OPA Abandons Tire Inspection Program

The OPA is abandoning its tire inspection program, according to an announcement made last week which stated that, effective Apr. 20, only motorists wishing to obtain replacement tires will be required to submit inspection certificates.

All other inspections are being eliminated, it was explained, because the average driver now is taking good care of his tires in an effort to make them last as long as possible.

The inspection program has served its purpose and can now be dropped, according to the OPA announcement.

Requirements of the program have previously called for tire inspections every six months for motorists with "A" gasoline cards, every four months for "B" card motorists and every three months for "C" card holders.

BULL

Things are happening too fast around here. Bob Higgins called up Sunday morning to tell me that my picture was in the Amarillo paper. He said he always figured that the little motion they told all the jokes about was a fictitious character—until he saw that picture.

I got down there as quick as I could so I could get a big bunch of the papers, but they were nearly all gone. Charley Sowell said that they sure were selling fast. He said he never sold so many papers to women in his life—and about that time three more women rushed in for papers. I was feeling pretty good by this time and had just started home to tell the little woman how fortunate she was to have such a handsome husband, when another woman rushed in.

Wash Day in the South Pacific

Wet wash, rough finish, is the laundering watchword in the South Pacific, where a USMC photographer snapped the scene at top on Bougainville. The GI's are giving their duds and themselves a thorough and undoubtedly badly needed washing. On tiny Los Negros of the Admiralty group north of New Guinea, lower left, the weekly wash ways in a mild zephyr under guard of newly risen Old Glory. At lower right, Pfc. R. P. Purdum, worried about tattle-tale gray, enlisted his Yankee ingenuity and came up with this wind-driven washer of discarded boards and an oil drum on Roi Island of the Marshalls.

"Gimme one of them papers," she yelled, "the one with the picture of all the new Easter hats on the society section."

I sure was downcast. I went home looked at those silly hat pictures and then started reading an old magazine and came across a quotation by Chief Justice Hughes. He said, "A woman is a constipated biped with the back-ache." I thought this over for a while and felt a little better. About that time the annual Easter cold wave got started and everything went fine.

Leonard Foster is able to sit up and visit around town some, after having been confined in bed for several weeks. He says it sure is swell to stir around again. If anyone in Hereford ever gave willingly and freely of his time and efforts to worthwhile causes, it is Leonard. In addition to his other duties, he works untiringly for the American Legion, the Red Cross, President's Infantile Paralysis fund, and a score of others. Everyone sure is glad to see him in circulation again.

If you think the lumber situation is bad now, just wait. Here's some dope that the lumber dealers are getting:

"The truth is there just won't be enough lumber produced in 1944 to meet the demands of the war. When you stop to think that it takes as much lumber to crate a dive bomber for overseas shipment as is used in building a 5-room bungalow, it is easy to see why so much lumber is needed. Only construction that is unmistakably essential can be authorized now and for some of these projects—even for war housing—it is hard to find enough lumber to go around."

Here's another report: "Just a single instance: when the allies invaded Naples, which the Germans had destroyed just as thoroughly as possible, particularly the port facilities, it took more than FIFTY MILLION FEET OF LUMBER to reconstruct the docks and port so that we might land our men and supplies. In all our fighting theatres it is much the same."

Our lumber dealers are frantic. They know that we really need lumber out here to produce food—and they are doing their best to serve you. It's just one of those things.

Here's a story they are telling about Roosevelt's meeting in Russia. They say every time he appeared in public, scores and scores of Russians would gather about, point their fingers directly at the President and scream:

"Gullub Hoa, Gullub Ha Mas-saya."

They always shouted the same words and it happened so many times that the FBI men got worried. Finally they had the words translated and found that the Russians were saying: "That's him. That's her husband."

Robert Hickam, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hickam, spent the Easter holidays here with his parents. He is a student at Texas A & M College at College Station.

Battle of Britain

Cpl. D. L. (Jack) Kassahn, writes his mother, Mrs. Frank Gyles, a very entertaining running commentary on the current "Battle of Britain."

Which according to Jack is characterized by noise and confusion, especially confusion when a hurried Yankee soldier is trying to catch a train.

English trains, says Jack, never stop more than five minutes at a station; and the rides belong strictly to the guy who is quick on his feet. But despite some drawbacks, and the fact that he "would rather see the United States than Europe," he says that life in England is interesting. Concerning treatment of Italian prisoners in Merry England, he writes: "They are not under such regulations and camps as those at home. In other words; they are quite free. When they see the Yanks, I don't like the way they look at us. . . they seem to disapprove of our vastness, speed and ingenuity. Personally, I don't care what they think of us, 'cause I am not so in love with them."

Cpl. Kassahn, who is in a combat engineer division, likes his work and figures his buddies are just about the best bunch of guys in the European Theatre.

In Hospital

Cpl. Frank Brashear, formerly of Hereford, has been in an army hospital in England for the past four weeks, according to his sister, Mrs. W. S. Rice, who says that censorship rules evidently prevented Cpl. Brashear from stating the cause of his injury.

He is a paratrooper and has been on overseas service for the past year.

American Kids Lucky

Well-clothed, well-fed—and well-washed American kids are very lucky, according to letters received from Pfc. C. L. Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hodges. Pvt. Hodges, now on duty with the Army Air Forces in Sardinia, was shocked at the poverty of the natives and says that Americans have seen nothing like it in their own country.

Royalty on Jap Ears

Pvt. James Wilde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilde of Hereford, has a chance to make $50 for every Jap ear he brings back to the States. His uncle, John Wilde of Lasare, Tex., has offered the bounty to Pvt. Wilde, who is now on duty in the Admiralty Islands.

Wilde's parents report that the latest letter from their son was written on stationery taken from the Japs.

Makes Cpl. Rate

Loy U. Botsford of Hereford was recently promoted to the rank of corporal at a 15th Air Force Heavy Bomber Base, somewhere in the Mediterranean Area, where he is now stationed.

Educated at Hereford High School, Cpl. Botsford entered the service in March, 1943. He attended administrative school at Fargo, N. Dak., before being assigned to overseas duty.

He is a former employee of the Hereford Creamery Co.

With 36th Division

Pfc. Harold E. Balze, whose home is in Hereford, has been promoted to the rank of corporal. He is serving with the 36th "Texas" Division of the Fifth Army in Italy.

Gets Wings and Commission

Collins A. (Bud) Wilkins, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Wilkins of Hereford, won his Navy "Wings of Gold" and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve this week following completion of his flight training course at the Naval Air Training Center, Pensacola, Fla.

Lieutenant Wilkins will first go on active duty at one of the Navy's air operational training centers before being assigned to a combat zone.

A graduate of Hereford High School, Lieutenant Wilkins attended Texas A & M before enlisting as a naval aviation cadet.

Takes Primary Training

Aviation Cadet Richard A. Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Petersen of Hereford, is now taking primary flight training in elementary and aerobatic flying at Lodwick School of Aeronautics, Lakeland, Fla.

Cadet Petersen an outstanding student at Hereford High School from which he graduated in 1942, attended Texas A & M College before enlisting in the Army Air Corps. During his years in Hereford High School, he was also employed part-time at The Hereford Brand.

Here to visit with their relatives on Easter were Mrs. J. H. Wilson, Mrs. Hazel Lewis and Miss Floyd Wilson, all of Amarillo. They were guests in the home of Mrs. Wilson's son, Bob Wilson.

Texas Day Is Observed By Music Club

A Texas Day program with Mrs. Jeff Gilbreath as director, was given at the home of Mrs. Gilbreath at the meeting of the Music Study Club Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Gilbreath told briefly of the musical history of the state and told of contributions to music made by various parts of the state, mentioning a significant milestone in musical accomplishment reached in April, 1939 with the presentation of an opera, "Cynthia Parker," written by a native Texan. She told of the contributions to war service made by Texans and said in part, "This year special attention will be given to work in the rehabilitation hospitals. Every club in the state will be asked to raise money for a fund to purchase musical instruments for army camps. At least twenty new camps in the state have no equipment and no funds to take care of entertainment. Texas led the nation in war work last year and plans no less this year."

Musical numbers included a vocal solo, "Prayer" (Gulon) sung by Mrs. A. O. Thompson with piano accompaniment by Mrs. A. J. Schroeter; "The Moon is a Silver Skiff" (Risher) sung by Mrs. Schroeter with Mrs. J. C. McCracken accompanying and a chorus number sung by the club, "Our Glorious Land" (Van Der Stucken) with Mrs. C. Eggs May Be Preserved By Freezer Method

With the demand for increased egg consumption to offset the present market surplus of eggs, many farm housewives and others are thinking about ways in which some of the present surplus might be saved for use in later seasons when eggs will be scarce, according to Miss Saddle Lee Oliver, CHDA, who says that because many farm families in Deaf Smith County have freezer lockers, the preserving of eggs by the freezing method may prove popular here.

Eggs preserved in a freezer locker retain their freshness much longer than by most preservation methods, Miss Oliver states. For freezing, eggs are removed from the shell and put into clean baking powder cans or other tight tins or special vaporproof containers. Whites and yolks may be frozen separately if desired. Whites are ideal for freezing but yolks must be beaten and have sweetening or salt added to keep them from becoming gummy when thawed. Add one tablespoon of corn syrup to two cups of egg yolks before freezing.

Bay View Club Hears Book Review

Mrs. Bob Wilson was hostess to members of the Bay View Club Thursday afternoon at her home on East Eleventh Street. Two roll calls were given with Mrs. Ray Barber opening the program by reading excerpts from current books and magazines on religion in a world at war and in post-war conditions. Mrs. Bob Wilson gave a background for the program of the afternoon by giving a life sketch of Harry Emerson Fosdick, whose book "On Being A Real Person" was reviewed later by Mrs. G. A. F. Parker and Mrs. A. M. Jones.

Mrs. Wilson told something of the 64-year-old minister's characteristics and ideals and spoke briefly on his book "The Meaning of Prayer."

Mrs. Parker said the book, which is a best seller, was written with the idea of self examination on the reader's part, with the hope that the reader would take an inward look on his mental outlook on life and on his personal response to his environment and heredity influences. She dwelt at length on the chapter, "Getting ones-self off one's hands" in which the author advocated the use of all that is in us in a conscientious

She applied his beliefs to world affairs and quoted other eminent writers who believe that the kind of human beings we are to become depends on our attitudes toward faith and our desire for vision. She quoted Fosdick who says, "We must accept ourselves as we are and then strive to make the best of our lives through right attitudes and faith. The untold power of the individual comes through the practical use of faith."

Texas Voting Strength Estimated At 1,567,143, Highest Figure in History

Texas this year has a voting strength of 1,567,143—the highest in its history—it is indicated by reports of poll tax payments from the 254 counties in the state. These reports show that 1,362,733 persons paid their 1943 poll taxes before Feb. 1, making them eligible to vote in primaries and elections held this year. This is 220,958 more than were paid two years ago, the last general election year, and 102,856 more than were paid in 1940, the last presidential election year. Total voting strength is estimated by adding 15 per cent to poll tax payments for outstanding exemption certificates, the exact number of which is not of record. Compared with 1942, 189 counties show heavier poll tax payments this year. Decreases most of them relatively small, were shown by 64 counties and in one, Kimble, the same number of payments were made both years. The state's increased voting strength is doubly significant in view of the fact that more than 500,000 Texans, many of them of voting age, now are absent from the State in military service. While no figures are available on this point, it is believed that the number of those in the armed services who qualified to vote this year by paying poll taxes is relatively small.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Zeal Overcomes Weakness, Life of Paul Demonstrates
The International Sunday School Lesson for April 16
Text: Acts 9:19-30; 11:25,26

PAUL was a born propagandist. Whatever he believed, he believed with intensity and with the power of his whole being. That is as it ought to be. Propaganda is a right and proper thing if it is devoted to noble ends.

Paul, in his pre-Christian days, was a narrow propagandist. His mind was closed to the fact that men who differed from him might be right.

When Paul became a Christian he continued to be as zealous and earnest a propagandist as before; but his heart now was filled with love.

The revolutionizing experience of his conversion on the way to Damascus became an evolutionary experience as Paul linked his Christian faith with the prophetic truth and light of the Old Testament. His passion now was to lead others into the way that he had found.

It is a great and rich experience when one's faith becomes enlarged. Sometimes it seems that nothing is sure when one discovers that what one has believed isn't adequate, or isn't everything; but then comes the happy light in the realization that all that one has loved and cherished is enriched, enlarged and strengthened in the apprehension of new ideas and new revelations. That is a part of what it means to "grow in grace."

What sort of preacher was Paul? We don't know. He has himself suggested that his presence was weak, and that he was not eloquent. The one thing that is certain is that he was effective.

It is remarkable what great tasks have been accomplished by men and women who were slow of speech, and sometimes unprepossessing in presence. Their power lay in indefatigable energy, and in the persistency and tenacity with which they never let go.
