Robert L. Widerkehr, vice president of Beecham Laboratories; Melvin Cordray, Hereford cattleman; and James R. Smith of CEVA Laboratories discussed the livestock business Thursday during a Texas Cattle Feeders tour and luncheon. Widerkehr and Smith were among a busload of animal health industry executives touring Amarillo and Hereford for hands on exchange of ideas between the two related industries. After a meeting at TCFA offices in Amarillo, the group toured Southwest and Bar-G feedyards here.

The group enjoyed a steak cookout on the LX Ranch near Amarillo on Wednesday evening, then held a twohour meeting in Amarillo with feed yard owners on Thursday morning. They traveled to Hereford for tours of Southwest and Bar G feed yards Thursday and lunched at the Hereford Country Club.

The field trip was coordinated by the Texas Cattle Feeders Association's committee on allied industries. Jim Mullins, chairman of that committee, said many of the men on the tour had not been directly exposed to the cattle feeding industry, but were very well educated and had a good understanding of how their products are used. But he added that the first hand experience hopefully would

Budget finally passes, Dole still pessimistic

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, calling the budget passed by Congress only a "bit better" than none at all, questioned today whether even the scaled-back savings in the spending plan eventually will be realized.

The budget that won approval Thursday night reduces next year's spending by 157 billion but falls far short of the lotty deficit reduction goals set early this year. Dole predicted the savings will actually turn out to be closer to $40 billion.

"I think we have to be very careful when we look at numbers, because I doubt Congress will do all the things we've been asked to do, and the deficit will really be much larger than anticipated in the debate on the budget resolution," Dole, R-Kan., said in an interview on NBC's "To-

"Tonight, having lost the war, we're going to declare victory and go home," Rep. John E. Porter, R-Ill, said Thursday night after the budget was adopted.

Dole, asked if the spending plan was a "watered-down, nothing budget," replied: "It's a bit better than that."

He said lawmakers were heaving "a bipartisan sigh of relief" at putting the deficit issue behind them for the time being.

However, he said: "I'm an optimist, but I'm pessimistic about what will happen if Congress and the administration don't keep an eye on the deficit."

And President Reagan threatened anew to use his veto if future spending bills are not pared more closely.

Congress passed a $968 billion budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, hours after negotiators settled on a fragile compromise. The House adopted it 309-119 and the Senate then voted 67-32 for approval.

It containes guidelines for $279.7 billion in savings over three years, short of the goal set by Reagan and congressional leaders at the beginning of the year to cut budget deficits in half - to $100 billion or less - by 1988. Red ink over the next three fiscal years will total $440 billion, declining only to $113 billion in fiscal Blanca and Van Horn.

Farther downstream, a Border Patrol official said 12,687 people were caught in the Laredo sector trying to cross illegally into Texas. That's more than double the number of such arrests in July 1984, assistant border chief Joe Garza said.

He said July marked the largest increase in arrests of illegal aliens since the Border Patrol began keep-ing track in 1924. Garza blamed the ican economy for the jump in people trying to slip into the United States.

Patricio Cardiel Barron, one of those who crossed into El Paso on Thursday on Reyes' bridge, said he was planning to go no farther than the border area. Cardiel, 57, a laborer from Juarez's colonia San Antonio, said he comes to El Paso every few days to do yard work, then returns to Juarez.

Cardiel had a plaster cast on his arm. He said he broke it six weeks ago when he ran and slipped while trying to flee from Border Patrol

Larry Richardson, chief agent for the Border Patrol's El Paso sector, said increased numbers of aliens also are trying to travel farther into because they are sorting out illegals with the border as their destination and concentrating on those headed farther into the United States.

Richardson said agents are using television cameras installed along a nine-mile border stretch of downtown El Paso.

"If you see someone coming in at 6 a.m. with a lunch pail, you can tell he's not the same type of person as one spotted at 6 p.m. with a peso devaluation and the poor Mex-backpack, water jug and food in his ican economy for the jump in people pocket," said Joseph Aubin, intelligence officer for the Border Patrol's El Paso sector.

More than 99 percent of all Border Patrol apprehensions last year were Mexicans attracted to the United States because of "good weather, agricultural harvests and the construction industry boom during July, August and September," Aubin said.

"The continuing economic crisis in Mexico is the other factor," he said.

He said the wheel should be operational in another week to 10 days. The attraction will be operated by Buster Brown of Hames Shows

Texarkana to be featured on program

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — Reporters from Voice of America say they plan to tell about 120 million people around the world the "fascinating" story of this border city.

"In the case of Texarkana, you've got a situation where a city is literally on the border of two states," said Dick Bertel, one of the coordinators of a new Voice of America van that began its journey around the first of February.

"When you try to explain that to people overseas, where borders don't cross, it's a fascinating story," Bertel told the Texarkana

Voice of America reporters have scheduled visits to the Bi-State Justice Building and Perot Theatre. Three reporters will also search for other stories during a tour of the city by R.E. "Swede" Lee, Chamber of Commerce executive vice president.

Bertel said the visit to the justice building results from his being "intrigued ... (that) people can be tried from two different states in the same building.

"I'm not sure how that crosses over. I'm sure our reporters can bring that out," he said.

Texas unemployment up slightly in July

DALLAS (AP) - Texas unemployment figures in July were up slightly from the preceding month, with 7.3 percent of the work force unemployed compared to June's 7.2 percent, officials said.

The Texas figure mirrors unemployment totals on the national level, which have held at 7.3 percent for the past six months. "Texas indicators seem to show national data and Texas data running quite parallel," said Nic Santangelo, chief economic analyst for the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics in Dallas. While more than 100,000 Texans entered the labor force last month, almost 90,000 found jobs, he said. "This was the first sign of employment growth in the state since March," Santangelo said. Nationally, 245,000 jobs were created to swallow persons entering the work force, officials said. About 8.45 million people nationally are still out of work, however, statistics show. While employment in manufacturing and mining has been down over the past 12 months in Texas and construction employment up only marginally, strong growth has been posted in the service sector in Texas and the nation, Santangelo said. "We're still seeing very diverse trends throughout the state caused by the continuing problems of the oil and energy (sector), the peso devaluation, and the agricultural trade problems of the (Rio Grande) Valley," he said. Of a total labor force in Texas of 8.03 million in July, 589,000 were ployed, according to bureau statistics. In June, 573,000 workers in a labor force of 7.93 million were out of work.

A year ago, in July 1964, 475,000 people were unemployed out of a work force of 7.96 million, or about 6 percent.

Unemployment remains at 7.3 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) - Civilian unemployment nationwide remained at 7.3 percent in July, its sixth month at that plateau, the government said today. But the economy created 245,000 jobs and manufacturing employment held steady for the first time this year. Most of the job gains, as usual, were in the service field rather and not in the goods-producing sector, said the Labor Department. The number of new jobs largely offset the total of people coming into the labor force in search of work. The pool of the unemployed rose slightly to a total of 8.45 million.

The civilian labor force grew by more than 500,000 workers, the department's monthly survey of 60,000 American households showed. Almost all of that growth was accounted for by teenagers looking for summer jobs.

One disturbing piece of news in today's report was the number of people laid off or fired from their jobs. That total rose by 200,000.

If such layoffs continued over several months, the trend could be a distubing development for an economy still emerging slowly from

Total civilian employment rose 492,000 to 106.8 million.

Venezuela, Ecuador cut oil prices

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - OPEC members Venezuela and Ecuador have cut their oil prices in response to price reductions by their competitors. The loss of revenue to Venezuela, the United States' fourth largest oil supplier, could damage its efforts to repay a $35 billion foreign debt.

Venezuela's cut of nearly $2 per barrel of heavy crude had been expected, but will represent considerable lost revenue through the end of this year, said the minister of energy and mines, Arturo Hernandez Grisanti.

Venezuela's foreign debt ranks fourth among the Third World's debtor nations, following Brazil, Mexico and Argentina.

Two wives slain identically

HOUSTON (AP) — Police were investigating the bizarre similarities between the murders of a Houston businessman's first and second wives, whose mysterious deaths occurred 3½ years apart.

The body of Paula Goss, 42, was found about midnight Wednesday in a utility room of the southwest Houston home she shared with her husband, former dinner theater owner Dean Goss.

Police still have not solved the March 16, 1982 murder of Goss' first wife, Elaine, 43, who was found dead in an upstairs bedroom in the same

Both women had been shot in the back of the head. Paula Goss' throat had been slashed and she had been stabbed in the back and beaten, police said.

"Same house, same family — it's very unusual," said Houston police Sgt. J.C. Mosier.

Capt. Bobby Adams, when asked whether police believe the two killings are connected, replied, "We can't speculate on that at this time."

Dean Goss Sr., 48, operated a Houston dinner theater from 1968 to 1980 and has been involved in several restaurant ventures. On Thursday he was in Methodist Hospital, where he was admitted Sunday for surgery to remove a benign tumor.

He was "in a state of shock" Thursday and "he's sedated pretty heavily," said Thano Dameris, a

Houston attorney who described himself as a close friend of Goss

Paula Goss apparently had left her husband at the hospital about 5 p.m. Wednesday and apparently had just walked into her house when she was attacked, Mosier said. Her body was discovered by her stepson, Dean Goss Jr., 24, when he returned home around midnight, police said.

Mosier said robbery was ruled out as a motive for Paula Goss' murder because police found no sign of forced entry into the house and nothing nside appeared disturbed.

"She was wearing all kinds of expensive jewelry and her purse was found near her body," Mosier said.

The Harris County Medical Examiner's office performed an autopsy on Mrs. Goss' body Thursday, but withheld a ruling in the death.

Police said that in both of the Goss women's slayings, apparently nothing was removed from the house and no evidence of a struggle was Dean Goss found Elaine Goss in the upstairs study of their home March 16, 1982. Police said she had been shot in the back of the head with a .22-caliber gun.

Elaine Goss' parents, Henry and Virginia Richmond, said they were shocked to hear their son-in-law's second wife had been killed.

"I'm so weak I can barely walk," said Virginia Richmond. "I genuinely loved her. She was so good to my grandchildren."

Asked whether he felt his daughter's death and the killing of Paula Goss were connected, Henry Richmond said: "God, it sure looks that way."

Paula Goss' slaying was the most recent in a series of tragedies to strike the Goss family during the past few years.

The family's home had been burglarized at least two other times,

During one break-in, police said, Goss accidentally shot himself while attempting to chase away an intruder. He told police he slipped at the foot of a stairway in the home and the gun discharged, wounding him in Paula Goss had a broken arm, which was in a sling, when she was killed. A friend told the Houston Post that Mrs. Goss said she injured her arm when she fell down the stairway at the couple's home.

About a year ago, Goss told police that vandals had splashed paint throughout the interior of a restaurant he had recently opened.

"It's simply a spot, a place, an irritation, whatever, on his nose," Speakes originally said. "I wouldn't characterize it as a growth. I'd characterize it more as a skin irritation, a gathering of the skin, a piling up of the skin."

Speakes said Reagan was in "excellent, A-1" health and was "headlong toward normal" as he recuperates from surgery July 13.

The president had mentioned the irritated spot on his nose to his physician, Smith, and the doctor had asked Reagan if he wanted it removed, Speakes said. When the president responded affirmatively, the dermatologist was called in.

Speakes refused to disclose the dermatologist's name.

Based on Speake's description of Reagan's condition, three dermatologists not associated with Reagan's case agreed the problem could be any of several common skin ailments, none of which poses a serious health problem for the 74-year-old president.

Dr. Thomas Nigra, chairman of the Dermatology Department at Washington Hospital Center and a recognized expert in his field, said the possibilities include a seborrhic keratosis, or a noncancerous piling up of skin in one place. This condition is generally associated with advancing age.

Definition of love

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The best thing you ever wrote was that definition of love. Please repeat it. I'm in love again, but this time it's real.-J.D. IN D.C.

DEAR J.D.: Here it is. I'm glad you asked. I like it, too.

"Love is friendship that has caught fire. It is quiet understanding, mutual confidence, sharing and forgiving. It is loyalty through good and bad times. It settles for less than perfection and makes allowances for human weaknesses.

"Love is content with the present, it hopes for the future but doesn't brood over the past. It's the day-in and day-out chronicle of irritations. problems, compromises, small disappointments, big victories and working toward common goals.

"If you have love in your life, it can make up for a great many things you lack. If you don't have it, no matter what else there is, it's not enough."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I empathize with "Mad in America" and share her annoyance with school children peddling fund-raising items.

Here are two additional ripoffs for the list: Walnuts, $3.50 for a 5-ounce bag (supermarket price, $1.79 for 8 ounces). Pay in advance and wait two months for delivery. I also was taken for a set of six polypropylene tumblers (not dishwasher safe), for $6.50. They are worth, tops, $1.99.

I fear the children are being taken advantage of while greedy suppliers hog most of the profits.

My biggest concern, however, is that children as young as nine show up at my door after sundown, alone. With our heightened awareness of child molesters, why do parents permit their youngsters to take such chances?

Kids who want to earn money for a worthy cause should offer to wash cars, rake leaves, mow lawns, shovel snow, pull weeds, etc. These activities can be performed during the day on weekends.-ALERT NEW ENGLAND FAN

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My friend was always a heavy drinker, but since his wife died he misses work repeatedly and gets dead drunk on

I have tried reasoning with him, but he gets angry and orders me out of his house. How can I help him?-NO NAME IN NEW YORK

DEAR NO NAME: Trying to reason with a drunk is like trying to blow out a lightbulb.

When he is sober let the drinker know, in a nonjudgmental way, that you are concerned. Set aside your hostility and remember you are angry at the illness, not him.

Contact the National Headquarters of the National Council on Alcoholism, 12 West 21st St., New York, N.Y. 10010. They will put you in touch with programs and services in your area.

Alcoholics Anonymous is the most effective organization for drunks who want to stop killing themselves. Al-Anon is a terrific support group for relatives of alcoholics who choose to hang in there. Alateen is a group for teenagers whose parent (or parents) are boozers. The majority of heartwarming thank-you letters I have received over the years have come from people I've sent to A.A. and Al-Anon.

Player representatives oppose Ueberroth

Dave Winfield, outfielder and player representative for the New York Yankees, said that baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth has some good ideas, "but this ain't one of them."

Winfield was referring to "potential solutions" announced Thursday by Ueberroth which the commissioner said might allow baseball to continue past next Tuesday's strike deadline.

Each of Ueberroth's plans is touted as something of a compromise between long-stated positions avowed by the players and by owners.

"I don't think it will work," Winfield said of Ueberroth's attempt to prod the two sides toward an agreement. "The date is the date. There

"I don't know if he can have any effect on this process."

Other player representatives joined acting union boss Don Fehr and owners' representative Lee Mac-Phail in reacting coolly to Ueberroth's proposals.

"I believe Ueberroth doesn't know enough of the history of baseball to be involved in this," said Cleveland outfielder Brett Butler. "Let the executive boards of each side take care

Philadelphia Phillies, who is the National League's player representative, said "it's not real positive from what I've heard. I don't agree with the whole concept."

One of Ueberroth's proposals calls for players and owners to wait until after the World Series to settle their differences on sharing television

The players received $15.5 million under the old contract but want an increase to $60 million in the new agreement. Ueberroth suggested the $45 million in question be placed in escrow until a settlement is reached. In return, owners would leave free agency intact and the two sides would compromise on changes involving salary arbitration.

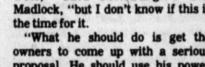

"It gives us an extension," Tekulve said, "but we've already had a lot of time. It doesn't solve our problem."

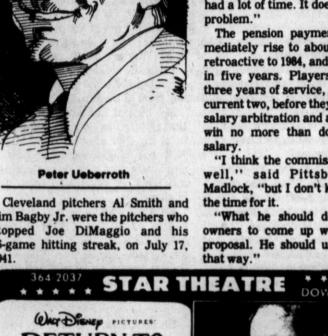

The pension payment would immediately rise to about $23 million, retroactive to 1984, and to $31 million in five years. Players would need three years of service, instead of the current two, before they could file for salary arbitration and a player could win no more than double his old

Sports analysis Baseball commissioner 'is no Nero'

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer Uninvited, and perhaps unwelcome, Peter Ueberroth has charged into the middle of the baseball labor crisis like a fairy tale

It may take some doing to write a happy ending to this one, though.

If nothing else, Ueberroth is courageous, treading where other commissioners have been loath to venture, offering some ideas and options to the two sides in the festering dispute. What's more, he's doing it without so much as the hint of an invitation from either of them.

Forget negotiating etiquette, there is a season to save.

So, instead of letting the two sides sit and stew, the way they did Thursday, Ueberroth decided to drop a fistful of solutions in their laps, just in case something in one of them sounds appealing.

It is apparent that this commis- to spend money they say they can't sioner is no Nero. Baseball, however, may burn anyway.

The two possible solutions which Ueberroth outlined are the products of imput from many sources, fans included. On the surface, though, neither seems to contain quite enough to entirely satisfy either side in this widening firefight.

Which is exactly why one or the other might work.

Proposal No. 1 sets up a $45 million escrow fund - the difference between the current $15 million pension contribution and the $60 million the players are after - and gives the two sides 45 days to work out some division of those funds. As an incentive to work diligently, Ueberroth included an intriguing $1 million per day deduction from the fund to be turned over to amateur baseball or some other appropriate charity.

That means he's asking the owners afford to spend and telling the players they can't have it. That certainly should thrill both sides.

> Proposal No. 2 - "I call this the Clean and Simple Solution, " Ueberroth said - would seem to have a better chance. It calls for the owners to drop any discussion of a cap on player salaries, back off any attack on free agency, make pension contributions retroactive to 1984, and accept the burden for solving their own financial problems.

The pension offer over the next five years would be a 50-100 percent increase over the existing $15.5 million - a $23-$30 million package. In percents, that's not bad. In cold, hard figures a union seeking $60 million may not think that's so good.

In exchange for all that, management would get an extension of arbitration eligibility from two to three years with a 100 percent maximum increase on awards and a superstar clause to take care of special players. But it would not affect current major leaguers, who would be grandfathered under the existing

McGaffigan pitches Reds to 5-2 win over Astros

AP Sports Writer Cincinnati Reds right-hander Andy McGaffigan is working on his Mario Soto impression.

McGaffigan relied on Soto's two favorite weapons-the fastball and change-up-to turn in a performance that would make the Reds' ace en-

McGaffigan fanned a career-high 11 Houston Astros-matching Soto's best strikeout performance of the year-and gave up just eight hits in a 5-2 victory Thursday night.

"He pitched a game tonight a lot like Mario Soto pitches," playermanager Pete Rose said. "He didn't have that kind of change-up in spring training. When you've got a fastball and mix in that change-up, you're going to get a lot of swings and

The change-up is one of the things McGaffigan worked on before being called up from the minors July 24. Ten of his 11 strikeouts Thursday were swinging, with a fair share of them on change-ups.

"I'm not a strikeout pitcher, but when you're rolling like that and you've got an aggressive team like Houston, you're going to get some strikeouts," said McGaffigan, 1-0. "Everything was working, and I had good control."

McGaffigan gave up five hits in the first two innings, including a two-run homer by Mark Bailey, his seventh. Catcher Dan Bilardello, who caught McGaffigan earlier this season in Class AAA Denver, decided McGaffigan needed to get moving at that "The whole team was really down, and we couldn't afford to be down,' Bilardello said. "I knew catching him in Denver that he worked quicker. I just tried to get him to work quicker."

It worked. McGaffigan gave up just three hits the rest of the way, and let the Reds do the rest against struggling Astros starter Bob Kneprun in the fifth on Dave Parker's sacrifice fly and another in the sixth on Bilardello's RBI single.

"The whole month has been gross," Knepper said. "I'm really tired, both mentally and physically. I'm tired of losing, tired of pitching bad, and tired of playing poorly. It just wears you down."

In other NL games, it was Chicago 9, St. Louis 8, in 14 innings: Philadelphia 3, Pittsburgh 0; and San Diego 6, Atlanta 0.

Cubs 9, Cardinals 8

Larry Bowa knocked in four runs, including the game-winner with a two-strike suicide squeeze bunt in the 14th inning, giving Chicago its victory over St. Louis.

The Cubs won despite blowing an 8-2 lead. The Cardinals tied the score 8-8 with three runs in the ninth on an RBI single by Tommy Herr and a two-run double by Jack Clark.

A double by Keith Moreland, his fourth hit of the game, and two walks set up Bowa's game-winning bunt in the 14th, which made a winner of George Frazier, 6-4, and a loser of Ken Dayley, 3-1.

Vince Coleman had two stolen bases on one play in the third inning to give him 74 for the season, two more than the previous rookie stolen base record established by Juan

Samuel of Philadelphia last season. "Just another day's work," said Coleman, "but I am honored about the record."

Chicago's Davey Lopes also swiped two bases to run his total for the season to 40 - one less than the Cards' Willie McGee, who also stole two of his own.

Hawkins, 14-3, who won his first 11 decisions, never allowed a runner past second base, threw only 99 pitches and retired 15 straight batters from the third to the eighth innings.

Martinez drove in the Padres' first run in the fourth with a single and knocked in two more runs with a double in the sixth.

In American League East

Blue Jays have 81/2-game lead

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

If the baseball season ends with a strike on Aug. 6, the Toronto Blue Jays have already clinched the American League East title. And if the season is not interrupted, they just might nail it down shortly thereafter.

Thanks to Thursday night's 9-3 whomping of Baltimore and stumbling New York's 9-1 loss at Cleveland, the Blue Jays have an 81/2-game lead, their largest of the season, over the second-place Yankees. They outhomered the Orioles 10-3 in taking three games of the four-game series.

"It's a good feeling for us to come in here and win three of four," said Rance Mulliniks, who walked to trigger a four-run first inning against Storm Davis and singled home the first of four runs against Don Aase in the eighth.

Indians 9, Yankees 1 The Yankees almost caught Toronto last month, trailing by just 11/2 games as late as July 21. But they have dropped eight of their last 11 games, the latest a three-hitter by Cleveland's Roy Smith, pitching for the first time since he was hit in the head by a line drive on June 30.

The run off Smith was unearned and he struck out four, walked one and retired 17 consecutive batters between the third and ninth innings in pitching his first complete game in 17 major-league starts.

Julio Franco collected three hits. drove in a run and scored three times for Cleveland.

White Sox 7-3, Red Sox 2-4 Boston was on the verge of being swept when seldom-used Dave Stapleton doubled home the tying run in the ninth inning of the nightcap against Juan Agosto and scored on Steve Lyons' one-out single. The White Sox had gone in front 3-2 on a two-run homer by Carlton Fisk, his 28th, with two out in the eighth. The rally in the nightcap turned reliever Steve Crawford from an apparent loser to a winner. Crawford. 5-2, picked up what fellow reliever Bob Stanley calls a "vulture win" after giving up a game-tying single to Harold Baines and Fisk's homer.

In the opener, Chicago's Gene Nelson scattered seven hits in his first complete game of the season. Harold Baines had two singles and a double, driving in two runs and scoring two, while Greg Walker and Ozzie Guillen also had three hits apiece.

A's 3, Angels 1 Chris Codiroli ended a personal five-game losing streak with help from Jay Howell, who earned his 21st save with two innings of one-hit relief.

California's run came on Brian Downing's homer leading off the game. And they could have had more, but for some splendid play in the field by the A's - notably, Dusty Baker, who thwarted Downing's bid for another extra-base hit in the third with a leaping grab against the left field fence.

ideas for low-cal desserts. Got any suggestions? - ALMA DEAR ALMA - Here's a few to start you off. Add chocolate flavoring to low-cal whipped topping or whipped evapo-rated milk, then freeze it. You'll have a dessert reminiscent of an airy frozen chocolate mousse.

Blend low-fat cottage cheese until smooth, add non-caloric sweetener and almond extract (or a little lemon juice) to taste, chill and you'll have a

DR. GOTT Peter Gott, M.D.

B-6 may not be the answer

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've been taking vitamin B-6 daily for about five months. I read that it helps reduce some symptoms of PMS, but I haven't really noticed any change. I still get very depressed about a week before

DEAR READER - You are wasting your money to use the vitamin for the purpose you describe. When a blood-chemical called serotonin - which acts on the brain - is depleted, some women experience depression. Serotonin may be depleted by cyclic variations in estrogen, so pregnant women and those taking lar: contraceptive pills may experience periodic "blues." Serotonin production may be low in the presence of B-6 deficiency. However, B-6 deficiency is exceedingly uncommon in the averstood and treatment is far from consistently successful, I'm afraid that most women with mild forms of the disease will have to wait for a universal antidote to become available. You may want to ask your gynecologist about your depression; perhaps he or she could further advise you.

DEAR POLLY - I'm looking for creamy, cheesy dessert that tastes a lot like cheesecake.

Place fresh bananas, grapes, peach slices and other fruits in the freezer for several hours, then enjoy for a sweet frozen confection.

When preparing desserts such as puddings, reduce the sugar content by a few tablespoons, but slightly increase the flavoring, such as vanilla extract. The more intense flavor will compensate for the loss of sweetener.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Super Diet Tips," which contains more ideas for low-cal desserts, main dishes and snacks as well as other Pointers for those who want to lose weight. Others who would like this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. —

DEAR POLLY — Whenever I bake an empty pie shell (to fill later) it shrinks and shrivels in the oven. I end up with a mess instead of a pie crust! Please, Polly, what's the secret? —

DEAR MAY - My absolute favorite method (and I think the easiest) is to pop the pie shell in the freezer for at least 20 minutes before baking it. Prick it well with a fork first. When you're ready to bake it, put it into a preheated oven.

wery depressed about a week before my period starts. Am I wasting my money on this vitamin?

DEAD READER You are wast.

The preheated oven is very important. The frozen pie dough in the hot oven starts to bake and solidify before the fat in the dough can melt and cause the shell to shrink out of shape. I also have no trouble with bubbling in the bottom of the shell when I use this method, provided the shell has been well pricked with a fork before putting it in the freezer.

Three other methods are also popu-

(1) Line the bottom of the shell with aluminum foil or cooking parchment, then pour in enough dried beans or aluminum pie weights to cover the bottom. Bake the crust for 15 minutes your depression, you should examine other options. Some degree of depression affects almost every woman before her period. This is normal and ordinarily requires no treatment. If your depression is severe, an anti-depressant might help.

Because the causes of premenstrual syndrome are not clearly understood and treatment is far from consistently successful, I'm afraid the summum pie weights to cover the bottom. Bake the crust for 15 minutes with these weights in, then remove it from the oven, remove the weights and foil and finish baking to a golden brown. This method is effective to prevent bubbling of the bottom, but the sides of the crust may still shrink and slide down unless you chill the shell well (or freeze it) before baking.

(2) Set a slightly smaller pie plate crust in shample in the sides of the crust may still shrink and slide down unless you chill the shell well (or freeze it) before baking.

(3) Form your pie crust dough over the bottom of the pie plate (turned upside down) and bake it that way. When it's baked, slip the crust off the ie plate and turn it upright on a serving plate. - POLLY
