HISD gets TEA okay

Hereford's public schools have been given full, unencumbered accreditation by the Texas Education Agency, according to a letter from TEA received Thursday.

Hereford Superintendent Charles Greenawalt said the letter, dated Jan. 8, indicated the team that visited Hereford in October was satisfied with progress made by the district in the past year.

The Hereford Independent School District had been placed on "accredited-advised" status after a 1989 visit in which an accreditation team of TEA officials and administrators from other schools cited 22 areas for the district to improve.

Since the original visit, the district has taken action or implemented plans to correct the shortcomings cited by the original team.

"The team (in October 1990) was pleased with the progress it saw, and our status has been raised from accredited-advised to fully accredited," said Greenawalt. Greenawalt said there were still three "very minor" areas the district will strive to correct.

For what it's worth, and it may not be much, we'll pass along a report on religious affiliation of the Texas delegation in U.S. Congress. Denomination is considered a factor of how a congressional representative will vote on such issues as school prayer, aid to church schools, abortion, etc. On other issues, however, religious affiliation is only a moderate voting predictor, according to Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

If denomination has any effect on issues, then the Methodists are in the front-row seats!

Twelve of Texas' 27 seats in the U.S. House of Representatives will be filled by United Methodists in this session. Four Catholics, three Baptists, three Presbyterians, two Episcopalians, one Christian Scientist, one Lutheran and one Jew complete the Texas delegation.

In the Senate, Demo Lloyd Bentsen is a Presbyterian and Republican Phil Gramm is an Episcopalian. Religious affiliations of House and Senate members were reported in the special November 1990 edition of "Congressional Yellow Book."

Ten of the 19 Democrats and two of the eight Republicans in the House from Texas are Methodists. However, the Methodists are the state's third largest denomination with about 800,000. Roman Catholics report about 3.5 million adherents in Texas, while the Southern Baptist Convention has about 2.6 million Texas members.

Among all 535 members of the 102nd Congress, the Catholics lead the way with 142, followed by Methodists with 93. Next are Baptists(59), Episcopalians(59), Presbyterians(51), Jews(41), Protestants(30), Lutherans(22), Mormons(13), United Church of Christ(12), and Unitarians(10). Eighteen members belong to other denominations, while five report no religious affiliation.

Lewis says tax increase likely

AUSTIN (AP) - A state property tax is the answer to court demands for fair school funding, said House Speaker Gib Lewis, who gave 50-50 odds that Texas taxes will be raised this legislative session to meet a budget shortfall.

The chance for higher taxes remains the same even if a lottery is approved and the Legislature passes a one-year budget, rather than the traditional two-year plan, Lewis said.

"No matter what, I think you've still got your problem," he said. To meet the state's obligations through fiscal year 1993, lawmakers need an additional $4.2 billion.

Gov.-elect Ann Richards, who takes office Tuesday, has said she wants lawmakers to put a lottery proposal before voters by April to boost state revenue.

The one-year budget proposed by Lt. Gov.-elect Bob Bullock would allow time to audit state programs. Lewis expressed some concern about it, saying he wouldn't want lawmakers to spend all the money the first year.

On school finance, Lewis was asked Thursday about a proposal to replace most of the local school property tax with a statewide property levy for education.

"The more I hear about it, the more I'm liking it," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

The Texas Supreme Court scrapped the school finance system in 1989, and lawmakers passed a reform law last year. But a state judge said the law didn't go far enough to change the system, which relies on local property taxes, state aid and some federal money.

The case again is before the Supreme Court on appeal.

"I think it's going to be the only way that we will ever be able to satisfy the court as far as equalization," said Lewis of the state property tax proposal.

But he added, "It's going to be a very, very difficult proposal to sell." If passed by lawmakers, the proposed constitutional amendment would require voter approval.

Lewis said it would be hard to get through the regular session without a tax increase, and that he is asking House committee chairmen to look at tax reform.

The state franchise tax puts an unfair load on some businesses, Lewis said, calling it "terrible." Richards also supports franchise tax changes.

A corporate profits tax is one of several options for reforming the state's business tax, Lewis said.

The least likely candidate for an increase is the state sales tax, boosted to 6 percent last year, he said.

State leaders have discussed a hiring and spending freeze for state agencies, to prevent agency officials from speeding up spending as the end of the current budget year approaches Aug. 31.

But Lewis said a newspaper report on that proposal had hurt chances for an effective hiring freeze. He said he fears state agencies will rush to hire employees before any freeze could take effect.

UN chief pessimistic about Iraq

By BRIAN MURPHY
Associated Press Writer

With time and hope for peace running out, the U.N. chief stopped in Europe today to prepare for what could be the final peace mission to Baghdad before next week's U.N. deadline for Iraq to leave Kuwait or face a possible attack.

Increasing fears of war in the region prompted the U.S. Embassy in Israel to urge American citizens to leave the Jewish state, which Saddam Hussein has repeatedly threatened to attack if war breaks out.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Don Cofman estimated the number of Americans in Israel and the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip at between 70,000 and 100,000.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein reiterated today he will not pull out of Kuwait without a settlement of the Palestinian problem.

U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said he was not bringing a specific plan to Saddam this weekend. But he said he was exploring U.N. supervision of a simultaneous pullout of Iraqi troops from Kuwait and the U.S.-led multinational force arrayed against the Iraqis in the Persian Gulf region.

"Once the withdrawal is agreed upon I think I will propose the participation of the U.N. force, I mean U.N. peacekeeping operations," Perez de Cuellar told reporters in Geneva. He was responding to questions about what U.N. peacekeeping role he envisaged in a resolution of the gulf crisis.

Speaking four days before the U.N. deadline for Iraq to pull out of Kuwait, Perez de Cuellar said: "I hope I will find a wish for peace (in Baghdad). I don't dare say I'm optimistic, but even so I hold out hope."

Saddam's defiant speech came before hundreds of Muslim scholars attending a conference in Baghdad. He said he was certain of victory because his armed forces had "combat experience, unlike the Americans using military manuals."

His information minister also denied American news reports that Saddam may wait several days past the Tuesday deadline before announcing his support "in principle" to leave Kuwait.

The New York Times today reported Iraq would ask for an international peace conference that includes the Palestinian dispute in Israeli-occupied lands, and also seek negotiations with Kuwait. The report quoted Arab diplomats.

In other developments: -The bellicose Iraqi statements sent oil prices in London up from earlier lows today. North Sea Brent Blend, the most widely traded international oil, for February delivery was quoted at $25.90 a barrel

Saddam rules out withdrawal

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein today ruled out a withdrawal from Kuwait without settlement of the Palestinian problem, dampening hope that the U.N. secretary general would succeed in his last-ditch effort to defuse the crisis.

Saddam spoke to Muslim scholars attending a conference in Baghdad to display support for Iraq in the Persian Gulf standoff. His defiant speech, a recording of which was made available to The Associated Press by conference sources, came one day before the U.N. chief, Javier Perez de Cuellar, was due to land in Baghdad in a final bid to convince the Iraqis to leave Kuwait.

Saddam boasted in his speech that he has mobilized 60 divisions, or 600,000-700,000 men, for a potential war after the United Nations Jan. 15 deadline for a withdrawal.

He also said he was certain of victory in the event of war because his armed forces had "combat experience, unlike the Americans using military manuals."

Saddam was alluding to the eight-year war against Iraq which ended only two years ago.

after Saddam's comments, up from $25.25 earlier in the morning.

-In Washington, Congress was to continue debate today on whether to give President Bush authority to take military action against Iraq after the U.N. deadline. Bush, taking "nothing for granted," today lobbied intensely for congressional approval of the resolution. The White House said it was unclear whether he had the needed votes in either chamber.

-Saudi Arabia pledged today to bear 40 percent to 50 percent of the military costs for the multinational buildup in the gulf. U.S. and Saudi officials refused to name a price tag on the contribution. Prince Bandar, the Saudi ambassador to the United States, announced the pledge after Secretary of State James A. Baker III met in Riyadh with Saudi officials.

-Baker said the "path to peace" was still open despite no apparent breakthrough in his talks Wednesday with Iraq's foreign minister, Tariq Aziz.

Bluebonnet kids receive certificates from DARE

One hundred sixth graders at Bluebonnet School in Hereford received completion certificates Thursday to end their 17-week Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program.

The program is taught by Hereford police officer Bruce Lee to sixth graders in Hereford. In its third year, the program was begun in Los Angeles and is now being taught in many schools across the country.

The program is popular with the kids.

"The kids come to school on DARE day," said Bluebonnet Principal Howard Birdwell. "They're all here for DARE. We checked the attendance last year on DARE day and we had 99.9 percent attendance on each day through the semester. We see very few of our sixth grade children for discipline problems while DARE is being taught, and that is a plus."

The students had to compile a notebook of items learned in DARE that are designed to help them say no when confronted with drugs or other abusable substances, and each wrote an essay on what was learned in DARE. Seven of the essays were read aloud at Thursday's ceremony.

The students also received a DARE t-shirt provided by Kentucky Fried Chicken, the national corporate sponsor for DARE.

WASHINGTON - Congress is in the throes of a tortuous war-and-peace debate over whether to give President Bush authority to unleash military force to oust Iraq from Kuwait. Bush himself - and even the American public - have joined the fray.

PERSIAN GULF - France intensifies meetings with Arab and U.N. officials in a bid to defuse the Persian Gulf crisis four days before the deadline for Iraq to quit Kuwait. U.S. officials meet with Arab allies in the gulf while Congress debates war.

WASHINGTON - If President Bush unleashes U.S. firepower in the Persian Gulf, the first blows against Iraq probably will be inflicted by U.S. stealth fighters and strike planes that can drop a million pounds of explosives a day.

ACROSS THE USA - Less than a week before fighting could erupt in the Persian Gulf, a vibrant anti-war movement is flourishing in America's churches, workplaces and streets, striving to stop a war that hasn't begun.

WASHINGTON - The government is ordering an anti-terrorism watch as the Mideast crisis deepens, warning nuclear plants to be on guard and photographing and fingerprinting everyone entering the United States on Iraqi or Kuwaiti passports.

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia - It sat on the conference table - a letter from the president of the United States to the president of Iraq. Its exact contents are still a secret. But not the overall message: Withdraw your 500,000 troops from Kuwait by next Tuesday or risk the probability of war. And Baker still has it, undelivered.

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. - In a sharpened conflict between the Kremlin and rebellious republics, Lithuanian leaders reject President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's demand to suspend a secession drive or face possible presidential rule.

TEXAS

WASHINGTON - Security awareness is being heightened at nuclear power plants, refineries and petrochemical plants, and law enforcement agencies around Texas because of the threat of terrorism if the United States goes to war against Iraq.

AUSTIN - A consumer group said Texas citizens and lawmakers will be watching the State Board of Insurance as it considers increasing automobile insurance premiums by 23.3 percent, or nearly $1 billion.

Soviet troops storm nationalist protesters

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (AP) - Soviet troops today seized Lithuania's security forces headquarters and moved to take over the main television tower and press center in the secessionist republic, a Lithuanian government spokeswoman said.

Soldiers fired at employees in the Lithuanian National Security Department building and at a crowd gathered around the press center, but no one was hurt, government spokeswoman Rita Dapkus said in a telephone interview.

Ms. Dapkus said an ambulance was called to the press center where Lithuanian nationalists holding hands were massed around the building. She said some of the people were reportedly beaten.

Tensions have been building in the Baltic republic since Monday, when the Defense Ministry announced that crack paratroopers would be used in Lithuania and six other rebellious republics to enforce the military draft.

Thousands of paratroopers have reportedly been activated, including 1,000 in Lithuania, the republic most advanced and radical in its independence drive.

President Mikhail S. Gorbachev on Thursday indicated he might impose direct presidential rule unless Lithuania complied with the national laws it has flouted since declaring independence on March 11.

Lithuanian nationalists have been guarding the republic's parliament buildings for two days, fearing an attack by the Red Army or Russian nationalists opposed to Lithuanian independence.

Ms. Dapkus, a spokeswoman for the Information Bureau of the Lithuanian parliament, said Soviet troops seized the National Security Department, three miles outside of Vilnius, early today.

She said many employees of the department, responsible for security and defense within the republic, escaped.

Twenty minutes later, troops moved on the press center - the city's publishing house - and on the TV tower, she said.

"The reaction of (Lithuanians) is very worried because there's shooting going on," she said.

Lithuanian Radio broadcast live reports of the troop movements, and Lithuanians flocked to the affected building, Ms. Dapkus said.

Hundreds of Lithuanian nationalists held an all-night vigil in and around the republic's parliament buildings, after Gorbachev's warning to lawmakers that he faces increasing pressure to declare presidential rule in the republic.

Classrooms may be contaminated

AUSTIN (AP) - Thousands of Texas school children are exposed to toxic chemical pesticides in their own schools, according to a study by the consumer and environmental organization Public Citizen.

"That's bad news for Texas school children, who go to school hoping to learn - not to get sick from pesticide chemicals," Joan Claybrook, president of Public Citizen, said Thursday.

Five out of six school districts surveyed by the group received a grade of C-minus or lower on their pest control methods.

Public Citizen gave the Houston school district a D; Brazosport,

D-plus; Austin, Wichita Falls, and Cleburne, C-minus; and Conroe, B-plus.

The report said Texas schools regularly douse school buildings with dangerous neurotoxic and cancer-causing pesticides, and that state law provides little, if any, regulations.

The six surveyed school districts rely heavily on neurotoxic pesticides, such as Dursban, which can cause a person to suffer from headaches, dizziness, nausea and even coma, the group said.

Most schools surveyed make no effort to notify staff or parents before applying pesticides, and none have a policy of posting signs when pesticides have been sprayed, according to the report.

James Scott, a researcher for Public Citizen of Texas, said safe alternatives to using dangerous pesticides are available.

"Preventive measures are always the best. These include closing up cracks in walls and keeping pest-infested areas free of food," he said.

"If schools use pesticides at all, they should use the least toxic chemicals available," he said.

Public Citizen said the Texas study, called "Contaminated Classrooms," is the first installment of a national survey of pesticide use in public schools.

Bathroom ads become big business

WASHINGTON (AP) - Chris Tavarides promises business clients that people will be standing in line to read their advertisements, and he's not kidding.

Tavarides is president of Bathroom Billboards, a company that places advertising placards over the restroom urinals and toilets of restaurants, night clubs, bars and movie theaters.

There, he says, the ads are almost unavoidably read by any customer who heeds the call of nature.

"Regardless of whether you're interested or not, you'll read it because there's nothing else to do," says Tavarides, a 22-year-old business graduate of George Washington University.

"Also, some people are uncomfortable sharing a public bathroom with others, and this gives them something to occupy their time," he said.

In his sales pitch to prospective clients, Tavarides boasts "a captive audience for a prolonged period of time" and "close-up, high-impact placement" with "maximum exposure" for their ads.

A year after they opened their business in a residential garage in northwest Washington, Tavarides and his partner, cousin John Polis, 23, are flushed with success, so to speak.

They've signed contracts to mount billboards in the restrooms of 105 businesses from metropolitan Washington to the beach resort of Ocean City, Md., on behalf of four advertisers - a brewery, a rock-music radio station, a Washington newspaper and a local office supply company.

The framed ads, mounted behind shatter-proof plexiglass, are being installed in establishments ranging from Duke Zeibert's, an upscale restaurant favored by Washington power lunchers, to the Good Guys striptease bar.

Tavarides charges clients an average of $100 a month for placing eight ads in men's and women's restrooms in a restaurant, which gets a cut of the revenues.

He says the ads will be seen several times - over the urinals, in the toilet stalls, above the wash basins - by an average of 25,000 visitors a month.

Tavarides said one university study concluded that the average person spends 1.5 minutes to 2 minutes lingering in the loo. That's plenty of time to peruse the wall graffiti, he reckoned, so why not substitute a few billboard ads?

People are much more likely to pay attention to a sales pitch at potty time than a TV commercial or a magazine ad, Tavarides said.

Morales takes oath as attorney general

AUSTIN (AP) - The swearing-in of Attorney General Dan Morales marked a milestone for Texas, according to the first Hispanic to win statewide election here in modern history.

"Dan, this is truly a great day for Texas, and especially for those of us who are of Hispanic background," Supreme Court Justice Raul Gonzalez said Thursday before he administered the oath of office to Morales, 34.

Morales, who was sworn in privately last week, became the first Hispanic to win election to a statewide non-judicial position. Gonzalez was elected in 1986.

"I'm told that two things happen to newly elected officials in Texas. First you get sworn in, then you get cussed out," Morales said. "So if you hear a little cussing from the consumer fraud offices, environmental polluters, (and) child support dodgers in our state, you'll know that I'm doing the job you elected me to do."

Morales took the oath of office on a Bible he gave to his parents, Henry and Felicia Morales, on their 24th wedding anniversary in 1979. A standing-room-only crowd of nearly 1,000 people cheered as they witnessed Thursday's ceremony.

Former attorney general Jim Mattox, who ran unsuccessfully for governor last year, was given a standing ovation before the rite. Also present were Gov.-elect Ann Richards, Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison and House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

Morales said as attorney general, he hopes to expand opportunities available to all Texans.

"Over the next four years, we are going to test the limits of state government. We are going to make state government a catalyst for change," he said.

"I call upon Texans of all ages, all backgrounds, all cultures and traditions to join in this historic effort to begin building a diverse political structure which will lead Texas into the 21st century."

Morales had the crowd laughing when he read several letters from elementary school children. One young girl wrote, "I know you are going to be in history books. I know you are attorney general of Texas. I know you are going to be rich. Mr. Morales, I love you."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just came across your "Twelve Rules for Raising Children." There's no date on it, but it's at least 20 years old. My mother must have clipped it when she was raising me. I am using it as a guide to raise my three children. Please run it again. -- Margaret Benson, Cincinnati, Ohio

DEAR MARGARET: With pleasure. Here it is:

Twelve Rules For Raising Children

Remember that a child is a gift from God, the richest of all blessings. Do not attempt to mold him in the image of yourself, your father, your mother, your brother, or your neighbor. Each child is an individual and should be permitted to be himself.

Don't crush a child's spirit when he fails. And never compare him with others who have done better.

Remember that anger and hostility are natural emotions. Help your child find socially acceptable outlets for these feelings or they may be turned inward and create physical or emotional problems.

Discipline your child with firmness and reason. Don't let your anger throw you off balance. If he knows you are fair, you will not lose his respect or his love. Make sure the punishment fits "the crime." Even the youngest child has a keen sense of justice.

Present a united front. Never join with your child against your husband or your wife. This creates emotional conflicts and generates destructive feelings of guilt, confusion and insecurity.

Do not give your child everything his little heart desires. Permit him to know the thrill that comes from earning something. Do not deny him the greatest pleasure of all, the satisfaction that comes from achievement.

Do not set yourself up as a model of perfection. This is a difficult role to play 24 hours a day. You will find it easier to communicate with your child if he knows that Mom and Pop make mistakes, too.

Don't make threats in anger or glowing promises when you are in a generous mood. Threaten or promise only what you can deliver. To a child, a parent's word means everything. If he loses faith in his parents, he will have difficulty believing in anything.

Do not smother your child with gifts and lavish surprises. The purest and the healthiest love expressed itself in day-in, day-out discipline. Consistency builds self-confidence, trust and a strong base for character development.

Teach your child there is dignity in hard work, whether it is performed with a shovel or with delicate fingers that hold surgical instruments. Let him know that a useful life is a rewarding one and that a life of ease and pleasure seeking is empty and meaningless.

Do not try to protect your child against every blow and disappointment. Allow him to get a few lumps; adversity strengthens character and makes us compassionate. Trouble is the great equalizer, the common denominator of living. He is bound to have some trouble in his life. Let him learn how to handle it.

Teach your child to love God and to love his fellow man. Don't SEND your child to a place of worship -- TAKE him there. Children learn from example. Faith in God can be his strength and his light when all else fails. -- Ann Landers

Indigent health care improvements needed

The state's health-care delivery system is at risk of being overwhelmed by the cost of uncompensated care despite efforts of the medical community to meet the needs of the poor, a report issued recently by a physician task force concludes.

The Texas Medical Association Task Force on Indigent Health Care urges improved availability of health insurance and expanded Medicaid eligibility to reduce the number of medically indigent Texans.

"The health-care system is being strained to its limits by uncompensated care delivered to uninsured and underinsured Texans," the report states. "The damage done to the health-care delivery system because of escalating uncompensated care levels is hard to estimate but must be addressed."

More than 3 million Texans have no health insurance and another 3.73 million cannot pay the difference between what they are billed and what insurance pays.

Figures compiled by the task force show that Texas physicians provided $159 million in uncompensated care in 1987 and $1.7 billion in uncompensated care was provided by not-for-profit and public hospitals in 1988. According to a recent State Auditor's report, $4.9 billion was spent on the medically indigent in 1988.

An article in the December issue of Texas Medicine, TMA's official news magazine, highlights the effort of several physicians involved in ensuring that indigent patients in their communities get needed medical care.

Among those physicians is Dr. Henry Moore, who spends two evenings each week treating indigent patients at a free clinic he helped establish in Seguin; Dr. Fred Phillips, a retired Livingston pediatrician who has volunteered more than 2,000 hours of service in treating poor children since leaving active practice in 1981; and Dr. Dixie Melillo, co-founder of a non-profit organization which has provided free and low-cost mammograms for low-income women in Houston since 1986.

"In spite of these vast contributions to our complex health-care delivery system, Texans still face numerous barriers to receiving both basic health and mental health care," the report states.

Among those barriers are the lack of health insurance coverage, inadequate coverage for the poor under Medicaid, low reimbursement rates for physicians and other healthcare providers, and a shortage of physicians in rural and inner city areas. Also, there have been excessive delays in implementation of the indemnification provisions of the Omnibus Health Care Rescue Act, which were designed to encourage physician participation in indigent care programs.

The task force recommends legislative action to make health insurance more affordable and available for the working poor, expand Medicaid eligibility to cover more of those who live below the federal poverty level, provide full benefits under Medicaid for treatment of mental illness, and increase Medicaid physician fees and reduce administrative hassles to encourage physicians to participate in the program.

Other recommendations include legislative and regulatory action to encourage physician and medical student members. It is based in Austin and has 119 component county medical societies around the state. The Association represents 82 percent of the doctors of medicine licensed and residing in Texas and its goal is to improve the health of Texans through professional and personal development of its members.

MEAT, SPUDS AND LIPSTICK

NEW YORK (AP) - Cosmetics are among the fastest growing health-and-beauty aids products in the nation's supermarkets, according to a recent survey.

Food stores account for the cosmetic category's nearly 20 percent of the annual total of $1.8 billion in sales - or more than $348 million, reports the Howard Mariboro Group, a New York-based merchandising specialist organization. The percentage figure is expected to rise some 4 percent over the next five years.

Food stores still trail America's drug stores as a mecca for cosmetics sales. Drug stores account for nearly 60 percent of all cosmetics sales.

Fragrance sales are not growing as quickly as cosmetics, according to the survey. Many of the store management executives who responded said consumers are more likely to purchase cologne or perfume in department store salons than in the food outlets.

Herd to open 1-4A play with No. 10 Harvesters

The Hereford Whitefaces will be starting with the best when they open the District 1-4A against the Pampa Harvesters at 8 p.m. today at Whiteface Gymnasium.

Pampa (18-3) comes into the game ranked No. 10 in the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches Class 4A poll. The Harvesters are riding a four-game winning streak with their last loss coming against then-No. 1 Burkburnett in the finals of Fort Worth's West Side Lions Club Invitational held over the holiday break.

The Herd (5-13) will be looking to snap a two-game skid that included home losses to Levelland (51-44) and Wolfforth Frenship (66-55). Hereford has a 1-5 mark at home.

The game will be one of five between Hereford and Pampa with the evening getting underway at 4:30 p.m. when the Herd sophomores play for the first time in four weeks.

The Lady Whiteface varsity (12-11, 1-1) will be looking to maintain at least a share of second place in the district race when they face the Lady Harvesters (12-8, 2-0) at 6:30 p.m. Pampa is tied with Canyon Randall for the district lead while the Lady Whitefaces and Borger are both 1-1 with Dumas and Amarillo Caprock holding 0-2 marks in league play.

Junior varsity contests will round out the schedule with the Herd JV set to go at 6:30 p.m. and the Lady Whiteface JV scheduled for an 8 p.m. start.

Not-quite eagle leaves Sutton tied with Tway

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - A 45-minute rules wrangle turned an eagle into a birdie and cost the unprotesting Hal Sutton sole control of the first-round lead in the Tucson Open.

"History-book stuff," said Sutton, who had no quarrel with the ruling by Wade Cagle, tournament supervisor for the PGA Tour.

It was Cagle, the second official called to view the bizarre result of Sutton's second shot, who eventually ruled the ball was not holed out under the rules of golf.

"In 25 years out here (on the tour), I've never seen anything quite like it," Cagle said Thursday.

Sutton, a former PGA champion, was completing his day's play when he flew a 6-iron shot 166 yards into the hole on the ninth green at Tucson National. But it wasn't all the way in the hole.

The ball tore out the front lip and imbedded itself into the soft putting surface. More than half the ball was inside the hole. More than half the ball was below the surface of the ground.

But it didn't drop. It just hung there, defying gravity. "I don't know why or how it didn't drop," Cagle said.

Section 16-3 of "Decision on the Rules of Golf" pertains specifically to this particular - and peculiar - situation.

Looking things over

Leo Brown of the Hereford Whitefaces surveys the situation during a recent game at Whiteface Gymnasium. Brown, the team's leading scorer, and the rest of the Herd will host the 10th-ranked Pampa Harvesters at 8 p.m. today in the District 1-4A opener for both teams.

Hornets humiliate Sacramento, 101-59

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

It was of little consolation to Sacramento coach Dick Motta that his Kings were two points better than the NBA record for futility.

"I would have hated to see the lowest-scoring game," Motta said Thursday night after Sacramento was beaten by Charlotte 101-59.

Only the Milwaukee Hawks scored fewer points - in a 62-57 loss to Boston on Feb. 27, 1955, at Providence.

"What went wrong? Shooting, passing, dribbling. It was all ugly," Motta said. "I just wanted the floor to open up so we could just disappear."

The Kings shot 29.7 percent, had two 12-point quarters and went 9:16 into the fourth quarter before scoring a basket in that period. The Kings had three baskets in the final quarter and their 22 for the game was the fourth-lowest total in league history.

When it became obvious that the Kings would not surpass their own franchise low - set since the shot clock was introduced in the 1954-55 season - of 69 points, Motta decided a goal was needed.

"I really wanted us to get to 60," he said. "That's why I called a late timeout."

"I told them to get to 60. We couldn't even do that."

Elsewhere, it was Indiana 129, New York 122; Washington 122, the Los Angeles Clippers 110; San Antonio 117, Orlando 111; Houston 156, Denver 133; and Golden State 113, Seattle 103.

The Kings' franchise low of 69 was set by the Cincinnati Royals against Detroit on Jan. 10, 1959. The NBA does not recognize record lows set prior to the adoption of the shot clock.

Sacramento also set a franchise low for the first half with 27 points. It was the fourth straight loss for the Kings and their 12th consecutive on the road, where they are 1-16 this season.

"I've never had a worse experience in the NBA," said Antoine Carr, who led the Kings with 21 points and 11 rebounds.

Johnny Newman led the Hornets with 29 points.

Pacers 129, Knicks 122
Reggie Miller scored 12 of his 21 points in the fourth quarter.

Indiana overcame Patrick Ewing's 42 points and a season-high 27 from Maurice Cheeks. Chuck Person had 24 points for the Pacers and Micheal Williams 22.

The Pacers, outscored 30-8 from the free-throw line for three periods, made 13 foul shots in the final quarter to two for the Knicks.

Bullets 122, Clippers 110
Bernard King scored 45 points and Harvey Grant a career-high 34 as Washington continued its domination of Los Angeles.

King took over the NBA scoring lead at 31 points after Sacramento's seventh 40-plus effort of the season. He scored 11 points in a 21-9 third-quarter surge.

A dunk by King made it 94-79 entering the final period, and the Clippers never got closer than nine points thereafter.

Spurs 117, Magic 111
David Robinson matched his career high with 43 points and added 12 rebounds and 10 blocked shots to lead surging San Antonio by injury-riddled Orlando.

Orlando, 1-17 on the road, was without two of its three leading scorers, Terry Catledge and Scott Skiles. The Magic got 23 points from Dennis Scott and 18 from Nick Anderson.

Robinson triggered a 10-0 San Antonio run in the fourth period to put the Spurs up 107-98 with 1:29 left.

Rockets 156, Nuggets 133
Houston, playing without leading scorer Akeem Olajuwon, spotted hapless Denver a 15-point lead, then roared from behind with a 94-point second half.

Vernon Maxwell had 26 points, Kenny Smith 25, Otis Thorpe 24 and Buck Johnson 23.

Denver ran off the first eight points of the second period for a 55-40 lead.

But it was all Houston in the third period. The Rockets outscored Denver 44-25, going ahead to stay at 71-70 on two free throws by Thorpe.

Warriors 113, SuperSonics 103

Mitch Richmond scored 32 points and Tim Hardaway got 9 of his 23 to key an 18-3 fourth-quarter spurt by Golden State.

The game was tied 87-87 before a basket by Richmond scored and two jumpers by Hardaway put the Warriors ahead by six points. The Warriors led 95-90 with 5:31 left before a 10-0 run - including five points by Hardaway - completed the 18-3 spurt.

Wildcats survive scare

By The Associated Press

Southern Cal did almost everything right in trying to stop the nation's longest home winning streak and No. 6 Arizona did a lot wrong.

In the end, though, the Wildcats won again - 87-85 Thursday night - for their 55th straight victory in Tucson.

Arizona led 86-82 when Harold Miner, who scored 26 for Southern Cal, made a 3-pointer. Then, after the Wildcats missed two free throws and committed a turnover, the Trojans got a final chance to win.

But Duane Cooper missed a driving shot that would've put Southern Cal ahead and Sean Rooks grabbed the rebound for Arizona and made a foul shot with one-tenth of a second left.

"I thought it would be one of those deals where you throw up the ball and it goes in and you find out Christmas isn't over yet," Southern Cal coach George Raveling said.

In other games, No. 2 Arkansas beat Texas 101-89, No. 4 Ohio State routed Northwestern 102-62, No. 7 UCLA defeated Arizona State 82-68, No. 9 Connecticut ripped Central Connecticut 115-47, No. 16 East Tennessee State downed Liberty 86-55, No. 19 Southern Mississippi stopped No. 21 South Carolina 64-58, No. 22 Iowa held off Michigan 79-78 and Brigham Young tripped No. 25 Texas-El Paso 83-67.

Arizona coach Lute Olson saw his team miss three of four foul shots in the final minute and have trouble handling the ball. But he gave credit to Southern Cal, rather than criticize his own team.

"I don't know a whole lot more we could have done. They played with great confidence," Olson said.

Chris Mills led Arizona (12-2 overall, 2-1 in the Pacific-10) with 21 points, Brian Williams had 18, Matt Othick 16 and Rooks 14. Ronnie Coleman had 24 points and 11 rebounds for Southern Cal (8-3, 0-2).

No. 2 Arkansas 101, Texas 89
Arlyn Bowers, the shortest player on the court at 5-foot-10, scored 16 of his 20 points in the second half as Arkansas held off visiting Texas.

Oliver Miller, who made his first nine shots, and Todd Day each scored 21 points for the Razorbacks.

Texas whittled a 16-point deficit to 88-83 with 2:40 left, but got no closer. Benford Williams scored 32 points for the Longhorns.

No. 4 Ohio State 102, Northwestern 62

Jim Jackson scored 23 points as unbeaten Ohio State gave Northwestern its second straight 40-point loss.

The Buckeyes led 44-26 at halftime and then went on a 25-4 run.

No. 7 UCLA 82, Arizona St. 68

Tracy Murray scored 22 points and Don MacLean 21 as UCLA pulled away in the second half.

The Bruins trailed 35-33 at halftime before Murray sparked a 13-2 burst with seven points.

No. 9 Connecticut 115, Central Connecticut 47

Connecticut, led by Chris Smith's 23 points, romped to its ninth straight victory and 22nd in a row at home.

Connecticut scored the last eight points of the first half for a 60-18 lead and got the first 12 points of the second half. Kevin Swann scored 25 points for Central.

No. 16 East Tennessee State 86, Liberty 55

Calvin Talford scored 17 points as host East Tennessee State took its time putting away Liberty. The Buccaneers led 40-30 before opening the second half with a 17-3 spurt.

No. 19 Southern Mississippi 64, No. 21 South Carolina 58

Clarence Weatherspoon hit two key baskets and Russell Johnson four foul shots in the final eight seconds.

Weatherspoon, playing with four fouls, scored twice for a 58-54 lead with 2:42 left and Johnson made a pair of late one-and-ones.

No. 22 Iowa 79, Michigan 78

Rodell Davis scored 22 points and Iowa outduelled Michigan down the stretch.

Val Barnes' basket with 1:32 put the Hawkeyes ahead 76-75 and Kevin Smith scored with 57 seconds left for a three-point lead. Acie Earl added a foul shot with 18 seconds to go before Michigan's James Voskuil made a 3-pointer at the buzzer.

Brigham Young 83, No. 25 Texas-El Paso 67

Senior Steve Schreiner had 24 points and 12 rebounds and 7-foot-6 freshman Shawn Bradley scored 15 points as BYU tripped the visiting Miners.

Schreiner, averaging 12 points per game, had 10 points and eight rebounds by halftime as the Cougars took a 40-29 lead. Bradley, limited to 24 minutes because of foul trouble, got seven rebounds and blocked five shots.

Dallas' Smith named Flemons can really relax top offensive rookie

DALLAS (AP) - The consternation among the coaches over Emmitt Smith's absence from the Dallas Cowboys' training camp last July in Austin was as thick and sultry as the rainy weather.

"We've got some running backs here who want to play and if Emmitt wants to he'd better get to camp," said Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson.

Smith didn't get to training camp but he signed on just before the regular season started and was so productive he was named NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year on Thursday by The Associated Press.

"Coaches have their opinions about being in training camp but in the long run it could fatigue you a little," Smith said. "I don't know if I'll survive camp this year or not."

Smith, the 17th pick in the first round of the 1990 draft, received 33 of the 80 votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters who cover the NFL. Another runner, Johnny Johnson, the seventh-rounder for the Phoenix Cardinals, was a close second with 29 votes.

"I feel very honored," said Smith, who barely played in the first two games of the season as he tried to get into shape. "For me, coming out of college and not achieving the Heisman ... this made it a big honor for me to be rookie of year."

"It shows someone else feels you have the capabilities of becoming a leading player."

Smith, an All-American at Florida, where he rushed for 3,928 yards and 36 touchdowns in three seasons, passed up his senior season to enter the draft. He was the second running back taken behind Blair Thomas of the New York Jets.

While Thomas was rushing for 620 yards and did not receive a vote for Offensive Rookie, Smith got 937 yards and 11 touchdowns. He was the focal point of a revitalized ground game and offered a balance to the passing of Troy Aikman.

After carrying just twice for two yards in the opener against San Diego and only six times for 11 yards against the Giants, Smith took off. Against Washington, he had 17 carries for 63 yards and a touchdown.

The Giants shut down Smith the next week (12 for 28, one score), but he had his first 100-yard effort the next week, gaining 121 on 23 runs and scoring once.

He didn't have another big game for a month and, after getting just 40 yards on six attempts against San Francisco, Smith complained he wasn't getting enough work.

"I want Emmitt to get the ball more, too," Johnson said.

Smith had no fewer than 14 carries in each of the remaining six games. In a Thanksgiving Day upset of Washington, he had a season-high 132 yards on 23 runs. Against Phoenix, Smith gained 103 yards and scored four times.

"He is going to be a bigtime player," Johnson said. "He might have been hurt a little by no training camp. It took a little while to get into the offense."

Smith has some goals for 1991. "I'm a big goal-setter and I definitely had a goal of achieving 1,000," he said. "But I knew the odds definitely were against me. If some way we could have gotten the ball in my hands more, I could have achieved it. I didn't really start getting the ball until midseason."

"I had to cry little bit for it."

Also getting votes were Indianapolis quarterback Jeff George, the top pick in the draft, with eight; Miami tackle Richmond Webb (six); Pittsburgh tight end Eric Green (three); and Tampa Bay kicker Steve Christie (one).

LUBBOCK (AP) - Texas Tech forward Will Flemons has his own method of getting mentally ready for a big game.

Unlike players who meditate in a quiet room, envisioning jump shot after jump shot, Flemons parks his 6-7, 225-pound frame in front of a television and watches cartoons.

"I know that sounds funny," Flemons said. "But most players get into a very serious frame of mind before a game, and cartoons help me to relax."

But once Flemons hits the floor, he's all business.

Flemons led the Southwest Conference in rebounding last year as a freshman, averaging 10 boards a game.

He was named SWC player of the week after scoring 38 points and grabbing 14 rebounds in victories over Southern Methodist and Texas A&M last week.

And he is a large part of the reason Tech, which finished with an 0-16 conference record last year, is 2-1 in

TUCSON

And it says the ball is not holed. All the ball must be below the surface, the rules say, and all the ball must be within the circumference of the hole.

So Sutton's ball was removed, the hole repaired and the player attempted to replace the ball in its original position.

But it fell in the hole.

He tried it again.

Again, it fell in the hole.

Eventually, he moved it back about one-half inch and tapped in for the birdie that completed an 8-under-par 64 and tied him for the lead with Bob Tway.

Tway's 64 was built around an eagle-3 on the 11th hole at the TPC at Starpass and birdies on the last three holes.

Phil Mickelson, a 20-year-old

SWC play heading into Saturday's game against No. 2 Arkansas.

"Will gives us confidence," said Tech coach Gerald Myers. "When he is on the floor, the other players' morale is high."

Flemons is averaging 13 points and six rebounds for the Red Raiders (5-10) this season after missing the first six games with a broken foot.

"I think we would have been stronger and gelled before now if Will would have returned earlier," Myers said. "Having him out set us back a lot."

Myers isn't shy about Flemons' importance to the team.

"Will is the kind of player you can put 15 points and 10 rebounds down in the book before the game even starts," Myers said.

One only needs to pick up the Tech media guide or look around campus to realize the Red Raiders' hopes of recovering from a 5-22 season last year are resting squarely on Flemons' bulky shoulders.

The media guide cover and posters around the sprawling West Texas campus show Flemons dunking, accompanied by the words: "On the rebound ... with Will power."

Flemons seems unfazed by the pressure.

"This is a team sport," he said. "I just want to do whatever I can to help my teammates and coaches win games. That is the bottom line."

Flemons, a native of nearby Paducah, led the Class 1A Paducah Dragons to a 129-7 record over four seasons and consecutive state championships his junior and senior years.

He was recruited heavily by UCLA, Arizona and all of the Southwest Conference, but chose Tech to stay near his family.

"Only 2,000 people live in Paducah," Flemons said. "So a lot of folks come and watch the games at Tech. My parents never miss a home game."

Flemons' teammates call him "country boy" because of his soft

Southern drawl and laid back demeanor.

But there is nothing laid back about Flemons' play.

He added 10 pounds of muscle to his stocky frame during the off-season to better equip him for the physical inside play of the SWC.

"Our conference has some of the biggest post men in the country," Flemons said. "They will try to push you around, but you have to stake out your territory."

Flemons said the Raiders have shaken off last year's disappointing season.

"Last year we were a bunch of individuals out there," Flemons said. "This year we know each other better and we are determined to give the season our best shot. But this year we are playing as a team."

Henke, Gary Hallberg, Morris Hatalsky, Jim Hallet and John Cook. Hatalsky, Hallet and Cook played at Tucson National, while Henke and Hallberg were at Starpass. They'll change courses Friday before the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday at Starpass.

Defending champion Robert Gamez and Dan Pohl, making his first start in a comeback from 1989 back surgery, each had a 70.

Mickelson, the first since Nicklaus in 1961 to win both the U.S. Amateur and the NCAA championship in the same season, came back from a first-hole bogey and shot a 65 that left him one stroke back.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Do you have any information on Binswanger's disease? I have never heard of it. I have been told it is similar to Alzheimer's disease.

DEAR READER: It is very rare. Since there are no specific neurological signs as you see in a traditional stroke, and the X-ray studies are not specific, it is a questionable diagnosis. It is similar to Alzheimer's disease in that it is a cause for progressive dementia.

There are scattered changes in the white matter of the brain, below the cortex (the gray matter). The nerve fibers in the areas involved lose their coating. It may be caused by multiple small brain infarcts apparently due to diffuse changes in the small arteries to the brain. This is in contrast to strokes that usually involve larger single blood vessels which are completely occluded and result in a localized infarct in the brain. High blood pressure and diabetes predispose to the changes in the small arteries.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

IF YOU WANTED BREAD, YOU HAD TO MAKE IT--FROM START TO FINISH!

IN BIBLICAL TIMES, THE MISTRESS OF THE HOUSE, FIRST THING ON ARISING, WOULD ATTEND HER FAMILY'S DAILY NEED FOR BREAD. FIRST, THE GRAIN (USUALLY BARLEY OR RYE) HAD TO BE GROUND INTO MEAL, SIFTED TO FLOUR, THEN MIXED INTO A PASTE WITH WATER...NOW IT WAS KNEADED INTO DOUGH AND LEAVEN ADDED, LEFT STANDING LONG ENOUGH FOR IT TO RISE, THEN THE DOUGH WAS DIVIDED AND SHAPED INTO CAKES FOR BAKING. A FAMILY HAD ITS OWN PORTABLE OVEN OF STONE, WHICH STOOD ABOUT THREE FEET HIGH AND WAS HEATED ON THE INSIDE BY WOOD OR DRY GRASS FIRE, THE CAKES OF DOUGH BEING PASTERED ON THE OUTSIDE TO BE BAKED....

...USUALLY, IT WAS ONE OF THE YOUNGER DAUGHTERS OF THE HOUSEHOLD WHO SUPERVISED THE BAKING OF THE CAKES, FOR THEY HAD TO BE CAREFULLY TURNED DURING THE PROCESS LEFT ONE SIDE BE BURNT.

BREAD OVER 3,500 YEARS OLD
EGYPTIAN LOAVES LIKE THIS ARE ON DISPLAY AT THE METROPOLITAN MUSEUM OF ART, NEW YORK CITY, HAVING BEEN FOUND IN ANCIENT TOMBS AT THEBES, EXACTLY AS THEY WERE BAKED!

SAVE THIS FOR YOUR SUNDAY SCHOOL SCRAP-BOOK

NEXT WEEK: ONE STRAY ARROW!

THIS DEVOTIONAL & DIRECTORY IS MADE POSSIBLE BY THESE BUSINESSES WHO ENCOURAGE ALL OF US TO ATTEND WORSHIP SERVICES.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.00 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy charge, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.26	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.59	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Woman's Health

Your mother has them. Your sister got them. You thought you would never get them. But then you got them: unsightly varicose veins.

Varicose veins, swollen veins usually in the legs, are a common complaint among both women and men, although women are more prone to them than men. No one really knows why some people develop varicose veins and others don't but there is evidence that they may be inherited. Injury, infection, and unusual strain are some known causes of swollen veins.

Many women develop varicose veins for the first time when they become pregnant. Usually these swollen veins disappear after the baby is born.

Varicose veins develop when valves in the veins become weakened. Veins are the blood vessels that return blood to the heart. Normally, movement of the blood upward to the heart is aided by a system of valves that close to keep blood from dropping back. If, for some reason, the valves do not work properly, the blood may reverse flow, causing the veins to become swollen and twisted. These distended bluish veins are what you see just under the skin.

Usually, varicose veins present no health risks and are bothersome only because they stand out on the legs and may cause aching and swelling of the legs and ankles. Occasionally, however, they do cause more serious problems, including blood clots in the leg and skin ulcers.

If you think you have a chance of developing varicose veins or you already have them, you should discuss the problem with your doctor. If the problem is severe, he or she may recommend surgical removal of the veins or chemical injection treatment.

All people with varicose veins can take the following steps to help relieve swelling and pain: avoid standing or sitting for long periods of time, elevate your feet whenever you are sitting wear support stockings, and walk or exercise you legs whenever you have the opportunity. Movement of the leg muscles helps push the blood upward.

People believe if your upper lip itches, you will be kissed by someone who is tall.

Get control over your cash flow

It's easier than many realize to get control of your cash flow, cut your debt and start a saving plan. Much of the answers to these problems lie in knowing where to put your money and learning how to develop a tax-saving strategy.

For example, stock market volatility has almost no effect on where stocks go over the course of a year. It does, however, provide opportunities for disciplined investors to increase holdings at lower prices. That's the opinion of the editors of Money Magazine, whose eagerly-awaited book, Smart Money Moves for the '90s, will soon hit local bookstores.

Since tax-saving strategies deal with what's probably the biggest bite of all in your budget—the inevitable, often inscrutable demands of the IRS—the book shows you how to deal with a tax preparer and what specific mistakes to avoid this year. Most important, it helps you learn to slash your taxes using loopholes left in the law after tax reform.

Among the other topics the book deals with are the secrets of profitable home-ownership, taking care of your family and finally, how to finance a secure retirement.
