Republicans to okay colored platform

DALLAS (AP) - Republican convention delegates, fired by partisan rhetoric that portrayed Walter F. Mondale as the over-promising candidate of a failed past, were ready today to shout approval of a platform "wrapped in red, white and blue" and pledging to hold the line on taxes and assure victory in any future war.

Dissenters from the conservative planks on social issues and from the refusal to include even benign mention of the Equal Rights Amendment in the platform failed to muster the support to wage a floor fight. Delegates will hear the platform outlined at a morning session and then give their final approval tonight.

The Platform Committee finished action on the document on Monday. Panel chairman, Rep. Trent Lott of Mississippi, turned to White House liaison Drew Lewis and said, "I've got it all ready for you, Drew, wrapped in red, white and blue."

President Reagan watched his party's convention from the White House and worked on the speech he will deliver Thursday night when he and Vice President George Bush accept nomination for a second term.

In addition to adoption of the platform, tonight's schedule included speeches by former President Gerald Ford and Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas and his wife, Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole.

A likely competitor for the 1988

'Wrapped in red, white, blue'

GOP presidential nomination, Dole has been joking that he is pushing a Dole and Dole ticket. His wife often is mentioned as a top prospect to be the first Republican woman on the national ticket.

While speakers competed for who could get off the snappiest anti-Mondale lines, the hottest topic of conversation among delegates and onlookers was the financial disclosures made Monday by Geraldine Ferraro and her husband, realtor John Zaccaro. The couple paid about 40 percent of their income in taxes.

Encouraged by the Reagan campaign, delegates were talking up the possibility that Ms. Ferraro might be dumped as Democratic nominee for vice president.

"I'm suggesting she might not make it for the next few months," said Sen. Robert Kasten of Wisconsin. "She's no longer an asset, she's a detriment." Reagan political operative Lyn Nofziger said, "I don't think she's going to get by unless she does a lot more explaining."

A tough talking Democrat nearly stole the show at the convention's prime time debut Monday when U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, a conservative heroine, lashed the Democrats who nominated Mondale as the "blame America first crowd" on foreign policy.

While laced with attacks on the Democrats who met last month in San Francisco, GOP convention rhetoric also included bids for "mainstream" members of the opposition to cross party lines and support Reagan.

Keynote Katherine D. Ortega cited Mondale's rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination — Ernest F. Hollings, John Glenn and Reubin Askew — as examples of mainstream Democrats. And she quoted Gary Hart's description of the Mondale economic program as "a collection of old and tired ideas, held together by paralyzing commitments to special interests and constituency groups."

But while wooing Democrats, the Republicans faced dissenters within their own ranks over the platform.

"The far right controls the Republican Party," said Sen. Lowell Weicker of Connecticut. "This platform shows it."

Weicker led an unsuccessful effort by moderates to obtain enough signatures to carry their fight to the floor. "The numbers just weren't there," said Weicker.

Testing of herbicide underway in Austin

The Texas Department of Agriculture announced Friday evaluation of testing for 2,4-D damage in the Panhandle has begun at its Austin headquarters.

Meanwhile, an investigator from Vernon was in Friona Thursday and Friday checking out reports of a new wave of damage cotton farmers say drifted in with heavy rains the previous weekend.

The TDA said 15 state inspectors took part in the three-week investigation, traveling to the mobile office headquartered in Friona from as far away as San Antonio and Beaumont. A total of 117 separate complaints were investigated.

Investigator seeks other cotton damage

The inspectors also interviewed 57 licensed pesticide applicators and 30 licensed pesticide dealers, according to TDA officials. Al Hernandez of the agricultural and environmental sciences division is coordinating the investigation. Hernandez said his team is plotting on maps the acreage on which the 2,4-D was applied to grain crops, mostly wheat and sorghum. Cotton acreage affected by the drift is also being charted.

"We'll determine whether the 2,4-D was applied from the ground or from the air," Hernandez said.

"We're also checking wind directions and velocities, air temperatures and moisture on conditions at the time of the applications, because they have an impact on the extent to which 2,4-D volatilizes and moves around.

"In some cases," Hernandez added, "it appears the cotton was hit more than once. That means that more than one applicator may be responsible for causing damage to an individual farmer's crop."

TDA General Counsel Sam Biscoe said, "Application, or use, of 2,4-D in a negligent manner is a violation of the Texas Agricultural Code punishable by a suspension or revocation of pesticide applicators license, or of civil penalty of not less than $25 a day nor more than $50 per day for each day the license would have been suspended.

"For example, if the applicator's license was suspended for a year, we can accept a fine of up to $18,555 in lieu of suspension. Federal crop insurance does not cover losses due to pesticide damage, so reportedly affected producers are considering civil lawsuits against negligent par-

No comments made at gas hike hearing

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

No one showed up to comment Monday evening at a public hearing concerning a requested 7.7 rate hike increase by Energas Company.

Jack Mars, district manager at the Energas office in Hereford, attended the Hereford City Commission meeting in case any questions were posed. He was the only person in the audience, however, and not one of the city officials present said anything about the proposed rate hike.

Joe Reinauer sworn in to commission

"Gentlemen," said Dudley Bayne, city manager, "you're aware that this is just a formality we need to go through." On July 16, Hereford joined several other West Texas cities in calling for a 90-day suspension of the increase, which barring protests would have gone into effect Aug. 10.

Sixty-three towns lodged protests against the 7.7 percent rate hike proposal and formed a committee to combat Energas. Fred Poe, assistant city manager at Midland, is to chair the committee while Amarillo's Bill McMorries is to serve as rate consultant.

According to Bayne, the matter is to next be handled by lawyers in Austin.

Meanwhile Monday, Joe Reinauer was sworn in to replace Melvin Jayroe as commissioner for Place 2. A four-year member of the city's zoning commission, the 43-year-old Reinauer is the owner of Deaf Smith County Abstract. He also has some farming and ranching interests.

The one-minute oath of office ceremony was conducted by Wes Fisher, Hereford's mayor. The vacancy was caused when, last month, Jayroe moved to Amarillo.

Following his being sworn in, Reinauer was promptly nominated to serve on the Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District board of directors. That body is to meet tonight at 7:30 for a regularly-scheduled gathering.

City commissioners also Monday nominated Bill Johnson to serve on the planning and zoning commission. Johnson is secretary-treasurer of Plains Insurance Agency and former Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce president.

The city's 1984-1985 budget, according to Bayne, progressed without any major problems its first three months. Revenues as of July 31 stood at approximately $785,000, which represents about 24 percent of the $3.27 million expected to be collected this year.

Among expenditures, street maintenance ran over budget almost $13,000. Bayne pointed out, though, the $76,000-plus spent in that department will be the year's total.

In all, $874,546 - about 27 percent of what was budgeted - was spent for city matters from May through July.

Due to Labor Day falling on the first Monday of September, commissioners decided not to gather again until 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 17 in City Hall, 224 N. Lee Ave.

New Commissioner

Joe Reinauer, 43, was Monday evening sworn in as Hereford's new commissioner for Place 3. Conducting the ceremony is Mayor Wes Fisher.

The United Way of Deaf Smith County is to kick off its annual funding campaign Sept. 10 with a theme of "Caring More in '84."

James Self is president of the United Way, Jan Walsler vice president and B.J. Gilliland campaign chairman. There are to be eight division soliciting funds for the 10 United Way agencies, with the goal set at $128,150.

Inadvertently omitted from the list of division chairmen in Friday's Brand article were Terry Bromlow, chairman; and Butch White, vice chairman; of the new Pacesetter division.

Rodeo re-scheduled Sept. 14-16

The All-Girls Rodeo, canceled during Hereford Town and Country Jubilee Week because of heavy rains, has been re-scheduled for Sept. 14-16.

Bob Barrett, president of the Cowgirl Hall of Fame Rodeo Association, said there will be 7:30 performances Friday and Saturday evenings and a 2 p.m. Sunday show.

The rodeo is to be held at the Circle A Rodeo Arena at Westway, as originally planned. A reunion of members of the Women's Pro Rodeo Association is also expected to go off as originally planned at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center.

Barrett said he is still negotiating with country and western performer Red Steagall to give a concert and rodeo dance on Friday. He hoped to confirm that appearance by late today.

Mosquito spraying set Wednesday

The chemical malathion is to be sprayed aerielly over Hereford Wednesday morning, Hereford City Manager Dudley Bayne announced.

The substance is used to combat mosquitoes. "We hope it will be the last application," Bayne remarked, "but that depends on the rains." He said the recent wet weather has brought about an increased number of the blood-thirsty insects. The malathion is to be applied at dawn.

Domestic problems reported

Hereford police investigated five domestic disturbances on Monday, with no arrests resulting.

The four arrests which were made included two for no liability insurance and one for driving with a suspended license. The fourth person picked up was charged with public intoxication.

A tool box valued at $200 was taken from a pickup owned by Bill Devers of Route 4. The theft, for which police have no suspects, occurred in the Frist Baptist Church parking lot Monday evening.

More 'O Positive' blood needed

Mildred Fuhrmann, co-chairman of the Women's Division monthly blood drive, reported this morning the Coffee Memorial Bloodmobile is in urgent need of "O Positive" blood, as reserves of that type have been depleted.

She received the request from Bobby Thomas of the Amarillo agency. The bloodmobile is to be in Hereford from 4 to 6:30 p.m. Wednesday for the monthly drive at Hereford Community Center. All area residents, especially those with "O Positive" blood, are urged to give at that time.

Judge must step down

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Potter County Judge Ben Bynum, convicted of misapplication of funds, not only will have to give up his position, but also faces a maximum 50 years in prison on the felony convictions.

Bynum, 47, was grim and silent as the verdict was read Monday in the court of 47th State District Judge Miron Love.

A seven-woman, five-man jury deliberated about four hours before finding Bynum guilty on a five count indictment of misapplication of fiduciary funds. The felony convictions mean automatic removal from office.

The punishment phase was set for 9 a.m. today. Bynum, who said he will appeal the convictions, faces two to 10 years imprisonment on each of the five counts.

He was charged with misapplying contribution checks entrusted to him by the Citizens for Progress Committee, which was formed to promote passage of an $8.9 million bond issue for construction of a courts building and county parking.

He was accused of cashing checks amounting to $1,900, failing to keep a proper accounting of the money and failing to deposit proceeds from the checks in the bank.

Administrators to clean prisons

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Almost two centuries of "not so benign judicial neglect" of the nation's prisons led to sweeping reform orders by the courts, and now it is up to state officials to carry them out, says the judge who directed prison improvements in Texas.

"In effect, the Supreme Court of the United States and the lower courts subject to its jurisdiction are saying to you that the time has come for us to do less and for you to do more," Chief U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice told the 114th Congress of the American Correctional Association.

"In short, recent decisions by the Supreme Court have passed the ball to you instead of handing it back to us. I say, run with it," he said Monday.

Justice handled the Ruiz vs. Estelle prison overcrowding case in Texas that resulted in reforms in the Texas system.

He said federal judges, who have been drawn into similar suits nationwide, have not relished their role.

Sitter charged in infant's death

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An 11-year-old girl accused of torturing twins has been charged with delinquent conduct in the death of the 3-month-old boy.

Tarrant County Assistant District Attorney Dave Purcell said he filed the lesser charges of involuntary manslaughter, criminal negligence and injury to a child because of the lesser "burden of proof" required under the delinquency statutes.

"To prove murder, you have to have proof of intent of death," Purcell said Monday. "Proving intent is a problem in any criminal proceeding and is more difficult with juveniles."

The girl was charged Monday in the death of Jason Biglow, who died July 21 at John Peter Smith Hospital. He had suffered injuries to his head and body, the medical examiner's office ruled.

His twin sister, Jennifer, was hospitalized for similar injuries, but was released Aug. 15.

Mondale plan would cost jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, probing for Walter Mondale's weak points in key heartland states, is charging that a Mondale-backed bill to require use of U.S. parts in imported cars "would destroy far more jobs than it would save."

Reagan leveled the charge Monday as he ended two days of campaigning through three Midwestern states that could prove crucial in the Nov. 6 presidential election.

He then returned to W'fington to work on his acceptance speech today. He will travel to the Republican National Convention in Dallas today for his renomination and will deliver his acceptance speech Thursday.

Ken Khachigian, the speechwriter credited by many Reagan aides with the best understanding of the president's speaking style, traveled with him aboard Air Force One and was to meet privately with Reagan at the White House today to put the final touches on the address.

In Decatur, Ill., Reagan charged that Mondale's support of legislation that would require foreign automakers to incorporate U.S.-made parts in their cars could come back to haunt American farmers.

Galvin holds news conference

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — American IRA sympathizer Martin Galvin, who eluded security forces in Northern Ireland, appeared at a news conference here today, his hair dyed, and declared he had refused to bow to British "terrorism."

Flanked by leaders of Sinn Fein, the political wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, Galvin said an assault by police attempting to arrest him at an Aug. 12 rally in Belfast, Northern Ireland, had shown Americans "who are the real terrorists."

"If events like this do anything to shorten the time the British are on the Irish streets, then I am happy for that," Galvin, 34, said of the police charge in which a Roman Catholic man was killed and 20 people injured by police plastic bullets.

Galvin, publicity director of the New York-based Irish Northern Aid Committee, or Noraid, had defied a British ban on him entering Northern Ireland. He pledged today he would return whenever he wanted to the strife-torn British province.

The New York attorney, who escaped in melee at the rally, said he had been in the Irish Republic for the past "three or four days" visiting relatives.

Khrushchev's widow dies

MOSCOW (AP) — Nina Petrovna Khrushchev, widow of ousted Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev, has died, a Communist Party official said Tuesday.

An official at the Leninsky region branch of Moscow's Communist Party said Mrs. Khrushchev, who was born in 1900, died the night of Aug. 8-9.

She did not give the cause of death, but said that Mrs. Khrushchev was buried three or four days later next to her husband in Moscow's Novodevichy Cemetery.

The cemetery is the most prestigious burial place in the capital after the Kremlin Wall, where all other former rulers of the Soviet Union except Khrushchev are buried.

A death notice in the August 11 edition of Evening Moscow announced the death of Nina Petrovna Kukharchuk, as Mrs. Khrushchev was known before she married the country's future ruler in 1924.

Over her finances

Ferraro tries to gain approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Walter F. Mondale signaling support, Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro reached today to turn controversy over her finances into approval for the detailed disclosures of her family's millions.

Hoping to quell the uproar over family finances that has been building since her nomination last month at the Democratic convention, the New York congresswoman and her husband, real estate dealer John Zaccaro, released on Monday a detailed accounting of their income, assets and taxes. It put her net worth at $760,000 and that of her husband at $3,020,000.

Ms. Ferraro remained at home in Queens, N.Y., during the daylong accounting but was holding a news conference today to discuss the disclosures, which included:

— The couple paid about 40 percent of their income in taxes, more than many Americans in similar financial circumstances. They didn't have extensive tax shelters.

— They claimed to have inadvertently underpaid their 1978 federal taxes, and said they made the debt good Monday with a $53,459 check to the Internal Revenue Service.

— Their combined income from 1979 to 1983 was $866,443, about 60 percent of it from Zaccaro's businesses. Last year, he made $203,039 and she made $70,474.

— Apparently unbeknown to his wife, Zaccaro bought back the half-interest in a Manhattan building that she sold to repay illegal family loans made to her 1978 campaign for Congress. A statement said the transaction was proper, but needlessly complex.

Monday's disclosures, which exceeded the legal requirement, stood in a stack 1½ inches high: a 27-page report to the Federal Election Commission, the couple's separate federal income tax returns from 1979 to 1983, their 1978 joint return and four explanatory statements.

Delayed by reproduction problems and last-minute review by accountants, the release at a Georgetown hotel followed a week of intense speculation on the family's finances and debate over the issue's political impact.

ties.

The TDA said Friday that 95 percent of the affected acreage is irrigated land, where the real cost of production for cotton can exceed $300 per acre. Much of that crop will not be harvested this season, a TDA spokesman claimed.

Houston attorney Benton Musselwhite, who has been hired by area cotton farmers to file a class action lawsuit in their behalf, plans to be in Friona next Tuesday.

Musselwhite, who told farmers there are several possibilities for recovering damages to their cotton crops, played a role in the recent settlement of the Agent Orange case filed by Vietnam veterans.

D.L. Carmichael, owner of the Friona Farmers Coop cotton gin, said today that he has received more reports of a second round of damage than were investigated late last week by TDA inspector Bob Armstrong.

"I went out yesterday and found more damage that he did not see," Carmichael claimed. "At first we thought it was only about 1,000 acres, but now I believe it is twice that much."

Based on the TDA's first report, about 30,000 acres of cotton in Farmer, Deaf Smith, Castro and Randall counties was affected as well as fields in New Mexico. Parmer County farmers reportedly suffered the heaviest losses.

Bow For The Show

A bright bow was attached to the collar of this dog as its young owner prepared the animal for a pet show at the Westgate Nursing Home gazebo on Monday afternoon. Residents of King's Manor and Westgate were seated in the shaded structure as local children showed their pets, including dogs, cats, rabbits, and even a turtle and water dog. The animal action committee of the Women's Division sponsored the show.

Tanker which spilled oil awaits repairs today

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A British tanker that spilled 2.8 million gallons of oil into the Gulf of Mexico was awaiting repairs early today in a shipyard near the beaches where the goey mess washed up.

The Alvenus was towed stern first into the Todd Shipyard shortly before 9 p.m. Monday night, Coast Guard Lt. j.g. Larry Clark said. He said the vessel is scheduled to be lifted into dry dock in early September.

The tanker ruptured off the coast of Louisiana July 30, sending a heavy, tar-like substance toward the Texas coast. Much of it washed ashore on Galveston Island starting Aug. 3.

The 690-foot vessel was towed backward for fear the bow, which wrinkled like an aluminum can in the accident, would suffer further damage, Clark said.

"You usually don't see ships going backwards into port," Clark said. He said the ship was accompanied by five boats, including "one or two tugs that kind of act like its rudder."

Officials decided to let the tanker enter the shipyard after inspections determined it was no longer leaking, Clark said.

"The temporary patches that are on there are holding," Clark said. He said a diver hired by Alvenus Ltd., the ship's owner, and Coast Guard officers on a plane and ship concluded there was "no pollution coming off the ship."

Coast Guard officers who boarded the Alvenus said the vessel's owner, Alvenus Ltd., could be fined as much as $25,000 for "some apparent navigational safety inadequacies" aboard the ship, said Jim Robinson, port operations department chief in Port Arthur.

Meet Your Neighbor

By LINDA CAUDLE
Lifestyles Editor

In most organizations, one must be a member for several years before being considered for the office of President, but not in Hereford Newcomers Club. Since the membership consists entirely of newcomers to the community, office holders are also fairly new club members.

Carol Kelley, who joined the group in February, was elected president at the May meeting and has been making preparations during the summer for the beginning of the new club year next month. The first meeting is scheduled at 12 noon Thursday, Sept. 13, at the Hereford Country Club. The club normally meets for a luncheon on the second Tuesday of each month, but this first meeting will be an exception.

"We hope to get everyone who is new to Hereford involved in the club, and we hope to have speakers who can show us what Hereford has to offer," stated the young homemaker, who said that one of her favorite pastimes is visiting with and meeting new people.

She would like to have an interior decorator come and talk with the group of women, many of whom are young homemakers like herself, about decorating new homes or redoing older ones following a move.

Carol is also a member of Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. She has been involved in the sorority for three years, and was going to serve as president of her chapter in McAllen before the family decided to move to Hereford.

She and her husband, Mark, and their two children came here in June of 1983, living in an apartment and originally thinking they would only be here three months. They moved into their house on Pecan after deciding to stay in Hereford.

Mark, a food and industrial packager, operates the local branch office of American Packaging. The office began year-round operations almost a year ago, on Oct. 1, and Carol worked as a secretary there until a few weeks ago.

"It was interesting, but is nice not to have to work again," she noted. "I'm excited about being a housewife because I like to fill my days getting together with people and visiting." She is also enjoying being at home with her 5-year-old son, Gabriel, who will start kindergarten at St. Anthony's School next month, and her daughter, Colleen, who is 2 years old.

Carol, a native of Knox City, earned her degree in health and physical education, with a minor in psychology, at Texas A&M University and is K-12 certified. She did substitute teaching in Bryan-College Station for about 18 months.

Her husband, a native of Missouri, has his bachelor's degree in journalism with minors in English, history and political science from Texas A&M. He also earned a master's degree in horticulture there, and before joining American Packaging, he wrote for a newspaper in Temple and then a national agricultural newspaper.

The couple met in high school at Temple, and started dating while attending Temple Junior College. They were married seven years ago, and went to France and the Netherlands on their honeymoon. Mark had lived in France several years as a child. He and Carol have also been privileged to visit Hawaii on a trip they won through his company.

Carol said she is enjoying Hereford, although the family was in for a surprise their first winter. "We weren't used to cold weather," she noted. "We didn't have coats-just windbreakers-and I only had sandals." But as far as the people go, Carol added that "they are so outgoing and friendly. Anyone you meet is willing to help you out however they can. And I was amazed at how many clubs there are, if you want to get involved in the community."

With the many problems facing this nation, it is refreshing to see young people ready and willing to help bring about solutions to these pressing concerns. Enthusiasm and optimism have always been admirable qualities of American youth. Their vigor inspires all of us to do a better job in coping with problems.

Four-H'ers from all economic, ethnic and social backgrounds are helping clean-up and protect the environment and natural resources. The youth work to conserve energy, assist in agricultural production, and help improve health and nutrition habits of the community. In the process, 4-H'ers develop good citizenship and leadership traits and acquire skills that will help them in later life.

Youthful enthusiasm and energy combined with adult guidance and support and working together in a common purpose—that's the 4-H story today. County extension agents support the efforts of 4-H'ers, their parents, their leaders and alumni "to make the best better."

County extension agents encourage young people who have plenty of enthusiasm and adults who may wish to volunteer their time and talents to get involved in 4-H and help "make it happen."

Information on 4-H programs and activities is available at the county extension office.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Tennis two-a-days

Twenty-one report Monday

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

Twenty-one tennis players reported Monday for two-a-day workouts at Hereford High School for a week primarily filled with drills and conditioning in preparation for the 1984 fall season. Coaches Ruben Vargas and Pat Privett said they expect a good week of workouts, a week they hope will lead to a successful season. "We're going to have a good year," Vargas said. "We have a lot of sophomores out, and our season will depend on that. We've got a good group of them and just hope that they will be able to mature early." Privett is in his first year as a tennis coach.

"He's going to be a big plus for us," Vargas said.

At the start of Monday morning's workout, coaches told the team the main obstacles in Hereford's path were Lubbock schools Coronado and Monterey. Vargas said he would be especially pleased if the Herd could win doubles matches from Lubbock's teams.

"They (Coronado and Monterey) are extremely good," he said. "But you know, we can compete with them in doubles."

"You don't have to be outstanding players," Vargas told his team. "Just concentrate on the basics: the volleys, backhands and serves."

Privett said both coaches would drill their team in all areas of tennis, regardless of the cost. Privett told the team that being in good condition might make the difference in winning and losing a match.

"If it comes down to whether you think I'm a nice guy or if I can make you better tennis players, I'd rather make you better tennis players," he said.

Although 21 players reported for practice Monday, 22 originally were scheduled to participate in the program, according to Vargas. He said the large number out allowed room for the coaches to place the players in their best events.

"There's going to be sophomores practicing with seniors, but there also will be sophomores with sophomores," he said. "Don't take things personally when we put you in one place or the other. We're just trying to make you better tennis players."

Vargas said that when school starts on Sept. 4, the team probably would practice from 4-6 p.m. daily. The team practices from 8-10:30 a.m. and 2-3:30 p.m. this week.

The Whitefaces open the season Sept. 11 by hosting Amarillo.

Fans to see new faces at UT games this year

By JACK KEEVER Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — This year, a possible banner year for attendance, Texas Longhorn football fans really will have to buy a program to tell the players.

"We expect to play and compete from the word go. Offensively and defensively, we feel like we're always going to play good football," but we've got new guys out there, new faces," said Coach Fred Akers.

Texas, ranked No. 5 last season after losing to Georgia 10-9 in the Cotton Bowl, said goodbye to 28 lettermen, including three All-Americans.

A fourth All-American, safety Jerry Gray, and all-Southwest Conference tackle Tony Degrate return to a defense that ranked No. 1 nationally but lost eight starters.

"We're not going to be as flawless defensively as we were," said Akers, "but it took us four years to build that defense that we had out on the field last year."

"It's the same with our offensive line," said Akers. "We furnished the NFL quite a lot of talent in that offensive line."

Returning on offense are eight players who started at least two games, including quarterbacks Rob Moerschell and Todd Dodge. Also returning are receivers Brent Duhon, who caught five touchdown passes, and Bill Boy Bryant, who grabbed three scoring tosses. Top rusher Ronnie Robinson, who ran for 479 yards and averaged 5.9 yards a carry is also back again.

Texas has an attractive home schedule this year, and could break its attendance average of 73,947, which was set in 1982. Home games include Auburn and SWC opponents Arkansas, Southern Methodist, Houston and Texas A&M.

Season ticket orders have been so high that all five home games may be a sellout at around 80,000 a game.

Football fans, Akers said, will "have a chance to see a lot of new ones that they don't know anything about."

The coach mentioned a few and was asked about others, such as tailbacks Norman Nunn, Anthony Byerly and Michael Brown; defensive ends Thomas Aldridge, Newt Harrell and Kip Cooper; quarterback Bret Stafford; fullback Jerome Johnson; offensive linemen Bryan Chester, Steve Eargle, Rick Houston and Paul Jetton; and defensive backs Tony Griffin, Steven Braggs and Tony Tillmon.

Nunn also is expected to return kicks, and Akers said, "We really are anxious to see Norman."

Nunn, a transfer from Navarro Junior College in Corsicana, where he was an All-American, is the shortest player in the SWC at 5-foot-6. "He's not little, he's just short," said Akers. "He weighs 187 pounds. He's pretty substantial, and quick — he really is quick. He's got ability. He's tough."

Although Akers indicated he would use his experienced quarterbacks in the early games, he said Stafford, a redshirt freshman who was a blue-chip recruit, "is capable of making big plays."

Jetton, another redshirt freshman, "is going to be a fine, fine offensive lineman," said Akers. "When he gets a little experience under his belt, he's going to be a good one."

Cooper is another junior college transfer, and Akers said, "Our program takes an adjustment, but I'll tell you, he's a good football player." Chester "is ready to play," Akers said, and Aldridge "has a chance to be a very good defensive end."

A third knee operation Aug. 13 for tailback Edwin Simmons, who showed great promise in brief appearances as a freshman, clouds his future.

As for the inexperience of his young squad, Akers said, "I wish I had nothing but fifth-year seniors."

Quarterback key to Mustangs' success in '84

One of a series
By DENNEH. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist, which has enjoyed championship seasons and national recognition the past three years, could be among the Southwest Conference elite again if quarterback Don James can produce like Coach Bobby Collins believes he can. "Don made tremendous strides in spring training," said Collins. "Of course, he hasn't had much experience in games that count, but I think he's going to be a good one." James patiently waited on the bench while Lance McIlhenny became the winningest quarterback in SWC history. Whenever James made an appearance, the Mustangs usually had the game out of reach.

However, James showed a knack for moving the team and displayed passing talent that McIlhenny, who has graduated, didn't possess.

"We're going to be able to open up our offense more with Don in there because he does have an excellent arm," said Collins. "And he's not afraid to run with it either and has much more speed than Lance. He just has one thing money can't buy, and that's experience."

James has the enviable duty of handing the ball off to Reggie Dupard, who rushed for over 1,000 yards last year, and Jeff Atkins, who came close to that magical figure in 1983.

Also, the Mustangs boast a swift corps of receivers led by Ron Morris, and a beefy, experienced offensive line headed by center Chris Jackson and guard Andrew Campbell.

Collins is 21-2-1 overall and 14-1-1 since he became head coach.

"We have a young group of players, but with two successful recruiting years, we believe we have the athletes who can meet the challenge," said Collins.

SMU opens with two relatively easy non-conference foes in Louisville and Noth Texas State, giving James a low-pressure test early.

The Mustangs then host Texas Christian at home before playing Baylor in Waco on Oct. 13.

Defensively, the Mustangs would appear down — on paper. Last season, they had the No. 2 ranked defense in the nation.

Now they've lost All-America defensive back Russell Carter and noseguard supreme Michael Carter, plus a bevy of solid defenders.

However, linebacker Anthony

Beverly, an Associated Press All-SWC selection, and cornerback Reggie Phillips return to anchor what should be another scrappy defense.

Tailback Gary Hashaway has been moved to fullback in one of Collins' big off-season changes and Hashaway responded with excellent blocking in the spring.

Only Nebraska's Mike Rozier averaged more than Dupard's 6.3 yards per carry last year. His rushing total of 1,249 yards was third-best ever at SMU and set an SWC record for most yards by a sophomore. Atkins rushed for 937 yards, best-ever by an SWC freshman. He beat Earl Campbell's 1974 total of 928.

"We'll make mistakes, but I believe we'll be exciting," said Collins. "It looks like one of the most competitive conference championship races yet. Every team has some gifted players."

Local team wins Plainview tourney

Hereford's old "El Monterrey" softball team won First Place at the annual Golden Corral Softball Tournament in Plainview.

The team won games by the counts of 13-10, 14-3, 10-9, and 6-5 to rein over all other competitors.

Members of the winning team are: (coach) Rick Castaneda, Richard Moya, Armando Torres, Ruben Vargas, Andres Lopez, Richard Rodriguez, Felix Mungia, Lonnie Perez, Jesus Lopez, Jerry Smith, William Flores, Jim Scott, "Audie" Mancillas and scorekeeper Carmen Castaneda.

The team is sponsored by B&B Liquor Store.

Working On Kicking

Hereford High School football players began two-a-day workouts Monday, concentrating on the kicking game, agility and conditioning. Kickers and punters worked on duties much of the day. Decisions on a kicker and punter are to be made later in practice. Coach Jerry Taylor said 75 athletes turned out for practice Monday, but the number was 18 short of what he expected.

Volleyball

Herd 2-2 at Lubbock

Girl volleyball players at Hereford High School last weekend improved their record to 2-4 by earning a split in the Lubbock Tournament Friday and Saturday.

"Our girls played phenomenal ball all weekend," coach Cindy McMillan said. "They never quit."

The Herd lost its opening match in straight games to Abilene High School, 15-11 and 15-11. However, the girls earned their way to the consolation game by defeating Lubbock Dunbar and Lubbock Estacado.

Andrews was champion of the 16-team tourney, going undefeated in the two-day affair.

"I was pleased," McMillan said, "finishing fourth out of 16 teams."

Monahans defeated Hereford Saturday for consolation by the scores of 15-4 and 15-3.

Cindy Pruitt lead Hereford spikers against Abilene with nine points. Pruitt also had eight against Dunbar and four against Monahans.

Other top scorers for Hereford were Nancy Moreno with seven against Dunbar and Elida Acosta with 11 against Estacado.

Hereford is in action again Thursday night when the girls travel to Levelland for two games beginning at 6:30 p.m. They also must travel to Dumas Sept. 4 before returning home to host Pampa Sept. 6 in games beginning at 6 p.m.

Turnout labeled good in tennis tournament

Entrants were plenty in the YMCA Deaf Smith County Closed Tennis Tournament last weekend as players competed in the adult division, Weldon Knabe said.

The general director of Hereford and Vicinity YMCA said a few divisions were not contested, however.

"We had a good turnout," he said. "A couple of divisions didn't have enough people enter, and the players just didn't want to compete in a higher division."

Results indicated Hereford High School tennis coach Ruben Vargas as winner of the men's singles crown. In the same division, the consolation match is yet to be played. Jason Bodner is to meet David Zinser later this week, Knabe said.

Lana Kosub won women's singles. She won four sets to Markay White's two sets in the round robin match. White was second and Vicki Veigel was third.

Vargas was a double winner in the tournament. For the second victory he joined with Jesse Castaneda to defeat David Zinser and Jerry Morgan for the men's A doubles title. Vargas and Castaneda won in straight sets, 6-3 and 7-6.

In men's B doubles, Dorman Smith and Rodney Neumayer defeated Raymond White and Terry Langehennig for first place. It took three sets, but Smith and Neumayer prevailed 6-3, 3-6, 7-6.

The women's double crown went to J. McWhorter and Gay Roberts. In a round robin, McWhorter and Roberts won six sets to outdistance Jenny Cassels and Markay White.

Jerry and Teri Morgan won mixed doubles. They defeated Max Moss and J. McWhorter 6-3, 6-2.

Padres zap Mets before huge crowd

By MIKE CLARK
AP Sports Writer

One of the few raps against the San Diego Padres this season has been a perplexing inability to win in front of a big home crowd. So much for that bugaboo.

Before 50,869 lured into San Diego's Jack Murphy Stadium for the game and a fireworks display, the Padres rode the pitching of Eric Show and Rich Gossage to a 3-1 victory over the New York Mets Monday night.

Show, 13-7, took over the team lead in victories while helping San Diego snap a three-game losing streak.

Show gave up five hits in eight innings, but called it a night after walking Darryl Strawberry to open the ninth. Gossage earned his 23rd save with four pitches, getting George Foster to ground into a double play and then blowing Hubie Brooks away for the final out.

"Babe Ruth couldn't have hit those sliders he was throwing tonight," Brooks said.

"A lot of people have been saying that we can't win in front of a big crowd, but I think we proved them wrong tonight," said Ozzie Virgil, the Padres' third-base coach who is acting as manager while Dick Williams sits out a 10-game suspension.

The victory maintained San Diego's nine-game lead over Atlanta in the National League West while New York slipped four games in back of Chicago, a 6-1 winner over Houston, in the NL East.

In other games Monday, Atlanta got by Pittsburgh 4-1 in 10 innings, St. Louis outscored Cincinnati 9-7, Philadelphia beat San Francisco 6-4, and Montreal shaded Los Angeles 3-1.

Cubs 6, Astros 1

Left-hander Steve Trout, 11-5, equaled his career high for victories in a season, but the outing was not without incident. Trout gave up six hits and seven walks, and twice in the first four innings had to pitch out of bases-loaded jams. The only Houston run scored in the fourth on a double-play ball.

Ron Cey slugged a three-run homer and Keith Moreland drove in three runs with a pair of singles as Chicago snapped Houston's longest winning streak in three years at nine games. Bob Knepper, 12-9, took the loss.

Braves 4, Pirates 1

Brad Kommsink broke up a 1-1 game in the 10th with a two-out double and Alex Trevino followed with a two-run single as Atlanta marked Manager Joe Torre's return from a three-game suspension. Torre was penalized for his role in the San Diego-Atlanta beanball war Aug. 12.

In the 10th, Dale Murphy reached on a force play and moved to second on Chris Chambliss' single before Kommsink dropped a double inside the left-field line. Ken Oberkfell was walked intentionally and Trevino followed with his single to hand reliever Kent Tekulve his ninth loss in 11 decisions. Reliever Gene Garber, 2-2, got the win.

Cardinals 9, Reds 7

Pitcher Dave LaPoint drove in three runs, rookie Terry Pendleton doubled in two and Darrell Porter slammed a two-run homer to key the Cardinals' 15-hit assault. LaPoint knocked in runs with a groundout, a single and a sacrifice fly before being lifted during a three-run Reds uprising in the fifth. Jeff Lahti, 4-2, pitched the final 3 2/3 innings.

Ozzie Smith, making his first appearance since a broken wrist put him on the disabled list July 13, tripled to start the Cardinals fourth off Reds starter Jay Tibbs, 2-1. Smith scored on LaPoint's single, and Pendleton's two-run double capped the uprising. An inning later, Porter drilled his 10th homer and LaPoint added a sacrifice fly.

Cesar Cedeño had a two-run homer and Dave Parker a solo shot for Cincinnati.

Phillies 6, Giants 4

Al Oliver, traded by San Francisco

on Monday morning, came back to haunt his old club only 10 hours later, stroking a two-run double that climaxed a five-run Philadelphia uprising.

John Russell opened the Philadelphia second with a double off Giants starter Mark Calvert, 2-4, who then hit Ivan DeJesus with a pitch. Russell and DeJesus advanced on a sacrifice bunt and came home on a double by Juan Samuel. One out later, Von Hayes singled to score Samuel, Mike Schmidt reached on an infield hit and Oliver finished things with a two-run double to left-center.

John Denny, 6-3, allowed only two hits in six innings, but headed for the showers when Bob Brenly hit a three-run homer in the seventh. Larry Andersen pitched 2 1/3 innings in relief before Al Holland got his 27th save by getting the final out.

Expos 3, Dodgers 1

Bill Gullickson, winless in eight previous decisions against Los Angeles, finally beat the Dodgers by scattering seven hits over eight innings. Gary Lucas pitched the ninth for his eighth save. It was Montreal's sixth consecutive victory and the third straight defeat for the Dodgers.

"It took me five years, but I finally beat them," said Gullickson, 9-7. "I pitched some bad games and lost, and pitched well and still lost."

Gullickson missed a shutout when Pedro Guerrero hit a solo homer in the fourth.

Dan Driessen's two-out, two-run single in the fourth inning put the Expos on top to stay against Dodger starter Orel Hershiser, 8-6, who hurt his own cause with three wild pitches.

Daytime World Series possible

Baseball could lose $1 billion

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Those nocturnal beasts of baseball — owners with black ink in their veins — are on the prowl again. Their intended prey: the day-feeding Chicago Cubs.

With the Cubs holding a slim lead in the National League East, baseball stands to lose a bundle as it faces the prospect of midweek playoff and World Series games in daylight for the first time in a decade.

Some reports place the figure at as much as $700,000 per team in lost television revenues should that happen.

It's a sad story, but it was written by baseball. This time, the networks seem to be getting too much of the blame for exerting pressure on the Cubs that is coming, in fact, from baseball's ownership.

It seems that baseball's $1 billion contracts with NBC and ABC, struck last year, contain rebate clauses. Baseball must return some of the money if playoff and World Series games normally played in prime time are moved to daytime. Thus, owners have begun a campaign to get those games played at night.

"The influence is money itself," said one source. "They (the owners) struck this deal, and now they realize what's at stake."

Since the Cubs do not have lights at Wrigley Field, as many as five playoff and six World Series games could be held during the day. Under the six-year television contract, ABC will telecast the playoffs this year and NBC the World Series.

The baseball commissioner's office admits that alternatives are being studied in case the Cubs go all the way. Such alternatives might include the installation of lights at Wrigley Field or transferring the games to another site, like Comiskey Park, where the White Sox play, or Milwaukee County Stadium, if the White Sox should get into the playoffs.

The simplest alternative, if one becomes necessary, might be to alter the schedule to allow the playoffs and Series to begin outside of Chicago, thus eliminating some of the week-day games at Wrigley Field.

"Obviously it's a bit of a different situation as far as Chicago is concerned," says Chuck Adams of the commissioner's office. "We're examining all scheduling alternatives. Nothing is final at this point, and so far there is no conclusion."

Temporary lighting might present a logistical problem, since Wrigley Field is located in a residential area and there isn't a lot of room for light towers. But representatives of both networks said it would be possible — that it has been done in college football, for example. One hurdle cleared, there's also the problem of an Illinois state law and a city ordinance effectively banning lights at Wrigley Field.

A citizen's group call CUBS (Citizens United for Baseball in the Sunshine) lobbied vehemently for the local statutes against lights and certainly would also strongly oppose moving the Cubs for postseason play. A shift in venues seems the least likely of all alternatives. It would be unfair not only to the team but also to fans who have waited since 1945 to see the Cubs win a pennant.

Local efforts to keep owners from tinkering with the schedule have drawn wide-ranging support.

Oakland pounded in Detroit assault

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

It was a super game in what has been a super season for the Detroit Tigers.

Lance Parrish and Chet Lemon each blasted two-run homers and Darrell Evans had a solo shot to back the combined five-hit pitching of Jack Morris and Dave Rozema as the Tigers belted Oakland 14-1 Monday night.

The Tigers, runaway leaders of the American League East, collected a season-high 20 hits and even forced the A's to use infielder Mark Wagner on the mound for the final 1 2/3 innings.

"I've played 15 years and never been in this situation before, and that's why I came here in the first place," said Evans, who joined the Tigers as a free agent this season and has been a part of their divisional romp — Detroit has a 10 1/2-game lead on Toronto. "I think I've done a lot to help this club."

Morris, 16-8, also has done plenty. He tied St. Louis' Joaquin Andujar for the most wins by any major-league pitcher, giving up only three hits in seven innings.

Oakland's Wagner relieved Chuck Rainey in the seventh after Manager Jackie Moore asked for volunteers.

"In the sixth inning, he went around and asked who wanted to pitch," recalled Wagner, a former Tiger, who surrendered two hits, walking one and striking out Johnny Grubb. He did not allow a run. "I went up and told him I'd go a couple of innings. When I was a little kid, I always wanted to pitch in Tiger Stadium. It was fun."

Elsewhere, it was Baltimore 5, Seattle 4; Kansas City 8, Boston 5; New York 8, California 4, and Chicago 7, Texas 5.

Orioles 5, Mariners 4

Rookie Mike Young belted a pair of homers and the Orioles held on to edge visiting Seattle. Young, who homered leading off the first and third innings, has 15 home runs for his last 15 games. The triumph was the fourth in a row for the defending World Champions.

Royals 8, Red Sox 5

George Brett singled off the Fenway Park wall to knock in three runs in the second inning, but injured his left hamstring running to first base and left the game. He'll be out on a day-to-day basis.

Starter Mark Gubicza, 9-9, surrendered all five Boston runs on solo homers by Mike Easler and Rich Gedman and a three-run blast from Marty Barrett. But relievers Joe Beckwith and Dan Quisenberry, who picked up his 33rd save, closed the door as Kansas City moved into a tie for second in the West with California, 4 1/2 games behind Minnesota.

Yankees 8, Angels 4

Joe Cowley finally is making his mark in the majors after eight seasons of minor-league duty and 52 1/3 innings of work for Atlanta in 1982. Cowley struck out 13 Angels — including Reggie Jackson three times — as New York, which has scored 25 runs in its last three games, cruised.

"I never try for strikeouts," explained the 26-year-old Cowley. "But when you look up and you've got two strikes on so many hitters, you just have to go for the third."

Bobby Grich and Rob Wilfong homered for California.

White Sox 7, Rangers 5

Greg Walker hung in on Charlie Hough's knuckleball, then deposited a fastball into the seats for a three-run homer to pace Chicago. Richard Dotson, 13-10, won for only the second time in eight starts since the All-Star break.

"I don't try to overswing on knuckleballers," Walker said. "I got ahead of him and he threw a fastball inside."

Walker was ejected in the eighth for arguing a third strike.

"I didn't say anything to get thrown out of the game. I kicked dirt in frustration, not at him (home plate umpire Steve Palermo)," he explained.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., has filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) a proposal to reduce intrastate, interLATA long distance revenues to offset proposed increases in specialized service rates for private line, WATS, 800, OCC facilities and directory assistance services. The proposed tariff restructure will not result in any increases in the overall revenues of the Company. The proposed effective date for the tariffs is September 20, 1984. All customers and classes of customers will be affected by this filing.

The restructure in the basic long distance service (MTS) results in an overall decrease in the revenues received by the Company from such service of approximately $100 million. While this proposed restructure results in an overall decrease in revenue, certain MTS rates are proposed to be increased to more nearly recover the access charges approved by the PUC for such service.

AT&T Communications has also filed restructured tariffs designed to more closely recover access costs for private line, DATAPHONE* Digital Service (DDS), OCC facilities, WATS, 800 and directory assistance services. These restructured tariffs result in an approximate overall revenue increase of approximately $100 million from increases in its WATS, 800, DDS, OCC facilities and private line rates, and institution of a charge for directory assistance.

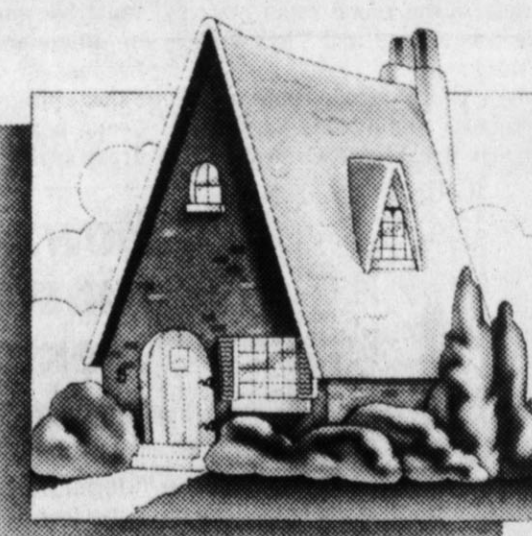

The result of these proposed tariff changes and the restructure of our service offerings is to more nearly recover access costs from those services for which such access costs are incurred.

This proposed restructure results in no increase in overall revenue to AT&T Communications and is not a major rate change as that term is defined in Section 43(b) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act.

A complete copy of all tariffs and rate schedules is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Shortline train ends an era in West Texas

ROSCOE, Texas (AP) — It's the end of the line for the Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific.

It was deregulation that derailed the shortline railroad, which for more than three-quarters of a century carried freight along its 31 miles of track between Roscoe and Snyder.

The RS&P never reached the Pacific, missing the west coast by 1,700 miles, despite the ambitious plans of the founders. Nevertheless, the railroad was known on both coasts and reserved itself a spot in West Texas history.

"God, I hate to close her down," said Roger Mize, chairman of the board of the railroad. "But you can't argue with economics — you can't sit there and lose $100,000 a month."

The RS&P made its last run in June. For all practical purposes, the railway is closed, Mize said, though there still are loose ends to tie up.

The coming of deregulation of the railroad industry signaled the downfall of the RS&P, Mize said. With deregulation came discounts offered by the major railroads and the RS&P could not compete.

Mize said the railway lost $850,000 in its last eight months of full operations. It cost the company $104 to deliver $100 worth of freight, he said.

"There comes a time when you've got to make a decision you don't want to make," he said.

That time came for the RS&P back in the spring of 1983. For years prior to that time, however, the RS&P earned its keep by hauling freight from the Texas & Pacific tracks in Roscoe to the Santa Fe tracks in Snyder and vice versa. A string of sales representatives across the nation drummed up business for the shortline railroad.

Agents would arrange to transport goods on either the Santa Fe or Missouri Pacific (MoPac) tracks and then transfer the goods to the other railroad via the RS&P. Agents were stationed in Atlanta, Birmingham, Ala., Chicago, Dallas, Houston, Los Angeles, Memphis, Tenn., Oakland, Pittsburgh, Washington, D.C., and other cities. Their efforts to attract business for the RS&P also benefited Santa Fe and MoPac since cars had to be routed on their tracks to get to Roscoe and Snyder.

"They were willing to give us freight because they were making money off of us," he said. Also, the RS&P's percentage of the revenues was "just peanuts" to Santa Fe and MoPac. The revenues, however, were good enough for Mize and the Murchisons of Dallas, who purchased the railway in 1967 from the Wooten family of Abilene.

Mize said the railway pulled in $1 million to $1.6 million a year before taxes in the years before deregulation.

The Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific died without ceremony. The last freight run was on June 13, said Jack Collins, company vice president. That last trip came exactly 76 years and one day after train service between Roscoe and Snyder began.

An orange-striped black engine occasionally will ramble on the tracks alongside U.S. Highway 84, but its only chore will be to pick up railroad cars to be returned to their owners, Collins said.

The yellow boxcars with the red RS&P logo will continue to sit idly on the tracks until the pre-paid leases run out and they are returned to their owners. Eventually the engines and finally the tracks will be sold. The railroad's right-of-way will be sold either to the highway department or adjacent landowners, Mize said.

Even though the RS&P is no longer operating, it and its effect on West Texas will be remembered. Amid rumors of expansion by Santa Fe, plans were laid for the RS&P, connecting the east-west Texas & Pacific with Snyder, and then proceeding westward. When Santa Fe delayed building its line from Lubbock to Coleman, the RS&P became a reality.

On Oct. 6, 1906, the state granted a charter for the RS&P. Gen. F.W. James, an educator and financier, was the founder of the railroad, but Edward S. Hughes, a steamship line owner, and H.O. Wooten, an Abilene wholesale grocer, were instrumental in its early days.

Shortly after work began on the railroad on June 6, 1907, financial problems forced the original contractors to drop out of the project. Hughes and Wooten refinanced the railroad and work resumed.

Residents of Roscoe, a town formed when the Texas & Pacific crossed West Texas, did not wait until the RS&P was completed to celebrate the town's second railroad. After three miles of track were laid, townspeople traveled via flatcars pulled by mules to the end of the line for a party. Thus, passenger service unofficially began on the RS&P.

The addition of an engine made hauling materials to the construction site easier. However, the budget was so tight there was no "Y" built so the engine could turn around. Therefore, it had to back back to Roscoe.

The RS&P reached Snyder on June 12, 1908, four years before Santa Fe, and daily service was started immediately. For the first time in its 24-year history, Snyder had rail service. Plans were to extend the line to the New Mexico border, but the closest the RS&P came to the Pacific was at a point 50 miles northwest of Roscoe.

There, at the end of the line, the community of Light, relocated itself and became known as Fluvanna. Fluvanna was the second town to relocate itself next to the railroad. Earlier, the town of Wheat moved itself a couple of miles to the tracks and became Hermleigh.

The railroad had frame depots at Wastella, Hermleigh, Dermott, and Fluvanna, and separate freight and passenger depots at Snyder. The RS&P shared a depot with the T. & P. at Roscoe.

Wooten, who was president of the line from 1933 until 1947, kept the line rolling and ensured a large freightload by shipping goods for his grocery stores on the RS&P.

Passenger service flourished for nearly two decades and token passenger service between Roscoe and Snyder continued until 1953. During the last days of passenger service, passengers rode in the cabooses. The RS&P made one last passenger run in 1976, carrying people between Hermleigh and Snyder as part of the country's Bicentennial celebration.

In 1941, service to Fluvanna was discontinued and rails were taken up and used as scrap metal for the war effort. Despite the discontinuation of service to Fluvanna and the demise of passenger service, the RS&P continued to prosper by hauling freight. All kinds of cargo, from beer to explosives, have been carried on the RS&P tracks.

In the early days with a heavy load, there would be an engine on the front of the train and one on the back, Collins said. The engineer at the back was told to "let the head man do the braking, just open the throttle and keep pushing," he said.

Those days passed with the coming of stronger engines. In 1956, the last steam engine, old No. 5, was retired and the conversion to diesel was completed less than a decade after the line's first diesel engine was purchased.

In the past five years, long distance telephone companies have redefined the long distance industry. Here's why:

Competition for the long distance dollar is completely redefining the market. With the breakup of the Bell System on January 1, 1984, the courts ruled that MCI, Sprint, NTS Communications and others could compete equally with AT&T for long distance revenue. Time should eventually bring competition to all communities.

Here's how you can take advantage of this phenomenal growth.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Not all stress leads to problems

DEAR DR. LAMB — For the past several months I have experienced a prickly, tingling sensation of heat in my feet and hands. My doctor, who is an internist, referred to this condition as paresthesia due to stress.

If this is caused by stress, wouldn't it go away occasionally? Could the physician offer some type of medication or help? I feel that everyone today has some type of stress. How would you suggest overcoming or avoiding stress? My physician recommended exercise; however, this is not always possible since I work full time, keep house and take care of a handicapped person.

DEAR READER — Stress can produce a variety of symptoms, but it is always wise to have a medical opinion to avoid missing a medical problem that needs treatment.

Yes, most people are subject to mental stress. But that is not all bad. Stress is what makes a personality grow. A child is under stress when he learns table manners, but after has mastered them he no longer experiences stress from them. Life is a series of stresses because stress is characterized by "change" and "threat."

When the stress is at a level that you can handle it that is healthy. But when the stress is more than you can handle, it causes symptoms. The trick in life is to pace yourself so that your stress exposure is within tolerable limits.

That is where exercise, avoiding coffee, tea, colas, cigarettes and alcohol become important. A good diet, adequate sleep and some meaningful goals that you enjoy become important. We are talking about a lifestyle to help cope with stress.

I have outlined the lifestyle factors for stress in The Health Letter 20-12, Living With Stress, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Physical stress and mental stress have a lot in common. You develop a muscle by using it. Within limits, the more it is stressed, the stronger it gets. If you overdo it, you can even damage the muscle. But, clearly, physical stress is the way to develop a muscle.

He has told me many times that one of these days he is going to get even with all those "idiots" out there and kill somebody. I realize that people do stupid things, but I don't believe anyone deserves to be ground up like hamburger under the wheels of a truck just because he did something dumb.

I was shocked to learn that some of my husband's colleagues are of the same mind. They, too, he says, are waiting for a chance to "get" some jackass who has given them a hard time.

Last week, my husband chased a small truck with every intention of smashing into it because the driver was guilty of a traffic violation. My husband got a speeding ticket before he caught the small truck. Thank God.

Longhorn cattle media stars of convention

DALLAS (AP) — The longhorn steers are ambling along peacefully enough when something suddenly spoofs them.

There's no threat of a stampede, though. They're getting used to it. They just stop and stare for a moment and then give a wide berth to the television crew squatted on the ground, getting a little more footage for the station's coverage of the Republican National Convention.

"This would be a real boring convention without this," said John Ball as he watched the longhorns emerge from the temporary corral by the banks of the Trinity River.

Ball, a longhorn breeder and touter, helped organize the daily cattle drives to give folks a look at a bit of Texas history and to entertain the convention delegates and the news media.

"Without this, all you'd have is the hippies and a lot of parties with people in three-piece suits standing around eating little pieces of food," Ball said.

About 150 longhorn steers are herded along the river, from their camp just west of downtown Dallas to across from the shiny glass Hyatt Regency hotel. It's a two-hour round trip.

"Isn't that a party sight?" Ball mused. The steers have fallen into a steady rhythm, their gracefully curved horns bobbing as they walk.

It's easy to forget what century it is.

If you turn just so, with the Dallas skyline at your back and the cars on Sylvan Avenue out of sight, all you see over the ears of the horse is the herd, a cowboy on a dun gelding and a cloud of trail dust.

"Stop and think how many kids have been born in Dallas in the last 15 years that have never seen a cow walkin'," says Ball, who has realized his "childhood dream" of owning a ranch.

"We could do the same job with four pickups," Ball said with a laugh. That, however, would not do for the television crews. Monday, about a half dozen came along for some footage.

When the cowboys stop the herd to rest in the shade beneath an overpass, a television reporter pleads with them to yell "Head 'em up and move 'em out" for the camera. The cowboys demurred.

"But they won't go unless you do. That's the way it is in the movies," argued a cameraman.

"Hoo-cow" and "hee-yah" are more likely, but the good-natured cowboys finally performed.

"Nothing's real anymore," Ball observed.

Ball says most reporters and visitors who come by to see the herd ask the same question: "How long are the horns?" The longest are about 7½ feet, tip to tip, he said.

Longhorns are relatively gentle. "They just look dangerous," Ball says.

A steer breaks off from the herd and heads into a small grove of reedy trees and bushes. It seems he's had enough of this cattle drive to nowhere.

Longhorns were brought to what is now Texas from Mexico in the late 1600s. They almost became extinct during the first part of this century as other, meatier cattle breeds became more popular.

In 1932, there were only about 3,000. Now there are 65,000 registered longhorns. The breeders say longhorns are regaining their popularity because they are hardy, productive and easy to manage.

Back at the camp, the steers moseyed peacefully into the corral and headed for the water troughs. The hands headed for the cook tent for a cold one. One rule never changes — water your horse before yourself.

There's nothing like the life of the cowboy, but there's something to be said for air conditioning and running water, too. Ball went back to the hotel for a shower.

But one last question. Most cows are dehorned so they won't fight. Is it the same for a longhorn cow?

Ball is almost offended by the thought. You don't dehorn a longhorn, he says — "It would be sacrilegious."

'Clements lesson' learned

DALLAS (AP) — The "Clements lesson" — a 1982 defeat that delayed Texas' full arrival as a two-party state — taught the state GOP that overconfidence costs votes, Vice President George Bush says.

At a Monday news conference, Bush balanced confidence in the Reagan record with cautious optimism about the Republican showing in Texas in November.

"Polls indicate we are in the lead here and we do have a good shot, an opportunity to win this state," Bush said as delegates moved toward the inevitable renomination of Reagan.

"There is no apathy, there is no overconfidence" among the state's Republicans, the former Texas congressman said.

"The Clements lesson is a good one and that's why I think there is no apathy," Bush said.

Bill Clements, Texas' first GOP governor in a century, was a solid favorite for reelection in 1982 when an unusually united Democratic Party defeated him with Mark White.

Clements, who welcomed delegates Monday, said in a pre-convention interview that overconfidence could beat the GOP in Texas.

Bush said voter satisfaction with Reagan economic policies should produce a Texas win for the Republicans.

"I've always felt the economy was going to be the determining factor, and it's strong," he said.

Money without shelters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Financial information released by Geraldine Ferraro and John Zaccaro paints a straightforward picture of a successful millionaire husband and wife who don't use shelters to dodge taxes.

The self-portrait — a composite of tax returns, disclosure to the Federal Election Commission and a financial statement — is one of a politician and a real estate broker with a combined net worth of $3.78 million.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee sets her end of the family fortune at $760,000 — with $525,000 of it attributed to her half-interest in residences in Forest Hills and Fire Island, N.Y., and St. Croix, Virgin Islands, and sole ownership of four lots at the Fire Island resort.

Ms. Ferraro said in the various financial documents made public Monday that the balance of her assets included anywhere from $75,000 to $110,000 in tax-free municipal bonds, her federal retirement plan and one-third interest in P. Zaccaro Co. Inc., one of her husband's New York City real estate firms.

As expected, Zaccaro's tax returns and net worth statement were heavy with real estate, including partnerships or companies owning eight Manhattan buildings and condominiums in New York and St. Croix.

Ms. Ferraro reported no debts. Her husband listed $310,000 in liabilities, including loans from business associates totaling from $80,000 to $200,000 in the past year. The couples' tax returns — a joint filing in 1978 and separate filings since she entered Congress in 1979 — show that during these six years they took in $1.039 million and paid $430,000 in federal, state and local taxes.

The tax bill rose slightly on Monday when, a spokesman said, the couple sent the Internal Revenue Service a check for $53,459. This was to cover an underpayment of $29,709 on a 1978 real estate sale and $23,750 in interest owed the government.

Their overall tax payments of about 40 percent of their income appeared to be on the high side, considering Zaccaro's profession and the real estate tax shelters legally available to reduce the bite on personal income.

The couple's tax returns show that neither took advantage of the common shelter involving real estate speculation where Uncle Sam effectively pays for the investment and any subsequent profit is treated as a capital gain that is taxed at a rate lower than the income being sheltered.

In her tax returns, Ms. Ferraro's principal source of income was her congressional salary. Zaccaro's annual income from 1979 through 1983 was on a roller coaster: $91,775, $107,510, $41,060, $90,585 and $203,039 last year. His income came principally from real estate endeavors, including salaries from family-owned businesses.

Union wants to get rid of asbestos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling asbestos in schools a "time bomb" the federal government is doing too little to defuse, the American Federation of Teachers wants its 600,000 members to pressure local authorities to clean it up.

The union announced at the opening of its annual convention on Monday that it is preparing a guide to help teachers identify hazardous asbestos conditions and advise them on how to persuade authorities to make necessary repairs.

"No effective federal program exists to protect children and teachers from asbestos, and none of the current congressional initiatives have proposed dollar figures anywhere near what is estimated to be a $1.4 billion cost for cleanup of U.S. schools," AFT President Albert Shanker said in a report titled: "Asbestos: A Time Bomb In Our Schools."

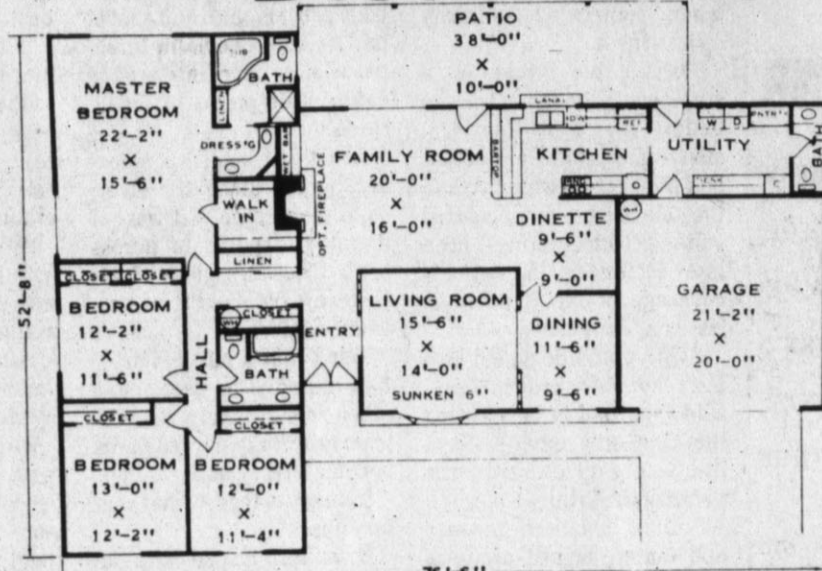

The union said the costs were calculated by the Environmental Protection Agency, which recently estimated that 15 million pupils attend public schools containing potentially dangerous asbestos. The agency has asked Congress for $50 million to fight the problem.

The EPA also has estimated that up to one-fourth of all buildings used by the public contain asbestos removable at between $2 and $13 per square foot. Asbestos can cause a variety of lung diseases, including cancer, that do not show up for up to 40 years after exposure.

HOUSE DESIGN by Larry Farnsworth

Model CD2441--Here is a spacious home which, through its carefully conceived floor plan, provides far more in living area and living comfort than many houses with even greater square footage. It offers four bedrooms and three baths in less than 2,500 square feet and it is planning which makes the difference.

Exterior details, such as the twin gables over the bedroom and garage extensions, and the delightful combination of brick and vertical siding set the tone for Model CD2441.

Inside, the separate entry offers a pleasing view of the sunken living room and the formal dining room beyond, both set off with attractive railings. Directly ahead, the large family room at the back of the house, with a large patio adding to its living area, offers a massive raised hearth fireplace and provides for snacks and quick meals at the counter which separates it from the kitchen.

Beyond the kitchen, with its efficient L-shaped work area, is a laundry-utility room, big enough for the family freezer and serving also as a rear entry, thanks to doors leading to the garage and the rear yard.

A small but adequate bath located at this end of the house is ideally arranged.

At the other side of the house, three bigger than average bedrooms, the main bath and the master bedroom open off a hallway. And take a special look at that master bedroom. For practicality it naturally has its own bath—with the main bath for maximum plumbing efficiency—and there's a spacious walk-in closet as well.

Behind the attractively paneled double entrance doors of this well designed house, there is a lot of living comfort awaiting the family which demands practical planning and maximum use of every square foot of living space. Also, optional basement plans for Model CD2441 are available.
