Services held for Fluhman boy

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

The search for a Hereford boy lost in a flash flood near Roy, N.M. on Sunday has been temporarily discontinued.

Officials plan to begin search efforts for the body of Caleb Fluhman, 7, once again after the water level of the Canadian River drops.

Memorial services for Caleb, son of Richard and Stella Fluhman of Hereford, were scheduled for 11 a.m. (MST) today at the Holy Family Catholic Church in Roy. The Fluhmans are originally from Roy and were visiting family members there over Memorial Day weekend when the mishap occurred.

Before the accident, Caleb and two other children were using stepping stones to cross the Canadian River, it is learned from family friends. The other children had finished crossing when Caleb went back to retrieve a toy he had dropped.

The child was caught in a sudden wall of water rushing downriver after a heavy rain about 60 miles upstream.

Other family members include his brother, Christopher; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Andres Ebell of Roy and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Fluhman of Mills, N.M.; and a great-grandmother, Iris Bauler of Hereford.

Ball gets max in assault case

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

A jury in Deaf Smith County Court on Wednesday assessed the maximum sentence and fine on a man for his fourth assault conviction.

Alfred Ball, 28, was convicted Tuesday in a jury trial for an assault which occurred on Nov. 4, 1988. During the sentencing segment of the trial on Wednesday, the jury sentenced Ball to one year in the Deaf Smith County Jail and assessed a $2,000 fine. Ball was given the maximum penalty possible for the offense for which he was convicted. Officials continued to prosecute Ball even after the victim expressed a desire to drop charges.

"He's had so many prior problems with assaulting women that we felt we had to do everything we could to put a stop to it," said 22nd District Attorney Roland Saul.

Prosecution of the case was conducted by Assistant District Attorney Mark Adams. Ball was represented by Antonio Belazario of Amarillo.

The incident which led to Ball's conviction involved a dispute between Ball and his girlfriend last November. Reports indicate that Ball became jealous when his girlfriend spoke with another male friend while they were celebrating her birthday in an Amarillo night club.

The assault for which Ball was convicted occurred after the couple returned to Hereford. Testimony indicated that the girlfriend attempted to leave Ball's car during an argument and he pulled her back into the vehicle by her hair. As the fight continued, Ball began hitting the woman.

The girlfriend expressed her desire to drop charges, stating during testimony that she had hit back at Ball. She did admit to the jury that she would not have struck Ball had he not attacked first.

Wright has day in court

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jim Wright, never comfortable on television, talked directly to the House. He waved documents. He held aloft his famous book. He wiped his brow. He spoke an hour and at the end, almost in a mumble, said that he would quit.

Off in the Republican seats sat Newt Gingrich, gaffly from Georgia, Wright's nemesis. When the House stood to applaud Wright, Gingrich rose, too, but didn't clap. Beside him, Republican leader Bob Michel offered a sad shake of his head. He had witnessed a generational change, and he is of the old generation. Gingrich's the new.

Wright's speech was nothing fancy, a detailed point by point rejoinder to the bill of particulars laid out against him by the ethics committee.

He belittled the $3.25 per-copy royalty received on the book that had been sold in wholesale lots to lobbyists. He said his wife, Betty, had earned her $18,000 salary. They had paid for their condominium "per diem," said Wright, irate. He produced someone's affidavit, and put it in the record.

He defended hiring a young man convicted of assaulting a young woman and said he had not inquired into the details of the crime and thought redemption was still a respectable American principle.

The speaker had wanted his day in court before his peers and he had it. By the end, the television networks, with no drama to match this, tuned in.

In Wright's audience was Lloyd Bentsen, who came over from the Senate to be with a Texas colleague; Tony Coelho of California, the Democrats' super fund raiser who stunned his party during the weekend by resigning to avoid going through the same ethics wringer; Bill Gray of Philadelphia, who saw his chance to become the first black to climb into the House leadership endangered by leaked word of an FBI investigation involving his office.

Wife Betty Wright sat in the gallery with jutted chin. The venerated Mo Udall, D-Ariz., just out of the hospital, suffering from Parkinson's disease, took off his glasses, leaned forward to catch Wright's words.

Tom Foley, D-Wash., awesomely popular with both parties, articulate and modern where Wright is old fashioned, a teddybear on television, presided. He is destined to become speaker next week, when Wright leaves.

Bentsen sat mournful, distracted. Coelho had the look of a man relieved. Gray dangled his loafers foot in the aisle, rushed up to Wright when the speech was over, gave him a bearhug.

Before the speech, the Texas Democrats had lunch with Wright, a solemn affair, all said.

In the hours anticipating the speech, David Obey, D-Wis., idly toying with a pocketknife, spoke of the Foley speakership even before it started. "The World War II generation is gone, now," he said.

A House reformer, father of the new ethics rules, Obey glowed over Foley's prospects. "He is a superb detail man, a Soviet scholar," he said.

From the old guard came the voice of Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, who said he had warned back in 1977 that creating a Committee of Standards of Official Conduct - congressmen judging congressmen - would lead to ruin and disarray.

A high school student said to his father one night, "Dad, I've found just the right car I need. It's only seven years old, in good shape, and the owner said he will let me have it for just $600."

"I find myself unable and unwilling to accede to your persuasiveness for such a bauble of extravagance," said the father.

"I don't get it," said the puzzled son.

"That's right," replied the father.

Across the nation, high school and college graduates are getting advice on how to deal with the future. We're reminded of the commencement day audience which was feeling cheerful until the speaker made a frightening remark: "The world is yours."

Sunday's Brand will feature the annual graduation sections on the Hereford High class of 1989.

Thanks to sponsoring merchants and business firms, graduates will have a special record of an important time in their life, along with pictures of all their classmates.

Just for the information of grads, a personnel search firm has listed the ingredients for success. Hard work was No. 1 on the list, coming before leadership, people skills and intelligence.

Even further down on the list of reasons for success were such things as timing, luck, and educational credentials.

While on the subject of graduation, we're reminded of a story told by Dr. Robert Lynn of Louisiana College. A woman told Dr. Lynn that he had spoken at her commencement 15 years earlier and had made a statement that was absolutely wrong.

"What was it?" he asked. "You said we wouldn't remember a single thing you said that night."

The educator was pleased she had retained some bit of wisdom and asked, "What did you remember?"

"I remember you said we wouldn't remember a thing you said."

Some AIDS stays 'silent'

BOSTON (AP) - Some people infected with the AIDS virus may elude screening tests intended to protect blood banks because they produce no telltale antibodies against the lethal virus for years, researchers reported today.

Widely used screening tests cannot see the AIDS virus directly. Instead, they search for antibodies that people produce as part of their natural reaction to infection.

The latest work, however, found that some people produce no antibodies, even though they have been infected for years with HIV, the AIDS virus. Therefore, the AIDS tests are useless against their blood.

In an editorial published in the study in the New England Journal of Medicine, Dr. William A. Haseltine of Boston's Dana-Farber Cancer Institute cautioned that the research "raises the sobering possibility that HIV-1 infections may be transmitted by blood and organ donors who are silently infected."

Dr. David T. Imagawa, who directed the study at the University of California, Los Angeles, agreed that people with such latent infections might pass on the virus. He added that homosexuals "should continue to refrain from donating blood."

However, at the American Association of Blood Banks, Dr. Amoz Chernoff downplayed the importance of the discovery to the nation's blood banks.

Chernoff noted that the study was conducted in homosexual men who had high-risk sexual practices. If such people gave blood, they probably would also be infected with the hepatitis virus, so their blood would be screened out by other tests.

"The relevance of these data to the blood banks is probably negligible," he said, "but this will be followed to make sure it doesn't have an impact."

Study: Welfare mothers may have lower average fertility

NEW YORK (AP) - Women on welfare have fewer children than other women do, despite a popular impression to the contrary, a new study suggests.

"The economic, social and psychological costs of becoming pregnant and having a child while on public assistance are perceived as clearly outweighing the benefits," wrote researcher Mark Rank.

The assistant professor of sociology at Washington University in St. Louis presents his results in the April issue of the American Sociological Review.

Working from a sample of 2,796 Wisconsin households drawn randomly from those receiving welfare benefits, Rank studied fertility among 965 women, ages 18 to 44. He also interviewed 29 women.

Analysis showed that for every 1,000 women in his sample, 45.8 women gave birth per year. That fertility rate is substantially lower than the rates of 75.3 for Wisconsin women in general and 71.1 for the national population in 1980, which corresponds to the time covered by his analysis, Rank said.

In an interview, he said Wisconsin was a likely place to find a potential impact from welfare because its benefits were relatively generous. His report cautioned, however, that the study focused on only one state.

He also noted that the work did not address the question of whether public assistance programs encourage women not on welfare to have a child in order to collect benefits.

Mary Jo Bane, a professor of public policy at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government, said Rank's study "looks to me like a good piece of research, and the findings seem to be plausible."

Bane, who has studied the impact of welfare on families, said previous research gave no reason to believe women on welfare have higher fertility rates. But the finding of a lower rate, at least in Wisconsin, was a surprise, she said.

BABBLING BROOKS

By John Brooks

It's a pleasure to have Hunan back in operation. I love many things in life, and food is obviously among those things. I could divorce myself easier from some foods than I could divorce that thing to whom I was married, but I could never divorce myself from Chinese food.

I'd sooner give up smoking.

One of the best things about Chinese food is the fortune cookie. No other type of food has a fortune hidden inside something. Where would you put it in Mexican food? A taco? Inside a croissant if you're eating cuisine Francais?

Fortunes and fortune cookies are unique, and it's time for the second annual Babbling Brooks fortune cookie for various people in the news today.

Unprecedented openness marks infancy of new Russian Congress

MOSCOW (AP) - The new Congress today began a second week of debate after hearing an ex-Olympian assail the KGB secret police as out of control and Latvia's president propose granting the Soviet republics virtual autonomy.

The inaugural session of the Congress of People's Deputies was to have ended Wednesday, but it appeared the unprecedented open forum would last another week unless presiding officers cut off debate.

President Mikhail S. Gorbachev announced to the Congress late Wednesday that 469 deputies had signed up to speak; just 250 of them had been heard in six days of debate that has been televised live to the nation.

Gorbachev has diplomatically suggested the time allotted each speaker be cut by five minutes, to 10 minutes, but deputies responded with a joint "Nyet!" that resounded through the Kremlin's Palace of Congresses.

The remaining agenda has not been announced, although a speech was expected by Premier Nikolai I. Ryzhkov, who heads the Cabinet, which numerous speakers have blamed for the slow progress toward ending shortages of consumer goods.

Even before the 2,250-member body formally elected Gorbachev president last week, deputies took to the floor to propose radical changes that challenge the political monopoly of the Communists, who have ruled the country since 1917.

On Wednesday, the president of the Latvian republic, Anatoly Gorbunov, proposed constitutional amendments recognizing the 15 Soviet republics as sovereign states governing their own resources and enacting their own laws.

The Congress - the country's first elected body chosen through contested balloting in seven decades - has the power to make constitutional amendments or adopt a new Constitution entirely.

"The U.S.S.R. is a union, a multinational state, formed on the basis of agreement, equal republics, with self-determination of nations," Gorbunov declared. "Only the republics can delegate power to the union."

Such a revision of the power structure is needed "to eradicate the roots of ethnic tension," the Latvian Communist reformer said.

Moscow deputy Yuri Vlasov, who won a weightlifting gold medal in the 1960 Olympics, passionately assailed the KGB secret police.

"The best people of the country were tortured in its basements," he said, asserting that the KGB remains almost uncontrollable, continuing to dominate the lives of all citizens.

Vlasov also criticized Gorbachev's handling of ethnic unrest in Soviet Georgia. Nineteen people were killed in Tbilisi, capital of the southern republic, on April 9 when troops were sent in to break up a pro-independence demonstration.

Gorbachev has said he did not know until afterwards of the decision to use troops against the crowd.

"In no circumstances is it possible to accept that the head of state doesn't know the circumstances of the case," Vlasov said. "Otherwise, what kind of head of state is he?"

Also Wednesday, Boris N. Yeltsin, the immensely popular ousted Moscow Communist Party boss, called on the Congress to wrest power from the party.

The man who lost his influential party post for criticizing the slow pace of reform, said too much power is accumulating in the presidency and that could lead to revival of a dictatorship.

He blamed Gorbachev and the entrenched party elite for the country's continuing economic decline and suggested the president - Gorbachev - submit to an annual nationwide referendum on his performance.

Yeltsin also demonstrated his appeal to the masses by proposing Congress grant free medicine and mass transit to invalids and the poor.

He called for the passage of a single social issue before adjourning and suggested privileges for the elite be abolished.

Yeltsin won 90 percent of the vote to gain election to the Congress.

'Voyage of the Damned' anniversary remembered

NORTH MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - The partying aboard the cruise ship St. Louis stopped when Cuba and the United States refused to allow 937 Jews fleeing Germany to land and start a life beyond the grip of Nazi persecution.

To commemorate the "Voyage of the Damned" 50 years later, Herbert Karliner has tracked down about 70 fellow survivors.

Organizers of the anniversary plan to sink the remains of Adolf Hitler's yacht, the Ostwind, off Miami Beach on Sunday as an artificial reef. The Ostwind has been decaying in Jacksonville for decades as various owners have considered plans to restore it.

North Miami home. "The crossing was wonderful. We were very excited to be out of Germany."

But the St. Louis would dock in Havana harbor before most of the passengers learned their travel papers had been voided. Twenty-two passengers who obtained their documents from the Cuban consulate in Italy would be allowed to land. But no one else.

"There was near panic when we were still in the harbor," said Liesl Loeb, daughter of the chairman of the passenger committee.

An attorney jumped overboard and remained in a Cuban hospital as the St. Louis set sail again while the passengers, led by Ms. Loeb's father,

"The message they sent to Hitler was we view the Jewish issue as a side issue to world peace. Were they wrong," said Rabbi Abraham Cooper, associate dean of the Simon Weisenthal Center for Holocaust.

The yacht Florida Princess will carry about 25 St. Louis passengers on Sunday to the approximate point where the St. Louis was shooed away by the U.S. Coast Guard on June 4, 1939. But this time, the travelers will receive a Coast Guard escort before docking in Miami Beach.

"We must have been very close because I could see the palm trees," said Karliner, a retired baker who was 12 at the time.

Telegrams from the ship to President Roosevelt and other world leaders went unanswered as the passengers tried desperately to find refuge. The ship received orders to return to Germany - events dramatized in the 1975 movie "Voyage of the Damned" starring Faye Dunaway and Max von Sydow.

Two days from a German port, agreement was reached to split the passengers among England, France, Netherlands and Belgium, but most who returned to Europe would die in concentration camps.

"We knew what the situation was in Europe for the Jewish population," Karliner said in an interview at his bargained for their future.

"These men worked day and night. I don't think my father slept one full night in our cabin after the crisis began," said Ms. Loeb, a graphic designer in suburban Philadelphia who celebrated her 11th birthday on the voyage.

About three-quarters of the passengers were on an immigration quota system to enter the United States from three months to three years later, said Rabbi Simcha Freedman of Miami Beach, who researched the cruise in conjunction with the anniversary.

"The message they sent to Hitler was we view the Jewish issue as a side issue to world peace. Were they ever wrong," said Rabbi Abraham Cooper, associate dean of the Simon Weisenthal Center for Holocaust Studies.

Karliner, who survived the war working on a French farm under a false name, was bitter about U.S. treatment of St. Louis passengers but emigrated with his brother in 1947.

"Where else? France treated us also very badly. A lot of people were so pro-Nazi at the time," he said. "I felt first of all that the U.S. is the only country where there is really democracy."

Tech hosts National Cowboy Symposium

More than 100 poets, musicians, singers, storytellers, panel members and scholarly paper presenters are scheduled to participate in a National Cowboy Symposium and Celebration at Texas Tech University Friday through Sunday.

Speakers will address topics ranging from cowboy lawmen and black cowboys to cowboy museums and cowboy poetry musical history. In addition to featuring literary sessions, the symposium also will include exhibits and activities such as a book fair, arts and crafts, gear and trappings, music, cutting and roping.

Registration starts Friday at Tech's University Center and the opening session begins at 10 a.m. with featured speakers appearing until noon. Concurrent sessions on poetry, songs, stories, papers and panels will be held from 1 to 6 p.m. Other featured musicians and poets will perform from 8 to 10 p.m.

Several Hereford people will take part in the unique event. Margaret Formby, president of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, will serve as moderator Friday for a panel on cowgirls and western women. Melvin Whipple of Hereford will join other cowboy poets in reading some poems Friday afternoon.

The Walkers, a musical group from Hereford, will participate in musical presentations Friday afternoon and night.

About 4,000 to 6,000 people are expected to attend the symposium, said Ken Davis, co-chairman of the event. "The response to this has been amazing," he said.

The performers will include rodeo cowboys such as Toots Mansfield and Jim Shoulders, artists Tom Ryan and Gary Morton, musicians Red Steagall and Don Edwards, cartoonist Ace Reid and western writers Elmer Kelton, John Ericson and Marguerite Noble.

The symposium is part of a recent revival of the American art form that has been virtually ignored

The exhibits and book fair will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday will follow the same schedule but a barbecue and tour will be offered from noon to 2 p.m. at the Ranching Heritage Center. Sunday's session will start at 2 p.m. with the exhibits, book fair and concurrent sessions scheduled until 5 p.m. From 2 to 4 p.m. the celebrity cutting and team roping events will take place at the fair grounds.

Sponsors include Wrangler, Rodeo Video Inc., Luskey's Western Wear, Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, Ranching Heritage Assn., and Texas Tech.

Local Roundup

Police investigate theft

Approximately $500 worth of meat and other food was stolen from a restaurant in the 1000 block of East U.S. Highway 60. Although no forced entry was apparent at the building, it is believed that the theft occurred sometime Tuesday night.

Other incidents investigated by the Hereford Police Department were: A prowler reported in the 200 block of Northwest Drive; a civil dispute reported in the 400 block of 13th St.; theft of an automobile reported in the 200 block of Harrah with officers later discovering that the car had been repossessed;

A disturbance involving juveniles reported in the 100 block of Ave. D; theft of a purse, taken last January at Tierra Blanca School, reported in the 200 block of W. Gracy; and a civil dispute with criminal mischief reported in the 400 block of 13th Street.

City police issued eight citations and investigated two minor accidents.

Five persons arrested

Hereford police officers arrested a 29-year-old male for no liability insurance and no driver's license.

Arrests made by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office were: A 16-year-old male arrested on a commitment for perjury; a 24-year-old male arrested on a commitment for assault; a 23-year-old male arrested on a commitment for unlawfully carrying a weapon; and a 25-year-old male arrested on a commitment for violation of probation.

Cholesterol-lowering drugs a second line of defense

The war against cholesterol wages on, and recent advancements in the development of cholesterol lowering drugs offer new potential in the fight against heart disease—as a second line of defense.

The AHA recognizes that new cholesterol lowering drugs offer new potential in the management of cardiovascular diseases. However, these drugs are usually administered to high-risk patients with cholesterol levels above 300 milligrams per deciliter and only after a cholesterol lowering diet regimen has been tried to reduce the patient's blood cholesterol levels. And a cholesterol lowering diet would still be needed even if drug treatment became necessary.

Another consideration of using cholesterol lowering drugs is that none of the drugs are without side effects, some more severe than others. Long-term effects of some of the drugs are not known and require further study.

Cholesterol is the fat-like substance carried in the blood which comes from two sources. Blood cholesterol is produced by the liver, while dietary cholesterol is found in foods primarily from animals. Egg yolks, meat, fish, poultry and whole milk dairy products such as ice cream and cheese are examples of these foods.

While a certain amount of cholesterol is necessary for the body to produce hormones and cells, excess amounts of cholesterol can build up in the inner lining of blood vessels like rust in water pipes and, over time, close these vessels. The narrowing of blood vessels, called atherosclerosis, keeps oxygen-carrying blood from getting to the heart. The result can be a heart attack, and the results can be devastating.

Since 1961, the American Heart Association has recommended a low cholesterol, low saturated fat diet for healthy American adults. The AHA dietary guidelines are still the first line of defense against high blood cholesterol levels along with a weight reduction program monitored by a physician.

More than 50 percent of middle-aged Americans have cholesterol levels 200 mg/dl and above which places them in an "area" or "zone" where the risk of heart disease increases. The important thing is to know your cholesterol numbers and have those numbers interpreted by a physician to determine if medical care is required. Other risk factors, like smoking, high blood pressure and family history, should be noted when your doctor is trying to determine your risk factor profile.

Cholesterol lowering drugs are not a panacea for curing heart disease. But they can be effective in helping those people with high blood cholesterol levels that can't be controlled by diet and weight reduction alone.

Recital of Hacker Studio's piano students held

Students who had made three consecutive superiors in the Music Festival received Gold Cups and 'Superior 3' pins to wear. Recipients were Kristen Williamson, Krista West, Robert Reinauer, Stephen Cloud, and Cassidy Walden.

Those who received awards for more than three consecutive superiors were Camille Betzen, Lauren Caviness and Lori Wilburn with four and Greg Coplen with seven.

Betzen will be going to the state contest with her UIL solo. Lee Harder will get her photo in Piano Guild Notes Magazine for playing 10 pieces each year for five years.

Other students performing solos and duets in the first group were Cindy Harder, Jace West, Christi Euler, Cheri Euler, Karon Harder, Brooke and Beth Weatherly, Brenna and Bri Reinauer, Melissa Cloud, Stacy Culpepper, and Donna Grotgut. Monica Grotgut also played an organ solo.

Playing in the second group were: Johnathan and Annie Keenan, Laurie Gilbert, Brent Carlson, Rachel and Miriam Wilks, Jamie Marquez, Annie Hoffman, and Deanna McCracken.

Steve Gilbert played a duet with his daughter, Laurie. Shirley Carlson played a duet with her son, Brent.

Playing in the third group were: Suzanne Baca, Julie and Janae Schlabs, Kimberly Scott, Lina Baddour, Jason, Kristin, and Daniel Carnahan, Nicole and John McWhorter, Michelle Chand, Jana Baird, and Larissa Kleuskens.

Draper gives program

Argen Draper presented a program entitled "Presidents' Wives" when members of the Hereford Past Matrons Club met Tuesday evening in the home of Audrey Rusher. Dottie Darden served as co-hostess.

Draper gave biographies of the First Ladies of the White House from Martha Washington to Barbara Bush. President Clara Brown presided over the business meeting which was closed with a prayer led by Chaplain Dorothy Noland. Members sang "May the Good-Lord Bless and Keep You."

The next meeting was planned as a picnic July 31 in the home of Clara Brown.

Refreshments were served to Brown, Beverly Brooke, Draper, Ludie Greeson, Beatrice Hutson, Etoile Manning, Beatrice Noland, Dorothy Noland, and Katie Price.

WINDERMERE, England (AP) - Picturesque Lake Windermere, which inspired poets William Wordsworth, Robert Southey and Samuel Coleridge, is this country's largest lake.

Located in the northwest, it covers almost six square miles and is from 30 to more than 200 feet deep. Wooded hills rise to 1,000 feet around the lake, blending with distant mountains to the north and west.

Thousands of people come each year to visit Windermere and the surrounding Lake District.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: At work and at home, we talk about what is wrong with the United States. We have judges in prison who are still paid $80,000 a year. We have people on welfare who have no intention of going to work. We sentence first offenders to life in prison for killing someone in an automobile accident, yet drug peddlers pay $1 million in bail and flee the country or get released because some clerk neglected to sign the form in the proper place.

We say we need more taxes when we know perfectly well that many of the super rich pay no taxes. We buy weapons systems that are obsolete. How can one plane cost $450 million? Our defense contractors have been caught ripping off the government and what happens? They pay fines that are like an ounce off an elephant and everybody looks the other way.

We have hungry and homeless people in every major city, but we continue to send billions in aid to other countries.

Don't get me wrong, Ann. I love the United States and I wouldn't live anywhere else, but I sure do see a lot of things that need fixing.

I realize my letter is probably too long for your column, but my question is, what would you do? We all talk about what's wrong, but we never do anything because we don't know where to begin.

I'm signing my name, but just call me -- Concerned in Louisiana beginning to think that he is a cheapskate who has been using me. I would like to know your opinion of this situation, Ann. No name please, just sign me—Frustrated in Philadelphia

DEAR FRUSTRATED: I hope you want an honest opinion because that's what you're going to get.

Roberson reunion held

Descendants of the pioneer families of T.W. Roberson and his sons, Jesse P., John B., Charles C., B.C. and Dick, gathered for a family reunion May 28 at the American Legion Hall.

Visiting and reviewing family history books and pictures brought by family members was featured. A covered dish luncheon was held and group pictures made by members present.

Out-of-town guests attending were C.E. "Squeaky" Roberson of El Paso; Lillian Smith of Amarillo; Hugh and Laska Roberson and Roger and Donnabell Roberson, all of Lubbock; Deward and Ruth Roberson of Truth or Consequences, N.M.; Louise Roberson, Marie Rogers, Nicole and Mitzi McQuary and Donny, Vikki and Tamara Betts, all of Summerfield.

Hereford residents attending were Madge Roberson, Bernard and Opal Roberson, James and Donna Smith, and L.J. and Wilma Clark.

The next reunion has been scheduled for May, 1991.

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) - A prosecutor said charges won't be filed against actor Timothy Bottoms, who was booked after a motorist told authorities that the actor confronted him with a gun.

"He did have a gun, but he didn't display it in a rude, angry or threatening manner as required," said Deputy District Attorney Don Grant.

Bottoms was booked for investigation of brandishing a gun on a road, a felony, and carrying a loaded weapon, a misdemeanor, after the motorist told the California Highway Patrol he was confronted by the actor on U.S. 101 on May 10.

Road to state is through Leander

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

With a trip to the state baseball tournament in Austin on the line, the second ranked Hereford Whitefaces will meet the Leander Lions in a one-game winner-take-all, loser-take-a-long-bus ride-home quarterfinal playoff at 8 p.m. Friday at Hunter Field in Abilene.

The Whitefaces come into the game at 25-2-1, fresh off their two-game sweep of Brownwood in the regional round of the playoffs and riding a 19 game winning streak.

District 8-4A Leander, with a 25-5 record, advanced to the quarterfinals by beating Lubbock Estacado in three games on the Hunter Field grass. The Lions beat Granbury in bi-district and Crowley in the area round before facing the Matadors.

"They're a real solid team," Herd coach T.R. Sartor said of the Lions. "They're an all-senior team. They hit the ball hard and play solid defense."

"We're going to have to play our best to win."

Cotten an All-Star

Clint Cotten has been selected to play in the Texas High School Baseball Coaches Association All-Star Game in Houston, HHS baseball coach T.R. Sartor announced Wednesday.

The senior center fielder was one of 40 players chosen by TH-SBCCA directors to participate in the game, which will be played at 4 p.m. July 26 in the Astrodome. The contest will precede a game between the Houston Astros and the Philadelphia Phillies.

Cotten, who will play for the North squad, has a batting average of .430 with two home runs and 29 RBI through 28 games this season. He has a team-high 14 doubles and a 7-0 pitching record for the Herd.

"This is a real honor for us to have someone chosen to play in this game," Sartor said.

Cotten becomes the second Whiteface to play in the game. Former Herd center fielder Rodney McCracken took part in last year's contest.

Cotten is the third HHS athlete selected for all-star competition this year, joining classmates Joe Medrano and Bryan Watts, who will play in the Greenbelt Bowl football game in Childress in August.

shortstop or third base, and Andy Stamos.

Baggett said he had not decided Wednesday whether to start Cox or Ritz on the mound.

"They've both been throwing real well all week," he said of the senior right-handers. "They're pretty much equal right now.

"I'm going to have to go home and think long and hard about (who to start). They're both capable of doing the job and both are pretty anxious for me to make a decision."

Cox has a 12-3 record for the year including a victory over Estacado in Game 1 of that series. Sartor said scouting reports indicate Cox has velocity similar to the Herd's Jason Scott.

Ritz, at 7-1, suffered his only loss of the year in Game 2 with the Matadors even though he allowed only three runs in the game.

Even though he has not picked a starter yet, Baggett said he would not hesitate to substitute one for the other.

The Lions depend on Cox and Ritz at the plate as well. Baggett said Cox leads the team with a batting average of about .430 while Ritz has provide most of the RBI from the clean-up spot.

Kirkpatrick has also hit near the .430 mark for the year and Martinez and Barreck are in the mid .300 range, Baggett said.

Leander will use Trey Maxwell from time to time as a designated hitter. Baggett said his spot in the order depends on how well the starters are hitting.

Like Hereford, the Lions are a mostly senior team with Pruitt being the only junior in the regular line up. He will start at third or shortstop depending on which pitcher is given the starting nod.

As for the Whitefaces, Sartor said he would go with the same starting nine with Scott, at 14-0, on the hill.

"We feel like we can put Jason on the mound and our regular defense behind him and match up with anybody," Sartor said.

"We'll make a couple of changes in the batting order, but it won't be anything major."

Hereford has been led in it's three playoff games by right fielder Keith Brown and center fielder Clint Cotten. Brown is leading the Herd in batting over that span with a .625 average, one home run and three RBI. Cotten has hit an even .600 with one homer and seven RBI.

Pistons take series lead with 94-85 win

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) - In the special language of the NBA, the Microwave shorted out Air Jordan's landing lights.

Vinnie Johnson scored 16 of his 22 points in the fourth quarter Wednesday night as the Detroit Pistons, who trailed by as many as 10 points in the first half, beat the Chicago Bulls 94-85 to take a 3-2 lead in the Eastern Conference finals.

The best-of-7 NBA series continues Friday night in Chicago and Game 7, if needed, would be Sunday afternoon back at The Palace.

Detroit's swarming defense held Chicago's Michael Jordan, who averaged 27.7 against the Pistons in the regular season, to just eight shots and 18 points.

"You have to take what the defense gives you," Jordan said. "If I didn't feel comfortable driving to the hole, I didn't do it. I'm not going to force an issue if it's not there."

In Game 1, also at The Palace, the incredible Jordan scored 32 points as the Bulls shocked Detroit with a 94-88 defeat, stealing away the Pistons' home-court advantage. In Game 3 at Chicago, he floated and soared for 46 points as the Bulls overcame a 14-point deficit down the stretch to beat Detroit 99-97.

"You want to get the ball out of his hands as much as possible," said Detroit guard Joe Dumars, one of several assigned to shadow Jordan. "He's an unselfish player. If he's not open, he'll pass it."

The Pistons, despite hitting their first two shots, hit only 27.3 percent in the first quarter and finished the game shooting 48.8 percent. The Bulls hit 49.2 percent of their shots.

It was two spurts, one by Mark Aguirre and a crunch time burst by Johnson, that proved the difference.

Aguirre scored 11 of his 19 points in the final 4:41 of the second quarter as Detroit got the Chicago lead down to 45-41 at halftime.

"He's capable of doing that," said Detroit guard Isiah Thomas, who has known Aguirre since their boyhood days on the Chicago playgrounds. "We've got to find a way of getting more of that out of him."

Then Johnson suddenly heated up and the Pistons, with both Aguirre and Isiah Thomas sitting on the bench all but one minute of the fourth quarter, steadily pulled away.

"That's why they call him the Microwave," Jordan said. "Vinnie Johnson got hot and carried them down the stretch. Vinnie got hot and no matter what you did - get a hand in his face or what - he still got the shot off and he made it."

Jordan said he couldn't remember a game in which he took so few shots.

"I was moving the ball, trying to get other people involved," Jordan said. "I was creating and passing off. I knew they were going to throw two and three guys at me, so I wanted to get other guys involved."

The most involved was Craig Hodges whose 19 points included five 3-pointers, three in final quarter. Bill Cartwright had 16 points for Chicago, but only six in the second half.

With Jordan not able to get a shot, the rest of the Bulls offense suffered. Chicago got off only 59 shots, a record low for playoff games, shaving two off the old mark set May 3, 1984, by New Jersey against Milwaukee.

Kemper 'matures'

POTOMAC, Md. (AP) - Like good wine, a golf course should never be used before it has fully matured.

Now in its third year as the site of the Kemper Open, the TPC at Avenel is finally receiving compliments from many of the touring pros. Even Tom Kite, who won the event in 1987 and finished second last year, said the course was used way ahead of its time.

"I think everybody would agree that we probably played the course a year too early, maybe two years too early," Kite said Wednesday. "But it's in wonderful shape right now."

Kite, defending champion Morris Hatafsky and 154 other players will be vying for the top prize in the $900,000 tournament that was to begin this morning. The 6,917-yard stadium-style course has been revamped and improved since its 1987 debut, when Greg Norman suggested that groundskeepers "blow up" the ninth hole.

Norman has yet to return, but he did get his wish - workers have all but destroyed the troublesome No. 9.

Lanny Wadkins aided the demolition team, helping redesign the par-3 hole so that, in his words, "a guy no longer has to go for the perfect shot."

Thirty feet has been removed from the back of the green and 15 feet has been added in front. The new green is slightly banked from back to front, making it more receptive to the shot.

A series of rocks that guarded the green in front and to the right has been transformed into a pair of small ponds, dubbed "Lanny's Lakes."

That, plus minor changes on virtually every hole, led Hatafsky to declare, "The course has come a long way in its growth and maturity."

Said Kite: "If we were playing this golf course for the first time, the reviews would be quite a bit different than they were two years ago, when the course was not ready for us."

Joey Sindelar, who shot a 5-under-par 66 Wednesday in the Pro-Am, said, "Everything seems slightly more mature and fuller, especially around the fringe and way out in the roughs."

Not everyone is entirely pleased with the course. Many of the completers object to the stadium-style concept, where a premium is placed on accuracy and longball hitters often are forced to leave their drivers in their bags.

The tournament had been played on the lengthy Congressional golf course, which suited the hard-hitting Craig Stadler perfectly. Not so with Avenel.

"I don't really care for this golf course," Stadler said. "I'd much rather be across the street (at Congressional), but I did pretty well here last year so I figured I'd give it another shot."

Dodgers KO Expos, 9-4

By RICK WARNER
AP Sports Writer

Montreal got the knockdown, but Los Angeles scored the knockout.

Expos pitcher Pascual Perez triggered a bench-clearing brawl by hitting Mike Scioscia with a pitch during a seven-run, seventh-inning rally that gave the Dodgers a 9-4 victory Wednesday.

Perez wouldn't talk about the incident after the game, but Scioscia claimed the knockdown pitch was intentional.

"When you throw 92 miles an hour, and the ball just misses your head by an inch and hits the bill of your cap, you know what's going on," he said.

Asked if Perez was throwing at Scioscia, Montreal manager Buck Rodgers said: "I wouldn't know, but I suppose he may have. It might have been frustration."

Perez had reason to be frustrated. After relieving Joe Hesketh with two on and Montreal leading 3-2, he gave up a two-run double to Willie Randolph, an RBI triple to Kirk Gibson and a sacrifice fly by Eddie Murray before facing Scioscia.

After Scioscia hit the dirt, he got up and charged the mound. Both benches emptied and players wrestled on the ground, but there were no injuries reported. Perez, Scioscia and Rodgers were ejected.

Tension began to build during Montreal's three-run, first inning when Orel Hershiser hit Hubie Brooks with a pitch after throwing one over his head. Brooks yelled at Hershiser and both benches emptied, but no punches were thrown.

"I don't know what he (Hershiser) was trying to do, but he was trying to do something," Rodgers said. "To throw two pitches like that in the same at-bat, from a pitcher who has good control ..."

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Houston 4, St. Louis 3; Cincinnati 4, Pittsburgh 3; Atlanta 3, Chicago 2; San Diego 2, Philadelphia 1, and New York 3, San Francisco 1 in 10 innings.

Hershiser, 7-4, gave up three runs and three hits in the first inning, then held Montreal hitless for the next six innings. Dodgers relievers Ricky Horton and John Wetteland allowed only one hit the rest of the way.

Astros 4, Cardinals 3

Craig Biggio snapped a ninth-inning tie with a run-scoring double as Houston beat St. Louis.

With one out in the ninth, Ken Caminiti singled off Cris Carpenter, 1-4, who lost his fourth straight. Caminiti stole second, took third on Craig Reynolds' groundout and scored on Biggio's double to left center.

Dan Schatzeder, 3-0, pitched two hitless innings and Dave Smith pitched the ninth for his 10th save to complete a combined six-hitter.

Reds 4, Pirates 3

Luis Quinones and Joel Youngblood hit their first home runs of the season as Cincinnati ended a four-game losing streak.

Jose Rijo, 5-1, gave up seven hits in 7 1-3 innings as the Reds won for the 10th time in his 11 starts. John Franco pitched the final 1 2-3 innings to earn his 15th save in 16 opportunities.

Braves 3, Cubs 2

Shortstop Shawon Dunston's throwing error allowed Dale Murphy to score the go-ahead run in the sixth inning.

The Braves had two runners thrown out earlier in the inning before Murphy scored from second when Dunston fielded Ron Gant's grounder and threw into the dirt past first base.

John Smoltz, 7-3, allowed five hits in eight-plus innings.

Padres 2, Phillies 1

Marvell Wynne drove in the winning run with an eighth-inning double as San Diego handed the Phillies' their eighth straight loss.

Reliever Jeff Parrett, 1-2, walked Roberto Alomar to open the San Diego eighth. Two outs later, Wynne lined a double just inside the right-field line to score Alomar.

Greg Harris, 1-2, pitched the eighth for the victory.

Mets 3, Giants 1

The Mets scored two unearned runs in the 10th inning on a pair of infield errors to halt their four-game losing streak and stop San Francisco's five-game winning streak.

Barry Lyons led off the 10th with a single to center. Kevin Elster then hit an apparent double play ball to second baseman Ed Jurak, but Jurak's throw sailed wide of second and both runners were safe.

After pinch-hitter Mark Carreon popped out, Elster went to second and pinch-runner Keith Miller moved to third on Craig Lefferts' wild pitch. With the Giants' infield playing in, Mookie Wilson hit a bouncer that went through charging shortstop Chris Speier, and both runners scored.

Randy Myers, 5-1, got the victory.

HAVE FUN at the Movies

Gail Reagan

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY

Unless you have been in some Third World country or deep in a cave for the last few weeks you know that...

"INDIANA JONES AND THE LAST CRUSADE": Starring Harrison Ford and Sean Connery

has been released and IS ONE BIG HIT. Ah, yes. "Indy" is back and keeping company with the wittiest people ever to grace an Indian Jones film. The only question left is...just how good is this film? Well, because of the inspired casting of Sean Connery as Indiana Jones' father, this film could well be the best of the lot. The first adventure, Raiders Of The Lost Ark, was full of surprises and delightful off-the-wall fun mixed with comic book adventure; the kind of unexpected fun that you always expect in an Indiana Jones movie. But that's all that's different. The newest Indiana Jones film is a grand, glorious adventure chock full of enthusiasm and no cynicism. Even the few, and there are a few, clichés tucked in this package of joy seem new and inventive.

The Last Crusade takes Indy on a new adventure/mission, this time accompanied by his somewhat disapproving pedant father. While the story is of their adventure together, it also focuses on their somewhat difficult relationship. None of this, however, takes away from the excitement, the intrigue and the humor of this wonderful film. Plus, the audience will learn more about Indiana Jones in this film than in the two previous stories of his escapades. As to the burning question of another adventure...well, River Phoenix's appearance in the prologue (and he's very good) leaves that door wide open. Perhaps we'll see a sort of Son of Indiana Jones type sequel. You'll love the byplay and crackling dialogue between Sean Connery and Harrison Ford; in fact, you'll love every minute these two are on the screen...which is constantly. So, sit back; take a ride with two of the best adventurers in the business. Rated PG-13. Four Boxes.

RENTAL MOVIES

While you are waiting to see Sean Connery in The Last Crusade take a look at some of his earlier films.

"THE MAN WHO WOULD BE KING": (1975) Starring Sean Connery and Michael Caine, directed by John Huston. This excellent film is an old-fashioned adventure and derring-do from the pen of Rudyard Kipling via John Huston. That is to say, the script is loosely based on Kipling's famous short story.

Two British soldier-pals try to bamboozle a few high priests in remote Kafiristan by convincing them that Sean Connery is a god. (You won't get any arguments from me over this premise.) This is the kind of adventure story where you grin all the way through and even like the less than "all-is-resolved and all-is-well" type ending. The story, as well as the film, is a classic in the adventure genre. Rated PG. Four Boxes.

"THE WIND AND THE LION": (1975) Starring Sean Connery and Candice Bergen. In the 1970's, Sean Connery made a trio of memorable adventure movies, one being The Wind And The Lion directed, and impressively so, by John Milius. As in The Man Who Would Be King, Sean Connery plays a dashing chieftain, this time he's an Arab. But then, since he looks wonderful no matter what country he's chieftain of...it really does not matter. Just pick the country, make Sean Connery the chief, and you have high adventure. In The Wind And The Lion the script is based on a real incident when a Moroccan sheik (Sean Connery) kidnaps an American woman and her son, sparking an international incident in which President Teddy Roosevelt (played in the film by his look-alike, Brian Keith) becomes involved. And yes, it is romantic and a thoroughly satisfying movie. Rated PG. Three Boxes.

And...the last of the trio... "ROBIN AND MARION": (1976) Starring Sean Connery and Audrey Hepburn. When you take the best of the directors of swashbucklers and the foremost adventure actor (Mr. Connery), mix them well with a fine actress with haunting presence, (Audrey Hepburn) and finish off with some of the choicest character actors, you get Robin and Marion, an absolute triumph for everyone involved. Middle-aged Robin Hood (Sean Connery) returns to Sherwood Forest after year in exile. He rekindles a romance with Maid Marion (Audrey Hepburn) and faces a final challenge against his arch-enemy, the Sheriff of Nottingham; vintage Connery and well worth renting. Rated PG. Three Boxes.

Evigan not like character

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Greg Evigan, who portrays a carefree artist on NBC's "My Two Dads," is an artist of a different sort in real life. He's a singer and songwriter.

Evigan co-wrote the theme song for the sitcom and sings it on the air. He also wrote the music for a recent movie and has a development agreement with RCA Records.

As Joey Harris on "My Two Dads," he designs practical art objects, such as some of the furniture in the apartment he shares with his old college chum, Michael Taylor (Paul Reiser), and their "mutual" daughter, Nicole (Staci Keanan).

Unlike Joey, a bachelor who's fatherhood is unconfirmed, Evigan is married and has three children. The child in the sandbox playing Joey as a 3-year-old in the pilot for the series is his son, Jason.

In his first series, "A Year at the Top," Evigan played an aspiring rock singer who's tempted to make a pact with the devil to gain success. Before that, he was in the road company production of "Jesus Christ, Superstar," and starred as Danny Zuko in "Grease" on Broadway and in Chicago.

"My Two Dads" has been on-air, off-air for the past two seasons. It made its debut in September 1987 and ran for the whole season. Then it was off the air for the first half of this season. It returned in January, was pulled to make room for spring trout series and is now back on the air.

In the show, Evigan and Reiser play former college buddies and romantic rivals who now lead radically different lifestyles. Evigan plays an artist and Reiser is an uptight, upwardly mobile financial adviser. They are drawn together by the arrival of Nicole after the death of her mother. In her will, the mother says one or the other is the father and she wants them to raise her daughter together.

The show also stars Florence Stanley and Dick Butkus.

"I wasn't looking to do a situation comedy," Evigan says. "I thought I

Joanne Woodward becomes historian

NEW YORK (AP) - Actress Joanne Woodward is turning historian, tapping memories to recreate a revolution in American acting led by the late Lee Strasberg and the Group Theater.

"For a long time I'd wanted to do something about the Group Theater," she says. "I didn't quite know what. When Lee died, I suddenly panicked and said, 'Pretty soon there won't be anybody left to tell the tale.'"

Now, she is hosting "Broadway's Dreamers: the Legacy of the Group Theater," the first program in the fourth season of the "American Masters" series on PBS. It will be televised on June 26.

For Miss Woodward, it is the end product of five years of interviews, wedged into a busy career, which accounts for her changing hair colors and styles on-screen. There is also archival footage of the 1931-41 Group Theater.

What surprised her most about her interview subjects, she says, "is their depth of involvement and how immediate it was. They remembered everything like it was yesterday. It is 50 years ago and they're saying, 'Lee said this and I said this.'"

Founders of the Group Theater were Strasberg, who taught method acting, director Harold Clurman and casting director Cheryl Crawford. They were dismayed at the lack of real life in the drawing room comedies of the 1920s. So they created the Group Theater to perform original American plays.

The HERD (Class 1-4A Regional Champs) are...

Our diamond in the rough!

Determination, teamwork, character and Big League Play! You've demonstrated all of these assets in route to the district championship, and most recently, a 5-2 / 9-7 victory over Brownwood to clench the Class 4A Regional Championship.

We wish you the best in the Class 4A State Quarterfinals as you
