

Voters of County Will Ballot on $250,000 Hospital Bond Issue Saturday

Hospital Directors Urge Passage of Bond Issue; Point Out Need for Adequate Hospital Quarters

Members of the Board of Directors of the Deaf Smith County Hospital, urging passage of the $250,000 bond issue in Saturday's county election, this week issued statements regarding the reasons for the proposed expansion and possible results of failure to enlarge the present hospital.

"We are not going to try to build the proposed new additions to the hospital, if the bond issue carries, until materials are available again at reasonable prices," a spokesman for the board pointed out.

"We do not want people to get the idea that we are going to try to rush construction through at a time when costs are at high mark, and we hope, when the time comes, to build the proposed additions for less than the $250,000 which we are asking in the bond issue."

The population of the area served by the hospital has completely outgrown the present facilities, the board members said. The present hospital building, constructed in 1924, is now dangerously inadequate.

"Under present circumstances," the spokesman pointed out,

"the county is going to pay the price for a new building whether it is constructed or not." Loss of efficiency in operation of the hospital under the present overcrowded conditions, the board believes, will cost the county more in the long run than construction of an adequate hospital.

As soon as the hospital unit from the Hereford Prisoner of War Camp is released and can be moved, it will be set up on the County Hospital grounds to be used as nurses quarters, relieving some of the strain on (Continued on Page 8)

Architect's Plans

Pictured above are the architect's drawings of floor plans of the proposed new additions to the Deaf Smith County hospital. At the left in each sketch is the floor plan of the present hospital building as it would be re-modeled if the bond issue is passed.

The large addition at the right in each sketch is the new hospital wing. There will be ten new bedrooms on the first floor, 18 new bedrooms on the second. Two new operating rooms, x-ray and laboratories are located in the one-story wing at the rear of the new addition.

A small one-story addition at the rear of the present hospital building is planned to accommodate a heating plant and toilet room.

A large dining room and kitchen will be located on the first floor between the new wing and the present hospital building, and a patient's solarium and visitor's waiting room on the second floor.

The west wing of the present hospital would be remodeled for use as an obstetrical ward.

Polling Places and Election Officials Are Designated

A county-wide bond election will be held Saturday to vote on the issuance of $250,000 in bonds for additions and improvements to the Deaf Smith County hospital.

The proposed expansion would increase capacity of the hospital from 17 to 67 beds, with modern operating rooms, laboratories, and complete hospital facilities. The proposed addition would be in the form of a two-story annex built on the east wing of the present building.

Polls will be opened Saturday morning at 8 o'clock in all ten of the county polling places, according to Judge Fred W. Baird.

Judge Baird urged that every taxpayer in the county cast a ballot in the election Saturday. "This is a matter which is of vital concern to every voter," he said, "and regardless of whether you favor or oppose the bond issue, you should go to the polls and vote your convictions."

Location of polling places, and the presiding officers are:

Louis Pyka Writes of Bodies Recovered in German Potato Patch by Army Searchers

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, written by Louis Pyka, Hereford boy who is staff writer for the Military Government newspaper in Bavaria, appeared in a recent edition of The Bavarian, which is published at Munich, Germany. The bodies of which he writes were those of 39 inmates of notorious Buchenwald prison camp, who had begun a death march to Flossenburg more than a year ago. The bodies were discovered where they had been buried by their Nazi murderers after a search by U. S. Army and UNRRA personnel.

BY LOUIS PYKA

POFENREUTH, Germany—It was just another German potato patch next to the road. Only somehow it was different from the others around it. Instead of one single German farmer tilling his crop, there were a hundred men with picks and shovels digging in the field. Several soldiers were scattered throughout the group, intent on making each person work. The men weren't digging potatoes out of the soil; they were searching for bodies. They were digging for mortal remains of the victims of a death march, murdered and placed there little more than a year ago by a very thorough German army.

The MG officer had ordered that the top hundred ex-nazi in the Kreis dig the bodies out of the unmarked pits, and his orders were being carried out.

The men were told to dig in a space between two trees, near the edge of the field. About three feet down, they found what they were digging for—something soft in the hardened clay. They had found what was left of a man— a mottled, tattered garment and a yellowed, decayed skeleton of a human body. They found the smell of death there, too, sickening as only the smell of death can be.

The ex-nazi, apprehensive and fearful at first, had been compelled to dig for the bodies. Then, they were told to pick them up and place them in coffins which had been provided. Now they balked. This was too much—to feel with one's hands these dripping pieces of human flesh and tattered rags. They couldn't go through with it. But this was the crime of the German nation and the hundred men were being made to pay the consequences. So the Constabulary troopers forced them to do as they were told. Trapped between sickening disgust at their task and the fear of punishment, they finally picked up the bones, the scraps of clothing and the other remaining semblances of humanity and placed them in the coffins.

In one pit they found only one man; in another, three; and in still another, 21 men flung together in a mass. Finally the work had been completed. All the bodies had been recovered and all the coffins filled.

They could cover the holes now, and they eagerly did this work, as if by covering up the holes they could cover up some of the horror they had felt at lifting the bodies out of the pits. Maybe they could wash off the dust and dirt they had collected on their clothes and hands, but it would be a long time before they could wash out of their minds the memory of picking up the rotted bodies.

The field was level again. There were three or four newly-turned spots in the cultivated ground. It was just another German potato patch standing in the oncoming chill of the night.

Canyon Museum Will Display Texas Pictures

The Texas Centenary Photographic Exhibition will be on display in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum for two weeks, beginning September 7. The collection of photographs were made available for the Museum by the library of Congress. Following their showing at the Museum, they will be shipped to Hall of State, Dallas, for a two-weeks showing there.

The patrons of art and photography are cordially invited to visit the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum and see this fine collection of seventy-three photographs. According to Dr. L. F. Sheffy, executive secretary of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, this collection is of unusual interest to Texans and to students of photography, and many visitors are anticipated during the brief showing of the collection.

This exhibition of photographs was assembled from the collection of the library of Congress in honor of the hundredth anniversary of the admission to the Union of the State of Texas. In the first part may be seen examples of the historic architecture: the old missions of the Spanish period, which have become famous, the forts, ranch houses, and other secular buildings of the nineteenth century.

The remaining photographs present a picture of contemporary Texas. The great oil and cotton industries are represented in two dominant groups. Another is devoted to a selection of agriculture and smaller industries. The character of the land the cities, and the people, are revealed in the vivid photographs which are covering the period from just prior to and in the first years of World War II. A true picture of Texas thus emerges, the picture of a state concerned with the economic welfare of her people at the end of a long depression, but moving rapidly toward a fierce activity wherein she was to contribute her great industry and her resources to the war effort.

The photographs were made under the Farm Security Administration, and the negatives are now in the collections of the library of Congress. Identification numbers of the negatives are given not only for these, but also for photographs

Debits Increase During Month

AUSTIN, Tex.—Texans are following the national trend of a steady increase in consumer debts, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports. Shoppers in Texas department and apparel stores charged 48.5 per cent of their July purchases, making the seventh consecutive month in which credit sales have been climbing in relation to total sales.

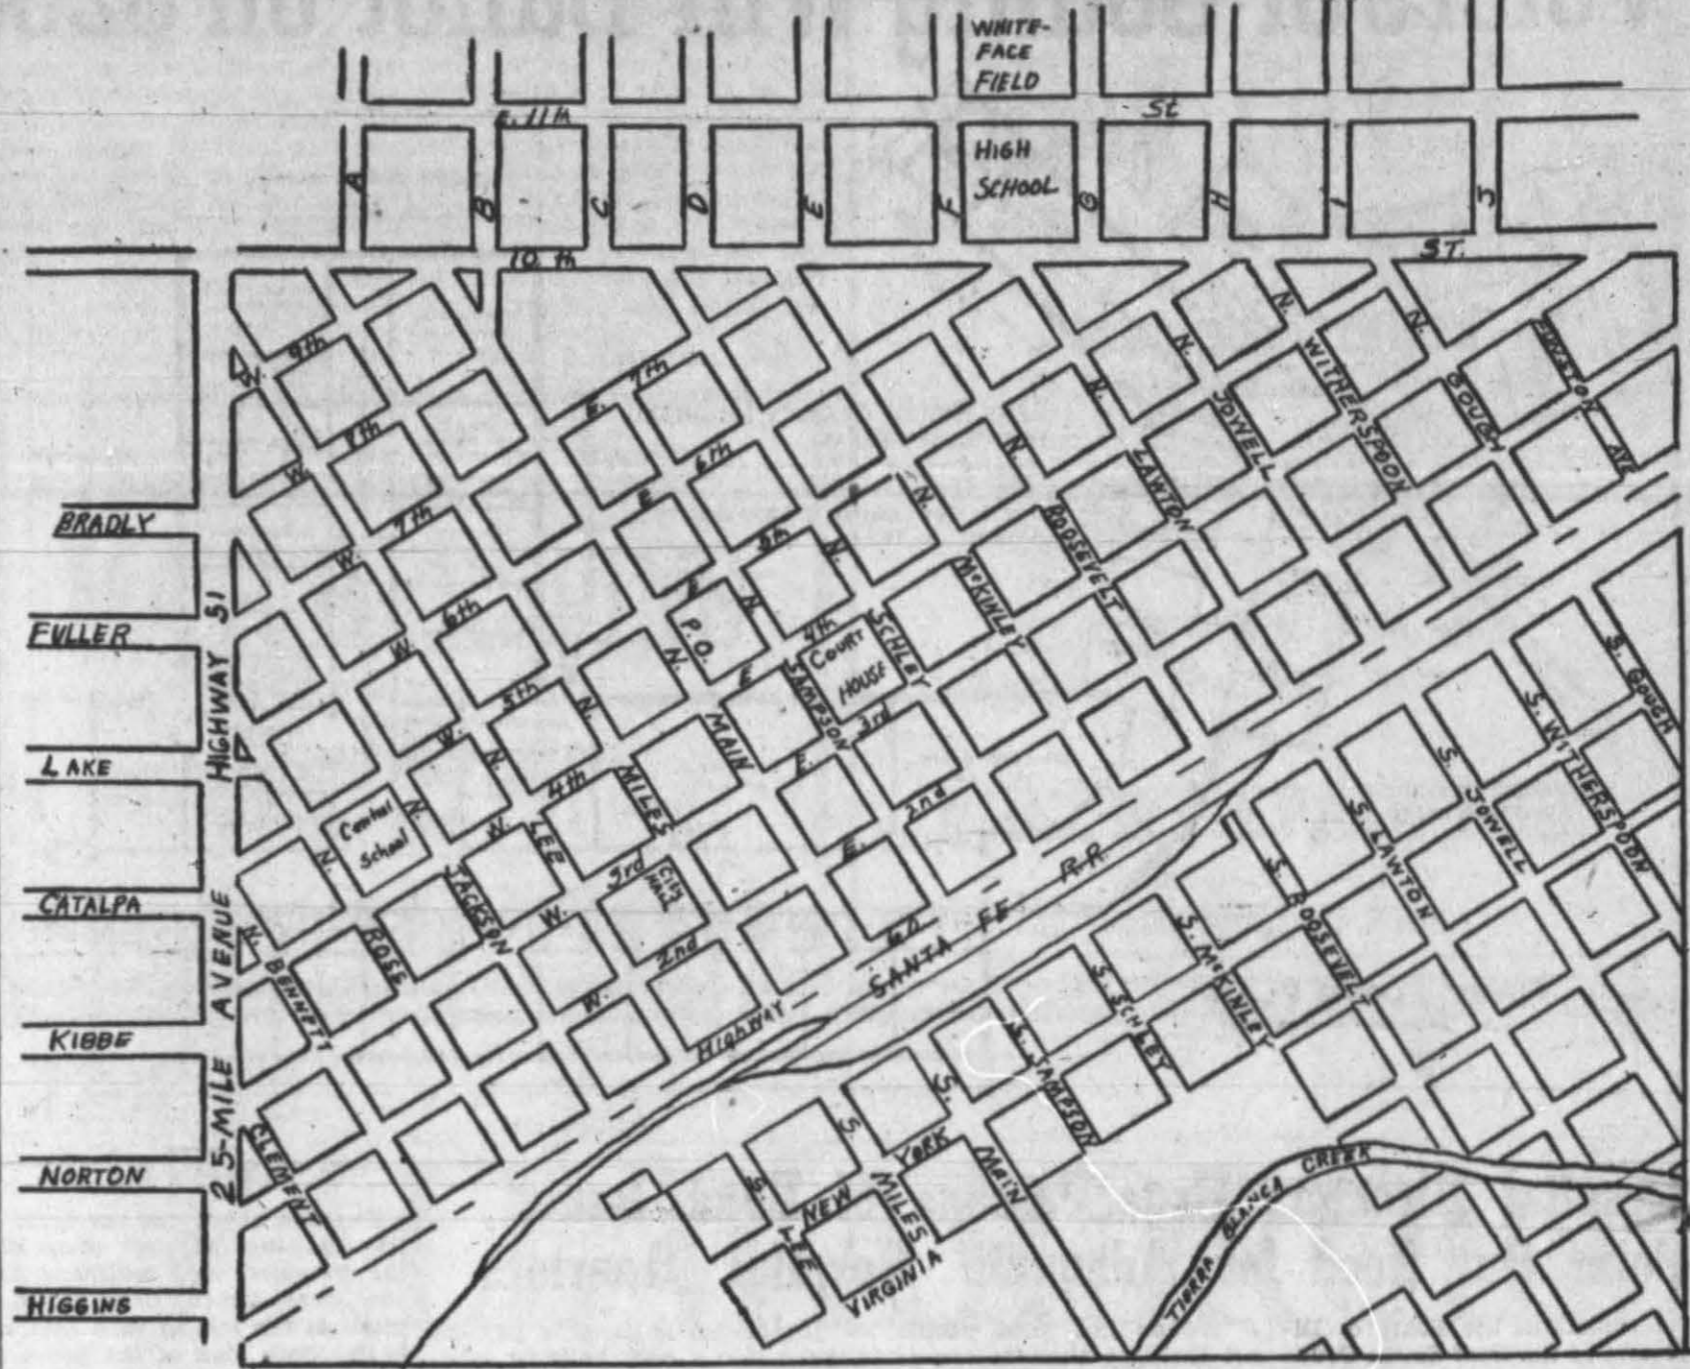

According to statistics from the Bureau, consumers are asking longer to pay. The slackening off in rate of collection has been steady since March this year, when collections during that month were 70.4 per cent of unpaid accounts.

Georgia Faye McConnell to Sing in Washington Light Opera Production

Georgia Faye McConnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. McConnell of Washington, D. C., formerly of Hereford, has been accepted by the Columbia Light Opera Company of Washington to appear in their fall production of Sigmund Romberg's "The New Moon."

Georgia Faye is a daughter of Mrs. Oscar Vaughan of Hereford. She visited in Hereford this summer, and sang at a number of church and social gatherings here.

She will be the youngest member of the cast of "The New Moon," and is actually under the company's age limit, but an exception was made in her case due to the mature quality of her voice.

THE THREE SCOURGES OF MAN

★ Devastating epidemics have ranked with war and famine as population levelers. Of these three scourges of man, pestilence was most dreaded. During the Black Plague epidemic of 1348, it was estimated that in some places over two-thirds of the population was wiped out.

The discovery of bacteria as the cause of infectious disease is still within the memory of the living. Pasteur developed the first vaccine for rabies in 1885. Since that time many immunizing procedures have become routine. As a consequence, deaths from infectious diseases have been drastically reduced.

Everyone should be protected against smallpox and diphtheria as an absolute minimum. Do not wait for an epidemic to break out. Then it is often too late.

Rotarians Hear Telephone Talks

Members of the Rotary Club last Friday heard discussions ranging from "antiquated telephones to radar," when a group of telephone officials and employees presented the weekly program.

Oran Thomas, district manager, introduced Mrs. Marie Sears, chief operator and Mr. Etheridge, lineman of Hereford, and George Hutson, information assistant of Dallas, gave the principal address of the occasion. The local office is now handling 300 long distance calls and 4700 local calls daily, Hutson said, and plans to increase switchboard capacity to handle 6,000 calls daily. The office now employs 20 operators.

"When VJ Day arrived, we had a waiting list of 71 for telephones," he pointed out; "we have since then installed 168 telephones and now have a waiting list of 140."

Mr. Hutson also gave an interesting talk on radar and gun directors, two pieces of equipment with which the telephone companies assisted during the war.

"All told, the state and its people are the direct beneficiaries of a major share of the $1,449,719,000 (billion) expended in 1945 by Texas' largest industry. A relatively small share of the money which it spent for goods and services goes out of our State."

Closed Season On Prairie Chicken

ANSTON, Tex., Aug. 29—There will be no open season on prairie chicken in Texas this year.

This was announced today by Howard Dodgen, Executive Secretary of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, in commenting upon reports circulating in several West Texas counties that all restrictions on hunting prairie chickens will be lifted on September 1.

Dodgen pointed out that the 147th Legislature in making it unlawful to hunt prairie chickens until September 1, 1946, repealed all existing laws pertaining to the hunting of prairie chickens, including a law which would provide for an open season. Hence, Dodgen said, the prairie chicken on September 1 passes into the category of a game bird on which no open season is provided.

Texas Depends Largely Upon Oil Industry

DALLAS, Tex.—Nearly 900,000 Texans get their living directly from the petroleum industry, figures just compiled by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association show.

This huge Texas petroleum family, scattered throughout the State, is made up of 211,225 workers who with their dependents total 887,145 Texans. The wage-earners of this group last year received $560,000,000 in wages and salaries, or virtually 38c of every dollar spent by the Texas petroleum industry.

The figures are included in the 1946 edition of "Important Facts About Texas Oil and Gas," just published by the association, the research and service organization of Texas oil and gas operators.

Texas farmers, ranchers and other land-owners received $215,000,000 last year in oil and gas lease and royalty payments, the booklet shows. State and local tax collectors took $95,502,000, much of which went for salaries of teachers, public officials and their employees while $65,000,000 was paid the Federal government, for a total 1945 tax bill of $180,502,000. This did NOT include gasoline taxes paid by the motoring public on the industry's principal product.

The Texas petroleum industry paid out a total of $946,536,000 last year for wages and salaries, lease and royalty payments State and local taxes, contract drilling and geophysical prospecting, most of which went directly to Texans. These expenditures represent 65c of every dollar spent by the industry.

"This is by no means all the money expended by the Texas petroleum industry which benefits the State and all its people," Fred W. Shield, association president, pointed out. "Just as those who work for the railroads and shipping concerns and the banks receive a substantial share of their incomes from expenditures of the petroleum industry, so many thousands of men and women in other lines of business also attribute part of their incomes to petroleum. When the purchases of this industry's employees in their own communities are considered, it is readily seen that there is hardly any business in Texas which does not in one way or another receive income from oil and gas. The huge payroll and other expenditures create a tremendous buying power for the necessities of life which benefits practically every line of business in

High School Gridders Begin Workouts on Monday

30 Boys Out For Team As Opening Near

More than thirty young hopefuls reported Monday morning to Coach H. V. Stanton at the high school as the 1946 edition of the Whiteface Herd thundered onto the field for their first workouts for the new grid season.

Eleven lettermen from the 1945 District Championship team were back in uniform to bolster the Herd's '46 prospects, and some promising newcomers are adding an inch or so to Pop Stanton's broad grin.

Stanton and his new assistant coach, Dalton Criswell, one-time North Texas State College gridder and late of the U. S. Marines, greeted their charges with a light "limbering up" session Monday morning to inaugurate a tough two-a-day training schedule which will continue all this week.

The famous "T" formation with which the Whitefaces rolled to a district title last year will be back in use this fall with some experienced ball players in key positions to spark the play.

Coach Stanton dug into the little black book Monday afternoon to pull out some favorite plays which he hopes will be bitter "T" to the Herd's opponents this fall.

Four good backs from last year's squad are on the '46 roster. Jim Worrell, 1945 all-district fullback, Captain-elect Johnny Rogers, Freddie Close, and Jimmie Whitaker, all lettermen, head the list of back-field candidates.

Two other promising backs are Leo Hennington, on whom Stanton is counting to develop an ace passer for the season's razzle-dazzle, and Wilson, who failed to letter last year but will probably see a lot of service this season.

Two all-district line-men will help to plug the Whiteface forward wall with Jimmie Easley at guard and Raymond Leub at end. Neely Kimbrough and Jack Simmons, last year's tackles, are back in the line-up; James Ellis Higgins, also a letterman, is out for the other guard slot, and John Dyer will be a leading candidate for the center slot.

The big shortage this year will be in experienced reserve strength, Stanton says.

Lost to the squad via the graduation route were Joe Bishop, quarter-back and co-captain; Davis, all-district half-back; Hagar, tackle; Oakes, all-district tackle; Orr, ace guard; and J. B. Sowell, co-captain and star end on the 1945 team.

The Herd will open the season a week from Friday, September 13, with a non-conference tilt against the Sudan Hornets at Sudan in a game which will open the new Hornet stadium.

The following week, September 20, they journey to Panhandle to meet the Panhandle Panthers, and open the home season here against Whiteford on September 27.

The conference season will open here on October 4 against the Friona Chiefs. On October 11, the Herd meets Dalhart at Dalhart, on October 25 Dumas at Hereford, on November 1 or 2, Canyon at Canyon; on November 8, Dimmitt here, and on November 15, Tulla at Tulla; all conference games.

All games will be under the lights, according to the present schedule, although some of the late-season tilts may be shifted to the afternoon spot if weather proves unfavorable.

COMMUNITY BUILDERS: C. J. Paddock

Pat Paddock Stayed Put When All Neighbors Left Country; Says He's Never Been Sorry

A man who stayed here when all his neighbors left is Mr. C. J. Paddock, one-time mayor of Hereford, and better known to many friends as "Pat." "And I have never been sorry," says Mr. Paddock, "that I did not return to Michigan, even though things have looked pretty bad at times."

Charles J. Paddock was born the third child of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Paddock, in Quincy, Michigan, January 13, 1847. Franklin Paddock was a harness-maker, and young Charles grew up in Quincy helping his father in the harness business.

C. J. Paddock and Miss Alice Spencer of Fayette, Ohio, were married June 11, 1901, at Colwater, Michigan. The couple made their home in Quincy until 1908.

It was at this time that Mr. C. H. Carl from Hereford visited in Quincy. Becoming acquainted with the Paddocks, Mr. Carl began to talk to the young couple about coming to Texas—namely the Panhandle of Texas.

"The more he talked," says Mr. Paddock, "the more we wanted to come!" Mr. Carl turned out to be a "real salesman," and because Mrs. Paddock's health was failing and the couple wanted to change to a warmer climate, Charles and Alice Paddock decided to move to Hereford, Texas.

The long trip to the new home was made by way of Rock Island railway. This enabled the Paddocks to bring with them most of their household goods. Travelling with Mr. and Mrs. Paddock was another Michigan family also "bent on" making their home in Hereford.

Mr. Paddock says that his first impression of Hereford and Deaf Smith county was very good. Although Hereford did look like only a wide spot in the road—"a mighty little town" as he expressed it. In the town of which he was later to be mayor, "Pat" found two grocery stores, one hardware, two banks and fifty or sixty residences, most of which were west of Main street and along 25-Mile avenue.

"It was like jumping off the ends of the earth," says Mr. Paddock, "but we soon found the people were very friendly and truly Southern." As an afterthought, he adds, "Main street wasn't even paved!"

Mr. and Mrs. Paddock settled southeast of town in the little community of Wyche, which at that time consisted of perhaps a dozen residences and the Wyche school.

They purchased 160 acres of grassland from Louis Brady, "And," says the elderly couple, "trying to make a living occupied most of our time in the next few years." Nearest neighbors to the Paddocks were J. Walker Brady, L. R. Brady and Harvey Hayes.

It was not long until a few families from Kentucky moved into the community, but they, along with the group from Michigan who had come with the Paddocks, soon became discouraged and went back to their old homes. "The worst experience I can remember in the history of Deaf Smith county occurred in 1910 when all my neighbors left the country," recalls Mr. Paddock.

Buying two registered cows, "Pat" began to build up a Hereford cattle business. He always kept enough horses to come to town and do the plowing. Most of his land he put into cultivation with maize, kafir corn, and hestra.

The Paddock's one experience with cotton turned out to be an unpleasant one. Knowing very little about this crop, they decided to try it anyway. Says Mr. Paddock, "The tumble weeds picked most of what we raised; as for the rest, our Kentucky neighbors from across the fence came over and showed us how to pick it." The cotton, which made about one bale off the ten acres, was sold to D. R. Gass, whose gin was located near where Jacobson's Welding shop is now. The Paddock's had learned their lesson—they decided to stick to cattle raising.

Selling his herd for $9,000 once and going to California, Mr. Paddock returned to Hereford to build up another herd which in 1938 was valued at approximately $15,000. Before leaving Wyche, he had improved several stock farms in that community.

For eleven years, C. J. Paddock served his county as commissioner of Precinct One. Then, in 1934, he succeeded E. B. Black as mayor of Hereford, successfully filling that office until April, 1944. During his term as mayor, Mr. Paddock, by careful management and enforcement of tax laws, was able to get most of the city debts paid off. Also, under his supervision, a number of new city wells were dug, and the water system was generally improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Paddock have one son, Faye, who lives here. They have three grandchildren. Mr. Paddock is a member of the IOOF and of the Presbyterian church. He says that playing dominoes is his pastime.

Means of Preventing Accidents, Topic Of State Highway Department Official

State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer Sunday assured accident-scarred Texas that by a comprehensive program of "building safety into our roads" it is possible to eliminate traffic accidents as a major public problem.

In a radio broadcast from Houston the veteran road chief outlined the hope engineering offers in traffic accident prevention by "improving the conditions under which vehicles are driven." He urged public support of a balanced highway improvement program designed to add proven safety features to the present highway system and simultaneously bring rural Texas out of the mud.

His address was sponsored by the Texas Safety Association as a part of the current nationwide crusade to check traffic accidents which threaten to claim 10,000 lives and pile up a property damage loss of $500,000,000 in Texas during the next ten years, according to the Association's estimates.

"For virtually every type of accident the engineer has a road design which will reduce the likelihood of such accidents virtually to the vanishing point, at the same time permitting the swift, congestion-free movement of all vehicles," Greer said. He cited the gratifying results obtained from a former nationwide program to engineer the hazards out of railroad grade crossings.

"The overpasses and underpasses built under this program made it possible for a car traveling the highway to collide with a train traveling the railroad," he pointed out, adding that improved automatic warning signals at other crossings brought an impressive reduction in accidents.

Alfred Alphonse Reinhart, Carpenter's Mate Second Class, was discharged from the United States Navy at Shoemaker, California, June 1, 1946. Reinhart entered active service in March, 1944. He wears the American Area campaign ribbon and the Victory medal.

Edward Ray Roberson, Seaman First Class, received his discharge at the U. S. Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, August 2, 1946. He holds the American area and World War II Victory ribbons.

Jack Nolan Grady, Yeoman Third Class, USNR, was released from duty at Shoemaker, California, August 19, 1946. Grady is entitled to wear the Asiatic-Pacific and American area campaign ribbons and the Victory medal. He enlisted in May, 1945.

"A HEREFORD INSTITUTION"

"In the past ten years Texas has paid nearly $300,000,000 for traffic accidents that adequate highway design could have prevented," he declared. "This is nearly half the total capital investment of the present entire State Highway System." He warned that accidents would claim the cost of a safe and adequate road system during the next ten years if the present rate of slaughter on our highways remains unchecked.

Greer emphasized that "Getting Texas Out of the Mud" has always been the main objective of road administrators in Texas and that the increased costs of safety features must be considered in the light of extending new roads into areas not served by any road at all.

He urged support of a three point program to protect and maintain present road construction revenue, to secure a controlled access law to realize the maximum safety benefits from roads now built, and a balanced road improvement plan designed to simultaneously bring rural Texans out of the mud, provide increased safety to motorists on heavily traveled roads and to bring some relief to congestion and hazards of motor travel through urban and thickly populated areas.

The Force that Holds a Giant Stalactite Up...

OIL-PLATES Your Engine!

THE tons-heavy stalactite—the giant "icicle" of stone—is held tight to its cavern roof by the tremendous attractive force of molecules pulling up against gravity. Utilizing the force of molecular attraction (basic force that holds things together) Conoco scientists bring to America's motorists the benefits of new and better oils.

By molecular attraction, a special ingredient of Conoco Nth motor oil is bonded so strongly throughout your engine that cylinder walls and other parts are OIL-PLATED! And because molecular attraction holds Conoco OIL-PLATING up where it belongs... prevents it from all draining down to the crankcase, even overnight... you get these benefits:

- added protection when your engine starts up
- added protection from corrosive action
- added protection from wear that leads to fouling sludge and carbon
- added smooth, silent miles

That's why to OIL-PLATE now... at Your Conoco Mileage Merchant's. Look for the red triangle. Continental Oil Company

Two Local Vets Are Buyers At Pantex Site Sale

AMARILLO, Aug. 30 (special)—Two Hereford Veterans of World War II, Carlos Vaughn and Alvin Hacker, were among the early purchasers recorded at the "site sale" now in progress at the Pantex Ordnance Plant under the auspices of the Fort Worth Regional Office of the War Assets Administration. The sale, which opened August 27 to veteran purchasers, has had a large attendance by servicemen during their four days of buying the first week.

Following an adjournment over the Labor Day holiday, the "site sale" was resumed Tuesday Sept. 3 with the final buying day for certified veterans. On Sept. 4 the RFC, buying for small business, will have purchasing rights, followed in turn by state and local governments Sept. 5, eligible non-profit institutions Sept. 6 and non-priority buyers in the commercial field starting Sept. 9.

The "site sale", which is designed to clear the Pantex Ordnance Plant of all surplus government consumer goods, offers machinery, office equipment, hardware, textiles, paper products and electrical equipment.

stalks, many leaves but few blooms.

In the acid soil area of East Texas, a litmus paper test should be made before planting. If the litmus paper turns pink after being exposed to wet soil for approximately three minutes, the soil should be sweetened with lime or wood ashes, at the rate of one pound of lime or ashes to each 10 x 10 foot plot of sandy soil. Clay or heavy soil requires two pounds for the same sized plot. No other fertilizer is needed. All that bluebonnets need is plenty of sunshine and good drainage at all times.

Although bluebonnets grow best when left where they are planted, they may be moved if necessary. In the Panhandle, where the plants won't grow the year around, they may be cared for in frame gardens or pots during the winter and transplanted in the open during early spring. Few plants can equal the hardiness of the bluebonnet, which will endure dry as well as cold weather.

48-33-203 -LH- LF: August 22, 1946

Local Harvest Festivals are being planned throughout the nation now to encourage an increase in home food production and preservation.

If the nation's fire losses continue to mount at present rate, an all-time high in fire destruction will be set. Farm fire losses are keeping pace with the general increase.

The Federal Government is again offering "all risk" crop insurance to wheat growers this year. The insurance is available now in all states.

Present U. S. Department of Agriculture estimate on the national wheat crop is 1,132 million bushels, with a 101 million bushel carry-over from last year. 48-33-204 -LH- LF: August 22, 1946

Planting Tips On Bluebonnets

Texas bluebonnets may be planted in September for blooms next spring.

Bluebonnet seed, which are available in most any seed store, will sprout much better if allowed to soak in water 24 hours before planting, says Sadie Hatfield, specialist in landscape gardening with the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. After the seed soak, they should be raked into the soil and watered at once. The young plants will grow during the cold winter months, since they are injured only by heavy freezes and even then only a few will be killed.

In light, sandy soil, the bluebonnet will grow best, says Miss Hatfield. In rich, fertilized soil the plants will develop tall

New Legislation Puts Ceiling On GI Training Pay, Boosts Pensions

The Veterans Administration has summarized recent legislation, passed by congress and approved by the president, which will affect thousands of veterans and their dependents of this area.

The new legislation comes within the jurisdiction of the Veterans Administration:

1. Increases by 20 per cent the pensions of nearly 2,000,000 veterans of both world wars and 400,000 dependents, effective September 1.
 2. Sets up tighter standards for on-the-job training for veterans; provides for financial assistance to states to supervise the program; and sets pay ceilings of $500 for veterans with dependents and $175 for veterans without dependents who are studying or training under the GI bill.
 3. Authorizes the Veterans Administration to operate canteens in hospitals and veterans' homes, financed by a $4,000,000 revolving fund.
 4. Allows full pensions to veterans who became disabled in peace-time service. Some 40,000 veterans are affected.
 5. Authorizes the payments of full pensions to veterans who are hospitalized or who live in VA institutions. In the past these payments have been limited to $20 a month and for those pensioned for non-service-connected disabilities, to $8.
 6. Lifted ceiling limits for dependents' pensions allowing widows of veterans of both World Wars and peacetime service to draw full payments for their minor children, regardless of the number.
 7. Appropriated $30,000,000 with which the Veterans Administration is enabled to provide an automobile or other conveyance for each World War II veteran entitled to compensation for loss, or loss of use, of one or both legs at or above the ankle.
 8. Increase pensions for more than 55,000 veterans and widows of the Spanish war group by 20 per cent, effective September 1.
- The pension increases will be made automatically. Inquiries are not necessary and will only delay the administrative work required to effect the new rates. The increases will be included in payments made September 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sharpe of Pollett visited his sister, Mrs. Kenneth Niell and family, a few days this week.

Miss Coline Brown of Borger spent Sunday night with Miss Gayle Roberson.
