CHOF plans NYC trip to open new cafe

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

A year's worth of planning is complete for the Cowgirl Cafe, a touch of Hereford and its Cowgirl Hall of Fame in New York City, with the restaurants opening planned in January.

A formal grand opening is planned Feb. 12, and Margaret Formby of the CHOF is organizing a trip from Feb. 11-14 for Hereford residents who would like to attend the grand opening.

"The problem is, we need to have our reservations made by next Tuesday (Dec. 20) if people want to take advantage of special air fares," Formby said.

Arrangements have been made with Delta Airlines by Hereford Travel Center for a round-trip fare of $298 if reservations and an $80 non-refundable deposit are made by Tuesday.

After Tuesday, the air fare is the regular price $473 one-way.

Sherry DeLamar, owner-manager of the Cowgirl Cafe, has a big party planned for us on Feb. 11," Formby said. "We want as many people as possible to go and celebrate."

The Cowgirl Cafe will feature traditional Western foods like ribs, steak, chicken, and foods that feature a home state of an honoree that will be featured on the menu.

Each quarter of the restaurant's dining area will showcase memorabilia of a CHOF honoree. There are 90 persons that have been inducted by the CHOF.

DeLamar visited Hereford and the CHOF last June and prepared the meal for the Friday night party during the annual "Rhinstone Roundup."

She began negotiations after the Rhinstone Roundup to feature the CHOF at a new restaurant, her fourth in New York City.

"We signed the final agreement about 10 days ago and we are thrilled with the arrangements," Formby said. "Part of the deal is for Sherry to come back every year to prepare the meal for the Rhinstone Roundup."

Energas food for CSF

Employees of Energas in Hereford show off the food they have collected for Hereford's Christmas Stocking Fund program. Employees of Energas, Southwestern Public Service and Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative are collecting non-perishable staples and other goods to be distributed to needy persons in the Hereford area this year. Donated items may be dropped off at any of the utilities' offices.

CSF has huge 'grocery list'

It takes a sturdy shopping cart to haul the provisions the Christmas Stocking fund traditionally loads in its "food baskets" delivered to some of the community's less fortunate during the holiday season.

Last year's shopping list provides an example of just one area in which donations to the Yule charity are used to address special needs.

A typical shopping list includes 450 pounds each of potatoes, pinto beans and flour, 225 pounds of onions, rice and sugar, 90 pounds of corn meal and 270 boxes of vermicelli.

Added to the list are 45 turkeys, hundreds of cans of various vegetables and soups and quantities of toiletry items that include shampoo, toothpaste, deodorant, aspirin, tissue, laundry and dish soap.

All items are purchased from local merchants, and when the "grocery list" is stacked in a food basket assembly area, it makes quite an array.

The 1988 edition of the Christmas Stocking Fund is in need of the donations of caring and sharing local residents if it is to fill this year's bill of groceries. "The CSF shopping list doesn't stop there, either. Coats, shoes and numerous other items of clothing, especially for children, are provided by CSF to those in need. Blankets, assistance with medical needs and utility bills are also areas in which assistance is extended.

Local residents still have time to help the Christmas Stocking Fund reach the maximum number of the community's needy this holiday. But, the sooner the better in order for the volunteer group to plan the extent of help which can be provided.

Donations to the CSF climbed past the $6,000 mark Tuesday. Donations may be made in person at the offices of The Hereford Brand, 313 Lee, or mailed to CSF, c/o Box 673, Hereford.

Volunteers will deliver the assistance items from CSF on Friday, Dec. 23.

"We're hopeful that Hereford and Deaf Smith County residents will continue to give generously to CSF, as they have in the past," says a CSF spokesman. "A donation to CSF could mean the difference in a holiday of hope for someone with a special need within our community."

Patsy Montana

Featured at the grand opening party, which is open only to Hereford residents and the New York City press, will be Patsy Montana, a CHOF honoree. Montana was the first female country singer to sell a million copies of a record with her "I Want To Be A Cowboy's Sweetheart."

Formby said no other arrangements have been made for the Hereford group during the trip. "Everyone is free to do whatever they want, go sight-seeing, go to Broadway, whatever they would want to do," Formby said.

Formby said final arrangements have not yet been made for hotel rooms, but the cost for rooms will probably be around $200 per night, double occupancy.

"We want to get a hotel in the Manhattan area, near Central Park and within walking distance of the major attractions," Formby said.

Persons who would like to make plane reservations should contact the CHOF at 364-5252.

Ant threatens Super Collider

WASHINGTON (AP) — Researchers who hope to study the fundamental nature of matter with the super collider, a 53-mile underground tunnel to be built beneath Ellis County farmland, may first have to contend with the venomous fire ant, an Energy Department study says.

Fire ants, infamous for chewing through underground cables and sparking electrical outages, have defied scientists' attempts at eradication for 30 years. Now the Energy Department, which has singled out Ellis County farmland for the $4.4 billion high-energy projects, says another look may have to be taken at the insect.

Warranting a special look, said the DOE in a 26-pound, final environmental impact statement, would be the design of electrical facilities and other underground components to prohibit fire ant infestation; construction practices to protect workers from the ant's painful sting; and an environmentally sound pesticide policy.

The impact statement, totaling some 10,000 pages, said the Texas site around Waxahachie is located in an area infested with the imported fire ant and that local residents report it has caused numerous problems with the operation of home and farm equipment.

Texans who commented on the superconducting super collider told the DOE that fire ants "routinely tunnel to water table depths in search of water, chewing their way through underground cables and insulation around wiring en route," the study said.

"Fire ants appear to be attracted to electrical equipment and can cause shorts by chewing through insulation and by crowding into spaces around electrical contacts," the statement said.

The study also noted that information from Texas also described unsuccessful efforts by local utility companies and highway departments in dealing with the ants and the outages they cause.

A Texas Department of Agriculture representative told the Energy Department that management programs were only 80 percent effective. Others who commented said 30 years of study by federal and state agriculture officials still has not yielded an effective method of eradicating the ant, only control procedures.

Fire ants also can pose a potential health risk since their bites are painful and can sometimes lead to other, more serious reactions in humans, the study said.

For most people, a sting results in a postule, accompanied by pain and itching that lasts a week, the study said. For others, medical attention may be needed, especially for a few victims so sensitive to the ants' venom they go into anaphylactic shock.

The final environmental impact statement examined all seven sites that had been in contention for the SSC, incorporating 6,000 pages of comment and letters received after the draft statement was released in August.

PLO/US diplomacy fails

An AP New Analysis By BARRY SCHWEID AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even while denying Yasser Arafat a U.S. visa, the State Department tried through public and private diplomacy to induce the Palestine Liberation Organization to renounce terrorism in all forms and explicitly recognize Israel's right to exist. The prize held out to Arafat was a "substantive dialogue" with the United States, a major step toward U.S. acceptance of the Palestinian leader who only two weeks ago had been condemned by Secretary of State George P. Shultz as an "accessory" to acts of terrorism.

With Arafat already accepted by a number of West European governments, an end to U.S. diplomatic isolation would have strengthened his hand in the Palestinian conflict with Israel and assured him a voice in any Mideast negotiations.

But U.S. officials declared that the special Arafat delivered to the U.N. General Assembly in Geneva on Tuesday failed to meet the three U.S. conditions for U.S. acceptance.

Diplomatic sources said the State Department was so sure that Arafat would satisfy the demands, Shultz had notified Moshe Arad, the Israeli ambassador, on Monday night that if the PLO leader followed through, the United States was prepared to hold the dialogue Arafat had long sought.

Sweden had acted as an intermediary over the past few weeks, relaying the U.S. conditions and receiving in return what was taken as advance word on what Arafat would say.

In the end, though, Charles E. Redman, the State Department spokesman, credited Arafat only with "some interesting and positive developments" and said the PLO leader had failed to meet the U.S. requirements.

These include explicit acceptance of Israel's right to exist and renunciation of terrorism in all forms. The third requirement is approval of U.N. Security Council resolutions affirming that all Middle Eastern states are entitled to live within secure borders.

On the third point, the State Department found some significant movement by Arafat. Last month, the Palestine National Council, the would-be parliament of the PLO, merely said a peace conference could be held under the 1967 and 1973 resolutions.

Still, Redman said, "These issues must be addressed clearly, squarely and without ambiguity. That did not happen."

President-elect Bush said, meanwhile, that his administration will not meet with the PLO based on what Arafat said in Geneva. "We've got to get a much clearer statement of everything," he said.

U.S. policy prohibits negotiations with the PLO, which is committed by covenant to dismantling Israel as a Jewish state. As a result, diplomatic sources said, "pieces of paper" were exchanged through Sweden, a neutralist country which has taken a sympathetic stance toward the PLO and hosted a meeting of a handful of American Jews with Arafat after Shultz barred him from speaking to the General Assembly in New York.

Asked if the State Department had suggested language for Arafat to use in his speech, Redman replied: "What we have done is to respond to requests from third parties, people who said, 'Would you provide us, tell us in specific terms, exactly what your position is, what your conditions are?'"

Bush selects trade rep and agriculture secretary

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President-elect Bush wants Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter to be his agriculture secretary and Samuel Skinner of Illinois to head the Transportation Department, Bush transition sources say.

Yeutter earlier had publicly expressed reticence about taking the agriculture job, but on Tuesday he told reporters, "I've learned never to say never."

In a 1986 interview, Yeutter said he always wanted to be agriculture secretary, but he abandoned that wish when he became caught up in his role as the nation's No. 1 trade representative. President Reagan named him to that post in 1985.

For the Transportation Department job, sources from the Bush presidential transition team said he has chosen Skinner, head of the Regional Transportation Authority in the Chicago area.

if Skinner and Yeutter gave affirmative replies, announcements on the two Cabinet selections could come today or Thursday, one source said.

Skinner could not be reached for comment Tuesday, although his wife, Sue, said, "I assume he probably will be" given the transportation job. "But I don't think it's been totally confirmed with him yet," she said.

Transition sources said Bush and Yeutter were to talk Tuesday evening about the agriculture post, but Yeutter's daughter Kim Yeutter said her father was attending a holiday party at Bush's house Tuesday night and did not expect to have a formal meeting on the Cabinet matter until today. She said they also met on Monday.

WMU Christmas Tea held

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our only son has been going with a young woman for four years. We were never particularly fond of "Marian", but we resigned ourselves to the fact that "George" had the right to choose his friends. We never let him know our feelings, even after he told us they were going to be married.

Soon after George gave us that news he gave us more news that really shocked us. Marian is pregnant. I immediately thought that she had trapped our son on purpose, but I was wrong. Two weeks later he told us that Marian is getting an abortion.

Although neither my husband nor I are terribly fond of Marian, we want that grandchild. I have already spoken to her in the hope that I could talk her out of the abortion, but she refuses to hear of it. She said our son has hit her twice, she never wants to see him again, and she does not want to have his child.

My husband has seen a lawyer. He was told that there is nothing we can do to force this woman to carry the baby to full term. We believe this is very unfair.

Doesn't the father have any rights? What right does this selfish woman have to deprive us of a grandchild? Please answer in the paper at once. Time is short and we need your opinion. --Cleveland

DEAR CLEVE: The lawyer gave your husband correct information. Meanwhile, some would say that you are the one who is selfish and inconsiderate. The next letter expresses an interesting point of view.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a male, 70 years old, and have seen a good bit of this world. I am not writing about a problem, but like many others in your reading audience, I want to speak my piece.

I have never seen a pregnant man nor have I ever heard of a man who became a mother. Therefore, it seems to me that men ought to keep their mouths shut when the subject of abortion is raised.

The woman is the one who has to carry the baby for nine months and give birth. Her voice is the only voice that should be heard on whether or not she wants to do this.

When medical science, in all its wonder, is able to arrange it so that a male can become pregnant and give birth, then men should have something to say about abortion. Until that time, they should just be quiet. --J.V., El Paso.

She wanted to get married. I wasn't ready for the commitment. Finally she became tired of my foot-dragging, as she called it, and we went our separate ways.

Since that time she has written me several letters asking that I return the gifts she had given to me, including the handmade things she had "poured her heart into". In her last letter she included $10 for postage.

My friends have advised me to ignore her request because they say she is simply being punitive and petty. Also, I have not asked her to return the gifts I have her during

Randall takes two games over cold-shooting 'Faces

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Hereford's varsity basketball teams suffered from cold shooting nights and a rash of turnovers as Randall High School swept a pair of District 1-4A games at Whiteface Gym.

The Lady Whitefaces made just 18 of 53 field goals, 34 percent, in a 50-42 loss to the Lady Raiders.

The Whitefaces shot only 31 percent, 20-of-64, from the floor in a 68-56 loss.

"I'm proud of the way we came back," said Hereford girls basketball coach Frank Belcher. "In the two games before this we didn't play very good basketball, but tonight we hustled and got after it a lot better."

"We made as many field goals as they did, but the third quarter made the difference." Hereford had seven turnovers in the third period, as many as they had in the other three quarters combined, as Randall outscored Hereford 15-6.

"Normally we play a pretty good third quarter," Belcher said. "For us to be a good ballclub we have to be consistent, and we only played well in the second and fourth quarters."

Randall led 12-9 at the end of the first quarter and extended its lead to seven, 18-11, early in the second before Hereford went on a 10-2 run, forcing four Randall turnovers, to take a 21-20 lead with 3:45 left in the first half on a Cande Robbins lay-up.

Randall came back to post a 23-21 lead before Shea McGinty tied the score at 23-all with a basket with 43 seconds left in the half.

Hereford posted its last lead of the game, 27-25, with 6:18 to play in the third quarter on a basket by Susan Bell before the rash of turnovers led to Randall outscoring the Lady Whitefaces 11-2 over the rest of the period. The Lady Raiders led 38-29 at the end of the period.

Hereford couldn't get closer than eight points (46-38 on a pair of Brandi Binder free throws with 3:08 to play) the rest of the way.

"Cande and Carmen (Brockman) did a great job on the boards," Belcher said. "We got 14 offensive rebounds, and 16 defensive rebounds."

"I thought we handled their press pretty well, too. It didn't bother us, and we took some good shots. We got the shots we wanted, they just didn't go. Getting those shots is better than not getting them, and we've been there, too."

"I think this is a game we can build from. We didn't play that poorly, and the mistakes we made are mistakes we can correct."

In the boys game, Hereford came back from seven 16-point deficits to close within eight points each time, but the cold shooting night prevented the Whitefaces from making a more-serious run at the Raiders.

"You've got to give them (Randall) credit," said Hereford boys basketball coach Mike Fields. "they shot a real good percentage from the field and didn't miss many (only four of 18) free throws."

"They played pretty smart with the lead. They're a good team, better than we were tonight."

Randall jumped to a 16-5 lead in the first quarter before Hereford closed to 16-9 by the end of the period.

The Herd got within four points, 18-14, on a three-point play by Clint Cotten with 6:30 to go in the half, but couldn't get closer because of the cold shooting.

"I don't know what to do about that," Fields said. "Last Saturday against Seminole we took the same shots and hit 62 percent."

"sometimes you just have nights like we did tonight, and when you do you have to hope your defense will make up for it."

"I just hope the team doesn't get down after losing. We can play, improve and make it into the playoffs if we learn from this loss and keep on playing."

"I really wouldn't be surprised if a team makes it out of this district (into the playoffs) with 4 to 6 losses."

Randall also won the junior varsity games, taking the boys contest 51-47, and the girls game, 50-47 in overtime.

Keith Kelso and Chris Steward led the Hereford JV boys with 8 points each. Donna Grotegut led the Hereford JV girls with 12 points.

Hereford's next action is Friday at Whiteface Gym against Frenship.

Landry makes plans for '89

Hereford's Keith Brown (22) finds an opening in the lane and shoots a jump shot in Tuesday's game against the Randall Raiders at Whiteface Gym. The Herd suffered an off night from the field and lost, 68-56.

Slocum outlines plans for replacing Sherrill at A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M Coach R.C. Slocum wants it in his contract that he gets fired immediately if he is caught cheating.

He also wants good-intentioned Aggie supporters to know they won't be excluded from his bold approach to honesty.

"If you do anything to hurt this university, we'll sue you," Slocum said Tuesday as he outlined his plans for replacing Jackie Sherrill as head coach.

Sherrill resigned Monday amid controversy after a former player charged that Sherrill paid him $4,000 in exchange for his silence concerning alleged rules violations.

Slocum and new athletic director John David Crow emphasized they would not tolerate any violation of NCAA rules.

"I want to reaffirm my commitment to full compliance with the NCAA, Southwest Conference and Texas A&M University regulations in our athletic department," Crow said.

The Aggies already were on NCAA probation for recruiting violations when former player George Smith said he was paid to keep quiet about other alleged recruiting violations.

Smith later recanted his statements but A&M President William H. Mobley has started another internal investigation of the allegations and is reporting to the NCAA.

But Slocum, who has been an Aggie coach for 17 years, plans to move ahead with his own program of playing within the rules.

"I'm committed to being in compliance with the NCAA rules."

Slocum said. "We will absolutely do all that we can to play by the rules. I pledge to Texas A&M that we'll get the job done."

The Aggies slipped to a 7-5 record last season and missed playing in the Cotton Bowl for the first time in four years.

Slocum said the Aggies are behind in recruiting but he hopes the school's popularity will help them catch up.

"The school is so popular that we have a hard time keeping down the number of students that come here," Slocum said. "Football players want to come here for the same reasons other students do."

Mobley shunned any suggestion that Sherrill's resignation was in exchange for more lenient treatment from the NCAA if further violations are discovered.

"We have received no assurances from the NCAA, there has been no agreement," Mobley told a packed news conference.

Mobley said Sherrill, who earned $250,000 per year on a five-year rollover contract, received a $400,000 settlement on his contract.

Other sources said the figure was between $1 million and $1.5 million.

Mobley said he never asked for Sherrill's resignation but agreed with the former coach that it would be in the best interests of the school that he step aside.

Mobley said Sherrill's resignation did not stop the A&M in-house probe of Smith's allegations.

"We're looking at anything that relates to our compliance with NCAA rules," Mobley said.

"But as I've indicated on allgega-

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Tom Landry already is making big plans for next year even though the Dallas Cowboys haven't found a new owner.

"I don't worry about things I can't control," said the Dallas coach. "We'll meet next week, break for Christmas, then come back and re-evaluate everything."

The quarterback position is one are that will be closely studied.

Landry said on Tuesday Steve Pelluer could be the starting quarterback heading into training camp if he plays well against Philadelphia on Sunday.

"Steve seems to be in command of what he is doing," Landry said. "He only made two technical errors against Washington and that's good. I think he will be much improved by next season."

However, Landry said the Cowboys, who ended a 10-game losing streak with a 24-17 victory over Washington, would draft UCLA's Troy Aikman if they got the chance.

"We wouldn't turn down a top quarterback if we had a chance to get him," Landry said. "You can't have too many exceptional players at one position."

Landry also said that the Cowboys will take a long look at rookie Scott Secules, who hasn't played a down this season.

"Scott will be the number one guy we will look at this summer," Landry said. "We want to see what he can do. We like his potential. He is extremely bright. We'll take a hard look at him during the preseason."

Landry said he hoped to play second-string quarterback Kevin Sweeney against Philadelphia on Sunday if possible.

"It's been hard to work Kevin into the games the way Steve has been playing," Landry said.

Landry said he would only keep three quarterbacks next year and there is a question whether veteran Danny White, who has missed most of the season with injury, fits into the plans.

"I'm not sure what Danny's situation is," Landry said. "The only problem with Danny is that he has had trouble healing lately."

Landry said he would converse with veteran defensive lineman Randy White about coming back for one more season.

"Randy and I will sit down after the season after he consults with a doctor about his injured neck," Landry said. "He has been feeling better and had a very good game against Washington."

Landry said he was touched by the fact of his players gave him a game ball for their victory over the Redskins.

"It meant a great deal to me," Landry said. "This hasn't been a fun season. "It shows I have their respect. That's the only thing a coach can ask for. If you have their respect, then they will play hard for you."

Dallas mayor Annette Strauss attended the last part of Landry's press luncheon to tell him how the city appreciated the fact he "never lost the winning spirit."

Landry thanked her, saying "I thought this special presentation meant I was going to get my gold (retirement) watch."

Sanders will return to OSU next year

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders says he's going to do his running next year at Oklahoma State, not in the NFL.

Sanders emphatically denied any intention of trying to enter the NFL draft next season and foresees his senior year with the Cowboys.

The 195-pound Sanders made his position clear Tuesday after being named by the Maxwell Club as the nation's outstanding college football player.

"I'll be at Oklahoma State next year," said Sanders who earlier this month won the Heisman.

"There was a rumor floating around that I was going to the NFL. But I never really had any intentions of entering the draft," Sanders said from Stillwater, Okla. during a telephone conference call.

Sanders said that although he shattered 20 NCAA records in 1988, he looked forward to next season in college as a great challenge.

Healthy attributes of the apple found

The new "buzz" words at parties no longer spring from just political issues, the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, and fashion trends. Words like cholesterol, dietary fiber, potassium and boron have come out of the medical textbooks and into everyday speech.

American consumers are expanding their vocabulary as interest in health and nutrition issues continues to increase. Today, we are acutely aware of the causes of modern-day diseases and ailments and we are looking for prevention if not a cure.

Following is a report on some of the very healthy attributes of the apple.

AROMATHERAPY: THE LATEST IN RELAXATION TECHNIQUES

A good hearty whiff of apple pie or a mug of steamy hot cider may be the answer to all relaxation worries.

Inhalation of certain aromas and relaxation are now linked together by scientific research. Particular food odors and food imagery have a strong potential to be effective in stress reduction.

According to studies conducted by two Yale University researchers, professors Tyler Lorig, Ph.D., and Gary Schwartz, the apple spice fragrance evokes such a calming response in people, it has even been found to prevent anxiety attacks.

Over a five-year period, Lorig and Schwartz conducted tests to measure the physiological reactions to certain fragrances. The apple spice scent was found to have a relaxing and meditative effect on the subject exposed to the scent. "We confirmed that apple spice produces brain activity characteristic of a person in a relaxed-but-awake state with eyes closed," said Lorig.

BORON AND PREVENTING OSTEOPOROSIS

Recently, in a six-month study conducted by nutritionist Forrest H. Neilsen and anatomist Curtiss D. Hunt at Agricultural Research Service's Grand Forks, N.D., Human Nutrition Research Center, a connection was made between the trace element boron and the hardening of bones.

Strong bones are essential for the prevention of osteoporosis, a bone-crushing disease that affects up to 24 million Americans.

A medium-sized apple has 445 mg. of boron. Applesauce contains .279 mg. of boron per 100 ml. and apple juice contains .188 mg. of boron per 100 ml. Although there is no "official" recommended daily intake for boron, the experts recommend a daily intake of 1.5 mg.

FIBER FADS AND FACTS

Interest in dietary fiber can be traced back as far as the ancient physician Hippocrates. His guess concerning the health benefits of fiber is now well on the way to becoming documented by the scientific community.

The medical community is exploring how fiber may actually help reduce one's cholesterol level. A high cholesterol level has been directly linked to cardiovascular disease. And apples, which contain fiber, may be just what the doctor ordered to help prevent a heart attack.

One of the basic forms of fiber is pectin. It is a water-soluble fiber which increases the body's ability to control the absorption of nutrients into the bloodstream. In his bestseller, "The 8-Week Cholesterol Cure," author Robert Kowalski explains that the water-soluble qualities of pectin also contribute to the body's ability to reduce levels of cholesterol by actually grabbing onto the cholesterol and ushering it right out of your system.

One medium-sized apple contains 4.0 grams of dietary fiber. The recommended daily intake is 25-35 grams per day, so an apple a day can provide about 1/7th of the dietary fiber needed.

APPLE JUICE--THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH?

Clean, crisp apples may indirectly have come to the rescue in the ongoing battle against the aging process.

Today, most people determine age by the quality and texture of the skin rather than years on the calendar. Dr. Eugene I. Van Scott, clinical professor of dermatology at Temple University School of Medicine, is currently testing the skin-renewing properties of alpha hydroxy acids.

These non-toxic fruit acids come from common sources, such as the apple. Van Scott took purified alpha hydroxy acids and studied the effects of these acids when applied topically on key areas of the face over a period of time.

Child's development makes a difference

This time of year the magazines are filled with pictures of clean, beautifully dressed, calm, smiling children happily playing with their Christmas toys.

That may be one reason why parents become frustrated or even angry when their children fuss, whine or misbehave during holiday celebrations.

"Young children will respond differently to Christmas activities depending on their age," said Dr. Sarah Anderson, a child development expert and mother of three.

"Parents can save themselves a lot of grief by knowing what is normal and predictable behavior from young children and planning their family activities accordingly," she said.

Anderson, who is a family life specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University, suggested parents consider the following:

-Babies under 12 months can easily feel overwhelmed by too many toys, relatives or foods. Give the baby plenty of rest and time alone with you.

-Toddlers will be loveable and cute, but not too involved in Christmas. Some toddlers will be fearful of strangers, including visiting relatives.

Child-proof your Christmas decorations, since toddlers will want to touch hot lights, pull on electrical cords and handle decorations that arouse their curiosity.

-Two-year-olds will be excited about the lights and decorations. They can't anticipate, so they can't wait to open gifts or eat the cookies and they may throw tantrums to prove it.

Two-year-olds are just as likely to play with the box as the toy inside and since they don't share well yet will often hit and grab toys.

-Three-year-olds will love gifts, both the box and the gift inside. They're more likely to have a sunny disposition on Christmas and be able to play with other children. So getting together with relatives may be easier. However, parents will still want to limit the extent of activities.

Any three-year-old who has been too excited for too long is capable of fighting and acting out.

-Four-year-olds can remember well and anticipate activities. They love the holidays, including parties and events, especially if they're not too long. They can participate in decorating and other simple projects in advance of Christmas. In general they should get along with visiting relatives, but may sometimes be rude and uncooperative when tired or overextended.

-Five-year-olds will show marked improvement in behavior because they are beginning to set their own limits. This is an ideal year to read about Christmas to them. Since they like to help and do things alone, it's also a good year for projects. This may also be the first year for really liking Santa.

Anderson said that wherever a child is developmentally, parents should try to enjoy that stage and let it help determine family activities at holiday time.

Third and fourth longest are the Yangtze River and the Congo River. The Yangtze rises in Tibet and proceeds for 3,100 miles to the East China Sea. The Congo winds 2,718 miles from Zambia through the Congo to the Atlantic.

Tots testing toys

Toys are still being collected at the local Red Cross office and Steven Chevrolet-Oldsmobile for underprivileged Hereford children. The Hereford Toys Program is accepting new and used toys; delivery to area children is set for Dec. 23. The Red Cross is in charge of cleaning and repairing used toys, so those items should be donated well before the

COUNTING THE CASH DAYTON, Ohio (AP) - When you pay the check at a shop or restaurant, the man to blame is James Ritty (1836-1918). Ritty, a restaurant owner, invented the cash register. He got the idea when he traveled to Europe by sea in 1878 and spotted a device for counting the revolutions of the ship's propeller. The following year, he and his brother, John, designed a similar machine to record business transactions.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: My husband prefers to brown-bag it to work but complained that the food on the bottom was always squashed. Now I put his sandwich and dessert in a cardboard or plastic berry basket and turn it upside down in a paper bag. This way I am able to put fresh fruit in his lunch without worrying that it will crunch his sandwich and chips. — Connie P., Orlando, Fla.

SEND A GREAT HINT TO: Heloise P.O. Box 795000 San Antonio, TX 78279

BEAN DIP RECIPE Dear Heloise: Don't throw away leftover pinto beans. They make a delicious bean dip and here is the recipe: 4 cups cooked, mashed pinto beans, 2 cups chopped pasteurized cheese, a dash of hot-pepper sauce, 2 chopped cayenne peppers (depending on how hot you like it), 1 tablespoon chili powder, a dash of powdered garlic and a dash of salt. Mix all ingredients together in a sauce pan and cook on low heat for 10 minutes until bubbling hot. Serve with chips and crackers. — JoAnn Vanderburg, Alexander, Ark.

HANDY SCISSORS Dear Heloise: We keep a pair of sharp scissors in the dish towel drawer to open the plastic bags that food comes in and other supposedly easy-to-open things. — Martha Brown, Perry, Ga.

DEVELOPED EGGS Dear Heloise: Here is what I do when taking deviled eggs to a picnic. I put the whites in a separate container and spoon the yolk mixture into a plastic bag with a self-gripping closure. When ready to eat, I simply snip the bottom corner and squeeze the amount of filling needed into each egg half. — Shirley Smith, San Antonio, Texas

JUST LIKE A PASTRY BAG! You have solved the "How do I keep them from sliding all over the plate?" dilemma. Sure glad you wrote. — Heloise

LEAKING PIE CRUSTS Dear Heloise: After 72 years of living and perhaps thousands of pies, yesterday I had a brainstorm.

I was ready to place my 10-inch, deep-dish blueberry pie on a cookie sheet and was dreading the resulting cleanup. Suddenly I pulled out my pizza pan! There was ample room all around the pie circumference so that the juice would not wind up on the oven floor as it did on a cookie sheet. — Jewell Bender, Shelton, Wash.

FIRST SLOW-COOKER METHOD Dear Heloise: Each time I read something in your column about slow cookers, I want to write and then never take the time to follow through. I think I had one of the first slow cookers, my floor furnace.

For vegetable soup, I cooked the meat for stock the night before. The next morning I added all the vegetables and seasonings and brought them to a boil and then placed the covered pot over the floor furnace pilot light. I also cooked beans and chili this way.

As I was a working mother, this was really a time saver. I was away from home from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day and with the floor furnace kicking off and on, it kept the food cooking just enough so that it was just perfectly cooked, smelling good and steaming hot when I came home from a busy day.

"I'd Rather Read" still paying off

Hereford teachers and librarians said the "I'd Rather Read" program is still paying dividends for Hereford school children. Here, the Ronnie Andrews family gets together for a game of basketball at the Hereford YMCA. The program emphasized reading and other "whole-family" activities during November.

Curry powder makes easy dip

By NANCY BYAL

 Vanilla comes from the vanilla bean, pepper comes from pepper berries, so curry powder must come from a portion of the curry plant, right?
 Nope; there's no curry plant. Curry powder is a blend of at least four spices — coriander, cumin, fenugreek for flavor, and turmeric for color. Some blends contain ginger, cinnamon, cloves, cardamom or pepper as well. Most curry powders are not spicy hot unless the label says so. For more heat, simply add red or black pepper.

HERBED CURRY YOGURT DIP
 1/2 cup plain low-fat yogurt
 1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
 2 tablespoons chili sauce
 2 teaspoons vinegar
 1 teaspoon curry powder
 3/4 teaspoon onion powder
 3/4 teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 Assorted fresh vegetables
 In a small bowl combine yogurt, mayonnaise, chili sauce, vinegar, curry powder, onion powder, thyme, salt and pepper. Cover and refrigerate until serving time. Serve with vegetables. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

drained and flaked. Makes 1 1/4 cups.
 Nutrition information per tablespoon basic dip: 46 cal., 0.5 g pro., 2 g carb., 4 g fat, 4 mg chol., 85 mg sodium.

For best curry and herb flavor in this dip, refrigerate it for several hours to allow the flavors to blend.

Herbed Crab Dip: Prepare dip as above except omit the salt and add one 6-ounce can crabmeat, well
