5.7 Million Deaf Smith REC Project Underway

Approval of USDA Loan is Announced

A loan of $3,870,000 for Deaf Smith Electric Co-op has been approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, it was announced Tuesday afternoon by Sen. John Tower's office.

The loan, to be issued at 5 percent interest, is for the purpose of financing services to approximately 1,000 additional consumers, and includes several systems improvements.

James Hull, manager of Deaf Smith REC. said Tuesday the cooperative was "very pleased to receive the loan approval." He added that "we weren't sure of if and when the loan would be approved." Application was made Nov. 4, 1981.

Hull said the two-year project planned by the REC also includes a loan of $1,869,000 from the REA bank - Cooperative Finance Corporation. This loan will be assessed at 14 percent interest.

The total of the two loans is $5,739,000. The systems improvements include 188 miles of distribution lines, 13 miles of transmission lines, and new sub-station facilities. Hull said some of the work has already started.

Reagan Says Increase Effect Will Be Little

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) -President Reagan, defending an embattled $98.9 billion taxincrease bill, said today the measure pending in Congress would have very little effect on the taxes of most Americans.

In his first major speech on the bill, Reagan argued the legislation was essential to his economic recovery program. If Congress refuses to pass the bill, the nation faces bigger budget deficits, higher interest rates and growing unemployment, he said.

Despite the bill's provisions to increase taxes on cigarettes, telephone services and airline tickets, Reagan insisted, "It will have very little effect on the majority of individual taxpayers."

Reagan flew to Big Sky country to help Billings celebrate its 100th birthday and raise money for the Senate campaign of Republican Larry Williams, who is trying to unseat Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont. White House officials estimated the events would raise $122,500.

For three hours in Billings. Reagan was spending seven hours in the air, flying out and back from Washington the same day.

Reagan has been waging a lobbying blitz from the White House to recruit reluctant Republicans to back an election-year tax hike. His speeches today marked a new stage in the administration's campaign for the bill, and there were indications Reagan would ask for network time soon to address the nation on the subject.

In his speech, Reagan said, "For a conservative president like me to have to put his arms around a multi-billion dollar deficit ... well, it's like holding your nose and embracing a pig. And believe me, that budget deficit is as slippery as a greased pig."

Reagan said his support of the tax bill was essential to

On the heels of the largest tax cut in history, Congress is now getting ready to pass a tax bill which represents the larget increase in peacetime history. It is supposed to raise some $99 billion over the next three years.

The excuse is that the bill is aimed at the "fat cats" of this country - the wealthy are said to be escaping their fair share of the tax load by sheltering their income and paying a small amount of income taxes.

But the tax program boosts taxes on everybody in form of higher cigarette taxes, increased excise taxes along the line, as well as making saving institutions and corporations withhold a tax on all interest and dividend payments. The wealthy are not the only ones drawing interest and

The truth of the matter is that there are not enough fat cats to go around and those who have are, in general, being taxed along with the rest of us. The Tax Foundation, using data supplied by the U.S. Treasury, reports that the top 10 perent of U.S. taxpayers, - those nine million taxpayers who earned more than $32,000 in 1980 - -paid 52 percent of the tax bill while the 85 million who earned less paid the other 48 percent.

The top 25 percent of U.S. taxpayers are paying 77 percent of the taxes. The top half of Americans in income paid 94 percent of all income taxes, and the lower half paid

On Company Breakup

The board announced its intention to raise taxes from the current 84 cents per $100 valuation to 94 cents per $100 valuation for the coming year. That amounts to an 11.9 percent hike for school district taxpayers.

The exemption of livestock and farm machinery from the tax rolls passed in a constitutional amendment vote last year, erased $50 million from rolls, and cost the schools some $350,000 in tax income.

Thus, while actually raising the tax rate, the school district will collect $72,657 less in taxes during the coming year as opposed to last year, a 2.7 percent decrease.

A public hearing on the proposed tax hike will be held at 5:10 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 19 in the school board room at

In other action at the meeting, the board accepted low bids on dairy products and bread products from Bell Dairy and Mead's respectively for the coming year. Bell's bid of 16.25 cents for a halfpint of milk was under the Borden bid of 16.40 cents, while Mead's basic bid of 57 cents for a 11/2-pound loaf of bread was under the 64 cent figure submitted by Mrs. Baird's Bakery.

Israeli Millers Visit Hereford

MANAGING EDITOR

A c juintet of Israeli flour mill representatives got a close r look at where some of the half-million tons of wheat that Middle East nation imports each year gets its beginning when the group visited Hereford Tuesday as part of a tour sponsored by the U.S. Wheat Associates, Inc. and the USI DA's Foreign Agriculture Service.

T eam manager Myron Krenzin, European Marketing Sp ecialist with U.S. Wheat Associates, Inc. out of Rotterda m, The Netherlands accompanied the five Israeli offic ials, who included Abraham Katzorin, co-owner, m anager and head miller of Z. Katzurin Flour Mills Ltd. ir 1 Tel Aviv; Eliesner Posner, managing director of Ein-Chay Flour Mills, Ltd. of Kfar-Saba; Eliahu Grinstein, nanaging director of Jerusalem Mils, Ltd. in Jerusalem; Jacob Adari, managing director of Mifratz Flour Mills, Ltd. of Haifa; and David Granot, general manager of Yezreel Flour Mill in Afula.

Also accompanying the group to Hereford were Bill Nelson, executive vice president of the Texas Wheat Producers Board, and TWPB executive assistant Ross Greeting the group were Leo Witkowski, Frank Zinser, Joe Artho, Billy Stubbs and Mark Koenig, of Hereford.

The Israeli group's trip to the United States began last Friday, and will conclude Aug. 25 when they return to Tel Aviv. The millers arrived in Houston Sunday and visited export elevators and grain merchandising sites in Houston, and actually watched a load of wheat bound for Israel being loaded into a ship.

The tour will also include stops in Oklahoma City; Wichita, Manhatten, Hutchinson, and Kansas City, Kansas; Chicago, Minneapolis, Fargo, N.D. Grand Forks and Washington D.C.

"Israel is the largest customer for U.S. wheat in the Middle East, having imported approximately 20 million bushels last year, and ranks in the top 10 customers for U.S. Hard Red Winter Wheat," TWPB chairman W.R. Moore has reported. "Israel could be a significant purchaser of wheat again this year, and we want the Texas and U.S. grower to get that export business."

"The U.S. wheat producer has been able to capture 95-98 percent of the Israeli wheat market due to programs which are sponsored with their wheat check-off funds." Texas, and the other states, wheat producers maintain

The proposed antitrust: settlement contemplated the largest corporate reorganization in American history. The 22 Bell System operating companies, which serve more than 80 percent of the nation's telephones, represent roughly two-thirds of AT&T's assets, or about $80 billion to $85 billion.

The settlement called for AT&T to give up al'I ownership of those local companies, in exchange for the Justice Department's dismaissal .of the 1974 suit. AT&T would be allowed to retain its longdistance. equipment, research, manufacturing and Yellow Page facilities.

William Baxter, the assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division, has described the settlement as intended to remove AT&T's monopoly control over local phone service, while leaving it with such ompetitive activities as longdistance service and telephone equipment.

AT&T Chairman Charles Brown has said the firm reluctantly accepted the agreement as a means of finally relieving the company of the threat of years of legal and regulatory proceedings.

The landing at Little Rock Municipal Airport on Tuesday was smooth, and there were no injuries to the 110 passengers and seven crew members aboard, airline spokesman

Other Candidates Get Funds from Tower

DA LLAS (AP) - Texas Sen. John Towei ", who doesn't face re-election for an other two years, has raised $1.3 million in campaign funds, some of which he's giving to Gov. Bill Clemeints and other southern Republ ican officeholders, a newspap er reported today.

The Tower Senate Club, Tower's campaign fund, has given $5,000 to Clements and $2,000 to each of four fellow sens itors, according to reports filed with the Federal Election Commission, the Dallas Morning News reported.

Tower's press secretary, Linda Hill, said the donation to Clements in June paid for tickets to a recent fundraising dinner for the govenor's re-election campaign, according to the newspaper.

U.S. Sen. John Warner, D-Va., was given $2,000 in February and Sens. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. and Pete Domenici, R.M., received $2,000 honorariums after attending a January fundraiser for Tower.

An FEC spokesman said large political contributions from personal campaign funds were legal but unusual.

Tower's intent in giving the money was to keep other southern Republicans in office, Ms. Hill said.

"The idea was that by offering an honoraria or a contribution to help them with their campaign, it will allow them to make free fundraising appearances for other candidates later in the year," she said.

"Clements has helped the senator every year and one year was finance campaign chairman. He (Tower) wanted to repay him."

According to Tower's FEC report. he raised $713,779 from individuals in the first six months of this year and $96,208 from political action committees. He raised another $519,741 last

The campaign fund had more than $679,000 on hand as of June 30.

Project County History Closing Shop, for Month

Project County History is shutting up shop this week, for a vacation period of a month or more.

Troyce Hanna, chairman, said the two-year project of compiling a new Deaf Smith County history is near completion. The index, with multiple-thousands of names, was finished Monday, and the last picture pages laid out.

These were mailed to the publisher, and all proof sheets were taken last week to the Lubbock office of Craftsman Printers, which will issue the book. "The Land And Its People," for the Deaf Smith County Historical Society.

The project office in the E.B. Black Historical House will be closed until the revised proof is received, which is expected to be in September. After final reading at that time, there will be another recess until the books are: received for distribution.

While the office is closed. any inquiries about the books may be made to the project secretary, Sue Coleman, at her home. The telephone number is 364-3454.

Only the books ordered in advance will be printed. Orders are still being taken, but at the increased price of $57.75. The price rise was announced by the publishers last month, and deadline for ordering at the previous lower price has passed.

Except for one employee paid a minimal amount, volunteers have done all the work on the book, and dozens of county residents have contributed their time and talents in gathering material, writing, editing, contacting businessess and organizations for special histories, laying out pages, reading proof and indexing.

The two latter tasks have been speeded by addition to the staff of Ruby Carmichael, Eleanor Hudspeth, Mozelle Neill, Abel Ruga and Les Mehlberg.

Signs Pointing to Exit For Commissioner Kuhn

By WILL GRIMSLEY AF Special Correspondent

Whether he's pushed or departs gracefully, all signs point to the exit door for Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The 6-foot-6 former National League attorney, who has theoretically governed the game for a dozen years, will get the bad news a week from today in San Diego, where club owners of both leagues gather to determine his fate.

A cursory telephone poll shows that as of today the votes are stacked heavily against him - the main anti-Kuhn sentiment prevailing in the National League - and only a last-minute miracle can bail him out.

"It's set in concrete," one National League executive said. "Unless there is a compromise or he agress to accept a lesser role, Bowie is

"You can't say positively," another NL executive said. 'We thought - and some of us hoped - that he might see the writing on the wall and make a decision not to continue.

"But he is a tough, headstrong guy and he's carrying on a vigorous campaign

Actually, lobbying on the issue is as intense and frenetic as in some of liveliest political campigns.

At the moment, three National League teams are apparently unalterably opposed to retaining Kuhn - the New York Mets, Houston Astros and St. Louis Cardinals - and two others, the Cincinnati Reds and Atlanta Braves, are leaning heavily toward the firing squad.

Under baseball rules, the commissioner needs threefourths of the votes in each league to have his contract renewed. That means that four votes in the NL or five in the American could trip the

While the commissioner has his detractors in the American League, principally George Steinbrenner of the New York Yankees and Eddie Chiles of the Texas Rangers, the younger circuit has "not shown the same organized movement on the issue as has the National. This is ironic, since Kuhn, a law graduate of the University, of Virginia, served for years as attorney for the National League and it was his adroit handling of delicate situations - such as the transfer of the Braves' franchise from Milwaukee to Atlanta - that got him his present job. In fact, it was a then vicepresident of the Cardinals, Dick Meyer, who joined the late Walter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers in leading the sponsorship of Kuhn for the commissioner's office.

Now Peter O'Malley, who succeeded his father as president of the Dodgers, is one of the commissioner's biggest supporters. He is said to be using all his charm and clout in an attempt to turn what appears to be an irreversible

Also, Ballard Smith, who pulls all the strings for hamburger king Ray Kroc's San Diego Padres, is said to be burning up the wires in attempting to twist some arms

In the American League. Steinbrenner is regarded as wishy-washy, having at the All-Star game in 1975 joined a hard-nosed core in a "Dump Bowie" plot, only to switch at the last minute. Edward Bennett Williams, now principal owner of the Baltimore Orioles, reportedly has changed his stance from anti-Kuhn to pro-Kuhn and is doing considerable lobbying on the commissioner's behalf.

What is the beef against Bowie Kuhn?

"I don't like his policy of revenue-sharing baseball," says Nelson Doubleday, board chairman of the Mets. "I have told him

Hayes Awarded 2-Year Contract

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) Houston Rockets forward Elvin Hayes failed to live up to some observers' expectations last season. He didn't slow down.

Instead of returning home to semi-retirement to play out the end of a spectacular 14-year career, Hayes was the only Rocket to play in all 82 regular season games and averaged 37 minutes per game.

The former University of Houston All-America was rewarded Tuesday with a two-year contract that he says "probably will take me to the stables.

"I'm very fortunate in that I've never been injured and I've always worked hard in the off season to take care of myself," he said.

Hayes, who complemented NBA leading scorer Moses Malone last season after a slow start, said he still is able to play effectively at his age because of his career-long conditioning effort.

But he admits it's getting

"I have to be more disciplined now than earlier in my career," he said. "I play a lot more during the mer now than I used to. But I've always been a clean liver. I figure if I take care of my body, it will take care of Hayes, 37, started slowly last season and overcame an early season flare-up with Coach Del Harris, which he says was not serious.

"In the middle of the floor, he (Harris) asked me something about how many playoffs I'd been in," Hayes said. "I told him the Washington Bullets probably had been in more playoffs than any team. It was just a little thing like that, about how many playoffs we had been in.

"That was it. There is nothing else that anyone could bring up that we disagreed about," he said.

Hayes averaged 16.1 points and 9.1 rebounds last season after returning to the Rockets for his second tour of duty. The Rockets drafted Hayes in 1968-1969 season when he led the league as a rookie. Hayes was traded to Washington after three seasons and spent the next nine years with the Hayes has played in 12 NBA All-Star games including three as a starter and three as a second teamer. He has a chance at several records during the next two seasons.

Virdon said he plans to

so. I have told him that he should not be commissioner."

Another influential NL executive said he thought baseball needed a man to solidify the game, bring the two leagues closer together and improve the rapport between the players and owners.

"Some of us felt in the strike last year that Bowie did wrong in meeting always with the Players Relations Committee and never sitting in with the players so he could get a balanced view of what was going on," he said.

One hangup is that the baseball brass hasn't got a man in the wings. The most talked-of possible successor is Tal Smith, very successful as a representative for the owners in salary arbitrations since being fired by Houston's John McMullen. McMullen is one of Kuhn's severest critics.

Low-key and noncontroversial, Virdon has a career mark of 544-522 during stints with the Pittsburgh Pirates (72-73), New York Yankees (74-75) and Houston, where he became the club's winningest manager.

In two separate games against Philadelphia in the memorable 1980 National League championships, the Astros were within one out of reaching the World Series.

Until his firing, he had the most seniority at the same job of any National League manager. That distinction is now shared by Tom Lasorda Tanner of Pittsburgh, both in their sixth seasons.

Virdon said injuries decimated the club's bullpen and "we couldn't close out anyone. The seventh, eight and ninth innings have been misery."

He praised Lillis, a 21-year member of the Astros' organization, as "one of the best people I know and coach anyone could have."

Lillis was among the original players selected by the Houston Colt .45s, the club's initial name, in the 1961 expansion draft.

Reached by telephone, Lillis said he "surprised" by the managerial change. "I'm still trying to recover. I have deep feelings for Bill. He's a gentleman and a pro."

Here come the Los Angeles Dodgers - oops, there go the Atlanta Braves.

"I could feel the momentum building in Atlanta," said Los Angeles first baseman Steve Garvey, whose Dodgers capped an incredible comeback Tuesday night by taking over first place in the National League West over the fading Braves.

That development was made possible when the Dodgers drilled the Cincinnati Reds 11-3 while the Braves lost a 3-2 decision to the San Francisco Giants. The Braves, who led the Dodgers by 1012 games as late as July 29, lost for the eighth straight game and for the 12th time in the last 13.

They got off to a record 13-0 start, and held first in the NL West virtually the entire season before their recent spin, dropping to second only once on April 27, percentage points behind the San Diego Padres.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, were part of Atlanta's nosedive, having beaten the Braves nine straight times, including a four-game sweep in Atlanta at the end of July and another four-game sweep in Los Angeles this past weekend.

"As defending world champions, we have something to prove," said Garvey, who hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning Tuesday night, one of two Dodger homers.

Rick Monday also homered to back the six-hit pitching of Fernando Valenzuela as the Dodgers, in their incredible their 11th game in the standings in the last 12 days.

Chicago whipped Montreal 5-3, St. Louis turned back Montreal 7-2, Houston defeated San Diego 4-1 and Philadelphia outscored Pittsburgh 9-5 after dropping a 9-6 decision in the completion of a suspended game.

Giants 3, Braves 2

Milt May lined a home run off Al Hrabosky in the seventh inning to give the hot Giants their ninth straight victory. May's homer gave the Giants their 31st comefrom-behind victory of the season and they moved to within five games of first place.

Bill Laskey, 11-8, shut out Atlanta over the final eight innings after Dale Murphy hit his 29th homer of the season with Larry Whisenton on base in the first.

The last time the Giants won as many as nine in a row was April of 1971, the year they won the NL West. Cubs 5, Expos 3

Randy Martz scattered six hits over the first seven innings and Junior Kennedy drove in two runs as Chicago beat Montreal to stretch its winning streak to six games. The Cubs have won eight of their last nine, their most successful streak since July, Martz, 6-7, coming off a career-best, two-hit performance against New York last Thursday, gave way to Willie Hernandez after Chris Speier opened the eighth with his third home run of the season and pinch-hitter Brad Mills followed with the first of his major league career.

Hernandez needed relief help himself from Dick Tidrow after giving up the run toward the top, gained Expos' third run on Al Oliver's groundout.

"We have a good ballclub," Elsewhere in the NL, said Martz. "It's a matter of us getting a few breaks here Pirates 9-5, Phillies 6-9 and there, and that's what's Garry Maddox's three-run homer and two-run shots by been happening. We're playing free and loose because Mike Schmidt and Pete Rose we've got nothing to lose, carried Philadelphia over while the Expos have Pittsburgh.

> Before the regularlyscheduled game, Mike Easler's home run, single and four RBI triggered the Pirates' 9-6 win in the completion of Monday night's suspended game between the two clubs.

> Marty Bystrom, 4-4, who has suffered from various arm problems this season, was the winner in the night's second game, scattering nine hits in seven innings. Reliever Sid Monge worked the final two innings.

> The Phillies took a 5-0 lead off Manny Sarmiento, 5-2, in the first two innings with Maddox's blast keying a four-

NFL Officials Vow To Continue Court Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -National Football League officials have vowed to press their case to keep the Raiders in Oakland, despite a court decision the team's attorney says makes the Los Angeles Raiders a reality. "The NFL has reached the end of the rope as far as the courts are concerned," attorney Joseph L. Alioto said Tuesday after the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejected the NFL's request to delay the move. The NFL wanted the Raiders to stay in Oakland pending appeal of the lower court ruling that sanctioned the franchise transfer. The appeal is expected to be heard in the spring.

"The Los Angeles Raiders are a reality now," said Alioto, who has represented the team in its two-year battle to move to Southern California.

NFL Public Relations Director Jim Heffernan said the league plans to continue to fight the move, but conceded that the Raiders will open the 1982 season in Los Angeles.

"It appears that what the court is saying is that they

We will work within the league process to correct the injustices being done to the Oakland community and the NFL under currently applicable court rulings."

Al Davis, the Raiders managing general partner, who was at the club's Santa Rosa training camp when the decision was issued, made his own prediction about the NFL's next action.

"They couldn't win in the courtrooms of the United States. Now they'll (take) the next step and try to bribe Congress and overturn the court system and have the NFL lawyers rewrite the U.S. Constitution," he said. "We realize the harassment, bad faith and unfair dealing on the part of the NFL will continue."

In 1980, Davis announced he would move the team without approval of other NFL owners to the Los Angeles Coliseum, former home of the Los Angeles

Rams. On May 7, a Los Angeles federal court jury decided the Raiders should be allowed to move on Davis' terms, saying that an NFL rule requiring a three-quarters vote of club owners to approve franchise transfers violates antitrust laws. The three-judge appeals panel, which handed down Tuesday's decision two hours after a hearing on the motion to keep the Raiders from moving, said the NFL "failed to demonstrate that the balance of hardships tips sharply in their favor."

'M·A·S·H' And CBS Win Ratings Race

LOS ANGELES (AP) -"M-A-S-H" and CBS, two perennial winners in the prime-time ratings race, soared to another win for the week ending Aug. 8, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

The CBS medical comedy, which is going off the air next year after 11 seasons, scored a rating of 21.3 - a full point ahead of "Too Close for Comfort," its nearest competitor. Nielsen says that in an average minute of the show, 21.3 percent of the televisionequipped homes in the country saw at least part of "M-A-S-H."

In all, CBS had six shows in the Top 10. It was another first-place victory for CBS, which won the ratings race for the past season.

CBS had a rating of 13.2, ABC was second with 12.7 and NBC was third with 10.4. The networks say this means in an average prime-time minute, 13.2 percent of the nation's homes with TV were tuned to CBS.

Most of the favorites were veteran series, and the only rookie in the Top 20 was NBC's "Gimme a Break." The time-tested series in the Top 10 were "M-A-S-H;" CBS' "The Jeffersons," third place; CBS' "60 Minutes," fifth; ABC's "Three's Company," sixth; ABC's "Fantasy Island," ninth; and CBS' "Alice," 10th.

Other finishers in the front rank were CBS' "Trapper John, M.D.," in fourth place, CBS' "House Calls," seventh, and ABC's "Hart to Hart,"

Although NBC failed to lace a single show in the Top 0. the network dominated the Emmy Award nominations, including another 21 for "Hill Street Blues." The critically acclaimed police drama was NBC's highestrated show last week, placing 14th. NBC's rookie series "Fame" grabbed 12 Emmy nominations.

Despite the nominations, NBC had the five lowestranked shows: "Chicago Story," "Nashville Palace," "One of the Boys," and two specials, "NBC Major League Preview" and "The Game and Its Glory."

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows:

"M-A-S-H," with a rating of 21.3 representing 17 million households, CBS; "Too Close for Comfort," 20.3 or 16.2 million, ABC; "The Jeffersons," 20.2 or 16.1 million, CBS; "Trapper John, M.D.," 19.6 or 15.6 million, CBS; "60 Minutes," 19.4 or 15.5 million, CBS; "Three's Company," 19.3 or 15.4, ABC; "House Calls," 19.3 or 15.4 million, CBS; "Hart to Hart," 18.9 or 15.1 million, ABC; "Fantasy Island," 18.1 or 14.5 million, ABC; "Alice," 17.9 or 14.3 million, CBS.

Plight of Movie Children Is As Old As Hollywood Itself

LOS ANGELES (AP) - As long as there have been movies, there have been child stars, and problems protecting them.

But after the death of two children in a movie accident last month, some officials say efforts to enforce the strict child-labor laws are hampered by mild penalties and, in some cases, parents who are too happy their kids are in the movies to be vigilant.

The two children who were killed along with actor Vic Morrow when a helicopter went out of control on a fiery movie set were working too late at night and had no work permits, state officials said. Some hope the accident will help efforts to stiffen penalties for violators of is a factor." child-labor law.

As a general deterrent, the penalties are low. They are antiquated and need to be ing. He intends to propose tougher penalties in the next session of the Legislature.

Criminal violations of the state Labor Code dealing with children are considered misdemeanors, and the penalties range up to $250 and six months in jail. Civil penalties range from $100 to $1,000 depending on whether the offenses are lifeendangering.

"If you've got a $100,000 day and you might get fined $500 for working a child overtime, it's no big deal," said Colleen Logan, regional director of the state Division of Labor Standards Enforcement. "Even if the violation is criminal, they will only get a fine. They never get jail."

Within 60 days, her office will begin a series of hearings on revisions to close gaps in the law, not only for Hollywood but for other dangerous jobs, such as replacing targets at shooting range and selling flowers at freeway ramps where children are in danger of being hit by cars or robbed.

"Basically, we have a good law - if it is obeyed," Mrs. Logan said.

Morrow, My-ca Dihn Le, 7, of Cerritos and Renee Shinn Chen, 7, of Pasadena were killed at 2:30 a.m. July 23 during a Vietnam War scene. Explosions being detonated in a river about 50 miles north of Los Angeles caused a lowflying helicopter to go out of control.

"It was absolutely illegal," Mrs. Logan said. "The children shouldn't have been there at that hour. They (the producers) didn't have work permits for the children. They were using explosives, in which case the children wouldn't have been permitted to work at all. There was no teacher to look out for their welfare."

The accident happened on a set for a movie being produced by Steven Spielberg for Warner Bros. Inc. Three individuals have been slapped with $5,000 civil fines each for violating child labor laws, and state officials are investigating possible criminal

"I was shocked that the children were working at 2:30 in the morning and that there was no welfare worker," said Gene Reynolds, a child star in the 1930s and most recently executive producer of the "Lou Grant" TV series.

"Part of the problem is that we always seem to need something more spectacular to top each other, and everybody wants to rush because time is money," Reynolds said.

Parents can be another part of the problem. "Some parents are so pleased to have their children in movies that they aren't as vigilant as they would be," Mrs. Logan said. "For some, the money

Last year, the state issued 20,000 six-month theatrical work permits to minors. The Screen Actors Guild, which two years ago got special language in its contract to safeguard children, lists only 3 percent of its 50,000 members as children, and even fewer belong to the Screen Extras Guild.

"I don't think it (the accident that killed Morrow and the two children) was because of a lack of regulations. It was just something that slipped through the holes," says Kim Fellner, spokeswoman for the Screen Actors Guild.

California's first law protecting child actors was passed in 1929.

A child now must have a job promise, a health certificate and at least a "C" average to get a theatrical work permit. A child can spend no more than eight hours a day on the set, and three of them must be allotted for education by a teacher who also looks out for the child's well-being. Another of those eight hours must be set aside for relaxation. Children under 8 are forbidden to work after 6:30 p.m., and are barred from hazardous working condi-

The Gablers, meanwhile, found offense in the same book for the passage, "Who earns the income in the' family? Who is the 'head' of the family? There is no one answer to these questions to-

"This is an attack on traditional family roles," complained the Gablers. "To satisfy the women's lib movement, this creates lack of respect for men as head of family and is an attack upon the religious beliefs of many people."

A civics text was criticized by the Gablers for referring to the president as male or female - "unnecessary," said the Gablers, "since there has never been a woman president."

NOW, however, found the same book offensive for the opposite reason.

'Positions of power can be depicted other than by showing photographs of males, i.e., the office of president could be represented by the presidential seal," NOW suggested. "A woman may be there sooner than we think."

Woman Seriously Hurt In Attack

By CAROLYN LESH Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) - A woman was seriously injured early today in the fifth anti-Semitic attack in Paris in 10 days as outraged Jewish militants went ahead with plans for a mass demonstration despite a government plea to call it

The woman, who was walking her dog, suffered severe face and leg injuries when a bomb exploded at 1 a.m. alongside an eight-story building housing a firm that imports fruit from Israel and a bank that was under Jewish ownership until private banks were nationalized earlier this

The police did not reveal the woman's identity.

An anti-Israeli message scrawled on a wall near the site of the bombing was signed with the initials of Direct Action, an anarchist group that claimed responsibility for three of the other attacks since Aug. 1.

However, Direct Action denied it was responsible for the terrorist attack Monday on Jo Goldenberg's, the bestknown Jewish restaurant in Paris, in which six people were killed and 22 were wounded. It was the heaviest toll in an anti-Semitic incident in France since World War II.

Two of the dead were Americans, Ann Van Zanten, 31, of Evanston, Ill., and Grace Cutler, 66, also from the Chicago area. Mrs. Van Zanten's husband. David, 38, and Eva Shure, a 65-year-old Chicago schoolteacher, were among the wounded.

Interior Minister Gaston Defferre implied that the restaurant attack might be the work of the Palestinian faction called Black June, led by a foe of PLO chief Yasser Arafat, Abu Nidal.

Defferre said the terrorists used Polish WZ-3 submachine guns, the same weapon used in the shooting of Israeli Am-bassador Shlomo Argov in London June 4 and a synagogue attack in Vienna, Austria, a year ago in which two people were killed. Black June claimed responsibility for those two attacks.

Defferre pleaded with Jewish leaders not to stage

Leaders of the Jewish community were holding a memorial ceremony tonight at Paris' main synagogue for the victims of the restaurant attack. Premier Pierre Mauroy was to attend along with delegations from most political parties and Archbishop Jean Marie Lustiger, who converted from Judaism to Catholicism while living with a Catholic family during the Nazi occupation.

About 1,000 persons attended a demonstration Tuesday night organized by Betar, a militant right-wing Jewish group, outside the Israeli Embassy. Screaming that French news media are pro-Arab, several people in the crowd got into shoving and shouting matches with television camera crews filming the two-hour demonstration.

Tillage And Irrigation Featured At Field Day

Amarillo - People inerested in ways to cut farm production costs are invited to the North Plains Field Day, Wednesday, Aug. 18, near Etter, Texas. Dr. G.B. Thompson, Texas A&M Research Director, will host this annual tour. Featured will be research on limited tillage and irrigation. The program will start at 1:30 pm by the headquarters of the Texas A&M North Plains Research Field located about 1.5 miles east and 1 mile north of Etter.

with a Welcome by Joe Cox, Chairman of the North Plains Research Field Steering Committee. Dr. Bob Merrifield, Associate Director will discuss the overall research program of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. A tour of research in the field will follow the opening program.

Cotton, corn, and sorghum variety trials will be the first stops on the tour. According to Cecil Regier, manager of the research field, Paymaster 145 cotton produced over a bale per acre and grosses 230 dollars per acre in 1981. This variety was markedly more resistant to drift from 2, 4-D than the other 36 varieties evaluated. Over 90 hybrids each of corn and sorghum are being evaluated with a high level of irrigation and fertility. These trials will be discussed by Kenneth Holloway, Moore County Extension Agent, and Dr. Frank Petr, Area Agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Ser-

Tillage systems on dryland and under center pivot irrigation will be explained by Dr. Paul Unger, USDA Soil Scientist, and Dr. Dan Undersander, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Agronomist. Unger will describe research conducted for 15 years at the USDA Research Laboratory at Bushland and a new experiment at Etter in which limited irrigation, furrow dikintegrated. Undersander has four tillage systems under high and low pressure center pivot systems. Corn and sorghum are planted under each pivot. People on the tour will be able to see how furrow diking and no-tillage greatly reduce runoff under a low pressure pivot.

Efficiency of high and low pressure sprinkler systems has been evaluated for three years by Tom Marek. Agricultural Engineer. His research shows that crop yield is not affected by pressure of the irrigation system.

Finally, Dr. Wyatte Harman will discuss economic analyses of several minimum tillage and irrigation Reducing production cost while maintaining high yields will be the key to economic survival for farmers. "Observing our research at Etter will help farmers toward that goal", Dr. Thompson said.

Holly Announces First Quarter Loss

COLORADO SPRINGS-Holly Sugar Corporation announced today that net loss for the first quarter ended June 30, 1982 was $426,000 or 27 cents per share on revenues of $56,795,000, compared with earnings of $2,941,000 or $1.86 per share on revenues of $70,166,000 for the same period in 1981.

The loss occurred principally because of (1) continuing expenses (totaling $698,000) for discontinued operations at Holly's Tracy, California, high fructose corn syrup facility and Santa Ana, California, cane sugar refinery; (2) above-normal production costs at Holly's

November 1980 and continued until May 1982. However, refined sugar prices for June are above May 1982 prices and it appears that the current upward trend in refined sugar prices is continuing.

The more favorable prices received reflect the results of the quota system adopted by President Reagan on May 5, 1982 to limit imports of raw sugar, and the price-selective marketing program adopted by Holly Sugar's new management during 1982; this has helped to minimize the continuing negative impact of the long-term lower priced commitments made by prior management.

Prices for dried beet pulp and molasses have been depressed due to the abundance of feed grains with which our by-products compete. Programs adopted during the spring of 1982 for sundrying pulp in California (in place of drying with natural gas or oil) have increased the net return from pulp and reduced the quantity of pulp lost in the drying process. The discontinued operations at the Santa Ana cane refinery, and at the Tracy high fructose corn syrup plant continue to incur expenses (such as depreciation, severance pay, insurance, security and property taxes) and many of these expenses will continue until disposition of these facilities has been achieved. Efforts to sell these properties continue.

The outbreak of Lettuce Infectious Yellows viral disease in the Imperial Valley of California substantially lowered the crop yield of sugarbeets, reduced total tons processed and consequently reduced the quantity of supar produced at the Brawley plant in 1982. Steps have been taken by Holly and its growers to reduce or eliminate the risk of a repetition of this situation in next year's suparbeet crop.

Spring sugarbeet harvests and processing operations have been completed at Holly's Hamilton City, and Tracy, beet sugar factories. Both plants had excellent campaigns. Hamilton City set new all time records in processing. The plants, as well as Holly's Rocky Mountain and Texas plants, will start operations again in late Septermer and early October. In spite of late spring rains in Northern California, drought in Torrington. Wyoming, and hail storms in Montana and Texas, the 1982 sugarbeet crop in all Holly areas has made excellent progress. Weather and growing conditions between now and fall harvest dates will determine the yield and quality of the sugarbeet crop.

Michael S. Buchsbaum, Chairman of the Board, and John L. Bushnell, President of Holly, stated that they believe the Corporation has made excellent progress during the fiscal year and expect that future results will justify the confidence Holly shareholders have placed in

Nation's Cattle Inventory 'Apparently Ceased' To Grow

WASHINGTON (AP) The Agriculture Department says the nation's cattle inventory has "apparently ceased" to expand, blaming weather and a financial crunch which forced many farmers and ranchers to sell livestock to pay bills.

"A harsh winter, financial difficulties and poor forage conditions through late winter in the Southeast contributed to a 1 percent decline in the inventory, compared with a year earlier," the department's Economic Research Service said Tues-

Only six months earlier it appeared the expansion stage of the cattle cycle might continue for a while longer. On Jan. 1, the inventory was up 1 percent from a year earlier.

But the mid-year inventory, which was issued on Ju-

"Pork production will continue below a year earlier for the remainder of 1982 because of a smaller pig crop in the first half of the year,' the report said.

"Despite sizable profits in recent months, pork producers apparently haven't started to expand because they may be trying to improve their cash flow and pay off debts."

Market price forecast figures were mostly unchanged from earlier projections, with slaughter hogs expected to average $56 to $60 per hundredweight through next winter.

WASHINGTON (AP) Congress will be asked for legislation giving the Agriculture Department authority to sell "carefully selected" tracts of public land now held by the Forest Agriculture Secretary John R. Block said Tuesday that only about 60,000 acres of the agency's 191 million acres qualify for sale under existing authority. The expansion will be sought as part of the department's 1983 legislative program.

The Forest Service's land will be placed in one of three categories as part of the administration's federal assets management program aimed at selling off excess federal Categories will include: Land to be retained under federal ownership, lands meeting criteria for sale, and lands requiring further study before deciding whether to retain or sell them.

The first category initially consists of about 51 million acres which will be retained as public property. That land includes all areas designated by Congress, such as wilderness, wild and scenic rivers, national recreation monuments.

A "substantial acreage" of forest land will be added to the retained category following a review, officials said.

The second category consists of land which can be offered for immediate sale without additional legislative authority. Currently, 60,133 acres in 26 states have been initially identified as "excessive to the needs and objectives" of the Forest Sercluded in this category. Block said more land will be added after Congress give its approval.

Development Can Protect Soil

A new scientific development promises protection of the soil against wind erosion, prevention of crust formation and improved conditions for seed germination. That could spell good news for farmers and lower food prices for the consumer.

The development is based on a conditioning material, made primarily from industrial wastes. Some 40 percent is based on paper industry effluent.

The conditioner, developed by Professor Dan Zaslavsky in Haifa, Israel, makes dust particles adhere to each other for weeks or years, according to the amount that is sprayed on the soil. The improved soil structure permits better plant growth, reduces soil run-off during rainy periods and can prevent buildups of dust in public areas and unpaved roads. The development work took place at The Technion, Israel's Institute of Technology.

Soil conditioners aren't a new development, the scientists point out. However, until this time they weren't able in price and effective in small quantities. It's an idea that seems tobode well for people all over the world.

Playa Lakes Can Benefit Wildlife

LUBBOCK - Playa lakes may be manageable both for water storage and as productive wildlife habitat, says Dr. Eric G. Bolen, Texas Tech University Horn professor of range and wildlife management. "By terracing just half a playa lake, benefits to farmers could include continued storage of runoff irrigation water for use again. And, with the littoral zones still functioning, waterfowl still would be attracted to the area, providing farmers an added income by leasing playa land to hunters," Bolen

Clay-lined pits known as playas serve as the major source of surface water for the Southern High Plains. Littoral zones - areas of plant growth near the shore - are important area of biological productivity, including protein sources for waterfowl and other wildlife.

Today, playa lakes are modified into steep-sided pits to produce a favorable surface-area volume for water storage. This reduces evaporation and increases pumping efficiency for recycling irrigation runnoff. However, that modification reduces the littoral zones and unfavorably alters aquatic plant life, Bolen said.

"Playa lakes have been caught in the middle of advancing agricultural technology and resource preservation," Bolen said. "These problems could be resolved by appropriate design of the pits so that, in part, littoral zones are maintained for wildlife while still fostering water storage for agriculture." In West Texas, agricultural practices are based largely on the waters of the Ogallala Aquifer, which extends from Texas to northern Nebraska. Irrigation and municipal users are gradually depleting the aquifer, making playa lakes a more valuable water

"The terraced design was selected because a definable and sufficient area of littoral zone remains in place at any water level. With the design, the large surface area of each terrace remains individually covered by a water column of the same depth," Bolen said.

As a winter habitat in the Central Flyway, the Southen High Plains is second in importance to the Texas Gulf Coast. Approximately 54 percent, or 100,000, of the greenwinged teal in the flyway winter in the Southern High Plains, he said. It is also a major wintering area for pintails, mallards and wigeons, all ducks.

"Mid-winter census figures for the region reflect boom or bust in waterfowl numbers dependent on the amount of available surface water. One way to protect wildlife and their habitat is to make it something of value," Bolen

"Documentation of the evaporation, both from soil and plants, as well as an economical analysis will be made so that landowner can assess their direct and indirect costs for adopting the new design," Bolen said.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

This process applies mineral oil in minute quantities to grain to stop dust. Bunge Corporation in Fort Worth is using the oil on some of the grain in its elevators. Applied at the rate of 200 parts per million, the oil cuts swirling dust to Bunge almost nothing. applies the oil as the wheat comes out of the pit, before it starts up the leg. There was little or no dust even in the immediate area of the leg, and no smell of dust in the air. Working conditions in the elevator were much more pleasant than normal, and we hope safety was improved. Common sense would tell us safety has increased a great deal, but there is not any scientific evidence of this

yet. The oil was invisible and odorless after it went on the grain.

The purpose of our trip was to see the oil in action in a major elevator, and to make sure others saw it, too. We wanted to bring together the people who needed to know about this process, so we invited represenatatives from the Environmental Protection Agency, the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council, the Texas Air Control Board, grain explosion scientists from Texas A & M University, a federal grain grader from the U.S.D.A., and Ray Nolen, Executive Vice President of the Texas Feed and Grain Association.

Our purpose in this study of grain elevator explosions is to make elevators safer. These explosions cost millions each year, and that is a terrific waste. But we hope stopping the explosions will have other benefits, also. For example, about half the energy grain elevators use is to run dustcontrol equipment. Weight losses from grain dust cost all of us. Some elevators return the dust to the grain, but this is an expensive and dangerous process.

Constant sweeping and cleaning also are expensive. Less dust means less cleaning and sweeping, and a better place to work.

One of the biggest problems in using the oil has been grading. When the oil is applied at the low rate of 200 parts per million, grading has been good. If the oil is applied too thickly and stored a long time, the grain sometimes is graded commercially objectionable foreign odor (COFO). Grain graded COFO means big problems, but this low grading has been rare.

We know all of you are concerned about problems in agriculture. Please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711, and tell us about what we can do to help the agriculture industry in

Marceau: Mime over matter

On Wednesday, Aug. 11, PBS will air "Marcel Marceau," an hour-long special. (Air dates may vary; please check local listings.) No words can explain what Marceau's language of mime can express. The world's greatest living pantomimist has performed in 65 countries on five continents without ever saying a word. In sequences filmed in Paris, Marceau explains how even as a youngster he found it necessary to recreate the world around him by imitating gestures and other elements of his During the 1940s, Marceau studied as a painter, but his admiration for the great silent screen actors, such as Charlie Chaplin and Buster Keaton, inspired him to pursue the ancient art of silence as his career.

In 1946, Marceau enrolled in the Charles Dullin School of Dramatic Art in Paris. There he created Bip, the clown in the striped pullover and battered opera hat topped with a red flower. He describes this character as his alter ego and con-

In addition to performing some of his most famous Bip characterizations, the program uses film clips from some of Marceau's early performances.

The film portrait also offers insights into Marceau's creative process, his philosophy, his paintings and thoughts about art, and concludes with Marceau instructing some of the students from around the world who have enrolled in the Marcel Marceau International School of Mime, which recently was reopened with a grant from the French government.

John Huston's "Victory," which will appear on the Movie Channel Aug. 16, is a movie where the idea of piling star on top of star (Sylvester Stallone, Michael Caine and Max Von Sydow) has added up to less nstead of more.

The plot seems unlikely — that during World War II, the Nazis would make a prisonerof-war soccer team play the German national team and that this game would somehow affect the course of the war. One good reason, however, to watch the film is to see the great soccer star, Pele, who plays on the Allied prisoner-ofwar team. Now that he's retired, this is about the only way you are going to see in on a soccer field.

Nickelodeon's "Studio See" will go to the Cayman Islands in the Caribbean where a team of teen-age scuba divers will investigate a mysterious shipwreck. During the same show, a young cartoonist will show kids how to make their own cartoons.

"It's obvious that developments are occurring rapidly in gramming is dead.
"Today's cable subscriber doesn't seek the least objectionable program. With 20, 30 and 50 choices being offered, the most desirable program-ming will win out. That's the business of cable - to offer the most desirable choices." "Sinbad and the Eye of the

Tiger' is going to be on Spot-light Aug. 18. The film, starring Patrick Wayne, the Duke's son, is just about as good as this genre of kid's fil these days. It's colorful, exciting, imaginative, and it never takes itself too seriously, unlike "Clash of the Titans." The acting isn't great, but so what — it's fun. The kids will love it. © 1982 Compulog

HEALTH Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Injuries can cause seizures

DEAR DR. LAMB - I wanted to comment about my seizures after having read your column about injuries. I'm 46 years old, female, and have been married 26 years. When I was 18 and a senior in high school I received a head injury and was hospitalized for nine days. A week later I experienced seizures. I had all the enced seizures. I had all the tests and doctors agreed the seizures were due to the head injury and that it was a form of epilepsy. I was put on medications to control the seizures. I had many seizures for 19 years. Then I became seizure free and for nine years I have had none, even though I take no medications. My parents' and fiancee's attitude made it possible for me to cope and accept my condition. God granted me two births and both were healthy. My husband and children made me strong by not overprotecting me and by showing no pity. I have always felt that I am a normal person. With the help from loved ones I acquired this outlook.

DEAR READER —
Thank you for sharing your experience with others. Your letter points up again that injuries can be a cause of seizures. Epilepsy is often caused by brain damage, which can be from birth, automobile accidents or brain damage from strokes.

Your story also shows that seizures may not be a per-manent way of life. However, no person with seizures should ever stop medicines on his own. Doctors sometimes try to cut down the dose of medicines and gradually withdraw in cases where that seems possible. It doesn't always work.
Being married and having two normal children also shows that seizures and having children is entirely possi-ble. That is also true in people who have epilepsy from unknown causes.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My wife and I have been taking vitamin C for quite some time and I have been bothered about as long with stomach acid. We were taking 500 mg every other day. Recently when I was shopping the store was out of 500 mg tablets so I got 800 mg tablets. Soon my problems with stomach acid seemed worse and I had to keep taking antacids.

We decided to stop taking the vitamin C for a while and now neither my wife nor I is bothered with acid stom-

A vitamin C tablet left in the mouth for an instant or two before being swallowed leaves a burning acid feeling on the tongue. I'm quite sure the vitamin C was at least part of our problem. Since a lot of people have stomach acid I thought you might want to mention this.

DEAR READER Thank you for your comment. Yes, vitamin C is an acid. And taking large amounts of it may cause burning in the stomach in some people — not all. The same is true of many citrus fruits. A good approach is to have your citrus fruits and juices with or just before your meal so its acid contents will be diluted with the rest of your meal.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My doctor recently had me Xrayed for gas pains and severe pain in the left side of my abdomen. He said it was diverticulitis. I had never heard of it. He also told me what foods to avoid, like salads and anything with seeds, and to drink a lot of water and fruit juices.

Recently I read of an emergency operation on diverticulitis. What causes diverticulitis? What does the surgery consist of? How do I avoid it? I am a 71-year-old emale and quite active.

DEAR READER — Some DEAR READER — Some people call the disorder "pockets of the colon." It is extremely common in people in your age group and it is not rare in people much younger. You might feel better about having diverticulosis if you realized that news accounts report that President Reagan has this condition, too. condition, too.

You need to sort out some terms. The presence of pockets of the colon is called diverticulosis. If the pocket becomes inflamed it is called diverticulitis. Uncomplicated diverticulosis may cause no symptoms or prob-lems at all.

The little pocket is really a break in the muscular wall of the colon that allows the inner lining to rupture through the wall forming a little pocket or sac. Some authorities think the little rupture occurs because of a build-up of pressure inside the colon from a spastic colon. In fact, the discomfort some people complain of with diverticu-losis may be from an underlying spastic colon.

The diverticula are most often on the left side. If one becomes inflamed it may behave like an acute appendicitis attack, hence the term left-sided appendicitis.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am divorced and have been seeing a man I love deeply for about four years. He is extremely jealous. He broke down and confided that the reason for his behavior was that I have bot flashes. He that I have hot flashes. He thinks they mean I am over-sexed. He says hot flashes are caused by female organs, and they are a sign I need sex. He says when these hot flashes occur a woman may be unfaithful. have never even thought of being with another man. He won't let me out of his sight because of the hot flashes.

Is this true? Help me if you can because I couldn't ask my doctor in person.

DEAR READER - No, it is not true. Your love has gotten some misinformation. The truth is that women are prone to hot flashes with the prone to not flashes with the menopause because they stop producing enough female hormones. Hot flashes from the menopause are easily prevented by giving enough female hormones. Of course, that is not always desirable. not always desirable.

I see you don't think you are in the menopause group, but whatever causes your hot flashes, be assured it is not from too much female

POLLY'S POINTERS Polly Fisher

Beware of chilis

DEAR POLLY — When a recipe calls for minced fresh chilis, can I substitute chili powder? — MAGGIE

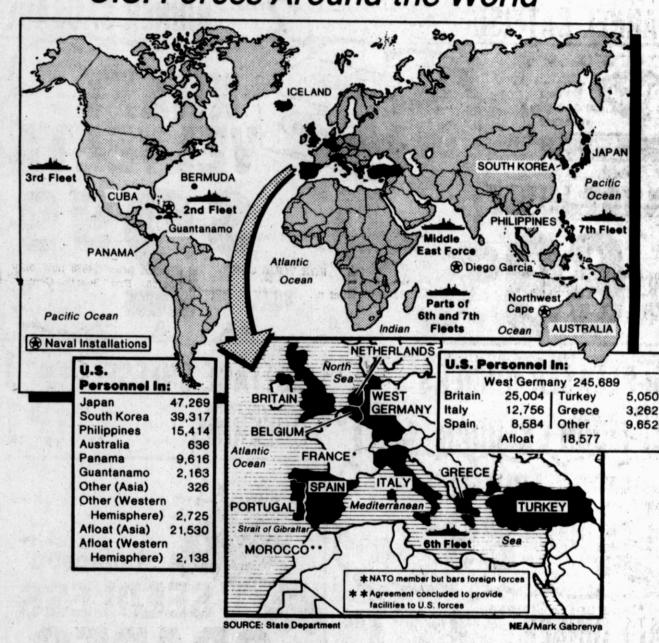

DEAR MAGGIE — What is commonly sold as "chili powder" is actually a blend of spices that includes ground dried chili, salt, garlic, oregano and cumin. It's really not a satisfactory substitute for fresh chilis. When the fresh chilis are used for flavoring only (obviously, any powdered or dried substitute will not give you the texture and color of fresh chilis), you may substitute pure ground chili which is increasingly available in specialty shops, gourmet food departments and from mail-order companies. Dried whole chilis may also be used; you can either grind or crush them into powder, soak them and then chop them like fresh chilis, or put them into the food in their whole form to be removed before serving. Hot pepper sauce can also be used to provide a little culinary heat to a dish if you can't obtain fresh chilis.

By the way, if you do use fresh hot chilis (and, by all means, do if you can get them), be very careful when handling them. The volatile oils in the seeds and skin can be extremely irritating to your skin, eyes, nose and mouth. If you get the oil on your skin and then inadvertently touch your eye — even hours later — your eye will sting, water and smart unbearably for several hours. Flushing the affectand smart unbearably for several hours. ed area with water does not help. The best procedure for taming these little devils is to peel and seed them under water, wearing rubber gloves for protection. However, if you do get them on your hands, immediately soak your hands in vinegar. Vinegar will help neutralize the chemical that causes the irritation. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY - When making iced tea, I sometimes like lemon in it. I don't like to squeeze lemons, however. Instead, I add a teaspoon or so of frozen lemonade concentrate. It sweetens the tea while it adds a delightful lemon flavor, and

A quarter of all American active-duty military personnel is stationed outside U.S. territory. In most host countries, the American military presence is governed by mutual defense agreements such as the 1976 Treaty of Friendship and Cooperation with Spain. In hostile Cuba, the Guantanamo Naval Base is maintained under terms of a 1903 U.S.-Cuban treaty. Figures are for 1981, when uniformed personnel numbered 2 million.
