Administration says Iran negligent

By GEORGE GEDDA Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bodies of the two American diplomats slain during last week's airplane hijacking in Tehran were being flown to Washington today amid accusations by the Reagan administration that Iranian authorities had failed to prevent their deaths.

The remains of William L. Stanford and Charles F. Hegna, both employees of the Agency for International Development (AID), were flown by a commercial plane from Tehran to Frankfurt, West Germany, on Tuesday and were due to arrive at Andrews Air Force Base aboard a military aircraft.

Once the two victims and the surviving passengers of the hijacking, including two other Americans, had departed Tehran on Tuesday, the White House accused Iranian of encouraging "extreme behavior" by the hijackers and said effective action by Iranian authorities could have prevented the killings.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said President Reagan was outraged by Iran's behavior and he demanded that Tehran authorities agree to the extradition of the four captured hijackers. He said Iran has become a "safe haven" for hijackers.

"Many aspects of the Iranian government's handling of the situation raise profound and disturbing questions to which we are seeking answers," Speakes said.

Speakes was clearly skeptical

Didn't prevent U.S. deaths

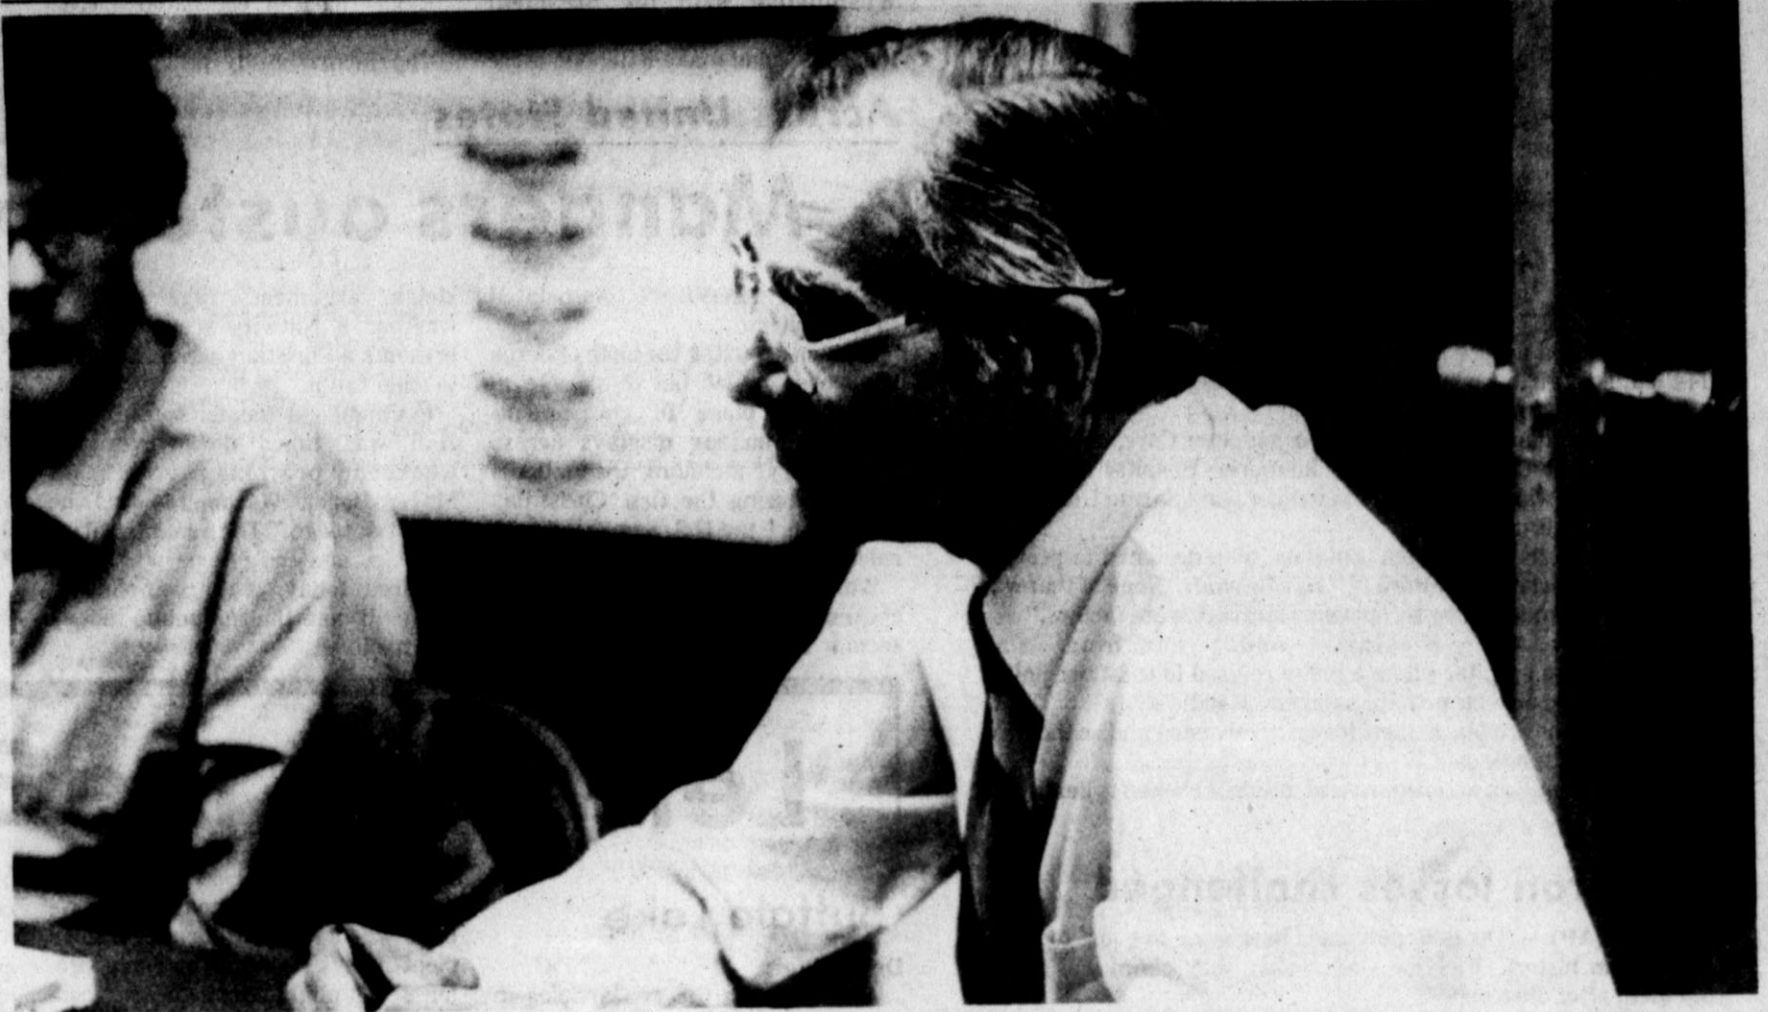

about Iran's claim that it had sought a peaceful conclusion to the five-day ordeal and that Iranian security forces who stormed the aircraft Sunday night were responsible for the hijackers' surrender.

"The fact of the matter is that two passengers were murdered by the hijackers, more were tortured and many brutalized for extended periods of time without any effective measures being taken by the government of Iran," he said.

The Iranian authorities' "granting selective media access, broadcasting statements and screams of tortured passengers, permitting photographers aboard the aircraft clearly encouraged extreme behavior by the hijackers," the spokesman said.

He added that Iran had shown on previous occasions that it had the capability to deal effectively with airline hijackings. On this occasion, he said, "when the lives of innocent American, Kuwaiti and other citizens were at stake, it did otherwise."

Speakes commented after the bodies of Stanford and Hegna had been flown to West Germany and 14 other passengers, including two Americans, flew to Kuwait, where they received a tumultuous welcome.

Stewart Dam dispute might be over

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

The controversy may have ended over an earthen structure that was easily the most talked-about dam in the Panhandle, if not the state.

Buffalo Lake Water District board members learned Tuesday night that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has applied for a permit to allow the existence Stewart Dike, a 2400-foot-long dam built to impound water in the west end of the dry lake bed near Umbarger.

The letter to the directors was written just one day after Charles Johnson, board secretary, mailed off yet another complaint to the head of the Texas Department of Water Resources about what he termed the "refusal" of FWS to apply for a permit.

Rodney Krey, resident refuge manager at the lake, said FWS believed the permit - granted several years ago when the dam was first built - was sufficient. However, last summer, when the dam was restored, TDWR suddenly asked FWS to file an amended permit.

Attorneys representing the two agencies had been hashing the matter out until the recent decision of FWS to apply for the permit.

Permit requested by service

"Although there is still doubt that a permit for the dike is needed by virtue of the fact that the entire dike and its reservoir are within the confines of Buffalo Lake," FWS Assistant Regional Director Ellis Klett said in the letter to board chairman Ted Abrahamson, "we have applied for a permit, specifically for Stewart Dike, in an effort to clear up the subject."

Klett said he believes anything within the boundaries of the lake is already covered by the existing permit from TDWR.

Klett also informed the board a draft environmental assessment from the Bureau of Reclamation regarding Umbarger Dam, the main dam at the lake, has been completed and approved. He confirmed the service's preference to raising the dam 27 feet and replacing the existing spillway with a glory-hole spillway, an alternative approved of by the water board.

"This preference is subject to change, of course, depending on comments that may be made as a result of public review of the assessment," Klett stated. "If the consensus of the public's comments is opposed to this alternative, we would have to re-examine the alternatives."

Once the decision to adopt a method of repair is finalized, Klett added, it will be incorporated into the budget request for fiscal year 1987.

"Unless there's a public outcry, Umbarger Dam will be repaired," Krey assured the board during Tuesday's regular monthly meeting.

Following discussion over whether the board should move to support FWS in its decision to apply for a permit and no longer be involved in the dispute, board member Terry Cooke expressed his opinion on that matter.

"I think it's time to stand up, back Stewart Dam, and let's get on with it, so we'll get some money to rebuild Umbarger Dam," he said firmly. "I think we're quibbling over a ridiculous point," the usually quiet board member said quite audibly.

The board then voted to request a copy of the permit application from TDWR and state in a letter to the department its support of the controversial dam.

Deaf Smith County board members Bill Devers, Garth Thomas and Carolyn Waters were all present for the meeting. A letter to the editor from Thomas regarding the lake and its future appears on Page 2 of today's Brand.

Police examine tire vandalisms

Six tires worth a combined $900 were punctured sometime between 9 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. Tuesday, victim Danny Vermillion of 132 Oak St. told Hereford police.

The tires were on two vehicles: a van and travel home. Sylvia Reyes, 103 S. Douglas St., reported her 1980 Oldsmobile's windshield was shattered at about 7:15 p.m. Tuesday while she was driving in the 400 block of Bradley Street. She did not see what caused the damage, which is estimated to be $300.

Meanwhile Tuesday, police looked into two incidents of minor vandalism and one piece of aggravated assault, child welfare, civil dispute and a fight.

November library report detailed

Deaf Smith County Library patrons checked out a total of 8,137 books last month, the facility reported.

Of that total, 3,807 were adult works, with the majority of those fiction. More than 4,000 children's fiction offerings left the library while only 308 non-fiction children's books left the shelves.

As of Nov. 30, there were 55,000 hardcover books, 3,200 paperbacks and 350 audio-visual materials in DSCL. Two hundred thirty-three of the books were added last month.

TUESDAY'S HIGH: 65 (normal: 55 record: 75 (1977))
OVERNIGHT LOW: 44 (normal: 35 record: -3 (1961))
OUTLOOK: Twenty percent chance of rain mixed with snow tonight, though no snow accumulation is expected. The low is to be near 39 and winds are to come in to 15 mph per hour from the south to southwest. Thursday is able to have a 50 percent chance of rain mixed with snow. The forecast calls for a high in the middle 60s and southwesterly winds.

Shultz seeks allies' opinions about arms

By R. GREGORY NOKES AP Diplomatic Writer

GATWICK, England (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz, preparing for his meeting next month with his Soviet counterpart, Andrei A. Gromyko, says he will sound out NATO allies on the future of East-West relations and a proposed arms control accord.

Shultz told reporters Tuesday that these issues will dominate the agenda at a three-day meeting with NATO foreign ministers in Brussels. He will have the chance to discuss the issues tonight, at a dinner with the foreign ministers of West Germany, Britain and France.

The U.S. official will meet Gromyko on Jan. 7 and 8 in Geneva, Switzerland, to set goals for renewed arms control talks between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Shultz told reporters during the flight to Gatwick that he will be listening to allies' views but won't be disclosing the U.S. negotiating strategy because President Reagan hasn't yet "made decisions on lots of things material to that meeting."

Shultz was staying overnight at the country estate of Britain's foreign secretary, Sir Geoffrey Howe.

While the meetings in Brussels will focus on relations with Moscow, senior aides to Shultz said he will seek the views of foreign ministers on a joint strategy for combating world terrorism.

One aide who spoke on condition of anonymity said the secretary of state will urge the allies to better share intelligence on suspected terrorists.

In several recent speeches, Shultz called terrorism a form of warfare threatening Western values and interests and urged pre-emptive strikes by the United States if necessary to defend itself against terrorist.

His latest call for U.S. action, made to reporters traveling with him, came after hijackers killed two U.S. officials aboard a Kuwaiti jet that was hijacked to Iran last week and after explosions on Tuesday of six bombs along the fuel pipeline in Belgium which supplies NATO forces throughout central Europe.

A leftist group, the Fighting Communist Cells, said it exploded the bombs because war had become NATO's "principal focus."

Shultz on Tuesday expressed frustration that the Iranians waited several days before launching what its official media called a rescue mission by security men to free the hijackers' hostages, including two Americans.

At a scheduled meeting with Belgium's prime minister, Wilfried Martens, Shultz was expected to press for Belgian deployment on schedule of U.S.-built nuclear missiles.

Marrow transplant performed

HOUSTON (AP) — A 6-week-old Florida girl who underwent a bone marrow transplant to treat the same disease that afflicted David the Bubble Boy is listed in stable condition at Texas Childrens Hospital, a spokeswoman said.

Agnes Theresa received about two teaspoons of bone marrow from her 6-year-old sister Mary Angela early Tuesday in what doctors called a matched transplant procedure, said hospital spokeswoman Joan London.

The last names of the girls have not been released at the request of the parents, Ms. London said.

Agnes Theresa suffers from severe combined immune deficiency, the same disease that plagued David the Bubble Boy.

"This is the second operation done in this family," Ms. London said. "In 1982, we did a transplant on a cousin of this baby that had this condition."

David, who died Feb. 22 from complications resulting from a bone marrow transplant, was known as the Bubble Boy because he spent more than 12 years confined inside a sterile plastic-walled chamber and was taken out only after he became ill.

Family files suit against hospital

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal lawsuit has been filed against an Anahuac hospital accused of denying emergency medical service to a 14-month-old girl who later choked to death on a bean, says an attorney for the victim's family.

Elva and Martha Banks contend their daughter Carey died June 4 after a nurse at Chambers County Memorial Hospital refused to treat the infant when her life was in danger, said Sarnie Randle, an attorney for the Banks.

"The hospital has an indigent patients' plan designed to provide care for people who can't afford it," Randle said. "None of that was done in this instance and we feel poverty and race were factors."

Carey began choking and coughing and was taken to the hospital where a nurse refused to treat her unless the parents could provide proof of payment, Randle said.

The Banks, who are black, then drove to Galveston and on the way, the infant died, Randle said.

The attorney said an autopsy showed the child choked to death on a navy bean.

Cameron losses challenged

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Republicans have gone to court to try to win back an historic Election Day victory they claim was stolen from them after the election.

State GOP Chairman George Strake said Tuesday that 2,385 absentee ballots "apparently disappeared" between Election Day and a Nov. 15 recount of a Harlingen justice of the peace race.

The first count gave Republican Gary Thornburg a 155-vote win over incumbent Democrat Eloy Cano. It was the GOP's first win in the Rio Grande Valley since Reconstruction.

But the Democrats asked for a recount, which produced a 67-vote win for Cano.

The state and Cameron County Republican parties filed suit in Brownsville to challenge the recount. Strake said GOP lawyers found 61 election law violations. The total absentee vote tallied in the recount was 2,385 votes less than the election night total had been, Strake said.

"The disappearance of 2,385 ballots which just so happens to overturn the election of the first Republican in the Valley is far too much coincidence for anyone to swallow," Strake said.

Reagan tackles defense budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is turning his attention to the huge military budget as he looks for ways to cut federal deficits, even as Senate Republican leaders renew their suggestion for a freeze in the Social Security cost-of-living benefit.

Reagan was meeting at the White House today with Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger for a review of the Pentagon budget. It was their second meeting of the week on military spending.

The president seemed to signal last week that he would make cuts in the military buildup, and White House budget director David A. Stockman has drafted a plan that would trim roughly $8 billion by freezing most programs within the Pentagon without affecting major weapons systems such as the MX missile.

During a meeting Monday with Reagan, Weinberger simply outlined the previous increases the Pentagon has requested. However, Weinberger reportedly has hinted at some flexibility in private meetings with congressional Republicans.

Publicly, however, Pentagon officials are not budging.

Inspection program questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's monitoring of the airlines is coming under criticism as air safety investigators question whether the Federal Aviation Administration has enough inspectors or is using the right techniques to assure safety rules are followed.

The concern over the FAA's ability to keep tabs on air carriers — especially small regional airlines — comes as the commuter industry is ending a year marred by bankruptcies, at least five fatal crashes, and the discovery of widespread safety violations at two airlines.

Two members of the National Transportation Safety Board, including its chairman, raised questions about the FAA's inspection program Tuesday as the board discussed its investigation into the crash last year of an Air Illinois plane that killed 10 people.

That airline has since gone bankrupt. Investigators have said the FAA should have known about safety failures at Air Illinois before the crash in October 1983.

Panicky residents flee Bhopal

BHOPAL, India (AP) — Fearing a new leak of the poison gas that killed more than 2,000 people, residents lined up at bus and train stations and fled the city in record numbers today, despite broadcast assurances there was no danger, officials said.

Meanwhile at Hamidia, the city's main hospital, a spokesman said he had received a letter of regret from a city council member whose alleged assault on a senior doctor prompted almost 900 junior doctors and interns to walk out Tuesday.

"The striking doctors will be ordered to return immediately," said the spokesman. He said the hospital was treating all emergency patients.

The number of people leaving Bhopal increased to four times normal following reports that authorities planned to neutralize the methyl isocyanate gas remaining in a Union Carbide pesticide plant and rumors that area near the plant would be evacuated, rail and bus officials said.

Since subsidies slashed

Farms could face failures

AUSTIN (AP) — President Reagan's proposal to slash farm price subsidies over the next four years could cause 10,000 Texas farms to go out of business, a state economist says.

The Reagan administration has proposed halving subsidy payments to farmers, and that would result in "chaos in rural America," said Ronald Knutson of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Knutson, who last week met with Reagan administration officials in Washington, said the president wants to move agriculture in a direction that would make it depend more on market factors and less on government help.

Owners of the 50,000 medium-sized farms in the state would suffer most under the proposal, Knutson said.

He said 5 percent to 10 percent of those farmers probably would be ruined financially if the Reagan plan is approved by Congress next year.

"A lot of farmers will be hurt in the process. The unfortunate part of this whole thing is it will end up hurting those farmers that the government program was designed to protect," he said.

Texas has an estimated 190,000 farms.

The farm subsidy program pays farmers the difference between the government target price for a crop and the market price for it. The program was created during the Depression.

Although subsidies ranged from $3 billion to $5 billion a year during the 1970s, Knutson said the federal government is spending about $10 billion annually on the program in the face of declining farm exports.

The Reagan proposals likely will surprise many Texas farmers, Knutson said, noting that 70 percent to 80 percent of the state's farmers voted for Reagan in this year's election.

"It's a little ironic since farmers voted so heavily for Reagan. On the other hand, he ran on a campaign of cutting federal spending. Most farmers anticipated some cuts, but I don't think they anticipated them being this large," he said.

Despite the gloomy predictions, Knutson said the extension service isn't taking a position on the proposed cuts. He said the service is only trying to educate farmers on what they can expect when Congress begins work on a new farm bill.

Texas on the House Agriculture Committee — Chairman Kika de la Garza of Mission and Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford — oppose Reagan's plan, Knutson said.

Mangers ousted by court decisions

By MARY MacVEAN Associated Press Writer

Statuses depicting the birth of Jesus have been pulled out of storage to take their place in government-sponsored holiday displays across the country, including the nation's capital, during the first Christmas season since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled them constitutional.

While some communities have chosen to play it safe with such secular images as Santa Claus in his sleigh, arguments rage on over whether a Nativity scene unfairly presents a Christian image offensive to other faiths.

In Chicago, a manger scene in City Hall was taken down over the weekend, provoking cries that Mayor Harold Washington was the "No. 1 Scrooge." The administration gave in, and the creche was to be restored today. An accompanying sign will note that no public money was involved.

The dispute has gone beyond Nativity scenes.

In Providence, R.I., the mayor's holiday message, on a billboard outside City Hall, urged residents to "Keep Christ in Christmas." After complaints, it was replaced with a billboard offering "Season's Greetings" from Mayor Joseph Paolino.

While there is little argument over Christian scenes sponsored by religious or private groups, the wise men of the legal profession keep alive the question of whether the Three Wise Men may visit the Christ child on public property with public money.

A Nativity scene appeared in a Pawtucket, R.I., park this year, thanks to the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling in March that its city-sponsored display did not violate the constitutional separation of church and state.

Pawtucket's case ended the controversy in many cities, including Washington, D.C., Denver, Pierre, S.D., and Phoenix, Ariz.

In Washington, after an absence of 11 years, a creche was erected Tuesday near Santa's reindeer and the national Christmas tree.

"What is Christmas? It's the birth of Christ. ... And if you're having a display of a tree and things like that, I think it's certainly important that you have what made the meaning of Christmas," said Joseph Riley, president of the private Pageant of Peace Committee, which paid for the Nativity scene.

But the Michigan American Civil Liberties Union filed suit Tuesday seeking to bar Dearborn from putting a creche outside City Hall.

"It's time that the tradition of government-funded religious displays really should come to an end and should be an activity only of private citizens," said Howard Simon, Michigan ACLU director.

In Fitchburg, Mass., where last year a Jesus figurine was taken by someone who said the creche violated their civil rights, pranksters stole the figurine again and demanded a ransom of five cases of beer. The figurine was found Tuesday and returned to the creche. Sgt. Gerard Thibeault said that "in the spirit of Christmas," police won't pursue the thieves.

AMERICANS HIT THE BOTTLE — OF WATER

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — One out of every 10 families in the United States drinks bottled water, a per capita consumption of 2.7 gallons a year, industry statisticians report.

Although the number of Americans consuming bottled water is growing, Europeans drink some 20 times the amount of bottled water used in the United States, according to researchers at Mountain Valley Spring Water Co. here.

The five top bottled water nations are France, Italy, Spain, Germany and Russia.

Buffalo Lake

Dear editor:

After reading the two articles in the Dec. 9th Brand concerning the Buffalo Lake Board of Directors and the Texas Department of Water Resources proposed statewide water plan, several friends inquired as to my position on each. There may be others with similar queries—thus this letter.

There is within the Buffalo Lake board an intense interest in having the main dam and spillway repaired as rapidly as reasonably possible. This would assure that when the next significant rain falls on the Tierra Blanca and Frio watersheds which causes runoffs similar to the one in 1978, that the gates will be closed and the runoff captured. This is my basic goal.

However, there is concern, I surmise, that the Stewart Dam impoundment might prove sufficient for the Bureau of Fish & Wildlife needs and thus it might not place necessary effort in its budget request to the Congress for funds to repair the main dam.

I don't share, with the same degree, this concern. On the other hand I view the Stewart Dam impoundment as having current value for whatever amount of water it holds is better than letting the water flow on down stream for the gates are now open, by court order.

In addition, maybe a little dog fight here will draw the Texas Department of Water Resources' attention to Buffalo Lake and its storage potential and hopefully will include our reservoir in its statewide planning of a system that will bring excess East Texas flood waters to the High Plains.

Now, regarding State Sen. Truan's criticism of the aforementioned proposed statewide water plan, I am amazed that he or anyone from the lower Gulf Coast—after the 1984 drought—would take such a position.

Additional surface impoundments obviously are the only feasible and immediate sources of water. Conservation is not a new idea to those of us who have lived in West Texas.

To conserve a portion of what we have when what we have is insufficient brings no relief but only prolongs our plight. Nevertheless, conserve we must if we would have some water tomorrow and until import water arrives.

I have studied the TDWR proposal plan and find it to be a giant step in the right direction. Further, I suggest such a plan will enhance both the environment and the coast estuaries, for silt from flooded rivers only choke the habitats of marine and other wildlife that enjoy the area about as much as I do. Our West Texas legislators must combat and override Sen. Truan's nonsense.

Taxes and money for an effective water program would be a productive investment, for we all must have water to survive today and to grow into the future.

Buffalo Lake Water District

Christmas Lights

Dear editor:

Each year at Christmas it is always enjoyable to take the kids around to look and admire all the Christmas lights and decorations that our citizens have been kind enough to share with us in our town.

This has always been very special to our family, even me since when I was growing up we didn't even have electricity, to say the least Christmas lights.

This year, I went to a great deal of effort to get the lights just the way I wanted them. I was very proud to drive down Plains Street to Douglas and admire my handiwork. This was my way of saying "Merry Christmas" to our friends, neighbors and everyone in our town. It worked too, because I had several calls telling me how very nice it looked and thanking me for the work.

My wife wondered how long they would last before someone with nothing better to do would come along and either steal or destroy them. I told her I would like to think I can have more faith in Hereford people than to believe my lights would be destroyed.

My faith in Hereford people was exploded after only five days when at least 90 percent of my lights were either stolen or destroyed.

In addition to destroying and stealing the bulbs the vandals went so far as to crush the holders and render them useless to ever be used again. This will make replacement, if I should chance that, quiet expensive.

Now I know that statistics show that 95 percent of all people are good, I hope to think that Hereford is no different, but, the remaining 5 percent sure makes everyone else look bad and has caused my family to have very heavy hearts.

Respectfully,
Joe Lindeman

Union Members

Dear editor:

It seems to me that there needs to be some kind of program that will teach labor union members that striking for more pay isn't the cure for their problems.

There are a lot of smart people in the unions that should know that striking for more pay than industry can afford to pay and stay in business only raises the cost of production. That, in turn, raises the cost of living and when you're on strike and out of money, it sure makes it rough.

It would be better to work for less and have a steady job. Industry has to have a profit; if the industry goes broke, where can we get a job?

That puts me in mind of the story about a man who came to town with a wheelbarrow full of money and, while he was in a store, someone stole the wheelbarrow and dumped the money out. And then there was the lady who reported someone had stolen a hundred dollars worth of groceries out of her car. The cops asked where the groceries were, and she said they were in the glove compartment.

And then there's the story about King Midas and the golden touch. It worked fine until it came to eating, and just plain gold don't taste very good, even with brown gravy. Labor has to learn to work for the interest of the boss, or we will have to suffer with the boss. Labor has to learn to hold the ladder of success up or we are all the losers.

It isn't how much money we have, but what we do with the money we have. The man who is capable of climbing the ladder of success needs support from below, and the man below can't get his feet off the ground without support from the man on the ladder. Some poor fool may think all he needs is someone to support the ladder so he can sit up there and do nothing.

We are our Brother's keeper. True success is not based on dollars and cents, or fame and popularity, it is based on love and liberty for others as well as ourselves. To strike and tear down another's business is just stealing his ability to help us. It is biting the hand that is feeding us.

Yours truly,
Ole T. Larson

1/4 C light rum

Glaze:
1/4 C canned cream of coconut
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 12-cup Bundt pan.

Cake: Spoon drained pineapple evenly over bottom of pan. In large mixer bowl, combine remaining cake ingredients. Blend on low speed, then increase speed to medium and beat three minutes. Spoon batter into prepared pan. Bake about 55 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean.

Syrup: Meanwhile, in small saucepan, combine sugar and water. Boil two minutes; stir in rum. Remove from heat; set aside. Remove cake from oven. Using cake tester or fork, immediately prick deep holes in cake at one-inch intervals. Slowly pour on rum syrup. Let cool in pan on wire rack for 30 minutes. Turn out onto wire rack to cool completely.

Glaze:
In small mixer bowl, gradually beat cream of coconut into cream cheese until smooth. Spoon over cooled cake. Makes 12 to 16 servings.

STRAWBERRY AMBROSIA SALAD

1 package (3 oz.) strawberry gelatin
1 package (3 oz.) raspberry gelatin
2 C boiling water

Over $85,000 has been collected over the past 27 years and approximately $5,174 was given to the project last year. Several improvements which funds have been used for at the hospital include furniture for the children's ward, cardiac monitor and defibrillator, a portable

Last year, $800 was awarded to opportunity plan scholarship and the reminder was used to purchase a transport incubator for the hospital.

Food asphyxiation accounts for deaths

COLLEGE STATION - Parents who consider safety when buying their children's toys, or who carefully keep small objects out of the reach of little hands, often forget to use the same caution in preparing children's food.

"Food asphyxiation accounts for as many childhood deaths annually as poisoning, says Dr. Mary Ann Heussner, a health education specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

About 66 to 77 children die by choking on food each year, she reports. A recent study of children's food-related choking fatalities conducted by Johns Hopkins University found that more than 90 percent of the victims were under five, Heussner says. The risk was highest in one- and two-year olds and dropped substantially at age three.

The children choked most often on hot dogs. Other foods on the list were candy, peanuts and other nuts, grapes, cookies, meat, carrots, apples, popcorn and peanut butter, she notes.

Foods such as peanuts or hard, round candies should not be given to children younger than four or five, she advises. Foods that must be chewed should not be given to children until they have developed a complete set of teeth around age two.

Besides causing choking, another danger is that the food can go deep into the bronchial tubes or into the lungs themselves, says Heussner.

"It's not always easy to recognize that a child has inhaled food," cautions the specialist. The initial coughing fit may end and the child will appear to have recovered. However, more serious symptoms, such as pneumonia, may show up days or even weeks later.

"If you suspect food inhalation and the food particle is not coughed up, contact your pediatrician or family physician," advises Heussner.

Since many choking incidents occur when the child is eating or drinking while lying down, crying, laughing, talking, running or playing, adult supervision during meals and snack time is extremely important, she says.

Abundant Life

Bob Wear

THERE MAY BE a number of things which concern us about which we have little or no choice, but, in the important matter of our personal success as a human being we do have a choice. This does not mean that we will be famous, or rich, or a leader, or popular, or any of these things which have become so important in our social order. Even so, we can be successful as a human being.

WE FIRST accept responsibility for ourselves, to develop the best possible thought patterns and form the most desirable behavior. We will not be blaming others or circumstances because we are not going to permit ourselves to be controlled by others or by circumstances. We are going to be our own person. We are not going to become discouraged, although there may be enough within the scope of our life situation to cause discouragement.

WE ARE NOT going to live a life of reaction, but a life of positive response. This is the way we continue to be in control of our living. We will not allow the vitality of life to become eroded by lethargy, gloom, despair, setbacks, burn out, or any of the other detrimental forces. We do have a choice.

WE WILL NOT slip backward, but will continue to move ahead in the best way we can learn and according to the best available guidelines for living. We are going to progress with our own personal growth and development in an expanding, self-renewing way. This means that we will achieve a reasonable degree of well-being, and a justified sense of satisfaction and purpose. This gradual personal achievement will be rewarded with a wholesome interest in living.

LET US BE ENCOURAGED by the fact that we do have a choice, and we can attain personal success as a human being.

Folk games to be taught

Members of Deaf Smith County 4-H and their families are invited to attend the County 4-H Christmas Party from 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday in the County Bull Barn.

This year's party will feature Jimmy Walker, Oldham County Extension Agent, who will teach folk games.

Each family is requested to bring some type of Christmas snack and 4-H'ers are asked to bring a canned good or staple food for the Good Shepherd Project.

County 4-H Council members will be decorating and are reminded to contact Susan Raney before Friday. Refreshments will be provided by Parent-Leaders Association.

Ann Landers

Man is a bum

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Maybe I am nuts. If so, please don't hesitate to tell me. So many marriages among people in our age group (early to mid-40s) are breaking up these days it is scary. Perhaps I am too critical or too demanding — or too unrealistic. I want to be objective about my marriage, but it is awfully hard since I am so close to it. I need to know, from an unbiased outsider (like Ann Landers), do I have a gem of a husband or is this a not-so-hot relationship? Here are the facts:

My husband has a violent temper and I have seen a good bit of it these last 18 years. Sometimes he yells so loud the neighbors can hear. I'm sorry to say, his language isn't the greatest. In all fairness, I must tell you he has never hit me.

He always has had a roving eye and I know for a fact that he has had at least three affairs since our marriage — maybe four or five. Although I never throw the past up to him, he knows that I know he fools around.

He never wanted children and has reminded me several times that "my" two kids are a disappointment (not good-looking or smart enough) and that they were my idea. He refuses to participate in any family activities, thinks my family is a bunch of creeps and doesn't get along with his own.

He has never given me a Christmas gift, remembered my birthday or brought home flowers or candy on Valentine's Day.

Our sex life is great—for HIM. For me, it is adequate—on occasion.

He is not interested in discussing anything: family finances, the children, politics, work-related anecdote or a problem I might be having, medical, social, whatever. In other words—zero communication.

Now on the plus side: He is a very good provider and not tight with money. Whatever I buy for myself or the kids is OK with him: (My friends whose husbands are penny-pinchers tell me I am a lucky woman.)

He is very neat and clean, is a good-looking man who dresses well and takes pride in his appearance.

He takes wonderful care of the lawn and garden.

I need to know, Ann, do I have a typical husband? Is he perchance a gem? Or do I have a man who doesn't care for his wife? Is he an emotional cripple? What do you say?—Need To See It Right In Detroit

DEAR NEED TO: Your "gem" has so many flaws he would be considered virtually worthless in today's market.

The man is immature, selfish, unloving, unfaithful and no bargain no matter how you look at it. He has relegated you to a starvation corner—and the same goes for your children. He gives nothing of himself.

His only virtue is that he is neat and clean. Big deal. Most self-respecting people are.

The lawn and garden are probably his hobby and you can have that done by paid help.

My advice is to get some joint counseling and decide if you can make a marriage out of what appears to be a sad and unrewarding relationship.

Christmas party held for Veleda members

Members of Veleda Study Club met Monday in the home of Betty Gilbert for their Christmas party. President Margaret Zinser called the meeting to order with members answering roll call with "What can I do to make someone else's Christmas happy?"

A guest, Ruth Owen of Cedar Creek Lake, a former club member, was welcomed as well as the new club member Ruth Fish.

Norma Martin told of her plans to be in school Monday evenings this next semester and will be excused from club meetings during this time.

The group agreed to send $10 to Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce to help with the Christmas lighting fund and an announcement was made of the next scheduled meeting to be held Jan. 14 in the home of Juanita Brown.

Frances Crume brought a story entitled "Family Christmas Party." She included club members in the singing of Christmas carols fitting in the pageant portrayed.

Refreshments were served from a holiday decorated table and members gathered around the Christmas tree to exchange Christmas stockings. Each member also brought money to be sent to Girlstown for their Christmas enjoyment.

Boys open district with win

Hereford hustles by Plainview

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

Relying on strong offensive rebounding and hustle, the Hereford Whitefaces opened league play on winning note Tuesday night with a 61-54 boys basketball victory over the Plainview Bulldogs in the HHS gym.

From the start, the Whitefaces were out to prove their dominance on the offensive boards. Kevin Redus first blocked an inbounds pass near the beginning of the game for the Herd and saved it from going out of bounds. Then the rebounding started.

Plainview committed two fouls battling for rebounds, Hereford snatching several offensive boards. Then Rodney Torres bombed in a 20-foot shot from the side to give the Whitefaces a lead they would lose only one time.

Hereford coach Mike Fields said he more or less expected the Whitefaces to have a strong rebounding showing.

"They did a better job of blocking out tonight," he said. "Maybe we learned something in the (Amarillo) tournament. We'd better be blocking out and getting the offensive rebounds because this is probably the smallest team we'll play."

The Bulldogs got some easy buckets in the first quarter, beating Hereford's full-court pressing defense for a couple of 3-on-1 fast breaks. Thomas Curry threw up a layup from six feet away with just under 3:30 to play to give Plainview a 10-8 advantage.

Next it was Hereford's turn to try the fast break. Torres got two more near the end of the first period when Bobby Baker led a 3-on-1 break for the Whitefaces. Baker fed the ball to Torres who was breaking for the goal, and Hereford had a 19-16 lead at period's end.

The Whitefaces' lead never bulged more than the 3 points until the final 2:14 of the first half. During that span, Hereford put up 5 unanswered points to grab a 29-22 halftime lead.

"He (Plainview coach Dan Hamrick) has a young team," Fields said. "But our kids coming off the bench did a good job for us, too. I know I looked up one time before I realized all five people we had out there didn't start the game."

"And when they were in, we didn't lose much at all."

Sammy Suarez turned in the high-point production for the Herd with 14 points. Torres scored 12. Hereford got 10 points from its bench.

For Plainview, Andrew Jackson hit 13 points and Marty Hughes 12.

The Whitefaces were ahead by as many 15 points in the third quarter before Plainview made a surge near the end of the period to cut the Whitefaces' lead. Part of that was due to poor shot selection by the Whitefaces, Fields said.

"We're going to have to work on our shot selection," he said. "We were taking some poor shots for the lead we had, but at least we were ahead by that much. We're going to be fresher near the end of the game because we play so many people, so that helped, too."

With the win, Hereford's District

3-5A mark is 1-0. Overall, the Whitefaces are 4-3. Plainview falls to 0-2, 4-6.

PLAINVIEW (54)

Plainview girls win

Whitefaces fail to hang on

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

Despite jumping out to as much as an 8-point lead in the first half, the Hereford Whitefaces became victim No. 4 for the Plainview Bulldogs in girls basketball Tuesday in the HHS gym.

The Bulldogs grabbed the lead from the Whitefaces at the 3:39 mark of the second period, 18-17, and held on the notch their fourth District 3-5A victory without a loss. Tuesday's game saw Hereford fall to 2-1 in district and 3-5 overall.

Hereford coach Larry Sowers said Plainview's rebounding and Hereford's poor inside point production were major factors in the loss.

"You just can't get killed on the boards like we did tonight and expect to beat anybody," he said. "You've got to want the ball and go after it. And until our big people start doing something, we're in trouble."

Even though they were trailing by 13 points at the end of the third period, the Whitefaces had a shot at getting back into the game the final eight minutes. Hereford outscored Plainview 12-2 over the first 5:40 of the last quarter to make the score 46-43, and even had a chance to pull within 1.

However, Plainview's Ramona Black drew a foul and began a 5-point Plainview string of free throws to ice the game.

"Hereford has a good team," Plainview coach Kathy Harston said. "We started rebounding a lot better the second half, even getting as many as four or five shots at a time, but Hereford still made a great comeback."

"And I was glad we were getting those rebounds, because we weren't shooting well."

The Whitefaces had two chances at buckets only six times all night. Defensively, Hereford grabbed 20 boards.

"We were letting them take position away from us," Sowers said. "We would give ourselves a chance to get back into it, then we'd take some bad shots. We didn't get the ball when we needed the ball."

"Then we had to foul."

Just as the Whitefaces had a chance to climb back in the game, the Bulldogs had a chance to pull away. Kristi Aday went to the line for Plainview near the 6:00 mark but missed the one-shot foul. The Whitefaces then pulled to within nine at 46-37 on shots by Darla Alford, Shelly Edwards and Natalie Sims.

At that point, Aday again missed a free-throw, and Hereford crept to 46-43 on a field goal by Alford and two shots by Sims.

Black canned five of six free throws over the last 2:10 for the final margin.

"We got complacent at the end of the game," Harston said. "Almost too complacent."

The Whitefaces shot 38.3 percent from the field. Alford led the Whitefaces with 16 points, and Sims added 12.

Becky Remington was high for the Bulldogs with 15 points. Aday added 11 and Joyce Acy 10 for Plainview.

Good Timing

Hereford's Rodney Torres (right) fakes a shot and causes Plainview's Thomas Curry to leave the floor during third-quarter play Tuesday in the HHS gym. Torres made good on his field goal, and the Whitefaces downed the Bulldogs 61-53.

Even without playoff berth

Landry says season success

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Even if Dallas fails to get into the National Football League playoffs, the 1984 Cowboys' season will be a success in Coach Tom Landry's eyes.

"This team is a much more solid group than last year or we wouldn't have had a chance to make the playoffs," Landry said.

He added, "We lost a lot of leadership in Drew Pearson, Billy Joe DuPree, and Pat Donovan. We had to struggle all the way, every game. We could have been out of the playoff race easily but it was a credit to the team to be able to pull itself up."

"We're fortunate we still have a chance."

The Cowboys will need help.

If San Francisco defeats Los Angeles on Friday night, then Dallas can make the playoffs by defeating Miami on Monday night.

The 49er-Rams game will be nationally televised but Landry won't watch.

"I probably won't even look at the game because all I'm concerned about is the results," Landry said. "I've seen enough football games this year."

"It's hard to become a Montana fan but I guess I will," he joked.

Joe Montana, of course, threw the game-winning touchdown pass against Dallas to give San Francisco the National Conference title in 1981.

"I'll root for anybody who gives us a chance," Landry said.

Should the Rams win, the Cowboys could still get a wild card if St. Louis beats Washington on Sunday after the New York Giants lose to New Orleans on Saturday. Of course, the Cowboys would have to beat Miami.

Dallas is 9-6 and tied with the Giants and St. Cardinals for second place in the National Conference Eastern Division behind Washington's 10-5.

The Rams are 10-5 in the NFC West but Dallas has a tiebreaker edge.

The Cowboys, seeking a NFL record 10th straight appearance in the playoffs, suffered a damaging blow by falling to Washington 30-28 on Sunday.

"The Washington loss has to rate as one of the big disappointments we've had through the years," Landry said. "Our team played so hard but it came down to the turnovers. All their fumbles bounced back to them."

Landry said he thought the Cowboys' could bounce back.

"Our team must get ready right now and not wait until this weekend to get ready," Landry said. "Both the Rams and Cowboys have their work cut out. They'll have to win on the road and if they can't then they shouldn't be in the playoffs."

Odds makers made the Cowboys six-point underdogs for the meeting with the Dolphins.

The teams stand 2-2 against each other with the Cowboys winning the last meeting 28-27 in 1981 at Texas Stadium.

"I think our team will respond," said Landry. "If they can read, then they know what's going on. I don't know if we can reach as high an emotional level as we did for Washington, but the team just has to do it."

Landry said he thought the Dolphins, who have already clinched a playoff spot, would go all out against the Cowboys.

"When you have a 14-1 record it's hard to play bad," Landry said.

In a telephone call to the Dallas media on Tuesday, Miami Coach Don Shula confirmed that the Dolphins would get after the Cowboys.

"We have an obligation to the other teams and coaches to do the best job we can to win," Shula said.

Landry said 1985 should be an exciting year for the Cowboys.

"We'll have a good nucleus coming back and we should be much better," Landry said.

Asked about a possible trade of either Danny White or Gary Hogeboom, the Cowboys' dueling quarterbacks, Landry said, "You never know what the circumstances might be."

La Plata wins two of three games Tuesday

Twenty-eight points by La Plata's seventh-grade girls' team were enough to defeat Plainview Red Monday night by seven points, 28-21.

Stacy White put 10 points through the nets for La Plata and Poppy Richardson added 8.

The eighth graders at La Plata also scored 28 points against Plainview Red. And that, too, was enough to win, 28-23.

Shea McGinty had 8 points to lead La Plata scorers. Jamie Victor and Susan Bell each put in 6.

The ninth-grade game was won by Plainview Red. Kim Edelman scored 14 and Trisha Kahlich 10, but it wasn't enough to overcome Plainview's 69 points. The final score was 69-30, Plainview Red.

To Phoenix

Philadelphia team may move

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles say no final decision has been made, but two Arizona officials and a U.S. senator say financially strapped Leonard Tose has agreed to move his National Football League team to Phoenix.

The move, according to the Philadelphia Inquirer and the Arizona Republic, would include Tose's sale of 25 percent of the team to Canadian businessman James Monaghan, who also has a residence in Phoenix.

"I understand Tose confirmed the deal," Eddie Lynch, chairman of the Phoenix Metropolitan Sports Foundation, said Tuesday. "My first reaction is empathy for the Philadelphia fans, and secondly, I'm elated about them coming to Phoenix."

The Inquirer quoted Michael Gallagher, chairman of the Mayor's Professional Sports Advisory Committee in Phoenix, as saying: "I'd say this move is done. I'm pleased we're going to have an NFL football team, but it's too bad that someone has to lose one for us to get one."

U.S. Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., said from his suburban Washington home Tuesday night that the move is virtually assured, adding that plans call for an announcement Monday — the day after the Eagles finish their season in Atlanta.

The Arizona Republic said the Eagles were ready to shift the franchise to Phoenix within days after Sunday's last game.

"I have a very reliable source who says that that is going to happen," DeConcini said. "I'll be very surprised if the move doesn't take place."

In New York, NFL spokesman Joe Browne said that a proposed refinancing agreement involving possible new ownership had arrived from the Eagles Tuesday morning but contained no reference to any Eagles' move.

"We have had no contact from either Leonard Tose or Susan Fletcher (Tose's daughter and team vice president) regarding a possible Eagles' transfer out of Philadelphia," Browne said.

Mayor W. Wilson Goode said the city was committed to keeping the Eagles and hoped to get a group of local businessmen to match any offer Tose receives from investors in Phoenix.

NBA roundup

King stands above crowd in Nicks' 110-106 win

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

It was a royal return for Bernard King.

The 6-foot-7 forward, who leads the National Basketball Association in scoring, had 34 points Tuesday night to lead the New York Knicks to a 110-106 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers in his first game after a 13-day absence because of a groin injury.

"After an injury like that, to put in a night like this . . ." New York Coach Hubie Brown said, his voice trailing off as he searched for words to describe what King means to the team. The Knicks had lost six of the seven games they played without King and they were facing a Philadelphia team that had won seven straight.

In other NBA games, it was Denver 123, Portland 122; Los Angeles Clippers 116, Golden State 104; Detroit 108, Chicago 101; Milwaukee 120, Cleveland 106; Utah 85, Washington 82; Boston 130, New Jersey 121; Kansas City 121, San Antonio 120; and Phoenix 120, Houston 112.

King said he was unsure how well he could play after the two-week layoff, but he knew the team needed his leadership.

"Even if I wasn't effective tonight, I wanted to help the team mentally," he said.

The 76ers got 23 points from center Moses Malone and 17 each from guards Andrew Toney and Maurice Cheeks.

Celtics 130, Nets 121
Boston improved its record to 19-2 as Danny Ainge scored 15 of his career-high 25 points in the pivotal fourth quarter against New Jersey. The Nets, with only eight players in uniform because of injuries, overcame a 10-point deficit in the second quarter as Otis Birdsong scored 18 of his 42 points in the period. New Jersey took a three-point lead into the final 12 minutes, but the Celtics outscored the Nets 39-27 in the fourth period.

Larry Bird led Boston with 35 points and Robert Parish added 26. Micheal Ray Richardson had 31 points and 16 assists for the Nets. Nuggets 123, Trail Blazers 122

Denver opened a three-game lead over Houston in the Midwest Division and stayed unbeaten in 10 home games this season as Alex English scored 32 points and Calvin Natt 25 against Portland.

Kiki Vandeweghe and Mychal Thompson scored 28 points apiece to lead the Trail Blazers, who lost a chance to win the game when Jim Paxson missed an eight-foot shot at the buzzer.

Suns 120, Rockets 112
Phoenix pulled within a half-game of the Pacific Division lead when Maurice Lucas scored eight of his season-high 22 points in a 2½-minute span late in the fourth quarter.

The Suns led 67-48 early in the second half, but Ralph Sampson, who had 13 of his 26 points in the fourth quarter for the Rockets, cut the deficit to 102-99 with 3:55 left. Lucas' spurt then helped Phoenix to a comfortable 114-106 advantage with 1:10 left.

Bucks 120, Cavaliers 106
Milwaukee took over sole possession of first place in the Central Division with a victory over Cleveland as Sidney Moncrief scored 30 points.

The Bucks held the Cavaliers to 29 percent field-goal shooting in the second half while outscoring them 63-42 to wipe out a 64-57 halftime deficit.

Cleveland lost its sixth straight game to fall to 2-18 despite 27 points from Roy Hinson. Terry Cummings had 25 points and Kevin Grevey 23 for Milwaukee.

Pistons 108, Bulls 101

Terry Tyler had a season-high 26 points and Vinnie Johnson added 24 as Detroit knocked Chicago out of a first-place tie with Milwaukee.

Michael Jordan had 27 points to lead the Bulls, who had won their previous five games. Isiah Thomas had 22 points for the Pistons, while Bill Laimbeer pulled down 23 rebounds.

Jazz 85, Bullets 82
Adrian Dantley scored 32 points, including a decisive three-point play with 13 seconds left, to lift Utah over Washington.

The Bullets, who got 23 points from Greg Ballard, led 82-81 before Dantley's driving layup and free throw put the Jazz ahead.

Kings 121, Spurs 120
Kansas City also used a late three-point play to beat San Antonio. The Kings, who got a season-high 26 points from Mark Olberding, trailed 120-118 before Larry Drew drove the lane and was fouled with 17 seconds left.

After Drew's free throw broke the 120-120 tie, Kansas City's LaSalle Thompson intercepted a pass intended for Artis Gilmore, who led the Spurs with 27 points.

Clippers 116, Warriors 104
Rookie Michael Cage, making only his second start, had seven points during Los Angeles' 11-0 streak in just over a minute late in the third period.

The Warriors, who got 37 points from Purvis Short, tied the game 73-73 with 1:28 to go in the third quarter before the Clippers' decisive streak.

Norm Nixon led Los Angeles with 22 points, while Cage scored 17, his season high.

On The Run

Sophomore Susie Kalka leads a Hereford fast break in the District 3-5A game between the Whitefaces and Plainview Bulldogs. Joyce Acy (52) is step for step with Kalka.

Don't drink and drive!

The week of Dec. 9-15 has been set aside by a resolution of Congress as National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week.

It is no coincidence that this falls at the start of another holiday season and should serve as an excellent reminder of the tragic problem that faces every American community—the drunk driver.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, alcohol is involved in over two million motor vehicle crashes each year. Over 650,000 persons per year are injured in alcohol-related traffic accidents. Of all the drivers killed each year, over 50 percent are legally intoxicated. The problem is so massive that the litany of statistics can go on and on. The data are numbing. Yet for each fatality there exists major pain and suffering—death and suffering that need not have occurred.

The drunk and drugged driving problem is especially tragic for our youth. Drunk driving is the leading cause of death for the 15 to 24 age group. The overall death rate in our nation is declining for all ages except for our youth; on an average day, 14 teenagers are killed and 360 teens are injured in motor vehicle accidents. No community is isolated from this problem.

Efforts to reverse this trend are now underway in many areas by many organizations. Radio Station KPAN of Hereford is joining broadcasters across the nation in targeting this holiday for an all-out push to raise the public consciousness about the dangers of drinking and driving.

KPAN will be providing free air time for public service announcements, editorials and programs about the drunk driving issue. They will be calling on citizens of the community to lend support to this campaign in the weeks ahead.

Drunk driving is a national tragedy, but the solution starts on the local scene. No one can carry the message alone, but each of us can protect our friends and loved ones and make the message clear: Don't drink and drive!

Shower honors Baldwin

Robin Dawn Baldwin, Dec. 21 bride-elect of Joseph Brice Diller, was recently honored with a bridal shower at the E.B. Black House.

The honoree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Baldwin of Hereford.

Kandi Sparkman served refreshments of coffee, spiced tea, sausage balls, miniature cinnamon rolls and assorted fruits from a table decorated with a silk floral arrangement in the brides' chosen colors of smokey blue and mauve.

As a hostess gift, Miss Baldwin was given a kitchen center.

Serving as hostesses were Vada Axe, Loretta Urbanczyk, Linda Frye, Evelyn Bodkin, Marilyn Kahlick, Irene Reinart, Lyla Mason, Betty Stephan, Nancy Paetzold, Marguerite Cole, Clara Reinart, Reta Reinart, Carleta Harkins, Virginia Self, Vicki Richards, Delores Foster, Marinda Janovec and Ruth Robbins.

The Cocoonat Grove nightclub fire in Boston killed 491 people on Nov. 28, 1942.

Brown to head WT anniversary

Sharon Brown, senior vice-president of the First National Bank of Amarillo, has been named general chairman of the 75th anniversary celebration for West Texas State University, announced T. Boone Pickens, chairman of the university's Board of Regents.
"Sharon Brown brings to the anniversary celebration all the enthusiasm, energy and caring it takes to put together an outstanding event," Pickens said.
"I am excited about the upcoming 75th anniversary celebration at West Texas State," he continued. "It seems appropriate to have a celebration at this time with a new president, a new direction and a renewed emphasis on excellence."
"These are signs of an even greater future for the school, and it is fitting to pause and look with pride on our past and with optimism and hope for our future," Pickens said.
WTSU's President Ed Roach added, "I believe that our 75th anniversary, coinciding with the beginning of my administration, indeed affords an opportunity to honor the past and enthusiastically set forward toward a new beginning.

Mrs. Brown, a 1966 business graduate of West Texas State University, is a manager in the marketing division of the First National Bank of Amarillo. She received the Amarillo Women's Network Career Achievement Award in 1981 and was a participant in the first year of Leadership Texas, a leadership development program for outstanding Texas women.
Among her many civic accomplishments, she has served as treasurer of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, a board member of the United Way of Amarillo and the Harrington Cancer Center, and a trustee of the Amarillo Art Center.
She currently serves on the Asset Management Committee for the Treasurer of the State of Texas and the Communications Committee of the American Bankers Association.

What's the future of Indian Democracy?

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Assaults on democratic institutions, communal violence, army interventions and the assassination of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi have raised the question of the strength of India's democracy.

"Democracy has a bright future in India. It is invigorating itself with every election," insists Ram Krishna Trivedi, chief commissioner of the country's eighth general election since independence from Great Britain in 1947.

A staggering 370 million of India's 730 million people will be eligible to cast ballots late this month.

A number of respected political commentators and academics recently interviewed in the Indian capital tend, with some reservations, to share the commissioner's optimism. Seen as the greatest potential threat is an insurgency that would fuel a rightist surge in the name of India's unity and end in an army take-over.

The traditionally apolitical, 1.2-million-strong army has, by government account, been called out of the barracks more than 370 times in the past four years, often to quell civil disturbances.

Most recently, troops were ordered to end Sikh-Hindu carnage following the Oct. 31 assassination of Mrs. Gandhi by two of her security men who were identified as members of India's Sikh minority.

"Army commanders are human: ask them to save the civilian administration time after time and they will begin to get ideas... Military rule is no longer unthinkable," wrote the news magazine Imprint, labeling the current state of affairs as "the politics of uncertainty."

Another common theme among independent observers is the erosion of democratic institutions during Mrs. Gandhi's 15 years at the helm and uncertainty whether her successor and son Rajiv Gandhi, a 40-year-old former airline pilot, will have the power, ability and desire to make necessary changes.

The last few years of Mrs. Gandhi's tenure saw an unprecedented concentration of power in the executive and the prime minister's "kitchen cabinet," an emasculation of Parliament and its ruling Congress Party and the toppling or attempts at toppling key opponents through at best questionable constitutional means.

V. Tarkunde, a prominent lawyer and civil rights leader, said Mrs. Gandhi packed courts with pliable supporters rather than follow a tradition of allowing the judiciary to appoint judges. He also cited curbs on the press, misuse of government-controlled television and radio and a law of preventive detention in government-declared "terrorist areas."

Volunteer won't give up hope

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Despite the denial of county funds to finance a second liver transplant for a 5-year-old girl who is a ward of the county, a volunteer social worker says she will not give up the fight.

"As far as I am concerned my next step is to try the Legislature," said Vella Connally. "If she is a ward of the county, she is a ward of the state."

Ector County commissioners voted 4-1 at an emergency meeting Monday to deny funds to pay nearly $180,000 in hospital bills for Mary Evelyn Mosqueda, a patient in Dallas Children's Medical Center awaiting her second liver transplant in six months.

"We can't pay for everyone that is sick," Commissioner Julian Pressly said.

County Attorney Gary Garrison said he had talked to the state attorney general's office, which said the county had no legal liability to pay the bill.

"Harsh as it may sound, we have to look at reality," Garrison said.

When an agreement between the county and the state to care for the girl was reached, it was never intended to include paying for "organ transplants," Garrison said.

Mary Evelyn's mother gave her up shortly after birth on Aug. 6, 1979. Since then, the child has been cared for by the Texas Department of Human Resources and the Ector County Children's Services Board, a group that acts as a liaison between state and county agencies.

The mother was 16 at the time and already was in foster care herself. At birth, Mary Evelyn was diagnosed as having biliary atresia, which kept the infant's liver from secreting bile.

Ms. Connally, a savings and loan vice president and volunteer board member who has worked on Mary Evelyn's case, said the girl's situation is much different than others.

"There may be 300 children in the state of Texas in need of liver transplants, but Mary Evelyn is the only ward of the state," Ms. Connally said Tuesday.

She cited the case of Ashley Bailey, a 14-month-old from the West Texas town of Clyde, for whom President Reagan issued a national appeal for help toward a liver transplant.

The girl died Nov. 11, 1983, after a 10-month wait for an operation, but after Reagan's radio appeal, Texas Gov. Mark White's call for contributions to her hospital bills and family friends raised more than $100,000 through such events as bake sales and golf tournaments.

The Texas Legislature also granted $41,000 toward the operation and the federal government donated another $51,000.

Odessa lawyer Jimmy Edwards, chairman of the children's board, told commissioners it was their obligation to pay for the child's medical bills.

"Separate your minds from the amount of money involved and consider your legal responsibilities," Edwards said.

But Garrison said for the next fiscal year, the county's branch of the state agency has only $17,000 to pay for relatively minor medical expenses.

Mary Evelyn underwent her liver transplant last June at the University of Minnesota Hospitals. State Medicaid and donations totaling $83,000 paid for the child's medical expenses and she was sent home after a month's stay.

But her body began to reject the new liver, and she was returned to Minneapolis. She now has an outstanding bill of $147,000, Ms. Connally said.

On Nov. 1, Mary Evelyn was transferred to the Dallas Children's Medical Center, where the first liver transplant in Texas recently was performed. Dallas also is closer to the North Central Texas community of Mineral Wells, where Mary Evelyn's foster parents live.

Ms. Connally said the bill at the Dallas facility now is about $33,000. She said the girl's final bill could total $400,000 and that the children's board has only $23 left for Mary Evelyn.

She said her group is forwarding donations totaling $5,000 to the Minneapolis hospital in a show of good faith efforts to pay the bill.

It is uncertain how long the child can continue to live with her body in the state of rejection, Ms. Connally said.

"If she continues to hold her own as she has, we have bought some time," she said.

Hightower blames loss on one vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jack Hightower, who represented his conservative, Panhandle district in Congress for 10 years, says he lost his job because of one vote.

"I think that if two years ago I had stood up in the caucus or on the floor of the House on the first day of the session and voted against the Speaker, I would have been a hero, at least among these people, and probably would not even have had an opponent," Hightower said in a recent interview.

But like every other Democrat in the House, Hightower cast the ceremonial vote on the first day of the session for Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr.

Republicans used middle-class America's disenchantment with big government against incumbent Democrats this year. That disenchantment was symbolized by O'Neill, a Massachusetts congressman.

"I think Tip O'Neill was the name mentioned always in all of my opponent's advertising. He ran a tremendous amount of advertising saying I was Tip O'Neill's boy," Hightower says.

Hightower was one of three Democratic incumbents defeated in Texas. Tom Vandergriff, the former long-time mayor of Arlington, lost to economics teacher Richard Army.

Vandergriff spent $1 million, much of it his own money, to barely win the newly created seat in 1982. It had been expected to go Republican then.

Democrat Bill Patman had represented his southeast Texas district for two terms. He lost to Mac Sweeney of Wharton, a young, politically savvy former aide to John Connally and John Tower, who waged a well-financed campaign that caught Patman by surprise.

Hightower had been one of the Democratic "boll weevils," who went against their party's leaders in the House and supported President Reagan's economic program in 1981.

Nevertheless, Republicans targeted Hightower's district this year. Even he admits it was ripe. It had previously been held by a Republican — Bob Price — and Hightower had less than a firm grasp on it. He won re-election with only 55 percent of the vote in 1980.

The worldwide oil glut took a toll on the earnings of certain major producers. However, some giant firms were cushioned by their profits in other areas — thanks to corporate diversifications.
