

YMCA nearing challenge goal

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN

Sparked by a $25,000 "challenge grant" from the Jim Hill Estate, the Hereford YMCA is well on the way toward raising $50,000 for furnishings and equipment in the new "Y" facility at 500 E. 15th St.

When the YMCA board set out last month to raise $75,000 to pay off furnishings and equipment, the Jim Hill Estate trustees agreed to pay the total $25,000 if the community came up with $50,000.

"We need just $13,000 now to reach our goal," it was announced this week by Charles Hoover, president of the YMCA board. "We invite and encourage all interested citizens to participate and become involved," said Hoover.

"The response of the community to meet this new challenge has been great," noted Hoover. "If we overlooked making any personal contacts during our building drive, we welcome these people to participate in this campaign," he added.

The Jim Hill Estate is one of the largest supporters of the Y's building program, donating $50,000 to help launch the $925,000 capital improvement project in July, 1983. That goal was reached last August. When the need for funds to pay for equipment was shown, the estate trustees approved the matching grant.

The YMCA, which started here in 1976, opened the doors on its new facility in January and held a formal dedication and open house Feb. 3. Since the opening of the facility, membership and program participation has grown rapidly, according to Weldon Knabe, executive manager.

Recent programs included youth basketball with 38 teams, co-ed church league volleyball with 36 teams, high school basketball with 6 teams, men's basketball with 8 teams, a racquetball tournament with 72 entries, and an invitational volleyball tournament with 39 teams.

Activities now in progress include a men's volleyball league, a women's volleyball league, church league softball, women's racquetball league, Service Club Olympics, gymnastics, karate, morning exercise

For chronic patients

Moon to head new branch

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

After serving eight years as director of Hereford's Family Services Center, 35-year-old Mike Moon has been chosen to head a new branch of services at the center that will concentrate on chronic or long-term clients who need help living outside an institutional setting.

Moon was chosen for the job, which he describes as "case manager," as part of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation's priority of providing a comprehensive system of services to former mental patients in an effort to prevent re-hospitalization.

While HFS has already been providing assistance to such persons, Moon said the service will be "expanded and even intensified" with his move. He will continue to serve clients in Deaf Smith and Oldham Counties.

"The chronic client has the fewest resources - financially, vocational, educationally, and even emotionally," Moon said. "Case management is designed to make sure the client has an overall, comprehensive treatment package."

Moon said he is looking forward to the challenge of the job, which will officially begin as soon as a new center director is found.

"There is a population whose needs have long been underestimated and underserved," he explained. "When people move from the safe and structured environment of a state hospital to suddenly having to make many more decisions on a daily basis, it can be very overwhelming."

Moon emphasized that the work he will do is not a "one-person show." He said he will work closely with the Texas Rehabilitation Commission and local employers.

"I can't emphasize enough how important the support of the community is," he said. "So far, I have seen some pretty solid support from employers, church and civic organizations as well as individuals."

Providing practical information will be a big part of the job, Moon said. He will be helping his clients with such things as the responsibility of preparing three meals a day, personal hygiene and obtaining employment.

"It's something that we've always been doing," Moon added. "We're just going to put more energy into it."

A southwest Wisconsin native, Moon earned a bachelor's degree in Spanish and secondary education from St. John's University in Collegeville, Minn. He holds a master's degree in social work from Rutgers College, and is a certified social worker and advanced clinical practitioner.

Before joining HFS he worked for a private counseling agency in Milwaukee.

Wichita Falls suffers flooding

By The Associated Press

Heavy rains in North Central Texas caused flooding Wednesday in Wichita Falls, forcing some residents from their homes, and forecasters said a flash flood watch would remain in effect for the South Plains early today.

In Wichita Falls, floodwaters were as high as three feet in some streets Wednesday after rains dumped up to five inches of rain there, the Wichita Falls Record News said.

The Red Cross set up an emergency shelter at an elementary school in Wichita Falls, and about 29 residents were staying at the shelter Wednesday night.

As many as two dozen Red Cross volunteers were working throughout the city Wednesday helping flooded-out families and assessing damage.

Lake Wichita ran over its spillway

Wednesday at about 7 p.m. City Engineer David Zelenok said Holiday Creek rose about three feet between 9:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m., while McGrath Creek rose two feet in the same hour.

Other than some flooded roadways, most cities in the region were spared any serious inconvenience by the storms Wednesday, the Record News said.

A large part of North Texas and eastern portions of the South Plains was under a flash flood watch as the storms roared across the state.

A tornado watch was in effect for a large part of West Texas Wednesday, but there were no reports of twisters despite ideal conditions, the National Weather Service said.

Several tornadoes were sighted in southeastern New Mexico Wednesday.

12 inspectors due to survey drift here

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Department of Agriculture says it will have 12 inspectors in five Panhandle counties the next few weeks watching for pesticide drift.

"We want to re-emphasize we are not trying to stop anyone from killing the bugs and weeds in their own fields," said Cliff Todd, head of field operations. "We just want to make sure that when they do treat their fields, they don't wipe out their neighbors' crops at the same time."

Last summer, drifting pesticides caused the TDA to seek more than $24,000 in fines from 38 pesticide applicators and dealers for damage to cotton crops in Deaf Smith, Parmer and Castro counties. A private action lawsuit also was filed by cotton farmers seeking more than $5 million in damages.

The inspectors also will be in Oldham and Collingsworth counties.

Todd said the inspectors would be checking records of Panhandle pesticide applicators and dealers, inspecting aircraft, pulling soil samples, as well as taking daily temperatures and wind speeds.

Alleged spy cleared security checks twice

WASHINGTON (AP) - Even during the time that the government says Jerry A. Whitworth was spying for the Soviet Union, the Defense Department twice reinstated his clearance to handle top secrets.

The Pentagon said Wednesday that Whitworth, 45, a retired Navy radioman, was re-investigated for security clearance in 1989 and in 1978 and retained his top secret rating. On Monday he was arrested in California and charged with stealing classified communications documents from 1965 until he retired from the Navy in 1983.

Whitworth is one of four men charged with conspiring to pass important Navy secrets to the Soviets in a 20-year operation. All held clearances, including the alleged ringleader, John Anthony Walker Jr., whom his ex-wife claims needed money to shore up a failing South Carolina bar and restaurant in which he had invested.

Walker began spying for the Soviets in the late 1960s and made "well over $100,000," Barbara Crowley Walker was quoted as saying in today's Los Angeles Times.

But Walker's state-appointed attorney said Wednesday that a federal tax lien placed on Walker's property has left him with "negative net worth" and will make it impossible for him to afford a private lawyer.

The Internal Revenue Service registered the lien on a rural South Carolina property Walker had been renting to the local chapter of the administration, said he is "convinced we've got to clean up this tax system ... or we stand in grave danger of losing the way to support this government." He endorsed most of the plan, saying the most important requirement of reform is to reduce tax rates, as the president proposes to do.

Donald C. Lubick, assistant treasury secretary for tax policy during the Carter administration, said the president's plan unfairly relies on those who benefit by deducting state and local taxes to foot the bill for much of the tax overhaul. Reagan wants to repeal that deduction.

Other testimony: -John E. Chapoton, assistant secretary for tax policy during Reagan's first term, called the plan a move in the right direction and said it would reduce incentives for individuals to seek tax shelters.

-Mortimer Caplin, IRS commissioner during the Kennedy years, said the tax system has been overused for social purposes. He Reagan's plan is a good beginning - but not the final word - and is far from being a simplification.

"If the rent remains unrented, the owner must go to court and file a lawsuit to have the resident evicted," he said.

Police arrest three

Hereford police made two arrests for driving while intoxicated and one for public intoxication Wednesday. They also arrested a juvenile on reckless driving charges.

Three reports of criminal mischief were investigated - a broken window at a Main Street business, a BB gun shooting through windows at a home on Northwest Drive and a prankster throwing breaker switches at a local apartment complex.

Police also talked to a mother who said five boys were picking on her son.

Hereford volunteer firemen made just one call; to extinguish a minor pickup fire.

The sheriff's office reported that a gun thought to be stolen from Ray Brown of Summerfield has been returned to the owner.

Brown said a friend had borrowed it without his knowledge and the man brought the gun back after learning it had been reported stolen.

County unemployment drops

Unemployment in Deaf Smith County dropped from 10.4 percent in March to 8.8 percent in April, the Texas Employment Commission reported.

Preliminary figures for April showed a civilian labor force of 8,200, with 7,476 persons employed. The March figure had been the highest so far in 1985, up from 8.9 in January and 9.0 in February.

Unemployment for April was only 2.4 percent in Parmer County and 5.8 in Castro County. All three counties are served by the Hereford TEC office.

New law makes few changes

AUSTIN (AP) - A recently signed bill clarifying the rights of both landlords and tenants makes "no substantive changes" from previous law, according to Jerry A. Adams, executive vice president of the Texas Apartment Association.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Bill Messer, D-Dallas, and Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, was signed into law last Thursday by Gov. Mark White.

"This bill clarifies changes and omissions from the 1983 recodification," Adams said.

One section of the bill says if a landlord or landlord's agent changes the door lock of a tenant who is delinquent in paying rent, written notice must be placed on the tenant's front door and a new key must be provided to the tenant at any hour, regardless of whether the rent is paid or not.

The words "landlord's agent" and "at any hour" were added by the recently adjourned Legislature.

"The Texas Property Code has always stated, and still does, that an owner cannot permanently lock a resident out of an apartment," Adams said. "That owner must provide the key and allow the resident back into the apartment; not to remove his or her property, but to continue living there."

Gatesville welcomes new prison

WACO, Texas (AP) — Gatesville appears to have the backing it needs to become the site of a new $60 million prison that would house 2,250 male inmates, officials say.

And the city would welcome the prison with open arms, says Luis Lobo, Gatesville assistant city manager. "We want it. It's as simple as that," Lobo told the Waco Tribune-Herald Wednesday.

The Texas Legislature authorized the prison during the recently completed session by allowing the Texas Department of Corrections to sell 3,000 acres of land in Fort Bend County to finance a $60 million prison that would ease overcrowding.

The bill is being revised and has not been signed by Gov. Mark White.

State Rep. Bob Melton, D-Gatesville, said Wednesday the proposed new prison could employ 750 people and that the sites being considered are in Navasota, Palestine and Gatesville, three cities that already have TDC units.

Nightclub's permit revoked

AUSTIN (AP) — A Conroe nightclub's permit to serve alcoholic beverages was revoked and the club, where a teen-ager allegedly drank himself to death, was ordered closed, an official with the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission said.

Allen Johnson, director of hearings for the commission, said Wednesday the agency had not held a formal hearing on whether to strip the liquor license held by Pelley's Club of Conroe.

The case was settled "on the courthouse steps, so to speak," Johnson said.

The club lost its license for allegedly serving liquor to Gary Pennington, 19, of Magnolia.

Johnson said lawyers for the commission; Pennington's mother, Nelda Hines; Pelley's; and the insurance company that insured the club met for four hours behind closed doors Wednesday and agreed to cancel the club's permit to serve alcoholic beverages.

Homosexual ministers issue

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A Texas man who has been elected moderator of the 197th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) says he feels a "raw terror" over expected debate on homosexual ministers.

But William H. Wilson, 61, an elder of a congregation in McAllen, Texas, said after his election Wednesday he remains openminded on the issue.

The 600 voting delegates attending the nine-day conference at the Indiana Convention Center are expected to discuss homosexuality as well as other topics as it works to set guidelines for the church.

Wilson, responding with other moderator candidates in a question-and-answer session before his election, admitted to a "raw terror" of the issue, which has split the traditionally liberal church.

He said he would "not close the door at this point" to the prospect of homosexual Presbyterian ministers, comparing the current debate to the church's previous division over the participation of blacks and women.

The church ruled at its 1978 General Assembly that it would not ordain "unrepentant, self-affirming, practicing" homosexuals.

Even so, according to a spokesman for the Presbyterian group, Lesbian-Gay Concerns, homosexuals enjoy a "tremendous amount of support," in the church.

Patrolman kicked to death

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Motorcycle patrolman Johnnie C. Corbin was sprawled dead in the street after being rammed by a car from behind when the driver got out and began kicking him, his killing rage sparked by a $4 parking ticket, police said.

The driver in Wednesday's attack, 43-year-old unemployed ex-convict Willie Taylor Jr., was in custody today on a first-degree murder charge, police said.

"He said his anger got the best of him," Capt. Robert Richters, commander of the police homicide division, said of the suspect at a news conference.

Agca was trained as terrorist

ROME (AP) — Mehmet Ali Agca, the man convicted of trying to kill the pope, told a court today that he was trained as a terrorist in Syria by Bulgarian and Czechoslovak experts and claimed the Soviet Union is the center of international terrorism.

Three Bulgarians and four Turks are on trial on charges of complicity with Agca in the May 13, 1981, shooting of Pope John Paul II. Agca is the main witness against them.

"In 1977, I was in Syria, in Latakia, where I was trained with a group of friends, Gray Wolves, by Bulgarian and Czech experts," he said, alternating between Italian and Turkish through an interpreter.

The Gray Wolves were a group of right-wing Turkish terrorists. "This group (in the camp) included Western terrorists from France, Italy, Spain and Germany," he said. "But I didn't speak any foreign languages then so I didn't talk to anyone."

"This camp was under the control of the Syrian secret service," he said.

Then turning toward the audience, he smiled and said in a raised voice, "I affirm with certainty that the political and financial center of international terrorism is the Soviet Union."

Israeli troops remain in Lebanon

EDITOR'S NOTE — This story was submitted to the Israeli military censor, who made some changes.

NAQOURA PORT, Lebanon (AP) — Hundreds of Israeli troops remained in south Lebanon today despite the government's statement it would have all its forces out by the third anniversary of Israel's June 6 invasion of Lebanon.

Military sources in Tel Aviv said the pullout would be completed "in the very near future." But the sources, who demanded anonymity, declined to give a target date for the final pullout.

Israeli officials have said Israel would downplay the final phases of its staged pullout. In a wide-ranging interview with Prime Minister Shimon Peres on national television Wednesday night, no mention was made of Lebanon or the Israeli pullout.

Peres said in an interview with the Europe 1 radio station earlier this week that "several dozen" Israeli soldiers would remain in Lebanon for a few weeks even after the withdrawal was completed.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said this week in Washington that Israel may delay the withdrawal of the last units for one or more weeks.

He did not give a reason for the delay, but his statement followed the abduction by Amal, the Shiite Moslem militia, of 25 members of the South Lebanon Army, the Christian-dominated militia Israel is trying to build up to help guard its border.

General Motors sees electronics as new frontier for automobiles

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corp.'s willingness to spend $5 billion for Hughes Aircraft Co. can be explained by looking under the hood of a new car.

"The cost of computers and electronics will be $1,200 a car by 1990 compared with $500 today. I think GM wants to make sure it has the right pieces," said Arthur Davis, an auto industry analyst.

GM Chairman Roger B. Smith announced Wednesday his company was the winner in the nationwide blind bidding for Hughes, offering $2.7 billion cash and more than $2.3 billion in stock for the defense electronics specialist.

For the fourth year in a row, Texans paid more in Federal taxes than residents of any other state for each dollar in federal grants received.

Congressman Larry Combest says a study by the Tax Foundation shows reduced federal spending would not harm Texas nearly as much as it would some other states.

According to the Tax Foundation study, Texans paid $1.61 in federal taxes for every $1 of federal grants received in fiscal 1984. That same year, Texas received only $4.13 billion in federal grants, but paid $6.64 billion in federal taxes.

The study by the Foundation shows the federal government disbursed $92.8 billion in grants-in-aid to state and local governments in 1984, 4.5 percent more than in 1983. The 4.5 percent increase was sharply lower than the annual 15 percent increases common in the 1970's.

The five largest grant programs in 1984 were interstate highway construction, aid to families with dependent children, general revenue sharing, Medicaid, and subsidized housing. Overall, these categories accounted for $47.8 billion—more than 51 percent of the total grants awarded.

Texas was one of 19 states whose citizens paid more in federal taxes than they received in federal grants.

The 131 million persons living in these states paid $53.84 billion in federal taxes so that their states could receive $44.25 billion in grant money. On the average, residents of these 19 "paying" states paid $1.22 in federal taxes for each dollar their state received in federal monies.

"The study reinforces the concept I favor of keeping the dollars at home to be spent by the people without needless red tape, bureaucracy and eventually revenue loss," Combest said.

"For the past four years, Texas have sent a buck up to Washington and gotten 62 cents back from the federal government. This type of system certainly is not fair and should be revised," the congressman added.

The Tax Foundation is a non-profit, non-partisan research organization founded in 1937 to monitor tax and fiscal activities at all levels of government.

GM's biggest domestic rival, Ford Motor Co., and Boeing Co. also were prime bidders.

Thomas O'Grady, a senior director of the research firm Chase Automotive Services, said GM went for Hughes as a way to improve its electronics quickly in the face of mounting competition from imported Japanese cars, which carry a significant cost advantage and are growing in sophistication.

Aerospace, O'Grady said, "has been geared toward high tech for a long time because of competition and investment funding from the government." For that reason, he expects Ford to shop for another aerospace partner.

"The Japanese have the lead in automotive electronics," said John Hammond, senior economist and automotive industry analyst at Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, Mass. "They were already leading in automotive design."

Automakers today are using computers and miniature electronics systems for precise control of emissions and gasoline use on fuel-injected engines. Use of electronics in transmissions and for exotic options such as satellite navigation systems are coming.

"I think we've made the major developments already in terms of road handling and safety and emissions and fuel economy and the big thing left is electronics," Smith said at the New York news conference where the winning bid was announced. "It's the new frontier."

GM also may count on Hughes for help in the electronic retooling of its vast system of 34 North American assembly plants and 100-plus parts plants as the automaker steps up its use of robots and automated machines and the mating of those systems with computers.

day and one of the twisters damaged the roof of a vacant house when it briefly touched down in Hobbs, authorities said.

Some major highways and farm-to-market roads in Stonewall, Haskell and Fisher counties in West Texas remained under water Wednesday afternoon, but only a couple of farm roads remained closed, the weather service said.

The weather service cautioned motorists in those areas not to drive through swift or deep water, while residents were warned to watch for flash flood warnings.

Heavy rains flooded city streets and creeks Wednesday evening in Sherman, but police there had no reports of injuries. The area remained under a flash flood watch in the evening and thunderstorms were in the Dallas area by 7:30 p.m.

Flooding was reported in Morton on Tuesday, where up to 6.5 inches of rain inundated most roads in the area and forced the evacuation of 15 to 20 area families.

Child sex ring stuns rural East Texas town

RYE, Texas (AP) — Investigators in a subdivision of this small East Texas community say they fear five or six more girls may be victims of an alleged child-sex ring already linked to sexual assaults of four children.

Liberty County authorities have learned that during the past four years, four girls in Hoop-and-Holler ages 9 to 13 allegedly were offered gifts in exchange for participating in sex acts with numerous men.

"It was like prostitution, but they didn't know it," said Houston Police Vice Officer Steve Andrews, who is helping with the investigation.

"I get the impression they thought that was the way life was, the way to get nice things," Andrews told the Houston Chronicle in a story published Wednesday.

Hoop-and-Holler is a subdivision of about 200 residents that was carved from the forested Big Thicket area 15 years ago.

Sandy dirt roads traverse the community, which is characterized by homes ranging from two-story wood-frame residences to shanties made of garbage bags. Some houses still lack electricity and running water, and most feature farm animals and vegetable gardens.

Authorities learned of the alleged child-sex ring May 8 when four girls called police and asked to tell "the whole story of what was going on," said Liberty County Constable Paul Lognion.

The girls, who include three sisters, told investigators their initiation into the alleged child-sex ring began around their ninth birthdays. They were rewarded for their favors with new clothes, makeup, camera film and a trip to Astroworld amusement park in Houston.

Six men were charged last Friday with aggravated sexual assault of children. Arrest warrants were issued for two other men.

Authorities say the girls, including three sisters, have given videotaped statements.

One of the girls, age 12, was found living in a camper of a pickup truck with a man, his wife and three young children.

Robert Ziriach, a 47-year-old construction worker from Baytown, was charged with sexual abuse and held in the Liberty County Jail on $50,000 bond.

Ziriach contends the girl was only a baby sitter and that he was "trying to get her out of a bad environment."

said Liberty County Sheriff E.W. "Sonny" Applebe.

"But the girls say he has had sex with them and once even whipped his wife in an effort to force her to participate," Applebe said.

Applebe said investigators feared other young girls may also be involved.

Also charged are William Ralph Casey, 26, Lonnie James Goodson, 22, both of Hoop-and-Holler; Thomas Van Hook, 31, of Sour Lake; Armando Alvarez Mendoza, 64, of Houston and Valentine Rivera, 57, of Hitchcock. All were jailed on bonds ranging from $25,000 to $35,000, Applebe said.

The disclosure that Whitworth passed re-investigation raised questions about the thoroughness of the periodic loyalty checks that are supposed to be conducted among military people, government workers and contractors' employees who are cleared to handle confidential government papers.

Seminar discussed by Child Welfare Board

Child Welfare Board members met Wednesday afternoon at the Deaf Smith County courthouse with Bill Johnson, chairman, presiding.

The Rev. Ron Cook reported that he had contacted Dr. Harold Holder, superintendent of schools, about showing a film on child abuse next year. The film will be shown to children from kindergarten through third grade.

Principals on all school campuses had approved the film earlier.

The group also discussed the possibility of hosting a seminar for professional people to work with abused children. The event will be held for law enforcement personnel, medical and school officials and child welfare board members.

Mysedia Smith was welcomed to the board after her appointment was approved by county commissioners.

It was announced that Lindsey Shank, child welfare worker, has been transferred to Perryton. Case workers at the present time are Colleen Weaver and Barbara Ferraresi.

Wanda Spain and Earlene Cook were recognized by those present. They included Charlie Ruiz, Avis White, Johnson, Smith, Bill Devers, Cook and Lavon Nieman.

Jehovah's Witnesses convention scheduled

Amarillo will experience a sudden temporary growth in population of some 6,000 come June. The reason? Amarillo is one of 59 cities in the U.S. selected to host conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses during the summer of 1985.

A total of 112 "Integrity Keepers" district conventions of the group will be held in teh 59 cities selected. Stanley Weigel, spokesman at their world headquarters in New York City, said the events are expected to attract over 1,100,000 delegates in all.

Angelo C. Manera, convention manager for Amarillo, commented on the convention theme "Integrity Keepers."

"There has been a gradual diluting of strict Bible laws and principles for many years so that now many people do not know what to believe," he said.

"For example, The Bible says God hates divorcing, but divorce rates have never been higher. It says to flee from fornication but the world is fleeing toward fornication. God's law stated that those causing an abortion must forfeit their life for the life of the aborted child. Crimes such as robbery, murder and rape are all in violation of God's commandments," Manera stated.

"So those claiming to be Christians must rightly ask themselves if they are keeping integrity to God's stated will and commandments," he concluded.

The Amarillo convention is scheduled in the Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum for the dates of June 13-16. About 6,000 delegates are expected from Eastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle.

NBA title series tied 2-2

Last-second shot gives Celtics victory

By KEN PETERS

AP Sports Writer
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — It seemed almost as if time were suspended momentarily as Dennis Johnson's long-range jumper floated toward the basket.

But two seconds after the shot left his hand and just as the buzzer sounded, the ball swished through the net and the Boston Celtics had beaten the Lakers to even the National Basketball Association Championship Series at 2-2.

"I figured it had a 50-50 chance of going in," Johnson said after his 22-footer beat Los Angeles 107-105 Wednesday night at the Forum.

"The play was set up to take the clock down to five seconds," Johnson explained, "with Larry (Bird) coming off the pick."

Bird dribbled, was double-teamed by Laker defenders, then passed off to the wide-open Johnson, who immediately fired the ball.

"I saw Byron (Scott) and Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar) running toward me so I figured I'd make the shot a little higher," Johnson said. "It felt good."

Boston Coach K.C. Jones said he didn't have time to worry about Johnson's shot, commenting, "My only thought was to watch the spin on the ball and see if it went in. I was watching the same as everybody else in the place."

The Lakers' Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who'd tied the score at 105 with a basket just 19 seconds earlier, said, "We just lost a tough game at the buzzer. All we can do now is forget this game and look ahead to Friday."

Dennis Johnson, who hadn't been much of a factor in the opening three contests of the title series, had 27 points for Boston this time.

Kevin McHale paced the Celtics' scoring with 28 points, while Bird added 26.

McHale kept the Celtics in the game during the first three quarters, then Bird took control with outstanding all-around play in the fourth before Johnson nailed down the victory at the gun.

The Lakers, who led 92-85 early in the fourth quarter before Boston surged back, were paced by Abdul-Jabbar with 21 points and "Magic" Johnson with 20.

Unlike the first three games of the series, this one was close most of the way. And, unlike the third game, it was scuffle-free.

NBA Vice President Scotty Stirling had met with Jones and Lakers Coach Pat Riley prior to the game, ostensibly to talk about the rough play that had characterized the third game and resulted in some tough talk from both sides.

"It was the best of the games we've played," said Dennis Johnson. "There were no brawls and there just were not too many faws in the game."

"I thought the game was played very aggressively but fairly," Riley added.

The fifth game is scheduled here Friday night at the Forum. The series then shifts back to Boston for a sixth game on Sunday, and, if necessary, a seventh on Tuesday.

"We knew when we got here we had to win one," said the Celtics'

Johnson. "Now we just have to bring some intensity back Friday night like we had in this game."

"The series is tied both numerically and emotionally," said Riley. "We have a dagger in us a little bit now, but we just have to come back strong Friday night."

"We have to win, and I think we will, and go back down the road to Boston."

Astros' bench provides key hits

By PAUL LeBAR
AP Sports Writer
Mark Bailey belted a two-run homer for benefit of relatives and friends, but the Houston Astros' most crushing blows came later.

"Our bench came through tonight," said Manager Bob Lillis after an 8-3 victory Wednesday night over the St. Louis Cardinals. "It was important to come back and score after they came back in the sixth."

Lillis, after watching St. Louis all but erase Houston's 4-0 lead, elected to send up two pinch-hitters in the eighth inning.

Phil Garner first responded with a single that followed a leadoff error on Terry Puhl's grounder. One out later, after Kevin Bass had struck out, Enos Cabell rapped a two-run double that restored a 6-4 Astros command.

"With as much speed as they've got, no lead is safe," Lillis said of his late moves against the Cards.

"They had momentum. With their young kids coming up again, we'd be in trouble," said Cabell. "Once they get on, nobody can throw them out."

Expos 6, Giants 0

Mickey Mahler has spent the better part of the past five baseball seasons on a bus traveling from one minor-league city to another. Since 1980, he's been cut by five major-league teams, while his younger brother Rick has found a home with the Atlanta Braves, Mickey's original team.

Both brothers are pitchers. Rick got off to a 7-0 start this season for the Braves, while Mickey was pitching for Indianapolis in the American Association.

Suddenly, fortunes have changed. The 31-year-old Rick has lost five of his last six decisions, and 32-year-old Mickey, called up by the Montreal Expos last weekend, pitched the first shutout of his career, allowing just one infield hit, to beat San Francisco 6-0 Wednesday night.

in Cincinnati's four-run sixth inning as the Reds rallied to beat Pittsburgh for their fourth straight victory. Knically's homer, his fourth, broke an 8-8 tie.

All of the sixth-inning runs were unearned, coming after an error by Pittsburgh shortstop Johnnie LeMaster. Dave Parker also homered for the Reds, and LeMaster homered for Pittsburgh.

The victory moved the Reds six games over .500 for the first time since 1981.

Padres 3, Phillies 1

LaMarr Hoyt pitched a four-hitter, equaling his career high with nine strikeouts, to beat the Phillies.

Terry Kennedy drove in two runs with a double, one of his three hits, and Steve Garvey homered.

American League roundup

Martinez hurls Orioles to win

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

Few have faulted Baltimore control artist Dennis Martinez for failing to throw strikes. In fact, when he went into a mysterious slump two seasons ago the problem was too many strikes — too many hittable strikes.

And that was his only problem Wednesday night, albeit a very minor one.

"He hit a fastball right down the middle of the plate," Martinez said of Jerry Narron's leadoff single in the third inning.

But that was the only hit the California Angels could muster as Martinez pitched the Orioles to a 4-0 victory.

"With a 3-and-2 count, I have to go with my fastball and make him hit the ball," Martinez said. "But unfortunately, he got it for a hit. That's what happens when a hitter is looking for one pitch."

Martinez made only 89 pitches, well below his average of about 130, and faced only one batter over the minimum in becoming the seventh Baltimore pitcher to notch 100 career victories.

Elsewhere in the American League, it was Toronto 5, Minnesota 0; Detroit 5, Seattle 2; and Milwaukee 10, Kansas City 2. Rain washed out the remainder of the schedule — Cleveland at Boston, Oakland at New York and Chicago at Texas. The latter is scheduled to be made up tonight in Texas.

Blue Jays 5, Twins 0
 Jesse Barfield hit two home runs and right-hander Doyle Alexander baffled Minnesota, which has lost 12 of 13 games, on six hits through 8 2-3 innings.

"When you're seeing pitches every day, the sliders start to look a little fatter," said Barfield, a platoon player last year who has been batting eighth against right-handers this season.

"Batting eighth doesn't bother me," said Barfield, who has hit safely in 19 of his last 22 games and slammed nine homers with 17 runs batted in during the streak.

Alexander, 7-2, who struck out five and walked two, gave up five singles and a double.

Tigers 5, Mariners 2
 Home runs by Detroit's Alejandro Sanchez and Tom Brookens backed the six-hit pitching of Jack Morris. Morris, 7-5, struck out eight and walked two while turning in his sixth complete game and averting a sweep of the three-game series by Seattle.

The Tigers had lost six of their previous eight games and left immediately for Toronto, where they open a four-game weekend series with the Blue Jays.

Royals 10, Brewers 2
 Milwaukee rookie Earnie Riles accomplished a rare baseball feat when he hit a three-run single.

The rookie shortstop's hit came in a six-run third inning off Mike Jones that helped rookie left-hander Ted Higuera to an easy victory over Kansas City.

Two were out in the Brewer third when Jim Gantner and Brian Giles singled to bring in Jones, who issued an intentional walk to Paul Molitor. The runners were moving when Riles hit a 3-2 pitch to left.

Rangers vote 24-0 in favor of strike

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers voted 24-0 Wednesday in favor of authorizing a major league players strike.

Pitcher Mike Mason, the 25th player on the roster, was not present for the strike vote before a scheduled game with the Chicago White Sox, which was rained out.

The Major League Players Association has not set a date for a strike. Acting director Donald Fehr has said a date probably would be set sometime before July 10.

So far, players have voted overwhelmingly to authorize the strike over several issues, including television contract money and an owners' proposal to set a salary cap.

Collapse of family life has caused major changes

The United States has fewer family support systems than any other nation in the modern world, said one of the leading authorities on education and child development during a recent lecture at Texas Christian University.

"In the area of health care, in the world of work - all across the board, we have the lowest percentage of our gross national product devoted to families and schools of any modern nation in the world," said Dr. Urie Bronfenbrenner of Cornell University.

"The change that has taken place in the American family at an accelerating pace since World War II represents an extra-ordinary phenomenon in the history of modern nations," he said. "It is the first time in recorded social history that such a rapid and radical change in the institution of the family has occurred in the absence of some major cataclysm like a full scale war, famine, epidemic, or economic collapse.

The three major consequential changes that have taken place in the American family are working women, single-parent families and an increase in the proportion of children under six years old living below the poverty line.

"In one year, the number of children under six living below the poverty line has increased from one-fifth to one quarter of all American children under six," said the distinguished psychologist and one of the founders of the Head Start Program.

"One-fifth of all the children are living in single parent families," he continued, "and the experts in this field are estimating that if present trends continue, half of all children will be spending a significant portion of their lives in a single parent family during the next decade."

Another change which has had a big impact on American family life is geographic mobility and the fact that both parents work. "This fact combined with other social changes often produces a situation where families are living by a dally schedule that is extremely hectic and stressful," said Bronfenbrenner.

The disintegration of the neighborhoods also has taken its toll on the family.

Texas Most Wanted Fugitive

Elkins

MIDLAND, Texas — The City of Midland isn't exactly your basic armed robbery haven.

In fact, Midland recorded one of the lowest armed robbery rates for any community its size in the state during 1984.

But that didn't deter some armed robbers from trying their luck in July and August, 1984.

Two Midland motels were victimized by the robbers. On July 29, around 1:20 a.m., a black male and female robbed the Lexington Motel, while an accomplice waited in a vehicle outside. The offenders escaped with about $100 in cash from the motel's cash register and another $100 from the night manager's wallet.

Then on August 4, the Best Western Motel was robbed. This time a lone black gunman escaped with $251 in cash after locking the night manager in a storage room.

However, within two weeks of the second robbery, Midland police were hot on the trail of the suspects. Two of them were arrested and eventually convicted of Aggravated Robbery.

However, the main suspect in the robberies — Demetrius Lavern Elkins — remains on the run.

Elkins, 30, 5-10, 165 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes, is wanted on two counts of aggravated robbery in Midland. Detectives in nearby Odessa also want to talk to Elkins about some robberies in their city. They have a robbery warrant for him.

Detectives say Elkins uses a number of aliases, including Ross Elkins, Demetrius Ross and Mickie Ross.

He is believed to have left the Midland area, but probably has remained in the state, detectives indicate.

This week Elkins has been added to the Texas Most Wanted list. A reward of up to $1,000 is being offered for information leading to his capture.

JUDGING BY COLOR

The color of wine generally, but now always, indicates something about its quality. In white wines, look for varying shades of yellow, gold or straw. Amber tones indicate a flaw. In rose wines, the "pinkness" can vary but it should not be tainted with either amber or purple. For red wines, the general rule is that the heavier the color, the heavier the wine. If one gets a light red taste from a deep-colored wine, some thing is amiss. The color of red wine depends almost entirely on the variety of grape used. In any case, amber tones are an indication of oxidation and are undesirable. Of course, in all wines, look for clarity and brilliance.

The folks at THE STORE are very knowledgeable about wines so don't ever hesitate to ask our advice. Whether you have a question about what wine to serve with a particular menu or need some help in estimating quantities for a wedding reception you will receive our personal attention. You'll find us at 400 N. 25 Mile Ave., 364-7802 where we are open Mon.-Sat., 10-9, use our drive up door until midnight for beer and wine, on Sun. only beer and wine is available from 12-12.

Pour glasses of red wine only half full to get a better sense of its "bouquet".

Soap flakes

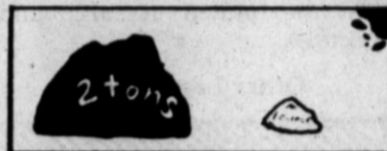

DEAR POLLY — Recently I received a copy of your recipe for fingerprints. It called for soap flakes. I have looked all over in the stores for soap flakes but cannot find them. Where can I find soap flakes, or how can I make them? — CHERI

DEAR CHERI — The best-known brand of soap flakes I know of is Ivory Snow. It's sold in the laundry-detergent section of your supermarket. Almost every store carries it.

If you can't find Ivory Snow or any other brand of soap flakes, you can grate a bar of hand soap (for the fingerprint recipe, it should be 100 percent pure soap), using a hand grater.

For those of you who don't have it, here's the fingerprint formula: Place two tablespoons pure soap flakes in a small bowl for each color desired. Gradually stir in water until a creamy consistency is formed. Let the mixture sit for 15 minutes or so to give the soap flakes a chance to dissolve. Then stir in a few drops of food coloring, mixing until the desired color is obtained.

It takes more than two tons of South African rock to produce less than an ounce of gold.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—On the last day of the session, the Legislature passed a $38.6 billion budget, and while lawmakers avoided a $1.2 billion deficit crisis, they didn't sidestep a special session called to provide health care for the poor.

Less than an hour after the midnight gavel banged final adjournment, Gov. Mark White announced he was calling legislators back into session immediately to consider unfinished business.

Three days later, the Legislature approved a $70 million health care plan for the poor. The money comes out of general revenue and contingency funds controlled by the governor, and does not call for a tax hike.

Although the plan was supported by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis, the bill died in the final three minutes of the regular session when an opposition legislator talked it to death.

The bill provides that the state will pay for health care for the very poor, and for expanded medical services for mothers, infants and the elderly. County governments will be reimbursed for costs.

Indigent Plea Heard

Of course, the poor were naturally for the bill, but so were many rural hospital boards strained financially by indigent patients.

Finding funds for the program was the major problem because few lawmakers were willing to vote for another tax increase. Most of them, in fact were careful to avoid even the appearance of voting for a tax increase, so scared are they of voter reaction.

When someone proposed latching onto an eight-cent cigarette tax that the feds are rumored to be repealing, most legislators, and especially Gov. White, were uncertain and slow to act. Hence the delays in bringing the program to a floor vote.

An Election Issue?

But once the budget was passed, the extra money was found to pay for the program, and a tax increase was avoided.

In the early hours of the special session, the indigent care plan threatened to be the foremost election issue of 1986.

On one hand, Mark White and the Democrats, including most of the rural conservatives, had revived and advocated the program.

On the other, the Republicans had fought it all along in the belief they were avoiding a tax increase.

Wishy-Washy or Gutsy?

The man in the hot seat was, and still is, the governor, alternately blasted for being headstrong and "wishy-washy."

Already he must stand for re-election with one bona fide tax hike on his record. He ran the risk of adding another, but by not adding a tax, he and lawmakers diminished the election bomb effect.

The governor saw the need for the legislation and was determined to see it passed. Even his opponents must concede that he pulled it off, and speedily.

Other Legislation

Other approved legislation includes:

—Raising the legal drinking age to 21 to avoid losing some $100 million in federal highway funds.

—Reviving the law requiring triplicate prescriptions to aid law enforcement officers in drug cases.

—Allowing widows and divorcees to continue receiving health insurance benefits for one year after spousal death or divorce.

—Requiring drivers and front-seat passengers to wear safety belts or face a fine.

—Creating the first statewide plan for water development conservation, and research.

—Extending unemployment compensation for farm laborers.

—Increasing cities' jurisdiction over billboards and limiting compensation to sign owners for removal.

—Mandating criminal background checks for new daycare employees.

—Establishing a felony and penalties for an unauthorized person who alters or damages data in a computer.

Experience supports rebuttal

Your advice to "Single Mother with a Big Decision", to tell the paternal grandmother about the child, was hasty and irresponsible. It is obvious that she wants to punish the father because he chose not to be part of his son's life. Or she wants to blackmail him into involvement by going to his mother.

When she decided to become a mother, despite the man's refusal to marry her, she knew it would be tough, but she made that choice and should live with it.

Please listen to my story. Three years before we married, my husband had an affair with a woman who went off the Pill without informing him. She became pregnant at their farewell meeting. Six months into the pregnancy she called and said she wanted child support. He agreed but asked that she not tell his folks, who had never met her.

He never missed a payment, but soon after we were married she became resentful, showed up at his parents' home and declared that her child had the right to know his grandparents. A nasty scene followed. My mother-in-law had a heart attack that night and neither she nor her husband has spoken to us since. (It's been four years) They also refused to acknowledge his out-of-wedlock son, which is fine with us.

We have tried without success to patch things up. Even the birth of our child a year ago did not heal the wounds. My in-laws remain strangers.

My husband knew how his parents would react to his sexual indiscretion and chose not to tell them. His former lover's revelation succeeded only in causing misery for everyone.

As long as the man continues to pay child support, "single mother" should allow him the right to choose whether to tell his mother about the child. Although the boy might miss something by not knowing his paternal grandmother, she chose to raise him without a father and should be thankful he knows at least one grandparent. Mine may never know any, since my own parents died years ago. — SINGLE FATHER HAVE RIGHTS, TOO

Landscape horticulturist gives garden color tips

With the heat of summer, the gardener and many plants tend to go on vacation, often leaving the landscape void of color.

However, some outstanding colorful summer annuals and perennials will provide color and beauty with a minimum of care during the hot days of summer, says a landscape horticulturist.

The vinca or periwinkle is one flower that thrives where many would perish, says Dr. Bill Welch with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. The All-American variety "Polka Dot" will serve as a summer ground cover with its low mass of blooms while the deep lavender "Little Linda" and the pink and red "Delicata" provide variety.

Zinnias have a sure summer heat tolerance and ability to grow under adverse conditions, Welch notes. Even though zinnias have been around for many years, many new and improved varieties offer vivid colors and durability. Zinnia blooms now range in size from tiny border hybrids to giant Dahlia types.

The Gloriosa daisy is a summer perennial, returning each summer to open its typical daisy blooms of rich orange, pink and mahogany. The large graceful heads of the Gloriosa daisy are supported on strong stems which are excellent for cutting, says the horticulturist.

Portulaca is unsurpassed as a summer border or rock garden plant, adds Welch. Often called moss rose, this summer annual prefers the sun and will tolerate dry, hot conditions to produce warm, vivid blankets of color. For continuous summer production, sow seed at six-week intervals.

Salvia is a persistent annual with bright scarlet or blue spikes of bloom throughout the hot summer until cut down by frost. The rich red varieties are most showy when displayed against a background of green or white, Welch suggests. Cut faded blooms often to encourage more growth.

DEAR FRIEND: Your bitter experience supports a strong rebuttal. I can see why you thought my advice was a bummer. But I stand by it.

Your in-laws sound extremely hard-hearted and inordinately punitive. I doubt that the majority of parents would behave that way. I hope your in-laws see this letter and decide to contact you and your husband. To remain permanently estranged accomplishes nothing. Everybody loses. And the greatest loss is theirs.

Dear Ann Landers:

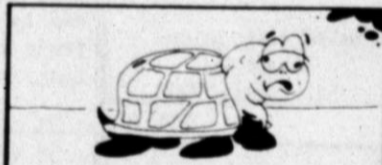

My boss and I have a difference of opinion as to what causes homosexuality.

He contends that 90 percent of homosexuals are recruited by other homosexuals and if there had not been a recruitment, those males would be heterosexual.

I contend that homosexuality is caused by a combination of hormonal imbalance and environmental factors.

I believe that any attempt to recruit a straight male would result in disgust rather than a new sexual orientation. Who is correct? — DEVOTED READER FROM N.D.

DEAR DEVOTED: No one knows for sure what causes homosexuality, but your boss is definitely uninformed.

Some Indians of the Caribbean would not eat turtles for fear such a diet would make them stupid.

A girl, similar to the one in the photo, had her hair cut and styled Monday at 9 to 9. She came back in today to give us more money. We thanked her, but couldn't accept it, because there wasn't any mistake in the price, she loves her cut and her style lasts 'til it gets shampooed.

Swimming class registration set

Registration is to be held Saturday morning for summer swimming classes to be taught by the Deaf Smith Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Registration for beginner, intermediate and swimmers classes for children will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. at the city pool. Children must have completed the first grade to be accepted for a class.

Saturday registration is urged because enrollment is limited to 10 students per class. Instruction by Red Cross volunteers will begin Monday with the first class scheduled for 9 a.m. Times will be announced during the Saturday sign-up.

Chapter director Betty Henson said beginners classes will be limited to 30 minutes this year because children often become cold during an hour long class. She also announced that the Red Cross hopes to conduct lessons for pre-schoolers later in the summer.

The session is the first of three two-week classes scheduled for the summer. A second class is expected to form in early July while the third should begin in late July and conclude early in August.

A pool fee of $3.50 will be charged for each session, Henson said.

Adult classes also begin next week, at 6:30 each evening. Registration will take place Monday before the first class begins. Beginning, intermediate and advanced lifesaving classes will be offered for adults.

Henson said the Red Cross is still in need of good swimmers to serve as volunteer aides. She said participants should be at least 14 years of age unless they are especially good swimmers. Babysitters also are needed for children of instructors, from 9 a.m. until noon each day.

Health care needed to be purchased like automobiles

Health care is changing, and so is the consumer's responsibility as a purchaser of health care, according to Rhonda Payne, assistant professor in Texas Christian University's Harris College of Nursing.

"The consumer needs to ask questions and learn more about choosing health care plans and those who deliver health care," explained Payne. "The most important thing is prevention of illness, but if it does occur, the consumer must be aware of his choices. Knowing himself and his health care goals and seeking answers to his questions are several ways to learn the choices available."

Payne suggest several ways to choose a physician. For a list of names only, the consumer can use the yellow pages or call the nearest American Medical Association chapter. The next step—a very important one—is to ask friends, neighbors and co-workers about their physicians and find out what they like or dislike about them.

Because of the new marketing trends in health care, more information is available, Payne said. "Once an institution begins marketing, it opens itself up to questions and most of the time is very willing to answer those questions."

Some helpful questions to ask might include: How much does this service cost? What does the price cover, not cover? What is available at this hospital? Will I need more sophisticated care? What does my insurance plan cover?

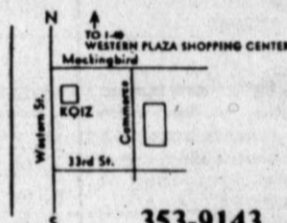

"I would advise consumers to begin purchasing care like they would a new car or clothes. Examine carefully the health plan and those who are delivering the care," Payne said.

Medical training hazardous

Medical training may be hazardous to your health. Most any young medical resident is readily recognizable by the circles under his or her eyes. Norman Cousins says we are expecting competent medical judgment from physicians who have been sleepless for 32 hours. Medical internship, he says, is tantamount to a prolonged "hazing." Residency is three years in a meat grinder. Do you want to be treated by a physician who is physically and emotionally exhausted? Cousins says. The custom of purposely overworking interns has long since outlived its usefulness. In September of 1984 I referred to the teaching hospital as "the last sweat-shop."

Sample my mail since: "Dear Paul Harvey News: I am the grandmother of a medical student. He works the equivalent of three forty hour weeks every week. Never enough sleep and little to eat. I do not believe any doctor can care for a patient properly while he, the doctor, is all but disoriented himself." "Dear Paul Harvey News: Thank God for your column on physician fatigue. My son is a third-year med student. We see him so tired he can hardly function. These students pull two 36 hour shifts every week. We are destroying the health of the people who may be in charge of our health."

That writer makes a sharp point. Lack of sleep, exercise and nutrition in medical school become lifelong habits. One-in-five physicians develops problems with drugs, alcohol or burnout. "Dear Paul Harvey News: My son fell asleep at the wheel after 22 hours on duty. The emergency room doctor says he patches up a lot of sleepy interns." The Wall Street Journal reports: "Medical residents find work conditions worsening."

The New England Journal of Medicine says: "Interns deprived of sleep made more errors in reading electrocardiographs." I will be pursuing this subject further

Each time I hear of a hospital "mistake" costing somebody's life, I'm going to make it a point to find out how long the person responsible had been on duty. Some teaching hospitals - if only to disarm malpractice lawyers - are reducing "on call" from 30 hours to eight hours. But others, with fewer resident slots, are working them harder. This is not somebody else's problem. If someone you love is a doctor in residence or if someone you love might ever be treated by one - you want him or her to be awake, rested and alert. Medical training, as is, may be hazardous to your health.

No devaluation in store

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Treasury Secretary Jesus Silva Herzog says the government has no plans to increase the rate at which the nation's currency is devalued each day.

Speculation that the value of the peso would be reduced still further has been cited as a factor in the recent move by Mexicans to sell their pesos for dollars. The buying spree has driven up the exchange rate to record levels. But Silva Herzog, speaking to reporters shortly before he left Tuesday with President Miguel de la Madrid for Western Europe, insisted that the sharp fluctuations, mostly along the U.S.-Mexico border, "will not cause a sudden devaluation in our money."

He said the current daily devaluation, put in place in March, will remain at 21 centavos a day. Some exchange houses have been demanding 290 pesos to the dollar in the past week. The rate reportedly surpassed the 300-mark in one Mexican city late last week. The government-set rates are 222.65 pesos to the dollar for most commercial transactions and 240.71 for the so-called free market.
