Doggett says he's set to face Gramm

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - State Sen. Lloyd Doggett, saying the closeness of the race for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination has steeled him for another fight, declared himself ready to meet Republican candidate Phil Gramm in November.

"After facing adversaries as formidable as Congressman Kent Hance and Ambassador Bob Krueger, I am very well prepared to meet Phil Gramm in the general election," Doggett said Wednesday. "I'm very pleased to be the Democratic nominee."

The totals from a recount of the June 2 primary runoff, released by the state Democratic party late Wednesday, gave Doggett a 1,345-vote victory. The final tally was 491,251 for Doggett and 489,906 for Hance in uncertified results. The party's executive committee was to meet in Houston today to certify the results.

Doggett, an Austin liberal, bested the Lubbock conservative by 467 votes in the June 2 runoff. Aides to each said both men picked up some votes in the recount that Hance requested, but Doggett almost tripled his victory margin.

Asked if Hance promised to support him in the race against Gramm, Doggett replied, "He did."

Hance, interviewed in Washington, declined to concede, but offered comments that indicated he was losing the recount.

"I'm a viable candidate for Runoff braced him

statewide office again. This is the only time you could ever get beat in a race and not be considered a loser," Hance said.

"I was happy as a university professor, I was happy as a lawyer, I was happy as a state senator and I'll be happy in whatever I do next time," he added.

One Hance aide, who asked not to be identified, suggested that if the final recount showed Hance behind, he might formally concede at the state Democratic Party convention in Houston this weekend.

The recount will cost Hance between $50,000 and $70,000, campaign and party officials estimated.

Under state law, the political parties are responsible for tabulating results of primary elections.

Camille Burger, director of primaries for the Texas Democratic Party, said the party's final recount results would be presented to the State Democratic Executive Committee's meeting today.

Hance led Doggett by 273 votes in the May 5 primary, while third-place finisher Bob Krueger, a moderate and former ambassador to Mexico, finished less than 1,300 votes behind Doggett.

Doggett said Wednesday the closeness of both the primary and runoff did not reflect a major philosophical rift between liberals and conservatives inside the party, but rather were the results of two well-run campaigns.

"I think it indicates there were two strong candidates, in fact three, who worked hard and got the vote out," Doggett said.

Doggett said the state convention that opens Friday would provide "an excellent opportunity to bring together the many diverse elements of the Democratic Party. I'm confident we can do that."

He also said he had talked with Krueger, who "pledges to support the nominee."

At stake in November is the Senate seat being vacated by retiring GOP Sen. John Tower.

Doggett noted that Gramm, a Texas congressman who switched from the Democratic to Republican parties last year, had unsuccessfully challenged Sen. Lloyd Bentsen for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination in 1980.

Doggett said he hopes Gramm "will fall to an opponent named Lloyd a second time."

Gramm was one of the Democrats who supported President Reagan's tax and economic policies. Doggett said Gramm's party switch might give an extra incentive to some Democrats in November.

Calling Gramm "a bit of a switch hitter," Doggett said, "I think there are some Democrats who feel very strongly."

Walch encouraged by testing

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

It is too early to give the reading management program credit for higher achievement test scores. But, according to Assistant

Superintendent for Instruction John Walch, it is accurate to say that a trend of improvement noticeable in recent years continued last year with the controversial new reading method in place.

Walch based his statements on two sets of figures. One from the California Achievement Test evaluations and the other from a summary report of the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills tests administered to third, fifth and ninth grade students.

Walch said he was especially pleased to see that first graders scored as well as they ever have on the CAT, because the reading management program was probably the most difficult to implement at that level. First graders have for the past three years been right at the national norm in their reading skills.

Among grades two through nine, those who are reading at or above the national norm were enrolled during the past school year in grades two, three, four, six, seven and eight. Grades five and nine were only one-tenth of a point (about one month) behind the national average figure.

Walch said more good news is evident when last year's scores are compared with those of five years ago. In 1979, reading scores among all the grades tested by CAT were below the national average.

An evaluation of math scores on the CAT shows that achievement in mathematics continues to surpass that in reading among local students.

"A lot of our students have language problems that hurt their ability to read," Walch explained. "Math scores are not affected as much by a student's ability to read."

All of the grades tested showed math achievement scores at or above the national average, with the best scores recorded in grades six through nine.

"The relative strength of this program is why we're adopting a math management program next year," Walch said.

The district did its own comparison of the six elementary and intermediate school campuses based on the 1983-84 CAT scores. Walch noted that the improvement from 1983 to 1984 was highest among students at Northwest Primary School, where the reading management program is in its second year and the math management program was implemented this past year.

CAT scores in reading were also up among students at Tierra Blanca, Shirley and West Central. The averages dropped slightly among those at Aikman and Bluebonnet as compared with scores a year ago.

Math comparisons showed that West Central, Shirley and Bluebonnet students joined Northwest in raising their scores, while Aikman students stayed the same on an average and Tierra Blanca showed only a slight drop.

"These are not achievement levels, but growth from previous years," Walch pointed out. Those schools that had the highest gain from a year ago did not necessarily have the highest scores on the CAT test.

Something new this year, Walch said, was an analysis of the kindergarten students and their expected ability to learn to read next year.

"A lot of our first graders have a hard time reading," Walch commented. "This analysis will help us understand why."

Walch said one test of kindergarten students measured their oral language skills, important in preparing them for first grade reading instruction. Tests were administered at Aikman, Northwest and Tierra Blanca schools, with Aikman showing the highest number of students with oral language skills at or above their chronological age level.

The percentage at Aikman was 24 percent, while 18 percent of Northwest students and 17 percent of Tierra Blanca kindergarteners have oral language skills at or above their chronological age.

The next category was for students who were shown to possess oral language skills averaged at six months or less below their chronological

Jail bid opening scheduled

General contractor bids for proposed $1.55 million worth of work at Deaf Smith County Jail were to be opened at 2 p.m. today during a specially-called meeting of county commissioners.

Selection of the general contractor and detention equipment firms for the project is to be made at either the June 25 or July 9 regular meetings of the commission. Last Thursday, the two detention equipment bids received were opened, though only the one from Southern Steel Company was complete.

The San Antonio firm said it could do the detention equipment phase in 435 days for $487,000. Its offered price was more than $100,000 below that given by the Decatur, Ala., business Willo Products Company, Inc., which did not complete its bid.

Last year, the Texas Commission on Jail Standards ruled the local jail had to be remodeled to meet certain requirements. The major additions are to be a 30-by-30-foot outdoor recreational facility and an extension to the holding area.

Hance gains just one vote

Former Democratic Senate candidate Kent Hance, defeated June 2 by Lloyd Doggett, picked up one extra vote as a result of a recount conducted here Wednesday.

Deaf Smith County Democratic Chairman Roy Dale Messer and a staff of four spent nearly four hours going over the ballots. Witnessing the procedure were two local Hance representatives and a pair of out-of-town men for Doggett.

Doggett received 500 votes from Deaf Smith County Democrats while Hance's total was revised to be 3,435. Final results of the runoff released Wednesday evening showed Doggett defeated his Dimmitt native opponent by 1,345 tallies. Hance decided to pay for the runoff after initial results indicated he lost by 467 votes statewide.

Library circulation reported

Nine thousand, two hundred sixty-eight books were checked out of Deaf Smith County Library last month, according to the public facility's monthly report.

Children apparently did the most reading, borrowing 6,011 books; slightly more than 5,200 of them were fiction. Adults checked out 1,500 works of fiction, 1,243 of non-fiction and 465 others.

A total of 91 library cards were issued, 61 to adults and the other 30 to children.

Stanton burglarized Tuesday

Burglars at Stanton Junior High School, 711 Park Ave., made away with $1,200 to $1,600 worth of video equipment Tuesday night, Hereford police reported this morning.

Taken were a color television, video cassette recorder, 11 tapes and a video cassette cleaner. Police believe perpetrators gained entrance by breaking a gymnasium window.

Meanwhile, the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's department reported a car stereo theft occurred between 6 a.m. and 5:10 p.m. at the Swift Independent Packing parking lot off W. Highway 60. Victim of the $250 crime was Carlos Guerrero, 205 Barker.

Police arrested one man Wednesday for warrant on a theft by check charge. There were three incidents of minor theft and two motor vehicle accidents, one involving minor injuries to three people.

Handicap meeting tonight

Residents of Deaf Smith County who suffer from any form of handicap are encouraged to attend a public meeting at 7 p.m. today in the east end of Hereford Community Center.

Alex Schroeter, county auditor, called the meeting to help efforts to bring Deaf Smith in line with new federal handicap discrimination regulations. He is to field suggestions on how to make all county programs available for handicapped people.

According to the Office of Revenue Sharing in Washington, D.C., county governments which receive more than $25,000 per year in revenue sharing funds "must have a policy against handicap discrimination on admission or access, treatment or employment, in its programs and activities."

The county has until Oct. 17 to submit a self-evaluation and transition plan outlining both structural and non-structural changes which need to be made.

Street paving hearing unattended

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

No one appeared Wednesday afternoon to comment about the city's proposed application for a grant to finance street paving.

The public hearing was held in City Hall, with Hereford City Commissioners Emory Brownlow and Melvin Jayroe joined only by Mayor Wes Fisher and Dudley Bayne, city manager.

Approximately $1.6 million is to be made available to Panhandle counties through the federally-sponsored Texas Community Development Program. The Tyler firm of Barber, Brannon, Traylor and Company, Inc. has asked to perform

Wednesday afternoon at 3:00

Hereford's application at no cost.

Bayne said Wednesday Hereford will ask for the $450,000 or so needed to pave the dirt streets west of 25 Mile Avenue between Highway 60 and Park Avenue. At the May 7 commission meeting, Bayne indicated the dirt surfaces above North Street had been determined to be the most needing of pavement due to high congestion and population density.

The city manager estimated $1.2 million would be needed to complete the paving of all Hereford streets. Other areas of town still containing dirt surfaces are in its northeast and southeast portions.

Applications for the grant money must be for between $50,000 and $500,000. According to Bayne, no more street paving will be done locally beyond whatever the grant would pay for.

A survey to determine incomes of the targeted area's residents is now being conducted by volunteers, Bayne said. Of the 30 or so completed questionnaires, he claimed, only two indicate incomes above the stipulated minimums. Only 80 percent of those in the concerned neighborhoods must make less money than the established amounts in order for the application to be considered.

Bayne estimated the survey has been about 20 percent completed. Applications for the grant program must be made by June 20.

On May 7, Bayne said he had heard applications for water and sewer system improvements would be given priority this year. However, more roadwork aid requests will probably be honored in one or both of the next two years, he guessed.

Commissioners Ed Coplen and R.W. "Bud" Eades were not present at Wednesday afternoon's hearing.

Reagan won't go to El Paso

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — President Reagan has turned down an invitation to deliver a keynote address to the national meeting of the League of United Latin American Citizens, The El Paso Times reported today.

Convention chairman Joe Loya of El Paso said Reagan "doesn't think Hispanics are important enough."

But a White House spokeswoman blamed "a foul-up from LULAC" for Reagan's decision not to attend the convention, which opens next week in El Paso, the Times reported.

Front runners head for Texas

HOUSTON (AP) - Presidential candidates Walter Mondale and Gary Hart have scheduled visits to Texas, where they'll make last-minute appeals for support from the third-largest delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Mondale was to arrive in Houston today. Hart is due Friday afternoon and was to spend 3½ hours in Houston.

Texas Democrats will decide Saturday which 200 delegates to send to the national convention in San Francisco.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson - the third candidate for the party's nomination - will be on the East coast, his campaign officials said. He is to attend the national mayors' conference in Philadelphia.

School bill ready for debate

AUSTIN (AP) - A compromise education bill that one House member says has been "compromised too much" was ready for committee debate in the House today.

The bill carries the imprint of Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot, chairman of the Select Committee on Public Education.

"Some people, I think, may feel like you could call it the mini-SCOPE bill, but, you know, we won a few things, too," said Rep. Haley, the bill's sponsor.

Although Haley, D-Center, was a SCOPE member, he disagreed with some of the committee's recommendations. Perot declined to comment.

Nelson picnic back in Austin

AUSTIN (AP) - Country singer Willie Nelson is returning to Austin for his annual July 4 "picnic" concert because other sites "were not the best places in the world to have one," but the long-haired crooner says he's hoping for a tame Texas crowd.

"The places we've had to have the picnic before were not the best places in the world to have one," Nelson said Wednesday.

"There were neighbors. Those people moved out to the country," he said, "to be by themselves, and they have a right to be a little concerned if they wake up to see 50,000 hippies in their front yard."

Waylon Jennings and Kris Kristofferson are to be among those joining Nelson at the South Park Meadows.

Senate debates space cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate has refused to cut deeper into President Reagan's plan for research into a futuristic space shield against Soviet nuclear attack.

But the 47-45 vote late Wednesday again trimming another $100 million from the program still means Reagan won't win congressional approval for all the money he wants for a program which has been widely criticized.

The vote banning further cuts in research for the Strategic Defense Initiative was one of the highlights in 14 hours of debate on Pentagon spending.

Job bias to be reviewed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Hundreds of court orders requiring employers to use race or sex quotas for hiring, promotions or layoffs will be reviewed by the Justice Department to see if a new Supreme Court ruling on affirmative action means they can be modified.

The review was announced at a news conference Wednesday by Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, the Reagan administration's chief civil rights enforcer. He claimed that a Supreme Court ruling Tuesday had vindicated his three-and-a-half-year battle to end the use of race or sex quotas to remedy past discrimination.

The Supreme Court, in a case involving Memphis, Tenn., firefighters, ruled that a lower court erred in ordering the city to ignore a seniority system that favored white men so that minority or female workers would not be laid off from jobs obtained through a court-ordered affirmative action plan to remedy past discrimination.

Herpes drug introduced

BOSTON (AP) - A new drug that prevents the stressful flare-ups of rash and pain afflicting millions of genital herpes sufferers could become one of the most widely used medicines in the United States, experts say.

The medicine, a capsule form of the drug acyclovir, does not cure herpes, and the sores come back when people stop taking the drug. Nevertheless, it represents the first effective way of controlling the recurring eruptions of this disease.

The oral medicine is not yet available for routine use. Burroughs Wellcome, its maker, has applied for permission from the Food and Drug Administration to sell it as a prescription drug.

Dutch approve deployment

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) - Parliament today approved a Cabinet decision to conditionally accept U.S. nuclear missiles as much as two years later than NATO's schedule, capping a debate that has split the nation for nearly five years.

The decision was a compromise between domestic anti-missile forces and Holland's NATO allies - who pressed strongly for deployment of all 48 cruise missiles, part of the 572 the allies plan to place in Western Europe as a counter to existing Soviet weapons.

The 150-member legislature took no direct vote on the government's June 1 decision, but approved it by rejecting several modifying motions.

The Netherlands becomes the first NATO nation to back away from the NATO schedule for deploying the missiles in five countries.

Handling Recount

County Democratic Party Chairman Roy Dale Messer (left) and Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland supervised the recount of votes cast June 2 for Senatorial hopefuls Lloyd Doggett and Kent

Hance. The count was made Wednesday morning at the expense of Hance, who lost the race by a margin that has now widened to more than 1,000 votes.

For Nelda Colwell

Parents sticking necks out

LAREDO, Texas (AP) - A federal prosecutor says adoptive parents who have testified that they, and not defendant Nelda Karen Colwell, arranged to smuggle Mexican babies across the border are "sticking their necks out."

Assistant U.S. Attorney David Almaraz said Wednesday that he would ask his boss, U.S. Attorney Daniel Hedges in Houston, for permission to take such testimony before a federal grand jury.

Mary Ann Hansen, 22, of Clearfield, Utah, testified Wednesday that Mrs. Colwell warned her to operate within the law while adopting a Mexican infant. Mrs. Hansen told U.S. District Judge George Kazen that she ignored that advice.

"Nelda's being tarnished for something she didn't do. I did it. It's my fault, it's something I did," said Mrs. Hansen, weeping.

"They're really sticking their necks out," Almaraz said of Mrs. Hansen and other adoptive parents who have claimed that they operated independently of Mrs. Colwell when they smuggled in children. "What these people are counting on is...that no jury would convict them."

Mrs. Colwell, 39, of Layton, Utah, is charged in a three-count indictment with operating a smuggling ring that brought babies to Utah couples. The indictment accuses Mrs. Colwell of arranging an adoption for the Hansens and another couple.

Mrs. Colwell, who is expected to take the stand today, has maintained that she only helped locate adoptable children for the couples.

"Nelda did not have anything to do with it," Mrs. Hansen testified. "I went completely behind her back. Nelda said if you do this one more time, I'm going to turn you into Immigration. She said people are starting to blame me for other people's actions."

Almaraz said he had no plans to drop any charges against Mrs. Colwell as a result of Mrs. Hansen's testimony.

Prosecutors have called several witnesses in the trial that got under way Monday, and many testified that Mrs. Colwell encouraged them to smuggle children.

Mrs. Colwell's self-proclaimed partner, Sandra Green, 35, of Hooper, Utah, testified Wednesday afternoon that she has helped find adoptable Mexican babies since 1979.

She and Mrs. Colwell became involved after they had both adopted Mexican babies of their own, she said.

Paul Harvey Curriculum Woes

If our school-agers are less than 101 percent patriotic, little wonder.

News media emphasis on negatives distorts the image of our nation and its prospects.

And their textbooks in school are as bad or worse.

A new book published by the Hudson Institute is titled: WHY ARE THEY LYING TO OUR CHILDREN?

The book quotes from scores of textbooks now in use in our public schools, citing information that is out-of-date, flawed, distorted or downright untrue.

"Sixty-six percent of the world's people go to bed hungry every night."

"The world's population has been doubling every 35 years."

"The greenhouse effect will melt the polar ice caps, destroy civilization."

"Within our lifetime, a severe shortage of food, fuel and water."

Each of these statements - quoted from a school textbook - is misguided, misleading or wrong.

If our school-agers see their future as bleak, it may be because their assumptions, their judgment and their emotions have been fed a diet of intellectual junk-food, more distressing than nourishing.

Ecological doomsmongers cannot know what they are talking about. Norman Cousins says, "No man knows enough to be a pessimist."

Yet when their dark theories are printed as fact in textbooks, malleable young minds are understandably disturbed.

Son Paul's REST OF THE STORY series recite history in chronological sequence. He admonishes his researchers always to seek two independent sources for every fact and, in sensitive subjects, three.

"Independent sources," because some historians are willing to parrot other historians, a practice which can compound the circulation of erroneous information.

Some schools have been accepting Thomas Malthus' "Essay on the Principle of Population" 1798 as gospel - though his persuasive notions relating to projected population and "famine and starvation" have already disproved themselves.

Follet's World Geography (1983) similarly miscalculated.

In 1972 the Club of Rome, widely quoted on global problems, anticipated what sounded like "the decline and fall of the American Empire." The ominous predictions had a profound effect on our national psyche.

Two years later the Club of Rome had already modified its findings, but the earlier doomsmongering is what still gets quoted.

The Hudson Institute's evaluation of all the dire predictions indicts today's schoolbooks as "a curriculum of lies."

For national broadcast

Reagan planning speech

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan is preparing to tell the nation at a nationally broadcast news conference tonight that he would be willing to meet with Soviet leader Konstantin Chernenko in a summit, but only under certain conditions.

Reagan's statement was designed to ease the impact of newspaper headlines Wednesday reporting that the president had rejected a plea from two influential senators to hold regular meetings with the Soviet Union.

The change in tone, if not policy, was signaled Wednesday by Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, who told reporters to make sure to ask the president at his 25th news conference tonight whether he'd agree to a summit with Chernenko. Deputy White House press secretary Pete Roussel echoed that suggestion a few hours later.

The nationally broadcast news conference begins at 8 p.m. EDT.

In light of the deteriorating relations between the United States and the Soviet Union, Baker and Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., urged Reagan on Tuesday to shift his approach toward the Kremlin and agree to schedule annual summit meetings, without being assured in advance that it would produce tangible results.

Although Reagan was non-committal when the topic arose in the meeting, his spokesman said later that the president stuck to his long-held view that he was willing to meet with Soviet leader if the summit were "carefully prepared and had a prospect of producing tangible results."

Baker complained those guidelines were anachronistic.

Adding further to the impression that the administration was rejecting the idea, a White House official, speaking anonymously, told reporters Tuesday, "We certainly did not embrace" the suggestion. However, he added that Reagan thought Percy and Baker were "very sincere" and Reagan was "not upset with them for making the suggestion."

As a result, it sounded very much as if the White House were rejecting the idea of the two influential senators. But the White House now says that wasn't what happened.

A White House official told The Associated Press on Wednesday that the president would use the news conference to say he was willing to meet with Chernenko. "That's not inconsistent with wanting to have a meeting that's carefully prepared and has prospect for tangible results," said this official, who spoke on the condition he remain anonymous.

"I don't think the president feels he rejected or rebuffed the notion" of a summit, the official said. "Everyone is looking for ways to get better results with the Soviets."

This official said the president was prepared to say he would be pleased to meet with Chernenko if the bureaucrats of each nation could work out an agenda that held a prospect for success.

And this official acknowledged this statement was not new. "I don't know that he has any news to make at all on the foreign policy front," he added.

TESTS

age. Those figures were 17 percent at Aikman and 14 percent at the other two schools.

The majority of kindergarten students were shown to be at six months or more below their chronological age when tested for oral language ability, with the figures being 59 percent at Aikman and 68 percent at Northwest and Tierra Blanca.

Another test given to kindergarten students was the Raven, which measures the child's mental age. Based on those scores, which show almost half of the students completing kindergarten with a mental age of five years or below, nearly 50 percent of the students who enter first grade next year will have a difficult time learning to read.

Walch said the district hopes to deal with that problem by doing a lot of verbal interaction instruction before attempting to teach reading skills to those students. "We will do things to build a base," he explained.

Walch pointed out that some of the kids will have reached a mental age closer to their chronological age by the time school begins in the fall.

Gross and fine motor skills were also measured among kindergarten students at the three schools, with all students tested scoring below the national average in those areas.

Walch said those areas could be improved with the help of parents, who might encourage their pre-school age students to do things such as hop, jump, cut with scissors and do free hand drawings.

"You can't really say it's the schools' problem when we're talking about kindergarten students," Walch pointed out.

An evaluation of Texas Assessment of Basic Skills tests showed that reading scores made the biggest jump ever among third and fifth grade students. Ninth grade students, who traditionally score higher than the other two grades, had the biggest growth in reading ability.

Scores in reading and math were up among students in all three grades, while writing scores were down from last year. Walch said that was partly due to the state changing its standards in the writing area, something local teachers were not aware of.

On the 20th anniversary of receiving a foreign exchange student into their home, Gid and Juanita Brown, 30-year Hereford residents, had the privilege of visiting their "adopted Frenchman" in his native country.

The couple, who retired just two and a half months ago after owning Brown Sheet Metal for the past 30 years, returned recently from a one-month vacation in Europe. They not only visited Rene Batard, who spent a year in their home, but also saw two other exchange students who sojourned in Hereford in the 1960s.

Rene, who returned to France after his year in Hereford, came back two years later and earned a degree at West Texas State University. He then resided in Arizona and New York before going back to Europe.

He is now married and lives in Brussels, Belgium, where he is employed with Benton & Bowles, an advertising agency headquartered in New York. The Browns spent time with him, as well as his parents and other relatives in France.

"We had met his parents before, but only briefly," said Juanita. "This time we were able to stay with them in Nantes and dined with them in their home. It was really impressive — they go all out."

They also enjoyed the cuisine, historic castles and breathtaking scenery in Switzerland and Austria; and they visited the Netherlands and Germany as guests of two other young men who had each spent a year in Hereford.

Thomas Graf, who lived with the Leo Witkowski family during the 1966-67 school year, is now practicing internal medicine in Munich, Germany, where he resides with his family.

Theo ten Have, who stayed with the Gerald McCathern family in 1968-69, is currently residing in Voorschoten, Netherlands, where he is a consulting engineer. Juanita said she was excited to receive a card this week announcing that he and his wife are the parents of twins.

Though this was the Brown's longest stay in Europe, it was not their first. They had previously visited these countries, as well as Spain, Russia, Venezuela and Jamaica, on business-related trips.

Juanita said they love to travel to new places, but that the real highlight of the trip was seeing old friends. "You can go anywhere and enjoy the scenery and learn new things, but the most special times are when you renew acquaintances with people you've known."

She related that the three former exchange students said they still have a fond place in their hearts for Hereford and that people don't realize how much the experience of coming here meant to them.

Even though they left beautiful physical surroundings in their native Europe to come to the plains of West Texas, they noted that the people here made their stay special.

Juanita was very involved with the exchange program at Hereford High School during the time her two sons were in school. She served as president of the American Field Service unit in Hereford for about five years.

She and her family became acquainted with many other foreign students through this involvement, and Juanita remarked, "If I had one hope to be fulfilled, it would be to see the others I was close to and worked with." These three are the only students she has seen since they left the local area.

"The experience is never really over," she commented. "Once people get involved with this kind of thing they are much more open to hosting others and they usually would like their own children to become acquainted with people from other countries. You can't help but grow through the experience."

Juanita and Gid's sons both earned their undergraduate degrees at West Texas State University after graduating from Hereford High School.

Richard went to medical school in Oklahoma City and is now a physician in Malibu, Calif. He has one daughter. Carl studied dentistry at Baylor in Dallas and is presently a dentist in Denver.

Both natives of Lubbock, Gid and Juanita attended Texas Tech University and McMurry College in Abilene, respectively. They resided in Lubbock about eight years before coming to Hereford.

They are avid square dancers, and are members of a local club, the Good Timers Square Dance Club, as well as attending workshops in Amarillo. "That is one way to have instant friends when you are traveling," said Juanita, noting that they have visited clubs in several other places.

The couple also belong to a "42" group, and they enjoy doing yard work together and going fishing at Ute Lake. They attend the First United Methodist Church.

Juanita likes to read and do crewel embroidery, and since she and her husband retired (she worked in the office at the family business) she has been piecing quilts.

She likes to cook and try new recipes, and has collected several international cookbooks. "Rene's living with us influenced my cooking," she said, adding that she still makes French bread.

She shares a simple pie recipe which is a favorite with her family, as well as a main dish recipe which makes a small casserole, nice for a couple whose children are no longer living at home. It may be doubled for a larger casserole.

FRENCH COCONUT PIE

1 1/2 c. sugar
1 Tbsp. vinegar
1 tsp. vanilla
1 can coconut
3 eggs
1 stick melted butter
Mix and pour into unbaked pie shell; bake until set at 350 degrees. Makes one large pie.

DEEP DISH TACO SQUARES

1/2 lb. ground beef
1/2 c. dairy sour cream
One-third c. mayonnaise
1/2 c. shredded sharp cheddar cheese (about 2 oz.)
1 Tbsp. chopped onion
1 c. Bisquick baking mix
1/4 c. cold water
1 to 2 medium tomatoes, thinly sliced

1/2 c. chopped green pepper
Heat oven to 375 degrees. Grease 8x8x2 inch square baking dish.

Cook and stir ground beef until brown; drain. Mix sour cream, mayonnaise, cheese and onion; reserve.

Mix baking mix and water until soft dough forms. Pat in pan, pressing dough 1/2 inch up sides. Layer beef, tomatoes and green pepper in pan; spoon sour cream mixture over top. Sprinkle with paprika if desired.

Bake until edges of dough are light brown, 25 to 30 minutes.

At Capitol Blitz

Dominguez represents HISD

Aurora Dominguez, a teacher in the Hereford Independent School District, and Maria Brunson from Borger ISD recently attended a Capitol Blitz sponsored by the Texas Classroom Teachers Association in Austin for the opening of the special legislative session.

Bill Haley, chairman of the education committee, and Speaker of the House Lewis Dibbs spoke at the final dinner session of the blitz and gave participants an idea of what to expect the results of the session to be.

While in Austin, Dominguez and Brunson met with Representatives Buck Buchanan and Chip Staniswallis and Senator Bill Sarpalius to present local teacher concerns with regard to the education issues to be considered by the Legislature.

The women reported that these legislators reacted positively to teacher viewpoints on the issues of teacher salary increases, competency testing for all teachers, state sales tax increases, gasoline tax increases and-or luxury tax increases, with the exception of Staniswallis, who they said is against tax increases.

The special session is expected to last the full 30 days, according to Dominguez, vice-president of the Texas State Classroom Teachers Association.

Upon her return from Austin she commented that "The atmosphere in Austin is charged with the need for massive educational reforms to improve Texas public schools and the plight of teachers. At the same time, there is a sense of careful deliberation to be sure long term results of the reform meet future education needs."

"Our visit was very productive, and the legislators want to hear what the teachers have to say," she concluded.

When malted milk was first invented, it was known as Diastoid. The year was 1882.

Fans cheer ex-athletes

DALLAS (AP) — Hundreds cheered while two former Olympic champions, Rafer Johnson and ex-Dallas Cowboy Bob Hayes, passed a legendary flame as the 1984 Olympic Torch Relay continued its trail to Los Angeles.

Streets corners in the downtown area were packed with cheering spectators Wednesday night as runners carried the torch through the city for a ceremony at City Hall, where Johnson handed off the symbolic flame to Hayes in a setting lit by two sets of swirling spotlights. The traditional torch is being carried from New York to the summer Olympic games in Los Angeles. It crossed Texas from the Oklahoma border to Grand Prairie near Dallas Wednesday.

Today, the relay was to continue west through Fort Worth and on to Lubbock. In Dallas, 70 sponsored runners, including Hayes and Johnson, participated in the event.

Earlier Wednesday, the Olympic torch wound its way through the countryside and small towns of North Texas. At every little town and crossroads along the path, residents turned out to cheer the runners and to catch a moment of Olympic fever. "I never dreamed they would come right here across the bridge," said Tom Allen of Sherwood Shores on Lake Texoma near the Oklahoma border.

"This is the most exciting thing we've lived here," said Allen's wife, Cathy. "It's usually just wrecks and stuff."

McConnell qualifies for state

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

Shawn McConnell, a 1984 graduate of Hereford High School, will be traveling to Seguin to compete in the National High School Rodeo Association Texas State finals in steer wrestling next week.

He qualified for the finals by winning the NHSRA regionals at Spearman April 30.

There will be about 70 bulldoggers from 10 different regions throughout the state vying for the top four spots. The top four will advance to the NHSRA National finals to take place in Rapid City, S.D. sometime in August.

McConnell has been steer wrestling for two and one half years. He said his father, Jerry and brother, Steve, both rodeo enthusiasts, sparked his interest in the sport.

Steve advanced to the state finals in 1982. Shawn also made it to state last year but did not advance to nationals. The finals will consist of three go rounds. The 10 top finishers from the first two go rounds will compete in a third short go round. The four bulldoggers with the lowest average scores will qualify for the nationals.

McConnell said he hopes to fare better this time around now that he has another year of experience.

He has been practicing with his horse, Poco, at Delbert Davis' arena, a friend. Poco runs hard and fast and looks for cattle, traits needed to score well in steer wrestling, according to McConnell.

He said another important factor in his event is getting off the horse smoothly. "You can't just jump on top of the steer's head."

His father, Jerry, will be the hazer or the person rides along in the event and keeps the steer running straight.

Shawn is a member of both NHSRA and Tri-State High School Rodeo Association.

At last weekend's three-go round Tri-State finals he won the second go round and placed third in average for the three go rounds. He also was named Year End Champion in steer wrestling. He was awarded belt buckles and a new saddle for his efforts.

He was not the only HHS student to be win awards.

Sophomore Jana Johnson won a number of buckles by placing third in the average for barrel racing and second in the average for goat tying.

Miss Johnson also tied for Reserve Champion on the year for goat tying and was named Reserve Champion All-Around Cowgirl.

T-Baseball tourney starts tonight

The T-Baseball seven and eight-year-old boys championship tournament is scheduled to start tonight with two games being played to decide who will play in the finals.

The Angels (8-1) will battle the Pirates (7-2) at 6 p.m. and at 7 p.m., the Yankees (9-0) will tangle with the White Sox (5-4).

Winners of these games will play each other in the best two-out-of-three series. The first game of the championship finals is slated for Friday at 7 p.m. The second game is scheduled for Saturday at 3 p.m. and the third (if needed) will be played Sunday at 3 p.m.

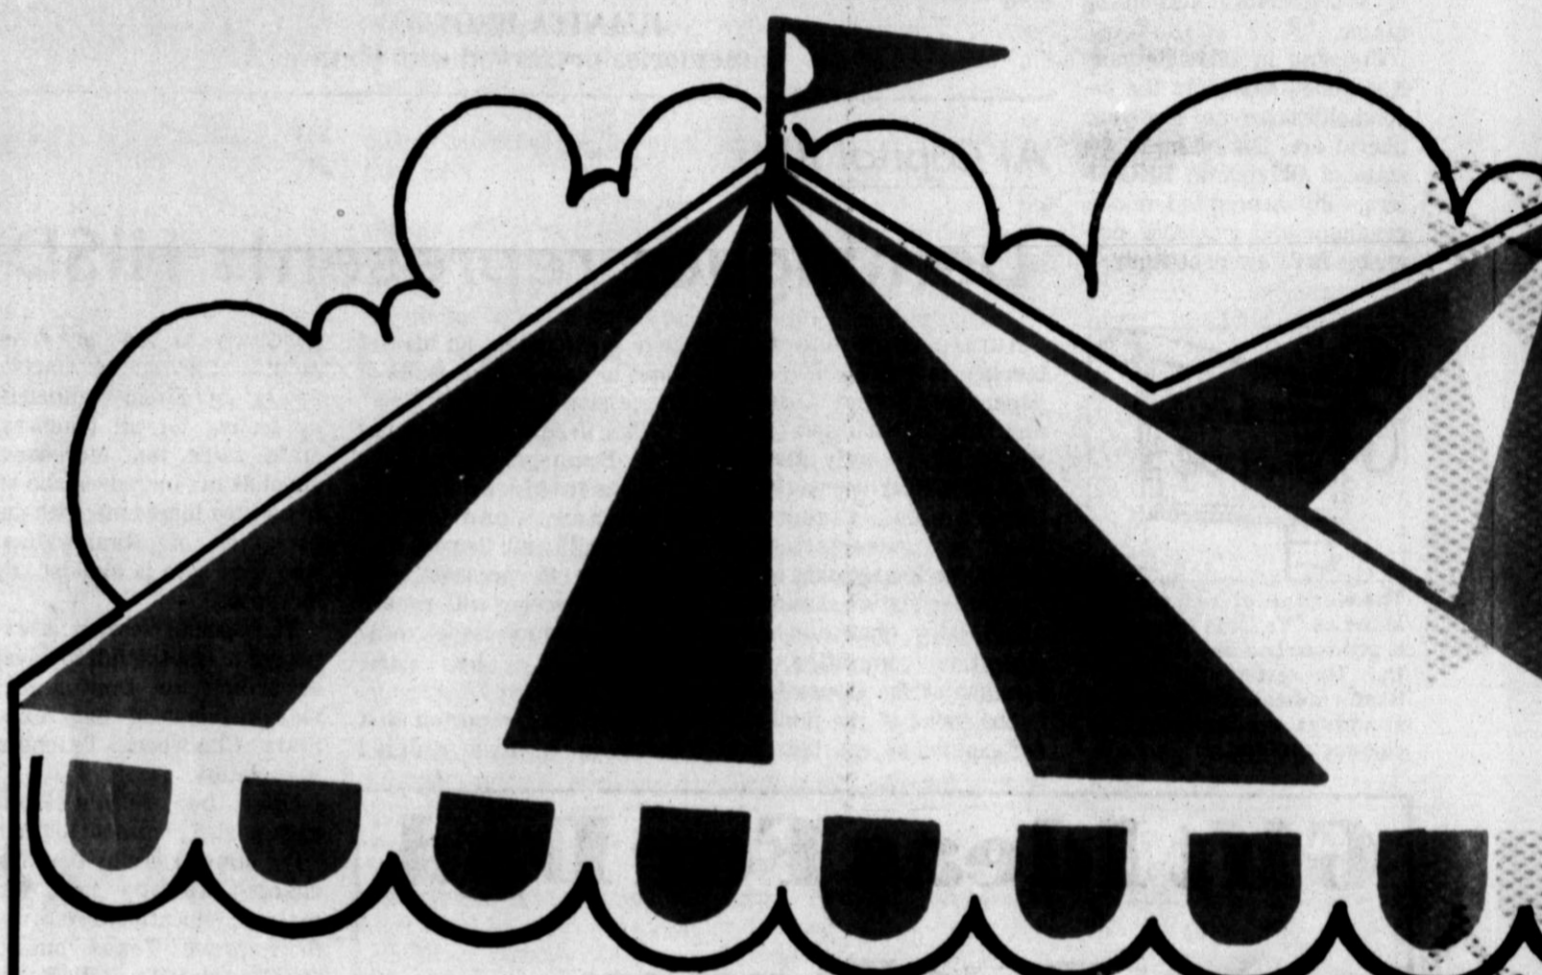

Group to discuss All-Girl Rodeo 6:30 Thursday

There will be a meeting of the Hall of Fame Rodeo Association at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at K-Bob's Restaurant.

Anyone interested in helping with Aug. 9-11 All-Girl Rodeo is invited to attend the meeting.

The rodeo is scheduled to take place during this summer's Town and Country Jubilee Celebration. It is expected to draw top contestants from the Women's Professional Rodeo Association with large paybacks in a number of events.

The event is to take place at Circle A Arena in Westway.

Hearns to battle Roberto Duran

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Thomas Hearns wants to be called the "Hit Man" again, and he intends to live up to the name Friday night against Roberto Duran.

"I think 'Hit Man' is appropriate for this fight. I plan to use my ability to punch," Hearns said Wednesday in predicting he will win the scheduled 12-round bout by knockout.

Hearns didn't like the nickname while scoring 27 knockouts in compiling a 29-0 record enroute to winning the World Boxing Association welterweight title on second round knockout of Pipino Cuevas.

He scored knockouts in three title defenses, but he has scored only two knockouts in winning six fights since being stopped in the 14th round by Sugar Ray Leonard for the undisputed welterweight title here Sept. 16, 1981.

"I'm a boxer-puncher and I can do whatever is necessary," said Hearns, who feels will end a string of three straight decision wins with a knockout.

One of those decision was a 15-round unanimous verdict over Wilfred Benitez, a master of defense, for the World Boxing Council super welterweight (junior middleweight title) Dec. 3, 1982.

Some observers theorize that the loss to Leonard has taken away Hearn's willingness to mix it up. There also has been talk that Hearn's vaunted right-handed punching power has been reduced by a tendon-bone injury at the back of the hand suffered in the Benitez fight and a broken third knuckle on the ring finger suffered in sparring.

Hearns maintains the hand is fine, and that he is aware of the importance of not just winning, but winning big, because an impressive showing would set up a major match with Marvelous Marvin Hagler, the undisputed middleweight champion.

"I've got to win it big, win it great," said the 25-year-old, 6-foot-1 Hearns, who will have 50-inch height and 11-inch reach advantages over Duran, who will be 33 Saturday.

"I'll be in there trying to be a great champion," Duran holds the World Boxing Association Junior middleweight title, but he will be in the role of challenger in the fight at a 26,000-seat outdoor stadium at Caesars Palace.

When he steps into the ring, the former lightweight and WBC welterweight champion, will be an ex-champ again for defying a WBA edict to first make a mandatory defense against Mike McCallum or be stripped off title recognition.

"I'll beat Thomas Hearns by knockout. I'm much better than he is," said Duran, who won the WBA 154-pound class title by stopping Davey Moore in the eighth round on his 32nd birthday.

But although Duran has scored 57 knockouts in compiling a 76-5 record, he has scored only two.

Game-winning blow

Kingman blasts 15th home run

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Dave Kingman is back in the Oakland A's lineup, and it doesn't look like he's missed a stroke.

Playing only his second game after missing 11 contests with a knee injury, Kingman smashed a home run Wednesday to lead the A's to a 3-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

"His presence gives this club a lift, because we know he can win a game with one swing," said Oakland pitcher Bill Caudill.

Kingman's 15th homer did precisely that. The leadoff blast in the eighth inning snapping a 1-1 tie and a six-game Oakland losing streak as well. It was Kingman's first homer since May 25 and it tied him with Boston's Tony Armas for the American league lead. In addition, he has 46 RBI in 48 games.

"It's a good feeling to be back. We've got to put a winning streak together now," said Kingman, the designated hitter who played with a light knee brace. "I'm strong mentally and physically."

In other AL action, Toronto beat Detroit 7-3, New York whipped Boston 4-2, Texas blanked Minnesota 3-0, Chicago edged California 2-1, Kansas City tripped Seattle 6-4 and Milwaukee beat Baltimore 6-1.

Kingman's homer came on the first pitch of the eighth inning from loser Bert Blyleven, 4-3, making his first start since May 17.

The A's added an insurance run later in the inning on a sacrifice fly by Mike Davis off reliever Mike Jeffcoat following a walk to Bruce Bochte and a double by Mike Heath.

The A's took a 1-0 lead in the first on Joe Morgan's sacrifice fly. The Indians tied it in the fifth on a sacrifice fly by Brett Butler.

Caudill, 6-1, got the victory with two hitless innings in relief of Ray Burris, who pitched six-hit baseball for seven innings.

Blue Jays 7, Tigers 3

Rance Mulliniks lashed three hits and Alfredo Griffin and Willie Upshaw each collected a pair to lead Toronto over Detroit.

The victory enabled the Blue Jays, who took the three-game series 2-1, to move within six games of the AL East Division leaders.

Winner Dave Stieb, 8-2, left the game with a three-hit shutout after the seventh inning but the Tigers reached relievers Jimmy Key and Dennis Lamp for three runs on four hits and an error in the eighth.

Stieb struck out five and walked two before giving way to Key, who lasted two thirds of an inning before Lamp came on. Loser Milt Wilcox, 7-4, lasted five innings and gave up four runs on six hits while striking out two and walking one.

Yankees 4, Red Sox 2

Dave Winfield belted a two-run homer and scored the tie-breaking run on Roy Smalley's single after doubling to lead off the ninth as New York snapped Boston's five-game winning streak.

Phil Niekro scattered 10 hits in eight innings, including Jim Rice's two-run homer in the first, in improving his record to 9-3. Dave Righetti pitched the ninth for his eighth save, striking out the side in the process.

Boston right-hander Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 1-4, also was tough in the clutch before being shelled in the ninth.

Rangers 3, Twins 0

Larry Parrish hit a three-run double in the sixth inning and Frank Tanana pitched a five-hitter to lead Texas over Minnesota, the Rangers' sixth triumph in a row.

The shutout, Tanana's first of the year, was the 27th of his career. Tanana, 7-6, struck out five and walked two, allowing only four base runners to reach second.

Losing pitcher Ken Schrom, 0-1, gave up only four hits, but three of them were in the Rangers' three-run sixth.

"I just decided to go with my fastball more tonight," said Tanana.

"It was control on my fastball that got most of my outs."

White Sox, 2, Angels 1

Rich Dotson fired a three-hitter and Ron Kittle homered to lead Chicago over California.

Dotson, 8-3, retired 10 straight batters before giving up a single to Rod Carew. He gave up only two singles the rest of the way to Carew and Jerry Narron in the ninth when the Angels scored their run on an error. Pinch-runner Gary Pettis was thrown out at home on the two-out error that scored the run, preserving Chicago's victory.

The White Sox grabbed a 1-0 lead in the third inning off Tommy John, 3-5, on Tom paciorek's RBI single. Kittle's homer in the sixth inning, his 14th, gave the White Sox a 2-0 lead.

Royals 6, Mariners 4

Steve Balboni's RBI single capped a four-run first inning and relief ace Dan Quisenberry preserved the victory with three strong innings at the end as the Royals beat Seattle.

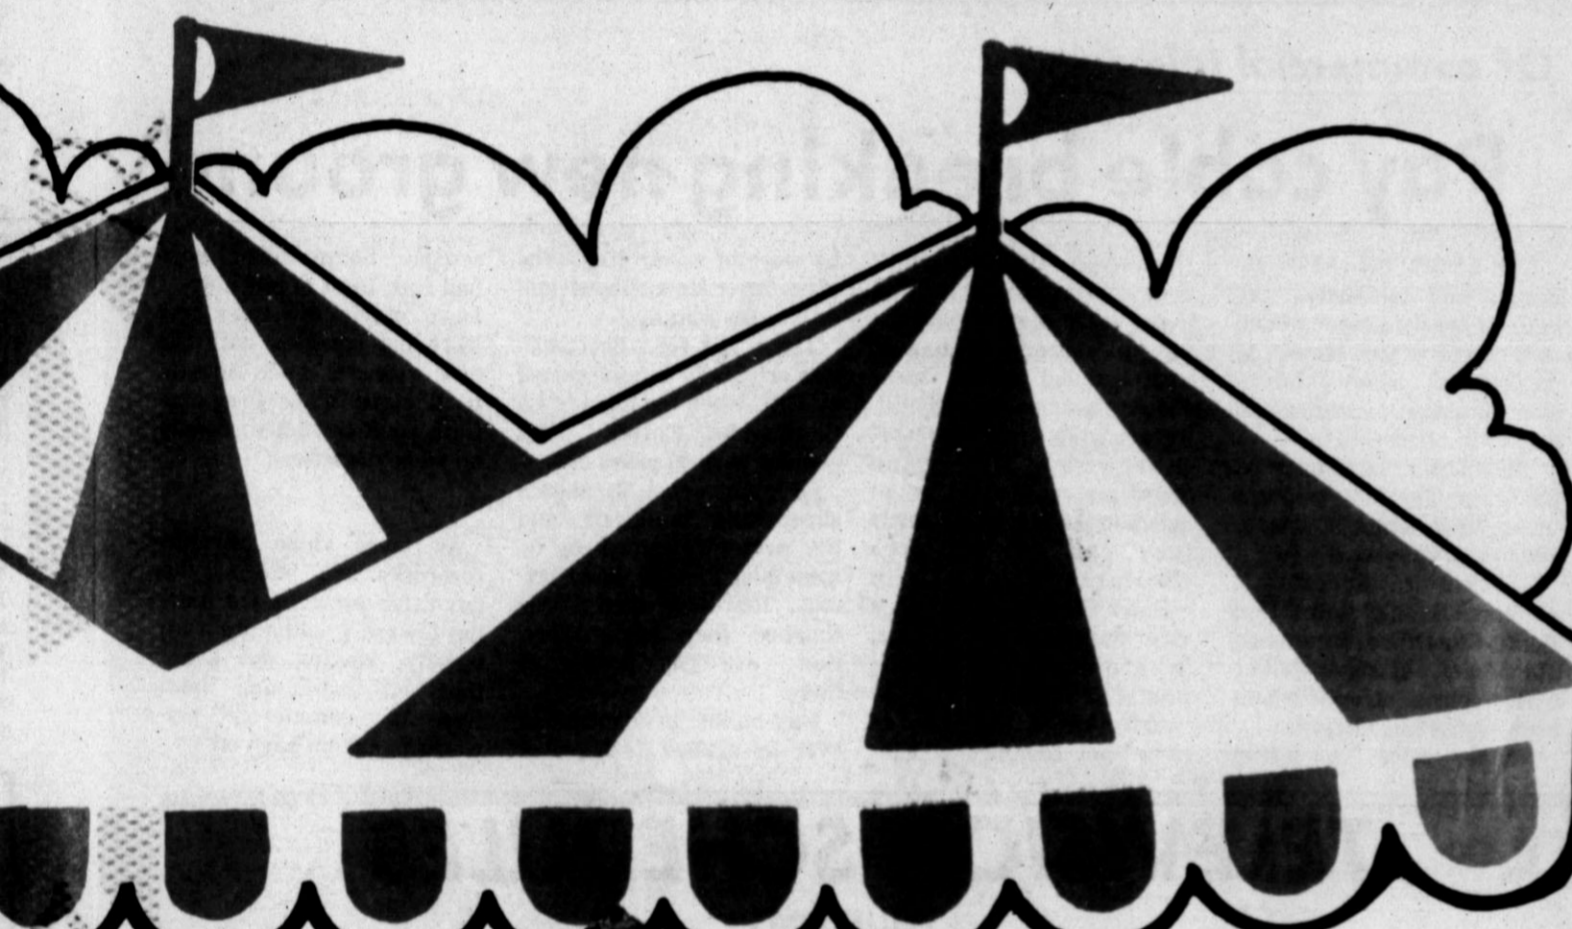

Larry Gura, 7-2, was staked to a 4-0 lead, but had control problems in the sixth and needed relief help from Joe Beckwith. Quisenberry allowed just one hit in the final three innings to notch his AL-leading 16th save.

The Royals went ahead for good when they scored four times in the first off Matt Young 4-4.

Brewers 6, Orioles 1

Jim Gantner drove in three runs and Robin Yount rapped four hits, including three doubles, to power Milwaukee over Baltimore and snap a five-game losing streak.

Yount's double off Mike Flanagan, 5-5, provided Milwaukee with a 1-0 lead in the first inning and the Brewers never were headed. Moose Haas, 4-5, was the winner, scattering 10 hits.

Cedeno kills Houston, three RBI

HOUSTON (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds knew it would make a difference when Cesar Cedeno came off the disabled list, and the heavy-hitting outfielder went out of his way to prove it.

Cedeno belted a towering home run and a single to drive in three runs Wednesday night as the Reds beat the Houston Astros 5-4, breaking a five-game losing streak. It was Cedeno's first game after 15 days on the disabled list.

"Cedeno got the big hit to tie it for us," Reds Manager Vern Rapp said. "He was playing well for us before he got hurt. He was hitting about .360, so we really missed him."

Dave Concepcion broke a 4-4 tie in the 11th inning by slapping a two-out single.

"I like tough situations. I've been like that my entire career," Concepcion said. "I've always been a clutch hitter. When you hit in the fifth spot like I do, you've got to be aggressive and ready to drive in runs because there are always men on base."

Bob Owchinko, 3-2, got the win with two perfect innings of relief for the Reds. Frank DiPino, 1-5, was the loser in relief for Houston.

The Reds got another clutch performance from relief pitcher Ted Power, who pitched out of a bases-loaded situation with none out in the ninth.

Jerry Mumphrey led off with a double and moved to third on an errant pickoff attempt by Reds reliever Bill Scherrer. Scherrer then intentionally walked Terry Puhl and Phil Garner to load the bases. But the Reds escaped trouble when Power struck out pinch-hitters Denny Walling and Kevin Bass and then got Bill Doran to ground out to second.

"I was thinking about throwing it hard enough to get a ground ball or a strikeout. I was as nervous as I could be, but I felt good in the bullpen and I knew I could throw hard," Power said.

Rapp said the victory could be a key to improving his team's play.

"We've had a tough time lately. We've lost some close games on the road and this should be a good one to turn around on," Rapp said.

Gary Redus led off the 11th with a walk and moved to second on Eddie Milner's sacrifice bunt. After an intentional walk to Cedeno and Dave Parker's fly out to center, Concepcion lined his single over the head of shortstop Craig Reynolds to score Redus.

The game also broke a three-game winning streak for the Astros.

Houston took a 3-0 lead in the second. After Jose Cruz reached on a fielding error by first baseman Cedeno, Mumphrey singled. Both runners scored on Phil Garner's triple down the right-field line and Alan Ashby's infield grounder scored Garner.

Milner led off the Reds' two-run fourth with a double to left and scored on a single by Cedeno. Concepcion lined a single to center, scoring Cedeno.

Houston added a run in the fifth when Doran walked with two out and scored on Reynolds' triple.

become the top vote-getter.

Strawberry, the NL Rookie of the Year in 1983, leads all outfield vote-getters and ranks second overall to Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia, who leads with 410,009 votes for this year's game July 10 at Candlestick Park in San Francisco.

Fans have named Strawberry, who last year hit 26 home runs and had 74 RBI in 122 games, on 397,063 ballots. Atlanta's two-time MVP Dale Murphy, the NL leader in homers with 14, is far behind at 288,155. Montreal veteran Pete Rose, who picked up three hits Tuesday to run his career total to 4,031, is third in the outfield balloting with 208,062.

First baseman Steve Garvey of San Diego, chosen for seven consecutive years beginning as a write-in in 1974 when he was the All-Star Game's MVP, is off to a fine start. Garvey has 322,058 votes to lead the New York's Keith Hernandez, second at 243,354. San Francisco's Al Oliver, last year's starter, is third with 121,326.

Gary Carter of Montreal, who leads the league with 48 RBI, was the top vote-getter overall last year. Carter, seeking his fourth straight starting berth, leads all catchers with 279,278. Darrell Porter of St. Louis is his closest competitor with 169,825.

Another with a streak going is Schmidt, who has been selected at third base five years in a row.

Pay cable breaking new ground

LOS ANGELES (AP) - By design and necessity, pay cable is breaking new ground in the area of two staples of commercial network television: situation comedies and dramatic series.

"Brothers," beginning on Showtime July 13, is about three adult siblings, one of whom is homosexual. "Maximum Security," starting Sunday night on Home Box Office, focuses on murderers, rapists and other prison felons, none of whom use G-rated language. Neither series is "Little House on the Prairie," underscoring the notion that if pay-cable services are going to supplement movies with original series, these shows must be decidedly different from network fare. Otherwise, HBO and Showtime subscribers might question paying for products they can get for free elsewhere.

Peter Chernin, Showtime's vice president for original programming, said he wanted "Brothers" to be "controversial," the kind of show that becomes popular by word of mouth like "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "All in the Family."

The script for "Brothers" was originally commissioned by NBC when the movie "La Cage Aux Folles" was popular several years ago. Greg Antonacci, the show's supervising producer, said the network wanted to do something about homosexuals, "but then when it was finished they said, 'Hey, there are gay people in there!'"

Pay-cable is concerned over its ratings decline last season. Some subscribers had seen most of pay-cable's basic movie inventory and were not satisfied with the new releases each month, particularly since the same films could be rented cheaply on video cassettes.

As more video cassette recorders are bought, the pay-cable services are moving toward greater program variety, staking out areas that will distinguish them from the commercial networks and from each other.

Ann Landers

Resent extra chores

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been a secretary for 12 years. For the past seven I've been working for two men. One of my bosses tells (not asks) me to do personal extras for him such as mend (at home) his trousers and shirts, pick up his children at school and take them to the dentist and doctor, and do typing projects for friends.

He has a wife. I am very busy with my job, which I love, and must fit in these extras when I can. I receive no compensation for the additional chores and rarely get a thank-you. The salary from the company is barely adequate.

How can I put a stop to being taken advantage of without quitting?—E.Z. Mark In Chattanooga

DEAR E.Z.: No point in trying to sawdust, but you should have said not to the clod the first time he handed you his torn shirts and trousers.

I suggest a meeting with your bosses and the personnel director, if there is one. Outline in detail the duties you are expected to perform as well as those you are willing to assume. You should also recite those duties you consider exploitive and demeaning and will no longer perform.

If you sense a feeling of resentment, QUIT. Life will never be pleasant around that office again.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My two children want to have a party for our 25th wedding anniversary and I don't feel right about it because of the following circumstances.

My husband and I were married for 15 miserable years. He was unfaithful the whole time and I knew it. I stayed because of the children. Out of the blue the most unexpected thing happened. I met a man I really cared for and filed for divorce. It was a stormy time and my husband couldn't believe I wanted out. He reluctantly agreed.

We were divorced for three months. My husband begged me to try again and I decided to do it. We had counseling, were remarried and since then, our marriage has been wonderful—the way it should have been from the beginning.

It's really 10 years since we've had a good marriage. Would it be socially acceptable to celebrate 25 years when we were divorced for three months?—The Numbers Game Up North

DEAR NUMBERS: I assume your children were born within the first 15 years of your marriage, so it wouldn't make sense to celebrate your 10th wedding anniversary. Go with 25 and have a happy time.

Kemerer shares report on recent legislation

George Kemerer, president of the local chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, played a recording containing the latest report on legislation concerning federal employees and retirees during a recent chapter meeting at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

He had obtained the report by calling the Washington Hot Line.

It was announced that the Rural Carriers Association is to hold its state meeting at DEAR ANN: The letter from the woman who wore pink at her husband's funeral because he had asked her to, reminded me of my own dear mother. She had the world's best sense of humor.

Mom willed her remains to a local medical school and asked that no one wear black to her memorial service. When my cousin came dressed in black from head to toe, I burst out laughing. She knew why—and I'm sure my Mom did, too. I didn't feel disrespectful. Was I—Montreal Reader

DEAR READER: Not in my opinion. You were having the last laugh—for Mom.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious—lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

DR. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 20-year-old woman. I'm not taking an iron tonic off and on for about five years. It seems that it's been a while since I've had any and I'm running out of energy. I work full time and can't afford to lose any work. I've never been a sweet eater, but lately since I'm tired all the time I just crave sweets. Please give me some advice.

DEAR READER - You might have a checkup and find out if you do or don't need an iron tonic. It's not unusual for a young woman your age to need more iron. During the childbearing years the repeated loss of blood each month will deplete the iron sources. So will other sources of bleeding such as from hemorrhoids.

HEY, WHAT HAPPENED TO MY RIGHTS?

I am an apostle, God's messenger, responsible to no mere man. I am one who has actually seen Jesus our Lord with my own eyes. And your changed lives are the result of my hard work for Him.

If in the opinion of others, I am not an apostle, I certainly am to you, for you have been won to Christ through me.

This is my answer to those who question my rights. Or don't I have any rights at all? Can't I claim the same privilege the other apostles have of being a guest in your homes?

If I had a wife, and if she were a believer, couldn't I bring her along on these trips just as the other disciples do, and as the Lord's brothers do, and as Peter does?

And must Barnabas and I alone keep working for our living, while you supply these others? What soldier in the army has to pay his own expenses? And have you ever heard of a farmer who harvests his crop and doesn't have the right to eat some of it? What shepherd takes care of a flock of sheep and goats and isn't allowed to drink some of the milk?

And I'm not merely quoting the opinions of men as to what is right. I'm telling you what God's law says.

For in the law God gave to Moses He said that you must not put a muzzle on an ox to keep it from eating when it is treading out the wheat. Do you suppose God was thinking only about oxen when He said this?

Wasn't He also thinking about us? Of course He was. He said this to show us that Christian workers should be paid by those they help. Those who do the plowing and threshing should expect some share of the harvest.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed a tariff with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to make end user common line charges associated with Centrex CO service equal to those to be billed to Private Branch Exchange service. The Commission has suspended the proposed tariff until October 1, 1984, or before, and assigned the matter to Docket No. 5686.

The equalization of end user common line charges for Centrex CO service is to be accomplished by a reduction in Centrex service charges. The net effect of the Centrex service charge adjustment and an interstate end user common line charge will be an increase in total billing.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. One of a kind

Bellaire store owner caters to deaf

HOUSTON (AP) — There's the story of Franz Schmitt's business in Bellaire. It's a store for the deaf; possibly the only one of its kind in Texas.

Then there's the story of Franz Schmitt, who says he lost his hearing in Vietnam and regained it in a Houston church 15 years later.

Schmitt says he likes to keep the stories separate because the business needs attention and he doesn't. But that's almost impossible to do.

The store is called Finger Talk. Sandwiched between a barber shop and a hardware outlet, it sells T-shirts, microcomputerized teleprinting equipment, key chains, Bibles, hats, alarms, coloring books, posters and other items.

Each object has a special meaning or use for the deaf. The key chains show the sign language symbol for "I love you." The Bibles are written with words easy to translate into sign language. The alarms don't ring — they vibrate or flash.

A few of these items are sold by mail order companies and hearing aid manufacturers, but rarely, if ever, have they been on display together in a retail concern, says Schmitt.

The store also is a classroom and crossroads. Schmitt, 39, teaches sign language classes inside. There's a bulletin board listing events, news and job opportunities for the deaf and a corner in which people can relax and read.

"I try to give the deaf a voice," says Schmitt. He is a large, intense man who often loads statements with double meanings like that.

Finger Talk has been open since February. But, Schmitt says, the idea for it popped into his head in 1964, the year an explosion in Vietnam ruptured his eardrums and made him deaf. One moment, he says, he was a U.S. Army helicopter gunner. The next he was back to the United States as "a poor deaf boy."

He alleges his therapy under Veterans Administration care amounted to a staff worker handing him a card and saying, "Here are the signs for the deaf. Learn them."

This was a seed for the idea to have a business stocked with all kinds of materials for the deaf. Schmitt says that in Washington state, where he grew up, he overcame the handicap enough to earn a college degree in electrical engineering. He met a woman who taught him to use sign language. They married.

Engineering and computer jobs in Austin and Houston followed. He got involved with a club of deaf worshippers at a Pentecostal church on Houston's southeast side.

One day in 1979, he says, he was on his knees praying in the church:

"I felt a cold rush of air. I was hearing. I was crying like a baby."

Schmitt has no explanation for it except this: "I don't believe in coincidence. I believe in God incidence."

Schmitt says the next six months were the worst part of his life.

"There are 100 agencies to help people be deaf," he says. "There's no agency to help you hear. My deaf friends freaked out, and I couldn't relate to hearing people. I was back in 1964 (in my word usage.)"

To this day, he says, Schmitt thinks in sign language and in his mind translates the messages into English during conversation. By habit, he reads lips.

"I don't feel like a hearing person who was deaf. I'm a deaf person who can hear."

Last year, still working in engineering, Schmitt — now married a second time and attending the Episcopal church — was getting a haircut at a Bellaire barbershop. He found out the adjoining store would be for rent, and decided the time was right to fulfill his ambition of opening Finger Talk.

Business started slowly. One reason, at least according to the owner, "is that as a hearing person, I have to prove to the deaf community that I am sincere. They've had too many promises from people who don't come through."

Another reason, besides the store's side street location, could be that deaf people have not banded together and availed themselves of public and private services the way people with other handicaps have, according to Schmitt and others.

There are about 80,000 deaf people in the Houston area, according to the Houston Center for Independent Living, providing services to the deaf under a state contract.

"But you can put together all the deaf people we know (by name) and come up with 3,000 to 4,000," says Johan Paoletti-Schelp, deaf services director. He says many deaf people are unaware of the services or, for a variety of reasons, unwilling to take advantage of them.

Schmitt says hearing people are less aware of problems of the deaf than of problems confronting other handicap groups.

"You think of blind people because you see Braille in the elevators," he says. "You think of people in wheelchairs because you see the ramps. But what do you see that makes you think of deaf people?"

Schmitt dreams of an American society in which as much attention is paid to the deaf as to the Hispanic community so that sound messages are translated into sign languages as often as into Spanish.

But until then, he says, a start would be for all public agencies and large business to use teleprinting machines to communicate with the deaf.

Teleprinters have become streamlined with recent advances in microcomputer technology. Now they are compact, portable typewriterlike devices that can be linked to conventional telephones to transmit information.

The teleprinter caller writes a message that is displayed on his teleprinter screen and the screen of the person receiving the call. The message is answered the same way, allowing a two-way, typed telephone conversation.

"Any business would have a Teletype if they had the sense of a turnip," says Schmitt.

The unofficial information exchange Schmitt runs at his store includes a list of the agencies and businesses that use teleprinters to link up with deaf people.

Many government agencies and huge businesses are missing from the list.

Schmitt says he's not wasting time getting upset about it. Instead, he's trying to make easier for deaf people to cope.

"I'm not mad at the world," he says. "I'm here to help a small segment of it."

Cough won't go away

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is 81 years old and when he gets tired or overdoes it, he starts coughing. It can keep him awake all night. As this goes on he gets more exhausted and loses his voice. We thought this was bronchitis but the doctors didn't seem to help him. He's in good health otherwise. He doesn't sleep very well at night and seems to require a great deal of rest and sleep.

DEAR READER — It's common to think a cough means you have a cold, a respiratory infection or sinus trouble. Post nasal drip is rarely the cause of a cough and if a cough accompanies drainage from the nasal passages it's usually because there's also inflammation of the throat.

But a cough can be a symptom of many other problems. A serious cause can be cancer of the lungs, which is one reason why an unexplained cough that persists needs to be evaluated by a physician. Chronic bronchitis is a more common cause for a cough and the most common cause is cigarette smoking.

A frequently overlooked cause for a mild cough is congestive heart failure. An accumulation of even a small amount of fluid in the lungs can stimulate the cough reflex. The fluid may be such a small amount that it doesn't show on a chest X-ray so it can be overlooked if not suspected.

That could be a problem in your husband's case.

Extra activity may be more than his heart can handle, causing mild failure with just enough fluid in the lungs to cause problems. Lying down can aggravate the breathing problem in such cases. Digitalis or medicines to strengthen the heartbeat, and eliminating retained salt and water with salt restriction or diuretics often make a big difference.

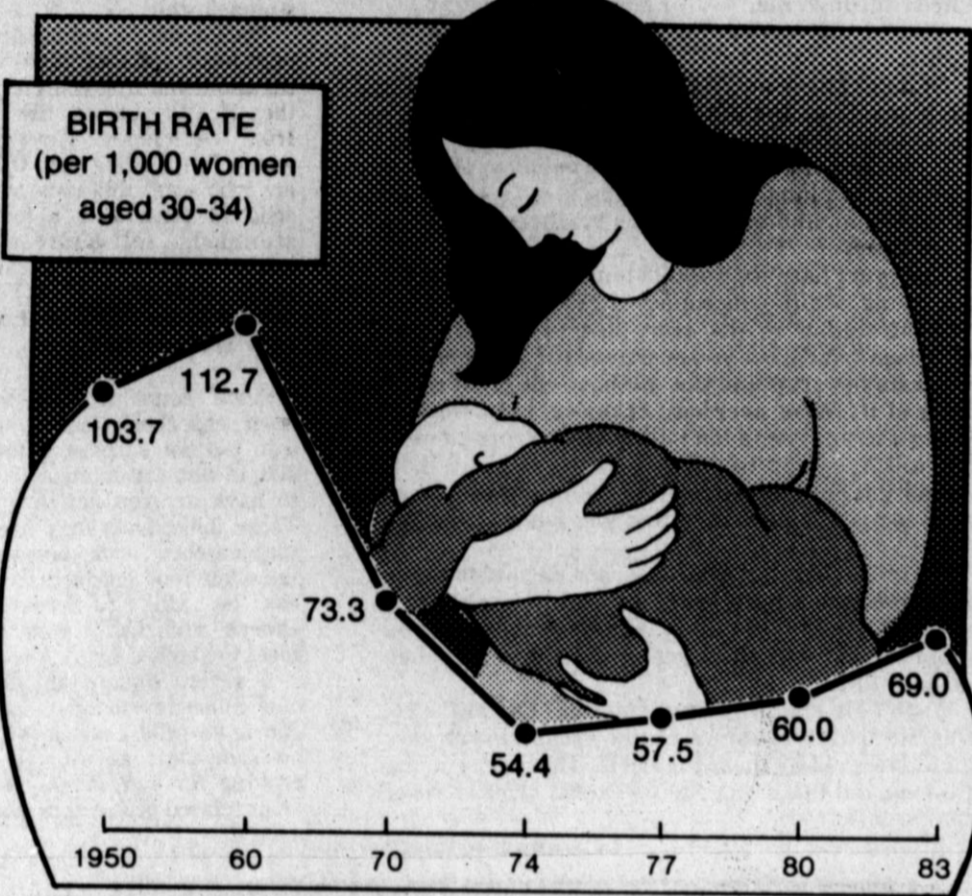

The main causes for cough are discussed in more detail in the Health Letter 8-10, Cough: How and When to Treat It, which I'm sending you. The bottom line is that your husband needs to keep checking with his doctors to identify what's causing his problem and what can be done about it.

YOU AUTO KNOW
Don Henslee

Q. With a lengthy trip coming up, I'm a little shakey about the auto repair rip-off stories I've been hearing. How can I insure against an unscrupulous "highwayman" who wants to fix something with which there's nothing wrong?
A. First of all, know your car. Pay attention to it. Second, have preventive maintenance performed regularly, or do it yourself. There are a number of things you can do easily and inexpensively like changing oil, and gas and air filters, maintaining proper tire inflation, checking your drive belts and replacing if necessary. Check your fluid levels in battery, power steering and brakes. Also, check and replace spark plugs and points. Then, check your car over before you leave and, if you feel in need of a second opinion, have a shop you know and trust look the car over at home.
