

Clements will sign new TDA bill

AUSTIN (AP) - After months of wrangling, the Legislature is nearly finished with a bill to continue the Texas Department of Agriculture, and Gov. Bill Clements promises to sign it.

Clements agreed to a compromise plan Thursday, after lawmakers agreed to turn controversial Commissioner Jim Hightower's pesticide regulation powers over to a new board where he would have one of nine votes.

The deal pleased Hightower allies, who had feared Clements might veto the department out of existence. It angered Hightower opponents, who said they were disappointed with the governor's decision.

"We are very pleased that Gov. Clements agrees with us and four of every five Texans who want to retain our agriculture commissioner as an elected official," said Joe Ranking, president of the Texas Farmers Union.

"It does not address the inherent problem of TDA's existing structure. Under the existing structure, mainstream producers are virtually locked out of decisions that are important to agriculture," said a coalition that includes the Texas Farm Bureau.

Hightower, a two-term Democrat and self-described populist, angered chemical interests with tough new pesticide rules his department wrote and enforces.

"You can abolish the department, per se," Clements said. "There is no way that you can get rid of, in this case, Mr. Hightower."

Rep. Lena Guerrero, a one-time farm worker, said the pesticide board appeared to be the best deal Hightower could get.

"It's probably not the best way to set regulatory pesticide policy in this state, but it's a legislative agreement," the Austin Democrat said.

The governor would appoint a consumer member and an agricultural producer.

It also would require that licensed pesticide applicators - private farmers or commercial applicators - make certain their employees "have a knowledge of each and every pesticide they work with," said Glenn Smith, an aide to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who proposed the provision.

"There has got to be a supervisor in the field. These guys that handle pesticides will not have to go out there uninformed, not even knowing if it's a deadly chemical," Smith said.

"It takes all the politics out of it. It takes the emotions out of it," he said. "Jim Hightower's not always going to be there. You may have someone in there who's very lenient towards pesticide regulation. I think that board buffers."

HIGHTOWER

Following Hightower's efforts to sell hormone-free beef to Europe earlier this year, the Farm Bureau called on the Legislature to abolish the elected agriculture commissioner's post and replace it with an appointee.

That political controversy peaked at the same time the Legislature was considering the Agriculture Department "sunset" bill, legislation that must be approved every 12 years to keep each state agency in business.

If the bill isn't passed - or is vetoed by Clements - the department would cease to exist on Sept. 1, 1990, lawmakers said.

But Clements said vetoing the department wouldn't have abolished the commissioner's post, since that was created by the Legislature with a separate law. The Farm Bureau and others need to understand that fact, he said.

Rep. Rick Perry, D-Haskell, who led the drive to water down Hightower's power, said the plan is the best for all concerned.

"I've just got some problems with a single individual with total control over the pesticide regulation in this state. I just think the board's a lot better way to go," Perry said.

Hightower's press secretary, Andy Welch, said the commissioner would wait until the Legislature finishes with the bill before commenting.

Under the compromise, a new nine-member Agricultural Resources Protection Authority would set all policies and regulations on pesticide use in Texas. The board would coordinate efforts of all state agencies that rule on pesticide use.

The panel would be headed by the agriculture commissioner and include officials from universities and state agencies. The governor would appoint a consumer member and an agricultural producer.

It also would require that licensed pesticide applicators - private farmers or commercial applicators - make certain their employees "have a knowledge of each and every pesticide they work with," said Glenn Smith, an aide to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who proposed the provision.

"There has got to be a supervisor in the field. These guys that handle pesticides will not have to go out there uninformed, not even knowing if it's a deadly chemical," Smith said.

Perry insisted that even Hightower supporters should see advantages in an independent board.

"They are not allowed to change a law ... when the effect would be less protective of the public's health, safety or welfare," she said.

Ms. Guerrero said saving the department was a top goal.

"I also wanted to make sure we maintained an elected agriculture commissioner. Everybody eats, and everybody should have a right to elect their agriculture commissioner," she said.

HISD gets approval for summer meals

Application for a Summer Food Services Program has been approved and Hereford Independent School District will sponsor the program from June 8 to Aug. 16, it was announced Thursday.

Free meals will be offered to all children up to 18 years of age. Breakfast will be served from 7:50 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. and lunch will be served from 12 noon until 1 p.m. at Bluebonnet, Tierra Blanca and the high school cafeterias.

The Summer Food Services Program is a federal program under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and administered in Texas by the Texas Department of Human Services. Program rules state the meals will be offered to all children 18 years of age or younger "with no physical segregation of, or other discrimination against, any child because of race, color, handicap, sex, age or national origin.

Supt. Charles Greenawalt said participation in the program "would allow us to be of service to the children in our district and offer our cafeteria employees summer employment." Several trustees opposed the program until Asst. Supt. Richard Souter pointed out it was possible that the district could make money on the project.

Although the program was aimed at providing meals for summer school students, a child does not have to be attending school to participate. This was one of the reasons that some trustees objected to the program. Based on projections indicating the school could make money for the general fund, the board approved application for the program.

Summer school classes are set from June 8 to July 7 at high school and July 5 to Aug. 1 at elementary schools--Tierra Blanca for primary and Bluebonnet for intermediate students. Classes will be from 8:30 to noon.

Registration for summer school has already taken place. Shuttle buses will stop at each school building, except high school, during the summer sessions.

Additional information on the Summer Food Services Program may be obtained by contacting Richard Souter, assistant superintendent for business, at 364-0606.

Bush making first trip to NATO, Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush set out today on a four-nation European trip crowned by a NATO summit, saying the Western alliance faces "new challenges and unparalleled opportunities."

With NATO grappling over a major dispute about nuclear weapons policy, Bush planned to use the summit as the stage for announcing a cutback of up to 10 percent of American troops in Europe, according to the Washington Times. There was no immediate White House comment on the report.

"The importance of the alliance and its democratic underpinnings is the message I now take to Europe," Bush said at a departure ceremony at Andrews Air Force Base. "NATO has been a success by any measure but success breeds its own challenges."

A certain preacher told us a funny story, but first we had to agree to protect his anonymity before passing it along.

He said he was recently at meeting where someone said they had conclusive proof that there would be no women in heaven. The speaker quoted Revelation 8:1 which says, "And when He broke the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour."

No wonder he asked me not to mention his name!

That reminds us of the story about the Bible class teacher who claimed that the early Christians drove Hondas.

"Yep," he said, "It says in Acts that they were all in one accord."

While on this topic, we also heard about one sermon in which the minister referred to the Bible story about Balaam and his talking donkey.

The preacher explained that God had the talking donkey tell Balaam how to better do the Lord's work. "You might say," the preacher added, "that the donkey was God's Better Business Burro."

Demos ready for movement

WASHINGTON (AP) - House Democrats, anticipating a historic resignation next week of Speaker Jim Wright, are making plans for quickly promoting Majority Leader Thomas S. Foley of Washington to the powerful speaker's post.

But intrigue is brewing for filling in the rest of the party leadership slots as some Democrats worry that Rep. Tony Coelho, Foley's likely successor, could hurt the party because of questions about his own financial dealings.

Foley, talking with reporters Thursday in Seattle, said he spoke to Wright earlier in the day and the speaker "repeated his desire to have an opportunity to state his case, his side of the case, to the widest possible audience, and he's determined to take that opportunity at the first time that seems appropriate."

"I assume that will be with either next week or shortly thereafter," Foley said.

Leadership sources in the Capitol said arrangements were being made for Wright to make a resignation address to the House next Wednesday, but the speaker himself had not yet decided on his precise course of action.

Wright, D-Texas, remained secluded in his office Thursday, but he released a statement making clear he no longer was seeking any "plea bargain" with the House ethics committee.

One of the most serious charges made by the ethics committee was that Wright's wife, Betty, was given a no-work job by Wright's friend and business partner, George Mallick. House rules prohibit gifts from people with interest in legislation, and the committee said it believed Mallick, a Fort Worth developer, had an interest.

Wright, who has vowed to clear his wife's name, dispatched his attorneys on Wednesday in search of a deal that would accomplish that, according to sources who said the lawyers offered his resignation in exchange for the panel dropping at least the charges that involve his wife.

But the deal fell through as Republicans and at least one Democrat on the panel resisted.

Wright on Thursday distanced himself from the effort and indicated it was over.

"There is no deal now. There will be no deal in the future," he said in the statement, insisting he had never personally engaged in the discussions.

It remained unclear whether Wright, if he resigned his speakership, would at the same time resign his seat in the House or if that would happen soon thereafter. The ethics committee would be forced to abandon its case only if Wright left the House.

If Wright resigns his speakership, his party would quickly caucus to fill his post and the House presumably would elect the popular Foley, the No. 2 House Democrat.

If Foley moved up to speaker, his post of majority leader would become vacant.

Coelho, D-Calif., would be next in line.

BABBLING BROOKS

By John Brooks

BY JOHN BROOKS

I was thinking about trying to discover cold fusion on my vacation this year, if I get time to take one.

I haven't been to the ocean in awhile, and maybe it's time to get back.

Any ocean, and any beach, will do for the discovery of the world's next great energy source.

You can probably find most of the ingredients lying along any beach in America. If you don't find them right away, just wait a few minutes and they'll wash up.

The last time I went to the beach was down at Galveston a few years ago. It was early in the year, about the first weekend of March, and it was COOOOOLD. But it was spring break, I was in college, and I was required to have "fun" just like everyone else.

The best I remember, if you went into the water and came away with only a jellyfish clinging to your body, you were terribly lucky. I had heard and read about "flotsam" and "jetsam" and other little goodies. Yeah, get me a little driftwood and make some tacky little boat.

It was hard to make a tacky little boat out of the trash that floated by. If I had wanted to make something of papier mache, that would have worked just fine.

It shouldn't be too hard to find the stuff that supposedly goes into creating cold fusion, if you follow the University of Utah recipe. You need a container, and there'll likely be a few pop bottles around.

I wouldn't be surprised if the needed car battery isn't lying along the beach somewhere.

If you don't find any wire to use for coils and wires to hook up to the battery, just use a coat hanger. If you don't find one washed up along the beach, you'll find a coat hanger out in the parking lot right next to the car that has just had its radio ripped off.

You need some seawater, and a little radioactivity. Have you ever tasted seawater? I'm sure there is something radioactive about something that tastes that bad.

Another thing about "lasting" seawater is that it always feels like you have ingested about 100 million gallons. There is no such thing as swallowing a "little" seawater.

I also have not been to the beach since before the first "Jaws" movie came out. There have been what, four of those things? What concerns me is not that "Jaws" is lurking out there, but that "Jaws" has been reincarnated as a man-o-war just waiting to place a few million tentacles across my back.

Oh, why go to the beach? Even if you go to a good beach, like Waikiki, you never know if you're going to get there in a hardtop or a convertible. I think I'll just go over to Ute Lake or something.

INS declares border victory

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) - A federal crack-down on Central American refugees has stemmed the flow of illegal aliens into South Texas, the Immigration and Naturalization Service said.

But an advocacy group working with refugees said the get-tough efforts have succeeded only in keeping immigrants from obtaining legal residency.

"This has been a success story for INS," said James L. Buck, deputy INS commissioner, Thursday. "We set out to stem the flow and send out the message that you can't come across the border at will."

Buck said the INS spent about $28 million to beef up U.S. Border Patrol efforts and provide additional INS staff members to do same-day processing of political asylum requests. While the agency anticipated spending about $40 million and taking much longer, Buck said INS will begin recalling extra personnel stationed in South Texas since Feb. 21 to help process requests for political asylum. Kassahn sentence is cut

The five-year prison sentence handed to Lubbock cattleman Jim S. Kassahn on Jan. 20 was reduced to two years Wednesday by U.S. District Judge Halbert Woodward, according to a report in The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Kassahn had been sentenced to five years, the maximum, after pleading guilty to bank fraud. He was also ordered to pay $375,559-

58 restitution to the Hale County State Bank, the Plainview bank which Kassahn admitted defrauding, within five years of his release from federal confinement.

The defendant has paid the restitution, according to Wednesday's order. A defense motion to reduce the sentence said Kassahn made every effort to pay the restitution and has been a model prisoner.

Kassahn has been the subject of other civil lawsuits and has filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 of federal bankruptcy law on behalf of his cattle company, J.P.'s Family Inc.

First National Bank of Amarillo initiated a lawsuit against J.P.'s Family Inc. in August 1987 to collect on a note. In March, 1988, the bank agreed to accept $5.7 million to retire a $7.8 million loan balance, according to the bank president.

A suit was filed in June 1988 in Lubbock's 237th District Court against Kassahn and other directors of the failed First State Bank of Bovina by seven plaintiffs who alleged deceptive trade practices and negligence.

Mary Kay expresses interest in Avon

DALLAS (AP) - Mary Kay Cosmetics Inc. is part of an investor group pushing to acquire rival New York-based Avon Products Inc., a letter from the head of the group said.

John P. Rochon, vice chairman of Mary Kay Corp., issued late Thursday the letter in which he confirmed publicly for the first time Mary Kay's interest in Avon.

Because of recent news reports about Avon mentioning Mary Kay, Rochon said, the Dallas-based company felt it necessary to let its sales force know about its interest in acquiring Avon.

The announcement came one day after stock speculators bid Avon's shares higher following a report that the cosmetics company may be the target of a hostile takeover attempt.

"We have never before publicly disclosed either our interest in Avon or the fact or content of any of the discussions we or our financial advisors, the First Boston Corporation, have had with Avon or its advisors," Rochon's letter said.

Contents of the letter to Avon Chairman James E. Preston were revealed in a prepared statement by Mary Kay Corp., which did not elaborate on the subject.

Neither Mary Kay nor Avon company officials answered telephone calls late Thursday from The Associated Press.

If a bid were successful, Avon would be directed by Argonaut Partners, an investment arm of Mary Kay Cosmetics, Rochon said.

He said Mary Kay and Avon each would maintain separate sales forces and identities.

On Wednesday, following a USA Today report that investor Irwin L. Jacobs and an unidentified "major company" planned to launch a joint bid for Avon at $40 a share, Avon stock soared on the New York Stock Exchange in heavy trading.

The newspaper said Jacobs and the company were in the process of completing financing and other details of the hostile offer. Jacobs' partner was said to be a company other than Mary Kay.

Amway Corp. recently was rebuffed by Avon in a $39-a-share takeover offer that valued Avon at $2.1 billion.

Jacobs owns 10.3 percent of Avon's common stock through a partnership with Amway. Amway, an Ada, Mich.-based direct selling firm last week withdrew its offer for Avon.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A column you wrote years ago served as a lifesaver to my husband and me this week. Thank God I cut it out and saved it. It was exactly what we needed to cope with our grief and despair.

Our beautiful, bright, award-winning 16-year-old daughter had run away. "Dottie" wanted to marry a former boyfriend whom she had been forbidden to see. The man, "Eddie," is 25, has been treated for drug addiction and has hepatitis B. He is a heavy drinker and nonstop smoker. We thought these were sufficient reasons to say, "You're only 16. You may not date him and you certainly may not marry him."

Dottie refused to come home. She wouldn't tell us where she was and wouldn't talk to us on the phone unless we agreed to let her marry Eddie. Since she is nearly 17, the legal age to leave home in this state, and we couldn't force her to stay here, we felt that we had no choice.

A column you wrote in 1980 gave us courage and enabled us to cope. It proved to be a godsend. I copied it on the word processor and framed it. It now hangs in our library. I passed on copies to my friends who are also facing heart-breaking problems with their kids.

Those of us who love our children and try hard to be good parents suffer terribly when they go wrong. You are the best source of consolation I have found, Ann. Please rerun the column that saved our family.-- East Coast Parents

DEAR FRIENDS: To you and the thousands of other parents who are miserable because of "what you have done" to your children, I say this: Stop beating yourselves. You did the best you could with the tools at hand, inexperience, clay feet, the works.

No one knows why some children turn out to be champions in spite of parents who provided precious little emotional nourishment, while other kids, loved, wanted, tenderly nurtured, with all the so-called advantages, turn out hostile, irresponsible, unmotivated and unreachable.

I have come to believe in the genetic factor that has been ignored by many behavioral "experts." We all inherit our nervous system, and if the nervous system is fragile, it places severe limits on what a person can tolerate. Certain, individuals are born survivors. They can withstand life's toughest blows and emerge the stronger for it. Others crumble in the face of minor adversity. The same fire that melts butter can make steel strong.

Let us not overlook personal responsibility. I am sick of hearing children blame their parents for their "messed-up" lives. People with all sorts of handicaps can and do make it in this demanding and competitive world.

Enough of this "You damaged me, now take care of me" nonsense. It's a cop-out. Parental guilt laid on by your kids is so thick you can cut it with a knife. It serves no purpose except to perpetuate financial and emotional dependence and create a climate of insecurity and ultimate failure. God helps those who help themselves.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Americans today spend nearly $30 billion on dental care each year.

But people have been caring for their teeth for a long time, according to Dr. William Dorfman, a Los Angeles dentist.

"As early as the 6th century B.C.," Dorfman says, "the Etruscans knew how to construct protheses out of gold and teeth of cattle. A cleft palate repair was made in China about 2,200 years ago."

Hereford Toastmasters gathered Thursday morning at the Ranch House Restaurant for their weekly meeting.

Lynn Cook presided over the meeting and Bruce Hernandez served as grammarian. Tom Weemes was table topic master and general evaluator was Cook. Joe Weaver served as toastmaster and Joe Don Cummings was timer.

Word of the week was "contribute." Rocky Lee spoke on "I Think I Can" which centered on perseverance in pursuit of goals. Walters' address concerned "The Care and Feeding of a Gas-powered Rotary Lawn Mower. It was the third manual speech concerning how to service a lawnmower and a demonstration was featured.

Table topics included "Wright Resign" by Hernandez; "Winning Tradition" by Clark Andrews; "Teachers Strike" by Cummings; and "FAA Rules" by Walters.

Herd loses chance; Peters loses streak

HOUSTON (AP) - Jon Peters' stomach told him something wasn't right, a sensation he hadn't felt before any of his national record 53 consecutive high school pitching victories.

"When I woke up this morning I had a bad feeling about this game," Peters said. "I've had butterflies in my stomach all day."

Peters, who last month set the scholastic record of 51 straight wins, lost for the first time in his high school career Thursday when Brenham was no-hit 3-0 by West Orange-Stark in a Class 4A regional semifinal.

Eric West and Kyle Free allowed eight walks but combined to hold Brenham hitless in the second game of a best-of-three series. Brenham, 27-2, won the opener 5-2 on Wednesday. The final game is tonight.

Peters allowed five hits in seven innings. He struck out eight and tied a career high with five walks. He also threw a wild pitch in the second inning, allowing the Mustangs to score their first run.

Brenham also committed five errors.

"In a way I'm relieved the streak is over, but I'm sorry it had to happen like it did," Peters said.

He said the loss won't tarnish what had been a perfect four years.

"It's not a sin to lose a game," Peters said. "I feel like 53 is something to be proud of. I wish I could have won some more, but that's baseball."

Peters was 13-0 as a freshman, 15-0 as a sophomore and 14-0 last year. He fell to 11-1 with Thursday's loss.

Peters, who will attend Texas A&M, had not lost since the final game of his Little League career when Brenham lost to Taiwan in the semifinals of the 1985 Little League World Series.

"Jon didn't have his best stuff," said Brenham Coach Earl Hathaway,

"but you can't take anything away from West Orange-Stark either."

West Orange-Stark took a 1-0 lead in the second inning. Kevin Smith led off with a single, stole second and went to third when the catcher's throw sailed into center field. He scored on Peters' wild pitch.

In the fifth, David Fregia singled to left and was safe at second when Mark Lockett missed the throw. The Mustangs loaded the bases when Jason Lingo walked and Bruce Aven singled. Fregia scored when Free hit into a fielder's choice at second.

Lingo made it 3-0 on Jason Canizaro's squeeze bunt.

"The people didn't think Peters could be beat," said Free, who picked up his third save after entering the game in the fifth inning. "But we proved it. We did the unbelievable."

"I made a goal I wasn't going to get beat," said West, who walked six in improving his record to 9-0.

On April 28, Peters broke the record of 50 consecutive victories by Tim Moore, of McColl, S.C., who attended the record-breaking game.

Moore set the record in 1977-80, pitching for McColl, but didn't know he had a national record until last year when Peters' streak was publicized nationally.

Peters tied Moore's record April 21 when he pitched a two-hitter against Katy Taylor, striking out 12 batters and retiring the last 15 in a row.

His high school record of 53-1 is two wins shy of the Texas record for total career victories set by Duncanville's Keith Creel, who won 55 games in 1974-77. Creel later pitched in the major leagues with Kansas City.

For Peters to have a shot at Creel's mark, Brenham must win tonight's game to advance in the playoffs.

The national record for career victories by a high school pitcher is 61 by Steve Streater of Sylva Webster, N.C., from 1974-77.

Jones 'believes' in Johnson

LUBBOCK (AP) - News Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones says he believes coach Jimmy Johnson's background in psychology will help him overcome his inexperience in the National Football League.

Jones made the remarks during a speech here Thursday night.

"Jimmy's background is in psychology," Jones said. "He believes men and women perform better when they're motivated."

"I think Jimmy brings to pro coaching a very visible, enthusiastic involvement with on-the-field coaching, and his assistant coaches mirror his on-the-field enthusiasm," Jones said. "I think Jimmy's style of motivating and instruction will set some new standards in pro coaching."

There is more to being an NFL club owner than keeping tabs on the bottom line and overseeing the direction of his team, Jones acknowledged.

The Arkansas oilman is now also wearing the hat of banquet speaker and high-profile public figure for the first time. He quickly alienated many fans when he took over the Cowboys Feb. 25 and fired coach Tom Landry. Many fans also did not like Jones' brusque approach.

Jones said he may become slightly more careful in what he says to the media.

"Possibly in a forum like (a one-on-one interview). Where I'm not doing that in (public) speaking. That is not my style. I don't want to take away from what I'm trying to say by being too guarded," Jones said.

Jones defended his swift actions of late February, the dismissal of Landry and the immediate hiring of Johnson, by saying, "I can look in the mirror and say I was up front all the way."

The new owner says his primary concern is making contenders of a team that slipped to 3-13 last season.

"I don't have a number (of projected victories), but I think the club can compete," Jones said. "Our goal is the same as any team's: to win the division and possibly represent your conference (in the Super Bowl)."

Hopper fivesome wins Larry Gatlin Celebrity tourney with round of 57

Dave Hopper of Hereford played on the winning team on Monday at the Larry Gatlin Celebrity Golf Tournament at Bear Creek Golf Club at D-FW Regional Airport.

Hopper played on a team representing the Red Raider Club. The team also include Steve Locke, executive vice president of the Red Raider Club; Bob Brown, a Tech supporter from Lamesa; Bob Quinn, long-time producer of The Tonight Show, and Mark Mai, professional at Thom Tree Country Club in DeSoto.

The team shot a 57, including eagles on three of the four par-5 holes, to win the tournament, which benefits muscular dystrophy.

The event included a barbecue on Sunday night, then a banquet and show on Monday night that featured entertainment by Charley Pride, Janie Fricke, Moe Bandy, Gary Morris, Lee Greenwood, and the Gatlin Brothers.

Bulls looking to bounce back

CHICAGO (AP) - Doug Collins is nursing a strep throat but Scottie Pippen's left foot is what ails the Chicago Bulls coach.

Although the injury was diagnosed as only a bruise, Collins is concerned about Pippen's availability for Saturday's third game of the best-of-7 Eastern Conference finals against the Detroit Pistons.

The series is tied 1-1. Detroit pulled even with a 100-91 victory Tuesday night, and Pippen suffered the injury late in the third quarter.

"Somebody, I think it was Dennis Rodman, stepped on my foot as I tried to push off," Pippen said.

Collins does not know if Pippen can play.

"If we don't have Pip, we lose a lot because we don't have the depth to replace him," he said.

Pippen did not participate in Thursday's workout but received treatments from trainer Mark Pfeil.

"Basically, he bruised the bone on the foot and the small bones," Pfeil said. "Everything tends to spread out and you just put a lot of irritation on all those tissues. It then becomes tender to bear weight, and jumping ... will cause tenderness."

Pfeil will continue the treatments, but said Pippen's availability wouldn't be known until game time.

If Pippen can't play, Collins doesn't know who will start or who will guard Detroit strongman Bill Laimbeer.

"Pippen is able to frustrate Laimbeer because Scottie is quick enough to shore up on a screen and then slide out and still bother Laimbeer's shot," Collins said. "Bill Laimbeer wants to catch it and unload it quickly. You have to run at him and disrupt his timing."

"We feel one of Laimbeer's biggest abilities is to space the floor, get a quick jump shot and slide out," Collins said. "We want to take that away from them."

"If they want to go to the post to Laimbeer, then we will make the necessary adjustments."

Slaughter wins one for mom

By RICK WARNER
AP Sports Writer

Don Slaughter gave his ailing mother something to cheer about.

Slaughter had four hits, including a tiebreaking double in the seventh inning, as the New York Yankees beat the California Angels 8-6 Thursday night.

After the game at Yankee Stadium, Slaughter called his mother, who had a cancerous kidney removed Wednesday in California.

"I said 'Way to go' and she said 'Way to go,'" Slaughter said.

The catcher said he was distracted by his mother's operation during Wednesday night's game, but was able to regain his concentration Thursday.

Jesse Barfield, Mike Pagliarulo and Don Mattingly homered for the Yankees, who matched their season high with 14 hits.

"Isn't it nice to see some tallies and some hits and some runners running around the bases?" New York manager Dallas Green said.

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit beat Cleveland 9-5, Milwaukee downed Oakland 4-1 and Boston routed Seattle 10-0.

Slaughter, who raised his average to .278, doubled to right, singled to left and had an infield hit in his first three at-bats.

Angels reliever Willie Fraser, 1-3, walked Ken Phelps with one out in the seventh and the game tied 6-6. After Barfield popped up, Pagliarulo singled and Slaughter blooped a double just inside the right-field line to score Phelps.

Tommy John, making his 700th career start, allowed six hits and five runs in 5 1-3 innings. The 46-year-old pitcher has given up 42 hits in his last 28 1-3 innings and is winless in five starts since April 17.

Dale Mohorcic, 1-1, allowed one run in 1 1-3 innings and Dave Righetti finished for his seventh save. California starter Mike Witt struggled, giving up eight hits and five runs in 2-3 innings. Brewers 4, Athletics 1

Robin Yount doubled in the go-ahead run in the fifth inning as Milwaukee beat Oakland's Dave Stewart for the first time.

Stewart, 8-2, was removed in the eighth inning after giving up nine hits, including five doubles, and all four runs. He entered the game with a 9-0 record against the Brewers.

Milwaukee starter Bryan Clutterbuck, 2-1, allowed four hits before his shoulder stiffened after six innings. Dan Plesac got the final four outs for his ninth save.

Brewers rookie Bill Spiers hit a ground-rule double in the fifth and scored on Yount's double off the fence in right center. Dave Parker homered for Oakland in the first inning.

Tigers 9, Indians 5

The Tigers used nine extra-base hits to win their third straight game over Cleveland.

Gary Peotis' leadoff triple triggered a three-run first inning for Detroit, which also had six doubles and two home runs.

Frank Tanana, 4-4, gave up four runs in six innings. Frank Williams took over and pitched into the ninth, with Guillermo Hernandez getting the last out for his ninth save.

Cleveland's John Farrell, 2-5, gave up seven runs on six hits before leaving in the second inning. Red Sox 10, Mariners 0

Mike Smithson pitched his first shutout since 1986 and Mike Greenwell had four hits and four RBIs as the Red Sox completed a three-game sweep of the Mariners.

After the game, Seattle traded ace left-hander Mark Langston to Montreal for pitchers Randy Johnson, Gene Harris and Brian Holman.

Smithson, 2-3, allowed only two runners to reach third base. He gave up eight hits, struck out six and walked two in his fifth career shutout and first complete game of the season.

Greenwell preserved the shutout in the ninth by throwing Edgar Martinez out at the plate as he tried to score on David Cochrane's two-out single to left.

'Horns open regional play

AUSTIN (AP) - New Orleans may have finished 30-32 in the American South Conference, but the baseball team is causing Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson to spend sleepless nights as he prepares for the Privateers in the NCAA Midwest Regional Tournament.

"I was lying there thinking last night," said Gustafson. "Now if this guy would hit and if this other guy would do that, we'd have this thing figured out."

The Privateers, hitting only .265 as a team, came on strong towards the end of the year, winning 12 of their last 17 games, including the American South tournament.

"They played the toughest ranked schedule in the country," said Gustafson. "I was pretty impressed with them winning the conference title. There were a lot of good teams there."

The 5th ranked Longhorns, 47-17, staged a good late season surge of their own despite finishing fourth in conference and second to top-ranked Texas A&M in the conference tournament.

They dumped conference co-champs Arkansas twice in the tournament and were within a run of forcing another final game in the SWC tournament.

"We may be more solid in our lineup right now than we have been in a while," said Gustafson. "We are through shuffling around and moving people in and out."

The Longhorns averaged 10 hits a game in the tournament and had 30 in back-to-back games.

In the first game of the tournament, Oklahoma St. takes on Sam Houston State.

Two years ago, the scrappy Bearkats, 31-21, stunned good

Oklahoma and Indiana State teams here, but lost to Houston twice. It was the first year Sam Houston competed in NCAA Division I.

"We are just a working man's team," said Bearkat Coach John Skeeters in his 14th year as coach. "We just take our lunch pails out there and make the best we can with what we've got."

The Cowboys, 46-17, have gained a reputation as a physical team following a brawl with arch-rival Oklahoma.

"We have taken a pretty good beating from the fans since that happened," says Cowboy designated Ray Ortiz. "That's just something that happens in baseball. It may help us as far as intimidation, but we just came here to play baseball."

Giants in scoring drought

By The Associated Press

The San Francisco Giants were the highest scoring team in the National League on Tuesday. They haven't scored since.

The Giants' scoreless drought reached two games and 19 innings when the Montreal Expos shut them out 2-0 Thursday. The runs were just enough to make the Expos the NL's new top run producers with 187 to the Giants' 185.

The Expos blanked San Francisco 1-0 on Wednesday night.

"I'll stake my paycheck that we won't get shut out twice in a row again the rest of the year," said loser Mike Krukow, 3-2, who had a one-hitter with one out in the seventh when he gave up a single to Mike Aldrete. Tim Wallach followed with his third homer, snapping an 0-for-16 slump.

In the only other NL games, it was Los Angeles 7, Philadelphia 6; San Diego 2, New York 1; Pittsburgh 7, Atlanta 3.

Montreal's Dennis Martinez, 4-2, checked the Giants on five hits through 8 2-3 innings before needing last-out help from Tim Burke.

"Martinez never leaves the corner," San Francisco's Will Clark said of the veteran Montreal right-hander, who walked one and struck out eight.

Martinez said he attacked the Giants with his fastball, got the benefit of a wind that was blowing in the batters' faces and making the ball move and mixed in a few change-ups and breaking balls.

Dodgers 7, Phillies 6

Eddie Murray triggered Los Angeles' biggest first inning since 1985 with a three-run double and the Dodgers needed all seven runs to hold off Philadelphia.

Winner Tim Belcher yielded all the Philadelphia runs and nine hits in 7 1-3 innings. Jay Howell, the third Los Angeles pitcher in the eighth inning, put down a Philadelphia rally and earned his eighth save.

The Dodgers chased Don Carman, 1-7, after only 29 pitches.

The Dodgers loaded the bases with none out on singles by Willie Randolph and Mickey Hatcher and a walk to Kirk Gibson. Murray then hit a 3-0 pitch just inside the left-field line to clear the bases.

Rick Dempsey and Mariano Duncan followed a one-out walk to Jeff Hamilton with consecutive run-scoring singles making it 5-0 and chasing Carman. After Belcher sacrificed, Mike Maddux balked Dempsey home and Hatcher followed a walk to Randolph with his second hit of the inning, scoring Duncan.

The Phillies scored in the fourth inning on Darren Daulton's two-run homer and added another in the fifth on Von Hayes' RBI single.

Pirates 7, Braves 3

Doug Drabek allowed two runs and six hits in six innings to snap a personal five-game losing streak and Pittsburgh extended its longest winning streak of the season to four games.

Pete Smith, 1-6, yielded four runs and seven hits in six innings.

The Pirates broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth when Benny Distefano's second double of the game drove in Glenn Wilson, who singled. They scored again when Junior Ortiz led off the fifth with a single, stole second, was sacrificed to third by Drabek and scored on Barry Bonds' single. In the sixth inning, Wilson hit his seventh home run for a 4-1 lead.

Padres 2, Mets 1

Ed Whitson combined with Mark Davis on a eight-hitter for his fifth straight victory and Tony Gwynn doubled home the tie-breaking run in San Diego's two-run third inning.

Whitson, 7-2, worked 7 2-3 innings, yielding six hits, including Darryl Strawberry's 11th home run in the second inning. Davis fanned Strawberry to end the eighth and earned his major league-leading 15th save.

A&M rips Jackson State, 23-3

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Nevada-Las Vegas had all of its luck working against Louisiana State in the NCAA Central Region baseball playoffs.

But LSU coach Skip Bertman's gamble paid off and it helped the second seeded Tigers rally twice to beat the Rebels 12-10 Thursday in the tournament's opening game.

Bertman decided to pull his ace starter, Olympic gold medalist Ben McDonald, who had a slow start, and replaced him with Paul Byrd.

Byrd slowed the quick-starting Rebels and the Tigers finally won it on Craig Cala's two-run single in the seventh inning, capping a combined 27-hit game.

Top seeded Texas A&M hammered sixth seeded Jackson State 23-3, highlighted by a 12-run fifth inning in which Jim Neuman drove in five runs with a two-run double and a three-run home run.

Third seeded South Alabama blew an 8-0 lead to Brigham Young but the Jaguars rallied for an 11-10 victory in the 10th inning when Jim Shaver hit a two-run homer and pitcher Ed Zentler walked in the winning run.

Thursday's results set up today's schedule that starts with Nevada-Las Vegas facing Jackson State followed by Brigham Young and Texas A&M and Louisiana State against South Alabama.

Nevada-Las Vegas victimized McDonald for four runs in the first inning and it looked like a luckless day for the Tigers.

The feeling continued when LSU lead off hitter Tookie Johnson's grounder bounced off the first base bag into the glove of first baseman Casey Clements for an out.

"After Tookie's fluke at first base we knew we had our work cut out for us," Cala said. "We were nervous at the start of the game. We had to get our bugs out."

Cala and Scott Schneidewind each drove in four runs to lead the Tigers' comeback.

"We gambled on taking Ben out and hoping we could get our momentum back by bringing in Byrd," Bertman said. "He's the most unsung pitcher we've got. He shut them down."

The game was forecast as a pitcher's duel between McDonald and the Rebels' Donovan Osborne.

But the Tigers chased Osborne with a six-run fifth inning that included home runs by Cala, Wes Grisham and Schneidewind.

"I didn't have my off-speed stuff, I just had the fast ball and they took advantage of it," Osborne said. "If I had had my change up and curve, I probably could have gone the whole game."

Nevada-Las Vegas regained a 10-9 lead in the seventh inning on a grand slam homer by Chuck Der Manouel but Cala's hit gave LSU the final lead.

South Alabama's Mike Zimmerman was pitching a one-hitter and enjoying an 8-0 lead until Brigham Young scored eight runs in the eighth, highlighted by Paul Cluff's three-run homer and a solo homer by Randy Wilstead.

"I was very proud of our club, the didn't get their heads down," Brigham Young coach Gary Pullins said. "Baseball is a game of inches but it was a game of miles until we came back."

Shaver said the Jaguars are accustomed to late inning theatrics.

"We call the seventh, eighth and ninth innings, our business innings," Shaver said. "We feel that's our part of the game."

Neumann's five runs batted in performance paced the Aggies' 16-hit attack.

A&M scored 20 runs in a 20-7 season opening victory over Pan American and they beat Texas Tech 27-2.

They gave Jackson State the same treatment.

"The game just got away from them and our guys were pounding the ball," A&M coach Mark Johnson said. "Tomorrow we could play them and it probably would be a tough ball game."

"Once we got to Farmer, that was the killer for them."

Neuman said his first hit in the fifth inning got the Aggies going.

"During the fifth inning, I was looking to drive the ball and the wind made the ball jump out," Neuman said. "The first one was good for the team, it got us going."

Johnson show hits Phoenix

PHOENIX (AP) - It's a battle of the award-winning Johnsons in the NBA playoff series between Phoenix and Los Angeles. And if Eddie stays erratic and Kevin goes kaput again, the Lakers may not even need another Magic act to make the Suns disappear.

The two-time defending NBA champion Lakers lead Phoenix 2-0 in the best-of-7 Western Conference finals heading into Game 3 tonight at the Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum.

Los Angeles guard Magic Johnson, the league's most valuable player this season, fueled two decisive fourth-quarter rallies in Games 1 and 2 at The Forum in Inglewood, Calif.

Suns guard Kevin Johnson, voted this year's most improved player, was pushed to exhaustion in Game 2 Tuesday night and made 10 turnovers, seven in the second half.

Phoenix forward Eddie Johnson, who shot 49.7 percent from the field this season and won the NBA's Sixth Man Award, continues to struggle with his shooting touch. He has made only eight of 28 field goal attempts in this series.

"If I had decent games in L.A., we'd be up 2-0 now instead of down 0-2. There's no question in my mind," Eddie Johnson said at practice Thursday.

In the previous playoff series against

Golden State, Eddie Johnson said Warriors forward Larry Smith "did a karate chop on the little finger" of his right hand.

Against the Lakers, "E.J." was 6-for-16 from the field in Game 1 and just 2-for-12 in Game 2.

"Some games, the finger bothers me. It does if I think about it. I let it get the best of me at L.A.," Eddie Johnson said.

Kevin Johnson had 18 points by halftime Tuesday night as the Suns built a 55-51 lead.

The Lakers then switched to a trapping defense, applied full-court pressure with swingman Michael Cooper and guard Byron Scott and held "K.J." to four second-half points.

"Kevin was so psyched up before the game that he wore himself out in the first half," Suns coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said.

Phoenix has lost all five previous playoff series to Los Angeles, getting swept twice.

That might become three unless the Suns find a way to contain Magic Johnson, who had 18 points and 12 assists in Game 1 and added 22 points, 14 assists and nine rebounds in Game 2.

"It's typical Magic," Lakers forward James Worthy said. "He's been doing it for 10 years."

"He puts himself in the center of the storm," Los Angeles coach Pat Riley said. "He's at his best in crunch time."

"My game is the fourth quarter, especially in a tight game," Magic Johnson said. "I like to rise to the occasion and make plays. That's what I'm all about - making the plays."

Tips aired to help latchkey children

Latchkey children, those school-age youngsters that must cope each day with empty homes until parents return from the workplace, are a growing breed, numbering from two to six million across the nation.

These children need special guidance in self-help, said Dr. Sarah Anderson, family sciences specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Anderson said that latchkey youngsters need to learn such self-care skills as how to use their time wisely, how to plan and prepare nutritious snacks, and how to deal with various emergency procedures.

Parents can provide a safer environment for their latchkey children by instructing them on a number of items, including the following:

-Keys. Instruct your child to keep housekeys in a pocket, purse or wallet.

-Schedule. Set up a daily schedule so that the child knows what to do when at home alone.

-Safety rules. Establish and post house safety rules on use of appliances, answering the door and telephone, and play activities.

-Emergency procedures. Post emergency telephone numbers and addresses near the phone, and make sure your youngster knows how to report an emergency. Practice these steps and enroll the child in a first aid or life skills class.

-Check-in. Set up a check-in routine so that a responsible adult knows when the child has arrived home. This could involve a phone call to your workplace or to a neighbor.

-Friends. Do not allow friends to visit your child when he or she is at home alone. Unsupervised play may get out of hand.

-Quality time. Spend time with your child each day. Many children are fearful of staying alone and need an understanding adult to answer questions and listen to concerns.

-Entertainment. Provide some type of safe home entertainment or simple chores to ensure that your child won't be bored after school.

-Travel. Do not allow your child to experiment with new routes to and from school. If possible, have your youngster walk to and from school with friends. Emphasize the need to come straight home.

-Alternatives. Keep searching for ways to provide adults and supervised care. The local PTA, recreation department or other community agency may offer a school-age child-care program. The county office of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service also can offer assistance.

Senator Teel Bivins Reports

AUSTIN - Not long ago, a bill by Senator Ted Lyon that would allow public utilities to self-insure was before the full Senate for consideration. The pros and cons of the bill were hotly debated. Senator Lyon though, had done his homework. When the vote came, he had enough votes to suspend the rules and adopt the bill on final passage. In a wonderfully ironic moment when Lt. Governor Hobby announced that Senator Lyon's bill had finally passed, the lights in the entire Capitol complex went out. Incredibly, there was a complete power failure at the moment the bill passed the Senate.

Intense floor debate in the Texas Senate is the exception and not the rule. One remarkable thing about the Senate is the propensity to "work things out." This is largely attributable to the fact that you must have 21 votes to be able to bring up any matter before the full Senate. An example can best illustrate what I am talking about.

Senate Bill 740 by Henderson on its face seemed to be an innovative solution to a thorny problem. Fifty-two percent of the Texas population currently lives in areas that are in one-attainment of federal ambient air quality standards, due in part to harmful emissions from gasoline and diesel powered vehicles. That 1991, U.S. EPA diesel bus standards will require a 54 reduction of nitrogen oxide emissions and an 85% reduction in particulate emissions over current emission levels. These standards cannot be met with current diesel fuel technology.

Natural gas is an abundant, cost effective, clean burning fuel which, when used in motor vehicles, can achieve significant reductions in harmful emissions from these sources and can reduce the high costs associated with the operation and maintenance of vehicle fleets. For vehicles using compressed natural gas, carbon monoxide emissions are reduced by 50%, hydrocarbon emissions are reduced by 40%, particulate emissions are virtually eliminated, and maintenance costs are reduced by approximately 50%.

Senator Henderson's bill as proposed would have created new law which would require school district boards, state agencies, and local transit authorities to convert existing vehicles to use compressed natural gas or other alternative fuels.

My first impression of the bill was very positive because of the environmental impact, the maintenance and operation cost savings to units of state and local government and perhaps, most importantly, because it would encourage development of new markets for natural gas from which District 31 could definitely benefit. However, the bill as it was originally drafted had a definite downside. The cost of converting diesel fuel vehicles to compressed natural gas is very expensive. In mandating that school districts and local transit authorities convert their vehicles, the Legislature would once again be creating mandates without funding. If I heard one chorus throughout my year long campaign for the Texas Senate, it was from school districts, county and city governments saying "no more mandates without funding."

Since I did not serve on the committee that voted the bill out, I only learned about it when it appeared on the intent calendar for the full Senate. I was in a real quandary because I supported some aspects of the bill, but I strongly opposed the Legislature ordering local units of government to do things without providing the funding to accomplish them.

The proponents of the bill argued that in the long run the maintenance and operation costs of converted vehicles would result in an overall savings to units of local government. That argument, of course, is based on the assumption that natural gas would always remain inexpensive relative to the cost of liquid petroleum fuels - a dangerous assumption at best.

To make a long story short, I was able to get Senator Henderson to accept a floor amendment. The amendment allowed school districts and other units of local government that operate fleets of diesel vehicles to escape the mandates of the bill if they can demonstrate that conversion was not cost effective.

The fact that Senator Henderson accepted my floor amendment when he knew he had the votes to pass his bill in tact is the phenomenon I alluded to earlier.

Harmful bacteria invade when given opportunity

Toxic bacteria and other microorganisms can create unnecessary problems if food safety precautions are not taken, said Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten, a registered dietitian and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Sweeten said a report from the Food and Drug Administration by Roger Miller noted that 21 million to 81 million cases of diarrhea a year are caused by food-borne microorganisms. Kidney damage, arthritis and heart problems are other consequences of food contamination.

Bacteria are the main culprits responsible for creating problems, Miller said in the report, although all bacteria are not harmful. Some are found in the intestinal tract, where they aid in digesting food and others help produce foods such as buttermilk and yogurt.

Sweeten said that even harmful bacteria cannot do their work without proper conditions, such as food, moisture and warmth. Also, bacteria have no method of transportation and must rely on hitching rides by means of cooking utensils and other kitchen tools.

In the report, Miller said that all food preparation equipment must start out clean and stay clean. Equipment that is handled or comes in contact with food should be washed between each step of food preparation.

Miller said that hand washing is a necessity before preparing any meal. This requires soap, warm water, and at least 20 seconds of working the soap into the hands and underneath fingernails.

Refrigerators also must be kept clean and at a temperature no warmer than 40 degrees Fahrenheit and the freezer should not register more than zero degrees. High temperatures kill bacteria and cold stops or slows their growth. Foods denied proper conditions give bacteria the opportunity to double in numbers within 20 minutes, according to the report.

"Thus, frozen items and perishables purchased at the grocery should be refrigerated as soon as possible," Sweeten said.

She said cooked or refrigerated foods, such as meats and salads, should be stored in small, shallow containers and refrigerated immediately. When reheating foods, they should reach at least 165 F.

The specialist said major ways to thaw frozen foods include in the refrigerator, under cold running water, in a microwave oven or as part of the cooking process. "Never thaw foods at room temperature," Sweeten cautioned.
