Highlights of DOE Tour Presented Tonight

Deaf Smith Countians will be on the receiving end of another in the series of offerings by the Department of Energy concerning the nation's nuclear waste storage problem, and the possibility of high level wastes being stored near here, when DOE officials present facts and figures at 7 p.m. today at the community center.

Tonight's meeting will be moderated by two local officials; Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce President Bill Johnson and County Judge Glen Nelson, who recently took a DOE-sponsored tour of waste facilities in New Mexico and Nevada.

Johnson and Nelson joined officials of the city of Tulia in June for a week-long trip to tour the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant (WIPP) near Carlsbad, N.M., and the Nevada Test Site near Las Vegas, Nev.

Slides taken during that tour will be shown at the meeting tonight, and Johnson and Nelson will offer comments as well as fielding questions about their trip. Also to be on hand are officials of DOE and the Battelle Memorial Institute, contractor for the government's site exploration studies.

Although impressed with the immense safety precautions being taken and the highly technical nature of the waste storage testing procedures they saw on the tour, both Nelson and Johnson said that the main concern they both still have is the possible effects of the placing of a nuclear waste repository would have on the Ogallala Aquifer, which supplies life-giving water to this area.

"I'm convinced totally that everything is being done to make nuclear waste storage as safe as possible, but I still have a question of how they can guarantee that it will not intrude on our aquifer, and how it will affect the surface growth potential for our area," Johnson told the Brand in a June 13 story following the trip.

DOE has been drilling test boreholes in this area for several months, and recently announced the eighth such test hole, which is located in Swisher County near Tulia.

Deaf Smith and Swisher Counties have been the focal point of the DOE studies in the Permian basin as the government looks at the suitability of salt formations in this area as a possible storage point for high level nuclear wastes.

DOE has been conducting public hearings concerning the controversial waste storage problems, and has indicated that they intend to establish an information office here in Hereford to keep the public better informed on the progress of the site selection process.

In fact, DOE officials have visited this week with local realtors concerning the possible site of such an office.

Anything Goes Set August 21

The Hereford & Vicinity YMCA is again making plans for its annual Anything Goes competition, which will be held from 2:30-4:30 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 21 during the Hereford Town & Country Jubilee.

"Some changes have been made this year which we hope will make the competition less time-consuming and fun for everybody," Y director Weldon Knabe said. Knabe said that in the past one drawback to the event is that it took most of a day with preliminaries in the morning and the finals in the afternoon.

"This year the entire event will be held within a two-hour span, with the winning teams determined by a total number of points accumulated during the competition," Knabe added. "We will have a great crowd watching this year, and that will make Anything Goes even more exciting."

In the past the competition was held at Whiteface Stadium.

Anything Goes is open to all civic clubs, church, organizations, and interested individuals who wish to make up a team. The entry fee is $25 per team, with each club allowed to field as many teams as it wants as long as they pay the required fee for each team.

The deadline for entering is Aug. 16. Each team should submit a roster of five names, along with one alternate, and the required entry fee.

"The events for Anything Goes are still being planned," Knabe said. "But, they will include such infamous events as the golf cart obstacle course and water balloon toss. We also anticipate several new and different events."

Those wishing additional information about Anything Goes can contact the YMCA office at Sugarland Mall, or call 364-6990.

Reagan Justifies Trading

Says It Drains Soviets of Cash

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, expected to announce a one-year extension of grain sales to the Soviet Union, says such trade is justified because it drains the Soviets of "hard cash, and they're not too flush with that right now."

The president sought to draw a distinction between continued U.S. grain dealings with the Soviets and his opposition to the help Western Europe is giving Moscow for construction of a trans-Siberian natural gas pipeline.

Despite strains with the allies over those issues, Reagan maintained that "we do have a fine relationship" with Western Europe. "This is kind of like a fight inside a family, but the family is still a family," he said Wednesday at a nationally televised news conference.

Reagan also made a pitch for a constitutional amendment banning deficit spending except with a three-fifths vote of Congress, and said that "slowly and surely we're working our way back to prosperity."

He said that acceptance by the Palestine Liberation Organization of Israel's right to exist "would be a step forward," and said he remains hopeful that a political solution will be found to end the bloodshed in Lebanon.

Reagan's grain-sale decision, which administration officials say will probably be announced before the weekend, was anxiously awaited in the Midwest grain belt. Reagan is expected to extend the existing agreement for one year, even though farmers have pressed for a long-term arrangement.

In Denver, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said a long-term sales agreement with the Soviet Union was "not in the cards at this time."

"I would favor that, at least at some point, but not today," Block said.

Reagan sought to halt pipeline construction in response to the Soviet role in the military crackdown in Poland.

"We have made it clear" that if the military rule is relaxed, "we'd be very happy to review our position with regard to the pipeline," he said.

But, the president said, "There are a couple of very important differences" in his support for continued grain sales and his opposition to the pipeline, which would carry fuel from Siberia to Western Europe.

"The technology for the pipeline is mainly only obtainable from the United States," he said. "Grain, the Soviet Union can get in other places, if they want it."

Referring to the Carter administration's refusal to ship grain to the Soviet Union in the wake of the Soviets' military move into Afghanistan in December 1979, Reagan said: "We wouldn't be achieving very much if we had used" such an embargo. "It didn't hurt the Soviet Union, but it was a terrible economic blow to our farmers."

Gandhi, Reagan Meeting Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India, bidding for "better" relations with the United States, is meeting President Reagan in an effort to overcome a decade-long diplomatic chill.

The 64-year-old prime minister, trying to walk a middle road between Moscow and Washington, is seeking to dispel U.S. worries that her foreign policy tilts heavily toward the Soviet Union.

Hours before the Oval Office meeting today between Mrs. Gandhi and Reagan, it was learned that the U.S. and India are near agreement on a framework to resolve a long-simmering dispute between the two nations over India's nuclear program.

Under the compromise, India would receive French fuel for its American-built Tarapur nuclear power plant.

At the same time, full international safeguards would apply to the facility, making it more difficult for fuel to be turned into atomic weapons.

Mrs. Gandhi, who arrived on an U.S. Air Force jet from New York City Wednesday night, said, "One of the reasons that I'm here is that I want them (relations) to be better."

Her impromptu remark clearly delighted Secretary of State George P. Shultz and encouraged U.S. officials who hope the Gandhi-Reagan talks will set a "new tone" for relations between Washington and New Delhi.

"That's a wonderful answer," Shultz told the Indian prime minister. Mrs. Gandhi said her talks with Reagan, whom she first met at the Cancun economic summit in Mexico last year, will range over "many matters of interest to us and to the world."

And Reagan told reporters, "I'm looking forward to that meeting."

Following her meetings with Reagan and Shultz, Mrs. Gandhi will confer with members of the Senate and House foreign relations committees. She will be Reagan's guest at a White House state dinner tonight.

In the Tarapur dispute, the United States was barred by the 1978 Nuclear Non-Proliferation Act from resupplying the plant because India refuses to apply international safeguards to all of its nuclear facilities.

An administration source said it unlikely a compromise nuclear agreement will be announced at the end of the Reagan-Gandhi meeting, but it is hoped final details can be agreed on before Mrs. Gandhi leaves Washington on Saturday.

Heavy Duty Extras

Police cars are loaded with extra lights, radio and siren equipment requiring heavy duty alternators and batteries. Other options included on squad cars are heavy duty brakes, suspension, and cooling systems. The cars are purchased by bidding from dealerships offering the "police package." The extra hardware (lights, radio, etc.) is transferred from the old cars to the new units.

Police Cars Heavy Duty, Special Order

Police units aren't just cars bought off the lot, some lights and a radio hooked up and an insignia slapped on.

They are heavy duty and special order.

The City of Hereford buys four or five new patrol cars a year for continual replacement of the eight car fleet. Four are marked and four are unmarked.

Bids are advertised for a

"police package" vehicle meeting the department's specifications.

According to Chief Don Brush, the police cars Hereford wants must have a wheel base of not less than 114 inches.

"That's mainly so we can try to get a larger car," Brush said, adding that the specs also call for a cubic inch displacement of not less than 300 inches on the engine.

Cars must also have heavy duty suspension and a heavy duty braking system due to 24-hour city driving demands.

A larger alternator and a minimum 70 ampere battery is needed to handle the overhead lights, radio systems and sirens, which are transferred from the old cars to the new cars.

"Police package" cars also have an extra duty cooling system to prevent overheating during round the clock driving. Patrolmen put about 250 miles a day on the cars.

Other extras include a highly calibrated speedometer for pacing cars and top quality steel belted radials.

The four marked units also have a protective screen between the front and back seats.

Sticker prices run between $9,000 and $10,000, Brush said, however trade-ins reduce that price.

One drawback is color selection. Police cars come in limited colors and a hue not on the chart will cost extra.

Mixed Drink Tax Collections Up

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock this week said collection of the state's 10 percent mixed drink tax during the second quarter of 1982 was up 18 percent over the same period last year.

He said his office is sending checks totaling $10.4 million to 215 counties and 407 cities as their share of the gross receipts tax on mixed drinks for the second quarter.

The state's general revenue fund will receive the balance, $25.5 million, of the tax money collected.

Texas cities and counties each receive a 15 percent rebate of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries under the law that legalized the sale of mixed drinks in the state.

The city of Hereford's remittance for the quarter was $2,044.42 from a total revenue of $13,629.49. The same figures hold true for Deaf Smith County.

The mixed drink tax is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and the city-county rebates are sent out quarterly by the Comptroller's office.

Bullock said the mixed drink tax has brought in $70.5 million dollars during the first and second quarters of 1982.

Sun Forecast On 'Rain Day'

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — The sun was shining today and the forecast called for more of the same, but tradition is stronger than the National Weather Service in this Pennsylvania town where residents say rain falls almost every July 29.

It's Rain Day, the day on which rain has fallen here for 93 of the past 106 years, residents say.

"I have high hopes," said John Daily, the official Rain Day prophet, who each year wagers a hat that rain will fall on July 29 in this town of 5,000 people in the southwestern part of the state.

Although some skeptics dispute residents' recounting of the weather record, Daily has won hats from people including Johnny Carson, Bob Hope, Muhammad Ali and Jack Dempsey.

Daily, a retired lawyer, has lost only five hats in 44 years.

This year, Myron Cope, a Pittsburgh radio sports announcer, bet a hat that not a drop would fall from midnight Wednesday to midnight tonight.

"It's pouring right now," Cope said early Wednesday. "All the rain's getting used up."

Nonsense, countered Daily, who begins a vigil each year at midnight. He used to watch from the town's courthouse, but this year is opting for his patio.

"That way I can hear the first drop on the aluminum roof," he said. "Besides, it's more comfortable."

Daily and Cope said Wednesday they didn't know the weather forecast. They said it didn't matter.

The weather service forecast sunny skies today and a zero percent chance of precipitation. The sun was shining and the sky was clear this morning.

"I can't say that it doesn't rain there every year, but this year we're not forecasting any at all for July 29," said Chuck Heckler of the National Weather Service.

"If it rains, it rains," said Jim Ealy, Waynesburg borough manager. "But if you're putting it in the newspaper, say I'm sure of it. I'd bet the house on it," he added, laughing.

In the old days, farmers would kill a black snake and hang it over an oak post to guarantee rain here. Lately, residents wash their cars or hang out laundry as sure-fire ways to open the clouds.

Cope insisted he would win his bet "unless they conjure up some rain in their imagination." Daily scoffs at the suggestion.

Bullock Warns Of Thorns in the Roses

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock, warning that there are "thorns among the roses" in the Texas economy, today estimated the 1983 Legislature would have $32.3 billion to spend.

Bullock's revenue estimate placed the amount available for the 1984-85 biennium at $5.1 billion above what the 1981 Legislature had to spend for 1982 and 1983.

The comptroller said $1.3 billion of the money available to next year's Legislature is surplus.

"This surplus is the result of the good times we have had," said Bullock. However, he cautioned that the growth today in Texas is "substantially less than we have seen in the past 10 years."

"The recession has come to Texas. Our economy has begun to slow down. We are beginning to see significant drops in some major revenue sources," he said.

Lawmakers will not be able to spend the entire $32.3 billion because some of the funds are dedicated. In 1981, there was about $28 billion available when lawmakers set a two-year budget of about $26 billion.

Bullock projected a total tax take of $21.6 billion during the upcoming two-year budgeting period, up from the $18.1 billion in taxes available to the 1981 Legislature.

The rest of the money available to the state comes from federal funds, interest earned on state money, incomes from land leases and license fees.

The comptroller's estimate included a projected 1 percent drop in oil tax revenues. The largest predicted increase — 32.7 percent — was in gas tax revenues.

"We are due a steep increase in the price of gas when it is all decontrolled in January 1985," said Bullock.

Sales tax collection will continue to grow, but at a slower rate than in recent years, he said. He predicted $9.2 billion in sales tax collections during 1984-85.

Bullock said the "thorns among the roses" in the state economy include the growing unemployment rate.

"In March of this year there were more people working in our state than ever before — 242,000 more," he said. "But between March and May, 70,000 of these jobs disappeared."

"If you have a job you better keep it," he told a reporter.

Mother, Daughter Convicted Of Hiring

Killer For Breadwinner

SWEETWATER, Texas (AP) — Jury deliberations begin today on punishment for a mother and daughter convicted of hiring a man to kill the family breadwinner so they could collect on his insurance.

Carol Jo Dudley, 18, was found guilty of murdering her father, Charles Wayne Dudley. The girl's mother, Gibby Sue Dudley, 43, was convicted of conspiracy to commit capital murder.

The pair burst into tears after leaving the courtroom where the verdict was handed down Wednesday.

Conspiracy to commit capital murder carries a maximum sentence of death by injection, but Randy Crowner, an Abilene attorney defending Mrs. Dudley, said the state is not seeking the death penalty. Life in prison is the maximum sentence each woman could receive, Crowner said.

Dudley was killed a year ago with a blast from a 12-gauge, sawed-off shotgun eight miles south of here on Texas Highway 70 near Nine Mile Mountain.

During the trial, District Attorney Rusty Carroll described the women as "the most evil people I've seen in a long time." Their lawyers said Dudley beat his wife and daughters, sexually abused Miss Dudley and made life unbearable in the Dudley home.

The women were accused of hiring Michael Higgs, 25, of Sweetwater to kill Dudley. Higgs was convicted of murder in May.

Researchers Awarded $7 Million

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A team of researchers has been awarded a $7 million grant to study the roles of diet, genetics and environmental stress in the cause and development of atherosclerosis — hardening of the arteries.

Dr. Duncan Wimpless, president of the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education, announced the grant Wednesday from the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute of the National Institutes of Health.

Wimpless said that Dr. Henry C. McGill Jr., scientific director and for the Foundation and a professor of pathology at the University of Texas Health Science Center, will head the five-year project.

The study will be entitled, "Diet, Stress and Genotype in Primate Atherosclerosis," Wimpless said.

The research will be carried out principally at Southwest Foundation, Southwest Research Institute and the University of Texas Health Science Center, McGill said.

Paul Harvey News Got Organized To Stop Organizations

You could never have imagined anything like this five years ago:

Major construction projects around Pittsburgh employing only non-union labor.

Nationally, only 35 percent of our nation's construction work last year was performed by union workers.

What's happened is that construction contractors — fed up with featherbedding, payola, strikes, jurisdictional disputes, travel allowances and other arbitrary abuses of power by the building trades unions — have themselves "got organized."

They, the contractors, have formed their own ABC (Associated Builders and Contractors) and they are fighting back, promoting what they call "the Merit Shop," as opposed to "the union shop."

What that means is workers are hired for what they do and how well they do it and paid proportionately.

The ABC now has 16,000 contractor members nationwide and has cornered 60 percent of all commercial and industrial construction in the United States.

Before Orrin Hatch became a United States senator from Utah he was a union construction tradesman, yet he recognizes that this "Merit Shop" is bringing competition back into the construction field.

Much of our nation's high cost of living is the ever higher cost of building anything, including houses. In many areas, union in the construction trades have escalator clauses built into those contracts which keep their wages going up 10 percent per year, recession or no recession.

In Chicago in 1926 a mason got $1.50 an hour to lay an average of 600 concrete blocks per day.

Today the contractor is required to hire two masons at $14 an hour each — and both of them may not lay 100 blocks a day!

Engineering News-Record computes that low productivity wastes 15 percent to 40 percent of every construction payroll dollar.

Something had to give.

"Merit Shop" contractors are competing for and winning ever more construction contracts — and ever larger ones.

Today there are enormous construction projects in 37 states — power plants, oil refineries, pulp and paper mills, highway projects, being built by Merit Shop workers.

Further, the Associated Builders and Contractors are now expanding their own "private industry training center," offering schooling and on-job training in the building trades.

The ABC insists it is merely reviving the "free enterprise" system, where employer and employee have a right to choose one another.

You've heard much about "increased industrial growth in Sun Belt states even during the recessions."

More than the sunshine — this reflects the fact that most of those states are "Right To Work" states, where the ABC can take the fat out of construction contracts and build you more factories for less money.

Demos Accept Bill Outlines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democrat-controlled House, unwilling to write its own tax-increase bill in this election year, has agreed to accept the outlines of a record $98.5-billion plan written by Senate Republicans.

The House, rejecting complaints of conservatives that the Constitution was being trampled, voted Wednesday night to permit a Senate-House conference committee to work out a compromise bill.

The vote was 208-197, with 164 Democrats and 44 Republicans supporting the move. Sixty Democrats and 137 Republicans opposed it.

The conference committee will begin work early next week; the final compromise could be ready for President Reagan's signature within two weeks.

Leaders of both parties emphasized that the House delegation to the conference will attempt to make several changes in the Senate bill while still raising the $98 billion that Congress mandated in an effort to cut the federal deficit.

The compromise "will not be a simple rubber-stamp of the Senate bill," promised Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., who will head the House conferees.

Heading the list of promised changes is the Senate-passed provision reducing the tax deduction allowed for medical expenses. Current law allows a deduction for expenses that exceed 3 percent of gross income; the Senate bill would raise that threshold to 7 percent.

But Rostenkowski and his Senate counterpart, Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., favor a threshold of no more than 5 percent.

The process that the House endorsed is highly unusual because that body, which is required by the Constitution to originate all tax bills, did not even write a bill this time. The House preferred instead to let the GOP-run Senate take the blame for any tax increase.

In part because of that political consideration, House Democrats are eager for some version of the Senate bill to become law. But many conservative Republicans want no tax increase at all — even though President Reagan has called for one to help cut federal deficits in an effort to reduce interest rates.

Conservatives based their fight Wednesday on the constitutional requirement that the House originate revenue bills.

To send the Senate-passed bill to a conference committee without even trying to improve it "is a total cop-out," argued Rep. John Rousselot, R-Calif. "You are totally abandoning the Constitution."

Treen Refuses Nod To Reagan

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Louisiana Gov. David C. Treen has refused to join his fellow Southern governors in giving Congress and the president a pat on the back for extending the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

Treen cast the lone vote Wednesday against a resolution offered at the Southern Governors Association's 48th annual meeting on this barrier island resort, saying he felt his own state could handle the job of making sure all citizens' voting rights are protected.

"I don't think there is any state in the South that discriminates," Treen told 10 fellow chief executives on the last day of the four-day convocation.

The Republican governor labeled as "anachronistic" the requirement that certain states, most of them in the South, have to go to the U.S. Justice Department to get prior approval for changes in legislative districts and election laws.

Treen said he wanted to make it clear that he favors voting equality for all citizens, regardless of race or position.

Mississippi Gov. William Winter replied, "I don't think it is anachronistic."

He said there should be assurances that people are voting according to today's conditions rather than "the conditions of 30 or 40 years ago."

South Carolina Gov. Dick Riley, the host of the convention and the outgoing chairman, joined Winter in speaking for the resolution, which had been introduced by Texas Gov. Bill Clements.

The governors voted 10-1 in favor of the resolution.

Later, Treen said he cast his negative vote to register his continuing opposition to the preclearance section of the act.

"I'm not willing to say as governor of my state that Louisiana is being unfair," he told reporters.

The brief exchange was one of few open disagreements between the chief executives in a "no-frills" convocation that was mostly work leavened by a little play.

Another resolution with a regional slant asked the Reagan administration for protection for the suffering U.S. textile industry from the "unprecedented flooding" of Chinese imports into domestic markets.

Riley, whose state counts textiles as its No. 1 industry, offered the resolution. A textile executive told the governors Tuesday that China would become the top exporter of textiles to the United States if its textile exports were allowed to continue.

William A. Klopman, chairman and chief executive officer of Burlington Industries Inc., of Greensboro, N.C., urged governors to work to convince the administration to reach a bilateral trade agreement with China.

A proposal approved by the Senate and pending in the House to double the cigarette tax from 8 cents per pack to 16 cents was opposed in a resolution offered by North Carolina Gov. Jim Hunt.

Hunt, whose state produces more cigarettes than any other, indicated the cigarette tax was his main concern.

12 Killed In Plane Crash Near Lindale

LINDALE, Texas (AP) — A twin-engine plane that plunged into a wooded area killing 12 people — including eight children and a popular Christian music singer — was designed to carry just seven people, a Federal investigator said today.

The Cessna 414, leased by the Last Days Ministries here, crashed shortly after take off Wednesday night from a private airstrip near this town about 90 miles east of Dallas.

"I can't say it was overloaded until I know the size of the bodies, the amount of fuel, the amount of luggage," said Randy Brooks, a federal Aviation Administration investigator from Shreveport, La.

However, Brooks said the manual specified the plane had seven seats and a toilet seat.

Police and ministry officials said the crash killed Christian music singer Keith Gordon Green, 27, two of his children, the pilot, and eight members of a Simi Valley, Calif., family.

The plane was en route to a Dallas airport where members of one of the families were to connect with a commercial flight, said ministry spokesman Larry DeGraf. FAA spokesman T.C. Miller in Fort Worth said the pilot did not file a flight plan.

"The plane rolled down the airstrip and took off. For a moment everything appeared normal. But they apparently did not develop sufficient power to climb or their air speed was too low. It went into the trees... the trees," said Paul Long, a pilot who witnessed the crash while doing maintenance work at the airstrip's tower.

"All that is left is just a few pieces of burnt metal... just an old burnt hull," said Brooks.

Smith County Deputy Larry Willbanks said authorities had a tough time getting through the trees and underbrush to the burning aircraft.

"By the time we had, most of the fuel had splattered on the ground so it burned pretty quick," said Willbanks. He said the bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Authorities had to use fire trucks to remove the bodies from the crash site, said Willbanks.

Department of Public Safety Lt. Bill Cody said the plane crashed about a half mile from the end of the 50-foot wide and half-mile long runway behind the ministry complex.

"It cleared the runway. It cleared an open field about a quarter-mile long. It went over a wooded area and clipped some trees," said Smith County sheriff's Lt. Ron England. He said the trees "knocked the right wing off the plane."

DPS Sgt. Paul Fisher said although thunderstorms were moving into the area Wednesday night, it was not raining at the time and there was no indication that weather was a factor in the crash.

He said he also doubted earlier eyewitness reports that the plane was on fire before it hit the trees.

"I don't think that is true. The fire occurred on impact," said Fisher.

Police and church officials identified the dead as Green, his daughter, Bethany Grace Green, 2, and his son, Josiah David Green, 3, all of Lindale; Diedre M. Smalley, 32, her husband, John C. Smalley, 37, her son by a previous marriage, Chet Allen Hysell, 12, twins James and John Smalley, 7, Daniel Henry Smalley, 4, Timothy Neill Smalley, 3, Kathryn Elizabeth Smalley, 2, all of Simi Valley, Calif.; and pilot Don Burmeister, 36, of Lindale.

Sparrow Records President Billy Ray Hearn said in Canoga Park, Calif., that Green was a "phenomenal talent" who had sold a million records.

"He was the most phenomenal Christian artist on the scene in the past few years. His first record sold a quarter of a million in the first two to three years. In Christian circles that's phenomenal," said Hearn.

Benefits

for 13 additional weeks.

Levin said that this "is not an unprecedented solution. In the 1970s, a similar program was instituted twice — in 1971 and 1974. If there is any difference between now and then, it is one which argues that the current need for supplemental unemployment benefits is even greater....

"These people who have exhausted their benefits are looking at a bleak future, certainly in the near term," he said.

"It is totally right that government offer them a hand to keep their lives intact...when federal policies helped to create the unemployment in the first place and when current national policies consciously accept unemployment as a weapon against inflation," Levin said.

"The tragic fact is that the unemployment rate in Michigan has to drop almost five percentage points before it 'improves' enough to match the level of the national recession," said Levin, whose state has a 14.3-percent rate.

"People in Michigan have endured over 30 consecutive months of double digit unemployment," he said, adding that since January more than 10,000 constituents have exhausted their extended benefits, which provided coverage for weeks 26 through 39 of unemployment.

Nationally, he said, 134,000 people exhausted their benefits in May, an increase of 41 percent over May 1981.

Reagan

He said the sale of "grain will result in the Soviet Union having to pay out hard cash, and they're not too flush with that right now."

"The pipeline, when finished, will result in the Soviet Union getting hard cash, which it does not now have and which it can then use to further build up its military might," the president said.

Reagan opened the news conference, his 12th since taking office 18 months ago, by saying, "We've begun to rescue this economy and the first evidence of recovery has been sighted, but it's only a beginning."

"Many of our people are still suffering and nothing has been more painful to me than the slowness of our progress," he said.

The economy is in a period of transition and "we're going to see an improvement in the second half of this year," he said.

Once, a reporter asked Reagan, whose 1983 budget incorporates a deficit greater than $100 billion, whether the president's support for the balanced budget amendment was akin to his saying "there ought to be a law against what I am doing." The president responded: "I don't feel self-conscious at all."

At one point, he got into a dispute with Sarah McClendon, whose McClendon News Service reports on Washington for several newspapers in Texas, Wisconsin and California.

The reporter asked Reagan to make public and "do something about" a Justice Department report on discrimination against women by federal agencies.

"It hasn't reached me yet," the president said.

"Yes, sir, it did," Ms. McClendon insisted. "It came to you in the Cabinet meeting, and you admitted at your last press conference that you had it."

The news conference ended with Ms. McClendon still trying to make her point. After the session, White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes told reporters Reagan had received an "interim report" on discrimination against women and that he asked for more work on it.

On other matters, the president said:

—He does not know whether he will meet with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev "this year or next or at all." He said the Soviets have made no "positive replies" to his suggestion for one and added: "It takes two to tango."

—Interior Secretary James Watt should not be fired for suggesting that U.S. support for Israel might be curtailed if American Jews do not support the administration's energy policy.

—The United States has no secret agreements with the People's Republic of China "that should cause the government or the people of Taiwan to have any concern."

—Asked about his administration's decision to certify to Congress that El Salvador is making progress in reducing human rights violations, Reagan said "there are unfortunate things that are going on" in El Salvador, but improvement was being made.

Startled Subject Flees

A woman called police early today when she was awakened by a noise in her kitchen and saw a hand reaching the window at 605 N. Lee. The subject had broken the screen and was attempting to enter when the woman scared him away. The incident is still under investigation.

Jubilee Planning Committee

Members of the Town and Country Jubilee planning committee met Tuesday to discuss the annual event, slated Aug. 20-22. Co-chairmen of the jubilee are Sallie Strain and Garth Thomas, at center on far side of table. Among the attractions planned are the Jubilee of Arts, the National Cowgirl Hall to Fame Rodeo, the Jubilee Parade, the "Smelly City Chili Cook-Off," the YMCA Gospel Jubilee, the Miss Hereford Pageant, and a host of other special activities. (Brand Photo).

Varied Activities Span Jubilee Week

The Miss Hereford Pageant and the YMCA 10-K Run will kick off the week of activities for the Town and Country Jubilee on Aug. 14. On the following evening, the YMCA Gospel Jubilee is scheduled at Whiteface Stadium.

The Hereford Chamber Singers will present "Pigs, Pearls, and Poison Ivy - Part II" on the evening of Aug. 19, at the high school auditorium.

The Bull Barn will be the site of the Agricultural Jubilee Aug. 19-22, and the Jubilee of Arts will be held at the Community Center Aug. 20-22.

In the Heritage Room of the Deaf Smith County Library, there will be a Jubilee Quilting Bee Aug. 20-21.

The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame All-Girl Rodeo is scheduled Aug. 20-22 at the Hereford Riders Club Arena. The 1982 honorees will be inducted into the Hall of Fame Saturday evening, and dances are planned after the rodeo on Friday and Saturday nights.

The Jubilee Parade will begin at 10 a.m. on Aug. 21, and Jubilee Junction, with food booths and fun for everyone will be all day Saturday in Dameron Park.

The "Smelly City Chili Cook-Off" to benefit the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame is scheduled Aug. 21 in Veterans Park.

The Town and Country Jubilee is an annual affair and all area residents are encouraged to participate in the festivities. The Jubilee planning committee, headed by Garth Thomas and Sallie Strain, is working to make this year the best yet.

Class Plans Golden Anniversary Reunion

Aug. 6-7 are the dates of the Golden Anniversary Reunion for the Class of 1932 from Plainview High School. Registration will be from 4 to 9 p.m. Friday, Aug. 6, in the Centennial Room, Hale County State Bank in Plainview.

A reception, with coffee and donuts, will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 7, in the Centennial Room. Class members plan to visit the old Plainview High School as well as the present high school.

A luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. at the Plainview Country Club, including a short program and memorial service for deceased class members. The classes of 1931 and 1933 are especially included in the luncheon, along with other classes in school at that time.

Teachers who instructed the 1932 class members during the elementary, junior high, and high school years have been invited and will be honored at the country club luncheon. Those who have not been reached are asked to get in touch with the committee.

Class members who have not been notified should also contact the committee. Contacts can be made with Leo Witkowski at 215 N. Texas in Hereford, phone 364-0991; with Austin Ragland at Ragland's Western Wear in Plainview; or with Mrs. Ray I. Armstrong in Plainview.

Art Guild Meets For Morning Coffee

The Hereford Art Guild met in the home of Leola Cook Tuesday morning for a coffee and business meeting. Hilda Havens and Carrie Mae Doak served as co-hostesses.

Best Loser Announced For July

Cindy Kimbell was selected best loser and also voted "Miss Inspiration" when members of TOPS No. 576 met Tuesday morning at the Community Center.

Mary Lou Spinhirne was runner-up for best loser. During the business session, three new members were welcomed.

The TOPS group meets each Tuesday at 9 a.m. at the Community Center and anyone interested in becoming a member or would just like to visit are encouraged to do so.

President Ms. Havens reported thank you cards from the Good Shepherd committee and from Lucille Guinn.

Several members volunteered to serve as hostesses during the Jubilee in August if needed.

The club voted for a closed membership, limiting the number of members to a total of 24 persons. Gelle Hromas asked to retain her life membership and be allowed to pay regular membership dues with the right to vote. This request will be studied and voted on in a later meeting.

Marguerite Young was appointed to revise the year-book charter, with the assistance of Nell Culpepper.

The next meeting will be at 10 a.m. Aug. 24 in the home of Eunice Petersen. At this meeting, the club hopes to set a regular meeting time for the 1982-83 club year. All members are asked to attend if possible.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Every mother wants to believe that her child has no reason to lie.

Every mother wants to believe stretch marks tan, too. Frankly, I have never understood the mother who declares, "MY child does not lie. He has no reason to."

Actually, he has six or seven hundred reasons to... or at least he thinks he does. All of them have to do with fear of screwing up and getting punished for it.

Maybe parents just aren't looking for the telltale signs of lying.

When you have forbidden your child to go swimming unchaperoned while you are at work and you come home and his eyes are pink from chlorine, his hair is wet, his chest is red and his fingers shriveled from being in the water for four hours and he says he's been reading "Introduction to Math Equations" all afternoon, there's a possibility that he's lying.

When you discover your child throwing a sheet over a new bicycle in the garage and you hear police sirens in the neighborhood and you ask him where he got the bike and he says, "I found it," I'd ask a few questions.

I've discovered every time you ask a child what he is doing and he says, "Nothing," He's lying through his teeth.

Of course there are the obvious lies like, "Did you wash your face?" Then you see a 21-inch tongue lick a path across the entire face and chest as he says, "Yes."

The obvious reason children become so unprincipled is that the rules for telling the truth are so flexible.

This is the way it works. You cannot take a cookie and say you didn't. That's lying.

When a cookie, however, tastes like the bottom of a hamster cage, you can't tell the truth. You have to say it tastes wonderful. That's being merciful.

Some of the most memorable fiction I've ever encountered has come from the mouths of my children. Now that they're older the truth is just beginning to surface on things I never suspected. Like how they once chased one another around the front yard with a steak knife and how a baby-sitter once drank a quart of gin on New Year's Eve.

I hate to admit it publicly, but I appreciate their "mercy." I don't think I could have handled the truth.

Teaching and participating in musical activities are a very important and enjoyable part of life for Nelda Rogers, music teacher at West Central Elementary School.

Nelda has taught school for 11 years, six at West Central and five at Aikman Elementary. She has also taught private piano in her home, off and on for about nine or ten years, mostly when she was not teaching school.

"One of my real thrills has been teaching my own daughters to play the piano," says Nelda. "Right now I am teaching my youngest, and she has been working very hard on it this summer."

Nelda has been a member of the Hereford Chamber Singers for the past two years, and she has also taken private voice lessons for about two years.

She and her husband, Jack, both grew up in Hereford and graduated from West Texas University. She earned her B.S. and M.S. in education, with a concentration in music, and he received a B.S. in business administration. He has owned Jack's Marine Supply for about 15 years.

The Rogers are members of Frio Baptist Church, where Nelda has played the piano for 22 years. They have three daughters, Laura, 20, is working in Amarillo; Deborah, 18, plans to attend WTSU in the fall; and Heather, 9, will be a fourth grader at West Central.

This summer, while Jack is very busy at the store, Nelda's big project has been painting the inside of their home on 113 Ranger. Other things she likes to do if she can find the time are reading, sewing, exercising, riding bicycles, and playing the piano.

The last two summers she has taken off from school, but almost every other summer since she has been teaching, Nelda has gone to school, mainly to week-long seminars dealing with the Kodaly Method of teaching music, which is currently being used widely in the public school system.

"Training is very important in the Kodaly Method," comments Nelda. Most of the seminars she has attended have been held at WTSU, but she has also been to Sam Houston and Stephen F. Austin.

"Although I was aware of the Kodaly Method when I first started teaching," says Nelda, "it has really just been in the last five years or so that structured materials have hit the market and workshops have become available."

The Kodaly Method, which is based on the pentatonic scale (the black notes on the piano), was developed in Hungary and has since been adapted to American musical patterns.

The real secret, says Nelda, is that the system is structured according to a child's level of maturity. Material is sequenced, with one concept built upon another.

Folk music is used to teach children about music and about their heritage, and in Nelda's "general music class" which is made up of fourth, fifth, and sixth graders, students sing, play instruments, dance, learn rhythms, play games, and learn about musicals, composers, and all types of American music and music from other countries.

"It is fun to watch the children's faces when they catch on to something or do something good," comments Nelda. "This age group is capable of doing a lot of things, which is why our program is so varied."

"Band directors at the junior high level tell us that the children are getting to junior high with more knowledge about music and that they are retaining more than in the past," notes Nelda, attributing much of this success to the Kodaly Method.

With her busy schedule, Nelda likes quick and easy recipes so she won't have to spend so much time in the kitchen. Printed below are a few of her favorites.

CHICKEN TAMALE SALAD
1 chicken, boned and chopped (or two 5 oz. cans)

1 (14 oz.) can enchilada sauce
1 (5 oz.) can milk or 1 c. cream

1 (12 oz.) pkg. Fritos, crushed
1 can of cream of mushroom soup

1 (4 oz.) can diced chilies

Mix ingredients together. Cover with grated cheese and bake 35 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves six.

May be frozen and cooked later. A quick company meal.

LOWELL INN CRESCENT ROLLS

Dissolve 2 pkg. yeast in 3/4 c. warm water. Stir in 1/2 c. sugar, 1 tsp. salt, 2 eggs, 1/4 c. soft butter, 1/4 c. shortening, and 2 c. flour.

Add two more cups flour and mix well. Cover with damp cloth and let rise about 1 1/2 hours. Divide dough into two parts.

To shape crescents: roll one part flat in a circle. Cut into 16 pie-shaped pieces. Beginning at large end, roll each toward center. (May be frozen individually, bagged, and used later).

Let rise. Bake 10-15 minutes at 400 degrees. Makes 32 rolls.

CHERRY COKE SALAD

1 pkg. cherry jello
1 coke, regular size
1 can pineapple, crushed and drained
1/2 c. nuts

1 c. dark cherries
Melt jello in hot juice from cherries (1 cup). Add 1/2 cup cold water. Chill until it begins to set. Add pineapple, coke, nuts, and cherries. Return to refrigerator until set.

BROWNIES

1 1/2 sticks oleo
1 1/2 c. sugar
1 c. plus 2 Tbsp. flour
2 Tbsp. cocoa
3 eggs.

3/4 tsp. vanilla
3/4 c. chopped nuts
Melt oleo in sauce pan. Remove from heat. Add sugar; beat until smooth. Add flour, cocoa eggs (one at a time), vanilla, and nuts. Bake in greased 8 X 8 inch square pan at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Speaking of Music...

Music is very important to Nelda Rogers, both in her employment and for her own personal satisfac-

Spielberg Does It Again With 'ET'

Steven Spielberg's "E.T." is one of the most enjoyable pieces of cinema in a long, long time. It's a film the entire family can see and share together, and one many people will want to see over and over again. Thus "E.T." also should become one of the great financial successes of the year, as a film needs the repeat business to become a certified blockbuster.

Everything goes right in the film, even though the story is little more than a variation on "a boy and his dog" theme and the formula is as old as movies — right down to the chase scene at the end. The characters (human, that is) are all finely drawn, and they are played by unknown actors.

"E.T." makes you want to believe. Spielberg, the guiding force of the project, has been making movies that he would like to go and see himself. He is a lover of cinema who knows how to combine the best of the new with the old masterpieces, and, with the possible exception of George Lucas, no one does it better.

"E.T." shows every sign of becoming one of the top-10 money-making films of all time. If that happens it will mean that four of those films — "E.T.," "Jaws," "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," and "Raiders of the Lost Ark" — will have been made by Spielberg, and that, my friends, is almost out of this world.

UNCERTAIN TIMES
(by)
Bob Wear

WE LIVE in uncertain times. We hear this, we read it, and we know it; however, "times" have always been and are always uncertain. Our parents lived in "uncertain times", and their parents before them; and thus it has ever been. This fact is more disturbing to some folk than it is to others; and presents some difficulties for all of us.

THIS IS PART of the reality of life as we must live it; however, there are ways, wholesome and firm and workable ways, to cope with this situation. First, we accept the fact graciously. Then, we concentrate on the importance of the present, and how we can make the best of it. We can be thankful for the realities of the present; diligent in our work; and be alert to present opportunities.

IF WE THINK about the "uncertain times", and let this thinking become dominant, we will be filled with anxieties and dread; or worse. According to available information, much of the perverse and personally hurtful happenings come from over-concern about the "uncertain times".

THE MORE STABLE we make our personal life structure, the less difficulty we will have in accepting and adapting to the "uncertainties" which are so much part of the life experience. The best possible "set of values"; a "carefully established and nourished faith"; an "enlightened understanding"; "wisely chosen aims"; and "the fullest appreciation of day-to-day certainties" will help produce the desire stability.

WE CAN BE "certain" about many things; about the present and the things and people which fill the present. Perhaps someone wants to insist that this "certainty" is for the moment only. Even so, it is much-needed "certainty" in uncertain times and must be appreciated as such, because it helps us maintain our equilibrium. Of course, all of us are free to make our own choices; but, we must be aware that this is a choice that can make us or break us.

IT IS BEST that we not know what the future holds, but it does help to know who holds the future; and this we do know.

Toto Rocks MTV

MTV, WASEC's 24-hour, stereo, all-music channel will mark its first anniversary Aug. 1 by expanding its weekend concert and film schedule. MTV will show special programs on Friday nights in addition to its usual Saturday night concert series and Sunday night music films.

In-studio interviews with today's hottest rock performers run between the regularly scheduled programming, highlighting MTV's featured recording artists and their work.

The band first hit in 1979, and has had four more top-40 hits since then. Keyboardist-singer David Paich said that the group will provide some souped-up effects, creating a special rock 'n' roll atmosphere for MTV viewers, who will watch Toto's filmed concert footage and promo clips.

"We're doing a lot of moving around on the stage to produce interesting things visually, definitely rock 'n' roll antics with lots of stage props," says Paich.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, July 29, the 210th day of 1982. There are 155 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On July 29, 1914, transcontinental telephone service began with the first phone conversation between New York and San Francisco.

On this date:

In 1030, King Olaf, the patron saint of Norway, was killed in battle.

In 1890, Dutch painter Vincent van Gogh died after shooting himself.

In 1920, air mail service began between New York and San Francisco.

In 1940, Germany's all-out blitz against Britain began in World War II.

Ten years ago: Democratic vice presidential nominee Thomas Eagleton, following his admission of past psychiatric treatment, said running mate George McGovern was behind him "1,000 percent."

Conflicting Stories

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You revealed your ignorance when you replied to that busybody who was obviously envious of the women who worked in the bakery, helping themselves to donuts, coffee cake and brownies and everything else in the showcase.

Apparently you do not know that a certain amount is automatically deducted from the paychecks of people who handle food, whether they eat it or not. In most establishments the employees who are around food all day get sick of the stuff and don't eat nearly as much as they pay for, so the boss makes money on the deal.

I have been on both sides of this one - owner and wage-earner - and I can tell you there is no such thing as a free lunch, snack, mouthful or anything else. Every item in business is carefully considered, or the owners would go broke. Rest assured that nobody is pigging out at the company's expense. So 40 lashes with a soggy noodle from a high-class Sacramento Deli. - A Daily Reader

DEAR DAILY: I can't believe things are so different in Sacramento. The results of the mini-survey taken by my office tell a vastly different story.

Sally Blecker, a manager of a Fannie May store in Chicago, said the employees can eat all they want - no charge.

Peter Karabatsos, the head man at Ashkenaz delicatessen, informed us that they have no objections to the employees eating whatever they like.

Marian Wagner, the owner of Kuhn's Delie, lets her employees know they can eat anything they want. No one checks and no one cares.

Marshall Field's bakery department said, "We encourage our employees to eat the products. How can they sell anything if they don't know how it tastes?"

Mrs. Dorner at Heinemann's Bakeries said, "Our employees can eat as much as they like. We wouldn't think of deducting anything from their wages."

Gabe Sotelin, co-owner of Ambria's (an elegant French restaurant): "All employees are considered family - we encourage tasting and comments."

At McDonald's company-owned restaurants all employees whose work time spans mealtime eat without charge.

After that little survey I found myself whistling, "My kind of town - Chicago is ..."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just married into this family and don't want to make any trouble. (I'm a second wife.) My father-in-law is a dear man in his 70s, but he has several missing teeth. The ones that are left look as if they are not very good. I have mentioned this to my husband and he said, "I wouldn't offend my dad for anything in the world. Skip it."

Every time he comes for dinner I get upset. Please tell me what to do. (Money is not a problem. He has plenty. What can be wrong?) - E in Erie, Pa.

DEAR ERIE: The old gentleman is probably afraid of the pain. He may have been traumatized by a dentist in his early years and has never gotten over it. In a kindly way tell the dear gent that dentistry is very different today and there is almost no pain. Beg him to let you make an appointment - and TAKE him there. Good dental health is vital and could mean added years to a person's life.

CONFIDENTIAL to Say It Again for the Yallies: Gladly. It is wise to remember that 50 percent of the surgeons now operating graduated in the bottom half of their class.

McBride Still Paying His Dues

POWHATAN, Va. (AP) — David T. McBride's seven-year odyssey to escape a 25-year prison term for selling LSD is over. After fleeing to Canada and then Sweden, he's back behind bars, serving the remaining 22 years of his sentence.

"I've suffered enough punishment," said McBride who while in Sweden started a shipbuilding business and led an "exemplary" life, according to a U.S. consul there.

McBride, 34, was captured May 5 at New York's Kennedy International Airport while en route from the Virgin Islands to his home in Stockholm.

"I have rehabilitated myself," he said during an interview at the Powhatan Correctional Center, a unit for parole violators and escapees.

He has written Gov. Charles S. Robb, requesting clemency from the remainder of his sentence. His earliest parole date is 1985 but, McBride said, "I can't stand it (in prison) that long."

Among those backing McBride is former Bedford Commonwealth's Attorney Harry Garrett Jr., who prosecuted McBride.

Garrett wrote Robb that McBride's life in Sweden is "further confirmation of his...rehabilitation." The U.S. consul in Stockholm, Robert F. Dorr, described McBride as "law-abiding and apparently exemplary."

McBride, who has a Swedish wife and a 2-year-old son, said the worst part about being back in prison is separation from his family, staying with his parents in Lynchburg.

"Personally, I think about my family and my son. He's confused, and his life could be destroyed by this. He needs...me home," he said.

McBride was convicted in March 1971 of twice selling LSD tablets to a man working for police.

"I admit freely to being wrong. I was around 21 when it happened. In the late 1960s and early 1970s, many kids...were experimenting with marijuana and LSD, and some sold it to friends," he said.

"I don't think anyone was given 25 years for a first conviction. I should have received one or two years. The three years I spent in prison were enough punishment."

After appeals failed, McBride was sent to the Southampton Correctional Center, where he became a trustee. He fled while on a weekend furlough in July 1975.

McBride, whose first marriage broke up while he was in prison, said, "It was getting harder and harder to return. I had given up hope. There were murderers there serving only 10 years."

A carpenter before entering prison, McBride peddled his carpentry tools for about $1,000, left Lynchburg and went to Washington, where he sent a letter to the Southampton warden apologizing for escaping.

"I can see no other way or path," he wrote.

From Washington, he flew to Seattle and, a few weeks later, backpacked into British Columbia.

Supporting himself with odd jobs, he went to Alberta and then to Toronto, where he met his Swedish wife, Maria. After a year in Canada, McBride and his wife went to Sweden, where he told authorities of his past.

Swedish officials gave McBride a passport and told him he must inform police of his status every three months. He soon received a permanent residency permit that allowed him to settle in Sweden.

Using $1,000 he and his wife had saved and some money borrowed from his in-laws, McBride began building sailboats in 1978 and eventually set up his own boat-building company.

McBride decided to travel to the Virgin Islands several months ago to look for more work. The family also was considering moving there because "we felt it would be good to be close to the United States so our son might go to school in the U.S."

McBride was unable to get a direct return flight to Sweden, so he decided to make connections in New York.

While switching airlines at Kennedy, he had to pass through customs, where his passport was routinely run through a computer. The readout showed he had escaped from prison in Virginia.

When he realized he had been caught, McBride said he was flooded with the "pain of memories of prison. I began thinking of my family and Sweden and that everything was now destroyed."

McBride's wife and son came to America and will stay with his parents "until I get freed. There's no choice but to stay as close as possible."

On July 19, McBride was given a one-year suspended prison term for the escape, but that suspension does not affect his original sentence.

Secretary of the Commonwealth Laurie Naismith said McBride's attorney is preparing a formal pardon request which she will investigate. Ms. Naismith's findings will then be given to the state Parole Board, which will make a recommendation to the governor.

Meanwhile, McBride waits in West Housing, established three years ago as a central location for prisoners being considered for release.

"I hope Governor Robb will realize I am a human being who has suffered enough," he said. "I want freedom now so I can put my life back together."

Entrepreneurs Need Improvements

NEW YORK (AP) — New businesses create jobs, products and wealth. They bring competition to the marketplace. Their innovations often improve life. They are the means by which a free economy renews itself.

Nine out of 10 small businesses fail in the first five years. And most of them fail because of the entrepreneur's own managerial shortcomings.

Shocking, considering that small business — sales of $10 million or less a year — is the fulcrum on which so much of the economy balances. And small business may have to support an even bigger load tomorrow.

"If the failure rate could be reduced by improved selection and training of entrepreneurs," said William McCrae, "the impact on the economy would be significant." That is a sizable understatement.

McCrae, an entrepreneur himself, reasons that if the rate were lowered by about 10 percent — to 8 in 10 — about 60,000 companies, and maybe 600,000 jobs, would be saved each year. Each and every year.

Estimating the cost of creating a new job to average about $30,000 — much higher in some industries — McCrae figures the savings would be $18 billion a year. Unemployment, he believes, would fall 0.5 percent.

Can it be done? A good question, because entrepreneurs are by nature independent, self-reliant and zealous believers in their capabilities, and not inclined to take instructions from academics or bureaucrats.

But, says McCrae, they will listen to instructions from their peers, from people they think understand them, from those who have successfully traversed the same potholed road on which they are traveling.

The National Center will draw on the services of various groups who have been concerned with these job creators. It will cooperate rather than compete.

What makes the Development Center particularly appropriate is that new-business formations are rising this year, probably at a rate of 700,000 or so, a consequence of recession and the greater need to take risks.

2 of 3 Local Teams Get Wins

Hereford all-star baseball teams won two of three games in postseason play Wednesday, with the 14-15 year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars rebounding from an earlier loss in the state tournament, and the Major League stars opening sectional play with a win as well.

The Hereford Mustang Division representatives saw their season ended in an 18-8 loss to Dimmitt, however, in the sectional tourney in Amarillo.

The Ruthians came back after a loss to Graham Monday to clip host Brownfield 5-4 in a loser's bracket contest in the West Texas State Tournament Wednesday. The locals will try to stay alive in the double-elimination event with an 8 p.m. contest against Lubbock tonight.

Here in Hereford, the Major League Blue All-Stars clipped Amarillo's National All-Stars 7-6 as the four-team sectional tournament began at the local complex.

Ross Torres and Jason Scott combined to gain the win on the mound with Torres starting and going four innings before getting relief from Scott.

Hereford coach Jerry Collier said that "we hit the ball when we needed it the most," attributing much of the team's win to "heads up baseball."

"Our baserunning was just great also," Collier added.

Collier plans to start Tim Long, a fastballer, in a second-round match against El Paso, which defeated the Amarillo American Stars 7-2 Wednesday night. The game tonight begins at 6 p.m., with the two Amarillo teams paired at the same time in an elimination bout.

The loser of the Hereford-El Paso game will stay and play the winner between the two Amarillo teams tonight, while the winner will sit back and wait for a possible doubleheader Friday.

Shootout

Colby Lassiter, foreground, and brother Joby, were two of the hosting shooters at the Deaf Smith 4-H Shooting Sports Club invitational trap shoot Saturday. The two brothers were on the winning 5-man junior team which included Phillip Webster, Brent Reid and Scott Robbins.

Shooters Claim Division Titles

Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers hosted an invitational trap shoot Saturday at the airport range and took the five-man team and two-man team titles in the senior division.

Nearly 70 area shooters attended the event.

The top five-man senior team is Randy Ray, Colby Lassiter, Chad Stephan, Allan Morris and Jeff Morris. Castro County took second place.

Juniors from Deaf Smith County also won division first place. Shooting were Phillip Webster, Brent Reid, Colby Springer, Joby Springer and Scott Robbins.

Castro County took the sub-junior division.

Stephan and C. Lassiter took the two-man team win with Jeff and Allan Morris placing second and a Castro County team at third.

Phillip Webster and Brent Reid placed second in the junior division behind two Randall County marksmen. Bailey County placed third and Castro County fourth.

Keith Kelso and Arron Savage squeezed in at fourth in the sub-junior division behind teams from Castro County at first and second and Randall County at third.

Placing individually were Stephan, first; C. Lassiter, second; and Frank Lyons, fourth, in the seniors. Webster was first and Robb Wells fourth in juniors.

Whistle Blower Breaks Probation

MIAMI (AP) — Don Reese, who shocked the sports world two months ago with allegations of widespread drug abuse in the National Football League, has been charged with violating probation following a six-week investigation.

Authorities said Reese triggered the investigation himself, after making statements in a controversial Sports Illustrated article detailing how he and other NFL players used cocaine following Reese's release from prison on a 1977 drug-trafficking conviction.

A warrant was issued Wednesday for the arrest of Reese. But George Yoss, chief assistant Dade County state attorney, said it would not be executed because he had been assured the former Miami Dolphins and New Orleans Saints player will surrender in Miami next week.

Yoss and state probation officer Phillip Ware met Wednesday with Reese's attorney, Robert Josefsberg. Yoss said Josefsberg had told him Reese would surrender next week.

Attempts to reach Josefsberg at his office were unsuccessful.

Reese and former Miami Dolphins teammate Randy Crowder, who now plays for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and has not been implicated in the current probe, pleaded no contest to charges of selling a pound of cocaine to two undercover Miami policemen on May 4, 1977.

Circuit Judge Joseph Durant sentenced the two on Aug. 10, 1977 to one year in the Dade County Stockade and five years probation. The probation will expire on Aug. 10.

"There wouldn't have been anything I could do," if Reese had waited until mid-August to tell his story, Yoss said.

Reese was targeted for investigation in June after publication of his first-person story, alleging cocaine use among NFL players.

Johnson In, Zimmer Confused

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Darrell Johnson today is the Texas Rangers' 11th manager in 11 seasons but the man he replaced, Don Zimmer, still does not understand why he was fired.

Zimmer's job ended Wednesday night, after Texas lost 3-2 to the Milwaukee Brewers for a 38-58 record, third-worst in the major leagues.

He had known since Monday he was being fired but, in a move Zimmer said was unprecedented during his 33 years in baseball, majority owner Eddie Chiles asked him to continue to run the team through Wednesday's game.

Chiles said Zimmer was not fired because of the Rangers' pitiful play but because of "something personal" that Chiles refused to explain. Rumors of the firing began circulating Monday but Chiles — who had discussed his decision with Zimmer Monday — denied the reports as late as Tuesday night, calling them unfounded.

Zimmer said a confidential report on his managerial abilities, prepared by team statistician Craig Wright, was a key to his downfall but

Chiles said otherwise. "It had nothing whatsoever to do with my decision," he said. "I haven't even read it fully."

Zimmer removed his pictures, plaques and mementoes from his office walls well before gametime Wednesday, and had packed a suitcase with his personal belongings.

It was about five hours until game time. Zimmer sat around a table, playing cards with two of his coaches, and as he played out a losing hand, he said jokingly, "Go ahead, boys, cut me up. I've been cut up the last three days, anyway."

During a pre-game talk with sports writers, Zimmer said he was disappointed in the way his firing had been handled.

"You don't fire a man, then tell him to go to work. Why couldn't he fire me Monday? Or, why couldn't he wait until today (Wednesday) to tell me?" he asked rhetorically. "People all over baseball are laughing about this right now."

"Zim's a good manager," said Ranger outfielder Mickey Rivers. "This team is no good. This team can't play, that's the problem."

"I don't think we're going to find anyone better to replace him," added pitcher Doc Medich. "I like this man. I like him a lot. He's always been honest and fair with me."

Zimmer said he was offered the opportunity to resign but declined.

"We discussed that, but I told him (Chiles) this place is a mess and there's no way I'm going to quit ... under those circumstances. I would have liked to stay and help straighten it out, but it didn't work out," Zimmer said.

Chiles Chides Press For Breaking Story

By JOE STROOP - AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — What bothered Texas Rangers majority owner Eddie Chiles about the firing of his manager was not the deed, but the way it was reported.

Chiles blistered area sports reporters during a press conference announcing Don Zimmer's dismissal and the naming of Darrell Johnson as the team's 11th manager in 11 seasons.

Zimmer was told Monday that he would be fired but Chiles asked him to keep the information secret and stay on until Wednesday night.

However, rumors of the firing began circulating late Monday and local newsmen pursued the story, reporting the firing long before Chiles' official Wednesday announcement.

Zimmer and others said Chiles handled the firing badly, but Chiles said all blame rests with "the news media."

"It wasn't planned to be handled this way," he said. "I've heard on radio and TV ... that it was badly handled. It wouldn't have been if the press hadn't gotten involved in a way they weren't entitled to."

"A lot of the media have the 'Watergate syndrome,' where they think they have to dig for something bad. This matter was set up to be handled as well as it could be, then it was leaked to the press and it was like a tornado had broken loose."

Chiles said reporters should have exercised restraint, even to the point of not pursuing the story.

"There is a limit the media should go to," he said. "The press has no license to run roughshod over someone's dignity."

Earlier Wednesday, Zimmer admitted he was disappointed in the way his dismissal had been handled.

"You don't fire a man, then tell him to go to work," he said. "Why didn't he fire me Monday? Or why didn't he wait until today (Wednesday) to tell me?"

"I asked Don Zimmer, as a personal favor to me, to stay on and manage for a couple more days, to give me the opportunity to find a replacement," Chiles said. "He, being a gentleman, said 'Sure. I'll do the best I can.' Now that's just two men working together, there's nothing unusual in that."

Zimmer, however, said he had never heard of a similar incident in his 33-year career in baseball.

Former major-league player Bob Uecker and longtime manager Bobby Bragan also said the incident was unique in their experience.

"I've been fired so many times I feel like an old gun," said Bragan, "but this (Zimmer's firing) may be a first."

Chiles stuck by his claim that reporters were to blame.

"You are always trying to find fault with things people do," he said. "I think you guys are the ones that are off base."

The Rangers' dismal 38-58 record was not the reason Zimmer was fired, Chiles said, but he would not explain the reasons in detail.

Zimmer, seated beside Chiles during the press gathering, was asked if he understood the firing.

"No. Hell, no," Zimmer said. "He (Chiles) says he understands, but I don't."

Chiles refused to be pressed into an explanation.

"We are not a public business. We're not a government agency. You're not entitled to know everything we do," he said.

Reminded that reporters represent the curiosity of the ticket-buying public, Chiles said, "They know all they need to know."

Asked why Darrell Johnson was picked as interim manager to replace Zimmer, Chiles snapped, "That's my business," and left the room.

Earl Out of Dog House, But Avoiding Dugout

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Don Zimmer managed his last three games for the Texas Rangers as a lame duck, while Earl Weaver, back in the American League's good graces after a one-week suspension, has temporarily flown the Baltimore Orioles' coop.

Those strange goings-on highlighted Wednesday night's action, which also included big rallies by the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees and the California Angels' 13-1 romp over the Oakland A's.

Zimmer's finale turned out to be another heartbreaking loss — 3-2 to the Milwaukee Brewers — one of many the Rangers have suffered in compiling a 38-58 record. After the game, Zimmer was replaced by coach Darrell Johnson...who, ironically, was succeeded by Zimmer as manager of the Boston Red Sox just over six years ago.

Weaver, who was suspended by AL President Lee MacPhail after poking his finger in umpire Terry Cooney's face during an argument, was eligible to manage again Tuesday night. But with Baltimore on a tear, the superstitious Weaver stayed away from the dugout and did it again Wednesday as the Orioles edged the Chicago White Sox 2-1 and stretched their longest winning streak of the season to seven games.

Elsewhere, the Red Sox, who trailed 7-1 after 2½ innings, overtook the Toronto Blue Jays 9-7, the Yankees erupted for five runs in the seventh and nipped the Detroit Tigers 8-7, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Kansas City Royals, 4-2 and the Seattle Mariners 6-2. The Rangers lost for the 14th time in their last 17 games. They handed Milwaukee a pair of unearned runs in the first inning and then bowed to Ted Simmons' tiebreaking sacrifice fly in the eighth, spoiling Frank Tanana's five-hitter.

Simmons' sacrifice fly, following singles by Paul Molitor and Robin Yount and a sacrifice, provided the run that kept the Brewers atop the AL East, one-half game ahead of the Red Sox.

Orioles 2, White Sox 1
Eddie Murray and John Lowenstein singled home sixth-inning runs to back the nine-hit pitching of Scott McGregor and two relievers. Ken Singleton doubled with one out in the sixth and scored the tying run on a single by Murray, who took second on a high, off-target throw by right fielder Harold Baines. Lowenstein followed with an RBI single off loser Richard Dotson.

Weaver was in uniform, but not in the dugout during the game in what he said was an attempt not to jinx the streaking Orioles.

Red Sox 9, Blue Jays 7
Dwight Evans drove in four runs with a pair of homers and Carney Lansford capped a six-run fifth inning with a three-run shot. The Red Sox trailed 7-1 after 2½ innings but Evans hit a solo homer in the third. Then, after singles by Glenn Hoffman and Rick Miller in the fifth, Evans lined another homer that pulled Boston within 7-5. Jim Rice and Carl Yastrzemski followed with singles and Roy Lee Jackson relieved Dave Stieb. Lansford greeted him with a towering homer, putting the Red Sox in front.

Yankees 8, Tigers 7
With the Yankees trailing 7-3, Dave Collins started the seventh-inning rally with a triple, Bucky Dent, who had a two-run single earlier, singled, Willie Randolph walked and one out later, Jerry Mumphrey singled to make it 7-5. Lou Piniella was sent up to bat for Oscar Gamble and Detroit summoned Bob James, just up from the minors, for his AL debut. Bobby Murcer batted for Piniella and slammed James' second pitch into the right field seats.

Angels 13, A's 1
Don Baylor and Ron Jackson each drove in four runs with three hits apiece while Mike Witt scattered six hits and blanked Oakland until the ninth inning. Baylor hit a pair of two-run homers while Jackson had a two-run single and a two-run double. The victory gave the Angels a two-game lead over Kansas City in the AL West.

Indians 4, Royals 2
Rookie Carmen Castillo cracked a tie-breaking two-run homer — his first in the majors — to back the three-hit pitching of Rick Sutcliffe, who needed last-out help from Dan Spillner. Castillo's homer came off loser Bill Castro and followed a single by Rick Mas added a run in the eighth on Chris Bando's triple and Rodney Craig's single.

Mariners 6, Twins 2
Richie Zisk belted a two-run homer and a double, extending his hitting streak to 15 games. Zisk opened the second inning with a double and scored on Rick Sweet's broken-bat single. Gary Gray followed with an RBI double. An inning later, Bruce Bochte walked and Zisk followed with his 13th home run.

San Diego Manager Dick Williams figured he could change his luck by getting his team to the ballpark late and not take batting practice.

It didn't help, though. "The Braves are in a heck of a position," said Williams after his Padres' third straight loss to the National League West leaders Wednesday night.

Atlanta's 8-6 victory in the big series between the 1-2 teams in the NL West moved the Braves a hefty eight games in front of the Padres, their biggest advantage of the season.

Atlanta right-hander Phil Niekro collected the 250th victory of his career but preferred to look at the numbers in the standings instead.

Bob Horner knocked in five runs for the Braves with a two-run homer in the first inning and three-run shot in the third. That gave the Braves the cushion they needed to offset a late rally when San Diego scored once in the eighth and three times in the ninth off relievers Al Hrabosky and Gene Garber.

Niekro, 10-3, worked seven innings, allowing five hits, while walking two and fanning three. He was working on only three days' rest and lifted his career record to 250-219, becoming only the 34th pitcher in major league history to reach that victory level.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Philadelphia 4, Pittsburgh 3; Montreal 5, Chicago 3; Houston 4, Cincinnati 2; St. Louis 7, New York 5 and San Francisco 6, Los Angeles 2.

Phillies 4, Pirates 3
Mike Schmidt hit his 16th home run and Philadelphia scored three runs in two Pittsburgh errors to beat the Pirates in a game highlighted by the record-breaking fielding performance of the Phillies' Manny Trillo.

Larry Christenson, 6-5, was the winner with relief help. Ron Reed finished up for the Phillies, posting his fourth save after giving up a sacrifice fly to Dale Berra in the ninth.

The Phillies' three unearned runs came in the second inning off Rick Rhoden, 6-9. After the Pirates came back with a run in the third, Schmidt hit Rhoden's first pitch of the sixth inning for the Phillies' winning run.

Trillo set a major-league record for second basemen, playing in his 87th consecutive game in a season without an error. His performance Tuesday night had tied the 86-game mark set by Rich Dauer of Baltimore in 1978.

Expos 5, Cubs 3
Warren Cromartie and Tim Raines each drilled three hits and knocked in a run apiece to lead Montreal over Chicago.

Bill Gullickson, 8-8, scattered eight hits, struck out seven and walked one in 8½ innings before Jeff Reardon took over. Reardon gave up Jody Davis' run-scoring double and RBI singles by Larry Bowa and Bob Molinayo before securing the victory for Montreal.

Dickie Noles, 6-9, was the loser.

Astros 4, Reds 2
Art Howe slugged a two-run double in the sixth inning to power Houston over Cincinnati behind Joe Niekro's seven-hitter.

Ray Knight drew a walk from loser Mario Soto, 8-7, to lead off the sixth and took second on Jose Cruz's single. Two outs later, Howe doubled to score Knight and Cruz and gave the Astros a 3-2 lead.

Niekro, 10-7, went the distance for the eighth time this season, striking out two and walking three.

Howe hit his double after striking out twice previously against Soto, the NL's strikeout leader.

Cardinals 7, Mets 5
Lonnie Smith tripled home the tying run in the seventh and scored one out later on George Hendrick's double, leading St. Louis over New York. Before rallying for three runs in the seventh, the Cardinals blew a 4-0 lead they had built after three innings.

The Mets rallied on Dave Kingman's two-run homer in the sixth and John Stearn's solo home run in the seventh. Hubie Brooks' single and Wally Backman's double followed Stearn's homer, providing New York with a 5-4 edge in the seventh before the Cardinals came back.

Jeff Keener, 1-1, gained his first major-league triumph with relief from Bruce Sutter, who posted his 21st save.

Giants 6, Dodgers 2
Joe Morgan singled to open a four-run first-inning outburst and drove in the 1,000th run of his career in the third, leading San Francisco over Los Angeles. All four runs in the first were off Dodger right-hander Dave Stewart.

WHO AM I?

I grew up on a farm. That doesn't mean, though, that I don't have an education. I've got a degree in mathematics. My real work dates back to the 1969 Super Bowl. And earlier. My trademarks are durability and consistency.

ANSWER: REXNER, Randy. Rexner, a former NFL player, was an All-Pro in 1969. He was in the NFL from 1969 to 1974.

Charles, Diana Celebrate First Anniversary Quietly

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles and Princess Diana, looking the picture of married bliss with their 5-week-old son Prince William, were celebrating their first wedding anniversary quietly today.

Buckingham Palace said no special celebrations were planned. Charles was going to Brize Norton air base west of London to welcome the 1st Battalion of the Welsh Guards home from the Falkland Islands, and a spokeswoman said Diana and the baby would spend the day quietly at the family's London apartment at Kensington Palace.

Charles as Prince of Wales is a colonel in the Welsh Guards.

The low-key anniversary was in contrast to the couple's wedding last July 29 last year, when cheering crowds lined their route to St. Paul's Cathedral and an estimated 800 million people around the world watched on television.

British newspapers marked the anniversary with three photographs of the family taken last week by Lord Snowdon, the ex-husband of Charles' aunt Princess Margaret and a professional photographer.

One of the photographs showed Charles with white shirt open at the neck, Diana in a cream silk dress with a string of pearls holding the baby on her left arm, and William, who was born June 21, in a white gown with lace edging, his blue eyes open wide.

The other two photos showed Diana with the baby.

The little prince is to be christened next Wednesday by the archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Robert Runcie, in the music room at Buckingham Palace. The ceremony will be televised.

Diana, 21, with her cross-the-brow bangs and long bob, shy smile, youthful zest, ruffled clothes and easy touch with children, has rocketed to the top of British popularity polls since her marriage. Charles, 33, is also immensely popular.

National celebrations, first of their wedding and then of the birth of their son, have done much to offset the public's displeasure with Princess Margaret, Charles' 51-year-old aunt, and Princess Anne, his 31-year-old sister.

Margaret was severely criticized for her divorce in 1978 from Lord Snowdon and afterward for her friendship and Caribbean vacations with Roddy Llewellyn, a society dropout 17 years her junior. The association ended when he married a woman his own age last summer.

Anne is considered surly, rude and bad-tempered. Her huffy indifference while on a trip to the United States when reporters asked her for comment about the birth of Prince William was panned by the press, and she was accused of being jealous of her sister-in-law.

The wedding anniversary and the memories it brought back also helped to divert the public from the recent revelations that Queen Elizabeth's bodyguard for the past nine years was a secret homosexual and that lax security at Buckingham Palace allowed a mentally disturbed man to get into the queen's bedroom while she was asleep and sit on the foot of her bed talking to her for 10 minutes before help arrived.

A message from the Texas Department of Public Safety

Two Men Released On Bond In Kerrville Motel Scheme

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Two San Antonio men have posted bond and waived removal to California to face charges in connection with an alleged scheme to buy a Kerrville motel with counterfeit checks.

Attorney Anthony Nicholas of San Antonio said he was retained to represent Wendell Stasey and Wallace Wade Smith, both of San Antonio, and convinced U.S. Magistrate Robert O'Connor to lower their bonds from $1 million to $250,000 each.

Nicholas said the U.S. attorney in Fresno, Calif., agreed to his motion and the two men were released Wednesday and ordered to go to California for an Aug. 9 hearing.

Stasey, Smith and two California men were arrested by FBI agents a week ago and charged with conspiring to pass three counterfeit checks totaling $896,000, to make a down payment on the $3 million purchase of the Holiday Inn in Kerrville.

FBI agent Tom Harney of Fresno, Calif., said in an affidavit that the checks were drawn on Certified Grocers of California Inc., and were made payable to Consolidated Investment Trust Inc.

The affidavit alleged the plan was to deposit the three checks in an escrow account at a Swiss bank, then withdraw the money in cash before it was discovered the checks were no good.

Stasey, a San Antonio realtor, was charged with conspiracy to commit mail fraud, wire fraud, and interstate transportation of counterfeit checks.

Smith and Ralph Rane of Encino, Calif., and Jack Charles of Canoga Park, Calif., were charged with conspiracy to commit mail fraud.

Harney alleged in his affidavit that Stasey sent counterfeit checks totalling $896,060.17 to Randy Lawson, president of Freedom Funding Factoring in Merced, Calif., on July 12.

Lawson told the FBI that Stasey first called him July 6 and asked him to set up the account in the Swiss Bank's U.S. affiliate for the purchase of $200 million in land near Kerrville.

However, the affidavit said Lawson received another telephone call from Stasey after the checks arrived from San Antonio. Stasey instructed Lawson to withdraw the cash from the account once it had been established and deliver it to him in San Antonio on July 16, Harney said in the statement.

When Lawson advised his attorney, Howard Tangle, of the second telephone call from Stasey, Tangle became suspicious of the transaction," the affidavit said.

FBI Refuses Sheriff's Bill For Arrest Of Agent

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — An FBI undercover attempt to "sting" the Galveston County sheriff netting nothing but embarrassment and cost taxpayers almost $6,000, county officials say.

Now county officials want to be reimbursed for expenses incurred by the department investigation of the attempted bribe.

The bill included $4,951.98 in overtime for 33 deputies; $243.50 for film and processing; $312.77 for lodging and food; and $124.74 for gasoline and miscellaneous expenses.

Sheriff Joe Max Taylor, the

to the FBI, asking the county be reimbursed for expenses incurred by the department investigation of the attempted bribe.

The bill included $4,951.98 in overtime for 33 deputies; $243.50 for film and processing; $312.77 for lodging and food; and $124.74 for gasoline and miscellaneous expenses.

Sheriff Joe Max Taylor, the apparent target of the sting, said his officers "had no knowledge whatsoever of this sting until the thing went down. Of course I feel that they're just looking for an answer to answer now."

Taylor said county officials "are very irate," first at the sting attempt and second by having to pay to uncover it.

Religious Surge In China

Called Astonishing But Shaky

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The scope of religious revival in China has astonished both the government and religious communities there, says a U.S. authority on that country, but he also sees potential dangers to the trend.

Paradoxically, a main threat cited is also a big gain — the rising stream of young people into the churches.

It "poses the greatest potential danger to the church's relations with the state," says Paul Richard Bohr, a China expert and executive director of the Midwest China Center in St. Paul, Minn.

With an estimated 1 million young people now publicly attending worship services, he says, government organs have stepped up warnings that "religion must not be allowed to become too attractive to disillusioned youth."

Should it be seen as doing so, he adds, toleration of it could be reversed.

"Already, at least in rural areas, officials are skeptical of 'modernization,' saying it's not a good thing and religion is not a good thing," Bohr said on return last week from his latest trip to China.

Nevertheless, in a 20-page summation of recent religious developments in China, issued by the China Council of the Asia Society in Washington, Bohr says religion in the Communist-run country has made a stunning comeback.

"Nowhere is the resurgence of religious life more dramatic than in China's Christian community," he says, adding that it now surpasses the 4 million total members of 1949 when the Communists came to power.

In the years of varied restraints and virtual eradication of visible religious life in the "cultural revolution" of 1966-76, Bohr says Chinese Christians attained "psychological maturity."

During that period, he says, "both Protestants and Catholics claim that they acquired a deep understanding of poverty and suffering, patience and faithfulness, which they associated with the original New Testament experience..."

"They have emerged with self-confidence and vitality — and with their numbers expanded... Clergy and lay leaders have been returned from factories, labor camps and prison cells..."

Stepfather Accused In Child's Beating

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A neurologist and two other physicians will decide when to disconnect a respirator that is keeping a burned and battered 2-year-old child alive, hospital officials say.

The team of doctors remove life support systems only when certain the patient's brain is dead, said Dr. Berry Squyres, chief of staff at Lubbock General Hospital.

An electroencephalogram performed Tuesday on Robert Hernandez did not detect brain waves, doctors said. A second test was performed Wednesday, but the results were not available.

Squyres declined to comment specifically about the case, except to say that the child remained in extremely critical condition Wednesday night.

The child has cigarette burns on his chest and back, laceration of the genitals, bruises and a gash on his head, a hospital spokesman said.

Police said a piece of metal removed from the child's head leads them to suspect the boy may have been hit with a metal object.

The child's stepfather, Lee Roy Orana Licon, 28, was arrested Tuesday and charged with injury to a child. He was being held in the Lubbock County jail on $100,000 bond, said Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack.

Licon is accused of beating the boy in the head with his hand, said Assistant Criminal

District Attorney Marta Rosas.

Licon could be charged with murder, if the child dies, Blalack said.

Police said Licon told them the child collapsed Monday after he ate rat poison in his eastside home. But blood tests performed on Hernandez did not detect the presence of poison, detectives said.

The child was found nude in the front yard of Licon's home Monday, police said.

Licon and his common-law wife, Amelia Hernandez, said that they heard a loud crash and found the child on their kitchen floor. Licon said he put Hernandez in a shower to revive him, then called an ambulance.

The team of physicians that will make the decision on removing the child's respirator will include his attending physician, Squyres said.

"On any patient, life support systems will continue until there is certainty that brain death occurs," he said. "We will follow that protocol in every case."

Spokesmen in the district attorney's office said that the absence of a legal definition of death in the Texas Penal Code has created problems for doctors trying to decide whether to terminate life support systems.

Civil laws state that a person is legally dead if spontaneous respiratory and circulatory functions have ceased, attorneys said.

HEALTH Hysterectomy not to blame Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 43 years old and a year ago I had a complete hysterectomy. Since that time my skin has aged at least five years, especially around the eyes and down the cheek bones. Until about a month ago I was taking hormone shots and now I take Premarin. I realize age has a lot to do with the skin drying out, but I know other women who are much younger than I am and they are having the same problem since they had a hysterectomy. I live in a very dry desert area which I am sure adds to this condition. I have tried almost every kind of moisturizer cream on the market and nothing seems to help. Is there anything I can do to help keep my skin from getting worse? It is very heartbreaking to see your skin become like a dry river bed. DEAR READER - Don't be so sure your hysterectomy has anything to do with your skin changes. Since you are taking hormones I presume you had your ovaries removed, too. This is not always the case with a complete hysterectomy. A little girl's skin doesn't show these changes before she produces quantities of female hormones. The areas of skin not exposed to sun and wind don't show the changes you now see on your face either. One illustration of how weather affects the skin is the observation that a weather-beaten old cowboy often has good skin over his buttocks - I presume saddle sores don't count. Your women friends who are "much younger than you" may still have their ovaries, yet still you see the same changes. No doubt they are all exposed to the same desert climate. The best thing you can do is protect your face from sun and wind. In the morning at least an hour before you go out use a strong sun screen that contains PABA. The higher the number the better the protection. Then cover your skin well with Vaseline or some other physical blocker. Finally, use clothing, hats or whatever, to your best advantage. Wear gloves and try to stay out of the strongest sun period of the day.

FDIC Looks For New Owners

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. is trying to find new owners to reopen two small-town Bowie County banks that went broke because of "questionable loans."

Guaranty Bond State Bank of Redwater and the Bowie County State Bank of Hooks, both near Texarkana, voluntarily were closed by their directors on Wednesday. State bank officials who went to the jointly-owned banks for a routine examination three weeks ago discovered the problem loans, according to State Banking Commissioner Robert Stewart.

Depositors at the two banks were greeted with a terse notice posted on the two banks.

"We have voted to close the bank on this date," the directors told depositors.

Roy Jackson, FDIC regional director in Dallas, said FDIC officials hoped to meet with potential purchasers of the two banks Wednesday night. He said bids for the banks would be received today.

Stan Clark, an FDIC spokesman at the meeting, declined to comment on what transpired at the meeting.

"Our goal now if we can work out the transaction is to have a new bank open in either one or both communities Friday," Jackson said.

"We want to minimize as much as possible the time the banks have to be closed, the depositors without their money."

Larry Hamilton, owner of the Redwater Grocery Store next door to the Guaranty Bond State Bank, said, "There are a lot of people out here who depend on this bank for everything."

Deposits in Bowie County State Bank totaled about $13.6 million and Guaranty Bond State Bank held about $12.6 million, according to Alan Whitney, FDIC spokesman in Washington.

All deposits in the banks fell below the $100,000 maximum guaranteed by FDIC, he said.

Deputy State Banking Commissioner Gary Pool would not comment Wednesday on the nature of the "questionable loans."

The banks were the 23rd and 24th in the nation to fail this year, Whitney said, adding that a total of 10 banks failed in 1981. The FDIC insures deposits in 14,800 banks.

The last Texas bank to close was the Bank of Woodson on March 2.

A news release from Stewart's office said the two banks could show no collateral for some outstanding loans. Stewart said those loans had to be classified as losses for the banks, rendering them insolvent.

The loans were made by Guaranty Bond State Bank, but the Bowie County State Bank bought a "substantial portion" of the loans, according to Stewart.

The banks share ownership. Henry Earl Fagan owns the majority of stock and is president of both banks. Fagan drew some publicity in March for his $12 million to $15 million investment in "And They're Off," a horse racing movie filmed in Kentucky. Fagan could not be reached for comment Wednesday. Calls to his home telephone, which was answered by a recording system, were not returned.

Pool said the closings has "absolutely nothing to do with the economy, national, state or local." A grand jury investigation of the banks would be "a normal course of action," he said.

Stewart said "it seems clear" the problems were limited to the two Bowie County banks.

"No other state bank in Texas has suffered adversely. Overall the banking industry in Texas is in good condition," he said.

The FDIC worked quickly to try to find new owners to reopen the banks in Hooks, with a population of 2,500, and Redwater, population about 450.

Whitney said, "The FDIC is attempting to arrange for healthy institutions to assume the deposits of" the two banks. If the banks are not reopened by Friday, FDIC would begin paying off depositors, he said.

In Redwater, an unincorporated community, depositors scurried to the bank when word of the closing spread. Hamilton said his grocery store would not take any checks until the bank reopened.

He said about 70 percent of his customers usually pay by checks from the next-door bank.

"We'll have to hold them until (the bank) reopens," he said of the checks already on hand.

Phil Latona said the closing of the Hooks bank put a crimp in his plans to move to Denison on Friday.

"We'll have to rent a house or something to wait for all this to settle. This is going to put us in a bind," he said.

The New York Herald was founded by James Gordon Bennett in 1835. Although many criticized him for "sensationalism," Bennett is credited with new journalistic techniques and became a highly regarded editor.

Braniff Debt May Be Larger

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Braniff Airways may be deeper in the red than first thought, depending on how several contingent liabilities are interpreted, say officials of the failed airline.

Braniff financial vice president M. Philip Guthrie says that several contingent liabilities not listed in the airline's 20,000-page financial schedule could significantly alter the positive net worth of $18.5 million listed there.

The debt schedule delivered to bankruptcy court here Monday in more than 20 boxes listed assets of $768.9 million and liabilities of $750.4 million for the airline.

The Boeing Co. of Seattle, the airline's largest single creditor, holds the largest potential claim, which is listed as an "undetermined" amount. Boeing has previously listed claims of $90 million.

At question are three Boeing jumbo jets Braniff ordered but did not take delivery on.

Guthrie also said the listed value of aircraft and supplies owned by the principal operating company of Braniff International Corp. is probably higher than current market value.

The equipment's listed value of $508.5 million could not be received in a sale, he said.

"We're obligated to list the historic value of the equipment in the schedule," Guthrie said. "But we've learned what everybody else has been saying all along, that the market for used airplanes is depressed. The telephones have not been ringing off the wall."

The debt schedule is required by bankruptcy law to present a complete picture of the company's financial condition.

Guthrie said several other large contingent liabilities were not specified in the schedule because their total amount could not be determined.

He said Braniff reported it had more than $24 million in deposits on hand when it went out of business May 12, even though much of it had actually been disbursed to creditors. Braniff filed under Chapter 11 of the bankruptcy laws, seeking protection from its creditors while it seeks to reorganize.

Its major creditors include Prudential Insurance Co., $76.8 million; Aetna Life & Casualty Co., $34.6 million; and Mutual Life Insurance Co., $34.6 million.

The potential Boeing claim centers on the three Boeing 747s that the airline decided not to accept when it became strapped financially.

Officials said Braniff still is legally obligated to make payments on the aircraft, worth $190 million, but Boeing is trying to sell the planes. The planes were not listed on the Braniff debt schedule because of Boeing is trying to sell them, Guthrie said. Boeing is represented on committees of both secured and unsecured creditors.

"It all depends on how soon Boeing can sell the planes and how much they get for them," Guthrie said. "But there could be a large swing on the liability side depending on what happens."

Boeing officials would not divulge the status of their planes, now parked at Wichita, Kan. They said the planes had been advertised for sale. Analysts said the market for the planes is "almost nonexistent" because of their large capacity and low fuel efficiency.

Possible buyers include the U.S. Air Force, which wants to buy a new Air Force One for President Reagan and could convert some 747s into military cargo planes.

Reagan's Best Friends Turning Into Enemies

An AP News Analysis
By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's best friends are turning into his best enemies.

For the second time in half a year, the Conservative Digest has devoted a monthly issue to telling the president what he's doing wrong.

The criticism ranges from broad-based attacks on his economic and defense policies to a peek at the White House guest lists, and includes a list of artists and New York bankers who have been invited to White House parties.

"It seems that in its partying as well as its policy-making, the Reagan administration has become more and more like a pale imitation of past establishment regimes," the magazine editors wrote.

Larry Speakes, Reagan's chief spokesman, said the president has not read the current issue of the magazine. As for the entire thrust of its criticism, Speakes had this comment: "It ain't so."

The magazine immediately raised the ire of Peter Teeley, Vice President George Bush's press secretary. Bush has never been a darling of the conservatives.

"Some of those people have very little right to criticize the president," said Teeley, looking at the list of candidates they supported in 1980. "First, they were for Phil Crane (the Republican congressman from Illinois), they were for John Connally second, and they were for Ronald Reagan third. It's not as though they were lined up at the gates in 1980."

"They've got very short memories," he said.

In an introductory story, the Conservative Digest, published by direct-mail fund-raising wizard Richard A. Viguere, said that "only 18 months into the Reagan presidency, there is a keen and growing feeling of disappointment among conservatives of all kinds all over America. The alarm bells are going off, but the question is, will Ronald Reagan listen?"

"The establishment Republicans on the White House staff are trying to muffle the alarm bells and are misreading the signals... The sad truth is that disenchantment with the Reagan presidency is now real and widespread. It is felt by conservatives of every stripe, from every element of the broad conservative coalition that put Reagan in the White House."

There is something of an echo quality about this.

It seems that there is a rule in presidential politics that goes like this: sometime in the second or third year of a president's term, he is fair game for his supporters, and they can begin their lament that he has not remained true to their ideals.

It happened to Jimmy Carter and it is happening to Ronald Reagan.

De Cordova Steers 'Midnight Vessel'

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As a Hollywood director, he worked with Errol Flynn, Tony Curtis and the star of "Bedtime for Bonzo," Ronald Reagan. In television, he was the man behind Jack Benny, George Burns and, for the past 12 years, Johnny Carson. Carson tells jokes about Fred de Cordova, but De Cordova still is not well known. The public recognizes his back more than his face, since the camera only sees him shaking hands with Carson's guests after the "Tonight" show.

If Carson is the captain of NBC's midnight vessel, then De Cordova is the navigator, steering the show into its 20th season this fall. And, all the while, the good ship "Tonight" has been chugging straight and steady for middle America and its mainstream values and comedy sense.

"The show has matured the same way the country has," says De Cordova. "When Jack Paar was doing 'Tonight,' he got into trouble for doing a joke about a W.C. (bathroom). In those days, you couldn't say 'pregnant.' When shows did venture into the bedroom, there were separate beds or creases in between them."

De Cordova, 72, producer of NBC's "Tonight," oversees the popular late-night program. He checks the material going into Carson's daily monologue, monitors rehearsals for the song-and-dance program's guests and gently gives them the hook when the conversation gets deadly.

"I judge by Johnny's interest in the guest and the audience's, which almost always is the same," says De Cordova. "I try for an amalgam of guests. I don't want to see it become too Las Vegas showbizzy, or too pretentious and intellectual, either."

De Cordova's background in the entertainment business goes back to 1933, when a school friend, Johnny Shubert, got him a gofer job in his family's theatrical empire. He worked his way up until he was directing shows in Louisville, Nashville, Memphis, and, finally, New York.

The last show he directed on Broadway was the "Ziegfeld Follies" in 1943 with Milton Berle and Arthur Treacher. His career moved to Hollywood and "B" films, including "Bedtime for Bonzo," "Little Egypt," and "I'll Take Sweden," before he tackled the new medium of television, directing the "Burns and Allen Show." Later, he produced "The Jack Benny Show."

"Jack pretended to be a tightwad and George pretended to be defeated by Gracie. They all played characters," says De Cordova. "But Johnny is the character. He's the person he presents. He's playing himself. That's why middle America is so comfortable with him."
