

McCarthy's Tactics Give GOP Headache

REPUBLICANS who stood by in days of yore and gleefully watched Wisconsin's Joe McCarthy bear down on the State Department were looking this week for some way to call off the hounds.

The biggest trouble seemed to be in getting the junior Senator from Wisconsin to acknowledge there's been a change in Washington. In addition, there were some ruffled feelings over McCarthy's predilection for diplomacy.

McCarthy, at a specially summoned press conference last Saturday, announced his subcommittee had negotiated an agreement with the Greek owners of 242 ships in which the owners promised not to trade with the North Koreans or Chinese Communists.

The State Department announced the Greek government had decided to order a halt in such shipments on March 23. The order was already in effect at the time of McCarthy's press conference, the Department said.

Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen angrily told McCarthy to his face that the agreement he worked out with Greek ship owners interfered with overall foreign policy for which the State Department is responsible.

Frank C. Nash, assistant secretary of defense for international affairs, backed McCarthy in part, however, saying that a net cut of "even one" vessel aiding the Reds would receive applause.

Stassen warned McCarthy he was "undermining" U. S. foreign policy. McCarthy retorted that his staff has "accomplished what you and Dulles did not."

Since the U. S. Constitution makes the President responsible for the conduct of foreign affairs, McCarthy's move raised a constitutional question. It appeared that McCarthy, in bypassing the Executive Branch of the government to negotiate an agreement with foreigners, may have infringed on this Presidential prerogative.

McCarthy met Secretary of State Dulles for lunch on Wednesday to "talk things over." Vice President Nixon took a peacemaker's role, meanwhile, and tried to iron the situation out particularly as it affected White House - Congressional relations.

In Short

Passed: by the Italian senate amid the wildest scene of fist-swinging and desk-smashing in Italian parliamentary history, Premier Alcide de Gasperi's election bill which is expected to help keep his seven-year-old pro-American government in office in the June general election.

Endorsed: by the Senate, President Eisenhower's plan to set up a new cabinet-level department of health, education and welfare.

Selected: by the United Nations Security Council, Dag Hammarskjöld, Swedish minister of state, to succeed Trygve Lie as Secretary General of the United Nations.

Convicted: E. Merl Young, a central figure in a Senate investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, on four charges of perjury. Young, whose wife was a White House stenographer in the days of the Democratic Administration, was convicted of swearing falsely when he said that while employed at the RFC as an examiner he never had anything to do with loan applications filed by the Lustron Corporation.

The WORLD This WEEK

Offshore Oil Spat

THE Supreme Court, held in 1947 that the Federal Government holds dominion over offshore submerged lands in the case of California. Later the court made similar rulings on Texas and Louisiana.

The question of ownership of the submerged lands, often mistakenly called tidelands, was far from settled, however. The court had never used the word title.

Former President Harry Truman vetoed legislation to give the states title to the submerged lands. During last fall's presidential campaign, President Eisenhower said he would have signed the bills Truman vetoed—a position he has since reaffirmed.

Legislation to establish coastal states' title to oil-rich submerged lands off their shores came up again in Congress Monday. Proponents of the bill contended it would ratify what had been accepted for 150 years—state ownership of offshore lands. Opponents denounced it as a giant steal amounting to something like 40 billion dollars.

The House bill gives states title to offshore lands within their historic boundaries—three miles except on the Texas and Florida gulf coasts where it would be 10½ miles.

The states are authorized, under the House bill, to develop natural resources in these submerged lands, even if the act is challenged in the courts and the title sections held unconstitutional. The Secretary of the Interior is empowered to develop mineral resources in the outer continental shelf beyond the states' seaward boundaries.

The edge of the continental shelf, where the sea bed drops off precipitously from a depth of about 500 feet to a depth of several thousand feet, is roughly 90 to 125 miles out along the Gulf coast, some 50 miles along the Atlantic coast, and three to five miles on the Pacific.

COMMUNIST DIPLOMATIC TECHNIQUES—TWO VIEWS

SHOULDN'T THERE BE A BAGGAGE LIMIT?

EXCUSE US IF WE SEEM SUSPICIOUS

KOREA: West Cautious on Red Truce Deal

PEIPING Radio sounded as if it were talking peace in Korea but it was hard to tell. Even as it carried a statement by Red China's Premier Chou En-lai suggesting a compromise plan for ending the Korean war, it broadcast a blistering accusation that the U. S. is waging germ warfare in Korea.

Apparent Communist moves toward a truce in Korea were greeted by a Western response designed to test the sincerity of the Reds. Gen. Mark W. Clark, U.N. Commander in the Far East, told the Reds he was ready to arrange for immediate exchange of sick and wounded prisoners of war, as suggested by the Communists. A resumption of full-scale armistice talks could be discussed after the sick and wounded POWs were exchanged.

Chou's plan was formally presented to the United Nations in New York. Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky backed it up saying it was "perfectly clear." In Moscow, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov applauded the plan and pledged Russian assistance.

The heart of Chou's peace overture appeared to be his proposal that a "neutral state" take over all those prisoners not willing to go home. POWs would then talk it over with representatives of their own country. It was not clear whether Chou intended to let the prisoners have the final choice.

Here, in brief, is what Chou proposed:

1. "Repatriate immediately after the cessation of hostilities all prisoners of war who insist upon repatriation."
2. "Hand over the remaining prisoners to a neutral state to ensure a just solution of repatriation."
3. The neutral state would allow representatives of each side to explain to these prisoners what their decision would mean.

Chou added this did not mean the Reds "acknowledge the assertion of the United Nations Command that there are among the prisoners individuals who allegedly refuse repatriation."

He said the neutral state having custody of war prisoners would afford the Reds opportunity to talk it over with "those captured personnel of our side who, under the intimidation and oppression of the opposite side, are filled with apprehensions and are afraid to return home."

Chou's overtures came on the heels of his recent return from Moscow. If his peace talk was the part of over-all Russian strategy, it would not necessarily mean the Kremlin, under Georgi Malenkov, had embarked on a campaign to end the cold war.

G.I.S READY—JUST IN CASE

Vegas hill, which repeatedly changed hands in last week's bitter fighting. Elsewhere along the front, G.I.s welcomed the slower pace, but kept warily on the alert.

It should never be forgotten that Russian policy twists, turns and sometimes backs up, all with one objective—a Soviet advantage. The 1939 pact with Hitler followed by wartime cooperation with the Allies are two examples. At the time those policies were in effect, it was advantageous for Russia; it was them in effect. After the war, the Soviets embarked again on their campaign for world domination. There is a constant theme in Russian foreign policy. What looks like a full-blown peace offensive today may be just another variation. On the Korean war front, the new Chinese peace offer was reflected in a slackened Chinese effort. It was not certain whether the letup in Chinese action was due to bad weather, or to orders. Whatever the cause, U. S. Marines used the time to good advantage by digging in deeper atop battered

NEW DEAL IN INDOCHINA

THE French have a plan which they think will bring victory in Indochina.

The French strategy, revealed to high U. S. authorities, assumes there will be no large-scale Chinese Communist intervention. The

FRENCH UNION TROOPS ON THE MARCH IN INDOCHINA

French formula for victory foresees two more years of warfare in Indochina.

The new plan is understood to call for organization of 54 native commando battalions plus three reserve battalions. In order to effect these increases, the French will need a substantial boost in U. S. aid. This year, American assistance to the French probably will total more than one billion dollars for all purposes.

In almost seven years of guerrilla-type warfare in Indochina, Communist-dominated rebels have sapped France of more than 160,000 military casualties. The French have paid out around 11 billion dollars to finance their war against the Vietminh. The U. S. has helped, financially.

The war in Indochina appears to be a bitter replica of the war in Korea. There is a stalemate. Neither side can be said to have a definite upper hand. Sharp actions break out now and then between Vietminh and French Union forces. Basically, the front lines change little.

Whenever the French do seem to be winning a fight, the enemy has a knack for dissolving until what appeared to be a formidable military force dwindles to small raiding parties. In other words, the Vietminh high command makes it difficult for the French to chop up large units when the going gets tough. The rebels simply break up, disappear into the hills and reform later.

Murder on Notting Hill

Nobody paid much attention to John Reginald Christie in the shabby Notting Hill section of London where he lived. He was known as a quiet, mild-mannered man—a clerk by trade.

About March 20, Christie disappeared from his ground-floor apartment in one of the sleazy tenements that dot the Notting Hill neighborhood. Another tenant, who lived on the top floor, decided he would like to move into Christie's old quarters on the first floor.

In the course of examining the Christie apartment, the prospective occupant happened to break through several thicknesses of wallpaper over an alcove. Underneath was the body of a woman. Police took over from there, discovered two more corpses in the alcove, another—that of Christie's 45-year-old wife—under the floorboards of the living room. In a rock garden outside, the remains of at least two more women and possibly a third, were found buried about three feet down. Police thereupon decided to dismantle the entire tenement.

Britain's biggest manhunt in history was launched, meantime, as anxious Scotland Yard officials, working on the theory the killer was influenced by a full moon, worried that he would strike again.

Suddenly, on a quiet Putney street only five miles from the murder house, the search came to an end. A strapping 43-year-old policeman, Thomas Ledger, was walking his beat along the Thames when he spotted the balding little clerk. Ledger approached him, asked him to go to the Putney police station. Without protest, J. Reginald Christie, Britain's worst mass killer since Jack the Ripper, meekly went along.

Farm Bureau Medic Says....

Texas for his efforts on behalf of agriculture. A forceful speaker and tireless organizer, he has been instrumental in building a strong and united Farm Bureau in Texas. When he became TFBF organization director eight years ago this month, the membership was less than 8,000. At the present, there are more than 50,000 Texas farmers and ranchers enrolled in the Texas Farm Bureau Federation.

Membership workers from each organized community in Deaf Smith County will attend the kick-off meeting. Hoyle will provide renewal and prospect cards and membership kits to the workers. Each worker will be given cards on farmers in his community. The renewal cards contain information on expiration dates of present or past members and the other cards are for prospective new members.

A report meeting will be held at the same place Monday, April 13. At that time, Grant Hanna, the community membership chairman will report on the results of the drive in the respective communities.

Dodson stressed the need for a strong farm organization—one that the farmers can use effectively to gain a fair share of the national income.

Prices on Decline
"Our farm prices are on the decline, but the prices of things we must buy are rising steadily," Mr. Dodson said. "We can correct that situation only by self-help, and the Farm Bureau organization is the tool that we can use to get the job done. It is a voluntary and independent organization of, by, and for the farmers and ranchers. Policies are determined democratically, and every one in the organization has an opportunity to voice his opinion."

To illustrate the value of the Farm Bureau to farmers, Dodson pointed to the legislative work being carried on in the state capital. The Texas Farm Bureau Federation is waging a ceaseless battle to save the tractor gasoline refund. H. B. 388, which was introduced by Rep. James W. Yancy of Houston, would take away one-fourth of the refund on the non-highway gasoline tax.

This is but one of the issues where the Farm Bureau is looking out for the interests of the farmers, Dodson said. During the last legislative session—two years ago—the Texas Farm Bureau Federapart of the triple attack on cancer through research, education and service to cancer patients.

Dr. Mims also made an appeal for full support of the fund raising aspect of the drive. "All of us must give what we can to support this work," he said. "Only one out of four cancer patients is being saved today. More could be through early detection and prompt treatment. The lives of the ones who are not being saved remain in the hands of the scientists who are seeking means of earlier diagnosis and methods of curing even advanced cancer."

"A maximum of effort of service and giving," he concluded, "will be required to reduce cancer from its firmly entrenched position as the second most frequent cause of death."

tion not only defeated an attempt to take away all of the tractor gas refund, but was also instrumental in saving the rural road program and the county road bond assumption monies. Before that hectic session was over, the farmers and ranchers of Texas had also pushed through a natural gas tax bill which is still being fought in the courts.

Farm Bureau also is busily engaged in looking after less controversial problems, the county president said.

FOIBLES

By Kent Snare

Without an inkle, leave alone an inkling, of a subject on which to scribe for this outing, I am going to launch the endeavor, without a qualm or an alibi as to the ultimate outcome. Truthfully, we of our abode, have given little thought to other than the return for Easter-tide, of our girl tad. She made it successfully, much to the satisfaction of Mom and me and the avoidupois shaking approval of the speckled pup-dog, senior type. I hope all the other out-of-home schooling seekers made it home, for it's a good feeling for all concerned and morale building too. It comes to light now, that a questionnaire taken at the Rules Committee meeting of the NCAA, elicited the info that the voting coaches were 3 to 1 against the "one for one" rule. Only the overwhelming number of suggested changes, with a corresponding split number of supporting devotes, precluded a successful vote on its abolishment. Personally, I hate to think of what the game of basketball will resemble after a repeat lap of the rule and the dilatory homer officiating that was exhibited in spots last season. The NCAA excluded all of Bevo Francis' scoring abulations in their meeting and, without fanfare, it is disclosed that Eberle Neal of Wofford, with a 32.6 scoring average per game, broke the existing record which George King, late of Morris-Harvey and the 66 Oilers, cut to the quick by the attitude game count was 31.2. I was out to the quick by the attitude of my favorite apothecary. A long about mid-week, he accosted me abruptly and affixed me with a baleful stare, then he stated bluntly, that in my squib of last Sunday that I had insulted him nine times, by actual count. However, I will lean to a magnanimous consideration of his rebuff and pass lightly over it, charging it to his exchange of incisors, which operation has a tendency to curdle the milk of human kindness and protrude criticism at alleged writers. Confidentially, I oughta demand a recount on the indignities total, since I figured they totaled not more than eight at the most. This counting-house chatter brings to the surface another oldie, to wit: One of those mean, tough, nasty-tempered batters strode to the plate in a baseball game, glared at the meek and mousy umpire, and dug in. The pitcher uncoiled and laid a fast one right thru the middle. The burly batter remained rooted and hindered it not, with his bat. "Strike one," piped the wee arbiter timidly. The toughie glared at him again, munched his teeth noisily, but commented not. Again the Binger let go with a perfect strike and again the batter ignored it. "Two squeaked the wee ump. "Two what," bellowed the bully. "Too low," stammered the timid caller quickly, "much too low to be a strike." And let's close this with another anent the umps. This one is attributed to Steamboat Johnson, a colorful minor league arbiter, who one day was calling a fight one down south on a blistering day. The fans were about to sink Steamboat, verbally, in particular, he was harassed by a loud and prominent local physician. Assailed by the heat, the humidity and the howling, Brother Johnson was steaming. Finally he deterred action and stomped back to the boxes back of home plate. Fingering the bellowing medico, Johnson screamed, "You got no right to beef, doc. When you make a mistake, they bury it. When I make a mistake, it lives forever, and loud. So shut up."

Nursing Classes

Miss Elizabeth Van Wagner, Red Cross Field Representative for Home Nursing was in Hereford office Wednesday and Thursday. She discussed the program and planned for future classes in the work to be held here. Besides this county, Miss Van Wagner covers 90 counties in West Texas. While here she met with Mrs. Tommy Hulsey and Mrs. Alice Cox, both instructors in her phase of Red Cross work; also with Mrs. Marlin Gilliland, who heads the nurses committee.

Before leaving she accompanied Mrs. Reed Williams, chapter chairman, on a short tour of nearby irrigated fields to see how it was done. Her home is in Georgia which offers quite a contrast to this country she said.

James Alston is home from Texas A & M for the Easter holidays. Planet means wanderer.

Formby Inspects Valley Highways

McAllen — State Highway Commissioner Marshall Formby of Hereford, paying his first visit to the Valley and South Texas, inspected the biggest single construction project in Southwest Texas Wednesday when he looked over Falcon Dam in western Starr County.

Com. and Mrs. Formby have been guests of State Highway Commissioner R. J. (Bob) Potts and Mrs. Potts at Harlingen for the past several days. They stopped for visits at Texas Highway Department division offices in Yoakum and Corpus Christi while en route from Austin to the Valley.

Messrs. Formby and Potts met with Valley city and county officials and chamber of commerce representatives at Brownsville, Harlingen, Weslaco and McAllen in a series of informal gatherings Monday and Tuesday. They also inspected farm-to-market and other Highway Department projects throughout the Valley and discussed both local and Valley-wide highway problems with highway enthusiasts during their Valley trip.

After visiting Falcon Dam and the $300,000 state highway relocation project in Starr County which will re-route U.S. 83 around Falcon Lake, Com. and Mrs. Formby planned to inspect highway projects at Laredo, Eagle Pass and Del Rio before returning to Austin this week end.

Com. Formby told his Valley listeners that Texas now has about 9,000 miles of improved highways, but that increasing numbers of vehicles and increasing highway usage is causing a steady rise in maintenance costs, now totaling some $27,000,000 a year. He also explained that another one cent per gallon increase in the state gasoline tax would give the Highway Commission an additional $18,000,000 per year which it needs to remodel and rebuild some 10,000 miles of the original state highway system and extend the present 17,000 mile primary highway system.

Concerning the Valley, Com. Formby said it seemed to him this area needed additional highway facilities, particularly a new four-lane highway stretching the entire length of the section. He said many Texas areas already have rights-of-way for new highway construction projects and are constantly requesting the Commission to approve highways in their respective sections.

Mr. Formby said the Texas Highway Commission has expended more than two billion dollars on Texas highways since it was created by the Texas Legislature in 1917, but that despite the size and cost of the system to date, another 4,000 miles of four-lane modern highways is needed statewide to bring the system to a modern status. He said only 500 miles of four-lane highways are in use in the state at the present time.

At the McAllen Chamber of Commerce luncheon Tuesday noon, both John C. Jones, La Feria, chairman of the Valley Chamber of Commerce Highway & Good Roads Committee and Brad Smith of Weslaco, vice-chairman of the Valley Chamber's Traffic Safety Committee, expressed appreciation to the Highway Commission and to Division Highway Engineer Jim Snyder of Pharr for their consideration and cooperation in solving the Valley's highway problems.

Lumber Is Jammed Through Windshield In Auto Collision

Charges of failure to have a red flag on the rear of a load were filed against Thomas E. Braddy Friday following an accident at the corner of Fourth and McKinley. Charges of following too close were filed against Barry Lynn Jones. Braddy, who was driving a 1948 Ford pick-up loaded with 2x4's, was making a right turn from McKinley onto Fourth and had stopped when Jones, also driving a 1948 Ford pick-up crashed into the rear of the Braddy vehicle. The 2x4's rammed through the windshield of the Jones pick-up knocking the entire windshield out. No damage to the Jones pick-up was set at $60 and to the Braddy pick-up at $25.

Easter Program Presented L'Allegra Study Club

An Easter program highlighted the L'Allegra Study Club meeting held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. F. G. Glendenning.

Following a short business session directed by the president, Mrs. Darrell Blanton, Mrs. Richard Ireland reviewed "The Lamp of God" written by Margaret Blair Johnstone, a woman Congregational Church pastor at Groton, Mass. where the church spire stays lighted every night of the year.

When Mrs. Johnstone first came to Groton as pastor, the spire was lighted only at Christmas time and Easter. Her first impression of the finger pointing heavenward led her to call it "aspiration." Mrs. Ireland said. She told of the effect on the lives of the people in the community that the Lamp of God has had, and told of instances; finding a young girl parked in a car with a married man, and a young man who had run over a child and was tempted to flee, where the Lamp of God turned them back in the right direction, and enabled them to begin a new life. Members present at the meeting were Mesdames: J. W. Barnett, Darril Blanton, Jack Brown, Bill Dameron, James Edmonson, Jiggs Hartman, O. G. Hill, Jr., Francis Hill, Richard Ireland, Dick Lucas, George McLean, Floyd Ross, Bill Waldrep, Richard Winget, Lee Kent and the hostess.

Miss Joan Hardwick has enrolled at an Amarillo Business School for a short course. She and her sister, Pat Hardwick, teacher in the Portales, N. M. public schools, will both be home for the Easter holiday. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Hardwick.

Horace Howard Funeral April 4

Funeral services for Horace D. Howard, 70, of Sacramento, Calif. brother of Mrs. C. C. Ferguson of Hereford, were conducted Saturday morning in Sacramento.

Mr. Howard was the son of Col. S. T. Howard, who came to Deaf Smith County in 1900. He died on Thursday afternoon, April 2. Survivors other than Mrs. Ferguson are: one brother of Glendale, Ore. and a son of Sacramento.

George I of England was a German, and could not speak English.

STUDENTS and members of the annual staff this week announced that the 1953 Dimmitt "Bobcat" will be dedicated to Edwin Cartwright, above, who has been ill and missed school since the second semester opened. A campus leader, Cartwright is a junior, a two-year letterman and has been outstanding in other activities. He was recently moved from the Northwest Texas Hospital to his home in Dimmitt. He was injured this year when an automobile in which he was riding overturned around one mile southeast of Hereford.

Jack Ramey is home from West Texas State College visiting his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Sank Ramey.

Collene and Emma Jane Brown are both home from West Texas State College for an Easter visit with their mother, Mrs. C. O. Brown.

GRASS ROOTS

Heard over the radio the other morning that the last killing frost date average was now April 14th. I have been telling people for the past several years that April 8th was the date. Guess that freeze we had last year in May altered the date somewhat.

Those of you interested in Spring pasture plantings will certainly want to wait until all danger of a freeze is over. This balmy weather would germinate cool season grasses and a freeze would be the end. Best to wait until after the tenth anyway. We still think we have the information you want concerning your pasture needs.

ALFALFA: It will soon be time for Spring seeding of alfalfa. This time of the year always "foamants" lots of pro and con discussions of the way to and what to seed in alfalfa. It is a well established fact the South West Common is very adaptable here since 98-percent of the seedings are of this variety. However the discussions get hot when it gets down to Texas, California or Arizona grown seed. There are farmers who take a paralyzed oath that Texas seed is the only one to seed and again there are others who seed nothing but California or Arizona origin. I will have to agree with both since we carry an inventory of both, and I have seen both growing in the field. We have seen some interesting results from the seeding of Buffalo Alfalfa. This hay is a fine stem, wilt resistant strain adapted to our area. It apparently comes on earlier in the Spring than the South West Common and if this holds true throughout the area should all an extra cutting or so. Although Buffalo seed runs a little higher there is a great possibility that it will prove out cheap.

er in the long run. The tale drifts in from Oklahoma again where the farmers sow up to sixty pounds of alfalfa per acre. That sounds like some seed salesman recommendations, but the story comes from farmers who are doing it. Purpose: A heavy seeding created extensive competition between the plants, thus a fin quality hay instead of heavy stems. A good idea for men who are feeding their own hay — for the others! Well tonnage is tonnage no matter what quality.

Shady Lawn Bluegrass: At the outbreak of World War II there was a lawn grass introduced to the United States from Denmark that carried the aristocratic name of Poa trivialis. In fact this fine grass still goes by this name, but to eliminate any wise cracks about my being scientific-minded, etc. I prefer to call it Shady Lawn Bluegrass. It being a true member of the Blue grass family and also because it tolerates considerable amounts of shade. This grass does well in full sun also if the soil is reasonably moist. Due to the war the importation of Poa trivialis was stopped but the seed is now available and most certainly deserves a place in all well balanced lawn mixtures.

Jimmy Gillentine is the only person living who can make a week end trip to Oklahoma sound like a South Sea Island Cruise, although Urlin Streu can no doubt run him a close race. Streu's Diary often carries a tirade of Urlin's prowess and John's weakness on the local golf course. Can't fool me. I've played him once and trimmed his ears and he is looking for a rematch. Not me—I'm quitting winner on that deal.

Letter To The Editor

Hereford Texas April 2, 1953

Editor of the Hereford Brand Hereford, Texas Dear Sir:

Will you please publish the following letter in your paper. Dear Friend and all Concerned:

I think it is time for all of us to start thinking about the condition of the play ground at Shirley School. There certainly needs to be something done about it. How many of you have driven by when we have a stiff wind from the west, southwest or northwest? If you have, you know what I am talking about, if you haven't I would like to ask you to do so. I live just across the street and know exactly what I am talking about. Sometimes those little children are out there playing when I can hardly see them for the dirt and dust.

Now, I have been noticing that we can go to a lot of effort and money to provide a nice foot-ball field, also a place for the boys to practice, keep it in grass and water it to keep it nice. Now don't get me wrong, I like foot-ball and do enjoy watching our boys play and am all for it, but what I am getting to is, why can't our small children have some consideration, have a decent place to play too. This play ground is also covered with small rocks. I believe a system could be worked out so this play ground could be put in grass and the children play on the other and a part watered at the time side and change about.

I have been thinking about this matter for a long time and trying to get up enough courage to write a letter to the paper about it. I surely hope that the rest of you will get this on your hearts and minds and that something can be worked out. Did you ever stop to think that these little boys who are playing in this dust and dirt are our foot-ball boys of tomorrow and if they keep having to play out in this dust, they will all have asthma or some other kind of respiratory trouble and won't even be able to play foot-ball when they get old enough.

Let's all get behind this and see what can be done about it.

Respectfully, Mrs. M. A. Bettis 222 Ave. H.

Wayne Evans this week entered a livestock show for the first time in his life. Furthermore, he did pretty well by taking the Reserve Championship in the Kansas-Oklahoma Scotch Shorthorn Show at Buffalo, Okla.

The award went to his white bull, "Gold Finner's Pride," an animal he bought as a small calf. The bull also won first in the "Group of Eight" and topped his class. Another of his bulls, "Mercury 2", was second in the Summer Yearlings division and one of his cows was third in the Summer Yearling division.

"Everyone, including other exhibitors, helped me," said Evans. "They sure were nice people—and I didn't know the first thing about entering the show or exhibiting cattle."

THE SUNDAY BRAND SOCIETY

Hereford, Texas, Sunday, April 5, 1953

Section Two

Easter customs evoke traditions of the glorious season of the resurrection of Christ, most of which may be traced to religious origin. The Easter parade of feminine finery, dyed Easter eggs, lilies and our own Easter rabbit, all have a significance rooted in early Christianity.

EDITH DAVIS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Davis Jr., stops to pick up her Easter basket as Cynthia Seed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seed, and Ruth Ann Allison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Allison, seem amused at the delay. The Easter Parade, based on the universal desire to "dress up" at a time when all nature is bursting into bloom, began in the 4th century A. D. when the Roman court wore their finest robes in honor of Christ's resurrection. Staff Photo.

EASTER MUSIC has ever been joyous and beautiful in celebration of the resurrection. Choirs, such as the vested group of the Happy Helpers of the Methodist church, part of which is pictured today, spend many hours rehearsing special programs of Easter music. Singers are; back row left: LaWana Gates, Charles Mims, David Bell. In front: Catherine Nell Barnard and Barbara Carmine. Staff Photo.

JERRY DON McCASLIN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McCaslin, and Paula Waldrep, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Waldrep, discuss Mr. Hoppety Hop - our Easter Bunny - who, according to legend, transformed her pet bird into a rabbit for the children to gain their friendship. Staff Photo.

VIRGINIA SIGLE AND SHARON MOORE enjoy the array of Easter lilies in a local flower shop as they select Easter lilies for their mothers, Mrs. Delmar Sigle and Mrs. Troy Moore. Easter lilies (Matt. 6-28) millions of them, will be seen at churches and homes this year as a symbol of heavenly purity. Staff Photo.

Prison System Is Reviewed By Texas Governor

By ALLAN SHIVERS
Governor of Texas

The people who commit crimes are still human beings after their freedom has been forfeited. That is one of the basic principles behind the operation of the Texas Prison System.

Of course, punishment never will be outmoded as long as there is crime. But Texas has progressed a long way in its treatment of those convicted of violating the law.

Many of the advancements of the past few years may be traced to improved buildings, more sanitary living conditions, better food, and other physical aspects of maintaining the 12 units of the Texas Prison System.

Still more improvements of this kind are needed and should be provided at the first opportunity. As I have said previously, when and where the courts rule the Texas gas tax to be legal, I hope to see our State put part of the money that will become available into prison construction, along with other badly-needed capital improvements.

One of the most urgent needs of the Prison System exists at Eastham Farm, near Crockett, where overcrowding is a serious problem.

Despite all of our hopes and endeavors, the Texas prison population continues to grow. By mid-summer, there are expected to be 7,500 inmates—about 650 more than there were a year ago. This makes the expansion requirements more urgent.

Aside from the matter of punishment—which remains serious even though it is regarded by some of our modern thinkers as old-fashioned—there are three chief objectives of a good Prison System. These are (1) protection of the public from the criminal element, (2) protection of the prisoners from each other, and (3) rehabilitation of the individual prisoners.

Most of the State prison expenditures go for the first two of these items, although protective walls and cells and guards form a definite part of the rehabilitation program.

Much of the rehabilitating cost is paid by income from the annual prison rodeo.

The rehabilitation program is, briefly, the many-sided task of providing opportunities so that any prisoner who desires to improve himself may do so.

The "rehab" activities embrace general and vocational education, library operation, recreation, various medical aids, and religious services and counseling.

A typical report, covering the activities of January and February 1953, indicates that the Prison System's five chaplains conducted 78 religious services, showed inspirational films to 5,000 prisoners, conducted 459 individual conferences, and handled 192 letters or telephone calls about the personal problems of inmates.

In vocational training, 16 trades now are taught, including new courses in sign painting and welding. There are more than 150 men enrolled in vocational correspondence courses and 116 attend classes.

The total enrollment in academic education is 1,800 students, only 415 of whom are on the compulsory, or illiterate, level.

In the two-month period mentioned, more than 15,000 books were loaned from the Prison System library and 13,500 prisoners took advantage of the opportunity to read magazines.

A wide program of recreation is carried out, which included the Golden Gloves tournament early this year. The fourth season of the prison baseball league will begin this month. Dominoes, checkers, and other games are available.

In the medical aids program, 325 inmates received assistance during January and February. Seven hundred eye examinations were conducted and 177 pair of glasses were issued. 70 denture plates were supplied, and four new artificial limbs were procured.

As chairman of the Inmate Committee of the Texas Prison Board, the Rev. Mr. George Beto, President of Concordia Lutheran College at Austin, is responsible for the rehabilitation program, which is actively administered by Mr. A. C. Turner, Mr. Beto, who accepted an appointment to the Board early in 1953, made an inspection of the entire Texas Prison System in February and March.

He has confirmed my impression that our Prison System is well administered by extremely competent personnel, under the outstanding management of Mr. O. B. Ellis. With the approval of the Texas Legislature, Mr. Ellis began a thorough reform of the State's prisons in 1948. This reformation has extended to improvement of inmates' living conditions, rehabilitation of the prisoners, better selection, training, and compensation of employees, and the use of more efficient farming methods on the 73,000 acres of prison farm lands.

One of the newest and most encouraging rehabilitation projects is in operation on Ferguson Farm at Midway near Madisonville. This is an honor farm where the best rehabilitative prospects in the Prison System live and work without physical restraints. There are no locks, and the 70 men at Ferguson enjoy numerous simple but appreciated comforts and privileges in return for their trustworthiness. Not a single escape has been attempted

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

Banana, Whipped Cream Pie Is Husband Getting Bait

A husband - getting recipe may well be the prize of many a girl, and while we can't guarantee that this one will work in every instance, Mrs. Don Zimmerman is quite sure it won her husband's heart for her.

It all started when Don, among others, ate dinner in Mrs. Zimmerman's parent's home and discovered that banana and whipped cream pie was his favorite pie. That was enough for the girl who later became Mrs. Zimmerman—she made that pie so often when Don would be around that he finally became sold on the idea that the girl and the pie would be a fine complement to his way of living.

Banana And Whipped Cream Pie
Pie crust—Sift 1 1/2 cups flour and 1/2 teaspoon salt in a mixing bowl. Make a paste of 1/4 cup of flour and 3/4 tablespoons cold water. Cut 1/2 cup of vegetable shortening into the dry flour until the pieces are the size of small peas. Add flour paste to shortening-flour mixture and mix thoroughly until dough comes together and can be shaped into a ball. Roll into crust approximately 1-8 inch thick and line a nine inch pie pan. Bake in 425-F degree oven 12 or 15 minutes.

Pie Filling—Whip 1/2 pint heavy cream until stiff. Add six tablespoons granulated sugar and 1/4 teaspoon vanilla.

Line cooled pastry shell with 3 sliced ripe bananas, sprinkle with 1/4 cup granulated sugar and cover the bananas with half of the whipped cream mixture. Slice on three more bananas, sprinkle again with 1/4 cup sugar and pile remaining whipped cream mixture on top. Chill in refrigerator 30 or 40 minutes before serving.

Easter Strawberry Tarts
Sometimes Mrs. Zimmerman substitutes sliced fresh strawberries and makes this same recipe into individual pies or tarts. Especially designed for spring eating the strawberry tarts seem just right for the Easter season.

After preparing the pie shells, or the pie crust, if you prefer, take 2 cups of fresh sliced strawberries and sweeten to taste. Then place a layer in the shell or half of the strawberries in the single crust, and cover with the whipped cream mixture. Repeat the strawberries and then the cream and chill in the refrigerator as in the above recipe. A whole strawberry dipped in sugar placed on the tart just before serving adds a bit of glamor.

Parson Weems, first biographer of George Washington, first told the story of the cherry tree.

Texans In Washington

By Tex Easley
AP Special Washington Service
 Washington—Texans in Congress are in favor of President Eisenhower's get-acquainted luncheons at the White House.

The President has been entertaining members of Congress in groups of a dozen or more. About half the Texas delegation in Congress now has lunched with the President.

The Texas old timers like the idea just as much as the first-timers.

Rep. John E. Lyle of Corpus Christi, now in his fifth term, beamed after his turn at the White House table and remarked that it had made him feel more important than anything else that happened to him in Washington.

Rep. Lloyd Bentsen, Jr., of McAllen said he found that Eisenhower "has a terrific memory—and is a darned good chef."

Although the affairs are strictly social the President broke into the conversation at one luncheon to ask about the amount of land needed for Falcon dam on the Rio Grande and about the problem of relocating the town of Zapata.

It was Texas Independence Day when Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco was invited. He pinned a small Texas flag on Eisenhower's lapel, in view of the fact the President is a native of the Lone Star State. The President wore the flag the rest of the day.

After each of the luncheons the President takes his visitors on a personally conducted tour of the White House. Most of them come away with comments about his personal collection of medals displayed in a case, and of his swords and guns. The collection includes a pair of western style revolvers, with matched, hand-carved handles.

Rep. Frank Ikard of Wichita Falls was impressed with the White House bomb shelter.

Expecting to see a small office-size cubicle when he took the elevator to the depths below the White House, he said he was amazed to find that it spread out under a part of the White House lawn and could accommodate some 5,000 persons.

Built to resist any known atomic bomb, the shelter is protected overhead by about eight feet of reinforced concrete and an additional six to eight feet of earth. Underneath is also a six to eight foot concrete flooring, in order to support the walls and ceiling against the impact of any direct overhead blast.

Doors are steel and a foot thick, as in bank vaults, and the place can be entered by several different stairways as well as by the elevator. The elevator permits the President and his family speedy transportation from his overhead family quarters.

Inside the shelter are oxygen tanks, electric generating equipment, food, water, decontamination equipment for those exposed to atomic radiation, and other necessities.

Around the Capitol

Recent visitors included Mrs. E. L. Ikard of Henrietta, mother of the Wichita Falls congressman. She drove from Texas with two of the legislator's aunts, Mrs. M. M. Alexander of Dallas and Mrs. W. J. Neville of Henrietta.

They visited noted flower gardens in South Carolina and elsewhere on the way, and arrived in the Capitol to find the famous cherry blossoms in full bloom.

THE STATE OF TEXAS
 TO: Harold W. Gideon, Defendant. Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to appear before the Honorable District Court of Deaf Smith County at the Court House thereof, in Hereford, Texas, at or before 10 o'clock A. M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 18th day of May A. FEATURING HIS PAL
ROSCO SWEENEY
By ROY CRANE

'G'BYE! GOOD-BYE! TAKE CARE OF THINGS, ROSCO.

THE LAST OF THE WINTER CROPS ARE PICKED, AND EVERYONE BUT SWEENEY TAKES A VACATION.

I'LL JUST HAVE ME A LAZY TIME, FEEDING THE PIGS, MILKING THE COWS, AND—

LOOK, BUD, DON'T COWS EVER GET A VACATION?

DANG MY DINGIES! AM I LOSING MY MIND?

IF YOU ASK ME, SIR, YOU NEVER HAD ONE.

HE'S A BOOB, EH, MAMA?

YOU—IZZARD THE WIZARD!
I MIGHT HAVE KNOWN THIS WAS ONE OF YOUR BUM JOSES, YOU OLD SEA HORSE.

HI, PAL. AREN'T YOU GLAD TO SEE ME?

YOU REMEMBER THAT I AM YOUR PAL, DON'T YOU? I'M YOUR FRIEND WHOM YOU HELP IN NEED. I'M—

WHOOA. THERE! DON'T YOU TRY TO PULL THAT HYPNOTISM STUFF ON ME!

OF COURSE I'M A FRIEND, IZZY. COME IN THE HOUSE. WHAT'S WRONG?

NERVES, BROKE. NO JOB. CAN YOU PUT ME UP FOR A WEEK OR TWO, SWEENEY?

SURE, BET YOUR LIFE, IZZY! BUT I THOUGHT YOU WERE THE WORLD'S GREATEST VENTRILOQUIST AND MAGICIAN.

I WAS. THEN SUDDENLY EVERYTHING WENT HAYWIRE, MY TRICKS DON'T WORK ANY MORE.

BONG-BONG!
COO-COO!

SEE WHAT I MEAN?

BONG!

COO-COO!
COO-COO!

WHAM! LOOKS LIKE A PRETTY GOOD TRICK TO ME.

COO-COO!

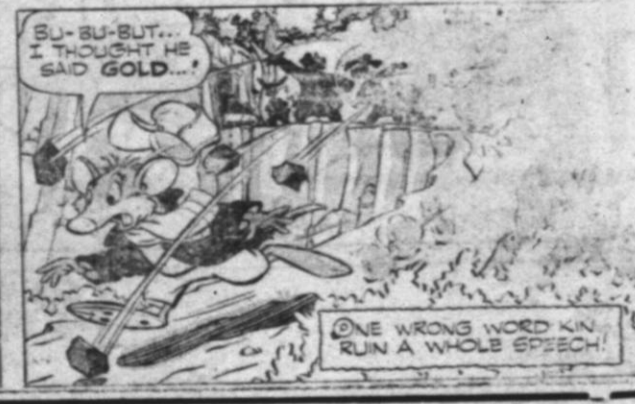

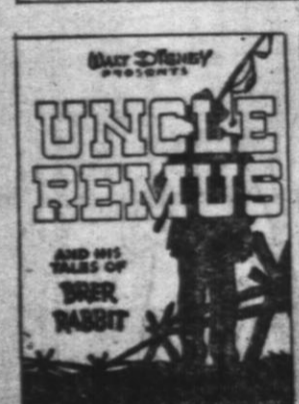

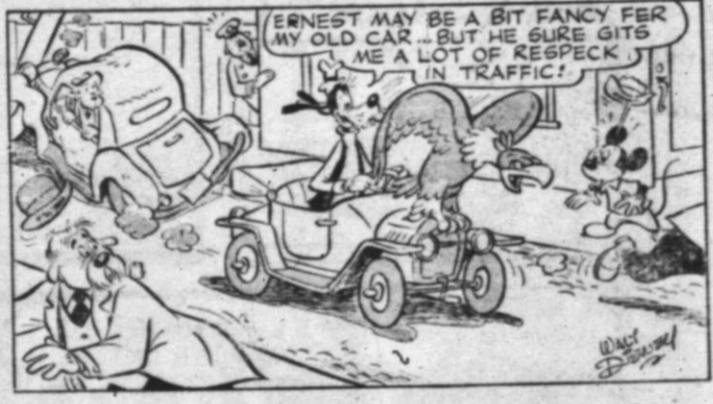

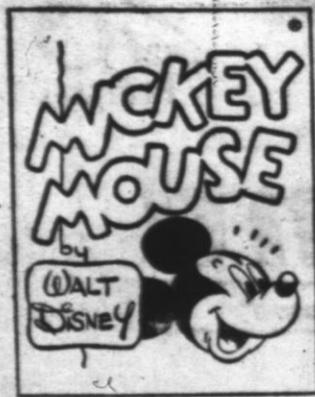

BUT IT ISN'T A TRICK! I HAD NOTHING TO DO WITH IT! IT'S MAGIC, I TELL YOU! I'M AS MYSTIFIED AS YOU ARE.

RIVAL?? DON'T MAKE ME LAUGH!!

DOLLY DAWN IS A FAMOUS STAR~ A TALENTED ARTIST~ ANNIE ROONEY IS JUST AN UNKNOWN, UNTRAINED AMATEUR~

THAT IS YOUR OPINION~ THE GREAT DIRECTOR, CYRIL EGOMANN, DOES NOT AGREE WITH YOU~

Scheduled to open the three-day activities is the board dinner in the ball room of the Jim Hill Hotel, honoring Mrs. O. M. McGinty of Spur, district president, as a courtesy of Deaf Smith County Federation of women's clubs. Theme for the dinner will be "The American Woman."

Mrs. Van Hook Stubbs, president of the TFWC from Wortham, will address the convention on Friday morning on "Trends." She will be followed by Mrs. J. P. Mattox of Oklahoma City who will speak about "The King's Mother."

At noon the Education luncheon will be highlighted by a talk by Mrs. J. L. Lush of Ames, Iowa. She is chairman of the division

Streu's Diary

April 3, 1953

Dear Diary:

I have been robbed!! Reached for my typing machine and Posey informed me he had traded for a new one—this is it. Royal circa 1880—I think. However, it spells just like the old one—incorrectly.

Really have little to tell you this week, anyway—merely mention that the cabinetry on these RCA Victor TV sets is the finest ever seen on any TV set—really smooooooth! Just as smooth as the operation—check the RCA Victor TV in your neighborhood—and see the nearest to a good picture in the neighborhood—by the time you read this, you should be able to see the finest, clearest, and steadiest picture you have ever seen on any TV set—that's on RCA Victor TV.

We will have a $ table for Monday, which is dollar day. Getting in so much new stuff that Jean has to get rid of a bunch of the old and middle-aged items to make room—and I suffer—oh, how I suffer!! By the way, we do have a special for $ day that doesn't hurt so much—we are allowing a $2 allowance on any old iron on a new Sunbeam Ironmaster electric iron. That's a $14.95 value for $12.95 and your old iron—any old iron, will do—electric, gasoline, or sad. Good deal.

Have sold several of those very fine Aermotor windmills the last few weeks—sometimes in all the fuss and furor over TV and dishes and baskets and things, we forget to mention that we are still running a hardware store—with hundreds of sizes of bolts and screws and pipe and fittings and windmills and sucker rod and mill repairs—and tools and things which are every-day needs of the community—yep, we still operate a hardware store—in conjunction with our gift shoppe.

Well sir, by the time this is read, we will have two new school board members—don't know just who—and I am of the belief that whoever may be elected, considerable good will have been accomplished by the spirited campaign—bringing to the voters several different points of view—and causing some thought regarding school politics—management—and personalities. It has always been my observation that there are always entrenched interests in any public office—who (whether good or bad) who tend to resent and resist any change in the status quo—and at the same time there are always those who would cause change. That is our American way of doing things, and so far as I am concerned, I think it is the best way.

Speaking of politics, I think it is a shame for our city government to be turned over to any candidate for mayor—without some kind of opposition—I should dislike very much to be elected under such conditions—never would know if I actually won or not—kinda like playing golf alone. Hope some one else decides to make a contest of it.

She discussed floor coverings, wall boards, table tops, walls and ceiling coverings, etc.

In the absence of the kitchen demonstrator, Mrs. Charles Packard, Mrs. Harley Ward gave a report on the butter cake demonstration given in the kitchen of the REA building.

Mrs. W. H. Search presided over a business session in which plans were made for a trip to Dumas on April 14. A committee was appointed to select a skit for stunt night on May 1.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. E. C. Hewitt on April 16. Those present were: Mesdames W. P. Axe, C. R. Damron, C. C. Ellis, Edwin Flood, G. W. Newsom, Wayne Newsom, J. V. Pickens, V. P. Walker, Bob Baird and Mrs. E. C. Hewitt, co-hostess.

and took Flossie.

"Later we got a pony for her, but one day the dinner pail rattled from the saddle and he ran away with her. Fortunately she fell unhurt.

In 1916 we moved to the two story house on the hill where the present school building stands.

It was here Virginia, Elizabeth and Bill spent their childhood days.

In 1918 we felt the need of a two-room school building.

Mr. Bowman drew the plans and helped build it. Some thought it should be re-named.

Named "Progressive"

W. P. Smith offered to set up the oysters to the one who selected the best name. Several were submitted. A committee from town chose the name "Progressive on Progressive Avenue." Mr. Bowman won the oyster supper.

The two teacher school organized a literary society. Members of the community took part in the debates and plays.

Many ice cream socials were held. With a well-organized Sunday school, preaching services and Sunday night singing the Progressive community wielded a wide influence for good.

In 1925 the Progressive women organized a canning club. That year they canned four beeves, ten bushels of peaches and several hundred cans of vegetables.

The pioneers had a foresight of the vast acreage in vegetation. We boast today as paying rich dividends.

We later moved to town to put our children through high school but the lure of the farm took us back out in 1932. But when Bill took over the farm we again moved to town, not to retire, but to continue to work.

We feel we grew up with the country.
