$14.7 million budget approved

Hereford Independent School District trustees Tuesday night voted to set the new tax rate at .69 per $100 valuation to help support the newly approved $14.7 million budget for the 1985-86 school year.

A one hour public hearing of the budget preceded the vote.

Projecting a loss of about 250 students in the system, administrators figured the state's per capita portion of the budget at $3,239,631 by estimating a conservative 4,300 student census this coming year.

Local revenues from taxes expect to collect $2,888,290. Superintendent Harrell Holder said the budget was figured by using the .69 tax rate on the $449 million tax base in the district. The rate and base computation will generate about the same revenue for the district as it did on the old rate before valuation.

Tax collections plus the tuition, enterprising, and other local sources bring the district's local support to $3,497,569.

Expected state revenues total $8,600,212 while the estimate on federal funding was set at $2,638,728.

The total budget was set at $14,736,509.

The board also amended the previous year's budget.

In other business the board made a change in policy which would allow

Dog bites paperboy

A newspaper carrier attempting to pet a dog was bitten on the lip Tuesday, according to Hereford police. The dog is under supervision at a local veterinary clinic.

At the Fir and Moreman intersection, a prankster attached tape from a telephone pole to a stop sign post and screened off the street with a newspaper wall.

In other reports police investigated an unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, a report of items being thrown at a car, the theft of $703 in shingles, the theft of a $195 spare tire and a domestic problem.

One person was arrested for driving while intoxicated and another for second offense of no liability insurance.

each campus' principal to act as the authority to initially take a student from school as a disciplinary action. The rules will still apply for rights to a hearing concerning suspension and expulsion, however.

The insurance committee presented the first reading of a policy concerning payroll deduction for insurance and other approved items such as charities, bonds, credit unions and professional dues. The board committee joined with the teacher committee on insurance to draw up the policy. It will be voted on at the next regular meeting.

Also in the meeting: First National Bank received the district's bank depository bid award.

The board accepted the resignation of Regina Douglas, a high school business teacher.

The board reviewed the special salary schedule for teachers who assist in extra-curricular activities and other special personnel.

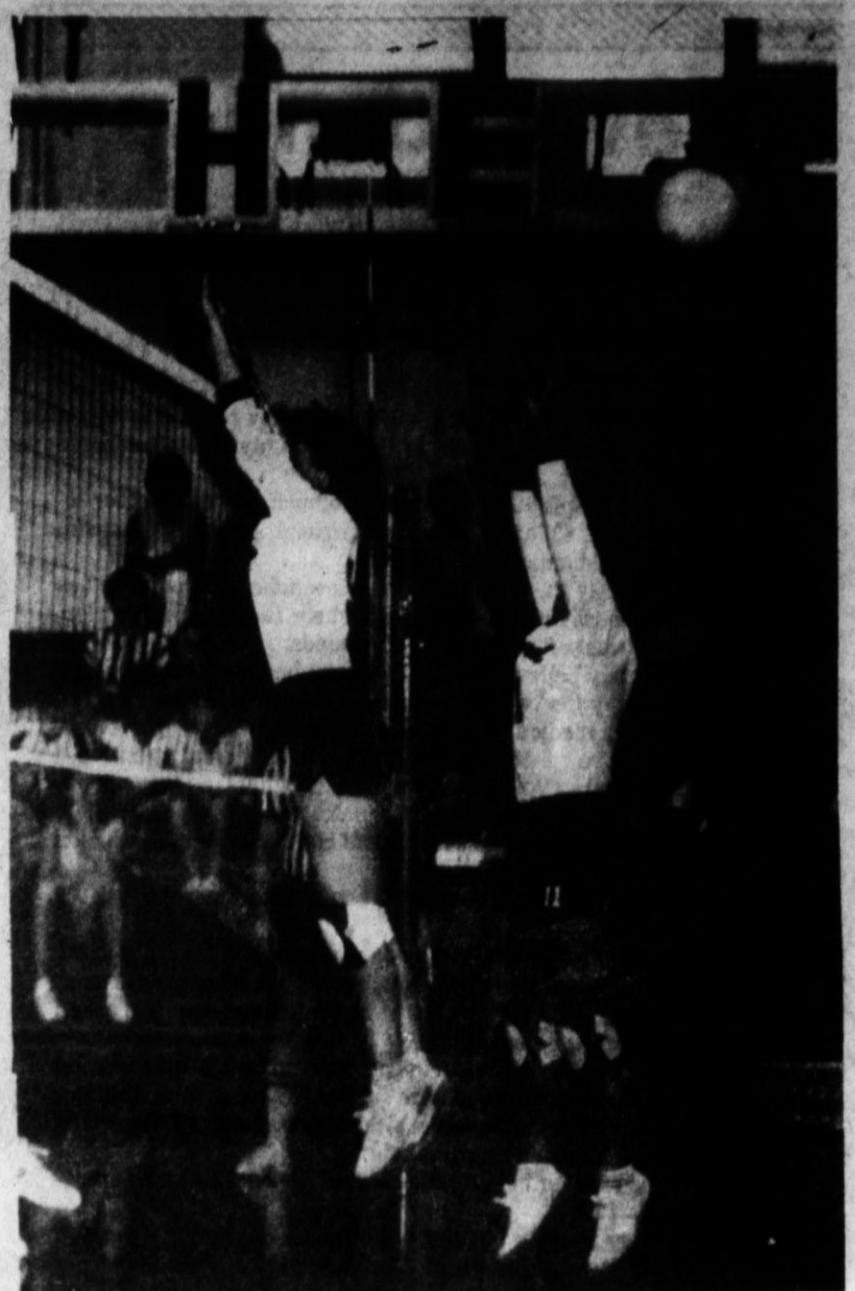

The board reviewed Update 25, a questionnaire which has been completed and will assist the district in implementing state rule changes and requirements.

The board spent about an hour in executive session discussin elementary assistant principal candidates. Holder said he would schedule a special meeting Sept. 4 for a vote on his recommendation. No action or recommendation was announced at the meeting Tuesday.

George Oaks was approved to take the post of assistant principal at Hereford High School.

Concluding the meeting, Leslie Paschel gave a detailed report on pupil progress in third, fifth and ninth grades which would be submitted to the state as the annual update on a five year plan. All board members were present.

Hereford BB/BS revamping its revenue raising process

By MARGARET BELL
Staff Writer

"When a person considers that the cost of a youngster's being a concern of the juvenile system is $3,000 which increases to a shocking sum of $65,000 when he is institutionalized as a proven criminal element, the expense of giving love and companionship in our own town seems almost negligible," states Alva Lee Peeler, the executive director of the Hereford Big Brothers/Big Sisters organization.

With the national average of supporting a match between an adult volunteer and a child enrolled in the program being $650, Hereford's cost figure of $652 means a well-founded budget for local operation, she adds.

In past years, the major fund-raising project of the BB/BS agency has been an art soiree in which noted artists were invited to bring their works to Hereford for display and sale. A gourmet dinner has feted both the artists and the contributors to the BB/BS funding with the soiree guests having opportunity to take home art objects as prizes. Because of a lack of artist interest in returning to Hereford, this project has been discontinued for the present. The cost of arranging and hosting the dinner was such that monies which might have gone into strengthening the agency's effectiveness were spent for the entertainment, a BB/BS spokesman reports. As a result, the board of directors has planned a new approach to the fund-raising needed.

Area residents are invited to become sponsors of the matches made between the Big Brother/Big Sister volunteers and their Little Brother/Little Sister counterparts.

With an annual budget of approximately $30,000 and a total of 46 children now enrolled in the program, the cost of a match-up now is set at $652. The allocation from the United Way reduces this amount to an expenditure of $390 to be raised through efforts of the BB/BS board of directors.

Divided into special categories, the sponsors have been designated as follows: Platinum Friendship Founder with a contribution of $1000 or more; Golden Friendship Founder with a gift of $365 (a dollar a day for one year); Silver Friendship Founder with a gift of $100 or more; Associate Friendship Founder with a work on April 1, and seven volunteers are now being screened for placement as friends and counselors to waiting children. The breakdown of the present picture of matches is that there are 14 Big Sister/Little Sister pairs with only two girls still waiting for volunteers to agree to be their new-found companions. Boys, ages six to 18, have been matched with 21 men who have agreed to share life with them. However, 11 boys are still hoping that some adults who are 18 years old or older will call the agency office at 364-6171, asking to become Big Brothers to them.

gift of $50. Quarterly reports are to be sent to all levels of sponsors with the platinum and gold donors receiving reports on their particularly sponsored match-ups. The United Way is the only funding source for BB/BS here, and the Board of Directors have made the decision to appeal to the community and its traditional generosity to make up the difference in the UW funds and the operating expenses of the agency.

With the hiring of Alva Lee Peeler as the new executive director of BB/BS, things began to happen. Matches of children with adults have more than doubled since she began

Astronauts relax after hectic day

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — After a frantic first day in space that included an unplanned doubleheader satellite launch, Discovery's astronauts took it easy today, checking out electronic gear they will use in a spacecraft salvage effort Saturday.

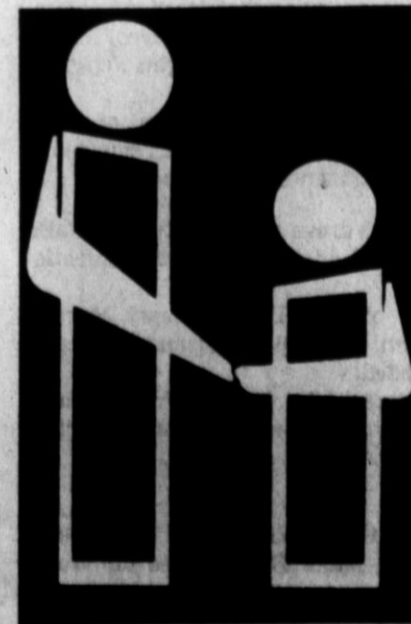

That rescue-and-repair effort might be complicated, however, because the "elbow" on the shuttle robot arm does not respond to computer directions and must be operated by tedious manual switches. Officials said the ailment should not block the salvage but could turn it into a longer task.

The 50-foot arm will grasp and hold the Syncom 3 satellite steady after space-walkers James van Hoften and Bill Fisher have secured it by hand and have attached a grapple to it.

The astronauts ran into trouble Tuesday, two hours after Discovery (See SHUTTLE, Page 2)

First collection of bank franchise tax nets county entities $75,602

Checks totaling $75,602 from the first collection of the state's new franchise tax on banks were sent to four local taxing units from state Comptroller Bob Bullock's office, it was announced this week.

Hereford Independent School District will receive $31,853.91; the City of Hereford gets $22,026.62; Deaf Smith County receives $17,384.13 and Deaf Smith Hospital District collects $4,337.57.

In a special session last year, the Legislature brought banks under the franchise tax for the first time and allocated receipts from the tax to the cities, counties, school districts and other local taxing units where the banks are located.

Banks are taxed at the same rate as other Texas corporations. Previously, bank stocks were subject to local property taxes. The Legislature exempted the stocks from property taxes, substituting the new bank franchise tax. Collections are prorated among local units based on their tax rate.

The comptroller's office sent checks totaling $61.6 million from the first collection to 1,996 local taxing jurisdictions. Taxing units in Harris County received $15.2 million. Payments to taxing units in Dallas County totaled $12.1 million.

Besides the local taxing units in Deaf Smith County, a payment of $20,094.80 was made to the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District, a part of which lies in the county.

Amarillo and Potter County units received more than $626,000, with Amarillo ISD topping the list at $272,282. Totals for county, school district and city in the area: Pampa $132,641; Borger $84,118; Perryton $55,220; Plainview $42,085; Canyon $36,614; Friona $23,244; Dimmitt $21,042.

sion from the 0.5 percent preliminary figure issued last month.

Manufacturing productivity rose at an annual rate of 7.5 percent, due to intense competitive pressure on U.S. industry from imports. Unit labor costs in manufacturing fell 2.5 percent and in non-farm business they rose 2.3 percent from April to June.

Meanwhile, the Census Bureau reported that the improving economy helped 1.8 million Americans climb above the poverty level, the first significant decline in U.S. poverty in nearly a decade last year.

In Detroit, Arthur Andersen & Co. said most of the U.S. automakers' potential losses would be to the Japanese, who will be building more than 1 million cars a year in their own U.S. factories by 1990 while increasing imports from home.

The 72-page study predicts that 60 percent of the cars sold in the United States in 1990 will be made here by American manufacturers compared with nearly 80 percent today. The remainder will be imports, mostly from Japan, and from the plants

Japanese companies operate here.

Sarpalius to preside at Walcott dedication

State Sen. Bill Sarpalius will be the guest speaker at a dedication of a new multi-purpose recreation facility which will highlight Sunday's reunion for Walcott School alumni, community members, and former residents.

The outdoor recreational facility to be dedicated is south of the school and can be used for tennis, basketball, volleyball and roller skating. The facility was built using money from a Texas Parks and Wildlife grant which was obtained through an application by the Deaf Smith County Commissioners, and contributions from the Walcott community and other donors.

Prior to the dedication ceremony and speech by Sarpalius, supporters of the project and the Walcott community residents will attend a pit barbecue supper donated by F.L. Eicke who cooked it with assistance from Gary Kreighbauser. Alumni and community members attending are to provide the desserts. The dedication will include the presentation of a plaque honoring donors and the granting of certificates of appreciation.

A tennis tournament begins on Saturday and concludes on Sunday in order to clear the courts for volleyball matches that afternoon. The tennis event is being coordinated by John Perrin, 280-6965.

Moderate labor costs helped keep inflation down in the second quarter, while an improving economy pushed 1.8 million Americans above the poverty level last year, the first significant gains in nearly a decade, the government says.

Meanwhile, the government said Tuesday that the pressure of imports helped spark a second-quarter gain in non-farm business productivity and an automobile industry study warned of dramatic cuts in domestic production over the next decade unless U.S. manufacturers cut costs by 25 percent.

Output in non-farm business rose at an annual 2.3 percent rate in the second quarter compared with the previous period, while hours worked rose 1.3 percent, the Labor Department said. The second-quarter increase represented an upward revi-

Trio remain jailed for denying help

HOUSTON (AP) — Three people who allegedly refused to help a dying, pregnant woman remain in Harris County Jail after being charged with murder, authorities said.

The woman's stepfather, James W. Colburn, 40, his brother-in-law, A.J. Spradlin, 43, and Colburn's girlfriend, Linda K. Goodwin, 27, were charged Monday with murder.

Investigators say the trio refused to allow police and paramedics to enter a northeast Houston apartment where Linda Carol Morales, 21, apparently was suffering from stab wounds.

Police said they believe Ms. Goodwin stabbed Ms. Morales in an argument but say the two men also were responsible for her death for failing to seek medical treatment, Dunn said.

"As far as we're concerned, they denied her medical attention," said Sgt. W.T. Dunn. "She was two months pregnant. So they not only killed her, they killed her child."

Ms. Morales, mother of an 8-month-old child, died of stab wounds Sunday night at Ben Taub Hospital.

Spradlin was jailed in lieu of $20,000 bond. Bond was set at $10,000 each for the others.

Ms. Morales allegedly was stabbed and beaten Sunday night in the second-floor apartment where the suspects lived, investigators said. She staggered downstairs, knocked on an apartment door and asked for help, investigators said.

A man went to a pay telephone to call for help and left the woman who lived in the apartment to care for Ms. Morales, investigators said. While he was gone, three people went downstairs and carried Ms. Morales back to their apartment.

"They cursed her for helping and carried her back up to the apartment," Dunn said.

Police officers went to the apartment and were met by two men and a woman, investigators said. The woman had a minor cut but refused treatment from paramedics.

When police asked to enter the apartment, the trio refused and the officers left.

Security guards at the complex went to the downstairs apartment where Ms. Morales had crawled and told the woman what had happened, investigators said. But the residents said the woman who answered the door was not the same one who had sought help.

When police returned 45 minutes later, the three cursed officers and refused to let them enter the apartment without a search warrant, the officers said.

Officers got permission from a supervisor to enter the apartment, where they found Ms. Morales on a back bedroom floor and bleeding severely.

"They might have saved her life instead of taking her back up there and concealing her," Dunn said. "They might as well all have held the knife."

135th person dies from Delta crash

DALLAS (AP) — A hospital spokesman said Kathleen Wright, 49, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., died Tuesday night, 18 days after she was critically injured in the crash of a Delta jumbo jet at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

"She died at 9:50 p.m. Her family was here," said Claude McCain, vice president for administration at Parkland Memorial Hospital.

She was the 135th person to die as a result of the Aug. 9 crash of Delta Flight 191, which crashed and exploded during a heavy thunderstorm while it headed toward a landing.

She suffered burns and fractures in the crash, and doctors amputated a leg on Aug. 16, one week after the mishap.

Three arrested in U.S. marine slaying

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Authorities have arrested three men they suspect of being part of the leftist terror squad that sprayed a cafe with gunfire, killing 13 people, including six Americans, President Jose Napoleon Duarte said.

A fourth suspect was wounded in the June 19 attack and died in a hospital, Duarte said Tuesday at a news conference.

He said security forces still were hunting seven other suspects, five of whom have been identified.

A statement issued at the news conference identified all 11 suspects as members of the Central American Revolutionary Worker's Party, which claimed responsibility for the attack.

The guerrilla group is the smallest of the organizations making up the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, which has been fighting the U.S.-backed government for the past 5½ years. Known by its Spanish initials PRTC, the group recently has been mounting urban raids.

Duarte's announcement came a day after Attorney General Santiago Mendoza Aguilar said he was reopening the investigation into the 1980 assassination of Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero. No arrests have been made in the case, in which human rights activists claim a rightist death squad was involved.

Mendoza Aguilar also has been reopening investigations of other slays, some involving American victims. Rightist death squads or members of the military are suspected in most of the cases.

In the cafe attack, PRTC guerrillas drove a truck to two sidewalk cafes in the capital, jumped off and opened fire with automatic weapons at cafe patrons.

Among those killed were four off-duty U.S. Embassy Marine guards, two American businessmen, one Guatemalan and a Chilean. At least 15 other people were wounded.

The Pentagon identified the Marines as Sgt. Thomas T. Handwork, 24, Beavercreek, Ohio; Cpl. Gregory H. Weber, 22, Cincinnati, Ohio; Sgt. Bobby J. Dickson, 27, Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Cpl. Patrick R. Kwiatkowski, 20, Wausau, Wis.

The American businessmen were George Viney, 48, of Miami; and Robert Alvidrez, 47, of Lexington, Mass. Both worked for Wang Laboratories, a computer company.

In a letter to President Reagan, Duarte praised the United States government for providing "advice and equipment," including undisclosed assistance from the FBI, to help solve the case.

The investigation was the first conducted under the supervision of a Special Investigative Commission of the legislature that Duarte set up to prevent human rights abuses during such probes.

The National Guard director, Col. Aristides Napoleon Montes, said at the news conference that one PRTC death squad provided covering fire while a second one did the killing.

Officials said the dead guerrilla, Jose Roberto Salazar Mendoza, was hit by the covering fire. They said Salazar Mendoza had taken part in several other urban raids.

Officials identified the captured suspects as Juan Miguel Garcia Melendez, Jose Abraham Dimas Aguilar and William Cello Rivas Bolanos, but refused to provide any more details about them.

The statement said the suspects were ranking PRTC officers and said many of them had received training from Vietnam, Cuba and Nicaragua.

Slow progress in passenger protection

Fighting fires still difficult on airlines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The explosion and fire that destroyed a British jetliner last week, killing 54 people, focused new attention on the frustrating difficulties and slow progress in finding ways to protect passengers against commercial aircraft fires.

"With this latest disaster, they are going to have to face the facts and decide which is more important — money or lives," says Wayne

Williams of the National Transportation Safety Association, a private, Florida-based watchdog group.

Says Daniel T. Smith of Dallas, consumer affairs manager of the International Airline Passengers

Association: "Recent efforts by the government are commendable, but as usual it's too little, too late."

For its part, the federal government is concentrating on finding ways to reduce the lethal effects of aircraft fires, notably from smoke and toxic fumes, and prevent leaking fuel from bursting into a catastrophic fireball.

The Federal Aviation Administration was ready late last year, in fact, to order use of a fuel additive designed to prevent the sort of rapidly escalating blaze that engulfed the British Airways twin-jet Boeing 737 on Aug. 22. But the government backed away after the additive failed to perform as expected in a highly publicized test crash in December.

In any event, says FAA spokesman Fred Farrar, "There's not much that can be done to prevent the fires."

The reason is simple. A jetliner carries thousands of gallons of extremely volatile fuel, akin to ordinary household kerosene. In addition, some aircraft cabin materials — plastics, wool, acrylics and the like — release lethal gases such as carbon monoxide and hydrogen cyanide when they burn intensely.

In the case of the British Airways jet, which caught fire as it hurtled down a Manchester, England, runway, press reports said the explosion in the plane's left-hand engine was a "chance-in-a-million" incident caused by failure of the only engine part that could easily rupture a fuel tank and start a fire.

Similarly, investigators speculate that a malfunctioning electrical flush motor in the rear lavatory may have been responsible for a fire that erupted in an Air Canada DC-9 during a flight from Dallas to Toronto in June 1983, forcing the plane to make an emergency landing at Cincinnati. The cause has never been established. Twenty-three people died.

Federal experts say 40 percent of the people who die in plane crashes after surviving the initial impact are killed by fire.

Spurred by the Air Canada fire, the FAA ordered airlines last October to outfit seats and cushions with flame-retardant covers within three years and to install special cabin floor lighting within two years.

The "fire-blocking" seat material is intended to slow the rate of burn in the event of a fire, and to delay by as much as 40 seconds the point at which flammable vapors in the cabin burst into a fireball. The purpose of the floor lighting is to guide passengers to exits in a smoke-filled cabin.

The FAA will meet with airline and plane manufacturing representatives in Seattle next week to discuss ways to improve emergency evacuations.

The government's difficulties in solving the problem of fire safety were dramatized last December with the embarrassing outcome of the test of a new chemical additive, developed by a British firm, intended to prevent fireball explosions of leaking jet fuel.

Wineberger given high praise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger won wide congressional praise for scuttling the Army's troubled Sgt. York air defense gun, a costly weapon that worked no better than the system it was designed to replace.

The decision to cancel the gun means the Army will have to go back to the drawing board to come up with a weapon to defend its infantry troops against aerial attack. The service already has missiles and high-speed guns for that purpose, but says a better system is needed.

"The system didn't work well enough," Weinberger told a Pentagon news conference Tuesday. "That's the simple fact."

"The adage about Weinberger is that he's never seen a weapons system he didn't like, but he's now shown that given the right circumstances, he's not against cancelling a program. It's a very important and dramatic decision," said Sen. Dan Quayle, R-Ind.

It is rare for the Pentagon to kill a weapon after production has begun. Eight years ago, President Carter halted the B-1 bomber program, but only four prototypes had been built and production wasn't started. President Reagan resurrected the plane.

Although Congress is in recess, legislators quickly praised Weinberger's decision and said it would help him as he tries to defend Reagan administration defense budget requests before an increasingly reluctant Congress.

"This gives Weinberger tremendous credibility on Capitol Hill," said Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., by telephone from his home. Rudman, a frequent critic of the Sgt. York, said, "It certainly was the right decision."

Rep. Denny Smith, R-Ore., the weapon's chief critic in the House, called Weinberger's decision "a gutsy move" and said it "sends a strong signal to contractors to clean up their act."

A frequent Weinberger critic, Sen.

David Pryor, D-Ark., said by telephone from Jonesboro, Ark., that "I must say I am pleasantly surprised. I did not ever think I would see the day when Weinberger would turn thumbs down on a weapon when it's been around so long. It was a turkey."

The Sgt. York, also known as Divad for division air defense, was designed to chiefly defend against low-flying Soviet helicopters.

The service had planned to buy 618 of the guns from Ford Aerospace for a total cost of $4.8 billion. The Pentagon had already sunk $1.8 billion into the program and had received 65 Divads.

The weapon consisted of two rapid-firing 40 mm cannons mounted on a modified tank chassis and guided by a radar linked to a computer. It was named after the Army's most decorated hero of World War I.

But it has been plagued by problems, particularly in tests, and Congress last year ordered a halt to production until more tests could be done.

Dog owner charged with injury

CONROE, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors rested their case after the third day of testimony in the trial of a Magnolia farm worker charged with reckless injury to a child after his pet bull terrier mauled his girlfriend's 4-year-old son.

Montgomery County sheriff's deputies said Tuesday that after the child's death they found the comments of James Traxler, 30, so repulsive that one officer almost struck the man and another later wept.

"The boy should have known better than to mess with that dog," Deputy Sam Lynch quoted Traxler as saying after the Feb. 23, 1984 incident.

Art Collins, former captain of sheriff's detectives, testified Tuesday he was tempted to hit Traxler because of his comments.

Another officer, Deputy Jim Isaacs, said that after leaving the Traxler home the day of the killing, he went to his own house three blocks away and "sat on the porch and cried."

Less than five hours after the Ausat launch and one orbit later than originally scheduled, the astronauts released another communications satellite owned by American Satellite Co., which said it had $100 million invested in the project.

Forty-five minutes after the deployments, a rocket motor in each satellite fired to send it winging toward a stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the globe.

Ann Landers

Checkups a must

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 52-year-old woman who worries a lot about cancer. Although I get an annual checkup and have never had any symptoms, the reason I am so terrified is because my mother, two aunts and a sister, as well as two cousins, have had cancer.

Is cancer hereditary? Some say it is, others say no. I live in a small town in Nebraska and although I like my doctor very much I have the feeling he is not very well informed about this disease. He is in his late 60s and I think perhaps he has not kept up with the latest.

What can you say to quiet my fears and make me feel better about the medical care I am receiving? I'm sure there are many people in small towns across the country who share this problem. Please don't give away the city. My doctor would recognize me at once.—ANONYMOUS READER IN MID-AMERICA

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Cancer is not hereditary in the same way that blue eyes or skin color are, but the experts say family history is indeed a factor. When cancer seems to "run in the family," checkups should be a must on a regular basis.

Write to: Hereditary Cancer Institute, Creighton University, Omaha, Neb. 68178 for information. This is a non-profit center devoted to education, prevention, management and control of hereditary cancer. One of the basic missions of this institute is to educate both patients and physicians about this most dreaded disease. Perhaps your doctor should write too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thank you for coming forward and discussing "date rape" in your column. It has been one of the best-kept secrets of our time.

When I was 18 I was a victim of this nasty little crime. I had gone out with the fellow only twice and didn't like him very much. One night when I returned from my job he was waiting for me at the front door. Being young and inexperienced, I didn't know how to tell him I didn't want to see him, so I let him in. Unfortunately, my parents were out of town and my sisters were working late. Within the hour I had been raped.

I became pregnant from that single encounter and in those days (48 years ago) the only thing to do was get married. I spent 37 years in a loveless marriage, had two more children and always felt guilty about raising a family in a home where there was no love.

Thank the good Lord women have choices today. When I think of how I threw away my life I could kick myself. I'll sign this—REGRETS IN BILLINGS

DEAR REGRETS: You had a choice, too, but in the 1930s the social stigma of bearing an out-of-wedlock child was enormous; also it was the depth of the Depression.

Happily, society has become less judgmental on this score. An unwed mother is no longer ostracized.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a confessed chocoholic. Do you know of any way to curb the craving that usually hits me mid-afternoon and before retiring?—CHUBBY IN N.C.

DEAR CHUBBY: Try eating a piece of lemon or a sour pickle. It will help kill your craving for chocolate and keep the calorie count down.

Benefit performance scheduled in Amarillo

Fiddle music at its finest—from bluegrass to folk music and contemporary sounds—will be presented Saturday in a live show at the Caprock Amphitheatre.

Hiram Posey, who is making a name for himself on country music charts, will perform in a one and one-half hour show along with guitarist Larry Houndshell and the Cox Brothers Band.

Posey is the producer and star for this special benefit performance which will begin at 8 p.m. All proceeds will be divided between the Amphitheatre and the Princess Theatre in Tucumcari. Tickets are $7.50 per person, and Posey says the entertainment is designed to appeal to all ages.

Posey recently moved to Tucumcari, but he has musical roots across the country. Since he began playing the violin when he was in the fifth grade, Posey has won the New Mexico state championship once, the National Fancy Fiddler's Contest twice, and the Arizona State Fiddler's contest for three years in a row. This last accomplishment prohibits him from further competition, but qualifies him to participate as a judge.

In 1982 he was placed in the National Fiddler's Hall of Fame in Weiser, Idaho. For the past two years, Posey was featured soloist with the Arizona Touring Orchestra at the "Cowboys and Classics" concert.

This past January, Posey signed with Judd Records in Nashville and released "October Moon", an original composition that he recorded with some of Nashville's finest musicians including two members of the Charlie Daniels Band.

Posey says his style has been influenced by such diverse styles as Jean Luc Ponty and Bob Wills. Posey composes his melodies at his recording studio in his home at Tucumcari. He expects to release two more singles, complete an album and star in his first music video by the end of this summer.

When he's not composing or playing his fiddle, Posey can be found at the front end of a train. He has worked on the railroad for 12 years, ten of those as an engineer for the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Tickets for this concert may be purchased at the gate or in advance at Ron's One Hour Photo and Gifts Unique in Tucumcari. The show will begin at 8 p.m. A catered barbecue dinner will be available at $5.50 beginning at 6 p.m.

Curtsingers to observe anniversary

Friends and relatives are invited to a reception-open house honoring Mr. and Mrs. R.E. (Buddy) Curtsinger from 2-5 p.m. Sunday in their home at 208 Higgins.

The couple, who will be observing their 54th wedding anniversary, ask that no gifts be brought.

Their daughter, Sue Kuykendall of Midland, will serve as hostess.

The Curtsingers were married Aug. 29, 1931 in Clovis, N.M.

Class car wash set Saturday

Hereford High School juniors will have a free car wash Saturday at Rainbow Car wash located at north 25 Mile Ave. from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Members of the junior class will be contacting local people and businesses for pledges based on the number of cars washed.

Proceeds from the money-making project will be used for the junior class supper and homecoming float.

In 1955, Britain, the United States, France and Russia formally recognized the perpetual neutrality of Austria.

Showmanship clinic deemed successful

Seventeen Showmanship Club 4-H'ers brought animals to the 4-H arena this past Saturday to participate in the annual showmanship clinic.

Rick Vestal of Lamesa traveled to Hereford to place the animals for overall quality and uniformity. The animals placed included 10 steers and 14 lambs. Vestal began around 9:30 a.m. placing the lambs. Jill Dutton exhibited the champion finewool lamb while younger brother, Rusty, exhibited the first place Southdown.

Jeff Hicks showed his suffolk lamb to champion medium wool and overall grand champion. Hicks received a wall plaque for his winnings.

4-H'ers also participating included Nathan Henderson, second place finewool; John David Rickman, second and third place medium wools; Susan Richman, third and fourth place medium wools; Lori Urbanczyk fourth place medium wool; Chris Williams fifth and sixth place; Jennifer Hicks second place heavy medium wool; and Toby Smith fifth place medium wool.

The Showmanship competition was held afterwards with all showers doing extremely well. John David Rickman placed fourth; Jill Dutton, third; Toby Smith, second; and Jeff Hicks, first. Hicks and Smith both received wall plaques for champion and reserve champion showman.

Chris Urbanczyk was the big winner in the steer division of the clinic. Urbanczyk exhibited his Limousin steer to champion honors while also being named overall champion showman in that competition. He received two wall plaques for his winnings.

Jeremy Myers was deemed Reserve Champion Showman and received a wall plaque while exhibiting his two steers, both to a second place position.

Chris Connally placed first with his large frame steers. Angela Brunley placed third in both showmanship and small frame steer class. Kristi Powell placed fourth in the small frame class while Greg Urbanczyk placed fourth in the large frame division. Cody Powell exhibited the fifth place small frame steer.

The instructor and judge, Rick Vestal visited with each exhibitor and discussed improvement procedures for both steer and showmanship abilities.

The 4-H Horse club provided concession and around 75 on-lookers provided applause.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Derr, Urbanczyk place first at bake show

Lori Derr and Lori Urbanczyk took the honors at the Deaf Smith County 4-H Bake Show Friday.

Lori Derr, won the senior division with the double butterscotch rolls. Kristi Powell was the senior alternate winner with her creation of honey twist coffee cake.

Lori Urbanczyk won the junior division with cinnamon doughnuts. Alternate was Susan Rickman creating a pineapple-banana cake.

The County 4-H Bake Show is designed to promote one of the panhandle's crops-wheat. The requirements for the show was to prepare a baked product using a 1:3 minimum ratio of whole wheat and white flour.

Prizes were donated by Arrowhead

Mills, Ford Extension Homemakers Club, and Westway Extension Homemakers Club.

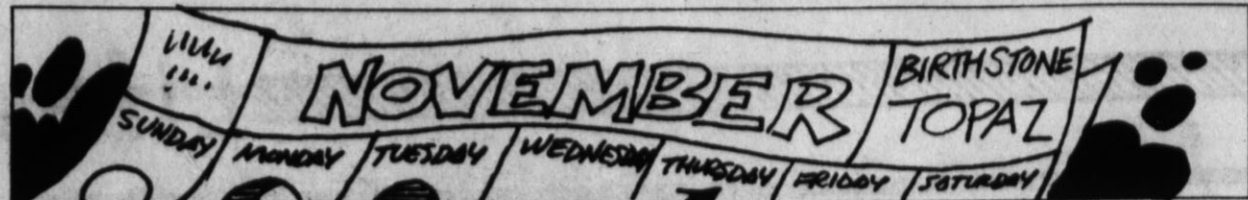

Judges for the show were Johnnie Turrentine and Pet Ott.

Other bake show participants were Pam Price, Jennifer Hicks, Angela Brumley, John David Rickman, Camille Betzen, and Lee Harder.

The bake show committee was Patty Hill, Martha Rickman, and Susan Hicks.

Both "Lori's," will compete in the 1985 4-H Better Bake Show in Amarillo during Tri State Fair.

Actress Sarah Bernhardt had a leg amputated in 1914, but she continued acting for another nine years until her death in 1923.

Meet Your Neighbor

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

A young married couple who met while they were mere toddlers are among the new teachers in Hereford.

After studying in Canyon the past four years, David and Lisa Hilton have come to Hereford for the 1985-86 school year.

Lisa majored in music education and will be teaching kindergarten through third grade at Tierra Blanca elementary.

David will be teaching industrial arts at Stanton for seventh through ninth grades.

After graduating from West Texas State University in May, they are taking their first teaching jobs here.

Lisa enjoys playing the piano, flute, and violin. She played for the WTSU Chorale and marching band.

"I hope to have my own piano studio in the future, to tutor students in private piano lessons," explained the musician of the family.

But David is also musically inclined, having played the trumpet in the WTSU Marching Band.

The couple, typical of students, did odd jobs while in college. Lisa made money playing recitals and David did remodeling and additions on rental property.

The couple enjoys snow-skiing, tennis, ping-pong, and racquetball. Formerly of Espanol, David met Lisa when he was five and she was three. It just so happened that their parents went to college together in Indianapolis.

Gardening and woodworking interest David. In his living room he has a bi-level corner table and a book shelf which he made.

At work, David will be teaching students all about woodworking, metalworking, and drafting.

Lisa plans to teach her students how to read music, identify instruments, and learn rhythms.

In his even younger days, David says was headed in the wrong direction and calls himself a "former doper."

"I used to wear my hair long like Ted Nugent, he was my idol," said David.

He's eager to share how he changed.

"My brother had come home from college and he had discovered the Lord and started sharing what he knew with me," said David, "and then my brother started praying for us."

"It's hard when they (Christians) tell you your ways are wrong," he said, "but it is all worth it."

"It was hard to give everything up that first year," added David, "but in the end Lisa and I rededicated our lives and since then the Bible has come alive to us!"

David gives his born-again philosophy, saying, "Jesus said to do the will of him that sent him, and that is my philosophy, to do the will of God."

DR. GOTT

Peter Gott, M.D.

'Restless legs' make her itch

DEAR DR. GOTT — For the past three or four years, I have had what seems like an internal itching sensation occurring in my legs. The symptoms are worse at the end of the day, when I am sitting down or in bed. My own doctor doesn't seem to have much information about this problem. I'm female. Is there anything you can suggest for this miserable condition?

DEAR READER — "Restless legs" is a disorder that may reflect the increasingly poor circulation that comes with age. Exercise, medicine to improve blood flow and the application of heat (like a lap blanket) may help. If the condition is really making you miserable, ask your doctor to refer you to a cardiovascular surgeon, who may be able to give you specific tips on what to do.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is being done in way of research for a cure or treatment of M.S.?

DEAR READER — Multiple sclerosis is a serious neuromuscular disease for which no cause is known and no universal cure available. Hyperbaric oxygen (the use of oxygen therapy under high pressure) enjoyed a ransient therapeutic enthusiasm, but at a recent meeting of neurologists, the technique was reported to be of little benefit.

Presently, M.S. is treated by nursing support. This means that doctors try to treat the symptoms (weakness, energy, loss of mobility and other nerve disorders) to make the patient as independent and comfortable as possible. Until the cause of the disease is known, a specific antidote is — unfortunately — far in the future.

DEAR DR. GOTT — In some cases, when one grows older, the anus tends to become smaller and the elasticity is pretty much gone. The bowel cramps and it's very difficult to have good bowel movements. I have been told that a person can be put to sleep and dilated. Is this dangerous or is it successful?

DEAR READER — Although anal dilation is both safe and effective, I cannot specifically recommend it in your case. Ask your family doctor for a referral to a surgeon who is familiar with the procedure and can evaluate you for it. Many people with your problem choose instead to use stool softeners and suppositories, or to increase dietary fiber in preference to dilation, which must be repeated at intervals to be successful. Anal constriction is not necessarily a response to the aging process. Constipation is, however. By better controlling and modifying your bowel movements, you may be able to function comfortably for many years.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had a knee operation where they went in with a scope and tied the cord back up. My kneecap had been coming off for about seven years. Is this operation permanent?

DEAR READER — Any operation of this type, when performed properly, is permanent. Naturally, you will want to be somewhat cautious about stressing your knee in the future. You may be expected to perform strengthening exercises to ensure a good result. The surgeon who operated on you is the best source of advice regarding what you can do to prevent further mishaps.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm a young man who is active in college sports. Seven months ago, I strained my lower back lifting weights. Despite much work with a chiropractor, my fifth lumbar doesn't seem to "stay in." I've tried exercises, but still have stabbing pains in my hips and lower back. I've heard of using laser therapy to fuse vertebrae. Is this worthwhile? Do you have any other suggestions?

DEAR READER — While you may have done little more than strain your back muscles lifting weights, I am concerned that your pain is still present. This raises the possibility of a pinched nerve or a slipped disc. I think it is time for you to move from chiropractic and to see an orthopedic specialist or neurosurgeon. Before considering radical forms of treatment, you owe your back the chance to recover by using more conventional methods. See an M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My doctor says that if my 6-month-old son's chest doesn't push out by itself, he will need surgery, or else it will push too hard on his heart. How serious is this surgery, and at what age would (WILL) his chest push out on its own, if it's going to?

DEAR READER — It sounds as if your son has an ailment called pectus excavatum, in which the breastbone and ribs lie too close to the spinal column. Many people with mild forms of this abnormality live long and healthy lives. However, if the condition is pronounced, the lungs and heart may be impeded and prevented from expanding. I do not know whether your son will require corrective surgery; this is a decision that you will have to make in conjunction with specialists. Although the operation is a major undertaking, it is almost always successful. Such a drastic approach may not be necessary if, within the next year or two, your son's chest grows outward in the normal manner.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 87-year-old father has lower back and leg pains. X-rays show deterioration of the lower spine. What treatment would you prescribe?

DEAR READER — Given your father's age, I doubt that surgery is a reasonable option. Therefore, his doctor will probably wish to prescribe a brace, pain medication, physiotherapy and calcium supplements (to prevent further deterioration).

Clothing prices have almost doubled (up 91 percent) since 1967, federal statistics show — but medical costs have increased 288 percent during that same period, says the Health Insurance Association of America.

Plan to save money when sewing

Sewing at home for savings takes careful planning to make sure the investment pays off.

"Consider the value of the time spent sewing as well as your out-of-pocket costs," says Alma Fonseca, a clothing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Sewing children's garments is usually more economical than buying them. This is because children's clothes are often simple, have less detail, require little fabric and have a short life use.

Creative recycling of clothes that need updating or fitting adjustments can also save money, she points out.

Sewing custom-made articles for the home, such as draperies for an odd-sized window or slipcovers for an odd-sized sofa, result in a significant savings, Fonseca says. Good draperies with linings damaged by the sun can also be re-lined to save the cost of having to re-invest in new ones.

In addition, careful selection of styles and patterns will save sewing time and supplies, notes the specialist. For example, special patterns for knits often feature styles with no zipper, facing, interfacing or darts.

"When shopping for fabrics, always buy with use in mind. Quality fabrics may make up more attractively and hold their beauty longer, but it could be more economical to choose a less expensive fabric if the outfit is to be worn only a few times," Fonseca says.

Sales of fabrics and notions usually appeal to economy-minded sewers. But bargains often remain unused and therefore lose their savings potential, reminds the specialist.

When buying sale fabric for future use, choose colors you already have in your wardrobe, and classic designs rather than those topping the current fashion scene. Also check for off-grain fabrics, especially if designs require matching, and know yardage requirements before you buy, she advises.

Fonseca also recommends reusing patterns with a difference fabric, neckline or sleeve change to get more mileage out of them. Try special patterns for knits. Some brands have several sizes on one pattern and can be used to accommodate figure variations, she says.

A cow is sometime named "Bossy" because the Latin word for cow is "bos."

Egg whites will whip better at room temperature. Separate the eggs while cold (the yolks will have less tendency to break) then let stand a bit before beating.

Abundant Life

STRENGTH IN HUMILITY

By Bob Wear

HUMILITY MAY BE the life quality that is the least understood, and the least desired of all the helpful qualities available to us. For one thing, it seems that many people, perhaps most people, consider it weakness. Quite to the contrary of this view, there is 'strength in humility'; or, perhaps, it should be said that 'humility' is strength.

TRUE HUMILITY is not an affectation, or a put-on, or some sort of pretense. It is the fruit of the most desirable and most honorable kind of inner strength. It is not a handicap to us, but is one of the most helpful of all traits of character and personality.

HUMILITY IS freedom from pride and arrogance; it is an act of wise submission or gracious courtesy; it is not pretentious; it is unassuming; it is even more than this. It must be said here that there is a kind of wholesome pride which is very much of a part of true humility.

THE USAGE of the word, 'humility' is twofold; a good sense and a bad sense, and we must make the distinction between these two usages of the word. The bad sense: undue self-depreciation; spiritlessness; timid submissiveness; absence of pride in oneself and in one's achievements. As already stated, there is wholesome pride which is very much a part of the desirable humility. The good sense in which the word 'humility' is used: freedom from an overbearing manner; freedom from show, ostentation, display, etc.

WHOLE SOME HUMILITY may be the crowning achievement in character and personality development. Someone has said, "Humility is the true cure for many a needless heartache." It would also prevent much of the strife and turmoil which dissipate so much of human well-being.

Moderation in things key to good health

Too much of a good thing is usually detrimental and the same is true of diet and exercise, according to a Texas Tech University psychologist.

Being overly preoccupied with health and physical fitness may do more harm than good, according to psychology Professor June Chiodo. A never-ending obsession to look attractive and be healthy may lead to false sense of guilt and a low self-esteem. "We're beginning to identify a segment of the population who are overly preoccupied with health and weight," Chiodo said. "Some people think if a little exercise is good, then a lot is even better and that's just not true. If you spend too much time exercising you're missing out on life."

The unrealistic expectations for a perfect body is influenced by the media, Chiodo said. Society places an emphasis on physical appearance and people begin to base self-esteem on physical appearance, she said.

The preoccupation with appearance may also stem from parents who were overly concerned with a child's appearance. The parents may have praised the child for physical appearance and not achievements, Chiodo said.

Overeating when upset or depressed is common and some may show a

"yo-yo" effect, Chiodo said. Research has shown that a "yo-yo" weight gain and loss is more harmful than maintaining weight at a few pounds overweight.

"Ten pounds will not increase the risk of heart disease," she said. "That's not obese. Be at a weight where you feel healthy and alert and if that is five or 10 pounds over what the charts say then that's OK."

A key to good nutrition and health, she said, is moderation in all things. A person who eats a wide variety of foods in moderation is more likely to have good nutrition. The moderation also applies to exercise, Chiodo said.

The key to relaxing and enjoying life means accepting yourself as you are, Chiodo said. That begins with focusing your self-esteem on attributes and abilities in addition to physical appearance. To some that may mean learning to handle comments from relatives and friends who are overly concerned with physical appearance.

If a preoccupation with food and exercise continues and begins to dominate the person's everyday life, the next step may be an eating disorder such as anorexia or bulimia, Chiodo said.

Darla Newton's Got It

Darla Newton of the Hereford High School varsity volleyball team bumps the ball from the back line during a match Tuesday night against Levelland. Hereford fell to Levelland in two straight games, 15-10, 15-2.

HHS spikers drop pair of matches to Levelland

Hereford High School volleyball teams dropped a pair of matches to Levelland Tuesday night in Hereford, both in two games.

Levelland won the varsity match 15-10, 15-2, and took the junior varsity match, 15-3, 15-12.

The Hereford varsity has an 8-3 season record. Tuesday's junior varsity match was the first of the season for Hereford.

Hereford and Levelland will have a rematch on Thursday when the Hereford spikers play at Levelland, with the junior varsity match starting at 6:30 p.m. The Hereford tournament is scheduled for Saturday.

In game one of Tuesday's varsity match, Levelland moved out to a 5-2 lead before Hereford bounced back to tie the game at 6-6.

A service ace by DonAnn Cummings put Hereford ahead 7-6, and the lead was increased to 8-6 when Levelland hit the ball out of bounds.

Levelland came back to tie the game at 8-8, but Hereford went back into the lead 10-8. Emma Gonzales recorded a service ace for a 9-8 lead, and it became 10-8 when Levelland spiked the ball out of bounds.

Hereford, however, failed to score the rest of the game as Levelland won the game 15-10. Levelland then won the match with its 15-2 victory in game two.

In the junior varsity match, Hereford, after losing game one 15-3, built up an 8-3 over Levelland in game two.

Hits single, double, triple

Doran powers Astros over Cubs, 11-4

By DICK BRINSTER AP Sports Writer

The struggling Houston Astros are contemplating a few player moves, but it's a good bet that rapidly-developing second baseman Bill Doran will remain an Astro.

The 27-year-old Doran had five RBIs, a personal career high, as Houston, crushed the injury-plagued Chicago Cubs 11-4 in the Astrodome Tuesday night.

Doran leads the club with 21 stolen bases, 135 hits and 13 homeruns.

"Doran is the case of a kid who came in the league three or four years ago, and he started off struggling," Chicago Manager Jim Frey said.

"He's grown and matured and gotten stronger. He's the type of kid who seems to be a real hard worker, a real gamer. He steals bases, hustles, fields well and has made himself a darn good ballplayer."

Tuesday's win was only the second for Houston in its past seven games.

The Astros exploded in the seventh inning to overcome a 4-3 deficit.

Doran had a single, double and triple. Jose Cruz and Mark Bailey knocked in two runs each, adding to the Astros' 13-hit attack. Cruz leads Houston with 59 RBIs.

Cub reliever Ron Meredith, 2-1, suffered the brunt of the seventh-inning outburst by allowing five runs. Houston's Dave Smith, 7-5, won the game in relief of starter Joe Niekro.

"I threw a lot in the bullpen last night ironing out some things. I'm a little tired because of it, but it helped my movement and location tonight," Smith said.

The league's top pinch hitter — Thad Bosley, who is 17-for-46 in that role this season with a .370 average — was the "almost hero" for Chicago, slugging a seventh-inning home run that temporarily put the Cubs ahead, 4-3.

"That's the role that Jim Frey has chosen to use me and Richie Hebner in this season," Bosley said.

"I think I hit a slider or maybe a knuckle ball that was down. I was looking for something low, and I got the bat on the ball enough to clear the right field wall," he said.

Cardinals 6, Reds 4

The St. Louis Cardinals seem to come up with a new way of winning night after night, and that — combined with the mediocre play of the New York Mets over the past two weeks — has made a once-torrid divisional race a little cooler.

"There are so many ways we can beat a club," St. Louis reliever Jeff Lahti said Tuesday night after the Cardinals came from behind to beat Cincinnati and increase the St. Louis lead in the National League East to three games.

"We hit home runs . . . we steal them blind . . . we base-hit them to death . . . we hit balls in the gap," said Lahti, whose 16th save preserved St. Louis' 6-4 victory over Cincinnati.

Willie McGee borrowed a lighter bat from teammate Vince Coleman because he needed to pull the ball with two men on base and St. Louis trailing 4-3 in the eighth inning. The strategy worked as McGee hit his league-leading 16th triple into the gap in right-center to score both runners and put the Cardinals ahead to stay.

Pete Rose did not play for Cincinnati, and remains 11 hits shy of passing Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4,191 hits.

While the Cardinals won their season-high seventh straight game, the Mets dropped their second straight to NL West leader Los Angeles, being shut out by Jerry Reuss until Darryl Strawberry homered with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning of a 2-1 loss.

Elsewhere in the NL it was San Francisco 6, Montreal 1; San Diego 4, Philadelphia 1; Atlanta 7, Pittsburgh 6.

Dodgers 2, Mets 1

Reuss, 12-8, was thankful for the quick feet of rookie shortstop Mariano Duncan, who went to the right side of second base to rob Keith Hernandez and snuff out a sixth-inning threat by New York.

"I've seen Duncan do a lot of things every day that I don't believe," Reuss said.

Duncan tripled, walked, stole two bases and scored both runs for the Dodgers, who lead San Diego by 7 1/2 games in the NL West.

Fadres 4, Phillies 1

San Diego needed a victory to break a three-game losing streak, and left-hander Mark Thurmond was there to answer the call. He struck out a career-high eight batters in 7 2/3 innings.

Thurmond, 6-7, gave up seven hits

and walked just two.

Graig Nettles had two doubles and drove in the winning run.

Braves 7, Pirates 6

As far as Bob Horner is concerned, the worrying is a thing of the past.

"I can't tell you how much this year mentally has meant to me for my own sanity knowing that the career-threatening injury I had is gone," said Horner, who three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning gave Atlanta a come-from behind victory at home.

Horner's 21st homer came off reliever Don Robinson, 4-10, and capped a five-run Atlanta rally as the Braves handed Pittsburgh its 16th consecutive road loss. The Pirates last won away from their Three Rivers Stadium home on July 22.

Atlanta's Dale Murphy took over the major-league lead with his 34th homer.

The victory was the second in a row for the Braves under Bobby Wine, who replaced fired Manager Eddie Haas on Monday.

Giants 6, Expos 1

Brad Wellman figures there are times when mistakes can be forgiven. Wellman missed a squeeze sign with the bases loaded in the ninth inning, then lined a triple to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 6-1 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Junior golf tournament played Monday, Tuesday

The Junior City Golf Championship was played Monday and Tuesday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, with competition in four divisions.

Arthur Valdez fired a round of 73 Monday and a 77 Tuesday for a 150 total and first place in the age 15 to 17 division, 10 strokes ahead of the second place finisher Kelby Hagar.

The champion of the age 13 to 14 division was Marcus Urias, who had rounds of 95 and 92 for a total of 187. That was 16 strokes better than the second place finisher, Rick Alley.

In the age 11 to 12 division, Kevin Kelso claimed the title with a score of 220, including rounds of 114 and 106. Max Mungia was second with a 236 tournament total.

Sabino Grijalva placed first in the age 10 and under division. Grijalva turned in rounds of 57 and 58 for an overall score of 115. Jason Mines was second at 119.

The girls' trophy was won by

Whitney Drake, who competed in the age 15 to 17 division. She carded scores of 87 and 85 for a total of 172, fourth place in that division.

To 7-4 win over Rangers

Wehrmeister leads White Sox

By JOE MOOSHIL AP Sports Writer
Dave Wehrmeister has been knocking around the minor leagues for some 12 years with occasional but short trips to the big leagues.

It was a tough existence at best. But Tuesday night Wehrmeister, a 32-year-old right-hander, made it pay off by hurling four hitless innings of relief for his first major league save in a 7-4 Chicago White Sox victory over the Texas Rangers.

What kept him going? "I had confidence and believed in myself," said Wehrmeister, who retired the first 11 batters he faced, issued a walk and then ended his brilliant four-inning stint by striking out pinch-batter Duane Walker to end the game.

Wehrmeister originally was signed by San Diego and had brief stops with the Padres in 1976, 1977 and 1978. He failed to post records with the New York Yankees in 1981 or the Philadelphia Phillies last year.

The rest of the time was spent in the minor leagues. "I knew I was capable of pitching in the major leagues," said Wehrmeister. "But they kept rushing younger pitchers ahead of me. They were always looking to the future. But I always felt I was a better pitcher."

Wehrmeister added: "Every day I go to the park I learn something. I spent 12 years in the minors and learned a lot. I don't have the velocity I did at one time, but I've become a better pitcher."

It was brilliant relief, and nobody appreciated it more than White Sox Manager Tony LaRussa.

"That gave me a chance to rest four guys in the bullpen," said LaRussa. "When you go to the bullpen in the sixth inning, you usually have to use one or two more pitchers."

"He was great," said LaRussa. "He faced 13 guys and retired 12. You can't do much better than that."

Winner Britt Burns, 14-4, was ineffective, although the White Sox staked him to a 7-1 lead after four innings.

Bryan Little singled in two runs, and Baines and Greg Walker followed with run-scoring singles in a four-run third.

Chicago added three more in the fourth. Rudy Law doubled in a run, and after Little drew a walk, Baines singled off reliever Mike Mason's hand, and when Mason threw wild past first, Law and Little both scored.

Dickie Noles started for the Rangers and was kayoed in the fourth.

"He pitched two perfect innings and then it was stop the dam," said

Texas Manager Bobby Valentine. "I'm getting pretty tired of seeing those four and five runs in the third inning. It makes it tough on our offense."

Valentine conceded "Wehrmeister did a helluva job. He came in and pitched great. Still, if Mason doesn't throw that ball away, it's a one-run game and not a three-run game."

Little, who has been playing second base against right-handed pitchers, has been making strides and has boosted his average to .277.

"Terry Logan, our scout in the Southwest, told us to watch him," said LaRussa. "He's got good hands, he's sound fundamentally and he came along in a pinch when Julio Cruz got hurt."

"He's done so many important things in the middle of rallies that you can't count them," said LaRussa. "All of his runs-batted-in have been big ones."

A's 3, Yankees 0
Tommy John says he's basically the same pitcher he was in 1979 and 1980 when he recorded consecutive 20-victory seasons for the New York Yankees.

Only now, John is beating the Yankees, rather than pitching for them.

The 42-year-old John pitched seven innings of three-hit ball Tuesday night, helping the Oakland A's down the Yankees 3-0.

"I'm about 10 pounds lighter and a few years older," John said, referring to the days when he wore pinstripes.

The A's pinned the loss on New York ace Ron Guidry, 16-5, who had won 15 of his last 16 decisions.

The Yankees dropped five games behind American League East-leading Toronto, which beat Minnesota 8-0.

In other AL games, Milwaukee defeated Kansas City 8-5, Cleveland stopped Boston 6-2, Seattle downed Detroit 3-1 and California halted Baltimore 7-3.

Blue Jays 8, Twins 0
Steve Davis, a Toronto rookie who had already won 20 games in the minors this season, pitched four innings of one-hit relief to win his first major-league decision.

Davis, recalled from Class AAA Syracuse on Saturday, took over for starter Tom Filer, who left the game with a sore elbow after pitching a hitless first inning. Davis struck out three and walked none.

Four National Football League quarterbacks had five touchdown passes in one game in 1984. They were John Elway of Denver, Dave Krieg of Seattle, Dan Marino of Miami and Marc Wilson of the Los Angeles Raiders.

Filer, Davis, Dennis Lamp and Bill Caudill teamed to hold Minnesota to three hits.

Angels 7, Orioles 3
California rookie Jack Howell broke out of a 1-for-21 slump by hitting two home runs, including a grand slam.

The victory, coupled with Kansas City's loss, gave the Angels a 2½-game lead in the AL West.

Baltimore's Eddie Murray, who hit three homers and drove home nine runs against California on Monday night, went 2-for-3 with an RBI double.

Brewers 8, Royals 5
Rookie Earnest Riles singled three times, raising his average to .304, and drove in two runs to lead Milwaukee over visiting Kansas City.

The Brewers, who trailed 3-0 after the top of the first inning, scored twice in the bottom of the first and four times in the second.

Errors by losing pitcher Danny Jackson, 12-8, and third baseman George Brett fueled Milwaukee's four-run second.

Mariners 3, Tigers 1
Matt Young pitched a five-hitter, his second straight strong outing for Seattle.

Young, who broke a six-game losing streak by shutting out Baltimore in his last start, allowed just a fifth-inning homer to Chet Lemon. Young, 9-14, struck out six and did not walk a batter.

Indians 6, Red Sox 2
Tony Bernazard singled three times, highlighting a 16-hit attack that paced Cleveland over Boston.

The Indians broke the game open with three runs in the seventh. Brook Jacoby singled home the first run and George Vukovich doubled home the final two.

Curt Wardle, 6-5, gave up seven hits in 8 1-3 innings for the victory.

Oilers sign Tony Zendejas

HOUSTON (AP) — Kicker Joe Cooper had a bad night Saturday in the Astrodome and he had a worse day Tuesday. The Houston Oilers waived him and signed former NCAA kicking champion Tony Zendejas.

Cooper, who apparently had won the Houston kicking job from Florian Kempf, had the kind of game in Saturday's 24-19 loss to Kansas City that he'd like to forget.

Cooper missed a 32-yard field goal and an extra point and threw an interception on a bad snap that Kevin Ross returned 60 yards for a touchdown.

Oiler Coach Hugh Campbell confirmed that Cooper's off-night Saturday had nothing to do with the move. He said the Oilers would have opted for Zendejas even if Cooper had been perfect against the Chiefs.

Changes under way to restore sports stability

An AP Sports Extra
By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

More is giving way to less in a new, emerging economy aimed at restoring stability to sports.

Less competition from rival leagues. Less in salary increases and other costs. Less reliance on television for money and fan support.

Partly by design and partly by natural progression, the change is already under way:

—Salaries are leveling off, and while superstars like basketball's Pat Ewing will still get the big contracts, owners and players predict that overall increases will continue to decline.

—The United States Football League, after a two-year salary war with the National Football League, has dropped out of the bidding for most college stars, easing pressure on the NFL.

—The National Basketball Association operates under a salary cap limiting team payrolls. The immediate result last season: While 10 teams still lost money, that was seven fewer than the year before.

—Baseball's new collective bargaining agreement calls for revenue sharing to help struggling teams, and owners estimate they will save $400,000 a year per team, starting in 1987, from salary arbitration changes.

It is a gradual transformation deemed necessary after unparalleled growth led to unparalleled spending over the last decade.

That doesn't mean sports will go broke, only that it won't get much richer.

"Maybe this latest golden age of sports is coming to an end," said former baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, "but it's not turning to lead."

Players really made it big because of competition for their services — from rival leagues in football, basketball and hockey, and from free agency in baseball. And, like water, sports now is seeking its own level.

"I've lived through the demise of the World Hockey Association, the World Football League, the American Basketball Association," sports agent Bob Woolf said. "I've represented a lot of players who had wonderful contracts that weren't fulfilled. There's no sense having a great contract if you've got no place to play. And more and more players realize that."

Negotiating the superstar contracts could be more difficult in baseball under a new requirement for up-front financing of all long-term contracts. If a player is to be paid for years after he leaves the game, the money has to be put in escrow; teams may no longer mortgage — or bankrupt — their future.

Just as television was pivotal in the money boom, it will be a key to the retrenchment.

"I don't think our television contract will go up 2½ times to over $4 billion for five years," said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who negotiated a record $2.1 billion, five-year contract with the three networks in 1981.

The proliferation of money led to a proliferation of sports on the air. Will there be less sports on the air in the future?

"What's necessary," said Bob Igel, a senior vice president and director of programming at the N.W. Ayer advertising agency, "is to reduce the number of games to make them more meaningful and then to reduce the number of events telecast, to make those more important, too. That's why the NFL ranks so highly — because it's still a relatively short season and every game means a lot."

Doran powers Astros over Cubs, 11-4

Darla Newton's Got It

Darla Newton of the Hereford High School varsity volleyball team bumps the ball from the back line during a match Tuesday night against Levelland. Hereford fell to Levelland in two straight games, 15-10, 15-2.

HHS spikers drop pair of matches to Levelland

Hereford High School volleyball teams dropped a pair of matches to Levelland Tuesday night in Hereford, both in two games.

Levelland won the varsity match 15-10, 15-2, and took the junior varsity match, 15-3, 15-12.

The Hereford varsity has an 0-3 season record. Tuesday's junior varsity match was the first of the season for Hereford.

Hereford and Levelland will have a rematch on Thursday when the Hereford spikers play at Levelland, with the junior varsity match starting at 6:30 p.m. The Hereford tournament is scheduled for Saturday.

In game one of Tuesday's varsity match, Levelland moved out to a 5-2 lead before Hereford bounced back to tie the game at 6-6.

A service ace by DonAnn Cummings put Hereford ahead 7-6, and the lead was increased to 8-6 when Levelland hit the ball out of bounds.

Levelland came back to tie the game at 8-8, but Hereford went back into the lead 10-8. Emma Gonzales recorded a service ace for a 9-8 lead, and it became 10-8 when Levelland spiked the ball out of bounds.

Hereford, however, failed to score the rest of the game as Levelland won the game 15-10. Levelland then won the match with its 15-2 victory in game two.

In the junior varsity match, Hereford, after losing game one 15-3, built up an 8-3 over Levelland in game two.

The struggling Houston Astros are contemplating a few player moves, but it's a good bet that rapidly-developing second baseman Bill Doran will remain an Astro.

The 27-year-old Doran had five RBIs, a personal career high, as Houston, crushed the injury-plagued Chicago Cubs 11-4 in the Astrodome Tuesday night.

Doran leads the club with 21 stolen bases, 135 hits and 13 homeruns.

"Doran is the case of a kid who came in the league three or four years ago, and he started off struggling," Chicago Manager Jim Frey said.

"He's grown and matured and gotten stronger. He's the type of kid who seems to be a real hard worker, a real gamer. He steals bases, hustles, fields well and has made himself a darn good ballplayer."

Tuesday's win was only the second for Houston in its past seven games.

The Astros exploded in the seventh inning to overcome a 4-3 deficit.

Doran had a single, double and triple. Jose Cruz and Mark Bailey knocked in two runs each, adding to the Astros' 13-hit attack. Cruz leads Houston with 59 RBIs.

Cub reliever Ron Meredith, 2-1, suffered the brunt of the seventh-inning outburst by allowing five runs. Houston's Dave Smith, 7-5, won the game in relief of starter Joe Niekro.

"I threw a lot in the bullpen last night ironing out some things. I'm a little tired because of it, but it helped my movement and location tonight," Smith said.

The league's top pinch hitter — Thad Bosley, who is 17-for-46 in that role this season with a .370 average — was the "almost hero" for Chicago, slugging a seventh-inning home run that temporarily put the Cubs ahead, 4-3.

"That's the role that Jim Frey has chosen to use me and Richie Hebner in this season," Bosley said.

"I think I hit a slider or maybe a knuckle ball that was down. I was looking for something low, and I got the bat on the ball enough to clear the right field wall," he said.

Cardinals 6, Reds 4

The St. Louis Cardinals seem to come up with a new way of winning night after night, and that — combined with the mediocre play of the New York Mets over the past two weeks — has made a once-torrid divisional race a little cooler.

"There are so many ways we can beat a club," St. Louis reliever Jeff Lahti said Tuesday night after the Cardinals came from behind to beat Cincinnati and increase the St. Louis lead in the National League East to three games.

"We hit home runs . . . we steal them blind . . . we base-hit them to death . . . we hit balls in the gap," said Lahti, whose 16th save preserved St. Louis' 6-4 victory over Cincinnati.

Willie McGee borrowed a lighter bat from teammate Vince Coleman because he needed to pull the ball with two men on base and St. Louis trailing 4-3 in the eighth inning. The strategy worked as McGee hit his league-leading 16th triple into the gap in right-center to score both runners and put the Cardinals ahead to stay.

Pete Rose did not play for Cincinnati, and remains 11 hits shy of passing Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4,191 hits.

While the Cardinals won their season-high seventh straight game, the Mets dropped their second straight to NL West leader Los Angeles, being shut out by Jerry Reuss until Darryl Strawberry homered with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning of a 2-1 loss.

Elsewhere in the NL it was San Francisco 6, Montreal 1; San Diego 4, Philadelphia 1; Atlanta 7, Pittsburgh 6.

Dodgers 2, Mets 1

Reuss, 12-6, was thankful for the quick feet of rookie shortstop Mariano Duncan, who went to the right side of second base to rob Keith Hernandez and snuff out a sixth-inning threat by New York.

"I've seen Duncan do a lot of things every day that I don't believe," Reuss said.

Duncan tripled, walked, stole two bases and scored both runs for the Dodgers, who lead San Diego by 7½ games in the NL West.

Padres 4, Phillies 1

San Diego needed a victory to break a three-game losing streak, and left-hander Mark Thurmond was there to answer the call. He struck out a career-high eight batters in 7 2-3 innings.

Thurmond, 6-7, gave up seven hits

and walked just two.

Graig Nettles had two doubles and drove in the winning run.

Braves 7, Pirates 6

As far as Bob Horner is concerned, the worrying is a thing of the past.

"I can't tell you how much this year mentally has meant to me for my own sanity knowing that the career-threatening injury I had is gone," said Horner, who three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning gave Atlanta a come-from-behind victory at home.

Horner's 21st homer came off reliever Don Robinson, 4-10, and capped a five-run Atlanta rally as the Braves handed Pittsburgh its 16th consecutive road loss. The Pirates last won away from their Three Rivers Stadium home on July 22.

Atlanta's Dale Murphy took over the major-league lead with his 34th homer.

The victory was the second in a row for the Braves under Bobby Wine, who replaced fired Manager Eddie Haas on Monday.

Giants 6, Expos 1

Brad Wellman figures there are times when mistakes can be forgiven.

Wellman missed a squeeze sign with the bases loaded in the ninth inning, then lined a triple to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 6-1 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Junior golf tournament played Monday, Tuesday

The Junior City Golf Championship was played Monday and Tuesday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, with competition in four divisions.

Arthur Valdez fired a round of 73 Monday and a 77 Tuesday for a 150 total and first place in the age 15 to 17 division, 10 strokes ahead of the second place finisher Kelby Hagar.

The champion of the age 13 to 14 division was Marcus Urias, who had rounds of 95 and 92 for a total of 187. That was 16 strokes better than the second place finisher, Rick Alley.

In the age 11 to 12 division, Kevin Kelso claimed the title with a score of 220, including rounds of 114 and 106. Max Mungia was second with a 236 tournament total.

Sabino Grijalva placed first in the age 10 and under division. Grijalva turned in rounds of 57 and 58 for an overall score of 115. Jason Mines was second at 119.

The girls' trophy was won by

Whitney Drake, who competed in the age 15 to 17 division. She carded scores of 87 and 85 for a total of 172, fourth place in that division.

To 7-4 win over Rangers

Wehrmeister leads White Sox

By JOE MOOSHIL AP Sports Writer
Dave Wehrmeister has been knocking around the minor leagues for some 12 years with occasional but short trips to the big leagues.

It was a tough existence at best. But Tuesday night Wehrmeister, a 32-year-old right-hander, made it pay off by hurling four hitless innings of relief for his first major league save in a 7-4 Chicago White Sox victory over the Texas Rangers.

What kept him going? "I had confidence and believed in myself," said Wehrmeister, who retired the first 11 batters he faced, issued a walk and then ended his brilliant four-inning stint by striking out pinch-batter Duane Walker to end the game.

Wehrmeister originally was signed by San Diego and had brief stops with the Padres in 1976, 1977 and 1978. He failed to post records with the New York Yankees in 1981 or the Philadelphia Phillies last year.

The rest of the time was spent in the minor leagues. "I knew I was capable of pitching in the major leagues," said Wehrmeister. "But they kept rushing younger pitchers ahead of me. They were always looking to the future. But I always felt I was a better pitcher."

Wehrmeister added: "Every day I go to the park I learn something. I spent 12 years in the minors and learned a lot. I don't have the velocity I did at one time, but I've become a better pitcher."

It was brilliant relief, and nobody appreciated it more than White Sox Manager Tony LaRussa.

"That gave me a chance to rest four guys in the bullpen," said LaRussa. "When you go to the bullpen in the sixth inning, you usually have to use one or two more pitchers."

"He was great," said LaRussa. "He faced 13 guys and retired 12. You can't do much better than that." Winner Britt Burns, 14-4, was ineffective, although the White Sox staked him to a 7-1 lead after four innings.

Bryan Little singled in two runs, and Baines and Greg Walker followed with run-scoring singles in a four-run third.

Chicago added three more in the fourth. Rudy Law doubled in a run, and after Little drew a walk, Baines singled off reliever Mike Mason's hand, and when Mason threw wild past first, Law and Little both scored.

Dickie Noles started for the Rangers and was kayoed in the fourth.

"He pitched two perfect innings and then it was stop the dam," said

Texas Manager Bobby Valentine. "I'm getting pretty tired of seeing those four and five runs in the third inning. It makes it tough on our offense."

Valentine conceded "Wehrmeister did a helluva job. He came in and pitched great. Still, if Mason doesn't throw that ball away, it's a one-run game and not a three-run game."

Little, who has been playing second base against right-handed pitchers, has been making strides and has boosted his average to .277.

"Terry Logan, our scout in the Southwest, told us to watch him," said LaRussa. "He's got good hands, he's sound fundamentally and he came along in a pinch when Julio Cruz got hurt."

"He's done so many important things in the middle of rallies that you can't count them," said LaRussa. "All of his runs-batted-in have been big ones."

A's 3, Yankees 0
Tommy John says he's basically the same pitcher he was in 1979 and 1980 when he recorded consecutive 20-victory seasons for the New York Yankees.

Only now, John is beating the Yankees, rather than pitching for them.

The 42-year-old John pitched seven innings of three-hit ball Tuesday night, helping the Oakland A's down the Yankees 3-0.

"I'm about 10 pounds lighter and a few years older," John said, referring to the days when he wore pinstripes.

The A's pinned the loss on New York ace Ron Guidry, 16-5, who had won 15 of his last 16 decisions.

The Yankees dropped five games behind American League East-leading Toronto, which beat Minnesota 8-0.

In other AL games, Milwaukee defeated Kansas City 8-5, Cleveland stopped Boston 6-2, Seattle downed Detroit 3-1 and California halted Baltimore 7-3.

Blue Jays 8, Twins 0
Steve Davis, a Toronto rookie who had already won 20 games in the minors this season, pitched four innings of one-hit relief to win his first major-league decision.

Davis, recalled from Class AAA Syracuse on Saturday, took over for starter Tom Filer, who left the game with a sore elbow after pitching a hitless first inning. Davis struck out three and walked none.

Four National Football League quarterbacks had five touchdown passes in one game in 1984. They were John Elway of Denver, Dave Krieg of Seattle, Dan Marino of Miami and Marc Wilson of the Los Angeles Raiders.

Filer, Davis, Dennis Lamp and Bill Caudill teamed to hold Minnesota to three hits.

California 7, Orioles 3
California rookie Jack Howell broke out of a 1-for-21 slump by hitting two home runs, including a grand slam.

The victory, coupled with Kansas City's loss, gave the Angels a 2½-game lead in the AL West.

Baltimore's Eddie Murray, who hit three homers and drove home nine runs against California on Monday night, went 2-for-3 with an RBI double.

Brewers 8, Royals 5
Rookie Earnest Riles singled three times, raising his average to .304, and drove in two runs to lead Milwaukee over visiting Kansas City.

The Brewers, who trailed 3-0 after the top of the first inning, scored twice in the bottom of the first and four times in the second.

Errors by losing pitcher Danny Jackson, 12-8, and third baseman George Brett fueled Milwaukee's four-run second.

Mariners 3, Tigers 1
Matt Young pitched a five-hitter, his second straight strong outing for Seattle.

Young, who broke a six-game losing streak by shutting out Baltimore in his last start, allowed just a fifth-inning homer to Chet Lemon. Young, 9-14, struck out six and did not walk a batter.

Indians 6, Red Sox 2
Tony Bernazard singled three times, highlighting a 16-hit attack that paced Cleveland over Boston.

The Indians broke the game open with three runs in the seventh. Brook Jacoby singled home the first run and George Vukovich doubled home the final two.

Curt Wardle, 6-5, gave up seven hits in 8 1-3 innings for the victory.

More is giving way to less in a new, emerging economy aimed at restoring stability to sports.

Less competition from rival leagues. Less in salary increases and other costs. Less reliance on television for money and fan support.

Partly by design and partly by natural progression, the change is already under way:

—Salaries are leveling off, and while superstars like basketball's Pat Ewing will still get the big contracts, owners and players predict that overall increases will continue to decline.

—The United States Football League, after a two-year salary war with the National Football League, has dropped out of the bidding for most college stars, easing pressure on the NFL.

—The National Basketball Association operates under a salary cap limiting team payrolls. The immediate result last season: While 10 teams still lost money, that was seven fewer than the year before.

—Baseball's new collective bargaining agreement calls for revenue sharing to help struggling teams, and owners estimate they will save $400,000 a year per team, starting in 1987, from salary arbitration changes.

It is a gradual transformation deemed necessary after unparalleled growth led to unparalleled spending over the last decade.

That doesn't mean sports will go broke, only that it won't get much richer.

"Maybe this latest golden age of sports is coming to an end," said former baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, "but it's not turning to lead."

Players really made it big because of competition for their services — from rival leagues in football, basketball and hockey, and from free agency in baseball. And, like water, sports now is seeking its own level.

"I've lived through the demise of the World Hockey Association, the World Football League, the American Basketball Association," sports agent Bob Woolf said. "I've represented a lot of players who had wonderful contracts that weren't fulfilled. There's no sense having a great contract if you've got no place to play. And more and more players realize that."

Negotiating the superstar contracts could be more difficult in baseball under a new requirement for up-front financing of all long-term contracts. If a player is to be paid for years after he leaves the game, the money has to be put in escrow; teams may no longer mortgage — or bankrupt — their future.

Just as television was pivotal in the money boom, it will be a key to the retrenchment.

"I don't think our television contract will go up 2½ times to over $4 billion for five years," said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who negotiated a record $2.1 billion, five-year contract with the three networks in 1981.

The proliferation of money led to a proliferation of sports on the air. Will there be less sports on the air in the future?

"What's necessary," said Bob Igel, a senior vice president and director of programming at the N.W. Ayer advertising agency, "is to reduce the number of games to make them more meaningful and then to reduce the number of events telecast, to make those more important, too. That's why the NFL ranks so highly — because it's still a relatively short season and every game means a lot."

nothing is
"just as good as a John Deere."

"And ours is just as good as a John Deere." How many times have you heard that? When one manufacturer is so clearly the leader, that's the ultimate claim any competitor can make. But when you put all claims aside, there's nothing like a John Deere tractor with Caster/Action™ mechanical front-wheel drive and 15-speed Power Shift transmission. No combine can match the productive efficiency of a Titan II. And the superior seed/soil environment created by Max-Emerge™ planters is literally legendary. But so is the dealer support that's provided with everything in The Long Green Line.™ Don't take our word for it. Ask anyone. We're happy to be judged by what we're known for.

Judge bars use of skills test

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Minorities who claim a statewide teacher-education test is discriminatory have claimed a victory with a judge's decision to prevent using the test as an admission standard this fall.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice on Tuesday issued a preliminary injunction requiring Texas colleges and universities to admit students into teacher education programs even if they failed the Pre-Professional Skills Test.

But students still must pass the test PPST before they can be certified to teach in Texas.

Attorneys from the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Educational Fund representing 14 minority students, GI Forum, the Texas chapter of the NAACP and the League of Latin American Citizens asked for the injunction, claiming the test discriminated against minorities.

Prior to the injunction, students could not take more than six hours in education until they passed reading, writing and mathematics portions of the test.

Assistant Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon said an immediate appeal would be filed with the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Attorney Albert Kauffman of San Antonio said the PPST, approved by the state Legislature in 1981 and first administered last summer, will be presented to experts for the plaintiffs for examination.

More than 18,000 students took the test as of July. Statistics showed a 73 percent passing rate for whites, a 34 percent passing rate for Hispanics and a 23 percent passing rate for blacks.

"The indifference displayed by the defendant to the massive adverse impact of the PPST requirement, and the lack of any coordinated attempt to institute an organized program of remediation targeted at helping students to pass the PPST, seem to have sprung from an attitude that minority students were themselves to blame for their poor performance," Justice said.

Commissioner of Education Dr. William N. Kirby disagreed with the judge's decision.

"It won't help students to enroll in classes if they don't have the proper reading and writing skills to enroll in those courses," Kirby said. "If a child can't read and write well enough to demonstrate on a test that he can read and write, I don't see how he can profit from more advanced courses."

Justice wrote in his 47-page opinion that "ample evidence was introduced at the hearing that the number of minority teachers available to teach in Texas schools would be greatly diminished as a result of the PPST requirement."

"It appears to be particularly true that those school districts with heavy minority populations, particularly those in the Rio Grande Valley, will be hardest hit by the exclusion of minority students from education programs. Those districts also, of course, have a greater need for bilingual teachers," he said.

On Turkey Track Ranch

Rare white rhinos thrive near Stinnett

By GRAHAM UNDERWOOD
Borger News-Herald

STINNETT, Texas (AP) — While the plains of the Panhandle may still be wild, there have been changes.

If rustlers ever rode into the Turkey Track Ranch north of here, they might be shocked into becoming salesmen.

Over some mounds of loam and sand, across an 8-foot-deep trench, a herd is grazing.

White rhinoceros!

Six of them, in fact.

They represent the second largest breeding herd of the white rhinos in captivity.

"It's something I always wanted to do," said Jim Whittenburg, owner of the ranch and rhinos.

He said he was concerned about the species because it was facing extinction and wanted an effort to save the white rhinoceros.

The animals are not called by name.

They seem to go without the status of pets. Instead, they are treated delicately and reverently, like any expensive thoroughbred. Whittenburg said the animals were registered with members of other herds to prevent in-breeding and, generally, to genetically insure a better breed.

He said the animals are docile, although no one but their caretaker, Michael Lamkin, is allowed near.

Whittenburg watches Lamkin stand inside the acre-long "pen" while a rhino approaches him and lets him rub its horn.

Whittenburg said he acquired the animals from a dealer in Los Angeles. The rhinos were originally intended for the zoo in Clovis, N.M. The zoo, however, did not have the facilities ready. The rhinos were trucked to the Panhandle earlier this summer.

Whittenburg said the three-day journey in crates was hard on the herd. One bull died of trauma shortly after arriving.

Now, however, the group is thriving, Whittenburg said.

The climate and environment of North Texas is very similar to their native Africa, he said.

They eat the same things most livestock eat. In addition to a bale of alfalfa hay daily, the adult rhinos eat grass and sweet feed.

The herd consists of one bull, three cows and two male calves. The world's largest herd, Whittenburg said, made up of 12 individuals, is located at the San Diego Zoo.

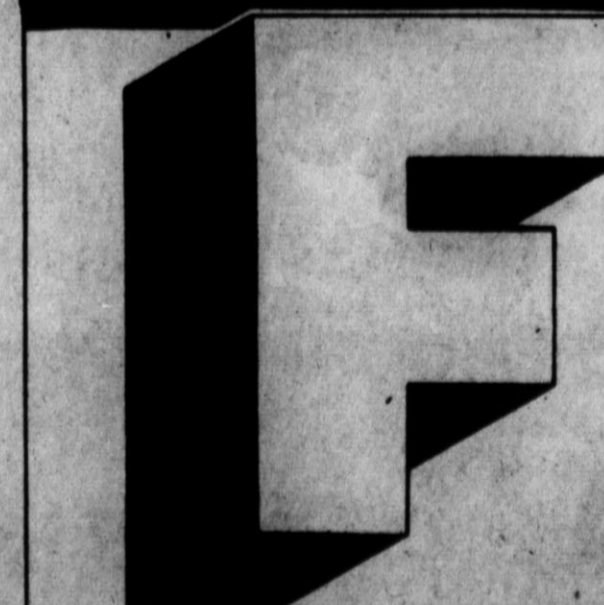

"And we're not even sure they're producing," Lamkin said. "This fellow (the Whittenburg herd bull) is a proven breeder. He's really spitting them out."

China's emergence into cotton market could deal blow to struggling farmers

LUBBOCK — China's emergence into the world cotton market could deal a severe blow to America's struggling cotton farmers.

China has tripled its cotton production in the last five years and ceased importing any American cotton, according to Texas Tech University agricultural economics Professor Don E. Ethridge.

"At one time we were exporting up to 6 million bales of cotton to China, how we don't export any to that country," Ethridge said.

China's increased cotton production has not had serious effects on U.S. markets yet, but Ethridge said the potential for China to take part of the U.S. cotton export market is great.

He estimated China has 8 to 10 million bales of surplus cotton they could export. Because of China's proximity to the major U.S. markets in Japan, Indonesia, Hong Kong and the Far East, the country could severely damage U.S. cotton exports.

Ethridge said China's recent sale of 95,000 bales of cotton to Hong Kong represents the potential damage that could be done to U.S. markets.

"This is the first time the Chinese have exported cotton to Hong Kong," Ethridge said. "When you consider the U.S. normally exports about 250,000 bales to Hong Kong, the Chinese could be taking about 40 percent of our market."

Ethridge said the Chinese haven't reached their full potential in the world cotton market because they are faced with underdeveloped roads and ports, gins and grading systems.

"Most of their cotton is grown in the country's interior," Ethridge said. "Because they don't have highly developed transportation or port systems, they have difficulty getting the cotton out of the country."

Ethridge said the Chinese are working on both problems and if that government deems it important enough, they could find ways to move the cotton.

"There is so much cheap labor in that country, they could move the cotton if they wanted to despite poor road systems," he said.

The Chinese are also hampered by the use of small manually operated gins that do not produce the standard size bales normally available in the world market.

"The world cotton market is accustomed to a standard size bale. Even ports have equipment that is geared to handle that size, not the irregular sizes China produces," he said.

Ethridge pointed out that the Chinese are currently buying standard gin plants which is helping the West Texas economy.

"A lot of gin equipment is produced in West Texas and the Chinese are buying gin plants, so it appears that they are taking some steps to standardize their industry," he said.

The Chinese also have problems dealing in the world market because they do not use the standard grading system for their cotton, according to Ethridge.

"When cotton is sold, the buyer needs to know the cotton quality to know how to best use the fiber," Ethridge said. "The standard international grading system reveals that."

Ethridge said the grading system is a minor long-term problem for the Chinese because they can easily convert to the standard classing system.

Despite the threat the Chinese pose to the American farmer, Ethridge said the problem should be kept in perspective.

"China might not gain much in U.S. markets if our cotton wasn't so expensive," he said.

Accent on Agriculture

By DENNIS NEWTON
County Extension Agent

Wheat planting is gearing up in Deaf Smith County. This past year, many new wheat varieties and hybrids were released. These wheats were planted in result demonstration variety tests on the Raymond Schlabs and Dwaine Walker farms.

Raymond Schlabs tested 17 wheat varieties during the 1984-85 growing season. The test was planted on Oct. 9, 1984 and harvested July 1, 1985. The plots received three irrigations and had Bayleton applied for rust control.

The yields in bushels per acre were: TAM 105-88; Bounty 205-79.1; Bounty 202-71.8; TAM 101-71.8; Vona - 71.5; Rohm-Haas H W 1031 - 70.9; Wrangler - 69.1; TAM 100-68; Hawk - 67.9; TAM 107 - 64.9; Newton - 64.6; Mustang - 64; Chisholm - 61.9; Wings - 59.8; Rocky - 58.8; Tex Ted - 54.5; and Centurk 78-52.

On the Dwaine Walker farm, the wheat test was planted on Oct. 2, 1984 and harvested on June 19, 1985. The plot received two irrigations, 175 pounds of anhydrous ammonia and had bayleton for rust control. The yield in bushels per acre were: Newton - 79.8; Wing - 78.4; Bounty 205-75.9; Bounty 202 - 74.3; TAM 105 - 72.2; Vona - 71.2; Wrangler - 69.5; Mustang - 65.9; TAM 107 - 65.3; Rohm-Haas H W 1031 - 63.1; TAM 106

-59.8; Hawk - 53.4; and Rocky - 49.6. Producers wishing a complete copy of the 1984-85 wheat results should contact the County Extension office at 364-3573 or come by the office in Room 303 of the County Courthouse in Hereford.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Trade tips given for farm exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — If American companies would answer foreign inquiries promptly and in plainer language, it could help boost U.S. farm exports, says the Agriculture Department.

The advice was circulated Tuesday in a weekly "Export Briefs" report, a list of trade tips sent to private companies and other interested parties by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

According to agency officials stationed abroad, delays in responding to trade inquiries and ineffective correspondence are the main reasons for U.S. companies failing to develop new trading partners.

Only bare details are provided in the weekly "Export Briefs" report, but those include the names, addresses and telephone or telex numbers of potential buyers. The trade tips are varied, sometimes exotic.

For example, in the current issue, a buyer in Japan was interested in beef jerky and chocolate, and one in Taiwan wants a trial order of 20 live donkeys.

The report included some guidelines for American firms wanting to follow up on the trade tips:

—Always reply quickly. Use telex, the communication expected by most foreign buyers.

"If more details are required, a brief telephone call is also an effective way to indicate your interest. Delay gives the edge to your competition. Unless otherwise specified by foreign inquiry, correspondence in English is acceptable."

—Respond completely. Furnish bank and trade references, pertinent company history and relevant exporting experience. Supply complete product information, using the metric system of measurement. Include full price information when possible.

—Ask specific questions to pinpoint a buyer's needs. If the inquiry does not clearly spell out the products desired, let the buyer know what you have available. Do not neglect imprecise inquiries.

—When replying by mail, do not use form letters, keeping them friendly and interesting. Do not use slang. Be accurate.

The report said a prospective seller should not disregard a trade inquiry made in poor English. Quite possibly the potential foreign buyer knows English only as a second language.

Corn crop looks good

WASHINGTON (AP) — The corn crop continues to look "mostly good" across the Corn Belt, although prospects appear "good to excellent" in some states, says the government's Joint Agricultural Weather Facility.

A record harvest was forecast earlier this month, based on Aug. 1 conditions, and weekly reports by the facility have continued to be favorable. The facility is operated by the department's of Commerce and Agriculture.

In the week of Aug. 19-25, the report said, corn crop conditions were excellent in Kansas and Colorado. In the major producing states, about 82 percent of the crop had reached the dough stage of kernel development, and 41 percent was in the dent stage or beyond. On the average at this time, development is 75 percent and 34 percent, respectively.

Cotton fields were reported in good shape in all producing states except Louisiana, where the crop was reported in fair-to-good condition.

Attorney says he has right to prosecute judge

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) - District Attorney James McGrath says he has a constitutional right to prosecute even if the case involves State District Judge James Farris. But others say the issue is an ethical one rather than constitutional. Walter Umphrey, Farris' attorney, said Tuesday the Texas Bar Association has the authority to take action against McGrath if he persists in prosecuting the case. Farris became a target of a grand jury investigation two weeks ago when Colorado lawyer Martin Blitstein complained to McGrath that the judge withheld a crucial document in a domestic relations case. Farris maintains he never withheld the document. Grand jurors then recommended McGrath be replaced by a special prosecutor since he could be called as a material witness in the case. "We requested that affirmative action be taken against McGrath by the grand jury," Umphrey said. "How can McGrath think that the district attorney's office ought to conduct an investigation of the district attorney's office? That's beyond me." Umphrey maintains the case against his client is an example of what he considers abuses of power by McGrath's office. Umphrey said last week that he is considering a lawsuit to remove McGrath from office. McGrath says removing him from the case "creates a precedent that the constitutionally elected district attorney can be thrown out on any case the judge chooses." Assistant District Attorney Levon Jones said Tuesday he believes no special prosecutor is needed in the Farris case although he said the state bar association's code of ethics states that a lawyer who believes he may be called as a witness in a case should withdraw from the case. "That's just something they handed down," McGrath said of the state bar association. "It's not a law. ... Besides the state District Attorneys' Association is strongly opposed to that provision." McGrath said he was "very disappointed that the grand jury, with all the witnesses for Judge Farris waiting to be heard, stopped the hearing and asked that a special prosecutor be appointed. At no time was I in the grand jury room. Only Judge Farris and the Colorado lawyer were heard." McGrath maintains Beaumont attorney Gilbert Low originally represented Farris in the case, but resigned when he learned he would not be allowed to explain the judge's actions to the grand jury. Low, however, disagrees with McGrath. "I don't know what Jim's talking about," Low said. "I never represented Judge Farris. Both of those gentlemen are close friends of mine ... I only tried to talk to them as their friend. I told Jim that I felt that Judge Farris had done nothing wrong. I told Judge Farris that Jim McGrath had done nothing wrong. If there were differences between them, I was trying to help as a friend, not as a lawyer. I was never involved in the case." Jones said a case in 1984 overturned a lower court's decision to appoint a special prosecutor when the district attorney in the case was identified as a material witness. McGrath suggested last week that the state attorney general furnish a special prosecutor from his staff or use the special prosecutor already here in Beaumont.
