Flower Show Standards

The purpose of flower shows should be the raising of standards of floral beauty in the community in which the show is sponsored. If it fails in this, it falls short of its mission. A small show with carefully thought-out plans of a high standard, even though the exhibits be few, will be of more value to the place where it is held than a large show with loose management and generally poor exhibits. A successful flower show is not only educational but is beautiful, as well. It should interest not only the person interested in how to develop the most perfect bloom, but also those who value sheer beauty for itself alone. More often than not, some person not interested in horticulture will catch a spirit of enthusiasm, and in a short time he too, will be raising dahlias, zinnias, roses, or perhaps grapes and cherries.

There are two factors embraced in a successful show. First, some knowledge of good flower arrangement, and second, an attitude of good sportsmanship on the part of competitive exhibitors.

In order to be distinctive an arrangement should be different, but not eccentric. That the best effect may be produced, five important points should be kept in mind: 1, distinction; 2, relation of flower to container; 3, color harmony; 4, proportion and perfection of arrangement; 5, massed colors are preferable to spotted ones, with the dark full blown or heavy flowers toward the base of the arrangement, and with the lighter ones, bud and smaller types, radiated out from the center toward the top.

As to height of a general arrangement, the accepted rule is that the arrangement should be one and one-half times the height of the container, if it is an upright one. If the container is low and broad the arrangement should be one and one-half times the breadth.

If interested, a good book to read, that can be found in the public library, is "Principles of Flower Arrangement," by White.

Change in Flower Show Awards

In the list of Flower Show awards published last week, a change has been made in Section B, Collection Class 3, Zinnias. The rule should read: "These will be awarded 1st, 2nd, 3rd cash value prizes," instead of cash prizes.

Gladiolus Thrip

Gladiolus growers, who generally have little to fear in the way of insects and disease, had better beware of the gladiolus thrip, which has spread with great rapidity in practically all states where gladiolus are common, says

R. R. Reppert, Entomologist for the A. & M. College Extension Service.

The adult thrip is dark brown and measures about one-twentieth of an inch in length, while the wings have a light colored area at their base near the center of the body, Reppert said in describing the insect. He added that the thrip's larva is pale yellow and the pupa is orange. Generally these last two stages are found inside the buds and leaf sheaths, and are seldom noticeable on the outside of the plant.

Gladiolus attacked by the thrip have the appearance of being withered, bleached, and spotted; the plants are stunted; and badly damaged flowers fail to open. Even when the petals are open, irregular, silvery blotches may appear on them, Reppert said.

To prevent damage by the thrip Reppert recommends use of a spray developed by the U. S. Bureau of Entomology. It includes tartar emetic, one ounce; brown sugar, four ounces; and water, 12 1-2 pints. The plants should be sprayed thoroughly with this solution.

Several other plants which have been damaged to a minor extent by the gladiolus thrip include the iris, calla lily, red-hot-poker, tiger flower, montebellia and carnation, Reppert added.

If you see a bunch of town gals going down the street walking like they had a number six foot in a four shoe, think-nothing of it, just a bunch that has started bowling every morning—and the longer they bowl the sorer they get.

Guests included Mrs. Smith's sisters, Mrs. Oran Short of Tahoma, and Mrs. George Snodgrass and children of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coanougher and son, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith and children, Mr. Smith's father, Clarence Smith and the honor guests.

DINNER PARTY COMPLIMENTS MISS BARBARA BROTHERTON Complimenting Miss Barbara Brotherton who will enter Baylor Hospital, Dallas, August 29, for nurses training, Miss Helen Ann Snyder entertained with a delightful dinner party last night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Snyder.

The attractively appointed table was laid with a pink dinner cloth with wild rose design and lighted pink candles in crystal holders. Mixed garden flowers in a crystal bowl formed the centerpiece. Flower place cards completed the decorations.

The Rockwell TUBA

Published Once in a While by ROCKWELL BROS. & CO., Lumbermen

Stack 4—Piece 23 Hereford, Texas Thursday, Aug. 10, 1939

Roger Corbett came down to the yard last Thursday just after The Brand was out, and said he sure wanted to enter that lumbermen's beauty contest for homes. He said he didn't figure he could win all four prizes, but that $25 one would be a big help.

ENTER THE HOME BEAUTY CONTEST

Pound for pound, a home costs less and lasts longer than anything you can spend your money for. New cars, tractors, clothing, food, anything you want to name costs from 30c a pound on up, except a home.

I was telling Mrs. Eva Pitman about that down at the City Hall and she said, "Well, just make mine a real light-weight home." I thought that was pretty cute.

ENTER THE HOME BEAUTY CONTEST

I never could get the viewpoint of the man who can spend from $200 to $500 on machinery repairs without turning a hair, but falls over in a dead faint when he learns that to get a good, two-coat paint job on that home that he should be taking a lot of pride in is going to cost him from $100 to $150 for labor AND Material.

Can it happen here? Young Man: "I'm thinking of asking some girl to marry me. What do you think of the idea?" Sweet Young Thing: "It's a great idea—if you ask me!"

ENTER THE HOME BEAUTY CONTEST NOW AND WIN A PRIZE!

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Lyons are doing wonders with the place they bought at 511 Jackson. It has undergone a complete transformation both inside and out.

Tom Wilson, of bicycle fame, is learning the lumber business this summer. His specialty so far is selling turpentine and linseed oil.

The aim of the sponsors of the home beautification contest is to make Hereford a neat, clean, well-kept looking city in which every one of its citizens will take pride. The prizes, after all, are incidental, though they are worth winning. No one entering can fail to win a prize in the increase in value of his property, and in the pride and satisfaction he will get out of the improved appearance of his place.

It has been established that a well-driven golf ball leaves the head of the club at 35 miles an hour. This is said to be slightly slower than John Patton leaves the office headed for a golf game.

Maurice Tannahill, of the Westway Community, has built a concrete cellar—storage, not cyclone.

Fully Dressed Mrs. Junebride: "I want a dressed chicken." Dealer: "Yes ma'am—want a capon?" Mrs. J.: "Want a cape on? Are they better that way?" Dealer: "Oh yes, ma'am, they are the best-dressed chickens you can buy."

Henry Brorman was in this week for some more of that good BPS Glos-fast Enamel which he has used before and likes very much.

Gurgie Girl He: "Where did you learn to kiss like that?" She: "From eating spaghetti."

Mrs. Lula Morgan has bought a home on Ross Street, and had the roof re-shingled and the interior remodeled.

O. K. For Eats Wife: "I hear you've started gambling." Hubby: "Yes dear, but only for small stakes." Wife: "Well, as long as it's for something to eat I don't mind."

P. A. Turnbow put in new porch floors and ceilings on his rent property down on the highway.

No Good These Days Soph: "Do you know what good, clean fun is?" Frosh: "No, what good is it?"

We had a very pleasant visit with Q. N. Lewis one day last week when he came in to get some screen wire, a screen door and a window. He had a good wheat harvest this summer, and with the abundance of moisture he has had on his place out in the west part of the county, the prospects for good pasture and feed crops are very bright.

Firemen Smother Merchants; K-C's Beat High School

August 2 — With three large scoring innings the Firemen completely smothered the Merchants by a score of 31 to 4. The Firemen collected twenty-three hits off Sewell, and other Merchants' pitchers. The first inning the Fireboys tallied thirteen times from nine hits, four errors and two bases on balls. The Firemen then rested awhile and came back in the fourth frame and scored eight more men, this time from eight hits and two errors. Again the Fireboys coasted but in the sixth canto they tallied six more runs to finish for the night. Four hits, two mis-pitches, and two walks scored the runs.

The Merchants were, in the meanwhile, held to four runs by virtue of only eight hits and the Fireboys' three-error ball.

L. B. Russell led the Firemen with a perfect day at bat. He had four singles and a home run for five times to bat. Robinson led in runs with five.

The game was nip and tuck up to the fifth inning when the High School tallied four times from six hits. Hales started with a single and was followed by Fuller, Knox and Vaughn who singled also. Foster doubled and Posey singled, and this combined with two errors, accounted for the runs.

The sixth-spelled victory for the K-C, however, for they tallied eight times. L. Loerwald began the inning and was promptly walked, G. Albright was safe as Joy Worley dropped his ball in short field. G. Loerwald forced his brother at third and there was one out with men on second and first. Koelzer doubled, scoring one. G. Loerwald was safe at home on V. What Goes On Here??
A Column of Fun and Amusements
BY MARY JANE MORGAN

AS" Saturday with Bill Elliott bringing it. All the trouble is caused by the fact of an early Texas law preventing the officers of one county to follow criminals into another. Veda Ann Borg is the attractive restaurateur in the picture. The action in the show is supposed to take place in Bailey and Eureka counties. We've heard of Bailey county, but not the Eureka, although it could exist and we'd never know it. This is one of the better westerns produced by Columbia.

Before we forget, Elliott is a special investigator instead of a sheriff and at the end, he gets to be the first Texas Ranger. Some fun.

Now that the smoke of battle, verbal though it may be, has cleared, it looks like there is going to be a dance out at the club house for the younger set Friday night. There were two factions in the club: one group who wanted a program dance, the other group who were agin' it. Seems like they won; though, because they had a club house up their sleeve. They had arranged for it, and the others hadn't. Again, some fun.

For the second time after "DODGE CITY" we are forced to say: "this is the western of westerns." "FRONTIER MARSHAL" was only released the first of this month, so it is a little early to receive reputable reviews on it. It's the story of the Marshal who determined the growth of the city and cemetery of Tombstone, Ariz. Randolph Scott is the Marshal, Cesar Romero the villain, Binnie Barnes the villainess, and Nancy Kelly the heroine. John Carradine is pretty prominent one way or another, too.

Shorty Van and Blanche Poff have more fun this week. Blanche with her toy pistol shoots Shorty, and Shorty is supposed to fall down dead. When she's feeling peppy, she does, and when tired, she just won't play at all. Blanche appears a little incongruous with that demure little bonnet of the period with slacks. Imagine what our grandmothers would have said if she had paraded around in such attire in their day! The rest of the force have to wear that regalia too . . . all week! The show is Sunday. Spec Lunsford says it's extra-special.

Both nights last week when the "all-star" games were played it rained. Harold Close was shivering around and talking about getting wet until Mrs. Close suggested that he must be afraid he would shrink. After that he kept silent. To prove he wasn't scared, we bet. Somebody expressed fear of shrinkage about Bob Renfro, but they were re-assured by the affirmation that he couldn't; he's Sanforized.

"ISLAND OF LOST MEN" is a chiller about a killer in a Malay peninsula jungle who established a mob right thar. Anna Mae Wong was hunting a missing father who seemingly absconded with a whole lot of public Chinese funds. She goes to the jungle stronghold of J. Carrol Naish, and then the excitement begins. This is fair entertainment of an Oriental type.

After two false alarms, "ZAZA" will definitely show here Wednesday. This is the story of a French cabaret dancer who fell in love with a married man, and gave him up when she could have had him for the sake of his family. Claudette Colbert as we said before, could play the big bad wolf, and still be tops. Herbert Marshall always strikes us as being a bit tired and dejected, and in this "rejected" can be added. Helen Westley as Zaza's step-mother almost steals the show. Stella Petty of Oklahoma, and Hellion Ann Snyder say it's good. Zaza dances the can-can in this.

How to get enough of the lake: Accompany Jack France and Allen Hammer to try out Jack's swell new speedboat, and stay there eleven hours. That'll do it, and no foolin'.

One Operation With A

JOHN DEERE ENSILAGE HARVESTER

Insures Better Ensilage --- Cuts Silo Filling Costs To The Core

You Get These ADVANTAGES

- 1—Power drive from tractor to ensilage harvester is extra strong, flexible, and operates on four high-grade bearings.
- 2—Power line forms a direct drive to the cutter head through steel-cut gears running in oil.
- 3—Seven gatherer chains deliver any volume of stalks to feeder uniformly and without clogging.
- 4—Gatherer drives are enclosed and run in oil.
- 5—Stalks are fed evenly, in easiest possible manner, and in any volume to the cutter head—there's no clogging—no undue draft.
- 6—Heavy-duty, six-blade cutter head is mounted on anti-friction bearings, and gear drive is equipped with Timken bearings.
- 7—Overrunning clutch on cutter head permits head to cut if free and clean after tractor power is shut off.
- 8—All important operating parts are protected against breakage by break-pin coupling and slip clutches.
- 9—Alemite grease-gun lubrication and high-grade bearing equipment throughout insure long life, light draft, and low upkeep costs.
- 10—Wagon elevator folds back out of the way for transporting or storage.

Shown here is the efficient John Deere ensilage harvester as it encounters the six-foot corn on Wiley Roberson's farm and delivers it to the truck bed chopped to minced-meat size and ready to be ensiled. Two trucks are kept busy hauling the cut ensilage away from the cutter to the silo. Visible on the truck from front to back are Wiley Roberson, owner of the feed; Fat Filbin, who owns the cutter; and Alex Bateman, County Agent.

CUTS FEED COSTS

From standing crops to top-grade ensilage in one operation — that's time, labor-, and money-saving performance you get in the John Deere Ensilage Harvester.

The John Deere cuts the standing crop into pieces, 3-8 to 1 1/2 inches long, as desired, and delivers it directly into the wagons. It cuts your silo-filling crew in half . . . it eliminates twine bills and the hardest kind of work—that of lifting heavy, wet, green bundles onto the wagons and feeding them into an ensilage cutter . . . it enables you to cut your crop when it's in the proper stage of development for best ensilage. Since the stalks never touch the ground, there's no dirt to lower the grade of the ensilage, and none of the leaves are lost in extra handlings.

The fast-working, power-driven John Deere Ensilage Harvester will operate in any field where a tractor can be used. Bad weather, poor ground conditions or down stalks do not seriously interfere with good work. With proper tractor power, you can travel two and one-half to three miles per hour, even in heavy crop.

Easy and Safe To Operate

Simplicity and ease of operation are features every user likes about the John Deere Ensilage Harvester. The tractor operator tilts the machine from his position on the tractor seat. He is far enough from the operating parts to be out of the way of stalks and excessive dust and dirt. The entire power line is shielded for his safety. A hinged cover over cutter head and lower end of wagon elevator makes these units quickly accessible for adjustment and servicing.

SAFETY FEATURES

The power drive shaft has a break-pin coupling which protects the cutter head and drive parts. Five slip clutches, on pitman shaft, feed-table drive, right- and left-hand butt chains and wagon elevator, protect sickle, gatherer drives, feed table, feed rollers, and elevator. These features insure fewer delays and less operating and upkeep expense.

Marriage of Caroline Frye to Jack Higgins Unites Pioneer Families

Two of Hereford's oldest pioneer families were united Monday morning by the marriage of Miss Caroline Frye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frye, and Jack Higgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Higgins, at the home of the bride's parents in the Easter community.

In the early days when Hereford had its beginning the couple's grandfathers, the late Col. E. T. Woodburn and the late W. S. (Uncle Summy) Higgins exchanged war stories and retold incidents of the time when they were confederate soldiers together.

The service which culminated a high school romance, was read by Rev. James Aiken, pastor of the Presbyterian church, as the couple and their attendants stood before a background of greenery and tall baskets of gladioli and larkspur. The house was decorated entirely with old-fashioned garden flowers in a wide variety of types and colors, furnishing the setting of an informal flower garden for the ceremony. Virginia East, roommate of the bride when she attended Hereford High School, played "The Rosary" softly as the vows were spoken.

The bride wore an attractive frock of rose lace made along simple lines. Her flowers were pink gladioli and fern.

Miss Louise Frye, the bride's sister, was maid of honor and wore tailored navy blue.

J. W. Cockrell served the groom as best man.
