Reagan Wants Assessment Of Economy Before Choosing Cuts

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -President Reagan, choosing among three Pentagon options for trimming defense spending, wants an overall assessment of the nation's economy before deciding how deep the cuts will have to be.

The Office of Management and Budget had suggested alternative spending reductions for fiscal 1983 of about $4 billion to about $10 billion and in fiscal 1984 from $8.5 billion to $17.2 billion.

Top Reagan aides have said the president is prepared to cut up to $30 billion from the projected defense budget for those two years as part of a broader plan to further trim federal spending as he continues to aim for a balanced budget in 1984.

The president scheduled a working lunch with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig and Secretary of Defense

A&A Coating Plant Should Be Operational by Oct. 1

By BOB NIGH MANAGING EDITOR

Preparations for the opening of the A&A Coating plant, located in southeast Hereford, are currently underway, and the job supervisor estimates that the plant will be in full operation by Oct. 1, weather permitting.

The initial project for the new plant here is the coating of 400 miles of 20-inch, heavy pipe for a gas line, which will run from Walsenburg, Colo. to Seminole, Texas.

"Our part of the project is to coat the pipe with coal tar to specifications, and ship it out on trucks," Earlywine explained. "We anticipate being here on this project for about six or seven months."

Earlywine said that the chance of further projects by the plant is good. "We hope that some of the major gas companies will have some projects that some through here," he said. "A study has

Texas Search For Medfly 'Fruitless'

DALLAS (AP) - Harsh words are buzzing between Texans and Californians over the Mediterranean fruit fly, but so far a search for the pest in the Lone Star State has been fruitless.

Worried by reports of spreading infestations in California, hundreds of Texans are calling state officials with reports that they have found medflies in their backyards. But E.W. Wesley of the Dallas district of the Texas agriculture department said none of the insects found is the real thing.

Everybody in Houston thinks they've seen a medfly,' said Mary Ann De Grant, an Agriculture Department of-"The first question we ask is what size the alleged fruit fly is." said Mark Trostle, Texas medfly program director. "If it's 4 inches long, we rule it out." Medflies are smaller than a housefly. In Seattle, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said at a convention of produce growers that California Gov. Edmund G. Brown was an "idiot" for his handling of California's medfly infestation. "That moonbeam, that idiot out there they've got for governor. He's not any kin to me. I want to put that in the record," the commissioner said. "All the time he said his hands were tied trying to please all the elements (environmentalists). And all the time the medfly was threatening the food supply of this nation.

Agriculture officials in Texas and other Southern states are worried that fruit flies carried in on California produce will infest growing areas in their states. Last spring, citing evironmental concerns, Gov. Brown refused to order aerial spraying of the pesticide malathion over residential areas south of San Francisco until the federal government threatened a statewide quarantine of produce. Gov. Brown's director of programs and policy, Lu Haas, said Reagan Brown is "another Texas idiot and we're not responding to him." To prevent the flies from spreading, Texas officials banned imports of California fruit in the spring, but the ban was lifted when California officials appeared to be controlling the infestation.

Late last month, Reagan Brown asked U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham for a ruling that would allow Texas to require that all California fruit entering Texas be fumigated. Higginbotham instead told the two states to

Of the 50 victims, 11 were one death. Two collisions caused six of the deaths, or 12 percent. A two-vehicle crash Mon-

Two pedestrians were among the last round of deaths reported by the DPS. Dreffni Charles Rice, 41, was struck by a car in his hometown of Crystal Beach Saturday, and konald E. Beason, 17, of Mishawaka, Ind., was hit on Interstate 20 in Eastland County Monday.

NAACP Leader Wilkins Dead

NEW YORK (AP) - Roy Wilkins, leader of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People during the turbulent two decades that followed the Supreme Court school desegregation decision, died today at New York University Medical Center. He was 80. Hospital spokesman John Deats said Wilkins, who had been in intensive care for almost two weeks, died at 9 a.m. He said doctors were trying to determine the exact cause of death. Wilkins had a history of heart trouble, dating from March 1979, when he had a pacemaker implanted to correct irregular heartbeat.

The landmark school decision of 1954 was the major achievement of the strategy Wilkins championed of attacking segregation through legal means. It was a prelude to the string of legislative triumphs in civil and voting rights that the NAACP worked to have enacted.

But also, amid searing ghetto riots and campus eruptions of the 1960s and early '70s, he and the nation's oldest and largest civil rights organization came under attack by a new generation of militants. They said the NAACP was irrelevant to modern blacks and too cozy with the white establishment.

Wilkins knew how to walk a picket line and was willing to use direct-action tactics, but believed the best weapons for advancing black Americans were lawsuits, legislative lobbying and public education. The NAACP was perceived mainly in the image of its leader, cool and low-keyed.

Raised in an era when lynchings were numerous and unpunished and most blacks were invisible and voiceless, Wilkins responded with scorn to what he characterized as young activists' blindness to history.

"It used to be that picketing, except for a labor cause, was against the law." he said. "We went to court over that and won the right for these kids to march and picket now.

"I understand their impatience. I share it. But they should have some idea what it has taken to get them the right to raise hell."

It was for then-illegal picketing in 1932 that Wilkins was arrested for the first time, protesting refusal of the attorney general to put lynching on the agenda of a na-

Couple Accused of Abusing Blind Woman

DALLAS (AP) - Police are investigating a couple suspected of abusing a 94-year-old blind woman found wounded and filthy in a bedroom of their house.

The woman was in fair condition today in a hospital where she was admitted Sunday suffering from dehydration and severe cuts and bruises.

Police suspect her adopted daughter and son-in-law of abusing the woman, but a spokesman said no charges were expected today.

On Sunday, the couple took the woman to the hospital, where she first was listed in serious condition.

Hospital personnel said she apparently had not had any water for at least 24 hours. Her left hand had a 4-inch cut to the bone.

She had open wounds on her elbow and neck and bruises on the fronts of her legs where she apparently had pumped into things, police said.

She also had "a laceration to the right jawbone, an abrasion to the right cheek (and) severe swelling and teformity of the right hand, wrist and forearm," the police report said.

The son-in-law signed a waiver allowing police to search his house, of which the woman owns half, police

Bank Bomb Found

DE KALB, Texas (AP) - A bomb squad from Arkansas was called in today to deal with an electronic device found at the back door of the Bank of DeKalb in this Northeast Texas town.

A voice over the walkie-talkie told the employee to pick up the duffle bag and fasten it around his neck.

The note said in part: "There is a rifle with a silencer pointed at you. Do what it says and you will live. Lock the chain around you and do what the note says. Instead the employee fled and notified authorities.

O' Connor Faces Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP) Sandra Day O'Connor, publicly dodging the abortion issue since her Supreme Court nomination two months ago, faces "some tough questioning" on the subject when Congress returns this week from a month-long vacation. Mrs. O'Connor, who is expected to win easy confirmation as the first female justice in the court's history, has said she is personally opposed to abortion but has declined to spell out her legal views until her confirmation hearing, which opens Wednesday

All indications are that Mrs. O'Connor, a 51-year-old Arizona appeals court judge, will coast to easy confirmation before the Senate Judiciary Committee and the full Senate.

Senators ranging from liberal Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to conservatives Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., have expressed support for Mrs. O'Connor's nomination, and Republican and Democratic leaders in the Senate have predicted that she will win confirmation.

But first, she must undergo

DEAR ANN LANDERS: so "dumb." One of your pet phrases, "If you don't use it, you'll lose it," popped up again. I wish to heaven you would drop it for

I am a divorced woman, age 47, and had not "used it" for four years. Then I met a handsome bachelor, three years my junior, who swore he had been waiting all his life for me. I melted under his charming manner and honeydripping flattery. Within a matter of weeks he sold me on "putting romance back in my life." So-I "used it" and discovered I had not lost a darned thing.

This smooth talker convinced me that it was biologically impossible to get pregnant at my age, so I became foolishly careless - and sure enough, I began to have morning nausea (which I had not experienced for 20 years). I was certain I was in a family way.

The moment I told him I was pregnant the louse checked out of my life, saying he couldn't continue to be interested ina woman who was

Adapted From Adult Fashion

Dressing Up for Back-to-School

NEW YORK (NEA) - This year, children's designers are wooing dollar-conscious mothers with multiple-style trends for back-to-school. The leading choices reflect the new ideas appearing in adult fashion.

Pants, for example, now come in adaptations of the new adult styles, such as Ruth Scharf's marine blue suspendered knickers worn with a red, white and blue reindeer-patterned sweater. She also does the jodhpur look in gray velour, with a blouse and quilted jacket in red bandanna print. More classic, culottes and shorts bid to replace the still-popular baggy jeans and Western pants.

Folkloric themes come next, taken from the Tyrol, Scandinavia, the Orient and Mexico and generalized peasant dressing. This influence pleases Florence Eiseman, who has long used Tyrolean themes. She tailors a classic Tyrolean jacket and well-cut long pants, side-stripes the pants and edges the jacket in forest green and adds Tyrolean tulip trim to the frog closing. Another version puts together a Tyrolean jacket with sleeve appliques and a navy pleated skirt.

Orientalism is often expressed in blouses, as with the purple plaid two-piece at Yves St. Laurent For Girls. But Luv-It stripes the blouse, ruffles the side closing and pairs it with laced-leg jodhpur Peasant looks can include everything from the corseleted print dress with dirndl fullness at Seibel & Stern to Florence Eiseman's classic red pleat-front dress with its hem and upper sleeve borders of woven peasant-style geometrics.

As in adult fashions, sweater dressing is a big trend, in both classics and novel fashions. Scenic patterns, argyles, figuratives, feminine embroideries and amusing appliques turn school sweatering into something more than classic. At Little World, the classic front-pleat skirt in wine is paired with a heathered camel pullover jacquard-banded in a wine motif and delicately accented with a scalloped neckline AUSTIN-The Texas Supreme Court last week upheld a lower court ruling which threw out the redistricting plan for the Texas. House of Representatives.

Immediately all eyes turned to the Redistricting Board, provided in such emergencies by the Texas Constitution, for clues to how the final redistricting map will be drawn.

Bob Armstrong. The political dynamics behind the drawing of the new redistricting plan is fascinating to politico-watchers.

A three-vote bloc will carry any cause on this fivemember board, and those who profess to be true Democrats are eager to make up for losses sustained during the regular session.

Die-hard Republicans are claiming that any gains in House seats under the thrown-out plan are minimal. Perhaps what is at issue here is how many seats will be drawn which are to be considered toss-ups in the next election, to be won by a competent candidate from either party.

The Bloc-Where? Undeniably, the most con-

Hobby is closer to the Democratic party, but not too much closer. Those who regard themselves as true Democrats fault Hobby for not standing up to Clayton and Clements during the past session.

Hobby, a Houston multimillionaire, would probably explain his stances as a protection of the conservative position, and an attempt to treat both parties fairly.

Going into the meetings, Clayton and Hobby appear to constitute two votes in a potential conservative bloc.

Opposing Bloc

Two members who might readily oppose any Clayton-Hobby alliance are Bullock and Armstrong. While they risk being labeled the liberal bloc, it is probably more accurate to say the pair is more inclined to protect the Democratic Party.

They constitute a formidable duo: Armstrong is retiring from his office and has little to lose. Bullock has a macho mystique, and not known to shirk from a heavyduty political fight.

The swing vote could well prove to be Mark White, the man who is also most likely to vote for a judicially fair

However, that law was drafted to protect the rights of minority citizens, such as Hispanics and blacks, and not to protect any political parties.

The Lobby

Still another group to be considered is the powerful group of special interest lobbyists who frequent Capitol halls. Conservative in ideology and untied to either party, they band together to contribute campaign money to their favorite officials and candidates. How much influence they will have as a group on the five redistricting officials remains to be seen.

Martin Indicted

State Rep. Mike Martin. R-Longview, was indicted for aggravated perjury last week by a Travis County grand jury. Jurors suspect Martin lied to them about a July 31 incident in which he was wounded in the elbow by a shotgun blast.

Martin posted $5,000 and pleaded not quilty. A clean-cut looking young man who carried the "creation theory" bill last session, Martin is suspected of staging his own shooting for publicity purposes. The shotgun may have been fired by Martin's cousin, who has told police the shooting was rehearsed, then faked.

Mrs. Capute, a nurse with three years' experience, has said she was following the doctor's orders when she injected Mrs. Leanues with what she claimed was less medication than was contained in previous doses.

Two other nurses who were on duty with Mrs. Capute are also charged. Registered nurses Nancy Robbins, 26, of Taunton and Judith Foley, 30, of Foxboro were indicted with Mrs. Capute last August on charges of murder and illegally distributing and administering a controlled substance.

Both have pleaded innocent and face separate trials in the case that Pina, a former state legislator, says could set needed standards in the way doctors and hospitals care for terminally ill patients.

Mrs. Capute's trial is expected to be a long one with the likelihood that jury selection will take a week.

Defense attorney Pat Piscitelli said the longdelayed trial comes as a relief to his client, who was suspended from Morton Hospital in Taunton after the investigation. Mrs. Capute, a mother of seven, has been unable to find another nurs-

Nurse Faces 'Mercy-Killing'

The trial is at least the third case in recent years in which hospital personnel were accused of the "mercy killings" of their patients.

In 1979 Mary Rose Robaczvnski, a 24-year-old nurse at Maryland General Hospital in Baltimore was charged with murder for allegedly stopping a patient's respirator. A mistrial was declared and the state dropped the charges after Ms. Robaczynski agreed to surrender her nursing license.

Last year, Jani Adams, a nurse at a Las Vegas hospital, was charged with disconnecting a patient's life support system in a case dubbed "the Angel of Death." The charges against the 32-year-old nurse were thrown out because of lack of evidence.

This year, state and local officials began investigating 25 mysterious deaths of elderly patients at Community Hospital of the Valleys in Perris, Calif. The investigation, expanded to several other hospitals, found that at least nine deaths may have been caused by lethal doses of lidocaine, a drug commonly used to regulate erratic heart

Hurricane Floyd Loses Punch, But Bermuda Gets Prepared

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) - Islanders shuttered storm windows and schools were closed here today as a tamed Hurricane Floyd whirled through the western Atlantic bearing 75 mph

Meanwhile, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands felt the effects of tropical storm Gert, which was moving through the northeast Caribbean.

"People are pretty well" drilled here," said Sgt. John Instone at Bermuda Police Headquarters. "And Floyd has apparently lost his punch.

Instone said the winds apparently had shifted and the brunt of the storm would be felt about 60 nautical miles south of Bermuda. A light drizzle fell this morning.

"Of course these things are very fickle," he said.

About "2,000 tourists seasoned" to tropical storms were "stranded" today, Instone said. "They're just enjoying an extra day," he added. There were reports that some airlines had cancelled flights to and from the island today.

Businesses were open today and the sergeant said Bermudians and their guests "are playing it by ear."

Forecasters had earlier predicted Floyd's center would pass this morning just south of Bermuda, which has 55,000 residents and 10,000 visitors.

The hurricane's winds had dropped from 100 mph to 75 mph, said Miles Lawrence, a forecaster at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

"Floyd is just a minimal hurricane now," Lawrence said. "It also looks like the organization of Floyd's clouds was interrupted by the wind field from Emily."

Emily, slowly weakening, was downgraded Monday from a hurricane to a tropical storm in the North Atlantic.

"Bermuda's probably not going to get it too bad. although it's not absolutely clear yet what's going to happen," Lawrence said.

At 6 a.m. EDT, the center of Floyd was near latitude 31.0 north and longitude 66.0 west, or about 100 miles southwest of Bermuda. It was moving northeast at about 10 mph.

Gert's highest winds were about 45 mph, with gales extending out 50 miles to the north and 25 miles to the south. Small craft in the Leeward Islands, Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico were advised to stay in port.

At 6 a.m. EDT, Gert was centered near latitude 16.0 north and longitude 63.5 west, or 240 miles southeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico. Forecasters said Gert, moving almost due west at 20 mph, was expected to turn gradually toward the northwest sometime during the

Philadelphia Teachers Set Up Picket Lines; Others On Strike in Midwest

By The Associated Press

Philadelphia teachers angry over layoffs and wage freezes set up picket lines today, while a walkout threatened in Boston over the same issues was postponed for two weeks.

Teachers elsewhere in Pennsylvania and in Michigan were also on strike.

"The mood of the teachers is ugly," said Mel Driban, a vice president of the 22,000-member Philadelphia Federation of Teachers. School starts Thursday for the city's 224,000 students. and teachers were due in today to start preparing.

'This is not the strike that we're used to being involved in," Driban said. "Our contract has been abrogated."

Philadelphia's 13,000 teachers struck for 22 days last year. The rest of the union members are not

Schools spokesman Elliott Alexander said officials planned to open classes on schedule, despite the strike. Picket lines were set up at school district offices and at the district's 270 school buildings, union officials said. The dispute centers on the Philadelphia school district's plan to lay off 3,500 workers and deny teachers a 10 percent wage increase promised in a two-year contract reached after last year's strike. School administrators, facing an estimated $223 million budget deficit, say they do not have the money to grant the raises. Philadelphia teachers earn an average of $24,443 for a 10-month year.

In Boston, where school starts Wednesday, teachers voted to strike in two weeks unless their dispute with the city is settled.

'We're willing to go the extra mile," Kathleen Kelley, president of the Boston Teachers Union, said Monday after a closed, five-hour union meeting called to take a strike vote.

About 2,500 teachers, by a show of hands, authorized the union's executive committee to call a strike Sept. 21, unless "circumstances change and the crisis we face is resolved," Ms. Kelley said.

The union is angered by layoffs of approximately 1,000 teachers and a freeze on wages, measures the School Committee said were required to meet budget cutbacks.

Earlier this month, the Boston union's leadership urged that teachers strike today, one day before the city's 119 schools open their doors for 60,000 students. Ms. Kelley said the union's executive board met Sunday night and decided to remend postponing the strike, while seeking to reach an

Another 18,166 teachers in the state have no contracts, said Harry Boyes of the union. He estimated strikes by those teachers could idle 368,561 pupils in 129 districts.

Excluding Philadelphia, 1,359 teachers in nine districts remained on strike in Pennsylvania, affecting 25,800 students.

Most of the strikes stemmed from wage disagreements or failure to reach contracts. Teachers in the Lehighton Area School District in northeastern Pennsylvania struck over demands for a pupil-teacher ratio in their contract.

In southern Illinois. teachers on strike in O'Fallon over wages ratified a contract Monday with School District 90. Since the 78 teachers walked off their jobs on Aug. 25, classes had been canceled for 1,700 elementary and junior high school students.

Negotiators for the District 45 school board and teachers in the Chicago suburb of Villa Park reached a tentative agreement Monday, ending a walkout that began Aug. 31 over class size and preparation time. The district's 220 teachers agreed to report to class today, the scheduled first day of school for 3,800 pupils.

Walesa defeated an attempt at the independent union's first national congress to divide his unified command, but he still faces a battle to dilute the national leadership's power.

The congress voted Monday not to separate the 12-member presidium from the larger national coordination commission. The vote was regarded as a victory for Walesa since it allows him to retain leadership of both groups.

Several delegates, however, are mounting an effort to dilute that victory by giving more autonomy to the union's regional chapters.

Walesa, who will be up for re-election later in the congress, wants to maintain strong central control of the union's 9.5 million members. "We're going for a struggle generals from big regions,' Walesa said, proposing a permanent resident leadership group in Gdansk to carry out initiatives taken by the national union executive representing the 40-plus regional locals.

Leszek Sobieszak, a Gdansk delegate who was one of the founders of the union during the strike last summer in this Baltic port city, attacked the proposal. He said the regions "should govern ourselves very strong and the presidium (of Solidarity) should only represent us." Another battle appeared to be brewing over "workers' self-management," the participation of workers in the management of their factories, including production plans and a voice in the hiring and firing of the bosses. Taking a lesson from the Yugoslavs, Solidarity is pushing this as a way to correct the mess Communist planners have made of the Polish economy.

The government is to submit legislation on the subject to Parliament in the next week. The Communist Party Central Committee told the government last week not to give in to the union's demand that the w kers be given full freedom to have and fire and make production decisions.

The congress was to vote today on proposals to hold a national referendum on workers' participation in the managerial process.

In the northwest city of Bydgoszcz, meanwhile, 160 prisoners who barricaded themselves in the local jail ended their revolt Monday after militia units surrounded the building, local Solidarity officials said.

President Reagan, snubbed by unions at the nation's largest Labor Day parade, says he wants to walk next year with workers who marched several thousand strong in New York and angrily denounced him as a foe of labor.

Reagan made a brief visit to New York on Monday, donned a hard hat and presented an outsized U.S. Treasury check for $85 million to Mayor Edward Koch for the Westway highway project Reagan had promised as a candidate. The president also was criticized by labor officials and Democrats at rallies, parades and speeches across the country on the day unions used to mark the beginning of the 100th year of the organized labor movement in the DALLAS (AP) - Rookie free agent Everson Walls says he was more nervous in college than he was going against the Washington Redskins Sunday

"In college I didn't know what to expect because my first game for Grambling in New York at Yankee Stadium," said the Dallas Cowboys' cornerback who had one of their four intercep-tions in a 28-10 National Football League victory over the Redskins.

I was kind of used to the heat in professional football because I played a lot against Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, Houston and Green Bay in the preseason," he said.

Walls intercepted a pass in the fourth quarter off the arm of quarterback Joe Theismann to help beat back at Redskin rally.

He was in the game because Steve Wilson had been felled by heat cramps.

"The crowd was so loud the teams were eliminated on each hole. The derby went eight holes before Stagner and Nieman were the only team left. Tom Coneway and Howard Engle finished second, and Jeff Loerwald and Pick Harman were third.

The tournament included bridge and gin games for the ladies, as well as a tennis tourney. Participants had a buffet dinner Sunday evening and a champagne brunch Monday morning.

All 4-5A Teams Win Openers

BY BOB NIGH

Before the 1981 season began the so-called experts were having a tough time settling on a favorite for the District 4-5A grid race, and results over the first weekend of play haven't helped clear the air much.

All five loop teams walked away with opening-game victories, with three of the quintet posting shutouts. Along with Hereford's 21-0 pasting of Pampa, Lubbock High blanked Lamesa 7-0, and Plainview beat a highlyexplosive Estacado team by the same 7-0 count.

Coronado edged Wichita Falls 9-7, and Monterey, a team regarded as on the downswing after dominating loop play in the past, defeated Canyon 17-7.

While things on the South Plains were rosy for the first week, the northern 5A teams probably wished the season could have been pushed back a week. All five District 3-5A squads posted opening-game defeats.

Hereford handled Pampa 21-0, while Odessa shut out Amarillo High 19-0, Odessa Ector beat Caprock 20-14, Clovis whipped Palo Duro 33-13, and Midland squashed Tascosa by a 31-12 margin.

Hereford's Alan Wartes hit on seven of 16 pass attempts and saw a handful more bounce off nervous receivers' hands during the Herd's 21-0 shellacking of the Harvesters. For his effort Wartes was named 5A offensive player of the week by the Amarillo newspaper.

"Alan threw the ball in the first half as well as I've seen him throw in three years," HHS coach Don Cumpton said. "He was right on the money.'

Things don't get much better this week for the Amarillo schools with Palo Duro visiting Hereford, Amarillo High meeting defending state champ Odessa Permian, Tascosa playing Plainview, Pampa traveling to Dumas, and Caprock hosting El Paso Andress.

Monterey hosts Wichita Falls Rider Saturday, while Coronado plays crosstown rival Lubbock Dunbar, and Lubbock High hosts the hungry Estacado Matadors.

HOUSTON (AP) Houston Oiler Coach Eddie Biles said the 1981 offense would not be predictable and he was right.

Who could have predicted the improbable ending to Sunday's 27-20 comeback victory over Los Angeles - rookie Willie Tullis darting 95 yards for a touchdown on the kickoff with less than a minute to play, after the Rams had tied the score.

"I saw the hole and I couldn't believe this was happening," said Tullis, a rookie from Troy State.

"We want to do something to win," Biles said. "We don't want to play conservative and hope something bad happens to the other team. We want to make something bad happen to the other team."

Biles was by no means ready to make Super Bowl reservations, however.

"We can't win the division playing the way we did yesterday," Biles said. "We have a long way to go, we've got to improve in many areas.'

Stabler may force Biles to reconsider his thinking about having quarterbacks go through the rigors of training

Stabler ended a brief retirement and looked in old form after only seven days of practice. He completed 13 of 20 passes for 192 yards and two touchdown passes that rallied the Oilers from a 17-6 halftime defficit.

Despite Upset Victory

Oilers Must Improve,

"Kenny played well for us but he'll be the first to admit he's not in the type of condi-tion that he'd like to be," Biles said. "His timing will get better too and we're all going to have to get better." Campbell, who was supposed to get some rest this season under the new diversified Oiler offense, didn't find it against the Rams.

Campbell carried 27 times for 122 yards and caught two passes for 34 yards against the Rams and didn't get

"I never said we weren" going to utilize Campbell's talents," Biles said. "What I said was we were going to be in a position to do some other things too. We had about a 2-1. run-pass ratio and that's about what we wanted. We want to keep the defense off balance."

Campbell suffered a bruised shoulder in the fourth! quarter, but Biles said the injury was not serious.

The Oilers resume! workouts Tuesday for Sunday's battle against AFC Central Division foe Cleveland.

PUBLIC NOTICE ON REGISTERING LIVESTOCK BRANDS

The attorney general is reminding every citizen who has registered a brand prior to Aug. 30, 1981 that citizens must re-register each brand with the county clerk within six months in order to protect their right to it. If everyone follows the registration schedule set out by the law, county clerks will have a correct, revised set of records every ten years, and there should be no dispute about the correct ownership of livestock.

To register or re-register marks and brands, the livestock owner may obtain forms either by mail or in person from his or her county clerk's office. There will be blank spaces on the form in which to describe the mark or brand and the location on the animal where the brand is recorded.

The forms should then be mailed or delivered in person to the county clerk, who will keep the forms in an indexed bound volume or on microfilm for easy reference.

Cardiac Kids 'Arrested' by Chargers

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) - The Cleveland Browns have long been called the Kardiac Kids. Call them victims of cardiac arrest today.

The Browns stood around Monday night, watching San Diego's Dan Fouts bomb them into submission and Chuck Muncie run over and around them at will. And what was supposed to be a close, down-to-the-gun game - as most of Cleveland's have been in the past few years - was a 44-14 laugher for the Chargers.

Fouts came out throwing, as he was expected to do. He didn't stop until he'd completed 19 of 25 passes (15 in a row at one stretch) for 330 yards and three touchdowns. Muncie started off in high gear and didn't stop until he'd amassed 161 yards (equalling his single-game career high) and a touchdown. Fouts' passing and Muncie's running accounted for 49 of the Chargers' 66 plays from scrimmage.

It was also supposed to be a two-sided air show. And it was that. On the losing side was Brian Sipe, the National Football League's passing champion and Most Valuable Player a year ago. Try as he might to keep things from getting out of hand (he threw the ball 57 times and completed 31, both club records, for 375 yards), he and the Browns were simply overmatched. Cleveland's only touchdowns were Sipe's passes of 18 yards to Ricky Feacher and 4 yards to Greg Pruitt.

"We expected a shootout," said Browns Coach Sam Rutigliano, "but we didn't expect it to be so one-sided."

Fouts said he felt the derision directed at the Chargers for their lack of a ground game in 1980 (16th in the league in rushing despite the arrival of Muncie from New Orleans in the fifth game). was somehow pivotal in the enormity of their victory.

"They heard a lot of things about not being able to run the ball," Fouts said. "I think it got to them."

By the end of the first quarter the Chargers were in control 10-0, thanks to a 4-yard touchdown run by James Brooks, San Diego's No.1 draft choice, and a 50-yard field goal by Rolf Benirschke.

It was just before that first field goal (Benirschke was also good on kicks of 43 and 33 yards later in the game) that Fouts really took control.

He completed 15 in a row. two shy of the NFL record Baltimore's Bert Jones set in 1974. They accounted for 202 of Fouts' yards and two of his touchdowns, 13 yards to Brooks and 4 yards to Hank Joiner was Fouts' favorite target, catching the ball six times for 191 yards. Two of the passes went for 51 yards (on the first play after Sipe had passed to Pruitt for the Browns' third-period TD) and 57 yards (right after Sipe was incomplete to Dave Logan in the end zone on fourth down later in the period). And Fouts' final bomb was the final nail in the coffin, 38 yards to Ron Smith for a touchdown with 4:20 to play.

So in control were the Chargers that, with the exception of the two possessions when they ran out the clock at the end of each half, they scored eight of the 10 times they had the ball. And they averaged an 8.1-yard gain on every snap of the ball.

On Sunday, last season's Super Bowl competitors met with different fates. The NFL champion Oakland Raiders were held scoreless after their opening possession and turned the ball over three Broncos as Dan Reeves was a winner in his first game as Denver's head coach. But the defending NFC champion Philadelphia Eagles had a much happier time, beating the Giants for the 12th straight game, limiting New York to 55 yards rushing and sacking Giants quarterback Phil Simms six times for 66 yards in losses in a 24-10 triumph. Two other coaches making their debuts at the helm of NFL teams got mixed results. The Dallas Cowboys spoiled Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs initial outing, riding the strong passing of Danny White - who threw TD tosses off 33 yards to Billy Joe DuPree and 42 yards to Drew Pearson — and the 132 yards rushing by Tony Dorsett to a victory over Washington. Texas' other team, the Houston Oilers. surprised the Los Angeles Rams 27-20 when rookie Willie Tullis returned a kickoff 95 yards for the winning score with 57 seconds left. Houston quarterback Ken Stabler, with just a week of practice under his belt after ending a six-week retirement, hit 13 of 20 passes - including 7-for-7 in the second half - for 192 yards and a pair of touchdowns. The Houston victory made the coaching debut of Ed Biles a

Wallace Francis. Buffalo QB Joe Ferguson had an enjoyable day, throwing for 255 yards and two scores as the Bills blanked the New York Jets 31-0. Miami beat St. Louis 21-6 as David Woodley passed to defense in a 9-7 loss to the Jimmy Cefalo for a pair of TDs. The Cardinals' offense was stymied after a firstquarter injury to quarterback Jim Hart.

> In a pair of upsets, Kansas City took advantage of Pittsburgh's generosity — the Steelers lost five of eight fumbles and two interceptions and missed two PATs for a 37-33 shocker, and Baltimore edged New England 29-28 as rookie Randy McMillan rushed for 146

Healthy Bonds Lifts Cubs Over St. Louis

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

As a member of the St. Louis Cardinals last year, Bobby Bonds could hardly hit his way out of anything.

Playing for the Chicago Cubs Monday, he hit two out of the Cardinals' Busch Stadium.

"I just wasn't able to perform last year," said Bonds after his two homers and five RBI helped the Cubs beat his former team 10-0. "The only difference this year is that I'm healthy. I'm not going to make any excuses for it, but it's hard enough to hit in the big leagues with two hands, let alone one hand."

Bonds, acquired by the Cardinals in a December 1979 trade from the Cleveland Indians, suffered an injured right hand when he was struck by a pitch seven games into the 1980 season and only hit one homer at Busch Stadium last season.

He hit .203 for St. Louis in 86 games and was released at the end of the season. Bonds signed on last spring with Wichita of the American Association and was brought up by the Cubs in May. In other National League action, Houston nipped Atlanta 3-2, Cincinnati stopped San Diego 8-7, Montreal edged Philadelphia 5-4, Los Angeles trimmed San Francisco 5-1 and Pittsburgh swept a doubleheader from New York 2-1 and 5-4.

The 35-year-old Bonds hit a two-run homer in the second inning and a three-run blast in the sixth to provide Doug Bird, 4-2, with more than enough support. Bill Buckner added four hits to the Cubs' attack.

Bird pitched a three-hitter, walked one and struck out three in outdueling Lary Sorensen, 7-6. The setback was the third straight for the NL East leaders.

Martin Motivates A's Over Texas

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Just because Billy Martin is suspended doesn't mean the Oakland A's manager is invisible.

Martin, who this week is sitting out the remainder of a seven-day suspension for bumping umpire Terry Cooney on May 29, was at the Oakland Coliseum Monday, watching the Texas-Oakland game on television in the clubhouse and dispensing in-

"Billy's a great motivator. Just seeing his face at the ball park makes me feel good," pitcher Mike Norris said after he picked up his first victory since Aug. 11 with a seven-hit, 2-1 decision over the Texas Rangers.

Norris, who won his 10th game in 16 decisions, made frequent visits to Martin's office during the game.

"My door was open and Mike came in. We talked about the game a little. All that the rules say is that I can't go on the field, unless they changed the rules," said Martin, who has two days left in the suspension.

In other American League games, New York beat Milwaukee 4-2, Seattle trip-
