find a way for the county to ban the sale.

Commissioners were concerned about fireworks use in the county because of the extremely dry conditions that could lead to major grass fires if fireworks are used.

High court rulings a mixed bag

WASHINGTON (AP) - New Supreme Court decisions on abortion and the right to die send conflicting messages on the family's role in deciding a loved one's medical care, medical ethics experts say.

The court's rulings Monday on parental involvement in such issues "seem to be going in different directions," said K. Danner Clouser, a humanities professor at the Pennsylvania State University College of Medicine. "One seems to enhance the role of the family and the other one doesn't."

The court ruled Monday that states can bar family members from ending the lives of persistently comatose relatives who have not conclusively made their wishes known.

The court said casual remarks years ago by a Missouri woman, Nancy Cruzan - who has been in a vegetative state since an automobile accident six years ago - did not constitute "clear and convincing" evidence that she would have wanted to die. Her family had wanted their daughter's food and water tubes disconnected.

The court also made it significantly more difficult for young girls to obtain legal abortions without first notifying their parents.

The justices upheld an Ohio law that said minors must notify a parent before having an abortion. The court also upheld a Minnesota law requiring either notification of both parents or permission from a judge.

The rulings are consistent in putting limitations on the right to privacy, analysts said, but they diverge on the issue of parental involvement.

In the Missouri case, the court said competent patients have the right to refuse life-sustaining treatment, including food and water.

But analysts said the ruling went against the prevailing trend in saying the state of Missouri could disregard the course of treatment that Ms. Cruzan's parents believed would be in their daughter's best interest.

"You're undermining the role of the family and saying some government agency or bureaucrat or impersonal law is going to look after somebody's interest better," said Stuart Youngner, a biomedical ethics professor at Case-Western Reserve University medical school. "I find it very disruptive ... to have the state step in and say it knows better."

William Colby, the Cruzans' lawyer, said Monday that Ms. Cruzan might be moved to another state with fewer restrictions or he may request a hearing to present new evidence about her stated wishes.

The Cruzans are "hurt by the decision, certainly, and will still try to get an audience somewhere, someone who will say, 'Yes, family is very important,'" he said.

Woman dies in fire

A 49-year-old woman died early Sunday morning in a house fire at 236 Catalpa in Hereford.

Dorris Griggs was almost out of her house before she succumbed to intense smoke in her small frame house in Southwest Hereford.

Hereford Fire Marshall Jay Spain, who conducted the investigation of the fire, said two volunteer firefighters put on airpicks to go into the house and discovered Mrs. Griggs's body near the front door. Spain said the front door to the house had a regular lock on the door handle and two other locks including a dead blot. Ms. Griggs is believed to have been able to unlock the lock on the knob but was unable to open the other two locks.

Spain also said there was no smoke detector in the house. "If there had been a smoke detector she probably would have been all right, but you never know for sure," Spain said.

Spain said the woman was a heavy smoker and had probably been sitting on her couch late Saturday night. He said she probably knocked the fire off a cigarette into a couch. As the woman was sleeping in her bed, the fire smoldered for probably two hours or more,

Acreage burned at Meredith

FRITCH, Texas (AP) - A fire that raged out of control for a week and turned thousands of acres of park land into ashes at the Lake Meredith Recreation Area has been contained.

The fire at the park's Big Canyon began June 19 after a lightning strike. About 7,200 acres were burned, said Ken Palmrose, a fire official with the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

It was contained about 6 a.m. Monday, Palmrose said.

"Now we are just looking out for windy conditions, blowing embers or something unexpected," he said.

A fire Saturday one mile north of Big Canyon burned 1,700 acres.

"We are still investigating if it was arson. We may never know," Palmrose said.

Three people suffered minor injuries during the blazes.

The dry conditions have contributed to at least two other fires at national parks in Texas over the past week.

"A ranger told me these are the worst conditions he could remember in 17 years of work," Palmrose said. "It's usually never like this. Usually we have some rain or moisture at this point."

The ground is so dry that park officials at Lake Meredith Monday banned campfires, charcoal fires and smoking. Propane and light gas stoves will still be allowed.

Palmrose said fire crews will remain at the park through the Fourth of July.

"There will be absolutely no fireworks allowed in the area," Palmrose said. "With these extreme conditions, that rule will be enforced even more."

Court takes another step against abortion

AUSTIN (AP) - Abortion opponents say teen-age pregnancy is reduced when girls must notify their parents before obtaining an abortion. But pro-choice leaders say parental notification requirements can devastate teen-agers.

People on both sides agreed Monday that the U.S. Supreme Court took another step against abortion rights for all women by making it harder for girls to get an abortion without parental notification.

"We consider these decisions to be a victory for common sense and for families, and a continuation of the drift of the court toward the pro-life movement," said Bill Price, president of Dallas-based Texans United for Life.

Phyllis Dunham, executive director of the Texas Abortion Rights Action League, said the decisions in cases from Ohio and Minnesota demonstrate a continuing threat to the 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision legalizing abortion.

"I think the implications beyond what happens to minors are what's making us feel so grim today," said Ms. Dunham.

"I think they (the justices) are ready to dismantle Roe... I think it's a question of when, and how. This is one more piece of it," she said.

For teen-agers, Ms. Dunham said, a parental notification requirement can mean "abuse, suicide or back-alley abortion."

"These kinds of laws can kill kids," she said. But Price said such laws cut the teen-age pregnancy rate.

"When teen-agers know that abortion cannot be used as a backup to contraceptive failure, they become more responsible sexually," he said.

Texas has no law requiring parental notification before a girl gets an abortion.

numbers were available from the Texas Department of Health, there were 79,213 abortions reported in the state. Women aged 19 or younger had 16,522 of the abortions.

The Supreme Court upheld Ohio's law banning abortions for unmarried girls under 18 who are dependent on one or both parents, unless a parent is notified or a judge's approval is obtained.

The court also voted to permit Minnesota to require notification of both parents, unless a girl gets a judge's approval instead.

In a separate vote, the court struck down a provision in Minnesota's law that would not have given the girl the option of going to a judge instead.

Neither decision directly affected adult women's right to abortion. But Price and Ms. Dunham said the rulings indicate the court's thinking, especially when coupled with a decision last year giving states more leeway to restrict abortion.

Price said parental notification should become a major issue in the race for governor between Republican Clayton Williams and Democrat Ann Richards.

Williams praised the Supreme Court's ruling.

"Today's decision represents a giant step toward ensuring that parents have an open door of communication with their children, free of government interference," he said in a statement.

Ms. Richards was more cautious.

"I continue to support parental involvement in these and other decisions faced by our young people. By the same token, I continue to be extremely concerned about increasing interference by government in the personal lives of Americans," she said in a statement.

Hereford

Bull

By Speedy Nieman

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says there isn't much to talk about at some parties—until one or two couples have left.

A decision is what a man makes when he can't find anyone to serve on a committee.

When we attended the Texas Press Association summer convention in San Antonio this past weekend, we decided to drive down and visit a few folks on the way. It was hot and dry all the way and we ran into record June temperatures along the way.

When TPA members attended Sea World Friday afternoon, it was the hottest day San Antonio had recorded this year. While Sea World of Texas is the world's largest marine life park, it's almost 200 miles to the nearest coastline. And while there is a lot of water at the 250-acre park, there is also plenty of asphalt to help make the temperature soar. The park hosted approximately 3 million visitors in its first year of operation in 1989.

Sea World is located about 16 miles northwest of downtown San Antonio, off State Highway 151. Top billing goes to Shamu and fellow killer whales at the 4,500-seat Shamu Stadium. No less entertaining are the antics of dolphins, walrus, sea lions and otters in other watery performances. A 12-acre lake is the setting for precision acrobatic waterski shows, and there's much more: penguins in a polar habitat, a 400,000 gallon aquarium stocked with sharks, a marine mammal touching and feeding pool, ice skating rink, and the Texas Walk with life-sized sculptures of notable Texans.

The visit to Sea World was part of the press convention program. Several interesting discussion panels were included, and we enjoyed a talk by Jan Naylor, a Texan who is a special assistant to President Bush. Her job primarily has to do with appointments to Presidential commissions. It was interesting to hear her explain all the work that goes into the appointments. There are about 6,000 folks in the nation who serve on these commissions.

There was also an interesting and entertaining panel discussion by a trio of capital reporters from Austin on the state political campaigns this fall. One reporter said Clayton Williams has become very cautious about speaking out and answering reporters' questions. They also reported that Ann Richards spends too much time telling reporters how to do their job instead of discussing the issues.

San Antonio is a great convention city when the whole family goes along, since there are so many tourist attractions. Surveys show that San Antonio is the top destination in Texas for tourists and, in 1988 and 1989 alone, seven new attractions debuted there: Sea World, an IMAX

Theater, Rivercenter Mall, Ripley's Believe It or Not, the Lucile Halsell Conservatory, the redone Majestic Theater, and Memory Lane Museum of Dolls and Toys. Planned for 1990 opening is an Opryland-owned theme park, "Fiesta Texas."

With its River Walk, Spanish missions, marketplaces and fiestas, historic neighborhoods, expansive theme parks, wonderful zoo, tropical gardens, museums, art galleries and shopping palaces, San Antonio is a fiesta of unique cities. Many years ago, Will Rogers called it "one of America's four unique cities."

A dinner for Texas Press members was held at the Institute of Texan Cultures at HemisFair Plaza Friday evening. The many cultures of San Antonio come alive at the institute, where 26 ethnic and cultural groups are represented in exhibits that illustrate the story of people who created today's Texas.

Another unique thing about San Antonio is how easy it is to get lost. The city undertook massive renovations of the downtown streets last year to make driving safer and more pleasant for visitors and residents. But, with the construction underway and streets blocked off, it makes it more difficult to find your way around at present.

No matter where you visit in San Antonio, you'll always return to the River Walk (Paseo del Rio) which meanders its way through the downtown district, 20 feet below street level. Lined with a lush, subtropical terrain, visitors can find an array of European-style sidewalk cafes, specialty boutiques, showy nightclubs and restaurants of international cuisine.

The Alamo, nestled in the heart of the downtown area, is always a top tourist attraction and carries names of famous men who were legends in their own time. These larger-than-life heroes appear in "Alamo... The Price of Freedom," a 45-minute film of the 13-day siege that sparked the Texas Revolution. The cinematic reenactment plays daily at the IMAX Theater, with a six-story high, 84-foot wide screen that makes the images ten times larger than on conventional screens.

Abundant Life

BY BOB WEAR
What We Believe

What do we believe? Perhaps, each one of us should ask, what do I believe? It seems that everything essential to our well-being is under attack, being downgraded and challenged. The sobering fact is that these good things can be lost, no longer abiding as elements in a life structure or a social structure. When we no longer believe in them, when they are forgotten, or rejected, they are lost to us.

It seems that much is being done that causes people to forget and discard such values as patriotism, morality, decency, dependable citizenship and personal integrity. If the reports are true, there is widespread loss of these essentials, a loss that we cannot afford. Do enough of us care enough? The outcome depends upon what we believe and how strongly we believe it. Those who seem to be saying that there is nothing worthwhile in which to believe are mistaken, and those who are careless about what they believe are mistaken, too.

Here is something that seems to be worthy of our careful consideration. "I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, and for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed, a democracy in a republic. I believe in the United States of America as a sovereign nation of many sovereign states, a perfect union one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and their fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag and to defend it against all enemies." -The American's Creed by William Tyler Page.

With this, we must give priority to the historical truth that "Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - Gambling there will be no Kryptonite in Orange County trash, Superboy - Gerard Christopher - is coming out in favor of recycling.

Christopher, who stars as the boy of steel on the syndicated TV series filmed in Orlando, has volunteered to appear in televised public service announcements, Jim Becker, county recycling manager, said Monday.

Beginning in July, trash haulers will deliver 230,000 orange recycling bins to every single-family home in unincorporated Orange County, Becker said.

The bins, which are for newspapers, cans and bottles, will be picked up weekly.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have always enjoyed your column. I started to read it because my mother was your greatest fan, going back to when you first started to write. Mom passed away last May at too young an age, and I miss her terribly.

While helping my Dad go through some papers recently, I came across a poem that Mom always kept tacked over the kitchen sink, where she could read it every day. It expressed her attitude about life and the way she lived it.

If each of us would take a few moments to read these words and put them into practice, the world would be a better place. -- C.F.H., Oxford, Mich.

DEAR C.F.H.: Thank you for an opportunity to share this beautiful little essay with my readers once again. Something as special as this deserves a rerun. (The author is still not known.)

On This Day
Mend a quarrel.
Search out a forgotten friend.
Dismiss a suspicion and replace it with trust.
Write a letter to someone who misses you.
Encourage a youth who has lost faith.
Keep a promise.
Forget an old grudge.
Examine your demands on others and vow to reduce them.
Fight for a principle.
Express your gratitude.
Overcome an old fear.
Take two minutes to appreciate the beauty of nature.
Tell someone you love them.
Tell them again.
And again,
And again.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In recent columns you have addressed the problem of mothers who would enjoy some private time with their married sons. My problem is how do

I get time alone with my husband? "Mel" and I were married last year and his mother will not leave us alone. I should have seen the signs when she invited herself along on our honeymoon.

We live in her duplex. (She lives downstairs.) Since I work, my mother-in-law fixes supper for us and we eat together every night. When we entertain she invites herself. I feel trapped. What do you suggest? -- Miserable in Pittsburgh

DEAR PITTS.: You and your husband should move as soon as possible—even if all you can afford is a cold-water flat over a bowling alley. It's going to be a big step and you'll probably need counseling, but I urge you to get it or you will be under his mother's thumb for the rest of your lives.

DEAR READERS: This joke knocked me out. I heard it from "Dear Abby."

A woman who was sitting by the pool in Miami saw an attractive man nearby. She went over and asked, "Why are you so pale? Did you just arrive?"

"I've been in jail," the man replied. "For what?" she asked. "Killing my wife," he said. "That means you're single?"

What can you give the person who has everything? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Gems," is ideal for a nightstand or coffee table. "Gems" is a collection of Ann Landers' most requested poems and essays. Send a self-addressed long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.85 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $5.87.)

NEW YORK (AP) - Akira Kurosawa, Japan's most influential director and a winner of four Oscars, has received the 1990 Japan Society Award.

Kurosawa, 80, who has made many historical epics among his 28 movies, was honored Monday by the Japan Society for increasing appreciation and understanding of Japanese society and culture.

But Kurosawa was too busy finishing up his latest film, "Rhapsody in August," to attend the ceremony at the New York Hilton, said his production company. His son, Hisao, president of Kurosawa Production, accepted the award for him.

Kurosawa won Academy Awards for best foreign film in 1951 for "Rashomon," in 1971 for "Dodes' Ka'den," and in 1975 for the Soviet-financed film, "Dersu Uzala." He received an honorary Oscar this year.

The Japan Society is a private, non-profit organization devoted to cultural, educational and public affairs and improving U.S.-Japan relations.

Top seeds survive first round to open Wimbledon play

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Ivan Lendl won ugly. Boris Becker won dirty.

The top two seeds survived surprisingly tough challenges in Monday's first round at Wimbledon. And they weren't particularly concerned about the lack of beauty in their efforts.

Lendl, the top seed, lost four of the opening five games against 22-year-old Christian Miniussi, an Argentine ranked 116th in the world. Though he recovered to win 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, he seemed to struggle at times with the low bounce of the ball off the carefully manicured grass courts.

"I just had a terrible time with the timing," said Lendl, beginning his annual quest for the only major title that has eluded him. "Every court plays differently and I just couldn't get any rhythm on the return of serve."

Lendl skipped the clay-court season and has concentrated on grass for the past few months to prepare himself for Wimbledon. But he seemed to be suffering from his traditional aversion to grass in the opening set.

"I was a bit nervous at first," he said. "I was not feeling comfortable with the low bounces I was getting. But I got used to it a little bit and I hit some good returns."

While Lendl was battling the bounces, Becker was simply trying to stay on his feet. The three-time winner repeatedly slipped and skidded on the grass, often while charging the net.

"It was very, very wet and soft," Becker said after his 7-6, 7-6, 7-5 Centre Court victory over Luis Herrera of Mexico. "The first round is always difficult, but on such a court it is more difficult."

Becker made his task more complicated by getting off to a slow start with 10 double faults in the opening set. But he came through in crucial moments, capping the first tie-breaker 7-2 with a pair of aces and claiming the second tie-breaker 7-4.

The second seed got so used to flopping on the slick grass that he even took an extra dive late in the third set to mimic Herrera, who had lunged for a shot.

Herrera, 18, ranked 199th in the world, displayed fine touch but did not have the power to contend with Becker.

Lendl and Becker were not the only men who struggled Monday. Former champion Pat Cash recovered from a 2-1 deficit in sets and a leg injury to defeat 253rd-ranked Dimitri Poliakov of the Soviet Union, while seventh seed Brad Gilbert of Piedmont, Calif., overcame a similar deficit against Yugoslavia's Bruno Orsari.

Frenchman Yannick Noah, the No. 16 seed, was not as lucky, losing in three quick sets to qualifier Wayne Ferreira. Noah, who has always had trouble on grass, said he was not able to move well on the slippery surface.

"Wimbledon isn't really a place where I feel comfortable," he said after falling 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 to the 18-year-old Ferreira. "This year I tried to block out all the negative thoughts I have about playing on grass."

Several other men's seeds had easier afternoons. Ninth-seeded American Jim Courier, No. 10 Jonas B. Svensson of Sweden and two Frenchmen, No. 11 Guy Forget and No. 15 Henri Leconte, all won in straight sets.

Only two seeded women played Monday, and one was a loser. Seventh seed Katarina Maleeva defeated Italy's Barbara Romano 6-2, 6-4, but 16th seed Barbara Paulus of Austria was eliminated 6-2, 3-6, 6-4 by crowd favorite Sarah Loosmore of Wales.

Hana Mandlikova, a four-time Grand Slam tournament winner who announced last week that she would retire from singles play following Wimbledon, came within a whisker of retirement on Monday. She fought off three match points before defeating Italy's Laura Lapi 6-3, 3-6, 11-9.

Deal narrows Nets' choices

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - Some old Magic, a couple of second-round draft choices and hocus-pocus, the No. 1 pick in the NBA draft seems obvious for the New Jersey Nets.

Come Wednesday night, Derrick Coleman of Syracuse should be the first player taken in the draft, provided the Nets keep the top choice.

On Monday, the Nets seemed to the remove all doubt that Coleman would be the first player drafted when they acquired veteran guard Reggie Theus from the Orlando Magic for second-round draft choices in 1993 and 1995.

The trade fulfills the Nets' need for a proven shooting guard and has the added bonus of giving them a player who can also play the point. It also cleans house for the Magic and clears the way for second-year pro Nick Anderson, a No. 1 pick a year ago, to move into the starting lineup.

What the Nets need now is a rebounder, and by selecting Coleman in the draft they would get the NCAA's all-time leading rebounder. All that appears to stand in his way of becoming a Net is a blockbuster deal.

"It could go down to the last minute," said Bob Casciola, the Nets' executive vice president and chief operating officer. "We've gone through all the scenarios. We know what people have and what they have to offer. The worst scenario that would happen to us is that we would go with the pick."

Until the trade, Casciola said the Nets had considered taking either Coleman, forward Dennis Scott of Georgia Tech or guard Gary Payton of Oregon State with the No. 1 pick. All three had visited with team officials in the past few weeks and all fulfilled a need.

Coleman, 6-foot-10, was the rebounder. Scott was the muchneeded shooter. Payton could drive the lane.

But the Theus trade seems to rule out all but Coleman.

Theus, who will be 33 in October, gives New Jersey a durable guard who has a .472 career shooting average. The 6-7 two-time All-Star was the second leading scorer for the Magic last season, averaging 18.9 points per game while leading the team with 407 assists in 76 games. He shot .439 from the field and .853 from the foul line.

Openings available for KCIT Challenge

More than 50 openings are still available for Friday's round of the KCIT-TV Golf Challenge at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, according to Head Pro Brent Warner.

The contest, which will be held on the par-3 third hole from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., provides golfers with three shots at a hole-in-one with the top three finishers in each round advancing to the Playoff Challenge at Ross Rogers GC in Amarillo. Winners from Friday will also receive cash prizes and gift certificates.

Entry fee for the contest is $10 per person. If openings are available, participants may enter again.

Grijalva claims title at P'view junior tourney

Grijalva carded a final-round 75 to finish 16 strokes ahead of Plainview's Colin Coe Jr.

In the tourney's 14-15 boys division, Hereford's Jayson Mines finished third at 241 after three rounds. Mines was seven strokes off the pace set by Lubbock's Dustin Bishop and one shot behind Chris Rogers of Sweetwater.

BoSox end Jays' LA's Martinez tops Braves again Fenway streak with 10-8 win

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Finally, the Boston Red Sox had some fun at Fenway Park with Toronto in town.

The Blue Jays won 15 straight games in Boston until Monday night, when the Red Sox held on 10-8. Toronto came within three games of the major league record for most consecutive victories at an opponent's field, accomplished three times.

"We tried not to make a big deal out of it," winning pitcher Dennis Lamp said.

Neither did the Blue Jays. "We didn't even talk about it," manager Cito Gaston said.

Anyway, Boston moved back into first place in the American League East, one-half game ahead of the Blue Jays.

Elsewhere, Oakland defeated Detroit 4-3, Chicago stopped California 2-0, Cleveland clubbed Milwaukee 10-5 and Minnesota topped Texas 9-1.

Toronto seemed ready to roll again in Boston, scoring three times in the first inning. But the Red Sox bounced back, shelling Dave Stieb for six runs in their half.

Stieb threw 36 pitches and did not retire a batter. He gave up three hits and walked four, and reliever Willie Blair allowed Wade Boggs' two-run single.

John Olerud hit a two-run homer in the third that pulled Toronto even at 7. Jody Reed broke the tie in the sixth with a two-out, solo home run off Blair (0-5).

Reed also doubled and singled. Mike Greenwell doubled twice and got out of Boston's 13 hits.

The Red Sox scored two more runs in the seventh. Kelly Gruber hit a solo home run, his 19th, off Jeff Reardon in the ninth. Reardon pitched for the first time in 10 days because of back spasms and got his 11th save.

Lamp (1-2) got the victory as Boston won at home against the Blue

Jays for the first time since Aug. 10, 1987. That was before Reed joined the Red Sox.

"Breaking the losing streak is nice," Reed said.

Athletics 4, Tigers 3
Bob Welch won his career-high ninth straight decision and Rickey Henderson homered, tripled and stole two bases.

Welch (12-2) is the top winner in the major leagues. He gave up five hits in eight innings.

Henderson tripled to lead off the first inning and hit his 12th home run in the second.

White Sox 2, Angels 0
Greg Hibbard pitched 8 1-3 innings and Bobby Thigpen got his 24th save in 28 tries.

Hibbard (6-4) gave up eight hits, walked none and struck out four. Mark Langston (4-8) retired the first 15 batters but wound up losing his third straight decision.

Robin Ventura hit an RBI single in the sixth and Carlton Fisk hit his sixth home run in the seventh.

Indians 10, Brewers 5
Brook Jacoby homered and drove in a career-high five runs.

Jacoby went 4-for-5 and hit his ninth home run. Rob Deer homered twice for the Brewers.

Tom Candiotti (8-3) won his third straight decision. Chris Bosio (4-6) remained winless in seven starts since May 20.

Twins 9, Rangers 1
Scott Erickson pitched six impressive innings in his major league debut.

Erickson, 8-3 with a 3.03 ERA at Orlando, became the first starter to go directly from Class AA to the Twins since Brad Havens in 1982. He gave up one run on four hits, struck out four and walked two.

John Candelaria pitched three innings for his third save. Mike Jeffcoat (1-3) was the loser.

Kirby Puckett hit a three-run homer in the fourth.

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

Ramon Martinez did only half as well as the last time he pitched against the Atlanta Braves. But he was a tough act to follow.

Martinez, the Los Angeles Dodgers' 22-year-old right-hander, struck out nine Braves in a 5-2 victory Monday night. The last time he faced Atlanta, on June 4, Martinez fanned 18 to tie Sandy Koufax's Dodger club record.

"It was not my time to get 18," Martinez said.

But things could have been worse. Last summer, he shut out the Braves and was sent to the minors the next day.

"It wasn't like last year," Martinez said with a laugh, alluding to his 7-0 shutout in Atlanta on June 5, 1989.

By fanning nine Braves, Martinez (9-3) extended his major league lead in that category. He now has 121 strikeouts.

"He was good tonight, but he was awesome the night he struck out 18," Los Angeles manager Tom Lasorda said. "He gets two strikes quick. Then he strikes them out. You have to get the two first."

Martinez's performance was not lost on the Braves.

Atlanta's Ron Gant, who had two of the Braves' eight hits, was impressed.

"He's right there with any of them," said Gant, who touched the slender Dominican for a home run. "At 22, he has a great career ahead of him."

Dave Justice, who also had two hits, agreed.

"You know you're in for a battle every time he goes out there," Justice said.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Cincinnati 5, San Francisco 2; Pittsburgh 5, Philadelphia 0; New York 3, St. Louis 2; Houston 5, San Diego 3; and Montreal 7, Chicago 3.

It was the fourth straight winning decision for Martinez (9-3) and his league-leading sixth complete game.

Martinez, who walked none, has allowed only two earned runs in 46 career innings against the Braves while posting a 4-1 record. After giving up two hits in the first, including Gant's 15th homer, Martinez retired 16 of the next 17 batters.

The Dodgers reached Charlie Leibrandt (2-1) for three runs in the first. Mike Scioscia had one of his two RBIs during the inning.

Reds 5, Giants 2
Jack Armstrong allowed four hits in eight innings against slumping San Francisco and Todd Benzinger hit a three-run homer to lead surging Cincinnati.

Armstrong struck out six and walked one, giving up Kevin Mitchell's 18th homer in the fourth and an RBI single to Brett Butler in the eighth.

Benzinger homered in the first off John Burkett (7-2).

Pirates 5, Phillies 0
Rick Reed allowed four hits and Jose Lind had a two-run triple for Pittsburgh.

Reed (1-0) also hit a sacrifice fly in the Pirates' three-run fourth inning. He struck out a career-high nine and walked two.

Barry Bonds extended his career-high hitting streak to 12 games. Bonds was 1-for-2 with a walk, giving him 23 hits in 46 at-bats during his streak.

Mets 3, Cardinals 2
An error by right fielder Milt

Thompson allowed the go-ahead run to score in the ninth inning.

With two out and a runner on first, Dave Magadan doubled off Lee Smith (1-2) and Thompson booted the ball into the corner as Mackey Sasser scored without a play.

David Cone (4-4) gave up five hits in eight innings.

Astros 5, Padres 3
Mike Scott continued to baffle San Diego in the Astrodome, improving his career record at home against the Padres to 14-1 while pitching Houston to victory.

Scott (5-7) worked 5 2-3 innings, giving up two runs on five hits while walking two and striking out three.

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the second after Eric Anthony walked and scored on a double by Ken Caminiti. The Astros made it 4-0 in the third.

Expos 7, Cubs 3
Nelson Santovenia hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning and added an RBI single in a decisive five-run seventh.

Mark Gardner (4-3) was the winner, allowing five hits in six innings, including homers by Dwight Smith and Marvell Wynne. Shawn Boskie (2-4) took the loss.

Ireland edges Romania in shootout to set up quarterfinal match with Italians ROME (AP) - Italy doesn't allow goals. Ireland doesn't lose games.

Both continued their streaks Monday in entirely different ways.

The host Italians, seeking an unprecedented fourth World Cup, beat Uruguay 2-0 on goals by Salvatore Schillaci and Aldo Serena. Ireland, in its first appearance at the world soccer championships, survived 120 minutes of scoreless play and won a penalty kick shootout over Romania 5-4.

The teams meet in the quarterfinals in Rome on Saturday.

"This is the World Cup and every game is hard, every team is hard," Schillaci said of the matchup with the Irish.

It will be hard for anyone to beat Italy's defense, which has an unblemished record so far. The Italians have beaten Austria and the United States 1-0, Czechoslovakia and Uruguay 2-0.

"I think our midfield is our real source of strength," said Luigi De Agostini. "We have mobile players and never give other teams a fixed point of reference that they can attack."

almost seems to take the impenetrable defense in stride.

"It is something we depend on," he said. "We always attacked and created quite a few plays. In the second half, we were able to break the tie. It was an important step against a very difficult opponent."

The next opponent not only will be difficult but inspired. It has been 19 months since the Irish were beaten and, even though they have not won in regulation time here, nobody has defeated them, either.

"Just think," Coach Jack Charlton said, "we are through to the quarterfinals in our first World Cup. I promised them at the start that we would take them to Rome and we've made it."

Barely. The heroes this time were the goalie and the gunner. Goalkeeper Paddy Bonner guessed right, dived right and stopped the fifth penalty kick in the shootout, by Daniel Timofte.

"I read the way he walked up to the ball," Bonner said.

David O'Leary, known as "Gunner" with Arsenal of the English first division, then walked up to the ball and put it into the right corner of the net for the victory.

"To walk on and score the winner, it was a dream," O'Leary said. "The lads said: 'Take the fifth one.' So I did."

"I left it completely to them," Charlton said. "There were plenty of willing takers. David O'Leary has had to wait a long time to get on to the team, but he accepted without hesitation the responsibility of scoring the final goal. He did Ireland proud."

When O'Leary scored, the players surged onto the field and mobbed him, while nearly 20,000 Irish fans sang, waved flags and hugged each other in celebration.

The Romanians also could be proud. They played well under the most difficult of circumstances - unrest back home.

"It could be that the events had some effect on the players," Coach Emerich Jenei said. "Football also helped keep the calm at home because everyone was excited about us."

The excitement of the second round concludes today with Yugoslavia against Spain at Verona and England playing Belgium at Bologna.

UT-El Paso coach scoffs at charges made by recruit

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Texas-El Paso basketball coach Don Haskins scoffed at claims by a former recruit who said he was given housing, transportation and money.

"We've done nothing illegal," Haskins said. He has called a news conference today to discuss the allegations.

John Stagers told the NCAA that he received favors from UTEP in 1988, the Los Angeles Times reported. Stagers also implicated UTEP assistants Rus Bradburn, now at Ball State, and G. Ray Johnson.

"I came out to (El Paso) with money, but I never spent my money because ... I didn't have to pay for anything," Stagers told the Los Angeles Times.

The charges come six months after the NCAA began an investigation of UTEP's basketball program.

During his senior year of high school in California, Stagers was considered one of the top 50 college prospects in the nation. But he had so many unexcused absences that he failed to graduate.

Stagers signed at letter of intent to play for UTEP, even though other schools looked at his transcript and shied away. But Stagers failed a General Equivalency Diploma certificate test.

He now attends Columbia Community College in California. Officials of that school said Stagers, faced with virtually no other options, buckled down and did the work for his GED.

"You know," Haskins said, "had John Stagers passed his GED here, I think the NCAA would be a lot more concerned we'd done something illegal."

Stagers was not at home when called Monday by The Associated Press. Haskins did not return calls from the AP Monday.

Bradburn refused to respond to the allegations Monday. Johnson denied buying meals or giving rides to Stagers.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My gynecologist does not want me to take estrogen until after I have completely ceased my menstrual periods. I believe I have been going through the menopause for about five to six years. I'm 50 years old.

About six years ago I became very hateful and have remained so since, very easily irritated and don't want to do anything. Nothing interests me and I am easily depressed. I really don't care about living because I continually feel tired and dragged out. That is so unlike me. I do not have good relations with anyone because of my attitude and desperately want to be different.

Four years ago my doctor expressed some concern about hot flashes and said he felt I was in the menopause and needed estrogen. I took estrogen (Premarin and Provera) for two years and was very uneasy about them so I took myself off the medicine.

Then I started going to a gynecologist because I felt she would know better whether I should be on estrogen or not. She said not until after my periods have stopped completely.

All my life I have had regular periods every 28 days until two years ago. Then they went haywire. Sometimes I go two months without a period, then I bleed heavy for six days. I never know when I am going to have a period.

Sometimes I feel like I am completely going out of my mind, because I can't think straight, can't remember and just plain don't feel good. I don't want my husband to touch me.

I need to know if I am in the menopause or not. Is there a blood test that can prove this?

DEAR READER: Your story sounds like you are having a depression. There is a lot of controversy about whether the menopause causes a depression or not. Both can occur at the same time. Your symptoms are sufficiently severe that I would strongly suggest that you see a psychiatrist for an evaluation regardless of your menopause status. A great deal can be done today to manage depression. It is an illness, and should be approached like other illnesses. You may need medicine to help you, and they are available.

The other symptoms you describe, the hot flashes earlier, the temperature changes you describe in the rest of your letter and irregular menstrual periods all suggest that you are going through the menopause. Studies of the cells in the vagina and blood tests for hormone levels can definitely be used to determine your status.

I would strongly disagree with your gynecologist's concept that you don't need estrogen replacement until after you have stopped having periods entirely. If you are estrogen deficient, you need hormone replacement now to get the most benefit from them in preventing rapid bone loss that leads to osteoporosis in many women at a later time. The 10 years around the menopause during the onset of estrogen deficiency are the most important years to prevent rapid bone loss.

You should read Special Report 97, The Menopause and Beyond. I would have sent you a free copy, but your address was not on your letter. Those who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Incidentally, Provera — but not Premarin — can cause depression and should be used cautiously, if at all, in anyone who is depressed or has had a depression.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Donald Trump, mired in marital and financial problems, faces more trouble in trying to convert his Ambassador Hotel property into a hotel and business complex.

The city Board of Education voted 7-0 Monday to use its powers of eminent domain to seize 17.6 acres of the 23.5-acre property for a new high school to relieve overcrowding.

Attorneys for Trump Wilshire Associates, the investment group headed by the New York billionaire, said the dispute is probably headed for the courts.

The vote is the latest in a series of problems facing the flamboyant Trump, whose marriage fell apart at the same time his real estate and casino empire hit financial troubles.

Prepare for older parents' visit

Guess who's coming to visit. Planning for a visit from family members can be a challenge on any occasion. The house must be spotless, dinners acquire a new meaning and the daily routine gets a complete overhaul. When that visit is from your older parents, however, the situation can become needlessly tense.

Remember that the key to making your older parents feel at home is to understand their individual needs. Everyone ages differently, so it is important that you be sensitive to changes in your parents' interests and needs. They may want to be more active during the visit than you realize, and be prepared—they might even wear you out.

If you haven't seen your parents for a while, be sure to assess their activity level and general outlook prior to their visit. At the same time, remember that aging is a natural process and you shouldn't make your parents feel helpless, "different," or in any way an imposition. The following tips will help you and your children make the most of your parents' visit:

-Get a fix on your parents' capabilities. Remember that if you are too helpful, you may overcompensate and undermine their desire for independence, making your parents feel unwelcome.

-Keep the communications channel open. Sometimes our own discomfort with aging prevents us from talking openly with our parents. Think of aging as a learning experience for yourself and talk about whatever subjects are on your mind with your parents.

-Ascertain any dietary requirements. With an increased focus on remaining healthy and fit longer, many mature adults are on restricted diets. Be sure to determine, in advance, whether special arrangements should be made for meal preparation. Also remember that as people age, their meal patterns often change. Up early, many older adults prefer their heavier meal at noon and a light supper early in the evening. In fact, eating light before retiring for the evening makes good sense for all of us.

-Be aware of any medications your parents are taking. Advise them to bring an adequate supply and extra copies of their prescriptions with them. If your parents do take medications, advise them of the importance of keeping these medications out of the reach of small children. Also, explain to your young children that these special medications help their grandparents stay active and have more fun.

-Don't try to do everything in one visit. Work with your parents to schedule activities. Determine how active they want to be, and remember that as a rule mature travelers don't want too much "down time." Prior to the visit, try to get your parents' input on how they want to spend their time and schedule activities accordingly.

Getting input from your parents prior to the visit will help you make plans everyone will enjoy. Pre-planning the activities also will allow your parents to be fully prepared for the visit and give them something to really look forward to.

-Understand the emotional need for independence. Your parents may want to spend some time traveling alone or with your children. Or they may prefer to stay in a hotel where they can take advantage of restaurant/recreational facilities. Many mature travelers are members of discount travel programs that offer substantial room and dinner discounts. Recognize your parents' need to be self-sufficient and, depending on their individual preferences, discuss a hotel stay as a possible option. In fact, you might consider purchasing a membership for your parents in a discount program for mature travelers if they do not already have one.

By taking the proper steps, you can make a visit from your parents the highlight of the year for both you and your children. Understanding your parents' needs will bring your family closer together and will give you greater insight on the process of aging.

Help your doctor help you

You can help your doctor decide on the best treatment for your medical problem if you follow these simple rules on your next visit. Your doctor should be told:

-if you have ever had an unusual or allergic reaction to any medication.

-if you are pregnant, or if you may become pregnant.

-if you are breastfeeding. Some drugs may pass into the milk and may increase the chance of side effects.

-if you are taking any other prescription or over-the-counter medications. It is important to know that two or more medications taken together could produce unwanted effects.

Many medications may cause drug interactions. If you are seeing more than one physician for the treatment, it is very important to discuss with each physician the medication prescribed by the other. This will help your physician select the most appropriate therapy for your specific situation. Some medications have a lower potential for interaction than others.

Two important points to remember are: If your doctor tells you to take all of your medicine, complete the full course as instructed, even if you feel better before it's all been taken, and if your doctor tells you to discontinue taking the medicine, do so immediately. If there's some left over, destroy it in a safe manner, out of the reach of children.

Fight
fraud

Credit fraud costs our economy nearly a billion dollars a year. Equifax, the first national credit reporting company in the country, has developed several credit fraud detection services to help reduce this problem. For example, one service alerts merchants when a credit applicant is using a prison address, a mail drop, or an unverifiable social security number. Another Equifax service reduces the risk to mail order and telemarketing merchants by verifying a consumer's name, address and credit card number. Equifax even has a service that accurately accesses credit history information on consumers under their maiden, former, or current married name or nicknames for both men and women. By helping to determine an individual's exact identity, this service is extremely valuable in efforts to prevent fraud. These fraud detection systems notwithstanding, there are ways you can protect yourself and guard against fraud and rising credit costs. Don't give out your Social Security or credit card numbers or other personal data indiscriminately. Treat credit cards like cash; keep them in a safe place and carry them only when necessary. Notify the issuer and the police immediately if credit cards are lost or stolen, destroy all charge carbons, and destroy expired cards and unwanted credit applications. By helping reduce the opportunity for credit fraud, you help keep down the cost of credit. President Franklin D. Roosevelt dedicated the Jefferson Memorial in Washington in 1943.

Here's skin,
advice

Let the sunshine in-but not too much. Sun worshippers are steadily on the decline and a growing number of consumers are taking preventative steps to avoid sun damage. Here are some bright ideas on choosing the right sunscreen:

- Most dermatologists recommend you use an SPF (sun protection factor) of at least 15 for maximum protection. Sunscreens with higher SPFs won't protect you better, they just contain more chemicals.
- All exposed areas should be protected with sunscreen-feet, hands, back of the neck, even lips.
- For those who enjoy sports and swimming, you need a sunscreen that won't sweat or rub off. The protection remains constant even after six hours in water. It stays on until you wash it off with soap and water.
- Don't be lulled into false security by swimming in a t-shirt or sitting under an umbrella. You're not getting full protection.
- HINT: Apply sunscreen before going outdoors because exposure begins the minute you step outside-even on a short walk your skin can receive incidental sun damage.

There are ways to meet costs of higher education

Imagine spending more than $100,000 for your child's college education. Seem far fetched? With college tuition rising at an average of eight percent annually, in 10 years, private four-year colleges are expected to cost more than $100,000, and public universities are likely to average more than $40,000 for the same four-year program. That's nearly twice as much as they cost today.

But, parents should not despair. There are ways to meet the high cost of higher education. The key is careful financial planning. And, the secret to successful planning is starting early.

"Parents should start an investment program for college education when their children are young, and continue to make investments on a regular basis," said Gordon Evans, vice president and director of marketing at MetLife-State Street Investment

Save on gasoline

You pay more than Grandpa did for everything from gasoline to broccoli. It's pretty much the same broccoli it's always been. But today's gasoline is a high-tech brew doing more than just pushing your car.

Modern higher octane gasolines inhibit power-robbing engine knock. And their powerful detergents can actually clean up fouled fuel injectors. Injectors improve engine efficiency by delivering fuel as a fine mist, but tiny deposits can disrupt the injector opening, which is as thin as a human hair.

Anyway, you have a promising fuel-saving device in your car—you yourself. Some things you can do: look ahead, and try to avoid sudden stops and fast starts. Keep tire pressure up as recommended. On highways, drive steadily at legal limits; high speeds gulf fuel. Trim drag by keeping windows closed and using dashboard vents for fresh air. Void idling for more than a few minutes. Keep a manual transmission in the highest possible gear without straining your engine.

And fill your tank with a high-tech gasoline that contains a proper detergent to keep your fuel intake system clean and engine running efficiently.

services, Inc., a mutual fund distribution company based in Boston. "Over time, this approach can provide a substantial return on the investment, giving parents peace of mind knowing that they will be prepared when their children are ready to enter college."

For example, assume you are a parent of a two-year-old daughter, and you plan to send her to a private, four-year college that will cost approximately $100,000. If you started an investment program now, you would have to invest about $235 per month in a mutual fund for the next 16 years to finance that education. If, however, you were saving for that same college education when the child was 13 years old, your monthly payments would increase to just over $1,325.

Mutual funds are an excellent example of a long-term investment opportunity that can help finance a college education. These funds invest in a diversified portfolio of securities, which may consist of stocks, bonds, short-term debt and other types of investments. This investment approach enables parents to reap the benefits of spreading the risk over several securities, rather than being vulnerable to the performance of a single security.

Mutual funds range from aggressive, growth stock portfolios to conservative, income-oriented bond portfolios, providing investment opportunities for parents at all risk tolerance levels.

Whatever investment program parents choose, the most important point is that they plan ahead. By putting their money to work for them today, parents can more easily reach their financial goals of tomorrow.

"In addition to saving for college, mutual funds can help people reach a number of long-term financial goals such as saving for retirement or buying a home," said Evans.

Accent on Health

About 400,000 new cases of skin cancer, the most common form of human cancer, will be diagnosed in the U.S. this year. According to health officials, most of them will result from repeated overexposure to the sun's rays.

If scientists are correct, because air pollution has begun to destroy the planet's ozone layer, skin cancer may be even more common in the future. Therefore, the Texas Department of Health (TDH) urges Texas to take special precautions.

Dr. Patti Patterson, TDH Acting Associate Commissioner for Personal Health Services, said, "Texas are used to the outdoors, and they sometimes accept sunburn as no more than temporary discomfort. But each sunburn contributes to permanent radiation damage that may go unnoticed, sometimes for years."

Dr. Patterson stressed that repeated ill effects from the sun are cumulative. "Every individual has his own tolerance for how much of the sun's ultraviolet light can stand in a lifetime." She explained that children and older people, especially those with light skin, generally have a lower tolerance to overexposure than people with dark skin. She added, though, that even dark-skinned people have their limits.

Dr. Patterson said that the likelihood of skin cancer increases with age. Warning signs include sores that do not heal or any unusual skin condition, such as a change in size or color of a mole or birthmark.

The American Cancer Society recommends a monthly skin self-examination for symptoms. Teens and adults should use a full-length mirror and hand mirror to study the whole skin carefully for overall condition and tiny changes, including the skin of the scalp and between the toes. Parents also should thoroughly examine their young children. Any noticeable change warrants a medical opinion.

To reduce the risk of overexposure to the sun, Texas are advised to:

-Wear protective clothing, including hats, long sleeves, even gloves.

-Chosse-and use-sunscreens which are best suited to skin sensitivity. Apply a waterproof sunscreen (rated 15 or higher) at least an hour before going into the sun, and reapply after swimming or heavy perspiration.

-Avoid sun exposure between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., when the sun's ultraviolet rays are most intense.

-Do not use sunlamps, booths or tanning pills.

-Be especially cautious of sunlight when using prescribed drugs, since some tend to increase the skin's light sensitivity.

"These precautions and plain common sense can help most people avoid skin cancer. And when people do develop skin cancer, they will find it early, if they routinely examine themselves," Dr. Patterson said.

She added that with early detection most cases of skin cancer can be cured.

The only event in the first 13 Olympiads was a footrace of about 200 yards.

Quick tips for summer hair repair

Hot fun in the summer can take its toll on your hair. Over-exposure to sun, salt water and chlorine can rob hair of its natural moisture, leaving it dull, dry and unmanageable.

Although there is no magic potion to protect hair from damage, there are some simple steps you can take to keep hair looking and feeling its healthy best.

An active summer schedule may require more frequent shampooing. To avoid stripping or drying hair, use a moisturizing shampoo that will leave hair thoroughly cleansed, but soft, manageable and healthy-looking. When hair is especially dirty, lather and rinse twice rather than using extra shampoo and only lathering once.

Condition hair after every shampoo to add moisture and shine and make combing easier. If ends feel dry or damaged, dab a little extra conditioner on them before rinsing.

Once a week or whenever hair feels especially dry, give yourself a hot oil treatment to help restore lost moisture and protect hair from further damage. One minute once a week is all it takes to condition deeply and bring back body, shine and manageability.

Protect hair from the sun's harsh rays by wearing a hat or scarf when at the beach or outdoors for long periods of time.

Save hair from unnecessary moisture loss by never blow-drying it completely. Stop when you feel the slightest bit of dampness and let hair cool before further styling.

Have hair cut or trimmed every four to six weeks to remove damaged ends and maintain your style.

A well-balanced diet, rich in vitamins and protein, will help your hair stay strong and shiny.

Above all, say the experts, treat hair gently and use products that are right for your hair type and lifestyle.

ATLANTA (AP) - The 19-year-old son of Mayor Maynard Jackson has been arrested on charges of assaulting a 30-year-old woman on the street.

Maynard Holbrook Jackson III was charged with simple battery Monday after a sheriff's deputy saw him pick up a friend, Maria Norma Duarte, and fling her to the ground, police said.

Ms. Duarte received minor cuts on her arms and legs, said Officer D.B. Troutman. She also was sprayed in the face with Mace, police said.

Police said the younger Jackson was arguing with the woman over the can of Mace. They gave no other details.

Jackson was being held on $1,050 bail for a court appearance today.
