

State's voters approve all 14 amendments

283 total amendments

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans overwhelmingly approved two constitutional amendments touted as law-and-order measures, including one already an issue in the state attorney general's race.

The other 12 propositions on Tuesday's ballot also gained voter approval, increasing to 283 the number of changes to the 109-year-old constitution.

One of the crime-related propositions authorizes the Texas Department of Corrections to transfer certain prison inmates out of state, thereby easing troublesome problems. In unofficial returns from all but one of the state's 254 counties, the measure passed 664,565 votes to 273,032.

Wichita Falls Sen. Ray Farabee, sponsor of the proposal, said the measure is "particularly relevant to breaking up gangs" and controlling prison violence.

The other law-and-order measure — which will allow the Legislature to set standards governing the process of charging people with crimes — was pushed by state Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, a Republican candidate for attorney general. Brown said the amendment would prevent appeals courts from reversing convictions based on technicalities that no prosecutor or grand jury can anticipate.

The unofficial count showed the measure, which calls for defendants to object to defects in an indictment before trial or else waive the right to object to any defect on appeal, winning 607,274 votes to 277,494.

Opponents claim the proposal would wipe out decades of judicial precedent guaranteeing people accused of crimes sufficient notice of the charge against them.

"Say you were charged with a crime. Wouldn't you think it would be in your interest to make the state conform to all the technicalities to protect your right as an individual?" said Bob Towery, executive director of the Texas Criminal Defense Lawyers Association.

Propositions 1 and 2, which together formed a $1.43 state water program financing new projects and authorizing agricultural water-conservation bonds, passed easily.

The closest vote was on Proposition 10, which would provide $500 million in bond money for loans to buy farms and ranches. The proposal, which Speaker Gib Lewis had endorsed as a "very noble program," led 462,782 votes to 439,905.

To be eligible for the Farm and Ranch Finance Program, a person must be a U.S. citizen, a resident of Texas for five years, a member of a household in which at least 35 percent of the gross income came from farming or ranching for the preceding three years, and have a net worth of less than $250,000.

Proposition 8, authorizing an additional $500 million to continue making $20,000 low-interest home loans to Texas veterans, passed 602,934 votes to 328,185 and State Land Commissioner Garry Mauro called it the "best possible Veterans Day present possible."

The housing program has been so popular that the Veterans Land Board made more than 21,000 loans during the first 17 months of the program. Approval of the amendment will permit the board to make another 25,000 loans.

"Thanks to Texas voters, the best veterans program in the U.S. can continue making $20,000 housing loans at below market rates to eligible Texas taxpayers a single penny," Mauro said Tuesday.

The other propositions: — allow cities to pay for water

County voters reject option for Buffalo Lake taxing

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

Deaf Smith County voters turned down the Buffalo Lake Water District tax proposal and voted against three of the proposed Texas constitutional amendments in a low voter turnout Tuesday.

A total of 1,227 ballots were cast here, representing about 14 percent of the eligible voters in the county. The Buffalo Lake proposal lost by 40 votes here and by 1,040 votes in the three-county area which included Randall and Potter counties.

All 14 constitutional amendments passed on the statewide voting, but Deaf Smith voters were against No. 5—authorizing the legislature to regulate provisions of health care by hospital districts; No. 9—authorizing prior approval of expenditure or emergency transfer of state appropriated funds; and No. 13—reapportionment of judicial districts.

Deaf Smith voters were split (574-574) on No. 3—permitting cities to spend public funds and levy assessments for relocating or replacement of water laterals. No. 10 passed by only three votes in the county. It had to do with the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide financing assistance for purchase of farm and ranch land.

The Buffalo Lake Water District tax plan was defeated soundly in Randall County, 4,255 to 3,269, and lost by 40 votes in Deaf Smith (590-540) and 14 votes in Potter County (2,920-2,906). If passed, the proposal would have given the water district the authority to levy a one-cent per $100 valuation property tax for operation and maintenance.

Garth Thomas of Hereford, a member of the lake board, said this morning he was "disappointed that the proposal failed." Thomas said he was "real pleased" that the state water plans were approved, however.

"In time, I still think the citizens of the area will want to use Buffalo Lake as part of a state water plan," said Thomas.

Eighty percent of the bond money would have gone into construction projects and the remainder would have been used for administrative costs. The board estimated it would take $3 million to remove the sediments and repair the spillway.

The lake was drained in 1978 by the Corps of Engineers, which was concerned the dam spillway would fail in the event of a flood. The water district board was created in 1983. Buffalo Lake has been under the control of the Department of Interior and run by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service as a wildlife refuge since 1958.

Reagan clarifies Star Wars remark

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, questioned today on whether he had intended to suggest in an interview that the Kremlin could veto his Star Wars missile shield, said, "Would you forgive me if I say, hell no."

It was Reagan's first statement to clarify his remark that the United States would not deploy Star Wars, known formally as the Strategic Defense Initiative, until "we do away with our nuclear missiles, our offensive missiles."

Asked to explain what he had meant in last week's interview with four Soviet reporters, Reagan said, "What I have talked about repeatedly and to many others, and that is when we've got it developed and we know we have that kind of a defensive weapon, we want to sit down with the rest of the nuclear powers in the world and say, 'Hey, now join us all in getting rid of nuclear weapons and instituting a defense.'" Reagan replied.

In that interview, Reagan had raised the prospect of letting the Soviets derail Star Wars merely by refusing to abolish their nuclear arsenals.

"The terms for our own deployment (of Star Wars) would be the elimination of the offensive weapons," Reagan said then. The statement appeared to say that if the Soviets maintained a nuclear arsenal, Star Wars would not be erected.

Within hours of the release of the interview Monday, the White House sought to clarify Reagan's remarks. Officials insisted the United States would not disarm unilaterally, and that Star Wars would go ahead even if the Soviets refused to dismantle their nuclear missiles.

Reagan was questioned on the subject today as he left the East Room after a speech to a group of supporters.

Administration spokesmen already had backed away from Reagan's earlier comment on Star Wars.

Vega library vote fails

VEGA, Texas (AP) — Oldham County voters Tuesday rejected a $200,000 bond issue to build a public library after an attempt earlier this year was doomed by alleged vote tampering.

The bond issue to build a $300,000 library in this town near Amarillo — the only Panhandle county without such a facility — failed by a vote of 462 to 275, according to County Clerk Martha Thompson.

They said that once Star Wars technology is judged feasible, the United States will consult with other nuclear powers to reach an agreement to begin cutting nuclear stockpiles. Nuclear weapons would be dismantled in stages as components of Star Wars are installed, officials said.

The proposal passed by one vote in April, but State District Judge Tom Cain of Pampa nullified the results because he found one ballot had allegedly been tampered with, Ms. Thompson said.

The additional $100,000 for the facility would have been provided from the Texas State Library and Archives Commission.

State leaders pleased with water plan approval

AUSTIN (AP) — By giving overwhelming approval to a $1.43 billion water plan, Texans took care of their water needs into the next century, state leaders say.

The state's voters — who had sent previous water plans down the drain — easily passed Tuesday two constitutional amendments needed to enact the plan proposed this year by lawmakers.

"It was a vote to resolve every major water problem we have faced in Texas for years," said Gov. Mark White, who campaigned in favor of the plan. "It was a vote for clean water to drink, to grow food, to provide jobs and to prosper."

With the unofficial tally complete in all but one of Texas' 254 counties, 73.97 percent of the voters said "yes" to Proposition 1. Proposition 2, the second half of the water package, had support from 69.85 percent of the voters.

Proposition 1, the amendment needed to enact the water plan, passed 711,955 votes to 250,566, and the vote on Proposition 2, a loan program to encourage farmers to buy water-saving equipment, won 657,313 votes to 283,691.

The only incomplete vote was from Harrison County, where voters were approving the water proposals.

Under the plan, the state will sell $980 million in bonds to raise money for reservoirs, pipelines, treatment plants and flood control projects. Proposition 1 also included a $250 million state fund to back water bonds issued by local governments. That backing would make the local bonds more attractive to buyers.

Proposition 2 is aimed at cutting water use by helping farmers buy water-saving equipment. Seventy percent of the state's water is used for agriculture. The constitutional amendment approved Tuesday lets the state sell $200 million in bonds to raise money for low-interest loans for farmers to buy equipment that uses less water.

White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis backed the plan, which was the subject of legislative wrangling throughout the 1985 session.

As the results became clear Tuesday night, Lewis said the latest plan succeeded because it has something for everyone.

"It doesn't benefit a few to the detriment of others. This will carry the state into the 21st century," he said.

Some of Texas' efforts to lure new industry have been stymied because business leaders felt "we did not have a far-reaching plan," the speaker said.

Opponents of the plan said it could lead to open season for developers who make money by pushing major water projects. State Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, called it

"pork-barrel heaven for the water hustlers."

Truan said the plan might provide water to West Texas by cutting flows needed for environmentally delicate areas along the coast.

But supporters, wary of past ballot-box defeats, sought — and won — bipartisan support. In addition to Democrats White, Hobby and Lewis, the plan was supported by former Gov. Bill Clements, U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler and former U.S. Rep. Kent Hance — three Republicans who want White's job.

Black engineers sue for $8.2 million

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas County District Attorney Henry Wade said he is not surprised by a civil suit filed by Lenell Geter and five other black engineers seeking $8.2 million and accusing police and prosecutors of malicious prosecution.

"I don't know anything about it. I heard they were going to sue," Wade said, adding that he had not seen the 51-page lawsuit but knew it had been planned for about a year. "It doesn't worry me. There's not any basis for it."

Geter and other black engineers were investigated for a series of armed robberies in 1982.

Geter and Anthony Williams were charged with armed robbery, and Geter was convicted but none of the other plaintiffs — Richard McCants, Rodney McCulloch, Amos Norman and George McCormick — was convicted of a crime.

Damage estimated in millions

MONT BELVIEU, Texas (AP) — Damages from a series of underground gas storage-tank explosions that killed two workers and forced hundreds to flee their homes will run into the millions of dollars, a petroleum company spokesman said.

About 200 area firefighters worked almost six hours Tuesday to control the blaze, fueled by liquified propane. The fire was fed by three pipelines that could not be shut off because the intense heat kept crews away from the valves.

A five-foot underground pipeline ruptured at Warren Petroleum Co. refinery and storage plant while construction workers were doing maintenance work, according to Cul Ingram, spokesman for Chevron Inc., which owns Warren and the 300-acre complex.

Ingram said the charred area, about 10 percent of the plant, would be closed for a few weeks and damages would run into the millions.

UT to experiment with ancient tools

AUSTIN (AP) — Some University of Texas students are putting under the books on ancient Palestine this week and trying their hands at grinding grain with the ancient stone tools found at an archaeological dig in Israel.

"We're going to see how long it takes to grind enough wheat for a family of six for one day," said professor Harold Liebowitz, who with co-workers found the tools.

"When students can actually pick up one of these ancient tools and work with it, it's fascinating for them. It makes everything much more meaningful," Liebowitz said.

The grinding tools are among hundreds of objects — including pottery, glassware and iron utensils — found at Tel Yin'am, near the Sea of Galilee.

The "tel," or mound of ruins built up by cycles of occupation and destruction, has the longest known record of occupation of any site in Israel.

Sailor genuinely wanted to go home

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet sailor, exhausted by two desperate attempts to swim ashore from his merchant ship, withdrew his request for asylum and convinced U.S. authorities — despite his slashed wrists — that the change of heart was genuine, the Reagan administration told a congressional panel.

A frightened Miroslav Medvid was returned to his freighter in the Mississippi River last week for a third time, U.S. officials said Tuesday, even though they never learned what events occurred while he was in Soviet hands between visits to U.S. soil.

As members of the Senate Judiciary immigration subcommittee listened to State and Justice officials describe their handling of the incident, they reacted with disbelief.

They demanded to know why U.S. authorities, faced with Medvid's cut wrists, sent the Ukrainian sailor back to his ship near New Orleans, while failing to give him blood and urine tests to see if he was drugged.

Why, senators asked, were officials not more cautious when the ship jumper brought with him a sealed bottle containing his personal papers?

Texas has lowest percent of unemployed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only about one in six jobless Texans was receiving unemployment benefits in October, according to a study by an independent research group.

The Center on Budget and Policy Priorities said unemployment coverage nationwide dropped to an all-time low last month, with 74.2 percent of the nation's jobless going without benefits.

According to the group's figures, of the 605,000 unemployed in Texas, about 500,000 were not getting benefits, a percentage of 83.7.

"Here we are in the midst of a strong recovery, so we hear, and yet the number of unemployed workers who are not getting any benefits is as high now as it was in the depths of the recession when unemployment was 10.7 percent," said the center's research director, John Bickerman. "For the people who are out there slipping through the safety net, it hasn't gotten any better."

The national unemployment rate in October was 7.1 percent. Texas' rate was 8.1 percent.

Peso drops to record low against dollar

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican peso has plunged to a record low against the U.S. dollar in private exchange houses in the capital in a slide apparently driven by investors' fears about the economic outlook.

At the close of business Tuesday, private exchange houses offered 500 pesos for each U.S. dollar and demanded 521 pesos for a dollar.

It was the first time the currency on the free market had slid to the 500 mark in the capital. The market along the U.S.-Mexico border is generally more volatile. The peso was quoted at more than 500 pesos in San Diego early last week, before stabilizing at about 475 by week's end.

Some exchange houses in the capital, apparently running low on dollars, refused to sell dollars to customers and were dealing only in travelers' checks.

The free market rate for the peso is used in tourism and for most private transactions.

A second rate, regulated by the government for most commercial transactions, stood Tuesday at 322 pesos to the dollar to buy and 323 to sell.

Late Tuesday, the Banco de Mexico, the nation's central bank, announced that it was setting restrictions on the operations of peso accounts by foreign financial institutions and exchange houses.

The central bank, in a statement carried by the government news agency Notimex, said the financial authorities believe the buying and selling of the peso should be conducted only through Mexican financial institutions.

Patients trapped by flood waters

MARLINTON, W.Va. (AP) — Patients at Pocahontas Memorial Hospital, flooded when the Greenbrier River spilled over its banks, huddled in the darkness of their hospital rooms, listening to trees, cars and houses bouncing off the building.

"It was eerie," Lonnie Parsons, 40, a disabled Vietnam veteran, said Tuesday. "Things were crunching against the hospital all night. Whole houses were floating down the Greenbrier River."

Parsons, who was admitted to the hospital Friday, said water began rising Monday night and patients were moved to the second floor. Then, he said, the generator was inundated and the lights went out.

"One little boy was concerned about whether we would have to go out into the water where cars and houses were flowing by," said Parsons, of Richwood. "I'm sure the hospital personnel were concerned about their futures, but they didn't let it interfere with the way they did their duties."

Through the night, water flowed through the first floor of the hospital, he said. Rescue attempts began at daybreak for about 50 hospital patients and personnel.

When the water receded, volunteers evacuated the first 10 patients to Humana Hospital Greenbrier Valley by ambulance.

"The water is starting to go down now, but in some areas it just stretched from mountain to mountain," said Robert C. Clutter of the Greenbrier County Emergency Ambulance Service.

Crews remained on duty overnight as five days of often torrential rains pushed rivers in Virginia and West Virginia to record levels.

"I tried to calm down one woman," said Robert Hoffman Jr. of the West End Ambulance Service at Rainelle. "She didn't know where her kids were and thought they were across the river but there was no way that she could get there."

Prospects appear slim

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) —

With only two weeks left before the Reagan-Gorbachev summit, prospects for a nuclear weapons limitation agreement or other U.S.-Soviet accords appeared slim following talks between Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet officials.

"Basically, we have a lot to do," Shultz said Tuesday in Moscow as he told reporters he and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev had been unable to narrow differences between the superpowers on their arsenal of missiles, bombers and submarines and on future space defenses.

In fact, Shultz said he would not bet that President Reagan and Gorbachev could agree at their summit Nov. 19-20 in Geneva, Switzerland, on a set of principles to guide future nuclear negotiations.

Shultz said he based his bleak forecast on a skeptical Soviet appraisal of President Reagan's counterproposal to Gorbachev's call for a 50 percent reduction in U.S. and Soviet nuclear warheads.

In his proposal last week, Reagan recommended further reductions in missile warheads but did not offer to curb his antimissile research program, the Strategic Defense Initiative.

"There was no narrowing with respect to those nuclear and space talks," Shultz said of his discussions with the Soviets.

Shultz was flying home today following an overnight refueling and relaxation stop in this capital city.

In his Moscow news conference, Shultz claimed there were "some positive developments" during his 14 hours of Kremlin meetings. He gave no examples, however. He criticized Gorbachev for having "misinformation" about the United States based on a lack of knowledge about the country.

Fixin' Sausage

Kristi Batenhorst, left, and Karen Artho, head cooks of the 34th Annual Umbarger Sausage Festival prepare sausage to be served Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at St. Mary's Parish Hall in Umbarger. 3,500 pounds of sausage, 220 gallons of sauerkraut, and 300 home-made loaves of bread will be prepared for the event. The public is invited to attend.

Sausage festival set

The 34th annual Umbarger German Sausage Festival will be held Sunday, Nov. 10, at St. Mary's Parish Hall from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Umbarger.

Nearly 3,500 pounds of sausage for the event will be made by John and Edna Wieck and Arnold and Kathy Wieck on Wednesday.

Already, 220 gallons of sauerkraut has been prepared for the festival.

Teenagers and adults will peel a half ton of potatoes Saturday afternoon starting at 1 p.m.

Head cooks Christie Batenhorst, Ann Schenk, Karen Artho and Shirley Skarke will start cooking at 5 a.m. Sunday.

Women of the parish will bake 300 loaves of home-made bread for the dinner.

The women will also bake other goodies and will hold a bazaar of homemade arts and crafts.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $2 for children 6 years to 12 years of age and will be sold at the door.

A dance will also be held from 8 p.m. to 12 a.m. in the parish hall with music provided by Tiny Lynn. Tickets will be $3 for singles and $5 for couples.

The public is invited to attend.

KGB agent returning home

WASHINGTON (AP) — After satisfying the State Department he was not coerced by Soviet authorities, former KGB agent Vitaly Yurchenko prepared to return to his homeland, where a variety of experts believe a bleak future may await him.

There was no official statement on his travel plans but there were reports Yurchenko was preparing to return today aboard a Soviet aircraft that is bringing Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin back from presummit talks in Moscow.

Just three days after bolting from his CIA handlers, Yurchenko went to the State Department late Tuesday and was asked by officials whether his decision to return to the Soviet Union was made of his own free will.

State Department deputy spokesman Charles Redman said Yurchenko "repeated several times that he wished to return to the Soviet Union" and denied he was being pressured by Soviet authorities.

Striking a boxer-like pose with clenched fists above his head as he left the State Department meeting, Yurchenko said, "Yes, home," when asked by reporters if he was returning to the Soviet Union.

He declined further comment, then stepped into a waiting car accompanied by four Soviet Embassy officials and sped off into the night.

Redman said a government doctor who attended the State Department meeting with Yurchenko determined there was no "observable evidence" that the KGB officer was under the influence of drugs or that he was not competent to make his own decision about his future.

Daughter-in-law had nerve

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are both 60. We raised two sons the best we knew how. We gave them love and affection, time and guidance and as many luxuries as we could afford. Our boys went to good colleges and we were proud of their achievements. We thought we had a fine relationship with them and their families until a few months ago. Now everything seems to have come apart. Please listen to what has happened and give us an opinion.

Our older daughter-in-law asked me if she could have something my parents (both deceased) had given me. It is an heirloom that is dear to my heart. I was shocked when she said, "Wouldn't you like to see me enjoy this while you are still alive?"

I replied, "No, I would not. I want to enjoy it while I am still alive." She then said, "You lied when you said I was like a daughter to you. If I was like a daughter you would give it to me."

Ann, this situation has snowballed way out of proportion. I have been made to look like the villain and told that I owe her and my son an apology. They refuse to allow me to see my grandchildren until I admit I was wrong. I am heartsick.

Will you kindly evaluate this mess? We were raised to respect our parents. Is the world THAT different today? Please let me hear from you. --DEPRESSED IN LONG ISLAND

DEAR LONG ISLAND: Your daughter-in-law had one heck of a lot of nerve to ask for the heirloom. I admire your courage to say no.

Obviously she was embarrassed when you refused to give it up, so she dragged her husband into the picture and enlisted his support. Too bad she succeeded.

It is disgraceful that your punishment for being forthright and honest is to be denied access to your grandchildren. I suggest, to break the impasse, that a member of the clergy be asked to serve as the mediator. It should be agreed in advance that the decision of the mediator will be accepted by both sides. If this rift is not mended it may last for years. Maybe forever.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Regarding your response to the hostess whose antique chair was broken by the 240-pound guest:

Let me assure you the guest did not consider herself heavier than average. In her own mind she is just "a little overweight."

My husband weighs at least 300 pounds. (Nobody knows for sure.) He calls himself an "out-of-shape athlete." When "Ed" was in college, he played football, weighed 220 pounds, was greatlooking and in wonderful condition.

Today he refuses to sit on our dining room chairs because "they don't make chairs like they used to." He broke two chairs in his mother's house and yelled at her for buying "cheap" furniture.

Any suggestions for people like this? He won't listen to a thing I say and sneaks beer, cake and pie when I'm not looking. He also eats steak and potatoes at lunch and demands a big meal in the evening. Meanwhile, I am - FEARFUL OF BEING A YOUNG WIDOW.

DEAR FEARFUL: Make sure his insurance premiums are paid regularly.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. Hereford women to attend annual meeting

Three local women will be attending the 24th Annual State Young Homemakers of Texas meeting Thursday through Saturday in Houston.

Representing the Hereford YHT Chapter will be Mrs. Burl Burelsmith, advisor; Melinda Henson, president; and Linda Ward, vice-president. These women will be among over 500 members and advisors from across the state attending the event.

The theme for the meeting will be "YHT-Stepping Into a New Era".

Highlighting the two day meeting will be a motivational keynote address by Coby Shorter, 1985 state FFA president. Three breakout sessions will feature speakers on several topics. George Rustay, an attorney in Houston, will discuss family law; Mubank YHT members will conduct a session on child abuse; and two state YHT officers will lead delegates in a session on writing award applications.

The Young Homemakers of Texas achievement awards will be presented during the annual awards luncheon. The awards are given to chapters who have contributed toward the growth of individual members and the improvement of the community through planned educational programs, projects and service activities.

Applications available

Applications are now being accepted from girls 13 through 19 for the Miss Texas U.S. Teen Pageant.

The Texas winner will receive $250 in cash, one year college scholarship, all expense trip to the national pageant including airfare, watch, diamond pendant, color portrait, crown, banner, trophy, and a host of gifts and products.

In addition to the state title, awards will be given in leadership, friendship, and photogenic categories.

The Texas pageant will be held at the Amfac Hotel in Dallas. Judging is based on poise, personality, school, and community involvement.

Over $100,000 in cash and tuition scholarships will be offered at the national pageant. Miss U.S. Teen will receive a $5,000 cash scholarship, a

Some elderly parents not eating properly

Since our parents teach us to eat our vegetables when we're children, it's difficult to imagine that they may not be eating right in their later years.

Yet research shows that older people in all economic groups in this country often don't get enough calories, protein, vitamin C and calcium, says Dr. Alice Hunt, a nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"The need for nutrients does not change with age, but a decreased sense of taste and a less activity can result in a loss of appetite and lead to a less than adequate nutritional intake," she says.

Adult children should be concerned about older parents' eating habits because a prolonged poor diet can reduce their ability to fight disease, advises Hunt.

The nutritionist lists seven signs that an elderly parent may not be eating right:

- Have your parents lost weight?
- Have their eating habits changed? Do they skip meals or snack throughout the day? People can rarely eat a healthy diet while following these eating patterns.
- Do either of your parents live alone? Preparing and then cleaning up after a balanced meal for one person three times a day is unusual. Healthful convenience foods or a community meal service can reduce the burden of food preparation.

-Do either of your parents seem depressed? If so, they probably lack motivation to eat well. Some company at mealtime may help.

-What type of physical limitations do your parents have? Use of a walker or arthritic joints can make shopping or preparing food difficult. Check into community service or private housekeeping agencies for help.

-Are either of your parents taking medications? Many drugs alter the way the body uses food or affect the appetite. Encourage them to discuss the problem with their doctor.

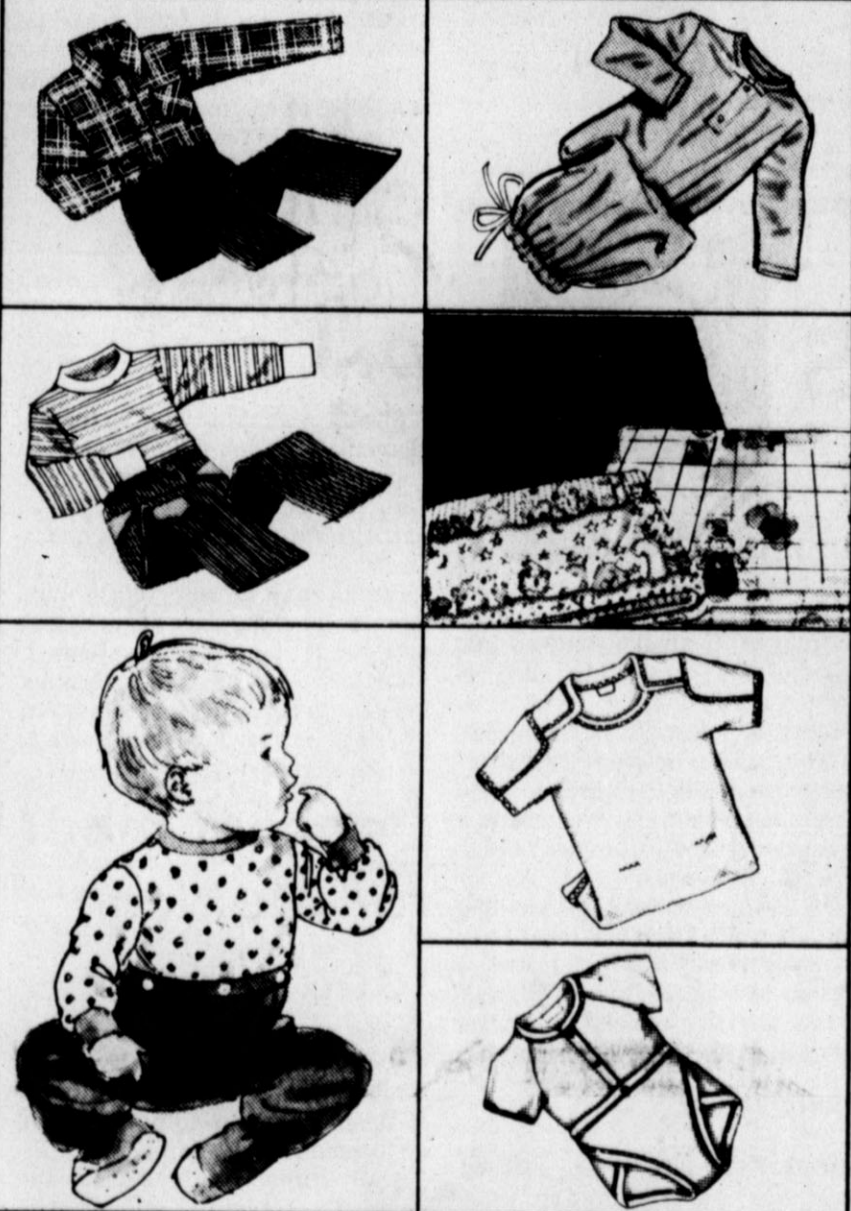

-Do your parents have dentures? Often when chewing is difficult, soups and soft foods, such as pudding, are eaten instead of high protein meals and vitamin-rich fruits and vegetables. Encourage your parents to have regular dental check-ups to avoid problems.

"With just a little assistance, adult children can help their elderly parents maintain a good nutrition and their independence," says Hunt.

La Plata ninth grade team scores 6-0 victory over Stanton

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

A four-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter was the only scoring of the contest as La Plata defeated Stanton 6-0 in a ninth grade football defensive battle Tuesday night at Whiteface Stadium.

The contest was also filled with turnovers, seven of them in all, including four in the first quarter.

The 6-0 victory gave the La Plata ninth graders a final season record of 5-3-1. Stanton finished the season at 3-5.

Stanton received the game-opening kickoff but lost the football in its second offensive play of the game. A fumble was recovered by La Plata at the Stanton 35-yard line.

La Plata moved to the 24-yard line but was later stopped on downs with 13 yards to go from the 27. Three straight passes fell incomplete, leading to the change of possession.

In the fifth play of Stanton's next possession, La Plata defender Stuart Mitts intercepted a pass at the Stanton 38-yard line.

Then in the very next play, a La Plata fumble was recovered by Chris Douglas of Stanton at the Stanton 39.

Stanton was penalized for illegal procedure in its first play. Kelvin Brown then gained 25 yards, but the play was wiped out by a holding penalty.

Stanton was unable to recover from the penalties and was forced to punt.

La Plata drove from its own 13-yard line to near midfield. Keith Brown of Stanton thwarted La Plata's drive when he intercepted a pass at the Stanton 33-yard line.

Neither team managed to score in the second period. La Plata did move from its own 31 to the Stanton 24 in 12 plays but lost the ball on downs.

The third quarter began much the same as the first quarter, except that Stanton recovered a La Plata fumble in La Plata's second play of the half. Gilbert Juarez and Marcos Marquez of Stanton surrounded the loose ball at the La Plata 18-yard line.

Stanton was unable to capitalize on the La Plata turnover. Stanton was way short when attempting a 39-yard field goal.

Midway through the third quarter, Marquez recovered another La Plata fumble, this time at the Stanton 40-yard line.

Three plays later, however, a lateral was fumbled by Stanton, and Roger McCracken of La Plata recovered the fumble at the Stanton 37-yard line.

La Plata needed six plays to move into the end zone, with Rick Alley catching a four-yard pass from Jason Scott for the touchdown. A pass failed for a two-point conversion, and La Plata led 6-0 with 1:24 left in the third quarter.

In the rest of the game, the closest that Stanton could get to the end zone was the La Plata 35-yard line in the last play of the game.

La Plata reached the Stanton 10-yard line in the fourth quarter before losing the ball on a fumble with 4:52 left. Four Stanton players had surrounded a La Plata ball carrier when the fumble occurred.

Quarterback Jason Scott led La Plata in rushing with 103 yards in 27 carries. Scott also completed three of eight passes for 20 yards.

Other ball carriers for La Plata were Kyle Andrews with 55 yards in 20 carries and Jerry Jimenez with 15 yards in five carries.

For Stanton, Keith Brown had 41 yards rushing in 10 carries, and Kelvin Brown totaled 40 yards in seven carries.

Quarterback Pat Mercer attempted 14 passes, completing four of them for 27 yards.

La Plata outgained Stanton 193 yards to 114 yards. La Plata had 16 first downs compared to six for Stanton.

GREG RINGS BELL
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Greg Bell was acclaimed as a rookie star in 1984 for the Buffalo Bills with 1,100 yards gained rushing on 262 attempts.
Bell, at least for that season, quieted the prophets of doom who insisted he was an injury-prone player. Those forecasts were based on his last two seasons at Notre Dame.
A broken ankle put an end to his junior season in the second game. As a senior he got into only four games, being hit both by a severe ankle sprain and tendonitis later on.

Stanton beats La Plata 12-8 in eighth grade grid contest

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

Stanton Junior High School's eighth grade football team broke a seven game losing streak by winning its season finale 12-8 Tuesday night over La Plata.

The defeat for La Plata dropped it to a final season record of 2-7.

Stanton had possession of the ball first and drove from its own 44-yard line to the La Plata 16 before being stopped by the La Plata defense.

Neither team could get its offense rolling the rest of the half until La Plata drove from near midfield to the Stanton six-yard line. A fumble, however, was recovered by Stanton at the seven-yard line.

A 35-yard pass from Robert Cavin to Russell Backus was the big play of the potential scoring drive for La Plata.

Robert Merriam gained eight yards in two plays for Stanton, which then had a third-and-two play. In that third down play, Ron Hathaway broke through the line and won a race along the sidelines to the left for a big 85-yard touchdown run with just 30 seconds remaining in the first half.

A pass attempt for a two-point conversion failed, and the score stayed at 6-0 at halftime.

The third quarter was a scoreless defensive battle.

In the fourth quarter, Stanton defensive player Benny Gonzales knocked the ball away from La Plata quarterback Cavin, and Stanton recovered the fumble.

The fumble recovery took place at the La Plata 26-yard line. Robert Merriam carried the ball four straight times for Stanton, rushing the last 12 yards for a touchdown run with 3:41 left in the game.

A two-point conversion attempt failed, and Stanton's lead remained at 12-0.

Just three plays later, La Plata got on the scoreboard when Brian Wagner caught a pass from Cavin and turned it into a 71-yard scoring effort.

That touchdown was scored by 2:02 left, and La Plata cut further into the Stanton lead when Cavin passed to Tate Smith for a two-point conversion.

La Plata then successfully executed an onside kick, with Brett Confer falling on the ball at the La Plata 49-yard line after a Stanton player touched the ball.

La Plata reached the Stanton 38 for a first down, but three straight passes were incomplete and a run was short of a first down in a fourth-and-ten play.

Stanton then ran out the clock to preserve a victory, 12-8.

Robert Merriam and Ron Hathaway combined to rush for 203 yards for Stanton. Merriam had 110 yards in 22 carries and Hathaway had 93 yards in five carries.

Mason Morgan added 23 yards for Stanton in five rushing attempts.

The Stanton defense sacked La Plata quarterback Robert Cavin five times for losses of 60 yards. La Plata's total offense was 82 yards passing and minus 25 yards rushing.

Cavin's passing stats were five completions in 14 attempts, including two completions to Russell Backus for 63 yards.

La Plata's Brian Wagner had a 50-yard punt in the game.

SAMPSON'S MOVES

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ralph Sampson, the 7-4 star of the Houston Rockets, has no bigger fan than one of his opposing players, the talented Magic Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers, 1985 NBA champions.

"Ralph is different from the other big guys," Johnson said, "he can dribble. They can give the ball to him outside, and he'll make some great moves to get inside and then score with an awesome dunk. That's what makes him so great, the way he takes the ball and makes a fantastic move."

In the 1961-62 National Basketball Association season, five players averaged better than 30 points per game, topped by Wilt Chamberlain's 50.4.

The Miami Dolphins led the National Football League in scoring in 1984 with 513 points. But they made only nine field goals, the fewest in the league.

The first man to run a four-minute mile, Roger Bannister, has speculated that by the year 2010 somebody will run a 3:30 mile.

Abundant Life

BE LESS CRITICAL
By Bob Wear

IT IS FOOLISH to talk about others critically, or in an uncomplimentary way. It is not a constructive action, and is not intended to be. It does not help us, or the person to whom we talk, or the one about whom we talk. To some degree, such talking is always harmful. It is action that may lead to big trouble, and often does.

THE PERSON to whom we speak our criticisms about others usually prefers that we not do it. Many of these people will lose confidence in us, because they know that if we speak critically about others to them we may also speak critically of them to others. Even if they seem to like to hear our criticisms of others, they will probably think less of us for being so.

THERE MAY be some kind of special situation in which it is necessary that we discuss other people, and what they have or have not done. Even in this situation, we must be very discreet and very cautious. We must be honest, and must be doubly sure that we have all relevant information. A recommended guideline is that we give others the benefit of the doubt, until there is no longer any basis for doubt. This does not mean that we are naive, but indicates that we desire to be fair and just.

IT IS WISE, always wise, for us to deliberate before we speak. Most of the time, if the matter concerns other folk, we will not speak. If we do decide to speak, we must take time to consider what should and what should not be said; lest we speak falsely; or in an inexpedient manner; or in some way that will be hurtful to others or perhaps to ourselves.

BOTH THE GOOD and the evil we think and say about others will find ways to affect our lives; the good for our gain, and the evil for our loss.

Pregnant women should be able to continue job tasks

Women who are experiencing a normal pregnancy should be able to perform the same job tasks after pregnancy as before, according to a Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center professor.

Dr. Yondell Masten of the School of Nursing, said her research found that women showed little change in hand strength or reaction time during pregnancy or in the three months following birth.

"With certain precautions, women should be able to continue the same tasks involving the hands and arms as before pregnancy," she said.

"Precautions should be taken to avoid fatigue due to the added workload of pregnancy; to avoid back strain due to the extra load of pregnancy on the spine and to avoid rapid or frequent movement of the bulky pregnant body, which could lead to falls due to the shift in center of gravity."

Masten's research was done in fulfillment of her doctoral degree in industrial engineering with a major in ergonomics.

"Ergonomics is the study of people at work," she said. "The point is to look at how things can be adapted to fit people, rather than people adapting to fit the work station."

Masten found that women showed slight declines in strength in the first and third trimesters, with restoration in the second and fourth trimesters. Masten uses the three months following birth as the fourth trimester.

Masten said reaction times were shortest during the third and fourth trimesters and longest during the second.

"We found that the women tested also made fewer mistakes on the tests during the second trimester and made the most errors during the third trimester," she said.

Masten said during the second trimester most women may be more patient because they have passed the physically sick period of their pregnancy and have not yet become uncomfortable.

"During the third trimester they are big and tired and impatient," Masten said. "The women feel like they have been pregnant forever and they aren't sleeping well."

The fourth trimester is also an impatient period, Masten said. This is the time when the woman's body is reversing the changes that occurred during pregnancy.

"Most women are extremely tired and impatient during this three-month period," she said. "They are trying to readjust to their bodies and adapt to having a child making demands on her time."

The principality of Liechtenstein was created in 1719.

In seventh grade football game

Stanton edges La Plata 14-12

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

Jermaine Williams scored two touchdowns with runs of more than 50 yards each in the first quarter to help lead the Stanton seventh grade football team to a 14-12 victory over La Plata Tuesday at Whiteface Stadium.

Williams' first touchdown came in a punt return for 55 yards with 3:58 left in the first period.

Stanton held an 8-0 lead after Jose Nava ran for a two-point conversion.

La Plata closed the gap to 8-6 when Zack Farr caught a 26-yard pass from Cody Page with 1:35 left in the first quarter. A rushing attempt for a two-point conversion failed.

Jermaine Williams then gave Stanton a 14-0 lead with a 58-yard touchdown run in the third play of Stanton's next possession.

The touchdown was scored with just one second left on the first quarter clock. A two-point conversion attempt failed following the touchdown.

Late in the first half, La Plata blocked a Stanton punt to gain possession of the ball at the Stanton 32-yard line.

Page carried for a gain of seven yards and then a gain of three yards. In the next play, Stanton was called for a facemask penalty in a play in which Page carried again.

That gave La Plata a first down at the 17-yard line.

Christopher Tardy rushed 17 yards for a touchdown in La Plata's next play, with 48 seconds left in the half. La Plata attempted to tie up the game at 14-14 but a two-point conversion rushing attempt failed.

Neither team scored in the second half, and Stanton held on for its 14-12 victory.

In the third quarter, with three minutes left, Blake Buckley of La Plata intercepted a pass at the Stanton 48-yard line.

La Plata later was faced with a fourth down and five yards to go, but was stopped half a yard short of a first down at the Stanton 26.

Stanton maintained possession of the ball until there were two and a half minutes left in the game. Stanton had a fourth-and-seven play but could get only three yards against La Plata and gave up the ball on downs, at the La Plata eight-yard line.

Three plays later, La Plata tried a halfback pass play. The ball was just tipped away from Farr by a Stanton defender.

If the pass had been caught, La Plata would have moved into Stanton territory in the play.

Stephen Banner of Stanton thwarted La Plata's attempt to move in for a late touchdown when he intercepted a pass at the Stanton 35-yard line.

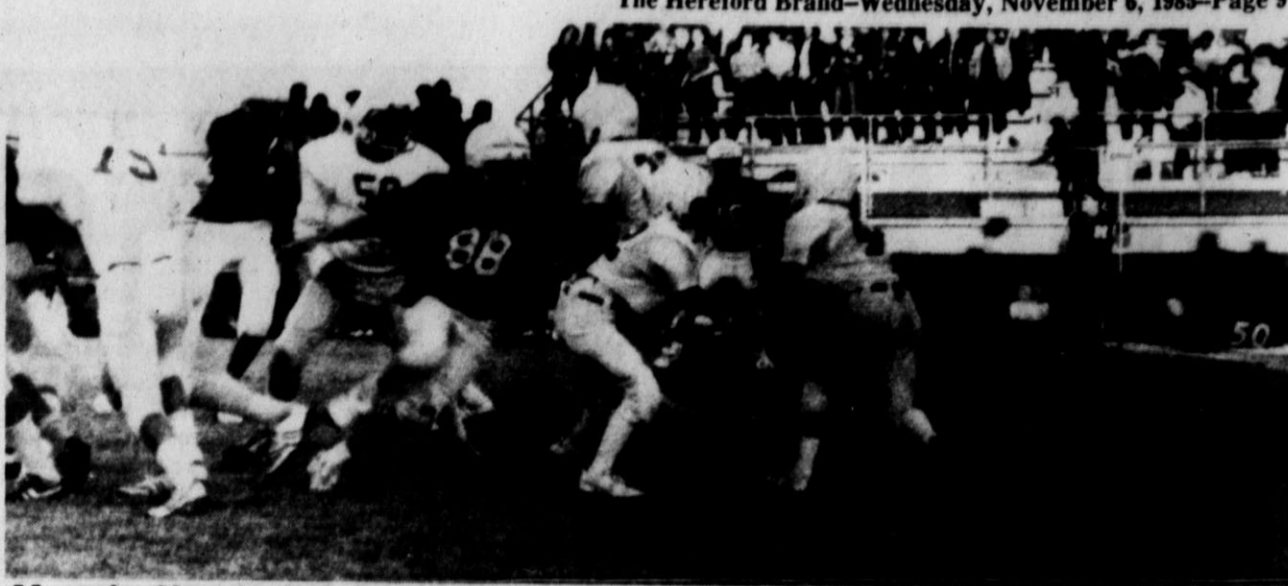

Jermaine Williams led Stanton with 123 yards rushing in 16 attempts. The rest of the Stanton offense totaled 38 yards, including 18 yards by Jose Nava and 10 yards by Wade Watson.

Stanton had no passing yardage in the contest.

La Plata's total offense was 162 yards, including 136 yards rushing. Ball carriers for La Plata included Christopher Tardy with 89 yards in 11 carries and T.J. Head with 34 yards in five carries.

La Plata's touchdown pass was its only pass completion of the game.

Stanton finished the season with a 2-1 record. La Plata was 0-3-1, including two games played on the same day in which the team was split into two squads.

Oil patch is setting for new comic adventure

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — With the oil patch of Texas as its setting and the concept of sleep as its storyline, Independent Comics of Midland has introduced a new adventure to an old industry.

"The Epsilon Wave" is a comic created by Carl Knappe and Tom Floyd. It rolled off the Big Spring Herald press and hit the newsstands last September.

"The Epsilon Wave" is unlike the old style of comics where super heroes live in cities and save the world. Instead, the characters are normal people who by freak accidents gain extraordinary powers and undergo trials and tribulations because of the powers.

The story originates in Jacksboro, northwest of Dallas, and by the seventh issue will move to West Texas.

"You don't have to take over the world from New York," said Carl Knappe of Midland, president of the company. He also is editor of "The Epsilon Wave" and creator and writer of "Sea Dragon," the comics secondary story.

"In 'The Epsilon Wave,' the character Bombardier is the villain with the character Nightmare, Arthur Williams alter ego that appears from his sleep, as the main hero. It's Nightmare's duty to stop Bombardier from starting fires in the oil patch and causing oilfield deaths.

Due to an accident while serving on the underwater demolition team in the Navy, the character Walter Koch becomes Sea Dragon. "He is a normal person that has normal emotions and reacts in a normal way," Knappe said about the aquatic human.

Both Knappe and Floyd are Vietnam vets, and the characters of Arthur Williams and Walter Koch were based on their experiences there.

Floyd and Knappe began planning the comic book in February.

Floyd, of Odessa, is vice president of company, artist of Sea Dragon, and creator of "The Epsilon Wave."

Jonni Parker of Midland is colorist.
