

Panel Urges Referendum on Local Sales Tax

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An advisory committee has recommended that voters in each county be allowed to decide whether to assess a 1 percent sales tax and increase the power of their county commissioners.

A preliminary report prepared for the County Officials Advisory Committee said a county sales tax could virtually replace the property tax, which is the main source of county income. There was virtually no discussion on the proposed sales tax, which was recommended to Gov. Bill Clements on Friday without opposition. Another committee paper said limited ordinance-making authority would allow counties "to develop local solutions to local problems." The statement said the trend of governmental authority is away from Washington, and it added that counties "will be ill-prepared to assume local control of federal programs" without additional power to enact ordinances. The advisory committee to Clements proposed extending the 3 percent hotel-motel occupancy tax to all counties. Only Harris County and Mexican border counties are now authorized to collect the occupancy tax.

Committee recommendations included a request for the state comptroller to collect the tax on coin-operated machines and remit it to the counties. This was referred to as the "Pac-Man" tax in recognition of the popular video game. Committee member R.J. Holmgreen of Brazos County said in university areas "almost every 7-Eleven or whatever has two or three (coin-operated) machines along with those (businesses) that are strictly that type of operation. ... The comptroller is aware of them much better than any county would be." Tarrant County Judge Mike Moncrief recommended a separate "short, sweet and to the point" proposal on coin-operated machines because of possible opposition from vending companies.

"With a 1-cent sales tax, hotel-motel tax and the coin-operated tax, we'd be in pretty good shape," said Holmgreen. The committee also recommended that counties be allowed to charge "up to cost" for various county services. A report said some county fees have remained unchanged for decades. Holmgreen said allowing counties to provide services at cost is a "motherhood and flag" proposal that would not discriminate against anyone. "I don't see how anybody can argue against that. They will, but I don't see how they can," he said.

Bernardin to Head Church

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II today named Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Cincinnati as new archbishop of Chicago, succeeding the late Cardinal John P. Cody to head the largest Roman Catholic archdiocese in the United States. The Rev. Pierfranco Pastore, deputy Vatican spokesman, announced the pope's decision and said it was effective immediately. Bernardin, 54, is former president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. He was installed as archbishop of the Archdiocese of Cincinnati in 1972. At that time, he was the youngest Catholic archbishop in the country. Widely respected in Vatican circles, Bernardin is soft-spoken with gentle manners. He is currently in Rome but could not be reached immediately for comment. "He is an experienced pastor and a proven administrator," said one Vatican official who asked not to be identified. During the past week Italian newspapers

The transfer of ownership of Rest Lawn Memorial Park, Inc. from H. O'Dell LaGrone of Canyon to a local property owners' association is just a few short weeks off as the property owners await an Aug. 5 meeting to form their non-profit organization.

But, while the locals are forced to wait until the meeting date to officially assume ownership of the grounds, they aren't exactly cooling their heels when it comes to getting the cemetery looking good.

A large group of volunteers spent the day at the cemetery July 5 mowing weeds, cleaning and hauling trash and doing general yard work in anticipation of seeing the property transferred to the association.

Mrs. Marian Kreig, the person mainly responsible for leading the crusade to either get LaGrone to take care of the cemetery or to let it go, said that the association's attorney will be at the Aug. 5 meeting to direct the property owners in their action.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Aug 5 in the banquet room at the Hereford Community Center. The purpose of the meeting is to form the non-profit organization to receive title to the cemetery, and a board of directors, composed solely of property owners, is expected to be elected.

Mrs. Revella Skypala, a member of the committee which has struggled to get the cemetery taken care of for more than a year, said that the association "will definitely have plans to do some more landscaping," at the

A number of folks in the community are planning and working towards the annual Town & County Jubilee, scheduled the middle of August. Many activities and projects are in the mill, and it should be a great event for Hereford.

Another rumor is making the rounds in connection with the announced opening of the Swift plant in Hereford. The story, completely unfounded according to sources we've contacted, is that 400 Vietnamese will be moving in to work at the plant.

Mike Carr, C of C executive vice president, said he has checked with Swift and company officials say the report is "completely erroneous." Carr says the Swift plant in Dumas employs 20 Vietnamese, and "there is the possibility that some could be hired here but no one knows anything about it." The company has indicated it would draw from the local and area labor force, he added.

Apparently the only one who knows anything about it is the guy spreading the rumor.

A recent Wall Street Journal article noted there is an increase in applicants for minimum-wage jobs — a first indication that the recession is serious.

Up until now, jobs paying the minimum wage have been plentiful, despite the high national unemployment rate. With unemployment benefits, some people chose to hold firm for a $6 or $8 job because that's what they were getting before being laid off.

The article says some of those well-paid workers who lost their jobs are now willing to work for less, at least until things take a turn for the better. With unemployment benefits being used up and other sources of benefits being cut, the pressure is mounting for people to take a job below their expectations.

Some of us can remember when it was considered a favor for a firm to offer a job at minimum wage, instead of the employee thinking he was doing the employer a favor by taking such a job.

Second-Worst in U.S. History

149 Die in Plane Crash

By ED McHALE Associated Press Writer

KENNER, La. (AP) — A Pan American World Airways jetliner bulldozed into suburban homes just minutes after taking off from New Orleans International Airport in a thunderstorm Friday, killing all 145 people aboard and at least four on the ground, officials said.

It was the second-worst air disaster in U.S. history. The three-engine Boeing 727 plowed through two blocks of houses, and workers labored into the night in search of additional victims. Eight people on the ground were injured, two critically, a hospital reported.

A witness, Bob Ledet, said it appeared the plane was hit by lightning.

George Burlage, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration's Southwestern regional headquarters in Fort Worth, Texas, said there were no survivors aboard Pan Am Flight 759 from New Orleans to Las Vegas.

Pan Am spokesman Merle Richman initially reported 136 passengers and a crew of seven aboard the plane. However, an airline spokeswoman Ann Whyte later reported an infant and a Pan Am employee riding in a jumpseat in the cockpit brought the total aboard to 145.

Burlage said inspectors at the scene had counted 149 bodies.

At least three people died in houses struck by the plane, said Dr. George Bodron of the Jefferson Parish coroner's office.

He said the body count was hampered by the severity of the crash and the difficulty of telling whether the dead had been aboard the plane or in houses.

"They're still picking up pieces and parts of bodies — legs, feet, torsos without limbs," Bodron said.

Flight 759 originated in Miami and was to go to San Diego from Las Vegas, said Steven Moore with the Travelers Emergency Service System in Boston.

In Miami, Pan Am officials identified the crew: Capt. Kenneth McCullers, Sebastian, Fla.; First Officer Donald Pierce, Miami Lakes, Fla.; flight engineer Leo Noone, Miami; purser Dennis Donnelly, Fort Lauderdale; and flight attendants James Fijut, Miramar, Fla.; Lucille Brown, Hollywood, Fla.; and Vivian Ford, West Hollywood, Fla.

At least eight houses in the area were damaged by debris, and fire officials said several were set ablaze. Lou Reese, deputy director of Orleans Parish Civil Defense, said the fires were under control about two hours after the crash, and rescue workers were looking for any victims in the homes.

Rescue workers used portable floodlights to search for bodies into the night, while utility workers labored to restore power and phone service in the area. The search effort was called off about 10 p.m. CDT, after 80 bodies had been recovered. The effort was to resume at 7 or 8 a.m. Saturday.

Jefferson Parish Sheriff Harry Leen said workers found it too dark to identify remains mixed in the rubble.

Report Shows Crime Down During 1981

According to the city of Hereford Police Department's Annual Report criminal offenses in the city during 1981 were slightly under the total for 1980, with 1,720 offense reports taken in 1981 as compared to 1,787 in 1980.

The number of offenses cleared in 1981 was 490, with 1,206 not cleared, and 24 unfounded.

Thefts headlined the list for 1981, with a total of 572 thefts reported. There were also 381 cases of criminal mischief, and 243 burglaries. Assaults totaled 153, while 106 criminal trespass reports were received and 129 harassing phone calls reported.

Arrests during 1981 totaled 463 adults and 147 juveniles as compared to 473 adults and 169 juveniles arrested in 1980.

According to the report major activities included seven armed robberies within the city limits at various convenience stores. Arrests in those crimes totaled three, with investigation into the others continuing.

Major burglaries during 1981 included break-ins at The Funny Farm and The Rants Cage at Sugarland Mall, Gibson's Discount Center, and the Hereford Independent School District.

One kidnapping as reported, with a Hereford State Bank employee abducted as she arrived for work. The employee was abducted at approximately 8 a.m., and four subjects were subsequently arrested in the case at 2 p.m. that same afternoon.

City police worked 472 accidents during 1981 as compared to 484 during 1980. A total of 2,956 tickets were issued in 1981, compared to 3,143 the year before.

Total miles dispatched for the force were 273,765, on a total of 49,438 dispatched entries.

The animal control officer picked up 1,231 animals during 1981, slightly more than the 1,139 picked up in 1980.

Church Addition Tops Permits

The city of Hereford issued 17 building permits during June for construction totalling $222,390. That's some $5,000 above the June, 1981 figure of $215,750 issued for seven permits.

For the first six months of the year 55 building permits have been issued as compared to 65 during the first half of 1981. The total for this year stands at $435,790, paltry when compared to the $1,356,800 for the same period a year ago.

The largest permit issued last month was to St. Thomas Episcopal Church in the amount of $135,340. The Hereford Independent School District had two permits with a $10,000 permit for an addition to the building trades area, and a $1,500 addition as a tennis office.

There were no residential dwelling permits issued during June.

Court Faces Dance Issue

Deaf Smith County Commissioners face a decision on the issue of dancing at the Bull Barn when the court meets in regular session at 10 a.m. Monday at the courthouse. The court, which placed a ban on dancing at the county-owned facility almost a year ago, commissioned a special task force a few weeks ago concerning the controversial issue.

The task force reported to the court two weeks ago that a large majority of the persons interviewed concerning the issue favored opening the Bull Barn back up to dancing.

In other business Monday the court will consider the 1982-83 budget, receive a Personnel Management Reporting System from George Louder of Talentmax, Inc. of Amarillo, and open bids on surplus county property.

The court is also expected to go into closed session to discuss personnel.

Administration Will Stick To Its Economic Program

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A top aide to President Reagan says the administration will stick with its economic program through the November election, even though a recovery may not be as strong as Reagan had hoped.

White House chief of staff James A. Baker III, in an interview with The Associated Press Friday, also said the president will wait until next year to consider proposing a flat-rate income tax.

Although the first signs of recovery from the recession appeared in June, Baker said its length "depends on how successful we are with interest rates, and that in turn depends on getting the deficit down."

He said Reagan has asked his administration to study the feasibility of introducing a flat-rate income tax which would eliminate most if not all tax deductions. But Reagan doesn't expect to consider the matter this year, Baker said.

"That's not something that's going to be proposed," he said. "It's something that's going to be studied and looked at for possible consideration next year, but not

Israelis Sweep Up Guerrillas

TYRE, Israeli-held Lebanon (AP) — Israeli troops are arresting up to 50 suspected Palestinian guerrillas a day in a massive sweep through the war-ravaged refugee camps and hills of southern Lebanon, Israeli military officials said.

They said an estimated 2,000 people have been detained in the last three weeks. That raises the total number of Palestinians and Lebanese before next year.

"The worst thing the president could do politically would be to send out uncertain signals between now and the election regarding his economic policies," Baker said.

Baker was interviewed at the Biltmore Hotel where the White House staff has set up temporary offices while Reagan is vacationing at his mountaintop ranch 20 miles away. The president, who arrived here July 1, returns to the White House Sunday.

Reagan said in Los Angeles on Tuesday that a flat-rate income tax, under which everyone would be taxed at the same percentage regardless of income, was "a very tempting thing" because people are fed up with the complexity of the current tax system.

The president said he was convinced taxpayers would not stop donating to charities and educational institutions just because they could no longer deduct such contributions on their returns.

Baker said a flat-rate tax would be looked at "on a long-term basis, not something that might be considered between now and the election."

Manges Files

$1.67 Billion Lawsuit

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Oilman-rancher Clinton Manges filed a $1.67 billion lawsuit in state court here Friday claiming that a 1925 oil and natural gas lease on his property was broken by its operators.

Manges filed the lawsuit, reported to be the largest ever filed in Webb County, against Mobil Producing Texas and New Mexico Inc. and more than 60 other corporations or private individuals with an interest in the 64,646-acre lease.

Manges contends a clause in the contract was broken when more than 90 days elapsed between the completion of one well and the drilling of another.

The suit asks for punitive damages and a return of the 35 million barrels of oil and 115 million million-cubic-feet of natural gas taken from the lease since 1932, when he claims the breach occurred.

The suit says Manges would accept the dollar value of the oil and gas at today's market prices.

Mobil acquired the lease in the South Texas counties of Webb and Duval in 1932 from the Vacuum Oil Co. Manges bought the property in the early 1970s.

Arson Suspected

In Fires At Hotel Used By White House Staff

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — About 75 guests, including some White House staffers and journalists, were hustled from their rooms early Friday when three fires broke out at the Santa Barbara Sheraton hotel, authorities said.

The fires were the second apparent case of arson at the hotel this week, they said.

No one was injured in the smoky basement fires, discovered by a kitchen worker at 1:22 a.m., officials said.

Acting Santa Barbara Fire Marshal Monroe Rutherford said the fires could have been directed at the 25 White House aides or the 70 reporters and photographers staying at the hotel, some with their families. The groups are accompanying President Reagan while he vacations at his ranch 20 miles north of Santa Barbara, which is about 90 miles up the Pacific coast from Los Angeles.

Battalion Chief K.R. Bishop said it also was possible the blazes were the work of "a disgruntled employee." He said the fires were extinguished in about 15 minutes.

The fires caused "very little structural damage," fire department spokesman Pete Ramsdell said.

Workers Fill In

Car-Eating Sinkhole

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Workers poured concrete Friday into a parking lot sinkhole that swallowed a car, hoping to plug the hole and keep it from undermining a two-story apartment building.

The concrete was poured around a 1982 Oldsmobile that fell into the hole Monday. Experts said the car may have provided a temporary plug.

The car is lodged in a narrow opening in the hole, which is shaped like a bulging inverted cone, about 50 feet deep and 15 feet across.

Sinkhole experts have credited the car with keeping more surface material from collapsing into a cavern of unknown dimensions below.

One edge of the hole is just a few feet from one of the apartment buildings in the Maracaibo Manor complex.

Jorge Bandy, a native of Honduras and a student at Sante Fe Community College, owned the $12,000 car. He said his automobile insurance would cover all but $250 of the loss.

Another sinkhole, estimated to be several hundred years old and about 100 feet wide, is west of the apartment complex. It also may have something to do with the cave-in, the sinkhole specialists said.

Jury Awards

$4.3 Million To Widow

SONORA, Texas (AP) — A jury deliberated almost eight hours before awarding $4.3 million to a Sonora woman who claimed her husband died in a construction accident because of negligence by a building contractor.

The state district court jury awarded the damages Friday to Doris Taylor, widow of James Robert Taylor, 36. Mrs. Taylor's suit alleged negligence on the part of contractor F.P. Ross Inc. of Houston.

The accident occurred Oct. 23 as F.P. Ross Inc. was building a gas plant about 20 miles south of Sonora. A subcontractor, Morris Brothers, was blasting near the accident site when an overblast caused rocks to fly, said court reporter Roger Epps.

Mrs. Taylor's attorney, Robert Junell, said a 250-pound rock traveled 150 feet in the air and hit a tower before crashing into the building where Taylor was working — 540 feet away from the blast site. Taylor was talking on the telephone when the rock crashed through a wall and killed him.

Junell said the jury found the contractor negligent in failing to hire a competent subcontractor, failing to properly supervise the subcontractor and failing to stop blasting when informed the blasting was dangerous.

He said he expected Friday's award to be appealed. Attorneys for F.P. Ross Inc. were unavailable for comment.

Junell said the subcontractor reached an out-of-court settlement with Mrs. Taylor.

"Check out the Boy Scouts ... goes a popular advertising tune ... 'see what it's all about.'"

As one of the ten entities serving through the United Way Fund, Scouting touches the lives of over 350 Hereford boys in Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorer Posts. Two girls are also members of the Explorers. Hereford is in the Llano Estacado Council of the Boy Scouts of America, a nine-county division.

Looking back, Delynn Mason counts his scouting days as profitable. Though he joined because it was a good pastime he later became an Eagle Scout, the highest rank possible.

"It kept me off the streets," he claims, "It wasn't destructive, it kept me out of trouble."

"It put forth the initiative to go out and do things on my own without direct supervision."

Mason, a recent graduate of Oklahoma State Technical University, is now a mechanic at Stevens Chevrolet. He said scouting instilled a lot of leadership qualities that are very necessary in life as whole.

"First aid was one of the largest things I have used, and I've used other things in my hobbies," Mason added.

Mason joined under Gary Billingsly who is fondly called "Mr. B" by the scouts.

"He's very patient with the boys," Mason said. "He helps tremendously, he's always there when you need him."

For two years Mr. B quit scouting and Mason said during that time Troop 50 "wandered off to nothing practically" until the leader came back.

Mason hopes soon to be working as a scout leader.

Russell Brownlow joined scouting about 1½ years ago and to make it to Eagle Scout is having to work "just a little harder than I had planned."

He joined Scouts for the fun of it.

"My dad (Johnny Brownlow) lacked one merit badge of being an Eagle Scout and I wanted to follow in his footsteps," Brownlow explained.

He lacks five of the 21 badges required for becoming an Eagle Scout. Ten are specified and 11 are elective badges. Brownlow said he should be an Eagle by next year.

Meeting once a week "just fits right in" his schedule and Brownlow says the program is "interesting."

"I like having a little more knowledge about things," he admitted.

"Mr. B" has seen close to 15 Scouts attain the Eagle rank during his 10 year tenure and thinks that's pretty good "when you consider one out of 100 makes it."

"You see kids change," Billingsley said, relating a story about a little boy he said he wouldn't have given a nickel for who is now working with a successful company in Fort Worth.

Did scouting change that kid?

"Well, I hope it did," answered Mr. B.

In Hereford seven Cub Scout Packs have 193 members in the eight to 10-year-old bracket. Six Boy Scout Troops have 119 members from 11 to 18 and the four Explorer Posts serve 40 boys and two girls from 14 to 21.

Recent scouting activities include a scout show in March; a Cub day camp and a Boy Scout camp in June, and a skills competition field day the first weekend of May.

Planned for later this year is an Explorer Weekend in August, a Philmont Family Weekend in September, Cub Olympics in September and the Camporee in the fall.

According to Kurt Clausen, district director, 48 percent of the budget is provided by United Way. The balance is from sustaining memberships, 36 percent; trust fund income, 10 percent; and activities, six percent. The 1981 budget for the Council was $271,940.

The Council served 6,416 youth members and had over 1,800 registered volunteers.

Routine Agenda Set For HISD

Routine matters in preparation for the next term fill the agenda for the Hereford Independent School District board meeting Tuesday. The board will meet at 5 p.m. in the administration building.

Other than general reports, the board is to discuss the auto tax, naming of a Texas Association of School Boards delegate, and the school insurance program.

cleaner went through," said Victor Dean, a Pan Am employee who lives six houses from the point where the Boeing 727 hit. Kenner Mayor Aaron Broussard appealed to doctors with experience in treating burns to come to the crash scene. A Delta Air Lines hangar at New Orleans International Airport was being used as a morgue.

In Washington, Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Fred Farrar said the plane went down about 2 miles from the New Orleans airport about 2 minutes after takeoff.

Associated Press reporter Kevin Noblet said sections of the aircraft were scattered over a seven-block area, with a 40-foot section of the fuselage resting atop a destroyed home. Part of the fuselage also came to rest on top of a station wagon.

It was raining at the time of the crash, and a heavy thunderstorm was passing over the area. The airport is located in Kenner, a New Orleans suburb.

The plane crashed at 4:10 p.m. CDT, according to Carol Federico, who lives in the crash area.

Residents were asked to open garages for temporary storage of bodies, said witness Normand "Rock" Sheeren.

"As soon as it went down my son-in-law ran down there ... it burst into flames and people were screaming and everything else. It was unbearable, the way they were screaming."

Authorities cordoned off several blocks around the scene, and were evacuating homes and pushing back spectators. They said they were concerned that tanks of liquid fuel from the plane might explode.

Smoke was still thick around the fuselage of the plane nearly 90 minutes after the crash. Twisted plane parts, chairs and telephone poles were scattered over the crash site.

The National Transportation Safety Board dispatched its on-duty "go" team to investigate the crash. "It sounded like a tornado going over and my dishes fell down," said Mrs. Fay Meyer, who lives a block from the crash scene. "It clipped off part of my palm tree."

The Boeing 727, introduced in 1964, is the most widely used commercial airliner in the world. More than 1,700 are in service.

In May 1979, an American Airlines DC-10 crashed at Chicago's O'Hare airport, killing 273 people, in the nation's worst air disaster.

Former Page Sticks To Sex Scandal Story

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former congressional page, questioned by a House committee's investigators about allegations of homosexual activity on Capitol Hill, is sticking by his story that he had sex with three congressmen.

But Leroy Williams Jr., 18, of Little Rock, Ark., also acknowledged Friday that he had flunked a FBI lie detector test on his charges.

Williams will resume testifying at a closed-door meeting of the House ethics committee staff today.

On Friday, Williams told the investigators that he engaged in homosexual sex with three lawmakers and arranged for a similar liaison between a senator and a male prostitute, his attorney, Bob Scott, said.

The House ethics committee and the Justice Department, separately, are looking into allegations of sexual misconduct and drug use by some members of Congress.

Meanwhile, the Washington Post, in today's editions, quoted Williams as saying in interviews with the newspaper that he had lied about some details of his story.

In remarks to the news media Friday, Williams defended his credibility despite his failure on a FBI lie detector test.

The youth said the FBI examiner who administered the test acted as if he were "persecuting a perpetrator instead of asking questions of a victim." Williams' meeting with House ethics investigators Friday was conducted in an out-of-the-way building near Capitol Hill. Attempts by the committee staff to keep the meeting secret were foiled when Williams told reporters about it.

The committee has not yet met formally, relying instead on its investigators to lay the groundwork.

The Post said Williams admitted to it that he had sex with one of the congressmen only twice, instead of three times as he had said elsewhere.

"Some of the things I said were said in order to make sure the heat was put on them, not me. It was a self-protective measure," Williams was quoted.

cemetery, but that "it's going to have to be done slowly." The association does not have any equipment to work with, and depends upon volunteers who show up to work to bring their own tools.

The Rest Lawn group got an offer of assistance from the Hereford Cemetery Association, which runs the West Park Cemetery, to mow the grounds at Rest Lawn when it is needed the next time.

"Nells McRight, the Hereford Cemetery Association president, and that whole association has been a big help to us," Mrs. Kreig said. "It's going to take a lot of volunteer work, but it's got to be done."

The cemetery recently became a focal point after heavy rains in the areas caused many of the graves at the site to collapse. Several tombstones had fallen into the subsequent holes in the ground.

A Small Business Administration official met with the property owners June 15 to discuss the problems, and then met with LaGrone, who eventually decided to transfer the ownership of the property to the local group.

LaGrone has agreed to pay off the balance on an $18,000 SBA loan he took out on the property, and the first lien holder has written off a sizeable debt as well, virtually giving the cemetery to the association debt free.

speculated that the pope might name Archbishop Paul Marcinkus of Cicero, Ill., as Cody's successor. Marcinkus, 60, considered the most powerful American at the Vatican, welcomed Bernardin's appointment.

"I am very happy about it," Marcinkus told The Cody died on April 25 at the age of 74. He led the largest and wealthiest Roman Catholic archdiocese in the country for nearly 17 years. The Chicago Archdiocese has 2.5 million members.

Vatican sources said the pope notified Bernardin of the appointment in a private audience here last Monday.

Some of the bloodiest fighting of the Israeli campaign took place in the southern refugee camps where the PLO was based. In some camps, hundreds of dwellings were destroyed or damaged.

U.N. Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) officials estimated that of the 226,000 Palestinian refugees in Lebanon at least 35,000 have been made homeless around Tyre and Sidon, and another 12,000 in other parts of southern Lebanon.

An Israeli army spokesman said there were 20,000 homeless Lebanese and Palestinians.

GERTRUDE TROBASCO

Mrs. Gertrude Trobasco, 88, died Friday. Graveside services were held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Vernon Cemetery in Vernon under the direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

Mrs. Trobasco, born in Mexia, moved to Hereford in 1941. She married Paul H. Trobasco in 1920 in Vernon. He preceded her in death in 1940. She was a real estate agent and a member of First Baptist Church in Vernon.

Survivors include four daughters, Pauline Lovan of Hereford, Jo Hardy of Stratford, Marjorie George of Amarillo, and Frankie Holaway of Abilene; six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Trucks Burglarized

Two trucks were burglarized Thursday night while parked behind Rivera Produce on U.S. 60 West, according to Hereford police.

Officers report that one truck, owned by a firm in Arkansas, had a $150 spare tire stolen from its rack and a second truck, out of California, had two spares and a CB radio removed. Total value of both thefts was set at $525.

A lawn mower was reported stolen from 150 Ranger Friday and at 614 Stanton several windows in a vacant house were broken.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Would you kindly print this message to all the members of "The Good Shepherd"? They came to me all hours, day and night & stayed with my husband J.T. Gunn until the end.

Much of this kindness was due to Mrs. Eloise McDougal. I think this is the most wonderful group of men & women I have ever known.

Sincerely thanking you,
Mrs. Lucille Gunn

Bandits Plague Railroad

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — It sounds like a horse opera — Mexican bandits jumping onto moving trains and plundering the riches they find there.

But it's a very real modern-day problem that has railroad police working long hours and searching for new enforcement methods.

Trains traveling tracks near the Rio Grande are targets of gangs who cross the river from Mexico and burglarize boxcars.

"Cargo theft is our worst problem," says Southern Pacific division special agent Charles Wood. "All along this route, we've had more problems than in other parts of the country... I don't know of any way we could halt it completely."

Railroad police, certified law enforcement officers employed by the rail lines, have beefed up their staffs and have begun using locks to protect boxcars loaded with valuables such as food, furniture, electronic equipment and department store goods.

Santa Fe Railroad special agent Joe Moran says his company is having success with the new methods, but adds, "We still have one hell of a problem with that kind of crime."

It's not a new problem. Wood said the Southern Pacific line was laid in the 1880s and, "We were having problems with theft and vandalism then."

The predicament is the nearness of the Rio Grande, a muddy ribbon that separates El Paso from Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, a bustling city of nearly one million residents.

"Our track's only 20 or 25 yards from the middle of the river," drawled Santa Fe special agent Leon Puckett. "They can hit us and they're gone before we know it."

Fellow agent Mario Reyes recalled a radio call he received from another agent one night. The agent had discovered bandits had broken into a boxcar and furniture was scattered across a nearby levee road, abandoned when the officer's car was spotted.

The agent secured the boxcar and made the two-minute drive to the office to pick up Reyes. When they returned, the car had been pilfered again. They locked it again and the agent returned Reyes to the office.

"He called me again and said, 'Mario, you're not going to believe what's happened,'" Reyes said. "They had hit us again. There must have been 20 to 25 guys working and we couldn't find a soul."

The bandits cross the river at the railroad bridges in Mexico, many scrambling over tall, jagged steel gates erected to keep them out.

"Four or five of them will come over on our side of the gate and come up there and steal stuff out of the train," Puckett said. "Then they'll pass the stuff back to the gate like a water brigade. They know that once they get across that river, there's nothing we can do."

Southern Pacific's problem is with moving trains, said T.J. Monsen, assistant special agent in charge of the El Paso office.

"Two years ago, we knew we were being hit on moving trains in the Globe Mills area," Monsen said. "As trains went through there, a group of about 15 guys would constantly hit the trains."

Monsen and his men dressed as hoboes and started riding the trains. They made arrests, but Monsen won't reveal how many or the method used because, "We've got a group like that one operating right now."

Southern Pacific has more traffic than Santa Fe because its main line runs through El Paso. Moran says bandits rarely strike Santa Fe's moving trains, preferring to strike in the trainyard.

He said Santa Fe's yard is more accessible to the aliens because it is at one end of the so-called "Tortilla Curtain," a hole-riddled fence erected by the government to try to slow the flow of illegal aliens.

The railroad police are convinced that illegal aliens are responsible for virtually all of the cargo thefts. Moran said almost every burglar arrested in the past five years at the Santa Fe yard was illegally in the country.

"Most are in their early teens to early 20s and most are illegal aliens," Monsen said.

Monsen said Southern Pacific arrests between 30 and 40 burglars a year. Moran said his men made 32 arrests in the first five months of the year.

Burglary is not the only problem the railroad police have with aliens. Many illegal aliens find the relatively deserted rail yards preferable to the busy downtown area as a crossing point.

Monsen said the Border Patrol apprehended 2,000 aliens in the Southern Pacific yard during the first four months of the year. Moran said 2,200 were picked up at Santa Fe's yard in the first six months.

Another problem is what Moran calls the "river rats," gangs of youths who virtually live under railroad bridges and who prey on other aliens attempting to get into the United States.

Moran, conducted negotiations with Mexican authorities that led to joint raids on the bridges. He thinks further cooperation may be the way to slow the burglaries.

"We've been pretty successful with these raids," he said. "They'll run toward Mexico because they know we can't cross the river. What they don't know is that the Mexican authorities are waiting for them on the other side."

The railroad police also are trying other methods in their battle with the burglars.

Southern Pacific has added canine patrols on its night shift. Both railroads have begun putting padlocks or cable locks on boxcar doors and Santa Fe has added rail clamps that keep doors from sliding open.

"While they're trying to work those things off, it gives us time to get up there and scare them off or catch them," Moran said, adding, however, that some burglars are scarcely slowed by the locks.

"They know what kind of cars to look for, what kind of tools to use to get into a car," he said. "It's a profession and they're very good at it."

Putting on the locks is a slow, expensive process. Moran said each of his rail clamps costs $40.

Wood, who runs Southern Pacific security in Arizona, New Mexico and West Texas, said the burglaries have increased since the advent of piggyback freight. The semi-truck trailers mounted on flatcars are more vulnerable than boxcars, he said.

Also vulnerable are cars carrying new automobiles.

"We had a very serious series of thefts of radios from new automobiles," Wood said. "We lost something like 62 radios from the beginning of March to about the 45th of May... We never did actually apprehend anyone."

Wood said burglars took more than $200,000 in merchandise from Southern Pacific trains in his district in 1981. He said the number of thefts was up 75 percent during the first five months of the this year. Santa Fe would not reveal its losses.

Jim Britton of the American Association of Railroads in Chicago said losses to theft rank second only to train accidents in costs to railroads nationwide. Railroads estimated their losses from theft last year at $19.1 million, he said.

The fission of one pound of Uranium-235 releases approximately the same amount of energy as the burning of 10,000 tons of coal.

Winners Announced

Winners of the Deaf Smith County Library's bookmark contest are from left, seven year-old Autumn Parks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Parks of 234 Elm, and 13 year-old Lisa Gutierrez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Javier Gutierrez of 335 Ave. E. The theme for the contest was "Libraries: Launchpad to the Future". The winning bookmarks will be distributed at the Tri-State Fair scheduled in September at Amarillo.

Library Collections Slowly Turning To Dust With Time

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Library collections worth untold fortunes will turn to dust in the next century unless the aging process of paper is halted, warns the director of one of the world's great libraries.

"I'm not a man crying wolf," says Decherd Turner. "This is the most dramatic situation in cultural history."

Turner, director of the Humanities Research Center at the University of Texas, claims the HRC has more at stake than any other library. He told why in a recent magazine article and interview.

The HRC was created 25 years ago by the late Harry Ransom, former president and chancellor of UT-Austin. The center is unique in that it has the largest collection of modern manuscripts in the world.

Examples: "Sanctuary" by William Faulkner, "Brideshead Revisited" by Evelyn Waugh, "Ulysses" by James Joyce and "Under Milk Wood" by Dylan Thomas.

Literary critics "poked fun at Ransom for buying what they called the wastebaskets of English writers," Turner recalled. "Later, the great research institutions followed our lead. We got for a pence what today would cost multiple pounds."

"And because writers did not write on bond paper, but upon wrapping paper, Big Chief tablets, and scraps of cardboard, this greatest of all modern legacies to an understanding and analysis of 19th- and 20th-century literature brings with it its own death sentence," Turner said.

"Almost all of the materials on which these creative struggles are chronicled are upon highly acid paper. The only viable reprieve is the skills of conservation. Our stakes are the highest."

In addition to nine million modern manuscripts of English, American and French literature, the HRC has 800,000 rare books; more than four million photographs and negatives; and a major collection in the theater arts. Its exhibitions include the Gutenberg Bible.

"The value is so astronomical that to quote a figure would be meaningless," Turner said.

"Deterioration can be ignored only for so long, and the period of grace in which we have privately and institutionally plundered the world for more materials is now over," he said. "Books and papers assembled at great expense have strong self-destruct components working, and unless we reverse this self-destruction, in 30 to 60 years we will sweep up a goodly portion of our libraries in the dustpan."

Like some presidents, library administrators have their own guns-and-butter issue: very few institutions have the money to continue buying collections or to preserve what they already have collected.

"If I could have 100 more people for 100 years, perhaps I could hurl back the tide of deterioration threatening to engulf" the HRC, Turner said. "But 100 people and 100 years is hopelessly unrealistic."

What the HRC has is a 10-member conservation unit, formed in 1980 under the direction of Don Etherington, who came to UT-Austin from the Library of Congress.

Etherington says technology such as chemical treatments; polyester encapsulation — an alternative to lamination; non-acidic cardboard; polyester film book jackets and temperature and humidity controls is available to save wood pulp books and manuscripts.

But there are not enough people who know how to do the work.

"No great library in the world is fully geared to answer its (conservation) needs," said Turner. He said the HRC needs a minimum of five conservation departments, with each department supported by a "whole corps of professionally trained assistants."

At what cost?

"We could spend 400 hours on a 200-page manuscript or 30 minutes on one torn page," said Etherington. "But there is no question of whether to save or not to save, and that makes life easier somewhat."

"Library administrators have been dancing gaily down the lane, avoiding the issue of what might happen," said Turner. "But what our colleagues of preceding generations were able to put off, we are not.

"It will take far more to reverse the (aging) process than it took to buy. The cost of collecting in the first 25 years of the HRC will be chicken feed to what it will cost to save the collections in the next 25 years," Turner said, and he added:

"The bottom lines read: use every dollar you can to forward the conservation process; use every salary dollar you can to hire conservation personnel; use every supplies dollar you can for conservation supplies, equipment, laboratories."

"We've started spreading the gospel..." said Etherington.

Department Store Viewing Popular

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Every afternoon, Stuart Watt catches his favorite soap opera, "One Life to Live," on somebody else's television set.

It's free, convenient and comfortable. He has his choice of a Sony, Zenith, RCA or any other make. He can pick a small screen, conventional model or big projection.

He usually watches in peace and quiet, although sometimes a shopper will interrupt and ask for some help.

You see, Watt works in the housewares department of the Abraham & Straus store in White Plains, N.Y. But he takes his lunch hour, precisely at 2 o'clock, in the television department.

"I'd rather do this than walk the mall," says Watt, 23, from Monsey, N.Y. "I was unemployed for a year and got hooked. Then when I began working here, I asked to take lunch at 2. Knock on wood, they let me do it."

Watt is one of the legions of regular and irregular viewers who see programs — and advertisements — in stores. The A.C. Nielsen Co. only surveys households, but advertisers and TV networks know that, in addition to the uncounted sports fans in bars and country clubs, there are additional viewers shopping and staring in TV departments.

"Our job is to have things neat, but a lot of loafing around can damage business by giving the store a lackadaisical look."

Flat-Rate Tax

A syndicated Washington columnist noted this week that the latest "Big Idea to hit our town" is the idea of flat-rate taxation.

We proposed this idea a couple of years ago in a Hereford Bull column but apparently were ahead of the times. At that time, we reported that a former IRS man said a flat 10 percent tax could replace the complicated income tax.

Now, they are talking in terms of 14 to 19 percent. At least a dozen bills have been introduced in Congress which offer some type of flat-rate tax. But don't hold your breath until the law is passed, warns the columnist.

The proposal has great merit, but it may be too simple. However, we're sure Congress can solve the simplicity of the idea and make it difficult.

In theory, we would have an easy, comprehensible method of figuring our income tax. Form 1040 would dwindle to a post card; there would be no deductions, no tax shelters for the rich, and families with low incomes would pay no tax at all.

There are some obstacles against the plan. The IRS work force would be greatly reduced; it would not appeal to tax lawyers, tax accountants, or advisors who erect tax shelters for tax avoiders, or companies whose business is filling out income tax returns.

James J. Kilpatrick, the noted columnist, says "successful revolts require strong passion and skilled leadership, and the flat-rate plan so far has neither one."

Fatter Paychecks

As of July 1, paychecks are a little fatter for working Americans but like most anticipated goodies, the results fell short of what a lot of people had expected.

It is true that the revised table of withholding taxes gives the worker more money. But for the person making $100 a week it amounts to 40 cents less taken in income tax. For the more fortunate ones who make $700 a week the tax bite will be $13.40 less.

These tax deductions are hardly enough to generate dancing in the streets, but perhaps they are at least a start.

The July 1 tax cut is the second installment of the Reagan administration's tax relief program and is to be followed by another 10 per cent cut on July 1, 1983. A 5 per cent cut came on October 1, 1981.

Small as these cuts are to the individual, in total they amount to millions of dollars.

And while these cuts may seem small to most of us, to Democratic leaders Tip O'Neill and Walter Mondale they are way too much. The Speaker of the House has been the leader in the fight to do away with the tax cut program which he says was hastily passed by Congress.

Tax cuts of this magnitude dry up funds available for welfare and other social programs and represent a serious threat to the health of those who exist on government payments, according to O'Neill.

Thus it appears that there is at least an even chance that the scheduled 10 per cent tax cut for the individual will be cancelled before it takes effect next July.

The tax relief that we have just had will give more money for the individual and the administration hopes he will spend it instead of saving it. If enough people spend this extra money, even a few dollars a week, it is expected to generate big help for an ailing economy.

Those who get Social Security checks also got relief on July 1 when their checks were boosted 7.4 per cent by the annual cost of living increase.

Congress has debated long and hard about how to overcome the loss of revenue caused by the big tax cut. Thus far the best known proposal is one that would boost the tax on a lot of other things such as beer, liquor, cigarettes and gasoline.

Most people don't care how high the tax gets on these items if they don't use them so Congress may be on safe grounds here.

Ronald Reagan promised the American people tax relief when he ran for office in 1980 and also promised to work diligently to cut the federal budget and federal spending so that the government wouldn't have to borrow so much money.

Congress passed the tax relief act but when it came to cutting spending discovered a painful reaction and the spending reduction program stalled out.

The little tax cut may be ridiculous, to be sure. But any tax cut is better than a tax boost and that's what we have been getting for 30 years.

The Penultimate Word

WHAT ARE WE GONNA DO WITH A HOLE IN THE GROUND

I guess by now all of us have heard of the possibility of a nuclear waste dump being built in our area. The plan is to dig a humongous hole in the ground about 5,000 feet deep with tunnels big enough to drive trucks through. They tell us the salt deposits are right for such a facility to be located here.

There are three opinions about the dump currently making the rounds. There are those who are opposed and say so. There are those who may be for it but do not want to say so. There are those like me who have no idea in the world about it and are therefore experts. I think we are missing the real question about the dump.

The question is not the cost. It is going to take 2,400 men eight years to build the thing. The cost will be astronomical to say the least. By the time the cost of graft is added in, it may cost more than the national debt. Even though the cost will be high that is still not the question.

I have said many times that we ought to be grateful for graft. If it weren't for graft we might get all the government we are paying for. Since we are taxed to manipulate the economy and not because of need, the government must get rid of the money. If they are going to get rid of a bundle of it, let them drop it here.

The question is not land usage. They tell us we can still farm on top of the dump. Who knows, maybe there will be a great demand for vegetables that glow in the dark.

U.S. Chamber Voice of Business

Balanced Budget Next Step

BY RICHARD LESHER
U.S. Chamber President

WASHINGTON — As far as statistical benchmarks go, the 206th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence doesn't measure up alongside such spectacular milestones as our recent bicentennial. But in an important respect, our latest celebration was very special because this July marks a historic return to supply-side economics in America.

On July 1, every worker regardless of income found his marginal tax rate cut by 10 percent. Thus, 602 long days after the voters made their demand for significant tax relief perfectly clear, their wishes have been realized.

What about last October's five percent tax cut? That was little more than a teaser, since it was all but consumed by rising Social Security taxes and bracket creep. This July's cut represents the first substantial chunk of tax relief for individuals, although it too could fade into insignificance over the long term if it is not followed on schedule by the next round of tax cuts in July 1983.

I am not suggesting that the single act of slashing tax rates this month will produce instant prosperity. The process of harnessing the growth of government and rebuilding our industrial base will be long and bumpy. Many more battles on the political and policymaking fronts will have to be waged.

One such battle is over a constitutional amendment to require a balanced federal budget. It is now evident that Congress is incapable of controlling the rampant growth of federal spending and borrowing without a constitutional mandate. Part of this failure derives from a simple lack of political courage. But growing budgets and mounting deficits are also a function of profound changes in the political landscape that have taken root over the past several decades, including the creation of active, well organized groups of Americans dependent on federal largesse and determined to see this largesse grow.

Changing the Constitution is serious business. It is testimony to the greatness of that document and the gravity of amending it that after nearly 200 years of economic, social, scientific and political earthquakes, Americans have seen fit to pursue this course just 26 times.

Many have wondered how supporters of a balanced budget amendment can be so presumptuous as to tread on ground where Messrs. Jefferson, Hamilton, Adams and Madison saw no need to tread. But those who have studied the deliberations of the constitutional convention and the Federalist Papers know that the genius of the founders' finished product is its blend of timeless principles with pragmatically constructed equations defining the relationship of citizen and state, as well as the powers and responsibilities retained by each. If the founding fathers had not recognized that new circumstances

The question is not even safety. By the time the thing is built, it will be obsolete. This is always true of government projects.

The question is what are we gonna do with a hole in the ground? The thing will be there, built, ready and abandoned. What possible usage can it have? I thought maybe we could store imported water in the thing, but it will be too salty for that. Maybe we can sell salt. Boy, the world better want a lot of salt.

I have thought of a couple of usages. Maybe we could fill the thing with manure. This would get the stuff underground so we would not have to smell it. I am tired of being introduced by someone saying, "To find Hereford you go North till you smell it and turn West till you step on it." Who knows, if we bury the stuff that deep it might fertilize the whole world.

One other possible use could be the best. All presidents want a library built in their honor when they leave office. This takes a great deal of money and serves very little purpose. I have never met anyone who has gone to see a Presidential Library. Let's get them to put all future libraries in our hole. The stuff would be safely salted away from all attacks. And we might get four or five tourists a year to come see the things.

Well, it's just a thought. There ain't much you can do with a hole in the ground.

It's My Turn

We took an interesting little quiz the other day concerning agriculture. The quiz was put together by the Agriculture Day Foundation, and tested the reader's ability to pick out the state which led the nation in the production of certain agricultural products during 1981.

Some of the matches were easy, like Texas beef cattle, Florida oranges, Idaho potatoes, Georgia peanuts, Wisconsin Dairy products, and Washington apples, but some were also surprising.

See how many of the following products you can match to the state which led the nation in its production last year:

PRODUCT	STATE
1. Blueberries	A. Arkansas
2. Catfish	B. California
3. Corn	C. Illinois
4. Cranberries	D. Iowa
5. Eggs	E. Kansas
6. Mushrooms	F. Massachusetts
7. Popcorn	G. Michigan
8. Rice	H. Minnesota
9. Sorghum	I. Mississippi
10. Soybeans	J. Nebraska
11. Timber	K. North Carolina
12. Tobacco	L. North Dakota
13. Turkeys	M. Oregon
14. Wheat	O. Pennsylvania

Answers are as follows: 1-G; 2-I; 3-D; 4-F; 5-B; 6-N; 7-J; 8-A; 9-E; 10-C; 11-M; 12-K; 13-H; 14-L.

In a second quiz we were interested to find that while hogs are raised in all 50 states, only Texas, Louisiana, and Florida also produce cotton, sugar cane, and broiler chickens.

According to the Agriculture Council of America agriculture is our nation's biggest industry, with assets totaling more than $1.1 trillion — equal to 88 percent of the capital assets of all manufacturing in the United States.

The Bootleg Philosopher

Foreign Policy: Two-Way Street

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek looks at foreign policy this week, dimly.

Dear editor: There are a lot of things nobody understands and high on the list as far as I'm concerned is foreign policy, followed right on its heels by monetary policy.

It's foreign policy however that's in the news now. Some are saying our foreign policy is in a mess, which isn't odd in a world in the same shape.

As I half-way understand it, our foreign policy makers are always worried that if our international relations aren't handled with the utmost delicacy we'll make some other country mad.

My question is, doesn't any other country every worry about making us mad? Has any other country ever pulled up short and said, Look, we can't do that, it might offend the United States? Now you tell me.

I have no more idea than a State Legislator what our foreign policy or any other country's foreign policy has accomplished in the last hundred years, but whatever those policies were they didn't seem to work. The world's in about the same shape, except that now it has three wars going at the same time while one used to be adequate.

You reckon if no country had a foreign policy the nations of the world would get along any better? As it is, enemies one year can be allies the next or the other way around and it's hard for anybody's foreign policy to keep up with the changes.

How can a Secretary of State claim credit for something he doesn't know is going to happen and isn't sure what it is after it does.

This predicament exists also on a lesser level. For example, I contend that Congress ought to pass a law making it illegal for a big industry to suddenly locate in a town without first giving the Chamber of Commerce a chance to bring it there.

Foreign policy is like the Good Neighbor policy. It works if you've got good neighbors and you in turn are one too. So far if you've got good neighbors and you in turn are one too. So far the world is a good bit shy of being a neighborhood, with everybody wanting others to pen their dogs while his runs free. Here, Rover!

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

'Autumn of Liberty' Memo

In 1954, I wrote a book called "Autumn of Liberty."

It sought to trace the demise of nations when they got rich, then fat, then lazy.

The book was intended to warn us.

But this was at a time when America had inherited the earth.

It was not until the 1970s that our pre-eminence place among the nations began to dissolve — when we bit off more than we could chew in Korea, and then Vietnam.

When I wrote "Autumn" our nation's 6 percent of the planet produced 60 percent of the world's manufactured goods; today it's less than 20 percent.

Six European countries claim per-capita production higher than ours. We had rebuilt the economies of war-torn Europe and Japan — at our own expense.

No nation has ever operated successfully outside the realm of its generally recognized "national interests."

Over-extension makes any nation weaker, not stronger.

Rome learned this. Spain and Greece in turn learned it. The British and French learned it. We learned it.

And the Soviets will. Even yet our Western leaders speak with reverence of their mission to guarantee self-determination for everybody.

No way.

We embraced any dictator who shared our fear of communism — then he turned on us.

And even Western Europeans voted communists into office.

So now the seekers after world power are engaged in a billion-dollar-a-day arms race.

Yet we have been powerless to enforce self-determination, security or even peace in tiny El Salvador.

President Reagan created a "vital United States interest" beyond our control, and got his nose bloodied.

For the 150 years we led the world by example; no guns, no butter, no money. Just by minding our own business so very well we were a lighthouse for the world.

With a redefinition of our true "national interests" we could be that again.

Thumbing Back

75 YEARS AGO

On last Tuesday the country was blessed by another big rain. The rainfall south and east of town was very heavy, being estimated all the way from one to two inches, which right in town was very light, not exceeding one-fourth inch. It is reported that a big rain fell between Parmerton and Texico.

50 YEARS AGO

Several boys of the community have been severely reprimanded by officials for discharging firearms within the city. A number of times citizens have been alarmed by flying bullets and one was struck by a spent bullet during this past week.

The Agriculture Credit Corporation appropriation bill has passed both houses of Congress and has been signed by the President, and the machinery soon will be in operation for loan relief to stockmen and farmers.

25 YEARS AGO

Foreign exchange students from 18 countries got a look at Hereford and life on the High Plains last weekend when

Debate Raging Over Jaw-Set Devices In Athletics

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Some dentists and trainers are trying to determine the veracity of claims that athletes have miraculously increased their strength with custom-fitted mouthpiece devices.

Dentists at the University of Texas Health Science Center here and Ohio State University are urging athletes, parents, other dentists, coaches and trainers to beware until the MORAs (mandibular orthopedic repositioning devices) are scientifically proven.

One theory — advanced by dentist Richard Kaufman of Oceanside, N.Y. — holds that a person's athletic strength is greatly enhanced if he inserts a device into his mouth that effectively "sets his jaw" in an optimum position during athletic competition.

For instance, the U.S. Olympic bobsled and luge teams at Lake Placid, N.Y., were fitted with MORAs made by Kaufman. He also made MORAs for football and hockey players, baseball pitchers, a discus thrower, a pole vaulter and distance runners.

The squabble has heated up since Sports Illustrated published an article in June 1981 in which the MORAs were claimed to have improved performances of several athletes.

Now some companies reportedly are selling the devices to athletes for $350 or more, and the trainer for the Philadelphia Eagles is upset that his team has been falsely portrayed as using the devices.

Dr. William Heintz, an Ohio State University professor emeritus who pioneered football mouthguards and who is credited with developing the National Collegiate Athletic Association's current mouthguard rule, further fears that the newly developed devices will jeopardize success of the NCAA mouthguard program.

For one thing, the devices, made of a hard acrylic resin and metal, do not meet NCAA requirements because they are too hard and because they don't cover the top teeth. Beginning this year, failure to use an approved mouthpiece or any other required equipment would subject a college team to loss of a timeout, Heintz said.

"These things are very controversial. There are pros and cons from a dozen people on both sides and there is plenty to confuse you. My opinion is that (claims of athletic enhancement) has not been justified or demonstrated by any research yet," Heintz said.

Heintz said the combination of NCAA requirements for face guards and mouth protectors had reduced mouth injuries in college football to one-quarter to one-half of one percent.

"With over 2 million playing under this rule, it is safe to say we are avoiding more than 150,000 injuries a year and we think this is pretty darn important," he said.

Both Heintz and Dr. Robert Morrow, who heads a UT Health Science Center team that fits both the University of Texas Longhorns and Prairie View A&M Panthers with mouthguards, said they fear the inflexible materials being used in the new devices might lead to injuries.

"I'm not saying it doesn't work," Morrow said. "I'm saying I'm from Missouri, I haven't been shown. With athletes what we get into too often is the placebo effect or the psychological effect."

So intense has become the divergent viewpoints that the Journal of the American Dental Association devoted considerable space to the subject in its March issue. Former Ohio State coach Woody Hayes, Heintz, Morrow and others will discuss the issue during a mouthguard seminar for trainers, coaches and dentists later this month.

The UT Health Science Center is sponsoring the seminar for coaches, trainers and dentists via a telephone conference hookup July 30 to examine "the current state-of-the-art in protective mouthpieces."

Morrow said the mouthguards he and a team of UT Health Science Center dentists and students have developed for the Texas Longhorns do include the occlusion, or bite, features boasted as a panacea by some people, but they are made of a thick, clear plastic that holds its shape, yet is flexible and comfortable.

"In effect, I think that's what we do. The way we make the mouthguard, we do put in a bite," Morrow said.

"But I'm not about to say, with the evidence we've been presented at this point, that we're doing anything to affect the athletes. We think when he clinches his teeth to take a hit that he's more comfortable. But we're not doing it and saying, 'hey, when you go out there you're going to run faster or have more endurance.' The evidence, in my estimation, is not there."

In fact, the Journal of the American Dental Association cited a studies sponsored by the University of Pennsylvania and the U.S. Olympic Training Center at Colorado Springs, which showed no statistical difference in strength of the athletes.

"For heavens sakes, don't call these things mouth protectors," Heintz said. "My concern is there are some parents who will do anything to try to improve their youngsters' performance. And if they thought for sure he was going to do it for $350, they'll run some place and say 'here's my $350, make my boy strong.'"

Otho Davis, trainer for the Philadelphia Eagles, said he telephoned a New Jersey company and told them to quit using his team to promote repositioning devices it was marketing.

Davis said a Philadelphia dentist did conduct an experiment with several Eagle players two years ago, using a "wax bite mouthpiece" and a strength-testing machine.

"As far as I'm concerned, it (test) didn't prove a thing," Davis added. "On the people he did it on there was a little bit of strength increase, but the number was not significant. There was not a significant number of players used for a valid study."

"At no time have the Philadelphia Eagles ever used this MORA splint metal type or hard type splint that they're making a big issue out of. It is very misleading to hundreds of people," the trainer said.

Currently the Eagles are fitted with mouthpieces made at UCLA by its team dentist, Dr. Spiro Chaconas, a longtime friend of Coach Dick Vermeil and who is described in the ADA Journal Article as in the "middle of the road" on the issue of mandibular repositioning devices.

Chaconas is among several researchers who are seeking scientific proof of any salutary effect of the devices on athletic performances.

"There is a terrible amount of confusion going around and I don't want to see a patient get suckered and I don't want the proective mouthguard program that has been so successful to be affected," Heintz said.

"There are recognized and respected researchers presently at work around the country and when they come out with adequate research and cases, they will certainly announce it. But they will not go off half-cocked and make claims on the basis of inadequate information."

In the meantime, Heintz is advising all concerned to stick with NCAA-approved mouthguard devices and said the ADA has a program to advise and instruct teams on beginning mouthguard programs.

New Picassos Shown In Paris

PARIS (AP) — A major collection of Pablo Picasso paintings — several never before seen in public — has gone on exhibition because the late artist's wife wanted to save a controversial Paris cultural center.

Jacqueline Picasso came to the aid of the Centre Cultural du Marais with the loan of paintings and sculptures which, with lithographs from another private collection, constitute the most important art event on the French capital's summer calendar.

The show includes 73 oil paintings taken from the music room of Picasso's Riviera home in Mougins.

Among the 16 works being seen in public for the first time is a touching 1923 portrait of the late artist's mother, and "The Easel," a stark, unfinished oil.

The show reveals a little known side of the prolific artist, who died in 1973 at age 92, documenting intimate moments of his 20-year love affair with his wife Jacqueline.

"These paintings are messages of tenderness and passion," says art critic Pierre Cabanne of Le Matin. "They are like a lover's confessions. The Centre Cultural du Marais has made a striking re-entrance into the Parisian art scene, and so has Picasso."

The dominant theme of the retrospective is Jacqueline Picasso, the artist's attentive companion and constant source of inspiration during the last 20 years of his life.

With a long graceful neck, aquiline nose and Egyptian eyes, Mrs. Picasso's beauty fascinated her husband, and he painted hundreds of portraits of her. The dozens in the exhibit illustrate his sensitivity to her every pose and mood: Jacqueline smiling, sulking, frightened, angry, dreamy. Jacqueline with her cat, a bird. Jacqueline in colorful Turkish dress.

Maurice Guillaud, the co-director, said that after the center lost its subsidy and sought money to try to reopen, "Jacqueline Picasso found out about our plight, and immediately offered to sell a painting and give us the money."

Knowing that Mrs. Picasso was trying to buy back paintings, Guillaud refused. He returned to the Picasso home the following day.

"She received us in the famous music room, where Picasso used to entertain his friends," Guillaud said. "It was large and airy, very messy with books and paintings everywhere. She raised her hand and said: 'Take this room. It'll be for everyone to see for a few months.'"

REPORT FROM SECRETARY OF STATE
DAVID A. DEAN
Elections Update

The results of an analysis of the May 1, 1982 primary election were released by the Secretary of State's Office and the overall impression is that the registered voter in Texas in 1982 is clearly less than satisfied with our electoral process.

Based on the fact that only 24 percent of the State's 6.6 million registered voters bothered to vote on May 1 at a cost of $4.5 million which included $1.7 million in candidates' filing fees and over $29,000 in private contributions, this amounts to a cost of approximately $2.80 per vote cast in the May 1 primary election.

Dr. Robert A. Peterson of the University of Texas at Austin was commissioned to analyze the factors impacting the behavior of the registered voter in Texas, voters' attitudes on the manner in which the May 1 primary was held, and registered voters' opinions on eight various electoral process issues. One thousand four hundred and forty-one registered voters were surveyed on the various election related questions. In 1982, registered voters across the state thought of themselves as 33 percent Republican, 45 percent Democrat, and 22 percent "other." Registered voters who did not vote in the May 1 primary thought of themselves as 37 percent Republican, 41 percent Democrat, and 22 percent "other."

The major findings of the study are:

* Slightly more than one-third of the registered voters interviewed stated that they were either "strongly in favor of" or "somewhat in favor of" establishing an election reporting bureau in the Secretary of State's Office. Nearly one-fourth of the registered voters were uncertain as to their opinion on the issue.

* A majority of the registered voters were in favor of holding primary elections closer to the general election in Texas. Support ranged from 57 percent of the nonvoters to 52 percent of the voters for this concept.

* Fifty-six percent of the registered voters surveyed believed that statewide elections should be held on the same day as the Presidential election.

* Approximately two-thirds of the registered voters interviewed thought that state judges should be elected without regard to political party affiliation, or on a nonpartisan basis. Fifty-six percent of the registered voters surveyed who voted in the Democratic primary, and 55 percent of the registered voters surveyed who voted in the Republican primary stated judicial elections should "definitely" be held in this manner.

* Nearly eight out of ten registered voters interviewed responded that there should be legal penalties for candidates who make untrue statements or misrepresentations when campaigning for public office. Indeed, fully 67 percent of the registered voters who voted in the primary election said there should "definitely" be a state law that has penalties for political candidates who knowingly make such statements during an election campaign. Relatively more registered voters who voted in the Democratic primary, 68 percent, than registered voters who voted in the Republican primary, 58 percent, stated that there should "definitely" be such a law.

* Approximately 52 percent of the survey participants agreed that current officeholders with more than one year remaining in their current term of office should be required to resign their current office when seeking election to a different statewide office.

* Nearly three-quarters of the survey participants stated that state, local, and school board elections should "definitely" or "probably" be held on the same day, at a single polling place, with votes cast on a single ballot.

* When asked their opinions regarding the establishment of a unitary primary election in Texas, 53 percent of the registered voters were either "strongly in favor of" or "somewhat in favor of" this election concept. Approximately 54 percent of the survey participants who did not vote in the primary election and 48 percent of the survey participants who did vote in the primary election favored the unitary primary concept. Sixty-two percent of the registered voters surveyed who did not vote in the May, 1982, primary said that they either "definitely" or "probably" would have voted if there had been a unitary primary. Fifteen percent of the nonvoters surveyed were uncertain as to whether they would have voted while 23 percent said they still would not have been motivated to vote even with a unitary primary in effect.

The results of the analysis overwhelmingly indicate that the registered voters in Texas favor major modifications in our current election system. The election proposals put before the registered voters would streamline various facets of the election system and would decrease the costs of holding the elections to the taxpayer, and reduce campaign costs to the candidates while at the same time increasing voter turnout and voter interest in Texas elections.

The voters of today are in a sense suffering from "voter fatigue"—too many elections—too close together in time—in too many places—and on too many ballots. The "voter fatigue" syndrome is evidenced by the low voter turnout in recent Texas elections and perhaps significantly accounts for the favorable responses received from registered voters surveyed on proposed changes in Texas' election system.

The task of motivating registered voters to vote is not easy—but the favorable reception to the future election issues put to the registered voters clearly indicates that voter interest and increased voter turnout could be a logical result of their implementation. Over one-half of the nonvoters surveyed stated they would have gone to the polls on May 1 had Texas had a unitary primary. In addition, had the primary election been held closer to the general election and a consolidation of state and local elections held on the same day, voter turnout would have been significantly higher.

The 68th Texas Legislature should take serious note of the low voter turnout trend evident in recent elections and examine in detail the citizen preferences indicated for each of the eight election policy issues. The Secretary of State's Office, in the interim, will in turn examine the financial feasibility, practicality, and advantages and disadvantages of each of the policy matters and make appropriate legislative recommendations to the 68th Texas Legislature.

Copies of the Primary Election Analysis and the Executive Summary are available free of charge and may be obtained by writing the Secretary of State, P.O. Box 12887, Austin, Texas, 78711, or by calling 1-800-252-9602.

Cabbies' Donation Won't Free Cat

LEAGUE CITY, Texas (AP) — A $275 donation by some Kansas cabbies won't free a feline held hostage by a veterinarian in a dispute over a surgery bill, an attorney says.

Rusty Verkin, attorney for veterinarian Ron Ludwin, said nothing will be decided until Tuesday, when the dispute goes to court in nearby Dickinson, Texas.

"We welcome the concern of the folks in Topeka, but Dr. Ludwin wants his day in court," Verkin said after receiving a personal check made out to Ludwin and signed by Robert Driscoll, operator of a fleet of taxicabs in the Kansas capital.

"We are not prepared at this time to say, 'Fine, here's our $275; we're going home,'" Verkin said. He received the check Thursday.

Until Ludwin gets his day in court, the orange and white cat named Tobias will remain in a hideaway where he has been held since the dispute over the bill began, Verkin said.

Ludwin has not commented on the matter since shortly after the cat's owner, Sharelle Overton, and four of her friends picketed his clinic in this Houston suburb last month with placards reading "Free Tobias" and "Ransom Never!"

Ms. Overton, 19, filed a motion Friday to have Ludwin bring the cat with him to the hearing.

She contends Ludwin agreed to perform emergency surgery for $100 to remove five feet of fishing line her cat had swallowed. She said when she went to pick up Tobias, Ludwin asked for $275, which she said she did not have.

Ludwin, who denies he agreed to the $100 fee, has held the cat ever since in lieu of payment, and Miss Overton filed suit in small claims court demanding Tobias' return.

Ms. Overton said Friday she was disappointed that the donation from Kansas failed to spring Tobias. "He took the money and didn't give up the cat? That's unreal," she said.

Verkin said he would deliver the cab drivers' check to Ludwin and would advise him to turn it over to the court before Tuesday's hearing. But Verkin said at this point, the money and the cat are not the issue. "We could give the cat back and she could withdraw the suit, but everyone would have a bad taste in their mouth about Dr. Ludwin, because he hasn't been given an opportunity to tell his story," Verkin said. "The cat is just our means to have our day in court."

Verkin said if the Topeka donors are dissatisfied and want their money back, it will be refunded, but the cat will remain a "prisoner" until Tuesday. "No harm is going to come to the cat," he said.

Driscoll said he launched the fund-raising drive because he and most of his drivers were cat lovers.

"A year ago last winter a stray cat came to the door and broke up our poker game," he said. He said the stray has since become the cabbies' mascot and has been named Leroy, after one of the drivers.

OPTOMETRIST

LOOKING INSIDE YOUR EYES

QUESTION: During my last eye examination, the doctor pointed a bright light into my eyes and studies them for quite a while. What was he looking for?

ANSWER: Your optometrist was examining the INSIDE of your eyes with an ophthalmoscope. This instrument lights up the interior of the eye and enlarges the image. This is an important part of the exam. It allows for examination of the retina, arteries and veins, and the optic nerve entrance. The inside of the eye is the only place in the body where blood vessels can be seen in their natural state. It's not unusual, therefore, to spot the first signs of hardening of the arteries, diabetes, or hypertension. We also look for specific eye diseases and abnormalities.

Handicapped Planning Guadalupe Climb

GUADALUPE NATIONAL PARK, Texas (AP) — Guadalupe Peak, the highest point in Texas, is a monolith of stone that dominates the surrounding plains. But for six men, the mountain is merely a stepping stone toward other goals.

The six — all bound to wheelchairs because of paralysis or amputation — will begin an expedition up the mountain Monday to draw attention to the capabilities of the handicapped and to raise money for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

"They're magnificent men and it's a magnificent thing to do," said Jack Grimm, an Abilene oilman who is helping organize the climb.

The "Mountain Men," as the climbers call themselves, face a grueling, 4½-mile trail that rises 3,000 feet to the flat summit of the red and orange peak, which has a total altitude of 8,751 feet. Michael "Shorty" Powers, 30, of Dallas, leader of the expedition, says the ascent probably will take two days and the descent will take one day.

"But we might just spend a day on the top after we get up there," he said confidently.

Powers and two other members of the team — Donnie Rogers, 26, of Dallas and John Galland, 31, of Mound, Minn. — took part in a climb last year in the Uintah Mountains in Utah. They and the other members participate in wheelchair athletics and rehabilitation programs for the handicapped.

The others are Dave Kiley, 29, of Los Angeles, Bobby Lyles, 30, of Raleigh, N.C., and Joe Moss, 32, of Dallas. Moss lost his legs in the Vietnam War and the other climbers are paralyzed from a variety of accidents.

"We're doing it all ourselves," Powers said. "Nobody is going to touch us. The only help that we're going to get is that they're going to drop off water for us."

"If we have to get out of the chairs, we'll use whatever talent, ropes and equipment that we have to keep going. If it gets too steep of an incline, we'll have to do the same thing — get out and crawl up it."

The climbers will use specially designed wheelchairs being produced on a rush order by a California firm called the Quadra Co., Powers said. The chairs have backpacks built into them and have special wheels that will grip the rocky surface.

The expedition is the cornerstone for an organization called Paraplegics on Independent Nature Trips, or POINT, that Powers has founded.

"The climb is just to get exposure," he said. "We'll climb once, twice, maybe three times a year. But what we say will mean more than the physical things we do."

What POINT is saying is that handicapped people are capable of accomplishing feats in the outdoors without the assistance of those who aren't handicapped.

"We're really working to get the so-called 'normal' handicapped person involved," Powers said. "We have scuba-diving and kayaking classes. We're going to have our basketball team and track and tennis teams. We're trying to get away from able-bodied people's help."

Grimm, who is known for his attempts to locate the wreckage of the ocean liner Titanic, is funding a film crew that will record the attempt up the mountain.

"What we want to do is make films and send them to rehabilitation centers and have them play them on their video machines," Powers said. "We hope it will be very inspirational."

At Grimm's suggestion, the climb has been turned into a "Mountathon," with contributors paying up to 10 cents per foot that the team covers. The money will go to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, a private nonprofit corporation that has centers in Abilene, Snyder and San Angelo.

"We've had a tremendous response," Grimm said.

On The Right Track

The local 13 year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars got started on the right track Friday night with a 12-1 win over Muleshoe in postseason play. Representing Hereford in the tourney in Friona are (front from left) Paul Maes, Bill Ruckman, Kent Walterscheid, Ricky Ruiz,

Ruth Stars Win, 12-1

Todd Shire tossed a two-hitter, and Keith Herrera led the way from the plate with a single and a double as the Hereford 13 year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars swamped Muleshoe 12-1 Friday night in the opener of postseason tournament action in Friona.

Shire, a righthander, limited the Mules to a couple of singles enroute to an 11-strikeout performance while walking none.

"Todd had just an excellent night," Hereford coach Michael Dodson said. Dodson added that his squad was to play the winner of the Friona - Plainview Red game Friday night in the second round on Saturday at 6 p.m.

Herrera scored three runs in the wake of his two hits, and Joe Fuentes added a pair of safeties to help the Hereford cause while scoring two runs. David Manchee and Bill Ruckman also crossed the plate twice for Hereford, which totaled seven hits in the contest.

Manchee, a lefty, was expected to start on the mound for the Hereford stars in Saturday's second round game. A win Saturday would put Hereford in a 6 p.m. match Monday, while a loss Saturday would have sent them into a loser's bracket game at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The seven-team, double-elimination tournament is expected to continue through mid-week.

McEnroe Gives U.S. 1-0 Lead

ST. LOUIS (AP) — John McEnroe shook off a tenacious Anders Jarryd 10-8, 6-3, 6-3 Friday evening to give the United States a 1-0 lead in its quarterfinal Davis Cup match against Sweden.

Sweden's Mats Wilander, the surprise winner of the French Open last month, met Eliot Teltscher in Friday's second singles tussle in this best-of-five-match international tennis competition.

McEnroe and Jarryd will face each again Saturday in the doubles. McEnroe teaming with Peter Fleming against Jarryd and Hans Simonsson. The final two singles matches will be played Sunday afternoon with Teltscher facing Jarryd and McEnroe meeting Wilander.

It appeared McEnroe would have no problems crushing his 20-year-old foe as the New Yorker, ranked No. 1 in the world, broke Jarryd in the second and sixth games to grab a 5-1 lead. But after McEnroe won the opening point of the seventh game with a forehand volley, the Swede captured 17 of the next 23 points, breaking McEnroe's serve in the seventh and ninth games.

The two then held serve through the next eight games, McEnroe closing out the 17th game with two aces.

Then he quickly took a love-40 lead against Jarryd as the Swede was wide with a forehand, watched his backhand volley sail long, then netted a backhand. That gave McEnroe triple set point.

Jarryd saved the first one, but the New Yorker, with the crowd screaming "Let's go, McEnroe," the left-hander moved the net and closed out the first set with a forehand volley.

Rangers Extend Detroit Slump; Take Pair

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — If Detroit manager Sparky Anderson was counting on a break in his team's horrible slump, it may have been understandable.

The Tigers had lost 20 of their last 26 ball games and had slipped from first to fourth in the American League East. But they were headed for Texas, a team that had not beaten Detroit all year.

By 10:30 p.m. Friday, however, any such optimism was long gone, as the Rangers swept two from the Tigers, 3-2 and 3-1, even though Detroit out-hit Texas in both games.

"You said it, it hurts," said a glum Anderson, setting the tone for a quiet Tiger clubhouse. "All you can do is keep battling."
"We're not hitting, but we're pitching good," said Texas manager Don Zimmer, elated at his team's first double-header sweep since last August — also against the Tigers.

John Butcher made his first start of the year in the opener. He and Danny Darwin, 5-2, combined on a five-hitter and beat the Detroit pitching tandem of Pat Underwood and Dave Tobik, 2-3, who allowed just four hits. "I felt pretty good," Butcher said, "I had a good slider. Underwood was pitching a great game so I felt a little pressure."

Buddy Bell lifted the pressure with his one-out, two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth for the Texas win. "That was perfect timing," Bell said of his 10th homer of the season. "We went into the ninth one run down and I thought it might not be our night but now, I guess it was."

Billy Sample made sure of that in the nightcap, driving in two runs with a homer and a single in the 3-1 victory. Dave Schmidt earned his third save in the game, relieving starter Doc Medich, 7-7.

"It's good to sweep Detroit," said Schmidt. They give us problems. It seems every time we play them — especially in Detroit — they beat us in the ninth inning."

Texas scored first in the opener on Bell's double and a single by Dave Hostetler.

Detroit tied it in the fifth on Alan Trammell's single that followed a double by Lynn Jones. The Tigers jumped ahead 2-1 when Lance Parrish singled, Mike Ivie in Jerry Turner walked, then Tom Brookens singled Parrish home. But that just set the stage for Bell's clout, which scored Sample, who doubled.

The Rangers took the lead in the second game, too, as George Wright singled and scored all the way from first on Sample's single.

Sample cracked a solo homer in the sixth to make it 2-0. Hostetler singled and scored on a Mike Richardt double in the seventh for a 3-0 Texas lead.

The Tigers touch Schmidt for a run in the ninth on an Enos Cabell single, Chet Lemon's ground out and a single by Brookens.

Cardinal Rookies Combine To Trim Houston, 3-2

HOUSTON (AP) — It appears that everything is falling in place for St. Louis rookie outfielder Willie McGee now that he's made it to the major leagues. Getting there was his biggest problem.

McGee and rookie pitcher Dave LaPoint conspired to topple the Houston Astros 3-2 in the Astrodome Friday night.

McGee's league-leading seventh triple ignited a two-run game-winning rally in the sixth inning, keeping his average above the .330 mark.

"These big ol' parks make it easy to hit triples," McGee said. "With these big alleys, I could probably hit some to left center. These parks are designed for speed, I guess."

McGee is a big surprise for the Cardinals, who entered the season high on another rookie outfielder, David Green. But an injury to Green forced them to use McGee.

"I knew in spring training I probably wouldn't make the club," McGee said. "I could see they had the team pretty well made up, plus I hadn't played any triple A ball."

"I figured to play a full year in triple A ball, so when they called me up, I couldn't lose either way."

Tom Herr led off the Cardinals' sixth with a single off loser Nolan Ryan, 8-9, and scored on McGee's three-bagger to make it 2-1. Keith Hernandez's RBI single gave the Cards a 3-1 lead.

Houston halved the lead in the bottom of the sixth when Ray Knight and Jose Cruz singled and Phil Garner hit a sacrifice fly.

LaPoint, rookie Jeff Lahti and veteran Jim Kaat combined to limit Houston to six hits.

La Point, 5-2, struck out three and walked two in 7 1-3 innings. Kat earned his first save of the season.

It was another hard-luck defeat for the Astros, who have now lost nine straight one-run decisions. Five of Houston's last six defeats have been by a single run.

Ryan, who struck out 10 and walked three while allowing seven hits, and was not happy. "I see a long season," Ryan said. "I don't foresee things getting much better."

The 10-strikeout total marked the 141st time in Ryan's career that he has struck out 10 or more batters, an extension of his own record. Ryan has accomplished the feat six times this season, including in each of his last three starts.

The Cardinals scored first on George Hendricks' 13th homer of the season, a second-inning solo blast.

Astros' Sambito Confident After First Surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros relief pitcher Joe Sambito, injury-free throughout his career, didn't think he could survive the trauma of his first surgery. "I've handled this a lot better than I thought," Sambito said in a telephone interview from his hospital bed Thursday. "I've never had an injury before and I thought if I did, I would go totally bananas. But I found you can learn. "I just didn't think about what could have been, I just concentrated on the future." Sambito likely has a future after Dr. Frank Jobe of Los Angeles removed a tendon from Sambito's foot and used it to reconstruct ligament in his left elbow. Jobe also removed painful bone chips that had caused the ligament damage. When the surgery started, Sambito knew there was a possibility the operation would be more complicated than removing bone chips. And he knew immediately what had happened when he woke up from the surgery.

"The first thing I saw when I woke up was the cast on my foot and I was disappointed, but we knew that the possibility existed for more damage," Sambito said. Despite the latest setback, Sambito says Jobe has assured him that he will pitch again. "He (Jobe) told me there is a 100 percent chance that I'll pitch again, it's just going to take a little bit longer," Sambito said. Sambito still anticipates being ready to go to spring training next season. "The thing I have to do now, is not rush things," he said. "I've got a lot of time now to get ready." Sambito has not pitched since April 27 and never reached his 1979 All-Star form this season. In his final outing he went two innings in one of his better performances.

Sambito's injury has been typical of the misfortune plaguing the Astros pitching staff this season. "The thing that people don't realize is that all of our pitchers had about the best season they could possibly have. It was just too much to think we could repeat that kind of performance this year."

Healthy Italy May Prevail

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Italy may carry a heavy advantage into the final match of the World Cup soccer tournament Sunday: its most prolific scorer is healthy, West Germany's is not. Paolo Rossi, the sensational 25-year-old striker who has scored all five Italian goals in the team's last two matches, will start. But West Germany's Karl-Heinz Rummenigge, whose fifth goal of the tournament ignited a rally which pulled his team through the semifinal against France, will be listed as a substitute because of a nagging thigh injury. The match in Madrid's Santiago Bernabeu Stadium features two teams which have won the title twice — Italy in 1934 and 1938, and West Germany in 1954 and 1974. West Germany is the current European champion, while Italy is the world's hottest team off its 2-1 victory over defending champion Argentina, a 3-2 conquest of tournament favorite Brazil.

Italy breezed past Poland 2-0 in a semifinal match in Barcelona Thursday. West Germany drew France 3-3 after 30 minutes extra time, but won on Horst Hrubesch's penalty kick in sudden-death. France played Poland in Alicante Saturday for third place. "Overconfidence is the first step toward tragedy," Italian Manager Enzo Bearzot warned his team. "We have to rely on the psychological strength of our team, on our high morale which is the result of our scoring. We must not emphasize our merits, just as we must not dramatize our problems."

"We will fall back on our reserves of strength on Sunday," West German Coach Jupp Derwall told reporters in Madrid on Friday. "I am optimistic that the Italian team has already had its best matches of the 1982 competi-

INSUR-MATION

Don Tardy
Farmers Union Insurance
364-2624

If a policy is owned by someone other than the insured, is there a gift tax when the insured dies and the proceeds are paid to beneficiaries other than the policy owner? Yes. For example, if a wife owns a policy on the life of her husband and names their children as beneficiaries, there is a gift from the wife to the children when the husband dies. The value of the gift would be the value of the entire proceeds and subject to gift tax. If the insurance had been split so each child owned a policy on the life of the father, then there would have been neither estate nor gift taxes on the proceeds.

McReynolds Brothers Celebrating 30 Years of Bluegrass Music

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Grand Ole Opry stars Jim & Jesse are brothers who married sisters and they used family bonds to stay together for 35 years as a bluegrass singing team.
Jim and Jesse McReynolds are celebrating their 30th year as recording artists and their 18th as regulars on the Grand Ole Opry.

And the brothers, easy-going sons of a Virginia coal miner, say they've never had a serious falling out — or even thought about breaking up their fine bluegrass harmony.
"We've never had any problem as far as working together and getting along," the 55-year-old Jim McReynolds said.

"I look after the booking and try to manage it," he said. "Jesse more or less runs the (five-piece) band and does the hiring and firing."
Says the 53-year-old Jesse

McReynolds: "I just 'pick' (play the mandolin) and keep out of the business part."
Right now, don't go looking for Jim & Jesse on the 90 acres they live on north of Nashville with the McCoy sisters, because summer is the heart of the outdoor bluegrass festival season. And chances are, the brothers and their band, the Virginia Boys, are at a festival somewhere in middle America.
The bluegrass — old-time string music with tight vocal harmony — may be the same, but other aspects of the festivals have changed.

ago."
At the fests, the two sell their records and pictures and mingle.
"It's a family atmosphere," Jesse McReynolds says. "There are no superstars. We don't do our shows and then just take off. We do our show and then go talk to people for two or three hours."

Most weekends of the year, the duo sings on the Grand Ole Opry — the 57-year-old country music radio show and the goal of many aspiring country performers just as Broadway is the goal of the stagestruck.

Their professional recording career began in 1952, and they are still on the charts — now with their single "Northwind." Joining them on the record is veteran Opry star Charlie Louvin.
During their career, they have recorded some 40 albums and performed in England, Japan, Switzerland, France and The Netherlands.

Jim is particularly noted for singing a clear, polished tenor, while Jesse is best known for "cross-picking" — a fast alteration of repeated melodic patterns that few have imitated successfully.

Israeli Mayor Fired After Leading Protest

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli authorities on Friday fired the mayor of Gaza, the largest Palestinian city under Israeli occupation, in the latest move against Palestinian nationalism.
Israel's Interior Ministry will assume the functions of Mayor Rashad a-Shawa, who was summoned before the Israeli governor of the Gaza Strip, Brig. Gen. Yosef Lutz, and dismissed for leading a partial strike to protest Israeli policies.
Shawa, appointed mayor in 1975, is the sixth Palestinian city leader to be dismissed since March when Defense Minister Ariel Sharon embarked on a campaign against Palestinian nationalists in the West Bank and Gaza. The campaign has continued through Israel's invasion of Lebanon, launched on June 6 to drive the Palestine Liberation Organization from Lebanon and destroy it as a military and political challenge to Israel.

The 73-year-old Shawa, a wealthy businessman, reacted to his dismissal by emphasizing his moderation compared with the radicalism of fired West Bank mayors like Bassam Shakaa of Nablus and Kerim Khalaf of Ramallah.

"Dismissing me and my type is not going to help solve the Palestinian problem," Shawa told The Associated Press. "This will make it more complicated. I feel that, together with our right to our homeland and to self-determination, we (Palestinians) can live peacefully side by side with Israel. Now they (the Israelis) will have to deal with more extreme people in the future."
Israel, Shawa said, is pursuing a heavy-handed policy that will further alienate the 1.3 million Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza, "and now the attack on Lebanon will make things more difficult."
Gaza's population of about 180,000 makes it by far the largest Palestinian city under Israeli occupation. Like most towns in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, it has been relatively quiet since Israel launched its invasion of Lebanon, especially compared with the two months of violent clashes that erupted after Israel began firing the radical West Bank leaders in March.

Warrants Issued In Belushi Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three Los Angeles court warrants are outstanding against Cathy Evelyn Smith, who was with comedian John Belushi the day he died, but her attorney said Friday he'll try to settle the warrants from Canada.
"I have no doubt the matters will be taken care of," said attorney Milton Davis in a telephone interview from Toronto. "I'm told the L.A. district attorney has said he will not be extraditing."
Asked if he'd try to settle the matter himself, Davis said "yes."
Ms. Smith, 35, has been quoted by the National Enquirer as saying she helped administer heroin and cocaine to Belushi, 33, on March 5, the day he died in Hollywood's Chateau Marmont Hotel. She says she was misquoted; the Enquirer says it will prove its case by giving tape recordings of her interviews to police.
The Enquirer also quoted Ms. Smith as saying actors Robin Williams and Robert De Niro were with Belushi several hours before he died. Police spokesman Lt. Dan Cooke said Friday that investigators hope to talk to Williams next week.
"His (Williams') attorney said he would try to have him meet with us some time next week, but we don't have a time yet," Cooke said. "We are still negotiating with them."
Cooke said investigators also had tried to contact De

Niro, but had not heard from him. De Niro's agent, Harry Ufland, did not immediately return a telephone call Friday and previously has declined to comment on the Enquirer report.
Ms. Smith's attorney said his office is considering a libel lawsuit in the matter, possibly to be filed in Florida. The Enquirer is based in Lantana, Fla.
"It almost certainly will not be filed in Canada," Davis said, and "I can't see any reason (for it to be filed in California)."
He said the only asset Ms. Smith has in California is a cat.

Laxness No Longer The Black Sheep

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Nobel Prize-winning writer Halldor Laxness was long a pariah in his native Iceland.

But for his 80th birthday in April, Icelanders honored him as the nation's literary giant.

Iceland's only television channel showed three documentaries on Laxness. Reykjavik's two main theaters featured plays by him. There were newspaper articles and receptions.

"I was always a black sheep here from my first appearance as a writer," Laxness said. "People were against me."

"There is a very strong craving in me to form my own opinion about things, but the result was often very different from what other people were thinking."

Although his writing necessarily was colored by his becoming a Roman Catholic in the 1920s and a socialist in the 1930s, he remained a writer instead of an ideologue.

A master storyteller whose works are widely viewed as an extension of the Viking saga, he has become a cult figure in this nation of book readers and poets. At the same time, Laxness the globetrotter has seen his novels translated into almost 50 languages.

He received the Nobel Prize for literature in 1955.

He was a child of vivid imagination, and started to write when he was 7. His first book "A Child of Nature," was published at age 17.

In 1927, four years after converting to Catholicism, Laxness saw his first novel of note published here — "The Great Weaver of Kashmir," a story of a young Catholic intellectual's search for himself.

"A man who writes a Catholic novel here in Protestant Scandinavia must be mad," he says. "It was one of those books that the world was not prepared for."

Nevertheless, the money he received from his Reykjavik publisher financed a trip to the United States, where he stayed until 1930.

"I studied literature from all over the world," he said.

His next two novels in 1931 and 1934 established him as a novelist of European stature. Both books, critics say, contained a radical social viewpoint and an epic perspective of Icelandic history.

"Once you become a State Farm policyholder, chances are you'll stay one."

RECOUNTING THE VOTE Voter Participation Profiles from the 1980 Election

SOURCE: Census Bureau

NEA/Moffitt Caci

Voting patterns vary markedly among Americans according to age, occupation, ethnic identification and area of the country. A new Census Bureau study based on interviews with voters two weeks after the 1980 election finds that participation in the electoral process increases sharply with age and is highest in the Midwest and among professionals. There is a brighter side to the low turnout in American elections, a cause of concern for years: Among those actually registered to vote, a high 90 percent go to the polls. The best news, however, may be that the 59.2 percent overall participation in 1980 was the same as the 1976 turnout, indicating that the downward trend of recent decades may have bottomed out.

Real Star Of New Movie Is Computer Called 'TRON'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Imagine a kid with a $20 million video game to play with.

Steve Lisberger is no kid — he turned 31 in April — but the director-writer virtually was handed such an opportunity by Walt Disney Productions. The wisdom of that move can be judged this month when "TRON" is released throughout the country.

The chief actors are Jeff Bridges, David Warner, Bruce Boxleitner, Cindy Morgan and Bernard Hughes, but the real star may be a computer.

"This is the first time that computer-generated images have been used to a large extent in motion pictures," Lisberger said.

The plot concerns a computer genius (Bridges) who suspects evil by a corporate executive (Warner). During his probe, Bridges is zapped into another dimension and finds himself a player in a gladiatorial video game. That's where Lisberger's technology comes in.

"What we have created is film footage that has literally been untouched by human hands," says the filmmaker, a slender man with a well-cropped beard and eager manner.

"Images have been fed into the computer to create an alternate dimension," he said. "It is a marriage of the new technology and artistry. And, of course, artistry must be predominate."

How did Lisberger win the chance to play with his gargantuan toy?

"I guess it started in 1977 when I was at my parents' house for Christmas and saw the first video games," said Lisberger, who was born in New York and reared in Cunningham Valley, Pa. "I figured I'd better get with this new technology before it got me."

"I saw video games as a crack in the wall of stee q; chnology. They offered humor, excitement, good guys, bad guys, rules. The people who played them were not techno-freaks. Kids found the games approachable; they could master the technology."

While attending the School of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts in 1974, Lisberger had formed an animation studio and for three years produced commercials and shorts for TV. In 1974, he and partner Donald Kushner moved to Los Angeles with a plum assignment: to create a 90-minute cartoon "Animalympics" for NBC. When the United States pulled out of the Moscow Olympics, the project was doomed.

"We had borrowed $300,000 on 'Animalympics' so we had to get something else going," Lisberger said.

That was "TRON," which he and Kushner presented to Disney production chief Tom Wilhite, who demanded six months of tests to prove it would work. "I knew it would," Lisberger said. "What I didn't know was that I would have such a good time doing it."

Twelve thousand years ago, elephants, lions and camels could have been found in what is now Alaska.

Congress Deciding Fate Of Controversial Lease Sales

NEW YORK (AP) — Five months ago Sen. Robert Dole vowed to repeal or substantially alter a controversial law allowing companies to buy and sell tax credits, mainly because the provision enabled some profitable concerns to pare their tax liability to virtually nothing.

The Kansas Republican said companies entering into the "safe-harbor leasing" provision of the Economic Tax Recovery Act of 1981 after Feb. 19 would do so "at their own risk."

As chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Dole's threat carried great weight. Whereas companies were completing such deals almost daily in late 1981, Dole's comments alone brought safe-harbor leasing to a crawl. Companies were wary of drawing up a leasing contract only to later find the law had been junked.

But as the provision now moves through congressional review, it appears it will be saved, although certainly not in its present form. And it already has been approved by Dole's committee with what some consider only limited curbs attached.

Other backers of safe-harbor leasing are not enthusiastic about the committee's version, however, and hope a version more closely resembling the original law will emerge from the full Congress.

Safe-harbor leasing now works like this: suppose a company buys new equipment on which it can take an investment tax credit. If the company is marginally profitable or, in fact, losing money, it would have no use for the credit because it has no tax liability.

But under the 1981 provision, it can sell the equipment and the credit to another company for cash, and then lease back the equipment. So, the tax-credit seller still gets the equipment and some cash, while the buyer gets a credit to help reduce its tax bill.

Ailing companies, such as steel and airline concerns, support such leasing because it gives them incentive to keep investing in new equipment even though they are not currently profitable.

But when 1981 annual reports began to surface, they showed some profitable companies were able to sharply reduce their taxes with the help of safe-harbor leasing. In other business activity this past week:

—Retail sales were sluggish in June, dampening hopes that May's strong results meant the industry might recover in the second quarter. The two largest general merchandisers, Sears, Roebuck & Co. and K mart Corp., posted sales declines.

—Consumer-installment debt rose a seasonally adjusted $1.4 billion in May, the largest monthly increase since last September. While the increase indicates more consumer spending, some economists do not think it signals the recession bottomed out in the second quarter.

—New-car sales by the five major U.S. automakers fell 17 percent in late June from a year earlier, to their lowest daily selling rate in 24 years. For the month, sales were off 13 percent.

A nuclear weapons map of the United States drawn by the Center for Defense Information, a non-government research organization, locates production and deployment facilities in 37 states and Puerto Rico. All bases servicing air and naval units with known nuclear capabilities are shown. Actual weapons may not be located at all points at all times, however. Most research and production facilities are owned by the federal government but operated by private industry. The map is based on information from nonclassified sources.

Gospel Jubilee Scheduled Here

TIMOTHY SORRELLS, TERRI SEIVER

September Wedding Set

Mr. and Mrs. John Seiver announce the engagement of their daughter, Terri Lin; to Timothy Wayne Sorrells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sorrells of Dallas.

The wedding is planned for September 4 at First Baptist Church of Hereford.

The bride-elect is a 1978 graduate of Hereford High School and is presently attending West Texas State University, where she is a math major. She is planning to graduate in August.

Her fiancé is a May graduate of Texas Tech University, where he received his bachelor's degree in accounting. He is currently employed with Bob Gentry and Associates.

Two local residents as well as out-of-town performers will be appearing during the YMCA Gospel Jubilee scheduled at 8 p.m. Aug. 15 at Whiteface Stadium. In case of bad weather, the event will be held at the Hereford High School auditorium.

The jubilee is being held in conjunction with the Town and Country Jubilee, which is slated Aug. 20-22.

Advance tickets may be purchased for $3 at the YMCA or from several youth groups who will be selling the tickets as their money making project. Gate tickets will be $4.

Entertainers scheduled to appear include Mary Crist and Johnny Ray Watson, both of Hereford; Jim Fullingim of Petersburg; The Living Water Gospel Band, lead by David Nall of Pampa; and Zelda Ellison of Dimmitt.

Each performer will have records on sale at the concession stand. All proceeds for the event will be used for YMCA operating expenses.

Mrs. Ron Crist and her husband have lived in Hereford for 31 years and currently reside at 138 Nuées. They are members of the Church of Nazarene, where Mrs. Crist has sung in the choir.

Mrs. Crist has recorded two albums including "I Thank You Lord" recorded in November of 1980 and a country album entitled, "Mary Crist Vol. 1" cut in July of 1981.

Her gospel album may be purchased at the Christian Book Store, Casey's, the Radio Shack, Knox's and is also distributed in Hasting's Book Stores. It is available in eight track and record albums.

Also, available in eight track is her country album which is currently being sold in local stores in Hereford.

Mrs. Crist sang at the National Cutting Horse finals in Amarillo and has also been invited to appear at a gospel show in Borger.

Her hobbies include sewing, showing cutting horses and oil painting.

Her husband, who is a farmer and rancher, also owns First Fuel and Nursey, located on Holly Sugar Road.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A profile on other gospel entertainers to be featured at the jubilee will appear in later issues of the paper.)

DONNA KENDALL

August Marriage Set

First Baptist Church will be the setting of the Aug. 15 wedding uniting Donna Carol Kendall and Dr. Richard A. Sheppard.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Kendall. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ruth Sheppard of Dallas and the late J. Albert Sheppard.

Miss Kendall is a 1981 graduate of West Texas State University, where she earned her B.S. in elementary education. She is employed by the Hereford Independent School District at Shirley Intermediate School and holds memberships in Phi Delta Kappa, TSTA, and CTA.

Her fiancé is a 1972 graduate of the University of Texas at Arlington, where he was a National Science Foundation undergraduate research grantee and was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. He graduated from Baylor College of Dentistry in 1977 and practices dentistry in Hereford.

Quarterly Meeting Scheduled Tuesday

The Chamber of Commerce Women's Division July quarterly meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Hereford Country Club. A dessert plate will be served, followed by a short business meeting and a musical program featuring original compositions by Mrs. Tom Burdett.

Also featured will be the Little Miss Hereford winners and Miss Hereford contestants, who will give a mini-fashion show.

Bill Devers and a group from the Hereford Chamber Singers will perform five of Mrs. Burdett's choral numbers including two of which she composed this summer. Eva Devers will accompany the group.

Vocal soloist will be Joyce Allred, accompanied by Jan Walsler. Mrs. Walsler will also play a piano solo, and play piano as part of a trio including Chris White on snare drum and Randy Vaughn on flute. Mrs. Burdett will play several of her compositions on the piano.

Mrs. Tom Burdett

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. James Mueller of Ballinger announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Jr., to Lawrence L. Kennedy, Jr., of San Angelo. He is the son of L.L. Kennedy, Sr., of San Angelo, and Mrs. Robert C. Huckert of Hereford.

An Aug. 14 wedding is planned at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Ballinger.

The bride-elect is a 1977 graduate of Ballinger High School and a 1981 graduate of Angelo State University.

The prospective bridegroom graduated from Bowie High School in Arlington in 1977 and is presently attending Angelo State University.

Family-oriented personnel policies may be in the near future for employees, says Diane Welch, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A greater public awareness of the need for family-sensitive personnel policies was a major outgrowth of the 1980 White House Conference on Families, she says.

As a result, greater flexibility will be expected from employers, along with a more dedicated effort from company insurers to make "pick-and-choose" employee-benefit packages available, she says.

The first U.S. gold coins were made in 1795. The last appeared in 1933.

Those who submit such articles are asked to abide by the deadlines and policies established by The Brand Staff. Items must be submitted promptly in order to be newsworthy. The Brand reserves the right to edit all copy.

Wedding and engagement forms are available in the Brand office, 313 Lee St., an aid in preparing articles for publication.

Information for wedding should be submitted the Monday before the wedding date. Weddings reported more than a week after the event will be published in condensed form. Please do not ask for articles on weddings more than a month old.

Engagement announcements should be submitted at least one month before the wedding date. Engagement and anniversary announcements should be submitted by noon two days before publication, or Thursday noon for Sunday publication.

Photos for weddings and engagements should be black and white glossy pictures, which can be picked up after publication. Snapshots are not generally suitable for reproduction.

Articles for bridal showers should be reported for immediate publication. Photos of showers will be accepted only if they are timely and of adequate quality for reproduction in the newspaper.

SHERI JONES, BRENT WALTERSCHEID

Vows To Be Exchanged

Sheri Lynn Jones and Brent Joseph Walterscheid are planning an Aug. 7 wedding at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Miss Jones is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Jones and Walterscheid is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Walterscheid.

The bride-to-be is a 1981 graduate of Hereford High School and is currently attending West Texas State University.

The prospective bridegroom also graduated from Hereford High in 1981. He attends Amarillo College.

Area Participants Contribute To Show

The musical drama "Texas" opened for its 17th season June 16, and since that date the show has entertained thousands of visitors from all over the United States and several foreign countries with the sound, light, and pageantry that have made it famous.

Nestled near Canyon in spectacular Palo Duro Canyon State Park, the Pioneer Amphitheatre is the setting for Paul Green's drama of pioneer farmers and cattlemen, told by 80 singers, actors, and dancers, with support from 60 technicians and hospitality personnel.

"Texas" has something for everyone. Handsome cowboys, proud Indians, pretty girls, and dogged farmers all have their moments to star. But the land itself is the real hero. It shapes those who dare to live on it, and "Texas" is the story of the pioneers' struggles for, and with the land.

Beginning in January, hundreds of applicants auditioned for places in the company, and those selected have been rehearsing since May 23. Several of the cast and hospitality crew have roots in the Hereford area.

Jeannie Acker, hospitality, is the granddaughter of Mrs. Andrew Acker; and Laurie Adams, hospitality, is the niece of Eleanor Goen, 533 Ave. G.

Laura Thompson Hayes and Rhonda Thompson, box office and ticket office, are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Thompson, 507 Ave. J.

Lois Hull, who plays Aunt Anna, is a descendant of Deaf Smith; and Shawn Walsh, a singer in the performance, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kriegshauser, 107 Sunset, and the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kriegshauser, 226 Centre.

Aug. 21. To obtain more information about the show, or to reserve tickets, go by the Hereford Chamber of Commerce (phone, 364-3333) or write Box 268; Canyon, Texas 79015, or call (806) 655-2181.

REUNION TODAY

The Curtsinger and Cocanougher families and guests are invited to the annual family reunion and covered dish lunch today in the Community Room of Hereford State Bank. Everyone is asked to bring a covered dish, pictures, games, etc.

Camp Fire Challenges Young People

Camp Fire Tradition

Camp Fire, an agency of the United Way, seeks to prepare young people to cope with changes and challenges of the future. Experiences are culminated each year with an awards banquet such as the one shown above. The older girls, left, pass on Camp Fire traditions to younger Camp Fire girls under the direction of adult leaders.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of ten articles about the various United Way agencies operating locally and their impact upon the community.

BY SUSAN OWENS

Preparing children for tomorrow means giving them tools to cope with a changing and challenging world ... a world where understanding and compassion must underlie necessary and open communication ... where limited resources require sharing and conserving ... where human relationships depend on trust and acceptance regardless of race or economic status ... where individual ability surpasses one's sex ... where uncertainties demand adaptability and self-confidence.

Camp Fire prepares young people to meet those changes and challenges of the future.

Camp Fire members explore wooded trails, do things for others like making valentines for veterans, study career possibilities and discover self-reliance by learning to do things for themselves around the home. They create, experiment, test their limitations, share, have fun.

While these activities are important, they are not ends in themselves, for the variety of experiences in Camp Fire provides girls and boys an opportunity to play and learn together, reducing artificial barriers among them, while they develop planning, decision-making and human relationship skills.

These values and life skills, learned informally, enable youngsters to become self-directed individuals, responsible to themselves and to others.

The Camp Fire tradition does not lock the agency into a mode or norm, rather the Camp Fire tradition encourages adaptability and responsible growth and change. Camp Fire recognizes the importance of maintaining an organizational structure that can cope with new demands and evolving needs of tomorrow.

Camp Fire reaches young people through program. This informal education provides a variety of ways to help youngsters grow and realize their full potential.

Camp Fire accomplishes this purpose with three types of programs: club, response and outdoor. Camp Fire members may be involved in more than one Camp Fire program, and basic elements of two or all three program types often are combined in any one program.

In our club program, the children are taught basic skills such as cooking, sewing, and art appreciation. They are given the opportunity to conduct business meetings and use of parliamentary procedure. They develop a very real sense of belonging to something meaningful.

The very first Camp Fire members participated in outdoor experiences as ways to grow and develop; indeed a child's need for camping was one of the reasons Camp Fire was founded. Few experiences evoke as much emotion or create more precious memories than sharing a campfire with friends.

But just enjoying the outdoors is not what really makes Camp Fire camping experiences special. Camp Fire's basic beliefs about children permeate the outdoor experience; in fact, many of those beliefs developed through camping programs.

Fundamental to a Camp Fire camping experience are the concepts of progression and minimum impact camping. Building a progression means using Camp Fire's philosophy of building one experience on another, beginning at the level of the individual child.

Minimum impact camping involves enjoying a natural area and leaving absolutely no trace behind.

Since 1975, Camp Fire councils have been developing innovative programs responding to youth needs locally. These response programs result from a council assessing the situation in its community and then developing the kind of program needed to best serve its youth.

In Hereford these programs have included art projects, a self-reliance program for Blue Birds and Adventure called "I Can Do It", and "Growing Up and Liking It", a program for sixth grade girls dealing with the psychological and physiological changes in their bodies.

Often, response programs are Camp Fire's most effective way of helping youngsters realize their full potential.

The target response program which is in the early stages of production for 1982-83 is "Pride in Hereford".

"Pride in Hereford" has three stages. The first is the involvement of local merchants and property owners in helping to educate the youngsters about the devastating effects of theft and vandalism, both financially and emotionally.

The second stage is the legal and judicial ramifications of these crimes to public and private property. The young people will be taken vicariously through the judicial system beginning with police arrest and court room trial through sentencing and punishment. This phase will be done in cooperation with local law enforcement agencies and local criminal courts.

The third and final stage will involve the Camp fire youngsters themselves. The Council will designate certain areas of the City, beginning with the Camp Fire Lodge and its surroundings, to be cleaned up, repaired, and rejuvenated. They will paint, clean-up, plants trees, shrubbery, or whatever is deemed necessary to create an atmosphere of, and show physical evidence of "Pride in Hereford."

By utilizing these programs in the Hereford Council, we are able to develop and preserve spiritual and ethical values to realize the dignity and worth of each individual, and to eliminate human barriers based upon assumptions which prejudice individuals.

We capitalize on the beauty of each person being unique. A by-product of all the end-goals is that children are given memories of happy times, because we in Camp Fire think growing up should be fun!

The first white road markings for traffic control, called "center line safety stripes" were painted on the surface of River Road, near Trenton, Michigan in 1911.

Family Sagas Span Globe

BY DIANNE PIERSON
Librarian

Family sagas head the list of new books available this week at the Deaf Smith County Library. Jacqueline Briskin, author of "Rich Friends" and "Paloverde," has written a towering saga of love and ambition, success and failure, of bitterness, passion, and joyous triumph, entitled "The Onyx."

"The Onyx" was Tom Bridger's dream. The dream of a vast nation undaunted by distance, united by a gasoline-powered vehicle that would put the horse to shame ... the horseless carriage ... the motor car ... the automobile ... "The Onyx."

His vision would build an empire that encircled the globe. It also separated him from all he loved the most ... from Antonia, the exquisite aristocrat; from Hugh, his younger brother; from Maud, his unpretentious wife; and from Caryl, his sensitive son.

Once again Briskin has triumphed in an epic novel that spans two continents, three generations, and five turbulent decades.

"Greenstone" by Yvonne Kalman also heads the list of new books available this week at the library. On the edge of civilization along rugged island shores emerges a woman whose pride and resilience makes her one of fiction's memorable heroines.

The exotic, untamed landscape is New Zealand, circa 1837. The young woman is Juliette Peridot. "Greenstone," a vivid, grand-scale romance, is her saga.

Three decades of New Zealand history create a backdrop for the indomitable Juliette as she fights back at a childhood ended abruptly by the murder of her mother, Evangeline, and four Peridot children, and at an adulthood scarred by betrayal and exile.

"Greenstone" introduces a formidable heroine whose dramatic odyssey through life will be continued in a sequel. Kalman is the author of two previous titles. She resides in Auckland, New Zealand.

Other new books available this week include "Skycastle" by Steve Krantz, author of "Laurel Canyon," "The Beverly Hills Diet Lifetime Plan" by Judy Mazel, "The New World of Gold" by Timothy Green, and "Is There Life After Housework?" by Don Aslett.

LIBRARY EVENTS: 10:30 - 11:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Bicentennial Room at the library, special "Space Capers" program. The children in the Summer Reading Club will make "parachute men" to take home with them. Come and join in the delightful fun at the library.

Thursday at 10 a.m. - Pre-school story hour in the Heritage Room of the library.

CPR Class Scheduled

The American Heart Association will sponsor a CPR class Monday and Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m. at the First Baptist Church.

The class is free of charge and open to the public. All interested persons are urged to attend.

John Gilliland, Rosie Griffin, Rex Lee, Rick Lee, and Chris White will instruct the class.

Miss Susan Wartes Honored Thursday

The E.B. Black house was the scene of a bridal shower Thursday afternoon honoring Susan Wartes, bride-elect of James Franklin Higgins.

Receiving guests were the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Larry Wartes; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. James Higgins; and grandmothers of the couple, Mrs. Ginger Hale of Lubbock and Mrs. B.F. Markham. Each were presented with silk daisy corsages.

The bride-elect's chosen colors of rose and blue were used in the silk flower arrangement in a basket centering the serving table.

The refreshment table was covered with an ecru hand-crocheted cloth. Mrs. Jim Marsh and Mrs. John Paetzold served refreshments of frozen banana punch, dainty cookies and finger sandwiches.

Mrs. Mike Wartes of Denver City invited guests to register.

Other out-of-town guests attending included Mrs. Jay Wootton and Mrs. Roland Johnson, both of Canyon; Mrs. Ronnie Wootton and Valerie of Amarillo; Mrs. Steve Raymond of Tulsa; and Mrs. Stanley Hale of Lubbock.

Hostesses included Mmes. Harlan Vanderzee, Dick Montgomery, Earnest Langley, Lloyd Crume, Quentin Martin, Frank Prowell, Cuby Kitchens, Bill Hutson.

Also, Mmes. Calvin Mitts, Joe Henry, Warner Lawson, Austin Rose, Lewis Lea, Charlie Bell, Aubyn Hodges, Floyd Cole, Jeff Smart, Art Stoy and Cecil Guseman.

Ann Landers

Passing On A Good Name

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back I read a verse or a poem in your column about a father who was passing his good name on to his son. He hoped the boy would take good care of it so when HE passed it on to HIS son the name would be unsullied. I hope you can find it, because I have a special reason for wanting to see it in print again. Thank You, Ann. - A Faithful Nebraska Reader

DEAR FAITHFUL: The poem you wanted appeared in my column on May 20, 1978, and I am pleased to run it again. The author - Edgar A.

Guest.
YOUR NAME
You got it from your father, 'twas the best he had to give. And right gladly he bestowed it. It's yours, the while you live.

You may lose the watch he gave you and another you may claim, But remember, when you're tempted, to be careful of his name.

It was fair the day you got it, and a worthy name to bear,

When he took it from his father, there was no dishonor there.

Through the years he proudly wore it, to his father he was true, And that name was clean and spotless when he passed it on to you.

Oh, there's much that he has given that he values not at all.

He has watched you break your playthings in the days when you were small.

You have lost the knife he gave you and you've scattered many a game,

But you'll never hurt your father if you're careful with his name.

It is yours to wear forever, yours to wear the while you live.

Yours, perhaps, some distant morning, to another boy to give.

And you'll smile as did your father - with a smile that all can share,

If a clean name and a good name you are giving him to wear.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I realize combined families from previous marriages have built-in problems. What can a woman do when her husband won't cooperate?

Recently Lloyd's 18-year-old son moved in to stay.

Lloyd refuses to treat my teenagers and his equally. He says he had no hand in raising his own boy (his wife was in charge of him), therefore he can't tell him what to do.

Lloyd insists, however, that he can tell MY children what to do because he raised them for the last five years. I agree he should set up rules for the children because he IS their father now. But I also believe he should treat his own son in the same way.

Since they are living under the same roof, shouldn't the rules and the love be doled out equally? It seems like my children get the rules and his son gets the love. What do you think? - Wilted In Wisconsin

DEAR WILTED: I think I see real trouble ahead and hope you will take this problem to a professional counselor before your marriage blows up. All the explosive elements are present.

Your husband knows he cannot tell his own son what to do (it's too late), so he refuses to try. On the other hand, he CAN control your kids - which should make you very happy. Instead, you are complaining. Don't you realize that discipline is a special kind of love?

Now Is The Time -

To plan your fall schedule-

It is later than you think. We will be offering instruction in our kindergarten of fine arts - all types of dancing, acrobatic gymnastics, karate and the best exercise programs.

A self-defense class for teen-age girls, ladies and couples is starting this week. A ladies ballet class is starting Aug. 2, 1982. Ballroom dancing classes are being scheduled.

Deaf Smith County 4-H Fashion Revue Is Held

The Deaf Smith County 4-H Fashion Revue was held in Sugarland Mall Friday afternoon. The judging began at 10:30 a.m. in the Deaf Smith County Library, followed by the style show at 2 p.m. in the Sugarland Mall.

Each of the 14 girls modeled the garments they had constructed before two judges, Lou Ann Rounds of Hereford, and Kay Wells, County Extension Agent of Oldham County.

The contest was divided into three age groups: juniors 9-11, juniors 12-13, and seniors 14-15. An honorary 4-H member division was opened for those eight years old and under. The age divisions were further divided into four categories: daytime tailored, daytime non-tailored, active sportswear, and evening and speciality. The winners from each division will represent Deaf Smith County at the District Fashion Revue in Amarillo.

Gifts for prizes were donated by several merchants; Pants Cage, Et Cetera, Funny Farm and Helen's. Special appreciation goes to the manager of M.E. Moses, who assisted in making all of the stage preparations, and to Flower's West for allowing 4-H to borrow plants and flowers for stage decorations.

Those participating in the fashion revue were: Jennifer Hicks, Lisa Zepeda, Sandra Strass, Rebecca Soloman, Cindy Meiwes, Trisha Teel, Leslie Conkwright, Karyn McCuistian, Jodi McElhaney, Heather Gee, Kathy Morrison, Jo Ann Meiwes, and Kelly Stokesberry. The guest commentator for the style show was Robin Conkwright, a senior 4-H member.

Three 4-H members, ages nine through 11, participating in the junior division at the Style Show held Friday afternoon at the Mall received first place ribbons in their division. They were from left, Trisha Teel, first in evening and speciality division and recognized as outstanding rookie in that division, Rebecca Soloman, first in active sportswear and was honored as best model; Sandra Strass, first in daytime and non-tailored division.

Class Of 1957 Holds Reunion

Fifty-nine former class members of the Hereford High School class of 1957 attended a 25th reunion July 3. Classmates and their families, and some former teachers, enjoyed visiting and a picnic in Dameron Park at noon.

An evening banquet was held in the Community Center, during which Ed Schroeter served as master of ceremonies. Home movies taken by Kee Skypala Ruland's mother during their school days were shown. The senior class prophecy was read.

Classmates were recognized for the following: most children, Loretta Strass Urbanczyk; youngest child, John David Bryant; longest married, Mike and Jan Bradford; most recently wed, Pat Ferguson; and oldest grandchild, Alan Newman.

The class is planning a 30 year reunion sometime in 1987.

The oldest living trees on Earth are believed to be a stand of Bristlecone Pine in California's Inyo National Park. They are estimated to be 4,600 years old.

Program Given By Junior Members

Karen Reinart introduced junior members of the Hereford Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary who presented a musical program Tuesday evening in the Legion Hall.

Members appearing in the program included Cari Reinart, Susan Reinart, Erin Bullard, Megan Sanderson, Robin Reinart, Sarah Wright, Jennifer Jesko and Crystal Finley.

The program was opened by Robin Reinart and Sarah Wright carrying the American flag and Megan Sanderson led the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Jennifer Jesko read, "I Am the Nation" with background music provided by Beverly Jesko. Crystal Finley played a piano selection and a guitar number.

Ruth King presided over the business meeting following the program. Reports were heard from the Community Service.

Girls State chairman, Dee Wiseman, reported the girls had returned from Girls State Session in Seguin recently.

Delegates were elected to attend the state convention in San Antonio later this month. Mr. and Mrs. Garth Thomas will represent the local legion and auxiliary at the Department convention.

Beverly Jesko was appointed to head a committee to prepare the pies to be sold during the Jubilee, Aug. 21, at Dameron Park.

Following the program, members of the legion and auxiliary were served ice cream and cake by Ms. Jesko and Ms. Reinart.

The next meeting is planned Aug. 3 at which time new officers will be installed.

Farmers Conserving Land

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer
Something old is back as something new.
Spiraling energy costs for operating irrigation systems and driving tractors is making no-tillage and minimum tillage attractive to more and more farmers. In addition to the allure of cost cutting, conservation tilling can limit wind and water erosion by allowing crop residue to remain on the ground.

Planting was practiced as the simple definition states - putting seed into the ground - until farmers in the late 18th century needed tough prairie sod literally busted before they could do so. The habit continued as farmers found that, as farm equipment improved, it was cheaper and easier to plow down the weeds than to do it by hand.

By the "Dirty 30s" of this century the soil formerly conserved by native grasses began blowing away. Then a focus began on serious conservation, but was limited to the technology of the day. By the late 40s experiments showed how yields with chemical weed control were comparable to tillage control.

With more scientific experimentation, farmers by the 70s had begun to use low tillage production as a viable alternative.
Deaf Smith County currently has approximately 50,000 acres in reduced tillage program, according to the Soil Conservation Service office in Hereford.

He last irrigated that section in 1973 and is on his sixth wheat crop. Brorman is planting 50 acres and laying out the other 50.
"I started that to kind of experiment," he said, and reports an average of 39 bushels an acre for the last five crops.
Brorman advises anyone interested in conservation tillage, which is saving him two to three trips across the field, to think about it about a year ahead of time and have in mind the next two or three years planting. He said not to try the whole farm first, because there will be mistakes made and some bugs in the system to work out.

Saving Stubble And Money

On 50 acres of Harry and Mary Brorman's farm near Ford the wheat residue will be left to stop wind and water erosion while the plat lays out a season. By leaving the residue even through planting time Brorman will save two to three tractor trips as a part of his conservation tillage program.

THE HEREFORD BRAND FARM NEWS

Farmers Still Joining Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat farmers in three more states have been certified as participating in the Agriculture Department's acreage-reduction program.
Officials also said Friday that corn farmers in three states have certified participation, becoming the first to take in the grains portion of the acreage program.
The latest wheat figures raised certified compliance to 21.9 million acres, 39.3 percent of the crop's base of 55.8 million acres in 31 states.
Under the program, farmers are required to reduce their 1982 wheat acreage 15 percent to qualify for price supports and related benefits. The cutback under the feed grains part of the program must be 10 percent.

The most recent wheat certifications included:
Nebraska, certified compliance on 1.81 million acres or 56.6 percent of the state's wheat base of 3.2 million acres; Utah, 136,456 acres or 45.8 percent of the base of 297,918 acres; and Washington, 1.88 million acres or 59.6 percent of the base of 3.16 million acres.
The first certified corn participation included:
Oregon, 3,247 acres or 6.92 percent of the state's base of 46,947 acres; Utah, 4,376 acres or 10.8 percent of the base of 40,347 acres; and Washington, 18,518 acres or 7.8 percent of the base of 237,209 acres.

Nationally, minimum tillage has grown from 26.4 million acres in 1972 to 88.1 million in 1981.
One farmer making it work is Harry Brorman who is using minimum tillage on his wheat in farrowing rotation of 100 acres near Ford.
Management is imperative for successful conservation tillage. Key changes from conventional to conservation tillage include use of some specialized equipment. As crop residues remain, a planter which can go through Crop rotations must be planned with more scrutiny and irrigation systems may need changed since certain residues may impede water flow in furrows.

But residue from an irrigated wheat crop left before planting sorghum can equal pre-irrigation with about 2.5 inches of water to the soil profile.
Brorman said he thinks he will expand his conservation tillage system, especially if electricity rates go up.
"It works for me," he said. "I'm happy with it."

CSPI Claims USDA Bowed To Pressure

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Center for Science in the Public Interest, a health action group, says the Agriculture Department has been suppressing part of a booklet that deals with fat and cholesterol in the American diet.
According to the center, it obtained the material after Agriculture Secretary John R. Block "bowed to meat, egg and dairy industry pressure to cancel the publication."

But an Agriculture Department official disputed the center's claims and said Tuesday there had been no suppression of the material and that it had been available for some time to anyone wishing to publish it.
The situation involves a long-standing plan by the department to publish "Food-2" — a successor to USDA's earlier guide on eating and nutrition, "Food."
Last Sept. 24, Block told the American Dietetic Association that "Food-2" would be published. But the decision was later reversed "after meat, egg and dairy interests complained that the booklet would harm sales of their high-fat products," the center said.
Bonnie Liebman, staff nutritionist at the non-profit health and nutrition center, said the decision last fall was not surprising because several USDA officials are former meat industry executives and "would succumb to pressure from industry lobbies."
However, Pat Kearney, an aide to Assistant Secretary Mary C. Jarratt, denied there had been any suppression involved and said that printing expenses and other considerations figured into USDA's decision not to publish the "Food-2" report.

"It's out there in the public domain," Ms. Kearney told a reporter. "We gladly released it. Anyone who wants to publish it or do anything with it can do so."
The dietetic association has expressed interest in publishing the first part of "Food-2," which includes material about obesity, weight and dieting, Ms. Kearney said.
Also, she said, the association for the past couple of months has been considering publication of the second part, the chapter referred to by the Center for Science in the Public Interest.
The material in the "Food-2" chapter on fat and cholesterol actually "provides only the most cautious and well-qualified advice," said Ms. Liebman.

It advised readers to "learn how to moderate the total fat, saturated fat and cholesterol in your diet" and included "practical tips to help you select and prepare food the moderate fat and cholesterol way."

USDA Seeing Improvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department economists continue to see some improvement in the livestock financial picture over the next half year or so.
Meat and poultry output in the first six months of 1982 was down 3 percent from year-earlier levels, which helped trigger higher cattle and hog prices.

Research Service said Thursday.
"In the second half of the year, total meat production will continue well below a year ago as further declines in pork production more than offset modest gains in beef and broiler output."
As a consequence, the report said, consumers have seen retail meat prices increase, a trend which probably will continue "through at least mid-summer."

meeting earlier Thursday with American Farm Bureau leaders, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said the higher livestock prices were among some of the "positive aspects in agriculture."
Block acknowledged that there have been "downward pressures" on farmers but that "I think we've got an awful lot to be optimistic about."

Reduced production, some boost from the July 1 tax cut, and increase Social Security payments may help support these higher retail prices," it said.
The recent return to profits and prospects for large feed supplies "are expected to encourage hog producers to begin expanding their breeding herds" through the fall months.
"Consequently, pork production is likely to decline 12 to 14 percent this summer and 19 to 21 percent this fall, compared with a year ago," the report said.
In remarks prepared for a "Combined with lower feed costs, the improved prices created the most profitable situation for livestock producers since mid-1979," the department's Economic

USDA Now Charging User Fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — As part of its budget-cutting process, the Agriculture Department on Aug. 1 will begin charging user fees for mailed market news reports to recoup costs of postage, printing, distribution and handling.

Vern Highley, administrator of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service, said Thursday that "without these charges, because of budget cuts, we would be forced to discontinue the printing and mailing of market reports."
The fees will depend on the number of pages of each report and on their frequency of issue.
Copies of the new rule, including a schedule of annual fees for the reports, are available from: Administrator, AMS, Room 3071-S, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Another Bumper Year

Administration Planning For '83

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced by what many market experts say looks like another bumper year for grain production, the Reagan administration appears ready to consider significant changes in drawing up 1983 crop programs.

"We'll be looking for something that works," Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said Thursday. "We've got a problem. Anything is possible. There'll be some change (in the 1983 program). It won't be identical."

But Block, who has been under congressional pressure to pay farmers for idling land, declined to say what changes in the current acreage reduction program might be made. He said only that he hasn't "ruled anything out."

Block made the comments after emerging from a private meeting at which he discussed government farm policy with American Farm Bureau Federation officials. Block aides said the secretary agreed to the decision by Farm Bureau officials to bar the public from the session.

After the closed meeting, however, Farm Bureau President Robert Delano said

Block discussed the crop program and prospects for new grain export initiatives including another long-term grain trade agreement with the Soviet Union.

Delano said Block made no concrete statements on any of those matters, but "indicated he would meet with the president Monday to discuss some of these issues."

Earlier in the day, Rep. Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., a leader in the congressional drive to force Block to change federal farm policy, told the secretary that he and others will renew their efforts to require a policy change. Their proposed Farm Crisis Act was rejected last month by the House Agriculture Committee on a tie vote.

"Your program to try and control production is not working and ... if we have another record harvest this year, as is expected, it is likely that farm prices will plummet even further," Dorgan said in a letter.

Early this year, Block said that to remain eligible for government price supports this year, farmers would have to idle 15 percent of their wheat, cotton and rice acres and 10 percent of their corn and feed grain acres. The plan was intended to deal with huge grain surpluses built up by last year's record harvests and the general sluggishness of the domestic and world economies.

But USDA figures show acreage for corn and wheat, the nation's major crops, have dropped only 2 percent from last year, and the June estimate for winter wheat, the bulk of the wheat crop, put the harvest at a record

2.13 billion bushels.

Delano said Block told the Farm Bureau officials he still believed this year's acreage reduction program will be successful.

But Delano, who has pushed for direct federal payments to farmers idling land, added, "It depends on how you determine success. I don't think it's been successful."

Livestock Brand Conference Set

FORT WORTH — Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association will host the 36th annual International Livestock Brand Conference in San Antonio July 14-17, says Don C. King, TSCRA secretary - general manager. All business meetings will be held at the Hilton.

Livestock theft investigators, brand recorders and animal health officials from three Canadian provinces and 25 states are expected to attend. King, a past conference president, said

In conjunction with the conference, the National Association of Livestock Theft Investigators will hold its annual meeting on July 14.

Cullen Robinson, TSCRA special assistant, is NALTI president.

TSCRA, a non-profit livestock producer organization, will also hold its summer field inspector meeting during the conference. TSCRA employs 32 field inspectors, all special Texas Rangers responsible for the investigation of livestock

North Texas Getting More Moisture Than Needed, South Not Enough

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — North Texas continues to be plagued by excess moisture while the southern part of the state is too dry, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

But he said the cotton harvest continued at full speed in South Texas this week, and farmers in the South Plains, Rolling Plains and portions of North Central and Northeast Texas have gone back to their hail-damaged fields to prepare for replanting grain sorghum and soybean crops where cotton had been hopelessly damaged.

Rains and damage from hail, which continued almost on a nightly basis this past week, slowed progress of remaining cotton acreage in the South Plains. There, damage to corn and other crops also was extensive. More than half of the South Plains cotton crop was knocked out by hail, sand damage, washing rain and diseases, said Pfannstiel.

In the Panhandle, the cotton crop continues in poor condition, with much of the acreage being replanted to other crops. The Rolling Plains area also received extensive damage to the cotton crop, some of which will be replanted. Some replanting of cotton land also is getting under way in West Central Texas. Rain, wind and hail also destroyed most of the cotton in Far West Texas.

As fields dried out in northern areas, the wheat harvest also resumed. Now in full swing in the Panhandle, wheat is making fair to good yields in areas of the South Plains not damaged by hail, and harvesting is getting under way again in the Rolling Plains.

Home gardens are generally producing well in portions of the state with adequate moisture. Blossom end rot has caused losses of tomatoes in some gardens. In southern counties, high temperatures and moisture stress are serious garden problems.

While some 35 percent of the peach crop in Wichita County was damaged by hail and heavy rains, peaches and pecans are progressing well in many areas. In East Texas, the peach crop looks good but growers are unable to meet the demand.

Melon and cantaloupe harvests continue in South Texas, and in Far West Texas the cantaloupe harvest is expected to start about July 20.

Extension district directors reported the following conditions:

PANHANDLE: The wheat harvest is in full swing after delays caused by turbulent weather. Much of the cotton acreage damaged during the past several weeks by wind and hail has been replanted to other crops. Potatoes, onions and sugar beets are making good progress. The corn crop looks good and most sorghum is growing well.

SOUTH PLAINS: With more than half of the South Plains cotton crop knocked out by hail, sand damage, washing rain and diseases, continuing rains this week have slowed progress of remaining cotton. Hail also continued almost on a nightly basis, and has damaged corn and some other crops. Replanting to grain sorghum and soybeans continues on hail-shredded cotton land. Wheat harvesting also has resumed, with yields fair to good where not damaged by hail.

ROLLING PLAINS: Wheat harvesting has resumed in a few fields that are sufficiently dry, as other farmers await more open weather. In Cottle County, some 80 percent of the cotton is expected to be replanted. About 10 percent of the 30,000 acres of cotton lost to hail in Hall County is not expected to be replanted. Grasshoppers are a problem in several counties. Home gardens are producing well, and peaches and pecans are making progress in most counties.

Dried Milk To Give Away

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department plans to give away surplus non-fat dried milk to needy families as a pilot project in three states.

Some 11 million pounds of the dried milk, valued at nearly $12 million, will be made available to an estimated 450,000 poor families in Florida, Minnesota and Washington, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said Tuesday.

Block said the three-month demonstration project will begin in early September. Distribution of the dried milk — the equivalent of 13.8 million gallons — will be handled by non-profit organizations.

The department began making available free surplus cheese last winter, with the total now set at 220 million pounds. Up to 50 million pounds of butter were added to the donations last month.

Block said the addition of non-fat dry milk is in keeping with earlier plans to reduce the massive stockpile of dairy products acquired by the government under the $2 billion-a-year federal milk price support program.

Under law, the USDA is required to buy surplus supplies of cheese, butter and non-fat dry milk to help subsidize dairy farmers.

As of May 31, the department's Commodity Credit Corp. owned more than $3 billion worth of dairy surpluses, including 1.19 billion pounds of non-fat dry milk, 757.3 million pounds of cheese and 562.2 million pounds of butter.

"This pilot project will help us determine whether non-fat dry milk can be distributed nationwide," Block said. "A critical issue is the potential impact distributing non-fat dry milk may have on fluid milk consumption."

The government's inventory of 1.19 billion pounds of

Moisture Hampering Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wet fields continue to hamper the 1982 wheat harvest in much of the nation's grainbelt, according to the latest government figures.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday that by July 4 only 27 percent of the winter wheat acreage had been harvested, compared to 54 percent a year ago and an average of 47 percent at this time.

Major states and their harvest progress, compared with a year earlier on July 4, included:

California, 65 percent harvested and 77 percent a year ago; Colorado, none and 4; Illinois, 45 and 71; Indiana, 20 and 35; Kansas 15 and 75; Missouri, 29 and 39; Nebraska, none and 30; Ohio, 5 and 5; Oklahoma 85 and 95; and South Dakota, none and 3.

Preventive Methods To Fight Growing Flea Population

DALLAS - Fleas seem to be making it big in Texas. Over the last five to seven years, fleas seem to have become more and more of a problem, particularly in urban and suburban areas. Cat fleas which infest dogs or cats and readily attack humans are the most common, says an urban entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Flea bites are extremely annoying and generally become increasingly sore and irritated over a period of a week or more, explains Dr. John M. Owens. Fleas most often bite people about the legs and ankles. A small red spot with a light colored center appears where the mouthparts of the adult flea enters the skin. Applying cooling preparations such as carbolated vaseline, menthol, camphor, calamine lotion or ice will help relieve itching. Severe allergic reactions or infections should be treated promptly by a physician. Although fleas can transmit bubonic plague and murine typhus, these diseases are rare. Flea control must include treatment of the pets and thorough treatment of the entire premises - indoors and outdoors. These three areas should be treated simultaneously to break the "flea-cycle" and get effective control, emphasizes the entomologist. Insecticides containing carbaryl (Sevin), dichlorvos (DDVP), pyrethrin, rotenone, malathion, methoxychlor or propoxur (Baygon or Sendran) are labeled for use on animals. Dusts or powders are generally preferred over sprays for treating pets and should be used at three to four-day intervals when infestations are heavy. Rub the dust into the animal's fur by hand. Be especially thorough around ears, between legs and around the tail. Try to avoid getting dust in the eyes, mouth and nostrils. Flea collars which contain propoxur or naled (Dibrom) appear to be superior to those which only contain dichlorvos. Be sure to read the label before using any of these products and consult a veterinarian if questions arise. Spray all infested outdoor areas such as the yard, porches, garages and out-buildings with chlorpyrifos (Dursban), diazinon, propoxur or carbaryl. Be sure to treat areas used by pets, and let the spray dry before pets or children are allowed to use treated areas, says Owens. Repeat the spray at two-week intervals until fleas are controlled. Inside the home, begin control measures with thorough cleaning. Vacuum all floors and upholstery and dispose of sweepings immediately to prevent flea escape and subsequent reinfestation. Also, launder all pet bedding. Apply an insecticide spray of chlorpyrifos (such as "Rid-A-Bug" or Raid "Home Insect Killer") to all floor areas, under and around upholstery cushions, and to pet bedding areas. Also spray moldings, baseboards and draperies to a height of one foot above floor level. Try to avoid further vacuuming and cleaning for 10-14 days after treatment. While this insecticide should give three to four weeks of effective residual indoors, it will not rapidly knock down adult fleas. In conjunction with the residual spray indoors, homeowners might also use a non-residual insecticide applied as a total-release aerosol or fogger, suggests the entomologist. Products containing pyrethrins, resmethrin (SBP-1382) and dichlorvos are available to provide quick relief from indoor fleas. Again, be sure to read and follow all directions and precautions with these products. One final place which may require insecticide treatment is the family car, especially if your pet is a frequent rider, adds Owens.

Greenhouse Short Course Slated

BEAUMONT - New or inexperienced greenhouse vegetable growers should get a much better insight into the greenhouse industry at an upcoming short course and conference here. Discussions on the greenhouse structure and its environment as well as cultural systems and production techniques for various crops will highlight the 19th Annual Greenhouse Vegetable Short Course and Conference at the Sheraton Inn July 17-19. Information will be presented on locating the greenhouse as well as on sizes, materials, and heating and cooling systems, points out John E. Larsen, specialist in greenhouse vegetable production with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The Extension Service is sponsoring the event in cooperation with the Texas Greenhouse Growers Council. Discussions on clutural systems will deal with both soil and soilless culture, irrigation systems and different types of growing media. Production techniques will be discussed for tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce and strawberries and will include insect, disease and nematode control. Discussions on marketing of greenhouse vegetables and how to take advantage of 1981 tax changes also will highlight the three-day conference, notes Larsen. A special session the evening of July 18 will feature growers and other industry representatives who will discuss new techniques they have used in growing greenhouse vegetables. The annual short course and conference also will feature a host of exhibits dealing with greenhouse vegetable production, adds Larsen. Further information is available from Larsen at the Plant Sciences Bldg., Texas A&M University, College Station, Tex. 77843, or by calling 713-845-7341.

ICA Holding Fundraiser

AUSTIN - Hundreds of ranchers across the state have begun donating calves and other livestock to the Independent Cattlemen's Association's statewide calf sale July 17 in Hallettsville. Doc Hagan, owner of the Hallettsville Livestock Commission Company, has donated his facilities for the fundraiser to begin at 10 a.m. Saturday. ICA President Roy Wheeler invites all livestock producers to participate. Funds raised through the calf sale enable ICA to continue its work for legislation beneficial to the agriculture industry. Enforcing stricter imported meat inspection, delaying implementation of the 1982 brucellosis regulations and exempting livestock from taxation are a few of the results of ICA work made possible by funds from the 1981 statewide calf sale. Auctioneer for the sale will be Clyde Holdcroft of Pleasanton. Transportation director is Sedley Martin of Leesville. To make arrangements to have calves transported to the sale, donors may contact Martin at (512)424-3381 or the association office at (512)836-1321.

Teenage Diets Often Lack Nutrients

BY LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent
A recent national survey revealed that six out of ten teenage girls have diets low in one or more important nutrients.

The nutrient most commonly lacking in teen diets are calcium, vitamin A and vitamin C. Iron is often low in the diets of girls.

A group of teenagers gave the following responses to questions about breakfast: they skip breakfast because they spend extra time dressing, then rush off to school. They stay up late and oversleep. Girls have the completely false belief that eating will make them fat.

To most people breakfast means a few foods such as fruit or fruit juice, cereal, egg, bacon, toast, milk or coffee. While these foods do make up the usual breakfast, other foods can be used just as well. Among the "different" foods for teenagers to eat when they get up in the morning are cheese or peanut butter sandwiches, pizza, cereal with ice cream, or apple pie with milk. These foods may seem strange but they have needed nutrients.

Teenagers also make poor snack selections. About one fourth of a teenager's calories come from snacks. Empty calories - foods made up chiefly of fats and sugar - make up too many of these snacks. Teenagers do not drink enough milk because they think it is childish or are afraid it will make them fat.

Young people learn and develop most of their eating habits at home. The habits formed early in life will affect their diets and health as adults. Mothers, relatives, friends, and grandparents can help young people establish good eating patterns.

Providing nutritious snacks for teenagers and their friends at parties and get-together is helpful, as is planning and preparing nutrition-packed meals. Here's a "Mini" pizza recipe that teenagers could use for appetizers at a party, or as an after school or mid-night snack. The ingredients could be kept "on hand" so that hungry teens could have a tasty, nutritious snack in a short period of time.

- PIZZATTES
- 1 (11 ounce) package refrigerated biscuits
  - 1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce
  - 1 (4 1/2 ounce can) deviled ham
  - 1/2 tsp. whole oregano
  - 10 fresh mushrooms, cleaned and sliced, or one small can sliced mushrooms

- 1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) shredded mozzarella cheese
- Roll each biscuit into a four-inch circle; place on baking sheet. Combine next three ingredients, stirring well. Spread a small amount on each biscuit; top with mushrooms and cheese.
- Bake at 450 degrees about 10 minutes, or until golden brown. Cool on baking sheet about five minutes. Yield: 10 (four-inch) pizzas.

BY ERMA BOMBECK

The controversial sperm bank in San Diego County has a limited partnership, no drive-in window and a low rate of interest.

Depositors are limited to Nobel Prize winners and erudite scholars. It doesn't matter who withdraws as long as she is female and willing to carry a baby sired by a genius for nine months.

The purpose, according to the director, is to create "brighter children" from the ranks of whites.

I was thinking about this the other morning when I turned on the light in my bathroom. Had a less-than-physically-perfect deaf man not invented it, I would be in darkness.

I turned on the radio for my morning news fix and suddenly realized if a deformed hunchback had not had a major part in its development, I would be left in silence.

I literally grew up under a president whose political record has never been matched, yet who could not walk or, indeed, move his legs.

The automobile I drove had been invented by a high school dropout. The planes I traveled in had been developed by two brothers from Dayton, Ohio, who also dropped out of high school.

I thought of Leo Tolstoy, Thomas Hardy and Joseph Conrad, who had never won a Nobel Prize for literature.

I thought of the parade of black athletes who had stirred this country with their accomplishments and all the minorities who battle their way through prejudice to make a million contributions to our arts and sciences. I thought of Martin Luther who had an I.Q. of 115 and Abraham Lincoln who was also below the "genius" level.

None of them would have been eligible as sperm donors of the "new society."

But mostly, I thought of a man who finished the fourth grade and worked for a Midwestern city, who married a 14-year-old girl from an orphanage - and had me.

A genetic disaster? Maybe. But I'm bright enough to know genes don't dominate us - we overcome them!

Don't fall for "bait and switch" tactics at the marketplace, warns Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. An illegal tactic, "bait and switch" works this way: a merchant offers an item at a special price and then tries to sell you a different or more expensive item.

Crime Prevention Seminar Set Tuesday

Summertime means school is out, hot weather is here and folks start thinking of vacations. The time a family spends on vacation should be fun, exciting and relaxing. And that means free of worry about home burglaries.

Cool off a summer evening with homemade ice cream and cake and attend the Crime Prevention Seminar on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the County Barn in Vega. The program is sponsored by the Oldham County extension Homemakers Council.

Keynote speakers will be Sgt. H.R. Kelley with the Crime Prevention Unit, Amarillo Police Department, and David Medlin, Oldham County Chief Deputy Sheriff.

Topics will include: "How to Prevent Rural and Farm Crime," "How to Protect Your Neighborhood," "How to Avoid Fraud and Cons," "Crime Prevention and Home Security," and "Operation Identification."

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, July 11, the 192nd day of 1982. There are 173 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On July 11, 1804, Vice President Aaron Burr mortally wounded statesman Alexander Hamilton in a pistol duel in Weehawken, New Jersey.

On this date:

In 1533, Pope Clement VII excommunicated England's King Henry VIII.

In 1767, the sixth American president, John Quincy Adams, was born in Braintree, Mass.

In 1944, President Franklin D. Roosevelt announced, he was available for an unprecedented fourth term.

In 1979, the U.S. Skylab space station, after six years in orbit, returned to earth as a flaming shower of debris scattered over the Indian Ocean and Australia.

Ten years ago: The three Apollo 15 astronauts were disciplined for carrying 400 unauthorized postal covers to the moon the previous July and giving 100 of them to an acquaintance, who sold them.

Five years ago: Spain devalued its currency and announced tax reforms to stimulate the nation's economy.

One year ago: Cuba said it had foiled a plot to kill President Fidel Castro and had captured five operatives who it claimed were trained in Florida.

Today's birthdays: Actor Yul Brynner is 62. Tenor Nicolai Gedda is 57.

HBO starviews

By Jennifer Wood

In his most famous movie roles as super-spy James Bond, actor Roger Moore plays a dashing, talented, witty, sophisticated man of the world. It comes naturally to the likeable Briton, because in his real-life character he's dashing, talented, witty and sophisticated. But the veteran 007 star has a reputation for not letting success go to his handsome head. "I've been around far too long to be fooled by anyone or anything more," he asserts. "I don't forget the days when I was a struggling actor and nobody wanted to know me." For Your Eyes Only, Moore's fifth Bond movie, is an HBO feature this month.

Ask Julie Andrews what her occupation is, and the international star gives a surprising answer. The Oscar-winning actress, whose credits range from Mary Poppins to S.O.B. (now on HBO) to the current comedy smash Victor/Victoria, devotes most of her time to "my principal occupation: being a wife to my husband and a mother to our children." For S.O.B., at least, she was able to fill the twin roles of star and spouse - the Hollywood comedy was directed by her husband, Blake Edwards.

Pssst! Mel Brooks is a split personality. Actually, the popular comic actor/director doesn't mind if word gets out, because he's the first to admit it. "I think every human being has hundreds of separate people living inside his skin," says Brooks. His string of laugh hits includes Blazing Saddles, High Anxiety and the wacky History of the World - Part I (on HBO this month). Appropriately, Brooks plays several roles in History, from Moses to King Louis XVI. It's a movie with Brooks' name all over it - he wrote, produced, directed and stars. The multi-talented funnyman says, "I want this film to say, 'Enjoy! Revel! Live! Have yourselves one sweetheart of a good time!'"

One hot Hollywood name who's reveling in her success is Nastassia Kinski, the gorgeous young star of the Oscar-winning romantic drama Tess (on HBO this month). Acclaimed for her latest role in the thriller Cat People, Kinski, who just finished working on a film with dance superstar Rudolf Nureyev, is really putting her star salary to use. She has apartments in Paris and New York, recently bought a condo in the Bahamas, and is eyeing two dream buys: a boat and her own island. Frets the daughter of German actor Klaus Kinski about her wealth, "I hope it doesn't distort me."

Disney Deserters Create New Film

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — On Sept. 13, 1979, Don Bluth led a band of fellow artists out of Walt Disney studios. Nearly three years and $7 million later, the result of that exodus can be seen in the theater.

The MGM-United Artists release is called "The Secret of NIMH," and its similarity to the classic Disney animated features is more than coincidental. Bluth, Gary Goldman, John Pomeroy and the other 14 defectors vowed to carry on the Walt Disney traditions they felt were being stifled at the studio Disney had founded.

Don Bluth Productions started in Bluth's garage and still operates in a modest manner, the headquarters in a building behind a savings and loan on Ventura Boulevard in Studio City. The atmosphere is more confident now than it was when "NIMH" was in its early stages. The company has now completed its first feature and embarked on another.

Bluth was in a state of high anticipation as the openings approached. "We proved we could make a feature on schedule and on budget," he said. "Now we hope producers and exhibitors will be convinced there is a future for animation. They will be — if our picture makes money."

"The Secret of NIMH" is based on a Robert C. O'Brien book about Mrs. Frisby, a resourceful mouse who tries to keep her family together and seeks help from a number of forest animals, including a superintelligent cadre of rats.

The animation and effects are top grade, as are the voices: Dom DeLuise, Elizabeth Hartman, John Carradine, Peter Strauss, Derek Jacobi, Hermione Baddeley.

Bluth said he had learned much as leader of his own band of artists.

"First of all, the value of story," he said. "I bought five or six how-to books and learned all about plot points and paradigms — the rise-and-fall action of the story. I also realized that we needed a comic and a villain. We turned Jeremy the crow into a comedian; the villain came late, one of the rats.

"The second thing I learned was how to get along with people," Bluth said. "Making an animated feature is not just drawing. It's dealing with many artistic people who become angry and excited, hold grudges and need to be convinced to get along with each other. That part of my job was even harder than the story."

By Steve K. Walz

MOST WANTED — After impressing critics and audiences with her performance last year in the ABC adaptation of John Steinbeck's "East of Eden," British actress Jane Seymour became a hot property in Hollywood. But Miss Seymour followed her maternal instincts instead and gave birth to a beautiful child, derailing Tinseltown's plans for her.

But Miss Seymour is now ready for her return. The 31-year-old actress has three major TV projects lined up for the 1982-83 season. She's been tabbed by CBS to star in remakes of the "Phantom of the Opera" and "Scarlet Pimpernel," while ABC wants her to rehash the story of "Mata Hari," the exotic spy.

ALLEY-OOP — Kirstie Alley, the newcomer who has received rave notices for her work as Lt. Saavik in "Star Trek II," has made a pilot for NBC, "Towheads." Although the prospects for the show becoming a staple on NBC's schedule look remote, Miss Alley enjoyed the experience immensely.

What a Lunch! What a Lunch! What a Lunch! Lunch! Lunch!

On the side, our Kentucky Fries.™
Big potato wedges with the skin left on.
We fry 'em up golden brown. So they come out crispy outside, but stay nice and fluffy inside.

Our great big, juicy Chicken Sandwich.
It's a real breast filet! Nothing chopped, pressed or rolled. We make it the Colonel's special way to seal in his secret blend of 11 herbs and spices.

Add an ice-cold drink, and you've got the kind of lunch that makes you want to shout, "What a lunch!"

- BLANK CHECK! "One in a lifetime is much, two are many, three are hardly possible," said historian-philosopher Henry Adams. What six-letter word is missing? P.S.: The missing word rhymes with trend.
- Verses Riddle! A thousand and one, and a sixth part of twenty; Some may have none, but others have plenty; Plenty of what?
- Cup Cakes! Challenge: Name the sport associated with each famed trophy: 1. America's Cup, 2. Davis Cup, 3. Stanley Cup, 4. Ryder Cup.
- Nature Study! What inspires a hay farmer? Lethy goals. When did the wind makes a mistake? When it gust wrong. What hastens plant life after a flood? The re-seeding waters.

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

1. Sliver is missing. 4. Skirt is shorter. 5. Placard is smaller. 6. Counter is different.

Prince Valiant created by Hal Foster

Our Story: GALAN is too old for a spanking but not for a tongue-lashing. His father's lance lies broken on the floor. Yet as soon as Prince Valiant departs, Galan runs to Yuan Chen, "Hollow's Stronger!" He cries over the weeping Galan Leavis why wood does not sink and winter is colder than summer.

In a reckless experiment he discovers that objects of different weight fall to earth with equal speed but not equal force.

YUAN CHEN GROWS FOND OF HIS YOUNG STUPID. "WHAT IS ALL THIS?" PRINCE VALIANT ASKS ONE DAY. THE SCHOLAR BOWS WELCOME. "AS A TEST I ASKED YOUR SON TO FIND SOMETHING OF EQUAL VOLUME WITH HIMSELF. HE IS CLEVER. WHEN HE IS FULLY SUBMERGED IN THAT BARREL...."

"...THE AMOUNT OF WATER OBERSCROWING INTO THE TUB WILL BE AS VOLUME EXACTLY," VAL SMILES. "TILL TAKE THE TUB. IT WILL EAT LESS AND GIVE ME FEWER GRAY HAIRS." THE SCHOLAR BOWS AGAIN. "VERY WELL, THEN I SHALL GLADLY TAKE THE BARREL."

HE IS NOT JOKING. FAR AWAY THERE IS A GREAT CITY ULIAN, PEARL OF INDIA, HOME OF PRINCESS MAYANA, A CENTER OF LEARNING. YUAN CHEN IS BLUE THERE SOON. GALAN IS NOT LIKE OTHERS. HE SAYS. "GALAN IS NEITHER RULER NOR WARRIOR BUT SOMETHING ELSE. LET HIM COME WITH ME, I CAN TEACH HIM MUCH."

Walt Disney's Chip 'n Dale

WILL YOU TALK TO CHIP ABOUT HIS ROOM?

≡ SIGH ≡ OKAY

REMEMBER: BE FIRM BUT DON'T LOSE YOUR TEMPER! HERE GOES!

CHIP, IS IT AGAINST THE RULES FOR A TEEN-AGED BOY TO KEEP HIS ROOM NEAT?

WAIT A SECOND. LET ME CHECK

"DON'T HOLD IT AGAINST PARENTS WHEN THEY TURN OUT TO BE WRONG NOBODY'S PERFECT."
 "LIFE IS SHORT. SPEND TIME ON THINGS THAT ARE IMPORTANT TO YOU."
 "BE CHEERFUL. CALL AT LEAST THREE FRIENDS AN EVENING."

"CHECK THE REFRIGERATOR OUT AT LEAST ONCE EVERY HALF-HOUR."
 "IF YOU CAMPAIGN FOR SOME-THING AND LOSE, BEGIN A NEW CAMPAIGN NO LATER THAN THE EVENING OF THE NEXT DAY!"

AH HERE IT IS...

"DO NOT PUT UNDUCE STRESS ON A NEAT ROOM. UNTIDINESS IS A SIGN OF AN ACTIVE MIND."

I DON'T LIKE THE DIRECTION PUBLISHING IS TAKING

BONNIE

STAND BACK JUST A LITTLE AND TELL ME IF IT'S STRAIGHT

OKAY

HI, I'M SYLVESTER HICKEY. YOUR NEW NEIGHBOR FROM ACROSS THE STREET

COULD I PLEASE BERTINALLY BORROW A HAMMER, A WRENCH, A SCREWDRIVER, A STEPLADDER?

SAY WOULD YOU MIND HELPING ME TO HELP MY TV ANTENNA?

ARE YOU OKAY?

YEAH... I'M OKAY... LITTLE DIZZY

THAT'S TOO FAR BACK!

YEAH! MY THUMB!!

LISTEN AS LONG AS WE'RE IN THE BATHROOM CAN YOU HELP ME FIX THE SINK?

MAKE SURE HE GETS UP EARLY TOMORROW MORNING... WE'RE SHINGLING THE ROOF

LEMMIE PUT MORE MUSCLE INTO IT THIS WAY

HOW ABOUT HOLDING THAT LOOSE STEP FOR A MINUTE UNTIL I FIND A NAIL INTO IT?

YEAH! I'M OKAY

BETTE BAILEY

LAST NIGHT I SAW ROCKY DOING EXERCISES IN THE BARRACKS

WHERE'S MY BACKGROUND MUSIC?

HUH?

I NEED THE SCORE FROM "ROCKY" BEHIND ME OR "CHARIOTS OF FIRE"

WHO CAN DO ANYTHING WITHOUT SOUND?!

HE DID IT WITH SPIRIT AND FIRE AND DETERMINATION!!

I WANT HIM TO SHOW YOU GUYS HOW TO DO IT

GET ME MY TAPE PLAYER. WE HAVE A WAR AND THERE'S NO MUSIC

GOD HELP US IF WE HAVE A WAR AND THERE'S NO MUSIC
