Investigation continues into Aug. 10 teen party

A Deaf Smith County grand jury will likely consider charges against several persons on Sept. 20 concerning an August 10 party at a west Hereford residence.

The party was thrown by a young family member while her parents were out of town for the weekend. Over 70 persons, from 14 to 24 years old, are reported to have attended the party.

Hereford police are reported to have a "list" of 78 youths who attended the party, but that could not be confirmed Saturday morning.

The youths caused at least $5,000 worth of damage to the home, including broken windows, holes in the walls, torn wallpaper and carpet burns apparently caused by cigarettes.

The investigation by Hereford police includes the possibility of sexual assault. Charges are likely to be filed against at least two persons 18 years of age or older. Other youths may have also participated in sexual acts at the party, but Hereford police have refused to comment on the sexual assault charges.

Police are also investigating the theft of several items from the house, including a video tape recorder, telephones, an answering machine, liquor, jewelry and a small amount of money, according to the original report, which was published in the August 12 issue of the Brand.

Police have not said how many times they were called to the house, but one neighbor said he called police at least twice that night, and another said she called after youths destroyed her mailbox. The second neighbor said police told her they would not take action against anyone unless she filed a complaint. The neighbors also said that the youths were in the front and back yards throughout the evening and night. Another family member said he called police several times, but they refused to come into the house or take action.

Hereford Police Detective Mike Ahrens told the Amarillo Globe-News that it was up to investigating officers to decide if a party should be stopped. The party was stopped when an older sibling returned home and ordered the youths to leave the home. The older sibling called police at 3:50 a.m. on August 11 and a report on the party and damages was filed at that time.

Charges could be filed before Sept. 20, when the grand jury is scheduled to hold its regular session. The grand jury is expected to consider several charges at that time.

Mother released from jail

Paula Tarter was released from Deaf Smith County Jail on $2,500 bond on Friday after her two daughters were found in Summerfield and reunited with their father.

The girls, ages 4 and 5, were found after Deaf Smith County District Attorney Roland Saul received a tip on the location of the girls.

There mother had purportedly secreted the girls to keep them away from their father, who had legal custody of them. Because Mrs. Tarter had interfered with their custody, she had been arrested on two counts of interference with child custody on Thursday and held without bond in Deaf Smith County Jail.

Centennial Clips

August 21, 1876-The State Legislature created 54 counties from a vast area attached to Bexar County. Each county was named for a Texas hero. Deaf Smith County took its name from the noted Texas scout, guide and Indian fighter Erastus "Deaf" Smith. For 14 years, Deaf Smith was attached to Oldham County for judicial purposes.

School bells ready to ring

From staff and wire reports

Hereford-area schoolchildren will return to the daily grind Wednesday when doors open for the 1990-91 school year.

Hereford teachers have been at work for the past week in in-service training that has dealt with a variety of subjects from the old prisoner of war camp and chapel south of Hereford to new teaching methods. Teachers have also been busy working on classrooms, preparing for Wednesday's start.

There are 52 new teachers in Hereford this year, and they were honored Friday at the annual New Teacher Luncheon sponsored by the Classroom Teachers Association. The luncheon, at the Hereford High School cafeteria, featured "hot air balloons" on the ceiling, signifying that teachers are the launcher of dreams and goals for their students.

Teachers were also honored at a luncheon at Hereford State Bank on Thursday.

On Wednesday, students will go from sweat pouring from their brows to poring over books, computers, tests and much more.

Over the state, students will return to 1,068 school districts that are being reshaped by a new system of state funding and higher numbers of minority pupils.

A whole spring of special sessions of the Texas Legislature drew attention to inequities in the way districts receive state funds. Many school officials spent the summer figuring out how they would be affected by an infusion of $528 million to the state's $14 billion annual education outlay.

But they have also been preparing for a change in who they see in their classrooms. Within two years, Texas will become the fourth state where minority students outnumber non-Hispanic whites in public schools.

The change - a benchmark in the growth of cultural diversity since desegregation - presents Texas educators and lawmakers with unique problems and opportunities because the state is the largest for it to happen.

School finance, curriculum development and teacher training and recruitment already are being influenced. So will the attitudes of the next generation of Texans, experts say.

UN gives blessing to enforcing embargo

Diplomats inside nine embassies in Kuwait played a tense waiting game with Iraqi troops ringing their compounds today, while the United Nations approved a U.S. proposal to put military might behind economic sanctions against Iraq.

A European envoy said Baghdad threatened to forcefully remove diplomats remaining at their posts today. Iraq said it would cut water and power to the embassy compounds, where diplomats defied an Iraqi order to close their doors.

Britain said tanks as well as troops surrounded its embassy and services to the compound had been cut. The U.S. Embassy remained ringed by soldiers.

The U.N. Security Council early today overwhelmingly approved the U.S. proposal allowing the international armada of ships in the Persian Gulf to halt all shipping in and out of Iraq. The 15-member Council adopted the resolution with 13 votes in favor. Cuba and Yemen abstained.

In a dramatic reversal Friday, the Soviet Union agreed to back the U.S.

FRIDAY The 13th in Panhandle

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer
PANHANDLE (AP) - The death of Frankie Garcia is the stuff of horror movies.

On a steamy Friday the 13th night in July, the 17-year-old was taken to a dilapidated barn near a deserted shack known as the "Haunted House."

City still shudders

Witnesses who found Garcia's body say they could tell by prints in the dirt floor that he had been brought to his knees, forced to taste the gun barrel of a high-powered .223-caliber rifle as his killer pulled the trigger.

Known as a boy whose only fault was trying too hard to make friends, Garcia was the last person anyone suspected as the target of a gruesome murder plot.

And after word got out that a self-proclaimed satanist had confessed, residents were scarred by an evil unknown before.

Kenneth Glenn Milner, a handsome 19-year-old who inspired loyalty among his few friends, has been charged with murdering Garcia and attempted murders of Ken Williams, his former high school principal, and Jimmy Britten, a former girlfriend's stepfather.

The 2,300 people who live in this farming town remain afraid Milner's friends will continue the attacks. The friends dismiss the rumors, but parents closely watch their children, keeping them off the dirt roads that crisscross the rolling fields of the its staff from the embassy but the mission remained technically open.

Spain's Ambassador to Amman, Ramon Armengol said in Madrid Iraqi authorities warned the Western diplomats that troops would forcibly remove them from their missions starting today. There were no immediate reports of such action.

The U.S. mission, like most embassies staying open, was cut to a staff of about 10, including Ambassador Nathaniel Howell. On Friday, about 100 dependents and staff made their way to Baghdad, from where they had been scheduled to leave for home.

But once they arrived, Saddam reversed an earlier promise and refused to let them leave, according to White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater.

Later Friday, the official Iraqi News Agency said Iraq would detain only male embassy employees of those countries that refused to close embassies in Kuwait. But there was no indication the dependents were being allowed to leave.

CRISIS IN THE GULF

It came shortly after Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev sent an urgent message to Iraq suggesting Moscow might support a military blockade of Iraq and warning that the Persian Gulf situation was "extremely dangerous."

Iraq's parliament speaker, Sadi Mehfil Saleh, warned Friday the presence of U.S. forces in the gulf might ignite a war that would set the region and its oil reserves afire and kill thousands of Americans.

In occupied Kuwait, troops were reported surrounding, or patrolling near, the U.S., British, Canadian, French, Japanese, Norwegian, Swedish, Romanian and Hungarian embassies. With its Aug. 2 conquest of Kuwait and quick annexation, Iraq now considers its oil-rich neighbor Iraqi territory.

Several nations complied with the Iraqi order to close embassies, including Venezuela, the Philippines, India and Lebanon. Moscow pulled town's namesake region.

"There is fear that there are more satanists out there," said Linda Salas, who has four children. "There are rumors that they are looking for a bald-haired, blue-eyed boy to sacrifice."

Milner has been held without bond in the Carson County Jail since his arrest the day after Garcia's killing, a killing a friend says he bragged about committing.

"He said he shot Williams and then said, 'I finished off Frankie Garcia,'" said 16-year-old Carrie Horner. "Then he took a gun out and shot a hole through the window of his car to prove he was serious."

Carson County District Attorney David McCoy, who will seek the death penalty, said Milner gave police a written confession in which he said he wanted to die.

"Mr. Milner has indicated a strong desire to die and I intend to do all I can to see his wishes are accommodated," he said.

Court-appointed defense attorney Douglas Woodburn of Amarillo said he had only recently taken the case and his own investigation was continuing.

"At this time I'm not really sure where all it's going to lead," he said. Woodburn said it is likely he'll ask for a court-appointed psychiatrist to examine Milner.

As for the rumors of satanism, Woodburn said, "I don't think that's a guiding influence in his life, but I just don't know."

Carson County Sheriff Terry Timmons would not permit an interview with Milner. Milner's parents, who run a bar called "Shirley's" just outside of Panhandle, would not discuss the case or their only son.

But Milner's friends say he is obsessed with death and spent countless hours watching horror movies, reading books about Satan and creating special effects like those used in slasher movies.

"He knew every horror movie by heart," said 18-year-old Katrina Powell, who lived next door to Milner for 14 years before he left for Amarillo late last year. "He would make masks of characters in the horror movies - grotesque masks - like with blood and an eyeball hanging out."

Ms. Powell also said Milner was adamant in his rejection of God.

"I knew that because when I would go to church and talk about it, he would say, 'Don't mention God because he was never caught,'" he said.

Craig Shackelford, 16, Milner's best friend, said his pal frequently discussed creating an illusion of shooting a person through the mouth.

Milner imagined attaching a low-power plastic explosive to the back of someone's head, sticking a gun in their mouth, and simultaneously pulling the trigger and setting off the explosives to make it appear the person had been shot, Shackelford said.

"He wanted to know what that would look like," he said.

Shackelford said Milner has a "twisted sense of humor," loves to "scare the hell out of people" and enjoys notoriety.

Shackelford said Milner's bedroom is lined with black, ghoulish posters from horror movies. He said the room also contains a clay corpse he made to test his special effects and a cast of his own head, covered with a demon mask.

Milner wrote Shackelford from his jail cell, chastising his "best - closest friend" for not writing. "I'm not going to shoot you through the Postal Service or anything," he joked.

"Glenn wasn't normal," Shackelford said. "But I don't think he was a satanist either."

"Glenn read the Bible from cover to cover," he said. "He read other books too, like the Necronomicon and stuff about astral projection. He didn't know what to believe, so he would explore." The Necronomicon is a handbook of spells that supposedly summon demons.

Shackelford said Milner told him some of his heroes were Ted Bundy, Charles Manson and Jack the Ripper.

"Glenn admired Jack the Ripper because he was never caught," he said.

Friends and school officials said Milner was a well-behaved student through grade school, but began showing signs of depression in high school.

"He started to drink more," Ms. Powell said. "And sometimes when he would get angry, he would slice up his arms with a knife."

In the spring of 1988, Milner climbed to the top of a water tower and threatened to jump. Police talked him out of it.

A few months later, while driving alone, he hit his car over a cliff at Palo Duro Canyon. After being treated for injuries, his friends say he was placed in psychiatric care at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. The hospital refused to confirm Milner's stay.

"Glenn and I talked about the times he tried to kill himself a lot," Shackelford said. "He did it because he wanted to know what was on the other side."

An entry Milner wrote in Shackelford's high school yearbook the day before Garcia was killed leads Shackelford to believe Milner planned the alleged attacks.

"Your wisdom and advice have helped me out many times," Milner wrote. "Wish it could be on the problem that I face now - wish I could tell you, but you'll find out sooner or later."

The entry was signed "Damion," the misspelled name of the Antichrist in a series of horror films.

"He liked people to call him Damion," Shackelford said. "He liked people to take a step back when he introduced himself as Damien."

Those who knew Garcia and Milner say they were not very good friends.

"Frankie really got on Glenn's nerves," said Ron Doty, 19, a companion of both. "Frankie tried really hard to be everyone's friend."

So when Milner invited Garcia to go out on the town on Friday the 13th, Garcia told Shackelford he was skeptical.

"Glenn doesn't even like me does he?" Shackelford quoted Garcia as saying in a telephone conversation a couple hours before he was killed. "He just wants to take me out and pull a prank on me - scare the hell out of me."

Police said Garcia was killed around 10 p.m. About 10:30 p.m. Shackelford and Doty noticed Milner speeding out of town. After getting his friend to stop, Shackelford said he asked Milner what he was doing.

Both Doty and Shackelford recall Milner responding, "I just got done taking care of some business. I've got to go take care of some more."

Britten, whose stepdaughter Jenny English once dated Milner, says Milner slashed his throat and arms with a straight razor shortly after 1 a.m. July 14.

Ms. English said Milner began vomiting during the attack, allowing Britten to overpower him.

Two hours later three shots were fired from a 357-caliber Magnum revolver through a door at Ken Williams, Milner's former high school principal.

Williams was struck in the leg and abdomen, authorities said. The other shot missed.

Both Williams and Britten are recovering.

Milner did not like the way Britten treated his stepdaughter and he thought Williams was spreading rumors about him to other kids in the high school, Shackelford said.

Milner also left behind a "hit list" of intended victims and a videotape detailing his motives and plans, according to his friends who have been questioned by police.

Four days after the attacks, state District Judge John T. Forbis placed a gag order on attorneys and investigators.

Attorneys say Milner's trial will likely begin in about six months. Woodburn said he hasn't decided whether to ask Forbis to move the trial.

"That is a possibility. I'm not certain," Woodburn said. "I think he was a pretty well-liked boy up until all this happened."

Shackelford says he doubts if Milner cares what happens to him now.

"I think he would have committed suicide eventually," Shackelford said. "I think he wants to die. I think the death penalty would probably please him."

"What we're talking about here is not just knowledge," said David Erlandson, head of the educational administration department at Texas A&M. "We're talking about attitudes, acceptances of different ways of doing things, different cultural patterns, different priorities."

Non-Hispanic whites made up 51 percent of the students in Texas schools in 1988-89, the last year for which statistics are available. Hispanics accounted for 32.2 percent and blacks were 14.6 percent, Texas Education Agency records show.

The agency's statisticians believe the shift to a "minority majority" will occur in the 1992-93 school year when the public school population reaches 3.5 million. It currently totals 3.3 million.

Minorities are the majority of public school pupils in Hawaii, Mississippi and New Mexico, according to the Washington-based Center for Demographic Policy, California, Louisiana and South Carolina are nearing the benchmark.

Teaching in those states must reflect the diversity students bring to the classroom, said Janice Hamilton Outz, associate director of the center.

"We're not talking about one group when we say minority," Ms. Outz said. "It's not just black. It's not just Hispanic or it's not just Asian. I'm a little concerned with the use of the minority term as if we have one group."

The change is also causing more schools to provide services needed by minority families, who tend to be less affluent.

"We might be perceiving race to be the important factor when it's really socioeconomic status," said Thomas Oakland, a University of Texas educational psychology professor.

Some have launched special services such as after-school care, day-care for babies of teen-agers and English classes for Spanish-speaking parents. Others are exploring options.

While students are becoming more diverse, Texas schools ironically are having problems recruiting minority teachers, officials say.

That's partly because the demand for well-educated minorities is also high in business and science, professions where there is often better pay and more respect.

"We're having trouble competing," Erlandson said.

Several Texas colleges and universities have scholarships to recruit minority students to education training. Some at Texas A&M are paid by school districts in exchange for a commitment by a minority student to teach in their system for a few years.

The demographic shift also holds many opportunities, educators say, including new teaching methods and programs.

Early signs of pregnancy

Few of life's events jingle a woman's emotions more than learning that she is pregnant. For some women, this occasion brings surprise, joy and anticipation. But for others, the news causes immediate fear, guilt and depression.

Whatever the case, doctors agree that confirming a pregnancy as early as possible is important. Knowing early whether or not you are pregnant, helps ensure that you will get the proper prenatal care during the first few weeks of a pregnancy, which is a crucial time in the development of the baby. It also allows time to consider options and plan for unwanted pregnancies.

Usually the first detectable sign of pregnancy is a missed menstrual period. A late period alone, however, is not a reliable indicator of pregnancy because menstrual irregularities can be caused by other factors—stress, anxiety, hormonal imbalance and weight fluctuations.

Other early signs of pregnancy include breast tenderness, extreme tiredness, nausea, a bloated sensation, and frequent urination. But these symptoms too may have other causes. The only sure way to find out if you're pregnant is to have a doctor do a complete evaluation.

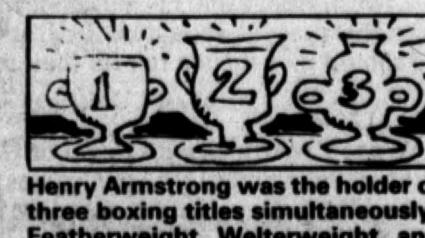

Some women use home pregnancy test kits to confirm or rule out suspicions that they are pregnant. These urine tests, which are very similar to those used in doctors' offices, detect human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG), a hormone that is normally produced only in pregnancy. Home tests can be very accurate when used properly. However, "false-negative" results, meaning that you might really be pregnant when the test was negative, can occur about three percent of the time. If you continue to have unusual symptoms following a negative test result, you should make an appointment with your doctor.

When you visit your doctor he or she will do either a urine test or a blood test to detect HCG. Blood tests can be done earlier, even before a missed menstrual period, but they are complicated and quite expensive and thus usually are only used for situations when problems are suspected.

The doctor will also look for physical signs of pregnancy, including color changes of the vagina and cervix, softening of the cervix, and changes in shape and size of the uterus.

Once pregnancy is confirmed, your doctor will start you on a program of prenatal care, which will involve good eating habits, plenty of rest and regular trips to the doctor. At this early stage, the nine months ahead may seem long and trying. But once your baby is born, you're sure to think every second was worth it.

Henry Armstrong was the holder of three boxing titles simultaneously: Featherweight, Welterweight, and Lightweight, in the year 1938.

HEADACHES AREN'T "NORMAL"

Just about everybody gets a headache once in awhile, so why should you be unduly upset if you happen to be suffering from one? If you've been celebrating with friends and eat or imbibe too much, it certainly would not be unusual to wake up with a headache the next day. But that kind of headache usually goes away as soon as you're eating and drinking sensibly again, and getting enough sleep. But what about the other kinds of headache?

Some illnesses, such as flu, include headache among the symptoms. But if you're in reasonably good health, you have a right to wonder why you suffer from headaches. A resort to aspirin and other medication may dull the pain for awhile, but if the headaches persist you should seek treatment. Among the causes of persistent headache are problems with the cervical vertebrae, the spinal bones in your neck. If they are out of alignment, this could cause headaches until you get the treatment you need.

Canned foods packaged for convenience, environment

If you take a closer look at the convenience, health and recyclability of the packaged foods you buy, you'll head for the canned food aisle!

Not only are canned foods shelf-stable and the ultimate in convenience foods, studies show they are nutritionally comparable to fresh and frozen foods when prepared for the table. The low-sodium and low-calorie canned foods now available also offer health-conscious consumers a variety of options. Furthermore, using canned foods allows people to do their part to lessen our nation's mounting solid waste problem.

The majority of food cans, generally referred to as "tin" cans, are made of steel, and steel is 100 percent recyclable. The Steel Can Recycling Institute estimates that the average American discards over 500 food cans annually. In 1988, 15 percent of those were recovered through recycling. That number is on the rise due to the growing number of recycling initiatives across the country, including both voluntary community and mandatory state-wide programs.

To aid consumers in their efforts to help preserve the environment, the Canned Food Information Council offers the following tips for recycling food cans:

-Contact your local city government for information about the recycling options available in your area, as well as how to prepare the cans.

-Thoroughly wash out all empty cans to prevent the formation of bacteria and odors.

-Flatten cans for more efficient storage prior to recycling.

-Separate steel cans from aluminum, if specified by your local program. Use of a small magnet will readily identify steel cans; steel will attract a magnet and aluminum won't.

-If your community has a recycling program, participate! The only way for such programs to be effective and cost-efficient for a community is if all residents do their part.

The industrial development committee of Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce, under the leadership of Lewis McDaniel, the local Southwestern Public Service manager, has revitalized its efforts to seek new industry and support existing industrial expansion.

The committee is currently studying several prospects, and McDaniel said the potential looks good for one project related to expansion of a local firm.

There was a time when economic development and job creation were taken for granted. Agricultural industries and real estate fueled the economy here; booming oil activity created the business and jobs in other areas of Texas. Then the state experienced a serious economic downturn around 1985, and cities around the state started offering incentives to get new business. The state also approved legislation which broadened municipal authority in the area of economic development.

The ball game has changed. The most creative economic programs today are being formulated by state legislators, state agencies, chambers of commerce and local development corporations. While some cities have piled incentive on top of incentive to attract new industry, the question arises of how much is too much? Others have decided that economic success includes nurturing existing businesses as well as bringing in new ones.

The most important factors in a city's economic success apparently are still the "4-M's"—markets, manpower, material and money. Many questions are still to be answered on the matter of incentives, but one trend is clear—cities are being expected to take the lead in future economic development in Texas.

Sometimes it is important to be reminded that the customer still has to be the boss.

What's your pet peeve? A good bet, according to a poll we read recently, is something that wastes your time.

A total of 36 percent said waiting in line while other service windows or cash registers are closed was their top peeve. Solicitations using pre-recorded messages were a bother to 31 percent. Being quoted one price, then learning that the price is higher got the goat of 24 percent.

Twenty-one percent listed sales calls at home during dinner as a pet peeve. Another 20 percent were ticked off about advertised sales items that aren't in stock.

Dealing with complicated health insurance forms made 18 percent hot, while "urgent" mail that really is only a sales pitch angers 17 percent. Consumers' biggest complaints about service included 40 percent who griped about staying home for delivery or sales people who fail to show.

Poorly informed sales people irritated 37 percent, and 25 percent were miffed by sales clerks who remain on the telephone while waiting on a customer. A statement such as, "It's not my department," is an irritant to another 25 percent of those polled. Another 16 percent are annoyed by clerks who don't know their product and can't explain how it works.

THE VOICE OF BUSINESS

THE EQUALITY MANIA

by Dr. Richard L. Lester, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

WASHINGTON—"Equality may perhaps be a right," Honore de Balzac said, "but no power on earth can ever turn it into a fact."

Heaven knows the Soviet Union tried to make equality into a fact. For the better part of a century, the Soviet government has ruthlessly hammered people into submission, regulating almost every aspect of their lives, cruelly suppressing efforts to achieve individual distinction.

But as everyone now realizes, the great Soviet experiment in equality has gone bust. In its mania to promote equality of the masses, the Soviet government strangled the creative genius and individual incentive of its people. The dreadful result is an economy in shambles and a citizenry adrift in despair.

Now at long last the Soviet government is recognizing the error of its ways and trying to rectify the damage its deadly communist ideology has inflicted on the Soviet people. There is even acknowledgement from the Soviet leadership that they must abandon their command-and-control economy in favor of a free market independent of government control.

But perhaps the greatest impediment to Soviet progress is one of attitude. Decades of communist brainwashing have taken a toll. Despite the conspicuous failure of communism, many Soviet people remain obsessed with equality and resentful of anyone who displays ambition.

Abel Aganbegyan, Chief Economist of the Soviet Union, recently told me that widespread jealousy was one of his country's most vexing problems. In the United States, he said, when someone succeeds, others aspire to imitate his example. But in the Soviet Union, the natural reaction is to try to pull that person down.

I assured Aganbegyan that his problem was not unique; that in truth many members of Congress had the same attitude. They routinely champion tax laws and other policies which we know from experience will subvert economic growth. Like the Soviets Aganbegyan complained about, they are less interested in creating wealth than in propagating poverty.

But sooner or later we must all -- Americans and Soviet alike -- accept the basic reality of the human experience, namely that progress is born of creativity and ambition. The mindless pursuit of equality undermines the creative force of our species and subverts our genius. Our goal should not be equality of condition, but rather expansion of opportunity; not celebration of mediocrity, but the pursuit of excellence.

Budget: no system can work any better than people who run it

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - When the shiny, new 1974 model federal budget system was rolled out for display, Congress and the White House agreed that they had produced a masterpiece. Sixteen years later, President Bush says "this procedural monstrosity" is a wreck that ought to be replaced.

"Congress must recognize the utter failure of their budget process to control spending," Bush said after flying in from his Maine vacation last week to denounce Democratic tactics in deficit control negotiations. "It's got to be reformed; the process has to be reformed."

That puts a lot of stock in a process that already has been reformed, without producing timely appropriations or balanced budgets.

The trouble is that no system can work any better than the people who run it.

The people trying to run it now are supposed to meet again shortly after Labor Day to resume negotiations on spending cuts and revenue increases to reduce the deficit by $50 billion next year and $500 billion over the next five.

Bush said he's sticking to those targets going in, but chances are they will be lowered going out. Since the budget negotiators last met, on July 24, the crisis in the Persian Gulf has pushed Pentagon spending, the price of oil has soared and the economy has slowed.

Bush lamented last week that 100 days after he rescinded his "no new taxes" campaign pledge to get deficit negotiations started, they haven't gone anywhere. They'll reconvene with only about three weeks to settle on budget terms to avoid a politically painful and economically perilous slash in federal spending.

Before the budget process was overhauled in 1974, the government's year began on July 1, a deadline Congress seldom met. Appropriations bills lagged until months later, and some didn't pass at all. Deficits were becoming chronic. The old system wasn't working, so they changed it.

The new one is prey to all the same problems.

Richard M. Nixon signed the overhaul into law on July 12, 1974, calling it "the most significant reform of budget procedures since the Congress and this country began."

"What this bill does is to provide a means whereby the Congress and the executive not only now but in administrations to come, will work together to keep the budget from getting out of control," Nixon said.

The law sets a series of deadlines for the approval of resolutions creating an overall congressional budget. Under the old system there was no one budget, only piecemeal spending bills.

Now, the 13 appropriations bills that finance the federal government are supposed to be law before Oct. 1, the budget new year. That rarely happens, either. Nor does the final budget pass by deadline time.

No matter; nothing happens anyway.

The deadline that counts is in a separate deficit control law, requiring mandatory federal spending cuts if necessary to lower deficits. That clock runs out on Oct. 1, and Bush said that unless there is a budget deal before then, it will mean about $100 billion in spending cuts - and he'll hold congressional Democrats responsible. They blame him for the impasse.

Bush said there are "a bunch of Democrats going after me, going to every special interest, raising hell" against administration tax suggestions to help close the deficit gap.

"They've been laughing all the way to what they think is the electoral bank," he said. "Every time we show a - throw up a proposal, they gun it down and rush off and tell a special interest of one kind or another we are going to protect you."

Nixon had said the budget reform bill would bring special interest spending under control. The old way, he said, "did not impose sufficient disciplines on the Congress to stop the passage of pork barrel legislation or to resist the pressure of special interest groups seeking a disproportionate share of the tax dollar."

Taxes and spending - who pays and who benefits - are basic political decisions. No change in the system is going to change that, and no reform will alter the rivalry that goes with it.

Editorial opinion from around state

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from Texas newspapers:

Valley Morning Star on U.S.-Iraq:

One of the more disturbing things about the confrontation with Iraq is the amount of aid the U.S. government had given Saddam Hussein right up to his invasion of Kuwait. Since 1982, both the Reagan and Bush administrations, egged on by Congress, gave U.S. taxpayer-funded subsidies for Saddam to buy $5.5 billion in grain, rice and livestock.

Iraq also received $270 million from the Export-Import Bank for guaranteed loans to buy other American products. Most of the products probably went to Iraq's vast arms industry, helping Saddam build rockets, chemical, and even nuclear weapons. The CIA even gave Iraq military intelligence during the Iran-Iraq war ...

Should American GIs end up dying in the Middle East, they would be killed by Iraqi arms subsidized by the GIs' own tax dollars, and by Iraqi soldiers fed by subsidies from U.S. taxpayers. This is the clearest proof yet that U.S. foreign aid exists not to help our friends, but as an international pork barrel. Foreign aid should be phased out, the $12 billion wasted on it every year refunded to U.S. taxpayers to help them through impending tough economic times.

San Antonio Light on Cavazos remark:

Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos keeps sending out conflicting signals. On the one hand, he is a strong supporter of bilingual education and has spoken out on the need for teachers to learn a second language.

But Cavazos keeps stubbing his toe in a state where he should know better. Cavazos is a native of South Texas, a region that is as bilingual and bicultural as any in this nation....

Now the education secretary has ruffled a few more feathers. Speaking in Laredo Friday, Cavazos said students who do not speak English are not ready to learn. South Texas school districts where many students enter the early grades as predominant Spanish speakers were offended by the remark.

It is undoubtedly preferable that a student have a good understanding of English when he or she starts school. It is even better if a student can speak two languages. But it is incorrect to imply that a child who has not mastered English is automatically disqualified from a full learning experience....

Through the bilingual programs Cavazos supports, many young students will find their way through the wonderful adventure of learning and overcome early obstacles to join the mainstream of education.

El Paso Times on The Ultimate Hunt:

First we have Mr. Miss Texas in Fort Worth telling Life Magazine that beauty pageant contestants need to be "dirtied up a little."

And now this.

The vice chairman of the Texas Board of Criminal Justice, Jerry Hodge, and two buddies join a training session for escapee-tracking dogs using a prison inmate as quarry.

Ol' Hodge thought it was so great, he had jackets embroidered with "The Ultimate Hunt" for his friends. Unbelievable.

Although Hodge is stewing in hot water that couldn't possibly be hot enough, the residents and inmates of Texas owe him a deep debt of gratitude. For without his stupidity, it might have been years before we found out that the Texas Department of Corrections has routinely used "volunteer" inmates as rabbits to train the ultimate huntin' dogs and entertain prison officials.

... Interestingly, Hodge is the spokesman on prison issues for none other than Republican gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams. So far, Hodge has resisted demands for his resignation and Williams has not chastised or canned his prison spokesman.

... Well, Hodge and his pals on the board and the officials who were in on this practice should be fired, at least, if not prosecuted. But first, we should give them a run for their money in a final Ultimate Hunt.

Waco Enterprise on impact of Gulf action:

Short-term greed by oil companies trying to cash in on the instability in the Middle East could result in the long-term loss of a much-needed national energy policy.

The need to develop a national energy policy became evident in 1973 when the OPEC states began to close the oil valves that had allowed Americans to squander inexpensive natural resources on gas-guzzling muscle cars, energy-inefficient buildings and disposable luxuries.

When not badmouthing the Middle East oil producers, Americans swore to become energy independent so the nation would never again be held hostage to foreign oil barons. The government took a number of good steps toward the goal of energy independence.

As time passed and the solidarity of the OPEC cartel began to fall apart, Americans lost the will to become energy-independent. Most of the energy and conservation programs begun in the 1970s have been dropped or scaled back. Now, 17 years later, the United States is more than ever dependent on foreign oil.

Now, just when Americans are again hearing a new wake-up call for energy independence, domestic oil companies make the shortsighted decision to jack up gasoline prices at the pumps within hours of Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

The U.S. still needs to develop a comprehensive national energy policy. An energy-independent America would lessen the need to interfere militarily in Middle Eastern affairs. A national energy policy should include stiff penalties for price-gouging oil companies.

E.B. Black House site of recent wedding

The gazebo at the E.B. Black House was the site of the marriage Aug. 4 of Cecilia Ortiz DeLeon and Jaime Herrera, both of Hereford. The ceremony was officiated by Connie Urbanczyk.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodolfo DeLeon of 844 Irving and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Herrera of 229 Ave. E.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Laurie DeLeon of Hereford, and the best man was Darrell Murphrey.

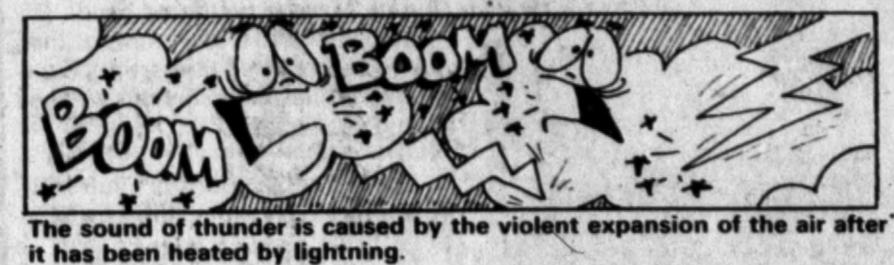

Flower girl was Elizabeth Villalobos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Villalobos.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white Mexican lace formal gown. The sweetheart necklace was accented with scalloped lace and the sleeves were puffed. The fitted bodice fell to a basque waistline which was trimmed with scalloped lace and the full skirt was edged with matching lace. She also wore white lace gloves.

The bride's headpiece featured delicate white miniature flowers and she carried a cascading bouquet of white silk roses encircled by white pearls.

Her jewelry consisted of an antique necklace and matching earrings given to her by her aunt,

Pitman GC rounds increase

Golf continues to make strides as a popular sport in the United States, and its popularity is reflected in Hereford.

The number of rounds played at Pitman Municipal Golf Course showed an increase of 1,928 rounds over the previous year, according to Brent Warner, PGA pro at the city course. The comparison was for the year ending July 31, 1990.

Warner, who has been the pro here for just over a year, says he constantly hears "good things about the golf course and the city from people outside the Hereford area." Warner says many comment about the good condition of the course and "quite a few say we have the best greens in the Panhandle."

The pro added that a lot of people also compliment the city on its friendliness... "they feel like they are welcome here and enjoy coming back."

Due to the increase in play, Warner has decided to adopt a more accurate and accountable receipt system which he says will go into effect in the near future. The plan calls for players to receive a receipt for their green fees and anything else purchased for that round of golf--such as golfing accessories or rental of a cart.

"I feel that interest in golf here will grow in the future and, with the new system, I feel that as a golf pro and small businessman I can better manage the receipts of green fees and the overall management of the course," said Warner.

The new receipt system will allow for golf course officials to check players at any time to confirm they are registered to play. It should also provide better statistical information on the use of the municipal course.

SWC enters 76th season

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The 76th Southwest Conference football campaign gets under way next weekend and the league will never be the same again.

The defection of Arkansas to the Southeastern Conference means this is the final time around for the Hogs. Texas and Texas A&M also have kept the rumor mill churning by considering other options such as the Pac-10 and the SEC.

First up, however, are Texas A&M and Baylor, both of which get the national spotlight in their intersectional openers on Sept. 1.

The Aggies take in the beautiful sights of Hawaii before they have 3 p.m. meeting with the Rainbows, a tough opponent on their home island.

The Bears travel to Lincoln, Neb., to face Nebraska in a nationally televised 6:30 p.m. game.

Both games will be televised on the ESPN cable network.

Rice plays host to Wake Forest in a 6 p.m. non-conference game at Rice Stadium while Texas Christian entertains Washington State of the Pacific-10 Conference in a 7:30 p.m. game at Amon Carter Stadium.

The games open a season that will end with Arkansas and Southern Methodist meeting Nov. 24 in Ownby Stadium in a milestone game.

It will mark the Razorbacks' goodbye to the SWC after 76 years as a loyal charter member.

It also could be a game the Hogs need to clinch a Cotton Bowl berth which automatically goes to the SWC champion.

In addition, the game will mark Forrest Gregg's goodbye to college coaching. He assumes full duties as athletic director after the game and will search for his own successor.

Arkansas will play an independent schedule in 1991 before joining the Southeastern Conference in the 1992 football season. Some SWC members will still be on Arkansas' schedule in 1991.

Most SWC coaches feel the Hogs deserve to be playing for the league championship although they have deserted the league.

"I don't have any problem with that," said Baylor coach Grant Teaff. "If they are the best team they deserve to go. They are the defending champions so they will want to go out on top."

Arkansas coach Jackie Crowe said he hoped everyone wouldn't be gunning for the Hogs.

"It wasn't the players' or the coaches' fault that Arkansas is leaving the conference," Crowe said. "We hope good sportsmanship prevails."

Texas A&M is loaded with running back Darren Lewis and fullback Robert Wilson exhibiting as good a one-two punch in the country.

"I'm real optimistic about our offense," said Aggie coach R.C.

Slocum. "We do have several question marks on defense, though. We lost our starting noseguard, Patrick Henry, and we don't have much depth on our defensive line. It's a worry."

Teaff said he wishes the Bears had an easier opener.

"It's a hard way to start the season," Teaff said. "We're putting the Veer offense back into our game plan and Nebraska isn't a good team to work out the bugs against."

Baylor is going back to the old Veer offense that Teaff used so successfully in fielding two Cotton Bowl teams.

The Bears, Houston, Texas, and Texas Tech could compete for the SWC title.

Rice, Texas Christian and SMU don't have the depth for championship runs.

Houston has a new coach, John Jenkins, the mastermind of the Andre Ware-led run-and-shoot offense. Jack Pardue went to the Houston Oilers.

Texas coach David McWilliams could be under alumni fire and playing Colorado, Penn State and Oklahoma in non-conference games doesn't help a lot.

The Red Raiders and Cougars are looking into options should A&M and Texas decide to leave the SWC.

It's an uncertain future for the SWC as the 76th season gets underway.

Home health care coverage can make recovery more comfortable.

Full recovery from a serious illness can take much longer than a stay in the hospital... especially if the patient is elderly. Recuperation at home can be more comfortable and secure. It can also cost your parents or your family a lot of money for which Medicare does not reimburse you.

That's why the CNA Insurance Companies, one of several major companies our independent agency represents, created a new Home Health Care Plan. It provides coverage for your parents and your own family may need to help pay the costs of professional health services performed at home.

Boston's Kiecker blanks Blue Jays

By The Associated Press

Boston fans expecting a Roger Clemens-type performance against the Toronto Blue Jays were not disappointed.

When Red Sox manager Joe Morgan mapped out his pitching plans for the weekend showdown with Toronto, Clemens was scheduled to pitch Friday night. But Morgan decided to give Clemens an extra day of rest and gave the ball to rookie Dana Kiecker.

Kiecker gave up five hits, struck out five and walked four over eight innings and Jeff Gray pitched the ninth for his fifth save as Boston blanked the Blue Jays 2-0 to move two games ahead of Toronto in the American League East.

"This was one they were hoping to win and we kind of snuck one away from them," Kiecker (5-6) said.

"I've got to give (catcher) Tony (Pena) most of the credit for the way I pitched tonight," Kiecker said. "He had me moving the ball in and out and he called the right pitch in the right situation all game."

Elsewhere in the AL it was Oakland 6, Detroit 4; Milwaukee 1, New York 0; Chicago 5, California 2; Kansas City 4, Seattle 3; Texas 2, Minnesota 0; and Baltimore 5, Cleveland 4 in 11 innings.

Toronto starter Jimmy Key gave up five singles in seven innings and didn't allow a runner to get past first base. Reliever Duane Ward (2-7) got the loss.

Athletics 6, Tigers 4

Carney Lansford's two-run double with the bases loaded in the fourth inning broke a tie as Oakland beat Detroit at Tiger Stadium. The victory kept the first-place A's five games ahead of Chicago in the AL West.

Oakland starter Scott Sanderson won his 13th game in 21 decisions for his highest total since winning 16 in 1980 with Montreal. Dennis Eckersley, the fourth Oakland pitcher, worked the final two innings for his 39th save in 40 opportunities.

White Sox 5, Angels 2

Carlton Fisk hit his second three-run double in three days as Chicago kept pace with Oakland by defeating California at Comiskey Park.

The Angels took a 2-0 lead in the third on an RBI single by Chili Davis and an run-scoring double by Dave Winfield. Chicago rallied in the bottom of the inning against Jim Abbott, loading the bases on singles by Phil Bradley and Ivan Calderon and a walk to Frank Thomas. Fisk, who also had a three-run double in Tuesday night's 4-1 victory over Oakland, then doubled to left-center field.

White Sox starter Wayne Edwards (3-2) gave up five hits and two runs in six innings. Bobby Thigpen pitched the ninth for his 43rd save, three shy of Dave Righetti's major-league record.

John Barfield (3-0) relieved emergency starter Craig McMurtry and picked up the victory with two innings. Brad Arnsberg finished for his fifth save.

Brewers 1, Yankees 0

Bill Spiers scored the game's only run on Tim Leary's fifth-inning wild pitch as Mark Knudson and two relievers combined on a seven-hitter for Milwaukee at Yankee Stadium.

Spiers opened the fifth with a single and walks to Paul Molitor and Gary Sheffield loaded the bases. Leary (7-16) fanned Dave Parker for the second out of the inning but the ball got away for a wild pitch, allowing Spiers to score.

Rangers 2, Twins 0

Jeff Kunkel, 1-for-14 in his last six games, broke a scoreless tie in the seventh inning with a two-run double as Texas beat visiting Minnesota to send the Twins to their ninth straight loss.

John Barfield (3-0) relieved emergency starter Craig McMurtry and picked up the victory with two innings. Brad Arnsberg finished for his fifth save.

Texas solved starter Mark Guthrie

(4-7) in the seventh, saving 10 runners on in the eighth and ninth innings.

Orioles 5, Indians 4

Cal Ripken celebrated his 30th birthday with a sacrifice fly in the 11th inning as Baltimore beat Cleveland at Memorial Stadium.

Baltimore is 11-4 in extra innings games this season, best in the majors. Cleveland, which tied the score in the ninth on Carlos Baerga's home run, lost its fifth game in its last six.

Joe Price (2-2) pitched one inning for the victory, his first since June 4.

Royals 4, Mariners 3

Willie Wilson tied the score with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning and Brian McRae's infield single with two outs scored Kurt Stillwell from third as Kansas City rallied to defeat visiting Seattle for its fifth straight victory.

The Royals have won eight of their last nine games and 13 of the last 16 at home. Kansas City moved to 63-62, the first time the Royals have been over .500 this season.

Steve Farr (10-5) pitched one inning for the victory.

Gooden dumps slump, Dodgers

By JOHN KREISER
AP Sports Writer

There's something about pitching against the Los Angeles Dodgers that brings out the best in Dwight Gooden.

Gooden, mired in perhaps the worst slump of his career, reverted to form on Friday night against the Dodgers, allowing six hits and striking out 11 in 8 2-3 innings. The New York ace got his 13th victory in 14 career decisions against LA when Kevin McReynolds hit his second homer of the game with one out in the top of the ninth to give the Mets a 3-2 victory.

"I don't know what it is," Gooden said of his career-long success against Los Angeles. "I'm just lucky. The Dodgers have a lot of good hitters and that gets you up a little bit, especially this time of year."

Gooden's performance was a far cry from his last two. He got the win in a 9-8 victory over Los Angeles on Aug. 14 despite allowing seven runs in 5 2-3 innings, then surrendered six runs in 5 1-3 innings in a 10-9 victory at San Francisco on Sunday. In his last four appearances, he had allowed 21 runs on 31 hits.

John Franco got the last out for his NL-leading 30th save.

Gooden (14-6) has won 10 straight decisions from the Dodgers since his only loss to them on May 25, 1985 at Shea Stadium.

The victory, combined with Cincinnati's 4-3 victory in Pittsburgh, cut the Pirates' lead over the Mets in the NL East to three games. The loss dropped the Dodgers 6 1-2 games behind the Reds in the NL West. San Francisco pulled even with the Dodgers by blasting Philadelphia 13-2.

In other games, it was Atlanta 3, Chicago 0; San Diego 2, Montreal 1 and St. Louis 3, Houston 2 in 11 innings.

Reds 4, Pirates 3

Eric Davis took center stage at Three Rivers Stadium, going 4-for-4 and scoring all of Cincinnati's runs as the Reds ended a five-game losing streak to the Pirates.

Davis, who entered the game batting .225, had a homer, two singles and a double. His fourth hit, a one-out single in the eighth off Bob Kipper (5-2), was followed by Paul O'Neill's RBI double, breaking a 3-3 tie.

"Eric had a big day," Reds manager Lou Piniella said. "He's starting to swing the bat and that's what we need."

Rob Dibble (6-3) got the win despite allowing Jose Lind's game-tying RBI single in the seventh. Randy Myers got the last five outs for his 25th save.

Giants 13, Phillies 2

Kevin Mitchell's three-run double capped an eight-run second inning as the Giants flattened Philadelphia.

Mitchell also had a solo homer, his 28th, as the Giants made it easy for Mike LaCoss (4-2) to earn his first win since April 21. LaCoss was making his third start after undergoing knee surgery.

Matt Williams had a two-run homer and his RBI single capped the eight-run second inning against Pat Combs (6-9).

Braves 3, Cubs 0

Twenty-year-old Steve Avery became the youngest Atlanta pitcher ever to throw a shutout as the Braves beat Chicago.

Avery (3-7) allowed six hits, struck out eight, walked two and had two of Atlanta's six hits in leading the Braves to their third victory in four games. It was his first complete game in 14 starts.

"The difference between this game and my other games is that I had command of my pitches tonight," Avery said. "I was trying to move them in and out."

Oddibe McDowell scored two of Atlanta's three runs off Greg Maddux (11-11). Ron Gant added his 23rd homer, a solo shot in the eighth.

Padres 2, Expos 1

Andy Benes combined with three relievers on a three-hitter and Roberto Alomar and Tony Gwynn had RBI singles for San Diego.

Benes (10-8) gave up three hits, including Tim Raines' leadoff homer in the seventh, struck out two and walked two in 6 1-3 innings to win his third straight start. Craig Lefferts, the last of three relievers, pitched the ninth for his 21st save.

Bip Roberts singled with two outs in the third, stole second and scored on Alomar's single. Alomar stole second and scored on Gwynn's single off Dennis Martinez, who allowed only six hits in eight innings.

Cardinals 3, Astros 2

Vince Coleman singled home the go-ahead run in the 11th inning as St. Louis beat Houston.

Tom Pagonzi started the 11th with a single to left and continued to second when left fielder Mark Davidson misplayed the ball for an error. Pinch-runner Dave Collins was sacrificed to third by Jose Oquendo and after Milt Thompson walked, Coleman lined a run-scoring single to right off reliever Dave Smith (4-5).

Scott Terry (2-6) pitched two innings for the victory. Lee Smith got the last three outs for his 22nd save.

Youngsters rise to top at county bake show

Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers participated in the 1990 Bake Show Tuesday, Aug. 14, at the Hereford Community Center.

4-H'ers participated in a Bread-In-Bag Workshop in which 4-H'ers learned to prepare whole wheat yeast bread using a no mess method of yeast bread making.

Jill Dutton, 4-H council representative, led the Bake Show awards program where pledges were led by Rusty Dutton, Brent Carlson and Lee Harder. Breads program objectives were presented by Ashley Patridge, Amber Vasek, Emily Parker, Justin Betzen and Cindy Harder. Gifts were presented to judges Jeanette Ramey and Grace Covington. 4-H'ers also expressed appreciation to Arrowhead Mills for providing whole wheat flour to the participants and to Ford and Westway Extension Clubs and 4-H Parent Leaders Association for the financial support of the activity.

Appreciation was expressed by Jami Parker to Shirley Carlson for organizing and implementing the Bake Show and to the parents of the 4-H'ers for providing the luncheon and for their leadership and guidance in the project.

Donna Grotzgut presented the luncheon prayer and Lori Urbanczyk invited guests to the luncheon and tasting bee of the baked products.

Presenting the Bake Show awards was Shirley Carlson. Senior food winner was Jill Dutton and Donna Grotzgut serving as alternate. Senior project winner was Lori Urbanczyk.

Junior food winner was Amber Vasek with Cindy Harder being awarded alternate food winner. Top project winner was Justin Betzen.

Food entry winners and project winners will be competing at the District I Better Bake Show on Sept. 13.

Additional copies of the recipes featuring whole wheat flour in the Bake Show are available from the county extension office.

Serving as judges

Judging the recent 4-H Bake Show were, from left, Jeanette Ramey and Grace Covington. Both judges are members of the Westway Extension Homemakers Club which along with the Ford EH Club serve as sponsors of the annual Bake Show.

County crop tour Tuesday

Area cotton, grain sorghum, corn and other crops and farm-related issues will be showcased during the annual Deaf Smith County Crops tour on Tuesday.

The tour is sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Extension Crops Committee and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with Frito-Lay, Inc. It will begin at 7:30 a.m. at the Hereford Community Center with registration and refreshments. Refreshments will be furnished by George Warner Seed Co., AgriPro Seed Co., and Garrison Seed and Co.

The first stop on the tour will be at 8:15 a.m. at the Weldon Stephan farm, 10 miles south of Hereford on FM 1055. At this stop, 15 cotton varieties and two herbicides are being evaluated under irrigation.

The tour will then move to the Ronnie Andrews farm, three miles south of Hereford on FM 1055, one mile west and one mile south. The plot is located just south of the memorial chapel at the old prisoner of war camp. At this location at 8:45 a.m., 13 cotton varieties are being tested under irrigation.

About 9:30 a.m., the tour will move to the Grotzgut farm, four miles east of Hereford on U.S. Highway 60, seven miles north on FM 2943, a half-mile west on the county road then a half-mile south on the turnrow. Early-to mid-season and medium-late-to-full-season grain sorghum demonstrations featuring 30 grain sorghum hybrids being grown under irrigation can be seen.

The fourth stop on the tour, at 10:15 a.m., will feature yellow and white food corn being grown on the Roy Carlson farm, a half-mile south of Milo Center on U.S. Highway 385. At the Carlson farm, 17 white and 21 yellow corn hybrids are being evaluated for their yield and quality potentials.

At 11 a.m., the tour will move to the Ronald Vasek farm 1.5 miles north of Hereford on Highway 385. At the Vasek place, Dr. Carl Patrick, Extension entomologist, will discuss the testing being done for corn rootworm control with five pre-plant insecticides being used at various rates. Also, Dr. Brent Bean, Extension agronomist, will conduct evaluations of the new post-emergence herbicide Beacon on johnsongrass.

At 11:45 a.m., tour participants will have lunch at the Jimmie and Kenneth Christie farm two miles north of Summerfield on FM 1057 and 1.5 miles west on the county road. The lunch is being sponsored by the Christie's and by Frito-Lay. After lunch, participants can tour the food corn hybrid trials being conducted by Frito-Lay on the Christie farm.

The tour is open to all persons interested in Deaf Smith County crop production.

4-H Bake Show held

Farm imports at record pace

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States imported record levels of farm goods in the first half of this year but also increased its share of sales on the world market, the Agriculture Department says.

Imports rose 6 percent at $13.5 billion to break a record set last year. The Agriculture Department predicts that purchases from foreign countries will reach $22 billion before the year is over, topping the record set last year of $21.5 billion.

The freeze in the United States last winter was a big factor in increased imports. It drove up the average import unit values for fresh vegetables by 37 percent through April, said USDA.

"Tomato import unit values alone doubled in the first half of fiscal 1990," the department said. "Fruit imports rose 10 percent in the first 7 months and will probably maintain that pace for the entire fiscal year, primarily due to higher orange juice imports."

The Agriculture Department said beef imports from Australia were stronger than anticipated because of dry weather there, high prices in the United States and frozen beef storage problems in Japan.

Other large quantity imports included live cattle from Canada and Mexico.

On the other hand, more overseas sales of cotton, corn and vegetables offset decreases in wheat, soybeans, soybean meal, animals and dairy products to raise total exports to $25.2 billion during the first seven months of fiscal 1990, a 3 percent increase over the comparable period in 1989.

Cottonseed oil can reduce cholesterol

The National Cholesterol Education Program has suggested an eating plan that can help reduce one of the major risks of heart attacks—high blood cholesterol. This diet suggests you meet your daily needs for protein, vitamins and other nutrients. It also says to reduce your daily fat consumption to about 30 percent of total calorie intake. Avoid eating too many foods containing saturated fat and cholesterol. Substitute unsaturated fat for saturated fat wherever possible. Do not, however, eat too much of any kind of fat.

When you look at the ingredient labels on prepared foods you can be assured that when cottonseed oil is listed it's a quality product. It's also a nutritious contribution to your heart-healthy diet, says experts. Cottonseed oil is America's original vegetable oil. It's increasingly used in many prepared foods and tasty snacks these days in response to consumer concerns about fats in their diet. Experts recommend it for several reasons:

* Like other vegetable oils, it contains no cholesterol.

* Cottonseed oil is 73 percent unsaturated fat.

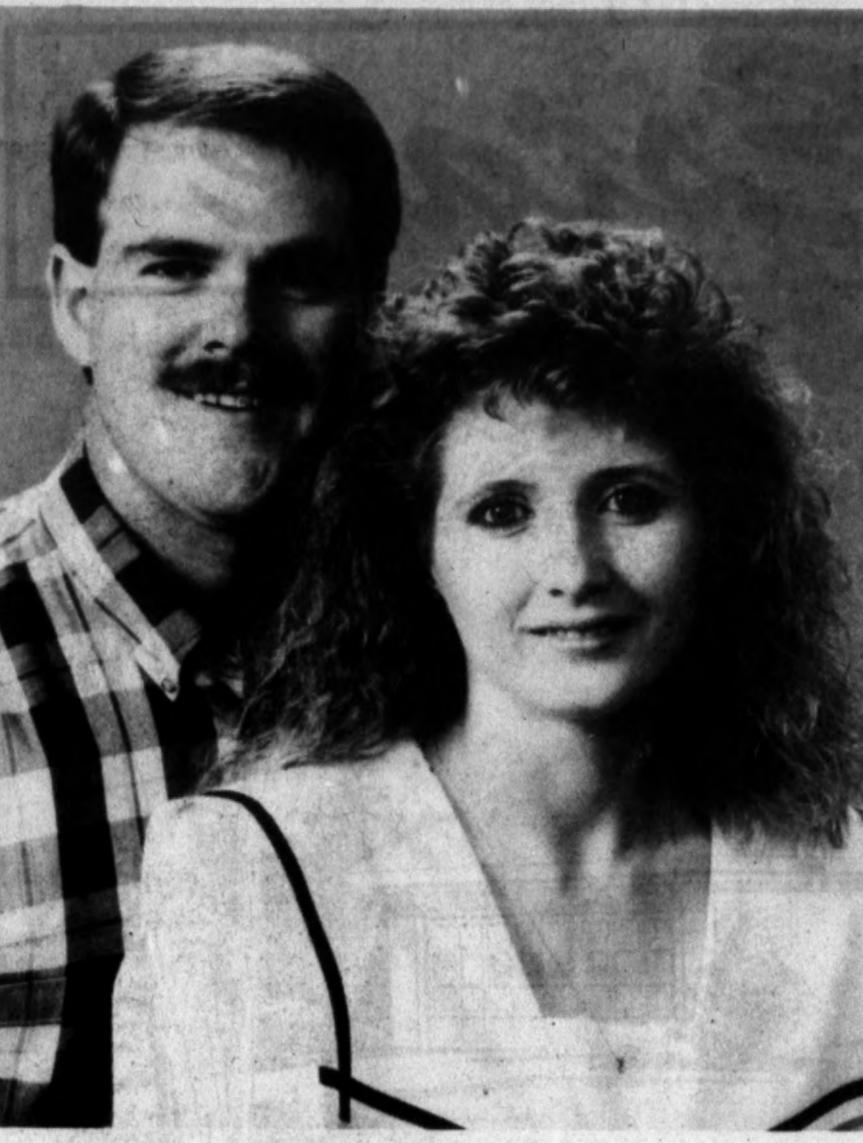

* Cottonseed oil brings out the flavor in foods. It's good in dressings and marinades. It enhances vegetable and meat flavors.

* Cottonseed oil's light, non-oily consistency and high smoke point make it desirable for oriental dishes such as stir-fry vegetables. It is used in the finest baked goods.

* Cottonseed oil is safe and healthful. There should be no concerns about pesticide residues. Like all major food crops, production is regulated by food protection agencies of the federal government. Cottonseed oil meets the government's strict standards for purity and safety.

* Start making more careful choices of the oils in the products you buy. Also, exercising regularly and seeing your doctor for an annual check-up are additional heart-healthy ideas.

The Louisiana Purchase was divided into the Territory of Orleans and the District of Louisiana in 1804.

SHARON ANN WRIGHT, ROBIN RAY RULAND

Nuptials planned

Sharon Ann Wright and Robin Ray Ruland plan to wed Oct. 20 in Wesley United Methodist Church in Hereford.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shorty Maxwell of Hereford and David Wright of Orlando, Fla. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ruland of Hereford.

Miss Wright is a 1986 Hereford High School graduate and is currently employed at The Office Center.

Ruland is a 1981 HHS graduate and is employed at the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office.

Walser reunion held

Area residents recently attended the 57th annual Walser reunion with 96 of C.R. Walser's grandfathers descendants attending.

One-hundred-and-two-year-old C.R. Walser was instrumental in starting the Walser family reunion in 1933 and hasn't missed one since then.

Presentation of computer printout updating the Walser genealogy from George Washington Walser (1818-1902) to C.R. Walser's grandfather was completed and presented by Leaton Clark and orders were taken for the printing of the entire history dating back to 1749.

"The Great Walser Route", a book belonging to Leaton Clark, traces the movements of the Walzers from Zermatt, Switzerland around 1000 A.D. down into Italy and back into Switzerland. Some members of the family settled in Big Walser Valley and Little Walser Valley near Mittelberg.

Billie and Leo Desrosiers of Cambridge, Mass., nieces of C.R. Walser, spent several days following the reunion with relatives in Hereford. They attended TEXAS, a rodeo in Amarillo, ate lunch at the Hereford Senior Citizens and viewed cattle operations of Gene Purcell and Wayne Walser at Summerfield.

Family members attending from Hereford were Guy Walser, Wayne Walser, Hollis and Edith Walser, Brian Halford, Richard and Pat Clark, and Leaton Clark.

Clora Brown was a guest and Leaton and Wanda Clark of Austin spent the week with his mother, Leaton Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan request no gifts, only the cherished friendship of those who attend.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am very disappointed and confused. After all my efforts to decrease my risk of a heart attack, it seems I have made a bad situation worse. I am a 58-year-old male, weigh 230 pounds and don't smoke. Two years ago my total cholesterol was 262; triglycerides, 282; HDL-cholesterol, 48; and LDL-cholesterol, 158. I went on a diet and started an exercise program. I walk 10 to 15 miles a week. My last test was as follows: total cholesterol, 234 (down 28); triglycerides, 171 (down 111); HDL-cholesterol 27 (down 21) and LDL-cholesterol 173 (up 15). With the decrease in my HDL-cholesterol and increase in LDL-cholesterol, my risk has almost doubled. I would appreciate your comments.

DEAR READER: Have your test repeated. The problem may be laboratory error or difference in laboratory procedures. If your HDL-cholesterol level is correct, you do need measures to raise it. Your doctor may need to give you some medication for this purpose. Your situation might be worse if you had not taken the measures you have. If your status permits, a more vigorous exercise program may also help.

Constance is also successful in gaining custody of her godchild Victoria. To Victoria, Constance is a generous and kind enchantress until Victoria makes the mistake of falling in love. Now her godmother becomes possessive and a master of deception. Victoria succeeds in breaking free of Constance but years later receives a gift from Constance, her diaries. The diaries not only tell what happened at the ill-fated April weekend, but also tells who Constance Shawcross really is.

is the tale of two sisters and sibling rivalry. Shay Karavan is famous, a beautiful radical freelance journalist who covers and cements with the rich and greedy. Natalie Karavan Mayers is neither famous nor glamorous, a liberal social worker who shelters and feeds the poor and needy.

Roxanne Pultizer's Twins is the story of Anne, a beautiful photographer from the opposite side of the tracks, to Palm Beach. Anne's marriage for love soon becomes torn apart by Dexter's lust, greed and revenge.

Against the background of Palm Beach society, love gone bad, and power gone corrupt stand Anne and Dexter's exquisite twin daughters, Carrie and Gracie. The twins grow, flourish, and try to survive pawns in Dexter's struggle to destroy their mother, in the fast-paced world of Palm Beach.

Lilian Jackson Braun adds another title to "The Cat Who" series. The Cat Who Lived High, the newest addition to the series, features Quilleran and his companions Koko and Yum Yum, two Siamese cats. An old friend from the big city asks Quill to help her organization fight the real estate developers and city planners in an attempt to save the Casablanca, a formerly glamorous apartment building.

The decrepit building is now owned by the eccentric and somewhat countess. S.O.C.K., the organization Save Our Casablanca Committee, wants to restore the building to its original splendor. Before Quill is able to do much, Koko discovers hidden bloodstains in the living room. Quill also learns that his very own penthouse was recently the scene of a particularly gruesome murder.

Dianne Bessinger, art dealer, founder of S.O.C.K. and close friend of the countess is the victim. Police believe Dianne was stabbed to death by her artist lover Ross Rasmus, who then painted a confession on the wall and leaped to his death 14 stories below.

Jim Quilleran still feels a little uneasy with the explanation. If Dianne's boyfriend is the killer wouldn't he have spelled her name correctly in his confession? Quill also believes that Dianne's death is somehow connected with the plight of the Casablanca. Launching his own investigation Quill must find the murderer before he becomes the next victim.

Dark Angel by Sally Beauman begins on a gala April weekend in 1910. A terrible, freakish accident occurs at the Cavendish family's Wiltshire estate. Ten-year-old Constance Shawcross had accompanied her unscrupulous father to Winterscombe, and from that time on Constance's life is inextricably bound with the Cavendish family.

While World War I rages Constance blossoms into a cool-headed ditz, but only one man can help Constance escape from her destructiveness. When he eludes Constance she declares war on love and succeeds in making a splendid marriage which moves her to America.

Constance is also successful in gaining custody of her godchild Victoria. To Victoria, Constance is a generous and kind enchantress until Victoria makes the mistake of falling in love. Now her godmother becomes possessive and a master of deception. Victoria succeeds in breaking free of Constance but years later receives a gift from Constance, her diaries. The diaries not only tell what happened at the ill-fated April weekend, but also tells who Constance Shawcross really is.

Seventh Heaven by Alice Hoffman features a typical suburban community in the 1950s. Nora Silk is an extraordinary person determined to raise her two children without a husband. Everyone in town is somehow touched by her. Women are jealous of her sensuousness and emboldened by her example. Men discover a mixture of female power and passion that surpasses their serious experience and even children seem aware of her unusual spirit.

It's a painful fact of life

Which of the following explains why women wear high heels?

- To demonstrate their professional and economic status
- To be "in fashion"
- To look taller or slimmer
- To appear more attractive to men

The answer? According to a recent study, women wear high heels for all of these reasons, and to enhance their positive self-images.

High heels are a fact of life for today's busy working women: 55 million women wear high heels daily or regularly. Unfortunately, 64 percent of these women find pumps uncomfortable, and many suffer from ball-of-foot pain, heel problems, corns, calluses and blisters.

To solve high heel fit and comfort problems, foot experts give the following suggestions:

- Ensure proper shoe fit. Constant weight-bearing over the years can cause feet to spread, especially across the ball of the foot. So when buying pumps, have both feet measured while standing up and always buy for the larger foot.
- The heel should fit snugly, but not too tight. If high heels loosen over time, try a hidden comfort heel liner to improve shoe fit and prevent heel slippage.

H&R Block Income Tax Course Begins Sept. 10th

Thousands of people are saving money at tax time and earning money in their spare time as income tax preparers.

H&R BLOCK is offering a Basic Income Tax Course starting Sept. 10. There will be a choice of morning, afternoon or evening classes. Classes will be held at several locations in Amarillo.

The modest fee charged for this course includes all textbooks, reference materials and tax forms necessary for completion of the school. The fee may be paid by installment. The course is approved by the Texas Education Agency and certificates are awarded to all graduates.

The tax school will meet twice a week for 13 weeks and will consist of 75 hours of instruction. Experienced BLOCK personnel will teach current tax laws, theory and application, and electronic filing as practiced in BLOCK offices.

The course is programmed to teach students increasingly complex problems as study progresses. There is a classroom lecture on each subject and practice problems at every level. Some of the topics covered are filing requirements, itemizing deductions, farm returns, small business returns, rentals, royalties, and electronic filing requirements. Students find the course interesting and challenging.

Anyone may enroll. There are no restrictions or qualifications of any kind. The course is ideally suited for housewives, retired persons, teachers or anyone wanting to acquire tax knowledge or supplement their income.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with BLOCK. However, BLOCK is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H&R BLOCK.

Registration forms and brochures for the Income Tax Course may be obtained by contacting the H&R BLOCK office at 300 West 10th Street,

EUROPEAN PLAN OF CLASSIC STYLE

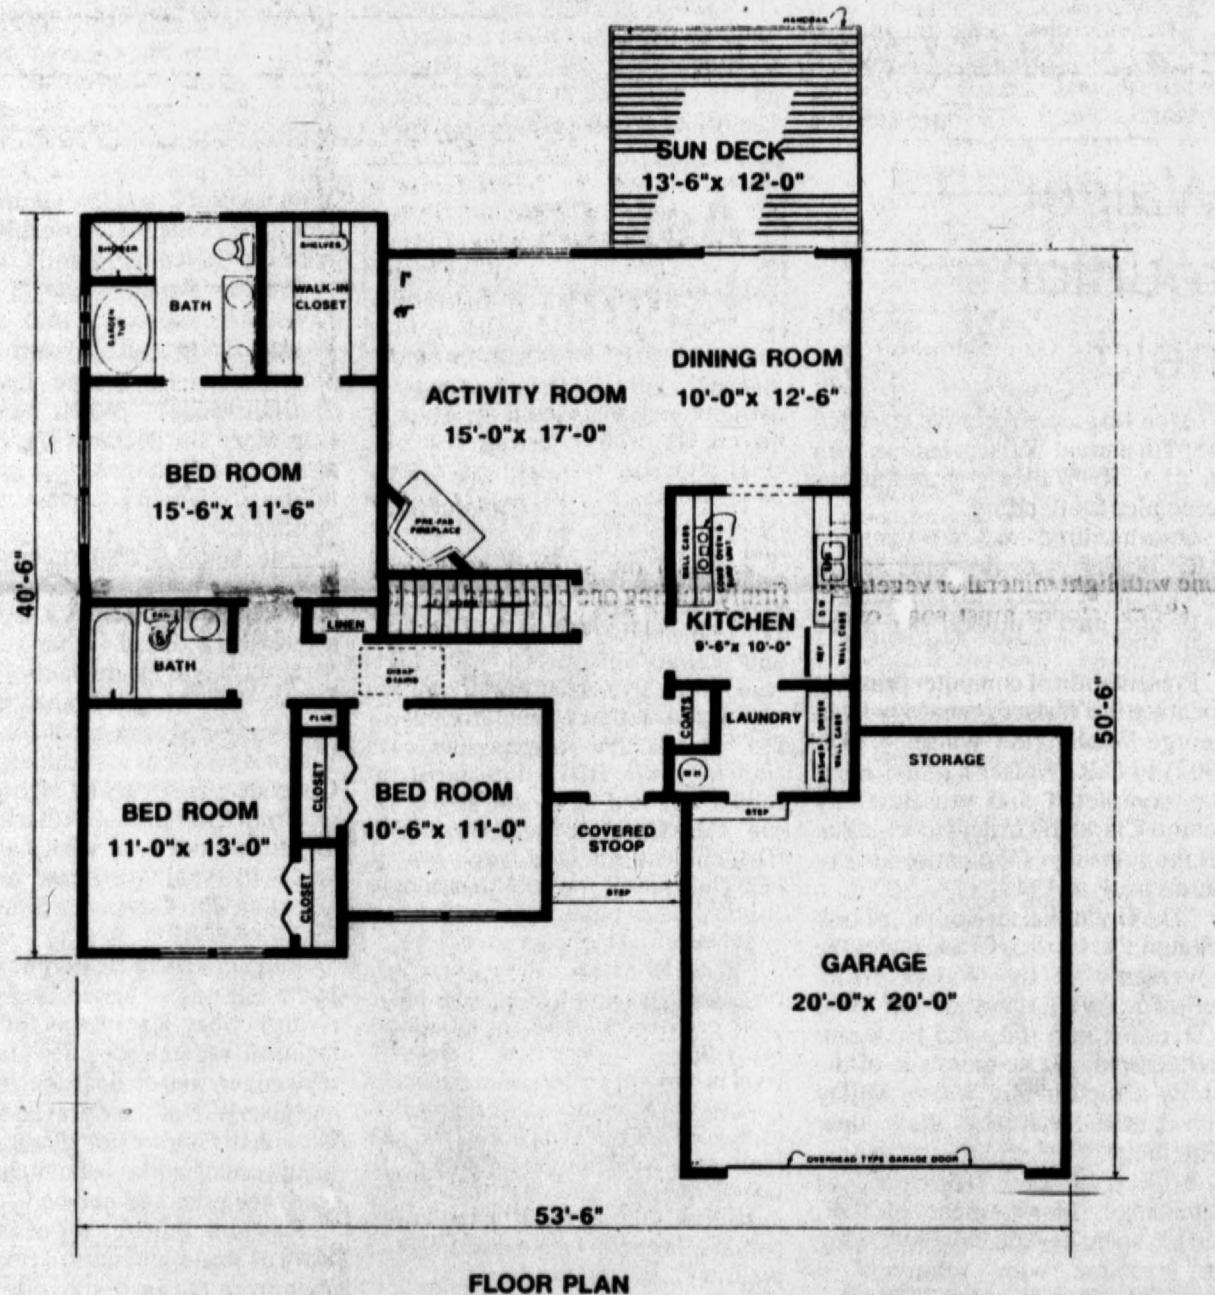

© BY W.D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

Entrance to this home offers character and charm all its own. Even though the design is of small square footage, it includes a deluxe touch that intensifies the feeling of a much larger plan.

Your particular observation should be directed to the luxury master bedroom suite which includes a private master bath with garden tub and separate shower and two lavatories. This rectangular room is direct from the small central hall and there is a large walk in closet sized to accommodate a full wardrobe. The remaining two bedrooms are serviced by a central bath, this bath also servicing daytime use. Closets and attic storage are from the central hall and the basement approach is adjacent to the great room (activity room). The corner fireplace is ascetically located and the large dining room is shown with deck and corridor kitchen access. Full laundry facilities are shown, this room also providing a direct access to the double garage.

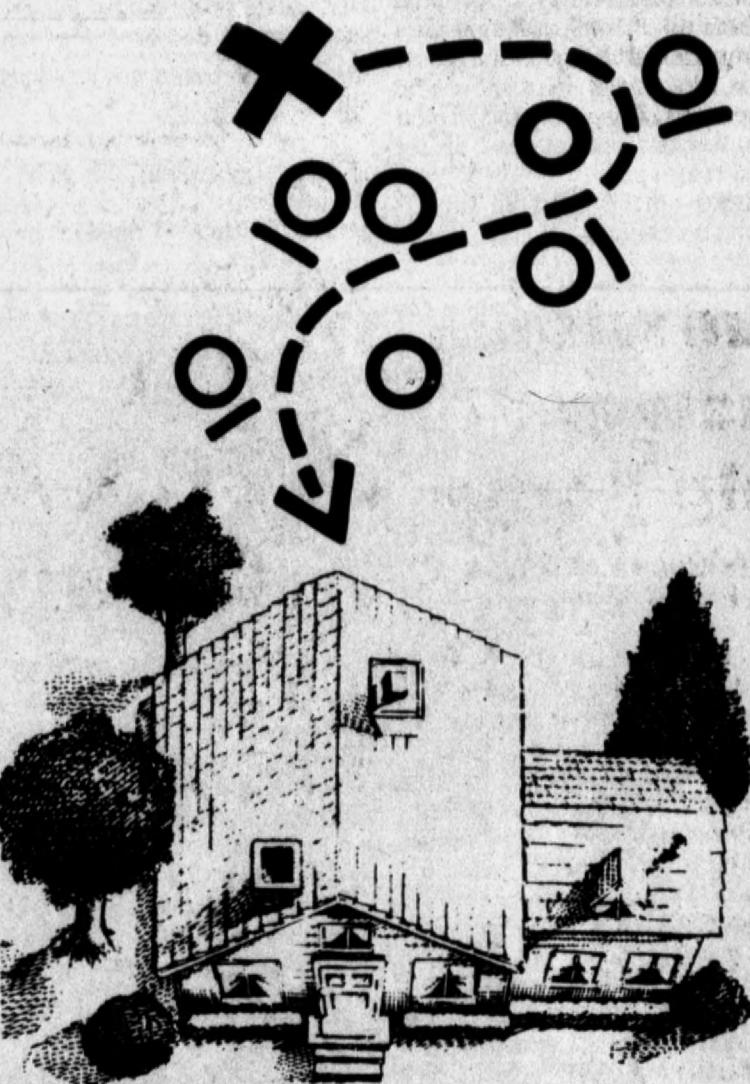

The European style façade is enhanced by stucco finish, combined hip and gable roof and multi-lite windows.

The plan is number 475. It includes only 1,488 square feet of heated space. All W. D. Farmer plans are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

One play could run you clear of home buying interference.

Financing, Down Payments, Price negotiations. Inspections. All obstacles that could block you from buying a home.

But one move could get you right through that red tape. A call to an experienced real estate agent.

An expert agent can coach you smoothly through the entire home buying process. From using the sophisticated multiple listing service to find the home that fits your needs and your budget. To tackling financing options. Setting up and monitoring inspections. Negotiating price. And even maneuvering you through closing.

So when you need a skilled teammate, get someone who really knows the housing field—a real estate agent.

Read The Hereford Brand for more information about qualified agents. Every day, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And on Sundays the housing section examines the latest market trends and home buying opportunities.

Getting the right coaching now could mean the difference between confusion and closing.

Bridal shower held for Delayna Duggan

Delayna Duggan, Sept. 8 bride-elect of Garre Don Lowrance, was honored with an afternoon bridal shower Aug. 18 in the home of Mrs. Richard Schlabs.

Welcoming guests with Miss Duggan were Novelle Solomon; Jana Duggan, the honoree's mother; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Diana Lowrance; and grandmothers, Polly Lowrance and Novelle Solomon.

The honoree's grandmothers, Virginia Keeter and Lela Duggan, invited guests to register.

Wendy Sanders served refreshments of rose colored punch and cookies from a table covered with a rose cloth and lace overlay. It was centered with rose and teal colored silk flowers accented with greenery.

Bride-elect honored

A bridal shower was held for Delayna Duggan, Sept. 8 bride-elect of Garre Don Lowrance, Aug. 18 in the home of Mrs. Richard Schlabs. Greeting guests with the honoree were, from left, Polly Lowrance, grandmother of the prospective bridegroom; and his mother, Diana Lowrance; Jana Duggan, the honoree's mother; Novelle Solomon, the prospective bridegroom's grandmother; and Laura Schlabs.

Questions, answers to help home

By POPULAR MECHANICS
For AP Newsfeatures

Q. I am looking at an older house and I'd like to get some tips on what to check for when inspecting the domestic water-plumbing system.

A. Most likely you'll be looking at iron pipes which were commonly used in older homes. They have a projected life of about 45 years and are generally replaced on an as-needed basis using copper pipes. Unless a special electrolytic coupling is used at the joint between the iron and copper sections, galvanic action can cause deterioration of the iron pipe. This is indicated by a buildup of rust and mineral deposits at the joints.

A problem to look for with brass pipes is that the zinc in the brass gradually dissolves into the water, leaving holes in the pipe. Water oozing out at these pinholes evaporates. The minerals contained in the water are then deposited on the surface of the pipe and eventually seal the leak. A pipe in this condition should be replaced.

Another common plumbing problem concerns sink drains that have S-type drain traps. These traps are no longer allowed in many communities because they don't always vent properly. If the trap loses its water seal, you have an open pipe between the sewer and the sink. Noxious sewer gases can then seep into the room. S-traps are found in older homes and in some newer renovations that were not approved by the municipal building inspector.

Q. I'd like to paint over simulated wood-grain hardwood paneling that has V-grooves in the surface. How can I best prepare the panels for painting and ensure that the grooves won't show?

A. The surest way to create a smooth, paint-receptive surface would be to apply drywall over the paneling, but this may involve other alterations you're not prepared for.

A second alternative would be to sand the paneling lightly to remove any gloss, then tape and compound over the grooves and seams. Lay a bed of wallboard compound over each groove with a 3-inch putty knife, apply tape while the compound is still wet, and smooth the tape with a 4-inch taping knife. When the first application is dry, apply a thin second coat of compound with a 6-inch taping knife. A third coat applied with an 8- or 10-inch knife may be required. Sand lightly between coats with medium (120-grit) paper.

CINDY BURNETT, STEVE VEIGEL

Prenuptial reception held in McQuigg home

An evening prenuptial reception honoring Cindy Burnett of San Diego, Calif. and Steve Veigel of Dallas was held Aug. 18 in the home of Gary and Mary Kay McQuigg.

The couple will exchange wedding vows Saturday, Sept. 1, in the Eastside Free Methodist Church in Bellevue, Wash.

Parents of the couple are Bobby and Ella Marie Veigel of Hereford and Tom and Barbara Burnett of Bellevue.

Greeting guests with the honored couple were the grandparents of the prospective bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Veigel, and his aunt, Dorothy Oswald of Philadelphia, Pa., along with his parents and sisters, Vicki and Holly.

Refreshments were served in the dining room from silver and cut-glass appointments. The centerpiece for the serving table was a large arrangement of fresh summer flowers in an antique silver pedestal epergne entwined with silver and pink streamers. The flowers through the home were arranged by Ella Marie Veigel.

Guests were served meat empanadas, ham puffs, miniature baked chicken sandwiches, cream cheese roll-ups, finger sandwiches, and assorted fresh fruits. The occasion was highlighted by a reception cake, mints and nuts served from the antique buffet. Champagne Blossom punch was served from a cut-glass punch bowl with floating fresh rosebuds. Fresh flowers and pink tapers were used throughout the home.

Host couples for the gala evening were: Mary Kay and Gary McQuigg, Kitty and Cameron Gault, Beverly and John David Bryant, Lucy and Ken Rogers, Betty and Danny Martin, Margaret and Tommy Carnahan, Gladys and G.C. Merritt, Marilyn and Sam Kirk, Selsley and Rudy Metz, Judy and Ralph Detten, Mary and Dick Zinser and Janice and Jim Cowright.

The couple was presented a hostess gift of special selected pieces of their chosen Christian Dior china.

Red Cross Update

BY BETTY HENSON

New child safety seats for the Chapter Car Seat Rental program have arrived at the Red Cross office. Each family renting a seat will receive instructions on proper use of the car seat.

The infant seats will rent for $10 and $5 will be refunded when the seat is returned in good condition. Several films on safety belt use and how accidents happen are at the Red Cross office for viewing. Programs will be presented on safety in cars. For further information call the Red Cross office at 364-3761.

The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a United Way Agency.

U.S. Secretary of State William H. Seward reached agreement with Russia March 30, 1867, to purchase the territory of Alaska for $7.2 million.

YOUR EYES

THINNER LENSES

The high myope and the high hyperope are always asking for thinner, more lightweight and cosmetically appealing lenses. And now there are several types of high index lenses on the market. Each is made of a different configuration of plastics, and each has its own unique properties.

In discussion with the optometrist, you must decide which high index lens is best for your personal needs by considering the following questions:

- Will the lenses affect peripheral or side vision?
- Are they impact-resistant enough?
- Are they so soft that they will scratch easily?
- Will they tint well?
- Will they take an anti-reflective coating evenly?
- Are the lenses affected by heat or direct sunlight?

Once you decide which of the lenses suits your lifestyle needs, you will enjoy the look and comfort of the ones you choose.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In 1976 you printed a beautiful response to "Meant Well Parents" -- parents who had "worked hard to achieve the American dream, loved their kids, and tried to give them the best world ever," yet who were suffering from guilt over their "maladjusted, disoriented" children.

Ann, I can't tell you how many times I have been comforted by your kind, reassuring words. Just the other day, after an emotional, guilt-laden talk with my own maladjusted child, I turned to my treasured copy for solace. You can imagine my grief after discovering that my copy had been left in the pocket of my shirt, which had just been thrown into the wash. All that is left are bits and pieces.

Please, Ann, run another copy as soon as possible. I depend on it for reassurance and strength. -- Another Parent Who Meant Well

DEAR MEANT WELL: To you and the thousands of other parents who are miserable because of "what you have done" to your children, I say this: Stop beating yourselves. You did the best you could with the tools at hand -- inexperience, clay feet, the works. No one knows why some children turn out to be champions in spite of parents who provided precious little emotional nourishment, while other kids -- loved, wanted, tenderly nurtured, with all the so-called advantages -- turn out perverse, estranged and unable to cope.

I have come to believe in the genetic factor that has been ignored by many behavioral "experts." We all inherit our nervous systems and if the nervous system is fragile, it places severe limitations on what a person can tolerate. Certain individuals are born survivors. They can withstand life's harshest blows and emerge the stronger for it. Others crumble in the face of minor adversity. The same fire that melts butter can make steel strong.

And let us not overlook personal responsibility. I am sick of hearing children blame their parents for their messed-up lives. People with all sorts of handicaps can and do make it in this demanding and competitive world. I see evidence of this "phenomenon" all around me -- and if you look closely, you will see it, too.

For those who are hooked on dope, there are drug-abuse centers with trained personnel, eager and waiting to help. For individuals who need professional counseling, there are mental health clinics. Self-help groups do a remarkable job -- and they are free: Alcoholics Anonymous, Gamblers Anonymous, Recovery Inc. The list is endless.

Enough of this "You damaged me, now take care of me" nonsense. It's a cop-out. The parental guilt laid on by our kids is so thick you can cut it with a knife. It serves no purpose except to perpetuate financial and emotional dependence and create a climate of hostility, punishment and ultimate failure. God helps those who help themselves.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My father and I have different ideas about boy-girl relationships.

I believe it is perfectly OK for a girl to call up a guy and ask him out. I believe this is very flattering and makes him feel good about himself. My father thinks differently. What do you think? -- Wondering In New York

DEAR WONDERING: There's nothing wrong with a girl calling a guy these days. It sure beats staying home.

When planning a wedding, who pays for what? Who stands where? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" has all the answers. Venhaus, Backus married Saturday Kendra Lee Venhaus of Dumas and Glenn Francis Backus of Canyon exchanged nuptials Saturday afternoon in St. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church in Dumas.

The marriage was officiated by Father Pat Carruthers of Canyon. Co-concelebrant was Father Ken Keller of Amarillo.

The bride is the daughter of Clyde and Angie Venhaus of Dumas and the bridegroom is the son of Francis and Connie Backus of 119 Oak St.

Aqua and pink was the color scheme used in the church decorations.

Pamela Simms was maid of honor and best man was the groom's brother, Larry Backus.

Serving as bridesmaids were the bride's cousins, Renee Huseman, Lisa Wethington and Stephanie Brockman; Julie Williams; and Jennifer Gerber.

Groomsmen included the groom's brothers, Bobby and Russell Backus; the bride's brother, Dave Venhaus; Rex Baxter; and Bill Pfannstiel.

The groom's cousin, Erica Gerber, daughter of Joel and Mary Beth Gerber, was flower girl. Ring bearer was the bride's brother, Todd Venhaus.

Candles were lit by Nikki Wethington, the bride's cousin, and Beth Bilbrey.

Principal wedding selections were vocalized by Krista Gerber and Chris Grotzegut with accompaniment provided by the bride's aunt, Rosemary Ramakers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore the traditional white wedding gown of sparkle organza fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, ruffled sleeves and a basque waistline. The back of the gown was decorated with a designer's bow and the full and flowing skirt of tiers of organza ruffles swept into a cathedral-length train.

The multi-tiered bridal veil of illusion was designed with pencil edging and was attached to a headpiece decorated with miniature pink flowers and pink ribbon streamers.

She carried a cascading arrangement of white and aqua flowers with accents of pink. The bouquet was further enhanced by a large lace bow.

Bridal attendants wore aqua tea-length dresses and carried aqua bouquets with pink accents.

Kelly Hoelting and Shannon Brown invited guests to register at the reception held in the church social hall.

Cake and punch were served by Beth Bilbrey, Nikki Wethington and M'iss Keisling.

The reception decorations depicted the bride's chosen colors of aqua and pink.

The bride is majoring in education at West Texas State University.

The groom, who is a supervisor with UPS, received his bachelor degree in management at WTSU and is working on his masters degree in statistics at WT.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Connie Sellecca claims she was fired from the starring role in ABC's upcoming comedy "Baby Talk" and is suing for more than $1.5 million.

The lawsuit, filed Tuesday, alleges that producer Ed Weinberger "beat up on Sellecca emotionally" and demanded that she submit unconditionally to his authority.

Sellecca, a former star of ABC's "Hotel," claimed she was paid only $25,000 for the pilot episode instead of a promised $45,000.

Woman's Health

BY GEORGE D.
MALKASIAN, M.D.

After a woman has had surgery for breast cancer, she is faced with the decision of whether or not to undergo breast reconstruction. Many women find they are satisfied with a removable prosthesis, a breast form worn in the bra. Others decide that they will feel better about themselves and their looks if they have their breast reconstructed. This decision is a very personal one and no one way is best for all women.

If a woman desires to have her breast reconstructed, she should discuss the possibilities and the procedures with her doctor before the initial operation. In some cases, it may be done immediately after mastectomy (a surgical procedure to remove the breast) or later-even years later. Doctors often suggest waiting at least three to six months to permit the tissue to heal and become supple.

There are several different procedures to reconstruct a breast, depending on how much of the breast tissue and muscle remains after surgery and what type of procedure a woman prefers. Each reconstruction is custom-tailored to fit a woman's needs.

Women who have had a modified radical mastectomy (removal of the breast and underarm lymph nodes) are often candidates for "simple" breast reconstruction. Because the modified radical procedure preserves the pectoral muscles in the chest, doctors can insert an implant, usually a soft fluid or gel-filled sac, beneath the skin under the tissue covering the muscle.

Many mastectomy patients, however, require more than just an implant. If not enough chest muscle remains after surgery, the doctor must borrow muscle and skin from other parts of the body. Sometimes a flap of muscle and skin is transferred from the back to the chest. Other times, tissue is brought up from the abdomen. These tissues provide a soft but firm cushion under which to insert the implant.

Doctors can also reconstruct the nipple and areola, the dark-colored skin around the nipple. Most often, doctors want to wait several weeks or months before performing this procedure to allow the tissue to settle in place so that adjustments to the breast can be made at the same time. Usually, skin from other parts of the body and from the new breast or the opposite breast is used to reconstruct the areola and nipple.

Women who are considering reconstructive surgery should discuss the benefits and risks with their doctor. As with any plastic surgery, it is difficult to predict the overall result. For many women, however, reconstruction plays an important role in improving self-image after breast cancer surgery.

Rodriguez, Pritchett vows spoken

Silvia Darlene Rodriguez of Hereford became the bride of Monty Dean Pritchett of Amarillo during an early evening wedding ceremony Saturday at S. George Baptist Church in Amarillo.

The marriage was officiated by the Rev. Robert Field of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rodriguez of 812 Ave. K, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Pritchett of Amarillo.

Decorating the church altar were three brass 15-branch candelabras adorned with off-white gladioli, spider mums and carnations. The unity candle, placed on a pedestal covered with a lace cloth, was surrounded by brass candle rings and side tapers. The pews were marked by wide peach ribbons with narrow teal ribbon accents.

Mary Ann Ortiz of Newburgh, N.Y. served her sister as matron of honor and Forrest Pritchett of Amarillo was his brother's best man.

Bridesmaids included Linda Govea of Oceanside, Calif., the bride's sister; Rosemary Valdez of Amarillo, the bride's cousin; and Marissa Tierno of Amarillo.

Groomsmen were the groom's cousins, Robert Treadaway and Shane Treadaway, both of Amarillo, and Terry Hull, also of Amarillo.

Flower girls were the bride's daughter, Sarina Nichole Rodriguez, and the bride's niece, Delynn Rodriguez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rodriguez Jr. of Canyon.

The groom's nephew, Cris Hayes, son of Lanetta Wright, was ring

Easy to fix salad great for summer

NEW YORK (AP) - Nothing suits summer better than foods that are light and easy to prepare.

An electric blender speeds the preparation time for the following recipe, allowing you to spend less time in the kitchen and more time outdoors.

PINA COLADA FRUIT SALAD
Dressing:
1 cup unflavored yogurt
One 2-ounce jar crystallized ginger
One-half of a 6-ounce can frozen pineapple juice concentrate, thawed
Fruit Salad:
1 pineapple, cut into chunks
1 cantaloupe, cut into chunks
3 navel oranges, sectioned
3 kiwifruit, cut into slices
1 cup shredded coconut, toasted

Combine yogurt, crystallized ginger and pineapple juice concentrate in container of an electric blender. Blend until smooth. Cover and refrigerate until needed.

Combine pineapple, cantaloupe, oranges and kiwifruit in serving bowl. Cover and keep chilled. Just before serving, stir dressing into fruit salad. Sprinkle coconut over top. Makes 6 servings.

bearer.

Candles were lit by the groom's niece and nephew, Cheree Pritchett and Clifton Gallegos, respectively.

Janet Scarth, accompanied by pianist Jarrett Jester, vocalized "Wind Breath By Winds."

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an elegant gown of ivory silk designed with a sweetheart neckline outlined with floral lace scallops. The fitted bodice was accented with matching lace and encrusted with miniature beads and sequins. The long chiffon sleeves, adorned with lace appliques, were puffed to the elbows and then fell fitted over the bride's wrists. The back of the gown was decorated with strands of pearls and the full skirt edged with a deep, scalloped lace flounce and swept into a cathedral-length train.

The ivory bridal illusion veil was trimmed with a deep floral lace runner and formed a pouf at the crown which was enhanced with loops of pearls.

She carried a cascading bouquet of ivory silk flowers, encircled by lace, and adorned with accents of peach and teal, and pearl sprays. Peach, teal and ivory streamers were also used as accents.

Her jewelry consisted of a pearl and diamond necklace and earrings which were given to her by her mother.

The matron of honor wore a teal silk tea-length dress fashioned with puffed sleeves marked with bows. A large designer bow accented the back. The bridesmaids wore peach colored dresses made similar to the matron of honor's dress.

The groom's sister, Lanetta Wright of Amarillo, invited guests to register at the reception held at the church.

The bride's sisters-in-law, Elizabeth Rodriguez and Patricia Rodriguez, both of Canyon, served cake and poured punch.

The main refreshment table was covered with a peach cloth fashioned with draped ruffles and an ivory lace overlay. The three-tiered round ivory cake was surrounded by three smaller cakes all decorated with peach and teal flowers. The cake was topped by a pair of doves.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Corpus Christi, the bride was attired in a navy blue two-piece ensemble which was ruffled at the waist. Her accessories included black shoes.

The couple will reside in Amarillo.

The bride is currently employed at United Supermarket in Amarillo and is attending Amarillo College. She graduated from Hereford High School in 1988. While a student she was named 1987 Homecoming Queen, 1988 Annual Queen and 1988 Most Beautiful candidate.

The bridegroom, a 1985 graduate of Amarillo High School and is employed by Mrs. Baird's Bread of Amarillo.

Out-of-town family members that attended the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rodriguez Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Rodriguez, all of Canyon; Mary Ann Ortiz of Newburgh, N.Y.; Linda Govea of Oceanside, Calif.; Alfonso Fuentes of Wash., Colo.; and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Valdez of Lubbock.

Social Security

People who have Medicare medical insurance (Part B Medicare) should know about an important change in the way claims are submitted. Jim Talbot, social security manager in Amarillo said today.

"Beginning Sept. 1, the Medicare medical insurance claim must be prepared and submitted by the service provider—the doctor, laboratory, medical supply company, or other party giving the service," said Talbot.

In the past, Medicare beneficiaries had to submit a form 1490s (Patient's Request for Medicare) unless the doctor or service provider accepted "assignment." Assignment means that the doctor or other service provider accepts the Medicare-approved charge as the total charge. But starting in September, the doctor or other service provider must send in the claim even if they don't accept assignment.

Talbot stressed that the service provider cannot charge for preparing and submitting the Medicare claim.

"If a service provider refuses to prepare and submit the Medicare claim, or charges a fee for doing so, the beneficiary should contact his or her Medicare Carrier."

Hints from Heloise

FRAGILE PACKING TIP

Dear Heloise: I have a daughter who is in the armed services overseas and several times a year I send her packages. One year I needed to mail a fragile item and was unsure of the best way to package it, but came up with the following idea:

After wrapping the item in several plastic bags, I positioned it in the box and put several packages of marshmallows all around it to cushion it. It arrived in great shape and my daughter and her friends enjoyed roasting the marshmallows. — Janice Cox, Knoxville, Tenn.

BOTTLE CARRIER

Dear Heloise: Here is a helpful hint for working mothers of children who are still on the bottle. I have taken the cardboard cartons from carbonated wine beverages and covered them with colorful adhesive-backed plastic.

They are wonderful for carrying bottles and/or jars of baby food to the day-care center. — Susan E. Tibbs, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

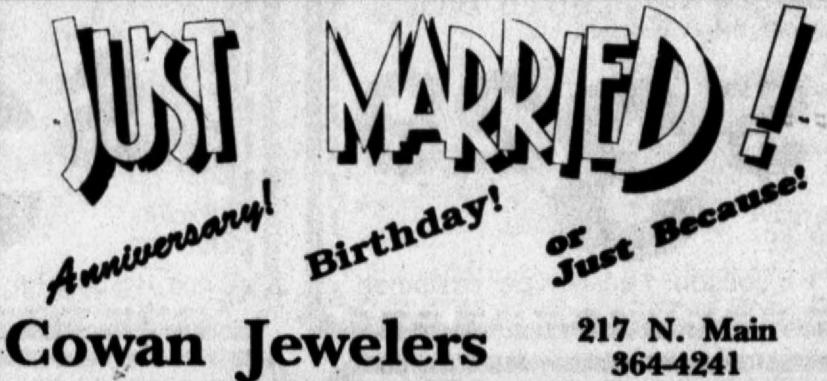

Thank You

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many friends for the calls, visits, food, and flowers. Your love, prayers, and spiritual support were especially helpful during our time of sorrow. We send a special thank you to Dr. Johnson, the ICU nursing staff, and the ER staff at Deaf Smith General Hospital for their care and concern.

Casarez, Cepeda wed Aug. 11 in Hereford

During a candlelight wedding ceremony Aug. 11 at Primera Iglesia Bautista, Wanda Lee Casarez and Emmanuel Cepeda exchanged nuptials. Officiating was the Rev. Rush Coffman of First Baptist Church in Hale Center.

The bride is the daughter of Lupe Casarez of Hereford and Josie Mungia of Amarillo. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Martinez of Hereford.

The church altar was centered by spiral candelabra flanked by floral arrangements of hot pink carnations accented with turquoise ribbons. Pews were marked by hot pink and turquoise bows.

The bride's cousin, Geneva Casarez, was maid of honor and best man was the bride's cousin, Ciro Casarez.

Bridesmaids included Becky Coronado; Lisa Madrigal, the bridegroom's cousin; Patricia Casarez, the bride's sister; and Rachel Cepeda, the bridegroom's sister.

Serving as groomsmen were the bridegroom's uncle, Ralph Martinez; Joel Tijerina; and Marcus Morales and Mark Anthony Garcia, both cousins of the bridegroom.

Guests were escorted by Paul Morales, the bridegroom's cousin; George Cadena, the bride's brother; and Anthony Urias, the bride's cousin.

Flower girls were Kerric Coffman, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Rush Coffman, and Sandra Cardenas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Cardenas. Ring bearer was Jessie Castillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Castillo.

Candles were lit by Adolfo Cadena, the bride's brother, and Michelle Garcia, the bridegroom's cousin.

The bridegroom's cousin, Jessie Garcia of Nashville, Tenn., accompanied by taped music, vocalized "Security," "I'll Be There" and "Flesh of My Flesh."

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore the traditional white satin wedding gown fashioned with a wedding ring collar of lace, fitted bodice and long sleeves, adorned by lace, miniature beads and pearl drops. The back of the dress was marked by a designer's bow and the full skirt swept into a chapel-length train which was outlined with beading.

The bridal illusion veil was edged with seed pearls and formed a pouf at the back of an ornate beaded headpiece which featured side sprays of white flowers, leaves and pearls.

She carried a bouquet of crystal and white silk flowers outlined with beads.

Her jewelry consisted of diamond earrings belonging to her aunt.

Bridal attendants wore street-length satin turquoise and hot pink dresses designed with bubble skirts which were accented with lace fronts, and puff sleeves. They carried white roses with hot pink and turquoise flowers and ribbons.

Cake was served by Geneva Casarez, Eudelia Iruegas and Beck Coronado.

Decorations at the reception included hot pink roses, hot pink and turquoise flowers and string beads arranged in vases. The four-tiered wedding cake featured a fountain in the center with two bridges connecting the cake with smaller cakes at the sides.

The couple honeymooned in Corpus Christi. They are living in Hereford.

The bride is a junior at Hereford High School and the bridegroom is a senior. He is employed at Mendoza Trucking.

Wedding guests represented Roswell, N.M., Nashville, Tenn., Marion, Ind., Dallas, Plainview, Hale Center and Nampa, Idaho.

40th class reunion scheduled

The Hereford High School graduating class of 1950 will be gathering several times during the Labor Day weekend for a 40th class reunion. The group invites all parents, friends and former teachers to join them in renewing old acquaintances.

To start the festivities, the first informal get-together will be held at 7 p.m. that Friday in the home of Bobby Owen, 340 Elm. On the following Saturday afternoon beginning at 2, Joyce McGee Lomas will serve as hostess at a coffee in her home at 509 Star. Old annuals and other pictures will be on display.

At 7 p.m. Saturday, the former classmates, spouses and others will attend a banquet at the Hereford Country Club. The cost is $15 per person.

To conclude the reunion on Sunday, a brunch will be held beginning at 11:30 a.m. in the home of Joe Kerr, 226 Northwest Drive. Kerr explains that those who plan to attend local church services are invited to come after 12. The 1950 class has met every five years for approximately 30 years and an average of 40 from the graduating class of 80 have attended. Joyce Lomas has held the position of planning coordinator each year.

Idaho is the only state in the U.S. over which no foreign flag has ever flown.

"Rocky" won the Academy Award for Best Picture of 1976. Best actor and actress awards went to the late Peter Finch and to Faye Dunaway for "Network."

Abundant Life

Being Trustworthy

BY BOB WEAR

Being trustworthy is a commendable personal trait. When members of a social order are trustworthy, the social order is strong. If the members of a business establishment are trustworthy, the business has a chance to succeed. When the members of a family or any other group of people are trustworthy, the group is likely to be peaceful and happy. Being trustworthy is a desirable condition of human interaction, and serves to help preserve other very desirable elements of human well-being.

We know that some people are trustworthy, and we know that some are not. It is sometimes said, that no one can be trusted; however, this is not true. Some people can be trusted, and it is our responsibility to make a great effort to identify those who can be trusted and those who must not be trusted. There is no merit in being gullible or naive; but we cannot afford to mistrust all people. "You may be deceived if you trust too much, but you will live in torment if you do not trust enough." -Dr. F. Crane.

We must try to prove ourselves worthy of trust and confidence. In doing so, we will be making a valuable contribution to our family, our business, and to all other units of our social order. Trustworthiness strengthens and dignifies all other desirable elements of character and personality. It stabilizes all of the important phases of human interaction, because it serves as a dependable anchor in our daily associations.

Sarah Wedington, well-known attorney, writer, lecturer, former member of the Texas House of Representatives, and former assistant to President Jimmy Carter spoke about the opportunities and methods for developing leadership among today's students.

Leading off the third general session, Dr. Eddie Collins, University of North Florida, focused on the theory of increasing the effectiveness and results of education by creating a school environment that invites students to realize their relatively boundless potential. Also appearing during that session was Kaye Johns, executive, director, The Center for Slower Learners in Richardson, who outlined how curriculum can be modified for the slower learner without "watering down" education.

Emphasis was placed on effective ways in which to help students build healthy self-esteem, youth leadership, teaching the gifted and talented, educational practices that are effective in teaching special populations students, and entrepreneurship. Other sessions addressed current trends in families, particularly the aging family member. Teachers previewed new videos on how to help students develop a healthy self esteem and on developing youth leadership. The videos were developed by the Home Economics Curriculum Center at Texas Tech University.

Nationally known experts highlighted the four general conference sessions. Dr. Patricia Moody from the University of South Carolina keynoted the conference with "The Ten Commandments for Teachers" in which she discussed maximizing the teacher's effectiveness in the role of teacher. Marilyn Harris, of Cincinnati, Ohio, a food consultant, columnist, radio personality and author addressed the changing societal patterns and how home economics skills and profesconference Thursday morning with "Who Will Rock the Cradle?" Bergin addressed the many demands facing family members today in their home lives as well as in their roles as members of the community and world of work.

"Vocational home economics hardly resembles the homemaking classes of just a few years ago," said Dr. Eleanor Rogers, president of the Vocational Home Economics Teachers Association of Texas (VHETAT). Rogers said that today's vocational home economics includes courses in life management skills, advanced food science and nutrition, apparel design, consumer economics, interior design, family finance, parenting education, child development, to name a few of the areas of instruction. In addition, vocational home economics teachers train students to enter the working world by giving them skills in jobs such as fashion design, hospitality services, child care, and entrepreneurship. Students also learn how to manage the dual role of wage earner and homemaker.

She likes its because she likes people, and likes to prepare good food for them to enjoy. Mamie has been picked as Employee of the Month for September at the Senior Citizen Center.

MAMIE MOTON

One of the reliable longtime employees of Hereford SCA, she has been on the job since October 1981, a mainstay of the kitchen staff. She opens up the building every morning at 6 and starts work on the meat dish of the day.

Her work time has been cut down some in recent years after she had surgery, and she now leaves at 12:30 p.m. Besides her main job of meat cookery, she "just helps out wherever something needs to be done."

Before her present job, she was employed many years in food service—in cafes, at King's Manor, and in a private home. She has had much experience in planning menus, buying food and other details of a running a kitchen. She completed a vocational course at Amarillo College.

Fort Worth was her birthplace and she graduated from high school there. Married at Round Rock, her children were born there. The three oldest attended Hereford High School, where her grandchildren are now students. She has had sons or grandsons on HHS athletic teams for years.

Margie's notes

Can you believe the summer is about gone? Soon everyone will be thinking about the beautiful foliage. Al and I went to Colorado for three days and saw some pretty sites but nothing more fascinating than our fields with the crops growing. When we were coming in on Highway 385 from Vega, our daughter-in-law made the comment of not seeing anything like those fields on the whole trip.

Our building expansion is almost finished. It really is pretty and will be so serviceable. We will be having our Open House on Sept. 21st and 22nd from 2 to 4 p.m. Then our first activity in the new auditorium will be a dinner and variety show at 7 p.m. on both the 21st and 22nd. You will need to buy your ticket for the meal early. We will be having local talent.. hope to see you there!

The Festival of Trees planning is really going great! It's so exciting to be involved in something that will benefit the whole community. We will need our members and staff to donate homemade items for our craft booth and also baked goods for our bakery shop. Also, if you can help in anyway I would like for you to attend our planning session on Monday, Aug. 27 at 7 p.m. This will be a lot of work and a lot of fun. The success of this project depends on all of us. Thank You!

Senior Citizens float in parade

The Hereford Senior Citizens Association's float in the Town and Country Jubilee Parade was again one of the top entries. It followed the theme of "Texas Best--1890-1990-2090," featuring tributes to the county's agriculture and an artist's rendition of the Senior Center expansion. The Hereford Senior Citizens also sponsored another successful quilt show during the Jubilee.

Spinks, Arthos honored

Helen Spinks is a Volunteer of the Month in Hereford Senior Citizens, in recognition for the wide variety of services she renders. She has been an active member since 1985.

She was elected to the Governing Board of HSCA in 1986 and is still a member, her term having been extended because of the current building program. During her membership she has been secretary of the board.

Helen is also on the Foundation Board of HSC and is on the advisory committee of the Panhandle Area Agency on Aging, which she serves as secretary. In addition, she assists in all kinds of volunteer work at the Center, helping plan and carry out fund-raising projects like last year's antique auction, and working on parade floats, garage sales and parties.

Living in Hereford since 1974, she came from Mississippi but is a native Texan, born at Haskell. She often visited relatives here while growing up, and came back to care for her ill mother and others in her family.

Helen has two sons—Jimmy, an attorney in DeKalb, MS., and Louie, a football coach at Duncanville.

Her work as a volunteer extends to the United Methodist Church, Hereford Study Club, and Garden Beautiful Club. Helen has held many of the offices in both clubs.

Double service as volunteers is given by several couples in Hereford Senior Citizens, with both giving time and effort in a variety of tasks. One such couple, Elroy and Roberta Artho, are named as Volunteers of the Month.

The Arthos had farmed in this county through the years until 1985, when they retired and moved into Hereford. They joined HSCA the next year, heard of the need for volunteers and promptly went to work. Both have been willing to do whatever was needed, so they keep busy.

Elroy now drives one of the vans regularly and has done all the other chores in home food delivery at times. Roberta also helps with set-ups on the delivery vans. Usually she can be found at mealtime, serving food in the buffet line, and at other times of the day she is a quilter.

Jubilee a big success

A big "Thank you" to all the volunteers who poured their hard work and imagination into making the Senior Citizen part of the Town & Country Jubilee a huge success!

We all enjoyed the gorgeous display of quilts at our Quilt Show. Judges Ruth Gandy, Beverly Harder and Jewel Hargrove had a difficult job selecting the winners.

And, the winners were: Edna West, oldest quilt; Dorene Rose, most beautiful quilt; Dorene Rose, quilt showing most work; Pat Fisher & daughters, most unusual quilt; Deborah Jackson, judges' choice.

The lucky winners in our quilt drawing were Donna Smith and Willie Flippin. Everyone had fun creating our Parade float. We were all proud to receive second place in the service club division for our float. Congratulations and thanks to all!

HELEN SPINKS

Outside the Center, both are ready to help or entertain their 30 grandchildren, and they recently took a family party camping in Colorado. Their nine children and families live in this vicinity, except Janice whose home is at Carlsbad. A son, Harold, took over the farm when the parents retired.

Roberta grew up near Happy and went to school at Nazareth. She was not a quilter until she began work at the Center, but she pieces quilts "for the kids" and she really enjoys fabric painting. The Arthos are members of St. Anthony's Catholic Church and she is in its Women's Organization.

A lifetime resident of Deaf Smith County, Elroy explains his military service absence by saying, "They took me to Japan and tried to shoot me, but I was too fast for them."

Eye Openers

Currie Eye Institute

In the last 20 years, cataract surgery has undergone one of the greatest refinements of any type surgery in medicine. It is one of the most successful operations done with a success rate of over 90 percent resulting in visual acuity near 20/20.

There is more than one technique used to perform cataract surgery. Laser, however, is not one of the methods or options used to perform this surgery. Often a piece of equipment called a phacemulsifier is used and is confused with a laser. This equipment is a rapidly vibrating tip which breaks up a cataract and allows it to be sucked into a narrow tube. A very small wound is made when this method is used. Other techniques will result in a slightly larger incision.

At the present time, there is much experimentation being done on lenses that can be rolled up or folded up so that they will go through a smaller wound. This is frequently referred to as "one-stitch" surgery. However, the majority of ophthalmologists still feel that the hard plastic lens that has been used for the last 15 years is the most dependable and gives the best results. The foldable lenses, however, are cautiously being implanted in more and more people.

You should rely on your doctor's suggestion as to the type of cataract surgery needed.

Young At Heart Choir

The Young-at-Heart Choir of the Senior Citizens is still going strong, meeting each Thursday at 1 p.m. for practice and fun.

The choir, with 29 members, sang the musical, "America, America" at the Frio Baptist Church on July 29. After the service, the choir was treated to hamburgers and dessert by the men and ladies of the church. The choir would like to extend a big "Thank you" to the people at Frio for the good food and fellowship!

The choir will be presenting the musical, "Reflections", at the First Assembly of God Church in Hereford on Aug. 26. The same musical will be presented Aug. 30 at King's Manor.

The choir is still inviting anyone who likes to sing and have a good time to come and join them. Their director is Steve Sobczak, music director at First United Methodist Church. Marcella Bradley is their pianist.

SENIOR SCENE is a supplement of The Hereford Brand, published in cooperation with, and editorial contributions from, the Hereford Senior Citizens Association. The Senior Center, an agency of the United Way of Deaf Smith County, is located at 426 Ranger St., P.O. Box 270, Hereford, TX.

Iron deficiency could be problem

BY CHARLOTTE R. CLARK

Iron is one of the most abundant elements on the earth. Despite its prevalence in the environment and the relatively small amount we require biologically, impaired iron status is a problem for many people.

In an article published by the National Livestock & Meat Board, "Iron in Human Nutrition," many interesting facts are related and several are reported in this article.

Minerals, of which iron is one, constitute only 4 percent of human body weight, although minerals are essential for bodily functions and life itself. Iron required for the transportation of oxygen and carbon dioxide and a variety of other biochemical processes, accounts for less than .01 percent of body weight. Iron deficiency is a serious public health problem causing few deaths but contributing to weakness, ill health, and substandard performance in millions of people.

There are certain times during life cycles when increased iron needs for body processes are essential. Ample dietary iron intake is important during growth, pregnancy, lactation, and when blood loss occurs.

Assuring an adequate dietary intake of iron can be difficult due to the availability of food sources rich in iron. Consumption of foods in certain combinations can either enhance or inhibit the iron absorption and the rate of absorption.

Under the topic of age-related needs for iron, it is found that adult men and older adults have the least amount of difficulty meeting their iron requirements. The recommended intake of iron for males decreases once full growth is achieved. From the point on, men need only to replace the iron which is normally lost through the sloughing of cells, in urine and perspiration. In women there is an additional loss of iron during menstrual cycles.

Average loss of iron for a healthy woman of child-bearing age varies. Replacing the lost iron through dietary means is complicated by the fact that while women's iron needs are greater than men's, women usually require fewer calories than men.

Iron intake among older adults is often affected by food choices, health status, and physiological changes associated with aging. Some elderly people have a low calorie intake as a result of illness, difficulty in chewing, or poverty. All these conditions usually result in decreased consumption of iron-rich foods, thereby increasing the likelihood of iron deficiency. Other causes of blood loss, and therefore iron loss, in elderly are ulcers, hemorrhoids, and medications(arthritis medicine, anti-coagulants, aspirin).

The RDA for iron in adults aged 51 and older is 10 mg./day. The usual daily iron intake for older men(10.4 to 11.3 mg.)is adequate to meet nutritional needs. The intake of older women usually falls below that level, with a usual intake of 7.4 to 9.6 mg./day.

The amount of iron in the human body is equivalent to less than one teaspoon, or approximately 4 grams. Virtually all iron in the body is found combined with a protein in the blood and in muscle cells; is a component of tissue enzymes, or is stored in the liver, spleen and bone marrow.

Proper iron status is dependent upon the consumption of an adequate, nourishing diet. When individual or family income is very low, there may be insufficient money to purchase the quantity and quality of foods necessary to maintain optimal nutritional status. We find this to be true not only for the low income but also the elderly-age group.

Current recommendations and dietary guidelines include a reduction in total fat, especially the saturated fats, and an increased consumption of complex carbohydrates. Careful meal planning is crucial with a wide variety of complex carbohydrates and rich sources of biologically available iron as found in lean meat, fish and poultry, and also rich sources of Vitamin C.

Other sources of iron are fruits, vegetables, grains, eggs and dairy products. Next month we will review iron absorption, iron deficiency, iron overload, iron fortification and supplementation.

Golden Line Dancers

Olga Harris, Instructor

Jolene Bledsoe, Reporter

Ten of the Golden Line Dancers went to Amarillo July 31 to watch the Amarillo Senior Citizen Line Dancers perform. When a familiar tune or routine came up, the Hereford group joined in the fun.

Those attending were Olga Harris, Edna Johnson, Geraldine Frank, Bunkie Daniels, Bertha Tiefel, Ruth Knox, Bonnie Manley, Peggy Clark, Betty Joe Carlson and Audrey Powell.

Our fearless leader, Olga Harris, has been truly missed for a couple of weeks this month. Even Olga deserves some time off and to take a trip now and then. Olga, her daughter Cheryl and son-in-law, John McCausland, from Amarillo flew to Crescent City, CA., to visit another daughter. After their arrival in California, they took a motor trip to the Coast Highway. This is a beautiful drive with many breathtaking sights. We're happy to have Olga back with us, since we all seem to have two left feet without her guidance.

Lloyd and Frances Crume went to Cedar Creek Lake and Lake Buchanan in Texas. They report a good trip and always glad to be back home. Virginia Holmes visited in Dallas and attended a grandson's graduation. Bessie Story visited a son in Dallas.

Would you believe we have a Godmother in our midst? It is none other than our own Marchetta Hutcheson! Yes, Marchetta was invited to Chicago to be a part of the christening of her great nephew, in which she was the Godmother. Marchetta cherished every moment of the honor and took several sightseeing trips while in Chicago.

Verdon and Billie Watts have returned from a trip to Nebraska, Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming, and points in Oregon and Washington. Gid and Juanita Brown visited their son in Washington and got to meet a grandson for the first time. Following this visit, the Brownd left for Alaska where they were to meet their foreign exchange student from France. Rene Batard lived with the Brownd here in Hereford as an exchange student in the mid-sixties.

Dr. and Mrs. Trow Mims had guests in their home the week of the Town & Country Jubilee. Their daughter, Ann Offutt and her family, Norman and Chase, were visiting them from Goldwater, KS. During this time Ann attended her 20th class reunion from Hereford High School. It was a time of fun and fellowship for the entire family.

Birthdays celebrated this month include Edna Johnson, Bertha Tiefel and Carolyn Hutcheson.

United Way kickoff lunch set for Sept. 5

The United Way Campaign kickoff is scheduled at 11:30 a.m. on Sept. 5 in Hereford Community Center, and Margie Daniels, HSCA executive director, urges senior citizen members to attend the event.

"We need to express our appreciation to United Way and the leadership for all the past help we have received and to express our continued need," said Daniels. "We also need to encourage the United Way board, employees and our own "Golden Age" group volunteers, led by Geneva Summers and Audrey Powell."

Daniels said she challenges the membership and staff "to make contributions or pledges by the end of September. When the campaign is drawn out, it is very discouraging to both the United Way workers and the United Way agencies."

Joint Problems

Dennis R. Finley, M.D. Orthopedic Surgeon

Physical therapy is a vital part of the medical healing team, and as such, includes a wide spectrum of patients and disorders.

What is physical therapy? It is the evaluation and treatment of physical disorders using non-medicinal, non-surgical methods of treatment, along with continued followup of patients and their problems.

A main emphasis in physical therapy is rehabilitation, in which the goal is restoration of structure and usage of the disabled part. The physical therapist will use physical agents such as heat, cold, electricity, water and exercise to accomplish these goals.

Many physical therapy patients have problems with arms, legs, and with the spine. These patients come with injuries or problems acquired through a variety of means. Examples of these problems include spine pain, bone and joint injuries, muscle problems, difficulties with activities of daily living(feeding, dressing, bathing, etc.) and difficulties with walking. Therefore, there is a wide range of patient problems that the physical therapist can treat.

The physical therapist starts with an assessment of the patient and his problem. This includes reviewing the history and the involved part, whether it is an arm or leg, or possibly a problem joint, or a painful neck. The therapist has a detailed knowledge of the anatomy and function of the part, and with this knowledge can determine if there are other factors or problems present which might influence the treatment and prognosis of the patient's problem.

Treatment begins after evaluation. There are numerous methods of treatment that can be applied to the physical therapy patient and his problem. These include traction, braces, or other devices which may help correct a mechanical problem in the patient. Various other means, including ultrasound and moist heat or whirlpool baths, are able to deliver heat to a part that is not functioning well. Frequently, exercises and retraining of a muscle or a group of muscles will help overcome loss of function. Stretching, strengthening or resting a muscle group may be helpful. A variety of testing machines and equipment are a part of the physical therapist's treatment options.

Rehabilitation of the patient and his injured part is now one of the great success stories in medicine.

HSC begins planning new 'Festival of Trees'

The Hereford Senior Citizens Center will be hosting a Christmas celebration, "Festival of Trees," Nov. 15-18, with a fun-filled array of activities and displays to usher in the holiday season for area residents of all ages.

"Happy Hereford Holidays" is the name selected for the festival, and the overall theme will emphasize the western beauty of our community. There are several events planned which are new to Hereford and the area--the display and auction of 25 professionally designed and decorated Christmas trees, a "Breakfast with Santa" for the children, a "Teddy-Bear Tea" for children with entertainment, a Christmas Concert for teenagers, a formal dinner with entertainment for adults, a festival of area choirs, and on-going scheduled entertainment by local and area groups.

A meeting to explain details of the Festival of Trees will be held at the Senior Center Aug. 27 at 7 p.m. The meeting is open to all interested persons. A video preview of a Festival of Trees will be shown and refreshments will be served.

The trees will be sponsored by local and neighboring businesses and decorated by professional designers or civic groups. Community fund-raising festivals similar to the one planned here have drawn thousands to communities in other areas. Proceeds of the Festival of Trees will go to the Hereford Senior Citizens Association, which provides services to senior residents.

In the midst of these planned holiday activities will be opportunities for shopping in gift, craft and bakery shops. There will be a shopping and entertainment area for children only, which will include a personal visit and picture with Santa.

Margie Daniels, HSCA executive director, said such a celebration is a significant undertaking and she looks forward to the participation of the community in the project. For further information, contact Mrs. Daniels at 364-5681.
