Pheasant hunt fills up motels

BY KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

A check with local motels this morning indicated nearly every room in Hereford has been promised to an out-of-town pheasant hunter.

One of the larger establishments did have four single rooms available this weekend, but the rest have been booked for some time. The season begins Saturday half an hour before sunrise and continues through Christmas Day.

An increase in the number of farmers who charge hunters to use their land has prompted the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to crack down on landowners who do not purchase a shooting preserves license. Game Warden Chuck Cosper said he is aware of at least 200 persons in the three-county area he covers who are in violation of the law, a misdemeanor which carries punishment by fine up to $200 for each person found hunting on the land.

Cosper also said he expects the ringnecked pheasant crop to be less plentiful this year because of the summer drought and the Payment-in-Kind (PIK) program, which have reduced cover for the birds. The limit is two cocks per day with four in possession.

Organized hunts have long since been filled, but there will be plenty of room at the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary pheasant hunters breakfast Saturday morning. Ham, scrambled eggs, biscuits and gravy and beverages will be served from 5 to 7:30 a.m. at the Hereford High School cafeteria.

Tickets are available at the door for $3.75 and hunting licenses will be sold to those who live outside Deaf Smith County for $8 each.

FFA handling fruit

A truckload of citrus fruit arrived this week at the Hereford High School agriculture building. Chapter reporter Robbie Phillips said Future Farmers of America members had the oranges, grapefruit and apples unloaded within three hours.

Local FFAs are delivering the fruit at night to the local residents who supported their fund-raising fruit sale. Phillips said the chapter ordered a few extra boxes which are available by calling the agriculture building.

Advisor Marcus Phillips encouraged customers to contact the agriculture department if bad fruit is found. "The company guarantees it and we want everyone satisfied," he said.

Nary named Swift head

B.H. "Bud" Nary, former operations manager of the Swift Independent Packing Co. plant at Cactus, has become general manager of the company's Hereford plant, it was learned this week.

Nary had been residing in Dumas six years as the Moore plant operations manager. He has been with Swift for 31 years. He succeeds Harold Ecton, who moved to a management position at Guyton, Ok.

Nary began his career in the packing industry in his hometown of Omaha, Neb., in 1940. He joined Swift in 1952 and later became division superintendent there. He has served as an operations consultant in the Swift general offices in Chicago, superintendent of plants in Grand Island, Neb., and Guyton, Ok., and then to the Moore County plant.

Nary and his wife, Charleen, will maintain their home in Dumas until after the first of 1984. The couple has seven children.

Tax helper visit planned

A representative of State Comptroller Bob Bullock is to be in Hereford Wednesday to assist area taxpayers with filing returns under the new 20th-of-the-month-accelerated due date.

According to a press release, Don Miller is also to assist with renewing liquefied gas decals for vehicles and answer tax questions. A meeting place has not yet been announced.

Taxpayers who are not able to meet with the comptroller's representative may still receive assistance quickly by calling 1-800-252-5555 from anywhere in Texas.

Drum taken from La Plata

Matt Smith, 211 Centre, had his drum taken either Nov. 29 or 30 from the band room at La Plata Junior High School, Hereford police reported this morning.

Value of the instrument was an estimated $500. There are no suspects in the case.

Meanwhile, Thursday saw a car battery and vehicle registration stolen. Police made three arrests: two on warrants and one for driving while license suspended.

Ferguson selected 'Realtor of Year'

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Pat Ferguson of First Realty was named "Realtor of the Year" Thursday evening at the annual installation banquet of the Hereford Board of Realtors.

Melvin Jayroe, last year's winner, presented the award. Ferguson served as president of the realtors' board in 1983, as had Jayroe in 1982.

Installed as new president of the board, and apparently the leading candidate for 1984's "Realtor of the Year," was Lynn Jones.

Also Thursday night, new officers were installed, retiring officers were recognized and a speech was given by Judge John Brown Fite, a Dallas-based realtor and broker.

Carol Sue LeGate was made a new director, joining 1983 directors James Gentry and Betty Lady on the 1984 staff. Clarence Betzen, meanwhile, was made new vice president to replace Marn Tyler.

Ferguson, Tyler and Charlie Hill, leaving his director's post, received gifts of appreciation from the realtors. Mark Andrews made the presentations, and

Lynn Jones new board president of Ferguson he said, "I can't remember a president that worked any harder since I've been in the real estate business."

Before announcing the "Realtor of the Year," Jayroe claimed the presentation "is really the highlight of our evening."

Ferguson, 44, has lived in Hereford since 1954. He earned his real estate salesman's license in 1975 and broker's license two years later. He was, Jayroe said, a board director in 1979 and 1980.

According to Andrews, Ferguson accomplished many things during his reign. Among them was establishing a monthly newsletter, arranging a donation to the YMCA building fund drive and organizing a summer cookout.

Fite, who was later given a Hereford Bull Award by Chamber of Commerce President Bob Sims, told a lot of jokes during his talk. His concluding point, though, was that people should each set aside one hour every day for themselves. This learning period, part of one's non-working and non-sleeping ("discretionary") time, Fite claimed can give one more respect and prestige.

Among the cracks Fite made was, "I heard that if we laid all politicians end to end, that would probably be a good thing." He also ridiculed Aggies, lawyers and his wife, among others.

"You probably noticed when I stood up I was old," exclaimed Fite, who has been in the real estate business since 1937. "But you probably didn't notice my handicap; I talk too much."

Voted Dallas "Realtor of the Year" in 1970, Fite is a member of the National Association of Realtors. He is also a past president of the NAR's Farm and Land Institute.

County harvesting done

Freeze, drought hurt much

Harvesting of major crops in Deaf Smith County is complete, with sugar beets the only commodity not affected by the drought and early freeze.

County Executive Director John Fuston of the ASCS said today milo and corn yields were from 30 to 35 percent below normal, with irrigated milo averaging 4,500 to 5,000 pounds per acre and dryland milo averaging 600 to 800 pounds per acre.

"Most of the milo was from poor to very poor quality," Fuston said, "due to the hot dry summer and Sept. 21 freeze."

Corn averaged 5,550 to 6,500 pounds per acre, with 8,000 pounds considered a normal year's average. The quality of the corn was good.

With cotton harvest now complete, Fuston said the average yield in the county was about 300 pounds per acre. A normal county yield would be 400 pounds per acre. The quality of the cotton was good.

With cotton harvest now complete, Fuston said the average yield in the county was about 300 pounds per acre. A normal county yield would be 400 pounds per acre. The quality of the cotton was listed as fair.

With sugar beet harvesting also complete, the county-wide average is 19.5 tons per acre, with 14.3 percent sugar. "The yield is a little above average and the sugar percentage about average," Fuston reported.

"In most cases, the farmers would have been in a worse economic stress situation than they are, had it not been for the PIK program," Fuston added. "There has been a lot of talk about the program being expensive for

More measures needed

To accomodate disabled

The Texas Association of Counties has advised county officials that further measures to accommodate the handicapped needed to be taken at public buildings in Deaf Smith County.

County Judge Glen Nelson said that although no specific guidelines have been issued, the TAC said the work needs to be done if the county plans to continue receiving revenue sharing funds.

Nelson said one project the county may look into soon is the installation of a wheelchair ramp at the Deaf Smith County Historical Museum. "The other public buildings have a ground floor, but the museum has steps at its only entrance," he explained.

County treasurer Vesta Mae Nunley said the letter from TAC asks that counties work towards compliance with the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

"We have been asked to give notice to the general public by Jan. 17 that the county will prepare a self-evaluation transition plan which describes what steps need to be taken to comply with the act," she explained. "That plan should outline a three-year program for making the necessary changes in public buildings."

Nunley said after the notice is posted, the county will have until October, 1984 to finalize the transition plan. She has contacted the Office of Revenue Sharing in Washington, D.C. for a packet which will enlighten the county on how to prepare the plan and exactly what work needs to be done.

Nelson said right now the county court is concentrating on issuing certificates of obligation for jail construction, but he feels the plan will be studied by the commissioners next month.

"Indigent health care is a widespread problem in Texas, and it will take more than money to solve it," Frank Zinser said today.

As chairman of the board of the Deaf Smith Hospital District, he attended a meeting of the governor's task force on indigent health care Thursday in Lubbock along with Phillis Dawson, DFGH business manager, and County Commissioner James Voyles.

Dawson said the purpose of the task force is to determine what the needs of the state are by fielding problems and suggestions from county and health care officials throughout Texas. She said the task force wants to use ideas presented at the hearings to help structure and finance a state indigent health care plan.

"One of the biggest problems is defining who an indigent really is," Dawson explained. "A lot of hospitals are unable to determine what goes under indigent care and what is simply a bad debt." "Some county judges and commissioners proposed that the state be responsible for defining what is considered indigent care, while others want to make it strictly a local decision," she said.

Indigent care discussed

At Lubbock meeting Thursday

Deaf Smith uses federal poverty guidelines to make that determination. "That policy is workable for us," she pointed out.

Problems with definition are of special significance to larger facilities, such as Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. They are the ones who treat a lot of patients from surrounding counties. Some patients make the choice to seek treatment there on their own violation while others are sent to the larger hospitals when their local facility is no longer able to provide adequate care.

When the patient is an indigent or just fails to pay his bill, the question arises as to who is liable for the account. Whether or not that person's home county should be billed might depend on several factors, according to Dawson.

Whether or not the patient is able to pay must be looked at, along with determining if the same services could have been provided by the person's local hospital. Another area to be probed is that of which county could best afford to absorb the bill.

"The bad debt figure may be larger in Amarillo, but we might have just as big a problem percentage-wise as they do," Dawson said. "Nobody really attempted to give any answers yesterday, we were all just looking at the problem."

The 71-member task force will continue to hold hearings until Jan. 1. Recommendations will be taken before the state legislature next year.

Police angry at union's snub

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Several veteran police officers have blasted their union's board of directors for voting not to invite new Chief Charles Rodriguez to their annual Christmas dance, but an aide to the chief says it's "no big deal."

Several members resigned from the San Antonio Police Officers Association in protest and one detective even said he'd stay home and give Rodriguez his ticket for the Dec. 19 dance.

"Heck, he's our boss," said detective Sam Belleza. "I'm not going to the party. He can have my ticket."

When Rodriguez came to San Antonio in November from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, many officers grumbled that an "outsider" had been selected.

He first angered the association members by saying during a roll call question-and-answer period that he would not join the group — even if asked — and later remarked that it might be a "conflict of interest" for union members to be appointed to two proposed assistant chief positions.

Judge approves funds for defense

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — A state district judge, acknowledging that the case will require costly expert witnesses, has approved an additional $6,000 for defense lawyers representing indicted nurse Genevieve Jones.

Ms. Jones is charged with murder in the 1982 death of a 15-month-old Kerr County girl. The indictment alleges she injected Chelsea Ann McClellan with a powerful muscle relaxant.

Court-appointed defense lawyer Jim Brookshire told State District Judge John Carter on Thursday that the $500 per witness — up to $4,000 total — previously approved for expert witnesses was insufficient.

"They're not free and they're not cheap," Brookshire said of the medical witnesses needed in the case.

The Georgetown lawyer said potential expert witnesses have given him estimates of $100 an hour for research and $1,250 a day to testify.

"This is not your normal case," Brookshire said in his appeal for more money.

Ms. Jones will be tried here Jan. 16. The 33-year-old vocational nurse, who has denied any wrongdoing, also faces seven charges of injury to a child in Kerr County, and a similar charge in Bexar County.

Columbia inspected

By JOHN ANTCZAK
Associated Press Writer

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Scientists inspected Columbia and its astronauts today for signs of wear from a record 10-day flight, but it may be weeks before officials know why a computer and a navigation device failed and forced an 8-hour landing delay.

With the $1 billion European Spacelab in its cargo bay, Columbia ended its flight of more than 4 million miles in a dusty touchdown at 3:47 p.m. Pacific time Thursday, less than an hour before sunset.

The ninth space shuttle mission was hailed as a success for the reams of scientific data accumulated during the voyage. Fourteen countries contributed to 73 experiments conducted round-the-clock in an unprecedented amount of scientific activity.

"We have many scientific firsts that came out of this mission," said NASA administrator Gen. James Abrahamson, flanked by shuttle Commander John Young and pilot Brewster Shaw at a post-landing news conference.

"We also have one that has been proven time and time again, and that's that the level of uncertainty in the universe is a constant," Abrahamson said.

The four mission specialists — Owen Garriot, Robert Parker, Byron Lichtenberg, and West German scientist Ulf Merbold — were hurried off for a week of 12-hour-a-day experiments on how the body reacts to weightlessness and the return to gravity. The tests will duplicate those done during the flight.

Columbia, which has now made six trips into space, was towed to a scaffold-like device which will hoist it onto a Boeing 747 jetliner for its return to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida, planned for Monday.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientists examined its exterior for damage. However, inspection of the failed computer — there were four backups on board — and a broken navigational guidance device will await Columbia's arrival in Florida.

The six astronauts — the biggest crew on any space flight — were not endangered by the delay from the scheduled 7:59 a.m. PST landing and had food and fuel for another two days, NASA officials said. The flight had already been extended by one day to give the astronauts time for more experiments and some sightseeing.

But Young, praising Shaw's handling of the situation, joked that when the computers failed, "I turned to jelly."

"There was a problem and I don't want to minimize that, but ... we were not on the edge of some huge problem," Abrahamson said.

Mission Control ordered the delay after a powerful jolt shuddered through the craft, followed by the failure of two computers and the navigational device, called an Inertial Measuring Unit or IMU. One computer was quickly brought back up. Columbia had two backup IMUs and only one was needed for landing.

Young reported the jolt came during the firing of a control jet as he was preparing for the return to Earth.

"It really hit the vehicle hard," said Young, who was on his sixth shuttle flight.

Abrahamson said the first computer failure "by itself wasn't of any great concern." The next shuttle mission is scheduled for Jan. 30, when Challenger will be launched on a flight that will feature a space walk.

To pay defense attorney

Hearing will determine if inmate goes to trial

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Dismissing the capital murder case against prison inmate Eroy Edward Brown if state funds cannot be found to pay his defense attorney would be a "great injustice," a prosecutor said.

Brown, 33, has been charged with capital murder in the April 4, 1981 death of a prison farm manager.

A hearing has been set for this morning to determine if sufficient state funds are available to pay Craig Washington, Brown's court-appointed attorney.

A Texas statute requires the state to pay the cost of defending indigent inmates accused of committing a crime while incarcerated. But in the last session of the legislature lawmakers failed to allocate money to the defense fund.

"The hearing is to determine if there is any money available in the fund," said Walker County District Attorney Frank Blazek. "And if not, then the next question is, what money might be used instead, money from other parts of the state budget or from public grants.

"State District Judge Darrell Hester of Brownsville has said that if no money is found to pay Washington's fee or cover the cost of investigation and expert testimony, then the court will consider dismissing the case because of denial of funds for counsel," said Blazek.

"It would be a great injustice to dismiss this case," Blazek said.

Brown, who was serving 12 years in the Texas Department of Corrections on an armed robbery conviction at the time of the killings, was indicted on capital murder charges in the deaths of Ellis Unit Warden Wallace Pack and Prison Farm Manager Billy Max Moore. He was acquitted of killing Pack.

Brown has said that he believed the two officials intended to torture him and that he shot Moore and drowned Pack in self defense.

Brown was tried twice for the Pack slaying. The first trial in March 1982 ended in a hung jury, with the panel voting 11-1 for acquittal. In November 1982 a Galveston jury found Brown innocent. Washington, who defended Brown in both trials, has not yet been paid for his work in November 1982.

Washington said his client was paroled last September on the robbery sentence but has remained in jail awaiting trial on the capital murder charge.

"Something needs to happen one way or the other or Brown could be waiting in jail indefinitely while the state decides if it is going to make it (the money) available," Washington said.

The case is being heard in Edinburg on a change of venue. The judge has ordered representatives of the state attorney general's office, the comptroller of public accounts and Blazek to appear at the hearing, according to a court clerk.

Reagan rules out new proposals to Soviets Union

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is ruling out new proposals to get the Soviet Union to resume negotiations to curb nuclear arms.

And if the Soviets try to merge the interrupted talks on strategic weapons with stalled discussions of Euro-missiles, the United States is likely to turn the move down.

U.S. arms control director Kenneth Adelman made these points Thursday while President Reagan avoided accusing the Soviets of a walkout.

Reagan's remarks could make it easier for them to return to the bargaining table in Geneva, Switzerland, after New Year's.

Adelman took the same conciliatory approach. "It is not a walkout in the sense the talks are called off," he said at a news conference. "It is a situation where the Soviets have just not set a resumption date."

The United States had proposed resuming in February, after an eight week recess. But Adelman said the Soviets gave notice that they wanted to revise their position in the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks (START) to cover intermediate range nuclear missiles.

The weapons were being discussed separately when the Soviets called a suspension two weeks ago. They were protesting the deployment of U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in West Germany and Britain.

In effect, the Soviets apparently are trying to merge the two sets of deadlocked negotiations. That would mean discussing the U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles and Soviet SS-20 missiles along with global weapons on both sides.

Said Adelman: "The fact is, I think it's safe to say combining the talks would complicate each of the problems, the intermediate problems and the strategic problems."

He also questioned that the Soviets were concerned about the Pershing 2 and cruise missiles. Some 572 are to be deployed in Western Europe and targeted on Soviet territory by 1988 if there is no agreement.

In the four years since the North Atlantic Treaty Organization approved the U.S. missiles, the Soviets could have stopped them by dismantling the SS-20 aimed at Western Europe and Asia.

"That opportunity is still open to them," Adelman said. At the same time, he dismissed any idea of luring the Soviets back with a new U.S. proposal.

Bush flies to Argentina

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush is flying to Argentina today to help mark the restoration of civilian rule there and of U.S.-Argentine military ties for the first time in six years.

Bush will join dignitaries from dozens of other countries for the inauguration Saturday of President-elect Raul Alfonsin, whose accession signals an end to seven tumultuous years of military domination of Argentine politics.

The designation of Bush to head the American delegation reflects the importance the Reagan administration attaches to close ties with Argentina. But U.S. officials, requesting anonymity, said an even more important stop for Bush will occur Sunday when he travels to El Salvador.

In El Salvador, Bush is expected to tell senior officials, publicly and privately, that President Reagan remains gravely concerned about the deteriorating human rights situation there despite his recent veto of legislation linking continued U.S. military aid to an easing of political repression.

Jackson claims God on his side

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Calling himself a "prophet on a political mission," the Rev. Jesse Jackson told a ministers group that God supports his campaign for the presidency.

"The Lord is with me," Jackson said Thursday. "The Lord has made a promise, and he's never broken a promise. He's never let me down."

Of his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, Jackson added, "I am not a politician, I am a prophet on a political mission."

The remarks came as Jackson appeared before 300 fellow Baptist ministers at a prayer breakfast at Praises of Zion Baptist Church.

"Our mission is to establish a moral tone in this nation," he said.

Walesa's wife to pick up prize

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Surrounded by police and well-wishers, Lech Walesa today watched his wife and oldest son leave for Norway to pick up his Nobel Peace Prize because the Solidarity leader fears leaving Poland to accept it himself.

A crowd of about 300 Poles slipped past a heavy police guard at the Warsaw airport to join Walesa in bidding farewell to his wife, Danuta, 34, and 13-year-old son, Bogdan, as they boarded a flight to Denmark. They were to take a connecting flight from Copenhagen to Oslo, where Mrs. Walesa will receive the prize Saturday.

Police set up roadblocks and posted several dozen troopers and anti-terrorist commandos at the airport, blocking access to all but ticketed passengers, accredited reporters and members of the Walesa entourage.

Uniformed police formed a cordon around Walesa, his wife and son, and the Rev. Henryk Jankowski, Walesa's priest and confessor, as they fought through the crowd of well-wishers and television camera crews in the airport lobby.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite Moslem militiamen fired mortars and rocket-propelled grenades on the U.S. Marine base today, wounding two Americans, according to local radio reports.

The Christian-controlled Voice of Lebanon radio station quoted unnamed police sources as saying the two Marines were injured in a barrage at 11 a.m. at their compound at Beirut's international airport.

The radio said the Marines unleashed a counter-barrage of Dragon anti-tank missiles that destroyed the position from which Shiite militiamen fired.

It was the second attack on the Marine base today.

did you present Gloria with the piano as a gift? If so, it's hers.

However, if you simply bought the piano with the understanding that she would learn to play it—and obviously she disappointed you—there is no obligation to give it to her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a longtime reader and have noticed through the years how many people show their ignorance when there's a wedding. The major complaint seems to be that brides are negligent about acknowledging wedding gifts. Well, here's a new wrinkle.

Last week my husband and I attended the wedding of an older couple. It was his second trek down the aisle and her third. Everything went off nicely until I opened the matchbook that had been put conspicuously at each place setting. Handwritten was the following message: "Thank you for the wedding gift and thank you for coming."

How do you like that unique acknowledgment of an expensive piece of silver I spent half a day to find?—Burning In Beaumont

DEAR WIS: It does not surprise me that those women do not wish to be known as "the widows." They need not be reminded yet another time that their husbands are no longer living. (No one refers to their male counterparts as "the widowers.") They are called "eligible men."

It seems, however, that "single women" is a shade better than "single ladies." I suggest it as a compromise.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When our daughter was 10 years old, we bought a piano with the understanding that she was to take piano lessons.

She studied for only a short period of time - less than a year - hated to practice and did not want to continue with her lessons. We let her win the battle.

"Gloria" is now 31 and teaches school. We decided to sell the piano along with other furniture we no longer need. You would not believe the problem this has created. Gloria feels the piano belongs to her since we always referred to it as "her" piano. She insists that we give it to her. What is your opinion?—Torn in Troy, Mich.

14 trades involve 29 players

Brown named as AL chief

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dr. Bobby Brown, an ex-major league infielder and baseball purist who prefers the traditional nine-player game, is the new president of the American League, with its 10th-man designated hitter.

Brown's appointment was announced at baseball's winter meetings Thursday and accompanied the three-month extension in office of Bowie Kuhn as the sport's designated commissioner.

The major league owners also directed the game's long range planning committee to do a feasibility study on eventual expansion to two 16-team leagues and rejected a proposal which would have permitted the DH rule to be used in all games played in AL parks during the World Series, referring the question to a study committee.

Brown's appointment and Kuhn's extension highlighted the busiest day of the winter meetings with six trades completed, involving 19 players including catcher, Jim Sundberg, shortstop Tim Foli and pitcher Ray Burris.

Brown, 59, was elected to a five-year term, succeeding Lee MacPhail as AL president. The noted Texas heart surgeon's term of office begins Jan. 1 but he said it might take him until July to clear up his patient load.

Bob Fishel, longtime aide to MacPhail, was elected executive vice president of the league and will serve as caretaker until Brown can take charge of the league office.

Asked about his dramatic change of career, Brown said, "This looks like a very irrational deal by a rational person. I've been in practice for 26 years and it's a tough specialty. The work load is heavy. The tension load is heavy. We deal with the most catastrophic emergencies you can imagine."

Will baseball be easier? "I'm not trying to get into a tension-free atmosphere," he said. "There is no such thing. I'm not looking to a tension-free tenure. I know there are problems."

Brown, who played for eight years with the New York Yankees in the 1940s and '50s, confided that he is not a fan of the AL's designated hitter rule.

"As a baseball purist, I always preferred the original nine guys," he said. "That's a personal opinion, not official. I always liked having the pitcher in the lineup and having to maneuver pinch hitters."

"But that doesn't mean I advocate disenfranchising the DH."

Brown's candidacy for the AL job developed after he had been interviewed by the search committee which continues to hunt for a successor to Kuhn.

"I was interviewed once or twice for the commissioner's job but I was not offered the job," Brown said. "I would suspect when they invited me to talk with the search committee about the commissioner's job, it evolved into a discussion of this with me," he said.

Bud Selig, chairman of the commissioner's search committee, made his report to the owners and the result was a second extension in office for Kuhn, this one through March 1.

"A transitory bridge needs to be built," from Kuhn to his successor, Selig said.

But the owner of the Milwaukee Brewers insisted that although "10 or 12" candidates have been interviewed, the job has not been offered to anyone and that no candidate has withdrawn his name from consideration.

"This committee has been no where near making any offers to anybody," Selig said.

Peter Ueberroth, president of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, said he had been told 10 days ago that he was one of two finalists for the job. He said because he was "committed to the 1984 Olympics through the Games," he was not a candidate "at this time."

The extension is the second for Kuhn, who at first agreed to serve only until Dec. 31.

"They wrote it the way I asked for it," the commissioner said. "This is to continue the bridge between Kuhn and whoever X is. I had not expected to go beyond Dec. 31. When they asked, the old warhorse in me was too strong to say no."

Might the warhorse force Kuhn to accept another extension if the committee continues to have trouble locating a successor?

"I will not go beyond March 1," he said.

The New York Yankees made two of the day's deals, acquiring veteran shortstop Foli from California in exchange for minor league relief pitcher Curt Kaufman and then swapping first baseman Steve Balboni and pitcher Roger Erickson to Kansas City for pitcher Mike Armstrong and minor league catcher Duane Dewey.

In other deals, Texas sent Sundberg to Milwaukee in exchange for catcher Ned Yost and minor league pitcher Dan Scarpetta, Oakland acquired veteran right-hander Burris from Montreal, sending minor league outfielder Rusty McNealy to the Expos, the New York Mets got left-hander Sid Fernandez, a prize Los Angeles prospect and minor leaguer Ross Jones in exchange for pitcher Carlos Diaz and a player to be named later, and the Royals got pitcher Joe Beckwith from the Dodgers for minor league catcher Joe Szekely and pitchers Jose Torres and John Serritella.

That pushed the convention totals through Thursday to 14 trades involving 29 major league players with the clubs facing a 6 p.m. deadline today for inter-league trades.

Pepperdine upsets Wichita; No. 15 Arkansas wins again

By The Associated Press
Pepperdine has this thing about playing national powers in overtime, as 14th-ranked Wichita State has discovered to its dismay.

Pepperdine, which took national champion North Carolina State into two overtimes before losing in the first round last season's NCAA basketball tournament, put in only five extra minutes Thursday night. But they were enough to hand the Wichita its first defeat, 67-66.

It was a light night for college basketball, with only three ranked teams in action.

No. 15 Arkansas topped Southwest Missouri State 56-41, and No. 20 Fresno State routed Portland 70-45. And unranked Virginia continued to get along without Ralph Sampson, winning its sixth game without a loss, 52-41 over William & Mary.

Dwayne Polee and Scott McCollum had 14 points each to lead Pepperdine. But it was Mark Wilson, who made some key steals in both regulation and overtime and made a key free throw after missing the first of two to tie it with four seconds left in regulation.

"I've been in that situation before," Wilson said. "I rushed the first shot, but then I took my time, bent my knees and hit the second. When you miss a shot, you just have to come back and play hard."

Pepperdine Coach Jim Harrick said his plan all along was to take advantage of Wichita's weakness in the backcourt.

"They're not a very good outside team, but they can sure beat you inside," Harrick said.

Wichita's Xavier McDaniel was the game's leading scorer with 20 points.

Ron Anderson hit all eight of his field goal attempts and scored 20 points to lead Fresno State. The Bulldogs, 4-1, rolled to an early 35-18 lead and built it to 56-27 midway through the second half.

Coaches Landry, Gibbs say game 'has everything'

By The Associated Press

Joe Gibbs and Tom Landry, each of whom has won the Super Bowl, are not about to pour mouth the Super Bowl-like atmosphere surround the game between their 12-2 teams Sunday in Irving, Texas.

Both Gibbs' Washington Redskins and Landry's Dallas Cowboys have clinched postseason spots, leaving the NFC East title, and a playoff bye and home-field advantage as the major items to be decided at Texas Stadium. But to the coaches it's the season.

"This game has everything," says Gibbs. "This is the reason you coach and play."

To which Landry adds: "This is the great kind of game you work so hard for. You don't have to worry about anybody getting ready for this one."

The Washington-Dallas matchup tops a weekend schedule in which all but one game — Kansas City at San Diego — does not involve a team fighting for a playoff spot.

On Saturday, Pittsburgh will be at the New York Jets and Atlanta at Miami.

Sunday games include Chicago at Minnesota, Cleveland at Houston, San Francisco at Buffalo, Seattle at the New York Giants, Detroit at Cincinnati, New Orleans at Philadelphia, New England at the Los Angeles Rams, St. Louis at the Los Angeles Raiders, Baltimore at Denver and that Kansas City at San Diego contest.

The Monday night game is Green Bay at Tampa Bay. The on-field significance of the Dallas-Washington matchup is easy to sum up.

If Dallas wins, it clinches the NFC East title and home-field advantages and forces the Redskins into the wildcard game. If Washington wins, it has only to beat the 3-10-1 Giants the following week to clinch.

But there is more to the game than that — a rivalry that goes back to the days when George Allen helped the Redskins break up the monopoly on the NFC East held by "America's Team" and every game with "America's Team" was a small war.

"Down in Texas, the Redskins are known as Russia's team," says Alvin Garrett, the Redskin receiver who in those days was a teen-ager in Texas.

The Redskins, who average 34 points a game, have already established an NFC scoring record of 479 points, breaking the mark of 454 set by Dallas in 1980. The Redskins need only 34 in their two remaining games to tie the league mark of 513, set by the Houston Oilers in the American Football League in 1961.

Both San Francisco and Buffalo are 8-6, but the 49ers — tied for first with the Rams in the NFC West — are in better position for a playoff berth.

With Miami having clinched the AFC East, the Bills are fighting for an AFC wild card spot. There's an outside chance one win would put them in the playoffs, but even with two wins, they may need outside help.

Saturday's Jets-Steelers game is marked by the expected return of Terry Bradshaw to the Pittsburgh starting lineup. Bradshaw was designated as this week's starter by Coach Chuck Noll after the Steelers lost their third straight game last weekend.

Despite those three straight losses, the Steelers need only one win in their last two games to clinch the AFC Central championship. The Jets, who have won three straight, are 7-7 and still alive for an AFC wild card spot.

Scribe picks Skins by 3; favors Steelers over Jets

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Perhaps Joe Theismann put it best. "Dallas has been playing a lot of 60-minute games," said the Washington Redskins' quarterback. "We've been playing a lot of 45-minute games."

The Redskins have, indeed, scored early and often, rolling over most of their opponents (two losses by a total of two points) while the Cowboys (two losses by a total of three points) have had to come from behind a lot this season, starting with their season-opening 31-30 victory in Washington.

That loss has been eating at Washington for 13 weeks now, and there's no doubt the Redskins will be wild-eyed when they hit the Texas Stadium turf Sunday.

In past years, the 'Skins might have been expected to collapse under the pressure of such an important game, but their 31-17 demolition of Dallas in last year's National Conference championship put that to rest.

The Cowboys can lose and still win the NFC East title next week. But for the Redskins, it all hinges on this one. Without a win, they get nothing more than a wild card. And they want more. They want it all. And they want it now! Take Washington plus 3 over DALLAS.

Pittsburgh, with Cliff Stoudt crumbling at quarterback, has lost three in a row and has looked horrible in the last two, so Coach Chuck Noll has called upon Terry Bradshaw, not so much for his healed right arm as for his spiritual healing powers.

Noll is not one to make rash decisions. He knows Bradshaw may not be physically 100 percent. But he also knows that the Steelers' sagging confidence will get a massive boost just by Bradshaw's presence on the field.

All but lost in the excitement over Bradshaw's return is the fact that Saturday's game is the New York Jets' last at Shea Stadium. For that finale, take Pittsburgh plus 2½ over the JETS. In other games (home teams capitalized), take:

L.A. RAIDERS minus 9½ over St. Louis

Cleveland minus 7 over HOUSTON

L.A. RAMS minus 6½ over New England

SAN DIEGO minus 4 over Kansas City

Seattle minus 3 over N.Y. GIANTS

MINNESOTA minus 2 over Chicago

San Francisco minus 2 over BUFFALO

CINCINNATI minus 1½ over Detroit

New Orleans plus 1 over PHILADELPHIA

TAMPA BAY plus 3½ over Green Bay

Atlanta plus 8 over MIAMI

Baltimore plus 9 over DENVER

Last week's picks against the spread: 5-7-1. For the season: 87-9-9.

Hurn served as district superintendent of the West Texas District, Church of the Nazarene, for 10 years before going to Kansas City.

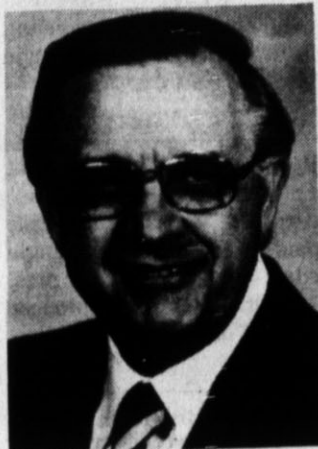

Under his leadership, there have been more new churches started in 1983 than any year since 1958. He is currently implementing a campaign to start 1000 new churches in one year in the denomination.

He is very active in the American church growth movement and is rated by many as "number one among denominational executives" in his understanding of church growth principles and his ability to implement them on a denominational level.

In November 1980 he was honored for outstanding executive leadership in church growth by the American Institute of Church Growth.

Hurn was born in Ontario, Oregon, and graduated from Bethany Nazarene College, Bethany, Okla. He has done graduate studies at Fuller Theological Seminary and the University of Tulsa and received the doctor of divinity degree from Bethany Nazarene College in 1967.

Genealogical society to unveil new volume

Unveiling of the collectors' volume, "Texas Panhandle Forefathers, 1875-1930," published by the Amarillo Genealogical Society, will take place at KGNL Studios, 3505 Olsen Sunday, Dec. 18 from 1 to 5 p.m. At this time all prepaid book orders will be distributed.

Hereford and surrounding area residents who requested books by mail will receive them promptly.

Buffalo hunters, farmers, businessmen, Indians, cattlemen, soldiers, and land promoters all shared in the early development of the Texas Panhandle. Now, their diverse stories and common heritage have been assembled in this book. Family histories and previously unpublished old photos have been gathered from all 26 counties of the Panhandle, according to society president, Sharon Jelinek. The work represents a permanent resource for future use as well as an attractive reference for current researchers and readers curious about the development of this region.

Barbara Spray, who compiled the volume, expressed special thanks to the families in Hereford who contributed accounts for the book. Included in the stories are elements of community life, development of commerce and social organizations. Genealogists stress the value of the collection for those researching their roots, as there are over 300 Family Group Sheets included.

Additional volumes may be purchased by mail from the Treasurer, 1505 Austin, Amarillo, Texas 79102 for $45.50 including tax and mailing.

Performance of 'Messiah' slated Sunday afternoon

A community chorus made up of the Hereford Chamber Singers and others from Hereford and the area will present the Christmas portion of George Frederick Handel's "Messiah" at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Hereford High School auditorium.

The concert is free of charge and the public is invited to attend.

Bill Devers, director of the Chamber Singers, will direct the performance. Accompaniment will be provided by Elva Devers on piano, Jan Walser on organ, and a small string ensemble consisting of first and second violin, viola, cello and string bass. Narration, including scripture passages related to the birth of the Messiah, will be presented by Wayne Thomas between the choral numbers.

Handel composed his ever popular "Messiah" in just 21 days and dedicated it to the Irish people. It was first performed in Dublin on April 13, 1742.

The following year the work was presented in England, where it was performed every year thereafter for a number of years.

Chorus began, members of the audience, including the king, sprang to their feet in enthusiasm and remained standing until the end of the chorus. This incident originated the custom of standing during the Hallelujah Chorus, which will be the final number performed at Sunday's concert.

The entire work, which takes over three hours to perform, is broken down into sections that are generally presented at various times during the year. The Christmas portion is slightly less than an hour in length.

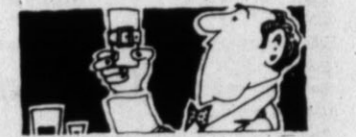

San Francisco was founded as the pueblo of Yerba Buena in California in 1834. The San Francisco Bay area was visited in 1769 by Spanish Sgt. Jose Ortega.

Members, guests gather for Christmas luncheon

Members and guests of La Afflatus Estudio Club were welcomed by Pet Ott, president, as they assembled in the home of Mary Herring for their annual Christmas luncheon on Tuesday.

The house was beautifully decorated for the holiday season, with the focal point being a large Christmas tree. The traditional turkey dinner was served on quartet tables with white felt poinsettia centerpieces.

The program was introduced by Aileen Montgomery, chairperson of the social committee. Jennie Terrell read the Christmas story according to the Gospel of Matthew from the Good News Bible and Ms. Montgomery told a story entitled "My Store-boughten Christmas."

To complete the program, Emily Suggs introduced Eunice and Cecil Boyer who sang spirituals and Christmas songs for the group.

Others attending included Opal Elliston, Eva Gilliland, Tresa Hale, Alberta Higgins, Lydia Hopson, Lucile Hughes, Beatrice Hutson, Lola Jewell, Alynne Johnson, Della Stagner, Mary Williamson, and a guest, Phyllis Channer.

For some time, we have been regaled with dire predictions of recession, depression and other ominous terms that depict a general worsening of our economic situation; all of which must cause many of us to wonder if our own source of life's basic needs might soon be in jeopardy. The fancy words would indeed appear to forecast a grim future when translated into terms of next week's groceries or next month's rent. Throughout history, in time of trouble man has always turned to religion as a last resort, even when it should have been his first. There is no better time than now to go to your Church and pray to God for His ever-present help and guidance.

"But seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

— Matthew 6:33

"The spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life."

— Job 33:4
