Malamen: season's prime for plant, jobs

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Hereford farmer-entrepreneur Larry Malamen announced plans Thursday for a new vegetable processing facility in Hereford that could create over 250 new jobs in Hereford by December.

Malamen, who has taken MW Carrot from a carrot growing-and-processing facility to a broad range of other specialty crops. The facility will complete process and package the vegetables for wholesale, institutional and retail marketing under the name Season's Prime.

"We'll have the capacity to do anything you see in the grocery store," Malamen said.

Most of the crops, including spinach, broccoli, a variety of greens, squash, carrots and cauliflower, will be grown locally. They will be harvested from May through December, and the crops will be contracted by Season's Prime. Other crops can be brought here from South Texas, Colorado and New Mexico growing areas.

A 56,000-square-foot plant will be constructed on one of three sites near Hereford. Malamen said he has narrowed his choices down to three sites. He said he hopes to break ground next month with the plant in operation by December.

Malamen said the plant could produce 90 million pounds of finished, frozen, packaged product a year. If the plant runs at only 75 percent capacity, that means $7 million in raw products a year purchased from local farmers.

The plant would have an annual payroll of $3 million a year. The workforce would include 244 plant workers, six foremen, and management and office personnel.

Don Taylor, director of the Panhandle Small Business Development Center at West Texas State University, said the $7 million in construction costs, $3 million in payroll and other new monies pumped into the economy would have the impact of $11 million on the local economy, based on a Texas A&M University study.

"For every 100 manufacturing jobs you get another 64 in other sectors, like retail, service, trade, finance, construction and education," Taylor said. "According to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, if these new jobs were just minimum wage jobs you would get another $2.6 million a year in new dollars. That's a total of 435 jobs, with 178 spinoff jobs."

Taylor said the future could be even more excited. He noted that when Wal-Mart built its giant distribution facility in Plainview, there were originally only 300 new jobs. Now there are over 800 employees with a wide range of new businesses that have ridden the coattails.

"That is economic development, and this is the kind that is needed to be successful in the Panhandle. It's fun and exciting, and you can do it."

The plant is known in the trade as a "freezer" plant. The vegetables are washed, sorted, sliced, diced, and blanched. Some of the vegetables (depending on the product) are then packaged before being frozen. Others are first quickly, deeply frozen before being packaged.

Malamen showed a video tape detailing how spinach and carrot processing works, and how they are different. The spinach goes through a variety of processes before being packaged, then frozen.

Whole carrots will be sliced and diced. Unlike older plants, Season's Prime will use state-of-the-art camera and computer equipment to sort out ends, stems and discolored pieces. If the color isn't right, Malamen explained, the computer-assisted sorting system will kick them out.

The individual carrot slices are then placed inside a freezer. The temperature will be -25 degrees F, with a wind chill of -100 degrees F. "People only work in there for 30 minute shifts," Malamen said. "The freezer is actually a very small part of the overall project. The processing is where the dollars are."

Several studies, including a doctoral dissertation completed in 1989 by a Texas Tech University student, have shown the viability of a processing plant in the Northwest Texas area. There are no other such processing facilities in this region.

"Food production is obviously a very solid fit for Hereford," said Jon Krebs, director of economic development for Southwestern Public Service Co. "Hereford is continuing to grow as the food production capital of Texas."

"Larry Malamen's entrepreneurial spirit is a must in making this happen."

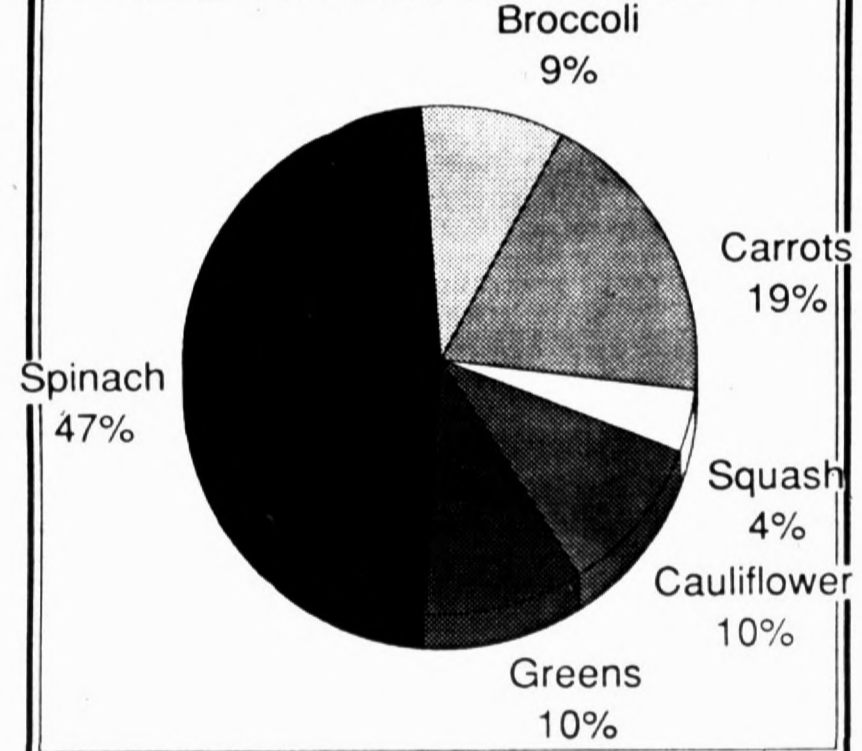

It depends on the individual to make this happen. Hereford is the capital of entrepreneurship in Texas, and it has a history of people like Garth Merrick, George Warner, Frank Ford and others coming to the forefront and making these things grow."

Value of Season's Prime, Inc. on Hereford and the area

- Annual raw vegetable purchases (through contracts)--$7 million-$9 million
- Construction--$7 million
- Payroll--$3 million
- 244 plant employees
- 6 plant foremen
- 10 maintenance technicians
- 2 office employees
- Management
- Annual gross sales--$21 million
- Projected first year impact: $10 million-$15 million
- Impact in succeeding years: $10 million-$13 million

What's for supper?

Plenty of vegetables! Here are the vegetables that will be processed by Season's Prime, Inc. All told, the crops will need about 5,380 acres. In addition, the plant can process asparagus, onions and others.

Malamen announces plans

The vegetable processing and packaging facility could create over 250 new jobs in Hereford and pump millions of new dollars into Hereford through value-added processing.

The newly-named Encore recycling coalition will sponsor another Recycle Day in Hereford, collecting recyclables on June 7 from 4 to 8 p.m.

The group offered a $10 prize for its official name. Mark Luchsinger came up with the name Encore, which was selected by the group at a public meeting Thursday night in the Bicentennial Room of Deaf Smith County Library.

The prize money came from the profits of a recycling day sponsored by the recycling coalition and Hereford Junior High students on April 21.

The remainder of the profits were used to buy five trees from First National Nursery, which were planted by Hereford students. Students also planted three large trees donated by Hereford Bi-Products.

What types of things should people save to recycle? Metals, plastics, glass (sorted by color), white paper, newspaper, and unwaxed cardboard will be collected by Encore.

Cardboard with glossy printing on it is not necessarily waxed, because the glossy printing may simply be due to the type of ink used in printing. Waxed cardboard will yield wax when scratched with a fingernail.

Julius Bodner, the manager of JC Penney's in Sugarland Mall, has been saving cardboard shipping boxes for months. Bodner will donate the boxes to anyone who wants to use the boxes to collect recyclables if those persons will ask for one at the store.

Group picks name, plans recycling events

Heavily colored paper is usually not recyclable because taking the ink out of it is too expensive. Shiny paper, such as magazine covers and newspaper inserts, are not recyclable.

Since so much junk mail is colored or has a glossy finish, many people give up on recycling it. However, Encore member Ruth King suggests using the blank side of junk mail as notepads.

Hereford Iron and Metal will put out bins to help gather the recyclables on June 7. Hereford Iron and Metal purchases metals, old appliances, batteries, and cars. Fanfare Metals of Amarillo will purchase plastics. St. Anthony's school will take computer paper with one good side (used at the school) and newspapers.

Encore is looking for a volunteer to help haul glass to Amarillo in a farm truck or trailer after the June 7 recycling collection. In the April 21 collection, around 600 pounds of glass was collected. Money from the sale of the glass should be about enough to pay the cost of fuel one way to Amarillo.

In addition, Encore is looking for a large empty building in or near town to use for interim collecting between recycling days.

Encore will probably hold another recycling day in August.

Richards, Williams clash over reforms

AUSTIN (AP) - Republican Clayton Williams says Ann Richards favors a tax increase, but the Democratic gubernatorial candidate says Williams doesn't know what he's talking about.

"The Republicans clearly would prefer to play at their little petty politics than to do something constructive for all Texans," said Glenn Smith, spokesman for Ms. Richards.

Williams on Thursday charged that by refusing to second-guess the Legislature on school finance reform, Ms. Richards supports the higher taxes legislative leaders say are necessary.

"Where I come from in West Texas, when you say you won't second-guess somebody, that means you agree with them ... In my language, that means she's for it. If she's not, she needs to say so," Clayton Williams said.

"Read Richards' lips: more taxes on Texans," he told a mortgage bankers' convention.

But Smith said Williams and Republican Gov. Bill Clements are playing politics with the crisis facing schools instead of trying to solve the dilemma.

In other political developments Thursday: -Republican agriculture commissioner candidate Rick Perry blasted incumbent Democrat Jim Hightower, saying he caused federal officials to end a state-federal crop inspection contract that has guaranteed "the safety of much of the state's food supply."

Hightower said the blame lies with the USDA, which he said refused to negotiate a fairer agreement to manage the Texas-federal crop program.

The state sought a higher percentage of federal inspection fees to cover its costs, and wanted many of the federal supervisor's oversight responsibilities to be transferred to the state-appointed director.

Perry said the U.S. Agriculture Department signed a contract instead with the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Association because Hightower wrongly "thought the USDA would either be forced to shut down the crop inspection program or allow him to continue using the program as his personal political slush fund."

But Hightower blamed a Republican administration in Washington for the dispute.

"USDA has taken a political potshot at me but ended up shooting consumers, taxpayers and ultimately Texas producers," he said. "USDA is playing election-year politics."

Hightower said the change means Texas peanut and citrus producers and shippers in many cases will be forced to obtain both state and federal inspections for their products, forcing delays and added expense.

Former coach guilty of assault

A Hereford man was sentenced Thursday to 80 years in prison and fined $10,000 after being found guilty of aggravated sexual assault after a four-day trial in 72nd District Court in Lubbock.

A jury deliberated only eight minutes before returning the guilty verdict against Julian Zamora Chavarria Jr., 33, of Hereford, in connection with a July 1988 incident in a Lubbock motel room.

The jury deliberated just over an hour before returning the sentence.

Chavarria was the coach of a girls' softball team in the Kids Inc. program in Hereford. The team was playing in a tournament in Lubbock when the incident occurred. The girl was a reserve player on the team.

Because the girl was only 13 at the time of the incident, the state had only to prove that Chavarria had made sexual contact with the girl to substantiate the aggravated sexual assault charge.

Prosecutor Russ Wasley told the jury that what Chavarria did "was a violation of the trust that the girl and the parents of the girls on the team had placed in him. No child deserves to go through the sort of hell the defendant put the girl through. No human being would do this to a 13-year-old girl unless he had animal lust on his mind," Wasley said.

The most telling testimony was a tape-recorded telephone conversation between Chavarria and the girl after they had returned to Hereford. The recording, made by Hereford police, was played before the jury and included a confession of the incident. Chavarria said during the phone conversation, "I'm sorry, it's all my fault. It's something that never should have taken place."

Chavarria was not called to the witness stand during the trial.

For the purposes of parole, sentences over 60 years are considered to be 60 years. Chavarria will likely serve about 12 years in prison.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, May 11, the 131st day of 1990. There are 234 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On May 11, 1888, songwriter Irving Berlin was born Israel Baline in Temun, Russia. Berlin wrote some 1,500 songs, including "White Christmas," "Easter Parade," "God Bless America," "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and "Puttin' on the Ritz."

On this date:

In 1858, Minnesota became the 32nd state of the Union.

In 1943, during World War II, American forces landed on Japanese-held Attu island in the Aleutians. The territory was retaken in three weeks.

In 1973, charges against Daniel Ellsberg for his role in the "Pentagon Papers" case was dismissed by a judge who cited government misconduct.

In 1987, in a medical first, doctors in Baltimore transplanted the heart and lungs of an auto accident victim to a patient who gave up his own heart to a second recipient.

Five years ago: A fire swept through a crowded soccer stadium in Bradford, England, killing 52 people as millions of television viewers watched in horror.

One year ago: Kenya announced that it would seek a worldwide ban on the trade of ivory, a move intended to preserve its fast-dwindling elephant herds.

Thought for today:

"A single death is a tragedy, a million deaths is a statistic." - Josef Stalin, Soviet leader (1879-1953)

Clements, lawmakers work to implement school reform

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements will propose changes in lawmakers' school finance reform plan in the hope of reaching a compromise with them and averting a court-written plan, the governor's chief of staff said.

"There appears to be a desire not to continue the impasse ... We're pursuing whether there's any hope of a compromise," Mike Toomey said Thursday.

If Clements and the Legislature don't come up with a bill by June 1, court master William Kilgarlin - a former Texas Supreme Court justice - will propose an education funding plan that could be imposed on schools.

The Supreme Court ordered the state to devise a system that makes more money available to property-poor school districts, in a decision handed down after Kilgarlin left the court. The current $13.5 billion-a-year finance system relies on state aid, local property taxes and federal money.

Kilgarlin has warned that his plan would have to divert state aid from property-rich to property-poor school districts, because he doesn't have the power to raise state revenue.

The Democratic-controlled Legislature and Republican governor have been stymied by the governor's stand against new state taxes for school finance reform.

Clements called this special session on school finance - lawmakers' third - after vetoing a half-cent sales tax increase needed to fund a $555 million reform plan adopted last session by lawmakers.

Toomey and Secretary of State George Bayoud, representing Clements, met Thursday with Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, head of the House Public Education Committee, and Sen. Carl Parker, head of the Senate Education Committee.

"I think that they're talking in good faith," said Ms. Glossbrenner. Parker, D-Port Arthur, and Ms. Glossbrenner head a conference committee that is working out differences between House and Senate reform plans that Clements has vowed to veto. The reform bills are much the same as last session's plan.

"Nobody wants to pass a conference committee report that we know will be vetoed, if we can find a better way to do things," Ms. Glossbrenner said.

Toomey said, "There's certainly no agreement, and we're a long ways apart." But he added, "There is a chance for a breakthrough."

Toomey said the governor hasn't changed his position on taxes. But he said the mechanism for funding schools was discussed, along with proposals to improve education.

To help pay for reform, the Texas House voted 131-2 Thursday for $182 million in state budget cuts, but legislative leaders said they see no way around a tax increase to finish the job. The cuts total about $41 million more than reductions earlier passed by the Senate, which called for a conference committee on the budget-cutting bill.

Obituaries

ESTHER R. GAMEZ May 11, 1990

Esther R. Gamez, 58, of Hereford died Friday, May 11, 1990, in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) - The nation's top business leaders, who just six months ago warned that a recession was a distinct threat, said today the economy will continue to grow moderately at least through 1991.

The Business Council - 100 chief executives of the country's largest corporations - forecast the economy will grow at a 2 percent pace in 1990 and 2.6 percent in 1991. Last October, it had projected growth of only 1.8 percent for this year, the slowest pace since the recession year of 1981.

"There is remarkable unanimity among our consultants (who drew up the forecast)," said Lewis T. Preston, chairman of J.P. Morgan Inc., the giant New York bank, and council vice chairman. "Not a single one of the 19 is forecasting a recession to begin any time this year or next."

"The dominant belief is that the (Federal Reserve) has successfully guided the economy into a moderate growth pattern that has an excellent chance of being extended for a very long time," Preston said in presenting the forecast on the eve of the council's semiannual meeting at the Homestead resort.

The council's forecast last October warned that an outright recession was possible unless the Federal Reserve cut interest rates, which it had boosted to slow the economy in its fight against inflation.

Despite continuing high interest rates, the council increased its inflation forecast to 4.8 percent from 4.2 percent for this year because of weather factors and other "aberrations" that pushed prices up 8.1 percent at an annual rate during the first quarter.

But the council said inflation, as measured by the government's Consumer Price Index, will drop to 3.9 percent during the second half of the year and average 4.4 percent during 1991. The CPI was up 4.6 percent in 1989.

Preston said the council's economists also expect no change in Fed policy "for an extended period ahead." He added, however, that "a significant reduction of the federal budget deficit would certainly change the forecast."

Congressional and White House negotiators on Tuesday are to start discussing ways to reduce the deficit for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1. If they fail to reach an agreement, administration officials say the budget could be automatically trimmed by $60 billion to $100 billion under the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law.

The council projected economic growth to accelerate gradually from 1.9 percent in the first quarter to 2.3 percent in the second half of the year and 2.6 percent during 1991. The economy, as measured by the gross national product, grew 3 percent in 1989 after slowing to 1.1 percent in the final quarter.

Contributing most to the growth, the forecast said, will be consumer spending, exports and business investments.

McDonald: Nursing education funds needed

AUSTIN (AP) - To combat a worsening shortage of nurses, a state lawmaker and hospital officials are calling for increased funding for nursing education.

"Texas' nursing shortage is real, it is serious and it is widespread," said state Rep. Nancy McDonald, D-El Paso.

Ms. McDonald, herself a nurse, called on Gov. Bill Clements and the Legislature Thursday to immediately appropriate $8 million for nursing education to help curtail the state's shortage.

Ms. McDonald said recent studies have shown nursing vacancy rates of 11 percent to more than 15 percent at hospitals around the state.

"These are not just personnel office figures. They represent actual vacancies and they are causing very real restrictions on services to Texans in need of health care at all income levels and in all regions," she said.

"Hospitals across Texas can tell you that the lack of nurses has forced them to make adjustments that limit the availability of services, including closing emergency rooms and using fewer beds," she said.

According to the Texas Hospital Association, 16 percent of the budgeted nursing positions in Texas hospitals currently are vacant.

The association said the vacancy rates ranged from 6 percent in Fort Worth-Arlington to 21 percent in Austin.

Among other cities with shortages, the association said, are Abilene, 15 percent; Bryan-College Station, 18 percent; Dallas, 18 percent; El Paso, 17 percent; Houston, 18 percent; McAllen-Brownsville, 18 percent; San Antonio, 16 percent, and Victoria, 16 percent.

"This crisis in the delivery of health care services to our sick, aging, school children, disadvantaged populations and dying is worsening because our Texas schools of nursing do not have the necessary funding needed for more faculty and classrooms to educate more nursing students," said two officials of the Texas Nurses Association.

In their joint statement, association president Michael Evans and executive director Clair Jordan said that without additional funds for nursing education, "Our nursing schools will have to place at least 2,000 qualified applicants on a waiting list."

Besides planning recycling days, Encore plans to continue to address other local environmental issues and continue education on recycling and related issues.

Guest speaker David Keller, who led an Earth Day march in Lubbock in addition to being affiliated with Waste Watch and the South Plains Earth Awareness Coalition, talked about recycling and environmental issues.

Keller, a West Texas native and a finance real estate major at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, told the group that people should reduce consumption, reuse and recycle.

"Most people believe the earth can heal itself," Keller said. "We have not hit the point of no return yet. This is the decade, though. This is the decade of the environment...we need to clean it up within the next ten years."

Keller urged people to "think globally and act locally."

"When you pick up that cup of coffee in the morning in that little styrofoam cup, think about the CFCs (chlorofluorocarbons) used to make it," Keller continued. "And think about that ozone hole over Antarctica. And think about people in Chile who have to wear protective clothing to go outside. Think about what it means."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: While I was on my way to work this morning, a woman on the bus went up to tell the driver that someone was sick in the back of the bus. He asked if the passenger was vomiting or just dizzy. Actually, the driver didn't seem much interested.

Finally, the woman yelled, "Do something for heavens sake! He's on the floor!" The driver stopped the bus and called for an ambulance. In the meantime, a gentleman across from me got up and observed that the man was having a very difficult time breathing. Everyone stood around gawking. Suddenly a fellow turned to me and asked, "Will you help? I think this man is having a heart attack." I replied, "Of course."

We did CPR together. He did the mouth-to-mouth, and I worked to get the heart pumping again. Luck was with us, and we succeeded. The ambulance came and the attendant said, "I think he has a good chance."

The point of this letter is that when something like this happens, remember that it could be you or a loved one who might need assistance from a stranger before the ambulance arrives.

If you aren't able to help because you don't know CPR, please learn. I am writing this letter not because I want to be praised for what I did but to encourage people to start caring more about their fellow man and to take the trouble to educate themselves about a few simple procedures that could save a life. -- Chicago Tribune Reader

DEAR CHICAGO: Thank you for giving us all something to think about. You've made two excellent points: One, learn what to do in case of an emergency, and two, when you see a stranger in distress, do what you can to help. We must never forget that we are our brother's keeper.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son and daughter-in-law have been married 17 years. They have four children. They invited us to dinner at their home once. That was 14 years ago. They are here every Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter, most birthdays and for July and August cookouts. They complain because we never come over. The reason is they never invite us.

This year, I would like to withhold the Easter dinner invitation and see what happens. My husband says I am asking for trouble. What do you say? -- A West Coast Grandma Who Is Tired Of Cooking

DEAR GRANDMA: Your letter reached me too late to skip the invitation for Easter, but I hope you will do it for the Fourth of July.

Call your daughter-in-law about June 15 and tell her that you and Gramps would like to visit them this year and ask what time she'd like to serve dinner. You may hear some premature fireworks, but at least you will get the message across.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ask your readers to think about this for a moment: You have a plain bar of iron that is worth about $5.

Made into a horseshoe, it's worth about $5.

Made into screwdrivers, it's worth about $11.

Made into needles, it's worth about $3,500.

The same is true of another kind of material -- YOU.

Your value is determined by what you decide to make of yourself. -- From Bane-Clene Professional Cleaning Digest (Indianapolis)

Miami loves Miami

The birth of an animal is not usually considered a rare occurrence for Miami Metrozoo. But this one is something else. This one is quite special and everyone in Miami is already very much in love with their newest addition. This one is the first koala born on the east coast. Born in June, presented to the public in January and officially named in February, the baby will be known as Miami. The name was submitted in a regional 'Name the Koala' contest with the 'k' for koala and 'iami' for Miami.

Kiami, a female, was the first baby born to the mother Sydney and the father Koobor on June 9, 1989. Weighing approximately one-fifth of an ounce and measuring about 3/4 of an inch long, the baby immediately crawled into its mother's pouch where it attached itself to her nipple and grew strong for the next six months. Now that it is too big for the pouch, the baby will be carried around on its mother's back until it is old enough to go out on its own, in several months.

Miami Metrozoo Director, Bob Yokel, said "Sydney has made us all very proud. This was the first verified koala birth to occur in the U.S. outside of California. And we've grown quite attached to Sydney, as well as to all of our koalas. Watching this birth progress has been quite exciting for us."

Metrozoo was the first zoo on the east coast to have a permanent koala exhibit. Like Southern California, South, South Florida is an ideal environment for koalas, and equally important for their sole source of nourishment, the eucalyptus tree. Eucalyptus leaves provide koalas with all of the food and much of the water they need to thrive.

Fielder comes back to haunt former team

By JOHN KREISER
AP Sports Writer

The Toronto Blue Jays know a lot about Cecil Fielder. They just don't know how to get him out. Fielder, who played in Japan last season after the Blue Jays gave up on him, is back in the major leagues and haunting his former club. He hit his major league-leading 13th homer and finished with three hits and three RBIs as the Detroit Tigers pounded the Blue Jays 10-5 Thursday night. In three games against Toronto, Fielder is 9-for-14 with three doubles, four home runs and nine RBIs. "It's just one of those things," Fielder said. "You get pumped up against your old teammates, but I'm hitting the ball well against everyone."

Fielder also leads the majors with 31 RBIs and has hit six homers in his last five games.

Toronto manager Cito Gaston, who was the Blue Jays' hitting coach while Fielder played there, isn't surprised by Fielder's hot start.

"It's human nature to play harder against a team that released you," Gaston said. "Cecil is a good kid. I thought that anytime he got a chance to play every day, he would hit 25 homers."

In other games, it was Kansas City 6, Texas 2; Minnesota 3, Cleveland 2, and Seattle 5, California 2.

Tigers 10, Blue Jays 5
With temperatures in the 30s, winds of 25 mph and occasional snow showers at Tiger Stadium, Fielder homered in the second off Todd Stottlemyre (4-3), singled in the first run in a six-run third inning and added an RBI double in the sixth. Tracy Jones also had a two-run single in the six-run rally.

Tigers starter Jeff Robinson (2-3) beat the Blue Jays for the first time in six career decisions despite allowing five runs in 6 1/3 innings.

Robinson adjusted his pitching to the weather.

"That was without a doubt the coldest game I've ever pitched in," he said. "The balls felt like they came right out of the freezer."

Royals 6, Rangers 2
Bo Jackson, who said earlier this week that he wasn't happy about Kansas City's poor start, took it upon himself to make sure the Royals didn't lose another game.

With the game tied and two runners on base in the eighth, Jackson hit reliever Gary Mielke's first pitch off the right-field foul pole.

The homer was only the second of the season for Jackson, but it was the 14th of his career against Texas, the most against any team.

Jackson's blast keyed a six-run eighth inning after Kevin Brown (5-1) had blanked the Royals on six hits through seven innings. Jeff Montgomery (3-1) got the victory in relief of Tom Gordon.

Twins 3, Indians 2
It took Roy Smith six tries, but he finally got his first victory as the Twins won for the seventh time in eight games.

Smith (1-3), who had not lasted past the fifth inning in any of his six previous starts, allowed six hits in 6 2/3 innings. Gary Wayne got the last out in the seventh and Rick Aguilera pitched the final two innings for his seventh save.

The only runs off Smith came in the fifth inning, when Keith Hernandez singled with two outs and Cory Snyder hit a two-run homer to put Cleveland ahead.

The Twins scored all their runs in the sixth off Greg Swindell (2-3) on Greg Gagne's triple, Dan Gladden's RBI infield single, a walk to Kirby Puckett and Gary Gaetti's two-run double.

Mariners 5, Angels 2
Seattle's battery of Brian Holman and Dave Valle combined to hand the Angels their seventh loss in eight games.

Holman (5-2) allowed two runs and nine singles in eight innings, while Valle's two-run single during a four-run fourth inning put the Mariners ahead to stay. Mike Schooler pitched the ninth for his ninth save in 10 chances.

The loss dropped the Angels 11 games behind Oakland in the AL West.

Cutting horse clinic planned

A Buster Welch Cutting Horse Training Clinic will be held on May 17, at the Amarillo Tri-State Fair Grounds Coliseum from 6-9 p.m. featuring Cowgirl Honoree Fem Sawyer.

The event will be held in conjunction with the non-pro cutting horse competition. Net proceeds from the clinic will benefit the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Hereford.

Admission is $15 and tickets can be purchased at the following locations in Amarillo and Canyon: West Texas Western Wear, Boots N Jeans, Luskey's, Oliver Brothers Saddle Shop, Berry's W-W Trailer Sales, and Easley Trailer. Tickets are available in Hereford at The Range Western Wear, Boots and Saddle. Western Wear, and at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

Cincinatti rips Pirates

By The Associated Press
With Joe Oliver and Paul O'Neill in the co-starring roles, the Cincinnati Reds put on a road show production of Eight Men In.

Oliver hit a three-run homer and O'Neill also drove in three runs during a tie-breaking eight-run eighth inning as the Reds beat Pittsburgh 10-4 Thursday night, ending the Pirates' five-game winning streak.

"We wanted to get something going ... but I don't know if we expected an eight-run inning," said O'Neill, who had a sacrifice fly and a two-run single in the eighth.

In the only other National League games, Montreal trounced Los Angeles 8-2 and San Diego whipped St. Louis 9-1.

The Reds won a battle of bullpens as the NL division leaders split their two-game series. Pittsburgh's relief corps, which had a 1.55 ERA and a 3-0 record entering the game, failed to protect a 2-1 lead and was tagged for nine runs and 10 hits in four innings after Randy Kramer pitched five strong innings, yielding one run - Chris Sabo's fifth-inning homer - and four hits.

The Reds improved to 13-3 on the road and raised their NL West lead to seven games over Los Angeles, their largest lead since they led by 10 at the end of the 1976 season. The East-leading Pirates lead Montreal by 2 1/2 games after losing for only the fourth time in 19 games.

The Pirates took a 2-1 lead on Bobby Bonilla's league-leading eighth homer of the season in the sixth off Jose Rijo, who gave up two runs and five hits in six innings.

The Reds tied it again in the seventh on pinch-hitter Luis Quinones' sacrifice fly off rookie Scott Ruskin following singles by Duncan and Hatcher and Oliver's sacrifice.

In the eighth, Barry Larkin greeted Ted Power (0-1), previously unscored upon in 13 innings, with a double and Todd Benzinger tripled. O'Neill's sacrifice fly made it 4-2 ahead of singles by Mariano Duncan and Billy Hatcher. Oliver then hit his third home run.

Winner Norm Charlton (1-0) beat out an infield hit to chase Power, who is 0-4 in four career appearances against the Reds. The former Red allowed six runs and six hits in one-third of an inning to balloon his ERA from 0.00 to 3.38.

Bob Kipper made his first appearance of the season following elbow surgery. After retiring Sabo on a groundout, Herm Winningham singled, a walk to Larkin loaded the bases and an error by shortstop Jay Bell on Benzinger's grounder allowed Charlton to score the sixth run of the inning. O'Neill then hit a two-run single.

The Pirates scored twice off Charlton in the bottom of the eighth (please see NL, Page 5)

Los Angeles down Suns

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

The Los Angeles Lakers, the first team to lose at home in the second round of the NBA playoffs, are determined not to be the last.

The Lakers travel to Phoenix for the third and fourth games Saturday and Sunday after tying the best-of-7 series against the Suns at a game apiece with a 124-100 rout at the Forum Thursday night.

"We're not about making statements," said James Worthy, who scored 23 of his 27 points as the Lakers took control in the first half. "This team has made enough statements. It's a seven-game series."

The Suns lost 21 straight games at the Forum since 1984 before winning 104-102 on Tuesday night. So the (please see NBA, Page 5)

NBA PLAYOFFS CONTINUE

Lakers, who had the best record (63-19) in the NBA during the regular season, were in a must-win situation. Los Angeles took control early, leading 33-20 after one quarter, 63-48 at halftime and 97-73 after three periods. The margin was as great as 31 points in the fourth quarter. "Most of all, there was total concentration for 48 minutes," Worthy said. "I think it was just overall focus and we didn't give them easy buckets."

In Thursday night's other games, San Antonio routed Portland, cutting the Trail Blazers' series lead to 2-1, and Detroit beat New York 104-97 for a 2-0 advantage.

Tonight's only game has Chicago at Philadelphia, which trails its Eastern Conference semifinal 2-0.

On Saturday, Detroit is at New York and Portland at San Antonio in addition to the Lakers at Phoenix.

Magic Johnson, who had 21 points and 14 assists, said the Lakers wanted to build a big lead because of the Suns' proven comeback potential.

Phoenix center Mark West, who had 24 points, 16 rebounds and seven blocked shots in Game 1, didn't score until late in the first half and finished with just nine points, five rebounds and one block.

"The Lakers did a great job of getting to the defensive boards," West said. "Basically, the man playing me stayed with me, faced up. They did a good job of keying on me."

Orlando Woolridge also had 21 points and Byron Scott added 18 points for Los Angeles. Vlade Divac had 16 points and A.C. Green 13 points and 13 rebounds for the Lakers.

Jeff Hornacek led the Suns with 18 points and Tim Perry scored 17. Tom Chambers scored only nine points for Phoenix after getting 26 in Game 1.

Spurs 121, Trail Blazers 98
David Robinson, held in check in the first two games of the series, scored 28 points and blocked eight shots for San Antonio against Portland.

It was Portland's first loss in six playoff games and snapped a nine-game winning streak going back to the regular season.

The Spurs outscored Portland 16-3 to start the fourth quarter, including a 12-0 run that put the Blazers away. A basket by Rod Strickland, who had 17 assists, gave San Antonio a 102-76 lead with 7:22 left.

Robinson had 10 points in the fourth-quarter surge.

Terry Cummings scored 19 points and Sean Elliott had 17 for San Antonio. Terry Porter and Buck Williams each had 18 points for Portland.

Pistons 104, Knicks 97

New York increased its point total by 20 from the first game to the second, but it wasn't enough to catch Detroit.

Isiah Thomas scored 23 points, including three of his five 3-point baskets down the stretch for the Pistons, who won their 12th straight playoff game dating back to last season. The NBA record is 13 by the Lakers in 1988-89.

Thomas made five of seven 3-pointers and James Edwards scored 32 points for Detroit.

Gerald Wilkins, held to 1-of-13 shooting in the Pistons' 112-77 rout in the first game, led the Knicks with 24 points. Charles Oakley had 22 and Patrick Ewing 20 for New York.

The game was tied 92-92 with 6:36 remaining, but Thomas hit two 3-pointers and Joe Dumars sank a free throw to put Detroit ahead 99-94 with 4:27 left. Thomas hit another 3-pointer with 1:03 remaining for a nine-point lead.

on Barry Bonds' RBI single and second baseman Duncan's throwing error. Randy Myers pitched the ninth for Cincinnati.

Expos 8, Dodgers 2
Dennis Martinez (3-2) scattered eight hits in beating Los Angeles for the first time in five lifetime decisions and Tim Raines drove in three runs as Montreal won its fifth straight and sent the Dodgers to their fourth loss in a row.

Martinez has beaten every major league team except Baltimore - the club for which he pitched in the American League - and Montreal.

Padres 9, Cardinals 1
Garry Templeton and Bip Roberts hit two-run homers and Roberto Alomar had four hits. Templeton's home run, his first of the season, capped a five-run fourth inning. Roberts hit his fourth homer in the ninth for San Diego's final two runs.

After tying a team record with three doubles the night before, Alomar had two more Thursday, along with two singles.

NEW YORK (AP) - Musician Graham Nash, who has been collecting photographs for nearly 20 years, had only 28 left after auctioning off 1,800 for hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"I've never really owned them. How can you own beauty?" Nash said during the sale at Sotheby's on Wednesday. "It was time to let go."

There was one photograph Nash wouldn't give up: it shows Marilyn Monroe "when she was 16 years old, unravaged by time and fame.... It cost me $20. It's priceless to me," he said.

But Nash already is starting to collect new prints - he bought three during his visit to New York. "I find it addictive," he said.

Nash, of Crosby, Stills & Nash and other groups, started collecting in earnest in 1971, when he purchased "Child With a Toy Hand Grenade in Central Park," by Diane Arbus.

honored with ribbons on Mother's Day Sunday. Following the Mother's Day theme of love and caring, Mrs. Oneita Davidson, wife of the founder of King's Manor, will speak to the congregation about present day King's Manor. She will also explain the special offering to be taken Sunday that assists residents at the retirement home.

Children who have been participating in the choir program will be recognized by Steve Sobczak, director of music. Hymnals will be awarded to those choir members moving in the seventh grade, while first year choir members will receive Chorister Guild crosses, and second year members, ribbon chevrons.

Choir members to be recognized for their service to the church through music are: Carol Choir, Cassie Abney, Lauren Caviness, Elizabeth Cooper, Jeffrey Higgins, Justin Landrum, Kyle Moody, Andrew McElroy, Jennifer Phipps, Kristen Williamson; Sunshine Choir, Ashley Bridge, Brent Carlson, Flint Dollar, Lisa Coneway, Richard Cooper, Jay Crawford, Toni Eicke, Ashley Henson, Cathy Higgins, Seth Laing, Kara Landrum, Tallee McDowell, Amy Ruland, Darren Sliney and Eddie Trotter; and Cherub Choir, Kylie Carter, Holly Coneway, Stephanie Henson and Matthew Langehennig.

All youth will meet together at 6 p.m. for food, fellowship and fundraising idea exchange. Seniors will be honored on Sunday, May 20, with a breakfast at 9 a.m. in the fellowship hall, and during the morning worship hour at 10:55 a.m.

COMMUNITY CHURCH

"Judgement and Hell" will be the topic Richard Schlabs will be speaking on during the Foundations of Our Faith Sunday School Class which begins at 9:30 a.m. Sunday. All adults are invited to attend.

Covered dish supper held

Aikman and Bluebonnet School cafeterias hosted the Food Service Personnel at a covered dish supper held recently at Hereford High School.

Fifty women attended the end-of-the-year event. President Christine Evans called the meeting to order. Trudie Gray, food service director, spoke to the group concerning proposed changes for the coming year.

Corsages were presented by Gray to: Ophelia Garcia for 10 years of service at HHS; Agnes Betzen for 20 years of service at Hereford Junior High; and Ruby Williams, cafeteria manager at Tierra Blanca, who is retiring after 26 years of service. Betty Jones, who was unable to attend, had 10 years of service at HHS.

Williams began working with the Hereford Independent School District Cafeterias in September of 1964 at Aikman. In 1967, she moved to Central as manager and in 1970 became cafeteria manager at Tierra Blanca.

Perfect attendance certificates were presented by Gray to Betty Jones of HHS, Luisa Gutierrez of HJH, Josey Mungia of Bluebonnet, Janie Reyna of West Central, Irma Elizonda of Tierra Blanca, Frances Suarez of Aikman and Alice Rodriguez of Shirley.

Mary Ann Montano, Christine Evans, Terry Brice, and Nicolasa Foster received the door prizes.

Guest retirees attending were Cora Leffel and Aurora Beltran. Others attending were Terry Hernandez and Sina Rowan.

Leon speaks at meeting

"Let's See It" was the topic that gave Larry Leon best program speaker at the Thursday morning meeting of the Hereford Toastmasters at the Ranch House.

Rocky Lee presided over the business meeting and Joe Don Cummings gave the invocation. Noemi Soria presented a reading titled "It Couldn't Be Done."

Bruce Hernandez, wordmaster, introduced "beseech" as the word. Clark Andrews served as grammarian and timer was Joe. Walters.

Table topic master was Bob Lohr and Margaret Perez served as toastmaster.

Dr. Milton Adams spoke on "Author of Order" and Lynn Cook was evaluator. Best table topic speaker was Joe Don Cummings and Jigger Roland was chosen best evaluator.

Others present were Jay Reeve and Anita Vargas.

Anyone seeking to develop leadership and communication skills in a positive manner is welcomed at the Ranch House at 6:30 a.m. every Thursday.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Game show host Bert Convy was admitted to Cedars Sinai Medical Center for observation after collapsing while visiting his mother at the hospital, a spokesman says.

Convy was in the room of his mother, Monica, on Sunday, when he "took a hard fall," hospital spokesman Ron Wise said Wednesday. "We're not sure about the cause." His mother has been hospitalized for a stroke, Wise said.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTES — Here's how to work it: 5/1

AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am hoping you can help me explain to my mother why it is impossible for her to lose any weight. She's on a healthy diet plan and exercises like a mad woman. In fact, she walked 31 miles last month and continues to exercise in the gym daily. She cannot seem to drop any weight at all. I try to give her pep talks, but I'm running out of lines. Could there be a medical reason for this that is not well known? Do you have any helpful hints for her? She's in her mid 40s if that is any help.
 DEAR READER: Weight control is not a simple matter. If you cut down your calorie intake, your body simply slows down its metabolism and you use fewer calories. Dieting actually shuts down your energy system and can make you tired. Of course sensible eating and limiting calories a small amount is not going to have such adverse effects and that means losing weight slowly.
 Exercise stimulates your metabolism and helps your body eliminate calories. I'm glad to see that your mother is using both exercise and dieting, but I do not know if she is going about it the right way. Walking 31 miles a month is not going to use a lot of calories. In fact walking 31 miles will use fewer calories than in one pound of fat. And a good weight-control program extends over much more than one month. She would do better to plan on three miles a day and a year's time. Hopefully the rest of her exercise program is sufficient to use more calories.
 The fact that your mother is in her mid 40s is quite significant. We are programmed to have a certain amount of normal body fat at different ages. The best example is the young girl who develops fat deposits characteristic of the female body when she enters puberty. Many women are programmed to normally have more body fat in their middle years. The fat helps in processing ovarian hormones that have a weak estrogen action.
 When you fight your body with unhealthy habits, you are courting disaster. Many middle-aged women are adult versions of the teenage victim of anorexia nervosa, and are trying to look like they did at 18. Nature frequently didn't plan things that way.

Your mother should have a regular exercise program with a proper calorie-limited diet that is not too severe. Her body will adjust then to what she should weigh in time. I have discussed this method in my book, "The Weighting Game: The Truth About Weight Control." Readers who want this book can send $11.95 plus $2 for mailing costs to THE HEALTH LETTER/Dept. B, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.
 Your body is perfectly capable of significantly decreasing its calorie use to prevent weight loss when you are getting below your natural weight for your age.
 DEAR DR. LAMB: Your column regarding the loss of calories through the skin was most enlightening. Does a person who sweats heavily during vigorous exercise lose more calories per hour than a person who sweats lightly or not at all?
 DEAR READER: People acclimatize to heat and work, which can affect how much they sweat. But sweating is simply a way for the body to lose calories through evaporative cooling. The sweating mechanism is turned on when the body needs to eliminate calories of heat. So in general, a person who sweats because of his level of exercise is losing more calories than the person who does not. In similar individuals, it is also an indication of the intensity of exercise.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 58 and very recently retired. For at least 15 years, I have done vigorous exercise every other day to keep in shape. For about three years, this activity has been on a cross-country ski machine. My wife is an extremely attractive 56. Most people assume she is at least 15 years younger.
 Our problem is I have had difficulty having an erection for the last five to six years. It seems to be getting worse.
 I know there are many physical and psychological factors that can cause this condition. My wife insists it is because I exercise too much. She suggests that I give it up for a trial period of at least a few months. I do not think that the exercise program can cause this sexual dysfunction. However, I would be willing to give it a try if there is any possibility of help. What is your opinion?
 DEAR READER: It depends a lot on how vigorous and how long your exercise is. While too much exercise may make you tired — but maybe not that tired — it is unlikely to affect your testosterone level. And that is about the only way other than fatigue that it could affect your sexual performance. Studies show that up to 45 minutes of vigorous exercise actually raises the testosterone level. Beyond that, the level may begin to fall.
 I was amused by one study from the University of Michigan reporting that men who run 200 miles a week or more may have lower testosterone levels. And men participating in the Great Hawaiian Footrace, requiring covering 250 miles in 15 days, had decreased levels of testosterone.
 But unless you are running 200 miles a week or participating in the Great Hawaiian Footrace, I don't think you have much to worry about and the exercise program should be good for you.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Would there be any harm in men taking testosterone? Since women take estrogen when they reach the menopause, should men be taking testosterone? I am a 52-year-old male and am wondering what changes I will have and if they can be prevented by taking testosterone. I enjoy a very active sex life and would like to maintain it as long as I can.
 DEAR READER: Women often need estrogen replacement because the ovaries fail and the remaining ovarian tissue does not produce sufficient hormones. But the testicles do not fail — unless you consume an excess amount of alcohol or have certain medical problems. The need usually doesn't arise.
 There are dangers in taking testosterone. It may cause prostate enlargement and it can activate small quiet cancers of the prostate. In fact, if a man does require testosterone for a medical reason, it is essential that the prostate be evaluated in a rather sophisticated way before beginning treatment and at regular intervals. Testosterone may also raise the total cholesterol and increase the risk of heart disease.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

JERUSALEM: ANCIENT FORTRESS WHICH STOOD UNCONQUERED IN THE HEART OF ISRAEL SINCE THE DAYS OF JOSHUA, WAS FINALLY TAKEN 500 YEARS LATER BY THE NEWLY ANOINTED KING DAVID (CIRCA 1000 B.C.)...

...THE JEBUSITES, WHO LIVED IN THIS STRONGHOLD HIGH ON MT. ZION, WERE SO CONFIDENT THEIR FORTRESS COULD NOT BE SUCCESSFULLY ASSAULTED THAT THEY INSULTED DAVID'S ARMY BY ONLY MANNING THE WALLS AND BATTLEMENTS WITH MEN WHO WERE BLIND AND PITIFULLY LAME!

BUT DAVID'S MEN FOUND A TUNNEL, LEADING FROM AN OUTSIDE WATER-SUPPLY SPRING, DIRECTLY INTO THE MIDDLE OF THE CITY! IN THE DARK OF NIGHT, DAVID LED HIS TROOPS THROUGH THE TUNNEL, TOOK THE JEBUSITES UNAWARES, AND CAPTURED THE FORTRESS WHICH WAS TO BECOME HIS CAPITAL—THE 'CITY OF DAVID!' AND SINCE THAT DAY, JERUSALEM HAS BEEN CONTINUALLY FOUGHT OVER—RIGHT UP INTO MODERN TIMES!

NEXT WEEK: CAN A MAN BE CALLED WISE WHO HAS A THOUSAND WIVES?!!
