Daddy's Bedtime

How Johnnie of the Northland Spends His Time

"Way up in the far northland called Labrador," daddy began, "is n little boy by the name of Johnnie. But he doesn't live with his prents and many profibers and sisters, for his poor back is bent, mud he lives in a hospital. Years ago, when he was a baby, if his papa had done as the elector said and sent Johnnie to the hospital then, his back could have been straightened. Now nobody quite knows whether all the doctors in Talendor out make Johnnie a well boy, but his papa did not mean to make a eripple of him. He was only neglectful,"

"Who coes take care of Johnnie?" asked Jack. The kind nurses and doctors in the hospital and the teachers who go to Labrador each summer to teach the people how to learn trades. It is in the summer, you see, that Johnnie has the best time, for these kind people pet him a lot, and their cook bakes the nicest cookies for him while he stands all bent ever by the kitchen table. Johnnie is just learning to write letters home While his friend, the cook, makes fruit buns on one end of the table, Johnnie at the other end writes to his father, 'Dear pop, I am having a nice time.'

Sometimes, especially Sundays, the teachers let Johnnie play in their trunks, which hold toys for the little Eskimo children who have to stay frozen in all the long, dreary winters."

"Oh, there are flags of many nations for the boys in the trade school and whistles and pictures of rabbits and bears and chickadees and flower garde and Hilly pi tures. But Johnnie likes best to whistle. I likes d' whistle so and Bible pi tures. But Johnnie files best to whistle. I like d' whistle so well, miss, he tells his teacher, that I can't keep it out of me mouth. Then he also passes lots of time visiting with the folks in the hospital who are almost well enough to go home. One day what do you think he did?

The cliftimen guessed and guessed, so daddy told them. "He got the fire extinguisher that the doctors keep in case the hospital ever gets bleshes, and he squiried it right on some of his friends who was sick in hed."

"What did the lady nurse do?" grinned Evetys.

"Johnnie had to stay in hed two whole days—until he promised to be good," said daddy. "So poor Johnnie of the best back passes his days sampling the creek's huns, writing letters to his pape and hugging his pape's letters to him mailing for the doctor's operation that shall make him straight and strong and crying after he goes to bed nights when the little ship Prospero comes was hustamus to take his kind friends back to a United States winter," daddy dinished, with two big hugs.

"Now He Delonds To The Ades"

At Lincoln's First Inaugural. "I remember going to the inaugural ball at Washington on March 4, 1861," said the late Robert C. Ogden. "I had just come from the south, where I had attended the sessions of southern legislatures and heard the excited discussion of secession. That ball on the night after Lincoln took the oath of fice was about the dreariest public function I ever saw. There seemed to be an atmosphere of gloom pervading the big room, and there were hardly mough people there to cover the floor. The only bright face in the whole place was that of the newly inaugurated president. He was smiling and apparently happy, and the group around him was the one joyful spot in the general desert of gloom.

Yes, he had lived to shame me from my sneer. confute my pen, To make me own this hind of princes peer, This rail splitter a true born king of men. Tom Taylor.

"TIPPED" BY LINCOLN.

He Pald a Railroad Engineer to Mod erate Speed of Train.

Edward Markstone, a railroad man of Philadelphia, narrated an instance when President Lincoln paid an engineer to slow up his train. It was on the second trip that the president made from Philadelphia to Washington over the old Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad. George Feeney of Wilmington, Del., was the engineer of the train, and Markstone was the rence Markstone said:

"George ran so fast that when New ark, Del., was reached and the train stopped for water President Lincoln got out of the car and, walking up the platform to where Feeney was stand ing, said, 'George, take this and don't run so fast, will you? The president had actually bribed George to hold his. engine in a bit." It is needless to say that the engineer did as directed.

When Lincoln first made his memora ble trip from Philadelphia to Washington at the outbreak of the civil war Markstone was one of the armed guards on the president's car. In telling of this historic ride he said:

"The sleeper was attached to the rear of the train and was empsy. In order to allay the suspicion of the passengers as to the causes of the delay trucks were wheeled backward and forward bearing trunks and baggage of every description. After a wait of nearly half an hour a cab dashed up to the station, and a man unattended quickly alighted. He wore a long coat, the cape of which was drawn over his head. It was Lincoln. He came to ward me and quickly entered the car I could see but little of his face on account of the cape, but I noticed his searching eyes as he looked at me. The doors on both ends of the sleeper were then locked and guarded. I was one of the three men who rode on that conch, Lincoln on the inside. I was on the outside at one end, and another guard was at the other end. From Philadelphia to Baltimore, where I alighted, I stood with pistol in hand ready to shoot any tresposser."

Where Lincoln and Davis Met. The Historical Society of Hinois has placed a big bowkler memorial to mark the place where Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis first met. The site is seventy-five miles west of Chicago on Kishwaukee creek, in Dekalb county: In 1832 the future president of the United States and the future president of the Confederate States of America had gone to that point as soldiers to assist in ending the Black Hawk Indian massacres. Lincoln was a youth of twenty-three and was captain of a company of militia. Davis, one year his senior, was a fleutenant just out of West Point. Among those present at the meeting were General Zachary Taylor, later also a president of the United States, and Major Robert An derson, later general who was com To lame my pencil and mander at Fort Sumter at the hegin ning of the civil war.

After cutting the proposed indemni ty of the $25 000,000 to $15,000,000 and changing the "apology" of the United States to an expression of mutual regret the senate foreign relations committee favorably reported the Colombian treaty.

The vote was 8 to 7, Clarke of Arkansas being the only Democrat voting against the administration plan

The original proposed treaty made the United States regret that anything should have intervened to injure the friendly relations between the United States and Colombia. As amended, the clause would make the people of Colombia and the United States mutually regret the actions of Presiden, Roosevelt in regard to the recognition of Panama and the obtaining of rights for the construction of the canal.

TIME FOR PRUNING

It is now the season of the year when trees of all kinds should be carefully pruned. Both the quantity and quality of fruit will depend to a certain extent on the time this pruning is done.

It will also be time soon to spray and to examine the trees for destructive insects. All old limbs and dead and decayed trees should be removed and burned to destroy the insects that harbor therein. At the present time the prospect is good for another good fruit crop here and every thing possible should be done to give it proper care.

The mechanical department of the Brand is now under the management of A. A. and L. H. Foster, both of whom have been a long time with the paper, the former being in the office when it was owned by Mr. A. C. Elliott. These gentlemen are products of the best of journalistic schools, having grown up in a newspaper office. Their father, Mr. J. H. Foster, was a pioneer newspaper man, having owned and edited several Panhandle papers. Thus the boys have obtained valuable experience in all lines of work connected with getting out a good paper. We commend them to our business patrons as efficient, painstaking printers, who are able to give, and will give, good service. the "History of the English People, "No nobler figure ever stood in the forefront of a nation's life," wrote Green of Washington

Some of the other tributes paid to Washington by Englishmen are the following: "The test of the progress of mankind will be the appreciation of the character of Washington," said Lord Brough-All I can say," said Gladstone, "is that I look upon Washington among great and good men as one pecultarly good and great and that he has been to me for more than forty years a light upon the path of life." "Washington, the father of American Independence, was the father of British freedom; also the American Revolation in its reaction upon English public life made England democratictaught her how not to treat her colonies and inaugurated the colonial policy that has spread the British empire round the world," said William T. Stead. He advocated the erection of a statue of Washington in Westminster

Washington's Mother. Mary Ball was the granddaughter of a soldier who sought his fortune in Virginia in the latter part of the seventeenth century. Colonel William Ball may have been a good soldier. but was an indifferent farmer. He left two sons, William and Joseph, and the latter was the father of Mary. When her son's fame attracted attention to ber and inquirtes began to be made about her youth most of those who could testify about it had passed away and those who remained could tell little. But upon one point there was unanimous agreement, and that was that in her girlhood she was cele brated for ber beauty.

Washington's Feat. A good story is told of the late William, M. Evarts, attorney general, secretary of state and United States senstor for New York While secretary of state he took the English minister out for a drive on the banks of the Potomac. They stopped to look at Long bridge. The minister said banteringly: "It is said, Mr. Secretary, that General Washington threw a dollar across this/ river. Rather a long throw, don't you

MARTHA WASHINGTON'S WILL

Its Removal From Fairfax Courthouse and Its Recovery by Virginia.

The will of Martha Washington, recently returned to the state of Virginia by J. Pierpont Morgan, was taken from the Fairfax courthouse in 1802. when that part of Virginia was occupled by Federal troops. A lieutenant colonel of the Union army whose headquarters were in the courthouse found his men shoveling a pile of papers into the stove to build a fire. He stopped them and on examination discovered the will. It was among his papers when he died in 1802, and thirteen years later his daughter sold it to the late J. Plerpont Morgan. The Heutenant colonel was David Thomson of the Eighty second Ohie Volunteer infantry.

The state of Virginia learned about the time the will was sold to Mr. Morgan that it had not been destroyed, and efforts were made to recover it. Several years ago the state authorities found that the will was in the posses sion of Mr. Morgan and wrote to him demanding its return. He refused, say ting it was contraband of war and as such the man whose estate had sold it to him had a right to keep it and the estate the right to dispose of it as it after the elder Mergan's death the Daughters of the American Revolution began to agrate for the return of the history document to Virginia, and the state itself threatened prosecution of the holder on the ground that it was stolen property. Mr. Morgan replied that his only desire was to place the vill where it would be kept more care fully than was possible in Fairfax courthouse. Virginia asked the supreme court of the United States for leave to file a suit in behalf of the state against J. Plerpont Morgan for the recovery of the will.

The state of Virginia figured in a similar suit over the recovery of certain documents, including a letter of La fayette and an address by George Washington to the Virginia house of burgesses, when an agreement was reached in 1912 between the beirs of Benson John Lossing, who held the papers, and the state, whereby the matter was arbitrated.

Gave Way to Transports of Delight When French Aid Approached.

It was while they were sailing down the Deintere from Philadelphia to Chaster the Rochumbeau and his off-cers and the dignified Washington give way to transports of boyish delight, we learn from the diary of Baron Closen. a Frenchman who served with Rocham-beau. Washington stood on the bank as they approached, "waving his hat and a white bandkerchief, apparently in token of great joy." Scarcely had Rochambeau landed when Washington, usually calm and reserved, threw nimself into his arms and disclosed the great news-that the French Admired De Grasse was close at hand and would blockade the Chesapeake while Cornwallis beld himself on the defensive. Soop after De Grasse showed that Washington's rejoicing was not unde-served by crippling the English fleet under Hood and Graves and again bottling up the Chesapeake. In the meantime the allied armies had begun the slege of Yorktown, destined to settle the future of America. The Americans were unaccustomed to siege operations, but Rochambeau, a veteran in such matters, proved invaluable, and the investment went on apace until on Oct. 19, 1781, the final assault was delivered and Cornwallis surrendered ...

In the days that tried men's souls, when danger and death were at the door and difficulties pressed on every side, Washington, born to command, to ride on the whirlwind and direct the storm, discovered to the astonished world that in the wilds of America had been raised a hero equal to the mighty task of working out the salvation of his country -Captain Samuel White, 1800 the moisture but prevents the loose soils of the West from blowing away.

The adjusting link on front end of beam is an emportant exclusive feature on the No. 111, absolutely preventing the point from running below the desired depth. The wheels are provided with duritoroof boxes, an immense help in the sandy loamlande of the West.

YEARS OF KNOWING H

Lesson VIII.-First Quarter, For Feb. 20, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts Iv, 32, to v, 5. ness for Safety." Come and bring Memory Verses, 34, 35-Golden Text, I Pet. I, 22-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The topic of today's lesson is "The Christian Brotherhood at Jerusalem," but as half of the portion assigned tells of the failure of that brotherhood in the case of Ananias, and we have no of Mrs. R. N. Mounts, at 2:30 p. m. further study in chapter v, the remainder of the chapter being very important, it would seem wise to devote most of our time to the further testimony of Peter and its results.

The one heart and soul of the believers and the common fund from which all were helped was certainly a beautiful brotherhood, but the decelt of Ananias and the murmuring of the Grecians rather spoiled the harmony. The self life which remains in the believer and the deceit and wickedness of every human heart makes it next to impossible for even the smallone mind very long about anything. If all could be fully yielded and have Song: Crossing the Bar-Mrs. no will but His, no self pleasing and no pride or ambition it might be possible, "Because of human frailty I cannot use the "with one accord" in our prayer service, but invariably omit it. While Barnabas, the son of consolation, sold his land and laid the proceeds at the apostle's feet, it would seem that his sister Mary, the mother of John Mark, kept her home and had the believers meet there for fellowship and prayer (Acts xii, 12; Col. iv, 10). We must not follow others in what they do, but each for himself say, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" to sell their property because others did it, and when sold they did not need to bring all the proceeds. Their sin was in their professing to give all, but keeping back a part, and thus lying to the Holy Spirit. God is the God of Truth, the Spirit is the Spirit of Truth, and Jesus Christ is the Truth. They desire truth in the inward parts (Ps. il, 6), and aught else is a grief to them. If all deceivers and liars were dealt with as these two were, what a lot of funerals there would be and what a thinning out of church members!

It surely becomes us all to pray the prayer of Ps. cxxxix, 23, 24, and to aim at nothing less than an bonest, whole hearted surrender to Him who has bought us with such a great price. In verses 12-16 of our lesson chapter (chapter v) we see the risen Christ showing Himself alive by signs and wonders and healings through these human channels, and multitudes of men and women believed and were added to the Lord (verse 14). It does not count for anything to be added to a list of the Lord. He said, "Every plant which my Heavenly Eather hath not planteth shall be rooted up" (Matt. xv. 13). The power of God so stirred the adversary that his followers were filled with indignation and laid hands on the apostles and put them in the common prison (verses 17, 18). The Lord in Heaven was watching over His own sufficient water was at hand. This led and sent a messenger from heaven to open the prison doors, bring the prisoners out and send them to speak in the temple the words of life. When the morning came there were no apostles in the prison, but they were found in the temple teaching the people, and the high priest and council and senate being assembled, the officers found them and brought them and set them before the council. Now, for the second time, Peter has the privilege of honoring Jesus Christ before this august assembly. The high priest asked how it was that when forbidden to teach in the name of Jesus Christ they had persisted in doing so and had filled the city of Jerusalem with their doctrine. That was a good testimony to the zeal of the apostles in their devotion to the Lord, for it would be difficult today to find a city filled with their doctrine. It sounds strange to hear him say that the apostles intended to bring the blood of Jesus upon > selves had said to Pilate, "His blood be upon us, and upon our children" (Matt. xxvii, 25). Peter was very clear and decided in accosing them of killing Jesus Christ, and now for the fourth time he repeats It (Acts II, 23, 24; III, 14, 15; Iv. 10; v. 30, 31) and more often asserts the fact of His resurrection. As to obedience, there is only One to obey-"We ought to obey God rather than men." As in the case of Daniel's friends, there was no room for argument, but simply a matter of right or wrong, and the wrong they would not do. Peter did not hesitate to declare that the risen and exalted Prince and Saviour would give even to them repentance and forgiveness of sins if they desired it and said that the Holy Spirit stood with them in this testimony (verses 31, 32).

them (verse 28) when they them-

Peter's testimony so angered them that they were ready to kill the apostles, but the counsel of Gamaliel saved the situation, and after beating the apostles and repeating the command not to speak in the name of Jesus they let them go. They went forth rejoicing to be counted worthy to suffer shame for His sake, and daily in the temple and from house to house they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ (41, 42). This is the fearlessness and devotion we all need.

> Picture Show Adds Musical Novelty

The patrons of the Star Theater received an agreeable surprise at Monday night's performance when near the middle of the show there burst forth a flood of rich melodious music from the Diegan Aluminum Chimes, that caused the audience to sit up and take notice. Mr. Vernon Bentley, musical director at the Ananias and Sapphira did not need Star Theater, is the owner of this musical novelty. It is of the latest approved pattern and was shipped to him by express.

> Messrs. Bentley and Leslie Smith will be the manipulators of this wonderful instrument and, with a little practice, they will soon be able to play it as well as they do the many other instruments that they are now masters of. A new Concert Piano has been placed in the show and Mr. Bentley will soon be in shape to produce music that will be a credit to the management.

The girls of the Beta Psi Delta club were honor guests at one of the most elaborate and beautiful parties among those dedicated to St. Valentipe on Monday evening.

The members of the Owl Club were hosts on the delightful occasion and in this, their first "Open House," they established themseives as royal entertainers. The decorations were wondrously effective, all suggestive of the season in color and design. An immense red heart suspended directly over the chandelier in the reception hall, expressed a cheery welcome in vivid light and brightened into a near-smile the sombre features of the grim owl, perched at one side in the solemndignity representative of the order.

Brilliant streamers and festoons, gay with hea ts and cupids gave brightness, and warmth, and cheer, and a Vietrola made audible the melody in the hearts of the merry youths and maidens, who occupied tables placed for progressive forty-

In the reception hall, punch was served by some very attractive specimens of masculinity with all the grace and charm of the accomplished society maiden, and later, when a delicious repast of brick cream and cake was served there was no lack of the daintiness, supposed to be a strictly feminine art.

A toast to the "Owls" was given by Miss Pickett, and responded to in their behalf by Ernest Henson.

In the role of chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thornbury, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Barber, and Mrs. J. P. Sayder.

The Sophomores enjoyed a most delightful class party at the high school auditorium, on Saturday evening with Mesdames Oberthier and Braunig as chaperons.

With table games and two unique contests, one a talking dance, the other honoring Lincoln's birthday. the time was enjoyably spent. The class numbers about forty, most of whom were present, and shared what is declared to be one of the pleasantest parties of the school. Refreshments of punch and cake

On Tuesday, the Beta Psi Deltas enjoyed a most delightful afternoon with Miss Jane Gregg at her country home-Willow-wood. The time was spent playing the club game, "five hundred." A number of piano colos were furnished by Miss Ina Gregg. After a short business meeting the most delicious ice cream and cake was served.

Sells String of Cattle

John R. Good, who ranches here and controls Hardeman county school land in Hockley county, has this week sold to Kansas parties for spring delivery about 653 3-year old steers at $65 per head. These are said to be the best cattle of their age what is' and the price should not influence other dealers, as these cattle are said to easily be worth ten dollars per head more than the average Panhandle steers. Mr. Good says that he has made quite a concession in letting these cattle go at the price; as compared with the prices last year .- Quanah-Tribune
