U.S. college head killed

Islamic claim responsibility

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Two gunmen shot the president of American University of Beirut today near his campus office, killing him with a bullet through the head, authorities said.

About four hours after the assassination of Malcolm Kerr, 52, a Beirut-born American, an anonymous telephone caller told the Beirut office of Agence France-Presse, the French news agency, that "Jihad Islami," or Islamic Holy War, was responsible for the shooting.

Speaking in Arabic, the caller said Kerr was "a victim of the American military presence in Lebanon," according to the news agency.

The caller also claimed the group was behind the abduction by gunmen on Tuesday of the Saudi consul in Beirut, and said the kidnapped diplomat "is being tried according to Islamic law and we will soon throw out his body."

Islamic Holy War also claimed responsibility for the Oct. 23 suicide truck-bombings that killed 241 American and 58 French troops of the multinational force in Beirut.

Kerr had replaced David S. Dodge, the acting president, who was kidnapped in July 1982. Dodge was held by pro-Iranian extremists in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley and in Iran for a year before being released after Syrian leaders intervened.

A university statement about three hours after the assassination said two gunmen fired and Kerr was hit by two bullets. It said the two attackers "managed to escape."

"The president was taken to the hospital at the university's medical center but his life could not be saved and he was pronounced dead by the hospital," the statement said.

State radio quoted Dr. Ahmed Harati, a Lebanese coroner who examined the corpse, as saying Kerr was killed by one 7.15mm pistol bullet that pierced his head at the right temple and exited just above the left ear.

The caller to Agence France-Presse also said: "We also vow that not a single American or Frenchman will remain on this soil. We will take no different course and shall not waver."

A university source, who asked to be unnamed, said Kerr's secretary and others in the building did not hear the shot but rushed to the scene after hearing Kerr's books, briefcase and umbrella hit the floor.

Earlier, a university professor, Delwin Roy, of Atlanta, said "one individual" shot Kerr as he was getting out of the elevator to go into his office.

An initial radio report said a lone gunman fired a bullet into Kerr's head from a silencer-equipped pistol.

University sources said the attack occurred on the third floor of College Hall, one floor above Kerr's office, as the president headed for a meeting of deans.

Lebanese army troops and police sealed off all gates of the 73-acre campus in west Beirut's Manara district and of the nearby hospital.

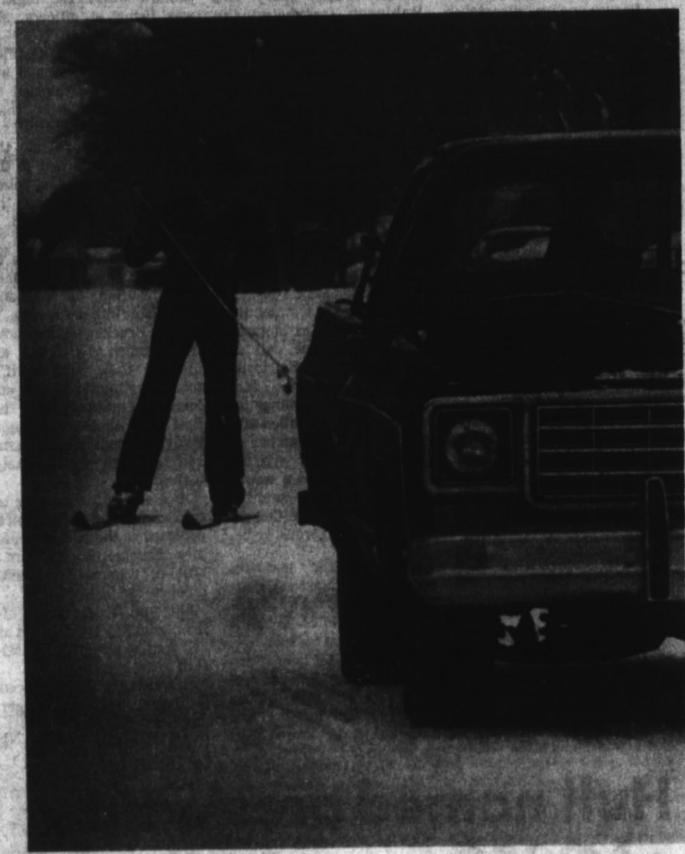

The vice president of the university, Samir Thabet, called an emergency meeting of school deans and announced classes were suspended until Monday in mourning for Kerr.

On Tuesday, gunmen with automatic rifles abducted the Saudi Arabian consul from his limousine in west Beirut, wounded his driver and beat his bodyguard. Beirut radio said the kidnappers were trying to sabotage a Saudi-mediated security plan and "inflammate the Lebanon situation."

The Saudi Embassy said late Tuesday it had received information that the consul, Hussein Abdullah Farrash, 45, was alive. The terse statement did not say how the information was received or whether any terms had been set for his release.

The security plan calls for disengagement of Lebanon's (See LEBANON, Page 2A)

National SAT averages bettered

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Results of college entrance exams taken by 1983 graduates of Hereford High School were higher than the national average for Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SATs), but markedly lower for the more-taken American College Tests (ACTs).

Of the 157 high school seniors who took either exam prior to graduating last year, 140 opted for ACTs. The local average ACT scores were 15.7 on the English section and 15.3 on the mathematics, both substantially lower than the mean national figures of 17.8 and 16.9. In Texas, 16.3 and 13.7 were normal.

The 17 HHS youngsters who took the SAT recorded an average score of 454 for verbal skills and 529 for math. In the United States as a whole, 425 and 468 were the normal marks, while Texans managed a combined mean of 868 (no breakdown available). According to Mal Manchee, director of program development for the Hereford Independent School District, more local students take ACTs because most area schools accept the tests. Also, HHS counselors "feel that the ACTs provide excellent information."

Local ACT results below par

West Texas State University, Texas Tech University, the University of Texas and Angelo State University are examples Manchee gave of the many schools often considered by HHS grads which accept ACT scores. Those institutions and many others take both college preparatory exams. Texas A&M University, however, accepts only SAT results.

Test standards for admission vary from school to school. Texas Tech, for example, will allow any student whose grade point average was in the top 25 percent of his graduating class to enter. Should he be in the top 26-50 percent, he would have to record a 19 average or better on all the ACT sections or at least an 800 combined on the SAT. The lower the class standing, the more stringent the college preparatory test minimums.

At Texas A&M, according to Manchee, only those high school seniors ending in the top 10 percent of their class are eligible for automatic admission. Those finishing in the bottom 25 percent must post a combined SAT score of 1,200. That is just 400 points shy of the highest possible result.

Not limited to just verbal (which deals mainly with English skills) and math sections, an ACT also has social studies and science questions. Local, state and national averages for those two categories, though, have not been calculated presumably because they represent a proportionately smaller part of the exam.

"The bigger schools," Manchee said, "can afford to be more choosy."

National average scores for both the SAT and ACT have steadily lowered since 1973. SAT verbal and math results went from 445 and 481 10 years ago, respectively, to 468 and 425 for the last

Moore plans candidacy

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

A second Hereford man has announced his candidacy for the post of Deaf Smith County Commissioner, creating the only primary race so far for a local position.

Troy Don Moore, 40, is seeking the Precinct 3 commissioner's chair being vacated by Bruce Coleman. On Jan. 7, the first day to file for the primary elections scheduled May 5, Larry D. Bain made official his intent to run for the post by seeing Democratic County Chairman Roy Dale Messer.

Coleman is leaving the commission after nearly 20 years of service.

Moore is a native of Hereford who has lived nearly nine years in Precinct 3. He is a 1962 Hereford High School graduate and a 1968 graduate of Texas Tech University where he earned a bachelor of business administration degree in finance.

For County Commission

He entered the University of Texas at Austin School of Law in 1967, interrupted that education to serve in the U.S. Army for two years and returned to finish law school in December of 1971.

Moore's experiences as an attorney include serving as the briefing attorney for the 7th Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo, as an assistant Potter County attorney in 1973 through 1974 and a little more than one year's service as an estate tax attorney for the federal government in Lubbock.

Returning to Hereford in 1975 to engage in farming, Moore took a job as account executive with Refco Commodities, Inc. in 1976. He still works as a farm manager.

Moore and his wife Kathy have three children: Shaun, Jayne and Jay. The family resides at 108 Douglas and is active in the First United Methodist Church.

Kathy is a native of Hereford and graduate of Texas Tech University with a degree in home economics and child development. She is a substitute teacher and serves on the Campfire board.

Moore is a Troop 52 committee chairman for the Boy Scouts of America and this year will co-chair the Boy Scout's sustaining membership drive.

"I can well serve the constituency of Deaf Smith County in the capacity of county commissioner," Moore said Tuesday. "I feel that my broad background and eagerness to learn will be the attributes that allow me to perform the necessary functions of this office."

"I would want the people in the county to feel that they have ready access to this office and feel secure that the best effort is being put forth for their benefit," he continued, "both for the present and the future."

"I was raised in this county and it is where my wife and I have chosen to raise our children," he continued. "I believe that it is time for me to take an active part in community government in order

Hospital staff officers reshuffled

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Dr. Jesse Perales is the new president and chief of staff of the Deaf Smith General Hospital, board members learned Tuesday.

Hospital physicians rotate duties every year and new positions were announced at the regular meeting attended by all six board members. Dr. A.T. Mims is now chief of surgery with Dr. H.B. Johnson named chief of obstetrics.

Dr. Jose A. Diaz is to head the pathology department while Dr. Perales is chief of medicine. Named chief of radiology is Dr. M.W. Nobles.

Also in 1984, Dr. G.G. Payne will serve as chief of family practice and Dr. Nadir T. Khuri will head emergency, CCU and ICU operations. Dr. David B. Baddour is the new vice president of the staff of physicians and Dr. Tim Revell is to serve as secretary to the staff this year.

At Deaf Smith General

Hospital Administrator James Bullard introduced operation and audit reports from the budget year ended Sept. 30 briefly went over the figures with board members. Because the noon meeting did not allow the board time to thoroughly examine the audit report, a special meeting has been set for next Tuesday at noon.

Bullard said revenue and expense figures for the fiscal year will be available by next week's meeting, when he also plans to present to the board suggested methods of bond financing to pay for proposed renovations of the hospital facility.

Comparative data that pits

DFGH against national, state, regional and special hospital averages for such figures as inpatient revenue per stay and salary expense per adjusted patient day were also distributed by Bullard.

In October, the month used for the study, average length of stay was 4.24 days, compared to 5.39 nationally, 5.52 statewide, 4.97 on a regional basis and 5.52 in special institutions.

Looking at salary expense, the percentage of hours actually worked compared with those paid by the hospital was 95.09. Other figures range from 88.09 at special hospitals to 90.94 in both state and regional facilities. Bullard explained that data reflects such things as vacation time and sick leave.

Inpatient revenue per stay was significantly lower than that at other hospitals surveyed for the study, at $1,274.48 per patient per stay. The national figure is $2,151.03, while the state average is $1,967.87. The figure given for both the regional and special institutions is $2,038.86.

The performance report for December of 1983 shows a total of 196 patients admitted with an average daily occupancy of 27.4. Forty-six ambulance runs were made.

Board members also looked over a home health agency report and were given copies of an article on surgical procedures from the New England Journal of Medicine before adjourning to closed session to discuss possible litigation. No action was taken.

Seminar re-scheduled

The C of C Business Seminar, cancelled Tuesday night because of bad weather, has been re-scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 26.

Mike Carr, executive vice president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, made the announcement this morning and urged local business owners and managers to call in their reservations for the seminar.

The seminar is designed to provide business owners and managers with information on accounting methods to better develop business goals and to meet IRS requirements. Other topics include advertising and increasing sales, and promoting business.

The seminar is co-sponsored by the Small Business Administration and West Texas State University's Center for Business Consultation, Training and Research.

Farmers going to convention

State honors are sought by representatives of Hereford Young Farmers planning to attend the 30th annual Texas YF convention in Austin Thursday through Saturday.

Roy Carlson, who was named Star Young Farmer for Area 1 last fall, is a contender for the same award at state level. Toby Turpen is shooting for Star Agribusinessman, an honor he also earned in Area 1.

Among those HYF members set to go to the convention are Advisor Monty Adams, Bill Caraway, Gerald Marnell, Area 1 President Ray Schlabs and Tom Schlabs.

Texas Young Farmers are agriculturalists under 36 years of age who operate local organizations with objectives of education, leadership, service and recreation. Chapter educational programs center on current problems in modern agriculture. Local sponsorship is through the agriculture departments of the schools.

Legion meeting slated

American Legion and auxiliary members from Dimmitt, Friona, Hart, Nazareth, Tulia and Vega are expected in Hereford Thursday for a Zone 2 business meeting.

The local post is to host the event at 7 p.m. in the legion hall. A meal of pancakes and sausages is to be furnished. Entertainment has been scheduled to be provided by dancers from Larrymore Studios.

Three accidents happen

Hereford police report four minor, non-injury motor vehicle accidents occurred Tuesday within city limits, three of which were due to icy road conditions.

There was just one criminal incident handled. It involved the theft of a coat and purse from a visitor to Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Memorial for Strain set

In response to requests from friends wanting to establish a memorial in his name, the family of a Hereford man who died on Christmas Day has asked that contributions be made to the proposed YMCA facility.

Robert Bruce Strain, 20, was found dead in his apartment after suffering from gas fumes.

According to his sister, Milly (Bagley) Wester, Strain was happiest when he was able to volunteer his time and talents toward helping the youth of the community. That influenced her decision regarding donations to the YMCA.

Tax-deductible donations may be taken to the Sonic Drive-In or the YMCA office in the Sugarland Mall. The building project's fund-raising effort is nearly complete, with construction set to start soon in a lot on Fifteenth Street.

Wester, an employee of Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, said she often called on her brother to help with youth projects and he always cheerfully responded. This past year he assisted with the 10-kilometer run and parade during the Town and Country Jubilee and portrayed Santa Claus during the Christmas season. His mother is Pecos' Pearl Strain, formerly of Hereford.

Merger threatens exploration

HOUSTON (AP) — Texaco Inc.'s bid to buy Getty Oil Co. is a display of "sheer financial power" which threatens to seriously limit discovery of new petroleum reserves, Pennzoil Co. contends in a suit to stop the merger.

The antitrust lawsuit, filed Tuesday in a Tulsa, Okla., federal court, says the $9.89 billion merger is likely to touch off a wave of purchases as large companies "scramble to acquire new reserves by acquiring their competitors rather than by exploration."

Pennzoil released copies of its suit in Houston, its home base. The 32nd-largest petroleum company in the United States offered Getty stockholders $110 a share in an attempt to buy 43 percent of that firm.

Jury selection enters third day

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — The prosecutor in the Gene Jones baby-killing trial says his witnesses will offer a motive in the case, but he said jurors don't have to believe it to send the nurse to prison.

"People do things for all sorts of reasons. Sometimes it makes sense and sometimes it doesn't," Kerr County District Attorney Ron Sutton said.

"There is no motive the state has to prove in this case at all," he said.

Rights movement must continue

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Yolanda King, daughter of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., says despite advancements, blacks cannot afford to become complacent about equality.

Ms. King addressed about 900 people Tuesday in an appearance sponsored by the Corpus Christi chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"At this point in time, it's even possible for mankind to erase all humanity from the planet," she said. "We have not yet learned the simple art of living together as brothers and sisters."

She said even though a black woman has been crowned Miss America and a black man has gone into space, "we cannot stop now."

Capitol Hill hearings canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee chairman, saying he wants to avoid "partisan bickering and a media extravaganza" in a presidential election year, today indefinitely postponed hearings into how Carter administration documents reached President Reagan's 1980 campaign.

The hearings, which were expected to bring top-ranking Reagan administration officials to Capitol Hill to testify under oath, had been scheduled to begin Jan. 26.

But Rep. Donald J. Albosta, D-Mich., in a surprise announcement made in a prepared statement, said the hearings, if they are held at all, would not begin until after the subcommittee details the results of its seven-month investigation in a written report.

Albosta is chairman of the human resources subcommittee of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Cold, moisture bring snow

A storm that dumped up to a half-foot of snow on Missouri marched toward the Northeast today, the result of a collision between heavy moisture from the Gulf and an unyielding Arctic air mass that sent the mercury plunging below zero across the Plains.

Drivers spun on icy north Texas roads, and travelers' advisories and winter storm warnings were posted today from the southern Plains to Ohio and Kentucky.

Numbing temperatures spread southward, threatening wind-chill readings of 20 degrees below zero in Oklahoma and snowfall in north Alabama, the National Weather Service said.

The front that chilled Butte, Mont., to 28 below today was on a "collision course" with moist air from the Gulf, with the resulting snow and rain expected to extend from the central states to the East Coast, said meteorologist Nolan Duke at the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo.

Five inches of new snow blanketed Springfield and Joplin, Mo., early today, and 6 inches was recorded in the southern part of the state.

Battle moves from court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The focus now shifts to Congress in the big-stakes battle to decide whether millions of Americans may have to pay extra to use increasingly popular home video recorders to tape television shows.

The motion picture industry, which suffered a major setback Tuesday before the Supreme Court, is expected to look to Congress for help in obtaining a share of the profits from the billion dollar home video recorder industry.

If the movie studios are ultimately successful, it could mean a stiff royalty that would be passed on to consumers as a tax on video recorders and blank tapes.

But meanwhile, the Supreme Court, by a 5-4 vote, ruled that the sale and use of home video recorders to tape TV shows for later, private viewing is legal.

Some members of Congress expressed doubt that federal copyright law will be amended to benefit the movie makers.

Gromyko calls talks pointless

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko denounced the U.S. military buildup as a "pathological obsession" in a bitter speech today shortly before his meeting with Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

Gromyko also said it would be "pointless" to resume arms control negotiations as long as NATO adheres to its decision to deploy U.S.-made nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

"We have warned repeatedly that the deployment in Western Europe of U.S. Pershing and cruise missiles will undermine the basis for negotiations and will make them impossible," Gromyko said. "Having started the installation of its missiles, Washington has rendered negotiations pointless."

Momentarily the world is between acute crises; let's treat ourselves!

Do you remember when Hershey chocolate bars cost a nickel and you broke off the tiny squares one at a time, allowing each to melt on your tongue?

We did it right. Since then we've been doing it wrong.

The chocolate bar was not mass produced until World War I. At first, it was a quick pick-me-up for soldiers.

Despite escalating prices since, chocolate remains Americans' favorite confection. We consume two billion pounds a year.

Though most doesn't taste like it used to.

I still enjoy chocolate, who doesn't? But recent years I've enjoyed it mostly in "turtles" where the milk chocolate is embellished with the flavor of carmel and the crunch of pecans.

But just chocolate-chocolate has seemed to be something less than the Hershey bars I remember.

Recently I was in Las Vegas, Nev., for a speaking engagement. My host left in my hotel room a generous sample of a locally manufactured chocolate labeled "Ethel M."

I was enough impressed to order a supply for Christmas gifts—plus a few for you-know-who.

I've since learned that the godfather of Ethel M. Chocolates is Forrest Mars, who founded the MARS candy company—then sold it—and started over at 80—with these candies named for his mother.

Somehow he has reproduced the magic of chocolate that tastes the way it used to.

Elaine Sherman is a confessed chocoholic who lectures on the subject. She conducts chocolate taste tests — thousand people at a time.

The event is much like a public wine-tasting and Madame Chocolate says there are other similarities.

She says Americans tend to "gulp" wine that should be "sipped" instead.

Chocolate also. "First," she says, "one should enjoy the aroma of the chocolate. If it lacks a wonderful aroma, the calories may not be worth it."

She says it is the sniffing which distinguishes the chocolate lover from the chocolate glutton.

Next, she says, "Let small bites melt on your tongue. Savor it. There should be no unpleasant aftertaste."

She insists that when you choose "fine chocolate" and eat it properly, you'll be satisfied with less.

I discover that chocolate snobs can be as insufferable as wine snobs, but I also discover — they are right.

Negotiator sees no progress in restarting stalled talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's representative at medium-range missile reduction talks says the administration is considering ways to lure the Soviet Union back to negotiations, but says he sees no progress in getting the stalled talks going.

Paul Nitze, the arms negotiator, said the United States was studying whether "there are things that we could do to make it easier for them to return to the negotiations, without making improper concessions."

Nitze also said that the anticipated Soviet deployment of new missiles in eastern Europe "doesn't really make that much difference," and that he sees no move toward combining the medium-range weapons talks and others intended to reduce the U.S. and Soviet stockpiles of long-range nuclear weapons.

"I don't think that would be in the interests of the United States," he said, adding that the Soviets had not advanced such a proposal.

Nitze spoke with reporters

Tuesday afternoon after conferring with Reagan on the breakdown of the talks he had been conducting in Geneva, Switzerland, with Soviet representatives.

The meeting, one day after Reagan called on the Soviet Union to return to the talks and said in a speech that 1984 offered "opportunities for peace," gave the president an opportunity to review the lack of progress in curbing medium-range nuclear-tipped missiles in Europe.

The Soviets have refused to set a date for resuming the negotiations since the new U.S. missiles were deployed in Western Europe as part of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's force modernization. The Soviets walked out of the talks on Nov. 23.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the president's speech offered "an improvement in the tone of U.S.-Soviet relations" consistent with the tone of a private, handwritten letter that Reagan wrote to the late Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev early in the Reagan administration.

Speakes took issue with suggestions that the address was related to domestic politics. The president plans to announce Jan. 29 whether he will seek re-election.

"We reject that," Speakes said. "It is the president's view that international problems can't be suspended in election years. The U.S. government must make every effort to solve problems with the Soviet Union now. We can't afford to wait until 1985, and in every sense, the president's speech was a sincere expression of the United States' commitment to work for progress in all areas with the Soviet Union."

Administration officials and Reagan's political advisers said the speech could reap political benefits for the president to the extent that it counters fears among the electorate that his military buildup and anti-Soviet rhetoric in the past three years might lead to a Soviet-American conflict.

Hays elected new president at meeting

John Hays was elected a new president and five persons were elected to three-year terms on the board when Hereford Country Club held its annual stockholders meeting Tuesday night.

Named as new directors were David Emerick, Temple Abney, Craig Smith, Hal Easley and Sid Shaw.

Hays succeeds Dwayne Cassels as president of the board. Other new officers named were Elmo Hall, vice president, and Rosie Griffin, who was reelected as secretary-treasurer.

Holdover directors are Hays, Griffin, Hall, Ted McWhorter, Earl Stagner, David Zinser, Jimmie Gillentine, Richard Ottesen, Mike Bowles, and Ron Davenport of Friona.

Dispatcher gives sequence of police chase, slaying

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Jurors hearing a $5 million civil rights lawsuit listened to a dispatcher describe police radio transmissions from the time officers began pursuing an armed suspect up until ranch foreman James C. Grandstaff was mistaken for the fugitive and fatally shot.

Borger police dispatcher Gertrude Brucker testified Tuesday that Grandstaff was shot 26 minutes after police began chasing Lonnie Cox, an Oklahoma fugitive, who drove a pickup truck into a pasture on the Four Sixes Ranch where Grandstaff lived and worked.

Mrs. Brucker said she kept a log of police radio transmissions during the pursuit of Cox and the shooting of Grandstaff early on the morning of Aug. 11, 1981.

Grandstaff drove into the pasture after being awakened by the commotion, a few hundreds yards from his house. Officers testified they opened fire on Grandstaff when he got out of his pickup and appeared to be reaching for a weapon at his waist.

Grandstaff's wife, Sharon, filed the lawsuit in federal district court against four Borger police officers, a Hutchinson County sheriff's deputy, the city of Borger and counties of Gray, Carson and Hutchinson.

The four police officers have testified that none of them knew who fired the fatal shot at Grandstaff, who was killed by a single .22-caliber rifle blast.

He was handcuffed before officers realized he was the wrong man, officers testified.

Carson County Deputy Robert Warren Hart testified Tuesday that it was his understanding that Borger police officer Robert Alonzo was the person who actually shot Grandstaff, but U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson instructed the jurors to ignore the remark, saying it was based on hearsay, not actual knowledge.

Hart said he based the statement on a report from Texas Ranger Jim Gillespie after an investigation into the shooting.

Hart was expected to continue testifying when the trial resumed today.

Borger police officer John Ray testified that he was the first one to open fire on Grandstaff.

Mrs. Brucker testified that the pursuit of Cox stemmed from a telephone call she received from a Fairbanks, Alaska, woman. Mrs. Brucker said the woman told her that she had called after receiving a call from her son in Fritch, Texas, who said Cox had abducted a woman near Fritch. She said the woman told her that Cox was armed and dangerous.

Mrs. Brucker said she radioed Hutchinson County sheriff's deputy Ricky Morris and told him to come by the office to pick up the message. She said she later heard Morris radio other law enforcement units, telling them to be on the lookout for Cox, and that Cox was armed and dangerous.

At 4:19 a.m., Borger police officer Bailey Roberts radioed that he had tried to stop Cox and that Cox had fled, Mrs. Brucker testified.

Borger police officer Mickey Davis radioed at 4:29 a.m. that Cox' pickup had left the highway and was in a pasture where the fugitive was firing at officers, she said.

Mrs. Grandstaff testified previously that she and her husband were awakened by the commotion near their house and that Grandstaff got dressed and drove into the pasture. He returned to the house and told her that police were chasing someone in the field, Mrs. Grandstaff said.

After giving her son a shotgun and telling them to say in the house, Mrs. Grandstaff testified, her husband drove back into the pasture.

Mrs. Brucker said a radio transmission at 4:33 a.m. indicated that Grandstaff's truck was spotted by law enforcement officers for the first time. Another transmission recorded at 4:35 a.m. said the truck was returning to the house.

At 4:43 a.m., according to the radio log, the truck returned to the pasture, said Mrs. Brucker. At 4:47 a.m., officers requested an ambulance, she testified.

She said Borger police officer John Ray checked out at 5:13 a.m. to take Mrs. Grandstaff to the hospital.

Grandstaff was pronounced dead on arrival at the Borger hospital at 5:20 a.m.

Cox later surrendered to authorities.

Hull named president of GSEC organization

Following the example set by rural electric cooperatives all over the nation, 10 RECs in Texas and Oklahoma have banded together to form the Golden Spread Electric Cooperative, Inc.

James T. Hull of Deaf Smith Electric Coop was named president of the organization, which he said has been about five years in the founding. The GSEC will be headquartered in Amarillo and an office manager is now being sought.

The initial function of GSEC is reportedly to seek new, expanded and more competitive sources of wholesale electric power. A press release claims the move was necessary because of recent dramatic increases in wholesale power costs and the peculiarity of individual electrical loads in service areas from Colorado and Kansas to the South Plains of Texas, and from Oklahoma to New Mexico.

The cooperatives serve a total of 43 counties, 80,000 meters, 125,000 people and have approximately 33,000 miles of line requiring an annual demand of 535 megawatts of power.

GSEC also said wholesale power costs have increased in the past ten years from 50 percent to 80 percent of the total cost of electric service to the distribution cooperatives. GSEC feels it can make a significant long term impact on the cost of wholesale power.

Hull said the cooperatives will continue to work with and look to its present power supplier, Southwestern Public Service Company, as the primary furnisher of electric service.

"This is a long range project," Hull explained. "All steps will be taken slowly, as is anything we do in the utilities business." He said the board will meet once a month.

Other officers and directors include Alton Higginbotham, vice president and R.L. Elliott, Jr., secretary-treasurer. Board members are John Norman, Connie Gupton, Pat McAllister, David Pruitt, J.C. Roberts, Lyle Robinson and Delbert Smith.

Each will be joint owners in the project and today have total combined assets of $215 million.

warring factions and extending Lebanese government control in some areas around Beirut.

In Jerusalem, a senior Israeli official told reporters that Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's government was holding discussions with the major Lebanese factions to try to get the Lebanese security plan approved.

The Israeli government considers the plan crucial to its hopes of pulling back troops occupying southern Lebanon since the June 1982 invasion.

Delays in implementing the plan have been blamed on Walid Jumblatt, the leftist Druse leader. He charged Tuesday that President Amin Gemayel's administration was manipulating the plan "to acquire gains for the Phalange party," an aide said.

graduating class. The corresponding ACT drops were from 18.9 and 18.8 to 17.8 and 16.9.

During the past decade, HHS seniors have bested the national SAT math averages all every year while recording higher verbal skills six times. In ACTs, national averages have been higher than Hereford's eight times in math and all 10 times in English.

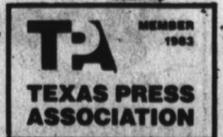

The Druse, a secretive offshoot of Islam, contend Gemayel, a Christian, is aligned with the rightist Phalangists.

American University was founded in 1866 by Presbyterian missionaries, but today it is nonsectarian, with Christian and Moslem students. Its campus overlooks the Mediterranean and the ruins of the U.S. Embassy, wrecked by a bomb in April. It is alma mater to many Arab statesmen.

In October 1983, Kerr postponed the start of the fall semester because of a student demonstration. The protesters objected to a new policy that all enrolling students sign a pledge they won't join in political activities on campus.

SATs are offered seven times per year, Manchee said, though local students must go to Amarillo, Canyon or Lubbock to take them. The cost is now $11 per exam.

Hereford was recently approved to be an official testing center for ACTs. Therefore, youngsters must make no long-distance trips to take the $9.50 exam.

Ann Landers

Huntington's disease

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the letter about Alzheimer's disease because it sounds similar to my mother's illness, which is Huntington's.

I know my mother's sickness is hereditary because the doctor advised me not to have any more children. (I already have two girls, three and five years of age). I am frightened that I may get Huntington's and not be able to raise my daughters. It is a terrifying sickness. The change in my mother is unbelievable. I saw her go from a beautiful, healthy, outgoing woman to someone I don't recognize.

Mother requires around-the-clock care, and the full burden is on my father and me. Please tell me more about this illness. I am ashamed to admit my ignorance.—N.Y. Reader

DEAR READER: Huntington's disease is an inherited disorder that gradually destroys the brain, causing sufferers to lose control of their bodies and minds. Symptoms usually appear in middle age and death occurs between 10 and 20 years later. Because the symptoms are similar to that of Parkinson's, senility, schizophrenia, multiple sclerosis and epilepsy, there is a great deal of confusion regarding the diagnosis.

Until now there was no way to tell if a child was carrying the gene until symptoms appeared. In a recent dramatic breakthrough, Dr. James Gusella at Harvard located the gene. This should lead to a test that will predict who will develop the disease. Please be aware that the test is not yet available.

I urge you and others who are aware of this illness in their family to educate yourselves. There are superb support groups all over the country who will help you handle this problem with courage.

Anyone interested should write to the Hereditary Disease Foundation for literature. The address is 9701 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 1204, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have just found out for sure (by checking with a reliable jeweler) that my half-carat "diamond" ring is not real. The dollars-and-cents value of the ring is not important, but the fact that my fiancé would try to fool me is very upsetting.

I asked my mother whether or not I should mention this to "George." She replied, "No...as Ann Landers has often said in her column, 'If it ain't broke, don't fix it.'" I respect your advice but I feel uneasy. I love George a lot but I want him to play fair with me. Please advise.—Glitter Dimmed In Bloomington

DEAR GLOOM: Tell your mother it IS broke and it needs fixing. George's duplicity has damaged your relationship and you will not feel right until you confront him. I hope you will do so promptly and that all will be well again. Everyone is entitled to one mistake—and this was his.

CONFIDENTIAL to The World is Lousy and Nobody Cares: Forgive me for repeating myself, but maybe you didn't get it the first time. If it's a helping hand you are looking for, I suggest you check the end of your sleeve.

Going to a wedding? Giving One? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. For a copy, send $2.00, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Succulents, wild flowers discussed by garden club

"Plants That Thrive on Neglect" was the topic discussed by Mrs. Art Stoy when the Hereford Garden Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Alfred Smith.

She stated that succulent plants require very little water or sunlight. The soil should be completely dry before watering.

The jade plant stores water in its leaves. The leaves turn bronze and a delicate pink flower will appear when the plant is blooming. The main trouble with jade is root rotting, which is caused by over-watering.

The aloe vera is a good plant to keep on the kitchen window sill, as it is good for burns, said Mrs. Stoy.

She reminded the group that all succulent plants are not cacti, although all cacti are succulents. She said that some cacti make pretty hanging baskets, such as the rattail cactus and the mistletoe, both of which bloom. She also recommended the Christmas cactus.

"A Wild Way to Garden" was also discussed. Members were urged to plant wild flowers. Many are native to this area and others can be ordered from various parts of the state, noted the speaker. Blue bonnets grow well here, as do California poppies, sweet peas, buttercups, cornflowers, columbines, sunflowers and Indian paint brush.

Mrs. H.R. Cocanougher spoke on choosing and caring for holiday plants. She stressed selecting a healthy, well-potted plant and said it will need to be pampered while adjusting to new surroundings.

House plants should not be crowded, as they need the air and light to circulate around them. Always remove the foil from a plant pot, as leaving it on will endanger the plant's watering and light, she added. Cool temperatures and bright lights are required, being careful not to over-water.

She also told the group about Arbor Day, which is officially observed Jan. 20 in Texas, but which will be celebrated in April by Hereford Garden Club, as January is too early in this area.

She described the Ginkgo tree, which is native of East China. Its bark is thick and ashen and the leaves look like duck feet, turning yellow in autumn. The Ginkgo grows 120 feet high and life expectancy is 100 years or more, said Mrs. Cocanougher. The trees have a moderate growth rate and the female tree produces a plum-like fruit with a terrible odor, which is why male trees are usually planted here.

Texas Garden Clubs Inc. is observing Arbor Day today at the state headquarters in Fort Worth by planting two Ginkgo trees in honor of the state president, Mrs. L.G. Clinton Jr.

Arbor Day was first observed approximately 1500 years ago and is now recognized in Australia, Canada, China, France, Great Britain, Israel, Japan, Lebanon, Mexico, the Netherlands, Norway, Russia, Spain, Turkey and the United States, according to Mrs. Cocanougher.

The spirit of Arbor Day appeals to the young at heart and inspires them to work for the betterment of their community, state and nation, she said. One acre of trees supplies four tons of oxygen, enough for 18 people. Trees also provide humidity, and help in moderating temperature, protecting crops, trapping harmful dust and diminishing smog.

Committee reports were given during the business meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. Clinton Jackson, president. The club decided to remove the roses from the memorial rose garden located at the high school and replant the plot with evergreens and ground cover.

The flower show, to be held in late March, was discussed. It will be a standard show at the Community Center. The club has applied for five awards.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostess, Mrs. R.L. Ehridge. Others in attendance were Mmes. Ralph Mitchell, Ray Johnson, O.G. Hill Sr., R.L. Wilson, and Mrs. Bob Campbell and Candice.

Third-quarter folly doesn't upset Whitefaces Herd wins third district game

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

By showing good character along the way, Hereford High School's boys varsity basketball team beat Lubbock, 61-51, Tuesday in Whiteface gymnasium.

With the score tied 30-30 in the third period, junior Sammy Suarez of Hereford inadvertently stepped on Lubbock's senior guard LeRoy Mitchell's lower left leg. Mitchell then, thinking senior Johnny Adame was Suarez, went after Adame and shoved him.

Instead of retaliating, Adame shook off the action and walked over to the Hereford bench. The incident seemed to fire the Herd up as they did their fighting using the basketball as the weapon and the net as the target.

"I think our kids kept their poise and showed a lot of composure," Herd Coach

Bobby Decker said after the game. "It shows the type of character that makes up this team. We had every opportunity in the world to blow it and lose our heads - but the kids kept their composure."

It may have been a blessing that Mitchell got hurt. Though he got hurt in the third period, Mitchell was tied for the lead as Lubbock's leading scorer for the game with 12 points.

The contest was a close one right until the end. HHS led at the end of the first quarter, 13-12. Mitchell scored eight of the Westerners first period points.

The Whitefaces got some help from their bench in the second quarter with senior Leonard Nikkel scoring two buckets. Junior Dan King hit two crucial free throws with three seconds remaining to halftime to pull Herd within one, 26-25, at half.

After Mitchell's escapade, it seemed as if the Westerners were out "to get" Adame. One of Lubbock's players was stuck with a technical foul after deliberately fouling an elbow in Adame's direction. Senior Jeff Streun made one of the two free throws then Adame sank two more free throws to put the Herd up, 33-30.

Lubbock came back, however, and the third period ended, knotted at 37 apiece.

The Whitefaces turned to their full-court press in the fourth period. Streun stole the ball off the press and converted the layup for a 41-37 Hereford lead.

The Westerners worked to tie the game, 43-43, but then began to turn the ball over. Lubbock's Alvin Hargers was also hit with another technical for throwing an elbow, this time in Streun's direction.

Streun hit the free throw then proceeded to steal the ball off the press and make the layup. That finished any hopes for the Westerners as the score stood 55-45 with 55 seconds remaining.

"I have the team press when I feel we're getting stale on defense," Decker said. "In the first quarter I watch and try to pick out the poor ballhandlers."

Suarez led the Herd scorers with 13 points, Streun and junior Lee Brockman added 10 tallies each.

The win lifts HHS's district record to 3-5. The Whitefaces are 7-11 on the year. Lubbock drops to 1-7 in the district and 4-15 overall.

The boys junior varsity game was canceled because of the weather. It will not be made up.

Whiteface girls shut down Westerners, 51-33

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

Hereford High School's girls varsity basketball team, with a little help from Lady Luck, routed Lubbock 51-33 Tuesday in Whiteface gymnasium.

It took the Lubbock girls until midway through the second period to even get on the board, but by then the Whitefaces were leading, 22-0.

The Westerners had all kinds of shots in the first and early part of the second period, but none of them would fall through the net.

"We just couldn't get them to fall. It was a real letdown for our girls," Lubbock coach James Mays an HHS graduate, said after the game. "It was too tough to come back. Our team couldn't get fired up."

"You can't spot a team like Hereford 22 points and expect to come back. It's suicide," Mays added.

The Whitefaces jumped out to a 12-0 lead at the end of the first quarter. The Westerners had a chance to get on the board during the period after Lubbock's Pat Duran was fouled by junior Stacy High. But Duran missed the one-and-one free-throw attempt. Lubbock's woes continued in the second quarter. Junior Darla Alford netted 10 second quarter points and the Whitefaces outscored the Westerners, 18-12. Lubbock finally made its first point of the contest at the 4:50 mark of the second period.

For all practical purposes, the game was history as Hereford carried a 30-12 lead into halftime.

Led by Carla Alford's eight and sophomore Natalie Sims' six third quarter points, HHS increased its lead to 46-24 at the close of the third period.

The Whitefaces went cold in the final stanza, scoring only five points. But it didn't matter as the Westerners could only muster seven points of their own and the game ended, 51-33.

Darla Alford led HHS with 14 points, all in the first half. Sims had 12, and senior Cathy Bartels finished with 10 tallies.

"We didn't play with a whole lot of intensity," Whiteface coach Larry Sowers said after the game. "We were lucky they (Lubbock) didn't get started very quickly.

"If any of their early shots had fallen - we'd been in trouble," Sowers added.

The win evens Hereford's district record at 5-5 and puts its season record at 8-8. Lubbock dropped to 1-7 in the district and 4-15 overall.

The girls junior varsity game was canceled due to the bad weather. It will not be made up.

Once top-ranked Wildcats lose second straight at hands of Florida Gators

By The Associated Press
The Florida Gators had a plan, which means the third-ranked Kentucky Wildcats have their second straight loss.

"We figured we were going to gamble on them making them from the outside rather than gamble on them making them from the inside," Florida Coach Norm Sloan said.

The Wildcats got only four points each from their two big men — 7-foot-1 Sam Bowie and 6-11 Melvin Turpin — as unranked Florida chalked up a 69-57 Southeastern Conference basketball victory Tuesday night.

Eugene McDowell and Ronnie Williams, each 6-8, took advantage of a sluggish Wildcat defense, combining for 31 points and 16 rebounds to lead Florida to its first victory over Kentucky in five years.

"I knew we had the same talent. They just have more height," said Florida's Vernon Delancy who picked up 14 points.

Jim Master led Kentucky with 18 while Kenny Walker added 15.

The Wildcats' record fell to 12-2 and 4-2 in the Southeastern Conference.

In other games involving ranked teams, seventh-ranked Maryland downed Clemson 85-72 and No. 12 Wake Forest defeated Duke 97-66.

A career-high 17 rebounds and 21 points by Ben Coleman paced Maryland over Clemson in the Atlantic Coast Conference game. Maryland is now 12-2, including 3-1 in the ACC.

The loss snapped Clemson's four-game winning streak and dropped the Tigers' record to 11-3 with a 2-1 league mark.

Adrian Branch led Maryland with 22 points, while Murray Jarman, Anthony Jenkins and Marc Campbell had 14 each for Clemson.

Reserve Lee Garber scored 16 points as six Wake Forest players reached double figures as the Demon Deacons easily defeated Duke in an ACC game. Danny Duke and Delaney Rudd added 15 points each, while Kenny Green scored 14, Anthony Teachey had 13 and reserve John Toms 12.

The Deacons, now 12-2 overall and 1-2 in the ACC, snapped a 6-6 tie with an 8-0 spurt and were never headed.

Mark Alarie scored 19 points to lead Duke, 14-3 and 0-2.

Jazz fall to Atlanta Hawks backcourt

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The Atlanta Hawks had rookies Randy Wittman and Glenn Rivers in the backcourt together during the fourth quarter against the guard-rich Utah Jazz... and got away with it.

The Jazz has the best record in the Western Conference of the National Basketball Association, largely because of the play of their guards, including all-stars Adrian Dantley and Rickey Green and high-scoring Darrell Griffith.

But the Hawks won their fourth straight game Tuesday night, beating the Jazz 112-106 as Wittman and Rivers, who together average just 14 points per game, led Atlanta to a 34-23 advantage in the fourth period.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Portland 121, Dallas 114; Golden State 123, San Diego 110; Los Angeles 108, Washington 95; Houston 124, Denver 115; Boston 122, Kansas City 113; Cleveland 105, Chicago 103; Milwaukee 112, Indiana 92; Philadelphia 128, Detroit 117 and New Jersey 121, New York 115.

Moseley's intuition tells him field goal to decide Super Bowl

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Mark Moseley has a gut feeling that Sunday's Super Bowl XVIII will be decided by a field goal, and he says he is determined to be ready for the challenge.

"It's all mental — you've got to kick the goal hundreds of times in your head before you go out on the field and do it for real," said the 35-year-old veteran as he contemplated the matchup between his defending champion Washington Redskins and the wild, free-wheeling Los Angeles Raiders for the National Football League championship.

"You don't have time to think. The snap, the hold, the swing of the leg all take just 1.3 seconds. It has to be instinctive."

Moseley scoffs at the general impression that place kickers have the cushiest job in the business — on the field no more than 20 seconds a game if you don't kick off, as in Moseley's case, maybe at most four minutes a season.

You don't even get your uniform dirty.

"But that's only what the public sees," said the Red-skin kicking specialist, a pro for 12 years. "I spend the whole week preparing just as the other guys do."

"I lift weights, strengthen my legs and do the usual physical things, but they aren't the most important. I have to get myself ready mentally."

For this, Moseley said he surveys the field from every possible kicking position and then he visualizes himself sending the ball through the uprights.

Reduced to today's computer technology, he is, in effect, storing his head full of mental tapes. When the crucial time comes, he reaches down in his memory bank and pulls one out for the occasion.

Then — wham! — he lets his leg fly.

"I even have a big picture in my living room of a pair of goal posts shown with a ball going through the uprights," he said. "I study it by the hours and picture myself making the kick."

"Concentration is the key. If you miss, you can't worry about it. All you can do is go back to the bench, analyze and try not to repeat it next time."

Moseley had to do a lot of reassessing a couple of weeks ago in the NFC title game when he missed his first four tries — against the San Francisco 49ers — only to recover with 40 seconds remaining to boot the 25-yard goal that won the game 24-21.

One pundit remarked that if he had missed the fiftieth try he would have become the first player in history to be fired on the field.

Even with these last-gasp heroics, he was showered with abuse by fans.

"No, I didn't lose confidence when I missed those four in a row," Moseley said. "The conditions were horrible. The surface was sandy, like a beach. Everybody was slipping and falling down."

"My left foot slipped on the first three (all wide right from 45, 34 and 38 yards). I didn't get enough foot into the fourth one (41 yards) and it just went under the cross bar."

"But I made sure on the last one and it's the one that counted. Everybody's human. The important thing is to hit the one that wins the game."

Moseley is the last remaining orthodox straightaway kicker in a game inundated with soccer-style specialists, but he doesn't feel he is an outmoded relic.

"I can't criticize the soccer-style guys," he said, "but I think I generally have an advantage. I don't work with a hook and I have my weight over the ball."

Moseley was easily the best kicker in the league in 1982, scoring on his first 20 tries and extending his streak to an NFL record of 23. His 95.2 percentage also was a league record.

The past season he hit on 62 of 63 extra points and made 33 of 47 field goals for a league-leading 161 points.

Life was not always so rosy for the onetime quarterback from little Stephen F. Austin, a 14th round draft choice by the Philadelphia Eagles in 1970. He was cut after his first year and signed by the Houston Oilers.

Not all the same

Cake mixes differ in cost

COLLEGE STATION - Not all cake mixes are created equal either in cost or calories, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service foods and nutrition specialist.

Some packaged cake mixes can be economical and actually cost less than similar cakes baked from scratch, says Mary K. Sweeten. But "better quality" cake mixes can cost three times as much as simpler mixes and still require the addition of costly ingredients at home.

For example, a "butter" cake mix requires the addition of one-quarter pound of butter and three eggs, which would add about 75 cents to the cost of the cake. The shortening used in the cake mix is usually soy oil, so the only butter in the butter cake is added by the cook. Yet the butter cake may cost up to 50 percent more than a competitive yellow cake mix, notes the specialist.

Research conducted by Cornell University Extension home economists compared "pudding mix" cakes with their plainer counterparts in the same product line and found that the richer texture of these cakes was due primarily to the cook's additions, says Sweeten.

They also found that nutritive value of the dry mixes are identical for protein, calories and fat, with the pudding mixes providing two extra grams of carbohydrate. But the finished pudding cake has twice as much fat, and 25 percent more calories than the plain layer cake.

The addition of extra eggs and oil to the pudding mix increases the calories as well as the cost of the cake, she says.

Sweeten suggests that consumers make it a habit to read the labels on mixes, since nutritional differences among cakes are surprisingly large.

The fat content of various cake mixes ranges from four to 14 grams for one twelfth of the cake; the calories from 180 to 300 per slice; and the sodium from 270 to 375 milligrams per slice.

In general, angel food cake and white cake mixes, made without egg yolks, are low in fat and calories, and cake mixes that require additional oil or shortening are high, says Sweeten.

The good news for chocolate lovers is that chocolate cake mixes are not significantly higher in fat or calories than other flavors, adds the specialist.

Abundant Life

By BOB WEAR

The present is very important, and this attitude toward the present must be part of the ongoing view of life. Accepting the ongoing view of living prevents what would otherwise be the weariness, discouragement and the boredom of day-to-day living. This view provides something worthwhile to which to look forward, even when the events of the day are disappointing, or repulsive to the point of boredom, or seem to be over-burdening, or perhaps they are frustrating. Even when the day-to-day experiences are pleasant, the ongoing view is justified.

Living is, for most of us, a mixture of good days and bad days. In the ongoing view, the good days will be a foretaste of better days to come, and the bad days will be left behind in the fading past, and the memory of them grows dim as we move along. In our full acceptance of the ongoing view of living, we will let it mean everything that it can and should mean, including our personal progressiveness by the process of growth and development.

We will be doing this, even when it seems that our present circumstances are something less than desirable. The truth is that the full effect of the ongoing concept, if we will permit it to have its full impact upon us, prevents, in a very real sense, the bad days from being bad days. With the ongoing view, we will never permit any day, good or bad, to be big enough to stagnate our living processes, or big enough to discolor the whole experience of living.

The ongoing view of living enables us to stay on friendly terms with life.

Wertenberger nominated for Woman of Year

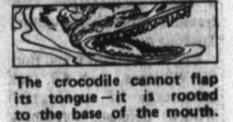

Lottie Wertenberger, president of the Dawn Extension Club was selected as the club's nominee for woman of the year when the group met Friday at the Dawn Community Center.

Ms. Wertenberger presided as roll call was answered with "the one thing I have accomplished this year." It was announced that the club project this year will be the Dawn Community Center.

New officers were installed by Louise Walker, county extension agent.

Others present were Helen Caraway, Doris Johnson, Lula McCabe, Mary Alice Frye, and Lazelle Fowler.

The next meeting will be Feb. 17, with Ms. Johnson as hostess.

Freezing temperatures may hurt food quality

COLLEGE STATION - Those canned green beans you have stored in the garage may taste a little mushy when you finally get around to eating them, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension foods and nutrition specialist.

"A decrease in quality or texture may be noticeable in canned foods which were stored in garages or sheds during December's freezing temperatures," says Dr. Alice Hunt.

If you haven't already, check stored foods now for broken seals and cracks in jars or bulging cans, says the specialist. These foods will not be safe to eat and should be discarded, she adds. Persons with specific questions about the safety of canned goods should contact their county extension office.

From the Lodge

By SUSAN OWENS

It's snowing at Sippapu and Camp Fire is going skiing. This is a family trip so grab your parkas and ski boots and let's go!

The buses will leave the lodge at 4 a.m. Saturday and will arrive at Sippapu around 10 a.m. Mountain time. We will stay at Camp Summer Life Saturday night and will return to the Camp Fire Lodge at 10 p.m. Sunday.

Booster club to nominate new officers

New officers will be nominated at the next meeting of the Hereford High School Band and Orchestra Booster Club, set for 7 p.m. Monday at the HHS band hall. The spring concert and the band and orchestra banquet to be held in May will also be discussed. All members are encouraged to attend this meeting.

Gilliland speaks to Genealogy Society

John Gilliland of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home addressed members of the Deaf Smith County Genealogy Society Thursday at their regular January meeting.

Information of a genealogical nature that can be found in funeral homes was the topic of discussion, with Gilliland pointing out that the list of survivors and their place of residence can be a valuable source of information.

Funeral home records also list place of burial, so a relative seeking information could go to the cemetery and obtain information from the headstone. Gilliland also said funeral home records provide the proper dates so family members can find the obituary in old newspapers.

Gilliland said records at Gilliland-Watson go back to March 15, 1909. He presented two books to the society to be placed in the genealogy section of the Deaf Smith County Library. One volume lists every mortuary in Texas while the other contains the names of all mortuaries in the United States that belong to the National Funeral Directors Society.

Head Librarian Dianne Pierson instructed the group on how to order census records through the library.

Judge orders Continental Airlines to settle strike

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal bankruptcy judge has ruled that Continental Airlines filed for reorganization to keep its planes flying while it caught its financial breath and not, as striking workers contend, to break union contracts.

But U.S. Bankruptcy Judge R.F. Wheelless also ordered the airline Tuesday to devise a definitive proposal for settlement of strikes by the pilots, flight attendants and machinists.

The ruling rejected arguments that Continental was trying to break union contracts by claiming it was going broke and it allows the airline to remain protected from creditors under Chapter 11 of federal bankruptcy laws.

"One of the purposes of the bankruptcy code is to give a business an opportunity to catch its financial breath, propose a plan to reorganize and to thereby allow it an opportunity to cure its financial ills and continue in business. No small part of this purpose is to preserve jobs," Wheelless said in the 12-page opinion.

James Linsey, an attorney for the Air Line Pilots Association, said the union was disappointed and would appeal the decision.

"The judge rejected our motion but he seemed to say that the company was obligated to come up with a new proposal. The ball is clearly in the company's court," Linsey said. "We have said before that we were willing to make concessions in order to return the company to profitability. We'll just have to wait and see what the company comes back with."

Continental broke off negotiations with striking pilots last month because of a demand by the union that the airline replace currently active pilots with returning strikers. The company refused and walked away from the bargaining table.

Barry Simon, vice president and general counsel for Continental said the airline is "always willing" to negotiate.

Wheelless said that "all parties must be prepared to certify that all settlement negotiations have been exhausted" on Jan. 30, the date scheduled for a hearing on efforts to overturn union contracts.

In his ruling, the judge said Continental filed for reorganization in September only after its management felt it had "no acceptable alternative if it were to have a chance to keep the airline flying."

"Had the airline not filed its Chapter 11 proceeding when it did, it would not have been flying for very much longer, its 6,000 employees would now be out of a job or working elsewhere and its ability to reorganize would have been further seriously impaired," the opinion said.

Phil Bakes said the ruling was a "clear sign that we did what we had to do to save Continental."

"The court has stated that Continental acted in good faith in order to preserve jobs and provide a viable future for the airline and its employees," Bakes said.

Continental filed for reorganization on Sept. 24. It shut for three days, then resumed flights on a severely reduced schedule, using only about one-third of its 12,000 employees. Those workers, in turn, put in longer hours for about half their previous pay.

Pilots and flight attendants went on strike a week later, joining striking machinists.

The unions have argued that Continental, once the nation's eighth-largest carrier, filed for protection Sept. 24 as part of a scheme planned months ahead of time to void union contracts and force employees to take huge pay cuts.

Continental attorneys countered that the airline was a "classic" candidate for Chapter 11 reorganization because it had five-year losses of $521.9 million and had a negative net worth last September of $51.4 million.

Wheelless said he rejected the notion that the reorganization petition was "engineered" over a period of time by airline officials.

"The primary purpose of these proceedings was to keep the airline operating so as to best utilize its value. The management of the company owed this obligation to its shareholders and its creditors," the document said.

Continental hired pilots to replace the strikers and gradually has expanded operations. Airline officials have said the company expects to be back to 90 percent of its pre-petition capacity by June.

Annual membership drive gets underway

The first of two kickoff meetings was held Tuesday at the Hereford State Bank by the Tierra Blanca Boy Scout District as the annual sustaining membership drive got underway.

Meanwhile, about 120 persons attended an appreciation banquet Friday night for members of the local Boy Scouts of America organization.

Recording the drive, District Executive Kurt Clausen said the Century Campaign workers are now making calls on members of the business community.

Next Tuesday, the Community Campaign is slated to begin and volunteers are to visit individual households. All told, the district needs to raise $9,100 from the cities of Vega, Adrian, Hereford and Friona.

Clausen explained that it takes $70 per year to support a child in the Boy Scout program. While about half of the funds come through United Way allotments and other donations, the program still needs to average $35 per scout from the annual fund drive.

The drive will conclude with a victory dinner on March 22.

George Ochs served as master of ceremonies at Friday's banquet. District Commissioner Calvin Jones presented awards to honor units: Packs 32, 54, 56 and 151; Troops 16, 50, 51 and 52 and Post 125.

The National Camping Award, for active participation in camp-outs including at least one activity a month, went to Troop 51. That presentation was made by Ron Matthews, district camping chairman.

District Training Chairman Walter Kreigh presented the training award to a new leader, which went to Dale Mann of Pack 56 in Friona.

Johnny Brownlow of Troop 50 captured the coveted award of merit that goes to an outstanding volunteer. Craig Hinger made that presentation.

The keynote speaker was Steve Coneway of Hereford, a former Eagle Scout from Troop 52 and now a Pack 55 Weeblos leader. He told scouts and their parents what being a scout meant to him as a youth.

Respiratory problems

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 76 years old and have been retired for about two years. I quit smoking 20 years ago. But in 1980, I caught a cold and had an X-ray that showed emphysema in my lower right lung. When I talk or walk a lot or climb stairs, I lose my breath. I had a chronic cough for quite a few years, but nothing showed up on my X-rays until after the cold.

Please advise me as to what I can do to get relief from my breathing problem.
DEAR READER — Undoubtedly, the years of smoking before you stopped caused some damage to your lungs. But in the 20 years that have followed, your lungs should have made a major recovery from smoking. Your chronic cough probably is related to bronchitis, which also can be caused by cigarette smoking. Other air pollutants can contribute to chronic bronchitis.

As people get older they often develop some degree of emphysema. They can lose the elasticity of the small air sacs, even if they never smoked. The condition is worse in some people because of inherited medical defects that affect the air sacs' elasticity.

It is important to do anything you can to prevent progression of emphysema. That means eliminating all sources of pollution. Stay away from people who smoke. Don't allow any smoking in your house or in your environment. In the winter, be sure that your living quarters have proper moisture, as dry air can irritate the problem. Moderate exercise is often helpful, but, of course, it needs to be kept within the range of your capability. Avoid respiratory infections and have a flu shot every year.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 28 and had a bilateral tubal ligation six years ago after the birth of my second child. I am now regretting that decision and would like to undergo a reversal.

My doctor said I have a 60 percent chance of becoming pregnant after a reversal operation. Are there any risks? Is there a chance of something being wrong with the baby?

DEAR READER — You get different statistics on the success of reversal operations. Some doctors believe the rate of success is improved if the operation is performed by microsurgery. The type of surgery you had in the first place is important in determining whether a reversal operation is feasible or not.

No surgery is without risk. But the risk to you of complication is quite small in this case.

There is no reason why the baby should not be just as healthy as if you had not had the tubal ligation at all.

Budding Picasos

Graffiti artists leave signatures

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Television Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Are they budding Picasos, spray-painting moving canvases for art's sake, or are they exhibitionistic hooligans, defacing public property for their own ego's?

brightest of their work. Rarely do we see pictures of the random, vulgar scribbles that litter many subway cars. The producers, Tony Silver and Henry Chalfant, chose, instead, to let voices of authority, such as New York Mayor Ed Koch and several transit authority cops, criticize these rockin' Rembrandts.

patrolling guard dogs has been introduced in at least one subway yard, and Koch is proud of the "Dump Koch" non-endorsements scrawled on some cars. "It's the highest praise imaginable," he said. "It shows I'm getting to them."

The basic motivating force for most of the graffiti artists is identity, the knowledge that the city's millions of commuters are a captive audience for their personal statement and style. One dedicated writer says he loves the excitement of the high-voltage third rail, cops breathing down his neck and the smell of the trains.

Helps network place first

'Something About Amelia' places second

By JERRY BUCK A. Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC's movie about father-daughter incest, "Something About Amelia," got the second-highest rating of the current season — behind ABC's "The Day After" — and helped the network finish first in the Nielsen ratings for the past week.

ABC was first in the A.C. Nielsen Co. survey for the week ended Jan. 15 with a network average of 18.1. CBS was second with 16.9 and NBC was third with 15.4. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute 18.1 percent of the television homes were tuned to ABC.

Here are the week's Top 20 programs: 1. Movie—"Something About Amelia," ABC, a rating of 31.6 or 26.5 million households. 2. "60 Minutes," CBS, 27.5 or 23.0 million.

CBS, 21.5 or 18.0 million. 9. Tie—"Falcon Crest," NBC, 21.5 or 18.0 million. 10. "Knots Landing," CBS, 20.9 or 17.5 million. 11. "The Fall Guy," ABC, 20.8 or 17.4 million.

Due partly to large harvest

Soybean prices to be lower than expected

By DON KENDALL, AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soybean prices are expected to be substantially less this season than the Agriculture Department has been saying, partly because last year's harvest turned out larger than had been estimated previously.

Consequently, a new supply-and-demand analysis showed Monday, soybean prices at the farm nationally are expected to average $7.50 to $8.25 per bushel, down from a Dec. 13 projection of $7.75 to $9 per bushel. In 1982-83, soybean prices averaged about $5.65 per bushel.

The prices of corn and some other grains also were revised downward, reflecting an annual report issued by USDA last week which showed that some 1983 crops yielded slightly more than had been indicated earlier. Soybean production, for example, now is estimated at 1.6 billion bushels, up 58 million bushels from the previous forecast.

Corn production last year was estimated at 4.2 billion bushels, about 80 million more than forecast last fall but still only half as big as the record 1982 harvest of 8.36 billion bushels.

The farm price of corn was projected in Monday's report at $3.20 to $3.40 per bushel in the 1983-84 marketing year which will end on Sept. 30. That was down from the range of $3.25 to $3.55 projected on Dec. 13 but still well above the $2.70 average of last season.

A big reason for higher grain prices this season was the drought in 1983 which cut deeply into yields of many crops. Wheat escaped the main brunt of the drought, but corn, soybeans, cotton and other commodities were hurt severely.

The other main reason for lower production — and higher prices — was the PIK program which provided free payment-in-kind through surplus commodities for reducing 1983 acreages of wheat, corn, sorghum, rice and cotton.

Except for a scaled-down program for wheat, there is no PIK machinery in this year's government commodity programs. However, farmers will have to sign up in the regular programs and take some of their cropland from production in 1984 if they want to be guaranteed federal price supports and related benefits.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said that even without PIK, feed grain farmers should protect themselves by signing up in the 1984 program, thereby guaranteeing that they will be eligible for price supports next fall.

Block said he has seen many analyses which show the 1984 commodity program for feed grains will provide "at least more-than-adequate incentive" for farmers to participate. The sign-up period for the programs began Monday at local offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and will continue through Feb. 24.

The farmer who doesn't participate this year "runs a big risk" by not being eligible for government supports for next fall's corn harvest. Block told a panel of newspaper farm editors in a telephone interview.

The basic national 1984 corn price support loan rate — the amount a producer can borrow from the government by using grain as collateral — is $2.55 per bushel.

Asked how good weather, high corn yields and low prices might affect President Reagan's chances in the November election, Block said the administration has done its best to put together a balanced 1984 feed grains program.

"I'm convinced the agricultural industry has supported the president ... I am confident our friends will be there when the time comes," Block said.

In Brazos Valley

Cold prompting hunger

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Frigid weather early this winter has severely aggravated problems of hunger in the Brazos Valley, where more than a quarter of the people live in poverty, witnesses told a state Senate committee.

"In the winter we've had this year, there has to be a choice between paying the gas bill or stretching your food," Deborah Chapman told members of the Senate Interim Committee on Hunger and Nutrition Tuesday.

"Naturally, you pay the gas bill and add water to the soup if you have soup," Mrs. Chapman added.

The panel, which held two similar meetings in Houston, heard testimony from Bryan College Station area residents at a gathering on the Texas A&M University campus.

Mrs. Chapman and her husband, the Rev. J.H. Chapman of the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church in College Station, organized a free cheese distribution program.

Senators Hugh Farmer, D-Fort Worth, and John Whitmire, D-Houston, heard repeated tales of shrinking resources and worsening problems from social workers, program administrators and private providers.

Among those addressing the panel was Dr. Anne Shively, director of the Bryan area's mental health and mental retardation center, who told the senators that 26 percent of the Brazos Valley's population lives at or below federally established poverty levels.

Nobel Prize winner Dr. Norman Borlaug, a distinguished professor of international agriculture at Texas A&M, told the panel that in 50 or 60 years, the world's population and demand for food will double.

"I would like to urge that we not lose track of the continued importance of (agricultural) research to help provide for the needs of Texas, the United States and the world," he said.

The committee was established by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's office to determine the extent of hunger in Texas.

Dale Marsico, executive director of the Brazos Valley Community Action Program who testified before the committee as a private citizen, said he is worried that states will take federal block grants because of their difficulties in administering the food stamp program.

The problem with block grants is that there is no money behind them, he said, and it also would decrease the federal government's commitment to programs dealing with hunger.

Marsico said Texas should follow Mississippi's lead in requesting a two-year moratorium on changes in regulations governing the program.

"Unless there is some kind of moratorium the program will eventually cease to function," he said. "Personally, I was trying to follow the changes in food stamp regulations (over the last couple of years). I'd probably need four law degrees to figure out which regulations are currently in effect."

Forest resources comments wanted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has invited public comment to help develop a management plan for the nation's forest resources over the next half century.

R. Max Peterson, chief of USDA's Forest Service, said Tuesday the plan — an environmental statement draft — will be used to update the program specified by Congress in the 1974 Resources Planning Act. The law requires the agency to update the plan every five years to help guide managers of forest and range land through 2030.

The first program was designed in 1975 and updated in 1980. The current aim is to come up with a 1985 supplemental plan.

Peterson said the supplemental plan under consideration indicates the demand for most forest products will continue to rise rapidly. That includes state and private forestry products as well as those held by the federal government.

"Supplies also will increase, but at a slower rate, leading to a widening gap between supply and demand unless steps are taken now to prevent it," he said.

The draft report lists alternatives that will be considered during the public review. Those include a continuation of current levels of production and program operations, and alternatives for greater or less use of the resources.

One of the alternatives, called a "high productivity" option, would seek the highest output of timber "by relaxing management constraints."

Comments on the plan can be sent by April 9 to regional Forest Service offices in Missoula, Mont.; Lakewood, Colo.; Albuquerque, N.M.; Ogden, Utah; San Francisco; Portland, Ore.; Atlanta, Ga.; Milwaukee, Wis.; and Juneau, Alaska. Copies of the draft report also are available at the regional offices, the agency said.

Christopher Columbus made four trips to the New World between 1492 and 1504. He explored many parts of the Caribbean, but never once set foot in what is now called the United States.

Figuring gains, losses

Be aware of taxes on assets

By Robert Metz
(Sixth of 14 articles)
Capital assets get special treatment under the tax laws. So if you sell securities or a home — the major capital assets affecting individual taxes — you should be sensitive to the tax consequences.

In this article we discuss securities. You have a capital gain when you sell a capital asset at a profit. Capital gains are said to be long-term if you owned the asset for a year and a day or longer, short-term if held for a year or less. Only 40 percent of long-term gains are taxed. And 50 percent of net long-term capital losses ordinarily are deductible.

Conversely, 100 percent of any short-term gain is taxable and 100 percent of any short-term loss is deductible but not necessarily in the year of loss. So it makes sense for investors to hold gains for long-term status but to take losses before they become long term. Since only 40 percent of a long-term capital gain is taxable, the maximum rate of tax on the whole capital gain now stands at 20 percent. (It works this way: The 50 percent bracket is the highest and 40 percent of that is 20 percent.)

You must complete Schedule D to claim capital gains and losses. In completing the schedule, first report all short-term transactions on line 1. Each transaction is reported individually, with date acquired, date sold, sales proceeds received and price paid, to arrive at a net gain or loss for each transaction. After all short-term transactions are recorded, offset gains against losses for a net gain or net loss for short-term transactions.

Follow the identical procedure with your long-term transactions on line 9. Tally the net gain or loss within the group. Line 10 is where you must enter any long-term gain you realize from the sale of a home. Other lines in this section allow you to report your gain or loss from a partnership or a small business corporation, as well as capital gains you get through dividends. On line 19, you total all your long-term gains and long-term losses.

Finally, on line 20 (not shown in the sample accompanying this article), combine your net short-term position with your net long-term position. If you have gains in each category, add 40 percent of your long-term gains to your total short-term gains. This amount is then transferred to line 13, form 1040, where it will be combined with other taxable income.

If, in combining the net short-term and the net long-term positions, you arrive at a net long-term loss, only one-half of that loss is deductible. The maximum loss that can be deducted against other income is $3,000 in any one year. This means that it will take $6,000 in long-term losses to provide a $3,000 deduction. If the losses total more than $6,000, the excess can be carried forward to your 1984 return. This maneuver, logically enough, is called a carry-over.

It is possible for a taxpayer to have carry-overs of both short-term and long-term losses. In this situation, the short-term loss carry-over is applied first. Once it is exhausted, apply long-term loss carry-over. The earlier year's carry-overs are always applied first.

When carried over, losses retain their original character — either long-term or short-term and are subject to the applicable rules.

Although net long-term losses must be divided by two before being subtracted from ordinary income to the $3,000 limit, the carry-over is not divided by two before being carried over. In 1984, the carry-over can be applied just as if it had been incurred in that year. And if there are no long-term gains in 1984, the long-term loss carry-over can be applied dollar-for-dollar in canceling out short-term gains. This is one way to obtain 100 percent use of your long-term losses, instead of settling for the usual 50 percent.

TAX TRAP: Remember that capital gains (except for transactions involving the sale of your personal residence) may result in having the alternative minimum tax apply. Next: Keogh plans

SCHEDULE D (FORM 1040) Capital Gains and Losses (Examples of property to be reported on this Schedule are gains and losses on stocks, bonds, and similar investments, and gains (but not losses) on personal assets such as a home or jewelry.) 18 Long-term capital loss carryover from years beginning after 1969
19 Net long-term gain or (loss), combine lines 17 and 18
20 Net long-term gain or (loss), combine lines 17 and 18. However, if you have capital loss carryovers from years beginning before 1970, do not complete Part II or V. See Form 4798 instead.

This is the portion of Schedule D used for listing long-term gains and losses. Short-term gains and losses are on the top half of the same page which is not shown on this sample.

Mulligan's Stew

Wrong to withdraw from UNESCO

NEW YORK (AP) — This country, alas and at last, apparently is doing something meaningful about the Third World. Like joining it. Now definitely is the wrong time for us to withdraw from UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. Any day soon Amadou Mahtar M'bow, the agency's Senegalese director general, will be sending forth teams of experts from UNESCO's concrete and glass headquarters in Paris to deal with our Third Worldly problems of trains that don't run, buses that break down, hotels without heat or hot water and chaotic traffic compounded to the point of utter madness by traffic signals that don't signal. The "new world information order," as called for by a majority of Third World and communist nations at the 1980 UNESCO general conference in Belgrade, was meant to curb this sort of negative reporting, but now that breakdowns in the urban system are a way of daily life in the West's most advanced democracy and the so-called richest nation on earth, the point may be moot. For example, three winter days spent in the Big Apple, which deludes itself with boasts of being the most cosmopolitan city in the universe, confirm our eligibility for membership in the Third World. On the first day there was no hot water in our hotel (name supplied on demand), a once fashionable Park Avenue hostelry that prides itself on being "Swiss run." Not like a jeweled watch however, more like a cuckoo clock. "The assistant manager is well aware of the problem," a sniffling voice at the reception desk handled my complaint. "The guests are even more aware of it," I scored a touche with the epee of my wrath and she promised to dispatch an engineer. On the second day, with temperatures down in the teens, the heat in the room conked out completely. The assistant manager was aware of that problem, too, probably from the moment his carnation shriveled up and died.

Presumably he never jammed aboard the only one of the four elevators that was operating. The faucets wheezed and gaped and provoked an Anvil Chorus in the overhead pipes but never coughed up anything in the fluid state.

A cup of mushrooms is rich in niacin and iron, and makes a low calorie treat for the diet-conscious.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — It peeves me when I have accumulated and sent in the required proofs of purchase, then fail to receive the promised refund. Have you any suggestions other than boycotting the products? — TED
DEAR TED — Write to the manufacturer and ask for that refund! If the offer has not expired, you can write to the same clearinghouse address to which you sent the original refund request. If the offer has expired, or if you get no satisfaction from the clearinghouse, write to the manufacturer. Address your letter to the Customer Service Department. (Most manufacturers' addresses are on the labels of their products, or you can find them in a business directory or almanac.) Always keep some record of refund offers you send for, and also keep copies of any follow-up letters requesting unrecieved refunds. Most refunders and coupon clippers have found manufacturers very helpful in dealing with complaints. So write those letters — and good luck! — POLLY

FOOD AWARENESS

By Ann Crowley
R.D., Ph.D.

Cheese

Cheese is one of our most nutritious protein foods. Because it is made from milk it has similar nutrients that are available in milk.

The three major nutrients are found in cheese. It is an excellent source of protein for building body tissues. An ounce of cheese has about the same protein value as an egg. This is also true of the fat level. Most cheeses contain 7 grams of fat in one ounce. An egg has 6 grams of fat. Like all animal fats it does contain cholesterol, only much less than found in an egg. An ounce of cheese contains only 20 to 30 milligrams of cholesterol.

Low fat cheese is available in your supermarket. These are produced from milk with a lower butterfat content. You will read on the label "skim milk" or "part skim milk." These cheeses are also lower in calories.

Cheese is an excellent source for calcium and phosphorus. Calcium and phosphorus are minerals that are needed by the body throughout life. Next to milk, cheese is the best source of these minerals. If one cannot drink milk, then eating cheese for its nutritional value is a very good idea.

Besides all the nutritional advantages, it also tastes great.
