

Groups Line Up to Fight Bell Rate Increase

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An assortment of government agencies, private companies, trade associations and telephone competitors have lined up to fight the $471.5 million rate increase sought by Southwestern Bell.

The battle begins Sept. 1. Public Utility Commission hearing Examiner Rhonda Ryan on Thursday set the opening date and said the hearing could last up to eight weeks.

Ms. Ryan allowed 26 parties to join the fray as intervenors.

Southwestern Bell's proposal would mean a $4.60 jump in monthly bills for basic residential service.

Company officials claim the actual cost of providing residential service "is at least twice" the revenue received from monthly bills.

"We've improved productivity, held down expenses, increased sales, but continued cost increases, regulatory changes and need for adequate return leave no choice but to seek new rates," said a company release.

However, a lawyer for a long-distance telephone company said Thursday he is not convinced Southwestern Bell is telling the truth about the cost of local service. Ray Besing of MCI said Southwestern Bell wants to increase local rates in an effort to keep long-distance tolls down.

MCI and several other long-distance service providers have cut into Southwestern Bell's long-distance business in recent years.

"We're convinced local exchange service is making a profit," Besing told a reporter.

Besing will try to convince the commission that Southwestern Bell does not need any rate increase. If an increase is granted, Besing said it should be in the form of higher long-distance rates, not bigger monthly bills for local service.

Under the Southwestern Bell request, the largest single portion of the proposed increase — $213.2 million — would come from hikes in local service charges.

In addition to the $4.60 monthly increase, connection charges for new telephones would increase from $43.70 to $63.85 under the proposal.

The package requested by Southwestern Bell would mean an overall increase of 13.4 percent. Monthly bills for business telephones would increase by $1.55 (in Houston) up to $6.55 (in the smallest exchanges). The company wants to decrease the number of free directory assistance calls from 10 to 3, with a 25-cent charge for calls over the limit.

Southwestern Bell went after a $469.8 million increase last year, but the commission approved only $243.7 million. That added $1.70 per month to residential bills. The phone company wanted to add $5.45 per month.

Ms. Ryan said she would approve a "protective order" to allow Southwestern Bell to guard trade secrets. Frank Andrews, lawyer for the Texas Retailers Association, said the protective order sought by Southwestern Bell was "proprietary overkill" and included items which did not warrant protection from disclosure.

The intervenors who will present witnesses and question Southwestern Bell witnesses include several cities, MCI and other long-distance telephone companies, the Texas Retailers Association, American Airlines, the U.S. Department of Defense and General Services Administration, Texas Hospital Association, Texas Alarm and Signal Association and the State Purchasing and General Services Commission.

★★ Bell Drops Old Appeals ★★

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White said today Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has agreed to drop its appeals of 1980 and 1981 rate orders issued by the Public Utility Commission.

White said in a statement the agreement between Bell and the PUC to dismiss the appeals could save customers more than $100 million.

"The agreement has been endorsed and is supported by the Texas Municipal League's Southwestern Bell steering committee as being in the best interest of all cities affected by the agreement," White said.

As part of the agreement, he said, Bell will withdraw its appeal of the 1981 rate order in which it requested $88.9 million in additional revenues and $20.4 million in refunds of temporary rates ordered by the commission.

Also, White said, neither Bell nor the PUC would appeal an April district court decision that denied a claim by Bell for an additional $25 million but upheld Bell claims for approximately $13 million.

The attorney general said the agreement would end all pending litigation between Bell and the PUC.

A price increase has been imposed on the book, which will be sold at the lower original cost of $36.75 only through next week. (Brand Photo).

History Book Price Hiked

Sale of Deaf Smith County history books at the present price of $36.75, will continue only through the coming week because of a price increase by the publisher, Troyce Hanna, chairman of Project County History, has reported.

The new price, effective July 19, will be $57.75 including sales tax.

Mrs. Hanna said the Project office will be open through next Saturday to receive last-minute orders at the current price. If mailed, orders must be postmarked July 17. The office in the E.B. Black Historical House will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"The publisher tells us that with higher printing costs the actual value of a book the size and quality of ours is around $70 now," Mrs. Hanna explained, "so those who buy next week will get their book at about half price."

"We know many people have waited until the deadline for ordering books, but in view of the price hike we certainly recommend ordering now. We will continue book sales at the new higher price until the publisher notifies us of a time limit, but there won't be another opportunity for a bargain."

Orders must be accompanied by payment, as in the past, prospective buyers are reminded. Telephone inquiries may be made to the office, 364-8371. The mailing address is P.O. Drawer 2297.

Volunteer workers in the Project office are doing their final work on the book, which is entitled "The Land and Its People." After they finish proof reading and pasting-up pages, the material will be returned to the publisher for printing and binding.

A comprehensive history of Deaf Smith County from its beginning in 1876, the volume of more than 600 pages will contain numerous photographs with its stories of county settlement, growth, industries and institutions as prepared by numerous writers with special interest in their subjects. There will also be more than 1,200 family histories, most of them written by members of the family.

"We want especially to impress on those who will have such histories in the book that each family member will be likely to want his own copy of the book, so they should consider more than one order while the price is still at $36.75," Mrs. Hanna said.

"Gift copies may be ordered, and gift certificates are available at the office. We're sure the books will be welcome gifts for birthdays, anniversaries, next Christmas or other occasions."

National Rail Strike Averted

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — By invoking his power to temporarily avert a nationwide freight strike, President Reagan is hoping a settlement can be reached in the dispute between 40,000 locomotive engineers and the railroad industry.

Reagan interrupted his vacation at his mountaintop ranch 20 miles from here Thursday to sign an executive order creating a presidential emergency board to investigate the issues.

The president's action, taken three days before a threatened strike, triggers a 60-day cooling off period. Any walkout during that period would violate federal law.

The president's power to forestall a strike is part of the Railway Labor Act.

"It was the president's view that a railroad strike would have an immediate impact on the public," said White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes. "He considers the railroad industry crucial to the U.S. economy."

Reagan signed the order shortly after the National Mediation Board sent him its findings that a strike would virtually shut down rail freight movement in the United States. The contract dispute between the engineers and 10 rail lines centers on pay, work rules, and working conditions, Speakes said. Mediation efforts began last December and ran through May, he said.

"A strike by the BLE (Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers) threatens substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive a section of the country of essential transportation service," said a written statement issued by White House officials in California with the president.

The president is expected to name the three members of the fact-finding board next week. They would have 30 days to study the issues and develop recommendations, and the union and industry then would have 30 days to consider the board's findings.

The engineers had scheduled a walkout for 10:30 p.m. EDT Sunday. Before Reagan's action, Bill Wanke, first vice president of the union, said the union "absolutely" would abide by the no-strike ban and the accompanying cooling off period.

Speakes said a strike would have a "severe impact on Department of Defense material, coal, wheat and inter-city rail passengers." In addition, he said it would increase unemployment by 620,000 after two weeks and by 1.1 million after four weeks.

Speakes said in 1981, 18 percent of the Defense Department's freight traffic went by rail. That figure rose to 25 percent in the first six months of this year.

The press spokesman said the unemployment, already at a post-World War II record of 9.5 percent, would be concentrated in such industries as transportation, primary metals, pulp and paper products and coal.

In addition, he said a strike would affect the nation's balance of payments since export sales of winter wheat amount to $5.5 billion.

OPEC Meeting to Discuss Individual Oil Production

By KENNETH JAUTZ
Associated Press Writer

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries met today in an emergency effort to agree on how much oil each member may produce. Iran promised a stormy session by demanding a bigger share of the market.

Delegates from Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest exporter, and Iraq, Iran's enemy in the nearly 2-year-old Persian Gulf war, rejected the idea that Iran be allowed to exceed its production quota.

"We oppose it flatly," said Iraqi Oil Minister Kasim Hassan Taqi. "Our aim and aspiration is for all member countries to achieve their agreed-upon quotas."

It was the OPEC ministers' second emergency meeting of 1982. Conference sources said the cartel would likely reaffirm its current production ceiling and leave its pricing system unchanged at the $34-a-barrel benchmark.

Shortly after arriving for today's meeting, Iranian Oil Minister Mohammed Gharazi said Iran would not abide by its production limit of 1.2 million barrels a day, and would press for a higher quota.

Gharazi said Iran hoped to increase its production to 3 million barrels a day from the current level of about 2.2 million, and that Saudi Arabia would have to compensate for that increase by cutting its output. Gharazi did not say when Iran expected to reach the higher level.

He told reporters he still approves of OPEC's overall production ceiling of 17.5 million barrels a day, but is seeking a change in Iran's limit.

"We accept the 17.5 (million), but we don't accept our quota," he said. "That is our position."

While two key oil ministers urged earlier this week that production quotas remain unchanged, Venezuela's Humberto Calderon Berti has threatened to break his country's limit if others continued to exceed theirs.

A revolt against OPEC's self-imposed production ceiling could put new downward pressure on the price of oil by increasing supplies worldwide and possibly creating another glut.

Analysts see little chance that OPEC would let the system fall apart now. It has been one of OPEC's biggest successes and was the main reason oil prices stabilized last March. But as prices began rising in April, the temptation grew for OPEC members to sell as much oil as they could.

OPEC's 13 member countries agreed to their first-ever production ceiling in a meeting here March 20. The move was seen as an effort to

Solon Pushes For New Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying he wants to make sure users on Capitol Hill are prosecuted, Rep. Robert K. Dornan is pushing for a second congressional investigation into allegations that some lawmakers were involved with cocaine and illicit sex.

Dornan, a California Republican who allowed his congressional office to be used by an undercover narcotics agent, also says his sources tell him that seven current members of Congress — six in the House and one in the Senate — have been implicated by others as drug users.

The seven lawmakers, along with two former members of Congress, have been named as cocaine users by three separate investigative sources, Dornan said in a letter to Rep. Leo Zefereetti, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control.

Three of the six current House members are from California, one is from New York, one from Massachusetts, and one from the District of Columbia metropolitan area, Dornan said. He did list the state of the senator, nor the states of the two former congressmen.

Dornan also said allegations of homosexual activities with congressional pages have been made against two of the nine supposed cocaine users.

PLO Drops Final Demand

By The Associated Press

The PLO has dropped its demands for a political and military presence in Lebanon — apparently eliminating the last major obstacle to a guerrilla pullout — but Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon still wants to storm west Beirut, a key mediator said today.

"They have dropped the conditions," former Prime Minister Saeb Salam told The Associated Press at his west Beirut mansion. "The more they drop, however, the more Sharon asks. Sharon is totally intent on his military plan. He wants to exterminate the PLO and thousands of people in Beirut."

As he spoke, Israeli tanks and guerrilla rocket launchers exchanged barrages around Beirut's paralyzed airport and the nearby Bourj el Barajneh camp. The Tel Aviv command said Israeli forces also traded sporadic gunfire with Syrian troops in eastern Lebanon.

Most of the 30,000 Syrian troops dispatched to Lebanon six years ago to police the armistice that ended the 1975-76 Moslem-Christian civil war have regrouped in eastern Lebanon following bloody clashes with the Israelis during the first weeks of the 5-week-old invasion.

Salam said the PLO wants to go overland from Beirut to Syria, but the guerrilla group's military leader, Saad Sayel, told the Voice of

Jury Indicts DPS Officer

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted a Department of Public Safety narcotics officer on perjury charges in connection with his testimony in the racketeering trial of millionaire Rex Cauble.

Ben Arlan Neel, 45, of Denton, a 24-year DPS veteran, was indicted Thursday on charges that he lied when he said he did not know a convicted drug trafficker. Neel gave the testimony as a defense witness on two separate occasions during Cauble's trial.

The Denton rancher-businessman later was sentenced to five years in prison for his role in a drug-smuggling ring that operated from Colombia to Texas. Neel perjured himself when he testified on Jan. 26 in federal court that he did not know Raymond Hawkins, a prosecution witness and convicted trafficker, the indictment alleged.

The veteran DPS narcotics officer also was accused of making a false statement when he denied knowing of accusations against Charles "Muscles" Foster — Cauble's ranch foreman — Hawkins, and another man.

The indictment also contained three other counts alleging Neel lied under oath as a witness before a federal grand jury on May 26.

G. Brockett Irwin of Longview, Cauble's lawyer, was unavailable for comment on the indictment, which

Worker Sentenced For Poisoning Factory Coffee

PAMPA, Texas (AP) — A state district judge has sentenced a 37-year-old factory worker to a year's probation and fined her $1,000 for putting arsenic in a coffee pot used by the midnight shift.

Leta Louise Jones, who had been charged with attempted murder, made an agreement with prosecutors and pleaded guilty Thursday to the lesser charge of assault.

The plea bargain was made just one day after jury selection began in her trial before State District Judge Don Cain.

Prosecutors alleged the poisoning incident stemmed from a quarrel between Ms. Jones and her boyfriend, Rivest Landry III.

Landry, 33, was one of the eight workers at the Cabot Carbon Black plant who became ill after drinking the arsenic-laced coffee. Ms. Jones was charged with his attempted murder.

None of the workers required hospitalization.

Authorities said arsenic is not used in any chemical operations at the carbon black plant, but was readily available in rat poisons and pesticides.

Britons Plead Guilty To Arms Smuggling

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has given two Britons who pleaded guilty to attempting to smuggle combat arms to South Africa one week to pay their $100,000 fines.

U.S. District Judge Gabrielle McDonald sentenced Peter Towers and John Parks on Thursday to five years' unsupervised probation and said the pair will be allowed to return to their homes if the penalty is paid by July 16.

When Israeli invaded June 6 it was believed the operation would be a limited to pushing the guerrillas back from the border, but Israel's deputy chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Moshe Levy, said Thursday that Israeli forces were girding for a long stay, possibly through winter.

There was no comment on the reported dropping of PLO conditions either from Israel or the Palestine Liberation Organization, which has been negotiating through Salam and Lebanese Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan to arrange a pullout of the estimated 8,000 guerrillas to stave off an assault by Israeli forces.

Zerferetti, Dornan, a member of the House narcotics committee, suggested the panel conduct its own probe, according to syndicated columnist Jack Anderson.

He said he wanted a separate probe because he feared federal law officials would concentrate on the pushers and ignore the users of cocaine in Congress.

Dornan could not be reached for comment, but his office acknowledged that he had sent such a letter to Zerferetti. There was no immediate comment from Zerferetti.

Meanwhile, in Little Rock, Ark., 18-year-old former page LeRoy Williams elaborated on his account of arranging an appointment for a senator with a male prostitute and in engaging in sexual acts himself with a congressman.

In an interview taped Wednesday after questioning by the FBI, and broadcast Thursday by television station KARK-TV, Williams said he gave the names of three members of the House and a senator to the FBI. He repeated the names for the station, but they were deleted from the broadcast.

Williams said he had been given a lie detector test. NBC-TV reported Thursday that Bob Scott, Williams' attorney, said he had learned his client failed a lie detector test. Scott could not be reached for further comment Thursday night.

The House ethics committee already has started its own investigation of the allegations that some congressmen have been using cocaine and that others allegedly were involved in homosexual sex with the young pages who carry messages for Congress.

keep prices and demand steady in the face of a continued worldwide oil glut.

On Wednesday, United Arab Emirates Oil Minister Mana Saad Oteiba charged that some members had been exceeding their ceilings in recent weeks.

Their overproduction, he said, was a primary reason for the continued "softness" in worldwide oil markets.

Oteiba said ministers at today's session should urge OPEC's offenders to comply with their limits.

Officers

came six months after Cauble's Jan. 28 conviction. Irwin had planned to appeal Cauble's conviction.

The DPS officer testified during the trial that he had not known of any drug investigations involving Cauble's Denton ranching empire. He also said Cauble often supplied money and the use of his airplane for DPS drug investigations.

The first count of the indictment, announced by U.S. Attorney Robert Wortham, charged Neel with making false statements to a prosecution question.

"I'll ask you if in the years 1976, 1977, and 1978 in your capacity as a narcotics officer, if you came to know or hear of a man named Raymond Hawkins," the indictment read, quoting from questioning during the trial.

"No, I did not," Neel replied.

It was common knowledge in Denton and Cook counties that Hawkins was involved in drug smuggling, prosecutors said. Hawkins testified during the trial that he had discussed a smuggling operation involving shrimp boats with Cauble in 1977.

Count two of the indictment said Neel knew or should have known of an investigation involving Hawkins, Towers, 52, and Parks, 44, were arrested May 12, 1981, at Houston International Airport as the arms shipment was being loaded on a jet destined for South Africa, prosecutors said.

South Africa has been under a United Nations arms embargo since 1977 because of its racial policies.

U.S. Customs agents seized 1,146 rifles, 100 grenade launchers, 111 .45-caliber automatic pistols and 15,000 cartridge magazines valued at $1.2 million, prosecutors said.

The two men pleaded guilty in May to one count of attempting to export weapons without a license after the government agreed to drop 23 related charges.

When they were arrested, Parks and Towers said they were consultants for Servotech, a company registered in Leichtenstein and the Sudan.

The company put up the $110,000 bonds for the two men and will allow them to use the money to pay the fines, defense attorneys said.

Mechanized Sled Used In Tests For Astronauts

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A device resembling an amusement park ride instead of a scientific tool is being used to try to help scientists learn what causes motion sickness.

Recent complaint by astronauts about queasy stomachs inspired the project, which is being conducted by researchers from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Byron Lyctenburg, a payload specialist and candidate for future space flights, was strapped into a mechanized sled Thursday take a series of about 100 rides during the next two weeks, said test manager James Evans.

The tests are designed to gauge Lyctenburg's reactions to linear acceleration and to measure the response of the vestibular system, or the part of the inner ear controlling the body's reaction to motion.

The information will be compared with data recorded from astronauts in space or just returned to earth, said Jerry Homick, a space center psychologist and a specialist in the effects of space flight.

"The vestibular system is very much a part of this whole process of motion sickness," Homick said. "By learning more about how it works and how it may change its function in weightlessness, it may begin to give us some insight into the mechanisms that are involved."

Lyctenburg's trips down the 16-foot rail will be tame compared to most that he could take in an amusement park. The device can accelerate to about 15 mph in a half-second, researchers said.

"The sled is designed to get up to only about a half-G," or half the force of gravity as felt on Earth, Homick said.

Haig Admitted For Annual Checkup

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Secretary of State Alexander Haig has been admitted to St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital for his annual physical examination, a hospital spokesman says.

Haig, accompanied by his wife, several aides and Secret Service agents, checked into the hospital Thursday night. He was expected to leave sometime today, said Pat Kiley, assistant hospital administrator.

Haig, whose tenure with the Reagan administration formally ended Monday, underwent open heart surgery here in April 1980. Crises in the Falkland Islands and the Middle East forced Haig to postpone this year's checkup five times, Kiley said.

Haig resigned his post last month, saying the nation's foreign policy strategy had strayed off course.

Doctor Claims Arterial Treatment Is Effective

HOUSTON (AP) — A medical researcher says administering an old drug into arteries, rather than veins, has proven startlingly effective in treating advanced colon cancer.

The results have prompted a medical group to seek federal approval to use the method to treat brain cancer, said Dr. Daniel Lehane, director of oncology at the Houston Veterans Administration Medical Center.

The drug, cis-platinum, has been surprisingly effective when infused into the arteries of patients extremely ill with colon cancer, Lehane said Thursday.

In 27 of 36 patients, the drug caused metastatic tumors to shrink by more than 30 percent, he said. The level of success with more conventional treatment in similarly ill patients is 10 or 20 percent, he said.

Metastatic tumors are those formed after the cancer has spread from its primary host organ.

The Southwest Oncology Group is seeking permission from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to use the method for treating advanced and uncontrollable brain cancers, Lehane said. He said the proposal had to be reviewed at several levels.

The advantage of arterial infusion — a process that has been used before with less success — is that it is direct, Lehane said.

"When you inject it into the artery, you can bypass the heart and squirt it in just as the blood is arriving at the tumor," he said.

The easiest type of injection, into a vein in the arm, dilutes the medication by forcing it to circulate through the system, Lehane said.

"You wind up getting a lower concentration to the area where it needs to go" with the intravenous injection, Lehane said. With arterial infusion, he said, "we're giving as much as people can stand in order to get a high concentration of drug to the tumors."

Previously, arterial infusion has not been successful because catheters have been inserted for several weeks,

Williams Stands By Story Even Though Failed Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former House page LeRoy Williams, who maintains he arranged an appointment for a senator with a male prostitute and himself engaged in sexual acts with a congressman, stood by his story today even though he flunked an FBI lie detector test.

Williams told an Arkansas TV station Thursday after the test that he had given the FBI the names of three House members and a senator.

But the examiner who conducted the test, Williams said on NBC's "Today" show, "stated that I flat-out flunked the test, that he felt like I should right then turn my story around and tell the truth." He said the examiner was "biased."

Foster and another man. But Neel said he did not.

"Neel has been assigned to office duty until further notice due to the federal indictment," said DPS spokesman Larry Todd in Austin. "He will continue in the narcotics service and will perform administrative duties until further notice."

Todd said Neel currently is stationed with the DPS office in Hurst.

Reapportionment Challenges Occurring In Record Numbers

By ROBERT BYRD
Associated Press Writer

Twenty-two states need federal government approval to reshape all or part of their congressional and state legislative districts to conform to the 1980 census, and the Justice Department has rejected or forced changes in these electoral plans in record numbers.

Georgia and Mississippi have sued in federal court for the right to draw their own congressional lines after their plans were turned down under provisions of the recently renewed Voting Rights Act of 1965, and many other states are clashing with the federal government.

"So far in this review period, we have rejected more than we did in the complete review in the '70 census — and we're only halfway through," says Justice Department spokesman John V. Wilson.

Some state officials say there is confusion about what the Justice Department's standards are, but Wilson says the reason plans are being rejected is simple: "They discriminate against minorities."

Under the Voting Rights Act, extended for 25 years in a White House signing ceremony June 29, areas found to have discriminated in the past must have Justice Department approval of election law changes before they can go into effect.

The preclearance provision, designed to prevent states from limiting minority officeholders through gerrymandering or by making it hard for minorities to vote, covers all of nine states — Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia in the South, plus Arizona and Alaska — and parts of 13 others.

According to Carl Gable, who tracks reapportionment cases for the Justice Department in Washington, as of this week new congressional districts have been approved — in some cases after challenges and negotiation — in Alabama, Arizona, Louisiana, North Carolina, New York, Virginia, New Hampshire, California, Connecticut, Florida and Massachusetts.

Georgia and Mississippi are appealing the Justice Department challenges to federal district court, and federal judges redrew district lines following challenges in Texas, South Carolina and Colorado.

A review of Hawaii's proposed lines is pending. Michigan and Idaho have not submitted plans; Alaska, South Dakota and Wyoming will have only one congressman each, elected at large.

A decade ago, only Georgia and New York saw their Congressional plans scrapped.

The situation at the state legislative level is even less settled, according to Gable, with approval for both houses of the legislature, again following objections in some cases, achieved in only nine states: Alaska, Colorado, Connecticut, South Dakota, Georgia, North Carolina, New York, Virginia and Arizona.

"The states and jurisdictions are reflecting the mood of the times, making efforts to dilute black voting strength," said Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. "The Justice Department is reacting to this."

Frank R. Parker, director of the Voting Rights Project of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, gives the government credit for "doing a more effective job of protecting minority voting rights."

"During the Nixon administration, the Justice Department was deferring to the district courts on those decisions. Now the Justice Department is making an independent review of all the plans submitted," he said.

William Bradford Reynolds, assistant attorney general for civil rights, said the department has found little evidence of blatant, intentional discrimination.

"In most instances, the legislatures did not set out to draw discriminatory districts," he said in a recent statement. "However, in many cases, the legislative process resulted in plans that had a diluting effect on minority voting strength. Almost without exception, we have found state authorities to understand our concerns and be willing to meet them."

A major issue in the Voting Rights extension battle was whether a plan could be thrown out if its effect was discriminatory, or whether intentional discrimination would have to be shown. The Senate agreed to the effects test.

In Georgia, state Attorney General Michael Bowers was not willing to give in on congressional redistricting in Atlanta, where the Justice Department says a district putting blacks in a slight majority nonetheless discriminates against black voters. Some civil rights advocates believe minorities should make up 70 to 80 percent of a district to assure election of a minority candidate.

Georgia argued its case in federal district court in Washington "because of the importance of the interests we are trying to vindicate — our own ability to determine how our political power is going to be exercised," Bowers said. A decision is pending.

Andrea J. Wollock, who tracks reapportionment for the National Conference of State Legislatures, thinks lawmakers may be unaware of what they have to do to satisfy the law.

The states "don't always know what percentages (of minorities in a district) will be accepted," said Ms. Wollock. "We've put on a number of seminars and had Justice Department officials come in and speak. They're hesitant to give any kind of guidance."

Federal judges have also come under fire for the way they have remapped districts after Justice Department objections.

"I think we have a clear case of some federal judges with their bias showing," said Texas Gov. Bill Clements after a three-judge federal panel redrew congressional lines in metropolitan Dallas, even though the Justice Department had objected only to lines in Hispanic districts in south Texas.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled the court exceeded its jurisdiction in that case, but the lines will stand for the 1982 election and be redrawn by the Legislature next year.

Broken Window Reported

Hereford police had a slow day Thursday with a $10 broken window at 117 Avenue B and a minor traffic accident at Park and McKinley being the only reports filed. Officers also issued 14 citations.

One vehicle is stolen every six minutes in Texas. The motives for these thefts vary from joyriding, stripping and reselling the vehicles, to a means of committing additional crimes.

Auto theft rings steal over 80,000 cars annually in our state. Last year alone, 350 million dollars worth of vehicles were reported stolen. Car thieves, like home burglars, generally have an easy time of it. Their thievery is made simple by car owners who obligingly leave doors unlocked, which occurs in four out of five cases of auto theft, or who leave keys in the ignition, which occurs in one out of five cases.

Vehicle theft is a serious crime that affects the entire community and results in higher insurance rates, property damage, injuries and loss of life from accidents. This crime has reached such serious proportions that it can no longer be controlled by law enforcement alone. Every citizen must exercise greater care over their property, thus preventing unnecessary crimes caused by carelessness.

For the month of July, 1982, the Crime Stoppers Advisory Council is focusing its statewide "Crime of the Month" on auto theft. Any citizen having information about auto theft rings is encouraged to call the anti-crime hotline at 1-800-252-TIPS. Cash rewards are available for information leading to the arrest and indictment of these criminals.

Help meet this problem head on by locking your car and pocketing the key. This can greatly reduce your chances of losing your vehicle to these thieves. Call 1-800-252-TIPS today and put an end to this activity in Texas.

Navy Investigating Aerial Training Crash

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — It may take investigators six months to determine the deadly mistake that sent two Navy training planes hurtling into each other, Navy officials say.

The Beechcraft T-44A turboprops collided in flight Thursday and fell in flames into a grain field, killing two instructors and four student pilots aboard the aircraft.

"It's like putting together a puzzle," said Lt. Cmdr. Mary Wilson, a spokeswoman for the Naval Air Training Command.

Dr. Joseph Rupp, the Nueces County Medical Examiner, said the badly burned bodies of five men and a woman were pulled from the twisted wreckage that landed on either side of a mobile home.

The Navy withheld the identity of the victims until it could notify next of kin.

An on-site inventory of the debris, scattered over a one-eighth mile area, was completed Thursday and small pieces were taken to a hangar at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station for use in the investigation, Mrs. Wilson said.

Larger metal pieces will be analyzed for stress and metal fatigue at an engineering laboratory, she said.

Investigators, she said, also are reviewing voice transmissions recorded before the crash.

Assistant Fire Chief E.E. Irwin said witnesses said one plane came apart in the air and the other was mostly intact when it hit the ground, exploded and burst into flames.

"It just fell. It exploded two or three times," said Elena Rodriguez, who could see one of the planes crash from her home 200 yards away.

"It was like slow motion. It was like a movie. The plane dove straight down to the ground," said Nina Wilde, 33, who saw one of the planes fall.

Navy crash trucks put foam on the burning wreckage and extinguished the fire quickly, said Irwin.

The planes are propeller-driven aircraft the Navy uses to train advanced students, said Ensign Jeff Herman.

He said the collision was two miles south of Cabanis Field, an auxiliary landing site south of the air station. He said the field is used for touch-and-go landing training for T-44A student pilots.

An NAS spokesman said both planes were operating under visual flight rules and without positive radar control.

Ann Landers

If Real, Love Will Stand Test

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm so ashamed I can hardly hold my head up. Last night my boyfriend went too far. Not all the way, but nearly. We were in the rec room downstairs and the lights were off. Mom thought we were still out to a movie. She came downstairs with a flashlight because she heard a noise. Well - she caught us. She looked so hurt it nearly killed me. Thank heaven she was calm and didn't yell or anything. She asked Don to leave while she talked to me. He insisted on staying for the lecture, insisting it was more his fault than mine. Honestly, Ann, he was wonderful. He apologized and asked Mom to give us another chance. He promised he would never do anything like that again if she would let us keep seeing each other. Her decision was that we could date, but not steady. She said I'd have to go out with other boys and that Don should date other girls.

I don't want to go out with anyone else. We are both 17 and have been going steady for 14 months. Please help us convince Mom that we can be trusted and she should give us another chance. - Hendersonville Heartbreak

DEAR HEART: Maybe you two are like the worm in a jar of horseradish - you think it's the sweetest place in the world because it's the only place you've ever been.

I agree with your mom. If your love is real, it will stand the test of time and you'll appreciate each other even more.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of a mother who would make a 4 1/2 year-old sit at a table for three hours because the child would not eat all his vegetables?

The mother says the boy is stubborn and willful and if she lets him win this battle, he will always fight her to get the upper hand.

Your evaluation of this tug-of-war would be greatly appreciated. - Lone Star Question

DEAR STAR: A child who is forced to sit at a table for three hours as punishment for not eating his vegetables will probably despise vegetables for the rest of his life.

Moreover, a mother who engages in a battle of wills with a 4 1/2-year-old is behaving like a pre-adolescent. She needs to discuss her problem with a professional and soon. Unless she gets some help, she's going to have more serious problems than his refusal to eat vegetables.

DEAR ANN: Last night my girls, ages six and seven, spent the night at their Grandmom's. Today they reported Grandmom told them that Grandpop used to beat her, he had lots of girlfriends and was drunk all the time.

My father lives in a different state and we only see him maybe twice a year. He has been sober since 1972 and is a different person. I've done my best to put the hurts behind. My daughters love both him and my mother, but now they feel guilty and confused because Grandmom has told them all these terrible things.

What should I say to my mother? I don't want her to talk against my father ever again. Would it be best if I didn't say anything and put a stop to the girls' spending the night with her? Please guide me. - Anxious In Alexandria

DEAR ALEXANDRIA: Tell your mother exactly what you told me. Explain that you don't want to deprive her OR your daughters of the pleasure of the overnight visits but you must and will if she utters one more word to the girls against their grandfather.

Today In History

Associated Press

Today is Friday, July 9, the 190th day of 1982. There are 175 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On July 9, 1971, the last U-S base guarding the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam was turned over to South Vietnamese troops.

Also on this date:

In 1882, the British Royal Navy bombarded Alexandria in Egypt.

In 1947, the engagement of England's Princess Elizabeth to Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten was announced.

In 1978, Israel rejected an Egyptian peace plan calling for Israeli withdrawal from the West bank and Gaza Strip.

And in 1980, President Jimmy Carter and China's Premier Hua Guofeng held their first formal talks in Tokyo, with the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan topping the agenda.

Ten years ago: the provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army ended a cease-fire in Northern Ireland after two weeks. It happened when shooting broke out in Belfast between IRA and British troops.

Five years ago: a Soviet commentator denounced a proposed American neutron bomb as inconsistent with President Carter's stand on human rights.

One year ago: it was announced that hundreds of thousands of fertile Mediterranean fruit flies, thought to be sterile, had been released in California the month before, posing a threat to the state's $14-billion produce crop.

Today's birthdays: King Hassan of Morocco is 53 years old. Actor and former football star O.J. Simpson is 35.

Thought for today: we are here, and it is now. Further than that, all human knowledge is moonshine. - H.L. Mencken, American newsman (1880-1956).

Couple Shocked By $999 Cab Fare

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Two Algerian tourists say they were taken for a ride — a 15-hour odyssey across Texas in a taxicab.

What began as a leisurely cab trip from the airport to a relative's home turned into a mind-boggling tour of the Lone Star State. Then they were asked for the fare.

The tab was $999 for the trip from Houston to Odessa, with detours to Galveston and Dallas.

Kheira and M'hamed Mahellem had hailed the cab to take them from Houston Intercontinental Airport to Mrs. Mahellem's brother in this West Texas city.

The couple, who speak little English, said they thought Odessa would be only a short ride from the airport — perhaps a $20 fare — not 500 miles to the northwest.

So they hailed a cab and told the driver where they were going.

The cab driver said he wasn't exactly sure where Odessa was. So he drove to the West Texas city via Galveston and Dallas.

Galveston is a Gulf Coast island city about 50 miles southeast of Houston. Dallas is 240 miles north of Houston and 350 miles east of Odessa.

The journey left the Mahallems penniless. Algerian government regulations prohibit travelers from taking more than $150 each out of the country.

Mrs. Mahellem told the Odessa American in a copyright story Thursday that she and her husband gave the driver $300 — all of their money.

She said the couple had left Algeria and flew to Paris

June 30. They arrived in Houston July 1. When Kheira Mahellem found her brother, Abdelkader Kouider, was not at home, she decided to take a cab and surprise the relatives.

Rather than wait several hours for him to return from work, the Mahallems decided to take a cab and surprise him.

"She was very excited and wanted to see her brother," Rosemary Kouider said.

"They had been flying all day from Algeria to Paris to New York to Houston, and were exhausted."

But the Algerian couple became frightened after several hours in the cab.

"Where is Odessa, where is Odessa?" they repeatedly asked the driver.

Mrs. Kouider says she was shocked when she learned that the cab had come from Houston — not from the Midland-Odessa Airport.

"I thought I would die," Mrs. Kouider said.

The cab driver called the Kouiders July 2 for directions to their northeast-side apartment.

The Odessa couple said they told the driver they could not possibly afford to pay him $999 for cab fare.

The cab driver settled for $320 and left after the Kouiders threatened to call the police. Mrs. Kouider said the driver told her he did not question the Houston-Odessa fare because he thought M'hamed Mahellem was "one of those eccentric people who didn't want to wait for a bus or plane."

The Mahallems do not plan to try to get their money back, Mrs. Kouider said.

Happy Birthday!

Vada Barton, a resident of Westgate Nursing Home, was wished a happy 95th birthday today by four great-great-grandchildren in addition to greetings from other relatives. In her lap is Kent Cleavinger, on the right is Ty Cleavinger, and on the left is Codi Cleavinger, all from Wildorado. In Codi's lap is Jeni Pippin, from ElSobrante, Calif., and standing behind them is Christy Cleavinger of Lubbock, Mrs. Barton's great-granddaughter. Palo Duro Baptist Church in Wildorado hosted a birthday reception at Westgate Thursday afternoon.

Animals Left In Lap Of Luxury By Owners

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Bandt, a Russian wolfhound, spent the morning watching television at the D-FW Pet Resort. It made him hungry.

He had a big lunch: an appetizer of braised chicken livers with a dollop of sour cream, followed by smothered steak, Louisiana dirty rice, and steamed yellow squash with butter. For dessert, butter pecan ice cream with strawberries.

Sugar, a Lhaso Apso in for her weekly grooming and fashion makeover, had the dieter's special: grilled chicken patties with cottage cheese, doggie kisses for dessert.

In the cathouse, Twinkie and Kimbo were still deciding. An appetizer of deviled eggs, cheese or sardines? Some clam chowder or oyster bisque? Or a simple tuna casserole or filet of sole?

Nearby in the stable, Misty munched her carrot crunch, barley mash, deep-dish pellet pie, and a candied apple.

But good grub isn't the only amenity at the 10-acre "pet hotel" near the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

Kennel accommodations are posh "roomettes" and "suites" with theme interiors. The Villa Del Mar wing, for example, has a photo mural of the Spanish Costa del Sol, candle sconces on stucco walls, Spanish tile trim, and wrought iron gates.

In The Cabanas wing, coddled canines loll under yellow canvas canopies in rooms papered in yellow-and-orange stripes. There are palms and seashells.

The chi-chi Le Boudoir wing (ladies only) is elegantly appointed with French silk moire drapes, crystal chandeliers, and French Impressionist prints.

The Japanese Pagoda wing, still incomplete, will have fountains and a Japanese garden.

Roomette and suite rates run from $15 to $35 a day, depending on room size and whether it has windows. There's also the no-frills economy cage in the garage of the converted ranch-style house that is resort headquarters.

Rates include walking and exercise three times daily, meals from the menu or to owners' orders, and time with attendants in the den: lounging on the furniture, playing ball, watching TV or listening to the stereo.

"We wanted it to be just like at home. There are owners who actually ask that their pets get in their TV time," said Fran Gresham, a fashion and interior designer who is a partner in the pet resort with Deana Butler, who had owned kennels in Kansas City before moving to Texas last year.

The resort has a grooming salon, and a whirlpool bath for dogs. There is dog training, English and western horseback riding, and jumping lessons.

Blamed on Dowry-System Payments

'Bride Burnings' Reported On Increase in New Delhi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Bharati Narula, a 20-year-old newlywed, rushed screaming into the street from her New Delhi home last month, her clothes aflame. "God save me, I'm being burned," she cried before collapsing.

Ms. Narula was the latest victim on a growing list of young Indian women to die from burns after their parents failed to pay promised dowries or were unable to meet demands by in-laws for more money or goods.

Authorities estimate that as many as 400 newly married wives died of burns last year in New Delhi. Many of their in-laws say the deaths were cooking accidents but some parents call the burnings cold-blooded slayings.

In Ms. Narula's case, her husband, her mother-in-law and her father-in-law are in jail, awaiting trial on murder charges. They are accused of pouring kerosene on the young woman's clothing and setting her on fire.

There have been only a handful of arrests in connection with the deaths. In most "bride burnings," the assailants go free because of lack of evidence, authorities say.

The deaths of Ms. Narula and eight other women in New Delhi during June triggered weekly demonstrations by several women's organizations that formed an anti-dowry committee.

Chanting slogans like "Brides are not for burning," "Marriage is not a commercial transaction" and "Send murderers to the gallows," these activists have staged noisy protests outside houses where young women were fatally burned.

They are concentrating their efforts on organizing street-corner meetings and marches to create a greater awareness among women of their rights and force authorities to punish those responsible for the burnings.

"Increased public revulsion against bride burning has not been matched by any change in the traditionally lackadaisical attitude of police," the Times of India said in a recent editorial. "There is nothing to show that they are either more vigilant with a view to preventing bride burning or more energetic in investigating cases."

The Dowry Prohibition Act of 1961 forbids giving a dowry or accepting it, with penalties of six months in prison and fines. However, the custom seems to be growing, particularly among the urban middle class.

A dowry is usually paid in cash, clothes, jewelry, electric appliances and household furnishings. According to a government survey, the size of a dowry is based on a man's education, social standing and job. The higher he ranks in all three categories, the larger the dowry his family can command.

Members of the elite government services — the Indian Administrative Service (IAS) and the Indian Foreign Service (IFS) — are the most sought-after bachelors, commanding up to $40,000. They are followed by doctors and engineers, who get up to $35,000, according to the Women's Vigilance Forum, a women's rights group.

Strong social pressures on parents to arrange marriages for their daughters before they graduate from college and the difficulty in finding good bridegrooms from the same social caste enable the dowry custom to flourish.

"The increasing demands for gifts and ostentatious weddings impose a tremendous strain on the family finances and expose young girls to an extremely unfair competition in which their own worth is hardly recognized," the National Commission on the Status of Women has reported.

Marriage in India's male-dominated Hindu society of 700 million people is not just the union of a man and a woman but a sacred act cementing a network of kinship and social ties. A woman would face social embarrassment and stigma if she were to leave her husband's family and return to her parents during a dowry dispute.

Consequently the bride has little escape from dowry harassment by in-laws. A recent government study estimated that thousands of young women are driven to suicide every year because of the country's dowry system.

Loans Needed By Small Business

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas small business owners need a way to get loans at the lower interest rates available to larger businesses, according to a gubernatorial task force.

Gov. Bill Clements Task Force on Small Business on Thursday recommended the creation of a "small business loan pool" funded in part by the franchise tax paid by corporations. Under the proposal, a corporation could choose to pay 20 percent of its franchise tax into the pool.

"The task force feels that the greatest need of a small business is the ability to secure funds at the same favorable rates as larger companies," the task force told Clements.

The pool money would be held by participating banks, which would use it to cover 30 percent of the loans. The rest of the money would come from the bank.

A task force subcommittee reported that 80 percent of all businesses fail within the first five years because of "undercapitalization."

"Small businesses do not have the ability to secure loans at favorable interest rates; contrary to their larger counterparts, a small business must often borrow funds at the current market rate or at higher rates," the report said.

Texas collected $417.4 million in franchise taxes in 1981. The tax is calculated as a percentage of assets or profits. John Moore, spokesman for the Comptroller's Office, said the minimum tax is $55 a year.

Franchise tax revenue lost through the program would be more than made up to the state by increased sales tax collections, the task force said.

The panel said there are about 260,000 small businesses in Texas. A small business was defined as one having fewer than 100 employees or less than $1 million in annual gross receipts. The small businesses account for 80 percent of all businesses in the state, according to the report.

Clements also was told in the report that Texas universities and schools should add courses concerning small business. The task force members also called for the establishment of Small Business Development Centers in metropolitan areas to aid owners of small businesses.

Also proposed was a state panel to review rules adopted by state agencies that regulate small businesses.

Wyoming was the first state to allow women to vote.

Why Larry Holmes Isn't Hero

By Murray Olderman

EASTON, Pa. (NEA) — Larry Holmes, who continues to complain biliously that he doesn't get the acclaim he deserves as heavyweight champion of the world, has a personality problem that affects his public image and keeps him from the admiration he covets.

It's most apparent when he confronts the media. He is patronizing and condescending, when he's not downright hostile.

Holmes, victor against Gerry Cooney in his latest WBC title defense, tries to be funny, like Muhammad Ali was at times. Ali could carry it off because even when he was at his most preposterous there was a twinkle of humor evident. Holmes, instead, exposes a blade of sarcasm that makes him ingratious.

He tries to be philosophical, with long, rambling discourses, but the bitterness in him seeps through while he loses the train of thought in circumlocution. The seventh-grade education that he frequently alludes to shows up in his syntax.

Holmes tries to be humble, but he can't because that's not how he really feels. He wants you to know, "I got more smarts in my little finger than most people get in a lifetime." And says so arrogantly.

You don't have to knock people over the head with subjective proclamations of greatness. Ali wore thin with that ploy.

Holmes could learn a lesson from an old champion like Jack Dempsey, who had rough edges, too, but knew instinctively that his record was a much more effective spokesman than his mouth. The late Joe Louis had that innate bearing, too, the facility for keeping his mouth shut, compressing his feelings into a few meaningful words.

Holmes — spurred on by the bombastic Don King, his promoter-manager who keeps harping on the fact that "this man does not get his due" — comes across as petulant when he complains about his lack of recognition.

People whose opinions I respect tell me that in private, or one-on-one in a relaxed setting, Holmes is an OK guy who is ingratiating. But that's not the man you see in public.

He was defensive after his convincing triumph over challenger Gerry Cooney in the biggest money fight in boxing history. "I'm very sorry to not be what you expect," he said. "I'm sorry I'm not a Muhammad Ali or a Joe Louis or a Leon Spinks." Leon Spinks? No apologies are needed.

If Holmes were to re-examine his position as heavyweight champion, he would understand that acceptance has already come to him. Since John L. Sullivan brought boxing out of the bare knuckle era exactly 100 years ago, there have been 32 different heavyweight champions of the world (including the divisive WBA and WBC versions of recent years).

Among them, I would list only seven who, at this stage, could be rated above Holmes. They are Jack Johnson, Dempsey, Louis, Rocky Marciano, Sonny Liston, Ali and Joe Frazier. And I'm not too sure about Liston and Frazier.

Size would have given Holmes an edge if he had fought men like Dempsey and Marciano, who were really tiny compared to modern heavyweights. They frequently weighed in the 185-pound range for their bouts. Holmes is a big heavyweight, at 6-foot-3 and anywhere from 212 to 220 pounds.

He moves well for his size. He is a smart tactician in the ring. He has a potent left jab and a sharp, punishing overhand right.

Some people fault his ability to take a punch because he has been knocked down by such as Renaldo Snipes. But such lapses are due more to carelessness than a vulnerable chin. After all, Louis was knocked down by a lot of bums, too, going back to

Two-ton Tony Galento. Even the indestructible Marciano was put on the floor by Archie Moore, a puffed-up old light heavyweight. The fact is, Holmes reacts well when he is in trouble, as demonstrated in his bouts with Earnie Shavers and Mike Weaver.

The main rap against Holmes is that he is not an exciting fighter. As a craftsman, he resembles the late Ezzard Charles, another champ who suffered from lack of appreciation. Holmes doesn't take people out with one punch because he is not that type of slugger.

The Cooney fight was a perfect example of the Holmes style — slick boxing and movement to neutralize Cooney's chief weapon, a left hook, annoying jabs and stinging rights to wear down Cooney and bring him to the point of helplessness.

At 32, closing out a decade as a professional fighter, Holmes shows some signs of being ready to be taken. Pride rather than hunger is his motivation now.

Discounting a possible rematch with Cooney, only two men shape up as logical opponents. He could fight Mike Weaver, who holds the WBA title, or young challenger Michael Dokes. He has already beaten Weaver, and Dokes doesn't appear as a menacing threat.

Holmes has an excellent chance of becoming the second man to go through his entire pro career without losing a fight. Rocky Marciano was the other.

Holmes would be smart to let that record stand as testimony to his qualities as a fighter.

Italy, Germans In Cup Finals

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Blood, sweat and tears ushered Italy and West Germany past desperate opposition into the final of the World Cup and a showdown Sunday for global soccer supremacy.

West Germany reached the finale, with a 5-4 sudden-death victory over France Thursday night in Seville. The teams had fought to a 1-1 draw in regulation and it was 3-3 after a 30-minute overtime.

Horst Hrubesch scored the fifth German goal in the penalty-kick, tiebreaker session to eliminate France.

In sweltering Barcelona, Italy's Paolo Rossi continued his fairytale comeback as by firing two goals to beat Poland 2-0 in the afternoon match. France and Poland, who have never been in a World Cup final, play for third place Saturday in Alicante.

In Rome, celebrating Italian fans stopped traffic and threw women into the Trevi fountain.

It will be the fourth finale for both teams. Italy won in 1934 and 1938 and West Germany in 1954 and 1974.

In the nerve-wrecking contest which lasted until nearly midnight, France looked like a winner after pulling ahead 3-1 in the overtime. But West Germany got a goal from its leader, Karl-Heinz Rummenigge, who had sat out the first 90 minutes with a thigh injury, and then pulled level at 3-3 on a goal by Klaus Fischer.

The penalty contest — in which each team was allotted five kicks — was filled with

Lasorda, Feeney Happy With All-Star Selections

NEW YORK (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda has no complaints about the National League squad he will manage in Tuesday night's All-Star Game.

"(NL President) Chub Feeney and I are very happy with the team we have selected," said Lasorda, who will attempt to extend the league's ten-game winning streak over the American League in the game at Montreal. Lasorda added that he and Feeney "are only sorry that some very deserving players could not also make the team."

Lasorda and the league rounded out the NL squad Thursday by adding 12 reserves to the eight starters selected in fan balloting. Included are two players — Pittsburgh first baseman Jason Thompson and San Diego outfielder Ruppert Jones — whose names were missing from the computer-card ballots fans used to vote for the All-Star teams.

Twelve American League reserves also were announced Thursday, and Manager Billy Martin of the Oakland A's also named two men whose names were omitted from the punch cards — Kansas City designated hitter Hal McRae and Minnesota first baseman Kent Hrbek.

Hrbek is one of four first basemen chosen by Martin. The others are Eddie Murray of Baltimore, Cecil Cooper of Milwaukee and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston. Rounding out the squad are Detroit catcher Lance Parrish, Kansas City second baseman Frank White, third basemen Toby Harrah of Cleveland and Buddy Bell of Texas and outfielders Dave Winfield of New York, Willie Wilson of Kansas City and Ben Oglivie of Milwaukee.

They join starters Carlton Fisk of Chicago at catcher, Rod Carew of California at first base, Bobby Grich of California at second, Milwaukee's Robin Yount at shortstop, third baseman George Brett of Kansas City and outfielders Rickey Henderson of Oakland and Reggie Jackson and Fred Lynn of California.

Joining Thompson and Jones on the NL team are the Smiths of St. Louis — Lonnie, the outfielder, and Ozzie, the shortstop. Lasorda also named two players from his own Dodger club — outfielder Dusty Baker and second baseman Steve Sax.

Completing the list of backups are Montreal first baseman Al Oliver, outfielder Leon Durham of Chicago, third basemen Bob Horner of Atlanta and Ray Knight of Houston, and catchers Tony Pena of Pittsburgh and John Stearns of New York.

The NL starting team has Montreal's Gary Carter at catcher, Pete Rose of Philadelphia at first base, Manny Trillo of Philadelphia at second base, Dave Concepcion of Cincinnati at shortstop, Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia at third base, and outfielders Dale Murphy of Atlanta and Andre Dawson and Tim Lincecum of Montreal.

Pitching staffs for both squads were named Wednesday.

The selection of reserves was of particular interest in light of some complaints about the starting teams selected by the fans. Lasorda dismissed such criticism, saying of the fans, "They should vote because it's their game. They support us and we owe it to the fans to let them select the All-Stars."

Swedes Discount Chances Against U.S. Davis Cuppers

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Swedes, if nothing else, are blunt about their chances in their Davis Cup quarterfinal clash with the defending champion United States squad.

"Any result that is not 5-0 for the United States is something that is positive and is a plus for Sweden," said Mats Wilander, referring to the best-of-five match series which began today.

Anders Jarryd, at 20 the oldest of the four-man Swedish team, took on John McEnroe in the opening singles match at the Checkerdome. Wilander, the surprise French Open champion who at 17 is the youngest of the fuzzy-cheeked Swedes, was to play Elliot Teltscher in the second singles.

On Saturday, Anders will team with Hans Simonsson in the doubles against the American pair of McEnroe and Peter Fleming. Sunday's final two singles will send Jarryd against Teltscher and Wilander against McEnroe, the world's top-ranked player.

"Your team is a very good team and has won this Cup 27 times," Swedish Davis Cup captain Hans Olsson said Thursday of the favored Americans, who are the defending champions in this international tennis event. "We have great respect for the U.S. team, but we're going to play our best."

Last year, the captain of Czechoslovakia's team said the same thing about his squad's chances in the quarterfinals of the non-zonal competition against the McEnroe-led Americans. And, the U.S. did win 4-1.

But McEnroe was at the peak of his game and had just captured Wimbledon. And the U.S. team included Jimmy Connors.

Czechoslovakia's only victory came in the opening match when Ivan Lendl defeated McEnroe, making the key match the doubles.

This time, McEnroe admittedly has not reached the same form after being hampered with an ankle injury, and this past Sunday he lost his Wimbledon crown to Connors.

Connors has refused to play Davis Cup since the clash with Czechoslovakia, while Sweden is missing Bjorn Borg, a five-time Wimbledon winner and six-time French Open champion. Like Connors, Borg has decided not to play.

Wilander is ranked 12th, while Jarryd is 55th and Simonsson is 226th. However, Simonsson is ranked 23rd in the world in doubles and teamed with Jarryd to capture the Austrian championships and finish second in the German Open earlier this year.

The U.S. doubles team finished second at Wimbledon, having to scratch its way to the finals. Fleming has an injured right elbow which has restricted his normally hard serve.

The winner here advances to the semifinals against the winner of the Chile-Australian match, which also is being held this weekend. The bottom half of the non-zonal draw has Czechoslovakia playing France and New Zealand taking on Italy.

The U.S.-Sweden matches will be televised live by ESPN, the all-sports cable network.

Usual Storms Greet Golfers

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — The words "rain" and "playoff" have almost become synonymous with the West Virginia LPGA Classic in the nine-year history of the tournament.

And, as usual when the women golfers come to Wheeling, the weather could be a factor. Several of the past tournaments have been marred by final-day rain storms and, in 1979, it almost snowed when the tournament was played in October. The forecast for today's scheduled opening round included a chance of thunderstorms.

Thursday's pro-am was delayed 90 minutes by a storm, and the summer of 1982 is already one of the wettest on record in the Ohio Valley region.

Hollis Stacy, the defending champion, was in the last threesome scheduled to tee off today on the par-72, 6,100-yard Speidel golf course, a public course located in the middle of a mountainous area about five miles from downtown Wheeling.

Stacy won the 1981 tournament in a five-way playoff — the third consecutive year the Wheeling championship has been decided after the regulation 54 holes were played. Four of the eight previous Wheeling tournaments featured playoffs.

Beth Daniel, the fifth leading money winner on the tour this year, leads the 82-pro field in the $125,000 tournament. Other contenders include Stacy, the No. 7 money winner, and No. 10 Jan Stephenson.

Yankees Upset No-Hit Bid, Alexander 'Selfish'

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer
Oakland's Mike Norris lost his no-hit bid against the New York Yankees in seventh inning. By that time, Doyle Alexander had lost more than that.

Norris, making his first start after spending 21 days on the disabled list, pitched no-hit ball for 61-3 innings and wound up with a four-hitter as the A's posted a 6-3 victory over the Yankees Thursday night, giving Billy Martin his 1,000th victory as a manager.

New York's first hit was a check-swing single to center field by Oscar Gamble with one out in the seventh.

"I laughed," said Norris of the hit. "I didn't take it that seriously. You don't ever go out anticipating a no-hitter." The Yankees weren't laughing about Alexander's performance.

The right-hander, who had been on the disabled list since early May with a broken bone in his pitching hand, lasted just 1 1/3 innings, giving up five runs, including four in the first inning when Tony Armas homered and Jeff Burroughs added a two-run single.

The outing angered Yankee officials because Alexander, who suffered his injury by punching a dugout wall in Seattle, refused to remain with the team's AAA farm club at Columbus to get into shape.

"What Doyle Alexander did to his teammates in Oakland tonight was disgraceful but typical of the selfishness of some of the modern-day ballplayers," Bill Bergesch, the Yankees vice president of operations said in a statement released after Alexander was yanked.

"Here is a man earning hundreds of thousands of dollars to pitch and then flat refuses to get himself ready. He then goes out tonight and proves to the world that the coaching staff and manager were right," the statement went on.

Alexander, now 0-3, felt he hadn't let the team down but added, "I'm not looking for a verbal war in the press with these guys."

Yankee Manager Gene Michael said Alexander, who has a $2.2-million, four-year pact, would be assigned to the bullpen for occasional duty.

Rickey Henderson had his 80th and 81st stolen-bases of the season for the A's, while John Mayberry hit a two-run homer for New York in the seventh and Gamble added a solo homer in the ninth.

In other AL action, Chicago nipped Detroit 3-2, Minnesota shut out Milwaukee 3-0, Toronto edged Kansas City 5-4, California defeated Cleveland 5-1, Seattle outlasted Baltimore 4-3 and Boston blanked Texas 3-0.

Red Sox 3, Rangers 0
Chuck Rainey tossed a six-hitter and Dwight Evans cracked three hits as Boston handed Texas its third straight loss.

Rainey, 5-3, walked four and struck out two in recording his second complete game. Boston took a 2-0 lead in the sixth when Glenn Hoffman doubled and scored on Jerry Remy's single. Remy took third when Evans' fly ball to center was misplayed into a double and, after an intentional walk to Jim Rice, scored as Tony Perez grounded out.

The Red Sox added a run in the eighth on Rice's RBI single.

ABC's Hands Tied on Telecast

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — ABC will televise the finals of the World Cup soccer tournament Sunday with both hands tied behind its back.

The network will have only three of its own cameras to supplement the worldwide feed from Spanish television, so it won't be the kind of broadcast American audiences expect from the network of the Olympics, "Monday Night Football," and "Wide World of Sports."

Since ABC is at the mercy of the button-pushers in Madrid, the telecast won't have as much personality. There'll be fewer close-ups of jubilant players, enraged coaches and colorful characters in the stands.

"It's frustrating," says Ken Wolfe, producer of ABC's World Cup. "It's difficult to interact with someone else's coverage."

ABC will have one low-level camera for tight shots. "That isn't enough," says Dennis Lewin, coordinating producer of "Wide World." "But it will be more than the rest of the world will have."

The second ABC camera will pick up announcers Jim McKay, Paul Gardner and Mario Machado. The other will provide an overview of the stadium for transitions into commercials.

Viewers of the Spanish-produced coverage the past month on cable TV know that nothing interferes with pure soccer for soccer lovers. To capture more of the field, cameras are placed high, making it look like games are shot from the Goodyear blimp.

A sponsor interrupting soccer's non-stop action might see its products torn from the shelf, so printed commercials crawl across the screen like stock market reports.

And, if that famous sports gate-crasher with rainbow-colored hair is in Spain — and he was at the Moscow Olympics — then he's being ignored by Spanish TV.

But you can bet ABC's cameras will find him Sunday, when the network provides live coverage for the first time of the world's biggest single sports event.

"The Super Bowl is one country's game, and it's seen by millions of people," says Wolfe. "The World Cup will be seen by billions of people in nearly every country."

But ABC doesn't expect it to make a big stir here. Local baseball, boxing and old movies probably would do better.

"We're not going in thinking high ratings," says Jim Spence, senior vice president of ABC Sports. "We're talking about a Sunday afternoon in July. Still, we think it's an event we should do."

When ABC purchased the rights, the United States already had been eliminated from the 24-nation tournament. In previous years, the World Cup matches were sold to closed-circuit theaters in America and were popular with melting-pot audiences.

In the event of a tie Sunday, ABC has refused permission for its sports department to broadcast the replay live on Tuesday.

Final score: Soap operas 1, Soccer 0.

Hereford Stars Begin Playoffs

Hereford's 13-Year-Old Babe Ruth All-Stars begin the playoffs with a 7 p.m. contest against Muleshoe tonight in Friona, as a seven-team tournament begins. In addition to Hereford and Muleshoe, two teams from Plainview, and teams from Friona, Olton, and Dimmitt are entered in the double-elimination event.

Hereford coach Mike Dodson said that his team should be a strong challenger for the championship in the event.

If the local stars win tonight they will play a second round match at 6 p.m. Saturday. A loss tonight would put Hereford in a loser's bracket contest at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Jeff O'Rand and Rex Lee are helping Dodson with the All-Stars, who include Kent Walterscheid, Casey Daniels, Bobby Medina, Paul Maes, Keith Herrera, Keith Anderson, Joe Fuentes, Mark Artho, Todd Shire, Donnie Rieves, Vincent Brown, Ricky Ruiz, Kyle Steun, David Manchec, and William Ruckman.

Zokol's Strategy Pays Dividend

By GEORGE STRODE AP
Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Canadian Dick Zokol has found a revolutionary way to shake the tension of playing his rookie season on the American golf tour.

He listens to soft rock music through earphones while he plays the game. Zokol tried the strategy for the first time Thursday. It worked.

He fired his best round as a professional, a 7-under-par 65, that earned him a piece of the opening Greater Milwaukee Open lead with Scott Simpson, Jay Cudd, David Edwards and Terry Diehl.

Country Club Winners Listed

Sixty eight teams entered the Hereford Country Club's July 4 Tennis Tournament. Jiffy Payne - Jenny Cassels took the A Mixed Doubles crown, while Jim Ross - Richard Barrett were A Men's Champs, and Janet McWhorter - Wanda Payne topped the Women's A Doubles division.

In the children's brackets T.J. Head was a double winner with a title in 9-10 Boy's Singles and a first in 9-10 Doubles, teaming with Libby Kosub.

Following is a complete list of the finishes in the tourney:

"It paid dividends," he said. Such a lofty spot on the leaderboards is unaccustomed for him.

Zokol never has been in the top 20 of a tournament. In fact, he's made money in only three of his 20 American starts, standing 210th on the current money list with $2,743.

The former Brigham Young University standout admits the pressure has been immense in his first pro season.

"It's been a tough year and I knew it would be. I'm just trying to persevere. I've got to convince myself I can play with these guys, players I've seen on TV for the last 10 years. I know my game is good enough," he said.

If he never wins another dollar, Zokol will be known as one of the sport's pioneers with his headset.

Jack Tuthill, the PGA Tour's tournament director and a 22-year veteran of the American circuit, believes Zokol's music listening is a first.

"And I see nothing wrong with it either. It might block out distractions," he said. "We've had a lot of guys listen to ball games, both baseball and football, but never this," said Tuthill.

Zokol wore the headset while he was walking between shots over the 7,010-yard Tuckaway Country Club course.

"I was out in my own little world with my music box. It was soothing. It helped take away the pressure," he said. Except for Simpson, those at the top are all struggling to conquer the tour.

Simpson, of course, has established himself with four-year earnings of $431,000, nearly one-third of that coming in 1982. He won the 1980 Western Open.

Diehl hasn't won since the 1974 Texas Open, his lone victory.

Table tennis balls struck by professional players have been clocked at speeds of nearly 100 mph.

HEALTH

Managing allergic asthma

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 25 years old with allergic asthma. A year ago my doctor advised me to quit smoking so I did. Everything went fine until I had my baby. Since then I've had nothing but problems. I get allergy shots once a week but they don't seem to help. I have a Pulmo-Aide machine that I use with Alupent. That helps me for a while. But when I start cleaning or exercise I run completely out of breath and have to use my inhaler. I even had to go to the hospital and was treated with I.V.s for four days.

I keep having to go on tapering doses of Prednisone. Nothing is helping. I couldn't even play ball this year because I would run out of breath. I hear that swimming is good for asthmatics. Is this true? I'm 20 pounds overweight and it is hard to lose weight if you can't exercise. Do you have any suggestions? I am getting desperate.

DEAR READER — You have a chronic disease and you will have to learn to adjust your life to it. Sometimes a trial-and-error approach is necessary to find the best management for people with allergic asthma.

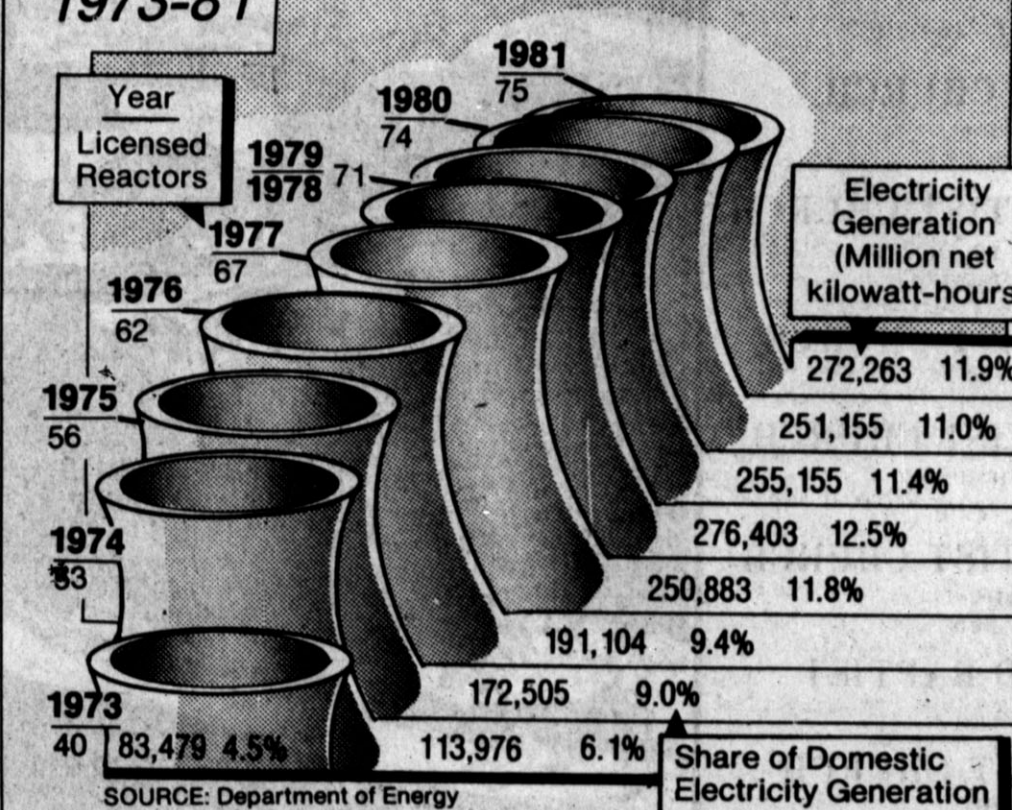

I would suggest a complete allergy work up. That includes being sure you don't have a food allergy. The allergen that causes the asthma or other allergic conditions does not have to be inhaled. It can be ingested. Some asthmatics can't tolerate aspirin because it causes attacks. Benzoic acid derivatives, including tartrazine often used in food coloring, affects some.

Call by 3 p.m. the day before it is published or before 3 p.m. on Friday for Sunday's issue. Please pay in advance.

NUCLEAR POWER

Commercial Power Plant Operations 1973-81

Although a significant factor in the national energy supply, nuclear power has not increased its share of the total in recent years. Operating reactors have increased slightly, but output has remained essentially stationary since 1978.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — I am looking for a homemade solution for cleaning paneling that will not injure the finish. Can you help? — MRS. F.B.

DEAR MRS. F.B. — A good cleaner for paneling is a mixture of one tablespoon white vinegar, one tablespoon olive oil and one quart warm water. Dip a cloth in the warm solution, wring it out well, then use it to rub down the paneling. Dry by wiping down with a soft, clean cloth. This should remove any dirt without harming the finish in any way. For extra protection, apply a thin coating of paste wax, buffing well with a soft cloth. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Since it's vacation time again, I'd like to share my travel "emergency check list" with you. Make a list of names of those traveling in the car. Include ages, special medications and our destination. I place a copy of this in the glove compartment, each suitcase, my purse, everyone's wallets, even the diaper bag.

Parents, be sure to have a written and signed medical permission sheet giving a specific, trusted friend or relative the power to authorize medical attention for your children. This is important if you and your husband should become unconscious or incoherent in an accident. Be sure to list the person's name, address and phone numbers, and be sure that he or she is aware of the duty that they might have to perform. There is no special form needed. Just write out something like: "We, Mr. & Mrs. John Doe, give our permission to Mr. or Mrs. Joe Smith, to attend to the medical attention of our children listed below." Remember, it must be signed. — A CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR POLLY — When I prepare rhubarb for sauce, I always add two to three teaspoons dry strawberry gelatin in addition to the sugar I use. It helps to thicken the sauce and gives it beautiful color and good flavor.

I save some of the white plastic caps that come on bottles of things like mouth wash or shampoo. When the pulls on my drapes crack, I use the caps to replace them. Make a small hole in the middle of the cap with a hot ice pick, just large enough for the cord to go through. Put the cord through and make a knot on the end that will be inside the cap. — GRANDMA

GOD IS WHEREVER YOU MAY GO

Even though your faith and your Church have their regular place in your daily walk of life, do you remember to include them in your vacation plans? Whatever highway you travel, God is there to provide you and your loved ones with His unfailing guidance and protection, if you will only reach out and avail yourself of it. He is everywhere, in the beauty of all the mountains, lakes and valleys of this world which He created, and so are His Churches. You can easily find them anywhere throughout the land. Remember that God never takes a vacation from you; don't take a vacation from him!

Go where he will, the wise man is at home,
His hearth the earth, his hall the azure dome.
Ralph Waldo Emerson
