PIGUA Spokesmen Warn Resources Committee

Unregulated Gas Means National Problem

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

A delegation of farmers from the Hereford area joined other members of the Plains Irrigation Gas Users Association in Austin Tuesday in an appeal to state legislators to place natural gas for irrigation purposes under the Public Utilities Commission.

THE AREA spokesmen appeared before Senator Max Sherman's Natural Resources Committee, where they warned that unregulated prices for natural gas used for irrigation in West Texas will become a national problem, unless the legislature acts quickly.

Jay Boston of Hereford, a director of the PIGUA testified that the organization "is in opposition to 100 per cent pass-through of fuel costs to consumers," adding, "that thing is totally wrong."

Bruce Rigler of Plainview, another PIGUA director, explained that organization members are unhappy with the treatment they have received at the hands of the Texas Railroad Commission concerning their problem of high gas rates for irrigation.

"We tried several years ago to get under the Railroad Commission and didn't get a very good reception," said Rigler. "The Railroad Commission is too oil and gas industry oriented. The Public Utilities Commission is more consumer oriented and we feel our agricultural production is much closer to consumers than to oil and gas production," he added.

T.C. MEASLES of Tullia, PIGUA president, warned that an important source of cattle, food and fiber production would be virtually eliminated without irrigation, and pointed out that the association "proved to the satisfaction of the Federal Power Commission that there is no alternative fuel on the High Plains and that if we cannot have an adequate supply of natural gas for irrigation, we simply cannot produce crops."

Measles explained that natural gas used for irrigation is unregulated, and claimed that El Paso Natural Gas Co. is receiving more than a fair rate of return on its investment.

"The supplier reported earnings of $12 million plus during the first six months of 1975 and $21 million plus earnings in the first six months of 1976," Measles said.

"Just for the record, production costs on the farm exceeded the price we are receiving from our commodities in the year 1976," he added.

CARL KING, of Dimmitt, an association director and president of the Texas Corn Growers Association told the Resources Committee, "We must get irrigation gas under some type of regulation...if you break the economy of the farmer, you break the economy of the nation."

Three chartered buses took Hereford farmers to the Austin hearings, and all four Deaf Smith County commissioners flew to Austin for the one-day session.

Precinct 3 Commissioner Bruce Coleman reported early this morning that he felt the PIGUA representatives "got a very good reception" from the Natural Resources Committee.

"THE COMMITTEE members were interested and attentive, and their response was good. I noticed there were quite a number of people from related agencies present at the hearings who were also quite interested, and I feel that we may see a favorable response from the session," Coleman commented.

The commissioner pointed out that Senator Sherman commended the irrigation organization for its clear representation of facts concerning the issue, and added that it was one of the best organized and presented groups he has taken testimony from.

Plagued Gas Users

Members of the Plains Irrigation Gas Users Association executive committee, which sponsored representatives at an Austin hearing Tuesday, are shown discussing the natural gas price problems with Texas Attorney General John Hill, far right. He was in Hereford last week to meet

City Slips

NEW YORK (AP) - This year's city Christmas tree in an apt symbol of New York City's finances - as unbalanced as the city budget and as lean as its purse.

"Don't judge the scrawny thing until we've patched it back together," pleaded a Parks Department spokesman after the tree was installed across from City Hall.

"Some extra branches will be drilled in." Previous trees have measured up to 60 feet tall and 30 feet wide and have cost about $2,350. This year's is 46 feet tall and 20 feet wide and cost $950.

The nursery that provided the tree explained that the city must cut down on the size for economic reasons.

Portillo To Take Office

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Jose Lopez Portillo takes office today as president of an economically shaky Mexico in ceremonies attended by Rosalynn Carter, Henry A. Kissinger and dignitaries from 101 other nations.

Lopez Portillo receives the presidential sash in the National Auditorium from President Luis Echeverria, whose six-year term brought a promise of future oil riches and the present reality of heavy foreign debt, high unemployment, inflation, a devalued peso and a flight of capital abroad.

Blacks Equalized With Whites

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) - A dissenting judge says every affirmative action program in New Jersey is threatened by a state Supreme Court ruling that blacks cannot be given job preference over whites because of past discrimination.

The court, by a 6 to 1 vote Tuesday, threw out an order by a state civil rights agency that would have compelled the town of Montclair to hire more black policemen and firemen to correct racial imbalance.

A member of the state attorney general's staff said an appeal of Tuesday's decision to the federal courts was not expected.

Cities More Sophisticated

DENVER (AP) - A proposal to decriminalize drugs, winning strong support from the National League of Cities, reflects the "greater sophistication of the cities in dealing with tough issues," says the League's first incoming woman president.

Councilwoman Phyllis Lamphere of Seattle was expected to be elected today as president of the nation's largest group of city officials. Throughout its 52-year history, the League has always chosen male mayors as its presidents. She was to succeed Hans Tanzler, mayor of Jacksonville, Fla.

Directory Assistance Telephone Calls Change To 1+411 Dec. 18

By BOBBY TEMPLETON
Brand News Editor

Hereford residents will join their country cousins as of Dec. 18 when they also must dial 1 plus 411 for directory assistance telephone calls according to Mike Patrick, local manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

He said Tuesday that a move by operators to Amarillo on that date and equipment modifications over a year's period necessitate the changing of the directory assistance calling procedure.

"THIS CHANGE is a result of centralizing our operator duties to improve service and efficiency," Patrick said.

United Way Total At $68,618

The United Way campaign total reached $68,618 this week, it was announced Wednesday morning during a UW directors meeting at Dickie's Restaurant. With a goal of $102,274, the current total represents just 67 per cent of the budget.

Lynton Allred, UW president, announced that the formal drive had ended but more than 100 prospect cards are still out. He added, however, that the

The new procedure simply involves calling much like customers due presently for all long distance calls. To direct dial, a person dials 1 plus the area code and then the number. Now directory assistance calls involve dialing 1 and then 411. Previously, residents just dialed the 411.

The Bell manager said that callers here have been talking with Amarillo information operators since late 1975 when they were transferred from Hereford to Amarillo. Of course, the new procedure to reach operators will continue to alert Amarillo operators.

The fact that all local operators will be transferred to Amarillo on Dec. 18 is just a coincidental arrangement with the change in directory assistance dialing.

"It is not a prime reason for the change," Patrick emphasized.

He noted that a majority of the customers seeking information about an unknown telephone number call directory assistance rather than using the most accessible source--the telephone book.

"OR COURSE, IF you need a number, chances are it will be in the telephone directory," he said. "Studies have shown that 80 per cent of calls to directory assistance are for numbers already in the phone book."

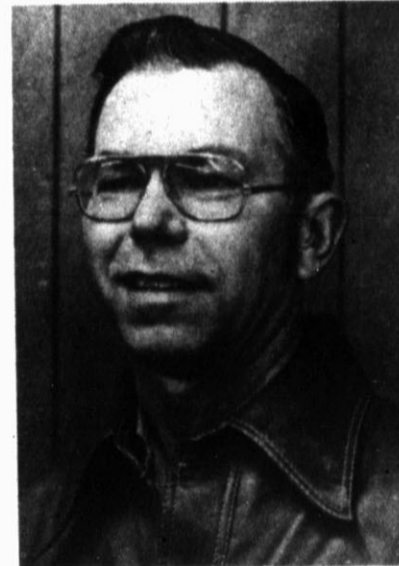

If a person dials simply the old 411, he or she is likely to get a recorded message asking that the new procedure be followed.

The change is part of an extended program by the company to improve service in this area. Western Electric, Bell's Supply and equipment subsidiary, has been making equipment changes during the past year here and in Amarillo.

"We are making this change only out of necessity and we're doing everything possible to minimize any inconvenience to our customers," Patrick added.

Weather Modification Hearings Postponed

AUSTIN--J.M. Rose, executive director of the Texas Water Development Board announced Tuesday the postponement of two adjudicative hearings on applications for permits to engage in weather modification and control operations in parts of the Texas High Plains area.

THE HEARINGS were scheduled for Monday, Dec. 6 in Morton.

Rose said the hearings were postponed until after Feb. 15 to give the legislature, which convenes in January, an opportunity to consider legislation providing for a public vote on weather modification activities, and to give opponents of the application time to engage legal counsel.

Dirks Claims Season Prize

Darrell Dirks of 211 Aspen in Hereford is $100 richer today by virtue of his winning first prize in the Brand's Season Football Contest.

Dirks claimed the first place money with a record of 89 misses through the 13-week-long contest.

Joyce Shipp, 319 Stadium Drive, finished second to win the $35 second prize. Shipp missed 92 games on the year.

Mrs. Melvin Kalika and Mal Manchee shared third place by missing 93 games each. They will split the third place money of $15.

Four persons missed 94 games in the contest to finish just out of the money. Included in that group are Ann Lueb, Dickie Sims, Royce Coatney, and Joe Williamson.

Others who finished within ten of the winner grouped by number missed were: 95--Frank Cogdel!

96--J.D. Bryant, W.H. Kitchens

97--Ken Wieck, David Coakley

98--David Smalts, Linda Jo Ramaekers, Wanda Stanley, Lani Walterscheid, Juana Valdez.

Some 240 persons entered the weekly contests at one time or another during the season, and 118 ended up eligible for the season prize by entering at least 12 weeks.

Last year 111 persons stuck it out for at least 12 weeks, with Ken Wieck emerging the big money winner.

★★ Letters To Santa Taken ★★

Santa Claus telephoned from his North Pole home this week asking that the Hereford Brand serve as his letter collection agency in the Hereford area.

Santa has asked the newspaper to collect all "Letters To Santa Claus" from children in the area who are asking for Christmas presents.

All letters received will be published in the Brand before Christmas and then quickly forwarded to Santa at the North Pole so that he may process the orders.

Santa also made a special request that all children begin writing their letters very soon so that he will have time to build all the toys necessary to deliver to the children Christmas Eve night when he makes his rounds in his sleigh.

All "Letters To Santa" should be mailed to:

Pardons Boards Grants Gilmore's Wish For Firing Squad Execution

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Gary Mark Gilmore, his death wish granted by the state pardons board, could face a firing squad within days of his 36th birthday Saturday, barring appeals by death peanly opponents who ignored his demand to "butt out."

Gilmore was to appear before 4th District Judge J. Robert Bullock in Provo today to have a new date set for the execution by five anonymous volunteers.

"Thank you, sir," the handcuffed and shackled prisoner whispered on Tuesday after board chairman George Latimer announced a 2 to 1 decision affirming a jury's order that Gilmore be put to death for killing a motel clerk during a robbery.

"I have simply accepted the sentence that was given to me," he had told the board during a locally televised public hearing at the Utah State Prison. "I've accepted sentences all my life."

Earlier, Gilmore, appearing healthy and alert despite an 11-day fast, had ridiculed witnesses who spoke against the death penalty, and snapped at reporters who crowded into the tiny hearing room.

State officials said the execution - which would be the first in the United States since June 2, 1967 - must come by Monday to avoid conflict with a state law. That law requires that death sentences be carried out 60 days after initial sentencing, which in Gilmore's case was on Oct. 7.

He chose the firing squad over hanging and was to have been executed on Nov. 15. But retiring Gov. Calvin L. Rampton issued an unwanted stay until the pardons board reviewed the case. Gilmore labeled Rampton a "moral coward" for that delay.

After the hearing - which Gilmore contemptuously described as "much ado about nothing" - several individuals and groups said they planned appeals that could delay the execution.

Tom Jones, an attorney whom Gilmore fired last week, filed notice of appeal to the Utah Supreme Court, which turned down a previous appeal by two other court-appointed attorneys.

Lawyers for the state chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union ACLU and lawyers for other Death Row inmates indicated they too would go to court in efforts to stay the execution.

"I want all these people...to just butt out," Gilmore, wearing a maximum-security white uniform and surrounded by five guards, said at the hearing.

Natural Gas Group Convenes

HOUSTON (AP) - An industry group dedicated to increasing the nation's natural gas supplies met today to develop its 1975 strategy.

It was the first formal annual meeting of the Natural Gas Supply Committee that was formed in the early 1960s to seek and end of federal control of wellhead prices of natural gas committed to interstate markets.

A bill that would have decontrolled the wellhead prices of newly discovered gas was approved in a 205-201 House vote this year.

But the committee chairman, E.L. Williamson of Louisiana Land & Exploration Co., said that progress made justifies a full-fledged annual meeting.

"Deregulation bill was passed in the Senate and narrowly failed in the House," Williamson said.

"This is my life and my death. It's been sanctioned by the courts...and I accept that."

Gilmore, on a hunger strike since Nov. 19, was noticeably thinner than when he appeared before the state Supreme Court on Nov. 10 to plead for a speedy execution.

He has refused to eat until he is allowed to talk with his girl friend, Nicole Barrett, 20, who was admitted to a state mental hospital at her mother's request following an overdose of drugs. She and Gilmore each took sleeping pills in what authorities said was an apparent suicide pact.

company was making the moves to provide efficient services and thereby experience indirect savings. It is easier for Bell to schedule its work force in Amarillo.

It is a puzzling situation to Patrick that the public would not welcome the Bell request for charging for information calls, a matter now pending before the Texas Public Utilities Commission (PUC). The proposal initially asked that the company be allowed to charge 10 cents per call after five information calls were made.

"This would cut back on the number of needless information calls being made," Patrick said. "It has been proven that fewer persons call (dial information) for numbers if they had to pay for them."

He explained that the public has been greatly concerned over what he considers a minor portion of the phone rate increase request. "It would save money for everyone. I think the company is trying to be fair."

Paternity Suits

Planned Soon

AUSTIN (AP) - Local welfare officials said Tuesday that 24 paternity suits will be filed today in an effort to make fathers of welfare children pay for their support.

The civil cases are the first of about 3,000 potential paternity cases being investigated in the 10-county Austin area, officials said.

Welfare officials said that in more than 100 local cases fathers already voluntarily agreed to pay court-ordered child support without being sued by the welfare agency. As a result the welfare grant was either reduced or eliminated in every case.

John Migl, supervising attorney for regional operations, said there have been 863 such voluntary legitimizations and 199 paternity suits filed on a statewide basis.

Migl said the suits are based on a section of the Social Security Act which went into effect last year that requires an application for Aid to Families of Dependent Children AFDC to name the father of her children and assist authorities in locating him if child support is not already received.

"The basic idea is to shift the responsibility for child support from the taxpayers to the parents," said State Welfare Commissioner Raymond Vowell. "Fully half of the 95,000 AFDC cases in Texas are women with children who have been deserted. Desertion is the primary cause of their public dependency."

AUSTIN (AP) - Legislators may be hearing soon from a new organization set up to oppose insurance penalties for speeding between 55 and 70 miles per hour.

Association, Texas Press Association, National Newspaper Association, Panhandle and West Texas Press Associations. Management: O.G. Nilman, president and publisher; Lynn Bransden, assistant publisher and advertising manager; Bobby Tompkins, news editor; Altha McIver, accounting; Charlene Brownlow, circulation.

It's a matter of human rights says Billy Jack Johnson of Fredericksburg, secretary-treasurer of the National Licensed Drivers Association, Inc.

Johnson told a news conference Tuesday that truck drivers are caught between the 55 mph speed limit and employers' expectations of efficiency.

But when a driver racks up speeding tickets, his employer is charged higher rates for car and truck insurance. Drivers get fired so employers can reduce their insurance bills, Johnson said.

Johnson, 49, said he lost his job as a truck driver for American Petrofina when the company found out he had received seven speeding tickets in the 2½ years since 55 mph limits took effect.

Was that the only reason he was fired?

"That's a big 10-4," said Johnson.

He remains without work, he said. "Truck drivers are a dime a dozen," Johnson said.

Johnson said the organization has 300 members who pay $3 a year in dues.

The 1975 legislature rejected a bill prohibiting insurance surcharges for speeding tickets between 55 and 70 mph.

Lynn Lauderback, a Junior at Texas Tech University, was recently initiated into the Zeta Sigma Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, which is a Professional Fraternity for men interested in Music.

Founded in 1898, it is one of America's oldest college-based Professional Organizations and is the largest in terms of active chapters on college and university campuses. Lauderback was also elected as the secretary treasurer of his pledge class.

He is involved in many other activities such as being a member of the Texas Tech Red Raider Marching Band, a member of Phi Eta Sigma, student representative of Coleman Hall to the Residence Halls Association, and a Deans Honor Roll student since being at Texas Tech. He is majoring in accounting and management in the School of Business.

Lauderback graduated from Hereford High School in 1974 and was a member of the Fighting Whiteface Football team and Band.

Limas Back From NATO Exercises

Marine Corporal Alfonso V. Limas, son of Mrs. Mary Limas of 307 Ave. D, Hereford, recently returned from participation in the maritime portion of the major NATO exercises "Autumn Forge '76".

He is serving as a member of Regimental Landing Team-8, homebased in Camp Lejeune, N.C.

"Autumn Forge" is the title of the annual training exercises conducted jointly by nine members of the NATO Alliance.

His unit took part in two major events during the deployment: "Operation Team Work '76" and "Operation Bonded Item".

"Team Work '76" involved fleet operations in the North Atlantic Ocean, the English Channel and the Baltic Sea and included a major amphibious landing in Norway.

"Bonded Item" was a coordinated land, sea and air operation which included a major amphibious landing in Denmark.

Admiral Isaac C. Kidd, Jr., USN, the Supreme Allied Commander Atlantic, coordinated the overall conduct of the exercises and Vice Admiral John J. Shanahan, USN, Commander of the Atlantic Striking Fleet, was the tactical commander of all NATO naval forces.

The primary objective of the exercises was to test and improve the combat preparedness of the allied forces for the defense of Western Europe. They were also designed to evaluate NATO's rapid reinforcement capabilities; to test command and control procedures for coordination of NATO's sea, land and air forces; and to provide unified, coordinated training for the national forces within the European Command.

He joined the Marine Corps in June 1974.

SURVIVAL BY WIT
WASHINGTON (AP) — The crow, whose wit and adaptability have helped it survive on its own until now, has been made a protected species, according to the National Geographic Society.

The United States Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife has limited crow hunting to 124 days a year, and the New York state legislature has declared the bird a protected species, the Society said.

Crow hunters are skeptical about the protection. Crows eat crops and the eggs and young of other birds. But crows are useful scavengers, and help to control the grasshopper, beetle and moth populations.

They also have an amazing ability to adjust to their environment. Southern California crows seem to know when to fly to hot dog stands and snack bars to get to the leftovers before the cleanup crews, reports one ornithologist. A wild crow in Charlottesville, Va., followed the milkman and pried the cap off the bottles to sip the milk after he left them on the porch.

UNDERSTANDING MENTAL HEALTH Hereford Family Services Center

In any crisis or emergency situation, "psychological first aid" may be the most important service given the victim.

So says Dr. Calvin Frederick, Chief of the Mental Disaster Assistance Section of the National Institute of Mental Health.

It doesn't matter what kind of disaster has struck—a hurricane, flood, or earthquake—the principles of psychological first aid are the same. "Big or small, if they affect people they must be dealt with as promptly and as knowledgeable as possible, and advance training and study are vital," Dr. Frederick believes.

In a recent book, Health in Action, Dr. Frederick lists some of the general procedures for use by crisis workers. Above everything, he says, be calm. A frightened or negative reaction by the worker can create panic on the patient's part.

Then provide honest reassurance by giving factual supportive information. If a person who may be seriously injured asks the extent of his injuries, it is better to say "I don't know for sure" than it is to make a false statement. This can be combined with the words, "We're going to have you taken care of," which will relieve the victim's anxiety.

Next, the NIMH specialist suggests engaging the victim in conversation if he is able to talk, thus reducing tension and helping focus his thoughts away from an injury.

The crisis helper must form a action plan, even if it is tentative. For example, inform the victim that you are trying to arrange to have him taken to a hospital, or that a doctor will see him soon—whatever appears probable. The patient will realize that something tangible is being done for him.

Then, Dr. Frederick suggests, try to contact friends or relatives and mobilize the individual's own resources—engage his strengths as quickly as possible.

Do not neglect providing lots of reassurance, and be sure to give advice and guidance. Thoughtful, appropriate advice to persons in crisis situations can be a tool to move them overcoming the disaster.

Finally, says Dr. Frederick, promote activity, because it helps reduce anxiety and panic and motivates an individual away from depressed feelings. Even encouraging the person to help someone else is a useful device, providing he is physically capable of it.

Regional Comptroller Office Gets Back Tax

Comptroller Bob Bullock said that his Amarillo Enforcement Office collected $706,390 in taxes during the first two months of the current fiscal year (September and October). Audits by the office yielded $106,343 in additional taxes owed the states.

Bullock said the office conducted 70 audits in September and October, yielding an average $130 in additional taxes owed the state per audit hour.

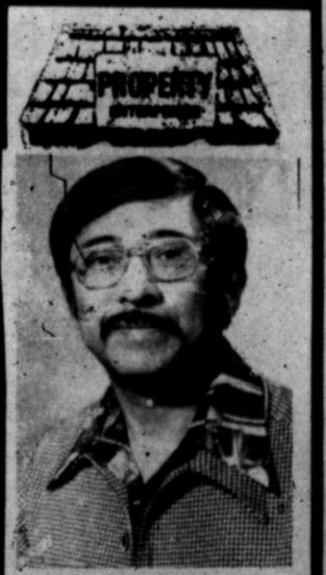

"I'd say that that's a pretty good return on our investment," said Bullock. "These audits produce money that otherwise would have gone uncollected if we hadn't dug it out."

Bullock emphasized that the collections by his Amarillo office are in addition to the state taxes routinely paid directly to Austin by Amarillo-area taxpayers.

The Comptroller's 36 district offices collected a total of $9,777,919 in taxes for the two months and uncovered through audits $5,112,000 in additional taxes owed the state.

The Amarillo office, headed by Bill Teague, is located in Suite 101, 1309 W. 8th Avenue, and is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. The telephone number is 372-8156.

Give Him A Choice

Yule Touches

DEAR ANN: My husband quit a wonderful job to open up a radio and TV repair shop in our basement. His "new life" is making a nervous wreck out of me.

There's a big neon sign over our front porch that says "TV AND RADIOS REPAIRED CHEAP." Our home, which was once beautiful, looks like a garage. He painted the house red to attract attention. Our 22-year-old daughter moved out.

I have no privacy. The phone rings constantly. People come and go at all hours. The fuses blow out all over the place because of his equipment. I'm expected to carry him lunch and snacks like a servant.

His boss telephoned him three times this month and asked him to come back. He says, "No, I like being self-employed."

In the meantime he isn't making a living. His prices are too low and his expenses and helpers eat up all the profit.

I can't afford a nervous breakdown. What can I do?— On The Verge.

DEAR ANN: You can give him a choice. Either he goes back to his job or he can have the squirrel cage to himself. Give him ten days to make up his mind— before you lose yours.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 17-year-old guy who has asked at least 50 people if they know of a solution to my problem. No one does. You are my last hope.

Is there any way to prevent baldness? My hair is getting awfully thin and I just hate to see it go. My father was completely bald at an early age and I'm afraid I'm going to be, too.

What causes baldness? Can anything be done to prevent it? An answer from you would be greatly appreciated by me and thousands of other guys who read your column.— South Carolina Blues.

DEAR S.C.: Some hair loss is temporary, if it is caused by illness or anxiety. But usually baldness that comes on gradually, and begins at an early age, is hereditary and permanent.

For centuries men have tried everything from herbal ointment to sheep dung. Nothing works— so save your money. If you become deeply depressed, you might consider transplants. But it is an expensive, painful, time-consuming procedure and doesn't always come out satisfactorily.

Some women think baldies are sexy— so if you can psych yourself out and learn to like your shining dome, it would be the best solution of all.

DEAR ANN: I'm 52 (a widow since 1966), keeping steady company with a bachelor, 65. Clyde lives with his maiden sister and an uncle who is 74. The three of them inherited quite a lot of money and own the house together.

I want to get married but Clyde says he can't marry me until his sister passes on because he promised his mother he would look after her.

I'm afraid if I stop seeing him, I'll be lonely. Yet I've passed up some interesting opportunities because of him. What should I do?—Honolulu

DEAR HON: Fifty-two is no age to be sitting around writing for a man's sister to die. If Clyde wanted to marry you he could still "look after" his sister.

If his sister died, he'd probably tell you he must "look after" his uncle. Accept some of those other opportunities.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Annual Holiday Dinner Planned

Members of Aggies Mothers Club met Monday for a luncheon at Caison Steak House. The topic of discussion concerned their annual holiday dinner.

The annual event, which is held for the students of this area attending Texas A&M University, is scheduled for 7 p.m. Jan. 3 at the Baptist Fellowship Hall.

Also, invited to the dinner, are senior students at Hereford High School who have expressed a desire to attend the university next fall. This is a family affair and students, their families and guests are urged to attend the dinner.

A report on the club's bake sale held recently was given and termed successful. Club members wish to extend thanks to the public for the good response.

The next meeting was scheduled at noon Jan. 31 at the Caison Steak House.

Members present included Mmes. A.L. Hollingsworth, Werner Koelzer, Thurman

Atchely, J.J. Durham, Austin Rose Jr., R.W. Eades.

Also, W.L. Hardin, Bob Hicks, Henry Kindsfater, Helrey Aven, J. Frank Ford Jr. and Eugene Hendon.

Courtesy Honors Elaine Frische

A miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Miss Elaine Frische, bride-elect of Bill Martin, was held Sunday afternoon at Dawn Community Center.

Miss Frische and Martin will exchange nuptial vows Saturday in St. Mary's Catholic Church at Umbarger.

The colors of yellow and burgundy were depicted in a floral centerpiece on the serving table, which was draped by white lace over a burgundy tablecloth. Spiced tea and coffee were poured from silver carafes while cake, nuts and mints were served with silver appointments.

Hostesses were Mmes. Galen Reinart, James Skarke, R.D. Friemel, Don Edleman, Eugene Hendon, Cliff Skiles, Joe Grotgut, Galen Friemel, Sidney Kerr, Johnny B. Caraway, James Higgins and W.R. Thurber.

Fashion designers are often known for innovative or unusual construction techniques such as top stitched hems, double hems or zigzagged raw edges. Today's home sewer should feel free to experiment with various techniques, choosing those right for the fabric, garment design, fashion look desired and available time and skills. Mrs. Becky Culp, area clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says.

HD Club Schedules Style Show

A Christmas Holiday Style Show, sponsored by members of the Palo Duro Home Demonstration Club, is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Sugarland Mall.

The Pants Cage and The Treehouse will furnish new seasonal clothes. Tickets, which may be purchased at either store or at the door, will be $1.25 for adults and $.75 for children.

Among 14-year-old boys in 1890, 23 were reported to be married, one divorced and none widowed, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

A Helping Hand

Benny Evans, one of the teachers at Hereford Day Care Center, is shown lending a hand to one of the students during playtime. The public is cordially invited to attend open house at the Center from 2-5 p.m. Sunday and become acquainted with the facilities. Bettie Roberts, executive director, stated that there is currently openings for children 18 months and older and anyone interested is asked to contact the Center at 364-1293.

Golden goats Luxury is cashmere's lure

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK — (NEA) — You want good cashmere? Then get friendly with the cashmere goats in Mongolia and China and forget about those walking around Iran.

According to Arthur Dery, head of Dalton of America, the sportswear firm from Willoughby, Ohio, "Iranian cashmere is much coarser. Most of the cashmere on the market today, in fact, is of such poor quality, if I had to resort to it, I wouldn't be in the cashmere business."

But Dery is in the "cashmere business" and has been for the past 25 years. Only he insists, he said in a phone interview, on the best for the sweaters he offers America's women, along with his other conservatively styled merchandise.

Those willing to pay roughly $95 per top are investing in something that feels good, doesn't crease and, chances are, will die only of boredom.

On Dery's part, the price reflects the scarcity of the product and the headaches and processes involved in marketing it.

For starters, good cashmere costs $25 per pound. "But you only get 35 per cent pure cashmere after the guard hair is removed."

Then the hairs are sorted according to color — brown here, white there — cleaned and spun into yarn, after which there are still 21 more steps involved to produce a pretty turtleneck.

"Our cashmere is also two-ply, which means you take two strands instead of one, twist them together and then knit. It's sturdier, more luxurious and the more you clean it, the better it looks."

The Chinese apparently know all this because "they aren't breeding that many goats so they can hold up the price on good cashmere. I think they're playing a lot of politics with it."

Still, the animals themselves were active enough for Dery's designers to create 16 different sweater styles this year, in 14 colors. Among them, gray, beige and white "which is still very strong because you can wear it with everything."

Of course, 25 years ago, white cashmere was unheard of. "I kept asking the suppliers, why can't you make it without these black hairs, and they said it's impossible. But people said it's impossible to go to the moon and we're on the moon now."

Chinese water torture won't get him to tell how it's done, but "if you spend more money and take out the imperfections, you get white cashmere." A little bleaching helps, too.

Mongolia and China also produce nice, hairy camels, for the camel hair "which is one step down from cashmere as far as luxury fabric is concerned," Dery said. But camel hair has its irritating side, too.

"It's so expensive today, we've been mixing 65 per cent camel hair with 35 per cent fine wool. You see, a yard of camel hair eight months ago was $8.40; now it's up to $11.60."

And Dery doesn't think any camel is worth those kind of jumps. Next year, he'll be investigating other fabric in place of it.

But as far as cashmere goes, we're not to worry. He acknowledges its position in our classic-conscious times. In fact, he's planning to stretch those cashmere sweaters into dresses for those who want to feel good all over.

Tonight's Film Aimed At Coeds

In a special effort to entice local young women to participate in the 1977 Miss Hereford Pageant, films of last year's production will be shown at 8:15 p.m. tonight in the high school library. All eligible coeds who have considered the prospect of being a pageant contestant are encouraged to attend, free of obligation.

The chairman of pageant entries, Sarah Clark, will be present to sign contracts with interested entrants and answer questions concerning the pageant.

The new Miss Hereford, to be crowned on March 12, will receive a $500 scholarship and will compete at the Miss Texas Pageant at Fort Worth next summer. She will be invited to appear at numerous prestigious functions in the community and the surrounding area.

A $300 scholarship is designated for the first runner-up in the local contest, with a $100 school grant set aside for the young woman placing third. The talent winner in the Miss Hereford division can expect a $50 scholarship.

To qualify, a contestant must never have been married and must be between the ages of 17 and 28 as of Labor Day. Applications are available through the Chamber of Commerce office and individual women must submit their own names as entries.

Wynelle Robinson will serve as director of the upcoming pageant, which is staged yearly by the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division. She asked that local women who are acquainted with prospective contestants, encourage these local youth to compete in this pageant.

"Participation in a pageant provides the entrant with valuable experience in developing poise, talent and self-confidence. There are many rewarding aspects of being a pageant contestant, regardless of who receives the Miss Hereford title," stated Mrs. Robinson.

She stressed that although talent is the main criteria considered by the pageant judges, no entrant has to be trained in any specific field. She pointed out that entrants in previous pageants often did not realize they possessed a quality of talent, either trained or potential, until they entered the contest.

Mrs. Robinson also cited the example that in almost every national Miss America Pageant, there have been state winners who have presented dramatic readings or comedy monologues as their talent presentations before a panel of nationally-known judges.

Talent, personality, poise and beauty are the major requirements. Each contestant will be interviewed by the judges in private session and on stage during the actual pageant. Other categories for competition will include talent and swimsuit divisions.

PLAID sportswear separates come in muted tones such as shadow blue heather or amethyst heather. A three-button blazer and color-coordinated sporty vest top pull-on pants, all designed by Dalton of America in wool.

CAMEL'S HAIR has made a comeback in the past year. Here Dalton of America fashions camel separates, a double-breasted blazer with welt pockets and a color-coordinated classic front-slit skirt. These come in traditional golden camel or British brown.

The 'Worst Cook' Makes The Best Noodle Pudding

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When a reader from Kentucky wanted to try a chicken recipe we had given, she wrote for further details: "These may sound like silly questions to you, but they don't call me Lexington's 'Worst Cook' for nothing."

They didn't seem like silly questions to us and we were happy to answer them. In turn, the "Worst Cook" sent us one of the best recipes for noodle pudding we have come across. Tried in our kitchen, we found it absolutely delicious.

They didn't seem like silly questions to us and we were happy to answer them. In turn, the "Worst Cook" sent us one of the best recipes for noodle pudding we have come across. Tried in our kitchen, we found it absolutely delicious.

½ cup sugar
1 cup milk
1 cup apricot nectar
Topping, if desired (see below)

In a large saucepot, according to package directions, cook the noodles; drain in a colander. Return the hot noodles to the clean large saucepot and add the cream cheese and butter; toss until both have melted. Turn into a buttered 2-quart oblong glass baking dish (11½ by 7½ by 1½ inches) or similar utensil.

"My mother-in-law tops it with a fruit glaze ... in the same manner as cheese cake ... and serves it for dessert. There are many, many noodle pudding recipes in this world, but I've never found one that everyone likes as well as this. Have also served this noodle pudding as a side dish at a brunch. No, I didn't get this recipe from my mother-in-law. I gave it to her. Got it from a caterer."

LEXINGTON'S BEST NOODLE PUDDING

8-ounce package medium-wide egg-noodles
Two 3-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
3 large eggs

Topping: In a 10-inch skillet over low heat melt 6 tablespoons butter or margarine; off heat, stir in 1 cup finely crushed corn flakes, ½ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. (You may, if you like, make up half the recipe for the topping; in this case border the pudding with it instead of sprinkling it over the entire surface.)

SECOND ANNUAL DEAF SMITH COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE INVITATIONAL

December 2, 3, 4, 1976 La Plata Gymnasium

Herd Smashes Lobos, 105-68

BY BOB NIGH
Brand Sports Editor

It wasn't tournament time yet, but there was certainly a festive atmosphere in the La Plata gymnasium Tuesday night when the Hereford Whitefaces and Lovelland Lobos took to the court.

Before the night was over a total of 173 points had been scored by the two clubs, with the host Faces coming out the winner 105-68.

The game was a fast-paced, run-and-gun affair with fans in the stands hard pressed to keep up with the whirlwind action.

Hereford's win was never much in doubt, and when the score stood 57-32 at the intermission the only question left was whether the Whitefaces would break the century mark.

Kitchens, James Mays, and Mike O'Rand got on their horses from the onset, challenging the running tactics of the visitors.

Passes whipped back and forth across the court as both teams forgot any type of ball control and set the afterburners.

Kitchens wound up the game's leading scorer with 21 points, but as usual it was his nifty, pin-pointed passes that had the home crowd on its feet.

The quick, court-wise junior opened the game with an eight-footer to give the Herd a 2-0 lead, and after David Schumacher hit a bucket outside, Mays added two fast break scores to give the hosts an 8-2 lead.

Some two minutes and three Lovelland timeouts later the margin was 19-4 as O'Rand, Kitchens, and Lawson continued to baffle the Lobos with their breakaway speed.

Both coaches substituted freely in the fast action to let some batteries get recharged, and the Herd bench kept pouring it on.

Larry Ritter canned an eight-footer with two seconds left in the quarter to stake the Herd to a 31-13 lead, and by the 5:13 mark of the second stanza the lead had swelled to 20 points at 40-20.

Four different Lobos offset six Hereford points with baskets of their own to make it 46-28 with 3:50 left, but Mays and Lawson combined for seven points to boost the margin to 25 points to put the Herd ahead 53-28.

Mays led all scorers at the half with his 14 points, while Kitchens had added nine and Lawson and Ritter eight each. Kevin Methvin led the Lobos in the first two periods with seven points.

As the second half opened Kitchens offset a Lobo score with two buckets, one on a fast break pass from Mays before Lovelland came back with five straight points to make it 61-39 with 6:33 left in the period.

The Hereford teamwork prevailed again at that point, and the Faces got points from five different players to outscore the visitors 14-4 in the next three minutes.

At the quarter the score read 83-47, and the crowd began to become itchy for the Herd to break the century mark.

Hereford Tourney Begins Thursday

The Canyon Eagles and Vernon Lions will get the ball rolling...er, bouncing Thursday afternoon as they clash at 2:30 to begin the second annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Caprock's Longhorns will play Brownfield's Cubs at 4:30 in the tourney's second game, while the defending champ Morton Indians will meet the Monterey Plainsmen at 6:30.

The host Hereford Whitefaces and Dumas Demons will close out the first round of action when they battle beginning at 8:30.

The tournament is sponsored

Adrian Splits With Bovina

Adrian High School's varsity basketball teams split a pair of contests with the Bovina Mustangs Tuesday night with the Matador boys winning 47-40 after the girls had been dropped 59-42.

David Blankenship's 17 points led the Matadors to their third win against four losses. Adrian raced to the win behind a 20-8 advantage in the third period.

Tied 16-16 at the half, the Matadors romped to a 36-24 lead after three stanzas and coasted to the win.

Ronnie Cary led Bovina's charge with 22 points, while Randy Loyd backed up Blankenship for Adrian with 12.

The Adrian girls saw just the opposite happen in their clash, however. Bovina came off a 26-25 lead at the half to outscore Adrian 15-4 in the third period to take a 41-29 margin enroute to the win.

Diane Naegle led the winners

Barnes Given Prison Term

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Detroit Pistons forward Marvin Barnes has been given a one-year prison term for violating probation, but has two weeks to appeal the ruling to the Rhode Island Supreme Court.

Superior Court Judge Anthony Giannini found Tuesday that Barnes violated three years' probation given him in 1974 by carrying a concealed handgun at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport Oct. 9.

Giannini delayed sentencing to give defense attorney Alton Wiley time to explore an appeal, but the judge said he believed state law does not allow an appeal.

"I will be doing all that I can to keep Marvin out of jail," Wiley said after court proceedings had ended, but added: "I'm really not sure which route I will be taking."

Barnes said after leaving the courtroom, "I'll just have to do my time, I can take the wait. It's always a disappointment when you have to go to jail."

The former Providence College All-American was given three years' probation and a one-year suspended sentence

It was Kitchens once again that got things hopping as he fed Kenneth Mercer for a layup and a 85-47 Herd margin as the final stanza opened.

Lovelland's Dale Moore hit a pair of free throws before Kitchens copped a layup of his own and Hereford's 'big man' Schumacher stole a pass and drove the length of the court for a basket.

Leading 89-49 with a full five minutes left, it took the Faces only sixty seconds to cross the 100-point mark.

Mercer hit a layup and a pair of charity tosses to make it 93-53 with 5:20 left before Kitchens hit on a pair of buckets to make it 97-55.

Mays hit the front end of a pair of free throws with 4:25 left, and Mercer gave the honors to Schumacher with a feed on the rebound for a layup and a 100-55 edge at the 4:20 mark.

After giving their heroes a standing ovation the crowd became suddenly silent the rest of the way, and the players themselves let up after the goal had been reached.

The Lobos came back with 13 points to the Herd's five from there on, and the Lobo's Rocky Lawless closed out the free-scoring contest with a layup with 1:11 left.

In addition to his game-high 21 points, Kitchens was credited with 15 assists in the contest. Four other Hereford players wound up in double figures also. Mays added 15, including seven of 10 free throws; Lawson canned 14 on top of a six-for-six performance at the line; and Schumacher and Mercer each scored 12.

O'Rand and Ritter each contributed eight points to the effort, Blake Autry added six, Oglesby had five, and David Arney closed out with four. Monty Bowman led the losers with 14 points, while Steve Yarborough added 11.

Hereford raised its record to 3-1 with the win while the Lobos fell to 1-3 with the loss. The Herd will take a one-day rest before joining seven other teams in the second annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Tournament Thursday.

Not to be overlooked Tuesday night were wins by the Hereford JV and sophomore teams. The JV ran its record to 4-0 with a 56-37 win over the Lobo JV, and the sophs upped their record to 2-0 with a 43-34 win over Dimmitt.

Randy Marrs led the JV effort with 11 points, with Reed Herring and Buzzy Abalos adding eight each. Robert Graves ripped the nets for 19 points to lead the sophomores.

Frogs Still 'Big Time'

FORT WORTH (AP)—F.A. Dry was Texas Christian's answer Tuesday to rumors the private school was pulling out of major college football.

"TCU still intends to stay in bigtime Southwest Conference football and all its joys and sorrows," said Chancellor Dr. James M. Moudy before introducing Dry as the new Horned Frog football coach.

TCU signed Dry, who has resigned as coach and athletic director of Tulsa, to a five-year contract believed to be in the $35,000 range annually.

Moudy said the TCU Board of Trustees recently unanimously adopted a resolution committing the school to major college football on a long range level.

"TCU has never taken any action to deemphasize football," said Moudy.

The 45-year-old Dry, who compiled a 31-17-1 record at Tulsa, refused to say a timetable for TCU's return to the SWC elite.

"How long it takes depends on a lot of factors," said Dry. "I plan to build the program on positive attitudes."

Dry follows a team that was 2-31 under the three years of Jim Shofner's regime. TCU was 0-11 this year and has a longest major college losing streak in the country.

The Horned Frogs have not had a winning season since 1971 and last shared in an SWC title in 1958 when Abe Martin was the coach.

TCU gets Southern California on its schedule in 1977 and Penn State in 1978.

"My primary goal is to pull the football team together and inspire them to turn their program around," said Dry. "I feel it is important to engrain the idea in the team that they can win. 'If I can do that, we'll be off on the right foot.'"

Dry is no stranger to recruiting Texas high school football players. Twenty-six per cent of the players on the current Tulsa roster are from Texas.

Dry designated Houston, East Texas, Dallas-Fort Worth and West Texas as big TCU target areas for recruiting.

Fidrych Tops AL Rookies

NEW YORK (AP)—Right-handed pitcher Mark Fidrych, the flamboyant crowd-pleaser of the Detroit Tigers, was named the American League's Rookie of the Year today.

Fidrych, who laced his mound performance with eccentric behavior such as talking to baseballs and patting down mounds, collected 22 of a possible 24 votes from a special committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America. The remaining two votes went to Butch Wynegar, Minnesota's hard-hitting catcher.

Fidrych, a 22-year-old from Worcester, Mass., proved to be not only a winner with a 19-9 record and league-leading earned run average of 2.34, but was one of the biggest gate attractions in the major leagues in 1976.

The theatrical mound antics of Fidrych, nicknamed "The Bird," caught the fancy of the fans and the television people.

In the 29 games Fidrych started, he drew a total paid attendance of 901,339. Quite frequently, the announcement in advance that "The Bird" was going to pitch would be enough to sell out a park.

Fidrych started slowly but won eight games in a row one month into the season and was selected to start for the American League in the All-Star Game at Philadelphia.

In addition to leading the league in ERA, Fidrych led all pitchers with 24 complete games in 29 starts.

Besides being the first pitcher to win the AL rookie honor since Stan Bahnsen did it with the New York Yankees in 1968, Fidrych is only the second Detroit player to be named. Harvey Kuehn was the other, in 1953.

In his first season with Minnesota, Wynegar batted .260, hit 10 home runs and drove in 69 runs.

Let's Talk Sports

By Bob Nigh

Hereford cager Kelly Kitchens is listed by the Panhandle Plains Basketball magazine on its second team All-Panhandle Plains Basketball Super Team.

The recently-released periodical lists Kitchens, a junior, along with nine seniors.

The first team includes five seniors, Brain Bailey of Pampa, Randy Melton of Ropes, Mike Waldrip of Post, Jay Hunt of Caprock, and Jason Welch of Borger.

Kitchens was named on the second bunch along with David Graves of Tahoka, James Roach of Plainview, Mike Smith of Amarillo, and Bryan Smith of Coronado.

The magazine also listed its choices to win the District 3-4A and 4-4A titles as Pampa and Plainview.

Listed behind the Harvesters in District 3-4A in order were Caprock, Tascosa, Amarillo, and Palo Duro. Plainview was followed by Monterey, Coronado, Lubbock and Hereford in order.

Speaking of top basketball players local fans will get a chance to see a couple of the aforementioned standouts when the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Basketball Tournament tips off tomorrow afternoon and runs through Saturday.

Hunt will be on hand to lead his Caprock team into the fray, and Kitchens, of course is on display every time the Faces take to the court.

Some other outstanding cagers will be on hand also, including Morton's all-state possibility Troy Patton. Patton, along with Kitchens, was named to the All-Tournament team last year.

A couple of others who should be exciting to watch are the Canyon duo of Mike Flynn and James Walling. Flynn and Walling combined for 50 points in the Eagles' earlier 78-77 win over the Herd.

RAN
Congratulations are in order for Darrell Dirks, who walked away with this season's $100 prize in the Brand's Football Contest.

Dirks missed only 89 games on the year, discounting his worst week of 11 wrong. His percentage of correct predictions was .715.

RAN
West Texas State running back Robert Mayberry raced through the Tulsa defense for 221 yards last Saturday, and as a result has earned the Valley individual rushing title.

Mayberry finished the year with 843 yards on 130 attempts, a 6.5 per carry average. Jeff Hanev of Wichita State claimed second by just six yards over the Buffs' Bob Robinson. Hanev picked up 731 markers to Robinson's 725.

Mayberry also tied Robert Forbes of Drake for the league scoring crown. Each scored nine touchdowns and two extra points for a total of 56 points.

Team-wise the Buffs claimed the team rushing title with 2,895 yards on 601 tries in eleven contests. West Texas' per game average of 263.2 was far ahead of runner up Wichita State, which averaged 157.3 rushing yards per game.

Reverse Of Higher Steel Prices Sought To Thwart Oil Cost Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) - President-elect Jimmy Carter says he has "sent word" to the nation's steel producers, urging them to reverse recent price hikes to avoid giving an excuse to raise petroleum prices.

But Carter says the steelmakers were noncommittal in their responses.

Carter said Monday that senators and House members were conveying his message to the companies that higher steel prices will have a severe impact on inflation around the world.

In an interview with CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite, Carter said that if steel prices are going up, I think it would be a good excuse for Iran and other nations to say, "Well, if you increase steel prices in the middle of our oil meetings, then it's legitimate for us to raise our oil prices."

Iran and other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the oil cartel, are meeting in December to discuss an increase in oil prices. OPEC has defended previous price hikes by pointing to higher costs of manufactured goods made in oil-producing countries.

In the wake of the decision Monday by U.S. Steel, the nation's largest steel producer, Bethlehem Steel and Republic Steel to make the price hike virtually industry-wide, U.S. economists were predicting the higher cost of steel is likely to push prices for wide variety of consumer goods in the months ahead.

Carter said during his campaign that he would ask for stand-by authority to impose wage and price controls, although he said he didn't think they would be used. However, some economists have said that even the possibility of price controls may be causing worried businessmen to push through price increases they might otherwise wait on.

Meanwhile, Jerry Jasnowski, head of the economic policy group in Carter's transition staff, declined to speculate whether the steel companies are seeking to take advantage of the transition period between the outgoing Ford administration and the incoming Carter administration in pushing through their price hikes.

"At this point we are still trying to assess the facts," Jasnowski said. "We should know more in a couple of days." He said he was preparing a report for Carter on the price move.

The increases, which are generally 6 per cent on flat-rolled steel, the kind used in autos and appliances, are effective Wednesday.

The Ford administration's Council on Wage and Price Stability also is looking into the increases and is preparing a report for President Ford.

The administration lacks authority to roll back price increases, and the investigation is intended simply to force the companies to justify their action. The steel producers that have announced price hikes are asked to submit information to the council on prices, costs, demand and profits, a council spokesman said.

Small Towns Need 'To Stand, Scream' Hill Meets On Prisons In Mexico

SHENANDOAH, Iowa (AP) - The organizer of a small-town mayor's conference here says, "It's about time little towns stand up and scream. Otherwise nobody will hear them."

About 20 mayors - all but one from Iowa - were expected today for the first National Rural Communities Mayors Conference. The agenda called for them to discuss their problems for two to three hours, snack on cookies and coffee, and then drive home.

Organizer David Childs, 32, part-time mayor of Shenandoah, pop. 6,000, said the national designation was tongue-in-cheek, but he insisted that the subject matter is serious.

"Rural communities have almost no voice and we want people to know that," Childs said Tuesday.

He said he got the idea while watching the recent televised national conference of big city mayors in Chicago. He said he was struck by a commentator's remark that federal revenue-sharing provides as much as 50 per cent of the yearly budget for some large cities.

"In Shenandoah, it was 4.6 per cent last year," he said. "If we received 50 per cent, there wouldn't be any problems. We could build the sewer plant, water tower and swimming pool we need."

The conference will attempt to define problems facing small communities, Childs said, "without really trying to arrive at the solutions."

"Then, we want to draft a letter to President-elect Jimmy Carter. The big city mayors did, so why can't we?"

Childs, a self-employed contractor who also works in the family record and music shop, hopes the conference will spark a future national meeting representing all 50 states.

Rock Port, Mo., 35 miles south, will be the one non-Iowa town represented. Other mayors will be from small southwest Iowa towns.

Almost half the gas-turbine airliners in service in the Western world at the beginning of 1965 were powered by British engines.

AUSTIN (AP) - The attorneys general of Mexico and Texas met in Mexico City Tuesday to discuss mutual problems, including the recently-signed prisoners' exchange treaty.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill was in Mexico City as a guest of the committee for the inauguration of the new Mexican president, Jose Lopez Portillo, on Wednesday.

The conference between Hill and Pedro Ojeda Paullada, attorney general of Mexico, was a continuation of a dialogue on law enforcement cooperation that began between the two in Austin in 1973, Hill's office said. The two had another conference in Mexico in 1974 and there have been subsequent conversations by telephone and through their staffs.

Hill was accompanied by Mrs. Hill and their daughter, Mrs. Bill Clark of Tyler.

Jerome Persell of Western Michigan averaged 180.3 yards per carry in his team's first three games this fall.

The Continental Congress authorized a lottery in 1776 to pay for the Revolutionary War.

Users Of Alaskan Natural Gas Would Pay More, Companies Agree

SEATTLE (AP) - Representatives of the three firms wanting to build a pipeline to bring Alaska natural gas to the lower 48 states agree on one thing: users will pay more.

"If we're lucky enough to discover new gas, the bill will be going up," John Bennett of El Paso-Alaska Co. in Anchorage said here Monday.

Bennett, William Owens of Northwest Energy Co., Salt Lake City, and Robert Wood, Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co., Anchorage, represented their firms before a business news writers seminar.

Bennett and the others were not able to give a figure on what the cost to private users would be because of the various mixes that go into establishing rates.

But Bennett gave a relative example. He said if the cost of bringing gas from the well to the burner were $3 per thousand cubic feet now and the extra expense to bring it from Alaska made it $4, the average U.S. home gas bill would go up 72 cents a month.

The three said in addition to the high costs involved in delivering the gas from Alaska's North Slope, gas prices are going up at the well head.

Northwest Energy's proposed route, known as the Alcan plan, would parallel the trans-Alaska oil pipeline for 539 miles to Delta Junction then proceed along the Haines utility corridor and the Alaska Highway to Fort Nelson, B.C., and Zama Lake, Alta. Existing Canadian pipeline would carry the Alaskan gas for redelivery to U.S. transmission companies at three points along the U.S.-Canadian border.

El Paso wants to follow the oil pipeline across Alaska to its terminus at Valdez, then 42 more miles south to where a plant would be built to lower the temperature of the gas to its boiling point - minus 260 F - where it becomes a liquid.

The liquid would be loaded onto special ships to keep it cold, using the principle of the vacuum bottle. The liquefied gas would be offloaded in Terminal Island, Calif., changed back into a gas and sent across the country in pipes.

Arctic Gas would cut across the Yukon and Northwest Territories of Canada and enter the United States at two points along the Idaho and Montana borders where it would feed into pipeline systems to the other two plans, this one would pick up gas in the McKenzie River Delta of Canada, which Arctic claims would give it expansion possibilities with development in either country.

Transition Workers Earn $552 A Week

WASHINGTON (AP) - The top members of President-elect Jimmy Carter's transition staff are drawing federal salaries of $552 a week, about $210 a week less than the law allows.

Carter himself is drawing no pay for the transition, an neither are Jack H. Watson Jr., transition coordinator, and Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's director of policy development and agency liaison, a transition spokesman said Monday.

A new law allots an incoming president $2 million to pay the expenses of assembling a staff and preparing to take office.

The law authorizes maximum salaries at the top civil service level of $39,600 a year, or $762 a week. But members of Carter's top staff are being paid at an annual rate of $28,725, or $552 a week.

The transition spokesman said the salaries were being kept down in order to keep within the $2 million budget.

The General Services Administration made public an incomplete salary list for 164 Carter workers Monday.

The minimum salary was $8,316 annually, or $160 a week.

The transition spokesman said the staff already has been expanded to 210, and more were expected.

Drawing $552 a week were Hamilton Jordan, the chief talent scout; Landon Butler, an assistant in the personal advisory group; Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary; Madelin MacBean, Mrs. Carter's transition director; Barbara Blum, director of transition operations; Greg Schneiders, Carter's appointments secretary; Walter V. Kallaur, administrative officer of the transition; Michael S. Berman, top aide to Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale, and Frank Moore, congressional liaison.

Most of those on the transition payroll will be paid from Nov. 14 - 12 days after the election - until Jan. 20, when Carter is inaugurated.

Unless they get permanent jobs in the new administration, they will draw the government salaries for only about 10 weeks.

The GSA is the government's housekeeping agency and is in charge of paying the transition staff.

Marines Say Movie Not Representative

HONOLULU (AP) - Some of the World War II Black Sheep Squadron members who came to a reunion here say the TV show "Baa Baa Black Sheep" is a fantasy that misrepresents them as rowdy, misfit Marines.

But their old commander, ace flier Gregory "Pappy" Boyington, thinks there is more truth to the portrayal than the men will admit.

"You think of history a lot differently when you're a distinguished grandfather and a peer in your community," Boyington, now 63 and technical adviser to the NBC television show, said Tuesday.

Of the 34 Black Sheep who are still alive, 18 attended this week's reunion - the first since 1945. Originally the unit had 51 men.

The squadron was formed in 1943 on the island of Espiritu Santo near the Solomon Islands. By January 1944, the unit had destroyed or damaged 197 Japanese planes.

Frank Walton, 67, intelligence officer for the squadron, said members included both experienced pilots and greenhorns waiting to replace those killed in action.

Walton, now retired from the Los Angeles Police Department, said they got the name Black Sheep not because they were misfits but because the squadron was formed outside the United States.

"I understand Hollywood hokes things up, but that's no reason to call everyone misfits, screws and fouballs," said Walton, who lives in Honolulu.

Legend and the television show have it that Boyington, who earned the Congressional Medal of Honor for shooting down 28 enemy planes, falsified reports to put together a unit of men who were close to being court-martialed.

Boyington, who became commander while recuperating from a broken ankle, disagrees with that version, but he said the squadron was not quite like others. Some members lacked enough flying time to join an established squadron, and some were discipline problems, he said.

"If you put together a half dozen of the 'Baa Baa Black Sheep' episodes and balanced them out, it would be 90 per cent accurate," said Boyington, who lives in Fresno, Calif.

Santa Claus Arrested In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) - The child star on Santa Claus' knee in the shopping center parking lot and listed the things he wanted for Christmas.

When the youngster finished, two men walked up to Santa and talked to him.

They didn't give him a list of Christmas wishes. They wanted Santa. They took him - in handcuffs.

The young man in the red suit and white beard was Mark D. Pluff, 18.

Sheriff's Deputies W.C. McDuffie and B.R. Robertson arrested him Tuesday on charges of aggravated robbery. Pluff was charged the night before with being one of two men who took another man's car at gunpoint.

McDuffie said Pluff, who had been hired to play Santa in the shopping center, offered no resistance but his arrest shocked the children who were on hand.

"There was this small stand set up with reindeer and a sleigh," the officer said. "He was sitting inside the thing and had a kid on his knee.

"There was a bunch of kids around and some grownups. They didn't say too much of anything but they couldn't believe we were arresting Santa Claus. They were shocked."

More than a voice

By DAN LEWIS

Joe Sirola and the producers of a daytime soap opera, Somerset, aren't taking any chances on the possibility that the show may continue.

At the moment, the NBC network reportedly is considering abandoning its six-year-old show because of anemic ratings. But should the serial survive or move to another network, as has been reported, both Sirola and the producers are prepared for any and all eventualities -- including Sirola's unavailability should some other offer arrive.

Sirola will be seen in the series, as Fred Harrington, the kind-hearted, friendly do-gooder who, in reality, is the big boss of the underworld (only the show's fans know this) through November.

To accomplish this, even though his services were required in Hollywood, while the show tapes in New York, Sirola worked double-time for two straight weeks. He trudged to NBC's Brooklyn studios every working day in that period and taped two shows a day.

In the desperate effort to keep the show alive, the rest of the company was willing to do double time with him to get his scenes on the shelf before Sirola returned to Hollywood for the "pilot season."

Sirola is the veteran Broadway actor whose rich, resonant voice was his gold mine in a unique behind-the-camera career. His voice is the one heard on literally thousands of commercials. His face rarely was seen.

He was in such demand through the years, that his annual income, he confides, ranges from $250,000 to $500,000 a year.

The voiceover bonanza permitted him the luxury of picking his spots. Theater was a first love, but, in time, Sirola yielded to the Hollywood fascination of television.

He costarred in Bill Bixby's series, The Magician, as the manager of the magic club. Although the series was not renewed, it still draws good ratings as an ABC late-night rerun series. Then he starred in his own short-lived series last season, The Montefuscos, which lasted ex-were not enthusiastic about it, but they admired Sirola's performance. And working in the theater each night, eight shows a week, left plenty of time for Sirola to do other things during the day.

So he rejoined Somerset. Three years ago, he was a regular in the show. He played Rudy Aloris (Aloris is Sirola spelled backwards), who was the local Godfather. In his current 13-week cycle on the show, he plays the head don.

"I love to work," Sirola explained. "Doing 'Pal Joey' at night gave me plenty of free time during the day."

So, Sirola found himself getting up at 6 a.m., hopping into his chauffeured limousine (he does live the grand style) and headed for Brooklyn and the Somerset studio.

"I was getting back to Manhattan by 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and that left me plenty of time two or three times a week to do commercial voiceovers," Sirola said.

So what happens now that he's back in Hollywood and if Somerset is renewed?

"Well, if they decide to continue my role, they'll just explain that I'm off on a trip, and I'll be back (after the pilot season)," Joe explained.

"And if they feel they can get away without my character, a special scene was shot before I returned to Hollywood in which I'm assassinated. All the producers have to do is decide which scene to use."

actly four weeks on NBC.

Sirola also continued to be in big demand for commercial voiceovers. When restricted to Hollywood, he virtually "called in" voiceovers.

"I would get a call from the commercial producers in New York, and they would read the script to me," Sirola revealed. "Then I would cut a tape and mail it back to New York."

For that, and many other voiceovers, he was handsomely remunerated. But the first opportunity he got to return to New York and the theater, Sirola was on the plane.

This summer, he costarred in a Broadway revival of "Pal Joey." The critics

TV Star Scene

Christmas 'tis the season to be jolly? Now perhaps, but being jolly was against the law 400 years ago. The Puritans in several American colonies strictly forbade the celebration of Christmas -- levying a fine on anyone caught so much as baking a mince-meat pie. This and other bits of Christmas history will decorate "A Christmas Celebration," starring Richard Kiley. The PBS special airs Dec. 20 nationally.

A relatively unknown actor, Tommy Lee Jones, who was last seen in "Jackson County Jail," has landed the part of billionaire Howard Hughes in a four-hour special set for next season on CBS. "Howard the Amazing Mr. Hughes" ... Oscar winner Shirley Jones has been signed to play the lead in "Yesterday's Child," an NBC made-for-TV picture. The film deals with a woman whose daughter was kidnapped at age 3, then 14 years later, the woman is confronted by the guardian of a 17-year-old who claims the girl is her kidnapped daughter.

More disasters are waiting in the wings at NBC, as that network starts work on two pilots dealing with such audience-grabbing delights as floods, fires, plane crashes and earthquakes. In one, "Flight to Holocaust," Patrick Wayne and Chris Mitchum follow in the brave footsteps of their fathers. (Who knew enough, however, to stay away from TV), as a couple of professional troubleshooters working to rescue occupants of a plane that crashes part way through a skyscraper. You'd think they would have enough sense to take the elevator down. The other pilot take the paramedic theme and mixes it with aerobatics, to come up with "Aeromed." Such luminaries as John Bennett Perry, Lauren Tewes, Carl Anderson and Elinor Donahue (remember Betty in Father Knows Best?) will star in the 30-minute show.

Large Prison Unites Recommended By Legislative Budget Board

AUSTIN (AP) - Two prison units costing $136 million and a big cut in parole officers' caseloads were recommended Monday by the Legislative Budget Board.

The board refused, however, to increase the $32 per month average grant made to dependent children on welfare. One member promised to work for higher benefits when the legislature convenes in January.

Budgets approved by the board would reduce parole officers' average caseloads from 81 to 50 and finance construction of a $64 million prison unit and a $72 million "multi-program treatment facility" for the Texas Department of Corrections.

Sites were not specified for either unit, although the TDC has proposed building a new prison in West Texas.

Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Houston, a black member of the House Appropriations Committee, cast the only vote against the welfare item, saying later that it was too small.

Leland made the successful motion to boost spending for parole officers in order to give each a smaller number of parolees to supervise.

The State Board of Public Welfare had requested approximately $175 million a year so it could raise average AFDC payments. But the budget board accepted a staff recommendation that would provide $112.3 million in fiscal 1978 and 98.2 million in 1979. This year's appropriation for AFDC is $131.4 million.

Board staff member Frank Boyd said any grant above $32 a month would come entirely from state funds with no federal matching money. Overall, the board decided to recommend appropriations of $1.2 billion a year for the welfare department, reflecting a decline in its payroll from 15,233 this year to 13,725 in 1979.

Leland later told reporters he would fight as a member of the House Health and Welfare Committee and the appropriations committee for bigger AFDC grants.

He said he took the vote as a reflection of the new taxes philosophy pervading the top echelons of state government.

"Fiscal conservatism is very apparent. I hope it is not prophecy of the coming session, but I am afraid it is," Leland said.

The staff recommended increases of more than $1 million a year in the Board of Pardons and Paroles' budget for parole officers, which would cut the average caseload to 70 parolees.

But on Leland's motion, the budget board added several million more—the exact figure was uncertain—to lower the caseload average to 50 by increasing the number of parole officers from the present 150 to about $395.

Although the Texas Public

Utility Commission's special assessment on the companies it regulates will produce more than $10 million a year, the board recommended appropriations of $2.7 million and $3.5 million respectively for 1978 and 1979.

These amounts will increase the staff from 52 now to 160 in 1979.

Death Question Still Open To Wide Debate

DALLAS (AP) - To die or not to die. Should the question be left to the individual? The doctors? The courts?

W. Page Keeton, former dean at the University of Texas Law School, said no one has yet resolved the question.

But Keeton and other professionals from the medical and religious fields will defend their respective stands on euthanasia and related life and death topics during the Texas Conference of Churches' "Value of Life" seminar starting Wednesday in Dallas.

"There has just been no law on the subject of euthanasia," said Keeton. "I don't think there's any question that doctors, with a family's permission, withhold certain extraordinary means at their disposal at some point that would keep a patient alive."

Keeton split the controversial issue into two categories—"passive euthanasia" and "active euthanasia." He said his idea of the former is when a physician merely discontinues treatment of a terminal patient at the family's request. Active euthanasia, he said, involves hastening a person's death through medical means.

Keeton said Texas murder statutes are not clear on the subject of passive euthanasia but his own stand, which may lead to a head-on confrontation with other speakers, certainly is.

"I think it is ridiculous, myself. It doesn't make any sense to make criminals out of some just because others think it's immoral," he said.

One of the persons Keeton expects to debate is the Rev. Dr. James Gustafson, professor of theological ethics of the University of Chicago. Keeton described Gustafson's approach to euthanasia as "vague" and "philosophical."

Besides Keeton and Gustafson, Dr. Kubler-Ross will discuss her views on death and dying, based on 10 years of research with terminally ill patients. The Most Rev. Mark Hurley, Roman Catholic Bishop of Santa Rosa, Calif., will set the theme for the four-day conference with a talk on the value of life in progressing medical society.

Bishop W. McFerring Stowe, president of the TCC, said he wouldn't be surprised if the conference received criticism from other church groups for inviting some of the speakers. He said about 1,000 persons for the medical, clerical and legal professions have been invited.

"We're hoping this will kick off of discussions in other smaller groups," he said. "The only stand the TCC will be taking is that life is a gift of God and, therefore, is of infinite value."

Suppliers To Ask Congress For Interstate Gas Decontrol

HOUSTON (AP) - Natural gas suppliers plan to ask the 95th Congress for quick action on a bill that would decontrol wholesale prices of new gas dedicated to interstate markets.

"We should move as quickly as possible, and, hopefully, have a bill by July," David H. Foster, executive vice president of the Natural Gas Supply Committee, said Tuesday.

Two members of the House subcommittee on energy and power cautioned the industry group, however, that organizational procedures of the new Congress and the new Carter administration might delay action on such a bill.

"Getting down to the nitty-gritty probably will take a bit of time," said Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Minn., the subcommittee chairman.

"We will be listening and, quite frankly, waiting, to see what President-elect Jimmy Carter sends to Congress, not only on energy matters but on government reorganization."

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, the subcommittee's ranking minority member, said Carter's views, the nation's economy, and the weather will be important factors.

"What is President-elect Carter's view?" he asked. "He's still in Plains."

Brown said an improved economy probably would help deregulation, as would an abnormally cold winter.

The industry committee was formed in 1965 to seek decontrol legislation on grounds it would bolster the nation's dwindling natural gas supplies.

A bill that would have decontrolled new gas entering interstate markets was defeated this year on a close House roll call vote after having been approved by the Senate.

"We lost the ultimate vote 205-201 with about 20 people absent," Brown said.

Foster told the industry group the first 120 days of the new Congress "will be absolutely critical."

Foster said one major key to deregulation will be obtaining support from environmentalists and conservationists.

"They are well aware that price controls have artificially encouraged wasteful consumption and discouraged production of our ecologically finest fuel," Foster said.

The one-day Houston session was the first formal annual meeting of the group.

E.L. Williamson, the chairman for New Orleans, said the committee has had a "self-destruct" mandate ever since it was formed.

"If we are successful with Congress next year, our second annual meeting would be our last because we would be out of business," said Williamson, president of Louisiana Land & Exploration Co.

Yarbrough Says Bank Charter Possible If A Bribe Was Paid

HOUSTON (AP) - Don Yarbrough, who is to be sworn in as a Texas Supreme Court Justice Jan. 1, says he could have been granted a charter for a new Houston bank had he paid a $10,000 bribe.

Yarbrough, facing 15 civil lawsuits and possible disbarment by the State Bar of Texas, said in an interview Tuesday, "I was approached by an individual, and I refused to pay a bribe and we were denied the charter."

The Houston attorney said he was representing about 350 depositors of the defunct Sharpstown State Bank who wanted to open a new financial institute on the former Sharpstown site.

Had he paid the bribe, Yarbrough said, "I have no doubt but that we would have received the charter."

After his charter request was rejected, Yarbrough said, "I decided then to file as a candidate against State Treasurer Jesse James and I did get 45 per cent of the vote. If I had not been elected to the Supreme Court this year, I would have run against James again."

Asked if James had approached him personally with the bribe offer, Yarbrough said, "No, he did not."

But, he said, the bribe involved how the banking commission would vote on the charter.

Yarbrough then added, "I don't want to go into any great details now, although I did discuss this situation with the Travis County district attorney and he showed some interest in the case. I believe he would have acted if we had an iron-clad case."

"There have been new developments recently and I will take this information to the new Travis County district attorney when he takes office in January and you may see some legal action taken," he said.

James, hospitalized with a blocked artery in a leg, vigorously denied all of Yarbrough's statements. James said, "If you want to know something, he never applied for that bank charter. He has never talked to me in my life. I have never talked to him. I don't know him. I've never seen him and I've never had anything to do with him."

Yarbrough said he definitely was the attorney representing the depositors seeking the new Sharpstown bank and, "If I recall correctly, Mr. James sat in on that hearing. I have appeared several other times before the banking commission, but in all other instances Mr. James was mysteriously absent."

Yarbrough said, "I am still certain I will be sworn in as an associate justice despite disbarment efforts and I have high hopes that after Jan. 1 there will be a successful effort in clearing up that rat's nest in the banking commission."

Border City Sales Drop From Peso

AUSTIN (AP) - Retail sales in the three largest border cities dropped by 53 per cent after Mexico devalued the peso and remain far below 1975 levels, Comptroller Bob Bullock said today.

In the rest of the state, heavy and early holiday shopping indicates retailers are on the way to their best year ever, he said.

Bullock said monthly gross sales fell by 53 per cent in El Paso, Laredo and Brownsville immediately after Mexico cut the international buying power of its currency on Sept. 1.

In the following two months, the border city sales averaged 30 per cent lower than in October and November 1975, he said. In the two months before devaluation, sales had averaged 21.5 per cent higher than the year before, Bullock said. He reminded border city officials that the fall in retail sales means lower city sales tax returns and advised them to plan accordingly.

Bullock said Christmas shoppers have started early and last Friday was "an all-time record for gross sales."

And this good fortune for retailers means "the state's stocking should be stuffed with sales tax dollars," he said.

Bullock said sales tax collections through October totaled $1.2 billion, up 15 per cent from the same period of 1975.

Mathematicians calculate that a man would have to flip a coin for 200 million years to be sure that heads would turn up 50 times in a row.

MULTI-CHOICE PLAN WITH ACCENT ON LIVING

FEATURE HOMES
By W. D. Farmer
The front entrance door leads to a combination living room and dining room with wall space galore. Behind this area is the family room of comparatively enormous size. Stairs omitted for no basement offers an even larger area. Included here are a massive fireplace with ash dump and gas jet, and terrace access closely.

The kitchen is endowed with cabinet and countertop, plus pantry, planning desk, built-ins and food preparation area.
The breakfast room is located in an L behind the carport and is built in a square bay with drop ceiling. Utilities are also adjacent and double side-entry carport access is here. Extra storage room is from carport.

There are three large bedrooms, the master bedroom having full private, shower bath. The remaining two bedrooms are serviced by the central bath.
Closets and linen storage are abundant and a disappearing stair to attic is from central hall.
The exterior style pictured is ranch, accented by square columns and shed colonial roof over porch. This plan is also available as formal symmetrical colonial with gable over porch and country style with wood rail on porch, identified as fronts A and C, respectively.

The plan pictured is Number 558B. It includes 1,589 square feet of floor space. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 49463, Atlanta, Ga. 30329.

Dr. Lamb
Reader 'hooked' on tranquilizer
By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — I hope you can tell us the polite thing to do about wedding gifts. Through the years I have been collecting household items, and have most anything you can think of. We do not want to receive any wedding gifts, since we would not need most of them. Is there some polite way to ask for money on the invitations since we could use the money for bigger things we still need. — SOON-TO-BE-WED.
DEAR SOON-TO-BE-WED — You certainly should not put this wish on your wedding invitations. Many brides have to return many gifts for credit because of duplicates, etc. so perhaps you could graciously receive any gifts, make careful note of where they were purchased and later return as many as possible for credit. Let the credit apply on one or more of the larger things you need. Your mother might very tactfully tell relatives, WHO ASK what you would like, that a gift certificate or check might be most appreciated. — POLLY.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am an arrested alcoholic. I'm 66 years old. When I used to drink sometimes I would have to be hospitalized and my doctor would put me on Valium for the withdrawal symptoms. I know (thank God) that I'll never drink anymore as I've been through so many trials in the last two years. My brother died with cancer, my husband had two light strokes and already had a colostomy for cancer and my mother-in-law died. I didn't drink but I did take Valium and now I am addicted to it.
I used to quit taking Valium anytime I wanted to, but can't seem to cope with it now. I'm working on it, taking only one a day, but my nerves and my stomach are so weak I can hardly make it. I'm planning to cut them to one-half a day soon.
I talked to my family doctor about it and he said, "Well, quit taking them." It is easier said than done, so he gave me a prescription for Librium and said, "Try these." They don't seem to have any effect on me. With the grace of God, which I pray for each day, do you think I can recover at my age?
DEAR READER — Valium is commonly used in treating patients with alcohol problems during the withdrawal phase to control symptoms. Otherwise, it is not a useful drug in treating alcoholism.
Valium is not addictive. It can cause habituation but the difference is that you can quit without having severe chemical reactions in the body typical of true addiction. That doesn't mean it is easy to quit and you will need all the support you can get. I am sure you can do it. Considering your low dosage I would suggest that you just stop it.
And I am not enthusiastic about substituting another drug for your problems. You will end up again using drugs

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. T.D. wanted to know how to remove excessive transfer pattern marks from a piece to be embroidered. I tried rubbing alcohol on a mistake I made and the mark came right out. I find this works on some ballpoint ink marks, too. — MRS. W.C.C.
DEAR POLLY — Recently some dear friends who are well past Social Security age were leaving on an extended trip by car. We asked them to send us a card every few days so we would be sure of their health, safety and whereabouts. We were delighted that they not only wrote us on colorful scenic post cards, but put the cards in envelopes along with decorative brochures on which they added their observations in brief notations. Most of these envelopes also contained road maps of the state or province they had been in.
These are useful and beautiful keepsakes. Now when they return we can hear ALL about the journey and ask more knowledgeable questions. Thanks for the column and it is a dull paper on the rare days it does not appear. — M.G.B.
DEAR M.G.B. — It seems the nicest way you could show your appreciation for your friends' thoughtfulness would be to make a scrapbook FOR THEM using the material sent you and then they will have a record of the trip in pictures and print. — POLLY.
Polly will send you one of her "peachy" thank-you cards, ideal for framing or placing in your family scrapbook, if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had chicken pox as a child and it left quite a few marks on my face. I would like to do something about it and am wondering who I should see — a dermatologist or a plastic surgeon. Please let me know if you have heard of any treatment.
DEAR READER — If you have marks that are sufficiently important to correct I would suggest that you see a plastic surgeon, preferably one who does cosmetic surgery.
For superficial scars of the face from any cause, including old acne scars, a process called sanding can be done. It literally removes the superficial layer of the skin and in that way removes the marks. It is not suited to dark pigmented people because it may decrease the pigmentation of the skin. In any case, a consultation with a plastic surgeon will tell you if you are a candidate for such a procedure.

Mexican Military Urged To Remain Loyal To Government

MEXICO CITY (AP) - With a new president to take power in two days amidst widespread rumors of a coup, the head of Mexico's armed forces has urged the military to remain loyal to the new government.

"We must always remain united and with the same feelings of loyalty toward our government and toward our institutions, like soldiers that we are, of a country that is and will continue being free and sovereign," said Gen. Herme-negildo Cuenca Diaz. He said the armed forces will continue to guarantee their loyalty to constitutional institutions, keep public order and develop a greater role in social labor projects.

The defense minister made the comments in a farewell speech to officers. He presumably will be replaced by the new president, Jose Lopez Portillo. Lopez Portillo, a former treasury secretary, takes over as president on Wednesday from Luis Echeverria, who is ending a six-year term. The constitution prohibits a president from succeeding himself.

It has been difficult for two weeks in Mexico City to find a restaurant, barbershop, grocery store or other public place where people are not discussing rumors of impending government turmoil. The rumors, in addition to the one that Echeverria would use the army to keep himself in power, have included ones that the president or one of his family was shot and that the government would nationalize private banks.

Mexico has not had a military takeover of the government in more than 50 years. The revolutionary Institutional Party to which both Echeverria and his successor belong, has held the presidency and controlled Congress for more than half a century.

Echeverria, beleaguered by rumors that he and Lopez Portillo are at odds because the new president might not follow Echeverria's policies, urged Mexicans in a speech to support the new administration. Speaking in the State of Veracruz he urged the country to get solidly behind Lopez Portillo because "like the rest of the world, Mexico will encounter more complicated problems."

Whether all sectors get solidly behind the president within the framework of what amounts to a one party system in Mexico depends on what the new president does. Farmers and ranchers are angry because the government has expropriated their land to give to peasants. Private businessmen say the government is taking over more and more private businesses and is generally anti-business. The middle class is grumbling about 20 per cent inflation and the lower classes are complaining about a 25 per cent jobless rate.

Businessmen say privately they have been assured by Lopez Portillo that he will close the breach that has opened up between the private sector and the government during Echeverria's term. Private businessmen, ranchers and farmers frequently categorize the Echeverria government as socialist.

During the last six years the number of formerly private businesses taken over by the government in which the government is part owner has reached more than 1,000. The government owns the country's largest airline, Aeromexico, has monopolies in petroleum production, railroads and electricity, runs the country's biggest hotel chain and has interests in businesses ranging from banks to night clubs. Echeverria expropriated more than 240,000 acres of privately owned ranch and farm land earlier this month and said it

People Steal From Christmas Tree In West Berlin, Germany

BERLIN (AP) - Who would steal from a Christmas tree? Someone did on West Berlin's main boulevard, the Kurfurstendamm, and from the look of things Monday a lot of persons did.

"I myself caught two adult men, one standing on the other's shoulders, the guy on top trying to spear a fox tail off a tree with an umbrella," said Udo Heiler.

Fox tails on a Christmas tree? "Blue fox," Heiler said. "The city sponsored a competition to decorate the Ku'damm trees and I had just about 1,000 blue fox tails put on the tree near my store. All in all, decorations, labor, tails at 25 marks each, it cost about 30,000 marks $12,500."

Heiler added he thought the venture worthwhile for his furrier's business even though he could not insure what he put on the tree. He said he had hoped to sell the tails to passersby New Year's eve with the proceeds going to charity.

He said about 600 of the 1,000 tails were taken, plus ornaments and other decorations from his and other trees.

Didn't he really expect what the police described as the inevitable? "No, I never expected someone would steal from a Christmas tree," Heiler said in a telephone interview.

But he had expected that the police would keep an eye on the trees, he said.

The story really began a year ago.

The city senate puts up 14 large trees each year along the length of the main shopping district. The trees come from West Germany.

As the song "O Tannenbaum Christmas Tree" indicates, nobody likes Christmas trees more than the Germans.

Last year the Ku'damm trees were a little shabby and a cost-conscious senate got a wave of complaints. So this year, various businesses chipped in to decorate a tree apiece, all of them colorful, some of them ornate, and the one with the fox tails probably the most expensive.

"I would have expected at least one cop be assigned to watch these trees in a city-sponsored competition. Not only the tails were stolen but tree ornaments and other decorations as well," Heiler declared.

The police commissioner for the downtown city district, Guenter Freund, said it was foolish to believe the police could guard Christmas trees on a public street over a holiday season that runs to New Year's.

Peace Gift To Help Others

OSLO, Norway (AP) - Declaring that they are "no petticoat brigade," leaders of the women's peace movement in Northern Ireland pledged Monday to use a $325,000 gift from the people of Norway to benefit both Roman Catholics and Protestants.

Mairiad Carrigan, a cofounder of the movement, said a trust fund would be set up with the money to provide care for children, to establish small factories to create jobs and to begin other community projects. She said unemployment is 26 per cent in Northern Ireland.

Miss Carrigan 23, and Betty

Williams, 32, will receive the Norwegian People's Peace Prize at a ceremony tonight (Tuesday) in Oslo's seaside town hall, then be honored at a torchlight parade.

"It is fantastic that the Norwegian people-many hundred of miles away from us-show their support for us in this way," Miss Carrigan said at a news conference. "They started what has snowballed into support from America, Germany, France, The Netherlands and many other countries."

"It will help us win this battle of will to create peace and love between all Northern Irish people."

The prize money was collected among individual Norwegians after Gunnar Borrevik, foreign editor of a newspaper in Kristiansand, said the two women deserved an award for their efforts to end sectarian warfare in the British province.

A number of other newspapers joined the effort and a goal of $145,000 was set. But the collection snowballed, growing to double the amount that would have been awarded as this year's Nobel Peace Prize.

The Norwegian Storting, or parliament, which makes the Nobel award, decided not to give it this year after a parliamentary committee reviewed the qualifications of 50 candidates.

There was widespread sentiment here for giving the Nobel to Mrs. Williams and Miss Carrigan, but they launched their peace campaign in August- too late for the 1976 Nobel deadline.

The two Roman Catholic women began their movement after Mrs. Williams saw three children killed by a runaway car whose guerrilla driver had been shot by British soldiers in Belfast. Miss Carrigan was the aunt of the slain children.

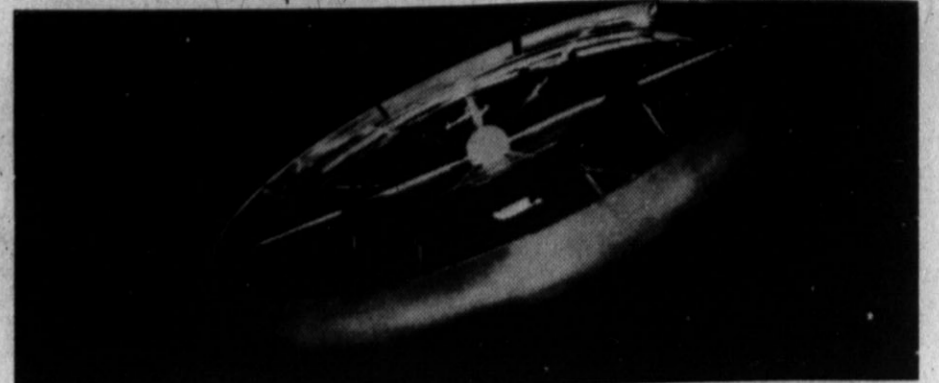

Braving threats on their lives by extremists, they organized peaceful marches by thousands of Protestants and Catholics in Northern Ireland, the Irish Republic and England. They also traveled to the United States and made a televised appeal for Americans to stop sending money to the two sides to buy guns and bombs.

FISHING NOT FOR FUN but for profit, carp breeders wade into the "harvest" season near Nuremberg, West Germany. Carp fishing, a major industry in the Franconia area, reaches a peak around the Christmas and New Year's holidays. Some gourmets insist carp should be eaten only in months ending in "r," when the flavor is best.

BANNER BEDECKED for the big event, fishing boats carrying portable shrines put on a colorful show on Japan's Shinano River during the annual Summer Port Festival at Niigata.

WHEEL IN SPACE is a NASA artist's concept of what a future space colony might be. The ring, a radiation shield of cinder-block-like material, would contain residential, industrial and agricultural areas rotating around a central hub.
