That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says a tv antenna on your roof used to be a status symbol--now it indicates you don't have cable.

If all the world's a stage, a lot of us need more rehearsals.

When you question your wife's judgment, remember that she married you.

Customers are people who bring you their wants. It never hurts to remind all of us in business about the importance of customers. A merchandising newsletter received recently reminds us that customers can be lots of different things to you and your salesmakers, but here are a few things to keep in mind:

Customers are people who expect value in what they buy from you. If you do not give them value, they will go somewhere else to find it. Your job is to fill their wants profitably--for them and you.

Customers are people whose opinions of you, your store, and the company you represent, are the most valuable asset in the world. Whatever you do to build a good opinion will eventually be to your advantage. Good opinions cannot be bought or stolen--they can only be given freely in response to your gifts of value.

Customers are never too far away to affect your job, no matter how remote from them your work might seem.

Customers are the real bosses. By serving them well, you best serve yourselves and your company.

A Rotary prayer:
"Lord, you know better than I know myself that I am growing older, and will some day be old. Keep me from getting talkative and particularly from the fatal habit of thinking I must say something on every subject and on every occasion."

"Release me from craving to try to straighten out everybody's affairs. Keep my mind free from the recital of endless details--give me wings to get to the point."

"Give me grace enough to listen to the tales of other's pains. Help me to endure them with patience. But seal my lips on my own aches and pains--they are increasing and my love of rehearsing them is becoming sweeter as the years go by."

"Teach me the glorious lesson that occasionally it is possible I may be mistaken. Keep me reasonably sweet. I do not want to be a saint--some of them are so hard to live with--but a sour old person is one of the crowning works of the devil."

"Make me thoughtful, but not moody; helpful, not bossy. With my vast store of wisdom, it seems a pity not to use it all--but I want a few friends in the end."

Lottery plan resurrected

AUSTIN (AP) - A proposal to establish a lottery in Texas may be near death in the House, but some state senators say it is alive and well in the Senate.

Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, has several proposed constitutional amendments to implement a lottery. One of those would dedicate lottery profits, estimated at $600 million annually, to public schools.

"Like Lazarus, it is resurrected from the dead," Uribe said Tuesday. State Sen. John Montford, chairman of the State Affairs Committee, said he wants to push a lottery bill out of his committee with the recommendation that it be approved by the full Senate.

Montford, D-Lubbock, said Gov. Bill Clements' inflexible no-new-taxes stand makes a lottery necessary to help balance the state budget, which he said will be running a $4 billion to $6 billion deficit for the budget period beginning September 1991.

Earth Week events continue

Events are continuing through the week in Hereford and around the world to celebrate "Earth Week."

The 1990 celebration, marking the 20th anniversary of the 1970 Earth Day activities, will culminate in "Earth Day" on Sunday.

Schools and organizations have planned several events through the week and on Sunday in Hereford. Many schools will be planting trees and wildflowers on their school grounds during the week. At Hereford High School the student council is making awareness announcements about the Earth as part of their morning announcements.

The Pioneer Study Club will plant a tree donated by Hereford By-Products at Mother's Park.

On Saturday, Hereford Junior High students will be collecting material that can be recycled. The collection will be taken from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium. Residents are urged to bring glass, paper, metals, batteries, appliances and other items to the stadium on Saturday.

All Hereford churches will ring their bells for five minutes Sunday at noon in honor of Earth Day.

Individual churches are also celebrating Earth Day. The Nazarene Church is flying an Earth Day flag this week. United Methodist Youth are collecting aluminum cans, which will be sold in order to buy a tree to plant on the church grounds on Sunday.

A group called "Global Walk for a Livable World" is walking from the West Coast to the East Coast and is expected to walk through Hereford in May. The group consists of people who are trying to publicize environmental concerns.

The events here are part of a massive worldwide celebration of Earth Day 1990. Earth Day was started in 1970 by Gaylord Nelson, who is the honorary co-chairman of Earth Day 1990.

"We started this effort in 1970, but clearly our job is not done," Nelson said. "The threads of the net that hold the world ecosystem in balance are breaking and unraveling. Only a huge, coordinated, worldwide effort will save what is left of the natural world."

Nelson said the most important objective of Earth Day 1990 is a demonstration that "literally shakes the political leadership of this world out of its lethargy."

Earth Day 1990 organizers want a full decade of action to meet specific goals, including:

--Ban chlorofluorocarbons that destroy the ozone layer;

--Halt exports of toxic wastes and dangerous pesticides to third-world countries;

--Begin a 20-year transition from fossil fuels to renewable energy sources;

--Reduce acid rain by 80 percent;

--Create a strong international agency with authority to protect the atmosphere and oceans.

Denis Hayes, chairman of the Earth Day 1990 coalition, said a primary goal is to triple the size of the environmental movement in the United States, and has representatives from many areas on the Earth Day 1990 board of directors.

The original Earth Day movement has led to a variety of legislation and developments, including the creation of the Environmental Protection Agency and the original Clean Air and Water Act.

House nears tax showdown

AUSTIN (AP) - After failing to find enough budget cuts to pay for a school finance bill, the Texas House is prepared to test the strength of Gov. Bill Clements' no-new-taxes vow by considering a half-cent sales tax increase.

But Clements, who has repeatedly promised to veto any state tax increase, said there are "plenty of places" to cut more than the $114.4 million tentatively trimmed Tuesday by the House.

Laying off state government workers might be one way to raise more money for court-ordered school finance reform, the governor said.

"There's been an unusual amount of employee growth, so we're going to take a hard look at that," Clements said.

The layoff suggestion, however, was labeled "unfair and unkind" by Rep. James Hury, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Hury's committee voted 8-3 to send the full House a bill to raise the state sales tax from 6 cents to 6.5 cents on the dollar.

The measure would raise $480 million to $600 million the first year, depending on when it takes effect, Hury said. That tax increase was endorsed by a coalition of educator associations.

"I think that we will pass this revenue-raiser and, joined with the cuts, that we will send it to the governor," said Hury, D-Galveston.

The bill could be considered by the 150-member House later this week. Hury said he didn't know whether 100 members would support it, the number required to override a veto by Clements.

The House has approved a school reform bill that would cost $450 million in 1990-91. The Senate went further, approving a $1.2 billion measure.

A House-Senate conference committee is trying to work out differences between the two, and House Speaker Gib Lewis said $550 million is being considered as a compromise price tag.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said because the House failed to find enough cuts to pay for the education bill, he "will be supportive of whatever revenue measures are necessary to raise the additional funds to meet that obligation."

Clements favors a $234 million school bill and proposed paying for it with cuts in other parts of the budget and raising the state fee for obtaining driving records.

Cuts tentatively approved by the House included:

- $57 million from the $154.5 million set aside for restoring the State Capitol.

- $7 million from the $26 million set aside for debt service on bonds issued for the Superconducting Super Collider.

- $8 million from the governor's $9.2 million emergency fund.

- $42.4 million from the state's "rainy day" fund. This is a separate bill from the other proposed cuts.

Another vote is required to send the bills to the Senate for consideration.

Kiwanis governor to visit

Kiwanis District 33 Gov. Jack McGee of Wetumka, Okla., will be in Hereford for his official visit to Division 33 at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Hereford Community Center.

The visit to Hereford is part of the Hereford Noon Kiwanis' 40th anniversary celebration.

Clubs in the division include two Hereford clubs and clubs in Amarillo, Canyon, Tulia, Dimmitt, Muleshoe and Wellington, said Division 33 Lt. Gov. Bobby Owen of Hereford.

A 35-year member of Kiwanis, McGee is a charter member of the Wetumka club. He is a past president and secretary of his club and is a former Division 21 lieutenant governor. He is a life member of the Texas-Oklahoma District and has served as chairman of the youth services, Children's Miracle Network Telethon, young astronaut and other programs.

McGee is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma and recently retired as postmaster. He is a lay leader in the United Methodist Church, a trustee of the "Second Chance" adolescent chemical dependency unit and serves on Wetumka's hospital board.

His wife, Shirley, served for 11 years as a Keywanette faculty advisor at Wetumka High School, where she taught music and drama.

The Hereford Noon Kiwanis was organized on April 27, 1950 with 29 charter members. The charter night was held in the ballroom of the Jim Hill Hotel with the sponsoring Amarillo club and Lt. Gov. Bill Gilstrap in charge of the festivities.

Charter members of the club included Bedford F. Allen Jr., John Allen Bragg, Owen Bybee, Don Combs, Worth Covington, Dr. C.D. Kellon, Fred F. Knoll, Loyd Lovel, Bill Nafziger, Lloyd Olson, Bill Patton, Roy Peet, David Phillips, Wayne Phillips, Bill Phillips, John Pool, Gene Prickett, Walter Seed, Lloyd Sharp, Lowell Sharp, Aubrey Smith, H.V. Stanton, Carl M. Stapp, Jerry Stoltz, Pat Sullivan, Bob Wear, Carroll Whitise, Chester Wiggans and Gerald Wilson.

The club is part of Kiwanis International, established in 75 national and geographic areas. There are about 8,600 clubs with a membership of over 320,250.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, April 18, the 108th day of 1990. There are 257 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On April 18, 1775, Paul Revere began his famous ride from Charlestown to Lexington, Mass., warning American colonists that the British were coming.

On this date:

In 1906, a devastating earthquake struck San Francisco, followed by raging fires. About 700 people died.

In 1942, four months after Pearl Harbor, an air squadron led by James H. Doolittle bombed Tokyo and other Japanese cities.

Ten years ago: Zimbabwe, Rhodesia, became the independent nation of Zimbabwe as the British flag was lowered at a ceremony in Salisbury.

Five years ago: Amid controversy over his plans to visit a German military cemetery, President Reagan told news editors in Washington that the German soldiers had been "victims" of the Nazis "just as surely as the victims in the concentration camps."

One year ago: Thousands of Chinese students demanding democracy tried to storm Communist Party headquarters in Beijing.

Congress to tackle antitrust, clean air bills

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress returns today from a 12-day Easter recess, but the weekend death of a senator and a House turf battle over clean air are delaying action on major legislation.

Both the House and Senate were scheduled to convene at noon. But the death on Sunday of Sen. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, and plans by several senators to attend services for him in Honolulu make significant floor action this week unlikely.

The House passed a similar bill in 1987 after Democrats complained that the Justice Department had prosecuted no cases involving manufacturers and retailers agreeing on minimum retail prices since 1981, when Republicans took over the White House. The Senate, however, never acted on it.

Operators of discount stores also have complained about manufacturers refusing to supply them under the practice, which is illegal under the Sherman Antitrust Act.

The Office of Management and Budget said it will recommend that President Bush veto the bill, contending it would inhibit manufacturers and distributors from making "pro-competitive" agreements.

Bush and his aides, meanwhile, are focusing criticism on Congress for delays in approving his $800 million package of new foreign aid for Panama and Nicaragua, including $47 million to help resettle Cuban refugees and their families now living in Honduras.

The House approved a version of the aid package before the Easter recess, and the Senate originally was scheduled to act on it this week. However, that was before Matsunaga's death.

Clean air legislation approved by the Senate and the House Energy and Commerce Committee faces new hurdles in the House.

The Public Works Committee is concerned about language in the bill that would require the Environmental Protection Agency to cut off federal highway funding to states that don't implement pollution-reduction plans.

Also, the House Ways and Means Committee wants to convert certain fees in the bill to excise taxes. House leaders do not expect the bill to be ready for floor action until sometime in early May.

A few weeks of negotiating behind closed doors, members of the House Budget Committee hope this week to agree on Bush's $1.2 trillion budget for fiscal 1991. Majority Democrats on the panel want to cut the president's proposed $303 billion in defense spending next year by $8 billion.

Gramm outdistances Parmer in fund-raising

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Phil Gramm continues to hold a commanding lead in spending edge over his Democratic challenger, according to Federal Election Commission reports filed this week by the two campaigns.

Gramm's campaign said the Republican incumbent had more than $6.5 million in the bank at the end of March, compared with the $21,781 cash on hand for his November opponent state Sen. Hugh Parmer of Fort Worth, according to the FEC reports.

Parmer's campaign, however, also lists debts and obligations of $69,933, the FEC filings show.

Gramm has raised nearly $12 million since he first came to the Senate in 1985, while Parmer has raised just over $1.2 million since last year, according to their campaign reports at the FEC.

In the most recent reporting period, which covers Feb. 22 through March 31, Parmer raised $102,542 and spent $100,228. Since the first of the year, Parmer has raised a total of $170,830 and spent $265,712.

Gramm, meanwhile, during the most recent reporting period, lists net contributions of $707,098 and expenses of $507,655. Since the first of the year, Gramm has raised a total of nearly $1.33 million and spent just over $1 million.

Parmer's spokesman, Mike Kelly, said the Democrat's campaign believes it did a "pretty good job" by raising more than $100,000 during the reporting period, which fell during heated Democratic primary and runoff races for governor.

Study: fiber cuts risk of colon cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Diets with about twice the amount of fiber and vegetables now consumed by most Americans can reduce the risk of colon cancer by about 40 percent, a government study shows.

A research report published today in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute reviewed 37 studies conducted since 1973 and found what it called "a great deal of evidence" that diets rich in fiber and vegetables protect people against colon cancer.

"The data ... suggest a reduction in risk of approximately 40 percent for persons consuming diets high in fiber and vegetables," the report said. "Furthermore, there are undeniable cardiovascular benefits and little likelihood of adverse consequences associated with this data."

Bruce Trock, a researcher at Fox Chase Cancer Center in Philadelphia, said the evidence "is powerful" and very clear.

Trock said he and two National Cancer Institute researchers, Elaine Lanza and Peter Greenwald, concluded there was a protective effect from fiber after a careful analysis of the statistics and methods used in the 37 dietary studies by different scientists. Populations in the variety of studies included Japanese, Europeans, Australians, Americans and New Zealanders.

Some of the studies were based on questionnaires and others on actual dietary records.

"We classified the studies as to how strong the evidence was," Trock said in a telephone interview.

"We found of the studies that we thought were well done, there were only two that did not support the (anti-colon cancer) effect. When you include some studies where there was some question about how valid the result was, then there was an additional six that were not supportive of the effect."

Trock said the studies did not emphasize any particular food or uniformly determine the precise amount of fiber needed to achieve the protective effect.

But he said most Americans probably would have to double the amount of fiber consumed to achieve the cancer protection effect suggested in the studies.

"The average American eats 11 or 12 grams of dietary fiber a day," said Trock. "The NCI and other organizations are recommending 20 to 30 grams of dietary fiber a day. So we're really talking about doubling a typical intake."

That can be done, he said, with up to six servings a day of fruits, whole grain bread, vegetables and whole grain cereals.

People who eat 20 to 30 grams of fiber daily, he said, will automatically reduce the fat in their diet because "you don't have much room for fat."

Several studies have suggested that reduction of fat in the diet can lower the risk of heart disease and of some other types of cancer, he said.

Trock cautioned that the studies surveyed did not suggest that high fiber powders or tablets would accomplish the anti-cancer effect.

Norvell speaks to Los Ciboleros members

Mrs. Luther Norvell presented the program when Los Ciboleros Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met recently in the Hereford Community Center.

She took members on an irreverent romp through the fields of genealogy with a book review on Collecting Dead Relatives by Laverne Galecner-Moore. She noted that collecting dead relatives has fast become a more popular hobby than gathering rocks or butterflies.

Once genealogy strikes, an otherwise rational human being finds himself in danger of hanging out in graveyards, libraries, county court-houses and other far-from-stimulating locations until he or she is forcibly carted off to a more peaceful spot. The book is a study of the "peculiar people," problems and pitfalls" one encounters as a genealogist.

The opening ritual was conducted by Regent Mrs. Austin Rose assisted by Chaplin Mrs. Abel Ruga. Mrs. Tom Draper led the Pledge of Allegiance; Mrs. Joe Reinauer, the National Anthem; Mrs. Stanford Knox, the American's creed; and the Preamble to the Constitution was repeated in unison.

Mrs. Draper read the President General's message and Mrs. Knox gave the National Defense report on "Praise Perestroika; Don't Pay for It", written by Phyllis Schefly.

Mrs. George Frye was elected to membership in Los Ciboleros Chapter.

Plans were made for a tea on April 29 in the Hereford Community Center honoring Daughters of the American Revolution good citizens, American Essay Winners, their parents and teachers.

Hostesses were Mmes. Arthur Clark, Brian Clark, and David Blackburn.

Other members present were Mmes. Robert Sheffy, Jack Gililand, Charlie Bell, Melvin Faulkner, J.J. Durham and J.P. Jones.

Gililand speaks to study club

Lois Gililand, former director of the Deaf Smith County Historical Museum, presented a trip back in time and a brief synopsis of the history of Deaf Smith County when the Hereford Study Club met recently at the E.B. Black House.

Gililand's commentary during the styleshow told of the customs of the garments modeled by Mary Zinzer, Lisa Albiar and Mary Kay McQuigg. She also spoke about the pioneers to whom the items belonged.

She stated that women really opened up the West because their priorities called for religious freedom and education. Churches and schools were built and Hereford, known as the city of windmills, became the proud home of a Christian College.

Members and guests attending were Dorothy Ott, Mildred Betzen, Jolene Bledsoe, Elizabeth Hellman, Cynthia Miller, Mildred Hicks, Morgan Cain, Gladys Selliff, Jean Ballard, Bessie Story, Mary Story, Joan Yarbrow, Gracie Shaw, Virginia Winget, Addie Cunningham, Inez Witherspoon, Elizabeth Cesar, Nedra Robinson, Mildred Garrison and Betty Gilbert.

The American Cancer Society estimates that over 400,000 Americans will develop superficial skin cancer, a form of cancer that can be prevented by avoidance of excessive exposure to the sun.

Canyon drops Herd, 11-1

The Canyon Eagles jumped out to a 7-0 lead Tuesday and coasted to an 11-1 win over the Hereford Whitefaces in a game called in the fifth inning by the 10-run rule.

Canyon's Ken Land went the distance for the win, giving up five hits and one base on balls while striking out four. Hand also hit three batters to put them on base.

Max Mungia took the loss for the Herd. Mungia gave up seven runs (all earned) on nine hits a walk and a hit batter in two innings of work. The Eagles ripped Mungia for six extra base hits, including Jon Eller's two-run homer in the first that gave Canyon the only runs it needed.

David Taylor had a perfect day at the plate for the Eagles, going four-for-four with three doubles and two runs scored. The Eagles came up with five runs in the second on four doubles and a single to end Mungia's stint on the mound.

The Herd picked up a run in the fifth with three straight hits. Matt Bromlow was hit by a pitch to start the inning and Chad Brummett followed with a single. George Jowell then singled to left, but Bromlow was cut down at the plate by leftfielder Jeff Perez.

Jim Andrews picked up the RBI with a double scoring Brummett.

Sammy Casarez finished up for the Herd, allowing four runs on six hits. After holding the Eagles to a run over two innings, Casarez allowed three in the fifth to put the 10-run rule in effect without recording an out.

"We were hitting the ball pretty well, putting it in play," Herd coach T.R. Sartor said. "Canyon just kept coming up with the defensive plays to keep us from scoring."

The Herd had a total of four runners thrown out on the base paths and left another six stranded.

The loss drops the Herd to 3-15 while Canyon moves to 11-5-1. The Herd will return to District 1-4A competition Saturday when Pampa visits for a 1 p.m. game at Whiteface Field. The game will be the first of four in a row at home for the Herd.

YMCA youth soccer registration extended

The Hereford YMCA has extended the registration for its summer youth soccer league to 5 p.m. Friday.

The league will have divisions for first- and second-graders, third- and fourth-graders and fifth- and sixth-graders. The league will be divided into first through third and fourth through sixth grade groups if there are not enough players for three divisions.

All players must be YMCA members. One-year memberships for children cost $20 and include use of all YMCA facilities.

For more information, contact the YMCA at 364-6990.

Palmer, Nicklaus, Player to miss Legends of Golf

AUSTIN (AP) - Arnold Palmer joined Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player among the Senior Tour absentees for the Legends of Golf this week.

Nicklaus is in Japan on business.

Player is at home in South Africa following his victory in the PGA Seniors at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., last week.

Palmer is in court.

The 60-year-old Palmer withdrew Tuesday from the tournament that gave the initial impetus to the enormous growth of the Seniors Tour.

He is tied up in court at Orlando, Fla., in a suit in which his company is accused of causing environmental damage in the construction of a golf course.

Palmer's place in the small invitational field was taken by Tom Shaw, who will be Miller Barber's partner in the field of 28 two-man teams competing on a best-ball basis.

With those leading players out, Al Geiberger, who won this title with Harold Henning last year, said "it's a wide-open tournament."

"Last year, there were really only about five or six good teams. But with some of the pairings juggled, it's wide open. There's any number of teams that could win."

Chief among them, however, is the pairing of Lee Trevino and Jim Dent.

"Any time you've got Trevino on a team, you know it's going to be a good one," Geiberger said of the Hall of Fame member who won three of four starts earlier this year.

"And this new course is longer. We all know that Jim is just awesome off the tee, so he and Lee should be hard to handle," Geiberger said.

The new course is the Barton Creek Country Club, 6,629 yards and par 71, in the Hill Country area.

It is the first time the 13-year-old tournament has not been held at Onion Creek, where, in 1980, the long televised playoff between the teams of Tommy Bolt and Art Wall and Julius Boros and Roberto deVicenzo caught the public attention and gave rise to the Seniors Tour.

In addition to Trevino-Dent and Geiberger-Henning, some of the major pairings include Bruce Crampton and Orville Moody, who won this event in 1987 and 1988; Chi Chi Rodriguez and Dave Hill; Bob Charles and Bruce Devlin; Mike Hill and Walt Zembriski; Charles Coody and Dale Douglass; former champions Don January and Gene Littler, and Larry Mowry and Frank Beard.

Eighteen teams will compete for $600,000 in the Legends division for players 50 and older, and 10 are playing for $150,000 in the Legendary Champions division for players 60 and older.

The Legendary Champions also can compete in the younger division if they choose. Roberto deVicenzo and Charlie Sifford are the Legendary Champions defending title-holders.

Others 60-and-older teams include Tommy Bolt and Bob Rosburg, Sam Snead and Bob Goaly, and Dow Fisterwald and Art Wall.

Due to the hilly terrain and distances between green and tee, tournament officials said the use of golf carts would be mandatory.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by NBC.

First National Nursery says,

"Plants need LOVE, too!"

Ferti-lome says, "I love you" best of all!

Your shrubs will be GREENER and STRONGER when you use ferti-lome shrub foods on a regular feeding basis.

We recommend you feed your flowering shrubs and evergreens 3 times a year:

Spring...late Feb/anytime in March
Summer...May, June or July
Fall.....Sept/Oct.

In severe cases, we recommend you feed your shrubs 3 times in-a-row, 30 days apart to correct major nutritional problems.

With each feeding, it is very important to supplement your basic ferti-lome shrub food with IONATE, an important soil acidifier, for West Texas and New Mexico alkaline soils.

Ionate benefits:

IONATE lowers the pH of the soil to make it MORE ACID which, in turn, releases a lot of the minerals already in the soil. Contains 32% sulfuric acid and 10% IRON.

IONATE also makes the NPK (nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash) in the ferti-lome shrub foods more 'instantly available' to your shrubs.

IONATE helps counteract the SALT accumulations in the soil that is the result of having over 600 parts per million in our water supply.

3 ferti-lome plant foods:

Flowering Shrub Food (9-13-7) w/trace elements. Ideal for crape myrtle, snowball, forsythia, etc.

Evergreen Food (9-15-13) is ideally suited to pines, junipers, wax leaf, photinia, oleagnus, etc.

Gardener's Special (11-15-11) w/ trace elements. For flowers & vegetables. Feed every 4-6 weeks.

When feeding use 2 lbs. (8 cups) of ferti-lome per 100 sq. ft. along with 4 lbs. of Ionate (two 16 coffee cans). Cultivate, water in!

Remember, "One flower is worth a thousand words."

Magic beats buzzer, SuperSonics

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

The Seattle SuperSonics wish Magic Johnson would just disappear. Johnson dealt a blow to the Sonics' playoff hopes Tuesday night, hitting a running one-hander from 17 feet with eight-tenths of a second left for a 102-101 Lakers victory.

"That's a heartbreaker," Nate McMillan of the Sonics said. "I've seen him do this on TV to other guys. You never dream it's going to happen to you."

The loss knocked Seattle out of an eighth-place tie in the race for the final playoff berth in the NBA's Western Conference. With three games remaining, the Sonics are a game behind Houston, which beat Sacramento 112-97.

McMillan, Seattle's 6-foot-5 defensive specialist, tried unsuccessfully to stop Johnson on the game's final play.

"I was ready to pass it, but I maneuvered enough to get a good shot and let it go," Johnson said. "I felt confident. But you never relax until the ball goes through the cords."

Although he finished with 21 points, Johnson was only 3-for-11 from the field when he took the game-winning shot and had missed seven consecutive attempts.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Atlanta 118, New Jersey 95; Denver 99, Minnesota 89; Chicago 111, Boston 105; Cleveland 96, Milwaukee 88; Dallas 97, Utah 96 and Washington 129, Orlando 127.

The Lakers came back to win after Derrick McKey's three-point play gave Seattle a 101-100 lead with 43 seconds left.

James Worthy scored 22 points for the Lakers.

Dale Ellis led the Sonics with 28 points, hitting 13 of 22 shots.

Rockets 112, Kings 97
Houston overcame the third-quarter

ejection of Akeem Olajuwon to beat Sacramento.

Sleepy Floyd scored 11 of his 22 points and made three of his six steals in an 18-2 fourth-period spurt that turned the game into a rout for the Rockets.

Olajuwon, who scored 20 points, was ejected early in the third quarter after a shoving match with Greg Kite. Houston was ahead 60-48 at the time.

Mavericks 97, Jazz 96

Dallas almost blew a 15-point fourth-quarter lead but survived a late Utah rally behind 24 points from Derek Harper.

Karl Malone, who had 39 points and 17 rebounds, scored five of seven straight points by the Jazz that made the game close in the final period.

Nuggets 99, Timberwolves 89

Denver stayed in seventh place in the West as Fat Lever scored 10 of his 21 points in the final 4:44 against Minnesota.

The Nuggets finished the game with an 18-6 run.

The Nuggets got 22 points from Michael Adams.

Cavaliers 96, Bucks 88

Cleveland maintained its hold on the final Eastern Conference playoff spot by defeating Milwaukee.

John Williams scored 19 points and Brad Daugherty, Mark Price, Craig Ehlo and Larry Nance each scored 17 for the Cavaliers, who outscored Milwaukee 26-16 in the fourth quarter.

Hawks 118, Nets 95

Dominique Wilkins scored 36 points and Atlanta broke open a close game by outscoring New Jersey 35-18 in the final period.

The Hawks led 95-86 with 7:26 left before Wilkins had five points and Cliff Levingston four in a 13-2 run that put the game out of reach.

Atlanta, which led 59-50 at halftime, also got 16 points and 13 rebounds from Moses Malone.

Bulls 111, Celtics 105
Chicago snapped Boston's six-game winning streak behind Michael Jordan's 35 points.

Boston never led in the game, and the closest the Celtics came in the final quarter was when Jim Paxson scored with 25 seconds left, making the score 105-104.

Kevin McHale led the Celtics with 28 points.

Bullets 129, Magic 127

Washington handed Orlando its 13th consecutive loss when Bernard

King made a jump shot with 1.5 seconds remaining, giving him 32 points to go with a career-high 14 assists.

King scored the last 11 points of the game for the Bullets.

Jeff Malone led Washington with 33 points, 21 of them in the third quarter when the Bullets opened a 13-point advantage. But Orlando closed the gap to 103-102 by the end of the period.

Giants getting no relief

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

The weakness of the San Francisco bullpen, hardly a secret around the National League, is being exposed almost daily.

As if losing four of their last five games when leading or tied in the eighth inning isn't bad enough, the defending league champions had to throw their relievers at the Los Angeles Dodgers on Tuesday night.

"He loves to hit here" at Candlestick Park, Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda said of catcher Mike Scioscia, whose homer in the eighth inning broke a 5-5 tie in a 10-5 victory. "We've got a lot of guys who can hit here. Our offense is going to do better this year."

Scioscia, whose 10 homers last season was a career high, is now tied with several other players for the early league lead with three.

"How's his pace with Babe Ruth?" Lasorda asked.

"That's it for the homers," Scioscia said. "I've got to start getting hits with guys in scoring position. I had a bad year last year doing that, and I'm still not doing it this year."

"By no means am I a home run hitter. We've got enough guys in front of me who can do that."

The Giants don't have many who can do what they need at this moment - put out the fire. The bullpen is 0-4 with a 6.26 ERA and only one save in five opportunities.

"Already we're looking for help," Giants manager Roger Craig said. "It's still early, but we're always looking for some help."

Elsewhere, it was Chicago 8, New York 6; Cincinnati 2, San Diego 1; Pittsburgh 7, St. Louis 2; Montreal 2, Philadelphia 1 and Houston 5, Atlanta 3.

Scioscia hit a 2-1 pitch from reliever Atee Hammaker (0-1) to put the Dodgers ahead for good. Scioscia, pinch-hitter Chris Gwynn, Alfredo Griffin and Mike Sharperson added RBI hits in a four-run ninth.

Kevin Mitchell's opposite-field solo homer on a 3-2 pitch from Don Aase (1-1) tied the game at 5-5 with two out in the seventh.

Cubs 8, Mets 6

Third baseman Howard Johnson's two-out throwing error in the 13th inning allowed two Chicago runs to score. New York and Chicago combined for 22 walks, six errors and eight stolen bases. The Mets left the bases loaded in the third, ninth and 10th innings and stranded 18 runners, 10 in scoring position.

Chicago got the winning run for Paul Assenmacher (1-0) in the 13th when Joe Girardi singled with one out off Jeff Innis (0-1), stole second with two outs and continued to third on catcher Orlando Mercado's throwing error. After Jerome Walton walked, Ryne Sandberg hit a grounder to Johnson, who fielded it cleanly but threw wildly past first base for his second error of the game and the Mets' fifth.

Reds 2, Padres 1

Tom Browning pitched six strong innings and Barry Larkin had his seventh straight multiple-hit game as Cincinnati remained the majors' only unbeaten team at 7-0.

Billy Hatcher had three singles, stole a base and drove in a run, and Larkin went 3-for-4 to raise his average to .594 (19-for-32).

Pirates 7, Cardinals 2

Pittsburgh used the wildness of St. Louis pitcher Greg Mathews to score six runs in the third inning, and Neal Heaton won his seventh straight decision.

Heaton (2-0), unbeaten in his last five decisions in 1989, allowed five hits, struck out four and walked two in 7 2-3 innings.

Expos 2, Phillies 1

Rookie Delino DeShields beat the throw on an attempted double play, driving in the winning run in the seventh inning as Montreal won its fourth straight game.

Astros 5, Braves 3

Franklin Stubbs had a two-run homer among three hits, and surging Craig Biggio drove in the go-ahead run with one of his three hits as Houston handed Atlanta its fifth straight loss.

Yanks live off pitching

By The Associated Press

The New York Yankees aren't concerned about their power shortage as long as their pitchers keep short-circuiting opposing batters.

"We've got better arms, there's no doubt of that. It all adds up to wins," Dave Righetti said after earning his third save in as many appearances - he has retired nine of 10 batters this season - as the Yankees beat the Detroit Tigers 4-1 Tuesday night.

That's also the Yankees' record, and they've done it without hitting a home run. Pitching suddenly is the name of the game for a team that was supposed to resemble Venus de Milo - no arms.

"Oh, yeah, they've got some pitching down in the bullpen," Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said. "Jeff Robinson's got good stuff. He's got a good forkball. He had it when he pitched for Roger (Craig) out in San Francisco, and he had it in Pittsburgh last year."

"And (Tim) Lary's definitely going to help them." Lary, making his first official appearance after a rainout and a snowout, scattered six hits in seven innings and Dave Winfield, making his first start in left field since 1984, had a two-run single. Robinson pitched a perfect eighth and Righetti did the same in the ninth.

In other American League games, it was Oakland 7, California 5 in 12 innings; Toronto 8, Baltimore 2; Chicago 2, Boston 1; Texas 6, Milwaukee 2; Minnesota 6, Seattle 5 and Kansas City 4, Cleveland 2.

Athletics 7, Angels 5

Mike Norris earned his first major-league victory in almost seven years with one inning of perfect relief and Oakland scored twice in the 12th inning.

Walt Weiss singled to start the Oakland 12th. Stan Javier forced him but took third on Rickey Henderson's single. Carney Lansford's potential inning-ending double play grounder was juggled by second baseman Johnny Ray, who could only throw to first as Javier scored. Jose Canseco followed with an RBI single off Mark Eichhorn (0-1).

Blue Jays 8, Orioles 2

Pat Borders, Kelly Gruber and Junior Felix homered and Mike Flanagan allowed a run on four hits over five-plus innings. Flanagan (2-0) walked three and didn't strike out a batter.

White Sox 2, Red Sox 1

Sammy Sosa singled off Lee Smith (0-1) with one out in the ninth, stole second and scored on Ozzie Guillen's single to give Chicago its fifth victory in six games. That made a winner of Barry Jones (2-0), who pitched one scoreless inning.

Rangers 6, Brewers 2

Pete Incaviglia's three-run sixth-inning homer snapped a 2-2 tie. Ruben Sierra also homered for Texas, the 100th of his career, and Kevin Brown (2-0) allowed three hits and two runs in 6 2-3 innings. Mike Jeffcoat earned his second save.

Twins 6, Mariners 5

Kent Hrbek's tie-breaking single in the ninth inning enabled Minnesota to snap a three-game losing streak. Kirby

From start, HSB has 'banked' on agriculture

Smith says bank's role is a service institution

'built around the needs of people from all walks of life'

By ORVILLE HOWARD
Special Feature Writer

Craig Smith never mentioned cash or accounts when he spoke of the community role of Hereford State Bank—"We're a service institution built around the needs of people from all walks of life."

And most of those people walk the turnrows of agribusiness where production of food and fiber is a way of life.

"At least 75 percent of our business is related to agriculture," said Smith. "But when we speak of agriculture around Hereford, we're speaking of a broad-based economy...farmers, cattle feeders, the sugar industry, food factories, manufacturing companies and the dozens of jobs and professions related to agribusiness."

Smith spoke of cowboys and penitents on a first-name basis and related to Hereford cattlemen, farmers and business persons as a winning team in a tough league of international economics: "We're a little stagnant right now in business as a whole, but you must remember we have just come through some mighty rough times in agriculture."

While speaking from the president's chair of the Hereford State Bank, Smith exemplified a true reflection of the real West, both in mannerisms and personal convictions. He spoke of the economic drag of Texas as being a problem that could probably be solved more easily from within than from without.

"I think we should be helping ourselves and helping each other further develop our local businesses and industries rather awaiting for some big miracle to come from the outside," said Smith.

Speaking of local expansions, Smith did not discount possibilities of new industries coming to the Greater Hereford area, but noted that the community should be pulling out all stops in boosting expansion of current business and industrial operations. "Every time a business or factory adds another two or three jobs, that puts more dollars in the peoples' pockets, you see a thriving town...you don't have to worry about where or how they'll spend it because if Hereford folks have money to spend plenty of it will stay right here in Hereford."

Smith went a step further in reflecting on community needs and growth: "We're seeing downtown filling up again but we need this same thing to happen all over the county...when you see growth in agriculture, you see growth in agribusiness and when you talk about agribusiness you're talking about Hereford."

Smith pointed out that Hereford agribusiness does not relate only to implement stores and grain bins but touches the cash registers of automobile dealers, grocery stores and retail outlets on Main Street.

"When agriculture is good in Hereford, business is good in Hereford," he added. "Though the grain sorghum industry is still running sort of a break-even basis, the cattle feeding business has really been good for the past three years and it's still looking pretty good for the year ahead."

Hereford State Bank is one of the largest financial institutions of the

HUSTLE HEREFORD

Texas Panhandle, with assets totaling $70,540,000 as of March 31, 1990, with $63,500,000 in deposits. Current loans total about $37,662,840.

Covering almost a full block on the south side of the Deaf Smith County Courthouse square, Hereford State Bank is what is known in financial circles as a full-service bank—a financial center that offers services in commercial and consumer loans, safe depository for cash, bonds, deeds and all sorts of personal valuables, several types of savings programs, such as Passbooks, CDs and the IRAs, 24-hour teller service that's tied with the PULSE banking system, a trust department, checking accounts and financial advisory personnel for the novice in business.

From its very beginning 43 years ago, Hereford State Bank has "banked" on agriculture and its related businesses, taking a conservative approach in lending but with an open door for something new. As president and trust officer of Hereford State Bank, Smith heads a 39-member staff, many of whom are highly specialized in various fields of banking.

Other officers include Terry Bromlow, executive vice president; Waldo Baxter, senior vice president; Larry Alley, vice president; Jeff Brown, vice president; Steve Gilbert, vice president and cashier; Mark Nicklaus, assistant vice president; Norma Coffey, assistant vice president; Connie McGill, assistant vice president; Madeline Rosson, assistant cashier; Nell Rhoton, assistant cashier, and Lanette Leasure, assistant cashier.

The present board of directors include Joe Artho, Terry Bromlow, Terry Langehennig, James T. Hull, Rex Lee, Garth Merrick, Craig Smith, R.N. Yarbro, Roger Williams, J.R. Jim Bob Allison (director emeritus) all of Hereford, and Kenneth T. Murphy of Abilene, Tx. Being one of the founders of Hereford State Bank in 1947, Mr. Allison in 1986 stepped down from active directorship after having served in such capacity for 40 years.

Having physical properties of big-city banking—vaulted ceilings, spacious customer counters and a massive walk-in depository—Hereford State Bank is back-stopped with its parent financial center headquartered in Abilene, First Abilene Bankshares, Inc.

First Abilene Bankshares acquired Hereford State Bank in March, 1974, and through the past 16 years has maintained a local board of directors and a local slate of officers, other than Kenneth T. Murphy of Abilene who is chairman of the board and chief executive officer of First Abilene Bankshares. Assets of First Abilene as of Dec. 31, 1989, totaled $688,588,000, with loans totaling $275,560,000.

In reviewing the financial track-record of First Abilene Bankshares, Murphy noted that 1990 marked the 100th anniversary of the First National Bank of Abilene which was chartered Nov. 30, 1889.

Originally named Farmers and Merchants Bank of Abilene, First National was founded by Gen. Fleming W. James, a distinguished ex-Virginian who came to Texas in 1869 and was instrumental in the establishment of several other area banks in the 1880s and 1890s. In 1954, Walter F. Johnson, a young banker, form Dallas was named president and in 1957, the bank's name was changed to the First National Bank of Abilene.

When banking laws were changed within the state in 1986 to allow branch operations, the First National Bank in Abilene was the first in that city to establish branch operations. In addition to Hereford State Bank, First Abilene also owns the First National Bank at Sweetwater and the Eastland National Bank at Eastland. The parent company is now headquartered in the new 10-story First National Center in Abilene.

Hereford was moving into a post-war agricultural and industrial boom in 1947, when a group of local businessmen and farmers saw the need for a second banking center. The Hereford State Bank opened for business on June 16, 1947, in a small building across from the current post office building.

The bank's first board of directors included J.R. Allison, G.W. Brumley, Roger Brumley, J.G. Evans, O.G. Hill, Jr., A.V. Hendricks (president), and Dudley Green (vice president). William R. Phillips was the first cashier and at the end of the first year, deposits totaled $1.4 million.

Elected as the first president, Allison guided the fledgling organization until August 1954. And while under Allison's leadership, Hereford State Bank in 1950 opened what is believed to be the first drive-in window teller in the Texas Panhandle. Allison is now in retirement in Hereford, after having served the banking industry for nearly a half century.

On Dec. 15, 1956, Hereford State Bank opened for business in a new 6,000-square foot building at Third and Sampson during the time that Townsend Douglas served as president. Others who served earlier as presidents included Brumley and Hendricks.

In 1970, the present drive-in teller facilities on the southwest corner of the block were opened and in 1977 two more were added, making a total of five drive-in teller windows.

Others who served as presidents during the 1960s and 1970s included Russell Carver, Harlan Vanderzee and Jeff Carlile.

In June 1977, the present home of Hereford State Bank was completed at a cost of $1.2 million, a 17,800-square-foot building constructed on the same site area as its former building. First Abilene's acquisition of Hereford State Bank in 1974 enabled the local unit to increase its lending capacity, with the loan limit to any one individual now set at $1 million.

Smith said Hereford State's lending division is a blend of consumer/commercial loans—"We can't be all things to all people but we do try to service our community." The bank has the automatic teller service that's hooked up with PULSE across some 20 states.

As one example of the current credibility of Hereford State Bank among other banks in the nation the Alex Shesaunoff's bank quarterly report (September 1989) gave Hereford State an A-Plus with a 94 rating on a scale of 0 to 99.

"We've enjoyed an A-Plus Rating in the Shesaunoff Report for several years," said Smith. Shesaunoff publishes a quarterly report on all banks in the United States and rates the institutions as viewed by the public and the bottomline on accounting report.

While reflecting on the tough times in Southwest banking during the 1980s, Smith said Hereford State Bank had been fortunate enough to have been located in an area that has a highly diversified economy, despite the fact that most of local businesses is based on agribusiness.

"Our ups and downs here in Hereford were a little more slow than in areas where communities were totally dependent on one thing, such as oil," said Smith. "Where the ups and downs were more sudden, the banks were hit much harder."

Smith pointed out that First Abilene survived in a petroleum-oriented economy that was hit hard by the big oil bust of the middle 1980s. As a matter of fact, a number of banks in the immediate Abilene region closed in recent years, but First Abilene not only survived the 1980s but maintained a high banking status in Texas—an A rating for the past several years.

The Hereford banker noted that commercial cattle feeding has probably had the greatest economic impact on Deaf Smith County economy than any other single item, running neck-and-neck are the turnrow farmers, followed by the food factories, feed and grain industries, sugar processing, steel fabrication companies and specialty firms which produce a wide variety of products...from doggie chewables for household pets to custom-made jackets for the graduating seniors.

Smith said a number of his customers who consign livestock regularly to local feedyards for finishing are also heavily involved in livestock operations, such as wheat pasture and summer yearlings on native pasture.

"Many of these cattlemen own their own grassland but for the most part they operate on leased land," he added. If desired, the bank officials will assist customers on such livestock risk-management programs, such as hedging in the commodity world.

Having a 23-year background in the banking business, Smith said one of the biggest changes he has seen in the past decade has been the move from asset-based lending to a cash-flow basis for lending.

"In the time period of the 1960s and 1970s, we were more on an asset-base lending program, depending much on persons' net worth and current financial stability to service debt," said Smith. "Now, we still care about the size of a person's net worth, but we also look closely at the liquidity of his assets and the income that's going to be coming to service the debt...there has to be a way to generate cash out of those assets."

Hereford State Bank has customers in surrounding counties but majority of its business comes from Deaf Smith County. "We have a number of small downtown retail business firms as customers and then we have many cattle feeders and lots and lots of farmers..." most of our growth in Deaf Smith in recent years has been based on the cattle feeding industry with the cash grain farming still having its ups and downs.

Smith dwelt heavily on the fact that farmers are one of three groups in America which continuously create new resources for the consuming public, the others being mining and the fishing industry. "I don't think most people realize how important the farmers and cattlemen are to the day-to-day livelihood of the country," he added.

Born and reared in Clovis, N.M., Smith is one of the two sons born to Frank and Olita Smith who were farmers and ranchers in Eastern New Mexico and also held a partnership in a Clovis hardware store. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith in the early 1900s moved from Texola, Ok., to a homestead near Grady N.M., where the Smith family were numbered among the early-day settlers.

Smith graduated from Clovis High School in 1960, then enrolled under a basketball scholarship at West Texas State University. Following two years at West Texas State, Smith transferred to Arizona State University at Tempe for a year and received a degree from Texas Tech University in 1965.

When asked what particular thing got him into the banking, Smith didn't hesitate for a moment: "A dryland farm, a WD-9 tractor and a 15-foot oneway." After graduating from college, Smith went to work on the family farm in Curry County out north of Clovis, then one day while looking down the wheel furrow of a oneway plow, he realized he was doing exactly the same thing he had done before going to college—"That's when I quit the dryland farm."

Smith first went to work as a collector for the International Harvester Co., then landed a job as a bank examiner out of Amarillo. After 2 1/2 years in the bank examining profession, Smith joined Hereford State Bank in February 1970, and after 10 years' working up through the ranks of bank positions, Smith was named president in September of 1981 after having served under bank presidents, Harlan Vander Zee and Jeff Carlile.

The Carlile and VanderZee families bought control of the bank in 1967, and remained in that status until selling in 1974.

Smith and his wife, Mysedia, have two sons—Sean, who is a sophomore at Hereford High School, and Brad, who is a freshman football player at Texas Tech. Mrs. Smith was reared at Borger where her father, Walter Campbell, was a career worker for Phillips Petroleum Co.

Standing 6 feet 6, the Hereford banker frequently jokes about his height, saying he is only "5 feet, 18 inches tall." He has never played a round of golf, but loves the outdoors. Instead of trying for a hole-in-one, Smith shoots for a half-in-one on weekend rodeo runs.

Team roping is his favorite role with the rope where he has earned a couple of saddles and a shelf full of trophies. One of the tough competitions where he and partner won second place was a range roping event in the Canadian River mesquite country where The Outfit in Amarillo sponsors range roping events.

"About all I do is amateur and jackpot roping," Smith added, rather modestly. But one of his office walls is lined with trophy presentations and photos of sleek roping horses. The rest of his executive bank office is decked with oil paintings by Carl Smith. And right in the middle, perched on a coffee table, is a collector rendition of a .45-caliber, hand-engraved revolver that's owned by Kenneth Chambers of Hereford, a livestock inspector for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association headquartered in Fort Worth. Along with the glass-encased revolver are two bound volumes on the roles Texas lawmen of the frontier days.

"Kenneth said he'd rather have the collector's items here where folks could see it," said Smith. "So, we take good care of it for him."

In addition to an impressive collection of Carl Smith paintings, the bank also boasts one of the most massive vault doors in the nation. The giant circular door swings some 8 feet in diameter, is built of solid steel and weighs 40,000 pounds. Operated with the intricate precision of a time lock, the door is delicately balanced on two hinges about the size of a large stove pipe—installed with such fine workmanship that even a small child could open and close it.

The vault door was purchased about eight years before being installed in the Hereford State Bank in 1977. It was purchased from the Mosler Company who had retrieved it from a bank in Brenham, Tx., where it had been located some 44 years.

In addition to banking, Smith and his brother, Armand, have farming and ranching interests near Grady, N.M., and operate a yearling outfit on top of the caprock near Mosquero, N.M. not far from David Hill. Their father is deceased. Their mother is retired in Hereford.

In addition to being president and chairman of the Board of Hereford State Bank, Smith is on the board of the Hereford Area Economic Development Corp., a member of the Deaf Smith Hospital board, a former director of the Hereford Country Club, a director of the Whiteface Booster Club and has served on a number of community organizational committees. The bank has been an active supporter of community-oriented programs and organizations.

Smith is an advisory director to the First National Bank at Tulia and effective May 1, will go on the board of directors of the First Abilene Bankshares in Abilene.

One of the community highlights of the bank is sponsoring an area-wide hamburger cookout on the parking lot of the bank during the final day of the annual Farm and Ranch Week—"This year we got run out with an ice storm but we'll be back trying for it again next year."

The bank is also one of the leading buyers of club stock at the annual Hereford Stock Show featured each January in the Hereford Bull Barn.

In summarizing a profile of Hereford State Bank, Smith said it all in six words—"A proud heritage," a promising future."

Allen recalls bank robbery attempt

Prior to the move into the current bank building, a diversion from the routine at Hereford State Bank made headlines for a few days--career custodian C.D. Allen is believed to have foiled a safe-cracking job during an early morning shift on a holiday weekend.

In recalling the spine-tingling event, Allen chuckles nowadays between phrases but it was no laughing matter the night he found a punched lock on the rear door of the bank and a "cracked" safe that wasn't quite cracked.

"I was on a routine check of the bank about 4 a.m. in the morning and when I went to put my key in the lock of a rear door the lock came out in my hand," recalled Allen. "That's when my hair started raising a little bit.

"Then, as I eased on into the bank and found a second open, believe me I was getting kinda scared. Then I saw a light shining from one of the offices and that's when my hair just sorta stood straight up...you know, like almost raising my cap off my head."

Allen was not armed with any type of weapon but continued into the unlighted bank alone toward the office light and the vault area--"that's when I seen all sort of robbery tools and cigarette butts lying on the floor and there was a hole cut in the side of the vault that you could probably stick your head in."

Allen found an acetylene cutting torch lying near the safe and three brand new suitcases...the smell of scorched metal was in the air and the smell of crime hung heavily on the darkened bank.

Allen edged toward the lighted office, eased open the door but no one was there. A flashlight search of additional offices and the bank lobby by Allen failed to find the safe crackers so he eased back toward the door through when he had entered.

"I may have ran right into them. If I had gone through the regular rear entrance but this time for some reason I decided to enter the bank through a side door that first opened into a utility room and from there you went into the main part of the building," said Allen.

Armed with nothing but a flashlight Allen then ran across the street to the Deaf Smith County Sheriff office to report the break in but was not received too enthusiastically. "They (officer on duty) told me that this was a job for the city," recalled Allen. "Then I told them, man the city police is three or four blocks away and you are the closest...can't you call them or something?"

Eventually, the city police got the word but by this time Allen was back across the street at the bank where once again things got a bit edgy for Allen. He was creeping up the alley from his parked pickup truck while at the same time the city police were creeping up the dark alley from their squad cars in an opposite direction.

"When I saw all those police coming with their guns drawn I made a run for it and jumped back into my pickup," said Allen with a hearty chuckle. "You know I thought somebody ought to be left to tell the story."

The safecrackers were never found but the police later traced the cutting torch to a burglary job out on U.S. 60, and a car believed to have been used in the bank job was also recovered.

Though many years have passed Allen still loves to recall each move he made that night--"You see, the robbers had also broken open a second door that entered the main part from the utility room and as I eased through that door I first spotted a lot of cigarette butts lying around and for a moment I thought someone sure had been awful messy that day". A few moments later he found the damaged safe and cutting equipment.

To this day, Allen is still not sure whether it was he or the sirens of a fire truck that scared off the safe crackers--"You see about the same time that I was going into the bank there was a fire over on second street and the robbers may have thought it was the sirens coming after them."

The Community: Part 3

Why get involved?

Every time there's something going in town, it seems the same people are in charge. Year after year, the same folks support the Chamber of Commerce, serve on the United Way campaign, the city council and school board, work in the churches, civic clubs, other groups and other causes. The same faces are at every community function, doing their civic duty.

"It's a tight little club," some critics say. "They always want to be in charge of everything."

Maybe so. Or maybe if they don't do it, it would never get done.

Very likely, the reason most people work year after year to improve the community is that they care. They want a better place to live, and they're willing to work for it. They don't do it for control; they don't need glory. They're just willing to put their money where their mouths are in terms of time and effort. That's how we got things like our churches, YMCA, Senior Center, etc.

What about you?

Sure you've got business of your own that takes your time. So, in fact, do the people who spend their time working for the community--four YOUR benefit. In fact, some of the busiest people in town are the ones who get called on to do the most. Some of the most successful people are the most active volunteers.

Funny how that seems to work, isn't it?

Look around. There are plenty of causes you can get involved in; plenty of things that need doing. Decide what's important to you and get behind it. A community is built by people who work for the common good--and the club is open to all!

If you don't do it, it may not get done.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 16 years old and addicted. It's not drugs or alcohol. I'm hooked on soap operas. Please don't laugh. I'm totally serious.

When I was 14, my parents were divorced. I was so depressed I didn't want to go on living. My only relief was watching the soaps. "Days of Our Lives" was my favorite. Here was a world where everyone was glamorous, rich and polite. The evil people always got caught and punished. I liked that.

I imagined my parents as Victor and Angelica, always doing cruel things to each other and ruining people's lives. I created a role for myself as the heroine. It became so real to me that I stopped reading and did very little homework. My grades really went downhill.

Now I worry all day about what Julie is plotting against Victor. I am upset because it doesn't look as if Shane will get his memory back. For months, I agonized over whether Kayla would have a boy or a girl.

When report cards came out a few weeks ago, I had almost all Ds. Mom said she was going to take away my TV. I begged her not to, but she did it anyway. Now I feel as if I am all alone in the world. The thing I loved best is gone. I am writing with the hope that you will print my letter and ask my mom to give me back the most important thing in my life. -- Heartbreak in Milwaukee

DEAR MILWAUKEE: The most important thing in your life is to get back into the real world. Soap operas are fantasy that can provide a little relief from the anxieties of daily living, but they are not a permanent refuge. You need counseling to make the transition. I hope you get it. Please write again soon and let me know how things are going.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been reading you for years, and I know you truly try to help people, but once in a while you go off the deep end and do some damage. This is what happened last week.

You printed a letter from a woman who said it would mean so much to mothers if their daughters-in-law would let them have just a little time alone with their sons. The mother who wrote said that she has not seen her son alone for five minutes since he married, and she really missed that.

Well, my mother-in-law sent me that column in the mail. She could have handed it to me, because she lives within walking distance, but I guess she didn't have the nerve. I really became angry when I read that column, which I had read two days earlier in the Durham Morning Herald. I tried giving my mother-in-law private time with her son, but he got fed up listening to her complaints about everybody in the family and her constantly hitting him up for money. He gave me orders not to leave him alone with her for five minutes.

So, Miss Landers, please be a little more careful with your "one-size-fits-all" advice. I'm sure you hit the nail right on the head a lot of times, but when you miss, it's a beauty. -- A North Carolina Reader

DEAR N.C.: Sorry if I put you in a difficult spot, but I don't feel that your mother-in-law's mailing calls for any kind of a response.

Just carry on as always and follow your husband's instructions.

Feeling pressured to have sex? How well-informed are you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet "Sex and the Teen-ager." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

Program given on dyslexia

The Cultural Extension Home-makers Club met recently in the Hereford Senior Citizens Center with Marlene Watson presenting a program on dyslexia.

Perry Keyes introduced Watson and she commented that Dyslexia touches everyone in the family.

Edith Hunter served as hostess and Jewell Hargrave, president, called the meeting to order. Wilma Goettsch lead the TEAH prayer and pledges to the American and Texas flags were given. Hunter read the opening exercise on gossip.

Roll call was answered by "what I've learned about dyslexia." Edna Marnell read the minutes of the last meeting.

Byrdie Fellers received second place on a baby quilt displayed at the district meeting.

On April 20, the club will serve refreshments at Golden Plains Care Center birthday party.

Other members attending were Virginia Sumner, Vernis Parsons, Winnie Wiseman, and Jewell Rogers. Fannie Townsend will be hostess at the April 27 meeting.

The first inaugural ball was held in New York in 1789 in honor of President and Mrs. George Washington.

Church holding revival

Rev. H.W. Bartlett is speaking during the "Here's Hope" revival at the Dawn Baptist Church. The public is invited to the services each evening at 7 through Thursday.

Rev. Bartlett is the pastor of Temple Baptist Church in Hereford. He is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University and has served churches in New Mexico and Texas.

David Baulch is serving as the music evangelist for the revival.

Scholarship offered by club

The Toujours Amis Study Club is offering a scholarship to a qualified Hereford High School senior.

To apply, contact Patsy Giles, HHS counselor, for an application or Patti Brown at 364-1612 for more information.

CHILDREN PLANT TREES

Schoolchildren in 22 communities across Texas have planted 750 live oak trees to provide shade and pleasure for future generations.

"Project Live Oak" was launched soon after forestry officials discovered the historic, 600-year-old Treaty Oak here had been poisoned with a lethal chemical.

Jupiter is the fastest rotating planet in our solar system, spinning on its axis once almost every ten hours at its equator. A stationary object at its equator would be traveling at 27,720 miles per hour.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.14	2.80
2 days per word	.24	4.80
3 days per word	.34	6.80
4 days per word	.44	8.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

LEGAL NOTICES

THE STATE OF TEXAS

TO: Raymond Arredondo
Defendant, Greeting: You are hereby commanded to appear by filing a written answer to the Plaintiff's Petition at or before ten o'clock A.M. of the first Monday after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being Monday the 21 day of May 1990, at or before ten o'clock A.M. before the Honorable 222nd District Court of Deaf Smith County, Texas, at the Court House of said County in Hereford, Texas.

Said Plaintiff's Petition was filed in said court, on the 30 day of March A.D. 1990, in this cause, numbered CI-90C-022 on the docket of said court, and styled, City of Hereford Plaintiff, vs. Raymond Arredondo Defendant.

The names of the parties to the cause are as follows:
City of Hereford are Plaintiffs and Raymond Arredondo are Defendants
A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to wit:
Suit for order to declare premises described as Lots 7 & 8, in La Villa Subdivision to the Town of Hereford, Deaf Smith County, Texas a nuisance building and suit to authorize the City of Hereford to abate such nuisance by repair or demolition of the structure as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's Petition on file in this suit.

If this citation is not served within ninety days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved. The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.
Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Hereford, Texas, this the 2 day of April, A.D. 1990.

Attest:
Lola Faye Veazey Clerk,
District Court, Deaf Smith County, Texas.

MR. AND MRS. WES BROWN

Reception planned

Hereford residents, Wes and Helen Brown, will be honored at a reception from 2-4 p.m. Sunday, April 22, at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center, 426 Ranger.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the celebration in honor of the couple's 50th wedding anniversary.

The reception will be hosted by the couple's children and spouses: Verna and Ron Griffith of Park Rapids, Minn.; Judy and Ronnie Scruggs of Lubbock; and Ronnie and Nina Brown of Hereford.

Wes and Helen Brown were married in Clovis, N.M. April 16, 1940. They have lived in Minnesota, New Mexico, Hereford and Dimmitt.

RENAMING A CITY

NEW YORK (AP)—Sir Richard Nicolls, born in Bedfordshire, England, in 1624, changed this city's name from New Amsterdam to New York in 1664.

Nicolls, a cavalry soldier, was sent to America by James, Duke of York, to conquer the Dutch province of New Netherland and depose its governor, Peter Stuyvesant. Nicolls arrived with four armed frigates but the Dutch surrendered without a shot being fired.

Nicolls, who renamed the city to honor the Duke of York became governor in 1665 and granted the city its first charter. He returned to England in 1668.

An English highway boasts the smallest underpass in the world—a tunnel one foot wide which was constructed to permit badgers to get to the other side of the road.

Branding Iron Theatre presents "Cinderella"

The Branding Iron Theatre will conclude its 30th anniversary season with Gioacchino Rossini's comic masterpiece, "La Cenerentola," or as it is known in English, "Cinderella." Performances begin at 8 p.m. April 26, 27 and 28, and at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 29 in the Branding Iron Theatre on the West Texas State University campus.

The opera, translated into English by director Robert Hansen, tells the story of Cinderella in its European version and varies slightly from the fairy tale Walt Disney made famous. Although the wicked stepmother is replaced by a selfish baron, the fairy godmother is a wise magician-philosopher and the slipper is substituted for a bracelet, the familiar story line is the same and they all live happily ever after.

"Cinderella" was chosen because it is such a good vehicle for our singers, and because it has such enormous audience appeal," Hansen, production director and WTSU assistant professor of music, said. "The music is fast, lively and full of vocalism, presenting real challenges to the singers. We are fortunate to have sufficient depth of talent to be able to cast two singers on some roles, especially since the roles are difficult to sing."

The BIT production, sponsored in part by the Meadows Foundation, features guest artists Donald Hartmann and Ron Lloyd. Remaining cast members include Camille Day, a senior English major from Amarillo, as Cinderella; Alan Marshall, a graduate music major from Canyon, and Kevin Schaffer, a senior music major from Crane, as Prince Ramiro; Amy Beebe, a senior music performance major from Midland, as Florinda; Melody Beggech, a graduate music performance major from El Paso, as Thisbe; and Dan Hutchins, a junior music major from Farwell, as Alidoro.

The WTSU Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Gary Garner, will accompany the production.

Admission is $5 per person, and tickets will be sold in advance or at the door. Faculty, staff and students with WTSU identification will be admitted free.

Scholarship offered by board

The Hereford Board of Realtors will be presenting a $200 scholarship to a 1990 Hereford High School graduating senior.

Please send or bring all resumes to Marn Tyler, chairman of the scholarship award committee at 1100 West Highway 60.

All resumes must be received by May 1.

Harraman speaks to sorority

Genie Harraman, daughter of Cal Farley, presented a program about Boys Ranch to Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority members recently when they met in the home of Jaime Broman.

She spoke about the recent merging of Girlstown with Boys Ranch. Both organizations will continue to operate as separate entities but Girlstown would benefit from the extra strength provided by Boys Ranch.

Harraman has been a member of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority for 33 years.

President Janice Betzen reminded the 10 members to read the March Torch section on programs because programs would have to be ordered from International before May 31.

The current City Council representatives will be providing the salads for the May 14 salad supper.

Ruby Lee, service chairman, reminded members to meet for the 1990 American Cancer Society's Annual Crusade Drive on Sunday, April 29, at the Hereford Community Center at 1:30 p.m.

Paty Frerich opened baby shower gifts brought by members.

Members present were Betzen, Camille Beville, Wanda Huseman, Lee, Marrie Leverett, Dee Ann Matthews, Broman, Jane Meiwes, Frerich, and Donna Weaver.

Scholarship pageant planned

The Spearman Chamber of Commerce announces the inception of the Miss Palo Duro Area Scholarship Pageant. The pageant is a preliminary to the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant as well as the Miss America Pageant.

The Miss Palo Duro Area pageant will be held on Saturday, Aug. 4, 1990, at the Spearman High School auditorium. The winner will advance to the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant in Fort Worth in July, 1991.

Contestants must be a resident or employee of the State of Texas six months prior to the local pageant. She shall be 17 years of age by Sept. 1, and shall not be more than 26 years of age by that same date.

The Miss Palo Duro Area Pageant executive director is Sheri Benton. If interested in competing in the pageant, call 806-659-2441, or Brett Whitford at the Spearman Chamber of Commerce at 806-659-5555. Both numbers may be reached from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The contest is limited to the top 33 counties of the Texas panhandle.
