Strain given seven years probation, fine

Jury decides Thursday evening after nine-day trial concludes

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Despite the defense attorney's plea Robert Strain's cooperation with law enforcement officers was an indication of his innocence, jurors sided with witnesses for the state and found the Hereford man guilty of felony theft Thursday.

The 22nd District Court jury sentenced the 52-year-old farmer to seven years probation and assessed a $5,000 fine, the maximum allowable fine for the charge of third degree felony theft over $200 and under $10,000.

Strain was being tried by a seven-man, five-woman jury on one of 17 indictments issued against him last Sept. 1 by a Deaf Smith County grand jury. The district attorney's office this morning was not ready to make a statement as to what would be done about the remaining 16 indictments, and defense attorney Travis Shelton has not yet indicated if an appeal will be filed.

The state rested its case on Wednesday after calling some 33 witnesses, including law enforcement officers, farmers whose belongings had been taken and later found in Strain's barn and two men who said they sold stolen merchandise to Strain after telling him the stuff was stolen.

Twelve witnesses testified for the defense, including Strain's wife Sallie, former president of the Hereford Independent School District board of education. Mrs. Strain testified her husband went to "many, many sales" and had collected things for as long as she had known him. The couple has been married since 1955.

Shelton and Deaf Smith County District Attorney Roland Saul each took about one hour for closing arguments, with District Judge David Wesley Gulley dismissing the jury at 6 p.m. to eat dinner and begin deliberations. The guilty verdict was announced by jury foreman Werner Koelzer at about 7:10 p.m.

The punishment phase of the trial lasted less than an hour, with the jury taking just under two hours to make up its mind about the sentence.

"If you convict someone of a crime and don't punish them, you haven't accomplished anything," Saul told the jury in his closing remarks. "If you're going to do anything about theft, you're going to have to do something about the fence."

Saul asked the jury to assess the maximum punishment: 10 years incarceration in the Texas Department of Corrections and a $5,000 fine. Shelton asked for probation for his client, who had never been convicted of a felony.

Shelton claimed that Strain had already been punished, just by going through the ordeal of a long trial and by the fact that as a convicted felon "he can no longer vote, obtain a passport or serve on a jury." Shelton said perhaps the hardest for Strain would be the fact that he would have to "go about his business in the community, looking his friends and neighbors in the eye as a convicted felon."

"It's not the appropriate penalty to say to Bob Strain that 'you ought to go to Huntsville,'" Shelton said to the jury.

Earlier, Shelton asked jurors to think carefully before considering the testimony given by Thomas Martinez Sr. of Lubbock and Joe Angel Martinez, his nephew, of Hereford.

The men have both been convicted of theft in connection with items that turned up after Strain's barn was raided last Aug. 15. The older man has been named as a major supplier of the stolen goods found in the barn.

"I don't know whether you can believe Joe Angel Martinez or not," Shelton told the jury panel. "Apparently Joe Angel and his uncle got together." Referring to testimony by Thomas Martinez that Robert Strain had broken their agreement not to tell on each other if one got caught, Shelton attempted to cast doubt that the agreement has ever been made.

"Martinez is anxious to get even with Mr. Strain," he said. "I say to you he's willing to fudge a little if he's mad at Strain."

"Remember that accomplice witnesses are people whose testimonies you have to scrutinize closely."

he advised the jury. There must be other corroborating evidence.

"There's a pattern in this man's life of collecting things," the defense attorney pointed out. "He buys anything that's loose. Let's not condemn a man for doing what seems peculiar to us."

Saul claimed that Shelton's arguments "were theories, but they weren't supported by evidence." He said the state presented the evidence, which showed that Strain "got caught, and he got caught red-handed."

Saul said the situation compared to living in two worlds, one had being involved as a civic and community leader and on the other "dealing with people like Joe Angel and Martinez."

Saul said the jurors had to believe Strain was guilty "beyond a reasonable doubt, not beyond any doubt. This case comes as close to being a 100 percent, absolute case as you'll ever see."

Saul said a check to Thomas Martinez Sr. for $500 was probably the best piece of evidence the state presented. Martinez testified Strain gave him the check for stolen farm equipment he and his son delivered to the farm last July, but the memo on the check said it was for contract labor-hoeing.

"Do you think Martinez did an honest day's work in July of 1983," Saul asked the jury.

"It's easy to feel sorry," Saul concluded, "but you did not put him where he is today. He put himself there. I'm asking you to hand out justice, not mercy."

In his charge to the jury, Gulley had told them they must find Strain guilty in six different ways. They were to be convinced that Strain unlawfully appropriated the drill press, cut off saw and welder taken from Lubbock farmer K.R. Lindsey and named in the indictment, and that he appropriated it with the intent to deprive the owner of the property.

Gulley told jurors they must also be convinced that Lindsey was the owner of the property in question, that the property was stolen when Strain got it and that he knew it was stolen, and that it was worth over $200 and under $10,000.

POWER encourages comment

People Opposed to Wasted Energy Repositories (POWER) is urging area citizens to write letters protesting the proposed tenfold raising of acceptable radiation leakage amounts.

The Environmental Protection Agency, POWER said, is allowing public comment on the proposal, given in the May 8 federal register. The 1,000 percent increase deals specifically with radiation from high-level nuclear waste repositories, for which Deaf Smith County contains one of nine candidate sites.

Written comments are due by May 29, though POWER said there is a chance those received late will be considered.

"It seems to us that once again citizen input is nearly eliminated by the lack of adequate response time," a POWER press release stated. "It seems unreasonable to expect private citizens to have the time to respond to such an important issue in less than one month, even if it were possible to receive notification more quickly."

"We urge everyone to send a statement, even a postcard, objecting to the relaxation of the standards for radiation releases from nuclear waste dumps. We know that such releases of radiation are a planned part of the repository system. We mustn't sit by and allow 10 times as much radiation to contaminate our atmosphere and expose our families."

Pair of men still missing

Twelve days have elapsed since anyone has reported seeing local men Jose A. Elizondo, 25, and Tomas Valdez, 20.

According to Deaf Smith County Sheriff Joe Brown, no significant leads have yet been uncovered to help break the case. A call Thursday to one of the men's sisters, who lives in Amarillo, revealed the two had money coming to them from jobs in Amarillo but had not yet made an effort to attain it.

Elizondo and Valdez disappeared May 13. Friday, the car they had taken out of town was discovered abandoned in the Buffalo Lake area. Though one of their billfolds was found in the vehicle, there were no signs of blood or other foul play, Brown said.

Iraq said its jetfighters and warships today attacked a convoy of ships in the Persian Gulf off Iran's coast, "hitting and destroying six of them."

An Iraqi military spokesman, reading a communique over Baghdad state radio, said the six unidentified "navy vessels" were attacked near the Iranian bay of Khor Moussa at the north end of the gulf.

Iraq's official news agency described the action as "a violent and surprise attack." No further details were given about the identity of the vessels, and there was no independent confirmation of the report.

The reported attack came just hours before the U.N. Security Council was scheduled to begin an emergency meeting to consider action to halt attacks on commercial ships in the gulf.

The attacks, staged by both Iran and Iraq as part of their 44-month-old war, have raised fears that other gulf countries and perhaps the United States might become involved in the conflict.

On Thursday, an Iranian warplane attacked a Liberian-registered tanker in the gulf in retaliation for attacks earlier in the day by Iraqi warplanes on two ships south of the Iranian oil port of Kharg Island, U.S. intelligence sources said.

The military spokesman in Baghdad said today's attacks "underline our determination to maintain and tighten" the four-month blockade imposed by Iraq on Iranian ports. The attacks came less than 48 hours after Iraqi President Saddam Hussein pledged to intensify the blockade.

Gulf shipping sources say 27 ships have been damaged during the blockade.

An Iranian F-4 attacked the tanker Chemical Venture on Thursday, U.S. State Department spokesman John Hughes said in Washington, quoting intelligence sources in the southern gulf region.

Initial reports indicated the ship was sinking with the crew aboard. But a spokesman for Japan Line Ltd., the company that chartered the ship, said the 31 crew members were rescued by a Saudi Arabian naval vessel.

Saudi planes chased the attacker, but were unable to make contact, Hughes said.

The reported attack came about six hours after Iraq announced that its warplanes had hit two "big" naval targets south of Kharg Island — the first air action since an Iraqi plane hit a Panamanian freighter last Friday.

Shipping sources in Manama said the 28,622-ton vessel was hit by a single rocket 37 miles east of Saudi Arabia, off Jubail.

Iraq has attacked ships in a declared war zone near Kharg Island in an attempt to halt Iranian oil shipments. Iran has been accused by the United States, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia of attacking ships outside the war zone in retaliation, but Iran has denied the accusations.

Iran has said that if shipment of Iranian oil is blocked it would close the Persian Gulf to all shipping. President Reagan has said the United States would not allow the Strait of Hormuz to be closed.

In Washington, White House and State Department spokesmen said a decision to send Stinger anti-aircraft missiles to the Saudis to help it protect ships against attacks was still pending. However, other officials said

GOP convention eyes expenses

By DAVID SEDENO
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The man in charge of planning the Republican National Convention says he doesn't know if the GOP can help the city of Dallas pay for overruns in security funds.

Convention Manager Ron Walker said Thursday city officials have yet to request funds from the GOP, but "we'll address it when we come to it."

The GOP has received $6.06 million from the U.S. Treasury to stage the convention on Aug. 20-23. A local group is trying to raise an additional $4.4 million by Aug. 1. About $2 million of that amount would be used for security.

But Assistant City Manager Levi Davis said the city already is $500,000 over budget.

Walker, who has been in Dallas since May 1, has been working with the media, local, state and national party officials and the White house to get "as good a convention as this party has seen."

"We'll do everything we can to highlight the record of this professionally run, smart party project," Ron Walker told members of the Dallas GOP Men's Club on Thursday. "If we portray President and Mrs. Reagan and Vice President Bush and Mrs. Bush in the best light we can say we have done our jobs."

He said former President Gerald Ford will attend the convention, which will feature a podium design that will enable delegates to see the president at all times, said Walker, a former special assistant to President Nixon. Walker presented a model of the design, which abandons the red, white and blue colors for earth-tone ones.

"It's a very exciting and new concept, a dramatic change from the past," he said.

Walker said the GOP also plans to offer its own television service during the convention.

He said the convention was probably not going to be as exciting as the Democratic National Convention, but he said he didn't expect any trouble from demonstrators. A coalition of protest groups has sued the city of Dallas in an attempt to camp overnight at Fair Park near downtown.

The city has offered groups overnight campsites at two other parks, but those are more than 15 miles from the administration appeared to be committed to the sale and an announcement likely would be made before the end of the week.

The New York Times said today that Reagan administration officials have reportedly told members of Congress that some in-convention site.

But the money issue continues to be the stickler because city officials insist they will not use taxpayers' money to fund the convention.

City Manager Charles Anderson said the city probably would be able to recoup a portion of the additional costs from $2 million the GOP may receive under a convention-related appropriations bill pending in Congress.

But Ernest Angelo of Midland, a Republican National Committee member and convention organizer, said the party already has plans for the additional money.

"If Dallas made a request, we would do our best to consider it. But in the process of doing our own budget, there is in every category additional things we would like to do," Angelo said.

Texans find Mayan tomb

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Texas archeologists searching a tropical jungle in Guatemala unearthed a 1,500-year-old Mayan tomb which yielded the intact skeleton of a nobleman and artifacts.

Dr. Richard Adams, a University of Texas at San Antonio anthropologist, who led the expedition, says that the find was "quite important." The site is being protected by soldiers from looters.

UTSA officials said the expedition was a joint effort between the Guatemalan government, the National Geographic Society and Adams, chairman of the department of behavioral and cultural sciences.

"It was a major tomb," Adams said at a news conference in Guatemala City on Wednesday. "Scientifically, it is quite important."

Damaged mail sorted at Temple

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — U.S. Postal Service officials are sorting through mounds of charred and mutilated mail after a fiery car-truck collision killed two people and destroyed an estimated 20,000 outgoing letters and parcels.

Witnesses said the mail truck, enroute to Temple, veered into an oncoming lane of traffic early Wednesday evening and hit a car. Both vehicles burst into flames and outgoing mail from four cities was strewn across a farm-to-market road.

"This is the first time in almost 20 years that I've dealt with something like this, in the 765 (zip code) area," Temple Postmaster Sam Cater said Wednesday.

Local health care considered

AUSTIN (AP) — A state mental health official says the agency's plan to shift some patients from state hospitals to community-based care is part of a national trend to treat people near their homes.

"The whole country is moving toward trying to treat people who have mental illnesses as close to their homes as possible," said Dr. Jimmy Clemons, deputy commissioner of the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Clemons on Thursday said the agency also plans expanded use of anti-psychotic medication.

The Austin American-Statesman reported Thursday that one of its reporters sat, unnoticed, through a staff meeting of the Austin State Hospital.

Woman shot during divorce court

NORWICH, Conn. (AP) — A woman gunned down by her estranged husband in a crowded divorce court had earlier in the day expressed fear he would harm her, but was put at ease when her keys set off a courthouse metal detector, her lawyer said.

Kenneth Spargo, 53, and Priscilla Spargo, 44, were in Norwich Superior Court on Thursday, to dissolve their 23-year marriage on Spargo's claim that his wife had committed adultery, court records said.

As the judge looked on, Spargo, described by his lawyer as a religious fanatic, calmly walked up to his wife, "bent over and whispered something to her, then stepped back and said, 'You bitch,' and bang, bang, bang," said Robert Murphy, who witnessed the shooting.

Hard hats bid farewell to furnace

DUQUESNE, Pa. (AP) — Wearing black arm bands, humming "Taps" and fighting back tears, grizzled steelworkers toiled their final shift at Dorothy Six, an award-winning blast furnace whose fires fell victim to the industry's hard times.

"I saw Dorothy being built when I was a kid. She was special to us. She was our bread and butter. It's something you hate to see die. She was part of the family," said Joe Procacina, 43, a steelworker for 17 years.

"There were a lot of guys with tears in their eyes. It's a dead, empty feeling. It's sad. The place is like a graveyard," said Procacina, a maintenance man with a wife and three children but no job.

U.S. Steel Corp., which lost $1.2 billion last year, shut down Dorothy Six on Thursday as part of a nationwide retrenchment announced Dec. 27. The closing and other cutbacks mean the loss of 1,150 jobs at the Duquesne Works in the ailing Monongahela River Valley east of Pittsburgh.

FBI helps with murder conviction

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Help from FBI experts and pressure from the U.S. Embassy appear to have been instrumental in convicting five former national guardsmen of murdering four American churchwomen.

The convictions Thursday were among only a handful of guilty verdicts issued against members of El Salvador's powerful military and security forces in recent decades.

More than 43,000 civilians are among the 52,000 victims in the 4½-year-old war between leftist rebels and the U.S.-backed government. Human rights groups blame most of those deaths on security forces and rightist death squads said to be tied to the military.

With four of the defendants pleading innocent and the confession of the fifth not allowed as evidence, the nuns' murder case relied heavily on initial investigations by two U.S. Embassy officials and on the work FBI agents who quietly collected testimony and evidence.

Speculators put pressure on peso

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Financial analysts here say that speculators, prompted by rumors of a new devaluation, are putting heavy pressure on Mexico's battered peso. But the experts say they doubt the government will devalue the currency at this time.

"Another devaluation would make investors lose even more confidence in the peso," said Roberto Figueroa, an economist formerly with Banco de Mexico, the central bank.

Figueroa, now a partner in a private firm, and other analysts agreed that if the government does decide to devalue the peso, it will not be a sharp devaluation. Instead, they said, the government might try to ease pressure by increasing the sliding rate for the peso now in effect.

The peso suffered three sharp devaluations three times in 1982. In September 1983, the government established a slide rate for the pesos of 13 centavos daily. There are 100 centavos to a peso.

Lucas says he can't forget

KAUFMAN, Texas (AP) — Henry Lee Lucas says he tries but can't forget that 14 years ago he repeatedly stabbed to death a 26-year-old elementary school teacher because he wanted "mostly sex."

On Thursday, Lucas pleaded guilty to the murder of Linda Jane Phillips, and State District Judge Glen Ashworth sentenced the drifter to life in prison under a plea bargain arranged by prosecutors and Lucas' court-appointed attorney.

"He told me, 'There are just some things so terrible that you can't forget them.' He apparently has a phenomenal memory," said Kaufman County District Attorney William Conrad.

Lucas told The Dallas Morning News he killed Ms. Phillips after "passing her car several times, along the highway (I-20)," then forcing her vehicle off a Kaufman county road he followed her to.

He said his motive was "sex — mostly sex." Lucas said he killed the woman because "I decided I couldn't leave her as a witness."

Lucas said he felt no remorse over the killing at the time and "didn't think any more about it until I got arrested (in June 1983) and started clearing up my cases."

Lucas has claimed to have killed more than 350 people in 17 states during the years he drifted from coast to coast. In January, he led authorities to the site where Ms. Phillips' body was found in 1970. Conrad said Lucas signed a confession "including details that only a participant in the crime could know about."

Authorities discovered the body of Ms. Phillips Aug. 10, 1970, just northwest of Kaufman. She had been stabbed 26 times.

Lucas has already been convicted of three other Texas murders and received sentences of death by injection, life in prison and 75 years in prison. He was convicted in Michigan in 1960 of killing his mother.

"We're all fairly confident that he did kill Linda Phillips," said Conrad. "I asked him, 'How in the world can you remember the details?' because you start to think maybe he's just confessing to any dead body that turns up."

Lucas, 47, was indicted in January for the murder. He was flown from his jail cell in Georgetown, in Central Texas, by helicopter to Kaufman, about 40 miles southeast of Dallas.

By an unofficial count, Lucas is charged with at least 17 other killings, most of them in Texas. The Texas Department of Public Safety is coordinating law enforcement handling of the drifter.

Ms. Phillips' father, Jimmy R. Phillips, said the past four months since Lucas' confession have been torturous for him.

"I don't suppose you ever get relief from something like this," Phillips said. "The hurt is in what happened."

The DPS task force initially believed Ms. Phillips was Lucas' first victim in Texas, Conrad said. But a Lubbock grand jury recently indicted him for a killing less than two weeks after his release from a Michigan prison on June 30, 1970.

Lucas was sentenced to death April 13 for the Halloween 1979 slaying of a unidentified female hitchhiker near Georgetown.

With Jackson, Hart

Mondale wants debates

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

Walter F. Mondale is spoiling for more debates and accusing Gary Hart of being afraid to meet him one-on-one, while the Colorado senator says his Democratic rival is using "cheap political tricks" and the Rev. Jesse Jackson accuses him of campaign gimmickry.

Mondale stepped up his level of attack on the debate question Thursday, first calling on his opponents to debate him separately — one on one — and then accusing Hart of fearing such a confrontation because he has lost primaries in other states where they debated.

"I'll debate Gary Hart any time I can get my hands on him, under any circumstances," Mondale said in California.

The three contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination are already scheduled to debate June 3 in California, two days before conclusive primaries there and in New Jersey and three other states.

As the candidates debated from afar, Mondale picked up nine more delegates in Ohio and three more in Delaware with the selection of state party leaders for unpledged delegate slots.

In Idaho, where Hart won a non-binding primary Tuesday, he was victorious again Thursday night in caucuses and appeared to be in line to pick up 11 national convention delegates.

With Mondale pressing the idea of another debate in New Jersey, Hart and Jackson each said they were willing to debate but ruled out Mondale's call for one-on-one sessions with him.

"All his campaign has to do is call my office" to set up a debate, Hart said.

But Hart added, "I'm not going to debate debates or get involved in that kind of juvenile political conduct."

Jackson, campaigning in New Jersey, rejected the offer for individual debates and called it a "campaign gimmick." He noted that all three candidates agreed earlier they would hold only joint debates.

Primaries June 5 are in California, New Jersey, New Mexico, South Dakota and West Virginia.

Over Salvadoran aid

White House may seek compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Final congressional action on emergency military aid for El Salvador is being put off until next month, giving the White House time to try to overcome House rejection of aid for Nicaraguan rebels.

The Democrat-controlled House approved the administration-backed Salvadoran aid proposal by a vote of 267-154 on Thursday, but coupled it with a ban on any more spending in this fiscal year for the Nicaraguan guerrillas.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said the administration wanted both the $62 million in aid for El Salvador and the $21 million approved earlier by the Republican-controlled Senate for support of the anti-Sandinista rebels in Nicaragua.

Faced with the impasse, Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., announced that the Senate would take no action until after returning June 4 from its Memorial Day recess.

Speakes said the White House would "not accept any legislation" containing a clause terminating funds for the rebels, either immediately or over a wind-down period.

While the House bill would not terminate the program, it would bar the administration from seeking funds in a later supplemental appropriation for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

"From the White House's standpoint, it does tie their hands at this point," said a Senate Republican source, who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

The White House is expected to spend the recess lobbying both House and Senate members in an attempt to arrive at a compromise close to the Senate figure.

Robert Walker new 'star'

By JILL LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Walker, star of the Capitol Hill soap opera called C-SPAN, is not the stuff of which matinee idols are made.

But the lanky, baby-faced Republican, already a fixture in many of the 17 million homes wired for cable television, catapulted into an even broader spotlight with last week's House antics over camera angles.

"I was not at all embarrassed. I was awfully surprised," Walker said, recalling the moment he realized television cameras had shown viewers the deserted House chamber he had been addressing with such vigor.

"The real embarrassment is so many empty seats in the House. I'm there doing my job," added the unflappable Walker, whose district is based in Lancaster, Pa.

Many Democrats are not convinced that stinging partisan speeches to a television audience and a vacant chamber after the close of legislative business constitute doing one's job.

Thus Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill's sudden order that cameras operated by House employees for the Cable

It will be an uphill battle in the House, where 24 Republicans joined 217 Democrats in voting against CIA funds for the Nicaraguan rebels, known in Spanish as contras. Voting against the spending ban were 132 Republicans and 45 Democrats.

Democratic members of the House Intelligence Committee led the attack on the undercover aid program, with Chairman Edward J. Boland, D-Mass., calling upon his House colleagues to "end this senseless war."

Committee member Wyche Fowler, D-Ga., told the House, "We are doing under the table what we are not brave enough to go to the American people and say that we, in concert with our allies if the threat is so great, want to do openly."

But the ranking Republican on the committee, Rep. J. Kenneth Robinson of Virginia, said, "There is no honor in abandoning friends in the heat of battle; there is no honor in leaving free people of Central America as fodder for the Sandinista machine."

President Reagan argues that undercover aid to the contras is needed to prevent the Nicaraguan regime from funneling Soviet and Cuban arms to Marxist revolutionaries elsewhere in Central America.

In other Capitol Hill developments:

—The House and Senate voted to temporarily increase the Reagan administration's borrowing authority by $30 billion after being warned that $9 billion worth of Social Security and other checks could bounce. The extra borrowing authority should enable the government to meet its obligations until about June 22.

—Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger was scolded by Republican senators after he complained to the Senate defense appropriations subcommittee about $14 billion in spending cuts ordered by Reagan. "You're in real trouble, Cap," Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, warned Weinberger after the defense secretary complained the cuts agreed to by Reagan and the Senate's GOP leadership would make it harder to meet the nation's military needs.

—Reagan administration supporters beat back an attempt to scuttle the president's nomination of conservative law professor J. Harvie Wilkinson to a federal appeals judgeship. Critics say he's unqualified because he has no trial experience, but the Senate voted 54-36 against sending Wilkinson's nomination back to the Judiciary Committee for more hearings.

Paul Harvey 'Star Warriors'

We need a name for our "star warriors."

Our Pentagon is contemplating investing 28 billion of your dollars in space weaponry.

President Reagan says the only way we can prevent star wars is to develop an adequate deterrent.

Already we have conducted three tests — and a fourth is scheduled for this summer — of technology and techniques designed to destroy Soviet nuclear missiles in space.

The "homing overlay" experiment is not yet successful.

Nonetheless Lt. General James Abrahamson, director of this program, believes we have the know how now to build a system which will give us enough protection to reduce the threat of nuclear attack.

What we're looking for are "weapons that kill weapons that kill people."

It might work.

Legend says that about 200 B.C. the Greek scientist Archimedes held the Romans at bay for three years by focusing mammoth concave mirrors on their offshore warships. If they dared move in close, they caught fire.

Our laser cannon would similarly concentrate light — not against ships — but against space-ships — against inbound nuclear missiles.

But whom shall we trust with the trigger and what will we call him?

On land and sea, we are defended by the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines.

But the preparation for — the prevention of — "star wars" — will require space specialists.

Heritage Foundation proposes a separate academy to teach this new military science. What would you suggest we call it and its graduates?

President Reagan has not yet proposed a separate branch of military service but he has directed Pentagon priority to whatever long-term research is necessary to "eliminate the threat posed by strategic nuclear missiles."

Present military space policy is the province of NASA. But while the Soviet has been concentrating on strategic space weapons, our NASA has concentrated on the peaceful and scientific objectives of space.

We were first to the Moon — but they were first with earth-orbiting weapons.

It would help our nation focus its efforts if we had a new handle for the new discipline. Any suggestions?

The Army, the Navy, the Air Force, the Marines — and the what?

Repair cost should be considered

COLLEGE STATION — As summer approaches, thousands of do-it-yourselfers will grab their tool boxes and start attacking long lists of home repair and improvement projects. If you're one of them, it could be worthwhile to take a second look sometimes a particular job might better be left to a professional," says Berry, a home economist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. With money, time and quality of the finished pro-

With tonight's scrimmage

Herd ends spring grid practice

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor
Spring football practice comes to a close today with a varsity inter-squad scrimmage slated for 7 p.m. in Whiteface Stadium.

The 99 Hereford High School students vying for positions on the varsity and two junior varsity grid squads, according to head football Jerry Taylor.

The junior varsity players had their spring scrimmage Thursday. "It went pretty well, the defense played real well," said Taylor this morning.

Although the coaches have not yet looked at the scrimmage on field, Taylor said he is optimistic about the talent coming up from the two junior high's. He said there are a number of quarterbacks, running backs, linebackers, and big and strong offensive and defensive linemen who are expected to enhance the football program.

"I think there's some good players in that group. The quantity is not there but the quality is," said Taylor.

Thursday's and today's scheduled scrimmage are controlled. There is no punt or kickoff returns, and there is extended timeouts and quick whistles to prevent injuries.

"It'll be chaos" for spectators watching the scrimmage from the stands, Taylor said, among other things, because of the constant insertion of different players into the game. "There will not be our best 11 on the field at anytime."

There are 24 seniors, 35 juniors and 40 sophomores in this year's HHS program. The primary areas which need to be filled or which there is heavy competition on the varsity squad for the starting spot are running back, wide receiver, defensive tackle and defensive end, Taylor said.

The coaches will be studying the scrimmage films closely to get a better idea who the best players are. Players are encouraged to lift weights during the off season although there is no set schedule for players during the summer.

The players will begin fall practice Aug. 15 and full contact Aug. 24. The first game is Sept. 7 here against San Angelo Central.

But for now, improvement and consistency are concerns.

"We need to get polished and get ready to play a 10-game schedule," Taylor added.

The Action's That Way

Herd defensive tackle senior Dennis Chandler helped with handling the yard-sticks during Thursday's junior varsity scrimmage. Chandler is unable to participate in team practices due to a broken arm he suffered during track. The Herd ends its spring practice with a varsity scrimmage tonight at 7 p.m. in Whiteface Stadium.

Ralph Sampson

Rocket NBA top rookie

HOUSTON (AP) — Ralph Sampson, the top pick in last year's National Basketball Association draft, had little competition for the Rookie of the Year award.

All 76 sports writers and broadcasters voting Thursday cast their ballots for the Houston Rockets' 7-foot-4 center, making Sampson the first unanimous winner since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in 1970.

Sampson led his team in scoring, rebounding and blocked shots and averaged 21 points per game to lead all first-year players.

He will receive the Eddie Gottlieb Trophy, named after the coach of the NBA's first championship team and one of the league's founders.

"I really didn't know what to expect, so I guess I am pleased with what I've done," Sampson said in assessing his rookie year.

"Everybody was looking at me to come out and do it every day, but I never said that I'd be able to do it all the time or do it alone, and that's the way I approached the season," said the three-time collegiate Player of the Year from the University of Virginia. "All I can do is play like I can and listen to the coaches and adjust. I think I've done that."

Sampson ranked fifth in the NBA in rebounding with 11.1 per game and third in shotblocking with 2.4 per game in helping Houston improve from 14 victories in 1982 to 29 wins last season.

Said Rockets Coach Bill Fitch: "He's like the rich kid on the block who has been taught the fundamentals of the game very well."

"Now he has to learn to play the street game, the one they play in New York with chain baskets and cement. He missed all that. Ralph has a lot of maturing to do because he still makes a lot of errors, but he's going to be a great, great player."

Sampson told the Houston

Chronicle he thinks awards are "nice, but I can't live my life looking back at them if I'm going to continue to improve and play the way I'm capable in the NBA."

"Those trophies aren't going to help me stop another center out there on the floor," Sampson said. "At times, they can actually be a burden."

Sampson's rookie honor came one day after the Rockets earned the right to pick first in the June 19 NBA draft, beating Portland in the annual coin toss. The Rockets plan to pick Akeem Olatunji, the 7-foot center from the University of Houston and Sampson is expected to be moved to power forward. Last year, the Rockets got Sampson by beating Indiana in the coin toss.

Fitch said he was confident both centers will blend together.

Cubs sweep two from Atlanta

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The breeze was blowing out again in Wrigley Field and the high-flying Chicago Cubs continued to soar along on the 17-mile-an-hour tailwind.

"When the flags are stiff like that, the only thing you can do is hope to outscore them," said Atlanta Manager Joe Torre.

The Braves rapped out 24 hits Thursday, 12 in each game, but it wasn't enough to prevent a double-header sweep by the Cubs. They won the opener 10-7 as Leon Durham smacked a pair of three-run homers and took the nightcap 7-5 as Ron Cey hit a three-run shot.

Jody Davis had a solo homer in each game, helping the Cubs stretch their winning streak to six games. They have scored 42 runs during the streak, all in Wrigley Field's friendly confines.

"We're getting some tremendous mileage out of different people," said Manager Jim Frey, whose surprising Cubs have collected 10 or more hits in 21 of their 41 games and lead Philadelphia by two games in the National League East. "I don't know how long that's going to last, but we have to take advantage of it as long as it lasts."

In other NL games, the Phillies edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3, the San Francisco Giants nipped the New York Mets 3-2 and the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Cincinnati Reds 5-1.

The Cubs' sweep was their first double-header success since Aug. 3, 1980. Besides Durham's first-game slugging — giving him 11 homers and 37 RBIs — Bob Dernier went 5-for-5. Chicago built a 9-0 lead after six innings in handing Pascual Perez his first loss. The Cubs scored six runs in the fifth inning, with Durham, Mel Hall and Davis all homering.

Perez, who allowed seven runs and 11 hits in 4 1-3 innings, refused to meet with newsmen after the first game. But Pete Falcone, who was tagged for six runs and nine hits in 4 2-3 innings of the nightcap, said:

"I've been here before with the wind blowing out and you've just got to try to block it out of your mind. I am a fly ball pitcher. But on days like this — unbelievable."

"It doesn't matter who's pitching. This club hits everybody," said Durham. "Sure it's a situation with the wind blowing that a lot of balls will go out. My first one had help, but it's that way for everyone."

Phillies 4, Dodgers 3
Len Matuszek's bases-loaded infield hit with two out in the ninth inning gave Philadelphia its 11th victory in 12 games. After Phillies relief ace Al Holland put down a Los Angeles threat with a runner at third and one out in the top of the ninth, Juan Samuel tripled with one out in the bottom half off Pat Zachry, who then walked Greg Gross and Mike Schmidt intentionally to load the bases.

Phoenix Suns have momentum

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Phoenix Suns say they have the momentum but the Los Angeles Lakers have history on their side heading into Game 6 tonight in their NBA Western Conference final.

The Lakers, clinging to a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series, have never lost a playoff series to the Suns — winning in seven games in 1969-70, in five games in 1979-80 and sweeping the 1981-82 set in four straight.

In addition, only four teams in National Basketball Association history have ever come back from a 3-1 deficit to win a playoff series and Phoenix is not one of them.

"I still feel very confident about this thing," said Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley. "I feel good about our ability to get the job done, whether it's in Phoenix or back at our place Sunday."

Wednesday night at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., the Suns staved off elimination by beating the Lakers 126-121.

Los Angeles, seeking its third consecutive Western Conference crown and fourth berth in the league finals in the last five seasons, had been 7-0 in playoff games this year on its homecourt. The Suns also had lost nine straight playoff games at the Forum.

"I never thought we were dead," said Phoenix guard Walter Davis, who scored 12 of his 27 points in the fourth period of Game 5. "Nobody picked us to win. We did something nobody thought we could do except ourselves."

Maybe any other team down 3-1 to the Lakers and playing on their homecourt would've given up. We didn't."

The Suns shot 67 percent from the field in the first half en route to a 71-61 lead and 61 percent overall in a game in which they never trailed.

"We took a lot of things out of the offense," said Coach John MacLeod, whose offensive scheme involves 25 set plays. "Basically, we ran only two plays all night and concentrated on execution. We had to do something to relieve the pressure on our guards and the one thing we did was concentrate on pushing the ball upcourt before their defense could get set.

Oakland manager Boros gets axed

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Steve Boros, who had said all along that he might be too mild mannered to succeed as a big league manager, is out and Jackie Moore is in with the Oakland A's.

"He's one of the best guys I ever met, and I have mixed emotions now. I'm so happy in one area and so sad in another," said Moore, the A's coach who replaced Boros on Thursday.

"Steve had ideas about the way he was going to be, and he wasn't going to let baseball change this," Moore said. "These things happen in baseball. It's going to happen to me someday."

Carney Lansford, the A's third baseman, called the deposed Boros "such a nice guy," and he added, "I wish we could have won for him."

Boros, 47, left with the team standing 20-24 but not far from the lead in the American League's Western Division. Last season, his first as a major league manager, the A's finished fourth with a 74-88 record.

Moore, 45, will be managing his first big league game tonight when the New York Yankees visit the Oakland Coliseum. The American League club will have a new pitching coach, too, with Wes Stock replacing Ron Schueler.

Schueler was fired along with Boros about 45 minutes after the A's 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. Both were offered other jobs with the A's. Team officials said Boros indicated he would accept, with his initial duties to include instruction and scouting.

Stock, a former A's pitching coach, returned to the organization this year as a minor league pitching instructor. In another change announced Thursday, former A's infielder Dave McKay joined the coaching staff.

Boros was hired by the A's to fill the job left vacant by the firing of Billy Martin, who returned to the Yankees in 1983 for a fourth term as their manager, only to be fired again.

Boros' style and dugout deportment were the exact opposite of Martin's.

"I'm not going to say much to the umpires, I can tell you that."

HEALTH Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Heart murmurs

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 69 years old and I'm so worried about my heart. I went for a thorough physical and my doctor kept saying everything was fine.

I got an electrocardiogram yesterday. When he showed me the chart I sure got scared. He told me I had heart skips that were common for my age and gave me some medicine to fix the irregular beat. He said not to worry. I'm a very nervous person. Could this be the cause of the skips?

DEAR READER - Rejoice that your doctor doesn't think you have anything to worry about.

It's true that extra beats, premature beats or heart skips are common. They increase in frequency with age. But they occur occasionally in almost everyone. I've seen many records of pilots and even astronauts who had skipped beats. The point is, they commonly occur even in people who have no heart disease at all. Now, they can be important. It depends a lot on the other findings. Some types predispose a person to having serious heart irregularities. That's why doctors try to control them in patients in the hospital with a recent heart attack.

Yes, being nervous can increase the likelihood of having such irregular beats. Adrenaline, released under stress, seems to store in the heart and makes the heart more unstable in terms of regular rhythm.

I doubt you smoke, but smoking increases the tendency. So does caffeine, found in coffee, tea, colas and other sources. It's a good idea to eliminate these if you're aware of such beats. I've discussed the various irregularities of the heart in the Health Letter 6-12, Heart Irregularities, Skipped Beats, Tachycardia, which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspa-

Of painful kidney stones

Drug can prevent formation

DALLAS (AP) - A pill packing the same potassium citrate punch as three daily glasses of orange juice can prevent the formation of painful kidney stones, a Texas doctor said.

Dr. Charles Y.C. Pak announced Thursday he has found that a daily dose of potassium citrate can provide relief to at least one-quarter of the 660,000 Americans who have some form of kidney stones.

Tests on patients suffering from hypocitraturia, a common cause of kidney stone disease, have shown that the drug stopped formation of stones in 74 percent and retarded formation of stones in 96 percent, Pak said.

Pak said that after three years of research he concluded that the drug would work as a cure for kidney stones with existing treatments of surgical removal and ultrasonic destruction.

"With the combined application of improved techniques for the removal of stones ... the control of renal stone disease may well be in hand," Pak said.

Food and Drug Administration approval is expected this summer and the drug should be on the market in the fall, Pak said.

About 96 percent of the patients showed a reduced rate of stones formed, said Pak, professor of internal medicine at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas.

Pak, professor of internal medicine at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas, said his test group of 78 patients formed an average 5.18 stones per year before the treatment, and .73 stones per year during treatment.

Dr. Charles Rodgers, director of the urology program at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., said Pak's results are "really significant."

"I think that the main thing it (potassium citrate) does is that it's a prevention in recurrence, which is a big problem in people who develop stones," said Rodgers.

"His (Pak's) data are pretty dramatic in those terms,"

Rodgers said. Citrate, a substance normally found in urine, is an "inhibitor" of kidney stone formation, Pak said. Patients with hypocitraturia, lacking citrate, are prone to forming calcium stones. In those people, potassium citrate increases urinary citrate and thus reduces stone formation, he said.

The drug should be effective on half of the 330,000 Americans who require surgical treatment of their stone disease, Pak said.

About 660,000 suffer from some form of kidney stone pain.

Pak said his research suggested, but has not proven, that the drug may reduce the size of existing kidney stones.

An inexpensive form of potassium citrate is being made in a slow-release pill under the name Urocit by Mission Pharmaceutical Co. in San Antonio, Pak said. Usage of the drug would cost about 50 cents per day, he said.

Ann Landers
Strength to keep going

DEAR ANN LANDERS: About 12 years ago you printed a prayer written by Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston. I carried it with me and read it whenever I needed strength or courage to keep going.

Please print it again. The first line is, "Dear God, help me be a good sport in the game of life." I hope you can find it because my copy is falling apart.--A Loyal Reader In Kansas City

DEAR K.C.: The piece you are referring to ran on Aug. 4, 1974. I am happy to trot it out again.

PRAYER FOR BAD TIMES
Dear God: Help me be a good sport in this game of life. I don't ask for an easy place in the lineup. Put me anywhere you need me. I only ask that I can give you 100 percent of everything I have. If all the hard drives seem to come my way, I thank you for the compliment. Help me remember that you never send a player more trouble than he can handle.

And, help me, Lord, to accept the bad breaks as part of the game. May I always play on the square, no matter what the others do. Help me study the Book so I'll know the rules.

Finally, God, if the natural turn of events goes against me and I'm benched for sickness or old age, help me to accept that as part of the game, too. Keep me from whimpering that I was framed or that I got a raw deal. And when I finish the final inning, I ask for no laurels. All I want is to believe in my heart that I played as well as I could and that I didn't let you down.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in support of your response to the person who said Al-Anon sent her son a bill for $40. You said the charge was for additional professional counseling, "agreed upon in advance"--and you were right.

Al-Anon is a self-supporting, non-profit fellowship of people helping people who share a common bond. We feel our lives have been deeply affected by another person's illness--alcoholism. Members meet to share experience, strength and hope.

A basket is passed with the suggestion, "If you can contribute, fine. If not, don't be uncomfortable. You contribute by your presence and willingness to help others whose dilemma you understand so well."

Al-Anon showed me how to put my life back together at a time when I thought it was hopelessly shattered. I have never received so much for so little. Thank you, Ann, for being our strongest booster.--Sioux Falls, S.D.

DEAR S.D.: A pleasure. And for those who don't know--it's in the phone book.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you do with your evening bag when you go to a formal dinner or a wedding? Every time I put mine on the floor, it gets stepped on or kicked around. When I put it next to my plate, a waiter spills food on it. The back of the chair is no good, it falls down. Thanks--Rose

DEAR ROSE: Try your lap, or under your dinner napkin, or on the table, near the centerpiece. The floor is a poor place. It could easily be picked up by just anyone.

A mosquito has forty-seven teeth.

Our blessings that have come to pass,
We tend to disregard,
Because we see the greenest grass
In someone else's yard.
The magic thing we call success
Eludes us, come what may,
And thus it seems that happiness
Will never come our way.
However, through the Church we find
That there's no need to roam,
For happiness and peace of mind
Are always close to home.
So, don't go searching all around,
And some day you'll agree:
The greenest grass of all is found
Wherever you may be!
