Robinson denies county stay order

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County's request for a stay order regarding penalties from a discriminatory hiring lawsuit was denied Thursday by a federal district court judge in Amarillo.

Mary Lou Robinson felt there was not sufficient evidence to grant the stay order, according to County Judge Glen Nelson, who was interviewed by telephone this morning.

The stay order, along with an application to appeal the case, had been requested last week by the county. It was hoped requirements set forth by Robinson's ruling of the discriminatory hiring suit could be postponed until the matter was heard in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, La.

On Sept. 21, Robinson ordered back pay be given all Mexican-Americans who applied for jobs with one of four county departments in the last five years and were denied employment due to racial discrimination.

Claims for back pay, which Robinson ruled are to be filed before Dec. 1, pertain to applications with the building and maintenance, county Precinct 3, sheriff's and social services departments.

According to Randall Marshall, spokesman for the plaintiffs' attorneys, the class consists of at least 238 Hispanics. Robinson ruled successful claimants are to receive the difference between what they would have made with the county since their applications were turned in and what they have actually earned in the meantime.

In addition to the monetary penalties, the county was ordered to formulate a new application procedure which would ensure future hiring decisions are based more on objective rather than subjective reasoning.

Representing the plaintiff class is Cecilia Garza, who was denied employment with the sheriff's department in 1981. She has worked at the local TRIA office for the past 18 months.

"Really, nothing has changed because we had not anticipated her (Robinson) handing down a stay

For ruling of hiring lawsuit order," Nelson said. He added the quickness of her decision, however, would help give the county more time in asking the New Orleans circuit court for a stay order.

In a telephone conversation he had earlier this morning with defense attorney Bill SoRelle, Nelson was told a circuit court decision on the stay order should be made by next weekend.

"We'll proceed with the decree unless a stay order is granted," Nelson told the Brand.

In any case, county officials hope the case will be heard in appellate court, Nelson said.

"We feel pretty strongly that if we get it to the appeals court, there will be some changes made" in Robinson's original ruling, Nelson commented. "There is a possibility, always, of the case being reviewed and the whole thing being dismissed."

Earlier this week, Marshall said the county was not likely to gain much from its application for appeal. It was possible, he said, Robinson's ruling could be completely supported or penalties against the counties could be expanded. Applicants for departments other than the four departments so far named, for instance, could also be deemed entitled to back pay.

Regarding the application for appeal, Marshall commented, "It seems to me it's more of a political decision that they (county officials) are not going to give in." He said the appeal procedure will end up costing taxpayers of all races more money.

Through Robinson's ruling last month, the county had spent more than $40,000 defending the case.

Appealing the case is something Nelson claimed is an obligation of the county. "We feel we need to get it reviewed for the benefit of our people."

Winds accompanying a Wednesday night rainstorm were apparently stronger in some parts of town than others, as evidenced by the destruction of a storage shed at 413 Knight. Three motorcycles were among items resting in the building, owned by Suerero Gonzales.

Most local federal workers stay on job

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

While 500,000 government workers nationwide were given the afternoon off Thursday, Hereford managed to keep most of its federal employees on the job.

The four federal workers at the Soil Conservation Service office were informed they could go home, but decided to stay because there was work to be done.

Jaime Neeper, acting district conservationist, said her office heard the news that the government was out of money from their area office in Amarillo. Some of the local workers, though, were out in the field and those in the office had projects to complete, Neeper claimed.

The local Farmers Home Administration office sent two employees home after getting word at 2 p.m. to furlough "non-essential people." Curtis Simmons, county supervisor, said an accounting clerk and an assistant county supervisor were given the afternoon off.

"It didn't cause any problems for us," he claimed, "but if it had happened earlier in the day, it might have." Simmons said another assistant supervisor might have been sent home had she not have been working in Amarillo Thursday.

The state office of the Agricultural and Stabilization Conservation Service closed, but the Deaf Smith county office was told to remain open for business.

The White House issued the order at around noon Thursday because Congress had failed to approve the $500 billion catch-all spending bill needed to keep most of the government solvent.

While the government was partially shut down, President Reagan and Congressional leaders traded partisan charges of who was to blame for the mess, which also left in doubt whether Congress could meet its target of adjourning for the year by the end of the week.

The House voted Thursday morning to approve an emergency spending extension to finance out-of-cash government agencies through 5 p.m. today, and the Senate followed suit early in the evening.

All furloughed workers were to have reported for work at their regular time today after Deputy White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater announced that the president would sign the temporary money measure.

Administration officials justified the decision to send federal workers home Thursday at midday by noting that the Senate had not yet acted on the short emergency extension.

Asked at the White House why he ordered the shutdown, President Reagan reportedly replied: "This has been very typical of what has happened ever since we have been here and you can lay this right on the majority party in the House of Representatives."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., is quoted by Associated Press as having said the president was "embarrassing his office by using the presidency to engage in a Hollywood publicity stunt."

"He stopped the government today not for purposes of good public policy, but for purposes of melodrama...By pulling the curtain on the government, the actor in the Oval Office is making his final grab for an Oscar," O'Neill said.

Federal law bars the government from operating non-essential services unless money is first appropriated by Congress.

In Washington, some federal employees were delighted to have the afternoon off while others called it a "stupid" interruption of important work.

"It's kind of disappointing that the whole government gets shut down," Education Department official James D. Kesler said after his office closed. "On the other hand, it's a beautiful afternoon, and having a free afternoon with no obligations isn't the worst thing that could happen."

In Hawaii, thousands of visitors to the USS Arizona Memorial at Pearl Harbor were turned away after National Park Service employees were furloughed, according to superintendent Gary Cummins.

"It has been demoralizing to the visitors and to the staff," he said.

Not affected by the shutdown order were the uniformed military and federal workers dealing with air traffic control, border guards, medical institution personnel and prison and other law enforcement personnel.

The U.S. Postal Service, which has its own budget, was also not affected. Government processing of Social Security and other federal checks was also to proceed.

Brand to present special sections

Sunday's edition of The Brand will include two special sections saluting National 4-H Week and National Fire Prevention Week.

These special sections are made possible by Hereford firms and institutions, and we think you'll enjoy these tributes to our young people involved in 4-H work, and to our volunteer firemen who provide such an important service!

Candidate forum slated Oct. 18

Candidates in three of the races being voted on Nov. 6 have agreed to participate in a forum planned for 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 18 by the legislative affairs committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Deaf Smith County Commissioner Precinct 3 candidates Bill Allen - a Republican - and Democrat Troy Don Moore are supposed to attend. Also there are to be Democrat Justin McBride and Republican John Smith, who are both running for the 86th District seat in the Texas House of Representatives.

Larry Combest, a Republican, and Democratic candidate Don Richards have also accepted the invitation to appear. They are vying for the post of 19th District U.S. Representative.

Local citizens are encouraged to submit questions to be asked the candidates. Queries should be addressed to Forum, P.O. Box 192, Hereford, TX 79045, or dropped off at the chamber's office, 701 N. Main St.

Gerald Morgan, chairman of the legislative affairs committee, said questions will be accepted through Oct. 15.

Two arrested for intoxication

Hereford police arrested two people Thursday, both being charged with public intoxication, the local law enforcement agency reported this morning.

Meanwhile, investigated were one incident apiece of assault, domestic disturbance, forgery and harassment. There was also one minor, non-injury motor vehicle accident.

Identification of 2, 4-D sources difficult

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

While the enforcement division of the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) is not ready to discuss results of its investigation of 2,4-D damage in Deaf Smith County and Parmer Counties, the Associated Press today quoted a TDA attorney who painted a rather gloomy picture of the division's findings.

Sam Biscoe, general counsel for TDA, said Thursday the department found "a lot of possible sources" of the weed killer apparently used on wheat crops, but said only a few violators can be identified.

More than 100 complaints of damage to cotton crops were investigated during the summer months by the TDA's enforcement division, which is now wrapping up a report that could be used to prosecute permit violators.

While the chemical is regulated in

TDA not ready to release results

Parmer County because of the large acreages of cotton grown there, Deaf Smith does not have any restrictions. The Parmer County farmers, who sustained damage to as many as 30,000 acres of their crops, said the substance drifted from Deaf Smith County and have voted to file civil suit to recover damages.

A handful of Deaf Smith farmers also reported damage to their crops. Some have joined with neighboring Parmer County to discuss filing what would probably turn out to be a class-action lawsuit.

"We found a lot of possible sources for each instance of drift and we found numerous permit violators," Biscoe said in Austin Thursday.

"In very, very few cases were we able to pinpoint one or two applicators" as responsible for the drift, he said.

Biscoe said penalties for improper application of the chemical would be recommended for "two or three" applicators.

"In the rest of the cases all we can do is point to possible sources and say they could have caused it. There's not a whole lot we can do in terms of punishment in those cases," he said.

Parmer County growers have petitioned the Deaf Smith County Commissioners to regulate the use of 2,4-D during the cotton growing season, and the commissioners are to conduct a public hearing on the matter later this month.

Biscoe said the state agriculture department is also considering banning the use of the chemical on wheat during the summer months.

While Deaf Smith farmers have used 2,4-D in the past and cotton growers have noticed some damage, officials speculate drift problems were greater this year because of unusually heavy rains during the middle of the summer. They also suspect the ester formulations of the chemical were applied in heavier amounts because of rains caused bigger than usual weed problems in wheat and milo fields.

A TDA spokesperson said this morning the enforcement division is not ready to make a statement because it has not finished its work yet. Only after every complaint has been written up and the findings turned over to the legal division are the cases considered closed, she said.

Biscoe was reportedly in meetings this morning and unavailable for comment.

Four plead guilty to smuggling

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Four Mexican nationals and a U.S. citizen have pleaded guilty to charges of smuggling illegal aliens into this country in what U.S. Border Patrol agents said was a "large-scale smuggling ring."

Three of the men pleaded guilty Thursday, the day trial was to begin for them. The fourth man entered his plea on Wednesday. Border Patrol agents apprehended the four in early August, saying the arrests broke up a "large-scale smuggling ring that has been operating for a long time with the same people."

Operating on a tip from a source they declined to name, the agents nabbed the four about 3 a.m. on Aug. 7 after they and 66 illegal aliens crossed the border near El Paso, said Bill Harrington, assistant chief patrol agent for El Paso.

Harrington said the illegal aliens, all from the interior of Mexico, told agents they had paid 10,000 pesos — about $50 — to be brought into the United States.

They also said they were being taken to the Atlantic Coast to work harvesting fields and "had to pay $500 more once they arrived," Harrington said at the time of the arrests.

Nader attacks Rep. Fields

HOUSTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader says Rep. Jack Fields, R-Houston, votes for businesses and interest groups that contribute to his campaign, not for his constituents.

But Fields, reached by telephone Thursday night at his Washington-area home, said he believes there is "no question" the attack was politically motivated.

"Mr. Nader is on a political mission to elect the most liberal candidates who can be to the U.S. House and the U.S. Senate," Fields said.

"Apparently, Mr. Fields cares more about used car dealers, doctors and beer distributors — and their campaign contributions — more than he does about the people who buy used cars, pay doctors' bills or take a glass of beer," Nader said in a news conference.

Nader said the Public Citizen Consumer Voting Index, figures compiled by a group he founded, gave Fields a 0 percent rating on votes important to consumers during the 1983 session of Congress.

Mother understands violence

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — The mother of a man charged with shooting an 11-year-old boy he believed to be involved in a string of burglaries said she understands what drove her son to violence.

Martha Francis Ballard, who lives at the Lakeview Trailer Park owned by her son, Everett Bowen Ballard Jr., said he had grown frustrated with failed efforts by local police to solve a slew of recent burglaries at the trailer court.

"They came out here every time we had one, but nothing was solved and they were getting worse," Mrs. Ballard said Thursday.

Ballard, 48, was released on a $50,000 bond Thursday afternoon after being charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

The victim, Juan Antonio Saucedo of Weslaco, remained in stable condition in the intensive care unit of Knapp Memorial Hospital suffering from buckshot wounds to his abdomen and arm suffered in the shooting Wednesday night.

Mrs. Ballard said most of the park's 175 lots are rented by elderly visitors who spend winter months in South Texas.

Nurse accused of murder attempt

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (AP) — Unable to speak and barely able to move, a 59-year-old victim of Lou Gehrig's disease painstakingly typed the words he hopes will convict his former nurse of trying to kill him.

Referring to the respirator he depends on to breathe, William Cronin slowly tapped out: "machine ... she shut ... off."

Cronin's testimony, videotaped at his bedside at Salem Hospital, was shown Thursday to a Superior Court jury in the opening day of Victoria Knowlton's trial on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

Prosecutors allege Mrs. Knowlton, 36, a registered nurse employed by Cronin as a private duty nurse, turned off his respirator Feb. 17 while caring for him in his home.

Cronin fell into a coma, but was revived by his wife and two sons, who were home at the time.

Cronin suffers from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, a degenerative nerve ailment also known as Lou Gehrig's disease, after the former New York Yankees baseball star who died from the illness in 1941.

Old age too late to live right

BOSTON (AP) — Eating and sleeping properly may help younger people live longer, but by the time someone reaches 65, it's too late to live right, a study concludes.

The research contradicts a widely held view that old people can increase their chance of living longer if they stick to good habits.

"Once you've survived to 65, healthful practices, at least in our data, did not suggest a longer lifespan," said Dr. Laurence G. Branch of Harvard Medical School. Results of his study of 1,235 Massachusetts residents appear in the October edition of the American Journal of Public Health.

Earlier studies showed that healthy living habits are associated with increased life expectancy for young and middle aged people. Experts assumed the same would be true for people in their 60s and 70s.

Instead, said Branch, "The excess mortality associated with unhealthy practices takes its toll during the young and middle-age period" and not when people are older.

However, a preliminary, still-unpublished analysis of the results shows that at least some of the health habits may improve old people's physical well-being, even if they don't make them live longer.

At least 10 die in Bangladesh

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — At least 10 people were killed, hundreds injured and thousands left homeless when rioters attacked Bihari relief camps, witnesses said today.

Police and government officials, however, said 11 people were hospitalized for injuries and no one was killed.

The violence broke out Thursday after about 30 Biharis — Urdu-speaking Moslems who seek Pakistani citizenship — staged a religious procession in the Mirpur section on the outskirts of Dhaka, police and witnesses said.

A young boy belonging to the majority Bengali-speaking Moslem community was hurt in a scuffle with the marchers. The news of his injury spread quickly, and hundreds of people armed with sticks and knives attacked the procession, witnesses said.

The fighting groups dispersed after street battles, but thousands of Bengalis stormed the Bihari camps later Thursday night and burned hundreds of bamboo huts, witnesses said.

Leader says rules will hurt corps

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — New guidelines restricting punishment of underclassmen in Texas A&M's Corps of Cadets may lower the quality of the organization, the student leader of the group said.

The limitations were begun after a 20-year-old sophomore, Bruce Goodrich, died of heat stroke during an alleged hazing incident.

"There's a certain amount of harassment that needs to go on because of the way we're structured and what we're set up to do," said Chuck Rollins, the corps' commander.

The new rules limit immediate punishment to 20 pushups. Previously the number has been left to the discretion of upperclassmen in the corps.

The rules also allow "bull rings," in which a cadet marches in a small courtyard carrying a rifle, and "sitting a weekend," during which a cadet must don full uniform and report every two hours to the corps' guardhouse.

"A lot of the pressure has disappeared and a lot of respect has gone with it," Rollins, 21, said in a speech to a sophomore honorary society Wednesday.

Rollins said older forms of punishment did a better job of instilling the corps' military discipline.

"As soon as you do it, you feel like you're cleansed of your sins," Rollins said.

He said "physical discipline is the easiest and quickest way" to teach military training to younger students.

Goodrich died Aug. 30, hours after he was awakened at 2:30 a.m. and forced to run and do situps and pushups until he collapsed. Even then, he was encouraged to get up and continue, university officials have said.

Such late night or early morning "motivational exercises" have always been frowned upon, but daytime versions of the grueling workouts have gone on for years, Rollins said.

Three juniors who were present when Goodrich collapsed and a senior have been indicted on misdemeanor criminal charges in the death. Juniors Anthony D'Allesandro and Jason Miles, both 21 and from Houston and 20-year-old Louis Fancher of San Antonio are charged with negligent homicide and hazing.

Senior Gabriel Cuadra, a 21-year-old from Houston, is charged with hazing and tampering with evidence.

The four belonged to the corps unit that Goodrich had joined that week.

Dr. J.C. Lee, a Bryan pathologist, said Thursday the final report confirmed Goodrich died of heat stroke.

"Essentially, he was a healthy young man," Lee said. "When you overdo it, it (heat stroke) usually happens very abruptly without warning signs. It is rare, but not strange."

Goodrich, a transfer student from Webster, N.Y., may have been affected by the difference in climate between his home state and Texas, but Lee said that assertion would be impossible to prove.

A diuretic and an antibiotic prescribed to the cadet did not contribute to his death, Lee said.

The corps of cadets is a 2,050-member group sponsored by the Reserve Officer Training Corps of the U.S. armed forces. Texas A&M has more than 36,000 students.

Amarillo aids caravan en route to Iowa

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A family of five Salvadoran refugees and caravan members were headed for Oklahoma City early this morning after spending the night in Amarillo on the fourth stopover on the family's sojourn from California.

The Sanchez family, in the United States illegally, is being transported by a car-caravan to a new home in Iowa in a trip sponsored by the nationwide sanctuary movement.

Thursday night, the Sanchez family and members of the caravan were sheltered by individuals in Amarillo after arriving from Albuquerque, N.M.

"The underground railroad really went underground in Amarillo," said Nrlene Nicgorski, a nun from Phoenix, Ariz., and a member of the caravan, explaining that there is not an organized sanctuary in this Panhandle city or any broad-based support for the sanctuary movement.

The sanctuary van with four cars accompanying it left Albuquerque shortly after 9 a.m. on the 288-mile trip to Amarillo.

Speaking through the Rev. Dan Driscoll, Jose Sanchez told the Amarillo-Globe News that he hopes for a better life in the United States but that his ultimate goal is to return to his Central American home when things get better.

"I would like to plead with the American people to open the eyes of their government, so that they stop sending military aid to El Salvador," Jose Sanchez, 27, said.

Sanchez, his wife Marina and their three children left El Salvador in 1981. They lived in Mexico three years before crossing the border into California.

Sanchez, who covers his face for pictures to hide his real identity, said harassment by authorities in El Salvador prompted him to leave. He worked in a branch of the health care system in the government and became active in the union commission.

"From the people of the United States, I hope to receive respect, solidarity and refuge," he said. "Because we're human beings who have a right to exist."

The caravan will cover 2,400 miles from its inception in Los Angeles until its arrival on Davenport. Their effort has received overwhelming response from religious communities in Claremont, Calif., Phoenix and Flagstaff, Ariz. and Albuquerque.

The sanctuary van with four cars accompanying it left Albuquerque shortly after 9 a.m. on the 288-mile trip to Amarillo.

Some 150 churches nationwide have formed the sanctuary movement, in which they take in refugees who face deportation.

The caravan's announced route was to take it from Amarillo to Oklahoma City; Tulsa, Okla.; Little Rock, Ark.; Memphis, Tenn.; St. Louis and Burlington, Iowa, before arriving in Davenport.

A similar caravan left Tucson, Ariz., on June 27, arriving in Seattle on July 4 with five Guatemalan refugees, including a family of four.

Following indictment

Sheriff refuses to resign

DALLAS (AP) — Kaufman County Sheriff Roy Brockway says he will not resign from office following his indictment by a federal grand jury in connection with alleged violations of the civil rights of two 23-year-old men.

Grand jurors on Thursday handed down the indictment on two misdemeanor counts. Brockway, 53, is unopposed this year in his race for a sixth term.

"We've contended all along that Sheriff Brockway has not violated anyone's civil rights," said the sheriff's attorney, Doug Mulder of Dallas. "But I think the time, place and forum for us to defend this is the courtroom before a jury."

"... The government's going to get what it wants from a grand jury...." Mulder said. "As far as I'm concerned, the whole witch hunt was a foregone conclusion."

Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, head of the Justice Department's civil rights division in Washington, said Brockway faces charges in connection with alleged violations of the Civil Rights Act that stemmed from the treatment of a prisoner at Kaufman County Jail last year and another man in 1981.

Brockway, the North Texas county's chief law enforcement officer for the past 20 years, is accused of beating Tim Barrickman while Barrickman was being questioned about a series of farm tractor thefts.

The count charged Brockway with assaulting Barrickman on Oct. 27, 1983, violating his constitutional rights not to be deprived of liberty without due process of law and not to be compelled to be a witness against himself.

Barrickman told the FBI and other investigators that Brockway kicked him with a pair of steel-toed boots, then struck him repeatedly.

Barrickman suffered seven cracked ribs, a deep laceration over his left eye and multiple bruises and was taken to Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas for treatment.

The sheriff is also charged in connection with striking a man in March 1981 who went to him to ask about property that apparently had been confiscated by Kaufman County deputies.

The count charged Brockway with assaulting Jeffrey L. McDougall, violating his constitutional rights not to be deprived of liberty or to be summarily punished without due process of law.

The misdemeanor counts each carry a maximum fine of $1,000 and one year in prison.

Bill Crossland, one of four candidates who challenged Brockway for sheriff in 1980, said he was concerned about the indictment.

"Of course, being an ex-law enforcement officer, I am sorry to see that, because anytime someone gets into trouble, it reflects on everybody," Crossland said. "I think that every officer ought to be concerned with it. I hate to see it happen for his sake and his family."

"If someone carrying a badge gets indicted, it is a black eye to all law enforcement," Crossland, a former highway patrolman, said.

Loaded Challenger lifts off successfully

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Shuttle Challenger soared spectacularly into orbit today with a record crew of seven on an Earth-surveying mission that includes the first space walk by an American woman.

Rollins said older forms of punishment did a better job of instilling the corps' military discipline.

"As soon as you do it, you feel like you're cleansed of your sins," Rollins said. He said "physical discipline is the easiest and quickest way" to teach military training to younger students.

Goodrich died Aug. 30, hours after he was awakened at 2:30 a.m. and forced to run and do situps and sky seen 160 miles to the south in Miami.

As Challenger settled into orbit at 17,400 mph, mission commander Robert Crippen said, "That launch team did a really nice job. This is really a nice vehicle."

Astronaut Sally Ride, making her second space trip, added, "The consensus of the rookies on board is that the ride was worth three 'E' tickets." The reference was to the way Disneyland once charged for its rides, with an "E" ticket being the most valuable. On her first flight, Ms. Ride said that the launch was worth one "E" ticket.

Liftoff came exactly one month after sister ship Discovery returned from its inaugural flight. That's the quickest turnaround yet between shuttle launches and is good news to NASA, which plans to send the space planes into orbit at a one-a-month rate for the next 14 months.

Ann Landers

Found out too late

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I met a man I'll call "George" who had three ex-wives. He was a charming, sweet, generous and warm-hearted person — open and willing to talk about feelings and the things most men can't or won't discuss. He told me about his ex-wives — described in detail his incredibly bad luck. Each of these women seemed sweet and kind, but the real bitch inside surfaced after a few years. They all turned out to be cold, spiteful, bitter and impossible to live with.

I listened sympathetically — and understood what he was saying. How sad that people are not what they seem. I took him at face value and regarded his ex-wives as an assortment of — well — as he said, bitches.

I fell in love with George and let him move in with me. Within a year I was the fourth "bitch". I didn't know I had it in me, but the man managed to bring out something so ugly I couldn't believe it. It wasn't hard, really — not after he lied to me, got drunk and abusive, lost job after job and let me support him while he ran up the bills.

So, listen, all you women out there who are lonely and hoping some charming, wonderful man will come along and rescue you. If you think you have found him, and he starts to tell you how the women in his life disappointed him by turning out to be so different from what they seemed — run like hell. Chances are that he had a lot to do with that difference. Just call me — Linda The Survivor.

DEAR SURVIVOR: Thanks for the short course. Are you listening out there? No matter how good an actor a man may be, time will unmask him. Stay in the relationship long enough to observe the significant other under a variety of circumstances. If you see evidence of excessive drinking, abusiveness, lying or cheating, give him the gate before he brings out a side of you you didn't know existed.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I say

a word to those ignoramuses out there who believe their dogs are an effective burglary alarm just because they bark a lot?

The dumb owner leaves his house with nary a worry. He thinks he has nothing to worry about because the hound is "in charge." Meanwhile, we, the neighbors, are cursed with the unceasing howling, yapping, growling and snarling of a dumb mutt who barks at everything that moves — joggers, kids on bicycles, delivery people, squirrels, you name it.

There was no response when I told him a smart burglar would tag our neighborhood as easy pickin's. An experienced thief could walk away with half a house and nobody would notice a thing because the dog is known to make a racket at the slightest provocation. The neighbors would assume he was barking his head off, as usual, at some rustling leaves or a gopher who ran across the lawn.

How wonderful it would be if this town had an ordinance with teeth in it. But it's too much to hope for. So I'll just sign off and thank you for allowing me to let off some steam. — Dogged Out In Indianapolis

DEAR DOGGED: If enough neighbors who feel as you do banded

Visiting team loses again

Padres squash Cubs in San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Maybe changing from road uniforms to the home whites did it. The Padres suddenly played like the Cubs had, and for that matter, Chicago now was troubled by the same shortcomings which tripped San Diego when it was the visiting team. San Diego's 7-1 victory Thursday over Chicago in Game Three of the National League Championship Series was a reversal of the Cubs' victories in Games 1 and 2 in just about every way.

—Alan Wiggins and Tony Gwynn, the Padres' one-two hitters, were 2 for 16 in the Padres' 13-0 and 4-2 losses at Wrigley Field. They were five for eight Thursday, with Gwynn collecting three hits and scoring a run and Wiggins knocking one in.

—Bob Dernier and Ryne Sandberg, the Cubs' first two batters, had one hit, a walk and a fielder's choice to show for their eight trips to the plate. In their first two games, they had combined for seven hits and seven runs.

—San Diego, hitting .183 after two games, raked Chicago pitchers for 11 hits. The Cubs, 24 of 67 (.358) in the first two outings, were checked on five hits by Ed Whitson and, in the ninth inning, Rich Gossage, who was called upon for the first time in the playoffs.

—In the first two games, no San Diego pitcher lasted more than four innings. Whitson went eight, walking only two and striking out six. His counterpart, Dennis Eckersley, was chased after five and a third inning, nine hits and five runs.

As a result, there is new life in San Diego, where the Padres were left for dead and face the herculean task of trying to win a championship after losing the first two games.

"I can't explain it," said Graig Nettles, who contributed an RBI single to the Padres' four-run sixth inning, tying a championship series career record of 18 RBI shared with Reggie Jackson. "It's a psychological game in some respects, and it may get to them. I hope it does."

"We knew it wouldn't be easy," Cubs shortstop Larry Bowa said. "We know we have to come out Saturday and play well."

The Cubs still are in the enviable position of being one game away from a championship with a maximum of two left to play. Only one team in playoff history — the 1982 Milwaukee Brewers — has come back from a two-games-to-none disadvantage to win a best-of-five league championship.

"We're going to start over tomorrow," said Chicago Manager Jim Frey. "If the score is 2-1 or 13-1, I don't think it has any effect at all. We beat them pretty good in Chicago, but it didn't seem to have any effect on them tonight, so I don't think this will have any effect on us Saturday."

The Padres did everything in Game 3 that the Cubs had done in the first two outings, getting key hits, Whitson's solid pitching and an errorless defensive effort.

The Cubs rapped out three hits in the second inning, but got home only one run. Keith Moreland led off with a double, and Ron Cey and Jody Davis followed with singles, but Whitson got Bowa and Eckersley to pop up and Dernier to line out to Garry Templeton, who made a diving stab that saved at least one run.

Whitson then settled down using an effective palm ball to help set down 17 of the last 20 batters he faced.

In Texas Open

Streck birdies way to golf leadership

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Ron Streck took in stride a string of six consecutive birdies — including a bunker shot that found the cup — that propelled him into a four-way tie for the first round lead in the $350,000 Texas Open golf tournament.

"I got hot," Streck said Thursday, then added: "I've been hot here before."

It's something of an understatement. Streck set an all-time PGA Tour record when he played the final two rounds of the 1978 Texas Open in 125, scoring his first professional victory.

"It's a good feeling to come back here. I know I can win here," said Streck, who shared the first round lead with defending champion Jim Colbert, Mark Wiebe and longshot Kurt Cox, all tied at 65, 5-under-par on the 6,525-yard Oak Hills Country Club course.

Cox, 36, was less than overwhelmed by his no-bogey effort, only his fifth round of PGA Tour competition this year.

"I haven't played but maybe a half-dozen rounds since the Buick Open in early August," said the San Antonio native. "I guess I've just got a lot of natural talent and it came out today."

"I didn't get gung-ho or excited about it. You can't play golf that way. It's no big deal to be leading the first round," he said.

Cox tied for 50th — the last qualifying spot — in the last PGA Tour school and has played in only one event this year, a tie for 62nd (worth $840) in the Buick Open.

Cox, who runs a golf school and club repair shop in Longview, Texas, said he didn't know how many times he'd attempted to gain his approved playing rights on the Tour — "but it's been pretty steady. I think I've tried every year since 1977," he said.

Upable to qualify for the American circuit, he has played several seasons on the European and Asian tours and has collected three Asian titles, in the Singapore, India and Hong Kong opens.

A single shot off the pace at 66 were Lanny Wadkins, George Cadle and Jim Kane.

Calvin Peete, attempting to gain the Vardon Trophy that goes to the man with the low stroke average on the American Tour, and Mark O'Meara, whose sights are set on the leading money-winning spot, topped the group at 67. Also at that figure were Mark Calcavecchia, Bruce Lietzke and Howard Twitty.

O'Meara, who has won once and been second five times this season, ranks second on the money-winning list and needs another victory to go past the absent Tom Watson.

Peete is in a three-man battle for the low stroke average. The leader in that category, Craig Stadler, is not competing here. And, Peete beat the No. 3 man, Tom Kite, by five shots. Kite had an opening 72.

Masters champion Ben Crenshaw led a big group at 68 and PGA titleholder Lee Trevino matched par 70 in the cloudy weather that produced a couple of light showers.

Plainview edges Lubbock Thursday

LUBBOCK — The Plainview Bulldogs of District 3-5A squeaked by Lubbock Thursday night with a 14-7 football win and upped their first-place league record to 4-0.

Plainview now leads Coronado, 3-0, by one-half game. Coronado hosts Hereford tonight in Lubbock.

The Bulldogs scored once in each of the first two quarters to lead 14-0 at half. Lubbock didn't score until the :18 mark of the final period.

Plainview clobbered Lubbock statistically, limiting the Westerners to a mere 18 yards rushing. For the night, Lubbock had only 185 total yards compared to Plainview's 337.

Lubbock now has lost 27 consecutive games and remains in the cellar of district play at 0-4.

Horton falls three shots behind

Hereford's Mike Horton finds himself three-shots off the pace in Pampa heading into the final round of the West Texas Chapter PGA tourney Friday at Pampa Country Club.

Ronnie Rosson of Levelland leads the field at 140. He shot 71 Thursday, while Horton fired 74. After the first round, the two men were tied at 69.

Other than Rosson, three players are tied for second in front of Horton, who also is in a threesome at 143.

In Pampa karate contest

Locals win nine first places

Hereford citizens brought back nine first places Saturday from Pampa and the first S.J. Cho's Tae Kwon Do Karate Championships, according to instructor Lupe Crox.

George Zepeda, the Texas Panhandle and South Plains regional lightweight champion, won two first places at Pampa. Zepeda won the honors in lightweight fighting and forms.

Zepeda holds the No. 1 Texas ranking in karate, and is the regional lightweight champion. But Crox is hoping for more from Zepeda.

"This is one guy we're hoping will world champ when the world championship fights are held in Oklahoma City in November," Crox said. "He's got a good chance."

Crox should know about what kind of chances Zepeda has. In order to be an instructor of a karate club that competed in the Pampa tourney, a person had to hold the rank of at least first-degree black belt. Crox has achieved fourth-degree status.

Also performing in the adult division was Hereford's Carl Simpson. Simpson is ranked No. 2 in the Panhandle and South Plains. He won second places in the middleweight fighting and forms competitions at Pampa. In addition, Simpson is the regional middleweight champion.

Junior Division competitors Domingo Diaz and Gary Hamilton had sort of a tune-up in Pampa for the Oklahoma City event. Diaz, 13, and Hamilton, 12, are to fight against the world junior division champion Ernie Reyes of California Nov. 3.

However, Diaz won two first places in the Pampa tourney, and Hamilton took a second and a third place. Hamilton won second in forms and third in fighting, the same categories in which Diaz placed first.

"We have one guy who is going to try for a world-class blackbelt at Oklahoma City," Crox said. "Victor Brown is in the mini pee-wee division. He is a brown belt."

A brown belt is the step immediately below black belt in world-class competition. Brown is 9 years old, and won first place in fighting and first place in forms, Crox said.

In the women's adult division, Rosa Garza won first place in fighting and second place in forms in the heavyweight division. Crox said she has a gold belt. Carla Cater won the No. 1 positions in middleweight fighting and forms at Pampa.

For junior girls, Sally Garza, 13, was first in forms and second in fighting.

Yogi Berra played in a record 14 World Series and added seven more classics as a manager or a coach.

Substitute officials scheduled

Umpires continue to hold out

Baseball's top league officials and Richie Phillips, the attorney for the striking major league umpires, continued their long distance talking in an effort to end the dispute.

Booster president urges fan support

Dear editor:

For several years, Hereford has earned and deserved the reputation of having great fans and many supporters and followers of its school athletic teams. At all football games, Hereford fans have turned out in greater numbers than our opponents, whether we were playing at home or away.

We, as members of the Whiteface Booster Club, would like to encourage all citizens to continue their support of our football team and coaching staff in their efforts this season.

We have a football team and coaching staff that enjoy winning as much as anyone else. We need to stop and remember that our football team is made up of 16-, 17- and 18-year-old boys who need our support, not our ridicule.

Our team is composed of some of the finest young men in our community. Without making any excuses, they have been plagued with injuries and illnesses all season — circumstances beyond their control. Yet they have responded with their capabilities to these uncontrollable circumstances and are trying as hard as they can.

So let's show that we are still living up to our reputation of Hereford having the best fans and the most fans. Let's all get behind the Herd and let the coaching staff and football team know we care about them, support them and are proud to have them representing Hereford.

anything about the details."

Three of the substitute officials who worked the AL playoffs in Kansas City — Bill Deegan, John Bible and Randy Cristal — are scheduled to be on the field tonight when the Detroit Tigers play host to the Royals. They will be joined by three Michigan men — Doug Cossey, Richard Runchey and Richard Fethchiet.

"We had many discussions today," Phillips said just before midnight Thursday of his conversations with the league presidents. "And we will have more tonight."

A new set of replacement umpires worked Game 3 of the NL playoffs in San Diego on Thursday night, where the Padres defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-1. The Cubs won the first two games in Chicago.

Crew chief Terry Bovey, 37, said he and his crew did an excellent job in their first postseason appearance.

Planning A Business Expansion?

In the 1800's, if a person wanted to open a large retail store, he might need five or six thousand dollars for merchandise. If he was contemplating from three to eight new stores, he could figure on needing fifty thousand dollars.

While the amount of capital may be a little different today, the overall need for money is still there. And that's where we can help.

We're the bank with the pioneer spirit. We understand what it takes to get that business off the ground, and how to expand your existing one. We invite you to come in and let us get to know you - and your business. That way, we understand how to serve you better.

Homemade medicines confiscated

TYLER, Texas (AP) — The maker says the medicine will cure a host of serious ailments. But detractors are not so sure.
Regardless of who is right, the remainder of a Brownsboro woman's natural medicine business sits in a vault in the U.S. Marshal's Office in Tyler.
Bottle labels say the substances are concentrated extracts of vegetables and fruits laced with vitamins and minerals — good for what ails you.
Mary Beth Alexander used to sell the bottles from her home on Route 2 near Chandler, until federal marshals came and took them away.
The seizure was executed because the products Miss Alexander distributed carry labels of those made by Mildred Trumbell of Tulsa, Okla.
Mrs. Trumbell, author of the pamphlet, "Dust to Dust, the Life Cycle of Man," is under a federal court order not to ship her products, manufactured at MT Products in Tulsa, across Oklahoma state lines.

Yet the products can easily be obtained in East Texas.
A telephone call to the Tulsa headquarters netted the name of a distributor in Edom.
A spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration said an investigation is under way to determine if the substances were shipped in interstate commerce.
When contacted at MT headquarters and asked how the products became available for sale in East Texas, Mrs. Trumbell was blunt.
"I have nothing to do with the people in Texas."
She then hung up the telephone.
Ted Rotto, division head of FDA in Dallas, said Mrs. Trumbell began her business venture several years ago.

The labels on OM-12, Vital Force, Extracts of Yarrow and Goldenseal, and T3 Cleansing Lotion advertise the fluids as cures for varicose veins, arthritis, acne, gout, internal and external bleeding, herpes, eczema, open sores, ringworm and sinus problems.
A quart, plastic bottle of OM-12 sells for about $12, a distributor in Edom says.
The OM-12 label promises the liquid will restore movement to paralyzed limbs and help diabetics discontinue insulin use.
Written on the bottle are the words, "Man was made from the dust of the earth."
The products can be legally sold in Oklahoma due to a law passed in 1979 by the Oklahoma Legislature.
In every other state, possession of the products is illegal because they lack FDA approval.
Last December, the U.S. Attorney's office in Tyler, acting on a report from FDA investigator Bill Sedgewick, authorized Tyler federal marshals to seize 25 cartons from Miss Alexander.

By the time marshals located the products on June 27, only a few bottles were left.
In the search and seizure warrant, Assistant U.S. Attorney Dane Smith says the substances "are promoted for therapeutic purposes and are therefore drugs within the meaning of the U.S. Code."
But since the FDA is "unaware of any effective use of these articles for medicinal purposes, the agency believes they are not generally recognized by experts as effective for the labeled uses," Smith adds.
But company spokespersons say the products are available in Texas.
"We have a couple of distributors in that area," Johnnie Spencer, an employee of MT Products, says.
Rotto said such products cost American consumers a conservative estimate of $400 million a year.
Rotto supervises 30 investigators, who probe complaints from consumers, physicians, state officials and Better Business Bureaus in North Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.
They look into claims of false labeling, adulterated products and exotic devices, including breast enlargers and weight reducing machines.
Most manufacturers comply with federal injunctions, making criminal prosecutions very rare, Rotto says.
Last year, for instance, FDA inspectors struck an agreement with a fruitcake manufacturer who agreed to relabel cake boxes after it was discovered the cakes weighed short, Rotto adds.
Other FDA seizures are made when products are contaminated by bug droppings, rat hair, insects or mold.

Hill man looks back

FREDERICKSBURG, Texas (AP) — Otto Dittmar, who began his second century this week, remembers well the settling of the Hill Country, a time of no fences and lonely nights guarding his father's sheep.
He and his younger brother, Alfred, tended the sheep for their father and uncle, and spent many nights around campfires.
"It was a tough job," Dittmar said on the eve of his 100th birthday Tuesday. "We always made sure to take our dogs along because the coyotes would come in after the sheep if it wasn't for the dogs."
Dittmar's father, Martin, loved the land. In 1868, he acquired 110 acres near Cherry Spring in northern Gillespie County to establish his own ranch, which still remains in the Dittmar family. He also loved good cattle, and was one of the first ranchers in the area to purchase a registered Hereford sire.

washed, carded, spun and woven into fabric.
Otto Dittmar was born in a log cabin. When he was about a year old, his parents moved their sizable brood into a big two-story house with rock walls 20 inches thick. Family prayers were said around the dining table after the girls had cleared supper away, because religion was an everyday matter with the Dittmars, who were devout Lutherans.
Otto Dittmar became a rancher, as his father had. His wife, Olga, a schoolteacher, is believed to have been the first woman to cast a vote in the Doss community in Gillespie County, when Texas women were first allowed to vote in primary elections in 1918.
"Dad told me he bought the poll tax for her, and everybody stood around and watched when they went in to vote," said Robert Dittmar, Otto's only son. "He said those men sure looked real big to him that day."
Olga died in 1963.
Dittmar, who had very little schooling, always insists that his education was "herding sheep, staying in a sheep camp, and eating rancid bacon." But he was a successful rancher, and one of the first in Gillespie County to own an automobile. When both Fredericksburg banks failed during the Depression and a new bank was desperately needed, he became an investor in the new Fredericksburg National Bank, which is now the Texas American Bank of Fredericksburg.
He has always loved good cigars. Tuesday, as he turned over and over in his hands a birthday card signed by President and Mrs. Reagan, Dittmar said wistfully, "I haven't smoked a cigar for a long, long time now. They don't let me have them now."
Family and friends will gather at the Harper Community Center Sunday afternoon to wish Otto a happy 100th birthday.

His 701 brand was widely known for many years, and is still registered to the Dittmars. The original branding iron is in the possession of Robert Dittmar, Otto's son, who lives near Harper.
"I've used that iron many a time," said Otto Dittmar, a resident of Knopp's Nursing Home in Fredericksburg. "We all had to help out at branding time."
The 701 appears among other famed Texas cattle brands in the branded staircase of the Kleberg Animal Sciences Building at Texas A&M University.
Dittmar grew up in a home where German was spoken, since both his parents had come to this country from Germany as small children.
He remembers that his mother, Elizabeth, worked almost constantly. There were many mouths to feed, and everything had to be saved. Cabbages, green beans, turnips, beef, and venison were all preserved in brine so they could be eaten in the winter months.
Clothing was all sewn by hand. Much of it was from wool that had been shorn from sheep on the ranch, then

James I was proclaimed king of England, Scotland, France and Ireland in 1603.

The Alcoholic

The alcoholic tried to prove that-
He could fill a bottle to the top
Pouring from another bottle
And never spill a drop.

He tried and tried with shakey hands
And spilled it over the place.
He thought if he could do it once
It would help in saving face.

He hoped to tell the boys about it
An brag to man and lad
That he could pour liquor in a bottle
And prove his shakes weren't bad.

He tried once more, but just could not
He could only make a mess,
With liquor spilled on everything
His chances grew less and less.

An when he kicked the bucket,
While sleeping on his bunk,
His veins were emptied in the sewer
And made the sewer drunk.
