Religious right knocked by Mondale

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG AP Political Writer

Walter F. Mondale says a Republican victory on Tuesday could bring on an "orgy of intolerance" by the religious right, while President Reagan is warning his supporters against overconfidence even as his staff keeps talking about a 50-state sweep.

From the president's entourage to Republican campaign officials on Capitol Hill, the talk was of how big a victory Reagan would score on Tuesday and whether it would bolster GOP ranks in Congress.

"Things are breaking wide open for us," said Ed Goetz, campaign director for the House Republican campaign committee. He said the undecided vote is coming in solidly Republican.

Sen. Richard Lugar of Indiana, chairman of the GOP Senate campaign committee, said he would ask the president to add a Nebraska stop to his closing campaign swing to help Republican Nancy Hoch in her effort to upset Democratic Sen. James Exon.

Mondale drew the largest crowd of his campaign on Thursday, a throng estimated at 100,000 in the Garment District of New York City. He denounced the president for criticizing the Democrats for failing to condemn anti-Semitism in their party platform.

The Democratic challenger called the president's criticism made in a speech in New York last week "false and contemptible" and added: "The president has accused me of being soft on anti-Semitism. I resent it. It is despicable. I think it is inexcusable."

From the Garment District, Mondale went to a synagogue in Brooklyn where he warned of the influence of the Rev. Jerry Falwell and other conservative fundamentalist ministers.

"Some of his (Reagan's) friends threaten an orgy of intolerance in our land and I don't want them to have any influence," Mondale said.

Mondale was campaigning today in Ohio, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Michigan. Reagan's schedule included stops in Michigan, Ohio, Illinois and Arkansas.

In Michigan and Arkansas, Republican challengers are trying to upset Democratic senators, while in Illinois, GOP Sen. Charles Percy is challenged by Democratic Rep. Paul Simon in a race rated very close.

At every stop on Thursday, the president sounded the same theme: beware of confidence.

In Rochester, N.Y., Reagan said polls showing him way ahead of Mondale "are scaring me to death because I have a feeling that maybe some people are looking at them and saying, maybe we don't have to vote."

In Washington, a nonpartisan group predicted Thursday a record turnout on Tuesday in excess of 95 million people or about 55 percent of adult Americans.

Four years ago, the total vote was 87 million for a turnout rate of 52.6 percent.

Curtis Gans, director of the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate, said, "A large number of people have strong feelings, either pro or con about the Reagan administration, but a perceived (Reagan) landslide could depress turnout."

Vacancy procedure on ballots

Editor's Note: Following is the third of four articles describing the eight amendments to face Texas voters Tuesday. Information for the series has been chiefly obtained from "Analyses of Proposed Constitutional Amendments," a booklet compiled by the Texas Legislative Council.

How a vacancy of the state's lieutenant governor position should be filled is the topic of Amendment 5, one of eight proposed state constitutional changes to be considered Tuesday by voters. Amendment 6, meanwhile, concerns insurance purchases by political subdivisions.

Third article of series on amendments

All eight amendments, plus the 11 placed before Texas voters last fall, were proposed during the 1983 regular and first sessions of the 68th Texas Legislature. People passed each proposition in 1983 except one which would have made certain veterans' and fraternal organizations tax exempt.

Under current laws, should a vacancy occur in the lieutenant governor's office, the senate president pro tempore fills the position. Should a new president pro tempore be chosen, the replacement would also assume the lieutenant governor duties until he is superseded or a general election is held.

Amendment No. 5 calls for senate members to appoint one of their ranks as acting lieutenant governor until the next general election. The selection would be independent of the president pro tempore, who would still be chosen when the legislative branch is convened or adjourned.

One argument favoring No. 5, according to the Texas Legislative Council, is the person appointed president pro tempore is not necessarily qualified to fill in as lieutenant governor. Also, "The permanent selection of an interim lieutenant governor will provide for continuity in that office in the event of a vacancy."

One further "pro" point offered by the council is an appointed replacement would not feel the pressure from fellow senators to maintain the position. "A state senator should be free to act in his role as senator in the interests of his constituency without other political constraints."

"Con" comments by the council include, "There is no reason to assume that a state senator selected as president would not be competent to serve as lieutenant governor." The senate should not be denied its right to change its mind about the selection, the council also lists as an argument.

"Convening the senate when a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor occurs would be expensive," the council offered. "This cost is not incurred under present law."

Public funds could be used to pay premiums on nonassessable life, health or accident insurance policies and annuity contracts if Amendment No. 6 passes Tuesday. The contracts, however, must be issued by a mutual insurance company authorized to do business in the state.

"Since the amendment continues the prohibition on the purchase of mutual insurance with a liability," the council wrote in support of No. 6, "the original constitutional policy continues to be served."

"The amendment simply widens the marketplace in which political subdivisions can shop for insurance, with the resulting benefits that competition brings both for the political subdivision and the mutual insurers."

"The amendment may be of significant benefit and poses no risk."

Soldiers lunch here Thursday

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

To a G.I. from Ft. Hood, eating at McDonald's in Hereford is a treat.

It's also a welcome rest stop along the 827-mile route from the military base near Killeen to Ft. Carson, Colorado.

One hundred sixteen U.S. Army soldiers and 39 green vehicles of various sizes and shapes rolled into Hereford at about 11 a.m. Thursday, right on time for a lunch reservation at the local fast-food eatery.

McDonald's was ready for the convoy.

"They called me this morning, so we were ready," breakfast manager Frances Tamez said. "Only he told me in military time, so I had to guess at the time until I could ask one of the managers what that meant. I didn't want to tell him I didn't know military time."

Tamez said she called in three extra people to handle the order, which totaled a little more than $500. The bill was on the army, with each soldier allowed two meat items, large fries, large drink and dessert.

Captain Henry Washington, a young-looking but apparently capable commanding officer, said his group represented E-Company 16th Signal Battalion of Ft. Hood's Third Signal Brigade. "Our primary mission is to put in communications for a higher authority," he explained.

Telecommunications personnel, switchboard operators, cable layres and vehicle maintenance crews were among those represented in the company.

Washington said his battalion would complete a nine-day exercise in Colorado before heading back to home base in central Texas. With 63,000 troops, Ft. Hood "is the biggest post in the free world," Washington pointed out.

County, city mailed checks

Deaf Smith County was sent $2,310.59 and the city of Hereford $1,854.24 earlier this week as their shares of the 10 percent mixed drink tax collected during July, August and September.

According to the state comptroller's office, more than $15,000 of mixed tax revenue was collected in the county while $12,000-plus was pulled in within city limits. Those figures are expected to increase during the fourth quarter of 1984 since the tax has been raised to 12 percent effective Oct. 2.

Rebates are 15 percent to cities and counties collecting the mixed drink tax. The balance of the funds - $28.7 this past quarter - is placed in the state's general revenue fund.

According to a press release from the comptroller's office, checks totaling $11.6 million were sent Monday to 221 Texas counties and 425 cities.

The Alcoholic Beverage Commission collects the mixed drink tax, with rebates sent out quarterly.

Police report theft of gasoline

More than $600 of gasoline was stolen via a credit card during October, Hereford police were told Thursday.

Coby Kriegshauser, 234 Hickory St., said his wife Betty's credit card was apparently stolen and used last month at the Consumers' Fuel Cooperative's private pumps. The fuel belonged to Scott Seed Company, 114 W. New York Ave.

Among incidents investigated by police Thursday were two apiece of harassments and family problems and one each of burglary, shoplifting and vandalism.

Though there were no arrests made Thursday, police did file reports on two non-injury motor vehicle accidents.

'Voter's Guide' contained today

A "Voter's Guide" for the Tuesday general election is included in today's Brand. The section, a pull-out page on the back of today's newspaper, is presented as a public service.

The guide was prepared by the League of Women Voters, a non-partisan organization which works to promote political participation by all citizens. The League does not support or oppose any party or candidate.

The guide includes responses from candidates in contested statewide elections. It also contains information on the proposed constitutional amendments.

Pesticides hearing completed

AUSTIN (AP) — A consistent criticism of the way new state pesticide rules were drawn up pervaded two days of public hearings by the House Agriculture Committee.

The hearings were completed Thursday after more than 50 witnesses either for or against the Texas Department of Agriculture's proposed pesticide controls.

There was criticism from legislators and members of affected industry alike that they had not been given a say in preparing the new rules.

Committee Chairman Rep. Robert Saunders, D-LaGrange, said he felt the extended hearing had convinced TDA officials that some modifications were needed in the rules before they become effective.

"I think we have shown some changes should be made," said Saunders. "We have given everyone a chance to have their say."

"We are still willing to make changes," Deputy Agriculture Commissioner Ron White said during the hearings.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower did not attend the sessions in the House chamber.

Inmate found dead in cell

DENTON, Texas (AP) — A 23-year-old jail inmate being held in the slaying of a North Richland Hills teen-ager killed himself in his cell by fashioning a noose out of his socks, a preliminary investigation by the Denton County district attorney's office shows.

The death Thursday of Mark Robert Matthys, who faced capital murder charges, came only one day after he was shot in the neck by authorities in an escape attempt, a sheriff's official said.

"After interviewing all witnesses, indications are that he died as a result of suicide," said Marty Travelstead, sheriff's communication officer.

A final ruling will be made based on findings of the Dallas County medical examiner's office, he said.

Travelstead said Matthys, who had no cellmates, was discovered dead by jailers at 5 p.m., only an hour and a half after his parents had visited him.

"He was hung with his socks. They were tied together," Denton County Sheriff Kenneth George said. "He was checked at 4:15 p.m., and we believe he took himself between 4:15 and 5 p.m."

Multiple slaying trial starting

DALLAS (AP) — A jury has been empaneled, setting the stage for today's first day of testimony in the murder trial of an unemployed waiter accused of gunning down six people last June in a north Dallas restaurant-club.

Abdelkrim Belachheb, 39, is charged with six counts of murder and one of attempted murder in a June 29 shooting spree at Ianni's.

The last of the jurors were selected Thursday. Testimony was scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. today before State District Judge Gerry Meier.

The trial should last about two weeks, the judge said. "I tried a capital murder case that only lasted six days, so this may go quickly," she added.

Belachheb's attorney, Frank Jackson, asked prospective jurors if they had a bias against a planned insanity defense or had reached conclusions on the case based on hearsay or news coverage.

Eleven of the 12 jurors told lawyers they had heard or read something about the shootings, but remembered few details. They said any opinions they had would not affect their ability to be "fair and impartial jurors."

Soviet allegations cause anger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration has denounced as "absurd and irresponsible" Soviet allegations linking the Central Intelligence Agency to the assassination of Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Official protests have been delivered to the Soviets in both Moscow and Washington.

A senior State Department official said the administration is particularly upset about the allegations, not only because they are false, but also because they are dangerous.

"It feeds into a situation where there is a potential for violence and threatens to endanger American lives," said the official, who spoke on the condition he would not be identified.

But the Soviet attempt to link Washington to the assassination apparently isn't derailing administration efforts to improve relations with Moscow.

The State Department is trying to arrange a meeting between Secretary of State George P. Shultz and the No. 2 Soviet leader, Nikolai A. Tikhonov, while both are in New Delhi for the funeral of Mrs. Gandhi.

FBI dismantles coup plot

MIAMI (AP) — President Roberto Suazo of Honduras was reported to be under guard by 800 soldiers today after the FBI cracked a U.S.-based exile group and foiled what authorities said was a cocaine-financed plot to kill Suazo and overthrow his government.

Eight men were arrested here on Thursday and a warrant was issued for a ninth, Gen. Jose Bueso-Rosa, the Honduran military attaché in Chile.

An FBI agent who infiltrated the plot was to be paid $300,000 to put together a team that would go to Honduras and kill Suazo, said Joseph V. Corless, head of the Miami FBI office.

The exiles, who called themselves "staunch anti-communists," were going to finance the operation through the sale of more than $10 million in cocaine seized by authorities on Sunday, the FBI said. The group included a businessman who lost more than $7 million when his business was nationalized by the Honduran government, authorities said.

Walesa criticizes strike call

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Lech Walesa says he disagrees with a call by other Solidarity activists from his hometown for a one-hour strike Saturday to protest the murder of pro-Solidarity priest Jerzy Popieluszko.

The strike call, which urged workers to end their "passivity," was the first such appeal by prominent union activists since Nov. 10, 1982, when Solidarity's underground leadership unsuccessfully sought a nationwide strike to protest the banning of the independent trade union.

"I think the climate is unfavorable for such actions," said Walesa, contacted by telephone in the Baltic port of Gdansk. "It is not my point of view."

Walesa, who helped found Solidarity in 1980, said he was not consulted about Thursday's call for a one-hour strike and added that he "stands by" his earlier appeal for calm and restraint in the wake of Popieluszko's kidnap and murder.

Connally predicts Gramm to triumph

By The Associated Press

Former Texas Gov. John Connally says Republican Senate candidate Phil Gramm will win Tuesday's election by 250,000 votes, but opponent Lloyd Doggett remains undaunted.

"I think Phil Gramm has it won," Connally said Thursday at a fund-raising luncheon in El Paso where he appeared with the Republican. "I think he's going to be the next United States senator from Texas."

Connally, who like Gramm switched from the Democratic Party to the GOP, criticized Democratic Gov. Mark White, who has been predicting a Doggett victory.

"Now I'm just an ex-governor, and I don't have anything like the influence he has," Connally said. "But I'm going to make a prediction to counter his."

"I don't think Doggett is going to win," he said. "I think Doggett's going to lose. ... I'm going to make a prediction that Phil Gramm's going to win by a margin of 250,000 votes, a quarter of a million votes."

Connally told about 300 people at the fund-raiser to contact friends and relatives and urge them to vote for Gramm.

"Voting Republican is not all that cataclysmic," he said, "I came out (after voting Republican the first time) and that sun was shining and I felt a sense of great relief. It's as if I'd been purged of all my sins."

Gramm, front-runner in pre-election polls, was optimistic but cautioned backers not to take a victory over Doggett for granted.

"I see the goal line," he said. "We've broken into the open. We're going to score. I'm not going to fumble."

"I need your help on that last block," he added. "I'll be there if you'll be there too."

Gramm also made campaign stops in Amarillo, Lubbock and Corpus Christi.

Meanwhile, Doggett hammered away at his David-and-Goliath theme in campaign stops. He charged that Gramm voted for tax loopholes that benefit big "Goliath" out-of-state corporations who in turn give Gramm big campaign donations.

Doggett said his "fifth smooth stone" against Gramm, whom he dubbed "Philistine Phil," is tax fairness.

Doggett was hampered by bad weather from making planned stops in East Texas. Paris, Tyler, Jasper and Nacogdoches. Instead, he held news conferences in Lubbock, Amarillo and San Angelo.

At each conference, Doggett said Gramm claims credit for writing the Nuclear Policy Act under which Texas is battling to keep a proposed nuclear waste dump out of the state.

But the Austin state senator contends Gramm opposed a provision that gives states strong veto power. Even Republican former Gov. Bill Clements was on the other side, Doggett said.

He said some of those same companies already dump chemicals in Texas and some have an interest in seeing a nuclear waste dump located underground in the state.

Doggett got an enthusiastic reception from about 300 Hispanics, young civic leaders, and senior citizens at the Pecan Valley Golf Club in San Antonio.

"San Antonio made the difference in giving me the chance to be the Democratic nominee, and I'm convinced San Antonio can put me over the top on Tuesday, November the 6th," Doggett said.

native who recently joined the army for a two-year stint, said being one of six women on the trip is not so different from life on the base. At Ft. Hood, the women revealed, men outnumber women 20 to 1.

McBryde's father was in the Air Force, she said, and she joined the army for the training available to her. "If I had known then what I know now, I would definitely still have joined," she said when asked her opinion of army life so far.

Private First Class Marilyn Hall, quiet and small of stature, said she joined the army "out of curiosity." Hall said she's not real crazy about the new camouflage uniforms "because they're made to fit men. If you're small, you're out of luck."

Sheila Lawson, 23, is a switchboard operator and star of the post's basketball team. She played on a college team before taking up the sport at Ft. Hood, where she averages 16 points a game.

Doing her best is important to Lawson, who said she feels confident about her ability to handle combat duties should the need arise.

"Anyone who can successfully compete in a military career can say, 'I'm strong enough to do anything,'" she claimed. "We're the ladies of the eighties," she later joked.

The women said physical training ("PT") three times a week helps to keep them in shape. "But we don't depend on PT. We go out and find things to do on our own." Hall enjoys Tai Kwon Do, a skill she learned from the army.

With the draft a thing of the past, what is there about the military that attracts a young person? Travel, new experiences and a career are what lured Sgt. Scott Maxima, a 24-year-old Boston native.

Maxima reserves much of his spare time for a hobby called the "volks march." The march is a German pastime; a 10-kilometer walk that includes stops for refreshment and sightseeing.

He and several other soliders at Ft. Hood who were once stationed in West Germany have German wives, Maxima said, and they have a post club of "volks marchers."

Drive at 75 percent

The time period for completing the United Way campaign drive arrived today with collections and pledges nearing 75 percent of the goal of $128,150, according to UW president James Self.

"While we are disappointed not to be able to announce the completion," said drive chairman B.J. Gilliland, "we still feel the drive can be finished when all the contacts are made and all the cards are collected by volunteer workers."

"To all those who have made their contributions for the 10 agencies in the United Way, and for the volunteers who completed their prospect cards, we on the United Way board extend our thanks and appreciation," said Gilliland.

He urged those who may have been missed and desire to "invest in the community" to call the UW office, 364-5220, and have a volunteer pick up their contribution.

"To make our slogan of Caring More in '84 a reality, we need to reach our goal. We appeal to all citizens to join in this community-wide project," concluded Gilliland.

One soldier joked that he joined the army "for the money," while a mechanic from Guam said "there's nothing to do back home."

Finishing their lunch, the soldiers wandered back to the row of vehicles parked on vacant lots west of the restaurant. Washington allowed the members of his company a few minutes to joke around and pose for pictures while the 12-man maintenance team checked out the trucks.

"We really had fun feeding them," Tamez said.

The battalion headed north on Highway 385, looking forward to another rest stop 150 miles down the road.

AMENDMENTS

On the "con" side, the council wrote, "This is another example of constitutional tinkering. Although the current provision may exclude a certain class of insurers from competing for the business of political subdivisions, there is no compelling reason to amend the constitution with yet another example of an exception to a general rule for a particular interest group.

"Amendments of this type are often the reason for the criticism that the Texas constitution is detailed."

Ann Landers

There's another version

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why don't you stay away from subjects you don't know anything about? I am referring to the answer you gave the reader who wanted to know what it means when a man wears an earring in his left ear. You said it had nothing to do with being straight or gay, but when a gay wears an earring in his left ear it means he is the dominant partner in a relationship and when he wears it in the right ear it means he is the submissive partner. That is just plain garbage.

I have been wearing an earring in my left ear for five years. I am a totally straight male. Today, one earring in a male's ear, left or right, means no more than two earrings worn by a woman. In our present-day culture males wear rings, watches, bracelets, earrings and neck chains just like females. Look at Mr. T. He walks around with about $100,000 worth of gold on him. So Annie, old girl, get with it or pack it in.—Diamond Joe From Kokomo

DEAR JOE: Thanks for letting me know how it is with you. Here's another version:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wear an earring in my right ear and have since 1967. It is a secret code started by those of us who were opposed to the war in Vietnam. Since the trouble started in Central America several of us have had a second piercing in the same ear and wear two earrings to signify our resentment of this senseless involvement.—Frankfort, Ky.

DEAR FRANK: Thanks for the input. Now hear this:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In all states east of the Hudson an earring in the right ear of a male means he is divorced and "looking." I am surprised that a gal as hip as you didn't know this.—An Umpire In The Empire State

DEAR UMP: It's news to me, but then I never thought I knew anything. Read on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In California, where I have spent most of my adult life, an earring in the left ear means, "I am a Democrat." An earring in the right ear means, "I am a Republican." You are some kind of dummy.—Vallejo Reader

DEAR VALL: And a safety pin worn through the nose means, "I am anti-establishment." Thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I reply to "Cindy in Chicago?" She's the teenage girl who didn't have time to spend with her father after her parents divorced.

I wish I had her problem. My parents split when I was 9. The court decided my father should be able to see me every Saturday. For about six months he missed only a few Saturdays. Then the visits dwindled to about once a month. Now I see him once a year, at Christmas. My birthdays mean nothing to him. He even missed my graduation.

For years I didn't make any plans for Saturdays, hoping he would come by unexpectedly. I cried myself to sleep more nights than I care to remember. I have stopped waiting and crying, but the hurt never goes away.

Cindy should see her father whenever she can. She will never regret giving more than she got.—Philadelphia

DEAR PHILADELPHIA: Your letter is sure to hit some fathers where they live. You were wonderful to write.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting—What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today in History

Today is Friday, Nov. 2, the 307th day of 1984. There are 59 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On Nov. 2, 1948, to the surprise of the experts, President Harry S. Truman held onto his office with a narrow election-night victory over Republican Thomas E. Dewey.

On this date:
In 1783, Gen. George Washington issued his "Farewell Address to the Army" near Princeton, N.J.

In 1920, radio station KDKA in Pittsburgh began the first regular broadcasting schedule, reporting returns from the Harding-Cox presidential election. (Harding won with just over 60 percent of the popular vote.)

In 1930, Haile Selassie was crowned emperor of Ethiopia.

Ten years ago: The Shah of Iran and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger met in Tehran. They agreed the oil-producing countries and consuming nations must cooperate to prevent world disorder stemming from inflation.

One year ago: President Reagan signed into law the bill creating a federal holiday to honor slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Today's birthdays: Actor Burt Lancaster is 71. Actor Ray Walston is 70. Actress Stefanie Powers is 42. Thought for today: "All great truths begin as blasphemies." —George Bernard Shaw (1856-1950).

??? 30 ???

Guess who was dancing in his nightie in this photo from many years ago? A hint, just in case you need a clue is that he's reaching the big Three-O!

After playing with the Herd and Buffalo he got hitched and things look great. His insurance firm is on the rise and a lovely doll chose him for her mate!

A mustache has been added to the face for he really wants to look mature. If he doesn't sell a lot of insurance maybe he can peddle some manure!

Things have changed since this photo—a rolling stone gathers no moss. A goal has been attained before thirty, he now has a boy-child named Ross!

Sometimes You Have To "Do It All!"

When our early settlers struck out for new opportunities, they had to be prepared to handle any problem that came up.

They had to be the surveyors, the carpenters, the hunters, the farmers, the mechanics, and the doctors.

For most of our country's pioneers, it was "on-the-job-training" that provided them with the skills to cope with what seemed like insurmountable problems.

At our bank, we have a philosophy that's based on the pioneer spirit. It means we work hard to provide financial services that will help you cope with Twentieth Century situations.

We offer savings accounts, checking accounts, individual retirement accounts, home improvement loans and a host of other services designed to make your life easier. And we don't stop here. Every day our staff is looking for new services and programs to serve you even better. It's this kind of dedication that makes us the bank with the pioneer spirit.

First United Methodist Church

A churchwide dinner at noon Sunday will be a part of the annual budget subscription period in First United Methodist Church. A catered meal will be served in the fellowship hall immediately after the morning worship service.

Presentation of budget pledge cards will be part of the informal program, arranged by Corky Lockmiller, stewardship chairman in the church, and Bill Burford, finance chairman.

Evening meetings of the Youth Fellowship at First UMC will have a change of locale Sunday. The senior group will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Arney at 5:30 p.m. Junior Highs at the same time will go to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cal Jones for a party and movie.

Second film in a series sponsored by the Jubilee Class will be shown in the fellowship hall and all interested persons invited. The series is titled "Care and maintenance of a Good Marriage." A snack supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. and the film will be shown at 7 p.m.

ST. THOMAS

EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The next meeting of St. Thomas E.C.W. will be Saturday, Nov. 10 at 2 p.m. in the church parlor with the Rev. Charles Threewit speaking on "All you ever wanted to know about E.C.W. and were afraid to ask."

Officers for 1985-86 have been elected. Vera Threewit will serve as president; Olivia Denning, vice-president; Jena Rawley-Whitaker, secretary; and Marye Fraser, treasurer.

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH

Two guests will be present Nov. 18 representing mission work. Leonard Griffiths is planning to be here to tell about his work as a Texas Baptist in Minnesota and Ray Bellamy is planning to share his work experiences in West Germany and behind the iron curtain.

The congregation is asked to bring food goods for the Thanksgiving food baskets to be distributed to needy families. Food may be placed on a table in the church hallway.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

An un-Halloween party has been scheduled at 7 p.m. Nov. 7 in the youth wing for junior high and senior high school students. Everyone is asked to bring a friend and wear costumes.

The Lynn Gurney Group will meet at 9:30 a.m. Nov. 7 with Lois Lemons and the Baptist Mens Fellowship Breakfast has been scheduled for 6:30 a.m. Nov. 8.

The Rev. Ron Cook announces that the church's 85th anniversary celebration held last Sunday was very successful. He extends his thanks to Avis White and Mary Thomas for planning the reception and to church hostesses, Susan Sublett, Mary Beth White and Lucy Rogers.

Also, special recognition is extended to the anniversary committee, Jim Bob and Ruth Allison, Charles and Marlene Watson, Raymond and Avis White and Wayne and Mary Thomas.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

The Nazarene Good Guy Girls won the powerpuff football game against First Christian Church girls, 24-0. Approximately 100 were in attendance.

During the game Sunday afternoon, Becky Curtis scored twice, Wendy Connally, once, and Melanie Davis sacked the quarterback for a safety.

Following the football game tonight, a senior high party will be held in the home of Kit Sanders located on Harrison Hwy. Also, Ted Taylor, 140 Greenwood, will be hosting a party for the junior high age students at his home.

The L.I.F.E. group are asked to be in attendance Wednesday for a study of rock music entitled, "Take a Look at Rock."

Lutherans to attend area meeting

Members of Immanuel Lutheran Church of Hereford plan to join some 17 Lutheran congregations affiliated with The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in the Texas Panhandle Sunday in the meeting rooms in the Civic Center at Amarillo beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Lutherans will be celebrating the Reformation along with sharing their congregational ministries in visual aid presentations and focusing attention of their vision for the future under the theme of "Lutherans In The Texas Panhandle."

Keynote speaker is the Rev. Norman C. Hein, consultant to Congregations, Lutheran Social Service of Texas.

Other events on the agenda include a hymn-sing, Reformation brass ensemble, I Corinthians 12 skit by youth and buffet supper.

The herring is the most widely eaten fish in the world.

Catholic Bishop acts against premarital cohabitation

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — Bishop George Speltz proudly displays a pile of letters "from all over the country" that support his stand against the practice of couples living together before they marry.

"I have received only two letters that were negative," said the 72-year-old bishop of the St. Cloud Diocese.

Couples living together and wanting a full Catholic marriage in one of the central Minnesota diocese's 147 parishes must "begin living separately immediately," Speltz said in a recent pastoral letter. He called cohabitation before marriage "immoral and a scandal to the community."

No other diocese in the United States has taken a similar step, according to a spokesman for the United States Catholic Conference, but in Bismarck, N.D., a parish pastor, the Rev. Thomas K. Kramer, announced that he would follow the same policy as Speltz.

Speltz said he issued his pastoral letter because priests in his diocese had been hearing from parents "who are convinced that living together before marriage is against God's law and wanted more direction from church leaders."

In his letter, Speltz said cohabitation "calls into question fundamental moral values that have long been central in the Christian tradition: the sacred character of sex and of the Christian family."

Many pastors, he said, also wanted to avoid "what has been an embarrassing situation of couples moving from a life of cohabitation to an elaborate marriage in the Catholic Church. They feel there has been some hypocrisy about this."

Ten percent of the couples in the diocese planning marriage live together beforehand, the bishop estimated.

Priests do not directly ask couples whether they are living together, but if they determine that is the case they may refuse a full Catholic wedding, Speltz said. Couples who refuse to comply may still be married in the church if the priest agrees, but the ceremony is to be open only to the witnesses and families, he said.

Speltz and the Rev. Edwin Kraemer, 55, director of the diocese's Family Life Bureau, said they have no idea how many couples have admitted to living together since the pastoral letter was issued Sept. 14 to clarify the church's teaching on courtship and marriage.

"We're really not keeping statistics on this. We're doing it for the good of the people and we don't care about numbers," Kraemer said.

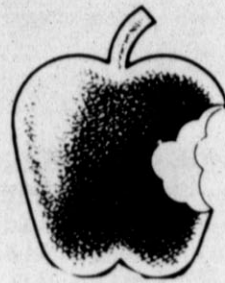

Speltz acknowledged that some priests do not agree with the policy and that its application will be uneven, "but we hope it might gradually reverse a trend."

The Rev. Nic Drensen, a priest who works with students on the St. Cloud State campus, said students have had virtually no reaction to the letter.

"If the students even know about it, I don't think they're concerned," Drensen said. "I don't think our primary responsibility as ministers is to be moral policemen, but to guide them, to help them in their commitment to each other."

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — The income generated per hour and per call from a telephone marketing campaign can be predicted after only 400 calls, according to CMG Telemarketing.

It says a typical campaign uses a pretested script to test the productivity of different lists. The list or lists that produce the best results are used in full.

Essential oils

DEAR POLLY — I tried to make a potpourri with rose petals from my own rosebushes, but the fragrance is fading quickly. Is there any way to preserve the fragrance of the potpourri longer? — JANET

DEAR JANET — To strengthen and prolong the aroma of a potpourri, you can add a few drops of an essential oil as a fixative. These oils are available at many pharmacies and cosmetic counters. Examples of essential oils are rose oil, musk oil or sandalwood oil. Thin slivers of citrus peel dried in the oven, which contain citrus oil, can also be added to the mixture to help fix the aroma.

To keep a pure rose scent, of course, you'll want to use rose oil, but you might try using a different scent or the citrus peel to produce a slightly different fragrance. Experimenting with various mixtures can be an enjoyable pastime for the potpourri maker.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter, "Polly's Gift Ideas," which has directions for making potpourri, plus many other gifts for everyone on your list. Others who would like this newsletter should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Want to make a copy of something in the newspaper? Hold waxed paper over it and rub hard with a rounded stick. Then place the waxed paper over a blank sheet and repeat the process. The newsprint will transfer to the clean sheet of paper.

Mix chocolate syrup and prepared whipped topping for an inexpensive, quick and tasty cake frosting.

Use scraps of leftover meat by cutting them up and adding them to scrambled eggs.

To renew old sponges, soak them in cold salt water.

Use worn-out mitten-style potholders to apply wax to a car. — MARY

DEAR POLLY — We have moved into a house that has nice kitchen cabinets. They are wood and have a lovely finish, but they have fingermarks on them, and some have grease spatters. What can I use to clean them? — ROSE

DEAR ROSE — Try this wood-panelling wash to clean those cabinets without disturbing the finish: Mix one tablespoon white vinegar and one tablespoon olive oil in one quart warm water. Dip a cloth in the warm solution, wring it out well, then use it to rub down the cabinets. Dry by wiping down with a soft, clean cloth.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter, "Homemade Soaps and Cleaners," which has this recipe plus other formulas for furniture polish, kitchen and bathroom cleaners, laundry pre-soaks and homemade soap. Others who would like this newsletter should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have a small TV on the bar between my kitchen and dinette. I placed it on a plastic turntable (they make them for kitchen cupboards) and now I can easily turn it to either side. — DORIS

DEAR POLLY — When making applesauce, I shorten the cooking time and end up with a smoother sauce by using an electric hand mixer to puree the apples when they are almost cooked. — THELMA

DEAR POLLY — Store fish hooks between two strips of masking tape to keep them in place.

For lighter pancakes, use club soda instead of milk or water in the batter.

Keep a discarded window shade in the trunk of your car to kneel on while changing a flat tire.

To make wood-heeled shoes or clogs look like new, sand them lightly and apply furniture stain.

Remove old decals by painting them with several coats of white vinegar. Let soak, then scrape off gently.

Snip old pantyhose at ankle level and use them as shoe covers when packing footwear for travel. — MRS. F.L.F.

New acne medication, powerful cause of birth defects, implicates vitamin A TORONTO (AP) — Accutane, a prescription acne medication made from Vitamin A, is a powerful cause of birth defects, suggesting that massive doses of Vitamin A itself may cause fetal malformations, a new study concludes.

A woman who gives birth to a child after being exposed to Accutane during pregnancy has about a 20 percent chance of delivering a malformed child, Dr. Edward Lammer said Thursday in a paper presented at the annual meeting of the American Society of Human Genetics.

"Compared to other teratogens (substances that cause birth defects), that's high — very high," said Lammer, of the U.S. Centers for Disease Control.

Accutane, introduced in September 1982, is the brand name for an acid form of Vitamin A called isotretinoin. It is supposed to be used only for severe cystic acne cases, but it is so effective that Lammer said doctors may be overprescribing it — and patients may be demanding prescriptions.

Now, Lammer said, there is preliminary evidence that infants exposed to megadoses of Vitamin A before birth are being born with a spectrum of severe malformations resembling those caused by Accutane.

He advised pregnant women "not to take large doses of Vitamin A except under a physician's supervision."

"I think we're all concerned that Vitamin A may be as much as or more of a problem than Accutane," he said.

It appears that large doses of Vitamin A are needed to produce the birth defects, Lammer said. The most common brands of multiple vitamins are designed to prevent excess exposure to Vitamin A, he said.

Accutane was known to cause birth defects in animals before it was approved for human use and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration designated it as a teratogen, Lammer said.

Since the medication was introduced, some 150 pregnant women have used it, despite warnings from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration against its use during pregnancy, said Lammer.

More than half of those women elected to have abortions, Lammer said, but of the remainder, at least 25 gave birth to infants with severe birth defects consisting of facial malformations, misshapen skulls, heart defects and immune system irregularities.

"It's tragic — these are preventable birth defects," Lammer said. Lammer, who has collected data on the cases with the help of Accutane's manufacturer, Hoffmann-La Roche of Nutley, N.J., said doctors "have a responsibility to inform their female patients about the risks of teratogenicity and to perform a pregnancy test" before prescribing the medicine.

SWC preview

TCU success on line Saturday

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

Will success spoil the "smash-mouth" Texas Christian Horned Frogs?

Can they come back to reality after breaking into the Top Twenty for the first time in 22 years?

Can they beat the University of Houston for the first time, EVER?

The next chapter in their amazing Southwest Conference football odyssey is in the Astrodome at Houston on Saturday morning.

The breakfast game is set for 11:30 a.m. in the Raycome SWC television series.

Off to their best start in 26 years, the freshly ranked No. 20 Horned Frogs will be trying to beat the Cougars for the very first time in nine tries.

TCU, which adopted "smash-mouth" football as their 1984 motto, leads the nation in rushing, total offense and scoring.

And the Frogs have a bowl on their minds.

"Being in the Cotton Bowl would be nice, but after four years of pure hell, it'll be a thrill to be in any bowl besides the toilet bowl," said TCU safety Byron Linwood.

It was Linwood's halftime speech that was credited with TCU rallying for a 38-28 victory over Baylor last week.

TCU is a field goal choice over Houston, which was knocked out of first place in the SWC race by Arkansas last week.

In other games, the No. 2 ranked Texas Longhorns are 14-point picks over Texas Tech in Lubbock; Southern Methodist is a 13-point favorite over Texas A&M at Texas Stadium; Arkansas is a 30-point selection over Rice; and Baylor is a touchdown choice over New Mexico in Waco, the final non-conference matchup of the year.

"We have found we can play with anyone," said TCU running back Kenneth Davis. "There is no goal that's out of our reach right now, except being 11-0."

TCU's only loss was to SMU earlier in the season.

Horned Frog Coach Jim Wacker is wary of the Cougars.

"There stands Houston a super football team and one that's probably madder than a hornet after their game in Arkansas last week," said Wacker. "When Gerald Landry gets that Houston Veer to humming, it's a sight to behold. He is a magician."

Texas leads the SWC with a 3-0 record followed by TCU and Houston at 3-1.

Arkansas, SMU and Texas Tech are tied with 2-2 ledgers followed by Baylor 2-3, Texas A&M 1-3 and Rice 0-4.

Bowl officials have been following Texas, TCU, Houston, Arkansas and SMU.

The Aloha Bowl has taken a sudden interest in the Mustangs but Coach Bobby Collins said his team is in a "must" situation against the Aggies.

"I don't think anyone is going to come running for us if we don't win," Collins said. "The challenge is to see how we respond after the (13-7) loss to Texas."

Croft aids British team

By ANDREW WARSHAW AP Sports Writer

LONDON (AP) — A fresh-faced teen-ager with a stream of long brown hair suddenly has emerged as the new heroine of British women's tennis.

Thanks to Annabel Croft's three-set victory over Alycia Moulton at Royal Albert Hall on Thursday night, Britain will go into the second night of the Wightman Cup matches tied at 1-1 with the United States.

Hopes of a first British victory since 1978 and only the 11th in 56 meetings with the Americans looked predictably thin when Chris Evert Lloyd defeated Anne Hobbs 6-2, 6-2 in Thursday's opening match.

(See CROFT, Page 7)

District 3-5A clash tonight

The Monterey Plainsmen are scheduled to arrive in Hereford today to battle the Hereford Whitefaces in a District 3-5A football clash at Whiteface Stadium.

The game takes on different significance for both teams. Monterey, 3-5 overall and 3-3 in district play, look at the game as a stepping stone to reaching the .500 mark in 1984. If the Plainsmen can win the remainder of their games, they'll finish at 5-5.

The Herd (5-3, 4-2), on the other hand, enter the game riding a four-game winning streak, including a 17-16 win over previously unbeaten Plainview last week. Hereford football coach Jerry Taylor said the Whitefaces must win to stay alive in the playoff picture.

The Whitefaces must concern themselves with the running of Monterey tailback James Goolsby. Last week, Goolsby gained 115 yards in a 10-0 Plainsmen victory over intracity rival Coronado. For the season, the sophomore has rushed 177 times for 741 yards.

The Plainsmen run from a double tight-end offensive front much of the time, Monterey football coach James Odom said. The offensive line for the Plainsmen was a pre-season plus for Monterey.

Odom welcomes back guards Bruce Drake (5-10, 185) and Grayson Craft (5-10, 180) in that line. Craft is one of six two-way starters for Odom.

"It hurts when you have to have that many (two-way starters)," Odom has said. "The players are tired, and you have to cut your workout time in half because you have to play with the same people."

"When you play Hereford, you've got to keep the football," he continued. "(Hereford quarterback Mike) Scott throws the ball too well and his receivers catch it too well to let them have the ball very much."

Monterey puts up a defensive front that its opponent can never be too sure of. Odom said the Plainsmen run much of the time from the 4-3, but may throw as many four different formations at the Whitefaces.

Taylor is expecting a good ball game from the Plainsmen. Virtually out of the district race, Monterey should play more relaxed, he said.

"I think Monterey will be loose. They'll probably go for broke. They'll play better because they'll play relaxed."

The Harris rating system has picked Hereford to win by eight points.

Stabler claims system hinders quarterbacks

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The offensive system used by New Orleans Saints Coach Bum Phillips is so conservative and predictable that it's a handicap for any quarterback, said Ken Stabler, who tried it and didn't like it.

"I tried to make it work, and I had trouble with it," he said Thursday. "Richard (Todd) seems to have some trouble with it. (Dan) Pastorini (who like Stabler played for Phillips in Houston) had some trouble with it."

Stabler retired last week, the day after he walked onto the practice field and found he was to handle the midweek routine usually assigned to the third-string quarterback.

For most of his 15 years in the National Football League he had the highest career completion percentage of any professional quarterback ever, but his average slipped last year.

The slip was partly due to season-long injuries, but also due in part to Phillips' system, Stabler said.

"I played a different system in California (where he took the Oakland Raiders to a Super Bowl title in 1976.) It was more wide open," he said.

"I never felt I controlled this situation," Stabler said.

Although he called his own plays, he said he was limited by the run-oriented I-formation and the overall offensive philosophy.

But Stabler said he didn't retire because of any feeling he was going down with a loser. "There was nothing of abandoning ship in it," he said.

He said he still feels that if the Saints play up to their capacity each week, they can win.

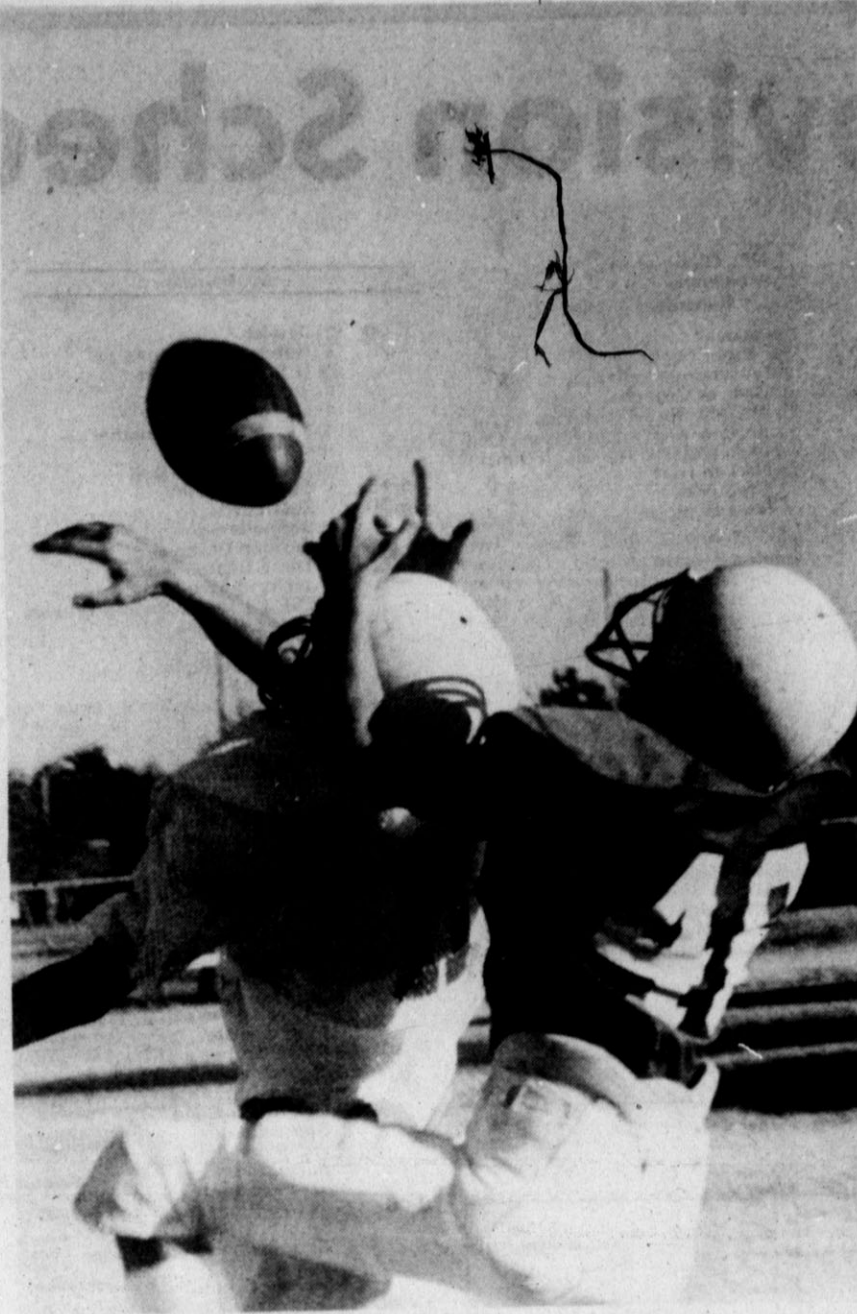

"I think it's going to be a struggle and all the games will be close to the vest, and I don't think you'll ever wind up blowing anybody out," he said.

Turn Him Around

La Plata eighth-grade receiver Gilbert Castillo (48) reaches back to grab a pass from quarterback Jason Scott in Thursday night action at Whiteface Stadium. A Yucca defender had to turn just in time to deflect the pass near the goal line. La Plata won the game 18-6.

CROFT

But, Croft, an 18-year-old who first played tennis in her father's backyard nine years ago, came through with an exciting 6-1, 5-7, 6-4 victory over her 23-year-old opponent.

When the tall American netted a backhand shortly before midnight, the big crowd at the Albert Hall burst into cheer.

With Jo Durie, Britain's No. 1 player, to open tonight's matches against American No. 2 Barbara Potter, Croft's victory kept alive British hopes for an upset over a weakened U.S. lineup.

"I'm absolutely thrilled. I've never experienced anything like that before," said Croft, who won this year's junior Wimbledon and reached the third round of the senior event before losing to Lloyd in two hard sets, 6-3, 6-4.

"I thought I'd blown it today when I lost a match point in the second set but I just gritted my teeth, tried to treat it like an ordinary tournament and hung on," Croft said.

The match had been billed by the British media as the battle of the novices.

Both players were making their Wightman Cup singles debuts and it was Moulton who felt the tension most.

"I never really felt confident. Being warned about the atmosphere beforehand didn't really help," said the Californian, who never managed to shake off her nervousness and served 14 double faults.

Health

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Gland may cause sweating

DEAR DR. LAMB — I perspire too easily. In the summer, sweat runs down my face, drips off my nose and chin and, if I am standing, runs down and drips off my fingers — and that's when I'm not working.

In the winter, my underwear becomes damp and I chill through and through. My head sweats, dampening my hat or cap, and gets cold as ice.

One doctor I saw said that many people sweat easily, and another said this proves that my sweat glands are working. Neither one prescribed anything for the problem. I must have a malfunctioning gland in my head, neck or somewhere else. Can you help me?

DEAR READER — Such extreme sweating can be difficult to treat. Your problem differs from that of the person who has localized sweating, such as from under the arms. You may be right about having a gland that is not functioning properly. You certainly should have your thyroid gland function checked to see if you have an overactive thyroid. That can cause excessive generalized sweating.

There may also be something abnormal about the tiny thermostat in your brain, which we all have. When it is important to cool the body, this thermostat sends out signals through nerves to increase the blood flow through the skin. This causes sweating. It also cools the body at night, which can cause night sweats. The thermostat can be affected by spicy food and is involved in the perspiration that some women experience during the menopause.

The skin is the major organ for controlling body temperature. Sweating is a form of evaporative cooling, and a heavy sweat means that your skin-cooling mechanism is overloaded. This is why sweating often accompanies a break in a fever: It means the body has started to cool itself rather than continuing to increase its temperature.

Doing something about excessive perspiration is more difficult than knowing what causes it. You might find some relief by taking one of the adrenalin-neutralizing medicines, such as Inderal. To update you on the problem, I am sending you The Health Letter 18-2, Sweating, Antiperspirants and Deodorants. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have heard that Os-Cal 500 is good for people who are calcium-deficient. After taking two a day for a few days, I became very constipated, and I have not taken any more since. I almost never have a problem with constipation. Could it have been caused by the pills?

DEAR READER — It was probably the calcium. And if you are one of those people who become constipated when they take calcium, you will have the same problem with all the calcium preparations. But you can take a preparation that contains some magnesium oxide to offset the constipating effect of calcium. Ask your doctor to help you choose one that will be right for you. One part of magnesium oxide to five parts of calcium carbonate usually will prevent this problem.

Individuals who become constipated when they take calcium usually experience this problem only with much larger doses. The small dose of 500 mg. of calcium in two Os-Cal tablets will not have this effect on most people.

Stunt pilot says

Helicopters not dangerous

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most popular stars on television is a sleek hunk of power and muscle — the helicopter. Like many of Hollywood's high-priced celebrities, the chopper needs to be handled carefully, says the stunt pilot for CBS' "Airwolf" and "Magnum, P.I."

David Jones, a former Marine fighter pilot, has been flying helicopters for 25 years, the last 17 in the entertainment business. He says his own maturity and improved camera equipment and techniques have lessened the risks of flying for filming.

"We all learn as we get older, or we don't get older," he said.

The issue of safety above the set was raised in the filming of "The Twilight Zone" movie, when actor Vic Morrow and two children were killed by a helicopter crashing on them after a powerful special-effects explosion.

Involuntary manslaughter charges were filed against director John Landis and two other filmmakers. A hearing on a motion to dismiss the charges is scheduled for next week.

Jones would not comment about that case, but he knows how filmmakers can disregard safety in search of the more perfect shot.

"A director might say something ridiculous, like hover over a spot while bombs are exploding underneath," said the pilot whose film credits include "Tora, Tora, Tora," "Apocalypse Now" and "The Planet of the Apes." "He doesn't realize that the explosion could blow you out of the air."

Jones says there's no need for macho risk-taking when there's optical hocus-pocus.

"By using a long (telephoto) lens, the camera makes it look like the helicopter is part of the explosion, when it's really not that close," said Jones. "At the exact second, the helicopter sneaks off. It's all really an illusion."

TV's now-standard shots of speeding helicopters landing in moving trucks also employ video trickery.

Peasants forced to grow marijuana

OAXACA, Mexico (AP) — Up in the mountains where the clouds touch the treetops, peasant farmers grow marijuana — forced to do so by traffickers who threaten to kill them if they refuse, Roman Catholic bishops in the area charge.
"Those who inform are killed; those who stop are killed," says a report issued by the Roman Catholic Bishops Conference for the Southern Pacific Area of Mexico.
"With the power of money, with the power of arms, El Patron and the mafia represent nearly total control of the life of the people. They manipulate the authorities of these communities."
El Patron is the term for those heading the drug trafficking organization, referred to in this area as "the mafia." Although marijuana has been grown for generations here, the church report indicates new concern about the role of organized crime and its coercion.
The report said "a perfectly organized network" controls marijuana growing on thousands of acres in Oaxaca and neighboring Chiapas state to the south and that "aided by authorities in isolated rural communities, foreigners persuade campesinos to plant marijuana."
Mexican drug agents estimate at least 700 tons of the marijuana are harvested each year, with Oaxaca the No. 1 growing area in Mexico. They say the majority of the marijuana finds its way to the United States.
Oaxaca is an impoverished Pacific Coast state 320 miles southeast of Mexico City and about 700 miles south of Brownsville, Texas.
"The peasants at first are told the crop is being grown for medicinal purposes, the bishops' report said, but after the first harvest they are told they had broken the law and will be turned in to authorities and jailed unless they continue.

It also noted a few arrests of traffickers are made "but large amounts of money appear and suddenly those arrested are set free."
The report concluded marijuana growing "constitutes a grave problem in the region ... and has sunk thousands of campesinos in the most deplorable economic, social and moral situation."
In an interview, Monsignor Jesus Clemente Alva Palacios, auxiliary archbishop of Oaxaca, said the situation has not changed since the report was issued in April.
Asked why the peasants agree to growing marijuana in the first place, Alva Palacios said, "They receive more money for growing marijuana than for corn, for example, but it is the mafia that receives the most money."
"Most of it is exported, I think mostly to North America. It is a big problem, not as bad as Colombia or Bolivia, but still it is a bad problem," he added.
Few residents are willing to discuss the marijuana situation with strangers, but those who do say little can be done because of organized crime families and corrupt officials, as well as the traditional way of life in the countryside.
Mexican government drug agents in Oaxaca refused to talk about their work or the allegations raised by the bishops' report, saying all questions would have to be answered by officials in Mexico City.
In Mexico City, Antonio Sam Lopez, head of the government's drug enforcement program, declined a request by The Associated Press for an interview. He told a reporter who visited his office that he could not make any public comments on the bishops' findings or related matters.
The government of President Miguel de la Madrid also has not commented on the bishops' report but it has officially recognized that corruption is a serious problem throughout the country. De la Madrid's campaign of "moral renewal" is intended to rid the government and society of endemic corruption, including that related by drugs.
Mexico once was the No. 1 supplier of marijuana to Americans, but its role in the pipeline has diminished sharply since the government began spraying the plants with herbicides in 1974.
