Ruth McBride awarded Bull Chip

Santa makes annual appearance

A laid-back, trimmed-down "Santa" made his first official appearance of the season at this morning's Fun Breakfast. Santa presented special gifts to John Brooks, Wes Fisher, Darwin McGill, Lupe Chavez and Joe Kerr, and hurled candy canes at the audience. He also was to present $25 in Hereford Bucks to Carey Black, who had mysteriously disappeared a few minutes before Santa arrived.

Ruth McBride received the coveted Bull Chip Award at the Chamber of Commerce "Eat Your Heart Out, Neiman-Marcus" Fun Breakfast at the Hereford Community Center this morning.

McBride, a county resident since the early 1960s, was honored for her work through the years with the Deaf Smith County Museum and as chairman of the recent centennial celebration.

"There's no way I can tell you how much I appreciate this," Mrs. McBride said. "I saw the very best of Deaf Smith County united...everyone worked and donated and cooked...and thousands came...It was a wonderful experience we will never forget."

Speedy Nieman, the award's presenter, told of Mrs. McBride's involvement with the Deaf Smith County Museum, helping in the design and planning of the current museum while serving as a museum director. She has been involved in many other community and church affairs during her years in Hereford.

The breakfast was also highlighted with games, announcements and the annual appearance of Santa Claus. This year, the trimmed-down version of Santa gave the rest of his Slim-Fast to John Brooks; a wrestling championship belt to Mayor Wes Fisher; travel brochures to retiring City Manager Darwin McGill; a how-to-campaign handbook written by Clayton Williams to newly-elected County Commissioner Lupe Chavez; and a roll of duct tape to Joe Kerr.

Co-emcees Charlie Bell and John Stagner led the crowd in "Jingle Bells" and coordinated a version of "The Price Is Right" featuring Hereford merchandise, and a candy cane relay race.

Announcements made at the breakfast included:

--Many Hereford merchants will be open tonight and every Thursday until 9 p.m., with several featuring Thursday night-only specials,

Commissioners accept car bids

The Deaf Smith County commissioners met Wednesday in special session to continue Monday's executive session and to vote on cars for the sheriff's office.

The commissioners voted in open session to purchase two 1991 patrol cars from Stevens Chevrolet of Hereford. The matter was tabled during Monday's meeting of the commissioners' court at the request of Sheriff Joe Brown. Brown checked on the possibility of using shorter wheelbase vehicles to allow more competitive bids, as the wheelbase specifications could not be met by the GMC dealer.

After the findings, the commissioners awarded the bid to Stevens Chevrolet, who submitted the only bid for the vehicles on Monday.

In executive session, the commissioners discussed real estate and no action was taken on the matter.

Lions hear juvenile stats

Lou Serrano, chief juvenile probation officer for Deaf Smith County, reviewed juvenile delinquent statistics when he spoke to members of the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday at the Community Center.

The juvenile probation department received 131 juvenile referrals involving 107 juveniles during 1989. The referrals included 37 criminal mischief and 23 burglary cases to top the list.

Other referrals involved assault(15), theft(12), disorderly conduct(11), vehicle theft(9), sexual assault(5), vandalism(5), run-aways(5), drug offenses(4), alcohol violations(2), and one each for weapons violation and attempted murder.

Serrano said that from 60 to 70 percent of the cases involved substance abuse problems. The average age of juveniles referred to the department in 1989 was 14 years, 8 months.

Of the juveniles referred to the probation department, 72 percent were Hispanic males, 15 percent Hispanic females, 9 percent Anglo males and 4 percent Anglo females. Serrano meets with a county juvenile board which has eight members--with two each representing the school, county and city, and two public appointments.

The department is funded by the state(50%) and the city, school and county fund a third each of the other 50 percent.

UN considers force pact

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - Even though the United States had the votes to pass a U.N. resolution authorizing military force to drive Iraq from Kuwait, Secretary of State James A. Baker III lobbied for it up to the last minute.

The resolution, expected to pass overwhelmingly this afternoon, would authorize an attack if Iraqi troops do not withdraw by Jan. 15, diplomats say.

The only other time the Security Council has sanctioned force was to counter aggression during the Korean War.

Baker was to preside over today's meeting. On Wednesday night, he met with Cuba's foreign minister, Isidoro Malmierca, then with China's top envoy, Qian Qichen.

Both countries have said they would not vote in favor of the measure, though U.S. officials say China was not expected to exercise the veto power it wields as one of five permanent Security Council members.

The resolution remained on track after the United States, presiding over the council this month, delayed a vote Wednesday on whether to deploy U.N. observers to protect Palestinians in Israeli-occupied lands.

Seeking to maintain its alliance with Arab countries opposing Iraq, Washington wants to avoid having to veto or abstain in a vote that would offend Israel.

U.S. officials also wanted to pass the use-of-force resolution before Saturday, when the council presidency passes to Yemen, which has sympathized with Iraq.

The use-of-force resolution is the 12th pertaining to the Persian Gulf crisis to be taken up by the Security Council since Saddam Hussein's troops seized Kuwait on Aug. 2.

Baker's talk Wednesday with Malmierca was the first formal U.S.-Cuban meeting in more than 30 years, although the two countries still lack formal relations.

It also meant Baker has personally consulted all 14 other Security Council members. At least 12 appeared solidly behind the resolution.

With nine votes needed to pass, Cuba, Yemen and China were the holdouts.

Malmierca said after meeting with Baker that he found the resolution "not acceptable."

Baker and Qian refused to answer reporters' questions when they got together at midnight Wednesday at a New York hotel.

China, which had earlier indicated it would support the resolution, shifted position Wednesday when Qian said he would not vote in favor.

Qian's statement was widely viewed as a move to win political concessions from Washington, which imposed sanctions on China after its June 1989 military crackdown on the pro-democracy movement.

In a possibly related development, the Asian Development Bank today granted China a $50 million agricultural loan, its first to the Beijing government since the crackdown on the pro-democracy movement.

The United States is a principal shareholder in the Manila-based bank.

Of the other permanent Security Council members - the United States, the Soviet Union, China, France and Britain - the Soviets have just this week come out strongly behind the use-of-force resolution.

"Either we will build civilized relations between states, a new world order and new policy, or will live by the law of the jungle," Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze told reporters on arriving in New York on Wednesday.

Britain and France were also expected to vote for the resolution.

Of the 15 nations on the Security Council, only Yemen and the Ivory Coast did not send their foreign ministers, making it one of the highest-level such sessions in U.N. history.

The other council members are Canada, Finland, Romania, Malaysia, Zaire and Ethiopia and Colombia.

The use-of-force resolution gives the Baghdad government a final chance to withdraw its troops

High court questions funding

AUSTIN (AP) - A lawyer who defended the state's revamped school finance system before the Texas Supreme Court said he wasn't surprised that some justices sharply questioned it.

"It was 9-0 last time. I didn't anticipate that they were going to just roll over and say everything's great," said Texas Education Agency general counsel Kevin O'Hanlon.

He was referring to the Supreme Court's unanimous 1989 ruling that the finance system was unconstitutional.

The court, which at the time noted differences in funding available to rich and poor school districts, directed the state to change the system. The Legislature passed a reform law this summer, but the measure is being challenged by poor school districts.

"We ... said we don't want a Band-Aid on the system. It sounds to me like the state is saying the best it's good for is an Ace bandage," Justice Lloyd Doggett said during oral arguments on the new system Wednesday.

He said the Supreme Court directed immediate change, and suggested that the state responded with less money than state officials said was needed and with a study committee.

The committee was part of the new law. The measure also raised state taxes to pump $528 million more into public education in the 1990-91 school year, in what officials called the first step toward equity.

Assistant Attorney General Toni Hunter, representing the state, called the new law "far more than a Band-Aid." O'Hanlon said the committee in the law not only study equity but could enforce it.

Attorneys for poor school districts asked the court to rule against the system and provide for an alternative plan in case the Legislature doesn't come up with a better one.

As lawyers made their arguments to the Supreme Court, proceedings were recorded by two still photographers and two TV photographers, in keeping with a new Supreme Court rule allowing cameras in the courtroom.

Supreme Court Clerk John Adams said it is first time he knows of that the court has allowed TV and still camera coverage.

The Supreme Court is hearing the case after State District Judge Scott McCown in September ruled that the system still is unconstitutional.

Noriega tapes cast a shadow

MIAMI (AP) - The case of the Manuel Noriega tapes casts a shadow over freedom of the press even though a federal judge lifted his order blocking their broadcast, a constitutional scholar says.

U.S. District Judge William Hoever brought one legal battle between Noriega and Cable News Network to a close Wednesday when he lifted his 3-week-old order barring CNN from airing tapes of the former dictator's jailhouse phone calls.

Rodney Smolla, head of the Institute of Bill of Rights Law at William and Mary College in Williamsburg, Va., said he was disturbed that the U.S. Supreme Court refused to intervene earlier to throw out the judge's order and that the high court will not get another chance to review the order.

"It died with a whimper and I think it's unfortunate the case ended this way," he said. "It left on the books precedents that cast some doubt on First Amendment protections that many people thought were well settled."

Noriega's attorneys said they will still ask for contempt penalties against CNN for broadcasting excerpts the day after Hoever's ban.

Defense attorney Frank Rubino has requested that all charges against Noriega be dropped on grounds the taping, a dispute over Noriega's legal fees and other alleged government misconduct ruined his chances of a fair trial.

A decision on that request awaits, among other things, the outcome of an FBI investigation into how the tapes were leaked.

The judge lifted his order after he and attorneys reviewed transcripts of seven tapes the network submitted last week.

During Wednesday's hearing, Rubino withdrew his request to stop the broadcasts, saying the only tape that appeared to violate attorney-client privilege already had been broadcast. "It does no good to close the barn door after the horse is out," he said.

Prosecutors also said they had no objection to lifting the ban, again insisting Noriega's rights were never violated by the taping.

Later Wednesday, CNN broadcast portions of the previously aired tape. Spokesman Steve Haworth said the network had no immediate plans to air the others.

Scholars said the possible precedents from the case include allowing prior restraint of news reporting, something most believed to be strictly prohibited by the First Amendment.

"The fact that the Supreme Court has tolerated this gag order for this length of time will unfortunately send a sign to judges and lawyers around the country that a little prior restraint is OK," said Jane Kirtley, head of the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press.

Former chiefs warn against war

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two former U.S. military chiefs are urging President Bush to give sanctions against Iraq more time to work before opting for war, amid new talk of a special session of Congress to deal with the Mideast crisis.

"The question is how much pain we administer and how quickly and whether we do it with the embargo or the use of force," said Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, as Democrats demanded a go-slow approach in the Persian Gulf.

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., the Senate minority leader, said in a statement Wednesday evening the chances were "better than 50-50" for a special session on the gulf crisis, probably before Christmas. He didn't say whether he expected Bush or congressional leaders to call the session.

Dole's statement attracted attention because he put it out after a chat with the president. The White House said no decision had been made on whether to seek a special session, though spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said he expects the subject to be raised again when Bush and congressional leaders meet Friday.

Nunn and Democrats on his panel have voiced growing frustration over what many say is the United States careening inexorably toward war in the Middle East to oust Iraq from Kuwait.

The testimony Wednesday from two former chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff - one who served under President Reagan, the other who worked for President Carter - provided greater impetus to Democratic charges.

Santa's present to Fisher

"Santa" (or not a close facsimile thereof) presents a wrestling championship belt to Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher at this morning's Chamber Fun Breakfast at the Hereford Community Center. The belt's insignia stands for "Deaf Smith County World Heavy Weight Championship Wrestling Association." Fisher was Dick Murdock's celebrity manager at matches held here last week, the first time Fisher saw pro wrestling in person.

PUC approves Bell deal

AUSTIN (AP) - The state's consumer representative in utility cases says she will appeal in court the Public Utility Commission's approval of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s rate settlement.

The PUC on Wednesday adopted the Southwestern Bell settlement 2-1 despite protests from consumer groups that said the deal was a bad one for the average customer.

C. Kingsbery Ottmers, of the Office of Public Utility, said she planned to file a challenge to the PUC's decision in state district court, probably next month.

The proposal was opposed by 110 cities served by the telephone company, the Office of Public Utility and several consumer groups.

Under the settlement, Southwestern Bell promises to freeze basic local rates for four years, give each residential customer an $8.75 credit and upgrade its system, especially in some suburban areas where residents pay long distance charges to call the nearby large city.

Southwestern Bell claims the total benefits to its customers would be $1.2 billion.

But critics of the plan say the figure was really closer to $400 million and that Southwestern Bell's statewide average basic local rate of $9.70 per month for residential customers should be reduced.

They also claimed the company is now overcharging customers about $1 million per day, and that it is making enough money now to install service improvements without the settlement.

Commissioner Jo Campbell voted against Southwestern Bell, saying, "This is really a step backward to bringing Texas into the Information Age, rather than a step forward."

But Chairman Paul Meek said, "I think it is a very fair balance between improving the communications area and giving the ratepayers a break."

Ms. Campbell and the other opponents wanted to lower Southwestern Bell's rates on a temporary basis and send the case back for further hearings. Two examiners for the PUC suggested that Bell's rates should be lowered.

But Commissioner Marta Greytok said Southwestern Bell's plan would usher in a new economic age in Texas. "I see telecommunications as the future oil and gas of Texas," she said.

Ms. Ottmers blasted Mrs. Greytok, saying, "Her philosophy is ... what is good for the industry is good for the consumer."

Don Butler, an attorney representing cities opposed to the proposal, said the commission's decision essentially removes Southwestern Bell from state regulation. "We may as well shut this place down and quit fooling the public."

Ms. Ottmers said customers "should enjoy their $8.75 because that is all they are going to get."

But Southwestern Bell and Bob Rima, PUC general counsel, defended the proposal.

Rima said, "The settlement benefits all customers." He said the commitments by Southwestern Bell "go well beyond what the commission can order."

Bill Free, a Southwestern Bell vice president, said, "Telephone customers across the state are the big winners today." He said the $8.75 rebate could be sent to customers within the next two months.

John Hildreth, director of the Southwest office of Consumers Union, said the proposal would not benefit the average Southwestern Bell customer.

Joe Gunn, president of the Texas AFL-CIO, however, said the improved telephone systems would create jobs.

The plan would also reduce Touchtone rates from $1.25 to 50 cents within four years; lower hookup fees for new customers from $60 to about $38.50; and reduce costs for some elderly customers.

Charges to establish emergency 911 service and WATS and 800 services would also be lowered under the plan.

Lucas looks to heaven

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Henry Lee Lucas, the alleged serial killer who once claimed to have killed nearly 600 people in 26 states, says he's worried about his scheduled execution Monday, but remains confident that "I'll go to Heaven."

Lucas, 54, is scheduled to die by injection before dawn Monday for a 1979 slaying. He maintains his innocence and has recanted his confessions to all the slayings except one - that of his mother.

The one-eyed drifter said Wednesday he believes his execution would be the state's revenge for his false confessions to slayings around Texas and the nation.

"I'm not a mass murderer," Lucas said. "They don't want me to prove I didn't commit the crimes. I think it's the idea the justice system didn't work when I proved it didn't work. I gave law enforcement a black eye."

Lucas was convicted in the slaying of a woman known only as "Orange Socks," which is all she was wearing when her body was found Oct. 31, 1979, next to a culvert near Interstate 35 north of Georgetown.

"I'm worried; I'm not scared," Lucas said in an interview from Texas' death row. "I guess anybody who goes through this is worried. But I'm not scared."

He previously confessed to nearly 600 slayings before he began recanting them and now admits only to one - the beating death of his mother in Tecumseh, Mich., in 1960.

"I'll go to Heaven," Lucas said. "I've been forgiven for that."

Lucas also contends he was in Florida at the time of the Orange Socks slaying and was forced by police to confess.

"I tried to explain," he said of his confessions to police. "The more I tried, the more it became impossible to do. I know what they told me. I only repeated it back to them."

Lucas' attorneys were awaiting the outcome of appeals to halt the execution, which would be the fifth in the state this year and the 38th since Texas resumed capital punishment in 1982.

"We have filed all the papers," said Ginger Rogers, the secretary for Fort Worth attorney Richard Alley. "We still haven't heard. We have filed for several things, including a stay of execution."

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals on Tuesday rejected a claim that the trial court did not have the authority to set Lucas' execution date.

An appeal pending before State District Judge John Carter in Georgetown raises five issues, including one about a 1986 report from Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox that said many homicides attributed to Lucas could not have been committed by him.

Lucas said Wednesday he might have confessed to as many as 4,000 crimes because of threats against him or promises made to him.

"I thought I would be brought back and executed. I didn't know what the deal was," he said. "I don't want to be remembered for these crimes. I didn't do them. The people who did are still on the street."

The Orange Socks conviction is Lucas' only death sentence although he has at least six other life terms, two 75-year sentences and a 60-year term for other Texas convictions. He also is wanted in Florida on three first-degree murder charges for slayings in 1980 and 1981.

"I wonder what it's going to be like," he said of his death. "I think there's another world to go to. Hopefully, I'll make it some day. I'd rather go the right way than the wrong way."

Asked if he was prepared to die, he replied: "Oh yes. You just accept it. If it happens, it happens. If it don't, it don't."

"I guess I've become more calm than I should be. I just more or less say if it comes to that I'll accept it. I can't say I'm emotionally ready. If it happens, I'll just go somewhere else. I'll go to Heaven."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I almost spilled my coffee when I read those letters from couples who shower together. Obviously, many people find the shower a real turn-on. I immediately ditched that column and hope to heaven my husband doesn't ask me where it is. Here's why:

For more than 30 years he has been after me. The man is never satisfied. I am not exaggerating when I say he is a sex maniac.

We have made love -- if you can call it that -- in the bedroom, the living room, the hallway, his study, may sewing room, the dining room, the kitchen, the back porch, the basement, the yard, the car, the driveway, the garage, in a chair, on the couch, on the floor, on the dining room table and under the kitchen sink.

The only place that is my private domain is the bathroom. I made it plain early in our marriage that when I am in there he cannot come in. And now you come along and print all those letters from couples who are getting it on in the shower. Give me a break. Sign this -- X-Hausted in Lorain, Ohio

DEAR LORAIN: When I think of all the letters I receive from women who are married to "dead batteries," it certainly proves that life is unfair.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you really live in the world you give advice about? I doubt it. Your recent statement that good manners can still be found everywhere certainly missed the mark. Courtesy may be a way of life in your office, but try driving to the airport and you will find that it's in very short supply.

Go to any public high school and ask young men to remove their caps in the lunchroom. If you're lucky you may escape with your life. Try being polite in a crowded gift shop when there's a sale. You'll be there when they close the store.

Have you been to a movie, concert or church service lately? Two generations of TV watching has produced adults who think incessant gabbing, laughing, hooting and barking is normal behavior.

Honolulu is the only city I know of where people occasionally stand up on the bus to offer a seat to the elderly or infirm.

While mercy may still fall as the gentle rain, Ann, I have observed that good manners have dried up completely. -- M.G. in Lodi, Calif.

DEAR LODI: I can't dispute a word.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read with pride your recent column in the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel in which you printed the essay, "Do You Remember Who Gave You Your First Break?" The author was Harry Gray, former chairman of United Technologies.

On Mother's Day in 1979 I received a card along with that essay. Harry wrote, "You were the inspiration for this piece." I am his sister.

Harry was six-years-old when our dear mother passed away. She asked me to look after Harry. I cared for, loved and guided him, despite my young years, and always knew that he had great potential. I'm so grateful that the world has recognized his many accomplishments -- all of them achieved on his own.

I am appreciative to you, Ann, for your kind words and am glad that Harry is one of your favorites, because you certainly are one of ours.

I hope you won't think me bold for writing, but I had to let you know how much I appreciate your recognition of my dear brother. -- Gussie Gray Green, Coconut Creek, Fla.

DEAR GUSSIE: I loved your letter, dear, and I'm sure that Harry will, too.

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." ### "Intro to College" course offered Dec. 1 at WTSU

Most graduates remember their "first" college class whether it was history, English, physics or folk dance. But according to Lila Vars, director of admissions at West Texas State University, the very best "first" class selection for any college-bound high school student is "Intro to College," offered Saturday, Dec. 1, on the WTSU campus.

The crash course, designed to benefit both students and their parents, begins at 1:30 p.m. and includes presentations on scholarship opportunities, financial aid, selection of major area of study, career placement, campus activities and residential living.

"Many students enter college academically prepared but without any knowledge of professional services, extracurricular activities or financial opportunities that are available on university campuses," Vars said. "The Intro to College program is designed to provide college-bound students and their parents with information that will help them adjust and get the most out of their college experiences."

Program participants interested in a tour of the WTSU campus will meet at the Activities Center, Room 202, at 1:30 p.m. Registration begins at 2:30 p.m. and will be followed by a series of informational sessions. The program culminates with a 5:30 p.m. dinner.

Cost for "Intro to College" is $10 per person, payable on arrival. Tickets for an evening Lady Buff basketball game will be available to program participants for an additional charge.

For further information or to make reservations, call the WTSU Office of Admissions at 1-656-2020.

DENVER (AP) — Tamara McKinney is ending her competitive career after 13 years on the U.S. ski team.

McKinney, who balanced some tough Olympic failures with the 1983 World Cup overall title, made the announcement Tuesday.

"I've had some big wins and some big losses. I've been able to compete all over the world," she said. "It's time to move on."

Hampered by injuries in recent years, McKinney, 28, won 18 World Cup races in her career, more than any other American.

Officer pins distributed at recent meeting

Seven members of the FHA/HERO club at Hereford High School earned their officer pins recently.

Cathy Rincon, treasurer; Rose Torres, reporter; Jessica Polk, president; Maria Garcia, vice president; Nora Mata, secretary; Oralia Zallar, treasurer and La La Segovia, reporter, earned their pins by participating in club activities, attending meetings and helping in fund raising.

The students have been involved in the homecoming carnival pie throwing and face painting booth, the concession stand for the volleyball games, after school meetings and officer installation.

Currently the club members are making aprons for the K-4 classes. Later in the year, Mrs. Dollar's CVAE home economics classes will study nutrition, safety and sanitation in food service to help them in the work place. They will prepare a skit for the K-4 students.

The FHA/HERO members will use their skills to teach the younger students about nutrition, safety and sanitation. The highlight of the program is helping the youngsters prepare a nutritious snack and then sharing the snack with them. The program will conclude with the presentation of the aprons.

The Sophomore CVAE apparel class is making quite a few books to give to children for gifts. The books are made of fabric and are washable. They are not only fun, but they help the child learn to recognize colors and shapes. The book will also help them buckle, button, snap and tie. The purpose of the book is to make learning interesting.

Lady Whitefaces place seven on All-District volleyball team

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces garnered seven selections to the All-District 1-4A volleyball team as selected by district coaches, including Coach of the Year and Most Valuable Player.

Lady Whiteface coach Brenda Reeh was honored for directing the team to a third straight 20-win season and the 1-4A co-championship with three-time state champion Dumas.

Junior middle hitter Shantel Cornelius was selected as the league's top player after leading the Herd to a 21-8 record and the Regional finals.

Junior setter/hitter Brek Binder was named to the first team with hitters Lori Sanders, a junior, and Robin White, a senior, earning spots on the second team. Defensive specialist Teresa Baker and hitter Jennifer Hicks, both juniors, received honorable mention for the Herd.

"Not one of these kids will take much individual credit for our great season," Reeh said. "Each, however, played a great role in our success. They will all stress how important it was to keep the team number one and personal selfishness out of the gym. This team set a new standard of excellence this year and an example for years to come."

All-District spikers

valuable to a team and we will certainly miss that next year."

Baker was third on the team in service points with 171 and a .907 serving average and fourth with 169 service receptions passed to setter.

"Teresa is probably our most improved player this season," Reeh said. "We played her strictly on defense this year and she handled her duties better than we could have imagined. She showed how exciting defense can be. There were some points when she dug three and four consecutive spikes from the opposition. Nothing takes the steam out of a spiker any faster than having her hits not fall. Baker spoiled a lot of hitters' plans."

Hicks had 81 kills and added 56 service receptions passed to setter.

"Hicks is another player who had to adjust to a defensive position this year," Reeh said. "We used her outside on the strong side so we could take advantage of her power. We would set her inside and let her change the direction of the ball to take the line. She really came on strong near the end of the season and that sure helped us in the playoffs. She learned to set the block so that very little got past our first line of defense without being touched."

Binder quarterbacked the Herd's offense with 1,002 of the team's 1,821 sets and also led the squad with 235 service points with 30 aces, placing 92 percent of Her service attempts in play. On the front row, Binder was second on the team with 145 kills and a .318 percentage.

"Brek also had to adjust to a new position this year," Reeh said. "She's deadly as an outside hitter/setter but because of her great blocking abilities, we moved her to the middle. Lots of athletes wouldn't have adjusted to that added responsibility nearly as easily as Brek did."

"I'm very proud of her for learning how to play a tough position in the middle like she has. She became a real leader for us. Brek ought to be a devastating force next year."

Sanders was the Herd's most accurate server with a .935 average in 233 attempts. She also led the team in service receptions with 294, passing 193 to setter for a .656 average.

"Lori is one of those kids who does her job well over and over again," Reeh said. "She rarely missed her serve and that was a big deal since we had some trouble serving this year. On the net she learned to cut hits back onto the line while she used a cross-court attack approach. She also learned to tip effectively. I cannot recall one time this year when Lori did not have a 100 percent positive attitude and a 100 percent physical effort."

White was the team's second-leading server with 183 points and an .854 average and ranked third with 139 kills.

"Robin was a great outside threat this year," Reeh said. "By the end of the season she was deadly on the line. She could reach and would make contact high on the left side. She also mastered wiping the ball off the blockers and out of bounds."

"Her biggest contribution, which was often overlooked, was her consistently positive attitude. She seldom got frustrated with herself and that helped keep everyone else's attitudes up. I can't recall a bad day for Robin either in practice or in games. That stable attitude is so

Lakers shut down Spurs for 97-80 win

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

The Los Angeles Lakers are going back to basics to get back among the NBA's elite.

After a 1-4 start, their worst in 12 years, the Lakers beat the Midwest Division-leading San Antonio 97-80 on Wednesday night to improve their record to 7-5.

In winning five straight by an average margin of 20 points, the Lakers have held the last two opponents under 90 points. On Wednesday, the high-scoring Spurs shot 33.7 percent from the field.

"We're still trying to get our system right," first-year Lakers coach Mike Dunleavy said. "It's a good sign to start winning at home. Our defense is getting better."

The Spurs beat the Lakers 110-99 in San Antonio in their season opener, but in the rematch at the Forum, the Lakers didn't fold in the second half.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Charlotte 118, Milwaukee 111 in overtime; Golden State 110, Cleveland 108; Detroit 90, New York 83; Miami 97, New Jersey 79; Philadelphia 116, Indiana 106; Chicago 118, Washington 94; Dallas 107, the Los Angeles Clippers 88; and Utah 103, Houston 92. The Hawks-Celtics game at Boston Garden was postponed by a wet court in the second quarter.

Pistons 90, Knicks 83

Detroit won its ninth consecutive game and improved its record to 7-0 at home behind James Edwards' 22 points.

The Pistons handed New York its fourth straight loss and fifth in the last six games by holding the Knicks to 31 second-half points.

Hornets 118, Bucks 111

Charlotte, which didn't lead until the overtime period, got 21 points apiece from J.R. Reid and Rex Chapman and beat Milwaukee for the first time in franchise history.

The Hornets also set a club record with their eighth win in November, the most they've ever recorded in a month. The Bucks had a five-game winning streak snapped.

Warriors 110, Cavaliers 108

Golden State snapped a three-game losing streak as Mitch Richmond scored 24 points and grabbed a rebound away from Cleveland's Larry Nance in the final seconds.

Tim Hardaway had 23 points and 17 assists for the Warriors, while Brad Daugherty scored 35 points, including a short jumper with 47 seconds left that put Golden State ahead 109-108.

Jazz 103, Rockets 92

Karl Malone had 31 points and 13 rebounds as Utah won the 600th game in franchise history, beating Houston.

The Jazz, leading 42-38 at halftime, shot 73 percent (11-for-15) from the field and made 11 of 12 free throws in the third quarter, expanding their lead to 76-61. Jeff Malone scored 10 points in the period.

Bulls 118, Bullets 94

Michael Jordan scored 15 of his 24 points in Chicago's 39-point first quarter against Washington.

The Bulls shot 79 percent in the first quarter, taking a 25-12 lead en route to a 39-26 advantage at the end of the period.

Heat 97, Nets 79

Willie Burton scored only 7 points, but he had 5 points and two steals during a decisive 9-0 third-quarter run by Miami against New Jersey.

With Miami leading only 62-58, Burton led the run that put the Heat ahead 71-58 with 33.9 seconds left in the third period.

76ers 116, Pacers 106

Charles Barkley scored 33 points and Hersey Hawkins added 25 as Philadelphia kept Indiana winless in seven road games.

The victory was the 76ers' eighth in their last 10 games and improved their home record to 7-1.

Mavericks 107, Clippers 88

Rolando Blackman scored 30 points to become Dallas' all-time leading scorer as the Mavericks snapped a three-game losing streak by defeating Los Angeles.

The Clippers, led by Charles Smith with 24 points, shot only 39 percent from the field and remained winless on the road at 0-5. They have not won in 10 games at Reunion Arena since Jan. 22, 1986.

Hawks-Celtics Postponed

Boston was leading Atlanta 37-22 early in the second period when the game was called because of slippery floor conditions.

Unseasonably warm weather in the 70s in Boston caused condensation under the parquet floor at Boston Garden.

Celtics general manager Jan Volk said he was told by Rod Thorn, vice president of NBA operations, that the game would be resumed at the point it stopped.

Agents vow Olson case 'far from over'

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) - The Lisa Olson controversy lives on despite NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue's hope that his punishment of three players and the New England Patriots would end it.

One day after the release of an investigative report on alleged sexual harassment by several players against Olson, a Boston Herald reporter, the players' agents vowed to fight.

Tagliabue handed out $72,500 in fines - $12,500 to Zeke Mowatt, $5,000 each to Michael Timpson and Robert Perryman, and $50,000 to the club.

"If (Tagliabue) thinks this is over - and I know it's what he would like to think - then he is mistaken," Robert Fraley, Mowatt's agent, said in a published report Wednesday. "This thing is far from over."

PATRIOTS

"We will go before whatever forum necessary to see that justice is done here. We are going to look at every reasonable basis to proceed legally in this case."

Robert Fayne, Perryman's agent, said, "We have every intention of vindicating Robert's name. We feel strongly that he was implicated unjustifiably."

Brett Senior, who represents Timpson, said, "Mr. Timpson shall be challenging this erroneous decision by Commissioner Tagliabue, and his name and reputation will be vindicated."

The report came down hard on Patriots general manager Patrick Sullivan, who was cited for not responding quickly to the incident or treating it seriously enough. He refused Wednesday to comment on the incident or the report.

The players have the right to appeal Tagliabue's decision. He announced it Tuesday simultaneous with the release of a 60-page report produced by an investigative team headed by Prof. Philip Heymann of Harvard Law School.

Timpson was the only punished player who commented on the report. He denied involvement in the Sept. 17 incident in the Patriots' locker room.

"I had nothing to do with the issue," he said. "I stick by it."

On Sept. 30, Patriots owner Victor Kiam told Sullivan he was considering suspending him. Tagliabue told Kiam not to take any action relating to Sullivan until the investigation was completed. Since the report was issued, Kiam has not commented on Sullivan's future.

Army-Navy rivalry enters 100th year

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) - It was a century ago that a bunch of cocky Midshipmen challenged the untried West Point Cadets to a game of football.

Navy won that contest, played 100 years ago today. But what grew out of the matchup was one of college football's most illustrious rivalries - a rivalry that starts with Dennis Michie.

Michie, who was born at West Point in 1870, learned football in prep school before entering the academy with the class of 1892. During the summer before his junior year, he met a group of Midshipmen who were itching to play Army in football, probably because they figured it would be no contest.

Although Navy had been playing football since 1879, the sport was slow to gain a foothold at West Point, where the only athletic endeavors on campus were fencing and horseback riding.

But Cadet Michie set out to change all that. Michie (pronounced MIKE-ee) knew a game was out of the question unless Navy issued a formal challenge. The Middies did, and it wasn't very difficult for Michie to convince the Army brass to answer that challenge.

That was the easy part. Now all Michie had to do was form a team from a corps of 271 cadets who didn't know a thing about the game.

That the Cadets now play in a place called Michie Stadium should come as no surprise. Not only did Dennis Michie teach the game to most of that first team's players, he also secured the proper equipment and uniforms for his fledgling team and arranged to pay for half of Navy's travel expenses by getting each member of the Corps of Cadets to allow 52 cents to be charged to their cadet store accounts.

Despite Michie's efforts, and the support of a partisan crowd of 2,000 at the first game, played at West Point, Navy won 24-0 behind the play of Capt. Red Emrich, who scored four touchdowns (worth four points apiece in those days) and kicked two field goals for another four points.

The following November, 17 cadets traveled by train to Annapolis for a rematch. It was the first time any West Point team had gained permission to leave the hill for an athletic event, and the Cadets got their revenge.

Elmer Clark scored three touchdowns and Michie, the team captain, added a third, passed for another and kicked four goals (after touchdowns) as the Cadets evened the series with a 32-16 victory.

A rivalry was born, but Michie didn't live to see all the hoopla he helped create. He coached Army in 1893 but was killed five years later in Cuba during the Spanish-American War.

A century later, the rivalry is nearly even. When they meet Dec. 8 at Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium, Army will be trying to even the series, which Navy leads 42-41-7.

Nebraska nips Spartans

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

Beau Reid, filled with doubts about playing basketball this season at Nebraska didn't have any trouble deciding what to do when he got the ball with 2 seconds remaining against fifth-ranked Michigan State.

"I knew it was a long way out," Reid said, adding that he never thought about passing the ball before making a 23-footer Wednesday night. "I thought it was short when I shot it."

But Reid, a 6-foot-8 guard, was wrong. He got to celebrate the shot of his life and a 71-69 victory.

Two seasons ago, Reid was Nebraska's leading scorer with an 11.9 average. But a torn anterior cruciate ligament that required surgery in July 1989 limited him to just eight games last season, during which he averaged 3 points.

"Deep down in my heart, I believed I would come back," said Reid. "But for a while there (last season), I wasn't sure."

"Deep down in my heart, I believed I would come back," said Reid.

In other games involving ranked teams, it was No. 10 Indiana 70, Notre Dame 67; No. 11 Ohio State 116, Delaware State 67; No. 13 Pitt 82, Siena 80; No. 17 Georgia 124, Western Kentucky 65; and No. 18 Oklahoma 81, Texas A&M 65.

Steve Smith led Michigan State (1-2) with 27 points. Rich King had 13 points to lead Nebraska (3-1). Reid had 8 points.

No. 10 Indiana 70, Notre Dame 67

Pat Graham made four free throws in the final 18 seconds as the Hoosiers held on after rallying from a 12-point second-half deficit.

A 3-point attempt by Elmer Bennett, who scored 18 points, rolled off the rim at the buzzer and left the Irish (2-3) losers in eight of their last 10 games against the Hoosiers (3-1). Daimon Sweet led Notre Dame with 19 points.

Jim Jackson scored a career-high 29 points and the Buckeyes set a team offensive record.

The previous school record for points was set in a 112-89 victory over Butler in 1969 and matched in a 112-80 decision against Ohio University in 1972.

Tom Davis scored 29 points for Delaware State (1-1).

No. 13 Pitt 82, Siena 80
Pitt (3-0) narrowly escaped being upset by Siena (2-2) for the second time in three seasons when Jason Matthews scored four points in the last 79 seconds and Sean Miller added two free throws.

The Panthers took a 79-77 lead with 1:19 left to play when Matthews hit a 3-point shot from the corner. He added one of two foul shots with 31.5 seconds remaining and Miller made both of his with 10 seconds to go.

Bobby Martin led Pitt with 21 points. Siena, which pulled an early-season upset over Pitt two years ago, was led by Marc Brown's 22 points.

No. 17 Georgia 124, W. Kentucky 65
Georgia used runs of 18 and 20 points in its second-best offensive showing ever.

The Bulldogs, who got 21 points from Jody Patton, 20 from Litterial Green and 17 from Rod Cole, scored more only in a 138-91 victory over Arkansas A&M to open the 1967-68 season.

Georgia (3-0) extended its home-court winning streak to 14 games, dating back to a loss to Tennessee in the next-to-last game of the 1988-89 season.

Jack Jennings had 20 points for Western Kentucky (0-2).

No. 18 Oklahoma 81, Texas A&M 65

Kermit Holmes scored 27 points and grabbed 13 rebounds, and the Hoosiers pulled away in the second half to spoil the home debut of new Texas A&M coach Kermit Davis.

Oklahoma (3-1) led 9-1, but the Aggies closed to 15-14. The Sooners increased their lead to 38-30 at halftime and Brent Price's 3-pointer early in the second half gave Oklahoma a 43-32 margin. The Aggies (1-2) were unable to get within 10 points thereafter.

Unranked Teams
Washington State broke an 18-game losing streak behind Neil Derrick's 20 points and Bennie Seltzer's 19 as the Cougars beat BYU-Hawaii 112-81. It was the first time Washington State broke the century mark since 1983, when it beat Idaho State 100-83.

Mothers may not always know best

For practical advice on many matters, women typically turn to their mothers. Mothers can provide endless wisdom—tips on cooking, entertaining and childrearing—based on their many years of personal experience.

There is one subject, however, about which mother may not have all the secrets: pregnancy and childbirth. Times have changed since your mother had you. Today we know more about what is best for pregnant women and we have updated guidelines for mothers-to-be. Here is a summary of recommendations and practices that have changed since your mother's maternity days.

Diet and nutrition: Several decades ago, doctors believed that pregnant women should restrict their weight gain to about 20 pounds. Overeating was strongly discouraged. Today, however, we tell most women to gain between 22 and 27 pounds, and gains of a few pounds more are generally considered acceptable.

Exercise: You may astonish your mother by continuing to visit the health club for your weekly exercise ritual while you are pregnant. Many women today consider regular exercise essential for boosting energy, increasing muscle tone, and improving endurance. Doctors now believe that exercise many have the same benefits for women during pregnancy. You should never push yourself too hard or start exercising for the first time when you are pregnant, however. Discuss a safe workout plan with your doctor.

Labor and delivery facilities: The concept of the birthing room, or labor and delivery room, is one that is probably new since your mother's time. Today many women go through labor and delivery in the same room, a room that is often equipped with the comforts of home. Not long ago, women were routinely moved to a separate hospital room when delivery began.

The new role of dad: Your mother might also be surprised by the new image of dad. Men no longer are expected to sit patiently in the hospital waiting room while their wife goes through birth alone. They now often take on the role of partner and coach throughout the delivery process. Your mother might also find dad doing things after birth, such as changing diapers or feeding baby.

Breast-feeding: After many years of disfavor, breast-feeding is regaining acceptance. Most doctors now encourage women to breast-feed because of the nourishment and mother-infant interaction it provides.

Although mom may be a little behind the times on pregnancy and childbirth practices, she may be your most valuable source of information on the changes that you can expect and how you are likely to feel over the next nine months. After all, she did spend nine months learning it all from you!

Council officers elected

The Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council met recently in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library with members electing new officers.

New officers elected were Maudette Smith, council chairman; Sherrie Blackwell, vice chairman; Delores Brorman, recording secretary; Jewel Hargrave, corresponding secretary; Toni Vaughn, reporter; and Johnnie Messer, treasurer. Smith was voted in as vice chairman for T.E.H.A.

The T.E.H.A. prayer was given and pledges to the United States and Texas flag were repeated.

Mary Beth Messer, a member of Draper Extension Homemakers Club, recited a poem, "My Kitchen Prayer," for the opening exercise.

During the business meeting conducted by Council Chairman Smith, reports were heard from the standing committees. The president of each club gave reports of progress made during the year.

County Extension Agent Beverly Harder extended appreciation to members that helped with the Health Fair and KPAN Cooking School.

The Council will participate in the Westway Bazaar on Dec. 15. Each member should bring a craft or baked item to the Hereford Community Center for the event.

The covered dish luncheon Christmas party is scheduled for Dec. 3.

Visitors welcomed were Mary Beth Messer and Perry Keyes.

Officers elected at meeting

Draper Extension Homemakers Club members met recently in the home of Johnnie Messer and elected new officers for the coming year.

Johnnie Messer was elected president and treasurer; Sherrie Blackwell, vice-president; Tonie Vaughn, secretary and reporter; and Carmen Rickman, council delegate.

Rickman called the meeting to order with members answering roll call with "Best or worst water conservation habit." Messer gave the council and treasurer reports.

Water conservation was discussed by the five members present.

Secret pals will be revealed during the Christmas party to be held in the home of Beth Messer.

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) - Rock star Sting says his Virgin Forest Foundation had collected $1.3 million to help create Brazil's biggest Indian reserve.

Sting said Tuesday he came to Brazil to meet with the foundation's leaders and account for donations raised since the group was founded in 1989.

The foundation seeks to join five national parks to form a 30-million-acre Indian reserve. Sting said the money would also be used for education, health and Indian cultural projects.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Every time I see a dog riding unrestrained in an automobile or the back of a pickup truck it infuriates me. I wonder how many of them would let their children travel like that!

Many years ago my dear standard poodle was asleep on the seat when I was involved in a very minor accident. She was thrown through the windshield. Fortunately, she recovered.

Since that time, no pets ride loose in my car. The best protection would be a carrier used for airplane travel or a harness designed to attach to a car's seat belt.

Pets should be protected in cars just as a child is in a car seat or other passengers are in seat belts. — Caroline Hair, Columbia, S.C.

I totally agree with you! If you love your pet, then make traveling as safe as possible for it. — Heloise

STICKY STAMPS

Dear Heloise: To avoid sticky stamps, the Post Office and others sell an inexpensive stamp-roll dispenser. It's plastic and almost completely sealed, so I never had any trouble with stamps sticking together.

They come out one at a time. — Marsha Kyper, Huntingdon, Pa.

PET PEEVES

Dear Heloise: I'd like to know if other pet owners have trouble with the pull-top can lids that come on some pet foods. I'm no weakling, but I find them very difficult to open and the blade on the electric can opener usually doesn't work very well.

I even broke one blade trying to open a can after the ring broke off. — Ruth Smith, Baltimore, Md.

STRAW BASKET

Dear Heloise: Most people put pretty flower arrangements in baskets, but I use one for a different purpose.

When I receive cards through the year — birthday, anniversary, etc., but not Christmas (too many) — I put them in a pretty wicker basket and keep it on a table. They bring me joy many times over and are wonderful entertainment for visiting young children.

There are some cards I can't part with, so I make bookmarks out of them.

Can dolphins talk?

Since ancient times, the dolphin has been considered a special animal. Research has shown that the friendly, playful dolphin is highly intelligent. Some scientists believe the dolphin to be more intelligent than the chimpanzee.

One of the amazing facts about dolphins is their ability to communicate. Dolphins communicate with each other through a series of noises that sound to us like whistles, squeaks, creaks, chirps and clicks.

Dolphins also make some sounds that are beyond the range of human hearing. They make all their sounds by blowing different amounts of air through their blowholes.

Although dolphins don't talk in the same way as human beings, they can quickly learn commands given in our language and may even understand them. Some bottle-nosed dolphins can even imitate human words.

So the next time you see a dolphin, say, "hi." He may reply!

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.00 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy charge, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.26	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.59	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines-those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.
