Daddy's girl

Keith Shore attempts to pull a brush through his daughter's tangled hair after an afternoon of play with her friends. T.J. doesn't seem to care for the grooming too much and Keith, well, he admits hair styling is not his best suit.

Father's Day is extra-special for single dad

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

Keith Shore didn't know much about Barbie dolls or boys, but for seven years the single father has had a crash course in motherhood and his 8-year-old daughter will be the first one to say he bakes the best darn cookies on the block.

"When I became a single parent, all I could feel was fear and animosity," said Keith, 29, who was given custody of his daughter Tonie Jean (T.J. for short) after a divorce in 1981. "I didn't know if I could handle the pressure because of her being a little girl — you know, like knowing all the little tricks when they get sick and stuff. But when I moved to Canyon (from Hereford), I knew I could handle it because I had to learn how to do things for myself and for her."

Keith suddenly found himself in two full-time jobs — one with the Randall County Road Department and the other taking care of his little girl.

"My day starts at 5:30. I get up, get breakfast ready, prepare my dinner, take a shower, get her up, get her dressed, take her to the day care and work eight to 10 hours. Then I come home and fix supper, get the dishes cleaned up, help get her ready for bed" and the cycle continues.

For the most part, Keith says a father can fill any gaps a mother occupies, but a few of the hangups include fixing T.J.'s hair and girl talk. The girl talk is solved with the help of female friends. The hairdos are solved after a series of tangles and yelps.

"I have a lot of fun with Daddy," T.J. says as she perches on his lap. "He takes me over to my friend's house and I play in the swimming pool. He takes me to the show, bicycle riding and he sits down and giggles with the girls at my slumber parties."

This weekend they're going to a wrestling match.

Wartes changing direction

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

"I'm not retiring, I'm just changing directions." The man who said this may never consider himself officially retired, but he soon will no longer be a full-time employee in the Hereford schools administration building.

"I'm not sure what I'm going to do yet. I'm either going to work part time, or do some of the things I'd like to do for this community, such as civic work, church work. I like people," said Larry Wartes, who is stepping down this summer as the assistant superintendent of schools for the Hereford Independent School District.

Wartes worked in school administrative positions since 1970, after he was head coach for the Hereford Whiteface football team for four seasons, 1967-70. He was first an administrative assistant to the superintendent, and later in 1975, his title became assistant superintendent of schools.

The Whitefaces had a 23-20 record under Coach Wartes, including a tie for the District I-3A championship in 1968 and an 8-2 record in 1969.

Before coming to Hereford, Wartes was head football coach at Stamford, compiling a 79-25-2 record in nine seasons.

A graduate of Amarillo High School and Hardin-Simmons University, Wartes' beginnings in athletics were at the Maverick Club in Amarillo.

"The Maverick Club had a group of kids I was friends with. I didn't really think about playing high school athletics because of all the teams at the Maverick Club," Wartes recalled.

"When I became a senior, the basketball coach at Amarillo High recruited about four of our players, wanted us to come out for the high school team."

"We went out for the team. My first senior year, three of those Maverick boys were starters on the team that went to the state semifinals," Wartes continued.

Wartes then played another

Pointing the way

Larry Wartes, right, points the way for his long-time friend Gordon Wood at a surprise retirement party for Wartes held recently in Hereford. The two coaches won over 500 schoolboy football games —

Wartes won 100 games and two state championships, while Wood, a national coaching legend, won 405 games and picked up eight state championships. The two coached together at Stamford.

year of high school basketball. "Boone Pickens and I were on the team. We decided to stay over another year in high school."

"The next year we went back to the V-6 tournament and got beat on a last-second shot in the semifinals by San Antonio Jefferson. Kyle Rote was on the Jefferson team."

Wartes went on to play college basketball at BSU in the old

Border Conference.

"I played against Cuby Kitchens in college. He played at West Texas State State," Wartes said, remembering an opponent who later became a head basketball coach at Hereford and has been at Stanton Junior High as a coach and assistant principal.

"I probably decided to coach when I was a little kid," Wartes said. "I had two uncles who were coaches. I guess my idea was that the only way I could get an education was through athletics.

"I could see that athletics would give me an opportunity to get a degree," added Wartes, who later earned a master's degree in administrative education.

Early in his career, Wartes was an assistant coach to Gordon (See WARTES, Page 2A)

JOHN MARK STREUN

Streun off to Washington

John Mark Streun will compete Sunday and Monday in the National Citizen Bee competition in Washington, D.C.

Streun, second in the state Citizen Bee held in Austin in May, will be competing against 60 other students from 21 states for scholarships of up to $7,000.

Streun earlier placed third in the regional Citizen Bee, behind a Whiteface student and Hereford classmate Adrian Castillo, before earning a spot at the national bee with his second-in-the-state finish.

The competition is patterned after a spelling bee, with students to answer questions based on American history, geography, economics, politics, culture and current events. Some of the questions are based on information contained in a study guide prepared by the bee's sponsor, Close Up Foundation, a nonpartisan, nonprofit educational foundation for citizen involvement in government. Other questions come from recent news, meaning Streun has had to bone up by reading newspapers and newsmagazines. John Mark has also been taping newscasts on television to help prepare.

The fifth annual national competition begins with a preliminary round Sunday. The top 15 students will advance to the final round Monday at 1 p.m. at the Birchhorn Museum of the Smithsonian Institute.

Local Roundup

Business burglarized

A business in the 400 block of south Main Street was burglarized Friday in which $524 was taken; criminal mischief was reported in the 700 block of east Second Street, the 400 block of Avenue D and in the 100 block of north Main Street; theft by check was reported in the 500 block of west First Street, and flyers being distributed door to door was reported in the 100 block of Hickory Street.

A 19-year-old man was arrested on Deaf Smith County warrants of assault and resisting arrest in the 300 block of Avenue D, and a man, 54, was charged with driving while intoxicated and having no liability insurance in the 100 block of Jowell Avenue.

The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department was dispatched to a vehicle fire at 11:11 p.m. Friday one mile west of Summerfield on U.S. Highway 90.

Eight citations were issued and no accidents were reported.

Hot streak

Sunday will be sunny and very warm, with a high of 96. South winds will be 10-20 mph. Saturday's low at KIPAN was 62 after Friday's high of 92 degrees.

Mosquito spraying is Sunday

An aerial spraying for mosquito control in and around Hereford will begin shortly after sunrise Sunday, city officials said. Persons advised by the spray should take necessary precautions.

Blood drive is Wednesday

The Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the monthly blood drive Wednesday from 4-6 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center. Blood bank officials said blood is especially needed this time of the year because of the higher number of accidents.

City to meet Monday

The Hereford City Commission will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Hereford City Hall.

Commissioners will hold a public hearing on removal of dangerous buildings at 300 George, 206 Whiteface, and 233 Catalpa; consider changing police department uniforms; consider retirement plan changes; and consider appointments to five positions, including municipal court judge.

School board meets Tuesday

The Hereford school board will meet Tuesday at 6 p.m. at the Hereford School Administration Building.

The agenda includes a request from Robert Chavez, appointment of a board member from District II, an asbestos management plan, Chapter I application and a public hearing on the Chapter II program; discussion of the oil ag facilities, Texas Association of School Boards resolutions and delegate designations; approval of class rank policy changes, education service center contracts, two tax abatement board members and a member for the Economic Development Commission.

A review of student transfer status, coaching supplements, achievement test and first grade TEAMS scores, various committee and administrative reports; and a personnel session.

Hereford Bull

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says middle age is that time of life when everything begins to wear out, fall out or spread out.

A visitor stopped in a country store to pass the time of day and noticed three men and a dog playing pinballs.

"Sure must be a smart dog," commented the amazed stranger.

"Name, he ain't very smart," piped up one of the men. "Everytime he gets a good hand, he wags his tail."

Sometimes a message in The Brand stays around the house a long time. Mable Barnhart called us the other day and said she'd found the Diamond Jubilee edition of The Brand—dated Aug. 23, 1973—tucked away in a closet.

"I've been reading it all day, and I just wanted to call and tell you how much I enjoyed it," said Mrs. Barnhart. The edition was the largest the newspaper ever published, marking the 75th anniversary of the birth of Hereford. The issue contained 140 pages.

The future of public school funding in Texas has been in the news since a judge ruled that the present plan of school funding is unconstitutional. Behind the debate is a fear that Texas schools will be adversely affected, and that local school boards will be eliminated in favor of state control.

Gov. Bill Clements says the way to cure legal objections to the present funding system is to have a constitutional amendment approving the current method. Comptroller Bob Bullock has also advanced a plan to cure the objections of the court.

The decision by the judge is more of the liberal philosophy of rinking everything and everybody equal. Common sense, as well as history, shows that the state can't legislate equality—only equal opportunity!

WARTES

Wood at Stamford. Stamford won state championships in 1955 and 1956, but failed to repeat in 1957. Wood decided to take the head coaching position at Victoria.

"I wanted to go with Gordon. I had no idea I was going to stay. Not one of the other assistants went with Gordon," Wartes said.

"I didn't want to take on the pressure. Who would want to follow Gordon Wood? But the people in the town got behind the coaching staff that was there."

Wartes directed the Stamford team to the state championship game against Angleton in 1958.

"Gordon said there was not a team in the state that could beat Angleton. They had nine players who played in college. We beat them 23-0," Wartes said.

"Gordon said, 'I cannot believe it. I cannot believe what this group of kids have done.' I said, 'It's almost unbelievable that you cannot understand, because it's what you've been teaching them.'"

Wartes' team had a 13-1 record in 1958 and followed that with a state championship season with a 14-1 mark. But the 1959 state title was taken away when the University Interscholastic League ruled that the team's center was ineligible, giving the title to Brady.

The controversy centered on an athlete living and working in Stamford whose parents had moved to another community.

"We had to go before the UIL executive committee. They didn't know a whole lot about football. They ruled that we had broken the amateur rule, saying our player had been given the financial support to live in Stamford. It was hard to prove that he hadn't," Wartes explained.

The UIL put Stamford on probation for two years. Wartes had only one losing season at Stamford, in 1965.

Wartes was 29 years old when he became a head football coach for the first time. His son Mike, who is now athletic director at Canyon, later would outdo his father, getting the head coaching position at Muleshoe at the age of 25.

In 1967, Hereford Superintendent Johnny Clark informed Wartes that the athletic director and head football coaching positions were open in Hereford.

"I told him, 'Mr. Clark, I'm not interested in moving.' But he was a real salesman. He kept on, kept on, kept on. After two or three weeks, he had me convinced that I should move to Hereford."

Wartes did make the move to Hereford, guiding the Whitefaces to a 6-4 record his first season and following that up with a playoff season in 1968.

Hereford tied with Dumas and Perryton for the District 1-3A championship, all with 4-1 records. Hereford won a coin flip and represented the district in the bi-district playoffs, losing by a one-touchdown margin to Kermit, 21-14.

When Hereford edged Perryton 13-12 on Nov. 1, 1968, Perryton was ranked No. 1 in the state.

Wartes' best win-loss season in Hereford was in 1969 with an 8-2 mark, but the Whitefaces did not qualify for the playoffs, losing their district and season finale to Dumas.

In his second year here, Whiteface Stadium as it is today was built. Wartes said his goal was to get a winning tradition going in athletics at Hereford.

"I was determined that we could build a tradition in athletics in Hereford that we could be proud of."

After the 1969 season, Wartes was faced with a decision to make — to take the administrative position that was offered to him, or continue as football coach. He also, in a way, saw into the future, that Hereford High School would go up in its athletic classification.

"I could see we were on the road up, that we would jump into the top classification in the state. We had to make some great strides and we were going to do it with good athletes," Wartes said.

"I also wanted to coach Mike his senior year," he adds. The Wartes coach and son, and their fellow coaches and teammates, struggled in 1970, losing six straight non-district games before beginning District 4-4A play.

The Whitefaces went 2-2 in district. Larry was named 4-4A's Coach of the Year. Mike, a quarterback, was the player of the year.

New superintendent Roy Hartman offered the administrative job again to Wartes. This time he accepted the offer, but never dreamed he would be in that same job for 17 years.

"If I was going to stay in coaching, I would have probably moved. I had a daughter who was to be a sophomore in high school. I thought I'd stay in that job until Susan graduated," he said, noting the fact that his other son Alan was entering junior high caused him to stick with the administrative job.

Alan went on to quarterback the Whitefaces just as his brother Mike had done.

"As time went on, some of the most efficient, productive people in the school worked for me. The people in the business department of this school are probably the best in public schools in West Texas.

"I had people in every department who were loyal and extremely efficient. It's difficult to leave when you're associated with such people. I'm grateful for them," Wartes declares.

"If you've ever accomplished anything, somebody helped you. If I've ever really done anything, I had somebody to help me, great players, great coaches.

"I'm talking about people who have been successful not only in coaching, but also in business. I've surrounded myself with good people. That's the key to it.

"I think Hereford has been fortunate to have had these people I've been working with, including those in food services, maintenance, custodians, those unsung heroes. They've been very supportive.

"I owe a big thank you to my family. They've been very supportive. My wife Joyce and my kids hung with me. Margaret Daniels has been my secretary for 17 years. She's been tremendous," Wartes adds.

Wartes believes a good overall education system is important, that each program is necessary or worthwhile.

"I'm not only proud of the athletics, but I'm proud of the advancement I've seen since I've been here — the facilities, the education program.

"I don't think schools would be very successful if they didn't have programs such as music programs, skill vocational programs, athletics, and agricultural programs.

"Athletics is only one part of education. One one of those state champion teams, we had about 23 seniors and 21 got a college degree. I don't know if being on a winning athletic team did that, but it didn't hurt. They've all been real successful," he said.

Wartes, who taught history and government classes before he became an administrator, is quite a storyteller and said his stories could fill lots of books.

As an example of the joy he experienced in coaching, he recalled the 1968 game against Perryton.

"Our quarterback was Bill Cole. He wouldn't quit. He was determined to be successful. Three or four times we had real crucial plays. Bill audibled and made the plays.

"It wasn't the score that counted so much but how that boy played the game. Those are the good things that happen in athletics. You feel good to see a kid do those things. You feel good to see kids discipline themselves. You're proud of them," Wartes said.

Wartes began his head football coaching career with a philosophy of defense. He said, "I guess my first philosophy in football was, 'If you can't play defense, you can't win.' The whole idea of playing is trying to win.

"I grew up during a time where that philosophy was most prevalent. You don't have those great running backs, those great athletes every year. But you've got to have a little bit of talent."

A party was held recently in honor of Wartes, with a large crowd of people who played on his teams attending, plus fellow coaches, business department associates, and other friends in the school and community.

"When all those people came to the retirement party, it makes you feel good about what you've done. I've enjoyed everything. The whole story is who's worked for me. We've enjoyed our working relationships," Wartes said.

But "Coach" Wartes, who reached the century mark with a 100-45-2 record, still emphasizes, "I am not retiring. I am changing directions."

And whatever those directions are, Wartes will no doubt carry on strongly and diligently with his "I like people" attribute.

BULL

The goal of the state should be to guarantee and insure a certain standard of education. The present funding system, initiated in 1949 with the landmark Gilmer-Aiken bill, has served Texas well. The entire method of financing schools was overhauled in 1949 with the basic idea to set a minimum standard of education for every Texas school child and insure that every district had the resources to provide this standard.

The Gilmer-Aiken bill established an economic index for every school district and set a taxable base figure for each district. Then the state came in with financial aid for those districts below a state-mandated figure. This insured that all schools had the money to offer a quality education.

Schools who wanted to enrich their program by raising their own taxes were free to do so. If Andrews, with huge oil values to tax, had carpeted classrooms, it did not mean that every school in Texas is entitled to the same.

In an attempt to make sure that tax values are equal, Texas passed the Peveo bill several years ago and it mandated placing all taxable property on the tax rolls at 100 percent market value. State appraisers were set up to see this was done. The result, while not perfect, has more or less equalized taxes across the state so that the only difference is the local tax rate itself.

When the court insists that every school be funded exactly the same as every other school, we have couple of options. One is to take away from the rich and give to the poor until all schools are equal. The other, as has been suggested, is for all schools to remit all their income to the state which, in turn, will distribute it equally to all schools. This takes away the authority of the local school boards, and Texans should resist this move with all their might.

Not everybody and everything can be made absolutely equal. All that we should strive for is that everybody has an equal opportunity. There is a difference.

PCS Update

The Hereford Center implements seven federal programs: HUD Rental Assistance; The Job Training Partnership Act; Primary Home Care; The Panhandle Transit; Temporary Emergency Relief Program (ENTERP); the Commodity Distribution; and the Energy Crisis Program.

The Hereford Center is responsible for private fundraising in our area. The funds raised will be used for emergency situations such as prescriptions, food, transportation and emergency shelter. There are fewer restrictions on the funds raised locally, however, the guidelines are similar to those followed for the ENTERP applications. All funds raised in the County are used in Deaf Smith County.

In the months of March and April the HUD Rental Assistance Program served 250 families in Deaf Smith County, with a total value of $275,452. A majority of this assistance goes to the landlord, return going back into supplies and living expenses in the Hereford area.

Each case in the rental assistance program varies. In general the applicants monthly income is verified and the renter is responsible for 30% of their monthly income to be applied toward the rental cost. Housing for Urban Development pays the remainder of the rental cost to the property owner.

The Panhandle Community Services Staff appreciates the support and cooperation of the entire community. While serving our clients our activities involve many individuals from elected officials to volunteers, and from the business person to the utility companies.

Our operations involve the grocery stores, the gas stations, the hotels, the Red Cross, the Department of Human Services, The County Social Services and the Churches. For all this participation and encouragement we say THANK YOU HEREFORD!

(Panhandle Community Services is a nonprofit private agency that manages federal programs. The Hereford Center for PCS is located at 603 E. Park Avenue and is coordinated by Celia Serrano. You can reach us at 364-5631.)

Reagan says wrongs were dictated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says "the law of averages" dictates there will be corruption in Pentagon procurement and he praised how federal agents have handled what Republican senators call a bribery investigation of unprecedented scale.

Some 275 grand jury subpoenas have been issued to companies and individuals this week, said federal law enforcement sources, speaking on condition of anonymity. Attorney General Edwin Meese III said he anticipates indictments by the end of the summer.

But Reps. Roy Dyson, D-Md., and Bill Chappell, D-Fla., dismissed reports that they had come under scrutiny in the investigation, while two more defense contractors — Martin Marietta Corp. and LTV Corp. — disclosed they had been served with subpoenas in the probe.

Reagan said he was "very proud" of the investigators who conducted the probe without tugging the president until this week. The secret investigation meant "there was no panicking and no leaks or anyone running for cover," Reagan said on CNN's "Moneyline."

FATHER

If Keith were spending time with his daughter, his daughter's friends weren't far behind, feeling the same affection for Keith that his daughter does by calling him "Daddy."

"At one football game I had five little girls tagging along," says Keith with a laugh. "Come to find out I got onto one of the girls because she was acting up, and her father was sitting right behind me. He didn't say a word, though. I guess he approved of what I was doing."

Keith said he definitely does not believe in sparing the rod if the situation calls for a spanking.

"I discipline her pretty hard. She knows right from wrong and that's it. There's no pushing it."

Keith makes sure he's involved in every aspect of T.J.'s life from disciplining her to supporting her in her interests such as ballet. "I help out with her ballet by getting together scenery for their recitals, getting together the girls, stuff like that. By I don't fix T.J.'s hair — her grandmother does that."

Keith said he would like to see T.J. succeed in ballet and in school, pointing out with pride that T.J. brought home mostly A's on her last report card.

Keith's face lights up most, however, when he tells of his little girl accepting Jesus as her savior three weeks ago.

"It was a decision she made by herself," Keith said. "She originally came up to me and asked about it and I told her I'd stay with her and help her through it."

Keith says he's a Christian and raising T.J. to be able to weather life's hardships is his goal. After surviving a near-fatal accident in 1979 when an air brake exploded in his face, Keith knows what it is to endure adversity.

"I had to learn to cope with stress and I think it's a way that God intended for me to have T.J. He knew that we were intended for each other and that's the reason I'm still alive," Keith said as the room becomes quiet. "Life is quick and fast and it comes up with a lot of things that make you want to give up, but you just have to trust in yourself and in the Lord if you're gonna make it."

Soap on a Rope, cologne or the proverbial necktie don't top Keith's list for Father's Day gifts. Just seeing another Father's Day would suit him fine.

"This little horsefly is my lifeline. Whatever it takes to keep her happy, I'm willing to do," said Keith, rubbing T.J. on the back. "It's just an enjoyable time for me, seeing T.J. grow up and I'm happy I've made it this far."

Crimestoppers offers reward

Sometime during the night of Thursday, June 16, someone broke into the Golf Course Pro Shop on south Main Street. The suspect(s) took several hundred dollars of loose change from the building.

Anyone giving information leading to the arrest and indictment of person(s) responsible for the Crime of the Week will receive a $300 reward. Anyone having information can contact the Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers at 364-3583 or 364-CLUE.

Any information regarding a crime may be given on the Clue Line. Anyone giving information leading to the arrest and indictment in a felony case may be eligible for a reward up to $300. The caller may remain anonymous.

Golf pro to give tips at local course June 28

For local golfers who have problems with a crummy golf shot, such as a slice, hook, or fat shot, help is on the way.

Linda Craft, 1987 Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) Teacher of the Year will explain why and how to correct such problem at her outdoor golf clinic set for June 28 at 6 p.m. at the Hereford Golf Course.

Participants should bring a small lawn chair, a pad and a pencil for the hour and a-half golf instructor session. Cost of the clinic is $0 per person with all proceeds going to the American Cancer Society.

The event is sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Unit of the American Cancer Society. Pre-registration forms are available at Hereford Golf Course and should be sent to Pat Goforth, 242 Hickory, Hereford. For more information, call Kee Ruland, president of the local ACS unit, at 364-0857.

Craft of Jacksboro, Texas, has been teaching golf for 23 years and has been, for 20 years, the co-owner of the internationally known Craft-Zavichas Golf School. The school, for me, women and junior golfers, features six Class "A" PGA male instructors and 5 Class "A"/Master LPGA female instructors, and it is one of five accredited golf schools in the United States.

A graduate of clinical psychology from Louisiana State University, she played for five years on the LPGA Tour, served two years on the LPGA Executive Board, and was co-chairman of the LPGA Publicity Committee. Craft holds the unique LPGA ranking of Class "A" in both the LPGA Tour and Teaching Divisions and in 1983 she was awarded the highest rank of the LPGA Teaching Division, that being Master Professional.

Craft has published three books, has written numerous articles and tips for national golf publications and she was the national LPGA television commentator for three years. She is currently seen on national television giving golf tips. Craft serves as one of the three LPGA Area Representatives in Texas, whose job it is to "test the LPGA teachers." She served two years as the national LPGA Teaching Division Publicity Chairman.

She was recently selected as one of the 1987 three national finalists for the prestigious Ben Hogan Award for her personal battle against cancer and for her volunteer work for the American Cancer Society. For this volunteer work, she has been nominated for the new LPGA Samaritan Award.

Golf pro to visit Hereford

Linda Craft, 1987 LPGA Teacher of the Year, will explain why and how to correct bad golf shots at an outdoor golf clinic set for June 28 at 6 p.m. at the Hereford Golf Course. Sponsored by the Deaf Smith County unit of the American Cancer Society, proceeds from the clinic will benefit the ACS. Cost of this hour and a-half session is $20 per person; participants should bring a small lawn chair, a pad and a pencil. Pre-registration forms are available at the Hereford Golf Course.

Kings Manor Auxiliary sets Wednesday morning coffee

Kings Manor Auxiliary members and others interested in helping Kings Manor Retirement Home residents are invited to a coffee at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Lamar Garden Room at the Manor.

Hosts will be the board members of Kings Manor Founders Association.

Plans for the annual Founders Association Barbecue, scheduled for July 9 from 5-9 p.m. at the Manor complex, will be discussed at the coffee. The barbecue is a major fund-raising event of the Founders Association, with proceeds going to assist Manor residents who are unable to pay the full cost of their care at the United Methodist facility.

Several Association members will prepare the barbecue dinner with Auxiliary members serving it.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Abraham Lincoln delivered his famous Gettysburg Address Nov. 19, 1863.

Almost forgotten by history is the chief speaker on that day, Edward Everett (1794-1865), considered one of the greatest orators of his time. During his career, Everett served five terms in Congress, was governor of Massachusetts, U.S. Minister to Great Britain, president of Harvard and secretary of state under President Millard Fillmore.

Tickets are on sale now at the Manor and the public is invited.

Joan Bookout, a board member, is general chairman of arrangements for the coffee. Bob Sims is board chairman this year, Jim Arney is vice-president, B.F. Cain secretary.

Other directors are Grant Hanna, Edward Allison, Wayne Amstutz, Jeff Brown, Mark Hicks, Wanda Hoover, Della Hutchins, Jim Halliburton of Vega, Roberta Caviness and Charles Duvall.

Old time medicine show set for June 23

The AMBUCS Club (American Business Club) of Hereford will sponsor their second Annual Old Time Medicine Show at the Bull Barn on June 23 at 8 p.m. The Show will help to raise funding for the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Organization of Hereford, a United Way Agency.

The show will feature Tommy Scott's Last Real Old Time Medicine Show of fun and music, including country music, clowns, and magic blue grass music. Door prizes will be given which were donated by the business and professional people of Hereford.

The show will run for about two hours and the AMBUCS will feature a concession stand at the Bull Barn. Admission is $3 per person or free with a Merchants Coupon. Check with local merchants and see if they have the free admission coupons or look for the next announcement in The Brand for a list of places to get the merchant's coupons.

For further information contact AMBUCS members.

Red Cross Update

Special thanks are extended to the water safety instructors and aides working with the water safety classes now in progress. Another session of classes will be held in July as well as several special classes.

The advanced lifesaving class has been postponed. Call the office if you are interested in taking Advanced Lifesaving or contact Ronny Sanders. A basic rescue and water safety (junior lifesaving) will be held in July. Call the office for registration for that class. Mary Zinser will be teaching a swimmer class in August.

A huge garage sale will be held June 24-25 in the building next to Don Tardy Real Estate at the corner of Highway 60 and Highway 385. Donations are now being accepted at the office for the garage sale and we hope everyone will come and shop. We are raising funds for the 1988 African Famine Fund and for our local Chapter activities.

The Uniformed Volunteers will have a workday and salad luncheon Monday at noon, at the office. All volunteers are asked to help with the garage sale. Please call or just come to the office if you would like to help with the garage sale.

The annual membership meeting will be held Tuesday at the Red Cross office. New members to the board of directors will be elected. The Board of Directors will meet immediately following the membership meeting. Anyone interested in Red Cross activities is invited to attend this meeting.

A water safety instructors class is being marked. Please call the office now if you would like to become a water safety instructor. There is still time to work on swimming skills and take the advanced lifesaving class. Call the Red Cross office.

YOUR EYES

MISUSE

Can you hurt your eyes by reading too much? Can poor light weaken your eyesight? Will holding the pages of a book too close to your eyes cause them to cross? Is it dangerous to wear someone else's glasses to correct your vision?

Few studies have been conducted to provide definite answers to these common questions. However, the experience of many optometrists suggests that, reading too much, poor light, holding a book too close, or wearing someone else's glasses can produce visual stress. And it is no secret that visual stress can alter the way you see temporarily or even permanently.

It is best to have your eyes examined regularly, learn and follow good eye/seeing habits and have glasses fitted - when necessary - that are exactly meant for your eyes. After all, they are the only pair of eyes you will ever have.

WALK A LITTLE PLAINER, DADDY

Walk a little plainer, Daddy,
Said a little boy so frail,
I'm following in your footsteps
And I don't want to fail.
Sometimes your steps are very plain,
Sometimes they are hard to see;
So walk a little plainer, Daddy,
For you are leading me.

I know that once you walked this way
Many years ago,
And what you did along the way
I'd really like to know,
For sometimes when I am tempted
I don't know what to do;
So walk a little plainer, Daddy,
For I must follow you.

Someday when I'm grown up,
You are like I want to be;
Then I will have a little boy
Who will want to follow me, and I would want to lead him right,
And help him to be true.
So walk a little plainer, Daddy,
For we must follow you.

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around Texas:

Criminal Justice Challenges Remain

The Texas Department of Corrections has crossed another milestone in its progress toward ending the sweeping Ruiz lawsuit that has commanded TDC's attention since the early 1970s.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice approved a plan last week that would phase out the court-appointed special master who has monitored Texas' compliance with his sweeping prison reform order. ... Significant progress has been made and more is expected.

For many of inmates, activities that started with or centered around drug abuse paved the way for their one-way trip to Huntsville. ...

Limited state facilities and a backlog of convicted felons make it easy for most people sent to TDC these days to be back out on the streets after less than a year. Too many go back to their old tricks. The revolving door makes a mockery of the criminal justice system. And as a result, we can't feel safe in our homes or our businesses.

... We can't rest easy until we've created a society that gives its young people every chance to grow up without the temptation of drug abuse under their noses. A criminal justice system that overlooks the needs of our children to be able to preserve a little of their innocence, to pursue their dreams, to enjoy their rights and freedoms is short on justice.

Toward those goals, Texas still has a long way to go.

AstroWorld at 20

AstroWorld is no longer a teen-ager. It turned 20 on June 1.

Don't get any idea that AstroWorld is maturing, though. Any amusement park with attractions named Thunder River, Skyscreamer, the Texas Cyclone and the Tidal Wave will never grow up. Not only is AstroWorld fun, it is one of Houston's major tourist attractions, creating 3,000 jobs a year and generating close to $50 million a year in business.

Compromise on Alien Count

Texas' state officialdom is upset over a lawsuit which challenges the inclusion of illegal aliens in the 1990 census. In fact, the state — represented by Attorney General Jim Mattox — is so exercised that it has asked to intervene as a defendant in that lawsuit.

Why all the consternation? The answer is simple: nuts-and-bolts politics. The 1990 census will be used as the basis for apportioning federal funds and congressional seats, and if illegal aliens — present in large numbers in Texas — are included in that count, the state stands to gain. Some observers believe that Texas might qualify for as many as four additional seats in Congress under those conditions.

Perhaps a compromise is in order: Why not work out an arrangement whereby illegal aliens would be included in the count for purposes of apportioning funds for human services programs and other related applications, but not for the apportionment of congressional seats? ... Unwieldy? Perhaps — but it just might offer a way out of a legal and political briar patch.

On Ditching Fitch

Bill Fitch seems fated to repeat again and again the role of Sisyphus, the figure of Greek mythology who was condemned to push a rock repeatedly up a steep hill, never to keep it at the apex. The Houston Rockets coach, fired after a disappointing season, builds some fine teams. Then the wheels come off.

By the time the ax fell, it clearly was time for Fitch to go. For all the good he had done, the bad had come to outweigh. Worse than not inspiring Houston players, he had in many cases become one of their major antagonists. The team was dispirited, its record a source of heart murmurs for fans, the attendance sagging.

Don't undervalue what Bill Fitch did here. He took a rudderless team and (helped by top draft choices) made it a powerhouse. He deserves credit for a Cinderella 1985-86 season that saw the Rockets go toe-to-toe with the Boston Celtics for longer than Larry Bird & Co. ever expected. But when it's over, it's over.

Bootleg Philosopher

Editor's Note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnsongrass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek has a suggestion for both political parties this week.

Dear editor:

As everybody now knows, Republican George Bush and Democrat Michael Dukakis have each locked up his party's nomination for President, so why go to the trouble of holding nominating conventions this summer? Seems like a lot of rigmarole for nothing, assembling the Democrats in Atlanta and then the Republicans in New Orleans to do what's already been done.

Having a roll call of noisy delegates and then having wild cheering breaking out in the convention hall when the already known results are announced, with bands playing and delegates marching all over the place and yelling and hollering, is like a bunch of football fans yelling and cheering at a re-run of a televised game they all saw day before yesterday.

But, you may point out, how about a Vice President? Nobody's won the nomination for that yet.

That can be done by telephone. As everybody knows, the nominee for President picks his running mate. He does it after prayerful consideration of who's qualified to take over the Presidency if called on, if he lives in a state whose votes are crucial to winning and if he knows when to keep his mouth shut for four years and maybe eight.

All the nominee would have to do is get the delegates on the phone and tell them he wants so-and-so for Vice President, then give them a minute or so to get their staff-brimmed straw hats on and then hold the receiver away from his ear while they voted yes with thunderous whoops and hollers.

But, you may point out again, the convention has to write and adopt a platform.

There's no need for a new one. Be a sheer waste of time. Both parties have got platforms from four or five of the last Presidential elections that have never been used.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

MY KIND OF OLD

I have spent most of my adult life dreading old age. Somehow I could not believe there was fun after sixty. There was a time when I did not think there could be fun after fifty. I have had the chance to meet hundreds of older folks in the last few years. I must say some of them have had a profound effect on my fear of aging. If I can be like some of the ones I have met, then bring on the years.

A lady told me about her mother who died last year at 96. I wish I could have known her. She kept the whole world on alert. There was never any telling what she would say. She made up wild stories and told them for truth. On one occasion she was asked if she had ever flown. She told them she had flown with the Wright brothers. Matter of fact, she had flown with both of them, and Wiley Post, also.

Age made the stories wilder and better. Her daughter took her to church. The daughter was Episcopalian and there was a service of communion. The priest approached her with the wafer and said, "This is the body of Christ." She said, "Yes, and this is my daughter, Thelma."

My kind of old folks are also found in this story. An elderly man approached a lady in the nursing home where they lived. He bet her five dollars she could not tell how old he was. She took the bet.

He said, "OK, how old am I?"

She said, "I am not ready yet, drop your pants."

He dropped his pants and said, "Now, how old am I?"

She said "I am not through, drop your drawers." He did so. Then she said, "Now turn around."

He did so and said, "Tell me how old I am?"

She said, "You are 85."

He said, "How did you know?"

She said, "You told me yesterday."

My kind of old.

Forget gas tax hikes, cut spending

By RICHARD L. LESHNER
President

WASHINGTON — Without question the federal budget deficit is one of the greatest problems besetting our country, but a hike in the gasoline tax is not the solution.

When Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan recommended such a tax increase last month, the proposal acquired a level of credibility it does not deserve. Greenspan is an able man whose concern about the deficit is laudable, but higher taxes are not the answer.

To begin with, Congress has demonstrated several times in recent years that it is institutionally incapable of applying higher tax revenues to deficit reduction. In fact, tax increases have led consistently to even larger deficits.

But even if there were reason to believe Congress would actually use more revenue to reduce the flow of red ink, a higher tax on gasoline would still be the wrong way to raise more money for the government.

Greenspan suggested a hike in the federal gasoline tax of 15 cents per gallon which, he said, would raise $15 billion in taxes. Presumably, such a tax increase would also discourage consumption and perhaps lead to a marginal reduction in our use of energy.

But consider the downside. Recently, Wharton Econometrics performed an analysis of the probable impact of a 10 cent per gallon increase in the gasoline tax. According to Wharton, such an increase would: reduce our Gross National Product by $10 billion in 1989; increase unemployment by 80,000 in 1989 and 180,000 in 1990; reduce personal savings by 3 percent; increase the consumer price index by 0.3 percent; reduce automobile production by 1.3 percent; reduce housing construction by 0.9 percent; reduce petroleum refinery output by 1.2 percent; and reduce tax revenues by $1 billion annually.

That's right—reduce tax revenues. The $15 billion increase in taxes collected at the pump would be more than offset by revenue losses resulting from the tax hike's overall impact on the economy.

And there are other good reasons to oppose such a tax increase. For one, gasoline is already heavily taxed. About one-third of the total price is taxes.

Also, such a tax would fall hardest on lower income citizens who tend to spend a much higher percentage of their income on gasoline than do upper income workers. It would also impact disproportionately upon residents of rural areas and small towns who are required to drive about 40 percent more than their urban counterparts.

For more people, driving is not a luxury but rather a necessity. Few people enjoy the option of reducing their gasoline usage in response to higher taxes; they simply have to pay it. Also, keep in mind that fuel prices are one of the most critical leverage points in our economy. Virtually everything we use—consumer products, food, whatever—is transported by vehicle. A hike in the cost of vehicle fuel cannot help but be reflected in the cost of every item we use.

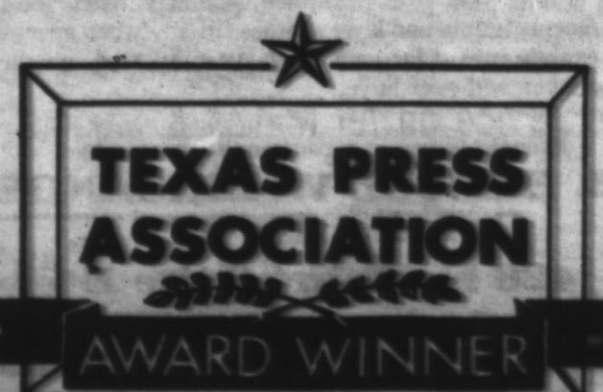

Congress should forget suggested tax hikes and concentrate instead on trying something new: cutting federal spending!

Newspapers are top choice

NEW YORK (AP) — Where do people turn for financial information?

According to a recent survey reported by Financial Services Week, newspapers were the main source of information for 47 percent of persons surveyed, while 37 percent cited magazines as giving them important financial information.

The publication, a financial planners' journal, also reported that only 13 percent said they consulted their bankers and tax-preparers; 23 percent their accountants; 24 percent family and friends. Thirteen percent said they kept their own counsel and had not had any financial advice from anyone during the previous year.

Receiving certificates

Hereford Day Care Center employees (from left) Sammie Watson and Georgia Pinkerton, recently received Family Day Home Care Provider certificates for continuing education units from Texas A&M University. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service's program includes a four-week home study course which utilizes video tapes and self-study guides with information on child development and guidance, nutrition, health and safety, and business management. Anyone interested in enrolling for the course set July 1, may contact the Deaf Smith County Extension Office at 364-3573.

June 27 deadline to register for program

Registration will close June 27 for a child care provider program which will be in Deaf Smith County for a limited time.

The program, conducted in a county during one time frame each year, will be available in Deaf Smith County from July 1 through September. It will be administered by the Family Living Committee of the Deaf Smith County Extension Office.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service, in cooperation with the Texas Department of Human Services and the Corporate Child Development Fund for Texas are sponsors of the program. The program recognizes the fact that people who care for children in their homes are special and have special learning needs.

The Family Day Home Care Provider Program consists of a manual the provider buys ($20) and a four-part video tape set the provider uses on loan from the County Extension Office. The manual includes subject matter, study questions and suggested activities. The four-part video series illustrates practical application of the manual contents and will be checked out to program participants on a revolving basis.

The Family Day Home Care Provider Program is the first independent study program to be approved for Continuing Education Units. Providers who complete the program and score at least 70 on a post-test administered by the county Extension agent may apply for three continuing education units to the Office of Professional Development, Texas A&M University through the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. A $5.00 administration fee is required.

To register for the course, please contact the County Extension Office for a registration form (364-3573).

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH IS GROWING!

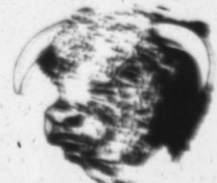

You may have noticed the new addition to the church over the past few weeks. The more than 5,000 square feet is designed to house nursery and elementary Sunday school classes, to bring the children together to learn.

"We must be committed in the present if we want to have a future," said 11 year Pastor Mack McCarter. "We are excited about the numerical and spiritual growth of our church. The commitment explosion we have seen since 1962 is truly by the grace of God."

Here at First National Bank we are also excited about growth in our city. And we are committed to being a part of that growth. For those reasons we are proud to have financed the new addition to First Christian Church.

DANGEROUS GRASS

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — It appears to be man bites dog news. An NCAA study of 25 Division I-A football teams for the 1987 season indicated that playing football on artificial turf is not likely to result in a higher injury rate. In fact, just the opposite may be the case.

Although the study did not claim to be conclusive, it did indicate there are more injuries on natural grass, especially knee damage. For some reason, defensive players were hit harder than those on the offense.

TOUGH TO DO
NEW YORK (AP) — Hall of Famer Ted Williams, who was the last man to hit .400 — Ted batted .406 for the Red Sox in 1941 — has always contended hitting a baseball is the most difficult thing in sports.

According to Discover Magazine, an average 90 mph pitch reaches the hitter in just .41 of a second. A conclusion was drawn that a batter has slightly more than one-tenth of a second to decide whether he will swing at the pitch. Then, he still has to make contact.

REMEMBER THESE SAFETY TIPS

- Watch for power lines when climbing in trees.
- Do not climb electrical poles, towers or structures.
- Do not trim trees near power lines.
- Do not set ladders or scaffolds near power lines.
- Do not shoot at insulators on poles, towers or structures.
- Never climb on or go inside a substation fence. Call SPS to help you retrieve anything thrown into the substation or caught in its fence.
- Avoid using electrical tools like lawn mowers or hedge clippers when grass and leaves are wet.
- Be careful when digging. Call SPS to find out if there are any buried electrical lines in the area.
- Electrical cords should not be spliced or taped. Repair by shortening them or replace them entirely.
- Beware of exposed wires.
- Don't touch portable appliances (coffee makers, radios, hair dryers, etc.) with wet hands or while standing or sitting in water.
- Don't post signs on utility poles. A lineman hitting a nail with his cleat could slip and fall. Also, nails can snag protective gloves and destroy their insulation value.

Farm and Ranch Drought parches more area

Rain fell in drought-stricken sections of the nation but provided little relief today from the dry spell parching crops, stranding hundreds of river barges and endangering cattle farmers including a 106-year-old Texas ranch.

"If we get rain, there'll be no problem. If we don't get rain, we're going to have to cut short on groceries," cattle farmer Tim Meister of Reedsburg, Wis., said Thursday at the Milwaukee Stockyards as livestock went on the block amid the worst drought in America's midsection since the Dust Bowl.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng allowed hay-cutting on land in nearly 300 counties in 13 states set aside under a massive federal conservation program so farmers can harvest hay in areas where the weather has shriveled livestock feed. President Reagan appointed an interagency committee to deal with the crisis.

Showers and thunderstorms moved through the Midwest and from Ohio to Kentucky and the southern Appalachians on Thursday, but the rain was widely scattered, the National Weather Service said.

Rain continued early today in southern South Dakota and northern Nebraska. Showers and thunderstorms were expected from eastern Texas and eastern Oklahoma to North Carolina up to Maine, and from eastern Kansas to Minnesota, but the storms will be "pretty widely scattered," meteorologist Hugh Crowther of the weather service's National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., said today.

The five-day outlook is "pretty dry," Crowther said. The dry weather has shriveled or threatened to damage corn and other crops in many states in the Midwest and the Southeast.

"There ain't gonna be no crops. It's the worst I've seen since '36," said Firmin Rettinghauf, 72, whose three sons farm his land near Gilbertville in northeast Iowa.

"There is no more hopeless or helpless feeling than seeing your crops dry up, because there is no alleviating that disaster," said White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, who grew up on a farm.

State officials offered some relief. In Indiana, $10 million in emergency low-interest loans was made available, and as many as 45,000 farmers could benefit, said Lt. Gov. John M. Mutz. In Madison, Wis., the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee approved $5 million expected to provide 385 loans to drought-stricken growers.

Cattle farmers were among the hardest hit. The dry, hot weather has turned pastures brown, burning up feed for livestock.

"Other years, they've been able to buy hay from farmers in other parts of the state or neighboring states because the drought was isolated. But this year, everybody's got the same problem," Michigan agriculture department Director Paul Kindinger said during a tour of drought-hit farms.

In the lower Rio Grande Valley in Texas, ranchers short on feed had been using propane torches to remove thorns from prickly pear cactus so cattle could graze on them. But some had to stop because even the cactus is shriveling up.

Near Lubbock, George McNeil said the dry spell could doom the ranch his family has owned for 106 years, which has been plagued by early frosts and other problems for several years. McNeil said that if it doesn't rain soon, he'll start selling off his 500 head of cattle in 100-head increments.

"We just hope that we can salvage enough cattle to have a basis to start over again when this thing (drought) does break," he said. "But it looks like this is the one that's going to take us out."

Wheat producers host Jordanians

Government officials from Jordan visited the Texas Panhandle this week to study grain quality, grain grading, marketing, transportation and meet individuals in the Texas grain production and marketing industry.

The Texas Wheat Producers Board, through its 1/2 cents per bushel self-assessment, along with 15 other member state wheat boards and commissions, conduct their foreign market development activities through U.S. Wheat Associates, the national host of the government officials.

An itinerary was developed for the group to visit in the Amarillo-Houston areas, in cooperation with the Texas Department of Agriculture. Stops included the Port of Houston Authority, export elevators, a terminal elevator, country elevators, and a grain exchange to meet individuals in the Texas grain production and marketing industry.

Purchases of Texas and U.S. wheat totaled one-third of Jordan's 18 million bushel imports. One of the objectives of this mission is to gain a larger market share of the country's expanding demand.

The Jordanian wheat mission is part of an on-going market development program of the Texas Wheat Producers Board designed to maintain or help increase foreign markets which may add to greater demand and increased markets.

Producer testifies on sugar

Alvin Hansen, a sugarbeet farmer from Baker, Minn., recently told a U.S. Senate committee that U.S. sugar farmers should not be burdened with a disproportionate share of the cost of this nation's foreign aid.

Hansen appeared in Washington before the International Trade Subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee in opposition to a proposal authored by Sen. Bill Bradley (D-NJ) to dramatically lower U.S. sugar supports and significantly increase sugar imports from Central American countries.

"This proposal is specifically designed as a foreign aid package," the Minnesota farmer declared. However, the bill for the foreign assistance would accrue solely to the U.S. sugar industry according to Hansen.

The beet farmer took note of Washington's seeming preoccupation with problems faced by large eastern financial institutions and the concomitant disregard of the financial problems of small town U.S. banks. "The U.S. sugar industry is just as important to our state economies as the industry is to economies of these foreign exporters," Hansen said.

Sugar ranks first in Wyoming and Hawaii, second in Florida and third in Idaho, Hansen stated and "in my home region of Minnesota, and North Dakota, the sugar industry generates almost $1 billion of economic activity per year.

"Besides thousands of jobs directly associated with the sugar industry $27 million in taxes are paid to finance schools, hospitals, roads and other beneficial projects.

"The bill—$252—proposes to destroy that," Hansen stated. "It says that foreign producers are more important to this country than tax-paying American producers," he declared.

The hearings included testimony from witnesses representing banking interests as well as U.S. and foreign sugar producers.

Dennis Printz, agricultural manager at the local Holly Sugar factory, agreed with Hansen's assessment.

"The Senatorial sponsors of this proposal live in a dream world," Printz said.

Heavily subsidized foreign sugar is dumped on a so-called world market and sold at fire sale prices.

Sen. Bradley has implied that U.S. consumers can actually purchase sugar at those prices and save billions.

In reality, if the U.S. accepted the world's subsidized surplus, it would drive American producers out of business. The overproduction would turn to shortage and American consumers—without a U.S. producing capability—would be left holding the sack, Printz declared.

Stability for American consumers is our best policy the local sugar executive declared.

Being aware is the best prevention. Summer and spring insects create more problems for humans than snakes. Being aware of those insects tend to be and what to do when threatened can make a lot of difference. Avoid walking outside barefooted. Don't wear sweet or strong smelling perfumes or colognes. Cover soft drink cans and ripened fruit when outside. Try to work in yard and flower beds in the early morning when insects are less active. If a stinging insect is near, remain still. However, if attacked by a swarm of bees, wasps, yellow jackets or hornets, run from them, covering the face with hands and arms. People have different reactions to insect stings and bites, usually depending on how allergic a person is. Reactions like itching or slight inflammation of the skin does not usually require a doctor's treatment. However, reactions such as swelling or nausea and, of course, severe reactions like difficulty in breathing, hoarseness or confusion, shock or unconsciousness require a doctor's treatment.

Fun-filled evening planned at 1988 Rhinestone Roundup

It's almost time for one of Hereford's annual social events as the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center prepares to honor its 1988 inductees. Beginning at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, June 25, the 1988 Hall of Fame Honoree Induction Ceremony will be staged at the Hereford Community Center. Tickets for the citation ceremony and luncheon are priced at $15 per person and reservations may be made by calling the CHOF at 364-5252.

Five new Western Heritage honorees and two Cowgirl Hall of Fame honorees have been chosen by the Honoree Research and Selection Committee. To be honored will be Marie Tyler of Bismarck, N.D.; Stella Hughes of Clifton, Ariz.; Hope Carol Varner of Lake Ozark, Mo.; Mari Sandoz of Sheridan County, Neb.; and Elizabeth Boye Smith of Crosbyton, Texas, all Western Heritage Honorees; and Mildred Douglas Chrisman of Lawton, Okla., and Ruth Parton of Toppenish, Wash., both Cowgirl honorees. The highlight of the weekend's festivities will be the benefit gala, the 1988 Rhinestone Roundup, set at 7 p.m. Saturday, June 25, at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame. Tickets are priced at $25 per person and reservations may be made by calling the CHOF office.

Guests will be greeted by this year's chair couple, Darwin and Connie McGill, as well as co-hosts Loyd Ames, Bob and Susan Barrett, Dwight and Kathie Colville, Howard and Fran Engle, Chet and Darlene Fields, Dale and Jan Furr, Dick and Juanita Giesler, Don and Pat Graham, Jean Lyman, Larry and Sue Malamen, Jim and Nance Perrin, Don and Karla Vasek and Bill and Joan Yarbrough.

Serving as emcees will be Tom Simons, Mary Thomas and Mark Luchsinger.

Kicking-off the night's activities will be a mini-concert presented by Patsy Montana, a 1987 honoree. The artist has the distinction of being a yodeling cowgirl who recently celebrated her 50th anniversary as a performer in country western music. She wrote and recorded the all-time hit, "I Want To Be A Cowboy's Sweetheart" acknowledging her as the first woman to sell a million copies of a country record in 1936. She and her husband, Paul Rose, reside in San Jacinto, Calif. where she continues her career as a singer and songwriter.

At 7:30 p.m., Joan Wells of Lincoln, Neb. will demonstrate fancy roping tricks. Major awards that she has received include: 1979 Women's World Champion Trick Roper; 1979 First Place Women's Free Lance; and 1979 First Place Texas Skip Endurance (187 consecutive passes through the loop set a new record and has been entered in the Guinness Book of World Records.)

Before the introduction of the 1988 honoree and of the 1988 Miss Rodeo Texas, a ranch-style buffet supper

Heart Run set here July 9

Golden Plains Care Center will sponsor the Golden Heart Run beginning at 7:30 a.m. July 9.

The family fitness run will begin early that Saturday morning so participants can beat the heat. Entrants may walk or run one mile course in separate age divisions; a registration fee will be charged to cover costs of T-shirts.

For additional information, contact Lin Hayes or Mary Jane Anvik at Golden Plains Care Center, 364-3815.

will be served. The menu will consist of stuffed jalapenos, dips and vegetables, barbecued beef and ribs, pinto beans, relishes, cobbler, hot rolls and blue corn muffins.

The Sundowners of Vega will be providing dance music until midnight during the two silent auctions and a live auction which will be followed by the presentation of several prizes including two round-trip tickets to New Orleans or anywhere in Texas that American Airlines flies, and $200 from Hereford Travel Center to use for land arrangements.

Among the over 110 items to be featured in the auctions will be a king-size bed topper, hand-made aqua dress, 1977 limited edition Fairmont China plate, wooden rocking horse, candy, a dinner for four, etched art, two-tiered glass and brass decorative cart, heavy lead crystal horse mounted in a carved wood base, three-day holiday in Ruidoso, N.M., pewter eight-inch standing cowboy in an edition of 500, gift certificate from a local garden center, and fajita dinner for eight.

Gearing up for Roundup

Wear your Sunday best or your casual western duds and come to the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center's 1988 Rhinestone Roundup set Saturday, June 25, at the CHOF. The evening's festivities, which begin at 7 p.m., will include a mini-concert by Patsy Montana, trick roping demonstration by Joan Wells, a ranch buffet supper, introduction of 1988 honorees and the reigning Miss Rodeo Texas, as well as silent and live auctions, dancing until midnight and the presentation of prizes. Discussing the benefit gala are (from left) Jim and Nance Perrin, co-hosts, and Connie and Darwin McGill, chair couple.

Wedding plans announced

July 3 is the wedding date set by Michael R. Bowles, son of Mike and Juanita Bowles of Hereford, and Cassy Christine Miles of Ventura, Calif.

Miss Miles a student at San Diego State University in San Diego, Calif., is the daughter of Santa Miles of Ventura and Robert Miles of Ojai, Calif.

Bowles, who graduated from Hereford High School in 1982, will complete an enlistment with the United States Marines in August.

In 1940, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson drew the first number — 158 — in the first peacetime military draft in U.S. history.

Women's Division notes 20th anniversary of progress

This year marks the 20th anniversary of the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. A quarterly meeting is set for July 7 at 7 p.m. in the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

The Women's Division began on July 9, 1968 in a meeting of 24 women voting on a set of By-laws, electing officers and establishing three committees to function out of the Chamber office. "Under the leadership of Mrs. Milton Adams, the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce has gotten off to a flying start. Tackling the job of calling all of the registered voters in Hereford to urge their vote for the July 16th bond issue (for the Wilson meat packing plant), the women turned out a record bond election vote." Such was the Division's work as described in a Brand article dated July 11, 1968.

Officers elected to serve with

Adams included Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine, first vice president; Mrs. Ed Loerwald, second vice president; Mrs. Clinton Jackson, recording secretary; Mrs. Earl Springer, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Jack Renfro, director. (Gillentine and Springer are deceased.)

The first committees set up were Public Affairs, chaired by Mrs. J.H. McCrary; Beautification, chaired by Mrs. T.J. Carter; and Welcome, chaired by Mrs. H.A. Caviness.

Spearheading the formation of the Women's Division was Earnest Langley, Chamber president, who had heard of the work done by other divisions. He was interested in studying the possibility of establishing a division in Hereford. Thus, he and Mrs. Adams spent six months writing letters to various women's divisions across the country. From replies they learned of problems, progress, and organizational procedure.

In addition to Adams, Gillentine, Loerwald, Jackson, Springer, and Renfro, other charter members included: Teddy Alexander (deceased); Bruce Carter; Gladys Cavness; Leatrus Clark; Virginia Hammett; Jerry Jackson; Kathryn Kester; Louise Kinsey; Ruth Knox; Thelma Lamm; Elizabeth McDowell, (deceased); Sammy Spangler; Wanda Streu; Geneva Summers; Olga Tannahill; Barbara Woods; Cherise Young; and Margaret Young.

The organization, now comprised of approximately 120 women, grew from the original three committees to a present total of 18 committees. The committees and their functions are as follows: Animal Action sponsors the 'Pet Show' each summer; Beautification sponsors the planting of flowers in downtown flower boxes each spring;

Beauty Spot of the month selects two residential and one commercial beauty spot monthly;

Blood Bank conducts the monthly blood drive in connection with Coffey Memorial Blood Bank out of Amarillo;

Christmas Carousel sponsors a Christmas shopping weekend in November in cooperation with local merchants;

Christmas Lighting Contest sponsors the annual Christmas lighting contest each December and judges the entrants;

Also, Christmas Tree Ceremony sponsors the annual tree lighting ceremony in December at the Courthouse and welcome Santa Claus for the holiday season;

Decorations handles the decorating for the annual Chamber Banquet and for the Women's Division quarterly meetings;

Finance and Budget prepares the annual budget for the Women's Division and handles ticket money at the quarterly meetings;

Jubilee handles the Women's Division activities for Town & Country Jubilee;

Fine Arts selects the Artist of the Month sponsored by the Women's Division;

Little Miss Hereford produces the Little Miss Hereford pageant each year;

Miss Hereford produces the Miss Hereford Pageant yearly;

Membership conducts the annual membership drive;

Public Affairs and Publicity handles public relations for the Women's Division and compiles the yearly scrapbook;

Telephone contacts the members for special functions in the community and in the Women's Division;

Tour sponsors tours of Hereford and Deaf Smith County; and Welcome is the goodwill ambassador committee for the Division.

Further information concerning the Women's Division may be obtained by calling the Chamber office at 364-3333.

Past presidents of the Division include, in 1968 Virginia Adams;

1968, Virginia Adams; 1969, Clara Gillentine; 1970, Irene McKinster; 1971, Wilma Townsend; 1972, Katherine Kester; 1973, Helen Lee; 1974-75 Lavon Nieman; 1976, Georgia Sparks; 1977, Donna VanderZee; 1978, Margaret Formby; 1979, Mary Herring; 1980, Frances Berry; 1981, Betty Gilbert; 1982, Carolyn Canon; 1983, Olivia Denning; 1984, Arvella Lauderback; 1985, Betty Drake; 1986, Lanette Leasure; 1987, Betty Taylor; and 1988, Sue Malamen.

Original officers

Six women were elected officers for the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce when the organization was created July 9, 1968. They included from left, Mrs. Milton Adams, who was president; Mrs. Ed Loerwald, second vice president; and Mrs. Clinton Jackson, recording secretary. Not pictured is Mrs. Jack Renfro, who was director. Other officers now deceased, included Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine, first vice president and Mrs. Earl Springer, parliamentarian. The Women's Division, now marking their 20th anniversary, will meet July 7 at 7 p.m. in the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame for a quarterly meeting.

Creation of moon mobile scheduled

Charting a moon mobile will be the featured event for Tuesday's summer reading club at Deaf Smith County Library at 10 a.m.

Youngsters in the club should wear old clothes and bring a paintbrush. Painting of the mobile will be held in the library parking lot.

Approximately 350 children participated in the June 14 "Design your own felt bookmark" program.

Hereford residents' son weds June 11

Selina Ruth Mendieta and Barry Mark Morgan, both of San Antonio, were married Saturday afternoon, June 11, in St. Matthew's Catholic Church of San Antonio with Father Dennis Jarzombek of the church officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Armando Mendieta of Bruni, Texas and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morgan of 208 Douglas.

Fresh floral arrangements of gladioli, tube roses, burgundy carnations, white cushion poms and alstromeria lilies adorned the church altar and pews were marked by burgundy ribbons and ivory lace.

Odetta Gonzalez served as matron of honor and Suzel Mendieta was maid of honor. Both are sisters of the bride. Best man was Bill Friedrich.

Bridesmaids included Terri Neutze, and the bridegroom's sisters, Debbie Arroyos, Jana Morgan and Cindy Morgan. Groomsmen were the groom's brother-in-law, Joe Arroyos, and Juan Acosta, Doug James, James Fisher and Tim Hamlett.

Guests were escorted by Bobby Lindquist and Joe Garcia.

The bride's niece, Daniella Gonzalez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reymundo Gonzalez, of Corpus Christi, was flower girl and ring bearers were the bride's godson, Kyle Nokes, and the bride's cousin, Corie Mendieta.

The groom's sister, Trina Lee Morgan, sang "God, A Woman and A Man," "The Wedding Song," "Doubly Good to You" and "We will Glorify" accompanied by Steve McClure.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose to wear an ivory satin designer's gown with pearls and bead work adorning the fitted bodice, the hem of the gown and the cathedral-length train. Strings of rice pearls accented the wedding ring collar, sleeves and the front point of the bodice at the waistline.

Completing her ensemble was the cathedral-length bridal illusion veil which was dotted with seed pearls and trimmed with pencil edging. It gathered into a pouf at the back of a delicately beaded headpiece which featured drop pearls over her forehead and a cluster of seed pearl flowers framed the side of her face.

She carried a lace handkerchief with her bridal bouquet which was designed with white tube roses, stephanotis, gardenias, burgundy roses and greenery. In keeping with bridal tradition, she also wore her mother's garter.

Each bridal attendant was attired ina burgundy taffeta floor-length gown which featured a flat pleated skirt and petticoat, fitted bodice, buttoned back and ivory lace trimming the elbow-length sleeves.

The bride's aunt, Fita Darnell, invited guests to register at the reception held in the ballroom of the Holiday Inn Northwest in San Antonio.

Cake was served by Shirley and Melanie Bohanan and the bride's aunt, Lilia Valdez. Others assisting during the wedding were lectors, Joyce and Patrick Pevoto of Austin and Jack and Kathleen Carey of Galveston.

The four-tiered ivory bride's cake was topped with a crystal heart-shaped adornment and was decorated by burgundy and mauve roses. Fresh flowers adorned the tables.

The couple are residing in San Antonio.

The bride, a graduate of Bruni High School in Bruni, received a bachelor's degree in health education from Texas A&M University at College Station and a bachelor's degree in physical therapy at the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas.

The groom, a graduate of Hereford High School, received a bachelor's degree in biology from West Texas State University and a bachelor's degree in physical therapy from the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas.

Out-of-town guests represented Bruni, Corpus Christi, Uvalde, Houston, College Station, Austin, Hereford, Princeton, Ind.; Baton Rouge, La.; Galveston, Lancaster, Querque, N.M.; Dallas, El Paso and N.Y.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Albuquerque, N.M.; Dallas, El Paso and Laredo.

ASK DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have spoken with several members of the American Heart Association about cholesterol, but they haven't been able to answer my questions. I have heard bits and pieces about the HDL-cholesterol, "good" cholesterol. Can you tell me what separates HDL from regular cholesterol? What foods is it found in? How can you raise your HDL-cholesterol if it is good for you?

DEAR READER: Cholesterol is not soluble in water or blood. The same is true of fat, called triglycerides. So nature has hooked triglycerides and cholesterol together with a blood protein. The protein is soluble in water and the combination is soluble in blood. These combinations of fat (lipid), cholesterol and protein are called lipoproteins. I often refer to them as fatty cholesterol particles.

The cholesterol in your blood is inside these particles. Your cholesterol test measures all the cholesterol in all the different-sized fatty cholesterol particles. Now if you measure only the cholesterol in the small, high-density-lipoproteins (HDL), you will measure the HDL-cholesterol fraction of your total cholesterol. But if you measure the cholesterol in the low-density-lipoproteins (LDL), you will be measuring the LDL-cholesterol fraction. HDL-cholesterol is important, not because it is cholesterol, but as a measure of how many small or high-density lipoproteins you have.

The small fatty-cholesterol particles (HDL) transport cholesterol out of the blood to the liver to be destroyed. They help to protect you from cholesterol deposits in your arteries. The low-density particles deposit cholesterol in the walls of the arteries, which leads to coronary artery disease.

You cannot eat foods that contain HDL-cholesterol. Your liver makes the different sized fatty-cholesterol particles. But your diet can influence how it does this. That is why you should avoid saturated fats and consuming too many calories. Exercise helps to increase formation of the small HDL particles. And some medicines, such as Lopid and Mevacor, lower your total cholesterol while raising your HDL-cholesterol.

You will understand HDL-cholesterol better after reading my newly revised Special Report 44, Understanding Cholesterol and Triglycerides, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/44, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Local couple honored on 40th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Higgins of 119 Fuller St. celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday, June 12, with an afternoon reception held in the backyard of their home.

The guests were received by the honorees and the afternoon was spent reminiscing.

The reception table, covered with a pink cloth and lace overlay, was centered by a large floral arrangement of pink roses, lavender mums, white and yellow daisies and purple iris which was sent by their son and family. Punch and large white anniversary cake decorated with red roses and the number "40" were served to those present.

Charles Higgins and the former Alta Mae Fortenberry exchanged wedding vows June 12, 1948, in the First Baptist Church Parsonage of Hereford with the Rev. R.E. Cagle officiating. They have a son, Clifford Eugene, of Fort Worth and a granddaughter, Jessica Leigh Higgins, also of Fort Worth.

Higgins served two years in India during World War II and recently retired after 22 years of employment with the Allred Oil Co. His wife taught in Deaf Smith County and the Hereford schools for 34 years. She is now retired and is a homemaker. She is a member of Delta Xi of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society. They are members of First Baptist Church.

Hosting the event were Mary Dorris, Christine Larson, Mariellen Hornfeld, Annie Mae Medley, Mary Ruth Baird, Flora Hornfeld and Kate Bradley.

Walt Tindals at home in Plainview after marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Tindal are residing in Plainview following an intimate wedding ceremony Sunday evening, May 29, in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Tindall of 106 Redwood.

Sam Mazurek of Hereford officiated for the couple who exchanged vows in the backyard area of the home decorated by an archway entwined with greenery and accented with white bows. The setting was further enhanced by fern trees.

The bride, the former Joyce Tellier of Plainview, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tellier of Ventura, Calif. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Tindal and Mrs. B.J. Laing of Amarillo.

The bride wore the traditional white formal-length wedding gown of satin and organza. A delicate floral designed accented the fitted bodice of the gown and the short sleeves were formed by deep organza flounces which also decorated the full skirt.

Her bridal illusion veil with pencil edging was attached to the back of a modified picture hat embellished with white seed pearls and lace flowers. She carried a white lace fan adorned by fresh spring flowers and white picot streamers.

The bride is a student at Texas Tech University and the groom, a 1984 graduate of Hereford High School, graduated from South Plains College in Levelland in May of 1987. He is currently employed at Tri State Chemical in Plainview.

Social Security

APPLYING FOR SSI

Persons 65 or older, blind, or disabled who believe they may be eligible for supplemental security income (SSI) payments should apply at the nearest Social Security office without delay. Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo said recently.

While applicants must provide certain information before their eligibility for monthly payment can be decided, they do not need all the necessary information to apply.

There is a very practical reason for people to apply for SSI promptly. The payments can start only with the date of application or the date of eligibility, whichever is later. Talbot said. Delay in filing can therefore mean a loss in payments.

SSI applicants should bring their Social Security card or a record of their Social Security number; their birth certificate or, if there is none, the oldest proof of their age they have; information about their income and assets, such as bank books, insurance policies, and copies of tax returns; information about their mortgage if they own their home or about their lease if they rent their home; and medical records concerning any disability (including blindness) and the names of medical institutions where they have been treated.

A disabled or blind child who applies for SSI payments should have the same information. If the child has no parents, a guardian or other responsible person can apply for payments on the child's behalf.

More information about SSI applications can be obtained at the Amarillo Social Security office, located at 3801 W. 15th. The telephone number is (806) 379-2311.

"Tell Me, Doctor — What Is A 'Pinched' Nerve?"

BY DR. GERALD GLASSCOCK

Doctor of Chiropractic

On varying occasions I'll read of "neurothipsia" — it's a common topic of conversation among Doctors in general and Chiropractors in particular.

However, the average person doesn't know the condition by its "formal" name; you'd probably recognize its "nickname": the pinched nerve.

It's unfortunate that so few know of the neurothipsia syndrome and are aware of the condition. The "pinched nerve" gets bantered around in on-the-job or cocktail conversation, but very few people actually relate themselves to it.

What are the symptoms? The list is almost too long to enumerate. That's not to say an individual must have them all or at the same time. I don't think I've ever met anyone that sick. But if a person is affected by one of the major "pinched nerve" symptoms he (or she) should consider it a glaring danger sign that signals the need for prompt and effective treatment.

Usually a pinched nerve — or neurothipsia — manifests itself through nervousness and irritability. Frequently headaches are involved. There is often dizziness or an inability to think clearly or to concentrate.

As for the pain, it can be literally, in the neck, or in the shoulders, arms, back or legs. Sometimes there is a tightness in the chest or pain between the shoulders when you take a deep breath. A nervous stomach can be the warning signal.

There are other signs and symptoms, but those mentioned are the most common.

If you suffer from the symptoms seek immediate treatment; let the symptoms be your inspiration to seek effective correction of the problem.

(Note: Dr. Glasscock maintains Chiropractic offices at 1206 W. Park Ave., Hereford, Texas, Telephone (806) 366-3277.)

Couple wed recently

Vicki Lynn Loyd of Amarillo and Dave Peterson of Hereford were married Friday, June 10, in a private ceremony at Paramount Terrace Christian Church in Amarillo with the Pastor Roy Wheeler officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lloyd of Route 4, Hereford, and the granddaughter of Eunice West of 307 Sunset Drive. She graduated from Adrian High School and Texas A&M University and has been teaching in the Amarillo schools for several years. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. D.L. Peterson of Kerrville, graduated from Jim Ned High School in Tuscola, Texas and Texas Tech University. He is employed by the Federal Land Bank in Dimmitt. The couple will reside at 301 W. 15th St. in Hereford.

QUALITY TIME?
After much discussion, my husband and I decided we should spend more quality time with the children whether they wanted to or not.

The trickiest part of this scheme was to pry the little angels out of their bedrooms. Why should they ever want to leave their domains when each has their own television, stereo, VCR, telephone and computer? In fact, if we purchased them refrigerators, they could stay in their rooms indefinitely only coming out to restock their food supply.

John and I came up with the perfect solution: he would take our 16-year-old son Tim on a "just for the guys" outing leaving our daughter and me to do our own thing for a couple of days.

The "men" flew to Dallas for the weekend to play golf, take in the Texas Rangers-Oakland A's game and visit Wet 'n' Wild. When they returned home Monday, they reported they had had a great time while Candi and I sat silently listening to their escapades wishing we could say the same.

Our ladies weekend was a disaster the moment it started. Candi had an appointment with the hairdresser early that Saturday morning but it was cancelled. Because I couldn't stand the look of disappointment on her face (and didn't want her moping around all weekend) I volunteered to give her a home permanent, a thought that didn't exactly thrill her but she conceded out of desperation. (I kept telling her she would look like the model she saw in her Seventeen magazine. The end results of me playing beautician weren't good.)

It took me three hours to roll her two-foot long baby fine hair on those itchy-bitsy permanent rods using those ridiculous end papers. I carefully followed the instructions on the box and when we finished her once shiny blonde locks looked like frizzy, dull mop. She was devastated exclaiming, "Mother, it took me four years for my hair to get this long and now there's nothing left to do but to cut it all off!" (At this point I tried to inject a little humor into the unpleasant situation telling her we could shave her head and she could tell everyone she was Kojak's daughter. This suggestion wasn't well received! In her words, I had permanently ruined her life as she once knew it.)

After she calmed down, I told her we would go purchase a slip 'n' slide and lounge around in the sun all day. We set the play slide up and waited for the sun to shine. And waited...no sun, no fun. Another plan shot.

This certainly wasn't the fun weekend we had anticipated but I kept trying. I proposed that we cook hamburgers on the grill. She met this idea with a little enthusiasm. After all, what could go wrong this time? I hadn't taken into consideration that the wind was blowing with the force of a hurricane and the grill wouldn't stay lit. Two hours later, we found ourselves sitting on a picnic blanket in the middle of the living room floor eating baloney sandwiches.

I had one last idea that was foolproof. We rented two Disney movies for the evening's entertainment. We would stay up until midnight and raid the refrigerator during our mini-slumber party. We placed the first tape in the VCR and within a minute it began emanating a shrill, whistling sound before completely quitting. "No big deal," I said to her, "we'll watch the movies in Tim's room." No luck there either. Tim had the VCR hooked up to some kind of gadget that would have taken a genius to figure out. Another plan bites the dust.

Sunday we gave up trying to have "fun", instead we cleaned the house and took naps. Just before bedtime, Candi very sincerely said, "Mother, I don't want to hurt your feelings or anything but the next time you decide to spend quality time with me couldn't you do it with Tim instead? I'd rather spend it with John."

So much for trying to be a fun-loving mother!

Let's go to the movies!

'Willow' tells grand story

By BOB THOMAS Associated Press Writer
 Much has been written about how crucial "Willow" is to the fortunes of its producers: MGM, attempting a comeback as a viable film company; and George Lucas, still recovering from the bomb of "Howard the Duck."

The box-office results aren't in yet, but both MGM and Lucasfilm can be proud of their achievement. "Willow" is movie storytelling in the grand tradition.

No, it isn't a landmark film such as Lucas' "Star Wars," the kind of achievement that happens once a decade; much of "Willow" may seem familiar to audiences exposed to special effects movies of recent years or to animated classics from Disney.

 But "Willow" stands on its own merits as high adventure executed with superior imagination.

The reluctant hero is Willow himself (Warwick Davis), a young farmer who dwells with his wife and two children in a village of little people "in a place that never existed, a time that never was." Willow finds a baby floating in a river, a very special baby who will threaten the throne of the evil Queen Bavmorda (Jean Marsh). She orders her warriors to find and kill the baby.

The village's High Aldwin (Billy Barty) assigns Willow to take the baby to the good castle of Tir Asleen, and the perilous trek begins. Willow encounters endless dangers, but he finds allies in the over-the-hill warrior Madmartigan (Val Kilmer), a pair of brownies (Kevin Pollak and Rick Overton), a good sorceress (Patricia Hayes) and eventually the bad queen's daughter (Joanne Whalley).

George Lucas provided the story of "Willow," and Bob Dolman's script reflects Lucas' penchant for highly developed fantasies. The richness of detail contributes to credibility, as does Ron Howard's straightforward direction. As an actor himself, Howard manages to protect his performers from being overwhelmed by the special effects.

The resulting performances lend strength to "Willow." Warwick Davis is a natural, his compelling innocence providing the basic core of the film. Val Kilmer has the whimsy and daredevil spirit of Errol Flynn, and Joanna Whalley could be his Olivia de Havilland, but with even more spunk.

Jean Marsh is equally as fearsome as the queen in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," and veteran Billy Barty is a commanding presence as the leader of the little people.

Only in the latter portions does the film falter. The storming of the castle, complete with self-generating monsters, and the climactic battle between the sorceresses could be trimmed.

Hogan says Croc II is last

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In October 1986, the Paramount publicity department needed a hard sell to convince journalists to interview an Australian pitchman-turned-actor named Paul Hogan. No problem now.

What made the difference was "Crocodile Dundee," a surprise blockbuster that grossed $175 million in the United States and Canada and did comparable business wherever it played. Now Hogan's back with "Crocodile Dundee II," which he swears will be the end of the outback adventurer.

"I've completed the circle," he said. "The new one is a good movie; it stands up all by itself. It's the end of 'Crocodile Dundee.'

"Yes, I'm sure I'll be asked the same questions in three years and five years. Like, 'What if 10 million people write you and say they want to see more?' That's getting a bit unfair."

"The challenge now is to come up with another character that surpasses 'Crocodile Dundee.' That doesn't mean I'll start playing 'The Hunchback of Czechoslovakia.' I won't stretch credibility too far."

His remarks will be filed for future CHERRY IS IN

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether you chalk it up to nostalgia or trendy palates, cherry is becoming the flavor of choice among American consumers in 1988.

More than 60 cherry-flavored products have been introduced thus far this year, according to Gorman's New Product News.

"From a psychological perspective, the growth of cherry-flavored products can be tied to our strong desire for sweetness," says Dr. Frieda Spady, a psychiatrist.

reference. Remember when Sean Connery said no more James Bond? Remember "Never Say Never Again"?

If the hit of "Crocodile Dundee" has changed Paul Hogan, it's not visible. He remains the same wry, laid-back observer of the passing scene.

In the new film, Dundee's girlfriend (Linda Kozlowski) becomes the target of South American drug dealers. After escaping death attempts in New York, the pair flee to the Australian outback. The villains pursue them, and Dundee faces seemingly insuperable odds.

The script was written by Hogan and his oldest son, Brett.

Hogan didn't even start out to be an entertainer. He was making $75 a week as a workman on Sydney's Harbour Bridge in 1972 when a buddy dared him to appear on the Down Under version of "The Gong Show."

The object of "New Faces" was to humiliate the contestants. Hogan

"turned the tables and ripped them to pieces. People all over the country loved seeing me get revenge. I was an overnight sensation."

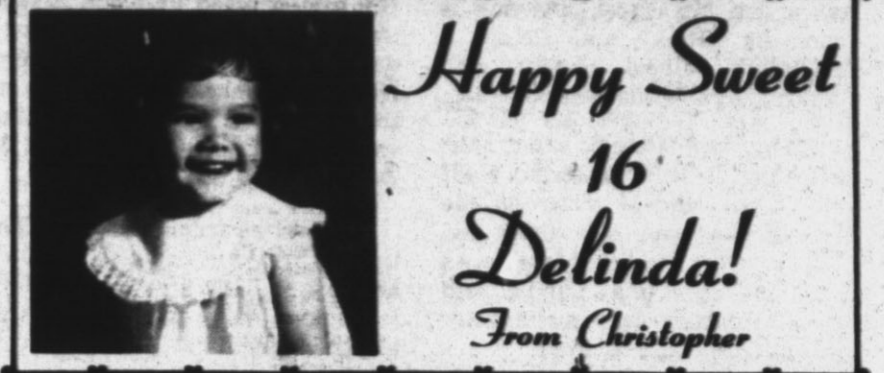

Soon he became partners with John Cornell (who directed "Dundee II") in "The Paul Hogan Show," which drew high ratings and was syndicated in the United States and 30 other countries.

Hogan became a familiar face here with his commercials for Australian beer and tourism.

A visit to New York in 1984 planted the seed for "Crocodile Dundee." Fishing with friends, Hogan mused about what would happen if his fellow fishermen were transported to Manhattan — "they would really think they're on another planet."

Hogan and Cornell raised the $5.6 million to finance the movie. It became Australia's biggest grosser, and Paramount bought the U.S. rights and 20th Century Fox the rest of the world.

The question mark (?) comes from the first and last letters of the Latin word for question: quæstio.

'Rikky and Pete' Aussie offering

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

Australia must be a pretty funny place. First it produced Paul Hogan's "Crocodile Dundee" and its current hit sequel, and now it sends us "Rikky and Pete," a delightfully offbeat comedy with some memorable characters.

"Rikky and Pete," which has everything going for it except a great title, takes viewers along on the Australian odyssey of a sister and brother, Rikky and Pete Menzies. As portrayed by Nina Landis and Stephen Kearney, these siblings are a pair of rebellious charmers.

They leave home together to escape their father and a vindictive cop who is on Pete's trail. Pete, a misfit and mechanical genius, has been obsessed with tormenting the cop who crippled Pete and Rikky's mother in an accident. His talents, delivered in the name of "Evil Donald," are always inventive as are the elaborate Rube Goldberg-style gadgets he conceives throughout the movie.

The first performance of this picture is by a mechanically brilliant newspaper delivery truck which folds the daily newspaper into airplanes and flings them onto front lawns or into the mouths of waiting dogs.

Filmmakers Nadia Tass and David Parker take obvious delight in Pete's inventions even when they go awry and splatter the unwary with egg yolks. With many such moments, "Rikky and Pete" still eludes mere slapstick by honing in on the complexities of its characters.

Rikky, a geologist who is also a country singer, hits the road with her brother in style, leaving in their mother's Bentley after their father downs them. At one point, Pete, earnestly trying to help Rikky in a mining venture, decides to do some unusual renovation of the Bentley — a scene which may drive car fanciers up the wall.

Several subplots emerge as the sister and brother drive into the golden Australian outback, and a colorful array of oddballs crosses their paths.

Among the crazies they encounter is Flossie, played by Tetchie Agbayani, a Filipino beauty whose deadpan, accented delivery of the most outrageous lines is hilarious. Her romance with Pete is as sweet and quirky as the rest of this film. Another standout performance comes from Roderick Williams as Holy Joe, a mad preacher perpetually on the road.

The actors all are masterful, and the filmmakers give us an enchanting view of the rough-and-tumble world of silver mining in Australia as Rikky stakes her claim.

"Rikky and Pete" is a confection with a light and easy mood, a perfect summertime escape to the wacky side of Australia. The movie is rated R for nudity, language and sexual situations.

'Big' showcases Hanks

There's a scene in "Big" in which Tom Hanks finds a giant piano in the F.A.O. Schwarz toy store in Manhattan. Hanks, who is really a 12-year-old in an adult's body, begins dancing over the keys to pick out a tune.

Along comes his boss, Robert Loggia, president of a toy company. The pair tap out a joyful rendition of "Chopsticks" and "Heart and Soul" with all the airy grace of Fred and Ginger.

The sequence is one of the many delights of "Big," which defies the odds by scoring a home run despite being the fourth comedy within a

'Zelly and Me' is like old movies

Once upon a time in Hollywood the "woman's picture" held sway. American women flocked to matinees and sobbed and sympathized with the plight of such stars as Joan Crawford, Bette Davis, Norma Shearer and Greta Garbo.

No more. Movie matinees are largely populated by small fry and weary shoppers in malls.

"Zelly and Me" arrives a few decades late. It is patently a woman's picture: the writer-director, co-producer and leading performers are women.

However, despite the best performance yet by Isabella Rossellini, the film cannot escape a paralyzing preciousness, and its chances of finding a wide audience of both sexes seem slender indeed.

The Zelly of the title is Mademoiselle (Rossellini), the European nanny whose life is devoted to her young charge, the orphaned Phoebe (Alexandra Jones). They live in a mansion presided over by Phoebe's autocratic grandmother, Coco (Glynis Johns).

Zelly and Phoebe occupy a fantasy world of stuffed animals, all with special names and identities, and they share a devotion to the legend of Joan of Arc (filmgoers will recall that Miss Rossellini's mother, Ingrid Bergman, portrayed Joan of Arc on the screen).

For reasons that aren't quite clear, Coco punishes the child for faultless infractions. The punishments become more severe, even sadistic. Phoebe, whose parents were killed in a fiery plane crash, burns herself in retaliation.

"Zelly and Me" is the first feature film by Tina Rathborne, and it appears at least partly autobiographical.

year about a boy who turns into a giant. It is the most thoroughly enjoyable comedy since "Tootsie."

Unlike the earlier films, there's no sci-fi hecstics about "Big." Josh Basile (David Moscow) is an under-sized pre-teen who gets pushed around by bullies and is turned away from an amusement park thrill ride because of his size. Before a simple-looking fortune machine, Zoltan Speaks! he wishes to be big. The next morning he is.

His mother is terrified to find this adult stranger in her house. Hanks flees to New York, holes up in a flea-bag hotel where he contemplates his predicament with his pal Billy (Jared Rushton), the only one who knows about the transformation.

Hanks finds work in a toy company and, with his acute knowledge of what kids like, ascends to an important position. He encounters a predatory female (Elizabeth Perkins) and a vengeful executive (John Heard), but he manages to elude both. Then Perkins is moved by Hanks' innate sweetness, and a romance of sorts ensues.

Ending "Big" must have posed a problem for writers Anne Spielberg and Gary Ross, who also co-produced. Should Hanks remain an adult and continue the romance and career? Or should he return as a boy to his grieving family? The conclusion is totally satisfactory, though getting there has some rough spots.

The plot inconsistencies are overbalanced by an absolutely stunning performance by Tom Hanks. Using only body language and quirky expressions, he is irresistible as the boy-man. If the Academy ever recognizes comedy as a worthy achievement, Hanks should be rewarded.

After a shaky start with "Jumpin' Jack Flash," Penny Marshall breaks through as a comedy director of rare skill. All of the performers are top-notch, especially the ever-faithful Robert Loggia and youngsters Moscow and Rushton.

A 20th Century Fox release also produced by James L. Brooks and Robert Greenhut, "Big" is rated PG, but it seems like ideal summer entertainment for the entire family.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am enclosing a copy of one of your columns that gives me a laugh every time I read it. I'm sure your readership has increased enormously since this first appeared. It's a classic, Ann Please run it again.—D.B.R., St. Louis

DEAR D.B.R.: I've had hundreds of requests for a rerun of that infamous column. I'm pleased that so many readers want to see it again. It's one of my all-time favorites.

The original letter that started all the commotion came from a reader who signed herself "Lady Godiva." She said she loved to do her housework in the nude and asked if I thought it was sick or immoral. I told her that so long as she was home alone with the draperies drawn, it was perfectly OK to do her housework in a raccoon coat or naked as a jaybird. It was nobody's business.

I was flooded with letters in response to Lady Godiva's letter. The following were my favorites:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Tell "Lady Godiva" she's not crazy. I've been doing my housework in my birthday suit for 20 years. I consider myself normal and intelligent. As a bride, I was forever sewing torn seams and restitching pockets that had caught on the doorknobs. One day, a frying pan plopped into the dishwasher and soaked me to the skin. I removed my house dress and continued to work with nothing on. I thoroughly enjoyed the feeling of freedom, and I've been cleaning house in the nude ever since.

I can report only one minor mishap. While ironing a bed sheet I stood too close to the board and burned my stomach. Sigm me—Experienced in the Flesh

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I used to do my housework in the nude, but a recent experience cured me. Our minister expressed the wish to see our new baby. The time set for his visit was 2 p.m.

I was fresh out of coffee cream and phoned my neighbor to ask if she'd bring over half a cup. She said, "I'll be there in a few minutes."

I was rushing around (in the nude) trying to get the house tidied up when the doorbell rang. I grabbed a face towel to wrap around my middle so I could reach out for the coffee cream. I opened the door quickly and shouted, "Boy, am I glad to see you, honey!"

To my everlasting shame it was the minister. He was so startled, his glasses fell off. He mumbled, "I'll be back next week when I can bring my wife."

I slammed the door shut and sat on the couch and shook for 20 minutes. To this day I'm unable to look that minister in the face.—Still Blushing

From Kansas City: I wonder if Lady Godiva saw the news item in the paper about an Ohio housewife. She was doing her laundry in the basement and impulsively decided to take off her soiled house dress and throw it into the machine.

Her hair had just been set in rollers and the pipes overhead were dripping. She spotted her son's football helmet in the corner and put it on her head. There she was, stark naked (except for the football helmet) when she heard a gough. The woman turned around and found herself staring into the eyes of the meter reader from the gas and electric company.

As he headed for the door his only comment was, "I hope your team wins, Lady."

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send $3 plus a No. 10, self-addressed, stamped envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Residents' daughter marries Saturday

Weddings vows were exchanged by Marlene Carlton and Douglas C. Carberry, both of Eules, Texas, in an early Saturday afternoon wedding held in Mid-Cities Bible Church of Bedford with Jim Schierling officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Carlton of 329 Ave. J and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Carberry of Crescent, Iowa.

Two large arrangements of ferns decorated the church altar and the four front pews were marked by large peach bows.

Debbie Ford of Memphis, Tenn. served as maid of honor and Dave Carberry of Waco was his brother's best man.

Serving as bridesmaids were Rosemary Griego, the bride's aunt; and Linda Carberry of Crescent, Iowa, the groom's sister.

Groomsmen were Michael Kopecky and Kelly Raymond, both of Eules. Guests were escorted by Jim Hartzell and Gerald Carlton, the bride's brother, both of Fort Worth.

Junior bridal attendants were the bride's niece and nephew, Erika and Bobby Carlton, Jr., both of Canyon.

Lighting candles were Rose Carlton and Marilyn Carberry.

Larry McLane and Karen Nelson vocalized "I Love Thee" and "Evergreen" accompanied by Debbie Loyals.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length fitted white wedding gown of satin and lace. The dress featured straight lines and a flared skirt which extended into a chapel-length train. It was also designed with long sleeves accented with pearl buttons and a high neck accented with double edge scalloped trimming.

The long bridal illusion veil was attached to a pearl headdress and she carried a bouquet of peach silk roses mingled with ivory silk roses. Her jewelry consisted of a family diamond necklace heirloom.

Attendants were attired in taffeta peach dresses with drop flared skirts

Very small businesses — microenterprises in the so-called "informal sector" — have grown enormously in numbers and economic importance in Latin America since the onset of the debt crisis in 1982, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. It is estimated that 5 million jobs were created in the informal sector during 1980-85, representing 32 percent of the total urban employment in the last year.

and bows at the back of the waistlines.

The bride's cousin, Suzanna Cortez of Fort Worth, invited guests to register at the reception held in the church fellowship hall.

Cake was served by Becky Carusco of Red Oak and Julie Jones of Garland; peach sherbet punch and coffee were poured by Doreen Thomas of Red Oak.

The three-tiered wedding cake was surrounded by fresh peach roses and topped by the traditional bride and groom figurines. The table was also decorated by a dozen fresh peach roses.

Leaving for a wedding trip to San Antonio, the bride wore a designer's light blue straight dress. The couple will make their home in Eules.

The bride is a 1985 graduate of Devry Institute of Technology with a B.S. degree in computer science. She is employed by Nationwide Ins. as a systems analyst.

The groom, a 1983 graduate of Hardin-Simmons University with a B.S. degree in geology, is employed by Employers Insurance of Texas as a claims representative specialist.

Wedding guests from Hereford included Martha Cortez, Lydia Montgomery, Karis Beard, and Leroy and Rose Carlton. Other out-of-town guests represented Canyon; Brownsville; St. Paul, Minn.; Carl, Iowa; Waco and Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Extension News

When you buy an air conditioner, you are buying comfort. To get the most comfort for the price, you need to plan ahead.

The correct size air conditioning unit is especially important in Texas because the humidity is so high much of the year.

Remember that an air conditioner dehumidifies as it cools, and reducing humidity will improve your level of comfort. An air conditioner that is too small will not be able to keep the temperature low enough for comfort.

The mistake of thinking "bigger is better" may present another type of problem. Too large a unit will cool the area so quickly that dehumidification is insufficient.

To avoid such problems, measure the size of the area to be air conditioned, the size and type of windows in the area, and the voltage and accessibility of electrical outlets. Take this information along when shopping, to help a sales person determine the physical size of a unit and its cooling capacity in BTUs that will adequately cool and dehumidify the specified area.

The cost of the unit and its installation are only part of the total cost of owning an air conditioner. Operational costs are also a large consideration.

Each unit should have a yellow and black Energy Guide displayed on it. This contains its Energy Efficiency Rating. This rating explains about how much the unit will cost to operate.

Card of Thanks

The family of Frank J. Walterscheid wish to thank all of our friends and neighbors for the flowers, cards, food, memorials, masses, visits and prayers during the loss of our loved one.

We also wish to express our gratitude to Dr. Perales and the nursing staff of Deaf Smith General Hospital and Golden Plains Care Center. May God Bless all of you.

COME IN OUT OF THE RAIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Common sense and your mother have always told you to come in out of the rain. But, making a dash for a dry place doesn't keep you much drier than walking at a normal pace, says Discover magazine.

A person running at 22.4 miles an hour gets only 10 percent less wet than a hasty stroller, sauntering along at 6.7 mph. The extra speed scoops up a lot of extra raindrops that you would miss if you were just walking. The benefit you get from speed doesn't justify the extra energy used and so you might as well walk.

The course provides instruction for soldiers to maintain wheeled vehicles with emphasis on maintenance publications and tools, diagnostic equipment and shop safety.

During the 10-week course, students also received technical training in troubleshooting, replacement, and adjustment of components and assemblies of wheeled vehicles.

His wife, Irene, is the daughter of Maria Cornado, Hereford.

He is a 1980 graduate of Hereford High School.

Officers installed

The Hereford Chapter No. 312 of the Order of the Eastern Star met Saturday evening, June 11, in the Masonic Hall to install officers. Margaret Bell, fourth from right, was inducted as Worthy Matron and Horace Hershey, Worthy Patron. Conducting the ceremony were (from left) Joanne Hairgrove of Sweetwater, installing organist; Marie Cline, installing officer; Norma Coffey, installing marshal; Dottie Darden, installing chaplain; and Dorothy Noland, installing secretary. Following the special service, the families of the Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron hosted a reception for chapter members and guests.

Officers assume duties

The new officers of the Order of Eastern Star assumed their duties at the regular meeting Tuesday in the Masonic Hall with Margaret Bell, Worthy Matron, and Horace Hershey, Worthy Patron, presiding.

A memorial is being mailed to the Grand Chapter in memory of Adella Drew, a 52-year member.

At the close of the meeting, the altar was draped in memory of Ed L. Sharpe, past Worthy Grand Patron.

Plans were made to assist the Rainbow Girls with their fireworks stand June 30-July 4. Also, yearbooks are being mailed or delivered to all members who have not picked one up.

The next meeting will be July 12 and a picnic is planned for Aug. 6 in the home of Margaret Bell, 312 N. Texas.

Appreciation and thanks were expressed to all who served as officers and committee members the past year.

Hosts during the refreshment time were John and Joy Bunch and Ed and Bonnie Hartley.

Memorabilia available at museum

Memorabilia featuring the area WWII Italian Prisoner of War Camp can be purchased at the Deaf Smith County Museum.

Pieces of barbed wire that encircled the camp cost $10 each, which is also the price of "Hereford POW Camp 1942-46," books which focus on the camp.

The Spy Who Got Away is the inside story of Edward Howard, the CIA agent who betrayed his country's secrets and escaped to Moscow. This book, written by David Wise, is at the top of the list this week.

Trained by the CIA to be a spy in the Soviet capitol, Howard was fired when he failed a lie detector test. The secrets of the CIA's Moscow operation were then sold to the KGB, and Howard vanished into the New Mexico desert, surfacing a year later in the Soviet Union.

How did he escape? How and where does Howard live now in Moscow? What sort of life does he have? David Wise not only penetrated the CIA's handling of the case, but was able to meet with the escaped spy for six days in Budapest. From this interview, Wise learned the answer to the above questions and many others. This unique spy story takes the reader inside the CIA and FBI as never before.

Guts and Glory: The Rise and Fall of Oliver North, by Ben Bradlee, Jr., is the first full scale account of the life and career of Marine Lieutenant Colonel Oliver North. Information for this unauthorized biography has been gathered from over 312 first hand interviews.

Beginning with North's childhood and spanning through his military education at Annapolis, his career in the Marine Corps, and the intertwining charismatic Christianity to which he rigidly adheres. At the National Security Council in 1981, North, "An easel-toting junior functionary" begins his climb to the second most powerful man in the nation by the fall of 1986.

Bradlee probes Oliver North, his direct and indirect involvement in U.S. foreign policy operations, and transactions that led to his dismissal and indictments by the grand jury.

Another controversial figure you might find interesting is Jane Fonda. Jane Fonda: A Biography by Michael Freedland is a full and candid appraisal of Jane's life and career. Her life is followed from childhood, in the home of her celebrated father where unhappiness led to the subsequent suicide of her mother; her relationship to brother Peter; and her entry into the family business up to the present day.

Jane Fonda has been accused of a lack of patriotism verging on treason, and this part of her life including information from FBI files is revealed.

False Points by Suzanne Topper is a book that Sidney Sheldon calls, "A glamorous and intriguing tale of suspense..." Gaia Gerald, raised by nuns in a Chicago orphanage, has only a few vague memories of her true parents. Then Ugo Ferrante, a member of an international jewelry empire, dies and names his long-lost granddaughter Gaia heir to his New York store.

Now wealthy beyond her wildest dreams, Gaia finds her life in jeopardy. As she delves deeper into her mysterious past, Gaia is confronted with many shattering revelations and serious threats on her life.

Who can she turn to? Whom can she trust? Is the man she loves at the heart of this hidden secret? This spellbinding novel is one that will hold your attention through each page.

Library activities include events for children. On Tuesday, June 21 at 10 a.m. the Summer Reading Club activity will be to construct and paint a moon mobile. Children will need to wear old clothes and bring their own paint brush.

Thursday, June 23, 10 a.m. is Preschool Story Time.

Literacy in Australia is virtually 100 percent.

Terrific Tuesdays underway

The First Church of the Nazarene is sponsoring Terrific Tuesdays at the church for children ages kindergarten through the sixth grade from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. each Tuesday through the summer. Four and five-year-olds may attend from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Those participating need to bring a sack lunch, drinks will be provided. For more information call 364-6303.

Gardening Hints

Need mulch in a hurry? Use damp newspapers and magazines held down by rocks.

Going to seed is a plant's hardest job. It stops blooming to do it. So pick your flowers often.

To keep small garden tools from rusting, keep them in oily sand when not in use.

When conditioning flowers, the harder the stem, the better the water should be. Silt hard stems up to 3 inches to allow more water to be absorbed.

Early spring-fertilize: vegetable transplants, pansy beds, trees and shrubs.

220 Beach - Reduced price, cute 3 bdr. 10" insulation in attic, storm windows, nice arrangement.

228 Douglas - Beautifully decorated 3 bdr., 2 bath, almost 1800 sq. ft. isolated master bedroom and bath.

Names in the News

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Ed Asner has admitted he fathered a 10-month-old boy out of wedlock and agreed to pay more than $2,100 a month in child support, a lawyer says.

Asner also must pay the mortgage on a $300,000 condominium where the child lives with his mother, Carol Jean Vogelman, said attorney Ronald Supancic, who represents Ms. Vogelman's former husband.

Asner, star of television's "Bronx Zoo," the old "Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Lou Grant," conceded the child was his after seven months of medical tests and testimony.

The actor became involved in the court action when Ms. Vogelman's ex-husband, David Stone, alleged his $3,000-a-month alimony payment was being used to support a child that wasn't his.

Asner attorney Michael Schiff said only that Asner and Ms. Vogelman had reached an oral agreement that was being put into writing. He didn't dispute the figures detailed by Supancic.

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Comedian Bill Cosby and his wife will be honored with a building named after them at Central State University.

The former Cook Elementary School will be renamed the Camille O. and William H. Cosby Mass Communications Center, university spokesman Ed Chamness said Thursday.

The school, Central State's former teaching laboratory, has housed its mass communications program since 1974 and is being remodeled, he said.

Cosby has contributed about $335,000 to Central State, Chamness said. The comedian could not immediately be reached for comment through his Los Angeles publicist.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor James Garner, whose character suffers a series of debilitating heart attacks in a TV movie rerun this week, has recovered from his heart surgery of two months ago, a publicist said.

"There are no complications," publicist Pat Kingsley said Thursday. "He's getting back in shape and doing very well."
On Thursday night, ABC-TV scheduled a rerun of the 1984 movie "Heartsounds," featuring Garner and Mary Tyler Moore as a couple offering mutual encouragement after he suffers a series of heart attacks.

Garner, 60, the former star of TV's "The Rockford Files" and "Maverick," underwent a five-hour quintuple bypass heart operation in April at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Bette Midler will play Stella in the upcoming remake of the movie "Stella Dallas," the story of a mother who sacrifices everything for her daughter.

The movie will be co-produced and distributed by a new partnership between the Samuel Goldwyn Co. and Walt Disney Studios, Daily Variety reported Thursday.

The first version of the tear-jerker was filmed in 1925, while a remake was produced in 1937 with Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles.

Ms. Midler has appeared in a steady string of hits, including "Outrageous Fortune," "Ruthless People," "Down and Out in Beverly Hills" and the just-released comedy "Big Business."

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Americans must find the courage to overcome their biases in the face of often-subtle prejudice, author and actress Maya Angelou says.

"Courage is the most important of all the virtues," she said at the 50th anniversary banquet Wednesday of the Midlands Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

"It is easy to speak of racism when the food is good and the wine is generous," she said.

It is more difficult on the street, but she predicted that Americans eventually will overcome their prejudices.

"It will happen or our country will disintegrate," she said.
Ms. Angelou portrayed Kunta Kinte's mother in the TV miniseries "Roots," and a television movie was produced from her autobiographical book, "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings."

A Dream Made Possible With Your Help!

KING'S MANOR FOUNDERS ASSOCIATION

P.O. Box 1999
HEREFORD, TEXAS 79045
June 3, 1988

Dear Friends:

Twenty-five years ago, an idea became reality. The prayers and hard work of many compassionate people were rewarded when a facility for older adults opened its doors on October 11, 1962. The facility consisted of one building with twenty rooms.

There were many times when it seemed as if that dream would not survive. Financial difficulties persisted, but the tough minded church and community founders kept working to breathe new life into the dream. Their dedication and persistence paid off. Today King's Manor Methodist Home is a multi-building complex situated on a beautiful 18 acre campus, offering independent retirement living, nursing care, and child care.

While most of our residents pay the full cost for the services of King's Manor, twenty-six percent receive some financial assistance. Last year this financial assistance amounted to $110,187.00. With a continuing policy that paying residents will never be charged one penny more to help offset costs for those unable to pay the full cost, King's Manor must rely on funds received from churches and our Founder's Association to make up the difference.

The need for financial assistance will increase as the residents of King's Manor live longer and have more acute health care needs. Our continued support is needed to assure the residents that their basic needs will be met as well as giving them a sense of security. One resident said, "I hope I never run out of money but if I do I know that I will be cared for in the same manner as those with a million dollars." We must do everything we can to nurture this kind of trust.

The ninth annual Founder's Association barbeque will be on Saturday, July 2, 1988. It is an excellent opportunity for each of us to share in this ministry. Serving hours will be from 5:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M., on the campus. Entertainment will be provided by Easter Opry Gospel of Hereford. The cost will be $10.00 per person or $25.00 for a family of four.

Please order your tickets today and let's make this the best barbeque ever.

Sincerely yours,

Bob Sims
