NASA has no concern over flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - NASA's top officials say steps will be taken to improve space flight safety and prevent shuttle equipment problems similar to one that grounded Columbia last week.

Columbia, meanwhile, is fit and safe - to fly Saturday with newly installed fuel temperature sensors, the officials said Thursday. NASA's senior shuttle is scheduled to lift off at 8 a.m. EDT with seven astronauts, 30 white rats and 2,478 tiny jellyfish.

The animals were to be loaded into the shuttle today.

"We have no concerns about our ability to return to flight under the rules we have set up," said George Rodney, head of NASA's Office of Safety and Mission Quality.

It is the second countdown for the biomedical research mission.

NASA flight director Eric Redding said the countdown was smooth.

Mission managers halted the first countdown on May 21, a day before launch, over fear Columbia's fuel temperature sensors might be cracked.

NASA officials did not learn of the potentially catastrophic flaw until May 20, when they received the final report on a leaky sensor that was pulled from Columbia in September. The component was found to have dangerous cracks.

Chowing down

Aaron McKnight, left, seems more intent on spotting his next bite than engaging in the conversation between Celeste Guzman, center, and Brandi Tijerina as the four- and five-year-olds enjoyed a hamburger picnic Thursday sponsored by the Hereford Kiwanis Club. The picnic climaxed the year-long "Adopt-A-School" program in which club members regularly visited HISD pre-Kindergarten classes at the Stanton Learning Center and read stories to the youngsters. About 150 children were enrolled in the program at the center this year.

Hostages get $2.5 million

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. government has given families of Americans held hostage in Iraq, Kuwait and Lebanon more than $2.5 million in cash payments and life and health insurance under a little-known benefits program.

A total of 381 families received $1,721,918 in salary compensation, 258 families were given $36,923 for life insurance payments and 290 received $766,933 for health insurance.

Most of the money went to families of the "human shields" held by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein last fall in Kuwait and Iraq. In addition, families of three of the six Americans held hostage in Lebanon and a fourth released in April 1990 were paid a total of about $116,000.

The figures were released Thursday at the request of The Associated Press. None of the names of the recipients were released by the State Department, which cited the Privacy Act for not disclosing their identity.

Congress, with support from the White House, attached the compensation amendment to the foreign operations appropriations bill in November.

South Plains growers desperate for showers

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Local economies in the Texas South Plains stand to lose hundreds of millions of dollars if dryland cotton farmers don't get a little help from Mother Nature.

"If we don't get some moisture within the next couple of weeks we are not dead but we are sure crippled," said Don Johnson, executive vice president of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers Inc.

"The odds are not too good for making a decent crop with anything planted after June 10 in the dryland area," he said Thursday.

The 25-county area surrounding Lubbock - where a quarter of the nation's cotton is grown - stands to lose more than a million acres, unless a steady rain blankets the region soon. That could translate into more than $500 million drained from the local economies.

"In several small towns in the South Plains, cotton is the largest, if not the only industry," said Alan Mackey, executive director of the Agricultural Conservation and Stabilization Service in Lubbock. "No rain means no crop and no income. We are looking at a dire situation."

Dryland cotton farmers, who do not use irrigation, will do anything for rain.

"We have already tried rain dances," said Donny Polk, who farms about 800 acres of cotton just west of Lubbock. "Now we're down to praying."

According to the National Weather Service, Lubbock County received less than two inches of rain in April and May, the heart of planting season. The average rainfall for May alone is 2.59 inches.

And a forecast of widely scattered showers over the next two weeks is not very encouraging.

"With those scattered thunderstorms it's just hit-or-miss," said Brett Cypert, extension agent in Lynn County, which has more than 100,000 acres of dryland cotton.

"It boils down to how lucky you are. What we need is a front to move in and just give us some steady rainfall."

Farmers are finding it difficult to be upbeat with June just around the corner.

Last June the South Plains set a regional record for lack of precipitation and number of days with temperatures above 100 degrees.

More than 20 days of 100-plus degrees nearly crippled last year's crop.

"Farmers won't even talk about that," said Dirk Aaron, agriculture extension agent for Terry County. "That's simply too much to think about at a time like this."

Only about a quarter of the 2.2 million dryland cotton acreage has been planted on the South Plains due to lack of moisture.

Several farmers have pulled up their initial planting and are starting over. At least three inches of topsoil moisture is needed for planting, experts said.

In order to qualify for multi-peril insurance compensation, growers must have their crop planted by mid-June.

"If we don't have any rain over the next week, you'll probably start seeing farmers just plant their seeds in the dry dirt and hope a rain brings it to life," Cypert said. "In order to qualify for the insurance a farmer has to be planted. He's got to cover himself."

Even if the crop does take root, it may not have the strength to withstand the heat, wind and sporadic hail storms that plague West Texas during the summer, Aaron said.

South Plains farmers nourishing about 1.6 million acres of cotton with irrigation are also finding it tough.

War over, but toy boom stays

CHICAGO (AP) - The shooting ended three months ago but the boom in Gulf War toys and games continues.

Manufacturers and marketers say sales of Middle East battle games and scale models of weapons such as the Patriot missile and the A-10 Warthog warplane still are well ahead of a year ago.

Some companies plan to launch new Desert Storm models as much as six months from now in hopes that public interest will carry into the Christmas season.

"I think they'll do real well," said Thom Walla, co-founder and partner of HobbyTown USA, a Lincoln, Neb.-based franchiser with 45 stores in 19 states.

"It was a popular war and people are going to remember that," he said. "It's not like Vietnam, where it was an unpopular war and nobody wanted to deal with it."

Indeed, the industry is having a hard time keeping up with the continuing demand.

TSR Inc. of Lake Geneva, Wis., recently ordered a second printing of its strategic-simulation game, "A Line in the Sand," after the first edition sold out, generating close to $500,000 for the company, said spokesman Tom McLaughlin.

"It's the best-selling war game we've ever produced," he said.

Walla said demand for scale models of the Warthog plane jumped "1,000 percent, minimum" when fighting began in mid-January. He said his stores couldn't get the kits quickly enough from manufacturer Revell-Monogram Inc.

Revell-Monogram posted a 37 percent gain in first-quarter revenue, partly because of war-related sales, the company revealed this week in a Securities and Exchange Commission filing that announced its initial public stock offering.

Based in Morton Grove, Ill., Revell-Monogram claims a 60 percent share of the U.S. model-kit market. Its first-quarter sales surged to $27 million from $19.8 million a year earlier and it earned $673,000 compared with a $1.5 million loss in the first quarter of 1990.

President Theodore J. Eischeid said military model kits account for about one-third of the Revell-Monogram catalog.

WASHINGTON (AP) - House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt is accusing President Bush of encouraging racial discord and exploiting the civil rights bill for political gain.

"This is not a president who wants to bring America together," the Missouri Democrat said. "This is the first president in the civil rights era who wants to tear us apart for political gain."

Gephardt and other supporters of the House Democratic leadership's latest version of a new job discrimination bill reacted angrily late Thursday to what they regarded as a coordinated broadside from the Bush White House.

Bush led the stepped-up administration assault on the bill in a speech at the FBI National Academy at Quantico, Va., where he said the Democrats' latest version would encourage racial discord and hiring quotas.

"Congressional leaders again want to pass a bill that would lead employers to adopt hiring quotas and unfair job practices," Bush said.

His spokesman, Marlin Fitzwater, renewed the threat of another civil rights veto and called Gephardt's bill "a kind of wolf in sheep's clothing."

Attorney General Dick Thornburgh said the latest Democratic plan was "a hoax" that would permit the use of racial quotas under the guise of prohibiting them.

Supporters of the Democratic leadership's bill disputed Thornburgh's assertion. The Democrats have added language to the bill that explicitly states racial quotas are unlawful employment practices. They said the prohibition was already established by Supreme Court rulings but that their bill would write that into federal statutes.

Ralph Neas, executive director of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, said Bush's remarks "are almost Orwellian. His assertions turn the truth upside down."

"By trying to mislead the American public, it is the president who is risking racial discord and divisiveness," Neas said.

Gephardt said: "Let the president explain how a bill that outlaws quotas is a quota bill."

The bill is designed to reverse the effects of a series of Supreme Court rulings that have increased the burdens of proof on plaintiffs in suits charging job discrimination. In addition, the bill is intended to expand the rights of women and others to collect damages.

Bush urged support for his own more limited legislation, which he said "would punish vigorously those who practice prejudice in the workplace" but "would not offer a blank check to lawyers and special interests."

House leaders continued to revise their bill in private negotiations with wavering Democratic and Republican members in an effort to maximize support.

They hope to gain a two-thirds majority sufficient to override Bush's threatened veto. At a minimum, Democrats want to avoid a vote in which they fall short of the 273 House votes they achieved last year when Bush vetoed a similar civil rights bill.

If all 432 current House members vote, the Democrats would need 288 votes to override.

But as they made concessions to broaden the bill's appeal on the right, the Democratic leaders faced revolts from members of the Congressional Black Caucus and some women members.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., and several other women Democrats, strongly oppose a provision that places a limit on monetary damages that women and the disabled may receive in job discrimination suits. Victims of racial discrimination would still be eligible for unlimited damages.

Ms. Lloyd said LaGrone was motivated by revenge after she turned down an offer of $1,500 from him in return for dropping the charge.

Arlington police said they had not arrested LaGrone on the sexual assault charge because of a "tremendous" caseload.

LaGrone remained in the Arlington City Jail in lieu of $200,000 bond set in the sexual assault case. A $2 million bond was recommended on a probable cause warrant alleging capital murder. Fort Worth police Lt. Alvin Alcon said.

Recall program offers $10 for each old GE product

To protect the public against a fire hazard caused by some automatic drip coffeemakers manufactured before April 28, 1984, the General Electric Company, in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, is voluntarily recalling certain GE brand and Universal brand units.

GE has received approximately 400 reports of coffeemakers overheating. In some instances, the coffeemakers caught fire, and there have been serious injuries and allegations of a few deaths and substantial property damage.

No units made after April 1984 are involved in the recall. As an incentive, GE is offering owners $10 for each recalled unit returned. The $10 check will be mailed when a unit is received by GE.

To find out if your coffeemaker is one of those involved in the recall, read both the catalog number on the bottom of the unit and the three digit date code number stamped on the outside of the metal blades of the electric plug. If the blade number is 418 through 600, the coffeemaker is not involved in the recall. Also, Space Maker Drip Coffeemakers (catalog numbers that include the designations SDC1, SDC2 and SDC3) are not involved in the recall. If the coffeemaker is a recalled unit, consumers should call toll-free 1-800-443-9000.

GE will give consumers with recalled coffeemakers prepaid mailing cartons. In the carton will be instructions that will tell consumers how to arrange for convenient pick up.

Retailers are being urged to call 1-800-GE-POSTER to receive display materials that will help inform customers about the recall.

The recalled coffeemakers are not repairable, and owners should unplug the unit and stop using it immediately.

Lakers oust Blazers

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - The Los Angeles Lakers-Chicago Bulls matchup is on, with Magic Johnson and Michael Jordan finally meeting in an NBA championship series.

The Portland Trail Blazers, however, almost cancelled the Lakers' ninth trip to the NBA Finals in 12 years.

Taken down to the wire in the sixth game of the Western Conference championship series Thursday night, the Lakers got a miss by the Trail Blazers' Terry Porter with four seconds remaining and a rebound by Johnson that preserved Los Angeles' 91-90 victory and a 4-2 series win.

If the Trail Blazers had won the game, they also would have had the upper hand in the series since Game 7 would have been at Portland.

The Lakers were relieved to put the Trail Blazers, the league's winningest team during the regular season, behind them.

"It was tough," said the Lakers' Johnson, who had 25 points, 11 rebounds and eight assists. He also sank two critical free throws in the last two minutes of the clinching victory.

"You have to give the Trail Blazers a lot of credit. They didn't quit."

Portland trailed almost the entire game, but Clyde Drexler sparked a fourth-quarter rally that pulled them even at 83-83 with 3:49 remaining.

A lay-in by Vlade Divac gave Los Angeles an 87-85 lead, then Johnson made two free throws for a four-point edge with 1:48 left.

Drexler made one free throw, then stole the ball and scored to make it 89-88. Divac sank two free throws with 43 seconds remaining before Porter hit a 16-foot jumper for the game's final points.

Porter's jumper with four seconds remaining was short and Johnson, after getting the rebound, lofted the ball downcourt. There was some confusion at the end because the timekeeper, thinking a foul had been called, briefly stopped the clock and one-tenth of a second remained as the ball rolled out of bounds on the Lakers' end.

Buck Williams made a desperate length-of-court inbound pass as time expired.

"I felt good about the shot," said Porter, who led Portland with 24 points. "It was on line, but it just fell a little short. I make that shot nine out of 10 times."

"We had a chance to take the lead in the last minute, but we couldn't get over the hump," Portland coach Rick Adelman said.

No one appeared more relieved than Mike Dunleavy, the Lakers' rookie coach.

"It doesn't get any better than this," he said. "The only reason I took the L.A. job was that I thought the Lakers had a chance to win the championship. Here it is May 30th and I'm still right."

Divac said he was nervous before he made the two free throws that turned out to be the difference.

"I was very scared," he said. "They were such important points. I told myself to use my knees and I had good concentration."

Sam Perkins had 26 points for the Lakers and reserve A.C. Green had 15.

James Worthy, playing on a sprained ankle, said he was hampered somewhat but the injury should be completely healed for the Finals. He scored eight points and had three rebounds in the win over Portland.

Drexler added 23 for the Trail Blazers.

The Lakers, shooting for their sixth NBA title in the 12 years since Johnson joined them, will open the title round Sunday in Chicago.

Game-ending play

The Indians' Juan Rico rips a double down the third base line in Thursday's Kids Inc. action. Two runners scored on the double, and Rico scored on an error on the same play to provide a 10-run margin in the 15-5 win over the Red Sox.

Gilder shares Kemper lead

POTOMAC, Md. (AP) - His putter was failing him, he had a bad attitude and, worst of all, Bob Gilder wasn't winning any money.

"The game wasn't interesting or fun anymore," he said.

After missing the cut in three of his last five tournaments, Gilder went home to Oregon last weekend in an attempt to cure his miserable putting stroke and an unhealthy mind-set.

He played a little golf - working mostly on the greens - and took some time to relax with his family.

The therapy worked, and he reaped the benefits Thursday when he shot a 65 to share the lead with rookie Scott Gump after the first round of the Kemper Open.

Gilder had seven birdies, including five on the back nine, and his putting was near-brilliant.

Six players, including Hal Sutton and Chip Beck, were one stroke behind the leaders entering today's second round. Greg Norman and Ian Baker-Finch, the Kemper runnerup last year, were among seven players at 67.

Connors to face Chang

PARIS (AP) - At age 38, Jimmy Connors still has a dream.

The dream of winning at Paris, however, turned into a nightmare for former French Open champion Mats Wilander and reigning U.S. Open king Pete Sampras.

The highlight of today's schedule, in terms of drama and spectator appeal, is a center-court match between Connors and 10th-seeded Michael Chang, the 1989 French Open winner who is half his age.

Connors, who barely survived a thrilling five-setter with Ronald Agnori in the second round, expects Chang to try to wear him down, but he's sure to have an adoring crowd on his side.

In another all-American clash on the red clay courts at Roland Garros, fourth-seeded Andre Agassi takes on Patrick McEnroe, whose older brother John was a first-round loser. Patrick is in the French Open singles draw for the first time, while Agassi was a finalist last year.

Wilander and Sampras were ousted by two of France's brightest young stars, Fabrice Santoro and Thierry Champion.

Santoro, 18, humiliated Wilander, a three-time French Open champion, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2 on center court Thursday. Champion, 24, followed with a 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 rout of Sampras, the tournament's No. 6 seed.

"He didn't play well," Champion said of Sampras. "He ran out of ideas. I was content to keep him far back and play to his backhand."

The No. 1 seeds - Sweden's Stefan Edberg and Yugoslavia's Monica Seles - have off-days today after contrasting victories Thursday.

Edberg, a 1989 French Open finalist who is trying to protect his No. 1 ranking from Boris Becker, suffered lower back problems as he defeated Austria's Horst Skoff 6-4, 5-7, 7-6, 6-3. A trainer twice massaged his back between games.

"I am not exactly sure what it is, but I have had some problems the last couple of weeks," said Edberg, who suffered a thigh injury while playing in Germany last weekend.

Asked what he would do to prepare his back for a third-round match against clay-court specialist Andrei Chesnokov of the Soviet Union, Edberg said he would continue his daily exercises.

"You have to look after your body. It is the only one you get," he said. "You can't go and pick one out of the wardrobe."

Seles met an opponent who seemed bent on self-destruction. Mariaan de Swardt, a 20-year-old South African, hit the ball with tremendous power but little accuracy.

De Swardt committed eight double faults and pounded many simple backhands way out of bounds. She lasted only 56 minutes against Seles, losing 6-0, 6-2.

Southwest Outdoors

with Mel Phillips

Too often when anglers talk about fishing they are talking about trying to catch fish, but NOW is the time to head to your favorite lake if you prefer catchin' over fishin'. The crappie, catfish, bass and walleye are in the shallow water and eager to feed.

The challenge is to find fish at shallow water spots that have access to deep water. The importance of nearby deep water will become more important as the heat of summer drives the fish to a deeper comfort range. Fishing pressure can cause the fish to stop biting, so finding backup spots is important.

TIP OF THE WEEK--I have discovered an intriguing new topwater bait. It is a Top-Water Gitzit invented by Ubaldo Benevides Jr. of Zia Bait Co. in Silver City, N.M. Mickey Trousdale, who has qualified for the 1991 B.A.S.S. Classic, uses this secret bait to catch bass that have been exposed to heavy fishing pressure. If you are looking for a topwater bait that catches fish when others cannot, give Ubaldo a call at (505) 388-1263.

TAKE A KID FISHING--The first week of June is National Fishing Week and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has declared June 8 as "No License Required Day." There is not a better way to spend a day than to go fishing with a kid. Going fishing is the excuse, listening and talking to children (even grandkids) is the real purpose of this trip. Think about it--when was the last time that you listened to a kid? Get some worms, because both the bluegills and the kids are waiting for you.

Congratulations to Brent Bresnik of the Morse Bass Club for winning the most recent Fun Tournament on Lake Meredith. Brent is the first angler to win Fun Tournaments in 1990 and 1991. Phil Black, a lawyer (!) from Borger, finished second and also won the $50 luck-of-the-draw. Third place was nailed down by M.A. Paige of Borger, who finally outfished his 12-year-old son.

Fun Tournaments at Lake Meredith are held on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month. With only seven tournaments to go, I hope to see you at the next one on June 6.

The next White River Fun Tournament is scheduled for June 13. Ask Bill Joiner at the Marina about these evening catch-and-release tournaments scheduled for the second Thursday of each month.

Rangers' month of May going downhill

By The Associated Press

All of a sudden, May isn't so merry for the Texas Rangers.

Remember that 14-game winning streak the Rangers had? Now, they have lost three straight.

Seattle trounced Texas 11-4 at Arlington on Thursday night as Jay Buhner homered and drove in a career-high six runs.

"I'll remember this for a long time, especially because it came in front of family and friends," said Buhner, who grew up in suburban Houston.

It was a bit of revenge for the Mariners, who were swept at home over the weekend by Texas.

"I wish every night was like this," Buhner said. "Their guys stuck it to us last weekend, so it felt good to start something."

Rookie Rich DeLucia (5-2) won his fourth straight decision, knocking Texas out of first place in the AL West after a one-week stay.

Seattle tagged Kenny Rogers (4-4), who had won four straight games, for eight runs - only four earned - in two-plus innings.

"I didn't throw enough strikes, and when I did they were right down the middle," Rogers said.

The victory gave Seattle its best May record in franchise history. The Mariners are 15-11 with one more game this month. Their previous best mark for May was in 1987 at 14-12.

Twins 4, Royals 2

Hal McRae's home debut as Royals manager was spoiled by the strong pitching of Minnesota's Mark Guthrie.

Greg Gagne and Chuck Knoblauch drove in runs against Mark Gubicza (1-3), who lasted 7 1-3 innings and allowed five hits in his fourth start since rotator cuff surgery last summer. Chili Davis hit his ninth homer for the Twins, a solo shot in the ninth.

Mark Guthrie (4-3) gave up six hits in 7 1-3 innings to win for the fourth time in five starts. Rick Aguilera got the final five outs for his 10th save.

Orioles 9, Red Sox 3

Mike Devereaux and David Segui hit two-run doubles as Baltimore capitalized on the wildness of Boston's Matt Young at Fenway Park.

Baltimore, which has the Jeff Ballard (3-6) got his first victory since April 23, allowing three runs and six hits in 6 1-3 innings.

Pinch-hitter Sam Horn had a three-run homer off Jeff Gray in the ninth.

American League's worst record, won its third straight game after losing its first four under new manager Johnny Oates. Boston lost for the fifth time in six games.

Athletics 8, Blue Jays 6

Rickey Henderson, who led off a game with a homer for the 46th time in his career, walked with the bases loaded to break a tie in the eighth inning at the SkyDome.

With the Blue Jays leading 6-5, Terry Steinbach, Willie Wilson and Jamie Quirk loaded the bases with three straight one-out singles off Duane Ward (0-2). Walt Weiss tied the score with a sacrifice fly and Ward hit Mike Gallego with a pitch before Henderson walked. Ernest Riles added an RBI single.

Joe Klink (4-2) pitched 1 1-3 scoreless innings for the victory and Dennis Eckersley worked two innings for his 13th save.

Angels 7, White Sox 6

Luis Polonia drove in three runs and visiting California held on to beat Chicago as the White Sox scored four runs in the last two innings.

Kirk McCaskill (5-5) went seven innings for his third straight win.

Bob McClure allowed consecutive home runs to Frank Thomas and Sammy Sosa in the eighth and then gave up consecutive singles to start the ninth. Bryan Harvey came on for his 12th save.

Jack McDowell (5-3) worked into the seventh inning and yielded all seven runs.

Reds rock Martinez

By DICK BRINSTER

AP Sports Writer

Things are looking up for the contenders in the National League West after they have spent the last two weeks looking up at the Los Angeles Dodgers.

One night after former ace Orel Hershiser was beaten, Ramon Martinez - the reigning king of the Dodger pitching staff - also tasted defeat.

With a 7-2 loss to Cincinnati Thursday night, the Dodger lead is down to a half-game over the upstart Atlanta Braves and two over the Reds. Atlanta beat San Francisco 7-2. San Diego blanked Houston 4-0 in the only other NL game.

Now the Dodgers, who lost 8-2 when Hershiser returned after a 13-month absence following reconstructive shoulder surgery, must beat Cincinnati ace Tom Browning tonight. He beat the Dodgers 3-0 after Los Angeles had outscored Cincinnati by a combined 22-4 in winning the first two games of their series last weekend at Riverfront Stadium.

Beating Martinez was a boost to the Reds, but they must not be overly optimistic, said Paul O'Neill, who homered off the Dodger right-hander.

"Los Angeles has been playing well," he said. "They're not going to roll over. They're going to come out and try to beat us tomorrow."

In San Francisco, the Braves flexed their muscles with four home runs and John Smoltz found his missing touch by pitching a five-hitter. Atlanta, led by the brilliant pitching of left-hander Tom Glavine and coming stars such as southpaw Steve Avery, had been waiting for Smoltz to pitch the way he had in winning 26 games over the last two seasons.

He overcame the elements and thrived on offensive support.

"I guess the key is to have a 100-degree temperature and get hit with a line drive on the first pitch," Smoltz said. "Hopefully, I'm over the hump."

The Braves got a combined three homers, five runs and five RBIs from Ron Gant, David Justice and Sid Bream.

Padres 4, Astros 0

Dennis Rasmussen pitched seven strong innings for his first victory since returning from a shoulder injury as San Diego ended a four-game losing streak.

Rasmussen (1-0), sidelined on March 31, gave up eight hits in his second start of the season. The Astros stranded 10 runners while being shut out for the fifth time this year.

Jose Moia hit a two-run single for his first major league RBIs when San Diego scored three runs in the sixth off former Padre Jimmy Jones (4-2).

Reds 7, Dodgers 2

The seven-game winning streak of Martinez ended when he was outpitched by Scott Scudder, making his first start of the season.

Chris Sabo also homered off Martinez (8-2), who allowed 11 hits in six innings in his bid to become baseball's first nine-game winner. Scudder (1-2) allowed one run and three hits in 6 2-3 innings.

Braves 7, Giants 2

Smoltz (2-6), who pitched his first complete game, was staked to a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning when Justice followed a one-out single by Gant with his seventh homer of the season and fourth in eight games. Bream hit the next pitch from Kelly Downs (2-3) for his seventh homer.

THE FORGOTTEN ONES

THE STORY OF ABRAHAM'S WIFE, SARAH, AND HIS BELOVED SON ISAAC, IS WELL RECORDED—AS IS THAT OF HAGAR, WHO BORE ABRAHAM'S FIRST SON, ISHMAEL, BUT LITTLE IS SAID OF THE WIFE THAT ABRAHAM TOOK AFTER SARAH'S DEATH, KETURAH. THIS FINE WOMAN GAVE ABRAHAM NOT ONE—NOT TWO—NOT FOUR—BUT SIX SONS!

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I recently read your "Twelve Rules for a Happy Marriage." Along the same line, I'd like to submit my own Six Rules for Choosing a Husband. The divorce rate would be cut in half if women used this screening process before they tie the knot.

1. Find someone who laughs at the same things you laugh at. A shared sense of humor will make the good times better and the bad times less difficult.

2. If you want several children and plan to stay at home and raise them, choose a man whose skills and education will put him in the high salary category.

3. If you want a career, don't marry a man who hates his job. He will resent the time and attention you give to yours.

4. Two red flags: Does he have a hot temper and is he hung up on his mother? These are two negatives that inevitably get worse after marriage and both can be disastrous.

5. Don't get married because you are afraid to be alone. No wife is more alone than the one whose husband pays no attention to her.

6. No matter how wonderful his other qualities may be, do not marry a man who has hit you, threatened you or humiliated you. In fact, don't go out with him a second time. Recognize the fact that he is hazardous to your emotional and physical health and avoid him like the plague. -- Common Sense in Quebec

DEAR QUEBEC: Your six rules are every bit as good as my 12; in fact, they may be better. Thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Regarding a recent letter stating that it "wasn't the senior citizens who took the commitment out of marriage, the responsibility out of parenthood, togetherness out of family, loyalty out of Americanism," etc., etc., obviously that senior citizen feels that his generation did a pretty poor job of raising us because we certainly did not raise ourselves.

Actually, I happen to believe that the old-timers did a pretty darned good job. They raised a generation of people who are able to form their own opinions and express them. Because of our generation, we will never go back to the time when children were expected to be seen and not heard, minorities and women had no rights, and the masses accepted everything our government did without question.

Today's senior citizens raised the baby boom generation. As adults, the boomers have been wonderfully creative, courageous and far-sighted. Just to listen to their poetry and their music. The advances they made in medicine and aviation, their openness with their children about sex, and their pioneering work on environmental issues are something to be applauded.

I'm not overstating the case when I say the older folks should be very proud of us. -- A.H., Mineola, N.Y.

DEAR MINEOLA: It's a little early to make a case for a generation whose youngest members are just reaching 30. I'm sure I will get some strong rebuttals to your letter but thanks for writing.

Gem of the Day: A signature always reveals a man's character -- and sometimes even his name.
