The Christmas Stocking Fund will make a follow-up call for some needy families in Hereford this week, thanks to the generosity of people in the community.

The final total of contributions to the CSF amounted to $18,026.22. Donations were accepted through New Year's Day, and the total was just short of last year's record of $20,718.

Since food baskets and vouchers were delivered by CSF on Dec. 21, the additional contributions will allow the anonymous holiday charity to extend about $3,000 more aid this week in the form of vouchers for medical expenses and utility bills.

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet has been set for March 7. More details are forthcoming.

Twelve months ago, Hereford and Deaf Smith County entered the new decade with renewed enthusiasm and anticipation. From some reason, the hopes were not up to par. So, for 1991, here's some new year wishes for the community:

- Renewal of the hustlin' Hereford spirit and pride and cooperation that breeds progress--attitudes that resulted in things like the Senior Citizen Center, the YMCA facility and the Holly Sugar plant.
- Wheat prices to stabilize at about $4 a bushel.
- Success by the hospital in recruiting additional doctors and operating in the black.
- A six-inch rain in April.
- A rain anytime that has Tierra Blanca Creek running to the brim.
- A new ag-related industry that employs about 300 people.
- A job for everybody who wants one and everybody wanting one.
- A district championship for the Whitefaces in every sport and activity.
- Peace in the Middle East with oil prices still above $30 a barrel.
- A pay raise for everybody and low inflation.
- A drug-free and crime-free Hereford.
- Businesses to fill some empty buildings.
- For folks not to take themselves and things so seriously.
- The ability to laugh at ourselves, laugh at each other and with each other.
- Potato chips without calories, and a medical study that reveals cholesterol is actually good for you.
- No need to visit an attorney's office.
- Happiness for all.

Just in case you missed it, the old year was a little slower leaving than usual. That's because scientists added an extra second to 1990 to reset for the correct time.

The extra second was added at Greenwich Mean Time at 23:59:59 just before midnight. This happened at 5:59:59 p.m. Texas time. Normally, 5:59:59 is followed by 6:00:00, but Dec. 31st the time was followed by 5:59:60, and then came 6 p.m.

The reason, according to the report we read, is that today's atomic clocks are accurate to within a billionth of a second a day. The earth, however, is consistent to only about one-thousandth of a second a day. We can't adjust the planet, so we reset the clocks.

It was the 16th time a leap second had been added to the clocks since the international agreement was made in 1972.

Baker appeals for solid front

PARIS (AP) - Secretary of State James A. Baker III is taking his Persian Gulf unity campaign to three Western European countries that have shown the most interest in offering incentives to Iraq to surrender Kuwait.

In France, Germany and Italy, on the second day of an eight-day journey that may foreshadow war with Iraq, Baker is appealing today for a solid front against Saddam Hussein.

All three allies already are lined up with the United States and other coalition partners in demanding the Iraqi leader withdraw his 500,000 troops by next Tuesday, a deadline set by the U.N. Security Council.

But led by France, they have proposed taking up the issue of Palestinian statehood at a subsequent international conference.

Baker rejected the proposal Sunday as unacceptably linking the Palestinians' dispute with Israel to Iraq's occupation of Kuwait.

However, a senior U.S. official, briefing reporters in London on Monday night, said "there may be any number of issues that will still need to be discussed" after Iraq leaves Kuwait.

Whether that gesture by the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, satisfies the allies or Saddam remains to be seen.

Jacques Poos, the foreign minister of Luxembourg and the current president of the 12-nation European Community, said after seeing Baker: "We accept no linkage."

But he said, "there will be after-crisis discussion in one manner or the other."

In any event, on a busy day, Baker was stopping in Paris to see French President Francois Mitterrand and Foreign Minister Roland Dumas, in Bonn to talk to German Chancellor Helmut Kohl and Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher and in Milan to see Italian Foreign Minister Gianni De Michelis.

Then Baker goes to Geneva. On Wednesday, in the Swiss city, he will present a letter from President Bush to Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz.

It warns Saddam that war could result if his forces don't leave Kuwait by the Jan. 15 deadline.

Bolstered by new assertions of allied support, Baker on Monday ruled out any extension of the deadline. He said "the only real chance that we have for peace ... is if Saddam Hussein begins to understand that that deadline is real and that we are serious."

Asked to assess those chances, Baker said "I am less optimistic that we might achieve a peaceful solution than I was before Christmas."

But, he said, "we are still going to work toward that end."

Dismissing a threat by the Iraqi leader Sunday to bomb Jerusalem and to unleash "freedom fighters" around the world, Baker said "he has been saying these things before."

The tenor of Baker's statements were unwavering and firm.

And yet, a senior U.S. official, speaking anonymously, said issues that could be taken up after Iraq withdrew included "questions concerning peace and stability in the region."

Iraq is demanding consideration of the Palestinians' dispute with Israel.

Baker, on the first leg of a trip to 11 countries including Switzerland for the face-to-face meeting with Aziz, received fresh assurances of support Monday from British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd and NATO Secretary-General Manfred Woerner.

Calling Britain's position identical to that of the Bush administration, Hurd said after a two-hour luncheon that "the basic rule must be that one nation-state does not trample on and wipe out another nation-state."

Woerner, after a subsequent meeting with Baker, said "our member countries remain in complete solidarity ... There is not the slightest rift."

Even so, Baker must deal on his trip with a move spearheaded by France and backed by Germany and Italy to offer Saddam an eventual international conference on the Palestinians and other Mideast issues

District Judge takes oath

Judge David Wesley Gulley was sworn in Monday to his fourth elected term as district judge for Deaf Smith County. Gulley was administered the oath of office on Jan. 1 at his parents' home in Uvalde. The oath was administered by retired Supreme Court of Texas Justice Ross E. Dougherty. At Monday's ceremony, County Judge Tom Simons administered the oath.

State lawmakers begin tackling old, new woes

AUSTIN (AP) - The Legislature convened in regular session today, and Speaker Gib Lewis said he expected to be elected to a record fifth term as House leader despite two misdemeanor ethics indictments against him.

"The members see through this. They see what a phony-type thing this is. They see it as a personal agenda by the district attorney of Travis County," Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said Monday.

The Travis County grand jury is investigating alleged influence-peddling in the Legislature. Lewis has accused District Attorney Ronnie Earle of being politically motivated in the probe. Earle says he's just doing his job.

The indictments allege that Lewis took a gift from a San Antonio law firm, failed to disclose it and failed to report a business interest. He has denied any wrongdoing.

If convicted, Lewis would face up to 18 months in jail and $3,000 in fines.

But Lewis said he has talked with most House members, and that none of them requested a secret ballot or term limits for the speaker.

Lewis already has led the House as long as Billy Clayton, who was elected to his fourth term as speaker in 1981 after being indicted, but acquitted on federal charges of racketeering and conspiracy.

The speaker election follows swearing-in ceremonies for Lewis and other lawmakers elected by voters in November.

Both Republican Gov. Bill Clements and Democratic Gov.-elect Ann Richards were scheduled to attend the House swearing-in ceremony.

In the Senate, where outgoing Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby will preside before being replaced next week by Bob Bullock, the president pro tem also will be elected.

As the 140-day session begins, some have expressed worries that the grand jury probe will distract lawmakers, who also face:

- A projected $4.2 billion shortfall to meet the state's obligations through the next two-year budget period. Cuts and new revenue will be examined, including a proposal for a state lottery.
- Public school finance reform, if the Texas Supreme Court strikes down the current law. The measure was passed last year after the Supreme Court in 1989 said the school finance system was unfair to poor school districts.

A state judge said the law still doesn't give all districts substantially equal access to funds for a similar tax effort. The Supreme Court again is considering the issue.

Insurance reform proposals, after a special grand jury and the state auditor found problems in the way the state oversees the industry.

Redistricting. New lines are drawn every 10 years for the 150 House, 31 Senate and 30 congressional districts, along with the 15 State Board of Education districts.

A push for legislative ethics reform led by Richards and Bullock, who will be sworn into office next week. Lewis said a bill to change state ethics laws will be introduced next week.

Richards has called for a strong ethics commission, and Lewis said he also favors creating a panel to oversee Texas laws governing state officials' conduct.

Referring to the indictments against him, Lewis said, "If we had an ethics commission, I guarantee you I wouldn't be where I'm at right now because an ethics commission would have thrown this thing out in a New York minute."

Iraq threatens global attacks

By BRIAN MURPHY
Associated Press Writer

The talk from both sides toughened with a day to go before the highest-level U.S.-Iraq talks since the onset of the Persian Gulf crisis. Oil prices have shot up and people across the Middle East are gearing for the worst.

In Europe today, Secretary of States James A. Baker III was holding his final meetings with allies after emphatically rejecting any extension of the U.N.-mandated Jan. 15 deadline for Iraq to leave Kuwait or risk attack.

Baker, who has suggested the chances of peace are diminishing, is to meet in Geneva on Wednesday with Iraq's foreign minister, Tariq Aziz, whose latest comments indicated Iraq does not plan to budge without U.S. concessions.

Aziz said Monday that he did not think Iraq would quit the emirate by next Tuesday's deadline and predicted a war would be "bloody, long, terrible."

Making final preparations for a conflict, some foreign embassies in Baghdad shut down and others shredded documents and planned overland evacuations if air routes are closed. Gas mask distribution was stepped up across the region.

Thousands of foreigners a day have been leaving Middle East nations such as Israel, which Saddam Hussein has threatened to attack if war begins. A growing number of airlines have halted or reduced flights to Israel in particular.

"I am less optimistic that we might achieve a peaceful solution than I was before Christmas," Baker said on Monday in London.

Crude oil prices - a barometer of Middle East jitters - rose nearly $3 a barrel on Monday to close at $27.65 in New York. Oil jumped to nearly $40 a barrel following the Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, but recent peace efforts and diplomatic sessions pushed the price below $25.

En route to Geneva, Baker planned today to confer with French President Francois Mitterrand in Paris, German Chancellor Helmut Kohl in Bonn and Italian Foreign Minister Gianni De Michelis in Milan.

All three countries have shown the most interest in offering Iraq incentives so Saddam could partially save face in surrendering Kuwait.

However, Baker on Sunday rejected France's proposal to link an Iraqi withdrawal to a proposed Middle East peace conference. Saddam has tried to link the gulf crisis with the Palestinian issue.

City accepts several bids

By DANEE WILSON
Staff Writer

Hereford City Commissioners met with a short agenda Monday and voted to accept bids and purchase a computer, street sweeper and two mowers for the golf course.

Seven companies submitted proposals for a personal computer for the Fire Department. The bid of $2,129 from Threshold Computers of Amarillo was awarded for the computer. The Officer Center at Hereford bid $2,395; Computerland of Amarillo, $2,700 and $3,700; MicroAge of Amarillo, $2,888.85; Foster Electronics of Hereford, $2,949; Radio Shack of Amarillo $3,521.40 and Radio Shack of Hereford $3,905.14.

The street sweeper bid that met specifications was awarded by the commissioners to West Texas Equipment for $64,900. The other bid was from Yellowhouse Machinery for $89,376.

Bids for golf course mowers were awarded to two different companies. The tee mower bid was awarded to Jacobsen in the amount of $9,148 and the greens mower bid was awarded to Goldwaite's for $9,404.75.

Commissioners tabled awarding bids for two pickups for the park department and one for water production. The item was tabled for further inspection of the specifications.

Commissioner Emory Brownlow requested a report from the golf course committee. Committee Chairman Tom LeGate reported that there were several problems and complaints the committee will be working to solve.

"The golf course is a difficult situation," said LeGate. "I think the main problem is the water system and we are working to get that problem resolved."

LeGate said his committee recommends raising green fees to pay for the badly needed water system. Presently, the golf course is watered with manual sprinklers that have to be moved on a regular basis in order to cover the course.

"I believe that 75 to 85 percent of our problems would be solved with a water system," LeGate said. LeGate's committee will be making further recommendations and reporting to the commissioners on the golf course situation.

Riegle denies illegal campaign contribution

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Donald Riegle denies he intended to collect campaign contributions from savings-and-loan owner Charles H. Keating Jr. when he traveled to Keating's Arizona headquarters in 1987.

improperly intervened with federal regulators on behalf of Keating's failing Lincoln Savings and Loan.

But Riegle, D-Mich., displayed a spotty memory in defending himself against ethics allegations, saying repeatedly that he could not recall important meetings and conversations in the case of the so-called Keating Five senators.

The committee next plans to question Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz. It has already examined two of the other senators - John McCain, R-Ariz., and John Glenn, D-Ohio - and will begin deliberations on their fate once final witnesses are questioned.

Riegle, testifying Monday to the Senate Ethics Committee, reiterated denials that the March 1987 trip had a fund-raising intent despite documents presented to the panel that suggested he expected to receive $10,000 from officials at Keating's American Continental Corp.

The fifth senator, California Democrat Alan Cranston, is undergoing treatment for prostate cancer and it is uncertain when and how he will be questioned.

"There was no fund raising associated with that trip as relates to any kind of a fund-raising event at American Continental," he maintained.

Riegle contended Monday that he played only a minor role in the senators' intervention on behalf of Keating, who raised or contributed $1.3 million for the five senators' campaigns and related political causes before his empire collapsed in 1989.

Riegle, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, was continuing his testimony today. He appeared as the ethics panel nears the end of its investigation into whether he and four other senators

But Riegle underwent a long and skeptical cross-examination by the ethics committee's special counsel, Robert S. Bennett, who repeatedly questioned why Riegle did not feel it improper to accept money from Keating within weeks of meeting with federal regulators on behalf of Keating's savings and loan.

Discrimination exists among whites

CHICAGO (AP) - Most whites hold fast to negative stereotypes of blacks and Hispanics even while white support for racial equality is gaining ground, a survey found.

imagery," said Larry Bobo, who teaches sociology at the University of California at Los Angeles and helped design the survey questions.

Three of four whites believe blacks and Hispanics are more likely than whites to prefer living on welfare, the General Social Survey by the National Opinion Research Center found. And most whites think blacks and Hispanics are more likely to be lazy, violence-prone, less intelligent and less patriotic.

"It's ironic, given that some other forms of negative attitudes toward minorities - favoring discrimination in housing, jobs, education - have basically disappeared."

White support for school desegregation rose from 14 percent in 1972, the first year of the survey, to 29 percent in 1990. White disapproval of laws against interracial marriage rose from 48 percent to 77 percent.

The center conducted face-to-face interviews with 1,372 adults nationwide last year. The respondents were racially representative of the U.S. population, said survey director Tom W. Smith. The margin of error averaged 3.5 percent to 4 percent.

Yet the survey also found increased support among whites for racial equality.

The General Social Survey has been conducted 17 times since 1972, but 1990 was the first year it included questions on stereotypes.

White support for school desegregation rose from 14 percent in 1972, the first year of the survey, to 29 percent in 1990. White disapproval of laws against interracial marriage rose from 48 percent to 77 percent.

Respondents were asked to rate whites, blacks, Hispanics, Asians, Jews and Southern whites on a scale of 1 to 7 on six characteristics: rich or poor, hard-working or lazy, prone to violence or not, intelligent or not, self-supporting or on welfare, patriotic or not.

"With all this positive change, one might have assumed there has been an equal breakdown of negative of the League of United Latin American Citizens, based in Las Vegas. "People believe what they read."

- 62 percent thought blacks less likely to be hard-working; 56 percent thought blacks more violence-prone; 53 percent thought blacks less intelligent, and 51 percent thought blacks less patriotic.

Positive stereotypes can also be harmful, said Abraham H. Foxman, director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. The survey found that many non-Jewish whites regard Jews as better than themselves in some respects.

- 56 percent thought Hispanics more likely to be lazy; 50 percent thought Hispanics more likely to be violence-prone; 55 percent thought Hispanics less likely to be intelligent, and 61 percent thought them to be less patriotic.

"I don't want to be overdramatic, but Mr. Hitler said the Jews are hard-working, they're self-supporting, they're brighter, and then he said they want to control the world," he said.

"Racism is as American as apple pie and mother," said Syd Finley, executive director of the Chicago chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. "It's a lack of awareness of what an ethnic group is about, a naivete."

Researchers and minority representatives said education and more contact between different races and ethnic groups are the answer.

"There's a tendency on the part of the media to overemphasize the violent nature of minority communities reflected out of the drug culture," said George Cantu, executive director

"By doing this, you often break down those stereotypical beliefs that result in hard-line racist attitudes," Finley said.

Are low-calorie diets safe?

For millions of overweight Americans, "eat less and exercise more" is an unpalatable message. Following a very low-calorie diet and losing an average of three to four pounds a week, however, seems easier to swallow.

Very low-calorie diets—generally powdered drink mixes supply 400 to 800 calories a day—are not new. You may remember the sensation surrounding the liquid protein diets in the late 1970s. The Cambridge Diet followed in the early 1980s, until serious health problems—including at least 69 deaths—led to their demise.

When used responsibly, today's very low-calorie diets are safer than their liquid protein predecessors. Yet none of them may be right for you.

Some very low-calorie diets, such as Optifast, Medifast and Health Management Resources (HMR), are available only through physicians. Others are offered through commercial franchises or directly through the mail.

The most popular very low-calorie diets, and the ones offered by some physicians, are high-protein powders made from milk or egg white. This high-quality protein distinguishes today's very low-calorie formulas from liquid diets of the past.

Vitamins, minerals and electrolytes such as sodium and potassium are added so that a day's serving meets 100 percent or more of the recommended dietary allowances (RDAs).

Fasting phases included in physician-based programs usually allow no regular food. Instead, dieters drink three to five servings of high-protein powder mixed with water for a daily total of 400 to 800 calories. Some plans allow eight ounces of meat, seafood or poultry in addition to four servings of formula.

Despite drastic reductions in calories, carefully supervised very low-calorie diets cause only minor complications when used responsibly.

For the obese person with serious health problems, such as diabetes, hypertension or sleep apnea (a condition in which normal breathing is temporarily interrupted during sleep), weight loss is particularly beneficial.

Very low-calorie diets also may help psychologically because of their quick results. For someone who has a 100 pounds to lose, shedding 60 pounds in 16 weeks may provide the incentive to continue with behavior modification and maintenance.

Nevertheless, the nation's hunger for easy, rapid weight loss makes very low-calorie diets a target for misuse and, consequently, health risks. As part of a federal investigation into the diet industry, very low-calorie diets are the focus of a series of congressional hearings.

Rep. Ron Wyden is leading a probe into allegations that some very low-calorie diets are poorly supervised, incompetently managed and fraudulently advertised.

Wyden hopes the hearings will raise public awareness of the problems in the diet industry. Wyden also hopes for better consumer protection standards regarding issues such as nutrition training for diet program personnel and a definition of what constitutes permanent weight loss.

HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF

A very low-calorie diet may help you lose weight safely if you meet these four criteria:

-You are at least 40 pounds overweight (or 30 percent greater than ideal weight)—A very obese person loses proportionately less lean body mass during weight loss than the person who is only slightly overweight. Large fat stores and more lean body mass to begin with seem to help protect against health complications such as heart arrhythmias and electrolyte imbalances.

If you have fewer than 40 pounds to lose, using a very low-calorie diet may reduce your lean body mass below that of a normal-weight person. This, in turn, lowers your metabolic rate, making it easier to regain weight once you start to eat regular foods again. What's more, the weight is typically regained as fat.

According to Michael D. Jensen, M.D., endocrinologist and head of May Clinic's outpatient nutrition clinic, this can make a marginal situation worse. "If you're not that overweight to begin with, and then you gain back more weight than you lost, you're actually worse off than before the diet," says Dr. Jensen.

If you're not 30 percent heavier than ideal weight, a very low-calorie diet is too drastic a measure for weight loss.

"You can achieve similar long-term results with behavior modification and a conventional reduced-calorie diet, which is a more conservative approach," says Frank P. Kennedy, M.D., endocrinologist and coordinator of May Clinic's outpatient behavior modification program.

-You are supervised by a competent physician—People who became ill or died following liquid protein diets or the Cambridge Diet didn't have adequate medical supervision.

A physician experienced in the use of very low-calorie diets and trained in clinical nutrition should supervise and monitor your progress at each visit. Side effects such as fatigue, muscle cramping, headache, diarrhea or cold intolerance are easily managed under the care of a competent doctor.

A responsible physician also will limit the fasting phase to no more than 16 weeks. Restricting calories to fewer than 800 for longer than 16 weeks would aggravate some complications.

The program should also include nutrition counseling by a registered dietitian and a behavioral component taught by someone specially trained in the use of behavioral techniques for weight loss.

Lack of supervision is a particular risk with over-the-counter diet supplement such as Ultra Slim-Fast or Carnation Slender. They are intended to supplement one to two meals daily, according to the reducedcalorie meal plan included with the product.

If you use them as your sole source of nutrition, calories can total less than 600 a day. They then become very low-calorie diets and put you at risk for nutritional deficiencies and complications such as dehydration, electrolyte imbalances and dizziness.

-You are highly motivated—Most people who begin a very low-calorie diet give up before the end of treatment. If you drop out of a program, the success rate for repeat dieting is dismal.

"You have to realize that this is something that you do once in your life," says Dr. Kennedy. "And you have to be committed not just to completing the fast, but to following through with the behavior modification and long-term maintenance."

Physician-supervised very low-calorie diets include maintenance programs for additional fees.

-You are financially committed—Very low-calorie diets can be costly. You can pay as much as $3,500 for a 26-week physician-supervised program. And the money is paid up front; there are no refunds for dropouts. Most major medical insurance plans cover doctor's visits and medical tests, but some refuse to pay for food supplements.

THE RESULTS

Do people who lose weight on a very low-calorie diet keep it off?

A 1989 report in the American Journal of Public Health followed 497 obese individuals during a 30-month weight-loss program that used a very low-calorie diet, behavioral modification and maintenance.

Fifty-six percent of participants dropped out of the program before completion. The remaining 220 people lost 84 percent of their excess weight. But after 30 months, they had regained an average of 59 percent to 82 percent of their starting weights.

"Everybody can induce weight loss," Dr. Kennedy says. "But nobody seems to be able to induce long-term weight maintenance."

The questions are you more likely to maintain the weight you lose following a very low-calorie diet, or do you have a better chance maintaining weight loss following a conventional reduced-calorie diet? "No one's ever done a study comparing long-term results," says Dr. Kennedy. "No one's ever proved that the addition of a very low-calorie diet improves the end result."

NO GUARANTEES

Very low-calorie diets are proved to promote significant weight loss, not weight maintenance. Many differences exist in how people respond to weight-loss approaches. A degree of flexibility increases chances for success. But very low-calorie diet programs aren't individualized.

For many obese people, following a very low-calorie diet is simply a question of cost vs. benefit. According to Dr. Jensen, "Three thousand dollars is a lot of money to spend for only a small chance at success."

Hanna gives program on etiquette

Troyce Hanna presented a slide program on the etiquette of the American flag when members of the Garden Beautiful Club met recently for their January meeting in the home of Jeanne Dowell.

During her program, Hanna stated that the flag can be flown 24 hours a day at a residence and from sunrise to sunset on business buildings. She stressed that the flag has a meaning of history and heritage to this nation and should always be treated with respect. She expressed desire that flag etiquette be taught more in schools.

The American Legion furnishes flags and members of the Hereford Key Club distributes flags on various holidays to local business and the cemeteries. Anyone wishing more information on the flag may contact the American Legion.

Following her program, Hanna was presented with a gift of appreciation by club members.

During the business meeting with President Dowell presiding, minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given. The recent holiday coffee was discussed and appreciation was extended by the president to the various committees which assisted with the event.

Also, a $150 donation was made to Girlstown from the club's Christmas project.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Inez Witherspoon.

Members present included Dowell, Nadine Hill, Bessie Story, Doris Bryant, Helen Spinks, Margaret Young, Witherspoon, Hilda Haven and Jerry Jackson.

Lady Whitefaces open 1-4A with win

By SAM WALLER
Sports Editor

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces took a share of the early lead in the District 1-4A race Monday with a 45-36 win over Dumas in the league opener for both teams.

Hereford also took the junior varsity contest of the doubleheader, which was postponed from Friday because of weather, 24-22.

In Monday's regular schedule of junior high games, Hereford teams returned from the holiday break with games against Pampa.

In games played Saturday, the Herd varsity fell to Levelland 51-44 while the Herd JV downed Borger 68-33 in the consolation finals of the Hereford JV Tournament.

Lady Whitefaces 45, Dumas 36
Hereford (12-10 overall, 1-0 in district) built a 13-point lead at the end of the third period and held off the Demonettes (5-12, 0-1) down the stretch to extend their winning streak to four games.

Dumas took an early 4-0 lead on two baskets by Jakayla Janow, but the Lady Whitefaces scored the next five points to edge ahead. After Chanda Washington converted a one-and-one opportunity to put the Demonettes back in front, Donna Grotegut hit a pair of buckets to give Hereford a 9-8 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The lead changed hands six times during the second period with Dumas leading by three points twice at 16-13 and 18-15. Hereford came back with an 9-0 run capped by the first of three Jennifer Bullard 3-pointers at 1:33 for a 24-18 advantage and upped the margin to 28-21 at the half.

The third quarter was more than two minutes older before Stephanie Wilcox scored the first points of the period to extend Hereford's lead to 30-21 and another trey from Bullard made it a 12-point lead. The Demonettes matched the Herd bucket for bucket the rest of the quarter, but Bullard connected on another 3-pointer with :03 left on the clock to give Hereford its biggest lead of the game at 40-27.

The Lady Whitefaces lost the shooting touch in the fourth quarter, going without a field goal until the final 30 seconds of the game. But Brek Binder made three of four free throws in the period to match the Demonettes at the line. Dumas converted three of its first four trips to the line in the period, but missed the front end of four straight one-and-one chances over the last five minutes.

Hereford's defense allowed only two baskets over a span of 7:51 of the quarter. Janow added a third field goal with nine seconds remaining for the final margin.

Bullard and Grotegut both finished with 14 points to lead all scorers. Binder finished with seven points while Wilcox added six and Shantel Cornelius four.

Janow paced the Demonettes with 13 points.

Lady Whiteface JV 24, Dumas 22
Hereford used an 8-0 run in the second quarter to build a nine-point halftime lead and survived the final 6:32 of the game without scoring.

Neither team could get going early as Christie Taylor's basket at 6:26 accounted for the only points in the game until Kathy Hernandez tied the game at 2:51 to go in the first quarter. The pair did all the scoring in the period with Taylor staking Dumas to a 6-4 lead.

Jill Robinson tied the game at 6-6 early in the second period, but the Demonettes regained the lead on a Darla Dawson free throw. Hereford then scored the next eight points as Kara Sandoval tossed in three baskets for a 14-7 lead. Dawson slowed the run with Dumas' only field goal of the quarter before Misty Dudley hit two free throws and Misty Peabody added a basket for an 18-9 lead at the half.

Peabody added Hereford's only third-quarter score early in the period as Dumas used a 6-2 edge to pull within 20-15. The Herd opened the final quarter with baskets from Sandoval and Brandi Dunn to push the margin back to nine and held on as the Demonettes scored the game's last seven points.

Sandoval finished with eight points to lead Hereford with Hernandez, Peabody and Dudley adding four apiece while Dunn and Robinson had two each.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Levelland 51, Herd 44

Craig Black made three of four free throws in the final 26 seconds to seal the win for the Lobos and snap Hereford's three-game winning streak. The points were the only ones scored by Levelland in the game's final four minutes.

Hereford (5-12) took the early lead at 6-4 before a Brant Wallace 3-pointer put the Lobos ahead 7-6. Richard Sanderson answered with a trey for the Herd to start a 9-4 run that gave Hereford a 15-11 edge at the end of the quarter.

to give the Lobos their biggest lead at 48-40. Johnson's shot at 5:36 was the last field goal made by either team.

Tijerina converted an one-and-one opportunity and then made one of two technical free throws to bring the Herd within five at 48-43. Nearly three minutes elapsed before Derek Mason scored the Herd's final point with a free throw at the 1:05 mark.

Black put the finishing touches on the game by hitting the front end of a one-and-one with 26 seconds to go and converted on both ends with eight seconds left.

Brown and Tijerina both scored 15 points to pace the Herd while Chris Steward added six, Mason and Sanderson three each and Sean Smith two.

Wallace finished with 10 points to lead Levelland with Black and Johnson adding nine each.

HEREFORD JV TOURNAMENT

Weather left the tourney with six teams as Dumas and Canyon Randall withdrew to send Hereford and Borger into the consolation finals. Tulia was also unable to arrive for the morning's second round, giving Levelland a 2-0 forfeit and a berth in the finals. In the only second-round game actually played, Canyon High beat Dimmitt 68-46.

The Eagles went on to win the tournament with a 54-49 decision over the Lobos while Tulia edged Dimmitt 48-47 for third place.

Herd JV 68, Borger 33

Hereford had eight of nine players score in the game and was never threatened in cruising to the consolation title.

The Herd jumped out to a 19-10 at the end of the first quarter and upped the margin to 40-21 at the half as seven different players poured in points in the second period.

Hereford held a 23-point lead early in the third quarter before exploding with a 10-2 run to close out the period with a 55-26 advantage.

The Herd continued to build the lead over the final eight minutes, outscoring the Bulldogs 14-7 in the quarter.

Hereford had three players finish in double figures, led by Mark Kriegshauser with 17 points while Clay Wallace had 13 and Kevin Kelso had 10. Kyle Hansen added eight points with Chad Sandoval getting seven, Matt Reiter six and Tempie Abney four.

Borger was led by Kyle Higgins with 10 points.

JUNIOR HIGH GAMES

Pampa 91, Frosh boys Maroon 43
The Harvesters raced out to an 18-4 lead at the end of the first quarter and coasted the rest of the way for the win.

Pampa increased the margin to 39-16 at the half with a 21-12 edge in the second quarter and outscored the Herd 21-8 in the third for a 60-24 lead.

Hereford started bombing away in the fourth period as Wade Johnson connected for three 3-pointers and Stacy Sanders two, but Pampa came out with a 31-19 edge in the quarter.

Sanders and Johnson both finished with 12 points to lead the Herd. Justin Wright and Andrew Tijerina added four each with Robin Simons getting three and Michael Carlson, Chad Carlile and Jason Cole two apiece.

Pampa 42, Frosh boys White 34

Pampa outscored the Herd 30-14 in the second half to overcome an eight-point Hereford lead at the half.

Hereford took a 6-2 lead after the first quarter and increased the margin to 20-12 at halftime with a 14-10 edge in the second.

Pampa closed to within two at 30-28 in the third period with a 16-10 advantage in the quarter before going ahead with a 14-4 run in the fourth.

Hereford was led by Todd Alexander with seven points and Hayden Andrews with six. Elias Reyna, Jeremy Blair, Chris Williams and Josh Tice scored four points apiece with Trey Skiles and Eddie Riddle two each and Justin Lueb one.

Pampa 31, Frosh girls 29

Pampa took a 15-8 lead in the first quarter and fought off Hereford over the next three quarters.

Hereford held steady through the second period, matching Pampa with a 6-6 quarter to trail 21-14 at the half before pulling within three at 23-20 in the third with a 6-2 edge. Hereford added a 9-8 advantage in the fourth quarter, but was unable to overtake Pampa for the lead.

Jenifer Holmes and Katie Young both scored eight points to lead Hereford with Heather Kleuskens and Amanda McMeen adding four each. Jaime Simpson scored three and Jill Walser two for the Herd.

Pampa 61, 8th boys Maroon 55

Pampa opened the game with a 10-2 run on the way to a 14-6 lead at the end of the first quarter before Hereford could get going.

Robinson keeps Spurs going on road

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

While the box score will say that David Robinson was the difference as San Antonio continued to be road-hot, the Spurs center credits the bench for the team's ninth victory in its last 10 games.

"Even though we are banged up, we still played well," Robinson said after scoring 31 points and pulling down 16 rebounds in a 111-102 overtime victory Monday night over the Philadelphia 76ers. "The guys on the bench did a great job."

They did it well enough to earn their third straight road victory despite the loss of forward Terry Cummings, who missed the game with a pulled groin.

"Tonight we didn't have Terry, and David Greenwood stepped in and did a great job (with 6 points and 13 rebounds)," said Robinson, who scored six points in the overtime. "In my opinion, the bench is the reason we've played so well on the road."

That may be true, but in Robinson the Spurs have a go-to guy, a player point guard Rod Strickland looks for in the pinch.

"We all understand the things David can do for us," said Strickland, who scored 21 points, including two free throws to tie the game with 12 seconds left in regulation. "When you have a guy like that, everyone else can feed off him."

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Phoenix 119, Minnesota 106; Dallas 88, New Jersey 87 in overtime, and Orlando 111, Sacramento 83.

After Strickland's free throws, Philadelphia looked to its meal ticket, Charles Barkley, who finished with 31 points.

"We wanted to get the ball to Charles and we did," coach Jim Lynam said. "He tried to pump fake to draw the foul, but did not get it."

Barkley's last-second shot fell short, sending the game into overtime.

A 3-point shot by Willie Anderson with 2:04 left in overtime gave the Spurs a 103-100 lead. After Robinson hit two free throws, Barkley scored. But Robinson hit four free throws as the Spurs pulled away.

Suns 119, Timberwolves 106
Kevin Johnson had 29 points and 14 assists, and Tom Chambers returned to the lineup with 25 points and 11 rebounds for Phoenix.

Coming off their worst quarter of the season - a 12-point fourth period during which they blew a 10-point lead Saturday in an 88-86 loss at Milwaukee - the Suns shot 59 percent to take a 38-23 first-quarter advantage. Minnesota, losing for the 10th time in 12 games, trailed throughout. Minnesota got 29 points from Tony Campbell.

Mavericks 88, Nets 87
Rolando Blackman made a 3-point basket with 1.8 seconds remaining in overtime as Dallas handed New Jersey its seventh straight loss.

Blackman, who finished with 15 points, also scored the basket that sent the game into overtime when he hit a jumper with 24 seconds remaining to tie the score at 79.

Sam Bowie led the Nets with 27 points and 14 rebounds. Alex English had a season-high 27 points for the Mavericks.

Magic 111, Kings 83
Jerry Reynolds scored 19 of 57 points by Orlando reserves.

Otis Smith added 17 points for Orlando. The Kings were led by Wayman Tisdale's 23 points.

Orlando hit 42 of 80 shots for 52.5 percent, a dramatic improvement over its league-low 29.8 percent Saturday against San Antonio.

Olajuwon may need surgery

HOUSTON (AP) - There is a 50-50 chance that Houston Rockets All-Star Akeem Olajuwon will require eye surgery and a doctor says that with or without the surgery he will be out of action two months instead of the earlier prediction of one month.

Dr. Robert B. Wilkins, a top eye-injury expert, Monday told Olajuwon that possible complications from the injury could affect Olajuwon's vision if surgery is not performed.

Olajuwon was injured last Thursday night when he was struck in the face by the elbow of Chicago Bulls player Bill Cartwright.

Olajuwon suffered a blowout fracture of the floor and medial walls of the orbit, the bone structure that houses the eyeball, doctors say.

Wilkins told Olajuwon there is no way he will be playing basketball again within four weeks, which was used earlier as a ballpark figure for his return to the NBA team.

"He can expect to be out a lot longer than four weeks," said

Wilkins, who examined Olajuwon with two other doctors. "It's quite serious. We will evaluate extensive X-rays, and I will make a decision on whether he needs to have surgery."

"At this point, I'd say it's 50-50 whether surgery will be needed," he said. "But it doesn't appear he will have any loss of vision."

"The doctor looked at every aspect, and he said so far, so good," Olajuwon said. "It's hard to believe it will be seven to eight weeks (recuperating)."

"But it could have been much worse."

The surgery cannot be performed until the swelling completely goes away, doctors say. It could be delayed until early next week.

"There is always a potential that something like this could be career-threatening," Wilkins said. "But I'm probably more positive now than I was before I examined him."

A two-month absence from the time the injury occurred would force Olajuwon to miss 26 more games.

Pitt's Shorter stands tall

By The Associated Press

Brian Shorter saw only one man trying to defend him and he felt as good as he had since last season.

The power forward from Pittsburgh, who has been hampered by a viral infection which has sapped his strength and by various defenses which have seen two and even three players on him, scored 32 points Monday night as the 17th-ranked Panthers handed No. 8 Syracuse its second straight loss, 93-79.

"I saw a lot of 1-on-1 coverage, so I guess their philosophy was that I'm in a slump and don't worry about me too much," said Shorter, who had been averaging 10 points per game until he stunned the Orangemen with a 9-for-14 effort from the field while making all 14 of his free throws. "I got the coverage, I got the ball and I made it happen."

The Panthers (13-3 overall and 2-1 in the Big East) snapped a three-game losing streak to Syracuse with a 16-4 run early in the second half that turned a three-point deficit into a 60-51 lead.

Syracuse (13-2, 1-2) got within 75-72 when Billy Owens scored six straight points, but the Panthers went on a 6-0 run and were never headed.

In other games involving ranked teams on Monday, it was: No. 1 UNLV 95, San Jose State 63; No. 20 Louisiana State 83, Georgia 76; No. 21 South Carolina 67, Louisville 64; and No. 23 New Mexico State 80, Long Beach State 63.

Shorter, an all-conference selection in his first two seasons in the Big East, was diagnosed with a rare viral infection that sidelined him until the season-opener with doctors predicting he wouldn't be at full strength until midseason.

"I couldn't jump as high or shoot as well when I was sick, but after this I feel good," Shorter said. "I think I'll get better as the season goes along."

Rebels remain atop AP poll; UTEP makes debut at No. 25

By The Associated Press

That UNLV remained No. 1 in the college basketball poll drew little reaction as the Runnin' Rebels held the spot every week since the season started.

Texas-El Paso, on the other hand, joined the poll Monday as No. 25, its first appearance in the rankings since a two-week stint in the 1987-88 season.

"Well I'll be darned," long-time Miners coach Don Haskins said when informed of the poll breakthrough.

It seems it takes a lot to get Haskins excited.

"I think everybody likes to be ranked," said the man who led a school then known as Texas Western to the national championship in 1966. "As I told the players today ... we'll find out if we belong when we take off on the road trip."

The road trip is the Miners' venture this weekend to Brigham Young and Utah.

St. Anthony's teams sweep two games against Walcott

The St. Anthony's sixth-grade boys' and girls' basketball teams took two wins from Walcott last week.

The Saints won the girls' contest 29-18 and came out with a 50-35 decision in the boys.

In the girls' game, St. Anthony's used an 11-2 edge in the third quarter to break the game open.

Walcott stayed with the Saints through the first half with the score tied at 2-2 after the opening period and 12-12 at the half before the Saints took a 23-14 advantage into the final quarter. St. Anthony's closed the game out with a 6-4 edge in the fourth.

Shawna Donjuan led the Saints with 19 points while Jennifer Jones and Annie Jackson added four each and Marissa Farr two.

Julie Rampley led Walcott with 11 points while Misty Wilson, Amy Perrin and Nellie Chavez had two apiece and Melissa Meyer one.

In the boys' game, the Saints raced to a 22-3 lead in the first quarter before the Wildcats could get going. The Saints added to the lead with a 14-12 edge in the second period to go up 36-15 at the half before Walcott came back with a 10-8 edge in the third period to trail 44-25 and outscored the Saints 10-6 in the fourth.

St. Anthony's was led by Arturo

No. 1 UNLV 95, San Jose State 63

The defending national champions won their 20th consecutive game with the easy home win. Larry Johnson led UNLV (9-0, 3-0) in the Big West meeting with 27 points and 11 rebounds as San Jose State (2-10, 0-3) lost its fifth straight. The Runnin' Rebels looked sloppy in the first half and San Jose State was within 11 points early in the second half before Johnson led a 13-2 run which put the game away. Terry Cannon led the Spartans with 14.

No. 20 Louisiana State 83, Georgia 76

Shaquille O'Neal scored 34 points, grabbed 16 rebounds and blocked seven shots as the Tigers (9-3, 2-1) won the Southeastern Conference home game. O'Neal, a 7-foot-1 sophomore, was held to four points over the game's opening 10 minutes, but turned it on as LSU took a 37-29 halftime lead. Litterial Green led the Bulldogs (8-5, 1-3), which shot 24-for-76 from the field, with 26 points.

No. 21 South Carolina 67, Louisville 64

The Gamecocks won for the first time ever in Freedom Hall as JoJo English hit a jumper in the lane with 10 seconds to play to break a 64-64 tie. South Carolina (11-2) won its Metro Conference opener as Louisville (5-5, 0-2) lost its fourth straight. Joe Rhett, Barry Manning and Jeff Roulston each had 16 points and English added 10 for South Carolina. Everick Sullivan led the Cardinals with 27 points.

No. 23 New Mexico State 80, Long Beach State 63

The Aggies extended their homecourt winning streak to 24 games. Randy Brown scored 18 points to lead New Mexico State (10-1, 2-0), which went on a 16-1 run in the second half to break the game open. The Aggies entered the game shooting just 61 percent from the free throw line, but went 26-for-31 for the game. Lucius Harris led the 49ers (4-8, 0-3) with 27 points.

Carolina - Nos. 5-6-7 a week ago - took advantage of losses by Syracuse and Arizona to move up to Nos. 3-4-5.

Indiana (14-1) had 1,407 points, 10 more than Ohio State (12-0), the only other unbeaten Division I team besides UNLV, while North Carolina (11-1) got 1,340 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Arizona (11-2), UCLA (12-1), Syracuse (13-1), Connecticut (10-1) and St. John's (10-1).

Kentucky moved from 16th to 11th and was followed by Oklahoma, Virginia, Duke, Georgetown, East Tennessee State, Pittsburgh, Nebraska, Southern Mississippi and LSU.

South Carolina led the final five ranked teams and was followed by Iowa, New Mexico State, Georgia Tech and Texas-El Paso.

Michigan State, which was fourth in the preseason poll, fell out of the rankings after losing to Iowa, the Spartans' fourth defeat of the season.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing to you because I see a problem with my daughter but I don't want to interfere. I am afraid if I confront her she will go over the edge. I'll heed your advice.

"Mary" is married and has two children who are now in their 20s. She devotes all her time to the children and is very much involved in their lives. She is not employed outside the home but her wonderful husband is working two jobs to bring in extra money.

Mary spends her days writing love letters for her daughter to give to her boyfriend. She is trying to create the perfect romance. When her children have friends over, Mary becomes "one of them," drinking and swearing and acting cool. She sleeps with her daughter because she's afraid if she sleeps with her husband she'll get pregnant.

Mary hasn't asked for help, but her husband has. She refuses to have an annual checkup, for fear the doctor will find cancer. (There is no history of cancer in our family.)

I don't know how much more her husband can take. She has no friends but she believes in your column and feels as if she knows you. Will you please give her some advice? We think she might listen. -- Distraught Mother

DEAR MOTHER: Mary needs to get a complete physical checkup to learn if there is some neurological problem that is causing her odd behavior. If she's OK physically, she needs to be seen by a psychologist and get into therapy. Unless she gets back on the track she will lose her husband and probably her children as well.

Mary, this is Ann talking. Please, dear, follow through on those suggestions. Your future happiness depends on it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have always been in favor of equal opportunity regardless of race, color or sex, but enough is enough. The idea that women should join men in combat is the craziest thing I've ever heard. Under no circumstances would I want my daughter to serve in a combat outfit.

I fought in all five campaigns in Europe during World War II. I was there from the invasion of Normandy to the fall of Berlin. I received the Silver Star and five Bronze Stars. Unless you've been through it there is no way you can imagine what combat is like. You have to experience it firsthand.

Combat means sleeping in a muddy foxhole, eating a can of beans for your main meal of the day, urinating and defecating where you happen to be and keeping your toilet paper on your head under your helmet because it's the only dry spot on your entire body when it rains. Combat means watching your buddy step on a land mine and get blown to pieces.

Women who have the crazy idea that they should be "treated equally" and allowed to fight alongside men don't know what they are asking for. I'm happy that the U.S. military will not permit it and I hope to God that policy never changes. -- Barry Ziff, former sergeant, 89th Infantry Division, Encino, Calif.

DEAR BARRY: Many women have been fighting for combat rights for years. Perhaps your letter will give them second or third thoughts. Thanks for using language that conveys the message effectively.

Gem of the Day: Education is what a fellow gets from reading the fine print. Experience is what he gets if he doesn't read it.

Ideas given for drawing up financial plan

It happens every year. Households all over America make up an annual budget and a firm resolution to stick to it. Unfortunately, by April, the next time most of us give in to the pressure to think seriously about financial management, we've already strayed hopelessly from the original plan and don't know how it happened.

The news here is that it's not you, it's the budget. Budgets can never be realistic because they are dependent on costs over which we have no control.

This does not mean, however, that you should throw up your hands and spend in a vacuum. Every household should establish a reasonable, flexible financial plan that they can adapt to their changing financial situation. The way to accomplish this goal is not to plan what you will spend and what you will save, but how you will spend and save.

First, you need to chart your income and expense. Using the standard categories--clothing, credit cards, entertainment, food, household maintenance, insurance, investments, legal/medical, taxes, utilities, and work/school--make a chart that records the monthly income and expenses for each. This will help you keep track of cash flow and it is an effective curb on overspending.

Review your investments. You are looking to see that the mix among cash savings, stocks and bonds, real estate (not including your home) and collectibles continues to reflect your short-and long-term savings goals.

Check up on your insurance. As your family/household situation changes, so do your insurance needs. This is especially true of disability insurance as you are more likely to become temporarily disabled rather than die during your working years. Most people need coverage that will pay 60 to 70 percent of their pretax earnings.

Contribute to a tax deferred retirement plan. Whether it's an individual or matched savings plan through your employer, everyone should have a retirement plan. If possible, make your maximum contribution at the beginning of the year so that it can reap the most interest.

Get the highest rate on your savings. Check around. Why should you let your savings sit in a 6.25 percent passbook account when some guaranteed funds are paying 9.2 percent?

Review your credit situation. Check your loan and credit card rates and fees for re-financing. Remember to look for the most value from your credit cards. Many come with enhancements that increase your buying power.

Check your estate plan. This means update your will. If, like almost two thirds of American adults, you don't have one, make one. Even if you are single, this will guarantee that your finances don't become someone else's problem.

If you review these guidelines annually, you won't be a slave to an annual budget with figures that are quickly outdated. Instead, you'll have a flexible plan that allows you to make your own decisions.

Napoleon was a well-known insomniac and had to get by on three or four hours of sleep a night.

Prices dip lower for beef, coffee, orange juice

Higher crude oil prices are raising food costs, but Texas consumers will get a January New Year's present -- lower prices on three staples: beef, coffee and orange juice.

"Many beef cuts will dip temporarily by about 10 percent a pound, frozen orange juice prices will decline about 20 percent and coffee costs will continue downward because of a 10 percent larger supply," said Dr. Dick Edwards, a food marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Edwards said the beef discounts will stem from a 10 percent larger supply of cattle being marketed in January and February.

"Cattle feeders placed larger numbers of animals on feed this fall and will be marketing these cattle in the next six to eight weeks," said Dr. Ernest E. Davis, Extension Service livestock marketing economist. "This will create a temporary glut on the market."

Edwards and Davis agreed that this will be a temporary situation. Beef prices will begin moving back up by late February or March.

Edwards said larger coffee supplies are driving prices down because coffee-producing nations are still bickering over marketing rights and quotas.

"Without a marketing agreement, the producing nations are price cutters," he said.

Edwards noted that a morning glass of orange juice may seem sweeter because the price is dropping.

"Within the past few weeks, orange juice prices have declined about 20 percent from those of this past summer," he said. This, plus forecasts of a good Florida crop, have lowered prices to below $1 for the popular 12-ounce can of frozen concentrate.

Other January sale items will be numerous, he said, but the most exciting food marketing event may be the Super Bowl parties around home television sets.

"Look for discounts on cheeses, dips, chips, crackers, soft drinks and mixes," Edwards said. "Cold cuts also will be on sale, with sliced turkey breast and ham discounted the most."

Produce variety for January is improving, he said, but will not rival the abundance in the summer months.

"Look for sales on fresh broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, green peas and cauliflower," he said, in addition to new-crop oranges and grapefruit from Florida.

Other appealing "soft" fruits will arrive from Chile, such as fresh peaches, plums and strawberries, but these will be more expensive, he cautioned.

"Costs of food transportation have increased greatly because of the oil price hikes, and all these costs will be passed on to consumers," Edwards said. "Foods that must be flown to the United States are running up costs at the check-out counter."

Canned vegetable supplies are much greater than in recent years because of the absence of a major 1990 drought, he said. Frozen vegetables are more adversely impacted by rising crude prices than canned produce, making canned food more of a bargain.

Soups will find favor on many cold-weather menus, and the hottest product will be microwavable ready-to-eat soups.

"Watch for a mammoth soup coupon blitz," he advised.

Lower beef prices will cause pork prices to drop to stay competitive.

"So look for reduced prices on pork chops and steaks as well as sausage," Edwards said. "Competitive poultry prices will continue much as they have for the past 12 months."

Weight control usually becomes a higher priority after the holidays, making fish entrees more popular.

"Catfish and shrimp will both be featured in some January sales," he said, "and catfish producers will continue to flood the market. Production increased more than 10 percent during the past year, a trend expected to continue in 1991."

Nonfood items that will be advertised specials in January include cough and cold remedies, facial tissues, flowers and container plants such as tulips and jade.

Couples seminar scheduled

Fred Gene and Linda Hill, professional marriage and family counselors, will conduct a seminar on "Couples Communication" on six consecutive Wednesday evenings beginning Jan. 23 and concluding Feb. 27, 7:30-9 p.m., at the Bishop DeFalco Retreat Center.

"Communication is the key to a healthy, satisfying relationship. It doesn't just happen but takes work and attention," Fred Hill said.

The total cost of the course is $80 and registration fee is $35. The balance of $45 is due at the first session or a couple may pay $15 per week the first three weeks.

The dates and topics during the six sessions include: Jan. 23, "Assessing Our Strengths"; Jan. 30, "Human Relations: The Basics"; Feb. 6, "Here I Am: Self-Awareness and Sharing"; Feb. 13, "Four Styles in Communication"; Feb. 20, "Negotiating So Both Win"; and Feb. 27, "Common Values: Here We Are."

Information is available through the Bishop DeFalco Retreat Center, 2100 North Spring, Amarillo, Texas 79107. Advance registration is encouraged.

Testing without destroying

Amazing product testing methods, developed by our nation's leading engineers, help increase profits--while improving product safety and reliability--at many companies and in many industries.

NDT, which stands for non-destructive testing, uses advanced technologies to test products without their damaging them or impairing their future usefulness. Tests may be performed to detect internal or external flaws, to measure geometric characteristics, or to determine the object's or material's structure, composition or properties. These tests enable materials to be inspected and ensured correct prior to production, thereby reducing manufacturing downtime and saving money. They also ensure that optimum standards of product quality and reliability can be maintained.

Among the industries already benefiting from the use of NDT are aerospace, automotive, chemical, petroleum, aviation, food processing, security, transportation, rubber and nuclear.

Here are just a few examples of NDT:

* Radiography: Radiography involves the use of penetrating X or gamma radiation to examine parts and products for imperfections. Radiation is directed through a part and onto film where imperfections show up.

* Liquid penetrant: Probably the most widely used NDT method. The test object or material is coated with a visible or fluorescent dye solution. The excess dye is removed from the surface and then a developer is applied. The developer acts like a blotter and draws penetrant out of imperfections which are open to the surface.

* Eddy current: In eddy current testing, electrical currents are generated in a conductive material by an induced magnetic field. Interruptions in the flow of the electric currents--eddy currents--which are caused by imperfections or changes in a material's conductive properties, will cause changes in the induced magnetic field.

The American Society for Non-destructive Testing (ASNT), which has over 9,000 members in 93 chapters throughout the United States and three foreign countries, provides a forum for exchanging technical information, provides educational materials and programs and provide training, standards and services for the qualification of NDT personnel. It also sponsors conferences, trade shows and seminars and has an extensive publications department.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.90 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy charge, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.26	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.59	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

BY BOB WEAR
 We may not always accomplish all we wish to accomplish; however, it is important that we do our best in what we do, because the realization that we have done our best is a source of great strength and satisfaction. Of course, it is not always easy to accept our limitations; but we do have limitations and it is important to our well being to identify these, the best we can, and form our expectations accordingly. We hear people say that we can do anything we desire to do, if our desire is great enough; but this is not true.
 Our best may not be as good as that of somebody else, and it may be better than that of others. Nevertheless, it is important to us that we do our best and be happy with doing so. Measuring ourselves by others, and comparing ourselves with one another is not recommended. We know that because of individual differences, some persons will accomplish more than others; and there will be other differences, such as opportunities and luck. This is no justification for being upset. In fact, we should be thankful for these differences; because no one person can do all of the things which must be done. "I do the very best I know how, the very best I can, and I mean to keep on doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me will not amount to anything. If the end brings me our wrong, ten legions of angels swearing I was right would make no difference." - A. Lincoln.

 According to authorities who study human behavior, very few, if any, put forth 'our best effort' in many of the things we try to do. We know that some things we do are more important than others; however, 'doing our best' should be a constancy. It has been said, "Anything worth doing is worth doing well." This is not a life of undesirable rigidity, but is the quality we call, "Pride in our work."
 We must be our best, in order to do our best.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

- All 172 pages in full color
- Each page measures a large 15 x 11 inches
- Presents the entire state in stunning detail
- Appendices and specialty maps of many different features

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Baseball HOF electees to be announced today

NEW YORK (AP) - Sometime tonight a small group of players will find out what it takes to get into the Hall of Fame.

Most, such as Dick Allen, Orlando Cepeda and Jim Kaat, will have to wait for another year.

Ferguson Jenkins, Gaylord Perry and Jim Bunning think they belong right now. So do first-timers Rod Carew and Rollie Fingers.

This year, more than 450 eligible members of the Baseball Writers Association of America were asked to vote on the qualifications of 45 names on the 1991 ballot. The results will be announced tonight at 11 p.m. EST.

The Hall of Fame is a fairly exclusive club and there are no automatic qualifications.

Sometimes the decision for the voter is easy. Take Carew, for example. He retired after the 1985 season with a lifetime average of .328 and 3,053 hits.

"Carew had great hand action, probably as good as anyone who swung a bat," said Bill Rigney, one of Carew's managers at Minnesota. "He always used the entire field. Because he could bunt so well, he brought the third baseman in close. He made the defense come to him instead of the other way around."

Carew, who also played for California, led the American League in batting seven times.

In the cases where a player doesn't have 3,000 hits or 500 homers, the voting can be somewhat subjective.

While some voters may consider Cepeda a Hall of Famer, others regard him as a good-hitting first baseman. In 17 seasons, Cepeda had a .297 average, 379 homers and 1,365 RBIs.

Do 224 victories, including 100 wins and 1,000 strikeouts in each league and a no-hitter in each league, qualify for the Hall of Fame? The answer is apparently no.

HERD HOOPS

Both teams lit up the scoreboard in the second period with Pampa holding a 19-16 edge and a 33-22 lead at the half.

Pampa maintained the margin through the third quarter as both teams scored 17 points for a 50-39 score entering the final period.

Hereford outscored pampa 16-11 over the final six minutes, but could never completely close the gap.

Hereford had three players finish in double figures, led by Michael Brown with 17 points while Ashley Noland added 12 and Joe De La Cruz with an 11-10 edge in the second to tie the game at 16-16 at the half.

With the score tied at 20-20 early in the third, Hereford went on an 8-2 run to take control and held on as Pampa posted a 12-11 edge in the final quarter.

Hereford was led by Brian Betzen with 17 points and Marquis Brown with 12. Michael High added eight 10. Coy Laing finished with nine points while Richard Hicks getting four and Michael Marquez three.

Pampa 45, 8th boys White 36
Pampa used an 18-7 edge in the second quarter to overcome Hereford's 11-8 first-quarter edge and take a 26-18 halftime lead.

Pampa added a point to its advantage with a 12-11 third quarter to go up 38-29 before matching Hereford with a 7-7 fourth.

Gilbert Hernandez led the Herd with 11 points with Benton Buckley adding seven and Josh Gamboa five. Wade Backus and Cody Curtis had four points each while Marc Haney had three and Homer Hamilton two.

8th girls Maroon 24, Pampa 23
Hereford outscored Pampa 6-3 at the free throw line, making half of 12 chances while Pampa missed 10 times in the game.

Pampa took a 7-4 lead in the first quarter and upped the advantage to 14-10 at halftime with a 7-6 edge in the second.

Hereford shaved a point off the margin in the third with a 6-5 edge to trail 19-16 before outscoring Pampa 8-4 over the final six minutes.

Hereford was led by Brooke Bryant with eight points and Kasi Reinart with seven while Beth Weatherly added four, Clarissa Ramirez three and Bree Perrin two.

8th girls White 26; Pampa 3
Hereford held Pampa to a single field goal in the game and shut the home team out in the first and fourth quarters to cruise to the win.

The Herd took a 4-0 lead in the opening quarter and upped the margin to 12-1 at the half with an 8-1 edge in the second period.

Hereford added another point to the lead with a 3-2 advantage in the third before closing the game with an 11-0 run in the fourth.

Hereford was led by Jenece Baros with 12 points. Erin Dunn and Mindy Salazar added three points each with Kit Jones, Stephanie Wilson, Sarah Perrin and Crystal Kelley scoring two apiece.

7th boys Maroon 41, Pampa 36
Hereford broke open a tight game with a 14-8 edge in the third quarter. The Herd took a 6-5 lead after the first period before Pampa came back Bunning is in the final year of eligibility on the ballot and doesn't figure to make it in 1991, either. He retired second only to Walter Johnson with 2,885 strikeouts.

There was a time when 300 victories and 3,000 strikeouts were considered an unofficial automatic qualification for Cooperstown, like the 500 homers for a hitter. But, so far, those numbers haven't been enough to get Perry into the Hall of Fame.

Perry, 314-265 and 3,534 strikeouts lifetime, is the only pitcher ever to win the Cy Young Award in both leagues.

How about 284 victories, 3,192 strikeouts, six consecutive 20-victory seasons and a Cy Young Award? For Jenkins, it hasn't been quite the ticket to fame.

The holdovers from last year's ballot in addition to Perry, Jenkins and Bunning include: Allen, Bobby Bonds, Ken Boyer, Cepeda, Curt Flood, Kaat, Harvey Kuenn, Mickey Lolich, Bill Mazeroski, Minnie Mioso, Thurman Munson, Tony Oliva, Vada Pinson, Ron Santo, Luis Tiant, Joe Torre and Maury Wills.

Cepeda, Kaat, Mazeroski, Allen, Pinson and Oliva will get some votes - just nowhere near enough to make it. Hall of Fame qualifications mean different things to different people. For fielding fans, there's Mazeroski; for batting believers, Oliva.

Oliva, a teammate of Carew in Minnesota, had a lifetime average of .304 and led the AL in batting with a .323 average in his rookie year of 1964. Oliva, who also led the AL in 1965 with a .321 mark, is the only player ever to win batting titles in his first two full seasons.

Kaat won 283 games. Allen hit 351 homers - most to the moon. Mazeroski may have been the best defensive second baseman ever and Pinson had 2,757 hits.

points with David Sims getting four, Scot Shaw two and Michael Kriegshauser one.

7th boys White 44, Pampa 33
Hereford raced out to an 11-5 first-quarter lead and took command of the game with an 18-5 run in the second to lead 29-11 at the half.

The Herd increased the lead to as much as 22 points early in the third before Pampa ended the quarter with a 12-5 edge to trail 36-23.

Pampa posted a 10-8 advantage in the fourth quarter.

Hereford was led by Ronald Torres with 13 points and Wade McPherson with 11. Joe Ricenbaw, Josh Bullard and Martin Martinez added four points each while Todd Radford, David Farr, Todd Dudley and Armando Zambrano had two apiece.

7th girls Maroon 38, Pampa 10
Hereford wasted little time in deciding the issue with an 8-2 lead in the first quarter.

The Herd increased the lead to 18-7 at the half with a 10-5 edge in the second before holding Pampa to three points the entire second half.

Hereford went on a 12-0 run in the third quarter to take a 30-7 lead into the final six minutes before outscoring Pampa 8-3 in the fourth quarter.

Carlotta Ruiz led the Herd with eight points with Deanna McCracken and Tarabeth Holmes adding six each. Jill Laing, Natalie McWhorter and Jami Bell scored four points apiece while Crystal Mercer had three, Lyndsi Ames two and Aimee Alley one.

Pampa 34, 7th girls White 26
Pampa broke the game open with a 14-2 run in the third quarter and held off a Hereford rally in the fourth to take the win.

Pampa outscored the Herd 8-6 in the first quarter and added another 8-6 edge in the second to lead 16-12 at the half.

Pampa exploded for a 30-14 lead in the third before Hereford came back with a 12-4 run in the fourth to get back in the game.

Hereford was led by Mindy Davis with 12 points while Monica Donjuan added six with Heather Hodges and Shay Henderson getting four each.

Carter weary of battling UIL

AUSTIN (AP) - Students and coaches at Dallas Carter High School are weary of controversy over their 1988 Class 5A football championship trophy, says the Dallas Independent School District athletic director.

"As far as I personally am concerned, I'm through with it," John Kincaide said Monday.

Dallas Carter is first on the agenda when the University Interscholastic League's State Executive Committee meets Thursday.

"I'm not sure what the district is going to do formally and officially, but from the kids' point of view, the coaches' point of view ... we're tired of talking about 1988 football," Kincaide said. "We're not ready to give it up. We're tired of fighting about it."

UIL director Bailey Marshall will ask the committee to uphold a 1988 ruling by the panel asking Dallas Carter to forfeit all 1988 games after Oct. 10 of that year. The Cowboys played an ineligible player, according to the UIL.

Marshall said the State Executive Committee likely will tell Dallas Carter to return the trophy to the UIL and to make a good-faith effort to collect the trophy and medals from the players and send them back.

Dallas Carter was temporarily forced out of the 1988 football playoffs when state Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby ruled that the school violated the no-pass, no-play law by changing an algebra grade for one of its better players, Gary Edwards, from failing to passing.

Under the no-pass, no-play law, a student must pass all classes to be eligible for extracurricular activities.

But on Nov. 18, 1988, hours after Kirby's ruling, state District Judge Paul Davis of Austin issued a temporary restraining order that enabled Carter to continue in the playoffs.

The following month, Davis forbade Kirby from determining Edwards' eligibility, and he forbade the UIL from knocking Carter out of the playoffs.

The UIL appealed to stay Davis' temporary injunction, which was denied by the 3rd Court of Appeals on Dec. 9, 1988.

On Dec. 17, Carter won the 5A football title by defeating Converse Judson, 31-14.

In July 1989, Davis again ruled in favor of Carter and filed a permanent injunction against the TEA and UIL, which was appealed.

On Oct. 3, 1990, the 3rd Court of Appeals dismissed the case as moot and set aside Davis' decision that prevented the TEA and UIL from declaring Carter ineligible for the playoffs.

The 3rd Court later denied a motion by the Dallas school district to clarify or modify its Oct. 3 ruling in which both sides claimed victory, or to be granted a rehearing.

Montana picks up MVP award

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) - Joe Montana rose above the intense pressure that went with chasing a third consecutive Super Bowl title.

So when Montana was selected as the NFL's Most Valuable Player by The Associated Press for the second straight year on Monday, it was that pressure Montana played through in 1990 that made San Francisco 49ers coach George Seifert appreciate his quarterback even more.

"He had the pressure of this season, and to lead the team to the record we had is a real credit to Joe," Seifert said. "People coming after us the way they have, and for him to stand up to it and bring us back at the end of so many ballgames this year makes him well-deserving."

And Seifert already appreciated Montana plenty. Having a Montana around certainly made the coaching transition from Bill Walsh to Seifert easier in 1989. Wisely, Seifert recognized that and continually has consulted Montana on offensive strategies.

"Being a defensive coach, basically, it can't be measured how helpful it is to have someone like Joe," Seifert said. "I can't imagine there being a more valuable player to any team."

Montana's presence rubs off on those who surround him in the 49ers huddle.

"Joe has this special ability to give you confidence in everything he says and does," teammate Roger Craig said. "The man is a leader and a winner. We never go onto the field thinking about the negatives. We always keep a positive frame of mind. Joe is a big reason for that."

Montana may have led the 49ers to a 14-2 record, but he preferred to credit those around him for putting him in position to win the award.

"An honor such as this one is really gratifying because it doubles as praise for the entire team, not just one player," he said.

"It actually goes further. This award is also a tribute to George Seifert and his staff."
