Change In Conditions

Weather took a turn for the better Wednesday afternoon (right) after a blizzardy morning

(left). Clear skies, however, helped a new record low temperature of zero degrees be set this morning. Wednesday's high of 16 was also a new standard for Dec. 28, breaking the previous highest low of 21 established in 1939. The old record low occurred last year.

Cold kills 35 in state

By The Associated Press

An arctic cold front plunged temperatures below zero in the Panhandle this morning as frigid weather that has been blamed for at least 35 deaths kept its grip on Texas.

Readings had tumbled by 5 below zero at Amarillo by 4 a.m. Elsewhere in West Texas, it was 4 degrees at Lubbock and 3 in the Guadalupe Pass.

All of West Texas and much of North Texas and South Texas was covered by travelers' advisories this morning because of snow and icy roads.

Gale warnings were posted for the Texas coast, and a freeze warning was issued for the heart of the state's citrus industry in the Rio Grande Valley, which was hit over the Christmas weekend by the worst freeze there in 21 years.

Winds of 23 mph, with gusts up to 39 mph, were reported at the Jefferson County Hospital near Port Arthur Wednesday night, and the National Weather Service said the high winds would continue through the night.

Wednesday, snow fell

Amarillo records Texas low across North Texas at Amarillo, Abilene, Wichita Falls, Denton and Weatherford. Freezing temperatures were noted during the daytime hours as far south as Waco.

Homeowners, especially in the Houston area, faced heavy damage from broken water pipes that froze and then shattered when temperatures hovered briefly above the freezing mark.

Carl Lee of Insurance Information Institute said the recent winter storm will result in at least $50 million in homeowner insurance claims throughout the state.

"The catastrophe area covers 26 states, and Texas is leading in the number of claims that have come in," said Lee.

Damage from broken water pipes in Houston was so extensive that a city official said the costs to homeowners could exceed those residents paid last summer to repair problems caused by Hurricane Alicia.

Dan Jones of the Houston Public Works Department said the financial burden to homeowners is enormous.

Plumbers were being overwhelmed and were running ads for temporary plumbers to help handle the backlog of trouble calls Wednesday.

"You're talking about major damage right now," said Henry Davidson, president of Crown Plumbing Co.

Davidson's firm, one of the largest in the Houston area, fielded 12,000 requests for help on Tuesday.

"It's so massive, it's unbelievable. It's like a war," he said.

Rio Grande Valley juice processors were processing damaged oranges "round-the-clock" in an effort to salvage juice, growers said. Three processing plants hired an extra 250 temporary workers to complete the task.

Temperatures in the 20s froze the fruit on the trees and growers estimated damage at $30 million. Growers had not decided Wednesday whether to extract juice from damaged grapefruit.

Meanwhile, sugarcane growers tallied up the destruction to their crops, which were only about 43 percent harvested when the cold snap hit Christmas Eve. Preliminary estimates put the damage at about $15 million, growers said.

Most of the cane still in the field can be harvested if weather conditions are favorable, but the sugar content will be reduced, growers said.

Long-term losses to the citrus and sugarcane industries could drive the damage figures higher, since those costs would include lost jobs and cutbacks for suppliers serving the industry, such as truckers and equipment companies, industry officials said.

Utility officials continued to fight a wide array of problems, but reported progress in maintaining normal service.

Work crews in Fort Worth made some progress in restoring water service to hundreds of residents affected by breaks in water mains.

Houston Lighting & Power Co. spokesman Graham Painter said 40 percent of H&P's generating capacity capable of switching fuels resumed burning natural gas Tuesday after running on oil over the weekend.

"We don't consider that we're out of the woods at all. We've got a breather. Now we're waiting to see what the second wave of cold will do," Painter said.

Report may harm Reagan

By FRED HOFFMAN AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special Pentagon commission's report on the Beirut truck bombing that killed 241 American servicemen could prove a liability to Reagan administration attempts to defend use of U.S. Marines in their "peacekeeping" role in Lebanon.

The document, prepared by a five-man panel made up mostly of retired and active-duty senior officers, provides ammunition for critics who claim the Marines are in Lebanon on an ill-defined mission.

It also suggests military superiors in the chain of command failed to change ground rules by late summer so the Marines could "cope effectively with the increasingly hostile environment" that culminated in the truck bombing on Oct. 23.

There are indications the issue may turn out to be a major one in the presidential campaign ahead.

"The mission of the U.S. multinational force was implicitly characterized as a peace-keeping operation, although 'peace-keeping' was not explicit in the mission statement" prepared by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the report said.

Concerns truck bombing

The commission members said their inquiry "clearly established that perceptions of the basic mission varied at different levels of command."

The Marine commanders on the ground in Beirut interpreted their mission to maintain a "presence" as requiring that the U.S. contingent "be visible but not to appear to be threatening to the populace," the report said.

"This concern was a factor in most decisions made by the Marine amphibious unit commanders in the employment and disposition of their forces," it added.

Another area in which perceptions varied, the report said, was the importance of the Beirut international airport to the Marine mission and whether the Marines had any responsibility to ensure its operation.

"While all echelons of the military chain of command understood that the security of the Beirut international airport was not a part of the mission, perceptions of the U.S. multinational force's implicit responsibility for airport operations varied widely," the report said.

The panel members said the U.S. ambassador to Lebanon and others in the State Department saw a functioning airport "as an important symbolic and practical demonstration of Lebanese sovereignty."

They also cited the statement made by President

Reagan on Oct. 27, four days after the truck bomb destroyed a Marine headquarters at the airport, that "part of their (Marine) task is to guard that airport."

Summing up the view on this point, the report said:

"The commission concludes that the 'presence' mission was not interpreted in the same manner by all levels of the chain of command and that perceptual differences regarding that mission ... should have been recognized and corrected by the chain of command."

Record temperatures set

Wednesday's high temperature reading of 16 degrees established a new lowest high reading in Hereford for Dec. 28.

Also, this morning's low recording of zero degrees broke the old standard of 3, set only last year. The zero-degree temperature was achieved at 3 a.m.

The previous lowest high for Dec. 28 was set back in 1939, when 21 was the thermometer's limit. Today may see the breaking of another lowest high record, as near 20 is predicted and 22 is the all-time mark, set way back in 1895.

According to KPAN, official weather spokesman for the area, cold temperatures and partly cloudy skies are likely to prevail through the holiday weekend. There is a possibility of snow on Sunday.

Bond goal at 95 percent

During the period from January until September, $80,548 worth of U.S. Savings Bonds were sold in Deaf Smith County, the federal Department of the Treasury reported in a press release.

According to the report, Deaf Smith had, by the beginning of October, reached 95 percent of its 1983 sales goal of $85,000. The sales here in September were $5,451. James H. Sears, president of the First National Bank of Hereford, is the project's volunteer county chairman.

In Deaf Smith's District 1, the 18 counties had a combined January-September sales of $4,714,338, or 84 percent of the year's goal. In the state, approximately 90 percent of the anticipated $224,700,000 had been sold.

Police make pair of arrests

Two arrests were made Wednesday by the Hereford Police Department, it was reported this morning.

The charges were no driver's license - third offense - and disorderly conduct.

Meanwhile, among the incidents investigated were possible criminal mischief and assault by threats and harassment. One minor, non-injury motor vehicle accident occurred.

The Deaf Smith Sheriff's Department said nothing of note has transpired in its jurisdiction since last week.

Many thanks to all of those who contributed to the Christmas Stocking Fund. More funds could have been used to help the less fortunate families at Christmas-time, but that statement could be made regardless of the total. The group of men who administer the fund feel sure the food and clothing went to those really in need. A total of $7,349 was raised and all of it was spent on needy families. No money is used for expenses, since all work is volunteered. The total was about $1,000 less than a year ago.

'Low riders' assist needy

By KIM THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

Among the "good elfs" out delivering toys to needy children on Christmas Eve was a small band of men comprising a club organized just last June.

The men are Mexican-Americans and their organization is called the "Midnight Illusions" low riders car club. Ranging in age from the early 20s to the mid 30s they all drive low-riding automobiles, which are made by cutting down the springs and putting small tires on a large, sedan-type car. And, for special occasions, they enjoy the chalo or pachuco look, inspired by the movie "The Zoot Suit."

But what their club stands for goes a lot deeper than how they look every Saturday night. "We want to reunite people, to help them realize we can live together in this world as one," said 24-year-old Ismael Condarco, the club's president.

"We can live in this world without discrimination," added Ernest Castro, 21 and secretary of the organization. The men said if there's a good cause, they can be counted on to raise the money.

'Midnight Illusions' club

The fruits of their first fund-raising efforts went to boost the building fund for the new fellowship hall at San Jose Church. Car washes and benefit dances have been the most successful for the club.

After donating to the church they began the toy project. "We went to Community Action and other places and asked for names of children who probably wouldn't get much for Christmas," Condarco said. "They told us there were about 350 families, but we knew we couldn't help that many. So we asked them to give us the ones that were in the worst shape."

The Midnight Illusions ended up with 100 children to visit, but many were members of the same family. "We made 23 stops on Christmas Eve," Castro said. In all the club had raised nearly $500 in cash plus donated toys. A local mer-

"The way we dress is how we are," Castro said. "If everybody dressed the same it wouldn't be any fun."

Condarco mentioned children around town who have remodeled their bicycles to reflect the low riders look. "Kids need things to do," he said. "Customizing a bike can be a great hobby. We hope that they look up to us and see that this is a good way to spend spare time."

Freddie Torres, president of the Latino Car Club, echoed their sentiments. "We have six members in our club, all married but one. I have eight children, and I am definitely not wild. Working on a low rider is strictly a hobby for me."

Torres said their club was formed in April so the members could help each other fix up cars for competition. They have not as yet

Wichita Falls building floored

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — An inferno that destroyed four downtown buildings was apparently set by two men who robbed a leather goods store at day's end and left a woman clerk bound and covered with a caustic liquid, police said.

About 50 firefighters battled subfreezing temperatures and intense heat and smoke as the buildings burned Wednesday night.

Police said Noweta Bennett, 27, a clerk at Tandy Leather Goods, told them she was in the store by herself when a man came in and made a purchase about 7 p.m.

Later, he and a companion, both armed with knives, returned, she said. She said the men bound her with leather thongs and panty hose and poured a caustic, flammable liquid over her body. They set fire to the building, threatened to set her afire, and left with bundles of leather goods, she told officers.

The fire quickly spread to two alarms, and off-duty firemen were summoned to help battle the inferno, authorities said.

Ex-convicts used as dog bait

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Department of Corrections must pay two former prison inmates $14,000 under an out-of-court settlement of a lawsuit that accused the TDC of a civil rights violation because the inmates were used as bait in the training of prison dogs.

One of the defense attorneys, William T. Habern of Houston, on Wednesday called the settlement "the largest one I've heard of in a dog bite case."

Roy Edward Tankxley, 33, of Fort Worth, and Phillip Todd Munsinger, 25, of Atlanta, Texas, filed suit in 1981, claiming their civil rights were violated as they served as "dog boys" at the TDC Wynne Unit. Both were serving terms for burglary and since have been released.

The settlement was reached just before Christmas and two days before depositions were to be taken in the case, Habern said.

"We had prison experts and dog training experts willing to testify that they didn't have to train dogs to attack," the attorney said.

Report to help Reagan: critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Critics of President Reagan's task force on hunger say the panel appears to be preparing a political document "designed to exonerate Reagan administration policies" rather than truly assess the causes and extent of hunger.

According to one member of the task force, hunger is not a major problem in the United States and black children may be the best nourished in the country.

However Robert Greenstein, director of the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, said the testimony heard by the task force from around the country was largely ignored.

Reports of what is contained in a draft document prepared by the task force staff "suggest that the task force report is more a political document designed to exonerate Reagan administration policies in the hunger area and promote administration programs than a careful effort to truly assess the causes and extent of hunger in America and what might be done to alleviate it," Greenstein said Wednesday.

Many evacuate Santa Barbara

SOLVANG, Calif. (AP) — A toxic gas byproduct accidentally leaked into gas lines of homes in communities northwest of Santa Barbara on Wednesday night, and at least 42,000 people were urged to evacuate, authorities said.

Residents of rural communities in the Santa Ynez Valley, a ranching and resort area 125 miles northwest of Los Angeles, were warned at nightfall to turn off pilot lights and leave their homes for the night, said Steve Baer, a spokesman for the Southern California Gas Co.

Several hours after calling for the evacuation of Solvang, Buellton, Ballard and Los Olivos, the utility expanded the order to Vandenberg Air Force Base and Lompoc, meaning at least 42,000 people were being urged to evacuate the area, Baer said.

The evacuation was called after hydrogen sulfide was accidentally dumped into a natural gas pipeline serving the area during testing of a new gas-treatment plant, the utility said.

Nation may soon drop UNESCO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported ready to drop its membership in UNESCO, the cultural and educational arm of the United Nations, unless the agency makes major policy concessions by the end of 1984.

Western sources say the United States told officials of UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, Wednesday that it intends to withdraw in 1985.

The United States contributes 25 percent of UNESCO's estimated $200 million annual budget. It has complained that some of the organization's policies are anti-Western, heavily politicized and are dictated by a bloc dominated by the Soviet Union and the developing Third World.

State Department spokesman John Hughes complains that in recent years UNESCO has mismanaged its budget and attempted to restrict press freedom and impose economic regulation.

It was attended by about 25 people.

The law is not enough. The law says "equal pay for equal work."

Yet, full-time salaried men are averaging $388 a week — women average $251.

For every dollar paid to men, women make 59 cents.

The law is not enough. Why?

A Salvation Army facility in Chicago which cares for unmarried mothers reports only 16 percent of its beds occupied this year.

This in a city where one in two babies is born out of wedlock is explained by the "new attitude," for better or worse.

Young unwed mothers don't run and hide any more; they are more likely to remain at home, even in school.

No societal change in the United States in the past half-century has had more far-reaching implications than the increased number of women in the work force.

In 1950 one-third of women worked outside the home; today one-half do.

If you include "older" Americans, between 16 and 64, the percentage of women working increased from 34 percent to 52 percent — while the percentage of men working declined from 87 percent to 78 percent.

Yet several studies affirm that working married women are still expected to tend the housework, at the expense of leisure and sleep time.

Generally the unemployment rate for women is higher than for men.

Women have sought and won "equality" in college enrollment. They are winning equal consideration in politics, presently holding 16,552 elective offices.

Yet, they are still short-changed — despite laws to the contrary — earning only about two-thirds as much as men.

Evolution, at its most accelerated pace, is agonizingly gradual.

Hightower orders embargo on citrus

By SYDNEY RUBIN

Associated Press Writer

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP)

— Estimates of crop damage from the recent Rio Grande Valley freeze continued to rise as Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower ordered an embargo on all citrus being shipped out of South Texas.

The ten day embargo, which begins midnight Friday, had the support of most citrus producers.

"Virtually all Texas producers had immediately halted shipment of fruit damaged by the freeze, but damage is not apparent for several days, I believe it is only prudent to officially suspend all fruit shipments," Hightower said in issuing the order.

The embargo ends Jan. 9, 1984.

The embargo was recommended to Hightower by the Texas Valley Citrus Committee, which met for an hour Wednesday to vote on the matter.

"We want to retain confidence in our product which has always enjoyed a good reputation," said Les Whitlock, manager of the Texas Valley Citrus Committee.

Citrus picked and stored before the freeze and fruit bound for juice processing plants is exempted from the embargo.

Violation of the embargo is a Class B misdemeanor punishable by up to 90 days in jail or a maximum $500 fine.

The Texas Department of Agriculture also said it will help farmers obtain disaster relief from what Hightower called the worst weather-related loss in 20 years.

Estimates of damage from the winter storm continue to rise as growers assess the loss of citrus trees and winter vegetables. McAllen Mayor Othal Brand said the damage is worse than anyone realizes.

Earlier this week, citrus growers estimated a $30 million loss. But Brand, a partner of the giant packing company, Griffin & Brand, said the loss to the general economy may be as much as $100 million, about three times the loss in fruit.

"Ag money turns over several times in the local economy, far more than tourist dollars or pesos from Mexico," he said.

The freeze plunged temperatures into the low 20s Saturday across the usually sub-tropical, fertile "Magic Valley."

More than 55,000 acres of winter vegetables including onions, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, cauliflower and celery worth $180 million remained to be harvested before the arctic blast.

"It's pretty hard to get a handle on, but right now we're estimating about a 50 percent loss," said Bill Weeks, vice president of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Association. He said the loss in vegetables may be as much as $75 million and will mean higher prices in grocery stores nationwide.

Weeks said unemployment in the Valley will also rise "substantially."

The United Farm Workers of America agreed, estimating that 100,000 farm worker families will be affected by the agricultural disaster.

"Vegetable harvesting is more labor intensive than citrus groves," Brand said. "There are hundreds of people who go to the fields for us every day. But there won't be anything for them to go into the fields for."

Hightower's office is helping growers compile figures on crop loss so individual counties can apply for federal disaster assistance.

His staff will try to help individual farmers by assisting them in marketing what can be salvaged from the freeze.

"Obviously all we can do is to help the producer find a niche somewhere and make a few bucks off of something," said Andy Welch of the state agriculture office. "I wish we had a $20 million budget like Florida does so we could get on TV and ask people to drink more Texas grapefruit juice."

Welch said Hightower will be working closely with the Texas Department of Community Affairs and the Texas Department of Human Resources to obtain assistance for pickers and packers who will be out of work after the emergency harvest of citrus is completed.

Meanwhile, growers are only beginning to assess the long-term affect of the freeze.

Dr. Richard Hensz, director of the Texas A&I Citrus Center said splits and cracks have been found in a "significant" number citrus trees.

Jim Rogers, vice president of Rogers Packing Co. of Donna, said it might take two or three years to produce another citrus crop if trees have to be heavily pruned.

"And if we have to replant, it could be six or seven years. Potentially we could be out of business," he said.

The National Weather Service is predicting temperatures below freezing Valleywide through Friday.

U.S. policy not to change

By TIM AHERN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

President Reagan's spokesman says U.S. policy toward war-torn Lebanon will not be changed even though a Pentagon commission said "an urgent need for reassessment" exists in the wake of the suicide attack that killed 241 U.S. servicemen last October.

While the Pentagon report, released publicly Wednesday, stopped short of calling for the withdrawal of American troops, Democratic presidential hopefuls were more critical.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, called the report "a harsh and critical and objective evaluation of a failed policy." When Congress reconvenes in a month, he said, he will try to force an early withdrawal of the 1,800 Marines.

Another Democratic presidential hopeful, Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., said the report shows the Marines' safety "was not given a high priority and their mission was not properly defined" and he called anew for their removal.

Former Vice President Walter Mondale, another Democrat seeking the presidential nomination, did not issue a statement, but a spokesman said he believes the Marine mission was poorly defined.

While the commission headed by retired Adm. Robert L.J. Long was critical of U.S. intelligence and senior officers responsible for the safety of the Marines, it also said their mission in Lebanon was so badly defined that officers were unable to agree on what it was.

The Marines were sent to the Mideast nation in September 1982 as part of a four-nation peacekeeping force to be a "presence" in support of the Lebanese government's attempts to gain control over the country, the report noted.

But that military role expanded even as "initial conditions had dramatically changed," putting the Marines in danger, the panel noted.

It concluded that "there is an urgent need for reassessment of alternative means to achieve U.S. objectives in Lebanon and at the same time reduce the risk to the U.S. multinational force."

In Los Angeles, Larry Speakes, President Reagan's spokesman, answered "there's none at the moment" when asked about a possible change in U.S. policy. He also argued that the commission members were "talking from a military standpoint" and noted that the commission didn't consider the administration's diplomatic policy.

In addition to questioning the mission, the commission:

—Said that U.S. commanders made a mistake by putting more than 350 Marines — a quarter of the U.S. contingent — into a single building.

—Faulted U.S. intelligence.

—Criticized the "rules of engagement" which say when a soldier can fire.

—Praised the medical care given the wounded.

It also noted that the Marine force "was not trained, organized, staffed or supported to deal effectively with the terrorist threat in Lebanon."

"Much needs to be done to prepare U.S. military forces to defend against and counter terrorism," the panel concluded.

Israelis attacked

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) — A sharp increase in guerrilla attacks in southern Lebanon has left the Israeli army in a virtual state of siege, and military commanders are looking for ways to cut their losses.

A major troop pullout is considered unlikely, but the military chief of staff says every aspect of the Israeli presence in Lebanon is under review.

Since Israel pulled back its forces from central Lebanon on Sept. 4, guerrillas have mounted more than 130 ambushes, bombings and sniper attacks that have killed 39 Israeli soldiers and wounded 84 others. The army has been in Lebanon since its June 1982 invasion to drive out Palestinian fighters.

The pullback brought a brief respite in the simmering guerrilla warfare but now the multiple attacks are being carried out almost daily.

The guerrillas have brought the war to the doorstep of the Israeli headquarters in Sidon, where a half-track military vehicle is parked across the entrance and visitors have to negotiate a zig-zag course of metal barricades. The street was virtually empty of cars where only weeks ago parking places were difficult to find.

MARINES

In reviewing the way events developed from the time the Marines were committed in September 1982, the report said "it was contemplated from the outset that the U.S. multinational force would operate in a relatively benign environment."

The exhibit, entitled "Silken Threads and Silent Needles," is scheduled Jan. 29 through April 15 at the San Antonio Museum of Art.

Although the collection is among the most comprehensive in the state, many of the items have never been on public display. The strength of the collection lies in its diversity. It contains material of great regional, cultural and historic interest.

The textile exhibit contains approximately 300 items. Some of the more significant pieces are a formal dress worn by Lady Bird Johnson, an 18th century cape made of handspun felted wool, selections from the Josephine Schaffer collection of Mexican costumes, a young slave's wedding dress, and an Eagles Nest quilt from the 19th century.

The exhibit will be divided into four sections: historical costumes from the 1800s to the present; homespun-including quilts, coverlets and clothing; elegant-featuring embroideries, laces and mandarin robes; and ethnic-including serapes, Navajo rugs and Filipino, Mexican and Near Eastern costumes.

This exhibition is supported in part with grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Texas Commission on the Arts.

The original St. Nicholas was a 4th century Turkish bishop. According to legend, he dropped a bag of gold coins down a chimney into a stocking a poor girl had hung up by the fireplace to dry.

Specialist cautions outlet store shoppers

COLLEGE STATION -- Outlet clothing stores feature reduced prices, but shoppers will get real bargains only if they know what they are buying, said Dr. Ann Vanderpoorten, a clothing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program.

Some outlets sell clothing from many manufacturers, and others sell from only one. The reduced prices are possible, she said, due to low overhead and the type of merchandise carried by the store.

According to the specialist, most outlet clothing stores carry one or more of the following kinds of merchandise:

"Samples" have typically been used by sales representatives or for displays, so they may show signs of being "shop-worn." They also tend to come in mostly small sizes.

"Irregulars" may have an imperfection in color, size or fabric construction. The imperfections will not necessarily affect the wear of the garments and are not always visible. But you should determine why the item is irregular before buying it.

"Seconds" usually have some tear, run or color loss which may or may not affect wearability, but the imperfections are usually visible. Consider the time and cost required to repair any damage before buying seconds. Imperfections that do not affect wearability may not matter in items such as nightclothes, underwear, or children's playclothes.

"Surpluses" are over-runs, end-of-the-season and leftover merchandise or "odd lots" of broken sizes. By planning ahead for their next season's clothes, shoppers can take advantage of good buys in this category.

An item sold at a low price in an outlet store is not necessarily a bargain, according to Vanderpoorten.

Check the quality of the garment against its price just as you would shopping at regular stores, advised the specialist. Also make sure you can use and will actually wear the garment, since most outlet stores do not allow returns.

Question: Does alcohol consumption increase the risk of breast cancer?

ANSWERline: A group of Boston University cancer researchers found an association between drinking and breast cancer, but it was inconclusive. They studied 4,373 women in the U.S., Canada and Israel for four years. Women with breast cancer, numbering 1,152, were questioned about drinking. Their answers were compared with those of women with other forms of cancer and women with other diseases. Drinkers of beer, wine, and spirits were estimated 1.4 to 1.9 times as likely to get breast cancer as those who didn't drink.

Herd cagers close out '83 season with game at Borger

The Borger Invitational Basketball Tournament has been cancelled, due to a limited field of teams, but Hereford's Whitefaces will go to Borger Friday for a non-district match with the Bulldogs.

Herd Coach Bobby Decker announced Wednesday that the Whitefaces are scheduled for two games, weather permitting, with the junior varsity contest starting at 4:15 p.m. and the varsity clash at 7:30.

Hereford had previously been scheduled for a first-round game in the tourney Thursday. Borger could find only four teams for the tourney and decided to cancel.

The Whitefaces go into the Friday game with a 4-8 won-lost record on the season and 0-3 in district action. The 'Faces return to 3-5A Jan. 3 when Amarillo Tascosa comes here.

Probable starters Friday night include two seniors—5-11 Jeff Streun and 5-11 Gomer Garcia, and three juniors—6-3 Lee Brockman, 6-2 Kevin Redus and 5-11 Sammy Suarez.

Texas Tech upsets Michigan

Sooner cager sets record

By BARRY WILNER, AP Sports Writer

The biggest name in Big Eight history is Wilt Chamberlain. Someday, Wayman Tisdale might be placed in Wilt's company.

Wednesday night, Tisdale did something that not even the great Chamberlain ever managed. The Oklahoma sophomore scored 61 points, setting a conference record in leading the Sooners to a 112-72 rout of Texas-San Antonio in the opening round of the All-College Tournament in Oklahoma City.

Tisdale's 61 points, on 24-for-34 from the field and 13-for-18 from the free throw line, also shattered the tourney mark of 53 by Pete Maravich for Louisiana State in 1968.

Chamberlain scored 52 points for Kansas against Northwestern in 1956.

"It's a great feeling and honor," said the 6-foot-9 Tisdale. "I consider Chamberlain to be the greatest player to ever play. Wilt Chamberlain is the guy I've admired for as long as I've remembered."

Tisdale, an All-American last year as a freshman, also set a conference record with 24 field goals and his 22 rebounds were a career high. His previous points high was 51 last year against Abilene Christian.

"They were playing behind me a lot and I was able to get off my turnaround jumper," he said. "I never really thought about the record until they announced I had 39 points. There was still about 10 minutes left in the game and I thought I had a good chance to break it then."

In the second game,

Arkansas-Little Rock beat host Oklahoma City 78-72.

Among ranked teams, No. 2 Kentucky beat No. 18 Purdue 86-67; fifth-ranked Georgetown topped Marshall 82-71; No. 7 UCLA 82, Brigham Young 73; No. 10 Wake Forest edged Jacksonville 57-54 to win the Gator Bowl; No. 13 North Carolina State walloped Towson State 88-49; No. 14 Louisville whipped Hawaii-Pacific 89-61; No. 15 Michigan was edged 59-58 by Texas Tech in the consolation game of the Sun Bowl, while No. 16 Texas-El Paso, the host team, beat Arizona 51-49 in overtime to take the tournament; and No. 20 Illinois outscored Missouri 66-60.

In tournament finals, the Golden Triangle Classic was won by host Pittsburgh, which beat Illinois State 59-54; the Milwaukee Invitational was captured by host Marquette, 59-57 over Miami, Ohio, and Vanderbilt won its Music City championship with a 58-44 decision over South Florida.

In opening rounds of tourneys, it was Arizona State 53, Penn State 50 and Connecticut 85, Columbia 60 in the Connecticut Mutual Classic; Alabama 81, Michigan State 69 and Georgia Tech 66, Nebraska 49 in the Cotton States Classic; Wyoming 65, Northern Arizona 55 and Loyola, Calif., 74, Wisconsin-Green Bay 72 in the Cowboy Shootout; Oregon 72, Cornell 50, and Gonzaga 73, Robert Morris 57 in the Far West Classic; Providence 46, Pennsylvania 42 as Friars Coach Joe Mullaney earned his 300th career victory, and Temple 78, Rhode Island 66 in the Fleet Bank Classic; Northeastern 55, Princeton 34 and St. Bonaventure 97, American 77 in the Rochester Classic; Kansas 67, Tulane 64 and Southwest Louisiana 74, Florida 65 in the Sugar Bowl; North Carolina A&T 75, Appalachian St. 63 and North Carolina-Wilmington 82, North Carolina-Charlotte 77 in the UNCC Holiday Tournament; George Mason 63, Rider 61 and Wagner 65, Utica 63 in the Utica College Matt's Classic, and San Diego 78, Florida A&M 52 and Nevada-Reno 81, Cal-Davis 64 in the Wolf Pack Classic.

In non-tournament play, it was Indiana State 66, St. Louis 58; Minnesota 60, Detroit 56; Arkansas 82, St. Peter's 49 and Las Vegas 69, Clemson 55.

In a late tournament at Honolulu, the Rainbow Classic, it was Alabama Birmingham 57, Pacific 48 and SMU 78, Duke 76.

Top Twenty Kentucky blew out the Boilermakers in the first half, holding Purdue to 25.9 percent shooting from the field while hitting on 51.5 percent of its shots. The Wildcats led 53-27 at halftime and coasted behind 22 points by Mel Turpin and 18 from Kenny Walker.

David Wingate scored 23 points and Patrick Ewing contributed 17 and 10 rebounds for Georgetown, 9-1.

In the Sun Bowl tourney, Luster Goodwin scored 16 points and Juden Smith's two free throws provided the winning points in OT for unbeaten UTEP, 10-0.

Michigan probably wishes it had skipped the Sun Bowl. After a one-point loss to Texas-El Paso on Tuesday, the Wolverines were beaten by Texas Tech when Quentin Anderson put in a 15-foot jumper with six seconds remaining.

Illinois, 9-1, got 20 points from Efreem Winters

Moncrief, rated tops in NBA, quietly signs pact with Bucks

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD, AP Sports Writer

This month's signing of Sidney Moncrief must have been the least-publicized, quietest $1 million per year contract agreement in sports history.

Moncrief, possibly the best off guard in basketball today, recently had his contract renegotiated through the 1987-88 season, but there were no threats, no holdouts and no hard feelings. Two years ago, that's precisely what happened when another Milwaukee Bucks star, Marques Johnson, renegotiated his contract and then had a sub-par season.

"Both sides hoped to work out an agreement without a lot of controversy," Moncrief said. "My major concern was that I didn't want to disrupt the team, but it was also important to me to keep the fans' support."

Moncrief said he was prepared to hold out, as Johnson did, but it wasn't necessary as the Bucks management recognized Moncrief's talent and status in the community was too important to allow another bitter contract dispute.

"The way the negotiations were handled speaks well for both sides," said Bucks Coach Don Nelson, who was relieved he didn't have to deal with another unhappy or absent key player. "Sidney's a special person and an awfully good player right now. It's an indication of the kind of person he is when he comes into camp and works hard. He could have negotiated through the newspapers, but he didn't."

In Moncrief's four years with Milwaukee, it has won the division title every time. Two seasons ago, with Johnson slumping and center Bob Lanier injured, Moncrief led the Bucks in points, rebounds and assists and they still won.

Always recognized for outstanding defense, the was named the National Basketball Association's defensive player of the year last season, the first time the honor was awarded. He also was named to the all-NBA first team for the first time.

Moncrief, who seems to almost tiptoe his lithe 6-foot-5 body around the court, somewhat in the manner of an antelope. He has developed into a first-rate scorer, starting with an 8.5 average his first season and moving up to 14.0, 19.8, 22.5 and 24.0 this season, among the best in the NBA.

He also is first on the Bucks in assists with nearly five per game and is second in rebounds with 6.6.

"I think he's the best all-around player in basketball," Nelson said, "because he plays both ends of the court so well."

"I can't think of any off guard who is better," says Lanier. "Andrew Toney is right on his level. I can't separate those two, but in my mind no one else is even close."

So heavily does Nelson rely on Moncrief that wearing him out is becoming a concern. He is averaging 40 minutes of playing time per game, more than anyone else in the league.

"I have to cut four or five minutes off that average," Nelson said. "I just have to make some sacrifices. He can't go on playing 40 minutes every night."

Moncrief says that consistency is what will keep him at the top among NBA players, and along with his stellar defensive work, he is getting offensive production in nearly every game. Only once this season has he failed to score 20 points or more two games in a row.

During a recent 10-game stretch, during which the Bucks won eight games, Moncrief averaged 26 points, had 12 or more rebounds three times and didn't score fewer than 18 points.

FSU coach sees low-scoring game

ATLANTA (AP) — Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden doesn't envision a high-scoring affair in Friday's Peach Bowl against North Carolina, despite the explosiveness of both offenses.

Bowden's Seminoles scored 353 points during a 6-5 regular season, including five games in which Florida State produced at least 40 points. North Carolina, 8-3, produced 334 points, recording at least 30 in six games.

"We've lost a lot of our explosiveness," Bowden said Wednesday after practice. "We'll have a change in quarterback and a new fullback for this game, so our style has changed a little bit."

Bowden lost his No. 1 quarterback Kelley Lowery late in the season and went with backup Bob Davis in the final two games. But for Friday's 3 p.m. EST nationally televised contest at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium, sophomore Eric Thomas will make his first collegiate start at quarterback.

Lowery passed for 1,720 yards and 12 touchdowns before a dislocated knee forced the senior to miss two games and play briefly in Florida's 53-14 rout of Florida State in the regular-season finale.

Texas prepares three signal callers for bowl

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Are the Texas Longhorns trying to use psychological warfare on the Georgia Bulldogs prior to the 42nd Cotton Bowl Classic? Texas quarterback Rob Moerschell says that's the case.

Longhorn Coach Fred Akers refuses to disclose his starting quarterback for the Jan. 2 matchup against the 'Dogs.

Moerschell said, "He (Akers) thinks it psyches out the other team by having to prepare for three quarterbacks."

Moerschell said the play also keeps all the quarterbacks working hard preparing for the bowl.

"I'll tell you (who is starting) game day," Akers said when asked whether Moerschell, Rick McIvor or Todd Dodge will start against the Bulldogs.

Told that Georgia Coach Vince Dooley believes it's going to be Moerschell, Akers said, "I can't coach but one team."

Asked if he was trying to psyche out the 'Dogs, Akers said he was just doing what the 'Horns have done "in the 11 previous games."

Kelley's Employment Agency
Full Service Agency

"We've been working all three quarterbacks with the first unit. I haven't made the decision. We've been working well and all three are prepared to go."

Moerschell said, "It's been that way all year but we've gotten used to it. I would rather know."

Moerschell is a gifted runner while McIvor can pass and Dodge can both run and throw.

McIvor came off the bench to throw four touchdown passes in Texas' 45-13 victory over Texas A&M in the season finale.

Dodge twice rescued the 'Horns coming off the sidelines during the season. "I think I'll be starting but you never know," Moerschell said.

"I've played a lot more than the other two and have confidence I can do the job," Moerschell said. "If we can beat Georgia we will have a legitimate shot at the national title."

"If I don't start it won't be any big deal. I won't let it be a burden."

It certainly is no big deal to Georgia defensive lineman Freddie Gilbert.

"It doesn't bother me, they can only put one of them at a time in there," Gilbert said.

Akers did disclose Ronnie Robinson would be the starting tailback for the Longhorns, who have been injury-plagued at the position.

"Mike Brown could play but he is not totally healed from an ankle injury and neither is Mike Luck," Akers said.

IN RESPONSE TO A NUMBER OF INQUIRIES from women who must drive alone, as well as from their loved ones, we would like to begin the New Year by devoting this and our next column to some tips aimed at increasing your personal safety. First of all, always keep your car in good mechanical condition. This will avoid breakdowns in undesirable places, and allow you to get away from undesirable situations. Consider having your car equipped with an alarm which goes off several seconds after you enter the car, unless you shut it off. Next, always carry a good quality flashlight, loaded with good batteries. Keep it under the front seat — not in the trunk. Since experts agree that you are most vulnerable when you enter your car, always approach it with your keys in your hand. Don't grope around in your purse after reaching your car.

Visiting in foreign countries tends to give one a broader perspective and a greater interest in world affairs. Forming friendships with people from other countries also helps to keep one in touch with the world as a whole.

The W.D. Gibsons, who have enjoyed traveling and visiting in several foreign countries, feel a special affinity with one country in particular, through their experience hosting an exchange student during the 1970-71 school year.

"She has come to see us quite a few times since then, and we get together whenever we get a chance," commented Eleanor Gibson. "She really became a part of the family."

Gaby Lottner of Germany graduated from Hereford High School with the Gibsons' youngest daughter, Mona Gale, who is now residing in Midland. Mary Lynn Mabray, the Gibsons' older daughter, is living in Houston with her husband and daughter, Reagan.

"Gaby got married in June," said Eleanor. "She's a stewardess and her husband is a steward, so they get to travel a lot."

The Gibsons had considered the exchange program when Mary Lynn was still in high school, but then when she graduated and Mona Gale was the only child at home, they made the decision to host a foreign student. "The two became very close," she said.

"We had so much fun. Gaby got involved in everything and we took her with us whenever we went anywhere. We went to see her in Europe also, and visited several different countries while we were there," she added.

The Gibsons also keep in touch with a young man from Thailand, a graduate of Texas A&M University, who they became acquainted with a number of years ago.

Eleanor and her husband have lived in Hereford since 1950. She was born in El Paso and was raised in New Mexico. He is from Erick, Okla.

He owns Gibson Real Estate & Insurance and has farming operations at Stratford, Dalhart and Hereford. She has not worked outside of her home except for a short time with The Hereford Brand when the couple first moved here.

Eleanor enjoyed being involved in the activities which her children were a part of while they were growing up.

Both were active in Camp Fire and she helped with the leadership aspect of that program for 17 years.

Though her daughters are now gone from home, she and her husband enjoy keeping up with their current activities. They often go to Midland to see Mona Gale perform with the Midland Theatre.

"Last spring she had a lead role in 'Guys and Dolls,' and starting the first of the year she will be performing in 'Annie,'" said Eleanor. "She has been in 'Summer Mummies' for three years and has performed in several other shows."

Mona Gale has been a speech pathologist in Midland since 1976. She earned her degree at West Texas State University.

Mary Lynn finished her interior design degree in June at the Art Institute of Houston. After an apprenticeship and earning advanced certification, she plans to go into business.

"She did a lot of decorating before and has built a model home which is just beautiful," stated the proud mother.

Eleanor enjoys doing needlepoint and likes to read and paint. "I intend to start painting again next year, and would like to take art lessons," she said. "I find it relaxing."

She also likes to cook. "I used to make cookies for Mona Gale (and I guess everybody in her dorm)" laughed Eleanor.

"I'm Hungarian, and a custom in our family is to have Potica, a type of coffee cake, for the holidays," she said. "I always make it for Christmas, like my mother did. It takes a long time to make."

Eleanor's recipe for Potica is printed below, along with one for Harvey Wallbanger Cake, a pound cake she said is fun to make and give as gifts, and a dip which she described as fantastic. "The dip recipe was given to me. I use it for parties and at the holidays," she commented.

1 c. canned milk
1 c. warm water, in which has been dissolved one cake of yeast
½ cube butter, melted with the same amount of shortening
1 c. sugar
1 level Tbsp. salt
3 eggs

When it has doubled, mix and let rise again. When it has doubled the second time, roll out thin. Then it is ready for the filling to be spread on.

Filling

1 lb. walnuts or pecans, chopped very fine
1 c. hot milk
¼ c. butter
1 c. sugar
2 eggs, beaten

Cook this mixture about five minutes. Then add vanilla and cinnamon to taste, and cool. Spread on dough and roll up like a nut roll. Put in pan and bake on hour at 350 degrees.

HARVEY WALLBANGER CAKE

1 pkg. (2-layer size) orange cake mix
1 (3¼ oz.) pkg. instant vanilla pudding mix
4 eggs
½ c. cooking oil
½ c. orange juice
½ c. Galliano
2 Tbsp. vodka

In large bowl, combine cake mix and instant pudding mix. Add eggs, oil, orange juice, Galliano and vodka. Beat at low speed of mixer for ½ minute, then at medium speed for five minutes, scraping bowl often.

Bake in 10-inch tube pan at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until done. Cool in pan 10 minutes before frosting. Must put frosting on while cake is warm.

Frosting

1 c. sifted powdered sugar
1 Tbsp. orange juice
Combine and spread over cake.

DIP

1 qt. Helman's mayonnaise
1 small jar chopped green olives with pimentos
3 fresh green onions, finely chopped
1 wedge blue cheese or Roquefort cheese
Combine ingredients. Make day before serving. Serve with raw vegetables such as cauliflower, carrots, celery and cucumbers.

Churches provide gifts for Westgate

Women's Missionary Union members from seven Southern Baptist Churches in Deaf Smith County, along with G.A. and Acteen groups from the churches, helped residents of Westgate Nursing Home with their Christmas shopping this year.

The churches provided homemade and purchased gifts, allowing the residents to choose three free gifts. Acteen girls gift-wrapped the items at no charge.

Some of the residents had their pictures taken to put in Christmas cards or to send to family members. Bananas were distributed to each resident.

The gift distribution was a mission action project of the Amarillo Baptist Association, under the direction of Wilma Bryan, associational mission action director. The goal was to provide this service to every rest home in the Panhandle.

The W.M.U., G.A. and Acteen groups were from Avenue, First, Frio, Summerfield, Temple and Westway Baptist Churches and Primera Iglesia Bautista.

Participants included Crissy Balderaz, Cindy Alvarado, Martha Ruiz, Stella Ruiz, Liz Ramirez, Terese Dawson, Stacie Hammock, Carolyn Johnson, Leatrus Clark, Jennifer Johnson.

Also, Carla Stout, Becky Christie, Angela Streun,

Tracie Gentry, Shelly Webster, Cindy Streun, Ruth Robbins, Vada Axe, and Ms. Bryan.

Corns on little toes

DEAR DR. LAMB — About 15 years ago I had corns on my little toes. A lady working as a waitress where I worked went to a foot doctor for her corns and he told her to put lamb's wool between her toes.

I tried it — changed from high-heeled shoes to walking shoes — and it worked. I haven't had any corns since then. I hope this will work for others as it did for me.

DEAR READER — One of the rewarding things about writing this column is to see how many people really try to help others, as you have.

Your method evidently corrected a basic problem with your footwear. A corn is really a callous. It is caused by pressure or rubbing the skin. The little toe is a favorite location because the shoe is often too tight over this area. Any measure that gets the shoe off the top of the little toe will relieve the problem.

It really doesn't help very much to pare away the corn if you don't correct the basic problem. I suspect that when you switched from high heels to low heels you quit forcing your little toes against the surface of the shoe and the rubbing stopped.

You can take the pressure off the area by using pads that have the center cut away, like a donut, to relieve pressure over the corn area.

If you are going to pare your corns it is a good idea to soften them first by soaking them in warm water. People with diabetes or circulatory problems should be especially careful when paring corns. It is easy to cut too deep or get an infection. These people should avoid the chemical corn plasters too.

A large portion of foot problems are directly related to improper footwear. I have discussed a number of the common problems such as corns and heel spurs in The Health Letter 11-10, Common Foot Problems: What to Do About Them, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you tell me anything about eating raw celery? They say it contains quite a lot of salt. I am 81 and I have a terrible craving for raw celery. I like to eat a sandwich and four or five short crisp stalks of celery. Or when I feel hungry I just eat the celery alone. I thought it was a matter of adding roughage to my diet, but it does nothing to regulate my bowels.

I also eat a large bowl of 40 percent bran flakes for breakfast. I do not like the regular bran. Please inform me about the celery. Could it be constipating?

DEAR READER — Enjoy your celery. It does contain a little more sodium than many vegetables. A three and one-fourth-ounce serving, raw, contains 126 mg of sodium, while carrots only contain 47.

Hereford Rebekah Lodge holds memorial service

A memorial service for Past President Frances Thompson and Past Grand Master Kemp was held Tuesday evening during the Hereford Rebekah Lodge meeting in W.O.F. Hall. Kemp was the husband of Cecil Kemp, vice-president of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas.

The service was given by Sadie Shaw, Faye Brownlow, and Edna Mathes, with Helen Bishop as soloist and Kee Ruland as pianist.

Noble Grand Lavita Fitzgerald presided at the regular business session, during which 52 visits to the sick and 17 cheer cards were reported. Members voted to make a donation to the Chamber of Commerce for the Christmas lighting program.

Ursalee Jacobsen was hostess for the evening. Others present were C.D. Fitzgerald, Susie Curtsinger, Karrol Rettman, Anna Conklin, Ben Conklin, Gene Bishop, Lydia Hopson, Ruth Rogers, Fred Ruland, David Rettman and Dorothy Lundry.

Fishermen trying to salvage fish

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas commercial fishermen will be prosecuted if they harvest large quantities of redfish and trout that are being killed by cold weather in the Gulf of Mexico, state wildlife officials have announced.

A commercial fisherman's organization known as PISCES, Professionals In Seafood Concerned Enterprises, had asked the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission to relax its regulations concerning limits on the two types of fish.

The commission, in effect, took no action, but did issue a statement Wednesday that individual sportsmen would be allowed to take the fish for personal consumption.

David Steed, executive director of PISCES, said commission chairman Edwin Cox had advised his group the commission would not enforce the sports limit of 10 redfish and 20 trout but would retain the ban on commercial sales of either fish.

Commercial fishermen have been prohibited from catching redfish and trout for the past two years. The fish are dying because they cannot take the sudden drop in temperature. A fish can survive a 20-degree drop in 24 hours but temperatures have dropped 15 degrees in half that time the past few weeks.

Most of the kills are in the shallow protected inland Gulf waters such as Galveston Bay and Trinity Bay on the upper coast and Matagorda Bay and the Laguna Madre on middle coast.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials said they still aren't sure how badly fish populations along the 500-mile coastline are being affected.

No heavy concentrations of fish were reported along Texas' mid-coast, but state crews are still checking area bays.

"We have pretty scattered reports of fish (washing up)," said Tom Heffernan, head of TPWD's Rockport marine laboratory. "Apparently they're still on the bottom."

Most fish, he said, are small trout with some larger fish noted occasionally. A recent trawl sample showed six trout, three alive and three dead.

"There is the possibility that some of these fish survived and are still alive," Heffernan said, but "we're still expecting to see more dead fish."

HOW TO MAKE A TROOPER CRY

Want to see a state trooper cry? Would you like to see him drop to his knees, bury his face in his hands and bawl like a baby or slam his fist into the side of his patrol car? It's easy enough to do. And it happens more frequently than most of us might think. Just load yourself up with the holiday season's "good cheer," add a few beers or mixed drinks and drive your family home.

Refuse to listen when your wife suggests that she drive. Assert yourself. Pay heed to your male ego.

Say, "Aw, heck, ah can drive the car better with a few beers unner mah belt than you can cold sober."

Show her who's boss in your family.

Twenty minutes later you are standing in darkness on the side of the highway with broken glass and spilled gasoline at your feet.

Your wife is screaming, pinned beneath jagged edges of twisted metal.

You two-year-old daughter is silent.

You six-year-old son is sprawled face-down 30 feet away.

The highway trooper smelled the alcohol on your breath as you tried to explain, and he's not very gentle as he pushes you into the rear of the patrol car and tells you to shut your mouth.

Then he pauses for a moment in the darkness before he turns his attention to you and the remains of your car and family.

Congratulations. You've made a trooper cry.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can I get in my two cents' worth in response to the man who had a picture of his deceased wife hanging in the bedroom?

My husband had a small photo of his dead wife on a shelf in the kitchen. I dusted it every day for six months.

One day my son-in-law took a great snapshot of my husband and me. I took out the wife's picture and replaced it with the one of us.

When he noticed, he said, "Why did you remove my wife's picture from the frame?" I replied, "I thought I was your wife."

What followed was an unusually long period of silence. Then he scratched his head and grunted something that sounded like, "Uh...er...ah." He never said a word on the subject after that. — Hilda From Chicago

DEAR HILDA: Bravo on the victory!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My grandmother never went to school but she was very wise. Before she died 60 years ago she handed me a slip of paper with "all the advice you'll ever need to have a good life." Here's what she wrote: "Wash what is dirty. Water what is dry. Heal what is wounded. Warm what is cold. Guide what goes off the road. Love people who are lovable because they need it most." — L In Gary, Ind.

For zoo panda
Houston residents donate bamboo

HOUSTON (AP) — The hearts and gardens of several dozen people have saved Yin, a female lesser panda, who was struggling to endure a cold snap that killed the entire crop of bamboo the Houston Zoo had used to feed her.

Zoo officials issued a public appeal Tuesday for a new food supply for the 9-year-old fox-like animal and by mid-day Wednesday more than enough had been found to fill Yin's needs, said Parks and Recreation Department spokesman Joe Howard.

"We have gotten a tremendous amount of help. Four or five people have brought green bamboo out to the zoo and several others have called and said we could come and get it," he said.

Many people apparently grow the type bamboo Yin eats as a hobby and had protected their stalks from the frost, Howard said. So many called to offer help that both the zoo switchboard and the department phone lines were busy most of the day.

"They were swamped," he said.

The zoo normally feeds Yin bamboo grown as decoration on the zoo's grounds, but this winter's cold killed the entire crop.

Marilyn McBirney, director of the children's zoo where Yin is kept, said the panda would eat some of the frozen bamboo, but that it would not provide the same nutrients as fresh bamboo and might leave her susceptible to illness.

The panda needs at least two or three stalks of fresh green bamboo each day, said Ms. McBirney.

Yin was born at the National Zoo in Washington, D.C., and has been at the Houston Zoo since November of 1975.

Howard said the new supplies would keep Yin fed for awhile. But he said donations would continue to be accepted "because we don't know how long this situation is going to stay with us."

Bears meet Oklahoma St. in Bluebonnet Bowl

Baylor goes with triple-QB system

Jimmy Demaret, golfing legend, dead at age 73

HOUSTON (AP) — Three-time Masters champion Jimmy Demaret, who a friend said hobnobbed "on a first name basis with caddies and kings," has died at the age of 73 while boarding a golf cart to tour the course he founded in 1957.

"I guess he died like he would have preferred to go — not bothering anyone," Champions Golf Club developer Pat Morgan said Wednesday after Demaret died of an apparent heart attack.

Demaret, who had suffered recently from heart ailments, was stricken as he worked at the Champions club he co-owned with veteran pro Jack Burke Jr., according to club spokeswoman Laura Guillot.

"We're all in shock," Morgan said. "Jack goes back 60 years with Jimmy. ... It's like losing your brother or father."

Funeral arrangements were pending but Morgan said services would be restricted to family members.

Tributes to the golfing legend started following soon after the announcement of his death.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of 19 major tournaments, said, "I admired him for his flair and flamboyance. And I admired his ability to keep things in perspective in that, to Demaret, golf was a part of life, a part of life and not the over-riding factor of life."

"He's been a good friend. He was a good man. And he will be missed."

PGA tour Commissioner Deane Beman said Demaret was a major contributor to the present tour.

"I don't think anyone now playing the game really realizes the contributions he made to golf," Beman said. "I remember him in that floppy hat and those flashy clothes. And he was the first great showman in golf. He helped put golf on the sports pages and bring it to the public attention."

Demaret was the tour's leading money winner in 1947 when he won seven tournaments. His first tournament victory came in 1934 when he pocketed $25 for first place in the Texas PGA.

His first major victory came in 1938, the year Demaret joined the tour, when he outdueled Sam Snead for the National Match Play title in San Francisco.

Demaret was unbeaten in six matches while playing on three Ryder Cup teams.

He later won the Walter Hagen Cup for helping to promote competition between the U.S. and Britain.

Demaret was born May 24, 1910, in Houston, the fourth of nine children. He was working for Jack Burke Sr., then the club pro at Houston's River Oaks Country Club, when the younger Burke was born in 1923. A close friendship later grew into a business partnership.

"They were here every day, he and Jack," Morgan said. "They were the owners and originators and the driving force at Champions."

Demaret also was the designer and part owner of the Onion Creek Club in Austin, Texas, site of the annual Legends of Golf tournament, in which Demaret regularly competed.

"He was a great player and probably the father of the seniors tour," pro golfer Tom Kite said.

HOUSTON (AP) — Baylor University Coach Grant Teaff realized prior to this season that he could not win football games in the Southwest Conference with a freshman quarterback.

So he created a triple option quarterbacking scheme with two freshmen and an senior.

Newcomers Cody Carlson and Tom Muecke shared the starting duties, sometimes on a play-to-play basis until the Bears neared the goal line. Then senior specialist Allen Rice took over for a run-oriented goal line offense.

Early detractors finally had to admit that the time-share plan would work. It paid off in a 7-3-1 record and a berth opposite Oklahoma State in the 25th Bluebonnet Bowl New Year's Eve in the Astrodome.

"Early in the season we had difficulty adjusting to the different cadence of the quarterbacks," said offensive tackle Mark Adickes. "But after we adjusted to the snap count, we couldn't always tell who was in there."

The Bears finished the season ranked 20th in the nation in total offense, averaging 409.5 yards per game and 29.5 yards per game.

Carlson emerged as the statistical winner among the three quarterbacks, finishing fourth in the nation in passing efficiency. Carlson hit 54.4 percent of his passes and completed over 60 percent in four games.

"We go into a game knowing what we are going to do," Carlson said. "We know if we are going to alternate by series or on every play. Coach Teaff doesn't just throw us out there. There are no surprises or shock."

Carlson and Muecke came to Baylor realizing they would be competing for playing time. They didn't expect to tie for the job.

"I wasn't aware of such a plan," Carlson said. "I was going for the starting job. I knew that Tom and I would be competing but it didn't enter my mind that we would be alternating."

Carlson said the rotating assignment wasn't designed to confuse defenses.

"We do similar things when we are in the game, we don't do anything tricky," Carlson said. "When Allen is in the game, they might know that we will run more but Allen is hard to stop even if you know he's going to run."

Baylor receiver Gerald McNeil, who led the Southwest Conference with 62 receptions for 1,034 yards this season, sees no difference in the passing of Carlson or Muecke, except on deep routes.

Oklahoma State cornerback Chris Rockins, who led the team with 12 pass deflections, said he'd be wary of the speedy McNeil.

Anderson knows rejection

Since joining the Pittsburgh Steelers two years ago, Gary Anderson, like many NFL placekickers, has experienced his share of rejection.

The first time he was rejected by an NFL team was for a unique reason.

Anderson, who grew up playing soccer in South Africa, was unfamiliar with the NFL eligibility rules when his family moved to suburban Philadelphia. But he quickly learned a lesson when he went to an Eagles' trout camp.

"The Eagles explained that I had to go to college before I could try out," says Anderson. "There was a scout from Syracuse University there and he offered me a scholarship."

Anderson kicked so successfully at Syracuse that he was selected by Buffalo in the seventh round of the 1982 draft. But the Bills waived him after he missed all five field goal tries during the preseason.

"I was extremely disappointed," says Anderson. "It was the most frustrating experience of my athletic career. The Bills wanted me to be their kicker, but I beat myself out of the job."

"After I missed my first attempt, I started pressing. I kept saying to myself, 'I've got to make the next one.' If I had made my first one, I'd still be kicking in Buffalo."

Instead, Anderson is kicking brilliantly for the Steelers, who plucked him off the waiver wire six days before the 1982 season began.

As a rookie, Anderson made 10 of 12 field goal attempts to set a team record for field-goal accuracy in a season.

This year, Anderson has been even more accurate.

"Gary is the best kicker we've ever had," says Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll.

"He's one of the best I've ever been exposed to, and I've been exposed to some pretty good ones."

Anderson says, "I kicked overseas all my life as a soccer player. Most of the kickers in the NFL are former soccer players who kick on natural ability. I look at the goal post, line up my shot and then I kick it. It also takes concentration and confidence to be a good kicker."

"It also helps to play on a team that scores a lot of points, like the Steelers. It's a lot easier to try your first field goal after you've already kicked a few extra points, rather than waiting around."

Anderson, who also played rugby as a teenager, didn't have a very high opinion of American-style football when he came to the United States.

"I compared it to soccer and rugby," says Anderson. "I couldn't understand why these big players needed to wear pads. In rugby, they didn't wear them."

Reuse cleaning vinegar

DEAR POLLY — The manufacturer of my automatic coffeemaker suggests that the coffeemaker be cleaned once a month by running a quart of vinegar through it. Can the vinegar be saved and used again for next month's cleaning, or will it have lost its cleaning power after being heated and run through the machine? — H.F.

DEAR H.F. — There's no reason why you can't save the vinegar and reuse it for cleaning the coffeemaker two or three more times. The vinegar will still be capable of dissolving the mineral deposits that can clog the coffeemaker's interior. You could even use the vinegar for other little cleaning jobs. But do earmark the container for cleaning only. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — This is for seamstresses who like to press open seams on long sleeves and other hard-to-get-at places. I slip a paint-roller cover inside the sleeve with the sleeve seam on top, then press it open with the tip of my iron. The roller cover is just the right size to slip into the sleeve and provides the right amount of padding for easy ironing. — JESSIE

DEAR POLLY — My neighbor always washed his car during the rain. The rain would wash off the dust, then keep the car wet while he used detergent or cleaner, then the rain would rinse it. After the rain was over and the car was dry, he waxed it. — DORIS

DEAR POLLY — If your corn on the cob is a little old, soak it in milk for an hour, then cook it in the same milk, adding a small pinch of sugar. Sure freshens the flavor.

Green beans can be cooked in the oven. Clean fresh green beans, then place them in a casserole with some water and salt. Bake at a moderate temperature for one hour and season to taste. This saves on fuel when you have something else in the oven. — LAURA

Beach Boys drummer dies

MARINA DEL REY, Calif. (AP) — Dennis Wilson, the drummer for the Beach Boys who rode the Southern California rock group's wave of popularity for two decades, drowned Wednesday while diving. He was 39.

Wilson did not resurface after diving into the water in this seaside Los Angeles suburb, said sheriff's Sgt. Leroy Chastain.

"He and some friends were on a boat," he said. "About 4:25 p.m., he dove off the slip in about 12 feet of water and he failed to come out."

The Harbor Patrol was called, and the body was recovered at 5:15 p.m., Chastain said. An autopsy was scheduled for Thursday, said Bill Gold, a spokesman for the Los Angeles County coroner's office.

The group, which recorded such hits as "Good Vibrations," "California Girls" and "Surfin' U.S.A.," was made up of Wilson, his brothers Brian and Carl, cousin Mike Love, and Al Jardine. They turned out 35 albums, 15 of them gold.

Earlier this year, Interior Secretary James Watt touched off a storm of protest from their fans — including first lady Nancy Reagan and Vice President George Bush — when he banned the Beach Boys and other rock groups from Washington, D.C.'s July 4th celebration. The group played in Atlantic City, N.J., on Independence Day.

Wilson had spent Wednesday day with the owner of the sailboat, Winton Oster, and two women, said sheriff's Lt. Lee Davenport.

Another day of freeze

The mercury took another dive across the Deep South today, spanning a snowstorm in Alabama and at least one tornado in Florida, plunging Texas into subzero weather and raising the death toll from 12 days of violent weather to nearly 400.

From west Texas to snowy northern Maine, winter did more of its worst: icy sleet in Louisiana that closed a major bridge over the Mississippi River; gusty snow squalls off the Great Lakes in Ohio, Michigan, New York and Pennsylvania; freezing rain that laid a fresh glaze over roads from Washington, D.C. to southern New England.

A new mass of cold air settled into the upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Plains, with Worland, Wyo., down to 25 below zero by midnight MST, and a new Pacific storm slid into Idaho, bringing rain and snow.

CBS captures ratings war

NEW YORK (AP) — Led by the strong one-two showing of "Dallas" and "Simon & Simon," CBS placed six shows in the Top Ten and won the prime-time ratings for the 10th time in 13 weeks, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co.

CBS compiled an average rating of 16.9 for the week ending Dec. 25. ABC had a 15.4 rating, and NBC finished with a 14.0 in the figures released Wednesday.

The networks say the rating measures the percentage of the nation's 83.8 million TV households tuned to a network for an average prime-time minute during the week.

"Dallas" had a 24.8 rating, meaning 24.8 percent of the nation's TV homes were watching, which was just enough to beat "Simon & Simon," at 24.7.

ABC placed three shows in the Top 10. "Dynasty" was third, "Monday Night Football" fourth and "Hotel" 10th. A rerun of "The A-Team" finished seventh for NBC's best showing for the week.

NBC had three of the week's five lowest-rated programs, including No. 63 "Yellow Rose," No. 64 "For Love and Honor" and the bottom show, No. 67, "First Camera." An ABC special, "Leprechaun's Christmas Gold," was 65th. CBS' "Cutter to Houston" finished 66th.

The fourth-place finish by last week's Dallas-San Francisco game on ABC's "Monday Night Football" ended the worst season in the 15-year history of the package.

In all, ABC's 16 Monday night games finished with an average rating of 18.1, lower than the 18.5 posted in 1970, the first season of prime-time pro football.

Viewing for the holiday week, as compared to the week before, was down by an average 2.6 million homes a night, with the largest falloff coming on Sunday night — Christmas. This explains why CBS' "60 Minutes," which finished in first place the past two weeks and has not dropped below 11th this season, fell to 21st with a 17.6 rating.

Nielsen said its early-evening news ratings would not be available until today. Here are the Top 20 shows:

1. "Dallas," CBS, with a rating of 24.8 or 20.8 million homes.
2. "Simon & Simon," CBS, 24.7 or 20.7 million.
3. "Dynasty," ABC, 23.8 or 19.9 million.
4. "Monday Night Football," Dallas vs. San Francisco, ABC, 23.6 or 19.8 million.
5. Movie—"A Gift of Love," CBS, 22.3 or 18.7 million.
6. "Magnum, P.I.," CBS, 22.3 or 18.7 million.
7. "The A-Team," NBC, 21.9 or 18.4 million.
8. "Knots Landing," CBS, 21.6 or 18.1 million.
9. "Falcon Crest," CBS, 21.4 or 17.9 million.
10. "Hotel," ABC, 21.3 or 17.9 million.
11. "The Fall Guy," ABC, 21.0 or 17.6 million.
12. "Bob Hope's Merry Christmas Show," NBC, 20.5, 17.2 million.
13. "A Disney Christmas Gift," CBS, 19.0 or 15.9 million.
14. "The Facts of Life," NBC, 18.5 or 15.5 million.
15. "Cheers," NBC, 18.3 or 15.3 million.
16. "AfterMASH," CBS, 18.1 or 15.2 million.
17. "Hill Street Blues," NBC, 18.0 or 15.1 million.
18. "The Jeffersons," CBS, 17.9 or 15 million.
19. "Trapper John, M.D.," CBS, 17.7 or 14.8 million.
20. "Scarecrow & Mrs. King," CBS, 17.7 or 14.8 million.

GOOD NEWS...FROM A PRISON CELL!

The Jewish leaders replied to Paul, "We have heard nothing against you! We have had no letters from Judea or reports from those arriving from Jerusalem. But we want to hear what you believe, for the only thing we know about these Christians is that they are denounced everywhere!"

So the time was set and on that day large numbers came to his house. He told them about the Kingdom of God and taught them about Jesus from the Scriptures—from the five books of Moses and the books of prophecy. He began lecturing in the morning and went into the evening! Some believed, and some didn't.

But after they had argued back and forth among themselves, they left with this final word from Paul ringing in their ears: "The Holy Spirit was right when He said through Isaiah the prophet, 'Say to the Jews, "You will hear and see but not understand, for your hearts are too fat and your ears don't listen and you have closed your eyes against understanding, for you don't want to see and hear and understand and turn to Me to heal you." So I want you to realize that this salvation from God is available to the Gentiles, too, and they will accept it.'"

Paul lived for the next two years in his rented house and welcomed all who visited him, telling them with all boldness about the Kingdom of God and about the Lord Jesus Christ; and no one tried to stop him.

Mattox says

Company dues used for lobbying

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas utility customers paid up to $1 million in lobbying costs for electric companies in 1982, according to Attorney General Jim Mattox.

In a Wednesday news release quoting a National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners' study, Mattox said as much as a third of the dues paid to the Edison Electric Institute goes for lobbying.

The institute is the electric utilities' national trade association.

Mattox said up to $1 million of the $2.8 million paid by Texas companies to the institute last year might have gone for lobbying.

"Most of that money came from Texas ratepayers, and that doesn't sit well with me — for consumers to have to pay for utilities to lobby before Congress and at the state level," he said.

Officials from two companies disputed Mattox's conclusions. Jim Parsons, Houston Lighting & Power vice president for public affairs, said only 2 percent of the 1982 and 3 percent of the 1983 dues went for lobbying. Mattox's release said HL&P's 1982 dues totaled $606,581, with up to $220,171 for lobbying.

Parsons said the dues payment last year was $467,209, and he said HL&P's 1983 dues were $501,000.

Mattox said the Texas Utilities companies paid $680,612 in dues. But George Hedrick of Texas Electric Service Co. in Fort Worth, one of the Texas Utilities customers, said "everything identified as lobbying was paid for by the shareholders" and not customers.

Texas law bans the inclusion of lobbying costs in local rates.

In addition to lobbying, Edison Electric Institute has "technical groups and committees" that provide information to electric companies, Parsons said.

NOTICE OF CERTIFICATION OF CLASS ACTION AND PROPOSED SETTLEMENT OF CASE

TO: LOW-INCOME PERSONS AND HISPANICS IN CASTRO, FARMER, AND DEAF SMITH COUNTIES

This lawsuit might affect your rights to obtain free or reduced cost hospital care at the Plains Memorial Hospital in Dimmitt, Texas.

The United States District Court in Amarillo has decided that the plaintiffs in this case fairly and adequately represent a group of low-income and Mexican-American persons. Those persons share common concerns regarding the admission and free care policies of Plains Memorial Hospital in Dimmitt, Texas.

The plaintiffs and the defendants have reached a settlement of this case. Before the Court will approve the settlement, low-income persons and Mexican-Americans in this area must be notified. These persons may object to the settlement if they wish.

The proposed settlement provides that the hospital will do the following:

1. It sets up a Medical Assistance Program to give free or reduced cost hospital care to low-income residents of Castro County. The Plan sets out the income guidelines to be used to decide if a person will get free care, or reduced cost care, and sets the procedures for applying for free or reduced cost care. Under this Plan, if your income is low enough, you might not have to pay for your hospital bill, but you will have to pay for your doctor bill. A person must have an income even lower than the Poverty Guidelines to get free hospital care.
2. It requires the hospital to give at least a certain amount of free care every year for the next five (5) years. This averages to about $50,000 a year for each of the next five (5) years.
3. It requires the hospital to give immediate care to any person in an emergency, regardless of their ability to pay.
4. It requires the hospital to have staff members who speak both Spanish and English available at all times to assist persons who do not speak English fluently.
5. It requires the hospital to try to hire more Hispanic nursing and administrative personnel.
6. It requires the plaintiffs to withdraw all their complaints against the hospital that have been filed with the federal government.

The settlement does not provide for the payment of any money to individuals who might have been wrongfully denied free or reduced cost care in the past. The settlement also does not provide for the payment of any money to low-income or Mexican-American persons who might have paid deposits or hospital bills to Plains Memorial Hospital when the persons should have been given free or lower cost care. These persons, if any, will be required to file their own claims, if they wish to claim any money. The Hospital has not admitted any liability or agreed to pay any money to individuals.

A complete copy of the proposed settlement may be seen at the offices of Texas Rural Legal Aid in Hereford, Texas, 1406 West Highway 60, or at the U.S. District Court Clerk's office in Amarillo, Texas, 205 East 5th Street.

If you think the settlement is unfair, you may object to the settlement by giving written notice of the reason for your objection to the Clerk, United States District Court, P.O. Box F-13246, Amarillo, Texas 79118, and to the attorney for plaintiffs, Texas Rural Legal Aid, 1406 West Highway 60, Hereford, Texas 79045.

You must file your objection on or before January 6th, 1984.

A hearing on the settlement will be held in U.S. District Court in Amarillo, 205 East 5th Street, on January 13th, 1984 at 2 p.m. Only persons who have filed written objection with the Court will be allowed to participate.
