Elena churns toward land

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Coastal counties from Florida to Louisiana were under declarations of emergency today as 350-mile-wide Hurricane Elena churned slowly toward land, pumping 100 mph winds, picking up steam and forcing more than 145,000 people to flee homes and offshore oil rigs.

"It's a very serious storm. This will be well over a $1 billion storm," said forecaster Bob Sheets of the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables. "It's a fairly large storm."

As Elena slowed it altered its northward course across the Gulf of Mexico slightly to the east. A hurricane warning was posted from Morgan City, La., to Apalachicola in the Florida Panhandle.

Predicted to be a $1 billion hurricane

The highest probability for landfall "is in the vicinity of Pensacola," said center forecaster Jim Lynch.

Its diameter spanned about 350 miles over the Gulf and gales were expected to reach the coast early today, the weather service said. Up to 10 inches of rain are expected in the hurricane's path.

Elena's indecision on landfall and drop in speed was giving the storm more time to beef up its winds, said Wade Guice, Civil Defense Director in Harrison County, Miss., and a hurricane veteran. By the time Elena hits land, its winds could range from 120 mph to 150 mph, putting it in the class of Hurricane Betsy, which ripped into New Orleans in 1965, Guice said.

As an estimated 50,000 people left their homes and businesses in Mississippi Thursday, major highways from the state's three coastal counties were crowded with traffic as far north as Meridian, about 150 miles inland.

The giant Ingalls Shipyard in Pascagoula, a major military contractor, shut its doors and sent its 11,500 workers home. Ingalls workers refloated a ship that had been in dry dock and secured others that were under construction.

In Gulfport, Miss., trainers at Marine Life Oceanarium used trucks packed with water and ice to move their dolphins from their harbor pens to hotel pools. Meantime, doctors at Memorial Hospital set up a maternity waiting room for women more than six months' pregnant. They explained that a hurricane's dramatic pressure changes can induce labor.

Biloxi, Miss., police called on an interpreter to broadcast warnings of the storm to the Gulf Coast's Vietnamese community.

Squalls from Elena's northern fringes were reported on the Florida Panhandle shortly before midnight Thursday. A flash flood watch was issued in northwest Florida counties west of the Chattahoochee River.

In the Panhandle, people jammed stores and gas stations to stock up on food, gasoline, batteries, candles, canned goods, duct tape, beer, distilled water and lamp oil.

"The place has gone crazy," said Ann Newman, a bookkeeper at Albertson's grocery in Pensacola. "There's over an hour wait to get through the check-out."

Florida Gov. Bob Graham declared a state of emergency in seven Panhandle counties and called out 250 National Guard troops to help with evacuations.

About 40,000 people were evacuated from coastal communities, said Bill Lee of the Florida Division of Emergency Management.

More than 15,000 vacationers and residents of low-lying areas fled the coast of Alabama, where Gov. (See HURRICANE, Page 2)

Soviet agents' risk greater for inhaling tracking dust

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet agents who U.S. authorities claim sprayed a chemical spy dust on American cars and desks in Moscow probably ran a far greater health risk than the diplomats whose movements they were trying to track, medical experts say.

Rep. Dan Mica, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs International Operations subcommittee, said Thursday he was told by Dr. Charles Brodine, the State Department's chief medical adviser, there was a "very low probability" the health of any U.S. personnel in Moscow has been adversely affected by ingesting or inhaling the substance or by absorbing it through the skin.

In Sunday's Brand

Here's what you'll find in your Hereford Brand this Sunday:

—A look at two Hereford houses built in the early part of the century which are in the process of being beautifully refurbished by young homeowners.

—Responses from local merchants and clergy on the repeal of the Texas Blue Law.

—The story of how a Hereford woman - who once thought she would always be fat - lost 110 pounds.

—A little bit of good news concerning the tax rate.

"The bad news is that the individuals at highest risk would be the Soviet agents that have been applying this substance, apparently in the form of an aerosol," Mica told a news conference. "It's ironic, but spraying it around and taking it into the lungs could place them at the highest risk of all."

Mica said the State Department believes it is likely the chemical tracking powder nitrophenylpentadienol, or NPPD, was used at least once by Soviet agents inside the United States.

"There are indications it has been used outside Moscow, in the United States," Mica said. "I have been told there is one highly possible use in the United States."

But Mica said the State Department did not give him details of where and when the chemical may have been used in the United States or for what purpose. He said there is no evidence any U.S. agency has ever used it.

The Florida legislator said the only reason the United States discovered this spring that the Soviets had begun to use the tracking substance heavily in Moscow was that they "made a mistake" and applied so much of the chemical at an unidentified site that the powder became visible.

Mica said the United States plans a short-term test of the health effects of the substance on laboratory animals.

He said a long-term test, which would take at least two years to complete, might be ordered, depending on the results of the preliminary testing.

Americans in Moscow were told earlier Thursday that attempts will be made to see if the powder can be removed completely either by vacuuming or through the use of detergents.

But Dr. Ernest McConnell, the head of a team of American experts sent to brief U.S. personnel in Moscow, said there is a good chance the Soviets already have removed the chemical from surfaces to which it had been applied.

The Soviets have strongly denied using the "spy dust," but Mica said, "notwithstanding the denials, everything I have heard indicates the substance was being used."

Cattle sold by satellite

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Bids were placed by residents of Florida, New Mexico, Texas, South Dakota and Wyoming, but no one had to leave their living room to buy the 18,000 cattle sold at a Panhandle cattle auction.

"For the first time in the history of livestock marketing, anyone in the continental United States can view and bid on cattle at the auction sites or in the comfort of their own homes and offices," said Jack Tompkins, who established Video Auctions.

During the auction Thursday, anyone tuned to communication satellite Satcom I Channel Two could see the cattle and call in a bid. Those who didn't own satellite dishes could watch the broadcast at several hotels.

The auctioneer spoke his usual patter but caught hand motions from representatives manning phones.

A buyer from Florida bought the first lot with a bid of $64.75 per hundredweight.

Prices for the 58 remaining lots ranged from $52.25 per hun-dredweight to $84.25 per hundredweight.

Prerecorded videotape showed the animals in their natural surroundings.

Tompkins said his company usually shows cattle on videotape, but this is the first time it has broadcast the videotape.

"We're still a video auction, only now we're using more technology," Tompkins said.

State workers donate to Project Tejas

AUSTIN (AP) — State employees who dug into their own pockets and sold snow cones, bakery goods and barbecue chicken dinners have contributed more than $113,000 to send Texas grain and powdered milk to famine victims in Africa.

State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower on Thursday recognized eight state agencies that led the way in the fund-raising effort for Project Tejas.

"To raise more than $113,000 in just about three months' time took a lot of organization, and it showed a tremendous amount of caring towards our less fortunate neighbors," Hightower said at an awards ceremony at the Capitol.

He said 64 agencies with a combined workforce of 41,000 employees participated in the drive.

"This $113,000 contribution will allow Project Tejas to purchase nearly 33,000 bushels of Texas wheat, enough food to feed 80,000 starving African children for a month," Hightower said.

The latest contribution, he said, brings to more than $680,000 the amount that has been raised since Project Tejas was launched on March 1.

Already, 120,000 bushels of Texas wheat and 120,000 pounds of powdered milk have been purchased, Hightower said. When mixed with water, the powdered milk will make 2.4 million cups of liquid milk.

The largest amount raised by a single state agency was $51,525 by the Department of Human Resources.

Sarpalius speaking Sunday

State Sen. Bill Sarpalius will be the guest speaker at a dedication of a new multi-purpose recreation facility which will highlight Sunday's reunion for Walcott School alumni, community members, and former residents.

Sarpalius will address the group at the dedication on Sunday evening following a pit barbecue supper at the schoolhouse. The ceremony will honor persons who supported the facility's construction.

The activities include a tennis tournament and volleyball matches on Saturday and Sunday and a watermelon feed on Saturday afternoon.

Alumni plan to meet at 2 p.m. Sunday for an informal reunion.

U.S. seeks clear Botha statement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, showing increasing impatience with the pace of change in South Africa, is calling on President P.W. Botha to make a clear commitment to open talks with black leaders on ending apartheid.

A senior State Department official who briefed reporters Thursday said Botha has indicated he wants negotiations with black leaders but he has done so "in a manner so opaque as to be difficult to understand, in a manner that has led to further confusion."

The official, who insisted on anonymity, also appeared to hold South African authorities responsible for much of the violence that led to 16 reported deaths on Wednesday and Thursday.

"We do not ignore the obligation of any government to maintain order. That isn't the issue. The issue is that repression in this climate does not defuse the atmosphere," he said.

"What is clearly needed is talking and negotiating and constructive signals to build a better climate, not jailings and beatings and bombings and burnings," he said.

The remarks came three days after President Reagan had praised the South African government as a "reformist administration," and they indicated an administration desire to cast the Pretoria authorities in a more negative light than Reagan did.

Nonetheless, the official defended Reagan's remark by noting that the South African government has implemented changes and that the administration has a duty to call attention to them when they occur.

"It is not to say that they (the South Africans) have gone far enough," the official said. "They haven't."

White supports seat belts

AUSTIN (AP) — The mandatory seat belt law taking effect Sunday is a good one that will save lives, says Gov. Mark White.

White said he hopes Texas motorists will understand why the law was enacted.

"It's best for all of us to recognize that we save lives and injuries. It's the law now," he said Thursday.

Asked about critics who say the law is too much government interference, White replied: "We'd hope that government doesn't ever have to interfere with them in an emergency room in a hospital because they didn't have their seat belts on."

The law requires motorists in cars and most pickups to buckle up. Violations can be punished by $25 to $50 fines, although that part of the law doesn't take effect until Dec. 1.

White, who signed the legislation earlier this year, also said he has talked with Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, who this week called for the law's repeal.

"I talked to him about that. And I noticed that when Mr. Blake went and got in his car, he put on his seat belt," White said.

Privately built prisons are option

AUSTIN (AP) — Privately built prisons are one option to consider as the state copes with overcrowding problems, Gov. Mark White says.

"The important thing is that it would provide the capacity. We need new capacity. We have a growing prison population," White told his weekly news conference Thursday.

"There will be many alternatives discussed over the next several weeks about how we can best (house all the prisoners). I am hopeful there will be innovative approaches," he said.

Phil Guthrie, spokesman for the Texas Department of Corrections, said the latest inmate population totals 37,877. That is near the 95 percent occupancy limit, when some prisoners earn extra "good time" to speed up their release until the population gets back below 38,127.

White said additional prison cells must be built to accommodate the new prisoners being confined in TDC. He criticized the failure of past TDC boards to get that done.

"The main criticism we've had for the last two years is just the lack of momentum to build the added facilities that are necessary to keep those new prisoners that are being sent there," he said.

Man sentenced in dog mauling trial

CONROE, Texas (AP) — A Magnolia man was convicted and sentenced to five years in prison for reckless injury to a child after a pit bull terrier fatally mauled his girlfriend's 4-year-old son.

James Bryant Traxler, 30, who later married the child's mother, was convicted Thursday by a seven-woman, five-man jury that deliberated for four hours. Traxler was ordered by visiting State District Judge Ernest Coker Sr. to serve the five-year sentence concurrently with a 10-year prison term he's serving on drug-related charges.

Officials arriving at the Traxler residence on Feb. 23, 1984, found the dog covered with blood and the body of James Miller nearby.

Defense attorney Roy Rowland said Traxler was in shock after the boy was killed. He said the dog was sick the day of the incident.

"We will never know why the dog did it," Rowland said. "We've all heard cases of even the most gentle animal turning on its owner."

The dog was ordered killed by a justice of the peace after the incident.

"This was no accident. Traxler knew what kind of dog he had," said Assistant District Attorney Peter Speers.

UAW celebrates 50th anniversary

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers is celebrating its 50th anniversary, still a leader among unions despite its shrinking membership and a growing threat to jobs posed by foreign car-makers.

The blue-collar empire numbers about 1.1 million members in the auto, auto parts, farm machinery and aerospace industries, having tumbled from a high of 1.5 million just seven years ago.

Foreign competition, accelerating automation at car plants and the impending defection of 120,000 Canadian members into their own union make it less likely that the union can regain its former muscle.

In the past several years, the union has been forging closer ties to management in efforts to stop further erosion of jobs.

"Times have been tough," UAW President Owen Bieber said in an interview at Solidarity House, the union's headquarters beside the Detroit River.

"They continue to be tough. We've always got a rough battle out there," Bieber said.

Nevertheless, the UAW remains one of the nation's most powerful unions, third in size behind the Teamsters and the United Food and Commercial Workers. The UAW has 1,400 locals, an annual budget of just under $300 million and a strike fund of $650 million.

The average UAW member at General Motors Corp. and Ford makes $13.29 an hour, or more than $530 weekly. Health care is comprehensive and company-paid. Contracts include elaborate education and training programs.

Many buildings destroyed in rioting

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Some of the fiercest rioting in a year of protests against apartheid left a school, a paint factory and dozens of stores in Cape Town townships in smoldering ruins today.

The state-controlled South African Broadcasting Corp. reported that at least 150 people, including 27 people, were wounded in the mixed-race townships of Mitchells Plain and Guguletu since Thursday. Sixty-three people were arrested, the radio said.

Nineteen others have been killed across South Africa since rioting erupted Wednesday as people of all races tried to march to Cape Town's Pollsmoor Prison to demand freedom for black leader Nelson Mandela. Police and witnesses reported six deaths Thursday in fierce rioting in Cape Town and Johannesburg.

Officials offer AIDS testing at gay bars

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Juarez health officials say they have been going to gay bars at night to schedule appointments with homosexuals and transvestites to have their blood checked for the killer disease AIDS.

But despite Juarez newspaper reports that the homosexuals are being arrested to take the tests, a health official insists the examinations for acquired immunity deficiency syndrome are voluntary.

"We are inviting them to come in for a test. We can't do any more than that because there exists a constitutional right in Mexico that an individual can practice whatever doctrine or philosophy they wish, and gather together, as long as it doesn't affect the welfare of the general public," Dr. Francisco Viniestra of the Federal Health Department in Juarez, told the El Paso Times.

Officials with the Juarez city police and State Judicial police also denied they had participated in rounding up homosexuals for AIDS testing, the Times reported.

Spy's friend sought in espionage case

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Officials who questioned and released the chief of a West German counter-espionage unit say they are looking for a friend of his whom they suspect is an East German agent.

Bonn security sources said West German and Austrian authorities were hunting for Eberhard Severin, said to be a long-time friend of counter-espionage section chief Reinhard Liebetanz.

Liebetanz works for the Constitutional Protection Office, the same agency that employed Hans-Joachim Tiedge before Tiedge defected to East Germany earlier this month.

One secretary has been arrested, and three others suspected of spying are missing in the widening espionage scandal. Chancellor Helmut Kohl has fired his intelligence chief, Heribert Hellenbroich, and appointed veteran diplomat Hans-Georg Wieck to replace him.

Liebetanz was arrested Thursday, questioned by West German prosecutors, and then released. Alexander Prechtel, a spokesman for the chief federal prosecutor's office in Karlsruhe, said the prosecutors found no grounds on which to file charges.

Severin, 50, is believed to have tried to blackmail Liebetanz during a recent vacation in Austria, said the security sources who spoke on condition they not be identified.

Stiffer enforcement measures sought

Religious uprising grows against TV

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

An uprising is developing in the churches against what they see as immoral sex and exaggerated violence and profanity on television, along with a bias against religious values.

Calls also rose in various quarters for stiffer enforcement measures against the pornographic industry, with the Justice Department launching a year-long inquiry into that problem and how to control it.

Religious organizations were stepping up efforts on both fronts, holding hearings, gathering evidence, planning strategies.

In one maneuver, about 1,000 Christian leaders have pledged to promote a boycott of offending TV sponsors unless they modify the moral content of programming.

The networks are airing "an unacceptable amount of immoral sex, gratuitous violence and profanity which downgrades the dignity of human sexuality and disrupts peaceful social relationships," the signers said.

If changes aren't forthcoming to reflect the "realistic nature" of society by 1986, the signers they would promote a "well-organized boycott of advertisers' products supporting offending programs."

The signatures, reflecting an unusually diverse spectrum of religious leadership from 67 denominations, both mainline and evangelical, were gathered by the Mississippi-based National Federation of Decency.

At the same time, a National Council of Churches commission on sex and violence in film and television was preparing its report after a year-long study, including hearings in Los Angeles, New York and Washington, D.C.

A first draft of the report was to be ready in mid-September, with its final form the basis for a possible policy position by the 31 major Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Anglican bodies making up the council.

The commission chairman, the Rev. James M. Wall of Chicago, says a key question is how to "protect vulnerable citizens," mainly children, from the TV "onslaught" without violating constitutional guarantees of free speech.

"We're patsies to the commercial enterprises until we say, 'Wait a minute, you also have a responsibility to children and you're not following it,'" he said.

In another effort, the New York-based Morality in Media launched a grass-roots campaign against the proliferation of pornographic materials in theaters and bookstores.

At a kick-off conference in Denver in June, Surgeon General C. Everett Koop said he believes there is a strong link between pornography and some health disorders and anti-social conduct.

Meanwhile, a commission named by Attorney General Edwin Meese to make a year-long examination of pornography's "nature, extent and impact on society" held its first hearing in Washington.

A Southern Baptist ethicist, the Rev. Harry N. Hollis Jr. of Nashville, Tenn., urged bold measures to curb "not just a minor social irritation, but a major, far-reaching, influential malady" in the United States.

He told the commission that pornography harms both character and conduct, "not because it deals with sex, but because it exploits and degrades sex."

About 150 spectators and buyers attended the auction. "There's no way any video auction will have any effect on the weekly sale," Tompkins said.

In addition to the Amarillo Livestock Auction, additional sale locations were in an Oklahoma City hotel and another hotel in Lake Placid, Fla.

Tompkins said the sale attracted a lot of buyer activity in each sale location, as well as on the telephone with buyers from Mississippi to South Dakota.

Salvation Army rep speaks at Lions Club

Doug Rains, field representative for the Salvation Army, was guest speaker for the Hereford Lions Club regular weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday in the Community Center.

Rains outlined the network of services provided by the Army, which is an international religious and charitable organization. "The motivation of the organization is twofold—love of God and a practical concern for the needs of humanity," said Rains.

He added that the mission statement includes work to supply basic human necessities, provide personal counseling and undertake the spiritual regeneration and physical rehabilitation of all persons in need who come within the Salvation Army's sphere of influence, regardless of race, color, creed, sex or age.

The Army has "Core Service Units" in larger cities, where a building and personnel are involved in many service programs. In cities such as Hereford, a volunteer Service Unit committee carries out the program of helping people in need.

Members of the Service Unit committee here include Jack Nunley, chairman; Lola Faye Veazey, treasurer; and Earlene Cook, director.

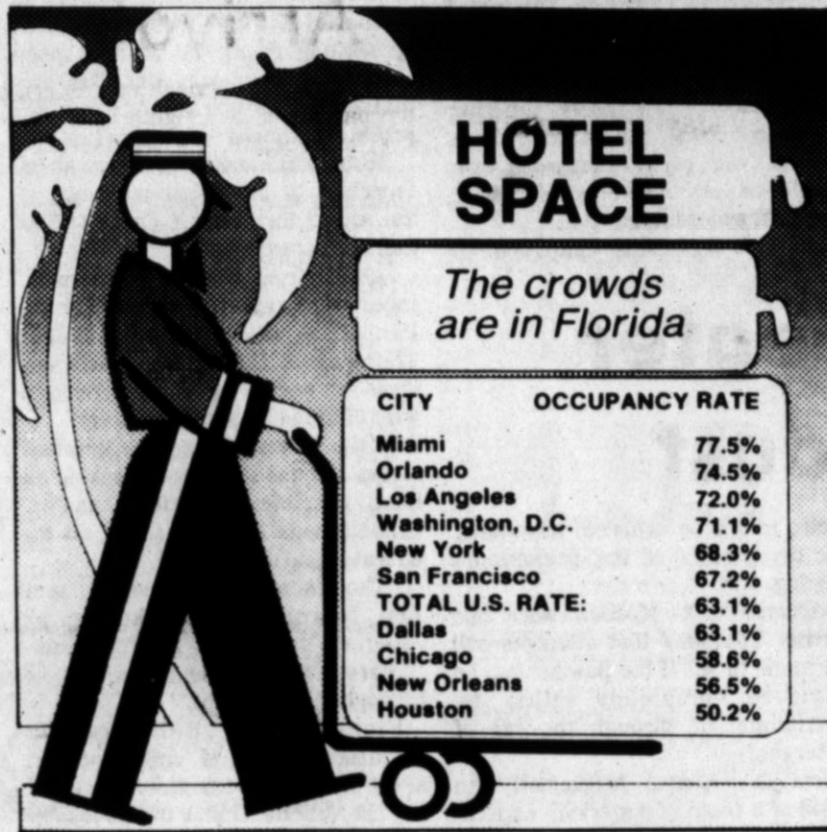

Robert Mercer, first vice president, presided at the Lions' meeting Wednesday in the absence of President Don Hicks. He presented a weekly fund-raiser check to the American Heart Association. Jeryl Baker was in charge of the program.

George C. Wallace declared a state of emergency. The Red Cross set up 35 emergency shelters in 10 Alabama counties.

Elena chased thousands from Louisiana's marshy coast, threatening to flood escape routes with waters driven by high winds. Gov. Edwin Edwards declared a state of emergency in 14 parishes.

Helicopter companies frantically airlifted offshore oil workers from rigs in the path of the storm. About 20,000 workers staff Gulf rigs.

New York and Los Angeles are the largest U.S. cities, but the hotel business is healthiest in Miami and Orlando.

17-year-old pitcher is awesome, incredible

Montreal, in the National League, has been playing good baseball this year. (1985)

So has Toronto in the American League.

And Toronto is going to play even better someday; they have drafted southpaw pitcher Jim Abbott.

Let me tell you about awesome Jim.

He developed his fastball at the age of eight throwing against the driveway wall of his family home until the bricks came loose.

His fastball has since been clocked at 90 miles an hour.

At Flint Northern High School in Michigan this past season Jim averaged two strikeouts per inning.

He also pitched four no-hitters. Predictably, the big league scouts converged.

But then guess what!

In addition to his phenomenal pitching—by season end he was hitting also...I mean batting .433 with six home runs!

And he is barely 17.

Plenty of time, he says.

So, though he has been drafted by Toronto, he is likely first to accept a scholarship at the University of Michigan.

All the scouts who have seen awesome Jim Abbott thus far are astonished and salivating. Those who have only heard the rumblings and the rumors want to know—how does he do it??

Well, this is THE REST OF THE STORY....

Awesome Jim has developed a most extraordinary pitching style — which involves actually wearing his glove on his pitching hand.

No, really!

Jim hurls one of those devastating pitches—and then deftly slips his left hand into the glove a fraction of a second after he releases the ball.

It happens so fast it's rather like a magician's sleight-of-hand. The ball takes off and presto!—the glove is on his left hand for retrieving return throws from the catcher, for fielding line drives or shagging hot bunts.

This unorthodox method is so effective that any bunt is considered an automatic out — against awesome Jim Abbott.

He does not necessarily recommend other pitchers wear their gloves on their pitching hands.

It's simply something that works for Jim.

I mentioned that likely he will accept a scholarship from the University of Michigan and there complete his college education before becoming a professional athlete.

Even then he will have to decide whether he wants to make baseball a career. With all that incredible baseball talent, there is yet another option.

You see, awesome Jim—while at Flint Northern High School—has also been the star quarterback on their football team!

And now you know—oh, one thing more....

Jim Abbott—who during this past season has batted .433 with six home runs—who has pitched four no-hitters—who has averaged two strikeouts per inning—and who at age 17 can hurl a fastball 90 miles an hour—he, Jim Abbott, already drafted by the Toronto Blue Jays—developed his unique style of wearing his glove on his pitching hand—out of necessity.

Awesome Jim was born without a right hand.

So he learned to make do with the other alone!

Now you know THE REST OF THE STORY.

They call 'em "standby" passengers because what they do mostly is stand and wave goodbye to the folks holding the airline reservations.

Another nice thing about your newspaper: You don't have to buy a rooftop antenna to get a clear picture of what's going on.

Baseball on TV will always lack something until they devise a way for the home-screen fans to scream at the umpire.

Sure cure for low blood pressure: Just read over a stack of utility bills.

Do you ever get the feeling that someone did a mighty poor job of pruning on your family tree?

Ancient metropolis

Singapore, the independent city-state with a population of nearly 2 million off the southern tip of Malaysia, was a prosperous trading center in the 13th century. It dwindled to a fishing village of about 250 inhabitants until Britain's Sir Stamford Raffles bought it from the Sultan of Johore in 1819 and revived it as an international free port.

Ann Landers

'One of a piece'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Someone said it again and I am ready to blow my gourd. "Smile. It takes 14 muscles to smile and 72 muscles to frown."

What the hell has that got to do with anything? Some idiot must have said it someplace and it caught on. One smiles or frowns according to the way one feels, for cripe's sake. Why would anyone bother to count muscles?

If I'm happy and feeling good about something, I smile. If I'm fed off or have a headache or feel pressured, abused or underappreciated, I frown. These fools who keep a phony smile pasted on their kissers give contradictory and confusing signals. Emotions are valid. Putting on a happy face only represses legitimate feelings and prevents a person from working things through. The face gives expression to real feelings. Burying them brings on ulcers, headaches, colitis, backaches, etc.

You probably think I am frowning as I write this. Wrong. I am smiling because I have unloaded my angry feelings and put them on paper.—BE TRUE TO YOURSELF

DEAR TRUE: I believe what you have just done is one of the most useful aspects of this column.

People who write to me feel free to air their grievances, unload their anger, express their fears and dump on me, which I don't mind a bit.

I agree that there is too much duplicity around. The greater the similarity between the facade and what goes on inside, the better integrated the person. This is what is meant by being "one of a piece"—a goal worth striving for.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am at my wit's end and hope you will help me. I need to know if my husband has a personality disorder and should have a brain scan.

"Phil" is 47 years old and the last four years have been hell. He sits around and talks to himself constantly. I never know if he is talking to me or himself. At night his legs jerk about every 30 seconds. This sometimes goes on all night and I can't sleep.

Phil expects sex every night of the week, but only to satisfy himself. The man couldn't care less about me.

He gets panic attacks while shopping. He accuses me of hiding things and when he finds them he says I put them back.

A few years ago he got a young girl pregnant, left the state with her and I had to support the family. I have since discovered he had a savings account of his own while I was struggling to pay bills on my own.

Ann, what can I do? I have left him a couple of times, but he says he loves me and can't live without me. The house, money and the car are in his name. All I have is what I make working part-time and that goes for groceries. Please advise me.—MISERABLE IN ROCK ISLAND

DEAR ROCK: Your husband may have serious problems and should be checked out by a neurologist. It sounds as if he should also see a psychiatrist.

If there is no brain damage, I suggest that you see a counselor and a lawyer in that order.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. For a copy, send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Instead adopt dishes

Residents pass over cable

HUNTSVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Like mushrooms on a summer hillside, satellite dishes have begun dotting the Appalachian skyline as rural families trade their rooftop antennas for high-tech entertainment.

The sleek dishes are changing the rural living room as well as the country landscape, as mountain people tune in to a spectrum of sophisticated programming denied them for decades, according to a communications specialist.

"We can tell that it has an amazing impact in terms of (the) diversity that all of a sudden presents itself," said Harold Morse, president of The Learning Channel, formerly Appalachian Educational Satellite, in Washington.

"It certainly helps them in bringing in the rest of the world," Morse added.

The people living in the Appalachian mountains, tired of wrestling what little signal they could receive through ungainly antennas sometimes placed high on neighboring ridges, are paying up to $6,000 to get the 1980s' multiple-TV choices.

Even the most modest of households has sprung the $1,000-$1,400 it takes for a basic system, and sometimes the stark, modern dishes can be found alongside small, weather-beaten houses, he said.

The modern dishes, which receive broadcast signals from orbiting satellites, have become popular in areas where cable television is still years away.

Many people in eastern Tennessee had until recently been at the mercy of one or two fuzzy channels from Knoxville for news and entertainment.

With dishes, those residents can choose from a 100-item menu that includes 24 hours of Spanish, Christian, country, classical and adult programming.

Duane Laxton, manager of the company's Oneida office, said his firm has sold about 500 home dishes in those three counties since 1979.

"It's not that big a hardship for (customers)," Laxton said. "The banks are financing them. They'll go two to three years on a satellite system."

"The end of last year and this year we've probably sold more than we did since 1978 to 1984, and the outlook for this year is that (sales) will double from last year," he said.

A one-mile stretch of State Highway 63 near Huntsville has so many satellite dishes that area residents jokingly refer to it as "Satellite City." No fewer than 30 dishes line the road leading to former U.S. Sen. Howard Baker's hometown.

Oveta Culp Hobby, who was appointed in 1953, was the nation's first secretary of health, education and welfare.

DR. GOTT

Peter Gott, M.D.

Wit puts doctors in perspective

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am embarrassed to call you a doctor and I am more embarrassed to see an M.D. after your name after I read the article that you had in the paper.

I cannot understand why, with the problems that medicine is facing today, one of our own colleagues has to add fuel to the fire in such a dishonest manner.

You seem to sound very bitter toward physicians in your attempts to further undermine public opinion of them, and I wonder what happened to you that you now publish untimely second-rate articles in hopes of gaining popularity with that fraction of the population that embraces your particular bias, rather than practicing that art for which you were supposedly trained.

DEAR DOCTOR — Your letter is representative of a handful I have received from physicians, and I guess this is as good a time as any for me to respond.

Like you, doctor, I am a practicing physician who is well aware of the problems affecting our profession. I worry about the same things that concern other doctors, including erosion of public confidence, skyrocketing malpractice rates, long working hours, and aggressive government interference in our practices. I believe, as most physicians do, that we cannot solve these problems by being greedy, arrogant, pompous and self-righteous. I think we need to loosen up a bit, develop some perspective, chuckle a little at our foibles and idiosyncrasies. I use a lot of satire to poke fun at my colleagues — and myself, at the same time.

Judging from the mail I receive, the public responds to this approach. Most patients seem to want their doctors to admit their humanness, to acknowledge that we don't know everything, to be more caring and compassionate.

I give opinions in my columns and sometimes readers question these opinions; that's encouraging because it shows that people are thinking about issues. Occasionally, I make a factual or interpretive miscalculation. After all, I am only human, too. Also, you should know that I do call on specialists, when appropriate, to help me answer readers' questions. I invite readers to query me and, particularly, their own doctors. My goal is to support patients in their efforts to demystify medicine. I wish every reader could find ways to strengthen his or her relation to his own doctor.

So I don't think I need to apologize for being a physician who is also a patient-advocate. Nor do I feel guilty about my puckish tendency to deflate, satirize and engage in audacious irreverence. That's just my way of making a point. Paul Theroux, the novelist, writes that "humor ... has a tendency to distort gleefully in order to express a truth." Doctor, look to thyself.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a mother of six children and never had any trouble until I found out I had diabetes. Now I have a vaginal infection called monilia. I've used Monistat and Mycolog. They relieve the itching but don't cure it. What else can be done for this?

DEAR READER — Monilial yeast infections are common in diabetics and usually don't clear up until the diabetic condition is brought under control. You must pay particular attention to your blood sugar. Diet, weight loss and medicine — perhaps even insulin — may help you. Monilial vaginitis is a disorder that will require the combined skills of your gynecologist and family doctor.

If you deal with someone you don't care for, it's business as usual. Bureaucrats call this "constructive engagement."

Wouldn't it be wonderful if they could invent a cocktail glass that dribbled into the mouth instead of the tie?

An authentic Western movie is one in which the hero hugs the horse and waves goodbye to the heroine.

New tradition started at Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M University, rich in traditions, may have started a new one this week when three females were admitted into the once all-male Texas Aggie Band.

The male-only entrance requirement for the band was dropped after an agreement reached earlier this year between the school, the U.S. Justice Department and Melanie Zentgraf, who filed a lawsuit in 1979 while she was a student at A&M.

In a news conference Thursday, university officials identified the trio as Jennifer Peeler of Ennis, Carol Rockwell of Corpus Christi and Andrea Abat of Houston. The three are part of this year's 105-member freshmen band class.

"I'm very determined to make it," Ms. Rockwell, 17, said. Asked whether she thought an Aggie tradition had been broken, she said, "I believe we started a new one."

Ms. Rockwell, a pre-med major, said that she had encountered no hostility and that "all the other freshmen and band members are behind us."

She said she decided to join the band after seeing the 300-member band perform. "I was impressed. I always played in a band," she said.

"My desire to join the band was made before that case was settled," Ms. Abat, 18, said. "I feel it's the finest organization."

The trio was among a panel of 15 corps members assembled for a news conference after officials refused requests from reporters to interview each of the female band members.

"There's a lot of paranoia," said school spokesman Lane Stephenson. "They just want to be accepted as members of the band."

Another freshmen band member, Ronald Felden of Hondo, termed the hoopla over female band members, "a big deal over nothing. I consider them as freshmen buddies."

The Corps of Cadets, which include 2,000 of the school's 36,800 students, gained notoriety a year ago when a cadet member died after being put through motivational exercises.

That incident plus introduction of the women band members has had no effect on the morale of corps members, Cadet Col. Thomas Hale, commanding officer of the band, said. "This is by far the most motivated class I've seen."

Hale denied the corps was trying to shield its new female members from the media.

Ms. Abat, a building construction major who's planning a military career, said she was worried when she decided to join the band because of news reports about the all-male organization.

"The male members see there have been no problems," said Lt. Col. Joe T. Haney, director of the band. "We're pleased. We've been positive all along."

All three women said they expected to continue in the corps and in the band for the duration of their college career.

"I started, I'll finish," Ms. Peeler, a bio-chemistry major, said.

Texas A&M has existed since 1876 and has had a band for 91 years even though it does not have a music department. Band members practice each day after class and perform at football and basketball games and military reviews. They also make out-of-town appearances.

Ms. Rockwell plays a clarinet; Ms. Abat a trombone; and Ms. Peeler plays flute.

Most AIDS kids ought to be in school

By ROBERT BYRD Associated Press Writer

A day after the federal Centers for Disease Control recommended that children with AIDS be allowed in classrooms, school officials are mulling over how to deal with 183 people under 18 known to have the deadly disease.

One of the most celebrated cases involves Ryan White, 13, a hemophiliac who got AIDS through a blood transfusion. The Kokomo, Ind., seventh-grader has been banned from school and listens to classes at home via telephone.

Students in Connecticut and New Jersey also have been barred from school, but New York state health officials issued guidelines Thursday recommending that most children with AIDS be allowed in school.

Radio spots urging officials to let Ryan attend classes were broadcast Thursday in Kokomo by the AIDS Medical Foundation.

"Casual person-to-person contact, as would occur among schoolchildren, appears to pose no risk" to contracting AIDS, the CDC said in its Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report. "For most infected children, the benefits of an unrestricted setting would outweigh ... the apparent nonexistent risk of transmission."

The CDC said decisions on the care and education of a child infected with AIDS should be made case by case, taking into account a child's behavior, development and physical condition and expected interaction with other kids.

No children have been found to have acquired AIDS in school, day care, foster care or other casual contact, but no U.S. public school system has admitted a child known to be infected with AIDS virus, the CDC said.

Children with AIDS "have enough suffering without it being made more so by the rest of society," said Dr. Martha Rogers, an AIDS specialist with the CDC.

In the Indiana case, parents of other students have threatened to sue if Ryan is allowed into the classroom and another child gets AIDS. Many signed a petition supporting the school's decision to bar Ryan from classes because of questions about the communicability of AIDS.

Acquired immune deficiency syndrome, which cripples the body's disease-fighting mechanism, is caused by a virus and transmitted through blood, blood products or transfer of body fluids in intimate contact.

"The truth is it is not spread by casual contact," echoed Roger Cunningham, general manager of the AIDS Medical Foundation, in explaining why his organization aired the broadcasts.

But, in New Haven, Conn., Superintendent John Dow Jr. has barred two children from school, saying parents and teachers are too uncertain of the dangers of AIDS and AIDS-related complex, a less serious form of the disease, to allow afflicted children in regular classrooms.

A child with AIDS was barred from regular kindergarten classes in northwestern New Jersey, said Washington Borough Superintendent Patrick O'Malley. The decision was made on the advice of the 600-student district's lawyer and physician, he said, adding that to his knowledge, the child's parent had not challenged the decision.

But the guardian of a 4-year-old girl in Plainfield, N.J., has threatened to file suit if educators bar the child from regular kindergarten classes next week. Doris Williams said the CDC guidelines are "going to help us a lot."

The Plainfield Board of Education is waiting for state guidelines on whether the 17 AIDS-afflicted children in New Jersey should attend public schools. Spokeswoman Leigh Cook said the New Jersey Health Department would "pretty much" follow the CDC guidelines.

Schools Chancellor Nathan Quinones said New York state issued its guidelines after at least seven New York City children were diagnosed as having the disease.

AIDS has killed 6,376 of its 12,736 reported victims in this country, according to the CDC, which says there are 183 known cases of the disease in Americans under the age of 18.

Australia numbers more than 120 varieties of marsupials among some 20 species of mammals.

Dodgers have 7½-game lead despite 3-2 loss

By DICK BRINSTER AP Sports Writer

The pitching-rich Los Angeles Dodgers were soaring skyward, but a bloop, a blast, a boot and a clutch catch brought them back to earth — at least temporarily.

Philadelphia's Jeff Stone started the eighth inning Thursday night with a bloop single and Juan Samuel followed with his 16th home run to tie the game at 2-2. Two innings later, Dodger third baseman Enos Cabell bobbled a grounder to let in the winning run as the Phillies prevailed 3-2 in a game that ran three hours, 35 minutes, and saw the Dodgers leave 13 runners on base.

While the Dodgers lost on an error, one of three they committed on the night, the Phillies held them off in the 10th because of a defensive gem by left fielder Von Hayes.

With one out and Mike Marshall, who homered earlier, on second base, Hayes made a diving catch of Steve Sax's line drive.

"I was telling myself not to dive and I went ahead anyway," said Hayes, who snagged the ball at chest level while falling to the ground.

Elsewhere in the NL, it was San Francisco 6, New York 3 in 10 innings; Montreal 8, San Diego 5; Atlanta 9, Chicago 6; and Cincinnati 6, Pittsburgh 0.

The loss snapped the Dodgers' seven-game home winning streak, but Los Angeles — with baseball's best earned run average, 2.87 — still holds a 7½-game lead over San Diego in the National League West.

Expos 8, Padres 5

Montreal needs an almost-perfect West Coast trip to stay in the race in the NL East, and Andre Dawson made it a flying start with a three-run double that capped a seven-run seventh inning as the Expos rallied from a 5-0 deficit.

"Everybody keeps trying to put the last nail in the coffin, but we keep sitting up," said Manager Buck Rodgers, whose team trails idle St. Louis by 8½ games.

Dave Dravecky had a two-hit shutout through six innings, but the Expos sent 11 men to the plate in the seventh.

Giants 6, Mets 3

Chili Davis, whose three-run, 10th-inning homer beat New York, sounded a lot like former San Francisco teammate Jack Clark, who frequently won games for the Giants and then complained about Candlestick Park.

"This town is nice. But the ballpark stinks, losing stinks," said Davis, whose homer off reliever Terry Leach dropped the Mets three games behind Clark's current team — St. Louis — in the NL East.

"I'm not going to cry. Trade me, trade me," but . . . if I think it will benefit me to go somewhere else, I'll do so," said Davis, who is eligible for free agency in 1987.

The homer was the 12th of the season for Davis, who had two other hits and five RBIs.

Gary Carter hit his 18th homer for the Mets, and Wally Backman added two RBIs.

Reds 6, Pirates 0

Buddy Bell was embarrassed when he looked up at the scoreboard and saw a batting average that just about matched his weight. So he did something about it with a home run, a double and five runs batted in.

"The toughest thing is to look up and see you're hitting .198," said Bell, stuck in a season-long slump. "That's a (terrible) average."

Bell says he's put a lot of pressure on himself to produce since coming to the Reds in a July trade with the Texas Rangers.

"I was never really down, just mad. I'd like to wring my neck," he said.

Tom Browning, 14-9, pitched a seven-hitter.

Pete Rose scored twice and had a single, leaving him eight hits shy of breaking Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4,191.

The loss was Pittsburgh's 18th straight on the road, four short of the major-league record the Pirates set in 1890 and the New York Mets equalled in 1963.

But the always-optimistic Pirate Manager Chuck Tanner saw something he liked, nevertheless.

"Tonight if (Jose) DeLeon (2-15) gets around Bell, we have a close game," he said.

Braves 9, Cubs 6

New Atlanta Manager Bobby Wine isn't about to break up a winning combination, particularly if it includes catcher Bruce Benedict, who drove in four runs, three on a tie-breaking single in the sixth inning.

"I penciled in his name the first day and we've won four straight," said Wine, who has yet to lose a game since taking over for Eddie Haas. "He's catching good and swinging the bat well. He'll be in there until he can't make it."

"Three-run homers solve a lot of problems, but so do three-run singles," Benedict said with a laugh.

Rick Mahler, 17-12, was the winner for the Braves.

Leon Durham led Chicago with two homers, his 14th and 15th, and drove in five runs.

Pete Reiser of the 1946 Brooklyn Dodgers and Rod Carew of the 1969 Minnesota Twins each stole home seven times in one season to share a major-league record.

Three touchdowns come on big plays

Herd outscores Estacado in scrimmage

Hereford High School outscored Estacado three touchdowns to two in a controlled scrimmage Thursday at Chapman Field in Lubbock.

Senior Allen Dudding, a 170-pound fullback, scored two of the touchdowns in big plays.

One of Dudding's touchdown runs was for 32 yards, and the other one was for 78 yards. The 78-yarder came in an option play in which the quarterback faked inside to the tailback, went outside, and pitched to fullback Dudding.

HHS volleyball tournament set for Saturday

Four teams, including host Hereford, will compete in the Hereford High School volleyball tournament Saturday.

Other schools entering varsity teams in the tournament are Lubbock, Levelland and Dumas.

The tournament opens with Dumas taking on Levelland at 10 a.m. Hereford battles Lubbock in an 11 a.m. match.

The losers of the morning games will play in the consolation game at 1 p.m., and the winners play in the championship game at 2 p.m.

Hereford High School's varsity volleyball team enters the tournament with an 0-4 season record. Hereford lost a match at Levelland Thursday night, 15-5, 15-1.

In a junior varsity match Thursday, Levelland defeated Hereford, 15-4, 15-2. The HHS junior varsity has an 0-2 season record.

In the 1972 National Football League season, the Miami Dolphins won all 14 regular season games and added three post-season victories, including the Super Bowl, for a perfect 17-0 record.

The first man ever selected in the National Football League draft was Jay Berwanger of the University of Chicago in 1936. He was chosen by Philadelphia but never played for that team.

The 32-yard touchdown run came in a three-play, 70-yard touchdown drive.

Hereford's other touchdown was scored when quarterback Todd Shire, a 175-pound junior, completed a pass to Vincent Brown, a 163-pound junior, for 70 yards.

About the scrimmage, the only one for the Herd in preseason, head coach Jerry Taylor said, "We lost a couple of fumbles, and we dropped a couple of passes that we should have caught, but overall offensively we had a fair night."

"Our passing game was fair, and our running game was less than fair. Defensively, we did a poor job of tackling."

Two Herd defenders picked off Matador passes—Brett Clements and Freddie Gamboa. Taylor said the interception by Clements, a 205-pound senior linebacker, "probably helped prevent a touchdown."

Gamboa, playing in the secondary of the Herd defense, is a 205-pound senior defensive back.

"We worked on our punting game," Coach Taylor adds. "We kicked two extra points and missed one.

"We've got to work on consistency in our kicking, because missing an extra point could lose a ball game."

Estacado's touchdowns were scored with a 12-yard run and a 25-yard run.

Chartered bus to first Herd game planned

A chartered Trailways bus to take Hereford fans to the opening football game in San Angelo is being sponsored by the sports committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, it was announced Friday by Mike Carr, C of C executive vice president.

The cost will be $33 per seat, round-trip, and the bus is scheduled to leave at 12 noon on Sept. 6. It will arrive in San Angelo in time for a pre-game meal, then return immediately after the game. It will be an air-conditioned bus with rest room facilities.

The Herd will play San Angelo Central High School in a contest scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

Reservations must be made by 5 p.m. next Wednesday. Call the chamber office (364-3333) to make reservations.

In extra-inning game

Chicago edges Texas, 6-5

By KEITH E. LEIGHTY Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — By the time it was over, 10 different pitchers had toed the rubber where veterans Tom Seaver and Burt Hooton had started.

And when the game finally ended at 12:04 this morning, Chicago had scraped out an extra-inning run and a 6-5 victory over last-place Texas.

"It was a great win," said Chicago Manager Tony LaRussa. "We didn't get discouraged when it was getting away from us. We gave them a chance to get back in it and they did."

Chicago had built a 4-1 lead for Seaver, who was seeking his 301st career win, but after he was lifted in the seventh, it took five more pitchers and two more runs to pick up Chicago's fifth straight victory, matching its longest streak of the year.

LaRussa said Seaver told him he was getting stiff in the seventh.

"He faced three hitters without getting an out," said LaRussa, who's trips to the mounds were decidedly booed by the last of the 10,978 fans who waited through a 67 minute rain delay at the start of the game.

"I was proud of the way our guys came back," said Texas skipper Bobby Valentine. "We battled them all the way. We used up their whole pitching staff."

Valentine also praised his own bullpen, which held Chicago hitless from the fifth through the eighth innings.

"They just got some hits when it counted," he said.

Ozzie Guillen hit the one that counted most, a double leading off the 10th inning. He moved to third on a bunt by Luis Salazar and scored the winning run on a single by Reid Nichols.

"I was 0-for-3; I was not doing my job," said Guillen. "I think it was about time I got a hit," said the 21-year-old rookie.

Nichols' line shot over the short-stop made a winner of Dan Spillner, 4-3. Dave Schmidt, 5-4, was the loser.

"I really had to get psyched up for that at bat," said Nichols. "All I was thinking was I gotta get the guy in somehow."

Doubles by pinch-hitter Jerry

Hairston and Greg Walker tied the game for Chicago in the ninth.

Texas had come from behind earlier, scoring twice in the eighth on four straight hits capped by Don Slaught's double.

An inning earlier, pinch-hitter Toby Harrah drove in Duane Walker, and Slaught scored on a wild pitch.

Harold Baines drove in two runs, one on his 14th homer. He also drove in Guillen in the fourth on a slow roller up the middle with the bases loaded. Joe De Sa scored earlier in the frame after leading off with a double, his first hit in 14 at bats.

Bryan Little opened the Chicago scoring in the first. He walked, moved to second on an error and scored on Greg Walker's 31st double.

Pete O'Brien's first-inning home run, his 15th, accounted for Texas' first run.

Yankees 4, Angels 0

As Phil Niekro of the New York Yankees closes in on 300 career victories, he becomes more concerned with closing in on the Toronto Blue Jays.

Niekro pitched four-hit ball over seven innings Thursday night and Dave Righetti finished with two innings of hitless relief to lead the Yankees to a 4-0 victory over the California Angels. Niekro, 13-9, has 297 victories in his 22 major-league seasons but has yet to go to a World Series.

The victory moved the Yankees within four games of idle Toronto in the American League East, while the Angels saw their lead in the AL West cut to 1½ games over Kansas City. The Royals were rained out in Milwaukee.

Dave Winfield did most of the damage against Angels starter Kirk McCaskill with a two-run single in the first inning.

Niekro has pitched 22 2-3 scoreless innings in compiling a 3-0 record against the Angels this season.

"He's very clever," Angels Manager Gene Mauch said of Niekro. "He changes speed with the knuckler and fastball. Then you look for the knuckler and fastball, and you get something else."

Tigers 3, A's 2

Lance Parrish hit a two-out solo homer to tie the score 2-2 in the sixth inning, then six innings later drove in the game's next run with a bases-loaded single to give the Tigers their extra-inning victory.

Lou Whitaker led off the 12th against Steve Mura by walking. After falling twice to bunt, Alan Trammell singled, sending Whitaker to third. Kirk Gibson was walked intentionally to set the stage for Parrish, who lined a single to left over a drawn-in infield.

Dave Bergman also homered for Detroit.

Red Sox 17, Indians 2

Boston scored four runs in the seventh inning and seven more in the eighth to break a five-game losing streak and deal the Indians only their second loss in nine games. Tony Armas had five RBIs, Rich Gedman four and Mike Easler three for the Red Sox.

Bruce Hurst pitched a six-hitter, holding the Indians hitless from the second inning until Andre Thornton led off the ninth with a single. He equaled his season high with 11 strikeouts.

Armas had a two-run triple to key the seventh-inning burst, and Gedman's three-run homer came in the eighth.

Orioles 7, Mariners 0

Mike Boddicker pitched a six-hitter, striking out a season-high nine, and rookie Larry Sheets broke out of a 1-for-13 slump with four RBIs to pace the Orioles.

"A few more starts and things could look a little better," Boddicker, 12-13, said of his roller-coaster season.

It was a memorable night for Mike Young — he hit a solo homer and walked with the bases loaded, giving him a club record 32 RBIs for the month of August.

"It's nice to break the record," Young said after he surpassed the mark of 31 shared by former Orioles Boog Powell and Doug DeCinces. "I'm glad it's over." The homer off Billy Swift, 4-8, was Young's 12th in his last 23 games.

Sheets had a two-run single in the fifth inning and a two-run double in the seventh, coming up each time with the bases loaded.

BYU outpaces BC for 28-14 victory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — One down and two to go for Brigham Young.

The team the critics said beat 13 nobodies last year en route to college football's national championship is off and running — sorry, passing — again in 1986.

Having disposed of Boston College, last year's No. 5 team, 28-14 in Thursday night's Kickoff Classic, the Cougars next face two traditional powers — UCLA on Sept. 7, Washington the following week. They finished ninth and second, respectively, in last year's rankings and were 20th and 12th in this year's preseason Associated Press poll.

If BYU goes 3-0, it may even dispel some of the leftover criticism.

"I don't think you ever silence all of the critics," said split end Glen Kozlowski, who fought off leg cramps and caught 10 passes for 241 yards and a touchdown. "I think we gained some respect here. Our goal is to go undefeated again."

Brigham Young has won seven national team passing titles in LaVell Edwards' 13 years as head coach and the Cougars got off to a flying start as Robbie Bosco completed 35 of 53 attempts for 508 yards — all personal highs — and three touchdowns. Bosco's experience was evident as he outperformed BC's Shawn Halloran.

Sandy Schwab, a quarterback for Northwestern, set two NCAA major college records against Michigan in 1982 with 45 complete passes in 71 attempts.

The New York Giants, who play in East Rutherford, N.J., led the National Football League in paid attendance in 1984 with a total of 605,296.

who has the unenviable task of trying to fill the shoes of Heisman Trophy winner Doug Flutie, major-college football's career passing king.

"Nobody has thrown like them — ever," said BC Coach Jack Bicknell, whose own teams are known for throwing the football. "They make a living throwing."

BYU threw every conceivable kind of pass against the Eagles — screen passes, swing passes, curls, out patterns, post patterns, fly patterns, dump-offs. They even aired it out a few times, with Kozlowski catching passes of 30, 23, 40 and 51 yards to set up the first three touchdowns. For good measure, he grabbed a 22-yard scoring pass with 8:32 remaining that sealed the Cougars' 25th consecutive victory, the nation's longest winning streak.

Bosco said that "all I have to do is get the ball near Glen and he's going to catch it. We usually have two options off each play, and if they aren't open I'll just drop it off to a running back. I didn't think they were respecting our receivers deep and we took advantage of that."

Halloran, who spent the last two seasons backing up Flutie, finished with 18 completions in 37 attempts for 165 yards, with three interceptions.

Virgil Carter of Brigham Young had 599 total offense yards against Texas-El Paso in a 1966 football game to set an NCAA major college record.

Elderly protest changes in service

BERTRAM, Texas (AP) — A dozen elderly Bertram residents are protesting a change in a hot meals program that now requires participants to be bused eight miles for lunch five days a week.

"I don't like it. I can't go in that old bus," says Ray Kincheloe, 91, a former deputy sheriff who has lost one eye to cancer and is nearly blind in the other.

Williamson-Burnet County Opportunities Inc., which has delivered cooked meals for the elderly to the Bertram American Legion Hall since 1978, dropped the service this week. The agency offered to bus the participants to Burnet.

But Kincheloe and the others say their friendship, which began in 1978 when the meals program came to Bertram, is being disrupted by an insensitive program administrator.

Program director Raleigh Elliott told the 12 residents in a letter dated Aug. 20 that meal service in Bertram was discontinued because program rules were broken.

Elliott said the rules were violated "when a participant took food from the center and when food which was not eaten was given to other participants," according to the Austin American-Statesman.

The newspaper reported that Elliott's letter mentioned "hostility" and an "unwelcoming" attitude shown by the 12 to visitors from the Capital Area Planning Council, an Austin-based organization that finances the meals program.

Mamie Kincheloe, one of the Bertram 12, isn't so sure about that.

"I want one of those people we've been ugly to come up here and face this crowd and tell us what we did," she said.

she said.

Mrs. Kincheloe, 83, said she never was told it was against the rules to take scraps of food from the center to feed her chickens.

Although they are protesting the Elliott decision, the Bertram residents said they are grateful for the meals program.

For some, the meetings at the Legion hall have become central in their social lives, said Mildred Lester, 77.

"If it weren't for this program, I don't know what these people would do," she said.

She said the group is a close-knit one and members are warm to visitors, contrary to the report. "I think we had a few things told on us that's just plain not true," she said.

Ann Mason, a volunteer, said some of the protesters have been eating together for seven years. "No one ever told them they couldn't share their food," Ms. Mason said.

She said the protest likely would continue until Sept. 5, the seventh anniversary of the group.

Elliott said the decision to bus the 12 came after "a great deal of thought" and consultation with his staff. "I'm not trying to belittle the fact that 12 mighty nice old folks in Bertram are not happy," he said.

Despite the change, the 12 are continuing most of their regular activities. They play bingo several hours Mondays and Wednesdays, dominoes Tuesdays and Thursdays. They have a sing-along on Fridays. For lunch, they eat sandwiches.

Scrawled across a bulletin board is the strongest statement of their protest: "Heck, no. We won't go."

Suit filed by TSTA would halt teacher competency testing

AUSTIN (AP) — Efforts by the Texas State Teachers Association to halt planned competency testing of teachers who are already certified brought quick criticism from high state officials.

"I think the suit will fail," said Gov. Mark White. "I don't think they have a leg to stand on."

The suit, filed Thursday in an Austin state district court, contends the teacher testing provision of the 1984 major public school reform act is unconstitutional and asks an injunction.

"The main goal of this suit is to stop the indictment of over 200,000 educators simply because some people suspect there may be a few incompetents within the profession," TSTA President Charles Beard of Beaumont told a Capitol news conference.

But White countered that the tests would be "imposed in a fair way. They are not going to be difficult for people who are literate."

"I think you will find it will be an encouragement and give pride to people in the profession," White said.

Jon Brumley of Fort Worth, chairman of the State Board of Education, said he believed the basic skills test on reading and writing to be given first in March 1986 would be upheld by the courts.

"It is unfortunate that the TSTA is concentrating its efforts on trying to block a test that will do nothing but improve the public image of the teaching profession while weeding out a very small percentage of Texas educators who do not possess the basic skills necessary to provide a quality education to our children," Brumley said in a statement.

State Education Commissioner

W.N. Kirby estimated that 95 percent of Texas' teachers would pass the competency test with "flying colors."

The Texas Federation of Teachers Union said last week it approved the competency test.

The competency test was mandated by the major public school reform act passed in the 1984 special legislative session. It requires all certified teachers and administrators to pass a basic skills test by June 30, 1986.

"Texas teachers are angry at the prospect that a single paper and pencil test will determine whether or not they will remain in the profession after years of dedicated and effective service," said Beard, the TSTA president.

He added that others were apprehensive about the "unfair thrust of losing their retirement and health insurance benefits they have earned in the course of many years of dedicate service."

Beard said TSTA has long contended that "on-site observations with written or oral evaluations are the only effective means of assuring quality teaching."

Kirby disagreed. "Unfortunately, the existing system was not doing the job in eliminating those few teachers, so the legislators had to take steps to ensure public confidence in the teaching profession by mandating the basic skills test," Kirby said in a statement.

"We are well aware that we have a shortage of teachers in Texas," Kirby said, "but we have no vacancies in our classrooms for teachers who cannot adequately read and write."

Look To Jesus

Speaker Harold Hill

Our Speaker is Harold Hill, active in lay ministries worldwide, and a Deacon in the Southern Baptist Church, is a Best-Selling Author, Bible Teacher, Scientist and Christian Magazine Columnist, who until his recent retirement was President of a highly successful Engineering firm in Baltimore, Md.

Harold calls himself a twice-born Christian, born the first time in Manchester, N.H. and the second time in Towson, Md. in 1954. Delivered from alcoholism in 1951, he met Jesus as Saviour, Healer and Baptizer in 1954.

Impressed with the reality of God in everyday affairs, Harold began a search to discover what God is up to these days and his factual reports are now contained in several best-selling books, beginning with HOW TO LIVE LIKE A KING'S KID, which gives full details of the MISSING DAY at the NASA Space Program which has received world-wide publicity.

Additional experiences of God's Grace are reported in other books titled: HOW DID IT ALL BEGIN (for children) HOW TO BE A WINNER, HOW TO LIVE IN HIGH VICTORY, HOW TO FLIP YOUR FLAB FOREVER, HOW TO LIVE THE BIBLE LIKE A KING'S KIND, and GOD'S IN CHARGE HERE.

Come and hear how God is directing the life of a hard-headed business man and engineer in a very practical everyday manner, as he looks to Jesus as the New Manager of his life and affairs.
