Cattlemen Moving To Computer Profit

Cattle marketing is now going the way of the computer.

A new computerized

Bill Durham, former Muleshoe resident, now living in New York City, will soon be appearing off-Broadway in the National Art Theatre's production of Beckett.

This performance marks his second appearance on the New York stage, as he recently performed at the Troupe Theatre in "The Miner".

His wife, Jana, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Oyler, recently began work as editorial assistant to New York Library a publishing firm in New York.

The Durhams moved to New York in May after their graduation from Texas Tech University where Jana received her Master of Arts degree in English and he received his BA in Theatre Arts and English. Both are graduates of Muleshoe High School.

On December 9, the Small Business Administration will conduct a meeting at the American Heritage Auditorium at Lubbock Christian College to explain the SBA Farm Disaster Loan Program to interested farmers, ranchers and to persons in agriculture related businesses.

The meeting gets underway at 7:30 p.m. and all interested persons are urged to attend.

South Plains College at Levelland will offer a vocational nursing pre-test December 8 and 15 and January 5, 1981.

cattle marketing project called "Cattlex" (for Cattle Exchange) has been launched by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station of the Texas A&M University System and the US Department of Agriculture.

Cattlex is currently in the demonstration and experimental stage for the purpose of developing trading techniques and operation procedures for computerized cattle marketing, points out Spencer Tanksley, county agent.

The test project will run daily for nine months.

Computer terminals have been set up at 18 different locations over the state to link together feedlots, order buyers and auction markets, says Tanksley. Locations were selected based on cattle volumes and density as well as economy of operation.

To use the system, a producer requests a grader from a computer terminal location to list and describe the cattle he wants to sell, explains Tanksley. The description and listing fee is about $1 per head payable before the lot is offered over the computer system. Included in the description are such things as sex of the cattle, age, grade, breed, weight and flesh condition. A seller may also put a "no-sale price" on the lot which means that he does not want to sell for less than a certain price.

This information is then consolidated and transmitted by way of a cathode ray tube (CRT), a television-like screen which is a part of the computer terminal. The terminal can also produce a printout of the information.

Each day before the sale begins, buyers gather at the terminal site to review the day's listings on lots of

New Med Group Slates Meeting Here Monday

A meeting of the South Plains Health Provider Organization is scheduled for Monday, November 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the Muleshoe State Bank Community Room.

According to a spokesman for the organization, the meeting is to provide an opportunity for questions and answers concerning the Rural Health Initiative Program, a new medical service intended to provide access to a local doctor for those who do not have adequate funds for medical care.

Linda Bullock, RN, supervisor of the local clinic at 211 Ave. C, said Jim Clayton, project director of South Plains Health Provider

MODULES COMING IN TO THE GIN.... At Muleshoe Co-op Gin on Friday, two workmen were working the suction on modules which are being ginned since snow has kept farmers from harvesting. Ginner Elmer Watson said the gin will handle a module approximately every 27 minutes. From nine to nine and a half bales of cotton are in each module. However, he said they are having to remove the modules at night when the fields and dirt roads are frozen due to the snow and ice.

City Tax Rebate Check Showing Increase For '80

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Thursday, rebates to Texas cities of the optional one percent city sales tax climbed to more than a half-billion dollars this year.

Gold Star Duo To Be Honored With Banquet

Two outstanding 4-H Club members from Bailey County will be honored at the South Plains District 4-H Gold Star Banquet at 6:30 p.m. Monday, November 24, in Lubbock.

Among the top 4-H'ers in the district being honored will be Jacinda Gleason, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jerry Gleason and Kelly Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Harrison of Muleshoe.

State Sen. E.L. Short will address the banquet in the cafeteria of Coronado High School, 34th Street and Vicksburg Avenue. Master of ceremonies will be television personality Bob Nash of KAMC-TV.

The awards presentation will be narrated by Dr. John Pelham of College Station, state 4-H leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Making the presentations will be Dr. Catherine Crawford and Billy C. Gunter, district Extension directors.

Some 450 persons, including parents, distinguished guests and special friends of 4-H will attend the banquet to salute the county winners, said Jim Irwin, county extension agent.

To qualify for the Gold

Bullock said payments of $80.1 million for November brings the yearly total to $526.9 -- nearly $60 million more than cities received during 1979.

Muleshoe's share of the city sales tax rebate for November was increased by 12 percent over sales tax receipts for the same time last year. The November rebate was $30,268.84, compared to $25,611.82 for the same period a year ago. For the year, this brought the total rebate to $168,714.78 and at this time last year, the total was $150,201.68.

In Morton, the rebate check for November, 1980 was $7,416.98, and at this time last year was $7,349.53. For the year, the Morton rebate checks total $45,558.86, down by three percent from the $47,156.47 a year ago.

Littlefield has received $225,119.56 in sales tax rebates to date this year, up seven percent from the $209,516.95 a year ago. For November this year, the rebate check was $45,566.04 and on the same date last year, was $36,349.06.

The rebate check for November this year in Friona was in the amount of $12,701.36, up slightly from the $11,569.22 for the same period last year. To date this year, Friona has received $75,947.43 in rebate checks, up by five percent from the $71,828.13 a year ago.

Dallas' check this month will be 8.9 million, bringing the city's year-to-date total to more than $61 million in sale tax rebates.

Fort Worth will receive a check for $2.9 million this month boosting the city's payments for the last 11 months of $20.4 million.

Houston's $15.1 million payment for November will push that city's 1980 payments for the last 11 months to $108.2 million for the year.

San Antonio will receive $4.3 million, bringing total payments for the year to $29.3 million.

The city sales tax is

Sunny Weather Has Returned To Melt Snow

Crisp, cold nights and warm, sunny days have been predicted for the South Plains for the next several days. Very minor temperature changes have been predicted by the National Weather Service.

Last weekend, football fans found very damp, chilly weather for the Texas Tech-SMU game at Jones Stadium, but this week when Houston gets to Lubbock, weather at game time is expected to be in the high 50's.

Varying cloudiness hung in the area on Friday, but the clouds were only the edge of a rainy southern two thirds of the state.

Although the warmer temperature on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday caused much of the snow in the area to melt, on Friday afternoon, some snowdrifts were still at least two feet deep

Gins 'Catching-Up' With Fall Harvest

An estimated two-thirds of Bailey County's 1980 cotton crop had been harvested by the time of last weekend's snowstorm, according to Assistant Bailey County Extension Agent Jim Irwin.

Also, Irwin figures that approximately 50 percent of the cotton has been ginned in this area. "Most cotton gins had sufficient backlogs of cotton on the yard to keep them busy during the last week following the storm," said Irwin Thursday afternoon.

With all the cotton in modules, the county agent said cotton gins were basically playing 'catch-up' during the week while farmers were waiting for the snow to melt, and field to dry out some.

Irwin also estimated that approximately one week after harvest starts again, the ginning season will be over for the smaller gins, and some of the cotton gins in southern Bailey County, who faced a bleak cotton harvest this fall.

Larger gins, and those in the irrigated cotton areas will probably remain open to around the first of the year, he added.

Some cotton gins would have completed their season during the last of the preceding week without the snow, commented the assistant county agent.

"Because of the hot, dry weather during the last summer, we have very little dryland cotton," added Irwin.

"As we expected, we have a very good micronaire and high turnout in the irrigated cotton, and the very isolated dryland areas that received moisture. Fiber quality, which is determined in the last 25 days of the maturity of the cotton boll, has been very good, as the weather has been ideal for cotton.

In fact, in some places, we have produced an excellent quality cotton.

"The 1979 year proved to be a terrible year for quality, but a lot of the '80 crop is in the premium range. And, some of the turnout is in the 23-25 percent range," added Irwin.

According to the assistant county agent, some of the cotton which held on through the extreme heat and dry conditions during the summer, made a very good turnout. He said the irrigated cotton is producing very good yields, although some cotton has been harmed by worms which infested fields at mid-summer.

He expected very little to no damage from last weekend's snowstorm.

Also, Dr. James Supek, area cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Lubbock said cotton would be very little affected by the snow.

Actually, the only problems anticipated were in the event high winds stripped the lint from the bolls before farmers could

Corn producer's predictions nationwide seem to be running more optimistic for the upcoming year. Now that the summer of '80 is behind us two positive attitudes are becoming prevalent. One is, "Surely it won't be as bad as last year" (in terms of weather). The other positive input is that the reduced crop helped get prices off the floor. Other optimistic factors are the increasing use of corn sweeteners by a number of manufacturers who traditionally used sugar and, also, the continuing construction of facilities for grain alcohol production. Both could have significant effects on the increased demand for corn during the coming year. The year just completed was only the third time in the past decade that total corn supplies have declined from one year to the next.

Actually, many cotton specialists believe the snow may have increased the quality of the cotton by conditioning the fibers, and in fact, could improve the micronaire, which is the fiber fineness, as well as improve the staple length.

cattle offered for auction. When a sale is made, a printout at both the buying and selling terminals will present a confirmation of sale.

Both buyer and seller will also receive a copy of the individual description of the lot. Title transfer is at the time of official weighing for ranch cattle and after the sale for delivered cattle.

With Cattlex, buyers still bid competitively and sellers still seek the highest possible price, points out Tanksley. However, the system expands the scope of trading and reduces transportation and stress through more direct movement. Sellers have the advantage of more purchasers while buyers have more lots of cattle from which to choose without scurrying over the countryside.

Recent trends toward more local auction sales as well as direct selling on farms and ranches has resulted in more dispersed, low-volume markets too small to attract large numbers of buyers. However, Cattlex centralizes the price negotiation process in marketing livestock without the costs involved in physically centralizing buyers, sellers and livestock.

An added benefit of Cattlex is that it provides fast, up-to-date market information. Interested parties can watch the market as it occurs over the state or nation by simply viewing the CRT at the terminal site, says Tanksley.

To see Cattlex in action, Tanksley encourages producers to visit one of the cooperators that is participating in this experimental system of computerized cattle marketing.

Letters To The Editor

Dear editor:

We, the civics students of Muleshoe High School, would like to express our sincere appreciation for allowing us to advertise our mini-campaign and mock election and to urge others to vote in your newspaper. Many people have told us that our advertising helped them realize what we have in our American heritage and the importance of voting.

This was a meaningful experience for all of us, and we earnestly hope that in some small way, we helped to make the American system work as it was intended. We thank you for the space you gave us in your newspaper and especially for your interest and encouragement.

Yours sincerely,

On an impressive 70 yard drive early in the third quarter, Mark Denny galloped from 7 yards out for the JV's first touchdown. Tyrri Vandiver's extra point attempt was good.

Steve Orozco set the Mules down and went for a touchdown on an end-around to the one yard line. From there, Hector Orozco ran in untouched. Vandiver's kick failed.

U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Local authority has always been one of the greatest strengths of our educational system. When Congress created the Education Department, it was made clear that the department was in no way to interfere with local school district authority. Local school officials most certainly know the needs of their students better than the federal government.

But in issuing regulations for bilingual education, the Education Department, as the federal bureaucracy so often does, his circumvented the intent of Congress and has set a dangerous precedent.

In Texas, of course, we have a large Spanish-speaking population, and the state provides a bilingual education program which is consistent with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act and with recent Supreme Court decisions.

Yet the Education Department recently has published new regulations that lay out in specific detail what type of bilingual program a local school district must provide if they have more than 25 students in two grades whose primary language is one other than English.

These regulations have provoked an uproar not only in Texas, but in school districts across the country concerned about the encroachment of the federal government into what has historically been a locally controlled institution -- the nation's public schools.

The Secretary of Education, Shirley Hufstедler, has claimed that the proposed new regulations constitute a "mandated result, rather than a mandated method" -- this is a distinction without a difference.

The effect is the same: the Education Department, only three months after its creation, is presuming to usurp important decision-making authority of state and local school administrators. The federal government has absolutely no business dictating to local school districts how or what they must teach, and yet this is exactly what the Education Department intends to do.

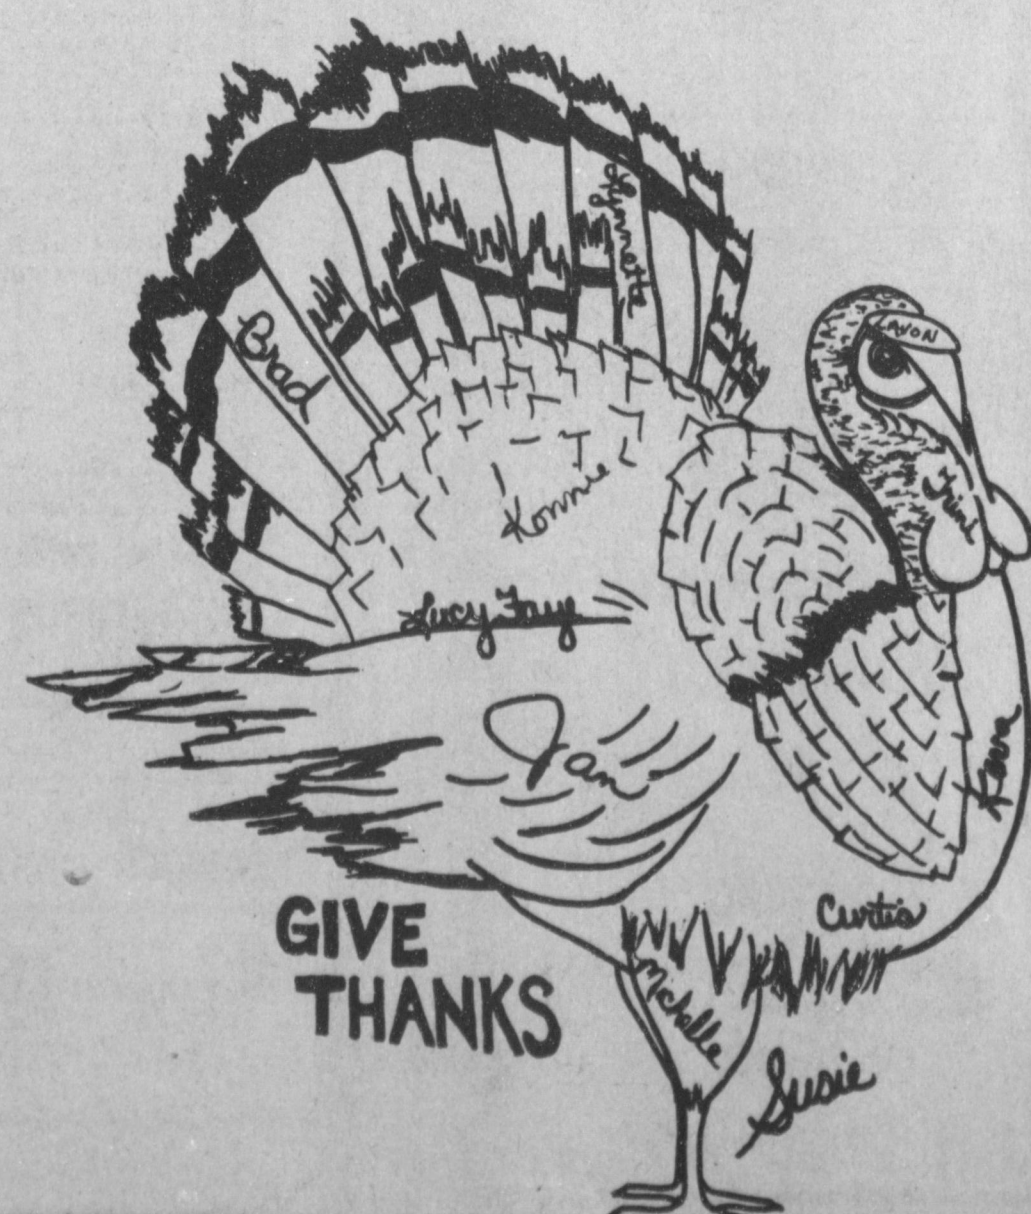

Of course, this is not the first time American citizens have witnessed the encroachment of the federal government into locally-controlled school systems.

We have witnessed the trauma that federally mandated school busing has inflicted upon public school systems, even though the majority of citizens -- of all races -- are opposed to the idea.

And school administrators are extremely familiar with the restrictions placed on federal funds provided to enhance local education efforts.

But when the Department of Education was created, many local school officials feared that this would be a way for the federal government to intervene even more directly in local school affairs, and these latest bilingual education regulations appear to be fulfilling these prophecies.

Furthermore, the Education Department has failed miserably in recognizing the financial and personnel restraints under which many school districts operate. The Department has proposed these regulations without knowing how many students are involved, the number of trained bilingual teachers available, the extent of non-compliance with existing remedies or the cost of implementation.

Open Letter To The Public

Dear editor:

During this week's bad weather, my attention was caught by several people's comments on the condition of area roads. I live in Earth and work in Muleshoe, so I'm on the roads five days out of seven. I've seen all kinds of weather, night and day.

When the weather is bad I would rather drive in Bailey County than any other. The men and women of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation are on the job twenty four hours a day. I have passed them when they are putting flares out, clearing branches and trash off the highway, mowing and scraping ice and snow off the road. Their jobs do not always start at 8:00 and end at 5:00. When the weather turns bad they go on duty, often for long hours without stopping.

I know their main concern has to be the main roads, but I'm always amazed to see how fast they clear the smaller, less traveled roads. Often in Lamb County we still encounter hazardous places as late as a week after a major storm.

As far as the streets of Muleshoe are concerned, I would think the city and not the county or state was responsible. The com-

Take a Second Look

On your first look, you may think that this little girl is riding a rocking horse, but look again. It is not a rocking horse but a little donkey.

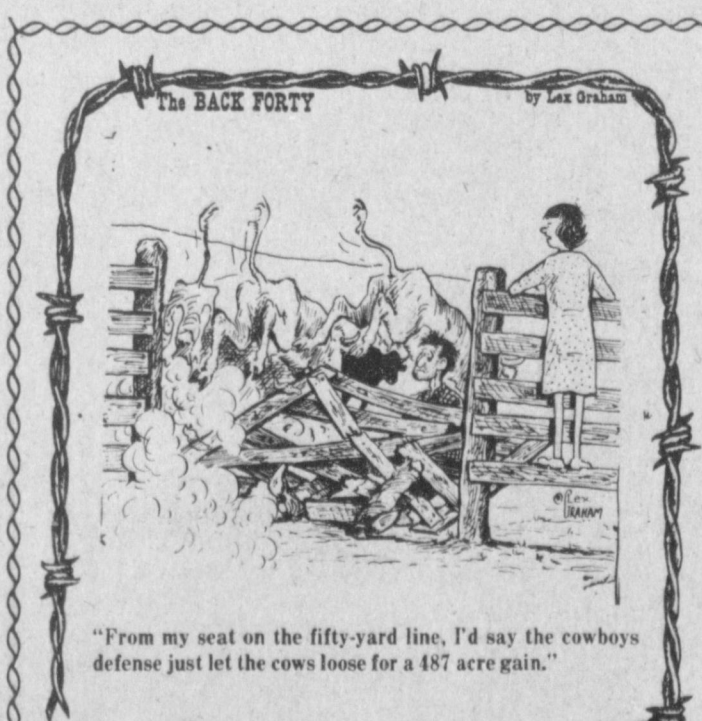

About animals now, and children. Donkeys were one of the first animals to be tamed by man, and are gentle animals when they are not practicing the quality of being stubborn.

The quality of gentleness somehow reminds us of our Saviour, the Wonderful One.

Parents, teach your children about Jesus, who admonished us to let the little children come unto Him. Our Lord would remind us that the little ones are precious to the Father. We invite you to take the children to church this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
