Massive boiler finally reaches Holly plant

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

A massive, coal-burning boiler, part of a $5 million expansion project at Holly Sugar, finally completed its trip from Houston shortly after noon Tuesday.

The big boiler drew the attention of citizens all the way from Houston and made a highly-publicized month-long stay in Lamesa after being halted by highway officials for being overweight. The trucking company had a permit for the massive load, but it was not ample for the weight and height.

Hereford attorney Earnest Langley represented Holly Sugar in a settlement with the State Highway Department, the State Attorney General's office and the Texas Railroad Commission, it was reported by The Lamesa Press-Reporter.

The payments made by Holly Sugar Friday to get the boiler rolling again included $28,655 to the highway department, $1,600 to the A-G office and $2,400 to the RR Commission. Rodney Parrott, one of two officials from the attorney general's office who flew to Lamesa, said the check to the highway department covered road damage which was computed at $57.31 per mile in the boiler's journey from Houston.

The check to the AG's office covered the cost of investigation and fees, and the payment to the RR Commission was for Cory Trucking Company's violation of the Motor Carrier Act. Although Cory Trucking was the defendant in the case, Parrott said Holly Sugar agreed to pay the costs of settling the suit in order to get the boiler to the plant as soon as possible. He said he expects Holly to recoup its losses from the trucking firm.

Langley told the Reporter-News that the harvest of sugar beets is expected to get underway in about six weeks and the boiler is needed immediately in order to complete the expansion project by that time. The coal-burning boiler is expected to save Holly about $200,000 a month in fuel costs, according to an official from the plant.

The same truck and trailer used to get the boiler to Lamesa was used for the final lap of the trip. The route went from Lamesa to Brownfield, Levelland, Littlefield and Dimmitt, then moved across several farm-to-market roads west and north of Dimmitt to get to the plant west of Hereford.

After making the settlement Friday, the trucking firm had to wait for the arrival of special steel mats Saturday to start the trip. The mats

Restlawn Cemetery greatly improved since its charter three years ago

Restlawn Cemetery, in its present state of cultivated beauty and well-kept grave sites, is a tribute to a community's caring and working together to make a dream come true.

But, in 1982, the cemetery, located north of Hereford on Highway 385, was a picture of delapidation, which included a broken water well, no usable equipment, and no one with the knowledge of how a cemetery should be managed to be a fitting resting place for loved ones. Today, the burial gardens are a serene vista of green lawns, stately trees and shrubbery and blooming flowers. Improvements include a large brick building to house the equipment needed to maintain the grounds and roads.

All of these improvements are the result of a long series of actions, beginning with a meeting in May 1982, with family members expressing their dismay that their loved ones were resting in a veritable pasture with sunken graves and other evidence of neglect. The agreement with the cemetery owner, who lived in Canyon, had been that the cemetery would be a perpetual care facility with a portion of the sale fee to go into a fund to guarantee proper care of the facility at all times. These family members and others who had purchased plots in the cemetery voted to take over the care of the cemetery and to do whatever was necessary to make it the attractive place that it is today.

All work at Restlawn is done by volunteers who are members of the association, and these chores include mowing the grass, watering, marking grave sites in preparation for interments, opening the graves, closing the graves after the services are ended, removing unattached wreaths after three days, and generally ascertaining that the cemetery is well-tended at all times.

When the Restlawn Cemetery Association first was chartered in the summer of 1982, the Key Club of Hereford High School adopted work there as one of its service projects. Some of the young men had relatives interred at Restlawn and others simply wanted to do a service for the much needed upkeep and repair. An

Falwell called racist

By The Associated Press

The Rev. Jerry Falwell, greeted by waves of criticism for his remarks on South Africa and Bishop Desmond Tutu, insisted today in a debate with the Rev. Jesse Jackson that he is against apartheid but said he believes economic sanctions will harm South African blacks rather than help change the government.

Black leaders are up in arms over Falwell's remarks characterizing Tutu, a Nobel Peace Prize winner, as a phony. One called Falwell "a racist demagogue."

Without sanctions, "We do at least have hope for change in South Africa. We have hope to cut out the cancer and not kill the patient," Falwell said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America." "We have hope not to starve little children, minority children .. by disinvesting, closing down the Ford plants, closing down the various American investments."

Jackson appeared with Falwell and said his trip to South Africa was "an insult to those of us who are Christians and who care."

"Falwell, you supported apartheid in southern America until it was

We ran across a puzzle that might be of interest to some of our readers. It's run in several newspapers and was written by a lady in California. It is reported that a man in Philadelphia offered to pay anyone $1,000 who could write a puzzle he could not solve.

He didn't solve the puzzle below. The answer is one word and appears only four times in the Bible. It has five letters.

WHO AM I?

Adam God made out of dust,
But thought it was best to make me first.

So I was made before man
To answer God's most holy Plan.
A living being I became
And Adam gave to me my name.
I from his presence then withdrew,
And more of Adam never knew.
I did my Maker's law obey,
Nor even went from it astray.

Thousands of miles I go in fear,
But seldom on earth appear.
For purpose wise which God did appear.

For purpose wise which God did see,

He put a living soul in me.
A soul from me God did claim,
And took from me the soil Again.
So when from me the soul had fled
I was the same as when first made.
And without hands, or feet, or soul
I travel on from pole to night,
To fallen man I give great light.
Thousands of people, young and old

Will be my death great light behold.

No right or wrong can I conceive,
The scripture I cannot believe.
Although my name therein is found,

They are to me an empty sound
No fear of death doth trouble me,
Real happiness I'll never see
To Heaven I shall never go
Or to Hell below.

Now when these lines you slowly read,
Go search your Bible with all speed.

For that my name is written there
I do honestly to you declare.

Alien workers assets, says leader

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Undocumented workers have made a positive contribution to the United States and their "human rights" should be respected, an expert on U.S.-Mexico border issues says.

Jorge Bustamante, head of the Center for Northern Mexico Border Studies in Tijuana, said illegal immigration occurs in "an international labor market where the demand for foreign labor originating in the United States is as real as the supply of it from Mexico."

"Mexican undocumented migrants have contributed substantially and positively to the creation of wealth in the United States," Bustamante said Tuesday during a U.S.-Mexico technology conference sponsored by the Houston Area Research Center.

He also said the Mexican government should promote discussions and agreements with the United States "in order to protect the labor rights and human rights of Mexican workers under United States laws and international guidelines."

"We in Mexico do not want to export people," Bustamante said. "We would prefer to export goods rather

Delays discussed by VA chairman

DALLAS (AP) — The administrator of the Veterans Administration says he blames many of the delays in handling veterans benefits on the VA's old methods of paper processing.

Harry N. Walters, administrator of the VA, said at a news conference following his speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Tuesday that the high-tech methods of computer processing are needed to better serve vets needing medical benefits.

"We are pursuing agency-wide data processing and telecommunications modernization goals," he said, "... which will provide better service to veterans through the increased use of modern technologies."

The increased efficiency also is important because veterans are reaching an age that will require increased medical attention and high-quality health benefits.

Walters assured delegates of the VFW attending the group's national convention in Dallas that he is dedicated to carrying out the needs of American veterans.

A West Point graduate appointed administrator of Veterans Affairs by President Reagan in 1982, Walters called his agency "the child of Veteran Service Organizations."

But he added that parents instruct and guide to achieve good results. "They do not succeed by beating the child to death."

Time delays because of obsolete information systems, mostly paper files, are the main reason veterans have trouble collecting benefits.

"One of the major reasons, when we don't do well, is we don't have the answers. They don't like to wait and they shouldn't."

In his speech to the veterans, he said, "We have accomplished a great deal in the last four years to help assure delivery of high-quality health care and benefits to America's veterans."

"We will not always do everything right ... but we will continue to improve."

Invalid mother found starved to death

AUSTIN (AP) — An Air Force staff sergeant has been charged with murder after authorities found his invalid mother starved to death and lying in human waste in his apartment's kitchen.

Staff Sgt. Joe Victor Dixon, 26, stationed at Bergstrom Air Force Base, was being held in city jail late Tuesday night in lieu of $40,000 bond, said jail clerk Sebastian Sarate.

Police Sgt. Dusty Hesskew said Dixon had called for an ambulance Tuesday because his mother, 68-year-old Vera Inez Dixon, "wasn't moving or breathing."

Battles rage in, around Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Artillery and rocket exchanges between Christian and Moslem militiamen shook Beirut and surrounding towns for a third day today, and police said the death toll in the latest bout of the civil war was 264 killed and 775 wounded.

Druse gunners pounded Christian east Beirut and the coastal highway north of the capital with renewed barrages of Soviet-made grad and katyusha rockets today, Christian radio stations reported.

Police said two women, aged 23 and 27, were killed from the renewed bombardment in the scenic Christian mountain resort town of Brummana. Nineteen other civilians were killed and 65 wounded in overnight artillery exchanges in and around Beirut.

Police said that 264 people have been killed in 10 days of shelling and car bombings. More than 2,500 houses sustained considerable damage and 1,138 cars were destroyed in the shelling duels between Moslem and Christian gunners in Beirut and hills overlooking the capital.

Police said the final casualty toll from the latest car bombing attack that rocked North Lebanon's port city of Tripoli on Tuesday stood at 45 killed and 89 wounded.

Sikh moderate leader is assassinated

SANGRUR, India (AP) — The army was placed on alert in Punjab today to prevent violence at the funeral of an assassinated Sikh moderate who had been hailed as a saint for his peace initiative with the government.

Tens of thousands of mourners gathered in the dusty village of Longowal, home of the top Sikh political leader, Harchand Singh Longowal. He was gunned down by extremists in the courtyard of a temple near Sangrur on Tuesday.

The funeral was to be conducted with full state honors and the body cremated.

Longowal, 57-year-old leader of the main faction of the Sikhs' Akali Dal political party, signed an agreement with Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi on July 24 to end three years disturbances in Punjab by Sikhs seeking greater autonomy from the federal government. Extremists rejected the agreement.

Gandhi, whose mother Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, was assassinated last Oct. 31, allegedly by Sikhs, said in Parliament today that Longowal was "a man of faith and sincerity, dedicated to national unity and development of Punjab. The beloved saint stood for communal harmony and brotherhood of Hindus and Sikhs."

"With the ultimate sacrifice, he has joined the long line of martyrs from the Sikh community and Punjab who gave their lives for India's integrity," Gandhi said.

Parliament was adjourned as a sign of respect.

However, opposition leaders pleaded with the government to call off state elections scheduled for Sept. 22 in Punjab. They said the assassination exposed inadequate security and destroyed the harmony generated by the Longowal-Gandhi peace accord.

The government placed the army on alert throughout Punjab, India's northern breadbasket. Authorities also ordered a curfew today in most parts of Ludhiana, Punjab's largest city and industrial center.

India's 13 million Sikhs are a minority in every state but Punjab, where they are a slight majority.

"Sant Longowal Assassinated," "Sant Longowal Shot Dead," "Man of Peace Is Killed," said headlines in today's Indian newspapers. Longowal was called a "sant," or saint, by his followers and the Indian press.

Longowal moved to this village of 9,000 people in June after militants led by the father of slain terrorist preacher Jarnail Singh Bhindranwale tried to oust him as party president.

He was killed hours after other gunmen killed a Hindu leader of the Congress Party and wounded two other party members in Jullundur, a Punjab city farther to the north.

Police said he was receiving a sword from a priest in front of an audience of thousands of Sikhs when a youth in the audience got up and fired at him.

"Immediately after this assailant was shot and overpowered by Longowal's bodyguards, another gunman hiding behind the dais came on the platform and pumped two or three bullets into his body," Vikramjit Singh Grewal, an eyewitness, said.

Grewal, 24, an aide of Longowal, said: "The entire attack was preplanned. At least two accomplices of the assassins were waiting outside on motorcycles."

Women are still in a 'double-bind'

The niftiest fashion for women in a long time is the shirt-blouse with a bow tie. I'm told it was designed for women in men's jobs to minimize the inevitable "difference."

And I am told that women in men's jobs are now reverting—giving up any vestige of masculinity—trading business suits for linen and silk, ruffles and dresses.

One woman executive says, "You have to have risen through the ranks all the way to the executive suite before shedding the protective armor of suits."

The United States Department of Labor reports 33 percent of executives, administrators and managers are women; up from 21 percent just a decade ago.

Is "equality" for women about to be realized? Never.

Not all men are created equal. Not all women either.

Sally Ride, our nation's first woman in space, is convinced that "women have adapted." But she acknowledges that only two of 13 astronaut candidates are women.

Former United States Ambassador to the United Nations, Jeane Kirkpatrick, says, "Sexism is alive and it is bipartisan."

She remembers that men at the U.N., with lesser academic credentials than hers, were addressed as "Doctor" or "Professor." She was addressed as Mrs. Kirkpatrick.

A woman doctor recently related to the Journal of the American Medical Association her experience.

"I know now that I am not equal to my male colleagues."

She was 35, accomplished, respected, happily married—but—her 6½-year-old gentle, vulnerable, sensitive son developed a stutter; a stammer.

A speech pathologist's prescription was for the mother to alter her schedule to spend more time with the child.

Without a moment's hesitation, she did. She modified her work load, curtailed her teaching and publishing activities, eliminated most social and athletic activities—to spend more time with her children.

She says, "I am as good a physician as my male colleagues and better than many. However, I will not be allowed to prove that because first I am a mother and a wife—and then I am a physician."

So—equal? No.

There is what Jeane Kirkpatrick calls "a double-bind." A woman who seems strong is called "tough." If she does not seem strong, she is labeled "not tough enough."

She says, "A woman's best bet is to avoid getting and staying angry—avoid wasting energy on rage and paranoia—and hang in there until she can prove her competence."

over. Now you're supporting apartheid in southern Africa while it's still alive," Jackson said.

Jackson, speaking from Boston, charged that Falwell acted as an agent of the Reagan administration, representing the government's views on South Africa and apartheid.

"I'm sorry Rev. Jackson still thinks whites are bad people. Reagan did not send me and I went on my own," Falwell said from Lynchburg, Va.

"I don't believe any Christian could support segregation, apartheid," he said. "I do not support that policy of the Botha government, any more than I support the total discrimination of the Soviet Union's policies on red China, Cuba or most of the African nations outside South Africa."

"However, I believe we can cut out the cancer without killing the patient and handing over to the Soviet Union one more nation," Falwell said.

Falwell also appeared on the "CBS Morning News," saying "There is no debate between myself and the persons calling for sanctions as far as apartheid. We both equally condemn that policy as I did in meetings with the government."

He said that during his visit to South Africa he visited black and mixed-race communities and found "the entire nonwhite public is saying sanctions will kill our children...."

Falwell met in South Africa with President P.W. Botha, and said he had been assured the country was making progress towards change.

Of Tutu, Anglican bishop of Johannesburg, and a leader in anti-apartheid efforts, Falwell said, "I think he's a phony, period, as far as representing the black people of South Africa. And if anyone here doubts that, go out to the black public in South Africa and ask them. We did. We have it on videotape."

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, a candidate for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination, in an emotional speech Tuesday at the Harvard Divinity School in Cambridge, Mass., likened Falwell to some of history's great villains.

"Anyone who would choose Botha over Tutu, would choose Bull Connor over Martin Luther King; would choose Hitler over the Jews; would choose Herod over Jesus; and would choose Pharaoh over Moses."

Jackson, scheduled to debate Falwell today on ABC-TV, told his audience at the Harvard Divinity School, "I'll be out there waiting for the car to take me to the TV studio at 5:45 in the morning. I'll be in Boston, and he will be in Lynchburg. That's lynch as in rope and burg as in bit."

"Bit" recalled the West German town of Bitburg and its cemetery which President Reagan visited and which was the focus of controversy because it contains the bodies of a number of Nazi SS officers. Falwell lives in Lynchburg, Va.

No injuries reported

No injuries were reported today from an accident at the intersection of Austin Road and South Progressive.

A citation was issued to Pacheco for failure to yield at a stopped intersection.

Hereford Realtors told Major move in stock market looms

Ike Stevens, Edward D. Jones & Co., outlined his views on why stocks are a good investment when he appeared as program speaker for the Hereford Board of Realtors' luncheon meeting Tuesday at the country club.

"I feel we're on the edge of a major move in the markets," Stevens told his audience. He based the prediction on historical and current factors which could trigger a flow of money into the market.

Since 1900, the price of stocks has averaged selling at 15.5 times the earnings. "The Dow is currently just over 10 times earnings," said Stevens. He added that book value of stocks can be vastly understated. Historically, the Dow has sold at anywhere from 1.2 to 2.2 times book value.

"By the end of 1985, we expect the Dow to be over 1000. At 1300, we are only 1.3 times book value," Stevens added.

He also pointed out that "real interest rates—the spread between inflation rate and interest rates—has been this high only twice before in this century (1921-22, 1932-33), and both times occurred before a major stock market advance.

Another factor that could move more investments into the markets is the current tax changes being proposed. They appear to signal a negative effect on many forms of equity investing, but will have no effect on stock investing. There is also a growing amount of money in retirement-plan areas that could have a big impact on stock investments, Stevens said.

The local investment broker concluded that lower interest rates will have a positive effect on stocks for three reasons: Companies will make more profit as they pay less for money; there is less competition for the investor dollar as interest rates decline; and many "total return" investors will take profits from longterm bonds as rates decline and place that money in the market.

Stevens was introduced by Betty Gilbert, Hereford Realtor Board president.

association representative describes their contribution as "a tremendous help."

Through the work of association members and the monies which have come from the Jim Hill Estate and gifts from individuals and memorials, many improvements at the cemetery have been made possible. The most obvious addition to the grounds has been a large brick building which is presently being used to store equipment used in maintenance. Jack Kirksey is the benefactor who contributed work toward the impressive structure, and he received valuable assistance from many association members. Future plans call for this building to be used for the cemetery office and for a small chapel. The equipment will then be housed in another building on the west edge of the property. New chairs have been purchased for use at services, and other older equipment has been updated and repaired.

The green beauty of Reslawn would not be a reality were it not for the new submersible pump which has been purchased for the once-broken well. The property consists of 15 acres of land; at present, 4.25 of these acres have been developed into three garden areas. Trees and shrubs have been planted in these three sections, and the water supply makes their continued growth possible. As needs for more burial spaces develop, the other acreage will be landscaped and made available so that ultimately the cemetery will have eight garden areas with roadways leading to all.

An immediate concern of association members is the upgrading of the roadways so that they will be usable under all weather conditions. Minor repairs have been made on all roads, but hard surfacing is the ultimate goal for the facility to be in top condition. Another goal is for the cemetery to become self-supporting with paid workers to do the maintenance and the funeral arrangement details. The perpetual care trust fund will ultimately make this possible. Presently, since only the interest from money received from sale of the plots is available paying workers is not yet feasible.

At the inception of Reslawn, the central garden was dedicated and consecrated by the Amarillo Diocese of the Catholic Church to provide suitable places for the interment of Catholic persons. A cemetery spokesman explains that any person, regardless of religious affiliation, may choose this garden area for burial.

The initial concern group for Reslawn's future three years ago consisted of only nine persons. From that nucleus of nine persons, the association quickly grew to a membership of 150 with the avowed intention of doing whatever work was necessary for as long as necessary to have their loved ones' graves cared for properly. Their avowed purpose has been stated, "We asked God to show us the way to a solution to the cemetery's neglect, then to guide us in fulfilling this solution in a pleasing way without hurting anyone in the process." Their purpose then is moving toward fruition, and a deep sense of satisfaction to all who have worked and planned is the result.

The third annual stockholders meeting convened recently and the following officers and directors were named: Arnold Betzen, president; Lester Wagner, vice-president; Pauline Howard, treasurer; Marian Kreig, secretary; Helen Parsons, Norman Gray, Bartley Dowell, directors. Property owners are members of the Reslawn Association, and family members attend the meetings but are not entitled to vote.

OUR INTEGRITY

By Bob Wear

OUR INTEGRITY is probably our greatest asset, both, from the standpoint of our personal happiness and our effective relationships with others. It means being complete; undivided; unbroken; entire. It is an unimpaired condition; soundness and purity. It is moral soundness and honesty. In the truest sense, 'integrity' means that we 'have it all together'. This, of course, is a possibility for all of us; not to perfection, perhaps, but to a reasonable degree of success.

IT IS ACCOMPLISHED, as we learn and accept the best available value system, and remain pleasantly true to the thought and behavior that the 'value system' dictates. This is not to suggest that our lives will be free of mistakes, but it does mean that we can cope successfully with the mistakes and that we are not a mistake. We can thus move along in the joys and benefits of effective living, because we will have established a justified, wholesome self-image. We will also have the best possible attitude toward the people with whom we are associated.

"YOU are already of consequence in the world if you are known as a person of integrity. If you can be relied upon; if when you say a thing is so, it is so; if when you say you will do a thing, you do it; then you carry a passport to universal esteem."—G. Kleiser.

THE WAY OF INTEGRITY is the way in which we will know what to do; why we are to do it; and we will know how to do it. We are in the desirable direction of movement, and are happy in the way. All of this will help to make us strong, durable, sure and diligent.

IN THIS WAY, we can put the most into life and this means that we can get the most out of the living experience.

MR. AND MRS. GILBERTO DELAFUENTE Couple exchanges wedding vows Saturday afternoon

Paula DeLaFuenta of Lubbock and Gilberto DeLaFuenta of Matamoros, Tampa, Mexico were married Saturday afternoon in a wedding ceremony performed at El Ranchito in Hereford.

The bride's daughter is Antonia Esqueda of 425 Barrett St. in Hereford and the bridegroom's son is Refugia L. DeLaFuenta.

Honor attendants included Edna and Jesse Gonzalez.

Erica Casarez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Casarez, was flower girl and Jason Nanes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Nanes, was ring bearer.

Los Laguneros performed wedding music.

Given in marriage by Mr. and Mrs. Lupe Zuniga, the bride wore a formal satin beige gown fashioned with gathered capped sleeves and a round neckline.

Her small tea-cup hat was adorned with pearls. She carried a bouquet of beige daisies and greenery sprinkled with seed pearls.

Mr. and Mrs. Nata Tijerina served the three-tiered bridal cake topped by the traditional bridal couple. Mrs. Pt Esqueda poured punch and coffee.

It would take a person twenty-nine years of twelve hour work days to count one billion dollars in one dollar bills.

The soil carried down and spread out at the mouth of a river is called a delta because its triangular shape resembles the 4th letter of the Greek alphabet called Delta.

Project Re-entry scheduled

The percentage of older students on university campuses increases every year as Americans begin looking at education as a lifelong process.

Project Re-entry, sponsored by West Texas State Returning Student Program, has been designed to help the older students adjust to the university environment.

This year's Project Re-entry will take place Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Faculty Dining Room (northeast corner) of the Student Union Building. Returning students or first-time college students 23 years old or older may participate in the special orientation sessions.

Participants will have opportunity to meet WTSU faculty and staff members, go through a mock registration, and attend study and note-taking skills sessions. They may also make friends with other returning students.

The entire day's activities, including lunch, are free to all participants. Child care will be offered at nominal cost. Phone (806)656-2172 to make reservations to participate.

Motion sickness afflicts travelers and those who attend council meetings.

Ann Landers Gossip

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In recent years you printed a poem on the dangers of gossip and the damage it can do. Could you run it again, please?

I am at this very moment the victim of some malicious rumors that have absolutely no basis in fact. These stories are ruining my health and hurting my family. Thank you so much.—ANONYMOUS IN ROCHESTER, N.Y.

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Here it is—a masterpiece of truth. I hope it helps. REMEMBER ME?

My name is Gossip. I have no respect for Justice.

I maim without killing. I break hearts and ruin lives.

I am cunning and malicious and gather strength with age.

The more I am quoted the more I am believed.

I flourish at every level of society. My victims are helpless. They cannot protect themselves against me because I have no name and no face.

To track me down is impossible. The harder you try, the more elusive I become.

I am nobody's friend.

Once I tarnish a reputation, it is never quite the same.

I topple governments and wreck marriages.

I ruin careers, cause sleepless nights, heartache and indignation.

I spawn suspicion and generate grief.

I make innocent people cry in their pillows.

Even my name hisses. I am called Gossip. Office Gossip. Shop Gossip. Party gossip. I make headlines and headaches. Before you repeat a story ask yourself, Is it true? Is it fair? Is it necessary? If not—SHUT UP.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm sure you're fed up with letters about whether the male should put the toilet seat down after using the commode. Please print one more. It is a terrific solution to the problem. My wife thought it up and several of her friends have taken the cue.

Cover the lid of the commode with a thick rug-type fabric. Fasten an artificial rose to the center. The thickness of the fabric and rose makes it impossible to push the lid or the seat back far enough to stay up. Sign me—HUSBAND OF A SMART LADY IN MONTANA

DEAR MONTANA: Great idea with which to end the discussion. Thanks for a practical way to put the lid on the lid controversy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My best friend works at a motel-restaurant a few miles from where I live. She told me that my dad has been checking into the motel with a woman regularly for the past three months.

My dad and I always had a good relationship. Since I heard what he has been doing I can barely speak a civil word to him. I don't know how such a great family man can sneak around like this. Mom doesn't deserve such treatment. What should I do?—S. IN MICH

DEAR S.: Bottled rage can do tremendous damage. Don't be a victim. Tell your father, in a controlled and calm manner, what you have heard and how you feel about it.

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keep your head together can they be of help? Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope," separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. For each booklet ordered, send $2.00, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995 Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Before this century is over, says AT&T, a person with a cellular car phone could drive coast to coast on an interstate highway and carry on an unbroken conversation. Thus, someone seeking to set a record could start a cellular call in Los Angeles and end it in New York City, perhaps speaking to the same person all across the country. Incidentally, the longest, long distance calls have been made from earth to astronauts.

National League roundup

Houston wallops Cardinals, 17-2

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

The Houston Astros had their fun Tuesday night and Dickie Thon and Mark Bailey led in the merriment.

Bailey hit his second grand slam homer of the season and Thon, working his way back into the starting lineup, hit a two-run homer and a two-run triple as the Astros belted out 19 hits and beat the St. Louis Cardinals 17-2 in the Astrodome.

Houston starter Mike Scott, who hadn't beaten the Cardinals since 1982, definitely was pointing toward his start Tuesday night.

"When the final months (of the season) are here it's nice to knock down the contenders," said Scott, who retired 13 in a row from the first to the fifth inning. "It's a little bit of one upmanship."

The Astros had beaten the Cards into submission by the third inning, when Bailey highlighted a six-run inning with his 10th homer of the year.

"(Ricky) Horton had to get a fast ball in to me," Bailey said. "I knew it had a chance but I knew it was going to hit the fence. Once you jump out early on them, you shut out their running game."

"Hitting is contagious in a game like this."

Thon, still recovering from a beaning incident early last season, caught onto the hitting mania.

"I feel more confident at the plate now," Thon said. "The more I see righthanders the better I hit them. Starting is good for my morale. No, I had no problem before. But everybody has problems sometimes in different areas."

The Astros' 19-hit attack equaled their highest production of the season.

Scott's fielder's choice grounder produced two runs in the second inning.

The Hereford City Junior Tournament is scheduled next Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 26-27, at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Age divisions in the tournament are 10 and under, 11 to 12, 13 to 14, and 15 to 17.

Entry fee for the tournament is $4. Action will start at 9 a.m. both days of the tournament.

Dwight Gooden to know when the 20-year-old New York Met pitching sensation is ready to make major-league hitters look like they're out of their league.

"I feel sorry for San Francisco," the New York Manager had said after Gooden came up with a rare clunker in his last start against Philadelphia. "He has a history of coming back against the club that roughed him up or coming back strong in his next start after he gets roughed up."

A strong comeback would be a mild definition of what took place Tuesday night at Shea Stadium. Gooden struck out 16 Giants in pitching the Mets to a 3-0 victory that extended his personal winning streak to 13 straight decisions and put him in the record book yet another time.

Gooden, who led the majors with 276 strikeouts in setting a rookie record last season, became the first National League pitcher ever to record 200 strikeouts in each of his first two seasons. Until Gooden came along, only Cleveland's Herb Score had accomplished the feat.

And in typical Gooden fashion, he took it all in stride.

"I would say it was one of my better games," said Gooden, now 19-3 and tied with Joaquin Andujar of St. Louis for the major-league lead in victories.

The 13th victory in its last 16 games increased New York's lead in the National League East to 1 1/2 games over St. Louis.

Dodgers 5, Phillies 4

Mariano Duncan is learning the ropes as a major-league shortstop and starting to hit a few for front-running Los Angeles. The Dodger rookie, who earlier had doubled and scored a run, hit an 11th-inning triple to beat Philadelphia.

Tom Niedenfuer, 6-5, pitched three scoreless innings for the victory.

Padres 1, Expos 0

Dave Dravecky struggled in the early going, but credited his teammates with making the plays that kept him in the game.

"They were the difference," Dravecky said. "It seems every time Montreal had a runner in scoring position, they came up with a big play."

Dravecky, 11-7, pitched seven strong innings as the Padres remained in second place, eight games behind the Dodgers in the NL West.

Pirates 3, Reds 2

Baseball's resident optimist, Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner, has something to crow about in pitcher Rick Reuschel, the only Pirate starter with a winning record.

"Reuschel has to be the top candidate for the comeback award," Tanner said of the veteran right-hander. "He's had arm troubles, he had to go back to the minors and now he's throwing as well as he ever has."

Jason Thompson hit a tie-breaking home run, his 11th, and Reuschel, 9-6, won for the first time in more than a month.

Mario Soto, 10-14, lost for the first time in nine career decisions at Three Rivers Stadium. Pete Rose went hitless and still needs 15 hits to break Ty Cobb's record.

Cubs 5, Braves 2

Chicago's Ryne Sandberg never knows what to expect against Atlanta's Bruce Sutter. Sandberg hit a two-run homer, his 18th, in a three-run eighth inning against Sutter, who fell to 7-6.

"When I hit two home runs against him in a game in Chicago last year, it gave my confidence a boost," Sandberg said. "But then here earlier this year, he struck me out twice."

Ray Fontenot, 5-7, pitched perfect ball for the first four innings and had a two-hit shutout until the seventh.

American League roundup

Any victory is sweet for Rangers

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

When you're in last place with no hope of moving up, any kind of victory is sweet.

"It's not champagne, but it will do," Texas Manager Bobby Valentine said as he sipped a beer Tuesday night after the Rangers snapped a six-game losing streak in a 3-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Veteran right-hander Charlie Hough, who blanked Boston 1-0 on May 24, narrowly missed another shutout and Toby Harrah broke up a scoreless duel with a leadoff homer in the eighth inning as the Rangers handed the Red Sox a fifth consecutive defeat and their 10th in the last 11 outings.

Boston southpaw Bobby Ojeda, 5-8 with just one victory in 12 starts since June 10, blanked Texas on six hits for seven innings, striking out five without issuing a walk.

However, Harrah triggered a three-run eighth by lining an 0-2 pitch into the screen for his ninth homer of the season and the 15th of his career in Fenway Park.

The Rangers added another run on a single by Pete O'Brien, a stolen base and a double by Gary Ward before Ojeda gave way to Steve Crawford, who was tagged for an RBI pinch single by Bobby Jones.

Hough, 12-12 thanks to a 7-2 mark in nine starts since July 5, allowed only three hits for eight innings in his 28th start, tops in the American League.

Then, with one out in the ninth, Wade Boggs, 1-4 for a .355 average, singled, took third on a single by Bill Buckner and scored on Jim Rice's sacrifice fly, caught at the Boston bullpen in right-center.

"This was one of my best games control-wise," said Hough, a 37-year-old knuckleball artist who struck out seven and didn't walk a batter in his 10th complete game.

"I threw the knuckler most of the way (110 pitches)," he said. "I threw a half dozen fast balls, maybe a couple more, but they weren't good pitches. A couple of the knucklers weren't so good, but they were out of the strike zone, unhittable."

"It was a little scary in the ninth with a good hitter like Jim Rice up. He hit the ball pretty good. And it was my very best pitch. However, the ball wasn't carrying the way it usually jumps here and (George) Wright caught up with it."

Asked how it feels pitching for a club buried in the AL West, Hough said:

"You sign a contract to play 162 games and you're supposed to give it your best. That's what I'm doing."

"It was nice to get three runs for Charlie," said Harrah, aware that the Rangers have scored just one run six times in Hough's 12 losses.

The Rangers named right-hander Jeff Russell, 0-3 in three starts since being acquired from the Cincinnati system on July 23, to face the Red Sox tonight. He is due to be opposed by right-hander Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 11-10 and winless since the All-Star Game break in mid-July.

Yankees 8, Angels 5

The Yankees got their bats in tune at home and they're still providing sweet music now that New York has taken its act on the road.

The Yankees have scored 54 runs in their last 10 home games. They got eight more Tuesday night in Anaheim, where they outslugged the California Angels 8-5. In winning, the Yankees remained four games behind first-place Toronto in the American League East.

Don Mattingly extended his hitting streak to 18 games with two homers and now has a major-league-high 100 runs batted in. Dave Winfield, Rickey Henderson and Mike Pagliarulo also homered for the Yankees, who are only 29-33 on the road, but 40-15 at home.

Blue Jays 3, Indians 2

At Cleveland, the Jays overcame a 2-0 deficit. Tony Fernandez scored one run and drove in two, including the tiebreaker in the seventh inning. Jesse Barfield tripled to center and scored on Fernandez's second single of the night.

Jimmy Key, 10-5, got the victory, with relief help from Tom Henke, who notched his fourth save.

Cowboys put eight on injured reserve

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League placed eight players on injured reserve Tuesday.

Included on the list were linebacker Vince Albritton, guard Dowe Aughtman, tackle Jimmie Covington, linebacker Neal Dellocono, wide receiver Ron Jenkins, linebacker Karl Jordan, tackle Howard Richards, and tight end Chris Waltman.

Tigers 4, A's 1

Larry Herndon and Tom Brookens hit home runs for visiting Detroit, which had only five hits. Walt Terrell, 12-6, got the victory, allowing seven hits through 7 2-3 innings. Willie Hernandez earned his 26th save with 1 1-3 innings of relief.

Oakland's Dwayne Murphy robbed Barbaro Garbey of a home run with a wall-climbing catch in center field in the second inning, but it paled in comparison to a game-saving catch Sunday by the Yankees' Ken Griffey that was still the talk of baseball.

"I'd never seen anything like that," said Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson, who saw television replays of the Griffey catch. "Compared to that one, the catch Murphy made tonight was like seeing Willie Mays catch a routine fly ball." White Sox 2, Royals 1

Frank White, one of the major leagues' best fielding second basemen, booted Luis Salazar's grounder as the winning run scored with two out in the bottom of the ninth for the White Sox. Salazar had three hits, including a double to lead off the eighth. He eventually scored on Carlton Fisk's sacrifice fly to tie the game.

"I didn't hit it good," said Salazar, "but they hurried the play because of my speed. I didn't think I had a chance."

Mariners 4, Orioles 3

Gorman Thomas walked with the bases loaded and one out in the bottom of the ninth at Seattle. With the score tied 3-3, Jack Perconte singled with one out against reliever Nate Snell, 3-2, and took third on Phil Bradley's third hit, a single. Al Cowens walked on four pitches to load the bases, then Thomas walked on four pitches to force home the winning run.

Mike Moore, 11-7, scattered eight hits, but allowed solo homers to Larry Sheets and Rick Dempsey.

Brewers 3, Twins 2

Rick Manning, who earlier in the game cost the Brewers a run when he misplayed Ron Washington's fly ball into a triple, singled home the winning run to cap a three-run rally in the bottom of the ninth.

Minnesota starter John Butcher carried a four-hit shutout into the ninth.

Ted Higuera, 11-6, scattered 10 hits for the victory.

NFL teams cut many well-known veterans

By The Associated Press

The first major cut of the National Football League preseason was completed with some well-known veterans finding themselves in various places other than on the active rosters.

All 28 NFL teams needed to be down to 60 players by Tuesday. They got there by using all of the injury and waiver lists available to them.

Among the veteran players waived were quarterback Mike Moroski of Atlanta, tackle Dean Miraldi of Philadelphia, Tampa Bay defensive back Cedric Brown and four Indianapolis defensive starters from last season: safety Mark Kafentzis, cornerback James Burroughs and linebackers Greg Bracelin and Mike Humiston.

"When guys put in a lot of hard work, it's not a pleasant task," Coach Rod Dowhower said of the cuts. But, he added, "There are some where it doesn't bother me one way or the other."

The Seattle Seahawks traded tight end Pete Metzelaars to the Buffalo Bills for wide receiver Byron Franklin, and wideout Preston Denard was sent to Green Bay by the Bills for a draft choice.

Buffalo also acquired defensive end Don Smith from Atlanta. And San Diego sent punter Maury Buford to Chicago for an undisclosed 1986 draft choice.

The busiest lists were the injured reserve, physically-unable-to-perform and did-not-report groups.

Denver placed seven players on injured reserve, including tight end John Sawyer, defensive end Brison Manor and Eric Riley, a cornerback.

Billy Sims, Detroit's star running back, was moved from the active-physically-unable-to-perform list to the reserve-physically-unable-to-perform list. Green Bay wide receiver John Jefferson was placed on the did-not-report list, where he joined the Rams' Eric Dickerson, who is holding out for more money after setting an NFL season rushing record last year.

The Rams' Jack Youngblood also was put on the did-not-report sheet.

Kansas City placed runner Billy Jackson on the injured reserve list. Seattle running back Zachary Dixon went on the reserve-physically-unable-to-perform list and Paul Johns, a versatile wide receiver, went to the reserve-did-not-report list.

Cleveland veterans Keith Baldwin, a defensive end, and Bill Contz, a tackle, were put on the physically-unable-to-play list. Safety Clinton Burrell went on injured reserve.

The Raiders placed on injured reserve starting inside linebacker Bob Nelson, who underwent arthroscopic knee surgery Monday, and starting offensive guard Curt Marsh, who has a broken arm.

The Eagles put ace running back Wilbert Montgomery, DE Dennis Harrison, linebacker Jerry Robinson, and All-Pro wide receiver Mike Quick on the did-not-report sheet.

Miraldi was being fined $1,000-a-day for holding out. But the Eagles' No. 2 pick in the 1981 National Football League draft was one of 14 players cut by Philadelphia. Miraldi, who was in the option year of his contract, wanted the Eagles to renegotiate his agreement, which called for $110,000 per year. He had rejected the team's offer of a $20,000 raise.

"I don't want to assassinate Dean's character by any means," Eagles Coach Marion Campbell said. "He came in and was very open and honest with what he was telling me. I think the image he has right now of being a hard holdout disturbs him."

All teams must be down to 50 players by next Tuesday.

Meet Your Neighbor

BY CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

Jeff and Kathy Love are new to Hereford and insist "that the people here are wonderful." This is quite a compliment considering the Loves have traveled 18 states and Canada together.

After living in places like Seattle and Colorado, the couple admits that the panhandle scenery is a bit barren - but adds that "the people make up for what the countryside lacks."

"Our first Sunday was July 14," said Jeff who thinks in terms of Sunday because that is his job. The Loves are the new music and children ministers of Church of the Nazarene.

The Loves have been in Hereford a little over a month and seem to have a very positive attitude toward ministering here. The Loves moved from Hastings, Neb., where they were also youth and music ministers.

Jeff is an artistic person who enjoys painting water colors, gouash, and any kind of art media.

Kathy likes to cross-stitch and collect antiques.

They both enjoy snow-skiing and love the work they are doing. But, most of all, the young couple enjoys singing together.

"Music is the biggest part of my life," said Jeff. He has been playing the piano and singing since he was 12 and writes all his own material. "Right now, we're working with a producer out of Nashville," commented Love, who hopes to have some of his music published soon.

Before marrying, both of the Loves' were involved with Christian music groups.

"Kathy gave up a trip to Australia to marry me," laughed Jeff.

Kathy has toured with a college singing group that performed contemporary Christian music. On the tour she went to Swaziland and South Africa ministering in Johannesburg, Durban, and Capetown.

"South Africa was much like it is here," Kathy described. "There are Nazarene churches, schools, and hospitals, but they do have their own customs."

She chuckled and noted that some Africans do still wear "things on their heads and witchcraft is still practiced widely."

"Africans use rat manure to seal up the umbilical cord after giving birth which causes tetanus," commented Love, adding quickly with relief, "Tetanus is never found in the United States anymore."

Her relief of that is very sincere - she is expecting their first child in February and remembers the horror of seeing babies with tetanus in South African hospitals. The baby goes into constant convulsions and eventually dies.

"And it's really sad," continued Love, "because the mothers don't understand medically why their baby is dying."

Kathy mentioned a few of the different customs, one in particular having to do with the left hand.

"You don't offer them anything with your left hand," said Love of the primitive people, "or you offend them."

That is offensive because the people use their left hand as we would use toilet paper, she explained.

Kathy said there were different kinds of Africans including the white British, the black, the Indian, and the colored who are crosses between any of the above.

"I was taken aback by the segregated beaches and bathrooms," said Kathy.

According to Kathy, "There are many differences between the Africans, and if you married out of your race, you lose your identity in that classification."

While touring, the group was ordered not to take any pictures. The Africans were much more mindful of terrorists. They were very careful, said Kathy. "No pictures of any military people, vehicles, no pictures, period," she said.

On the trip to Zimbabwe, Love said even though the singers couldn't speak the same language, they could communicate through love.

They demonstrated this as they ministered the spiritual needs of God to the people of Zimbabwe.

"We work together as a team," explained Jeff about being in the ministry with his wife. "The creative juices flow great together and we can bounce ideas off each other."

"The Nazarene Church has been most spiritual," Jeff explained about their denomination choice. "It's sort of an 'on-fire-for-the-Lord' church," he said enthusiastically. "We're more concerned about building the kingdom instead of the denomination," said Jeff.

The Loves teach children ranging in age from birth to sixth grade about God's love.

"We had a fantastic turnout at Vacation Bible School recently," said Jeff excitedly, "the kids raised $448 through offerings in a pie throwing contest."

The Loves shared recreation, arts, bible hero stories, and spiritual class time with the children as part of their program.

"Like teaching children discipline, eventually they come to understand the mysteries of God," stated Jeff seriously.

"When a child has been raised in a Christian atmosphere, you can tell how the parent has impressed upon the child," said Jeff. "The children of these homes are a different breed all their own."

"Eventually, when the child comes of age and can understand the ways of God, the choice is theirs to serve the Lord or not," said Jeff of his spiritual teachings.

"Our responsibility is to open their eyes and make them realize they have that choice," stressed Jeff.

How are they going to do this? The Loves have thought of everything, including plans for a Christian scouting program offered to four year olds through sixth graders.

Called "Caravans," the program will allow the children to participate in spiritual teachings such as "How To Lead A Christian Life" and will earn badges for cooking, sewing, child care, etc.

"Our goals while we are in Hereford will be to build a ministry within itself," said Jeff.

The couple is in charge of the music ministry and want the people in the choir to benefit spiritually as well, not to just come to sing.

"Music is a great part of spiritual worship in our daily lives," said the Loves and they want the congregation to benefit too.

DR. GOTT

Peter Gott, M.D.

Gland problem can be serious

DEAR DR. GOTT - My nephew, who is 7, does not perspire. He never did, even as a baby. His pediatrician says his sweat glands have not developed yet. In hot weather, he is not comfortable and he has to be watched very closely so he does not get too warm. Can you shed some light on this?

DEAR READER - I hate to use this column to invoke little-known diagnoses, I feel more comfortable giving what used to be known as "common-sense" advice. However, your question raises the possibility that your nephew has an unusual abnormality known as anhydrotic ectodermal dysplasia, which means that his sweat glands have never developed.

This genetically transmitted disease is carried through the female, like hemophilia, but affects only male offspring. Anhydrotics usually cannot produce tears, either, and they show distinctive changes in skin, hair and nails. Because sweat is the body's air conditioner, the disease can result in unacceptably high body temperatures. Therefore, anhydrotics must avoid heat and strenuous exercise and must be treated promptly for any condition that causes fever.

Of course, I'd be presumptuous to diagnose a serious condition solely on the information you have provided. Your nephew's family undoubtedly has had him thoroughly examined by a qualified pediatric specialist. One of the most important services the pediatrician can supply is to define ways of handling the youngster's condition.

Psychologist reads 'Cosby' script each week

BOSTON (AP) — Producers of the highly rated "The Cosby Show" attribute some of its success to the fact that each week the situation comedy goes into analysis with a Harvard University psychologist.

Dr. Alvin Poussaint reads the 45-page scripts, searching each line for such pitfalls as stereotypes, sexism and inconsistencies in each character's psychological development.

Bill Cosby, star and co-creator of the NBC comedy, asked Poussaint to doctor up the show because he wanted the series to be different. "He didn't want it to be contrived or gimmicky," said the 51-year-old Poussaint, whose clinical affiliation is with Boston's Children's Hospital. "He told me not to limit myself. He told me to comment on anything."

Some television dramas use psychologists as consultants, but they are rare on the staffs of comedies.

The show, which has been nominated for eight Emmy awards, including best comedy series, features the family of obstetrician

Dr. Cliff Huxtable (Cosby), his attorney wife Clair (Phylicia Ayers Allen) and their children: Denise (Lisa Bonet), Theodore (Malcolm-Jamal Warner), Vanessa (Tempest Bledsoe) and Rudy (Keshia Knight Pulliam).

Poussaint sends his comments on the script drafts via express courier to the writers and producer Caryn Schneider in New York. He mails a special copy directly to Cosby.

In one script, he asked writers to delete a reference to an ethnic group when describing a poorly made shirt Denise sewed for her brother. In another, he corrected the aspirin dosage the writers once had Huxtable's youngest daughter write.

Head writer John Markus said the show's writers find Poussaint's comments helpful.

"He's also helped make all of us more sensitive as writers," Markus said. "We'll sometimes write something and say, 'Whoops, Dr. Poussaint will get back to us on this." Not all of Poussaint's suggestions are used.

When the script called for Clair to become a law partner in her firm, Poussaint suggested that the show discuss the barriers black women face in trying to receive promotions.

"They (the writers) felt in a situation comedy theme in one half-hour, that if they brought that up they wouldn't be able to deal with it adequately," Poussaint said.

Instead, the writers decided to emphasize Clair's qualifications for the job.

"They listen and sometimes we argue a little and that's good," Poussaint said. "It's part of the creative process. ... I think that I've learned a lot. It's an exciting way to put some of my theory into practice."

Officers, gang members share campout

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Latino Peace Officer Association's campout included the normal activities — pitching tents, playing football and cracking jokes.

But the norm this time was a change of pace for the 13 camp participants, who all are Fort Worth gang members and more prone to fighting than playing together.

Of the 25 Fort Worth youths who originally agreed to go, 12 refused to get on the bus when they saw rival gang members on board. But 10 boys and three girls stayed.

Association President Humberto Martinez said the campout was part of the group's efforts to bridge the gap between authority figure and gang member.

Martinez said the campout showed some positive signs.

One youth joked with Martinez

when the officer began sending the youths to bed.

"If I resist, will I get in trouble?" the teen-ager asked.

The fact that he could joke with a peace officer about getting into trouble told Martinez that the effort to bridge the gap was working.

Association members chipped in $300 out of their own pockets to finance the campout at Sid Richardson Boy Scout camp in nearby

Bridgeport. They wanted to let gang members know that "law enforcement personnel are people, too," Martinez told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The campout began with pitching tents, followed by a game of water football and dinner. They gathered for a two-hour discussion session before bedtime.

"Heck, yeah, I had a good time," said one 17-year-old boy. "You meet people from other gangs, other barrios, but in friendship, not rivalry."

Martinez said the volunteer officers used the discussion session to explain how youths can make it easier for themselves and police.

"We showed them how certain actions can be interpreted as threatening by police," he said. "If you come out of a car with both hands in your pockets, then pull them out suddenly, that could appear threatening to the officer."

On Saturday, they played football together before heading home.

"The bottom line was, how would these kids react when we get back?" Martinez said. "These guys don't just take to you automatically. But we could tell they enjoyed it and wanted to do it again."

Next year the association hopes to have two or three campouts during the summer for Fort Worth gangs.

"We thought we might be sitting on a bus staring at each other, with no kids," Martinez said. "We thought we were going to get catcalls, but it appeared to be well-received."

Some 6.5 million Americans play tennis at least twice a week.

Satellite auction sale expands cattle market

AMARILLO, Texas — Cattle buyers nationwide can now view and bid on the same cattle at the same time without leaving the privacy of their home, office, or any where equipped with a satellite livestock auction sale, the Amarillo Livestock Video Auction will telecast its Aug. 29 auction sale coast to coast via the SATCOM IV communications satellite.

The auction will originate from the Amarillo Livestock Auction Co. sale arena where an auctioneer will accept bids telephoned in from buyers across this country.

Jack Tompkins, video auction manager, said the satellite auction sale will provide the cattle seller with a virtually unlimited market for his cattle.

"With this satellite link, we expand the market for the seller's cattle far beyond our regular video locations," said Tompkins. "Now, anyone who has access to a television hooked to an operable satellite dish can tune in our action and bid."

Buyers must register with the Amarillo Video Auction three weeks in advance of the sale. They may then view the cattle Aug. 29 on SATCOM IV, Channel 2 between 10 and 11 a.m. Central Daylight Time. Bidding begins at 1 p.m.

The Amarillo Livestock Auction Co. established the video auction in 1983. The idea of video taping sale cattle in the field, then replaying the tape before prospective buyers was virtually new to the cattle industry in the Southwest.

"We normally conduct the sale from the Amarillo Livestock Auction Co. arena, where a tape of each lot of cattle is viewed on a 10-foot screen just over the auctioneer," said Tompkins.

"The same tape is played simultaneously at several other locations elsewhere, where potential buyers can also bid. These bids are called in to Amarillo, where they are measured against others in the video auction network. The cattle go to the highest bidder, whether it comes from the arena or another sale location 1,500 miles away." The bidding is just like any cattle sale and normally 3000-3500 cattle per hour are sold.

Besides Amarillo, the sale is held in Okalahoma City and lake Placid, Fla., where large meeting rooms are used to accommodate the video systems, telephone lines to the auction arena and the buyers. The auction also has been held in Garden City, Kan., and Jackson, Miss., two other key cattle locations.

"Despite the five locations, there are many potential buyers who don't have access to the video auction," said Tompkins. "That's the main reason we put together the satellite sale."

"Many cattle buyers like to make their transactions in private. The satellite sale will help to accommodate them."

Buyers and sellers know everything on the contract before the sale takes place, except the price. Buyers pay a down payment after the purchase and balance upon accepting delivery. Auction representatives assist in assuring that all deliveries are made proper. The seller is paid a down payment and the balance when the cattle are delivered.

The Aug. 29 sale will feature several thousand calves and yearlings. The average lot will include 300 to 400 cattle.

Block says administration will pressure Congress to trim farm spending

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Congress returns next month from its summer recess, lawmakers will have to do some serious thinking about streamlining the new farm bill to fit into budget requirements.

Just before quitting for their August break, the House and Senate Agriculture committees approved programs that Reagan administration officials said would cost $51 billion to $60 billion in the next three years, far in excess of the $34 billion budget limit.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block says the administration is determined to hold down farm program costs and will put pressure on Congress to do some trimming, including lower supports for key commodities.

In a telephone interview Tuesday with farm broadcasters, Block reiterated the administration's goal for market-oriented farm programs, lower price supports and a phase-down of direct subsidies.

"The only way to save enough real money, to put it inside the budget straitjacket, is to systematically lower the target prices of the crops," Block said. "You cannot freeze them for two years or three years or four years and meet budget objectives. I guess you could if you have a huge acreage reduction program each year, which would price us out of the world market."

The target prices are used to compute federal "deficiency payments" to farmers for certain crops, including wheat, feed grains, rice and cotton, when market prices fall below target levels.

Block wants the lowering of target prices to begin next year, while some in Congress want that to begin in 1987. Others want them to be frozen at current levels for two to four years.

Price supports for the major crops are carried out through loans, with the rate, in effect, serving as a market floor price. If farmers obtain price support loans, they have the option of repaying the loans later if the market prices improve. If prices don't improve, farmers can let the government assume ownership of the crop, thus canceling the debt.

The administration says the loan rate needs to be reduced so American wheat and other commodities can compete at lower prices on the world market. Higher supports, Block argues, stifles U.S. export business.

Rep. Charles W. Stenholm, D-Texas, who joined Block in the interview, said he agreed that target prices should be phased down.

"To do this, we're going to have to have, from the farmer's standpoint, effective supply management," he said.

But that does not mean mandatory acreage controls as some have advocated, he said. And it could involve an emphasis on paying target price benefits to the mid-sized family farmers who gross $40,000 to $250,000 a year in sales. Those have been the hardest hit financially.

Stenholm led the opposition last month to a plan in the House Agriculture Committee that would have called for a referendum among crop producers. If approved by growers, mandatory acreage controls and much higher price supports would go into effect. The measure was defeated, 24-17.

"If we can't sell our wheat today for $2.60 (per bushel), which I can't on my farm, what makes us think that we can set the price at $5.03 a bushel and sell any more wheat than we're selling today ... or as much as we're selling?" Stenholm asked. "We've got to have supply management, but not in the way that is being suggested" by that plan.

Net farm income will drop sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department still expects net farm income to be down sharply this year, although it might be slightly more than previously indicated.

A brief outlook report said Monday that 1985 net farm income could be in the range of $22 billion to $26 billion, down from an estimated $34.6 billion in 1984 when prices were up and government payments were at a higher level.

Total crop production this year may be up about 2 percent from 1984, although the planted acreage is down slightly, the report said. Wheat, soybean and cotton plantings were down, but feed grain plantings increased.

Other factors noted in the report included the financial plight of cattle producers and a continued cutback in herd inventories. Hog production costs have been the lowest since early 1983 because of relatively low prices for feed and some other inputs.

"Nevertheless, low hog prices kept producers' returns below breakeven during the first half of 1985," the report said.

Another reason for the current outlook is the large global supply of grain, the report said.

The siege of the Alamo during Texas' war of independence began at San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 23, 1836. A force of 180 Texans held the Alamo mission for 13 days against a force of 4,000 Mexicans. Among the legendary Americans who died at the Alamo were Davy Crockett and Jim Bowie.

Psychologist reads 'Cosby' script each week

BOSTON (AP) — Producers of the highly rated "The Cosby Show" attribute some of its success to the fact that each week the situation comedy goes into analysis with a Harvard University psychologist.

Dr. Alvin Poussaint reads the 45-page scripts, searching each line for such pitfalls as stereotypes, sexism and inconsistencies in each character's psychological development.

Bill Cosby, star and co-creator of the NBC comedy, asked Poussaint to doctor up the show because he wanted the series to be different. "He didn't want it to be contrived or gimmicky," said the 51-year-old Poussaint, whose clinical affiliation is with Boston's Children's Hospital. "He told me not to limit myself. He told me to comment on anything."

Some television dramas use psychologists as consultants, but they are rare on the staffs of comedies.

The show, which has been nominated for eight Emmy awards, including best comedy series, features the family of obstetrician

Dr. Cliff Huxtable (Cosby), his attorney wife Clair (Phylicia Ayers Allen) and their children: Denise (Lisa Bonet), Theodore (Malcolm-Jamal Warner), Vanessa (Tempestt Bledsoe) and Rudy (Keshia Knight Pulliam).

Poussaint sends his comments on the script drafts via express courier to the writers and producer Caryn Sneider in New York. He mails a special copy directly to Cosby.

In one script, he asked writers to delete a reference to an ethnic group when describing a poorly made shirt Denise sewed for her brother. In another, he corrected the aspirin dosage the writers once had Huxtable give his youngest daughter when she was sick.

Head writer John Markus said the show's writers find Poussaint's comments helpful.

"He's also helped make all of us more sensitive as writers," Markus said. "We'll sometimes write something and say, 'Whoops, Dr. Poussaint will get back to us on this.'" Not all of Poussaint's suggestions are used.

When the script called for Clair to become a law partner in her firm, Poussaint suggested that the show discuss the barriers black women face in trying to receive promotions.

"They (the writers) felt in a situation comedy theme in one half-hour, that if they brought that up they wouldn't be able to deal with it adequately," Poussaint said.

Instead, the writers decided to emphasize Clair's qualifications for the job.

"They listen and sometimes we argue a little and that's good," Poussaint said. "It's part of the creative process. ... I think that I've learned a lot. It's an exciting way to put some of my theory into practice."

Officers, gang members share campout

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Latino Peace Officer Association's campout included the normal activities — pitching tents, playing football and cracking jokes.

But the norm this time was a change of pace for the 13 camp participants, who all are Fort Worth gang members and more prone to fighting than playing together.

Of the 25 Fort Worth youths who originally agreed to go, 12 refused to get on the bus when they saw rival gang members on board. But 10 boys and three girls stayed.

Association President Humberto Martinez said the campout was part of the group's efforts to bridge the gap between authority figure and gang member.

Martinez said the campout showed some positive signs. One youth joked with Martinez when the officer began sending the youths to bed.

"If I resist, will I get in trouble?" the teen-ager asked.

The fact that he could joke with a peace officer about getting into trouble told Martinez that the effort to bridge the gap was working.

Association members chipped in $300 out of their own pockets to finance the campout at Sid Richardson Boy Scout camp in nearby

Bridgeport. They wanted to let gang members know that "law enforcement personnel are people, too," Martinez told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The campout began with pitching tents, followed by a game of water football and dinner. They gathered for a two-hour discussion session before bedtime.

"Heck, yeah, I had a good time," said one 17-year-old boy. "You meet people from other gangs, other barrios, but in friendship, not rivalry."

Martinez said the volunteer officers used the discussion session to explain how youths can make it easier for themselves and police.

"We showed them how certain actions can be interpreted as threatening by police," he said. "If you come out of a car with both hands in your pockets, then pull them out suddenly, that could appear threatening to the officer."

On Saturday, they played football together before heading home.

"The bottom line was, how would these kids react when we got back?" Martinez said. "These guys don't just take to you automatically. But we could tell they enjoyed it and wanted to do it again."

Next year the association hopes to have two or three campouts during the summer for Fort Worth gangs.

"We thought we might be sitting on a bus staring at each other, with no kids," Martinez said. "We thought we were going to get catcalls, but it appeared to be well-received."

Some 6.5 million Americans play tennis at least twice a week.

Satellite auction sale expands cattle market

AMARILLO, Texas -- Cattle buyers nationwide can now view and bid on the same cattle at the same time without leaving the privacy of their home, office, or any where equipped with a satellite livestock auction sale, the Amarillo Livestock Video Auction will telecast its Aug. 29 auction sale coast to coast via the SATCOM IV communications satellite.

The auction will originate from the Amarillo Livestock Auction Co. sale arena where an auctioneer will accept bids telephoned in from buyers across this country.

Jack Tompkins, video auction manager, said the satellite auction sale will provide the cattle seller with a virtually unlimited market for his cattle.

"With this satellite link, we expand the market for the seller's cattle far beyond our regular video locations," said Tompkins. "Now, anyone who has access to a television hooked to an operable satellite dish can tune in our action and bid."

Buyers must register with the Amarillo Video Auction three weeks in advance of the sale. They may then view the cattle Aug. 29 on SATCOM IV, Channel 2 between 10 and 11 a.m. Central Daylight Time. Bidding begins at 1 p.m.

The Amarillo Livestock Auction Co. established the video auction in 1983. The idea of video taping sale cattle in the field, then replaying the tape before prospective buyers was virtually new to the cattle industry in the Southwest.

"We normally conduct the sale from the Amarillo Livestock Auction Co. arena, where a tape of each lot of cattle is viewed on a 10-foot screen

just over the auctioneer," said Tompkins.

"The same tape is played simultaneously at several other locations elsewhere, where potential buyers can also bid. These bids are called in to Amarillo, where they are measured against others in the video auction network. The cattle go to the highest bidder, whether it comes from the arena or another sale location 1,500 miles away." The bidding is just like any cattle sale and normally 3000-3500 cattle per hour are sold.

Besides Amarillo, the sale is held in Oklahoma City and Lake Placid, Fla., where large meeting rooms are used to accommodate the video systems, telephone lines to the auction arena and the buyers. The auction also has been held in Garden City, Kan., and Jackson, Miss., two other key cattle locations.

"Despite the five locations, there are many potential buyers who don't have access to the video auction," said Tompkins. "That's the main reason we put together the satellite sale."

"Many cattle buyers like to make their transactions in private. The satellite sale will help to accommodate them."

Buyers and sellers know everything on the contract before the sale takes place, except the price. Buyers pay a down payment after the purchase and balance upon accepting delivery. Auction representatives assist in assuring that all deliveries are made proper. The seller is paid a down payment and the balance when the cattle are delivered.

The Aug. 29 sale will feature several thousand calves and yearlings. The average lot will include 300 to 400 cattle.

Block says administration will pressure Congress to trim farm spending

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Congress returns next month from its summer recess, lawmakers will have to do some serious thinking about streamlining the new farm bill to fit into budget requirements.

Just before quitting for their August break, the House and Senate Agriculture committees approved programs that Reagan administration officials said would cost $51 billion to $60 billion in the next three years, far in excess of the $34 billion budget limit.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block says the administration is determined to hold down farm program costs and will put pressure on Congress to do some trimming, including lower supports for key commodities.

In a telephone interview Tuesday with farm broadcasters, Block reiterated the administration's goal for market-oriented farm programs, lower price supports and a phase-down of direct subsidies.

"The only way to save enough real money, to put it inside the budget straitjacket, is to systematically lower the target prices of the crops," Block said. "You cannot freeze them for two years or three years or four years and meet budget objectives. I guess you could if you have a huge

COLLEGE STATION — Dr. Willis B. Gass, a 14-year veteran with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System, has been named to the position of state soil fertility specialist.

Gass served as Extension agronomist for the West Central Texas area since 1971 and was stationed at San Angelo.

acreage reduction program each year, which would price us out of the world market."

The target prices are used to compute federal "deficiency payments" to farmers for certain crops, including wheat, feed grains, rice and cotton, when market prices fall below target levels.

Block wants the lowering of target prices to begin next year, while some in Congress want that to begin in 1987. Others want them to be frozen at current levels for two to four years.

Price supports for the major crops are carried out through loans, with the rate, in effect, serving as a market floor price. If farmers obtain price support loans, they have the option of repaying the loans later if the market prices improve. If prices don't improve, farmers can let the government assume ownership of the crop, thus canceling the debt.

The administration says the loan rate needs to be reduced so American wheat and other commodities can compete at lower prices on the world market. Higher supports, Block argues, stifles U.S. export business.

Rep. Charles W. Stenholm, D-Texas, who joined Block in the interview, said he agreed that target prices should be phased down.

"To do this, we're going to have to have, from the farmer's standpoint, effective supply management," he said.

But that does not mean mandatory acreage controls as some have advocated, he said. And it could involve an emphasis on paying target price benefits to the mid-sized family farmers who gross $40,000 to $250,000 a year in sales. Those have been the hardest hit financially.

Stenholm led the opposition last month to a plan in the House Agriculture Committee that would have called for a referendum among crop producers. If approved by growers, mandatory acreage controls and much higher price supports would go into effect. The measure was defeated, 24-17.

"If we can't sell our wheat today for $2.60 (per bushel), which I can't on my farm, what makes us think that we can set the price at $5.03 a bushel and sell any more wheat than we're selling today ... or as much as we're selling?" Stenholm asked. "We've got to have supply management, but not in the way that is being suggested" by that plan.

Net farm income will drop sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department still expects net farm income to be down sharply this year, although it might be slightly more than previously indicated.

A brief outlook report said Monday that 1985 net farm income could be in the range of $22 billion to $26 billion, down from an estimated $34.6 billion in 1984 when prices were up and government payments were at a higher level.

Total crop production this year may be up about 2 percent from 1984, although the planted acreage is down slightly, the report said. Wheat, soybean and cotton plantings were down, but feed grain plantings increased.

Other factors noted in the report included the financial plight of cattle producers and a continued cutback in herd inventories. Hog production costs have been the lowest since early 1983 because of relatively low prices for feed and some other inputs.

"Nevertheless, low hog prices kept producers' returns below breakeven during the first half of 1985," the report said.

Another reason for the current outlook is the large global supply of grain, the report said.

The siege of the Alamo during Texas' war of independence began at San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 23, 1836. A force of 180 Texans held the Alamo mission for 13 days against a force of 4,000 Mexicans. Among the legendary Americans who died at the Alamo were Davy Crockett and Jim Bowie.

No matter what anyone says, nothing is "just as good as a John Deere."

"And ours is just as good as a John Deere." How many times have you heard that? When one manufacturer is so clearly the leader, that's the ultimate claim any competitor can make. But when you put all claims aside, there's nothing like a John Deere tractor with Caster/Action™ mechanical front-wheel drive and 15-speed Power Shift transmission. No combine can match the productive efficiency of a Titan II. And the superior seed/soil environment created by Max-Emerge™ planters is literally legendary. But so is the dealer support that's provided with everything in The Long Green Line.™ Don't take our word for it. Ask anyone. We're happy to be judged by what we're known for.

The Newspaper BIBLE

"Brothers -- you sons of Abraham, and also all of you Gentiles here who reverence God -- this salvation is for all of us!
"The Jews in Jerusalem and their leaders fulfilled prophecy by killing Jesus; for they didn't recognize Him, or realize that He is the one the prophets had written about, though they heard the prophets' words read every Sabbath. They found no just cause to execute Him, but asked Pilate to have Him killed anyway. When they had fulfilled all the prophecies concerning His death. He was taken from the cross and placed in a tomb. But God brought Him back to life again! And He was seen many times during the next few days by the men who had accompanied Him to Jerusalem from Galilee -- these men have constantly testified to this public in witness.
"And now Barnabas and I are here to bring you this Good News -- that God's promise to our ancestors has come true in our own time, in that God brought Jesus back to life again. This is what the second Psalm is talking about when it says concerning Jesus, 'Today I have honored You as My Son.' For God had promised to bring Him back to life again, no more to die. This is stated in the Scripture that says, 'I will do for You the wonderful thing I promised David.'
"In another Psalm He explained more fully, saying 'God will not let His Holy One decay.' this was not a reference to David, for after David had served his generation according to the will of God, he died and was buried, and his body decayed. No, it was a reference to another -- Someone God brought back to life, whose body was not touched at all by the ravages of death."
Acts 13:26-37

Fish kills caused by lack of oxygen in hot shallow water

By The Associated Press

High temperatures are leaving thousands of dead fish, mullet, crabs and game fish rotting in Texas lakes and coastal waters, state wildlife officials say.

Authorities say there is little they can do to prevent the summer fish kills, which occur when warm weather makes shallow waters too hot to retain life-supporting oxygen.

Officials with the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife report thousands of dead fish are dying near Lake Monticello in Northeast Texas and Pleasure Island near Port Arthur.

"We've been monitoring the drop in oxygen levels for several weeks. It was only a matter of time," Bob Heitman, a state game warden, said of the Pleasure Island fish kill. "This is no big deal, but some of the fish kills we'll be seeing could be.

"It's an annual occurrence in that south spoils area, and there's nothing anyone can do about it," Heitman said.

Heitman said the dissolved oxygen level in the spoils area had dropped to 2.7 parts per million by Aug. 2. Fish begin to have serious problems when the oxygen level drops below 3 parts per million.

"In some shallow parts of the spoils area, it's probably down to zilch by now," he said.

Allen Forshage, a fishery biologist with the wildlife department, said more than 200,000 dead fish -- mostly threadfin shad -- were found at Lake Monticello near Mount Pleasant by last Friday.

Large numbers of dead fish were spotted July 26 in the lake, and Parks and Wildlife personnel have been keeping tabs on the situation while awaiting test results on the water and fish, Forshage said.

However, the number of dying fish in Lake Monticello seemed to be declining with cooler water temperatures that resulted when cold water was pumped in from Lake Bob Sandlin, Forshage said.

Texas Utilities Generating Co., which operates adjacent to the lake, had been operating two pumps in an effort to cool the lake down.

Heitman predicted that fish kills will spread to Southeast Texas streams within a few days after the next heavy rain washes excess biological material from streets and fields into the waterways.

Bacteria that feed on the biological material multiply, using up oxygen that the fish need to survive.

"We're going to have kills in some Southeast Texas streams, in Taylors Bayou and in others," he said. "Nine out of 10 will be caused by the natural process we're talking about."

Lab tests on the dead fish from Lake Monticello were not complete, Forshage said, so the exact cause of the fish kill has not been determined. But he said, the increase in dying fish seems to accompany rising temperatures.

Another kind of fish kill is caused by dumping toxic pollutants in the water, he said.

A new state law allows the department to set a value on fish killed, and make those responsible pay for the losses. The Trinity River fish that died in one of several recent kills were valued at $297,000.

Many Texas environmentalists and sportsmen believe that a good number of the "natural" fish kills also are avoidable. They blame municipal sewage treatment plants for putting too much incompletely treated sewage into rivers, making them more susceptible to hot-weather fish kills.

The Sportsman's Club of Texas and the Sierra Club recently filed a lawsuit to make federal officials require cities like Dallas to treat its sewage more completely.

The suit alleges the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency hasn't enforced the Federal Clean Water Act in Texas and that leading to some of the recent massive fish kills in the Trinity and other rivers.

BOY WHAT A BIG FAMILY.

The deer family includes about 60 species, ranging in size from the huge Alaska moose down to the Chilean pudu, which is almost as small as a rabbit.
