U.S., Europe beef about beef trade

The European Community (EC) will not accept beef which contains growth hormones after Jan. 1.

Cost to U.S. Cattle cattle producers:
$100 million

The Reagan administration plans to stick $100 million in trade tariffs on many European goods, including hams, canned Italian tomatoes, wine coolers and other popular foods imported from Europe.

Beef war won't hurt prices

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Cattle prices should not be adversely affected when a European Community ban on beef imports containing growth hormones goes into effect on Jan. 1.

The ban, which includes most U.S. beef exports, could lead to a full-blown trade war between the U.S. and the 12-country European group.

Jim Gill, a marketing specialist with the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, said any reduction in the price for fed cattle had "pretty well been already built in to the futures market."

"Those guys in the futures market knew this was coming. They watch things like this pretty closely," Gill said. "Originally, this was going to go into effect last Jan. 1 and we were able to get it postponed for a year.

"In the long run, I don't know but what the overall American beef complex might come out ahead with the placing of duties on more foreign goods."

The Reagan administration said Tuesday it would impose $100 million worth of trade sanctions against European food products, starting at 12:01 a.m. on Sunday.

The sanctions include 100 percent duties on many popular products ranging from Danish hams to canned Italian tomatoes. The duties will effectively double the price of the penalized products.

U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter said the duties will go into effect Sunday unless the EC backs down on the ban.

Yeutter, who is President-elect George Bush's choice for ag secretary, said the ban is an unfair trade practice because there was no scientific evidence that the hormones, used to increase bulk in cattle, cause any health effects in humans.

The EC says that while the scientific evidence on meat hormones isn't conclusive, the countries have the right to take precautionary action to protect health.

The Reagan administration, in a prepared statement, said the U.S. Food and Drug Administration had determined that the daily production of similar hormones in humans, even in children, is far higher than the minuscule levels left in meat from treated animals.

In fact, a report is due out early in 1989 to give more conclusive evidence that the growth hormones given to cattle cause no ill effects in humans.

"We have tried repeatedly to bring this issue to a scientific dispute settlement panel under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) in order to have it resolved," Yeutter said in a statement.

Today, EC officials said they would hike duties on other U.S. products if America makes good on its retaliation threat. U.S. officials said they will counter the counter-retaliation, including a ban on all European meat imports, worth $450 million a year.

In Los Angeles, where President Reagan is vacationing, Deputy White House Press Secretary Lesley Arshnt said the administration had not lost sight of the fact that the European Community and the United States are major trading partners and allies.

"We have our differences over trade, but there is a mechanism for resolving them and we have no reason to believe this one won't be resolved also," Arshnt said.

Exchanges: 'Tis the season

By ANDREA HOOTEN

Too small, too tight, doesn't work, ugly color, hangs wrong, too long.

The week after Christmas doesn't always bring glad tidings and the department stores' courtesy desks may find it hard living up to their name when a simple gift exchange evolves into an exchange of words with irate customers.

Hereford retailers have their fingers crossed this year.

Complaints have been light and though the returns and exchanges have filtered in, things have sailed smoothly so far.

Gibson's Discount Store at 1115 W. Park Ave. reported 50 refunds and exchanges on Monday and only 12 by Tuesday afternoon.

"We've had returns ranging from the Nintendo (video games) which cost about $74.95 to Mr. Potato Heads which cost $3.94," said Linda Pena, a checker who handled all the returns Monday.

We had race cars that only went in reverse, a lot of people got two of things, there were a lot of clothes—mostly jeans—and one family even got two Nintendos."

Jim Dorff, son-in-law of city attorney Earnest Langley, was exchanging some PR Rodeo jeans his mother-in-law gave him for Christmas.

She had apparently over-estimated his size.

Dorff didn't need a receipt for an exchange, but Pena said Gibson's usually required receipts if the gift receiver wants money instead of merchandise.

"Refunds without a receipt are the hardest. Usually, the person really needs to have one to get their money back, but yesterday and today (Tuesday) our manager has been giving approval to those people who don't have receipts. That will probably stop after a few days," Pena said.

In Gibson's back room, a graveyard of defective toys and equipment lay dejected on a conveyor belt, ready to be shipped back to the manufacturer (probably in a boat since most of the products were made in Taiwan).

Ismael Gamez, manager of Anthony's at Sugarland Mall, said he's seen only 10 refunds for Monday and Tuesday.

We had one lady who bought some 501 shrink-to-fit jeans at an Anthony's in Dodge City, Kan., that were too small, and we would have given her the money back on it. But she had just bought the wrong size and had already washed them. If there were a mistake with the jeans we would have given her the money back, but she made the mistake and we couldn't refund her money," Gamez said.

"I've seen some people bringing in winter coats around May," Gamez said with a laugh.

"And I'd say, 'Why didn't you bring this back sooner?' It's really hard to sell those kinds of things after that much time has passed, but we take them back anyway."

1988 tax forms: little different, little simpler

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 101 million tax forms Americans began receiving in the mail Tuesday contain a surprise for some taxpayers. The forms are different and simpler than the ones the Internal Revenue Service mailed to them last year.

Despite widespread grumbling that the drive toward tax simplification has instead produced a more complicated system, the IRS is predicting that 3.5 million Americans will be able to switch to the simpler forms this year.

To help make that projection come true, the IRS is making a greater effort this year to direct taxpayers to the form that is best for their tax situations.

The IRS formerly mailed taxpayers the type of form they had used the previous year. However, for the first time this year, the IRS analyzed the returns taxpayers sent back last April 15 and used those findings to determine what type of package to send for the new filing season.

"Instead of routinely sending out the same form people used in the past, we are trying to send them the tax package that best suits their needs," said IRS spokesman Frank Keith.

The landmark 1986 Tax Reform Act reduced tax rates, raised the standard deduction and eliminated a variety of deductions. Those changes mean many taxpayers who once found it beneficial to itemize deductions and file the long Form 1040A or the simplest form of all, the 1040 EZ, without being forced to pay higher taxes.

The tax packages, which cost the government $29.4 million to print and mail, have been waiting at post offices around the country for the past several weeks with instructions to begin delivering them on Tuesday.

The mass mailing is the largest the government does each year and traditionally is scheduled for the period right after Christmas.

For the first time this year, the IRS is supplying estimates of how long it is likely to take taxpayers to fill out the various forms. This information, IRS officials hope, will encourage Americans to use the simplest form possible.

The IRS estimates that Form 1040 will require a taxpayer to spend 3 hours and 7 minutes on record keeping, 2 hours and 28 minutes learning about the law, 3 hours and 7 minutes preparing the form and 35 minutes for copying, assembling and sending the form to the IRS.

The 9 hours and 17 minutes total does not count an additional 5 hours and 51 minutes the agency estimates a taxpayer will need to fill out an accompanying Schedule A, used if the taxpayer itemizes deductions, and Schedule B, used to list income from interest and dividends.

By contrast, the IRS estimates a taxpayer needs only 1 hour and 31 minutes to complete the 1040 EZ, the simplest IRS form which can be used only by single people who do not itemize and who have taxable income below $50,000.

The 1040A, the other short form, may be used by married or single people who do not itemize and whose taxable income is less than $50,000.

As in past years, officials were estimating that three-fourth of all taxpayers will receive refunds. The typical refund last filing season was $914.74.

FBI arrests man on plane

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—The FBI arrested a passenger after a Dallas-bound American Airlines 767 jet carrying 198 people landed at Albuquerque International Airport for a bomb search, authorities said.

Flight 240 from San Francisco was evacuated on a remote stretch of runway, and the passenger who had the note was taken into custody by the FBI, American spokesman Jim Brown said in Dallas. Nobody was injured, no bomb or weapon was found, and the plane took off around 10 p.m. Tuesday, more than four hours after it landed, Brown said.

The plane arrived at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport shortly after midnight today, six hours after its scheduled arrival time of 5:58 p.m.

Bomb-sniffing dogs provided by Kirtland Air Force Base helped search the plane.

"The initial investigation revealed that a passenger, took him into custody," said Nelson, agent in charge of the Albuquerque office.

He identified the passenger as Peter M. Canning, 40, of the San Francisco Bay Area. Nelson said Canning was taken to the Bernalillo County jail, where he was held for investigation.

Bomb on plane caused Scotland PanAm crash

LOCKERBIE, Scotland (AP) — A bomb blew up Pan Am Flight 103 with 259 people aboard as the jumbo jet flew over Scotland a week ago, the Department of Transport announced today.

Investigators found "conclusive evidence of a detonating high explosive" in wreckage recovered from the Scottish countryside.

It said the evidence was found on "two parts of the metal luggage pallet framework" — a metal luggage container.

"The explosive's residues recovered from the debris have been positively identified and are consistent with the use of a high-performance plastic explosive," the statement said.

The statement gave no information on the type of explosive, where it was hidden, or how it got aboard the aircraft. It also did not speculate on who was responsible for the bombing or a possible motive.

In Washington, a State Department official involved in counterterrorism said: "We don't know who did it." The official demanded anonymity.

The Transport Ministry statement was distributed to news organizations in London as investigators convened a news conference in Lockerbie, the village which bore the brunt of the Boeing 747's flaming wreckage that fell out of the sky on Dec. 21.

The statement said evidence collected by the Transport Department's Air Accident Investigation Branch, including the cockpit voice and flight data recorders and the trail of wreckage on the ground, "has led to the preliminary conclusion that the explosion took place soon after the aircraft had crossed the Scottish border whilst it was in the cruise at 31,000 feet and that this led directly to its destruction."

"Much investigative work remains to be done to establish the nature of the explosive device, what it was contained in, its location in the aircraft, and the sequence of events immediately following its detonation," the statement said.

It said wreckage, baggage and part of the framework of a metal luggage pallet were being examined by Ministry of Defense scientists, while more items have been collected by Air Accident Investigation Branch investigators "will be subjected to lengthy chemical and metallurgical forensic examinations."

Earlier today, news reports in Britain said that heat damage to the plastic lining of a cargo bay and metal slivers found embedded in the bodies of passengers indicated that a bomb downed the jet.

In London, meanwhile, pine coffins containing the first bodies of Americans killed in the Dec. 21 crash arrived at Heathrow Airport and were loaded onto two separate Pan Am flights bound for New York.

In Scotland, authorities said they had formally identified two more victims: Michael Joseph Doyle, 30, of Voorhees, N.J., and Sean Concannon, 16, of Banbury, England.

On Tuesday night, residents paid silent respects to the five American victims of the jumbo jet disaster whose bodies were the first to leave this Scottish town since the New York-bound Boeing 747 fell onto it in pieces.

All 259 people aboard were killed, and 11 missing townspeople are presumed dead. Police spokesman Angus Kennedy said one more body was recovered Tuesday, bringing the total to 241.

More than 600 rescuers, including 15 divers, 30 tracker dogs and 100 soldiers, today resumed their search of the woods and icy waters in a 100-square-mile area of southwestern Scotland for the missing victims and wreckage, which included one of the plane's wings.

Texas thrifts to be saved

DALLAS (AP) — Federal regulators today announced an investment group has committed more than $300 million in capital to acquire five insolvent Texas thrifts in the largest transaction ever under the Southwest Plan to aid the ailing savings and loan industry.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, prior to the acquisition, placed all five institutions in receivership.

The savings and loans involved are First Texas Savings Association and Montfort Federal Savings and Loan Association, both in Dallas; Gibraltar Savings Association and $300 million committed

Home Savings and Loan Association, both in Houston; and Killeen Savings and Loan Association, in Killeen.

Bank board officials said Gibraltar, with assets of $6.1 billion, and First Texas, with $3.5 billion in assets, are among the largest S&Ls in Texas. The five thrifts have combined assets of $12.2 billion and liabilities of $12.8 billion.

"This investment is the largest capital infusion by any acquirer under the Southwest Plan to date," said M. Danny Wall, bank board chairman. "The plan has attracted more than $800 million in new capital to Texas thrifts this year and that level is quickly approaching the billion-dollar mark.

"This demonstrates that there is a viable interest in Texas thrifts, and investors are confident enough in the future of the thrift industry that they are willing to invest hundreds of millions of dollars in Texas thrifts."

Investors in the federally assisted transaction are Gerald J. Ford, chairman of Ford Bank Group in Dallas, along with MacAndrews and Forbes Holdings Inc., New York, a private investment group, according to a FHLB board release.

MacAndrews and Forbes Holdings is led by Ronald O. Perelman, chairman of Revlon Inc., said federal regulators.

The former offices of the five thrifts are opening today as branches of First Texas Bank F.S.B., the prepared statement said, and the consolidation will cause no interruption to depositors.

The FHLB board's Southwest Plan has, with the latest investment of $315 million, attracted $845.8 million in new capital to Texas S&Ls.

Suspects lead officials on chase

SKIDMORE, Texas (AP) — A police radio scanner helped four bank robbery suspects elude law officers for three hours on a 50-mile chase through Southeast Texas before they were captured only a few miles from where president-elect George Bush was vacationing.

Authorities said the four suspects changed vehicles five times in a chase Tuesday that crossed three counties and involved over 100 sheriff's, police and Department of Public Safety officers, including a DPS helicopter.

"The driver in this chase was one hell of a driver — quite skillful — and these people were well-armed with semiautomatic rifles," said police Lt. Kenneth Ersland in Corpus Christi, where the four were jailed today.

Secret Service and FBI officials monitored the chase, which began in Corpus Christi, and contacted DPS authorities as it neared Beeville, home of the Lazy F Ranch where Bush is hunting quail. They were not involved in pursuing the suspects.

Two California men and two women were taken into custody at about 4:30 p.m. in this town of about 1,000, 11 miles southeast of Beeville.

Ersland said charges against the two men and two women, ranging in ages from 21 to 30, were pending today. Warrants have been issued against the Californians in connection with an attack on a sheriff's deputy in that state, authorities said.

"We are after the same subjects on attempted murder on a sheriff's officer," San Joaquin County deputy Lt. Jerry Krein said. "They were in a stolen car with a scanner and they waited to unload with a 9mm pistol on an officer, but they missed. Our officer was extremely lucky."

Two men and a woman who left First National Bank of Corpus Christi-Gulfway in a red Hyundai eluded police by abandoning the vehicle and stealing a grey 1986 Chrysler. DPS spokesman Jim Kaelin of Corpus Christi said his office received word of an "armed robbery" at about 1:30 p.m.

As the suspects fled the bank, strong gusts of wind began blowing money out of a paper grocery sack one of them carried, witnesses said.

Police were still investigating the fourth suspect's role in the robbery chase, said Ersland. An undetermined amount of money was taken in the robbery.

Officers spotted the suspects driving north on Texas Highway 286, also known as the Crosstown Expressway, which connects with Interstate 37.

High gasoline may be wave of future for American drivers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. motorist pulls into a service station and plunks down $1.65 for a gallon of gasoline. In Britain the same amount of gas would cost the equivalent of $2.77.

British motorists, and drivers in many other European countries, pay taxes accounting for approximately half of the price of gasoline at the pump, making it a luxury item for many.

Some now believe the modest U.S. federal gas tax of 9 cents a gallon could be headed in the same direction.

"We are about to follow the Europeans down the road of no return," says Bill Berman, director of energy and environment for the American Automobile Association.

He also heads a newly formed umbrella group called Fuel Users for Equitable Levies (FUEL), which last week launched a grass-roots campaign to offset mounting pressure for a gas tax increase as a way of reducing the nation's $155 billion budget deficit. The anti-tax lobby is supported by such groups as the American Farm Bureau Federation and the American Petroleum Institute.

No gas tax increase is imminent, but with policymakers desperate for some solution to the deficit, the debate is in full swing.

Critics say a tax increase would mean slower business, higher inflation and fewer jobs.

Supporters retort that a higher tax would calm international deficit jitters and thus strengthen the economy in the long run. As an added benefit, they claim, it would reduce America's growing dependence on foreign oil by curbing demand for gasoline.

"The effort must now be made to get the deficit down," former Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker said in calling for an increase in the tax.

President-elect Bush is opposed to a higher gas tax, but the idea has drawn support from witnesses before the 14-member National Economic Commission created by Congress to search for deficit remedies.

Each penny-per-gallon of additional tax would yield $1 billion in revenue. That makes it seem an attractively quick way to sharply reduce the budget deficit.

Business is divided. Within the auto industry, Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca supports a tax increase, but General Motors Corp. is stoutly opposed to it on grounds that it would hammer the economy. Ford Motor Co. is hesitant on the issue but has said it could support a phased increase of 5 cents per gallon per year.

The roadbuilding lobby, led by the Associated General Contractors, opposes a tax increase on grounds that the additional revenue would go to cutting the budget deficit instead of expanding the $14 billion Federal Highway Trust Fund. There is no assurance that the additional tax collections would be used for tinning the deficit, however, if the money were channeled into general revenues.

In Congress, Sing the pain of depressed oil prices.

"I hope they are able to avoid any new tax, including a gasoline tax," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said in a statement.

As chairman of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, Bentsen would have much to say about the matter.

Check chimneys for creosote deposits

Thomas D. Valco, agricultural engineer-safety, said chimneys with heavy creosote deposits are a leading cause of home fires in the United States each year.

"Homeowners who have not yet done so this season should have a safety inspection of their chimneys, and then remove any creosote build-up found," Valco said.

He said creosote, produced when wood burns, is highly flammable. It escapes from a fireplace or stove in the form of smoke and condenses on the inside of the chimney.

"Creosote deposits that are from one-fourth of an inch deep or more should be removed. If ignited, creosote can burn at temperatures up to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit," Valco said.

"Strong upward drafts caused by high-temperature chimney fires can lift burning creosote out of the chimney and onto the roof, possibly spreading a fire to the rest of the house, or even neighboring homes," he said.

Valco said in the event a chimney fire should occur, call the fire department immediately.

"If possible, shut off the air supply to the fireplace or stove but do not close the damper to avoid forcing smoke into the house. If there is still a fire in the stove or fireplace, extinguish it with an approved fire extinguisher or throw baking soda on the fire," Valco said.

He said homeowners who need to have their chimneys cleaned may want to contact a professional chimney sweep, since the project is both messy and dangerous for an amateur.

"The professional chimney cleaner will have a selection of brushes and also be able to spot improper installation of stoves or chimney damage," Valco said.

For homeowners wanting to attempt their own chimney cleaning project, Valco said that chemical cleaners are available but most have proven ineffective.

The expert said steel brushes, with extension rods that reach the entire length of the chimney, should be used for the cleaning project. A sheet, fastened over the fireplace opening, will help avoid getting soot scattered over the house.

Valco said once the chimney has been cleaned, proper use of the fireplace or stove can reduce future creosote building.

He said newer, more efficient stoves and fireplace inserts allow less heat loss through the chimney. "This lower temperature inside the chimney encourages accumulation of creosote. With hotter fires, creosote is burned as produced, leaving less to condense in the chimney."

He said if chimney and stove pipes are free from excessive creosote deposits, accumulations can be controlled by burning a hot fire for about 15 minutes each day to burn off any thin creosote layers formed the previous day.

The safety expert recommended that homeowners add safety resolutions to those being drafted by family members for the coming year.

Wholesome pork: A nutrient-rich change of pace

It's often difficult for today's dual-career family to find the time to prepare well-balanced and tasty meals. Nutrition sometimes takes a back seat to convenience. And variety is almost unheard of.

If you're looking for something different, meals that are easy to prepare, low in calories and cholesterol, and taste great, why not try pork? Pork is lean, loaded with protein, minerals and most B vitamins, and is a wonderful change of pace. And with the variety of fresh cuts available today, pork offers great versatility.

For example, pork tenderloin can be roasted (25 minutes), sauteed as medallions (eight minutes), or sliced for stir-fry (10 minutes). And cooked in the microwave, its tender and juicy flavor is a real treat.

The following Szechuan Pork Tenderloin recipe features a tantalizing combination of vegetables and seasonings, with only 219 calories per serving. It's a dinner the whole family will enjoy.

SZECHUAN PORK TENDERLOIN

- 1 lb. pork tenderloin, sliced 1/4-inch thick
- 3 Tbs. low sodium soy sauce
- 1 tsp. steak sauce
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 Tbs. minced fresh onion
- 1/4 tsp. crushed red pepper
- 2 cups 1-inch cauliflower flowerettes
- 1 medium sweet red or green pepper, cut in 1-inch squares
- 4 Tbs. coarsely chopped dry roasted peanuts

Stir together pork tenderloin slices, soy sauce, steak sauce, garlic, onion and red pepper in microwave-safe one-quart casserole. Marinate 10 to 15 minutes at room temperature. (Refrigerate if mixture needs to stand longer.)

Microwave pork tenderloin mixture, covered with waxed paper, on medium (50% power, 325 to 350 watts) six to eight minutes, stirring well after each two minutes.

Stir in cauliflower and pepper squares; cover with waxed paper. Microwave (high) three to four minutes, until vegetables are barely cooked. (Vegetables should be tender-crisp.)

Top with peanuts and serve over hot rice.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a fourth-year medical student, and I wonder how many people understand how difficult it is to become a doctor. If they did, I doubt that they would be so eager to jump on the bandwagon to condemn the medical community, which is the best in the world.

I have been in school for eight years--four years of grueling competitive undergraduate studies, then four years of medical school that can be described only as demanding and difficult.

There are no shortcuts. We must learn as much as possible because it is human life that we will eventually be responsible for.

After graduation, I will enter a four-year residency program. This means another long and difficult climb. Finally, when I am 31, I will be able to do what I have wanted to do for a very long time--be a competent and compassionate physician. In addition to the time I have invested in preparing for my career, I have sacrificed much in terms of financial advancement, living on $8,000 a year after paying $8,000 a year in tuition (always borrowed) while in school. This is below the poverty level for this nation. I am a college graduate, tops in my class, and while my peers are having their second or third child, or buying a home, I am trying to find the money to buy a suit so I will look presentable.

I have no qualms about how difficult this journey has been but I resent it when I hear people begrudge doctors their nice cars and vacations to the Caribbean. Believe me, those doctors are far behind many of their peers. It's almost as if they have lost 10 years of their lives.

Why is it that no one bats an eye when a 21-year-old boxer can have a net worth of $50 million but when a doctor gets $100,000 for keeping people healthy and saving lives they resent it? Got an answer, Annie?--D.P. Rockford, Ill.

DEAR ROCK: Don't look at me. I'm on your side.

Some of my best friends are doctors. A greater concern is how long the medical profession can survive the greed of lawyers and their murderous malpractice suits. That's the big question today. You have written a very good letter and am pleased to print it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son has not called me "mother" since he was in grade school. He has never in his life called his father "Dad."

"Arthur" married recently and his wife never calls me anything either, although when we first met I asked her to please call me by my first name.

Arthur and his wife are 30 years of age. They are both educated and successful in business. Should I make an issue of it or is it best to remain--Nameless in Akron

DEAR AK: Pick the appropriate moment when you are alone with your son and his wife and tell them exactly how you feel. Do it in a low-key, non-accusatory way, emphasizing how much it would please you.

I wouldn't be surprised if they honored your request. Sometimes all it takes is to tell people exactly what is on your mind.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am tired of going to weddings and hearing, "I now pronounce you man and wife." For heaven's sake, God already pronounced him a man when he was born. This person is about to become husband. Why don't the clergymen say so?--Bugged in Barstow, Calif.

DEAR BUGGED: Most of them do now. You've been going to the wrong weddings.

Aikman says he likes Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — Troy Aikman says he would like to play for the Dallas Cowboys but he still hasn't heard if they're interested.

Aikman, the UCLA quarterback who is expected to be the NFL's and the Cowboys' top draft pick, worked out in the rain on Tuesday in Texas Stadium.

"I'd like to play for Dallas but they haven't picked me," Aikman said as UCLA practiced in the home of the Cowboys, preparing for the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 2 against Arkansas.

Aikman said "for now, I'm just thinking about Arkansas. Still, it's nice being around all this Dallas Cowboys' history."

Aikman's biggest worry besides the rain which hampers the passing game was finding more than 100 tickets to the sold out game.

"I have about 150 friends coming down from Henryetta, Okla.," Aikman said.

The Bruins were five point favorites over Arkansas and both teams will be missing a star defensive player.

UCLA coach Terry Donahue announced the loss of the team's leading tackler before workouts began on Tuesday in a cold rain.

Senior inside linebacker Chance Johnson, who had 110 tackles for the Pacific-10 runner-ups, will miss the Jan. 2 game for the ninth-ranked Bruins because of a knee injury apparently suffered in a regular season-ending loss to Southern California.

"He's not sure what happened but the (left) knee locked up on him when he tried to run last week and it hasn't responded to treatment. Chance believes he must have hurt it during the USC game but he never said anything," Donahue said. "He is definitely out of the (Cotton Bowl) game. We will miss him and we'll try to adjust our defense for his absence."

Eighth-ranked Arkansas, the Southwest Conference champions, also will be without All-American defensive tackle Wayne Martin, who was dismissed from the team last week along with offensive guard Freddie Childress for breaking team rules.

"We'll miss Chance just like Arkansas will miss Martin but no football team is built around one individual," Donahue said.

Hatfield said the losses of Martin and Childress means "we'll have to have two other guys play good. How many times have you heard the story of some third stringer who comes on and does that? Maybe it will happen again."

Arkansas, making its first Cotton Bowl trip in 13 years, had more of a liking for the dreary weather than the Bruins.

"I might like it if it was like this game day," said Hatfield, who runs a ground-oriented "Flexbone" offense.

Donahue, who has built his offense around the passing talents of Troy Aikman, said "the wind would bother us more than the rain. The advantage in the rain goes to a team that throws the ball because the receivers know where they are going. The wind would be tough, though."

Donahue quipped he had been promised California weather on game day.

"Jim Brock (the Cotton Bowl executive vice president) promised sunshine, 68 to 70 degrees, and a fullhouse," Donahue said, "and we're going to hold him to it."

UCLA is the first team from the Pacific coast to play in the Cotton Bowl in 40 years.

"The Cotton Bowl is a prestigious bowl and the matchup with Arkansas is the kind we wanted if we couldn't go to the Rose Bowl," Donahue said. "We won't be able to get over the hurt of the loss to USC until we play again. Until then the pain will linger."

UCLA can become the first school in NCAA history to win seven consecutive bowl games if the Bruins beat the Razorbacks.

Singletary AP's top defender

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

Mike Singletary, the centerpiece of a Chicago defense that had a decidedly different cast than the NFL champions of three years ago, today was named The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Year for helping lead the Bears to their fifth straight NFC Central title.

Singletary, the team's middle linebacker and inspirational leader, also was named top defensive player in 1985 and was an overwhelming pick in the balloting by writers and sportscasters who covered the NFL's 28 teams.

He had 33 votes to 10 each for Keith Millard of Minnesota and Reggie White of Philadelphia, last year's winner. Bruce Smith and Cornelius Bennett of Buffalo had seven each; three-time winner Lawrence Taylor of the Giants six; Tim Krumrie of Cincinnati three and Carl Lee of Minnesota one.

This year, Singletary had 170 tackles, 89 solo, as he roamed from sideline to sideline, helping make up for the loss of his long-time outside running mates — Otis Wilson, who was lost for the season with a knee injury, and Wilber Marshall, who signed with Washington as a free agent.

While his on-field work was immense, his off-the-field contributions were more significant on a team that also lost Walter Payton and Gary Fencik, two long-time leaders, to retirement.

Cavaliers find road success, beat Bulls

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

Where the Cleveland Cavaliers used to falter, they now are finding ways to win.

The Cavaliers, 11-30 on the road last season, improved their record away from home to 9-3 Tuesday night with an impressive 107-96 victory at Chicago.

"We showed poise and patience in getting the ball where we wanted it," Coach Lenny Wilkens said. "We've been playing with a lot of poise. We don't get rattled at the end of the game anymore."

Craig Ehlo came off the bench for 16 points and Larry Nance scored eight of his 18 points in the final 2:47 as Cleveland extended its winning streak to six games. The Cavaliers, who now have the NBA's best record overall and on the road, had six players in double figures.

"We've got a lot of options, which makes us tough to defend," Wilkens said.

Michael Jordan led Chicago with 43 points after being held to four in the first quarter. He scored 19 points in the fourth quarter, sparking a Bulls rally that fell just short.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Atlanta 128, New York 126; Houston 101, Miami 93; Milwaukee 120, Indiana 107; Dallas 110, San Antonio 101; Denver 130, Boston 109; the Los Angeles Clippers 104, Seattle 100; Golden State 119, Philadelphia 112; and Sacramento 112, Portland 111.

Kings 112, Blazers 111
Sacramento coach Jerry Reynolds was hospitalized after he collapsed on the sideline while arguing with a referee in the fourth quarter, but his team came back to beat Portland when Harold Pressley hit a 20-foot jumper from the baseline with one second left.

Reynolds, who fell face first and lay motionless for six minutes, was expected to be hospitalized for 48 hours. Doctors said his blood pressure and pulse were normal.

Clyde Drexler stole a pass from Sacramento's Kenny Smith and hit a 15-foot jumper to give Portland a 111-110 lead with four seconds left.

Smith then took the inbound pass and threw the ball to Pressley, who hit the game-winner.

Smith led Sacramento with 25 points and 12 assists, while Pressley added 20 points. Kevin Duckworth topped Portland with 29 points.

Hawks 128, Knicks 126

Reggie Theus, Dominique Wilkins and Moses Malone each scored at least 30 points and Malone hit two free throws with 25 seconds left for Atlanta.

Malone's free throws made it 127-124. After a layup by the Knicks' Gerald Wilkins with 16 seconds left, Cliff Levingston hit one of two free throws with 13 seconds remaining.

Theus led Atlanta with 32 points while Dominique Wilkins and Malone had 30. Charles Oakley led the Knicks with 27 points and 18 rebounds.

Mavericks 116, Spurs 101

Dallas got 33 points from Mark Aguirre, including 15 in the third quarter, as San Antonio lost for the 11th time in their last 12 games.

The Spurs led 72-68 before the Mavericks responded with a 15-2 spurt late in the third quarter. Aguirre led the way with seven points, including a three-point play.

Alvin Robertson led the Spurs with 25 points.

Bucks 120, Pacers 107

Milwaukee dropped Indiana to 0-13 on the road as Terry Cummings scored 29 points and Larry Krystkowiak had 26 points and 14 rebounds, both career highs.

Chuck Person scored 32 points and Wayman Tisdale 19 for Indiana, the NBA's only winless team on the road.

Indiana missed its first six shots of the fourth quarter, and Milwaukee responded with eight straight points for a 97-94 advantage with 9:57 remaining.

Rockets 101, Heat 93

Houston won its sixth straight game, wiping out a nine-point halftime deficit as Akeem Olatunji scored 14 of his 22 points in the second half, snapping expansion Miami's two-game winning streak.

Otis Thorpe had 21 points and 12 rebounds for the Rockets, who last won six consecutive games in 1985. Jon Sundvold led the Heat with a career-high 25 points.

Warriors 119, 76ers 112

Rookie Mitch Richmond scored a season-high 34 points and Winston Garland hit six free throws in the final two minutes for Golden State against Philadelphia.

Garland's two free throws with 1:43 remaining gave the Warriors the lead for good at 111-110 and started a run of eight straight points.

The Warriors played without Ralph Sampson, who will undergo arthroscopic surgery on his left knee Friday to repair torn cartilage.

Charles Barkley had 23 points and 14 rebounds for the 76ers, who also got 23 points from Hersey Hawkins.

Nuggets 126, Celtics 100

Denver snapped a three-game losing streak as Alex English scored 21 of his 37 points in the second period against Boston, raising his career point total to 22,007.

The Nuggets outscored the Celtics 36-25 during English's hot quarter, turning a 21-21 tie into a 57-46 halftime lead.

Michael Adams scored 22 points for the Nuggets. Kevin McHale had 23 points for the Celtics.

Clippers 104, Sonics 100

Los Angeles overcame a nine-point Seattle lead in the last 6½ minutes behind rookie Danny Manning.

Manning scored 25 points, six of them during an 11-0 spurt that turned a 92-83 deficit into a 94-92 lead. He then hit a reverse layup with 11 seconds to go.

Quintin Dailey iced the game with a pair of free throws

Gamecocks ready for Hoosiers

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — South Carolina goes on a seek-and-destroy mission in the Liberty Bowl game with Indiana.

The Gamecocks, who have scored only one offensive touchdown in their last 10 quarters, know they must find their offense if they are to stand any chance of defeating the Hoosiers.

"We're going to try to move the football and score points," said Coach Joe Morrison, putting his team's mission in simple terms.

Tonight's game matches two schools hoping to shake bowl jinxes. Indiana, 7-3-1 this season, has lost its last two postseason outings and is 1-4 in all bowl games. South Carolina's woes run even deeper. The Gamecocks, 8-3, have failed to win in seven bowl dates.

"We're 0-2 in bowl games since I've been here, and we're going to give our best and then see what happens," Morrison said.

Indiana is comparable to the Georgia and Clemson teams we have played. Anthony Thompson is a strong and powerful runner. They have an excellent quarterback and a very experienced offensive line. Indiana's defensive line is very experienced and does a lot of stunting.

"Indiana has a very solid football team and we will have to play well. In particular, we will have to tackle very well to win," Morrison said.

The Gamecocks can't match Thompson's totals for Indiana, but offer a pair of good running backs in Harold Green, who gained 597 yards on 153 rushes, and Mike Dingle, who gained 377 yards on 90 carries. Each scored four touchdowns.

South Carolina's biggest edge comes in the kicking game. Collin Mackie has not missed an extra point in two years, going 62 for 62, including all 24 in 1988, and was true on 18 of 24 field goals this season.

Strong safety Ron Rabune spearheads a Gamecocks defense which posted two shutouts. Rabune was in on 110 tackles, recovered three fumbles, broke up two passes and intercepted one.

The game could boil down to a battle between Thompson and South Carolina quarterback Todd Ellis.

"Anthony Thompson is a guy we naturally use a lot," Indiana coach Bill Mallory said of his 6-foot, 201-pound junior who was the MVP in the Big Ten this season. "Anthony is very elusive, but he also has the power to take it up the middle."

Thompson rushed 329 times for 1,546 yards and scored a Hoosiers-record 24 touchdowns.

"Offensively, I feel we've been a pretty good football team, but there have been a couple of games where we sputtered," Mallory said. "Our quarterback, Dave Schnell, is good and appears to be back on his game."

"Our defense has made good improvement during the season and is solid. I feel we are fairly balanced, but I would give a slight edge to our offense," Mallory said.

Indiana's defense, which includes All-Big Ten performer Joe Huff at outside linebacker, faces a quarterback who has been hot and cold in 1988.

Ellis completed 183 of his 354 passes during the regular season for 2,223 yards and nine touchdowns, but was intercepted 18 times.

Walsh changing tactics for Vikings

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Bill Walsh has changed tactics even before making out his game plan.

Walsh's 49ers play the Minnesota Vikings Sunday at San Francisco in an NFL playoff game. It's a rematch of last year's NFC semifinal, in which the Vikings routed the 49ers 38-24.

After that loss, Walsh criticized himself, saying that the 49ers might have practiced too hard before, particularly wide receiver Jerry Rice. It won't happen again.

"We haven't been giving Rice as much work because last year we took a little too much out of him, and maybe the rest of our players, too," Walsh said Tuesday. "And we sort of spotted it a little late, and we rested the two days prior to Minnesota game, but it really wasn't enough."

"We took them down too far, I believe, but that's really not an explanation for the loss. It just means that we weren't at our best. They were still an outstanding team."

And they still are — the Vikings came off a 20-17 victory over the Rams in the NFC wild-card game.

"I don't think we've ever gone into a game with more respect for the opposition than this team," Walsh said. "They've put it all together over a period of years."

Last year, the Vikings won two road games and took the Redskins down to the wire in the NFC championship game.

"I can't say that playing on the road is that difficult," Coach Jerry Burns said. "There's a lot of good things about playing on the road. It brings the team together."

In their regular-season meeting, San Francisco edged Minnesota 24-21 on Steve Young's 49-yard touchdown run with 1:58 remaining.

The other game Sunday has Houston, the AFC wild-card winner, at Buffalo. On Saturday, it's Philadelphia at Chicago and Seattle at Cincinnati.

The Oilers come off their first road victory over a winning team since 1979, a 24-23 decision at Cleveland. The atmosphere at Rich Stadium won't be any more encouraging to the Oilers than it was on the other side of Lake Erie.

This year, the Bills set an all-time NFL attendance record by selling out all eight games at the 80,020-seat stadium.

"At this point in the year, you've got to be cocky and believe in what you are doing," Oilers tight end Jamie Williams said. "We feel we can go the whole distance."

Buffalo has not won a playoff game since 1961.

The Eagles, led by Buddy Ryan, who designed the 46 defense for the Bears, have never won in 10 games at Chicago. The Bears hold a 20-4-1 edge.

Ryan said Monday that Philadelphia has better personnel than Chicago at every position but middle linebacker, where the Bears have Mike Singletary, the NFL Defensive Player of the Year.

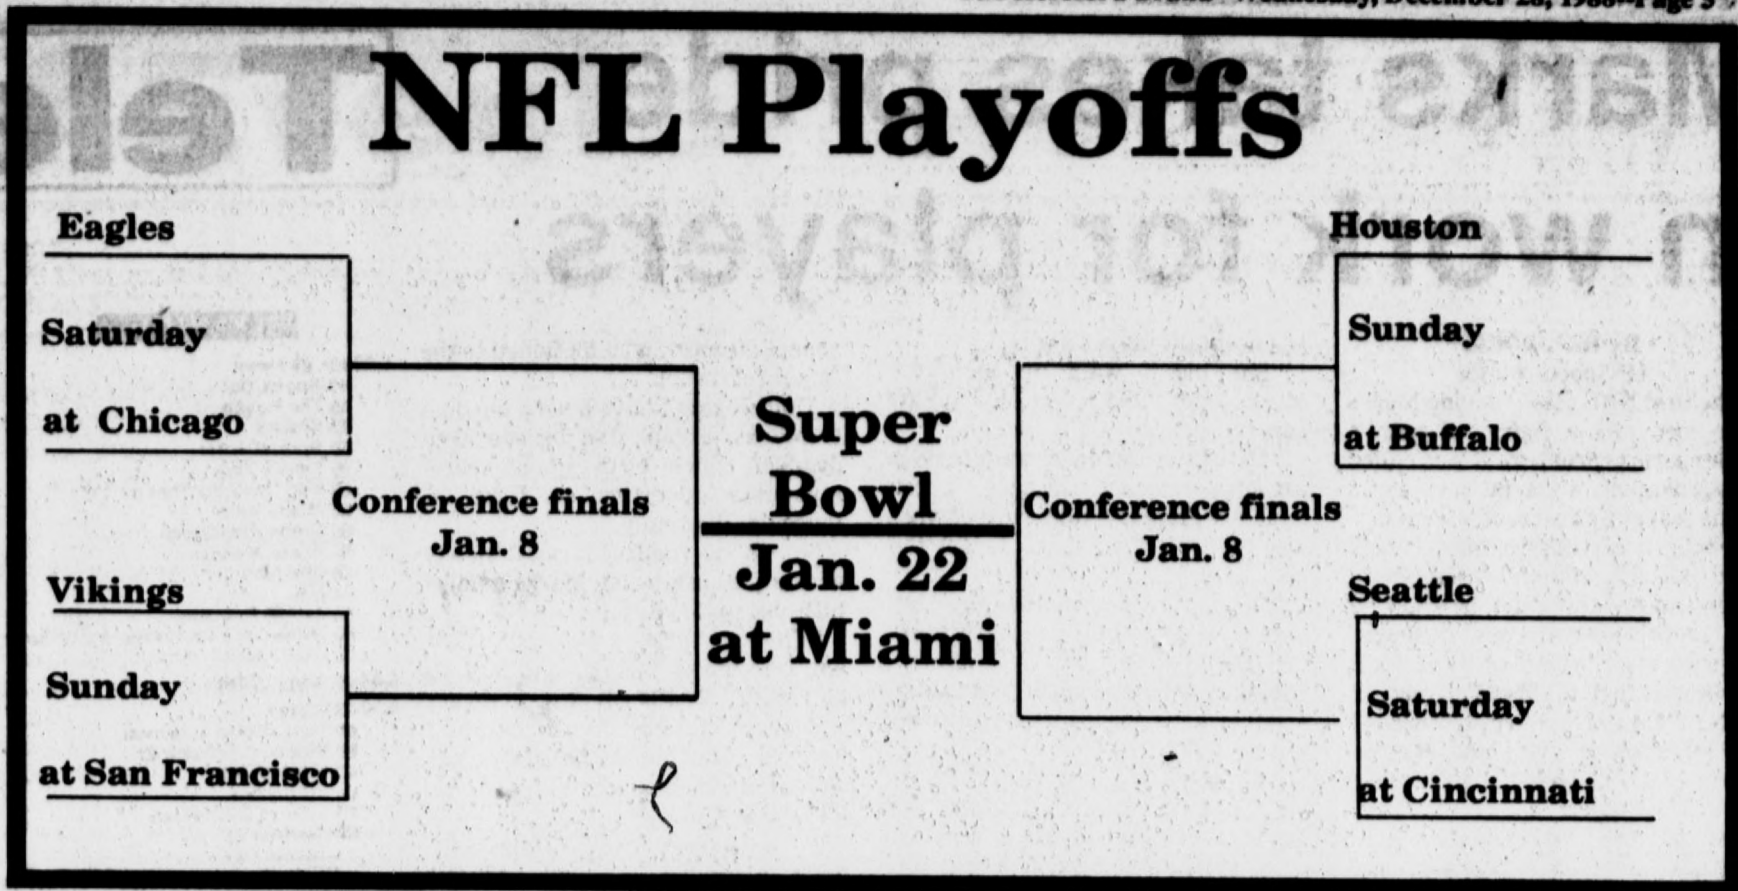

"He's entitled to his opinion," Bears quarterback Mike Tomczak said. "He's the coach of one team and if I was the coach of one team I'd believe all my players were the best, too. But we'll put 11 guys on the field Saturday and make the sides even."

So will Cincinnati and Seattle, of course. Perhaps the key one among the offensive 11 for the Bengals is Boomer Esiason, the leading passer in the NFL this year.

Esiason walked with a limp and had his finger in a splint last week. But he looked just fine in practice Tuesday.

"Early on in practice, he was being very careful," Coach Sam Wyche said. "But towards the end of practice, he looked like the Boomer that we've seen at his best. He really threw the ball well."

Seattle brings a 9-7 record, the worst among any playoff team, to Riverfront Stadium. But the Seahawks won three of their last four games to get into the playoffs.

Rice coach looks at Temple

HOUSTON (AP) — Jerry Berndt's decision to interview for the head coaching position at Temple took Rice football officials by surprise since the athletic director and head football coach still has two years left on his contract.

Berndt met with Temple Athletic Director Charles Theokas and assistant athletic director Earl Cleghorn in Dallas last Friday. Then Monday, Berndt and his wife, Pat, flew to Philadelphia to interview with Theokas and the school's board of trustees.

"We're just here to meet people and listen to the future of Temple football, and we obviously have an interest," Berndt said. "This is exploratory, so to speak."

Berndt's decision to interview for the Temple post vacated by the firing of Bruce Arians at the end of the season took the Rice athletic community by surprise.

"I had a couple of guys from Philadelphia papers call me (Monday) night and ask me for my reaction. I said, 'To what?' As far as I know, nobody here knew anything about it. It is my understanding he has talked to (Rice) President (George) Rupp," said Bill Cousins, Rice sports information director.

According to sources, the leading candidate for the Temple job had been James Madison Coach Joe Purzycki.

When Temple officials decided to offer the job to Penn State defensive coordinator Jerry Sandusky, Purzycki withdrew his name from consideration.

But when Sandusky turned the job down on Dec. 20, Purzycki said he would like to be considered.

Others head coaches mentioned for the position were Mark Duffner of Holy Cross, Billy Joe of Central State (Ohio) and San Francisco 49ers assistant Sherwin Lewis.

Berndt was expected back in Houston late Tuesday night. "Rice has been hard," Berndt said. "It's been harder than I expected it to be. I felt that we had an opportunity to win some games this year. We're not, so to speak, on the same page with everyone else in the (Southwest) conference, because of various things."

"But it's been a good experience for me. It really has been. Being athletic director and head football coach is something I wouldn't change."

Berndt said although he hasn't completed the work he wanted to accomplish at Rice, "Philadelphia is a little bit of a special place for me, and that accentuates the interest."

Berndt's teams at the University of Pennsylvania, an NCAA Division I-AA school, won or shared the Ivy League title from 1982-85.

Syracuse shoots down Rutgers by 19

By The Associated Press
Any team can make dunks and layups. So when No. 3 Syracuse started making its outside shots, too, it was too much for Rutgers.

"They can score a lot of points in a hurry," Rutgers coach Bobby Wenzel said Tuesday night after the Orangemen romped 100-81.

Matt Roe started and finished a first-half burst with 3-point shots that carried unbeaten Syracuse to its 12th straight victory and gave Coach Jim Boeheim his 299th career triumph.

Syracuse got its inside game going early, getting six dunks and four layups in the first 16 minutes.

Two other Top Twenty teams played and both won easily as No. 15 Ohio State trounced Florida 93-68 and

No. 18 North Carolina State routed Monmouth 95-50.

No. 15 Ohio State 93, Florida 68
Jay Burson scored 37 points, including a school-record nine 3-point goals, as Ohio State routed Florida in the opening round of the ECAC Holiday Festival in New York.

Ohio State will play host St. John's in Thursday night's championship game. St. John's beat Fordham 84-59 in the other first-round game.

No. 18 N.C. State 95, Monmouth 50
Rodney Monroe scored 31 points and North Carolina State rolled over visiting Monmouth.

The Wolfpack streaked to a 37-10 lead as Monroe got 24 points in the first half.

FINES TO CHARITY

NEW YORK (AP) — The fines assessed players in the National Football League are being used for cancer research.

A total of $85,000 was collected from players who were fined during the 1987 season and the money was forwarded to cancer research programs. According to the NFL, $82,000 went to the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York and the rest was sent to the Lombardi Cancer Research Center.

Marks takes pride in work for players

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The first NFL player Irving Marks ever met was a tight end with a rather serious problem. It was called embezzlement, a condition imposed on the player by his previous agent.

Marks, a certified public accountant, put the athlete's finances in order and the next thing he knew he was in the sports agent business, representing a dozen or so football players, including Marty Lyons of the New York Jets, Barry Krause of the Indianapolis Colts and Atlanta teammates Houston Hoover and Sylvester Stamps.

One day, the new agent went in to negotiate a client's contract and came away more than a little proud of the deal he worked out.

"We got up front money that we could turn into an annuity which would pay the player $100,000 a year for 40 years after retirement," he said.

That sounded pretty good to everyone involved. Everyone, that Babe Ruth led the American League in home runs 10 times while playing for the New York Yankees.

Only two National League players, Ralph Kiner and Willie Mays, hit 50 or more home runs in a season twice.

except the player's wife.

"She didn't want an annuity," Marks said. "She wanted a red Ferrari."

"My theory is all you want to do is get a fair contract," he said. "If you handle it properly, take care of what you get, you don't have to get the most money."

"Negotiating contracts is the easy part of my job. The hard part is making athletes hold on to their money. These are kids who never had money and they have no idea what to do with it once they get it."

This is very good for Ferrari, Mercedes and Porsche dealers, but may not be so good for the athletes.

So Marks concentrates on the future, on a time when players don't run, block or tackle with quite the same zest as they once did and must get on with the rest of their lives. Many of his clients, like Billy "White Shoes" Johnson and Tony Nathan, have stayed with him well after their playing days.

"It is in the club's interest that I do a good job," Marks said. "They don't always look at it that way. They want players dependent on the clubs."

Early in his agent career, Marks drove up to an NFL team's training complex to negotiate a deal for one of his clients. As he parked his car, he was waved off by the club's pro personnel director, who motioned to the far end of the lot.

That wouldn't have been a big deal to Marks, except that he has been disabled since birth by a neuromuscular condition, a form of muscular dystrophy.

So, as he made his way slowly across the parking lot, Marks made a little deal with himself.

"The quarterback was my client and I decided I was going to tack on an extra $50,000 in his contract because of that guy's meanness. And I did, too. We thought $200,000 would be fair at that time. We went for $250,000 and got it."

In another deal with the same club, Marks arranged for a loan of $30,000 for his client. The team treasurer, unhappy with the arrangement, threatened the agent.

"Pull another one like that again," he snarled, "and I'll throw you out the window."

At that point, the client, a rather large defensive tackle who towered over both the agent and the executive, stood up. "You will," he said, "over my dead body." His immediate safety secured, Marks went about his business.

The moral of these stories? "Don't fool with the agent," Marks said.

Review finances for 1989 planning

If it's nearing January, it must be time for new year's resolutions. Lose weight. Balance the checkbook. Visit your mother. Plan your funeral.

Plan your funeral? According to family finance expert Nancy Granovsky, that's not a morbid resolution.

"Considering what would happen to your family if you or any other wage-earner should die suddenly should be a normal part of an annual review of the family's finances," she said.

Granovsky, a specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A & M University, said January is an ideal time to go through what she calls a "financial contingency day."

"The purpose is simply to review all aspects of your family finances, update needed information and set goals for the coming year," she said.

"Its side benefits are helping you get records organized for tax purposes and having ready the financial information you'd need in case of death, accident or major family crisis."

The specialist suggested several items to consider on a financial contingency agenda:

-Write out a net worth statement. That means listing the value of all your assets, and listing all your debts. The difference between the two is your net worth.

-Plan your financial goals for the next year. Those could include such things as reducing your debt load, saving a certain amount in a college fund for the children, or financing a new car.

-Establish a household budget or revise last year's to reflect new financial goals and/or changes in the family's economic status. If one spouse is going back to work, going from part-time to full time employment or retiring, for example, it will have a great impact on income and expenses.

-Check with your lawyer to have a will drawn up or to see that existing wills are up-to-date. Review how assets and property will be handled in case of death.

-Prepare or review a letter of last instruction. This letter informs survivors of financial matters needing immediate attention and also describes what funeral plans, if any, you have made.

-Re-calculate survivor's income and expenses in case of a death of a wage-earner. Make out a tentative budget for survivors and list all sources of income they can depend upon.

Granovsky said younger couples are often especially reluctant to go through this process, although they may need it the most.

"Young families often have higher debt loads, more dependents and are less likely to have substantial resources to carry survivors through until they can get back on their feet financially," she said.

"That makes some planning all the more important."

Most families won't have to put their contingency plans into action, but going through the process will help them get a grip on their family finances for 1989.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. James Blanchard has a dilemma: Should he cut short his Gator Bowl partying in Florida to hop on a plane for the Rose Bowl?

Blanchard's alma mater, Michigan State, faces Georgia in the Jan. 1 Gator Bowl in Jacksonville. The next day, the Michigan Wolverines take on the University of Southern California in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena.

"I would have to spend all of my time in motion," Blanchard said Wednesday.

"I'm superstitious about sports and I'd feel bad if I wasn't there because I've never seen my team lose in the Rose Bowl," he said. "If I'm there physically I'll feel a little bit better."

Blanchard said he could end up watching the Rose Bowl on television.

"I just want my Michigan friends to know when they're in the Rose Bowl, I'm rooting for them. When they're playing the Spartans, I'm not."

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rocket's center Akeem Oluajun has been sued by a TV news cameraman for unspecified damages for injuries he allegedly received in a scuffle outside the National Basketball Association star's home.

Jim Shipley of KHOU-TV said in the lawsuit he suffered mental and physical harm from the Aug. 30 struggle, during which Oluajun allegedly grabbed a camera from him.

Shipley, who filed the lawsuit Tuesday in state district court, went to Oluajun's home with a reporter to discuss a lawsuit involving a former companion of Oluajun who claimed the player broke a contract to marry her.

"Let him sue," Oluajun said from his hotel room in Denver, where the Rockets played the Denver Nuggets on Tuesday. "It's not important."

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo Bills quarterback Jim Kelly was served with a $1 million lawsuit from a woman who says he assaulted her in a West Seneca restaurant a year ago, according to Kelly's attorney.

Eugenia Lyons, 24, said she suffered neck injuries when the National Football League star threw her to the floor Dec. 20, 1987. In her lawsuit filed Wednesday, she also said Kelly manhandled her after she criticized his recent play.

Kelly's lawyer, Vincent A. Tobia, said Miss Lyons deliberately started an altercation while Kelly was dining with his parents and other guests and was thrown out of the restaurant after she allegedly poured a drink over Kelly's head without provocation.

Kelly says he merely grabbed Miss Lyons' hand and said, "Are you crazy?" after she doused him, Tobia said.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music star Johnny Cash was joking with hospital staff and doing well despite suffering some pulmonary problems after heart surgery, hospital officials said.

Baptist Hospital spokeswoman Aileen Katcher said doctors would not release more specific information about Cash's setback early in the weekend.

"The only thing more I can say is that he had problems with his lungs," she said Tuesday. "The doctor says it doesn't happen to all (bypass) patients, but it's not unusual."

Cash, 56, remained in intensive care following double-bypass surgery Dec. 19.

"He is up and walking around. He's doing well," said another hospital spokeswoman, Debbie Koch. "He was joking with hospital staff and seemed in good spirits."

Cash, known for such songs as "A Boy Named Sue" and "I Walk the Line," was expected to remain hospitalized through the week, doctors said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Engelbert Humperdinck has filed a $50 million-plus libel suit against the National Enquirer, claiming the tabloid held him up to hatred and ridicule when it falsely reported he had AIDS.

The Superior Court suit filed Tuesday by Humperdinck's lawyer, Robert Rotstein, states the singer doesn't have acquired immune deficiency syndrome. Furthermore, it said, he has never tested positive for AIDS.

The National Enquirer, a weekly supermarket tabloid that boasts the largest circulation of any paper in America, said in the headline over the Dec. 27, 1988, story "Engelbert Has AIDS Virus."

"In shocking court papers, the mother of Engelbert Humperdinck's illegitimate daughter declares that the superstar singer is battling the AIDS virus," the Lantana, Fla.-based National Enquirer said.

Kathy Jetter filed papers in New York City's Family Court demanding that Humperdinck, 52, provide for the financial future of her 12-year-old daughter, already ruled by a court to be his daughter.

The woman's unsubstantiated and false claims about the entertainer in a reply affidavit in the case were ultimately dismissed by the New York court, which the tabloid failed to report, Humperdinck's libel suit said.

"The article is libelous on its face, exposing the plaintiff to hatred, contempt, ridicule and obloquy," the suit said, adding there was malice because the tabloid "made the statements with knowledge that they were false or with reckless disregard for their truth or falsity."

The National Enquirer headquarters were closed Tuesday evening and a security guard said no one was available for comment.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan is back on the job and looking good since recovering from surgery to remove his gall bladder two weeks ago.

Brennan, 82, returned to work Tuesday. His condition initially was diagnosed as pneumonia after he was hospitalized Dec. 8 suffering from chills and fever. But doctors later determined he had a non-malignant gall bladder disease.

"He looks great," a court employee who spoke on condition of anonymity said. "He's back on the job and feeling fine."

HONOLULU (AP) — Entertainer Liza Minnelli takes a detour from her U.S. tour with Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr. for a New Year's Eve show on the island of Hawaii, but she says she can't wait to get back to her "rat-packers."

Minnelli, who has won Tony, Oscar, Golden Globe, Grammy and Emmy awards, is the solo headliner at the Hyatt Regency Waikoloa. Davis will be nearby, entertaining at the Hilton Hawaiian Village hotel on Oahu.

The trio will reunite for a performance at the Super Bowl and shows in Tokyo, a tour Minnelli said she was eager to resume.

"It's just great working with friends," she said.

Ask Dr. Lamb

BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: It's ski season and my husband is getting psyched up to make the scene. He is an avid skiing enthusiast. I like to ski, but I don't push it like he does. My concern is that he will do too much. He doesn't realize he is not a kid anymore. That's cute, but it can also be dangerous for a 44-year-old man.

He is not in top physical shape and I have heard that altitude can be dangerous for your heart. Is there any danger of him having a heart attack while skiing? If so, what can he do to help prevent this? He seems to be in good health and is moderately active but has not pursued any organized fitness program. He claims that the exercise will be good for his heart.

DEAR READER: Every year there are people who live at or near sea level and go to the mountains to hunt or to ski. And each year some of them have heart attacks. While exercise is good for the heart, it can also be dangerous when done to excess by people who are not in good physical condition. Altitude makes the heart work harder because of the low oxygen pressure. Combine the altitude with the unusual degree of exertion and you have a dangerous combination. For skiing, add cold to the combination and you have a triple threat.

But you can reduce the risk. The first requirement is to be in good physical condition when you actually go skiing. A fitness program should be started soon enough to be able to exercise at a relatively high level before you go. The next step is to limit your level of physical activity for at least a few days, until you have had a chance for your body to adjust a little bit to the altitude. It takes weeks or months to become more completely acclimated. You can ease into more vigorous skiing over a period of days, but do it gradually. Your heart rate while skiing is a good index of whether you are overdoing it or not. It should not be higher than the rate you note during your regular exercise routine at sea level.

There are lots of questions about exercise-induced heart attacks. If you exercise sensibly, it is most unlikely to happen. I have discussed this question in Special Report 54, Exercise-induced Heart Attacks. I'm sending you a free copy. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER, P.O. Box 19622.

Your risk factors are important, too. If a person's blood pressure or cholesterol levels are too high, additional caution is advisable.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Several of my friends and I are deeply concerned about keeping our cholesterol down. Mine gets too high and I use very little dairy products. I have heard recently that with every glass of cup of tea, the cholesterol goes up. Others say there is only caffeine in tea. I wish I knew as I use lots of tea instead of water.

DEAR READER: Tea does not contain cholesterol. Only animal products contain cholesterol. Tea contains no fat. Saturated fat in some vegetable products stimulates the body to produce cholesterol. Tea does contain caffeine and theobromine, a related drug.

There is controversy about whether coffee increases the level of cholesterol or not. Black, brewed coffee has been implicated in some studies. Instant coffee has not. So I would think drinking tea will not affect your cholesterol, but if you drink a lot of it, you will have many of the problems noted with drinking regular coffee.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

McCarthy, 'Giant' wildcatter, dies at 81

HOUSTON (AP) — Independent oilman Glenn Herbert McCarthy, who became known as "King of the Wildcatters," and whose life was the subject of the best-selling novel "Giant" died one day after his 81st birthday.

McCarthy, one of the world's most successful independent oilmen, died at a Houston nursing condominium Monday night. He moved into the nursing complex after a five-month stay at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital earlier this year for an undisclosed ailment.

His wealth in 1949 was estimated at $200 million from 400 producing oil and gas wells. By his own estimate, he drilled more than 1,000 oil and gas wells, most of them in Texas but others as far away as Egypt and Bolivia.

McCarthy lived in a mansion, surrounded himself with Hollywood celebrities and powerful politicians and his 6.75-carat diamond ring earned him the nickname of "Diamond Glenn." The ring, he had said, was acquired as collateral from a Louisiana gambler.

In an earlier interview, McCarthy said he was dubbed "The King of the Wildcatters" by journalist Ernie Pyle, the renowned war correspondent who was killed in World War II.

He was featured on the cover of Time magazine in the 1950s. In 1965, a 90-proof Kentucky bourbon bearing the label "Glenn McCarthy's Wildcatter" went on the market.

His reputation as a bad boy was enhanced by the best-selling book "Giant" by Edna Ferber and movie of the same title that was based on McCarthy. But he didn't agree with his movie portrait.

Nevertheless, a framed poster of the movie that starred James Dean, Rock Hudson and Elizabeth Taylor hung in his office.

McCarthy owned a 15,000-acre ranch in West Texas and through the years owned cattle, a radio station, two banks, newspapers, chemical companies, steel mills, a motion picture production company, an export-import company, thousands of acres of valuable real estate and the Shell building. He served as chairman of Eastern Airlines and president of the U.S. Petroleum Association.

Among other companies, he owned the McCarthy Oil and Gas Co., the Beaumont Gas Co., the Houston Export Co., the Houston Foreign Trade Co., KXYZ Radio, the McCarthy Chemical Co. and the McCarthy International Tube Co.

McCarthy counted among his friends Sen. Joe McCarthy, Howard Hughes, Frank Sinatra, John Wayne and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In Houston, McCarthy is best remembered for throwing "Houston's biggest party" when he spent more than $1 million to open his $21 million, 18-story Shamrock Hotel on March 17, 1949, amid a trainload of movie stars and Texas socialites.

He had 2,500 shamrocks flown in from Ireland for the opening ceremonies, in which Dorothy Lamour did a live radio show broadcast. He bought every champion at that year's Chicago International Livestock Auction and served the meat at the opening of the Shamrock.

To McCarthy, the Shamrock was more than a hotel. It was a symbol of Houston's emergence as an internationally known city.

"It (the hotel) made us a real city," he said. "I lived in this city when it was a cowtown. I love Houston. I went to school here ... I tried to learn what I could learn, and for that I was trying to pay back for what they helped me do."

Prominent figures such as presidents Dwight Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson stayed at the hotel, as well as MacArthur and Hughes.

The Shamrock, which was sold to the Hilton chain of hotels in 1954, was razed last year after being sold to the nearby Texas Medical Center.

McCarthy quit the Democratic party when his friend, Ronald Reagan, ran for president in 1980. McCarthy knew Reagan before he entered politics.

McCarthy was born Christmas Day 1907 in Beaumont, the son of an itinerant oil field worker. As a boy, he carried drinking water to roughnecks working at the Spindletop oilfields.

McCarthy, at 6-foot-1 and 200 pounds, played running back for Rice Institute, Tulane and Texas A&M College. He was kicked out of A&M for hazing.

He quit college before finishing in order to go into business for himself. At age 23, he eloped and married Faustine Lee, 16, the daughter of wealthy Texas oilman T.P. Lee, who disapproved of the marriage.

McCarthy bought and sold a cleaning business and two filling stations before he struck out on his own in the oil business.

By age 26, he had founded two oil fields, extended a third and become a millionaire. He had his first strike at Anahuac, an oil field where the major oil companies had drilled only dry holes and geologists said there was no oil. But McCarthy drilled deeper until he hit rich oil sand. He earned a profit of $500,000 in 1937 from oil wells where there wasn't supposed to be oil.

By 1945, he had discovered 11 Texas oil fields and drilled wells that extended several others.

In the early 1950s, his luck began running out and he began losing his fortune on West Texas oil wells that didn't produce and because government oil price ceiling reduced his earnings.

Insurance companies that financed McCarthy's oil risks took over most of his investments and in 1952, the federal government gave him the largest private loan it had ever made, $52 million, to cover his debts.

He is survived by his wife, Faustine Lee McCarthy, and four children, Glenna Lee, Leah, Faustine and Glenn McCarthy Jr.

Funeral services are scheduled for Thursday morning at St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Houston.

USAF official accused of taking payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Air Force official has been accused by federal investigators of receiving "payments and other gratuities" in exchange for helping a defense consultant and contractors, according to a report published today.

Victor D. Cohen, deputy assistant Air Force secretary in charge of buying tactical command, control, communications and computer systems, "used his official position" to help consultant William Galvin and his clients, including Unisys Corp., Loral Electronic Systems Division and Cubic Corp., The Washington Post reported.

"Cohen's participation has ranged from providing Galvin's clients with proprietary information to structuring procurements in a manner that eliminates competition," said an affidavit unsealed Tuesday. The document was filed in court last June and was released by a federal magistrate in Hyattsville, Md., in response to a lawsuit by the Post.

"Cohen's assistance to Galvin's clients can clearly be traced to illegal payments and gratuities provided to him by Galvin or the clients," said the affidavit, which was filed to support a search of Cohen's house in Potomac, Md. The affidavit apparently gave no total, but mentions that an earlier investigation of Cohen revealed a $2,500 check from Galvin to Cohen in January 1982.

Cohen's attorney, Seymour Glanzer, did not answer a telephone call to his home late Tuesday night. The Post said Galvin's attorney also was not available for comment.

Prosecutors have said they have evidence that consultants — including some former high-level Reagan administration officials and former high-ranking military men who work for the nation's largest defense contractors — bribed Pentagon officials for information vital to winning contracts worth billions of dollars.

There have been no indictments in the case, which was revealed in June when FBI agents raided more than 40 locations. Those locations included Cohen's home and office, as well as the offices of Galvin and his stepson, Kenneth F. Brooke. Cohen, whose phone was tapped, has been relieved of contracting responsibilities, as have four other Pentagon employees who have been subjects of the more than two-year investigation.

The Cohen affidavit indicates that Cubic President Colvin Wellborn had complained to Galvin that Cohen had "stalled for six months" on providing an acquisition plan.

"Cohen's willingness to assist Cubic in obtaining government contracts can be traced to what is believed to be the receipt of a payment from Cubic," the affidavit said.

Two other affidavits also were released Tuesday in Hyattsville.

One alleged that "investigation of Unisys activities demonstrates that (former Unisys vice president and later company consultant Charles) Gardner and others have sought to corruptly influence congressional legislation on defense programs through payment of monies and gratuities to selected congressmen."

That affidavit concerned the search of the home of Richard Seelmeyer, a former aide to the late Rep. Joseph A. Addabbo, D-N.Y. Seelmeyer, of Berwyn Heights, Md., operated an airplane Unisys used to provide flights for members of Congress.

Charles F.C. Ruff, a Unisys lawyer, told the Post he had "absolutely no knowledge of or any comment about any attempt to corruptly influence or the payment of gratuities to any congressmen."

The affidavit refers to wire-tapped conversations in which "Gardner has made references on several occasions that if Seelmeyer was to talk, he could do a lot of damage, in particular in reference to Congressman (Roy) Dyson's trip to New York in May 1988, in which Seelmeyer apparently had a role in planning."

"I didn't have any role in making that trip," Seelmeyer told the Post. "I knew they were going up there but that was it."

Dyson, D-Md., has denied that there was any impropriety in his trip to New York, during which he visited a Unisys facility.

The third affidavit unsealed Tuesday, the Post said, supported the search of the Rockville, Md., home and office of consultant Bill Sanda, who allegedly worked with consultant William Parkin to provide inside information to Unisys and other defense contractors. Parkin also has been the subject of searches.

A source said in November that Parkin would be among the first people charged in the Pentagon bribery case "unless he comes in and cuts a deal, which he is not going to do."

Parkin has told reporters that he believes he broke no laws in running his Alexandria, Va., consulting business.
